
Kynaston, John, sheriff of Chester; 361 b.

Kynderton, document dated from; 375 b.

Kyneale, manor of; 120 a.

Kyninmond :

Sir James of, charter by; 307 a.

Sir John; 307 b.

Kynloch, Sir John of, witness; 307 b.

Kynwle, rector of; 305 a.

Kyrckhame, Henry, son of Thomas; 377 a.

Kyrle, Sir Richard; 519 b.

Kyrn, Henry, late sheriff of Chester, pardon to; 359 b.

Kyrton, John, will of; 335 b.

Kysing, Thomas, mercer, of London, will of; 334 b.

Kyte, John, naif; 626 a.

L.

La Bastie, M., letter of; 38 a.

La Bene, Major, letter of; 87 a.

La Bruere, document dated at; 346 b.

La Chaise, the Jesuit; 562 b.

La Fere, letter dated at; 28 a.

La Gard, Madam; 278 b.

La Hogue Bay; 35 a.

La Lomelline; 27 a.

La Mantoule, camp at, letters from; 19 b.

La Roche, Mons. and Mrs.; 278 b.

La Touch, Lieut. of the Tower; 88 a.

La Touche, Gladowe & Co., Dublin bankers; 196 b.

La Vie, Mrs., letters of; 57 a.

Labadie, Madame, her flight with Queen Mary; 555 b.

Labarre, M., letter of; 37 a.

Labbe, Henry; 370 a.

Labouchardiere, Mon., letters of; 293 b, 294 b.

"Labourers' wages the test of a nation's wealth" (1669);
134 a.

Lacam, Benjn., letters of; 291 a, 292 b, 293 a.

Lacauly, Mrs. Catherine, warrant for payment to; 280 b.

Leckie or Leckie, Rev. William, and the Plot of 1663; 502 a,
502 b.

Lackie, Isabel, petition of; 550 a.

Lacy :

Alesia de, Countess of Lincoln, inq. p. m. of; 411 b.

Gilbert de, witness; 270 b.

Henry de, Earl of Lincoln; 269 a.

— charter by; xvi., 270 b.

Roger de, charters of; 269 a, 270 a.

William, of Wells; 639 b.

Lacys, pedigree of the; 586 b, note.

Lad :

Mr., of Yarmouth; 240 a.

Robert, of Eynesford; 337 a.

Ladisferoun, co. Fife, lands of; 308 a.

Laffen, John and Stephen; 543 b.

Lagare, Henry, son of Wolnod de; 235 a.

Laghlín, Bishop of;

(1643), E. Dempsey; 604 b.

(1650); 613 a.

(1651); 616 a.

(1652), E. Dempsey; 618 a.

Laghton, John de; 367 a.

- Lahy, John; 545 a.
Lai, Wm. de; 357 a.
Laird, Malcolm, and the "Ossian" controversy; 444 b.
Laird, John, letter of; 290 b.
Laisne, Peter, writing master, commission to; 280 b.
Lalesse, Richard; 607 b.
Lalling, Essex, manor of; 322 b.
Lalo, Col. S. de, letter of; 35 b.
Lamartinerie, M., letters of; 35 b, 37 a.
Lambard :
 William, collections by; 584 a.
 Lady; 569 b.
Lambart, Sergeant-major, weekly charge of his troop; 598 a.
Lambe :
 —, a quack; 229 a.
 Alice, of Wells (by the sea), will of; 333 b.
 John, doctor; 229 a.
 — tyler, of London, will of; 333 a.
 — of Leicester; 412 a.
 Thomas, letter of; 386 a.
Lamberherst; 340 b.
Lamberg, Cardinal, letters of; 31 b, 35 b.
Lambert :
 A., letter of; 289 b.
 —, letter of; 571 b.
 Col., letter of; 37 a.
 John, major-general, letter of; 274 b.
 — of Sutton in Holland, will of; 332 a.
 — Lord, major-general (1654), letter to; 386 b.
 M., letters of; 37 a, 38 b.
 Milo, mayor of Leicester; 415 b.
 Sir Oliver; 381 b, 382 a.
 Sergeant-major; 594 b.
 —, burgess of Leicester, his house burnt; 406 a, 406 b.
Lambeth; 117 a, 139 a, 155 a, 382 b.
 documents dated at; 27 b, 353 a, 625 b.
 House, letter dated at; 62 a, 218 a.
 Library; 100 b.
 — MSS. in; xxiii.
 College of Secular Canons at; 317 b, 320 a.
 Simon Forman in; 238 b.
Lambintoun, parson of; 306 b.
Lamkin, Thos., waterman; 279 b.
Lamley church; 267 b.
Lamley, co. Nottingham; 432 a.
Lamott, Michael, trooper; 538 a.
Lamplewe, Mr., lighthouse keeper; 244 b.
Lancaster :
 Assizes; 71 b.
 inquisition held at; 417 b. county, woollen manufactures in; 208 a.
 — ship money; 383 a.
 Duchy of, chancellors of; 51 a.
 — chancellor of, warrant to (1605); 87 a.
 — court room of; 70 a.
 — privileges of tenants; 271 b.
 Duke of (9 Ric. II.) v. Sir John Stanley; 169 b.
 — (1447), John, his son, Bp. of Winchester; 635 b.
 — Henry (Edw. III.), grants to and by; 411 a, 411 b, 412 a.
 — his death (35 Edw. III.); 417 b.
 Earl of, Thomas, warrant by (2 Ed. II.); 411 a.
 — letter to (1314); 352 b.
 — his intercession with the Pope for the canonization of Abp. Winchelsey; 353 b, 354 a.
Land Guard Fort, letters dated at; 23 b.
Land :
 Tax, the; 35 b.
 value of (1669); 134 a, 134 b.
Land's End, the; 257 a.
Lands, abbey, regulations for division and cultivation of, &c.; 322 a, 322 b.
Lane :
 Mr., murdered by his servant; 229 b.
 Sir George, secretary to Lord Lieut. of Ireland, petition of; 501 b.
 — petition of; 508 b.
 — secretary to Duke of Ormonde, petition of; 550 a.
 Sir Richard, petitions of; 529 b, 534 b, 537 a, 540 a, 543 b, 545 b.
 — plaintiff; 551 a.
 Sieur de, letters of and to; 29 a.
Lanesborough, Lord :
 (1773); 193 b.
 (1774); 195 a.
Lanfranc, Abp., the anniversary of his death, distributions on; 326 a.
Langalerie, M., letter of; 40 a.
Langar, co. Nottingham; 432 b.
Langdale, Mathew, lands held by; 520 a.
Langdon :
 manor of; 326 b.
 abbot of; 336 b, 348 a.
Langelee, Geoffrey de, witness; 1 b.
Langeley :
 charter dated at; 2 a.
 W. de; 2 a.
Langey, Marquise de, letters of; 35 b, 37 a.
Langford, Hercules; 535 b.
Langham Water, gold in; 84 b.
Langham, Essex, manor; 628 a.
Langham, Sir James; 128 a.
Langhes, Fiefs de; 22 a.
Langley, documents dated at; 349 a, 353 a.
Langousque, camp at; 218 b.
Langrege, Elizabeth; 234 a.
Langrenis, Melgum and, near Largo Law, claim to lands of; 308 a.
Langrish :
 Thomas; 137 a.
 — petition of; 137 a.
Langston, Lieut.-General, letter of; 35 b.
Langton :
 Christopher, expelled from the College of Physicians; 226 b.
 Sir John, and Appulby manor; 627 a.
 John, letter to; 384 b.
 Simon, brother of the archbishop; 330 a.
 Thomas, affidavit of; 125 b.
 — Bishop of Salisbury; 262 b.
 — Bishop of Winchester, will of; 332 a.
 Walter de, Bp. of Lichfield; 351 b.
Languilers :
 Clementia de, grant by; 627 a.
 — her son Guy; ib.
Laniere, Sir John; 556 a.
Laniot, Piers, hostage of Beauvoys; 407 b.
Lankeet, J. W., letter of; 295 b.
Lannd, Lieut. Henry; 595 b.
Lanniere, one, lease to; 242 a.
Lapidge, William, of Pontefract; 276 a.
Lansdon, Madame; 565 b.
Lansdowne, Marquis of, MSS. of; xxi.
Lanthony :
 Stratford, documents of; 581 a.
 prior of; 584 b.
Lapham, Wm.; 370 b.
Lapworth; 434 a.
Laragheor Rectory, co. Meath; 587 b.
Largo; 304 b, 308 a.
 Law, in Fife; 304 b.
 — lands near, claim to; 308 a.
Larken, quartermaster; 596 b.
Larkins, Wm. :
 accountant-general under Warren Hastings, letters of; 288 b.
 letters of; 290 a, 293 a, 293 b.
Larmerer, John, mayor of Chester (1894); 370 b.
Larpernt, John, junr., letters of; 286 b, 287 b.
Larraghs, co. Kildare; 506 a.
Lascells, George, signature in a MS.; 101 a.
Lasci, Walter de, charter of; 370 a.
Laspiur, M., letter of; 35 b.
Lateran, document dated at; 350 a.
Latham, superiority of; 304 a, 305 b, 306 a, 306 b.
Lathom; 140 a.
 document dated from; 375 a.
 "my (Earl of Derby's) house," document dated from (1594); 376 b.
 John; 272 b.
Lathum, Lieut. Thos.; 592 a.
Latteragh parish, tithes of; 535 b.
Lattre, Jean de; 280 b.
Latymer, Edith, of Stalbridge, will of; 335 a.
Laud :
 Abp. Wm., notice of; 234 a.
 See Canterbury, Abp. of.
Lauder :
 John, archdeacon of Teviotdale; 309 a. chevalier; 563 b.
Lauderdale :
 Duke of, John, warrant by (1679); 314 b.
 Earl of, MSS. of; xxi.
 — John, second, letters of (1640-41); 315 a.
 — General of the Edinburgh Mint, representation by (1708); 83 a.
 — letter of (1709); 81 b.
 — Charles (1718); 83 a.
 — warrant to (1718); 83 b.
 — letter of (1729); 84 a.
Launaeus :
 William, French doctor; 227 b.
 — licence to; ib.
Launce :
 John; 634 b.
 Robert, of Mendham, will of; 334 a.
Launceston Corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
Laund, co. Leicester, Convent of St. John the Baptist, agreement of Prior of; 370 b.
Laune, Peter, commission "to be tutor to Duke of Cambridge," &c. (1666); 279 b.
Launness, Richard, of Leicester; 404 b.

- Launoy, M. de, letter of; 37 a.
 Lauragaia, Comte de; 286 a.
 Laurence, Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 See Lawrance.
 Laurencekirk in the Mearns; 299 b, 304 a.
 Laurens, Will., of Boxted, Essex, will of; 333 a.
 Lausoe, M., letter of; 35 b.
 Lauzun, M. de; 555 b, 559 b.
 Lavell, Thomas, of Lincolnshire, will of; 334 b.
 Lavenham; 334 a, 335 b.
 Lavierne, M., letter of; 37 a.
 Law :
 John, letter of; 295 b.
 Thos., letters of; 290 b, 292 b.
 Lawdesfroune, co. Fife, lands of; 308 a.
 Lawedir, Robert of, witness; 305 a.
 Lawles, Walter, petition of; 514 b.
 Lawless & Co., Dublin bankers; 196 b.
 Lawrance, Lawrence :
 Capt.; 156 a, 156 b, 157 b.
 Dr., his life of Dr. Harvey; 232 b.
 Lieut. Francis; 591 a.
 Henry, petition of; 503 a.
 Isaac; 156 a, 156 b.
 — answer of; 158 a.
 Lady; 157 b, 158 a.
 Cornet Wm.; 596 b.
 Lawry, Christopher, minister of Bletsoe; 4 a.
 Laws, J., letter of; 35 b.
 Lawson, Sir John, Bart., MSS. of; xxi.
 Lawton, Thomas, letter of; 380 a.
 Laycocke, Thomas; 278 b.
 Laynase, Comte, letters of; 36 b, 40 a.
 Layton; 5 b.
 Leigh estate in; 5 b.
 Le Blanc, M., letter of; 38 a.
 Le Clerc et Cie, of Nice; 194 a.
 Le Fever, Thomas, letter of; 37 a.
 Le Fevre, Mr., letters of; 47 b.
 Le Gross, J., letter of; 294 b.
 Le Lon, Esther, wife of Densell Lord Holles, Act for naturalizing; 101 b.
 Le Paz, M.; 565 b.
 Le Strange, H.S., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Le Tellier; 562 b.
 Le Zuch, Alan, witness; 407 b.
 Lea :
 Mr., of Chester; 380 b.
 Thomas, keeper of the Dublin Council Chamber, petition of; 503 a.
 Leabrook, Thomas, of the Mint, warrant to; 81 a.
 Leach, Henry; 278 b.
 Lead mines of co. Durham, Act for improving; 105 a.
 Leadbeater, Ensign W. E., letter of; 289 b.
 Leagh, Ensign Arthur; 594 b.
 Leah, Nathaniel; 528 a.
 Leake :
 Mr., of Christ's Hospital; 255 a.
 Sir Francis; 156 a.
 Sir John, vice admiral; 17 a, 20 a.
 — letters of; 17 b, 47 b.
 — instructions to; 32 b, 34 a, 47 a.
 — master of the Trinity House; 260 b.
 Leasely (Leslie?), Sir James; 584 a.
 Leat, Nicholas, letter of; 213 b.
 — letter to; ib.
 Leather : exportation of; 369 a.
 Bill to give liberty to buy and export (1668); 116 b.
 Leathes :
 Capt., letter of; 40 a.
 Moses, letter of; 40 b.
 Lecamus, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Leicester, Thomas; 614 b.
 Lecheraine, Lescheraine :
 Count; 16 b.
 — letters of; 31 b, 36 b.
 — memorial by; 41 a.
 Lechmere :
 Lady (1714), letter of; 57 a.
 Sir Edmund, Bart., MSS. of; xxi.
 Leckie, Lecky :
 D. R., letter of; 290 a, 291 a.
 R. D., letter of; 290 b, 292 b.
 Mr. W. H., his history; 576 a. or Lackie, Rev. William, and the Plot of 1663; xviii., 502 a, 502 b.
 — his wife Isabel; 502 b.
 Leconfield, Lord, MSS. of; xxi.
 Lede :
 Madame de, letters of; 35 b, 40 a.
 James de, of Leicester, conveyance by; 410 b.
 Ledesham, Roger; 367 b.
 Ledingham :
 Portbury, v.; 128 a.
 Warwick, petition of; 141 b.
 Lediferin, lands of, grant of; 304 b.
 Ledlie, Robt., letters of; 290 b, 294 a.
 Ledred, Bishop; 582 a.
 Lee :
 Kent; 332 b.
 Dr.; 572 a.
 Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 Fra., document signed by; 13 a.
 Francis, of Pontefract; 275 a.
 Sir George, to succeed Pelham; 224 b.
 — his conditions for taking office; 225 a.
 J. H., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 John; 156 b.
 — deposition of; 158 a.
 — of London, will of; 335 b.
 Richard, of Wigston's Hospital, Leicester, petition of; 418 b.
 Thomas, declaration by; 582 b.
 Leech :
 Charles, of Chester; 361 b.
 John, official of Canterbury; 338 a.
 Leechlands, William, payment to; 212 b.
 Leeds; 275 b. convent of; 329 a.
 priors, Kent; 320 b, 327 a.
 prior of; 339 a.
 Castle, letter dated at; 212 b.
 — Queen Isabella refused admission into; 354 a, 354 b.
 — threatened attack on; ib.
 Duke of, house bought of; 13 b.
 — (temp. Anne); 51 b.
 — (1754); 225 a.
 — (1757); 223 b.
 Leeke :
 John, affidavits of; 151 a, 151 b.
 Mr. John, of Christ's Hospital, his mathematical abilities; 256 a.
 — certificate by; ib.
 Leeward Islands; 223 a.
 Governor of; 40 b.
 papers relating to; 48 a.
 Leffe, John, mayor of Leicester, witness; 408 b, 409 a.
 Lefroy, T. E., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Legendre, John, certificate touching; 143 a.
 Legg, Legge :
 Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 Colonel William, of the Ordnance; viii., 90 a, 129 a, 129 b, 551 b.
 — treasurer of the Ordnance, examination of; 132 a.
 Mr., to succeed Pelham; 224 b.
 Will., governor of Oxford; 212 b.
 —, speeches, &c. of; 221 b, 222 b, 223 a, 223 b, 225 b.
 Chancellor of the Exchequer (1754); 220 a, 222 a.
 Leggatt, George, consul at Genoa; 256 b.
 Legh :
 Henry, warrant of; 387 a.
 Hugh de; 367 b.
 John, of Addington, will of; 335 a.
 Sir John de; 358 b.
 Sir Richard, vicar of Warmfield; 637 a.
 Richard; 386 b.
 Thos., letter of; 289 b.
 W. J., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 — his gift to Magd. College; 269 a.
 Leghorn; 19 b, 91 b, 247 b. letter dated at; 47 b, 244 b.
 tin sold in; 92 b.
 malignant disease at; 233 a.
 consuls at; 236 a, 244 a, 244 b, 254 a, 255 b.
 Lehunt :
 Capt. Paiton; 598 b.
 Captain Peyton; 592 b.
 Col. Richard, petition of; 510 a.
 — answer to his petition, &c.; 518 b, 519 a.
 — lands claimed by; 531 b.
 Le Hunte, Thomas; 482 a, 487 a.
 Leicester; 8 a, 75 a.
 letters dated at; 9 b.
 corporation of, Mr. Jeaffreson's report on manuscripts of; xvi., 403 b, et seq.
 Abbey; 428 a.
 — letter dated at; 437 a.
 — Gate; 425 b.
 All Saints' parish; 407 b, 410 b.
 Appelgate in St. Michael's parish; 422 a.
 "Angel Inn" at; 427 b, 428 a, 428 b, 432 a.
 Aulneger's office in; 438 a. bishop's fee; 419 a, 437 a.
 "Black Lyon" in; 439 b.
 the "Blue Boar" in; 433 a.
 the "Spittle," near; ib.
 the six bridges within; 413 b.
 Butt Close; 428 a.
 Castle, documents dated at; 411 b, 412 a. college of; 338 a.
 Dead Lane; 427 a.

Leicester—cont.

Dillingham's riding and fencing school at; 440 a.
 East Gate; 415 b.
 Le Frerelane in; 414 a.
 Fuller's Road; 410 b.
 Galowtregate; 423 a.
 grammar school; 439 b.
 Fullers' Street; 408 a, 408 b.
 High Cross; 425 b.
 High Street; xvi., 406 b, 420 b, 422 a, 425 b.
 Humbirstongate; 410 b, 411 a.
 Kowheye, near; 421 b.
 market place at; 418 b, 426 a.
 Mawremeadow and Mawremill; 414 b.
 Newark college or hospital; 418 a, 418 b, 419 a, 420 b, 423 a.
 Newark Grange, lease of; 434 b.
 St. Nicholas' parish; 405 b, 408 a.
 ——— graveyard; 408 a.
 North Bridge; 410 b.
 North Gate; 425 b.
 "Le Pyngulle," near the water Sore; 413 b.
 King's way, called Rodyk; 414 b.
 Saturday market; 410 b. swine market in; 423 a.
 St. John's Hospital; 405 a, 411 a.
 St. Leonard's Hospital; 413 b.
 St. Margaret's parish; 420 a.
 St. Martin's; 428 a.
 ——— church; 413 b.
 ——— parish; 405 b, 418 b.
 ——— Easter book of; 425 a.
 St. Mary's; 420 b.
 ——— church; 414 b.
 ——— college, rental of; 417 a.
 ——— new college; 422 a.
 ——— vicarage; 436 b. old town hall, building the; 412 b.
 West Bridge; 415 a.
 West Gate; 415 a.
 Wigston's Hospital; 418 b, 432 a, 438 b.
 ——— suit by; 418 b.
 ——— petition of chaplain, &c. of; 419 b. artisan and dealers of, not freemen, petition against; 417 b. brewers in (1584); 431 a.
 Chamberlain's accounts of; 427 b. friars preachers at; 411 a.
 guild at; 420 b, 421 a, 422 a, 422 b.
 merchants' guild of; 404 b, 405 a.
 Corpus Christi guild, rentals of; 415 a.
 ——— accounts of; 416 a.
 hall books of; 427 b.
 ——— general description of their contents; 430 a.
 Portemanmote court at; 403 b, 411 b, 418 a, 414 a, 421 a.
 ——— charter reforming laws, &c. of; 409 a. maintenance of schoolmaster and theological lecturer at; 417 b.
 recorder of, letter of; 436 b. recorders of; 431 a, 432 a, 440 a.
 grants of fairs, &c. at (Ed. III.); 411 b. clothing trade in, order concerning; 414 b.
 loans levied on, by Henry VIII.; 416 a. military service to be rendered by; 416 a. commission for array, &c. of; 416 b.
 Acts and orders for regulation of traders, &c. in; 426 a. expected visit of Q. Eliz. to; 425 b. a decaying and impoverished borough, petition for relief of (temp. Eliz.); 431 b.
 the dissolved colleges, hospitals, &c. in (temp. Eliz.); 432 a.
 the plague in (1593); 432 b.
 election of burgesses for (1584 and 1586); 431 b.
 ——— (1592); 432 b.
 ——— (1601); 433 b.
 Queen Anne of Denmark's visit to (1603); 441 a.
 Prince Charles's visit to (1604); 434 b.
 James I. at; 435 b, 441 b.
 plague at (1607); 434 b.
 ——— (1610); 435 a, 435 b.
 putting down the "gibbitt" at; 434 b. lottery at, for the settlement of Virginia; 435 b.
 visit of Charles I. and his queen to (1634); 436 b.
 levying of ship-money at (1635); 436 b.
 election for (1639); 436 b.
 Charles I. expected at (1642); 437 a. loan by, to the king; ib.
 levy on, for 2,000*l.* (1645); 437 b. capture of; 7 b.
 military defence of, injuries to poor people by (1645); 437 b. taken by Fairfax (1646); ib.
 quartering troops on, letters, &c. concerning (1659); 438 a, 438 b. proclamation of Charles II. at (1660); 438 b, 439 a. fanatics and misled persons in (1660); 439 a. how affected by the London plague (1665); 439 b.

Leicester—cont.

new charter for (1684); 440 b.
 announcement at, of the serious illness, and death of Charles II. (1685); 440 b. county; 210 a, 379 b.
 Earl of, Edmund Crouchback, charter of (1277); 409 a, 421 a, 423 a.
 ——— great charter, translation of; 423 a.
 ——— grant to (51 Hen. III.); 421 b.
 ——— R. de Medland (37 Hen. III.); xvi., 406 a, 406 b.
 ——— Simon de Montfort, charter by (28 Hen. III.); 421 b.
 ——— charter of; xvi., 407 a, 422 b.
 ——— Robert, charters of; 421 b, 422 a, 422 b.
 ——— Robert Dudley (temp. Eliz.) document signed by 65 a.
 ——— slanderous words touching Q. Eliz. and; 396 a, 396 b.
 ——— letter of (1569); 374 a.
 ——— letter to (1571); 374 a.
 ——— Dudley, dedication to (1573); 583 a.
 ——— letters to; 583 b.
 ——— chamberlain of Chester Palatinate, letter of (1578); 396 b.
 ——— proclamation of; ib.
 ——— letter signed by (1584); 431 a.
 ——— his coming to Leicester (1584); 430 b.
 ——— his visit to Leicester (1585); 425 b.
 ——— orders for his reception at Chester (1584); 363 b.
 ——— "delyteth not in banquettes"; ib.
 ——— cup, &c. to be presented to; ib.
 ——— his letter touching "Mr. John Edwards"; 364 a.
 ——— in Ireland (1641); 524 b.
 ——— (1710), letter of; 38 b.
 ——— (1801), letters of; 287 b.
 Earls of, ancient, documents relating to; 408 b.
 Countess of, Petronilla, charter of; 421 b.
 Sir Peter; 389 a.
 ——— letter to; ib.
 Wm., mayor of Chester (1610), letters of; 399 a.
 Leicesterensis, the Codex: account of; xvi., 420 a. loan of; 439 b.
 Leiffedre, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Leige, John; 279 a.
 Leigh:
 Lord, MSS. of; xxi.
 ——— (1667); 113 b.
 ——— Thomas (1670), Act to enable him to sell lands; 150 b.
 ——— petition of; ib.
 Edward, letter of; 35 b.
 Essex; 238 b, 252 a.
 Frizweed, widow, petition of; 544 b.
 ——— grant of Jephson's goods to; 502 a.
 ——— certificate concerning; 547 b.
 Humphrey, sergeant-at-mace, House of Lords, petition of; 102 b.
 Captain Henry; 594 b.
 ——— weekly charge of his troop; 598 a.
 Honora, Mary, and Jane, grand-daughters of Thos. Lord Leigh (1670); 150 b.
 Ensign James; 594 b.
 John, his estate; 3 a.
 Mary, of Dublin, petition signed by; 590 a.
 Ensign Robert; 591 a.
 Lady, of Stonely; 7 b.
 Sir Thomas, delinquent; 3 a.
 ——— delinquent, his wife; 5 b.
 ——— deceased; 150 b.
 ——— creditors of, petition of; 150 b.
 Thos., warrant signed by; 375 b.
 ——— grandson of Thomas Lord Leigh, Act to enable him to sell lands; 150 b.
 ——— petition of; 150 b.
 Will., on Gloucester committee; 11 b.
 Leighton:
 tithes of; 11 a.
 Buzzard, manor of; 4 b.
 Low, minister at; 260 a.
 Sir Baldwin, Bart., MSS. of; xxi.
 Sir Thomas, delinquent; 11 a.
 Thos., letter of; 379 a.
 Leinster; 603 b.
 plantation of; 99 a.
 assembly at; 616 a, 617 a. congregation of; 617 b.
 losses in, during rebellion (1641); 573 a.
 the effect of pasture enclosures in (1762); 470 b.
 Duke of (1691); 562 a, 565 a.
 ——— commission as general to; 565 a.
 ——— Lord Kildare made (1766); 177 b, note.
 ——— (1774), his will; 194 a.
 ——— his son, Marquis of Kildare; 194 b.
 Leith; 215 b, 240 b, 247 b, 302 a.
 Trinity House at; 261 a.
 Leith, J. F. Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Leitrim, plantation in; 582 a.

- Leland :
 Dr., of Dublin; 486 a.
 — his proposed political history of Ireland; 486 b.
 — Librarian of Trin. Coll., Dublin; 491 a.
 John, petition of; 549 a.
- Lelew, M., letter of; 38 b.
- Lely, Sir Peter, paintings by; 100 b.
- Leman, Sir William; 153 b.
- Lembergh, Erdeman de, demise to; 625 a.
- Lemmens, Lemmons, M., letters of; 37 a, 38 b.
- Lendeghe, Robert, of Kingston Seymour, will of; 334 b.
- Lenham :
 Kent; 327 b.
 vicar of; 337 a.
- Lennox, Lenox :
 Earl of (1587), Matthew; 302 a.
 — document signed by (1611); 88 b.
 Duke of, his secretary (1635); 246 a.
 — meeting Marie de Medici (1637); 552 b.
 Duchess of (1700); 310 a.
 Lady Caroline, her marriage to Fox; 571 b.
- Lens :
 camp de; 39 b.
 magistrates of, letter of; 39 b.
- Lens, Serjeant, opinion by; 233 b.
- Lente, C. de, Danish ambassador, memorial by; 258 b.
 — answer to; 259 a.
- Lenthal, Lenthall : correspondence of; 581 b.
 readings on statutes by; 584 b.
 Mr.; 153 b.
 Sir John, marshall of the King's Bench; 113 b, 119 a, 121 b, 126 a, 154 a.
 — letters of; 104 a, 119 b.
 — letter to; 104 a.
 — petitions of; 105 b, 117 a, 119 b.
 — answers of; 117 a, 119 a, 119 b.
 — writ to; 106 a.
 William, Speaker, letters of; 3 b, 9 b, 10 b, 230 a, 385 a,
 437 b.
 — writ of; 438 a.
 — of Bessilsleigh; 262 b.
- Lenthe, Mr.; 562 a.
- Leonard, Peter, his wharf; 246 a.
- Leopold :
 Emperor (1701); 442 a.
 — letters of (1704); 24 b.
 Archduke and the Infanta, treaty of marriage (1763);
 286 a.
- Lepell, Brigadier, letters of; 38 b, 40 a.
- Lepers : hospital for, at Romney and Waynesflete; 264 b.
 female, hospital for; 325 a.
- Leptone, Rauf, parson of Alresford; 234 a.
- Lequar, Pole, servant; 507 b.
- Lerida, relation of battle of (1710); 38 b.
- Lerma, Duke of, letter to; 213 b.
- Lermouth, James, provost of St. Mary de Rupe; 307 a.
 Sir Patrick of Dersy, precept to; ib.
- Lerpole. See Liverpool.
- Lescaillaide, M. de, letter of; 35 b.
- Lescheraine. See Lecheraine.
- Lescrop, Richard, treasurer; 407 b.
- Leslie :
 in Ireland; 603 b.
 Charles; 392 a.
 Major-Gen., letters of; 289 a.
 Eufamia, spouse of James Lindsay; 307 a.
 Matthew, letters of; 291 a.
- Lesly :
 Mr., old and young; 40 b.
 Dr., his book; 455 a.
 Robert, bishop of Raphoe, petition of; 514 a.
- Lesnes :
 the abbey of; 265 b.
 abbot of; 328 a, 339 a.
- Lespaignol, M., letter of; 35 b.
- Lessells, Colonel; 527 b.
- Lessintone, John de, witness; 1 b.
- L'Estant, M. de, letter of; 40 a.
- Lestice, Nicholas de, witness; 422 b.
- Lestrangle, Lieut. Henry; 596 a.
- Letang, M. de; 564 a.
- Leth-Mogha and Leth-Quin, ancient parts of Ireland; 486 a.
- Letheringham; 334 a.
- Letherkeny or Letterkenney, battle of; 612 a.
- Lethulier, —, member of the Hamburgh Co.; 147 b.
- Letters, forms of, used in the monastic chancery; 344 b.
- Lentrum, Baron (1711), letters of; 40 a.
- Levant, the; 19 b, 239 b. company; 243 a.
 plague of; 233 a. limits of; 236 a.
 wines of; 239 a.
- Leven, Earl of :
 letters of (1705); 31 b.
 letters of (1706); 32 a.
 letters of (1707); 32 b.
 letter of (1708); 35 b.
- Leverett, James :
 a quack; 229 b.
 examination of; ib.
- Levett, Dr., gift by; 232 a.
- Levinge :
 Sir Richard, to be Chief Baron; 58 b.
 Richard, appointed recorder of Chester; 361 b.
 — commission to; 362 a.
 — letters of; 387 b.
 Sir Richard, letter of; 392 a.
 — mem. of; 16 a.
- Levyngg, John, of Sudbury, will of; 335 a.
- Lewes :
 Archdeacon of, witness; 1 b.
 John de, priest, excommunicated; 348 b.
- Lewin, Edmond; 358 b.
- Lewis, Mr. :
 secretary at Brussels; 35 a.
 letter of; 57 a.
 Dr., late master of St. Crosse; 117 a.
 — judge of the Admiralty; 227 a.
 Captain Henry; 592 b, 598 b.
 Hugh, of Ipawich, will of; 333 a.
 Ensign Hugh; 593 a.
 John, trooper; 539 b.
 Lieut. Tho.; 592 b.
 Rev. William, letter of; 289 b.
 William, petition of; 504 b.
 — trooper; 523 b.
- Lewknor, R., chief justice of Chester, letters of; 380 a, 380 b,
 381 b.
- Lewlin, Ensign Michell; 593 a.
- Lewyn, William, document signed by; 227 b.
- Lex., Lord, Lady Frestwell and; 53 a.
- Lexham, William, of Walsingham, will of; 333 b.
- Lexington :
 John de; 357 b.
 Lord, letter of; 560 a.
 — ambassador in Spain (1691); 561 b.
- Ley, Leye :
 Mr., preacher of Chester; 383 b.
 John; 403 a.
 William de; 635 b.
- Leybourne, Sir William de, warrant to; 347 a.
- Leyden :
 description of; 61 b.
 university of; 232 b.
- Leyham; 334 a.
- Leyke; 414 a.
- Leyndon, manor of; 635 a, 635 b.
- Leynes, Gerald, of Knock, petition of; 537 b.
- Leynham, alias Plummer, Sir John, his wife Margaret;
 262 b.
- Leynton :
 John, gift to; 267 b.
 — pardons to; 266 a.
- Leys; 301 a.
- Leysdown :
 in Sheppey; 318 b.
 — manor of; 329 b.
- Leyse, Beaumont, his servant; 426 a.
- Leyton : lands at; 7 b.
 Low, Essex; 251 b.
- Leziman, Guido de, witness; 407 b.
- Liancourt, Countess de, letters of; 38 b.
- Libels conveyed in drinking toasts, in Irish society; 178 a.
- Libreto, Bernardo de Ecili'de, a foreign boy, made archdeacon of Canterbury; 350 b.
- Lichenstein, Prince (1767); 487 b.
- Lichfield :
 Lord and Lady, letters of (circ. 1717); 57 a.
 Bishop of (1806); 850 b.
 — (c. 1307), W. de Langton; 351 b.
- Lichfield and Coventry :
 Bishop of (1414), his death; 340 b.
 — letter of (1791); 294 b.
- Lichtenstein, Prince of :
 letters of (1705); 31 b.
 — (1706); 25 a, 58 a.
 letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — (1710); 38 b.
- Liddale, John; 306 b.
- Liddell, R., letter of; 571 b.
- Liege; 31 b.
 citadel of; 17 b.
 magistrates of, letter of (1705); 31 b.
 chapter of, letter of; 37 a. deputies of the States of, letter of; 40 a.
- Lielenroot, de, ambassador, letter of; 16 a.
- Life Guard, the (1667); 115 a.

Lifford :

Lord, Chancellor for Ireland (1767) ; 488 a.
— letter of (1778) ; 196 b.

Liford's petition ; 165 b.

Light, Capt. Francis, letter of ; 292 b.

Lightfoote, Ralph, soldier, petition of ; 531 b.

Lightfoote, Roger, sheriff of Chester ; 868 a.

Lightfootpole, timber for making new haven at, order (1541) ; 873 b.

Lighthouses ; 395 b.

erection, &c. of, papers concerning. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.

Lilborne, Col. John, payment to ; 94 b.

Lille :

the States, &c. of, letter of ; 37 a.

town of ; 36 b.

camp before ; 17 a.

taking of ; 33 a, 35 a, 86 a.

Comte de, letter of ; 38 b.

magistrates of, letter of ; 39 b.

commandant of, letter of ; 39 b.

Lilleburn, in honour of Leicester ; 411 a.

Lillers, M. Carnin, letter of ; 38 b.

Lillok, co. Fife, lands of ; 307 b.

Lilly, Francis, Trinity House v. ; 261 a.

Limehouse ; 238 b, 240 b, 241 b, 259 a.

parishioners of ; 237 b.

Reach ; 256 b.

Limerick ; 174 b, 200 b, 535 b, 562 a, 612 a, 613 a, 624 a.

corporation, MSS. of ; xxiii.

treaty of ; 34 a.

surrender of ; 58 a.

attempt to take the embargo off (1762) ; 189 a.

bishopric of, Popish ; 198 a.

force to be raised in ; 201 b.

subscription by Catholics for recruiting in ; 202 a.

letter dated at ; 202 a.

Articles of ; 482 b.

James II.'s lands in ; 497 b, 498 a, 498 b.

rendition of ; 498 b.

the rebels in (1691) ; 565 a.

siege of, by Ireton ; 580 a.

surrender of ; 582 a.

the army in (1649) ; 601 a.

siege of, by Ireton ; 602 a, 614 a, 615 b.

mayor of ; 603 a.

Bishop of, Ed. Singe ; 583 a.

E. Sexton Pery elected member for ; 183 a.

Liminge, St. Mary's church ; 326 b.

Linacre, Thomas, first president of the College of Physicians ; 226 a.

— his death ; 226 b.

— signature of ; 234 a.

Linange, Comte de, letter of ; 37 a.

Lincehill :

battle of ; 606 a.

march towards ; 606 b.

Linche :

Sir Robbucke ; 617 a.

Walter ; 614 a.

Lincoln ; 6 a, 210 a, 324 b.

execution at ; 71 b.

parliament at (1301) ; 347 b, 348 a.

— (1315) ; 353 a.

the navigation of the Foss Dyke from ; 435 b.

rolls ; 583 a.

prebendary of ; 11 a.

Cathedral ; 265 a.

county ; 334 b.

— charters relating to ; 264 b.

— stone from ; 627 b.

— election in ; 50 a.

— horse sent to ; 10 a.

— Charles I.'s manors in ; 209 b.

— horse to be raised by (1645) ; 8 a.

dean and chapter of, agreement of (1507) ; 370 b.

Bishop of (1281) ; 421 a.

— (1334), Henry, licence by ; 265 a.

— (1342), T. Becke ; 211 a.

— Beek, his death ; 337 a.

— John, of Tynewell ; 412 b.

— (18 Edw. IV.) ; 415 b.

— agreement of (1507) ; 370 b.

— (1513), his dispute with Abp. Warham ; 336 a.

— (1622), Lord Keeper, petition to ; 241 a.

— (1624), report to ; 241 b.

— (1625), John, letter of ; 436 a.

— (1687), suspension of ; 209 b.

— (1667), William, writ of summons ; 111 b.

— (1675-1691), Thos. Barlow ; 454 b.

Earl of, Edw. (1578), Lord High Admiral, warrant of ; 360 b.

— (1671), Act to enable him to settle a jointure ; 153 b.

— Henry de Lacy ; 269 a.

— charter by ; 270 b.

— John de Lacy (22 Hen. III.) ; 357 a, 357 b.

Lincoln—cont.

Earls of, Lacy, pedigrees of ; 366 a.

Lord (1714) ; letter of ; 57 a.

Countess of (1668) ; 121 a.

— Alesia de Lacy, her death ; 411 b.

Will., Abbot of Barlings ; 267 b.

Lincolnia :

Willardus de, inquisition by ; 406 a.

— witness ; 408 b.

Linden, M., mayor of Menin, letter of ; 35 b.

Lindores, abbot of, Guido ; 300 b.

Lindsey, Lindsay :

Earl of (1666) ; 211 a.

— (1671) ; 440 a.

— Robert (1668), petition of ; 117 a.

Alexander, precept to ; 307 a.

Lord, of the Byres, ancient peerage of ; xvii., 304 a.

Col. ; 153 a.

David, minister at Leith ; 302 a.

— Lord (1483) ; 305 b.

— his brother John ; 305 b, 306 a.

— of Pitcrury ; 307 b.

— his spouse, Jonet Ramsay ; ib.

— of Month ; 307 b.

— his brother John ; ib.

— of the Month, the poet ; xvii., 308 a, 308 b.

George ; 306 a.

James, rector of Benham ; 307 b.

Capt. John, letter of ; 294 b.

John, master of, of Peterowry, claim of lands by ; 308 a.

Sir John of, charter to (1440) ; 307 a.

— charter to (1437) ; 307 b.

John, Lord, grant to (1454) ; 305 b.

— lands resigned by (1497) ; 307 b.

— charter to (1524) ; 308 b.

— warrant to (1623) ; ib.

Sir John, of Peterowry, infestment of ; 306 a, 307 a.

— his spouse, Elizabeth Lundy ; 307 a.

Hon. Robert, letters of ; 289 b.

Robert, letters of ; 290 a, 290 b.

— in Fittscottie ; 304 b, 307 a.

Patrick, of Kirkforthir ; 305 b, 306 a, 307 b.

— Lord of, charter to ; 306 a.

— of Eaglescarnie ; 310 b.

— his connection with the Porteous riots ; ib.

— letters to ; xviii., 311 a-315 a.

Sir Patrick, infestment of (1498) ; 307 b.

— (1521) ; 307 a.

— sign manual of ; ib.

Patrick, infestment of (c. 1500) ; 307 a.

— obligation to (1510) ; 308 a.

— charter by (1524) ; 308 b.

— his lands, &c. (1565) ; 306 b.

— his son James ; ib.

— (1574) ; 304 b.

Walter, precept to ; 307 a.

Sir William and Christian of (1382) ; 307 a.

Lord, guardian of Queen Mary ; 304 b.

alias Dix, Mary, petition of ; 518 b.

late Countess of, Bridget (1667) ; 109 b.

Linen trade with France (1674) ; 91 a.

Linesham ; 636 b.

Lingfield, college of ; 334 b.

Lingley, Joseph, of Chester ; 361 b.

Links, John, of Limehouse, mariner ; 240 b.

Linlithgow ; 299 a.

documents dated at ; 302 a, 351 b.

Linnacre, Oliver, discharge of ; 23 b.

Lintello, M., letter of ; 35 b.

Lintels, Baron of ; 12 b.

Linton, Kent, lands in ; 329 a.

Lintz, letter dated at ; 22 a.

Lion, Comte de, letter of ; 37 a.

Lion, the ship ; 239 a.

Lionel, the ship, of Harwich ; 241 a.

Lion's Whelp, the ship ; 399 a.

Lire, M. de la ; 287 b.

Lisbon ; 17 a, 91 b, 285 a.

documents dated at ; 16 a, 25 a, 36 b, 37 a, 44 a, 47 b, 58 a,

60 a, 290 b.

merchants at ; 257 a.

river, St. George in ; 50 b.

a bull feast at ; 62 a.

tin sold in ; 92 b.

St. Patrick's College in ; 482 a, 482 b, 487 a.

bay of ; 238 a.

Lisborn ; 498 b, 496 a.

Liscarroll skirmish ; 603 b.

Lisdosson ; 535 b.

Lisguile, co. Galway, lands of ; 522 b.

Lisieux diocese, Gresten's monastery in ; 625 a.

Lisle :

Lord, Philip, his troop in Ireland (1646) ; 11 b.

— letter of ; ib.

— commissions by ; ib.

— payment to (1658) ; 95 a.

Commissioner ; 124 b.

Lisle—cont.

- John, of the Council of State; 248 a.
 Viscountess, Joan, will of; 382 a.
 Lisle Viscount, Arthur Plantagenet, K.G., &c., &c., letters patent by; 360 b.
 Lismacnedun, co. Galway, lands of; 522 b.
 Lismore :
 treasurer of; 317 b.
 lands near; 508 b.
 Lady (1768); 475 b, 476 b.
 Lismoyny, co. Westmeath; 576 b.
 Lisnagarvie, march upon; 599 b, 600 b.
 Lispopell, co. Dublin; 547 b.
 Lisrany, co. Louth, plundered; 590 b.
 Lissnegappell, co. Galway, lands of; 522 b.
 Lister :
 Ed., physician, report by; 229 a.
 Lieut. Michael, letter of; 40 a.
 Martin; 226 b.
 — admitted to practise; 230 b.
 Matthew, notice of; 234 a.
 Liston; 335 a.
 Litfote, Richard, will of; 265 a.
 Littleton, Mr., gentleman waiter of Duke of York; 279 a.
 Litster, Brother John, of the Observantines; 801 a.
 Littell, Richard, petition of; 584 b.
 Little :
 Capt., letters of; 294 a, 295 a.
 Capt. John, letters of; 294 b.
 John Thomas, soldier, petition of; 509 b.
 Thomas, trooper; 521 b.
 William; 527 a.
 Littlecart, E., comr. of musters, co. Stafford, letter of; 379 a.
 Littledean; 384 b.
 Littlefield, George, of Armagh, deposition of; 576 a.
 Littleharle, letter dated at; 46 b.
 Littlemore, prioress of; 266 a.
 Littler :
 Mr., of Deptford; 250 a.
 — mayor of Chester, letter to; 380 b.
 John, mayor of Chester (1606); 408 a.
 Littleton :
 Mr., his "letter to Mr. Poyntz"; 63 b.
 Mr. Baron; 150 b.
 Edward, arguments by; 584 b.
 Lord (1765) letters of; 287 b.
 See Lyttleton.
 Littletons, the, conspirators; 434 a.
 Littleington : parishioners of; 4 a.
 parsonage of; 5 a.
 Liveham, John, of Maidstone, will of; 335 a.
 Liveries, taking and wearing, laws against; 415 b, 416 b.
 Liverpool; 138 a, 375 b, 376 a, 380 a, 380 b, 381 b, 386 b, 391 a, 395 b–399 a, passim. documents dated from; 375 b, 393 a, 395 b.
 ship money, 383 a.
 Lutherans settled in (1709); 47 a. corporation of, cheesemongers of London v.; 393 a.
 mayor of; 375 b.
 — letters of; 375 b, 395 b.
 — letters to; 398 a.
 Lord (1796) letters of; 296 b.
 Livesey, Sir Michael; 155 b.
 Livingston, T. Fenton, Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Livorno, consuls at; 254 b.
 Lizard Point, the; 239 a, 241 a, 250 b, 252 b, 261 b.
 Llancaddok, rectory of; 345 b.
 Llandaff, see of; 386 a.
 Llandaff :
 Bishop of, Francis, writ of summons (1667); 111 b.
 — (Ric. II.) v. Earl of Warwick; 169 b.
 — commission to; 337 a.
 Llewellyn, Lieut. R., letter of; 290 b.
 Lloyd :
 Sir Charles; 124 b.
 — answers of; 124 b.
 Charles, letters of; 293 a, 293 b.
 Capt. letter of; 295 b.
 David, clerk of the Pentice of Chester, mem. book of; 369 a.
 — lieutenant of Chester, letter to; 374 b.
 — mayor of Chester, application to; 374 b.
 — — letters to; 376 a, 376 b, 377 a.
 — — (1594); 397 a.
 — — letters of; 376 a, 376 b, 377 a.
 Edward, proceedings against; 59 a.
 — committed to sergeant-at-arms; 103 a.
 — letter to; 212 b.
 — prisoner; 529 a.
 Francis; 121 b.
 Henry, of Chester; 361 b.
 — commission to; 362 a.
 Humphry; 364 b, 365 b.
 John, letters of; 290 a, 290 b, 293 a.
 — of Yale; 374 a.
 Jonathan, letters of; 292 b.
 Mr., of Chester, letter to; 384 b.

Lloyd—cont.

- Peter, of Chester; 361 b.
 Philip, of the mint, documents signed by; 65 a, 66 b.
 — order signed by; 391 b.
 Sir Richard, his report; 258 b.
 Thomas, letter of; 38 b.
 Lieut. Thomas; 591 b.
 Loadmanage, court of; 256 b.
 Lochleven, Queen Mary at; 304 b.
 Lock :
 Mathew, secretary to the army in Ireland; 550 a.
 Mr., secretary to Lord Admiral of England (1600) letter to; 282 b.
 Lockart, Sir William, payment to; 94 b.
 Locke :
 Nicholas, gardener, petition of; 520 b.
 William, of Ratcliffe; 239 b.
 John, of the guard, Dublin; 545 b.
 Lockier, Edmund, of Worcester; 638 b.
 Loddsworth, manor of; 635 a, 635 b.
 Loddington, co. Leicester; 164 b.
 Lodelaw, Robert de, anniversary of; 327 a, 329 a.
 Lodge, Henry, letters of; 291 a, 292 b, 295 a.
 Loe :
 Ensign John; 591 a.
 Thomas, petition of; 521 b.
 Loffingem, lists of officers taken at (1708); 38 a.
 Lofthouse; 637 a.
 Loftie, Rev. John, letter of; 295 b.
 Loftus :
 Sir Adam, captain; 597 a.
 Adam; 609 a.
 Sir Dudley; 581 a, 594 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop; 597 b.
 Thomas, patron of Kilsuire rectory; 539 a.
 Log-foile. See Foyle Lough.
 Logganer, John; 367 a.
 Loggin, Robert, petition of; 104 a.
 Loughbricklan; 493 b.
 Loughguir, troops at; 601 b.
 Loughmanstown, lands of; 506 a.
 Loughreagh; 613 a, 615 b, 617 b.
 Logie-cowie; 301 a.
 Lokeswelle, Simon de; 367 a.
 Lombe (?), William, letter of; 382 b.
 Lomond, Loch; 310 a.
 Londesdale, Richard, of Coventry, will of; 335 b.
 London and Westminster :
 mayor or lord mayor, &c. of, privileges of; 50 b.
 — mandate to (temp. Hen. III.); 87 b.
 — fined by Edward II.; 88 a.
 — licence to (12 Ed. III.); 89 a.
 — letter of (39 Ed. III.); 412 b.
 — writs to (temp. Ric. II.); 87 a, 88 a.
 — (1588) letter of; 227 b.
 — (1588) letter of; ib.
 — letter of (1629); 244 a.
 — letter to (1670); 158 b.
 — (1678); 256 b.
 — letter of (1699); 393 a.
 — information to (1716); 84 b.
 Apothecaries' Company; 231 b.
 Apothecaries of; 233 b.
 Barbers and Surgeons of, their petitions; 229 a, 230 b.
 Cheesemongers of, v. Corporation of Liverpool; 393 a.
 Grocers' Company; 227 b.
 Insurance Office, the Amicable; 231 b.
 Mercers Company; 145 a, 249 a.
 merchants of, their fund against the Turks (1616); 238 b.
 — importers of brandy, petition of; 143 a. midwives of, petition of (1616); 229 a.
 — (1634); 229 b.
 "office of address" in; 501 b, 510 a. prisoners for debt in and about, &c., petitions of; 152 a, 153 a.
 — Act for relief of; 152 b. recorder of (1683); 232 a. sheriffs of, writ to; 116 a.
 Shipwrights' Company; 261 a.
 Watermen's Company; 251 b, 254 a. churchyards; 144 b.
 coal dues; 144 b.
 plague in (1563); 227 a.
 shops closed on day of thanksgiving from deliverance from Spanish Armada; 374 b.
 new buildings in, papers about (17th century); xi., 98 a. plague in (1630); 229 a.
 dragoons furnished by (1645); 8 b.
 plague in, foretold (1661); 209 a.
 the plague in (1665); 134 a, 152 b, 253 a.
 — the College of Physicians' proceedings during; 230 a.
 the great fire of (1666); x., 102 a, 128 a, 131 a, 134 a, 145 a, 148 a, 152 b, 162 a.
 — Judicature Bill; 109 a.
 Bill for rebuilding, proviso, &c. (1667); x., 111 a.

London and Westminster—cont.

act for the better rebuilding (1668); 126 b.
 partly rebuilt with Dutch money (1669); 134 a. rebuilding (1670); 145 a, 145 b.
 — additional Bill (1670), amendments and proceedings on; 144 b.
 relief of sufferers from fire, Bill respecting, message (1670); 150 a.
 "trade was on long credit, now (1669) in ready money;" 134 a. a river quay on north side, recommended (1670); 144 b. unfree artificers, &c. turned out of work by freemen (1670); 145 b.
 burial places for (1670); 145 b.
 honour done to Pitt's administration by (1757); 181 b.
 Aldermanbury, St. Mary's parish; 634 b.
 Aldermanchurch; 328 b.
 Aldermay Church, rector of; 323 b.
 Aldersgate, St. Botolph's parish without; 634 b.
 Aldgate St. Botolph's parish, alum works in; 229 a.
 Allhallows the Great and Less; 145 a, 323 b.
 Allhallows, Bread St.; 386 b.
 Arundel House; 155 b.
 Old Bailey; 71 b, 125 b.
 Bedford Head; 315 a.
 Benet Sherehog parish; 634 b.
 Benetfynk parish; 634 b.
 Berkeley House; 53 a.
 Billingsgate; 251 b.
 — St. Botolph; 145 a.
 — Sun Tavern; 256 b.
 Byshopp Street, the Plow in; 158 a.
 Bishopsgate, Black Bull in; 435 b.
 Blackfriars, St. Anne's, church and parish; 145 a.
 Blackwell Hall; 138 a.
 — governors of; 138 a.
 Bloomsbury Square, records of Chester at; 362 b.
 Bow Church, fall of steeple of; 354 a.
 — difficulties with the parson, on rebuilding; ib.
 — churchyard; 323 b.
 Bow Lane; 377 a.
 Bridge; 238 b, 255 b.
 — encroachments near; 259 a.
 — inconvenience of building houses on; 245 a.
 Broad Street; 121 b.
 Brook House, document dated at; 129 a.
 — Commissioners, the; 129 b.
 — report, &c. of; 128 a-133 b.
 — letters to; 129 b.
 Bunhill, Blue Anchor Alley; 158 b.
 Candlewick Street, St. Clement; 323 b.
 Catherine Street, Strand; 482 b.
 Chancery Lane, deeds relating to; 265 a.
 Charing Cross; 391 a.
 — Bull Head tavern; 154 b, 156 b, 157 a.
 Charles Street, document dated from; 285 a.
 Charterhouse; 24 a.
 — letter dated at; 244 a.
 Cheapside, Grasshopper in; 438 b.
 Chepe, street of; 634 b.
 Christ's Hospital; 22 a, 138 a, 255 a.
 — governors of; 138 a, 256 a, 258 b.
 — letter to; 256 a.
 — the new foundation at (1675); 236 a, 256 a, 258 a.
 — mathematical school of; 257 b, 258 a, 260 a.
 Clarendon House; 154 b, 155 a, 157 b.
 Clerkenwell Close; 146 b.
 — Green; 231 a.
 Clifford's Inn; 121 b.
 Coleman St., Bell Alley; 157 b.
 — White's Alley; 145 b.
 Conduit Street, document dated from; 295 a.
 Cornhill; 392 b.
 — St. Michael's; 332 a.
 Covent Garden; 137 a.
 — parson of; 221 a.
 — the Piazza; 155 b.
 — St. Paul's, inhabitants, petition of; 126 b.
 Cripplegate, St. Giles' without; 259 a.
 — St. Giles' Church; 145 a.
 Crooked Lane, St. Michael; 323 b.
 Custom House; 135 b.
 Denmark House, document dated at; 209 b.
 — or Somerset House; 95 a.
 Derby House, documents dated at; 2 b, 3 b, 7 b-10 b, passim.
 Distaff Lane, St. Augustine's parish, near; 633 a, 633 b.
 Doctors Commons; 230 b, 240 b.
 Dorset House; 418 a.
 Drury Lane, Little; 159 a.
 — Queen St., the White Swan; 155 b, 157 a.
 — Theatre; 1 a, 24 a.
 Duke Street, the Squirrel in; 390 b.
 Durham House; 98 a.
 Eastcheap, St. Clements; 229 b.
 — St. Leonard's; 323 b.
 — St. George's; 333 a.

London and Westminster—cont.

Ely House; 163 b, 164 a.
 — hospital, Commissioners of, letter of; 386 b.
 Essex House, letter dated at; 211 b.
 Exchange; 156 a, 157 a, 251 b.
 — Royal; 272 b.
 Fetter Lane, the Magpie in; 387 b.
 Old Fish St.; 633 a, 634 b.
 Fitzroy Square, Warren Street, letters dated at; 13 b.
 Fleet gate, the; 151 a.
 — prison; 146 b.
 — prisoners in; 102 a, 103 a, 105 a, 110 a, 115 a, 118 a, 139 b, 165 a.
 — Street; 6 b.
 — Carmelites church in; 265 a.
 Foster Lane; 335 b.
 Friday Street; 323 a, 634 b.
 Frying Pan Alley; 155 b, 158 b.
 Garraway's; 62 a.
 Golden Square, the Tabernacle near; 80 b.
 Gracechurch St., All Saints; 323 a.
 Gray's Inn; 153 b, 157 b, 210 b, 440 a, 440 b, 585 a.
 — letters, &c. dated at; 211 a, 388 b, 389 b, 390 a, 390 b, 391 b.
 — Lane; 156 b, 159 a.
 Grocers' Hall; 102 a.
 Guildhall, document dated from; 387 a.
 Gurney House, document dated at; 385 b.
 Haberdashers' Hall; 386 a.
 Half-moon Alley; 158 b.
 Hanover Square, letter dated at; 570 a.
 — George Street; 62 a.
 — Lady Denbigh in; 566 b.
 Haymarket; 154 b, 157 a.
 — lease of; 51 a.
 Heralds' Office; 230 b.
 — library; 99 b.
 Hermitage Stairs; 258 b.
 Hill Street, document dated from; 285 b.
 Holborn; 101 b.
 — St. Andrew's; 635 a.
 — prebend of; 638 a.
 — Bridge, "that the way at, may be raised," suggested (1670); 144 b.
 — Queen's Arms at; 10 b.
 — Durham Yard; 129 a.
 — the King's Gate; 439 a.
 — St. Andrew's; 145 a, 335 a.
 Hyde Park; 99 a.
 — review in; 49 a.
 Jermyn St.; 568 b.
 — near St. James's church, letter (of Sir Isaac Newton's) dated from; 392 b.
 Jewry, St. Lawrence; 332 a.
 Old Jewry; 265 a.
 King Street, Westminster; 140 a.
 — Three Sugar Loaves in; 440 b.
 Knight Rider St.; 227 a.
 Leadenhall Market, tanners frequenting, petition of; 116 b.
 Leicester Fields, St. Martin's Street; 81 b.
 — House, the political influence of; 222 a, 223 b, 224 a.
 Lincoln's Inn; 376 b.
 — Fields; 98 b.
 — Sir F. Child's house in; xi., 92 b, 100 a, 100 b.
 Littlewood Street; 228 b.
 Long Lane; 227 a.
 Marlborough House; 56 a.
 — building of; 27 b.
 Merchant Taylors' Hall; 94 b.
 Milk Street, St. Mary Magdalen; 323 a.
 Newcastle House; 222 a.
 Newgate; 392 b.
 — letter dated at; 46 b.
 — prisoners in; 46 a.
 — Jacobites committed to; 34 a.
 — De Foe in; 43 b.
 — rebuilding of; 232 b.
 — market; 59 a, 227 a.
 — the Blackedogge, document dated from; 386 a.
 Northumberland House; 45 a.
 Pall Mall; 59 a, 63 a, 154 b, 157 a.
 — letters dated at; 13 b, 201 a.
 — East, College of Physicians in; 226 a.
 — Fields, lease of; 51 a.
 Panyer Alley; 332 a.
 Park Lane, letter dated from; 294 b.
 Paternoster Row; 229 b, 634 b.
 Paul's Wharf, St. Andrew's parish; 634 b.
 Pettycoat Lane; 155 b.
 — the Frying Pan; 157 b.
 Piccadilly, Lord Sunderland's house in; 13 b.
 — lease of; 51 a.
 — Crown and Sceptre tavern in; 391 a.
 Portman Square, letters dated at; 195 b, 196 a.
 Poultry Counter; 64 b.
 — Compter, prisoner in; 239 a.
 Privy Garden, letter dated at; 62 a.

London and Westminster—cont.

Soper Lane ; 633 a, 633 b.
South Street, document dated from ; 285 a.
Southampton House, document dated from ; 387 a.
Stamp Office, letter dated at ; 23 b.
—— Steele's post in ; ib.
Stanhope Street, letters dated at ; 205 b, 207 b.
Stone, Bothaw, near ; 323 a.
Strand, the, document dated at ; 382 b.
—— Lord Burghley's house in ; 377 b.
—— letter dated at ; 376 a.
—— King's Arms in, 390 b.
—— St. Clement's Church ; 15 a.
—— St. Clement Danes, meeting-house in ; 47 a.
—— Salisbury House ; 22 b.
Suffolk House, letter dated at ; 2 b.
Swallow Street, lease of ; 51 a.
Swan-with-two-Necks ; 229 b.
Temple, documents dated at ; 13 b, 150 b, 391 b.
Temple Bar ; 431 b.
—— deeds relating to ; 265 a.
—— the Devil's at ; 59 a.
—— sanctuary near ; 562 a.
Temple, Inner ; 141 a.
—— letter dated at ; 23 b.
—— Remembrancer's Office ; 66 b.
—— Middle ; 418 a, 585 a.
Temple stairs ; 99 b.
Tothill Fields, workhouse in, Westminster ; x., 126 b.
—— Street, the "Fleece" ; 155 b.
Tower, documents dated at ; 46 a, 46 b, 354 a.
—— prisoners in ; 46 a, 101 b, 102 b, 210 a, 390 b, 555 b, 565 a, 565 b.
—— orders concerning ; 88 b.
—— warders of ; ib.
—— Lord Bristol in ; 217 a, 217 b.
—— Arabella Stuart in ; 226 a.
—— Jacobites committed to ; 34 a.
—— pear trees near ; 87 b.
—— earthen wall of, pulled down by citizens ; 88 a.
—— accident at ; 562 b.
—— Constable of ; 87 a.
—— Constable, mandate to ; 89 a.
—— constables of ; 87 b.
—— Lieutenant of ; 95 a, 137 a, 251 a.
—— letter to (1611) ; 88 b.
—— lieutenants of, list of ; 87 b.
—— wardens of ; ib.
—— Court of Record in ; 88 a.
—— keeper of Records in ; 114 b.
—— ordnance office in ; 89 b.
—— Petty Gates, near ; 89 a.
—— Hamlets ; 247 b, 258 a.
—— lieutenant of ; 260 b.
—— Hill ; 88 b, 315 a.
—— Trinity House, master and governors of, letter of, 391 b.
—— letter to ; ib.
—— petition referred to ; ib.
—— masters and others of ; 120 b.
—— answer of, to a petition ; ib.
—— report on MSS. of ; 235 a.
—— mint in the ; 63 b, 392 b.
—— mint office, document dated from ; 393 a.
—— papers concerning ; 60 b, 63 b, et seq.
—— Traitors' Bridge or Stairs ; 88 b.
Walbrook, St. Stephen's ; 335 a.
Warwick Lane ; 230 b, 235 a.
Water Lane, Trinity House in ; 249 a, 249 b, 250 a, 250 b.
—— fire at (1666) ; 235 b, 253 b, 254 a, 254 b.
—— fire in (1714) ; 235 a.
Waterman's Hall ; 251 b.
Watling Street ; 376 b.
—— deeds relating to ; 265 a.
Westminster ; 15 b, 163 b, 164 a, 355 a, 384 b.
—— documents dated at ; 2 a, 3 b, 8 a, 8 b, 10 b, 61 a, 87 b, 89 a, 234 b, 270 a–275 b, passim, 344 b, 346 a–347 b, 352 a, 357 a–362 a, passim, 390 a–396 a, passim, 402 b, 407 a, 411 b, 413 a–418 b, passim.
—— Abbey, Hen. VII.'s chapel in, foundation of ; 331 b.
—— abbot of, apostolic letters to ; 346 a.
—— corporation of the poor of, president and members, letter to ; 126 b.
—— complaint by a monk of ; 265 a.
—— Cookpit ; 54 a.
—— letters dated at ; 24 a, 212 a, 386 a.
—— political meeting at ; 223 a.
—— the Gatehouse ; 71 b, 156 a, 159 a.
—— Hall ; 160 a.
—— Dr. Sacheverell's trial in ; 49 b.
—— Palace Yard ; 76 b.
—— Old Palace Yard, letter dated at ; 315 a.
—— St. John's Head, otherwise "Heaven" in ; 155 b, 156 b, 157 a, 157 b.
—— Dog Tavern, near ; 157 a.
—— Queen's Court, document dated at ; 385 b.
—— scholars at Christ Church ; 213 a.

London and Westminster—cont.

- school; 439 b.
- to have a Jesuit master; 558 b.
- Star Chamber; 8 b.
- Edward of; 87 b.
- Whitechapel, St. Mary Matefellow; 271 b.
- Whitehall; 2 b, 154 b.
- documents dated at; 27 a, 38 a, 34 b, 47 a, 59 a, 71 b, 74 b, 86 a, 90 a, 200 a, 216 a, 228 b, 285 b, 286 a, 287 b, 378 a, 378 b, 379 a, 380 b, 381 a, 381 b, 382 b, 385 b, 386 a, 386 b, 387 a, 387 b, 393 a, 399 a, 399 b, 400 a.
- alterations at, after the fire (1691); 563 a.
- banqueting house; 98 a, 174 a.
- Council Chamber, document dated from; 395 a.
- Court at, the, documents dated from; 378 a, 378 b, 379 a, 380 b, 381 a, 389 a, 390 b, 398 a.
- Painted Chamber, the; 167 b.
- diagram of; position of table, &c., for, peers at conferences; 114 b.
- the porter's lodge; 388 b.
- Scotland Yard; 389 b.
- a lodging in; 23 b.
- Treasury Chambers, documents dated from; 388 a, 389 a, 389 b, 390 a, 439 b, 440 a.
- Winchester House; 158 a.
- Wood Street; 633 b.
- the counter prison; 154 a.
- St. Michael, of Hoggstone parish; 634 b.
- St. Michael's; 50 a.
- St. Peter's church in; 633 b.
- Worcester House; 111 a.
- York Buildings; 24 a.
- House, document dated from; 380 b.
- Bishop of, excommunicated by Alexander III.; 317 a.
- (12th century), Eustace; 632 b.
- (1254), Fulke; 632 b.
- (1294), letter of; 347 a.
- (1322 and 1329), Stephen; 633 a, 633 b.
- (1306), R. de Baldok; 350 b.
- R. de Braybroke; 632 b.
- (14 Ric. II.) Robert; 634 a.
- orders issued by; ib.
- (1429); 263 a.
- (1513), his dispute with Abp. Warham; 336 a.
- (14 Hen. VIII.), Tunstall; 634 b.
- (1604); 228 b.
- Thomas (1608), letter of; 382 a.
- (1634); 229 b.
- (1636), document signed by; 210 a.
- Compton, letter of; 560 a.
- his palace, houses built on site of (1662); 635 a.
- Lodovick; 115 a.
- petition of; ib.
- order touching; 115 b.
- Londonderry; 493 b, 494 b, 612 b.
- document dated at; 442 b.
- assizes at; 507 b.
- siege of; 611 a.
- county, losses in, during rebellion (1641); 573 a.
- specification of lands in; 520 b.
- James II.'s lands in; 497 b.
- Society; 582 a.
- Londy, Col., a prisoner; 47 a.
- Lone, Mr.; 134 a.
- Long Ditton; 332 b.
- Long Melford; 333 a.
- Long and Costly, the, ship named; 240 a.
- Long, Longe:
 - Colonel; 592 a, 598 b.
 - Christopher, mayor of Pontefract; 274 a, 274 b.
 - document signed by; 274 b.
 - Capt. Felix; 592 b, 598 b.
 - petition of; 510 a.
 - John, Abp. of Armagh; 582 a.
 - Lieut. Patrick; 542 a.
 - petition of; 531 a.
 - Richard, letter of; 37 a.
 - Sir Robert; 128 a, 131 b.
 - Robert, commissioner; 275 a.
 - of Wroxals; 639 a.
 - Walter, of Leicester; 405 b.
 - William; 386 a.
 - Lieut. William; 592 b.
- Longford:
 - gaol; 533 b.
 - assizes at; 538 a.
 - county, losses in, during rebellion (1641); 573 a.
 - specification of lands in; 520 b.
 - plantation in; 582 a.
 - Lord, letters of; 195 b.
- Longleat, the Thynnes of; 51 a.
- Longueville, Lady, letters of; 54 a.
- Longville, Lady (1667); 111 a.
- Longwood; 521 b.
- Lony, John, bailiff of Worcester; 638 a.
- Loo, documents dated at; 12 a.
- Loose, Kent, manor of; 329 a.
- Lopham, North; 334 a.
- Lopus, Dr., a Spaniard; 227 a.
- Lorcan, Capt. Laurence; 605 a.
- Lord, Mr.; 465 a, 473 a.
- Lord Chancellor, the:
 - commissions for supply of his place in House of Lords 101 a, 103 b, 104 a, 128 a, 139 a.
 - order of (1665); 103 a.
 - petition to; ib.
 - letter of (1709); 87 a.
- Lord Chief Justice of England, the:
 - letter to (1608); 382 b.
 - reports of (1668); 116 a, 116 b.
- Lord Keeper, the:
 - letter to (1668); 119 b.
 - (1670); 139 b.
- Lord Privy Seal, the (1711); letter of; 40 a.
- Lord Treasurer, the late (1668); 124 b.
- Lords, House of:
 - report on, and calendar of, MSS. in; viii., 101-174.
 - absences from, &c., report touching remedy for; 122 b.
 - order of; 391 a.
 - Bishop's Lobby adjoining to, document dated from; 395 a.
- Loredi, Signor Cesare, letter of; 38 b.
- Loretto; 23 a. •
- Lorraine:
 - Claude, painting by; 100 a.
 - Prince Charles of, letter of; 38 b.
- Lorraine, Duke of:
 - letter to (1617); 214 a.
 - (1649); 578 b.
 - letter of (1651); 615 a.
 - (1651); 614 a.
 - (temp. Chas. II.); 615 b, 616 a.
 - (1689); 15 b.
 - letters of (1705); 31 a.
 - letters of (1707); 32 a.
 - (1708); 19 b.
 - letter to (1709); 16 b.
 - letter of; 36 b.
 - letter of (1710); 38 a.
 - letter of (1715); 40 b.
- Loryng, Sir Nigel; 358 b.
- Loseby, John, of Leicester; 439 b.
- Losenham, Kent; 324 a.
- Losoure, Thomas, dean of St. Paul's; 635 b.
- Lossowitz, in Bohemia; 220 b.
- Lostock, Lancashire; 50 a.
- Loterel:
 - Lord Andrew; 408 a.
 - Andrew, of Leicester; 405 b.
- Lothian, Marquis of:
 - MSS. of; xxi.
 - letters of (1705); 31 b.
 - Earl of (1709), letter of; 37 a.
- Lottery, Lotteries:
 - the general, temp. Eliz.; 427 a.
 - the Royal Oak; 539 b.
 - cost of licence for; 540 a.
 - sales of tickets for; 568 b.
- Lottum, Comte, letter of; 36 b.
- Louchore, Hugh of, witness; 305 a.
- Loudoun, Earl of:
 - letters of (1644, &c.); 1 a, 5 b, 7 a, 7 b, 9 b, 10 b.
 - document signed by; 302 b.
- Loueman, William, inquisition by; 406 a.
- Loughabre; 497 a.
- Loughborough; 335 a, 414 a, 417 a, 434 a, 437 b.
- inhabitants of; 433 a.
- rector of; 435 a.
- and the plague at Leicester; 435 a, 435 b.
- King's household at; 421 a.
- Loughborough, Lord:
 - Henry, letters to (1660); 439 a.
 - letters of; ib.
 - (1662); 439 b.
 - (1670); 139 a.
 - Edward, late (40 Eliz.); 417 b.
- Loughfole. See Foyle, Lough.
- Louis d'ors, the new French; 73 b.
- Louis, Prince (1704); 17 a.
- Louis VII., his present to Christ Church, Canterbury; 321 a.
- Louis IX., or Saint, Boniface VIII.'s biography of; 348 a.
- Louis XIV.:
 - letters of and to; 218 a, 218 b.
 - Lord Preston's interview with (1684); 30 b.
 - his edict about coinage (1701); 73 a.
 - printed broadside, revocation of passes to the Allies by (1708); 38 a.
 - his regard for Louvois; 562 b.
 - character of; 17 b.
 - his will; 50 a.
- Louis XV., and his Queen, description of 62 b.
- Louseby, Henry de, of Leicester; 421 a.
- Louth, Lord (1690); 496 b.
- Louth Park Abbey co. Lincoln; 265 a.

Louth, Ireland :

- and Heynestowne, manor of ; 508 a, 511 b.
- county, specification of lands in ; 520 a.
- Aylmer's lands in ; 532 a.
- losses in, during rebellion (1641) ; 573 a.
- remonstrance from ; 576 b.
- petition from ; 582 a.
- gentry, &c. of, petition of ; 590 a.
- towns of, plundered, &c. ; ib.

Louvain, burgomaster of (1711), letter of ; 40 a.

Louvoys, M. de ; 562 b.

Louyson, Louison, John, of the Mint ; 65 a, 65 b, 66 a, 70 b.

Lovat, Lord, his execution ; 815 a.

Love :

- Mr., tax receiver ; 7 b.
- receiver for Newport garrison ; 9 a.
- at Newark ; 10 b.
- Grace, petition of ; 109 b.
- Henry, of Chelmsford, will of ; 385 a.
- John, of Reading, will of ; 335 b.
- Richard, D.D., late dean of Ely ; 109 b.
- W., letters of ; 8 a, 8 b, 9 a.

Loveday, Roger, his manor of West Farleigh ; 329 b.

Lovelace, Lord :

- (1668) ; 121 b, 166 a.
- clause to Bill proposed by ; 121 b.
- of Hurley, John (1670), writ of summons to ; 146 b.
- John, petition of (1670) ; 145 b.
- petition of (1671) ; 160 a.
- Lieut.-Col., letter of ; 289 a.

Lovell :

- Lord (1400) ; 266 a.
- Lady, endowment by ; 267 b.
- Gregory, letter of ; 431 a.
- John, of Watford, will of ; 335 b.
- Sir Salathiel, recorder of London, &c. (1700), commission to ; 362 a.
- Sir Selathiel, recorder of London, information taken before ; 392 b.

Loveman, William, of Leicester, gift by ; 405 b.

Lovetot, John de, commissioner ; 326 b.

Lovet, Lovett :

- Christopher, of Dublin ; 528 b.
- Hugh, of Worcester ; 638 a.
- Col. John ; 260 b.
- John, of co. Bucks, his daughter Matilda ; 625 a.
- Ensign Thomas ; 594 a.

Loving, John ; 123 b.

Lovygarig, Dermott ; 514 a.

Low Countries, the :

- Duke of Marlborough in ; 1 a.
- forces in ; 31 a.
- Spanish, condition of (1684) ; 31 a.
- governor of ; 32 a.
- Prussian troops in ; 36 a.
- resolution, government of (1709) ; 38 a.
- state of her Majesty's forces in (1711) ; 40 a.
- English trade with (1604) ; 95 a, et seq.

Lowe :

- Linster ; 608 a, 617 b.
- Hercules ; 278 b.
- Robert, porter of the Mint ; 67 a, 69 b.

Lowestoft ; 334 a, 335 a.

- lighthouse, &c. at ; 240 a, 242 b, 243 b, 252 a, 256 a, 256 b, 261 b.

Lowndes :

- Mr., letter of ; 38 a.
- his salt ; 232 b.
- G. Alan, Esq., MSS. of ; xxi.
- William, certificate by ; 66 a.
- notes by ; 67 a.
- mem. by ; 67 b.
- letters of ; 67 b, 77 a.
- order signed by ; 91 b.
- Mr. Secretary of the Treasury ; 393 b, 394 b.

Lowther :

- Mr. and Sophy How ; 571 a.
- Mrs., letter of ; 57 a.
- Robert, letters of ; 37 a, 38 b.
- William, letter of ; 40 a.
- Sir William, chairman of committee ; 91 a.
- commissioner ; 275 a.

Loy, Lieut., letter of ; 290 b.

Loyalton, Bartholomew ; 367 b.

Lubeckers, the ; 243 a.

Luc, F. de, letter of ; 289 b.

Lucan ; 491 a, 623 b.

- bridge of ; ib.
- Lord, letters of ; 195 b.
- (1779) ; 202 a, 205 a, 205 b, 206 a.
- his journey to Ireland (1779) ; 207 a.
- Patrick Sarsfield made ; 494 a.
- heirs of ; 545 b.

Lucas :

- Col., letter of ; 38 b.
- Mr., of Yarmouth ; 240 a.
- Sir Charles ; 523 b, 553 a.

Lucas—cont.

- Dr. Charles, member for Dublin ; 477 b.
- Dublin patriot ; 442 b, 444 b.
- Lieut. Fran. ; 594 a.
- James, waterman ; 279 b.
- Stephen, priest of Ulcomb ; 337 b.
- Lord (1668) ; 122 b, 166 a, 167 b, 173 a.
- (1669) ; 137 a.
- letter to ; 127 a.
- (1670) ; 153 b.
- (1688) ; 555 b.
- Lieut. of the Tower, letter of (1697) ; 89 a.
- charges against ; ib.
- his regiment (1703) ; 23 b.

Lucca :

- Johannis de Guynygiis de, will of ; 333 a.
- Lady Walpole at ; 570 b.

Lucius III., Pope, bull of ; 317 a.

Lucknow ; 288 a, 290 b, 291 b, 293 b, 294 a, 295 a.

Luckstadt Fort ; 245 a.

Lucy :

- Francis ; 123 b.
- Geoffrey de, Archdeacon of London ; 632 b.
- Sir Kingsmill, Act touching estate of ; 123 b.
- Ri., letter of ; 386 b.
- Sir Richard, deceased ; 123 b.
- Thomas, letter of ; 379 a.

Ludbury, John de ; 402 b.

Ludesdon, William de, his daughter Amfelisia ; 632 a.

Ludford, Simon, a druggist ; 226 b.

Ludlam, Richard, letter of ; 438 a.

Ludlow ; 334 b.

- Castle, documents dated from ; 374 a, 380 b, 399 b.

Col., to command dragoons ; 8 b.

Edmund, letter of ; 582 a.

General ; 616 b.

Ludovic, Prince Palatine, his visit to Leicester ; 427 b.

Luffe, John, master of Ewelme Hospital ; 627 b.

Lugg, Mr., letter of ; 57 a.

Lugo :

- Don Joseph Benitez de, letter of ; 37 a.
- M. de, letter of ; 38 b.

Luke :

- John, physician ; 227 a.
- Sir Samuel, letters of ; 2 b, 3 a, 4 b, 5 a, 7 b, 8 a, 9 b.
- letter to ; 9 a.
- order to ; 3 b.
- lease to ; 4 b.
- Governor of Newport Pagnell ; 3 b, 5 b, 7 b, 8 a.
- demise to ; 6 a.

Lukes, John ; 367 a.

Lumley :

- Lieut.-General, letters of ; 35 b, 38 b.
- H., letters of ; 37 a, 40 a.
- and Caldwell's lands ; 231 b.
- Lord, licence to (1583) ; 234 b.
- his gift of lands ; 234 b, 235 a.

Lummysden :

- John of, of Ardre ; 306 b.
- John, of Glegyrnoch, witness ; 307 a, 307 b.

Lumsden, J., letter of ; 290 a.

Lumysden, Henry, witness ; 306 a.

Lund, Francis, disclaimer of ; 146 b.

Lundie :

- Mr., letter of ; 57 a.
- Mrs., letter of ; ib.
- Mr. M., letter of ; 35 b.

Lundy :

- family of ; 304 a.
- barony and lands of ; 308 b.
- Andrew, bailie to William ; 307 b.
- of Stratharlie ; 308 a.
- Elizabeth, spouse of Sir John Lindsay ; 307 a.
- Thomas de, witness ; 305 a.
- William, of Stratharlie ; 307 b.
- charter by ; 308 b.

Lundyn, Walter de, grant by ; 307 a.

Lunenbourg :

- Princes of ; 30 b.
- troops of ; 31 b.

Lungville, William de, witness ; 270 b.

Luntrethin ; 306 b.

Luquheris, kirk of ; 308 a.

Lurgelshem, letter dated at ; 552 a.

Lushington, S., letter of ; 295 a.

Lusmach, skirmish of ; 613 a.

Lutegareshalle, documents dated from ; 356 b.

Lutherans, settled in England and America ; 47 a.

Luthteburg, Robertus de, witness ; 408 a.

Luton, Leutone, document dated at ; 349 a.

Lutterell, his troop ; 494 b.

Lutterworth ; 414 b.

- inhabitants of, letter of ; 434 b.

Luttrell :
 G. F., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 James; 511 b.
 Lutwyche, Edward, letter of; 391 b.
 Lutzen, battle of; 581 a.
 Luueners, Yuune de, witness; 270 a.
 Luxembourg :
 Louis de, Abp. of Rouen; 268 a.
 Duke of; 563 b.
 — (1691); 564 b.
 — letter of (1695); 558 a.
 deputies from, letter of (1705); 31 b.
 Luzzara, battle of; 442 a.
 Lydcott, Col. Leonard, his regiment; 11 b.
 Lydd, corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Lyde, Henry, his estate, &c.; 6 a, 7 a.
 Lyden by Sandwich; 326 b.
 mill at; 351 b, 352 a.
 Lydgate, John, his "Bochas;" 100 b.
 — "boke of ye pilgrimage translated out of frensh" by,
 at Ewelme; 629 a.
 Lyeuanaghen; 585 b.
 Lygh, John, of Chippenham, will of; 385 a.
 Lylands parva, co. York; 271 a.
 Lyle, Timothy, of Pontefract; 276 a.
 Lyme, relief of; 2 b.
 Lyminge, Stanford chapel in; 338 b.
 Lyngton :
 Viscount, John, his marriage; 60 b.
 — letter of (1733); 63 a.
 election at (1733); 63 a.
 Lymne church; 316 a.
 Lymne, rector of; 339 a.
 Lynaker, Thos., sheriff of Chester; 361 a.
 Lynam, Capt. Patrick, of the ship Trinity; 503 b.
 Lynce Hill siege; 603 a.
 Lynch :
 Sir William, at Nice; 195 a.
 Edmond; 545 b.
 Jeffry, petition of; 510 a.
 John, Archdeacon of Tuam, his Cambrensis Eversus;
 457 a.
 Nicholas, of Galway, petition of; 537 a.
 Patrick Moore; 545 b.
 Symon, of Cranbrook, will of; 332 b.
 Thomas FitzStephen, petition of; 516 b.
 William Roe; 545 b.
 Lynd, James, letter of; 291 a.
 Lynden, M. de, letters of; 38 b, 39 b.
 Lyndesay, David, of the Mount; 304 b.
 See Lindsay.
 Lyndon, John, petitions of; 537 a, 548 b.
 Lyndsay :
 Sir James de, witness; 305 a.
 Sir William de, lord of the Biris; 305 a.
 — grant to; 305 b.
 See Lindsay.
 Lyne v. Clarke; 170 b.
 Lyniall, Thos., of Chester, papers relating to; 396 b.
 Lynn; 242 b, 246 b, 252 a, 256 b, 333 b, 334 a, 334 b.
 port of; 94 a, 240 b.
 ships of; 242 b.
 garrison; 9 a.
 Episcopi; 334 a.
 West; 333 b.
 co. Westmeath; 550 b.
 Lynn, Henry, minister of Hyham Gobyon; 4 a.
 Lynne, Henry, clerk; 3 a.
 Lynton, Robert, of London, will of; 335 a.
 Lyntone, John de, rector of St. Vedast's, London; 632 b.
 Lyonne, M. de, letters of; 219 a.
 Lyons; 195 a, 321 a.
 documents dated from; 282 b, 283 a.
 council at; 345 a, 345 b.
 Lyons, G. F., Esq., M.D., MSS. of; xxi.
 Lyon or Lyons, Thomas, letters of; 290 a, 290 b, 291 a.
 Lyons, Laurence, letter of; 292 b.
 Lyrepol, John, citizen of London; 412 b.
 Lysarde, Nicolas, painter, grant to; 94 a.
 Lyseux, Thomas, executor; 634 b.
 Lythgue; 305 a.
 Lyttelton :
 Lord, MSS. of; xxi.
 Mr., speech of; 220 a.
 Sir George, to succeed Pelham; 224 b.
 Sir Richard; 219 b.
 Lord (1779); 205 b.
 — death of; 206 a.
 — his work on Henry II.; 451 b, 487 a.
 — his application to O'Connor; 490 b, 491 a.
 G., his letters about quarrel between Geo. II. and the Prince of Wales; 57 a.
 Sir T., letter of; 57 a.
 or Lyttelton, Thomas, of Worcester; 638 b.
 Lytton :
 Rich., Knt., of the Exchequer, will of; 335 a.
 Sir William, sheriff; 2 b.

M.

Mabbott, Gilbert, petition of; 512 b.
 MacAlester, Hector, paper by, touching subjection of Virginia;
 289 a.
 MacArthur, McArthur :
 Major, letters of; 288 b, 289 a.
 Genl., letter of; 289 a.
 Macay, Colonel; 584 a.
 McCamell, Patrick Modorra; 610 b.
 McCana, Capt.; 610 b.
 Maccarthy, Macartie, McCarthy :
 —, his regiment; 493 b.
 Col.; 391 a.
 Charles, of Carrickneverr; 535 b.
 Daniel; 606 b.
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 Owen, lands held by; 520 a.
 Col. Owen; 31 a.
 Macartney :
 —, his regiment; 33 b.
 Lord, K.B., letter from (1785); 289 a.
 Sir George, of the Irish House of Commons 192 a.
 Brigadier, letter of; 37 a.
 Brigadier G., letter of; 36 a.
 Macaulay, McCawley :
 Col., MSS. of; xxi.
 Lieut. A., letter of; 294 a.
 Alexander, letters of; 288 b, 290 a.
 Lieut. C., letter of; 289 b.
 John, trooper; 521 b.
 Macclesfield, Lord :
 MSS. of; xxi.
 his speech (1724); 25 b.
 letter of (1727); 62 a.
 Chancellor, letters of; 54 a.
 MacCon, alias Gorman, Keilachur; 586 a.
 MacConnemboght, Gillerneme; 586 a.
 McConnor, Donnogh O'Kelly; 518 a.
 McCormick, plotter; 624 b.
 Macculloch, Lazarus, a surgeon, letter of; 38 b.
 MacCumhail, Finn; 459 b.
 MacDaniel, McDaniell :
 apostate; 607 a, 615 b.
 Col. Alexander, petition of; 503 b.
 Alexander; 606 a, 606 b, 613 b.
 Margaret, petition of; 503 b.
 Randle; 613 b, 614 b.
 MacDermott, McDermott :
 the great, anecdote of; 466 a.
 Major, of Emla; 442 b.
 Mr., of Usher's Quay; 465 a.
 Anthony; 479 b.
 James; 466 b.
 Michael, of Roscommon; 466 b.
 McDevitt, plotter; 624 b.
 MacDonagh, Terence and Owen; 442 a.
 Macdonald :
 Alex., of Glengarry, pardon to; 12 b.
 Major Forbes Ross, letters of; 295 a, 295 b.
 McDonnell :
 Alexander McColla; 606 a.
 Sir Randell; 382 b.
 McDouall, Col. James, MSS. of; xxi.
 Macdowall, Macdowell :
 H. M., letter of; 291 a.
 L. H., letter of; 290 a.
 H., letters of; 290 b, 292 b.
 S. H., collector at Bungalow, letter of; 289 b.
 Macduff, clan of, its privilege; 298 a.
 McEdmond :
 Connor Kelly; 518 a.
 Col. Meylides Reilly; 618 a.
 Macedonia, archbishop of, his redemption from Turkish slavery; 435 b.
 McEllycot, Hon. Roger, Brigadier, governor of Cork; 31 a.
 Maces during the Commonwealth, order concerning; 437 b.
 Macetowne, co. Dublin; 498 a.
 MacFirbis, Duaid, annals of Ireland by; 581 a.
 McFirr, Terence, petition of; 522 b.
 MacGeoghegan :
 the Abbé, his Histoire d'Irlande; 444 b, 463 b, 465 b.
 Connell, of Lismoyne; 576 b.
 — annals by; 582 a.
 — dedication by; 585 a.
 MacGillacoigny, friar; 605 a.
 McGillchristy, William; 543 b.
 McGregor, Lieut. Robert, letter of; 295 b.

- McGwire, Phelmy; 511 b.
Machado, M., letter of; 35 b.
Machell, John, trooper; 541 b, 547 a.
Machen, Will, wireseller, of London, will of; 332 a.
MacHenry, Sir Turlo; 588 b.
Machiavelli:
 note on; 56 b.
 translation of; 23 b.
Machlin, court at; 30 b.
Macintyre, Capt. John, letter of; 294 b.
McIntegart, William; 511 b.
Mackay, McKay:
 Rev. Duncan, letter of; 295 b.
 commander in Scotland (1690); 497 a.
McKenna, Ferdora; 511 b.
Mackenzie:
 Col. A., letters of; 294 a, 294 b.
 Col. H., letters of; 294 b, 295 a.
 John, letter of; 294 b.
 Col. M., letter of; 295 a.
 Major R., letter of; 292 b.
Mackeson, H. B., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
MacKiernan, Thomas; 608 b.
Mackinnon, Rev. D., letter of; 289 b.
Mackintosh:
 Sir James; 37 a.
 W., letter of; 294 a.
 William, letters of; 40 b, 57 a.
Mackullin barony, co. Galway; 516 b.
Mackworth:
 Sir H., letters to; 57 a.
 Sir Humphry, letters of; 37 a, 38 b.
McKwire, Thomas, of Blackeford; 521 b.
Mackworth, Capt.; 591 b.
MacKyeruan, Father; 612 a.
Maclean, Sir John; 45 a.
MacLeod:
 Capt., letter of; 290 b.
 Alexr., resident at Tanjore, letters of; 290 a, 295 a.
 Lieut. John, letters of; 293 b.
 Col. Norman, letters of; 288 b, 289 b, 292 b, 295 a.
 William, letter of; 295 b.
MacMahon, McMahon:
 Bernard, letters of; 289 b, 295 b.
 Captain; 581 b.
 Emer, bishop of Clogher; 604 b.
 — Bp.-General of Ulster; 611 b, 612 a.
 Hewe, his examination; 588 b.
 Col. MacBryane; 588 b.
 — others of his family; 589 a.
McNab, Mr., letter of; 295 b.
Macnamara, Col.; 615 b.
McManus, Richard, prisoner, petition of; 507 b.
McPhelim:
 Bryan; 608 a, 610 a, 615 a, 615 b, 617 b, 618 a.
 Hugh, commander of Leinster; 603 b, 604 a, 610 a, 618 a.
Macpherson:
 Mr., letter to; 289 a.
 James, M.P. for Camelford, letters of; 288 b, 295 a.
 — his "Ossian," &c.; 451 b, 452 a.
 — O'Connor's remarks on; 481 a.
 John, letters of; 289 b, 290 a.
 Sir John, letters of; 289 b.
MacPhilip, signature; 582 b.
McQuillan, Rowland, petition of; 511 b.
MacRichard, signature; 582 b.
McSwanny, Col. Mullmory; 618 a.
McTeige, Hugh Kelly; 518 a.
MacThomas in Ireland; 604 a, 605 a, 607 a, 607 b, 608 a, 610 b, 611 a.
McTuhill, Phelim; 608 a, 609 a.
McWilliam, Hugh Kelly, lands held by; 518 a.
Madan, Capt. John, letter of; 294 a.
Madden:
 Lieut. Hugh; 594 a.
 Dr. John, of College of Physicians in Ireland; 580 b.
Madders, Thomas, priest, of Croydon, will of; 332 a.
Maddington; 221 b.
Maddison, John, soldier; 543 a.
Maddock, Lieut. William; 592 b.
Maddraspatam; 257 b.
Maden, Teige; 545 a.
Madeira:
 letter dated at; 47 b.
 tin sold in; 92 b.
Madhouses, regulation of; 233 a, 233 b.
Madocks, J., opinion by; 233 a.
Madoetz, Madoetz, M., letters of; 38 b, 39 b.
Madras; 288 a, 288 b, 296 b.
 letter dated at; 294 b.
 "Courier," the (1789), libels in; 293 b.
Madrid; 2 b, 18 a, 27 b, 60 a, 193 a, 285 a.
 letter dated at; 62 a.
 Prince Charles at; 215 a.
 Treaty of (1750), papers relating to; 284 a.
Maerschalsh, Comte le, letter of; 37 a.
Maersigatsa, Comte de, letter of; 38 b.
Maestricht: hospital at; 60 a.
 letter dated at; 552 a.
 siege of; 569 a, 570 a.
Maffei, Count; 17 b, 21 b. letters of (1706, &c.); 31 b, 32 b, 36 a, 36 b, 38 a, 39 b, 47 b.
Magennis, pedigree of; 581 a.
Maghee, Capt. George, collector, co. Westmeath; 521 a, 544 a, 549 a.
Maghull, Richard, submission of; 380 a.
Magniss, Thomas; 511 b.
Magnus, Francis, letters of; 290 b, 293 b.
Magrath, Lieut., letter of; 295 b.
Maguire; 612 b.
 Lord, Irish plotter; 588 b.
 Captain; 484 b, 485 a.
 Capt. J.; 482 b.
 Robt.; 608 b.
 Roger; 605 a, 608 a, 609 b.
 — killed; 609 b.
Mahieu, M., letter of; 35 b.
Mahon:
 —, treatise by; 584 a.
 Dominic, of Strokestown; 466 b, 471 b.
 Patrick and Charles, of Strokestown; 466 b.
Mahony, Count, Spanish Ambassador in Vienna; 488 b.
Maidenhead; 35 a, 385 b.
Maidstone; 141 a, 335 a. chapel or college; 318 a.
 church; 316 a.
 collegiate church of, attack on visitors of; 337 a.
 gaol; 337 a.
 hospital at; 341 b, 350 a.
 thread "carried all over the world;" 134 a.
 lands in; 329 a.
 trial at; 329 a.
Maignet, Comte de, letters of; 32 a, 35 b, 37 a, 38 b.
Maiming and wounding, Bill to prevent malicious; 160 a.
Maine:
 Lieut.-General, letters of; 37 a, 38 b, 40 a.
 Major-General Edm., letter of; 36 a.
Maintenon, Madame de; 559 b.
Mainwaring, Maynwaring:
 — (1598), letter to; 398 b.
 — paper by; 585 a.
 Arthur; 18 b, 26 a.
 — letters of; 1 b, 54 a.
 — letters to; 15 a, 15 b.
 — his illness; 54 a.
 Captain; 595 b.
 Dr.; 365 b.
 Dudley, constable of Dublin Castle; 504 a.
 George, of Chester; 361 b.
 — commission to; 362 a.
 Henrie, letter to; 382 a.
 Sir J., letter of; 392 b.
 James, mayor of Chester (1708), letter to; 395 a.
 John and Geo., of Chester; 361 b.
 John; 367 b.
 Peter; 361 a.
 Ralph, of Chester; 369 a.
 Rebecca, petition of; 528 b.
 Sir Thomas; 389 a.
 — letter of; 389 a.
Maier, William:
 letter of; 438 a.
 bailiff of Leicester; 418 b. keeper of the gaol; ib.
Mair, John; 367 b.
Maister, of Woodbridge, will of; 333 b.
Maitland:
 Mr., letter of; 35 b.
 Jo., letter of; 3 b.
 documents signed by; 3 a.
 Lieut.-General, letters of; 38 b.
Majendie, Lewis, Esq., M.P., MSS. of; xxi.
Major:
 John, the Scotch historian, witness; xvii., 304 b, 306 a.
 — of Gray's Inn; 440 b.
 William, petition of; 150 a.
Majorca, Mayeyorke, Isle of; 239 b, 240 a.
Makepays, Gregory, of Leicester; 407 b.
Makiernan, Thomas; 607 a, 610 b, 613 a, 614 a, 616 b.
Makke, Emma, of Salthouse, will of; 384 a.
Malachy II., of the Colmanian race; 443 a.
Malaga; 239 b, 248 b.
 wines of; 239 a, 239 b. malignant disease at; 233 a.
 merchants at; 257 a.
 tin sold in; 92 b.

- Malahide, co. Dublin; 501 b, 508 a.
 Castle, co. Dublin, report on manuscripts at; 493 a.
 Malahow, lands of; 506 a.
 Malaulla, John de, witness; 305 a.
 Malbone, Jeoffery, petition of; 535 a.
 Malby, Henry; 378 b.
 Malcolm, Lieut. John, letters of; 290 b, 293 a, 293 b, 294 b.
 Malden, Surrey; 120 b.
 Maldigham, Comte de, letter of; 40 a.
 Maldon :
 rent in; 633 a.
 Maldon, Thomas, mercer, of Sudbury, will of; 335 a.
 Maldonado, Francis Abarea, of Toledo; 23 b.
 Malemainz or Malemariz, Henry, grants by; 235 a.
 Malesherbes, Mon. de; 286 a.
 Malet :
 Sir Alexander, Bart., MSS. of; xxi.
 Charles Warre, afterwards Sir Charles, resident at Poonah, letters of; 288 b-295 b, passim.
 — letter to; 295 a.
 Maleville, Henry, son of Robert, of Carnbee; 307 a.
 Maley, Thady, petition of; 516 b.
 Malknecht, Baron de, letter of; 37 a.
 Mallahellerd, co. Dublin, garrison at, in 1648; 595 a.
 Mallarny, capture of; 605 a.
 Mallet :
 Mr., letters of; 54 a.
 David, lists by; 25 b.
 — letter of; 26 a.
 — books, &c. lent to; 14 a.
 William, commissioner; 272 b.
 Malling :
 abbey; 265 b.
 abbesses of; 265 b, 348 b.
 the nuns of; 265 b.
 West, 332 b.
 Mallore, Henry, witness; 406 a.
 Mallory, Thomas, acknowledgment by; 399 b.
 Malloy, M., letter of; 37 a.
 Malmesbury :
 letter dated at; 639 a.
 abbey, seal of; 639 a.
 abbot of, Thomas, letter of; ib.
 Earl of (1820), letters of; 287 b.
 Malo Luco, Peter de; 357 b.
 Malone :
 Anthony, Prime Sergeant; 174 b.
 — speech of; 175 b.
 — seeks to be Master of the Rolls; 176 a.
 — his influence with the Papists; 177 b.
 — succeeded by E. Stannard; 179 a.
 — his attempts to regain office; 180 a.
 — to be Chancellor of the Exchequer; 181 a.
 — his loss of popularity; ib.
 William, of Trim; 546 b.
 Malory, Ra., of co. Beds; 7 b.
 "Malo passu," Wm. de; 357 a.
 Malt Act, the; 35 b.
 Malynes, Gerard, letter of; 435 b.
 Man, Ensign Tho.; 591 a.
 Man, Calf of; 251 a.
 Man, Isle of; 376 b, 399 b.
 Castle Kusschen, document dated from; 378 a. copper coinage in; 79 a.
 Act relating to; 315 a.
 Manboy, Lieut. Thomas; 594 a.
 Manby :
 John, complaint against; 137 a.
 William, of Leicester; 416 b.
 — commission to; 417 a.
 Manchester; 381 b.
 documents dated at; 374 b, 385 b.
 discharged from being Sanctuary for malefactors; 370 b.
 Chetham's Library, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Manchester, Earl of :
 (1644); 3 a, 3 b, 5 b.
 (1645); 8 a.
 — letter of; ib.
 — speaker, letter of (1646); 10 b.
 at Turin; 16 b.
 certificate of (1660); 284 a.
 (1667); 109 a.
 Edward (1670); 151 a.
 letters of (1707-8); 47 b.
 letter of (1708); 35 b.
 Mandeville, Mandivill :
 John, of Ballybridges; 546 b.
 Lord; 212 a.
 — (1671); 161 b.
 Will. de, Earl of Essex; 264 b.
 Manfeld, Robert, of Taplow, will of; 332 a.
 Mangam, Capt. de, letter of; 37 a.
 Manger, Rob., parson of Wheatacreburgh, will of; 334 a.
 Mangie or Mangy :
 Capt. Geo.; 105 b, 106 a.
 — petition, &c. of; 105 b.
 Manilwar' or Mesnilwar', Radulph; 356 a, 356 b.
 Manilla, restitution of; 285 b.
 Manistereuin Abbey; 604 a.
 Manley :
 Appleby v., cause of; 239 a.
 Thomas, at Oxford; 6 a.
 Mann :
 Daniel, answer of; 163 b.
 George; 279 a, 280 b.
 Samuel; 163 b.
 Mannen, Ensign Charles, letter of; 294 a.
 Mannenlooff; 16 b.
 Mannering and Woodley, case between; 585 a.
 Manners :
 John, deputy lieutenant of co. Derby, letter of; 379 a.
 — eldest son of Earl of Rutland (1666), claims barony of Roos; 105 b.
 — called Lord Roos (1670), Act to marry again; 140 a.
 Sir Richard; 425 b.
 Russell, letter of; 295 a.
 Mannheim, release of; 214 b, 215 a.
 Manning, Cardinal Archbishop, MSS. of; xxi.
 Mannington, Philip, letters of; 295 b.
 Mannoch, Nic., mayor of Rye (1700), letter of; 393 a.
 Manors, customs of, illustrations of; 625 b, et seq.
 Mansebs and Mansebdars; 59 b.
 Mansel, T., letters of; 31 b.
 Mansell, Sir Thomas and Lady, letters of; 57 a.
 Manselli, Simon; 279 b.
 Mansett, hundred of; 7 b.
 Mansfeld, Count; 584 a.
 Mansfield :
 Lord, Lord Chancellor (1757); 224 a.
 J., opinions by; 233 a.
 Manson :
 E., keeper of the prison of the Northgate, Chester; 385 b.
 Mr., letter of; 289 b.
 Manstone in Thanet; 340 a.
 Mante, letters dated at; 28 a.
 Manton, co. Rutland; 435 b.
 Mantua, Duke of, ban against (1708); 19 b.
 Manufactures, resolutions of both houses respecting English and foreign; 124 b.
 Manusfeld, John, instrument drawn by; 281 a.
 Manyng, Thomas; 681 a.
 Maples, Richard, will of; 257 b.
 Maplesdon, Edward, second clerk of the Trinity House; 258 a.
 — bond by; ib.
 Mapother, Robert, petition of; 508 a.
 Mar, Earl of :
 John, warrant by (1623); 308 b.
 letter of (1708); 35 b.
 letter of (1709); 44 a.
 Marbeck, Roger, registrar of the College of Physicians; 227 b.
 Marbles, Fran., cornet; 597 a.
 Marbury, Eusebius, petitions of; 504 a, 504 b.
 Marc, Sir Robert de la, indenture by; 412 a.
 Marcellinus; 586 a.
 Marcer or Mercer, John, of Whitechapel, his will; 271 b.
 March :
 Pitt and, letter of; 13 b.
 W. de, treasurer; 346 b.
 Earls of, pedigree; 366 a.
 Marcham, lands in; 262 b.
 Marchant, commissary general; 607 a.
 Marchevale, M., letter of; 37 a.
 Marchin, John F. de, Comte de Graville; 28 b.
 Marchistone, Laird of; 84 b.
 Marchmont, Lord :
 letters of; 54 a.
 his daughter (1705); 82 b.
 letters of (1708); 48 a.
 (1737); 18 a.
 letter to; 27 a.
 (1741); 55 b.
 executor of the Duchess of Marlborough; 567 a.
 Marden, lands in; 329 a.
 Mardike, soldiers of; 94 b.
 Mardyke, fortification of; 29 a.
 Mare, Robert de la; 412 b.
 Marescallo, Peter, witness; 1 b.
 Marescallo, Wm., 356 b.
 Mareschal, Mareschall :
 Isabella la, v. Wm. de Valentia; 168 a.
 Ralph, late sheriff of Chester, pardon to; 359 b.
 Marg., Countess of Norfolk; 262 b.
 Comte de, letters of; 38 b.
 Marest, M. du, letter of; 40 a.
 Marewe, John, mayor of Leicester, witness; 411 a.
 Margaret, Queen of Hen. VI., order concerning the clothing trade of Leicester by; 414 b.
 — lease by; 415 a.
 Margaret, the ship, of Helbry; 397 a.
 Margate, Margett, Queen Mary at (1688); 555 b.
 Margetson, James, Abp. of Dublin, petition of; 501 a, 545 b.

- Margry, M., letter of ; 40 a.
 Maria Theresa, Empress ; 452 a.
 Mario, Mons., musician ; 12 b.
 Mariot, John, printer ; 229 b.
 Marischall, master of, letter of ; 303 a.
 Marish, Captain of the Ordnance ; 90 a.
 Maristoun ; 308 b.
 Markby priory, co. Lincoln ; 265 a.
 Markham :
 letter dated at ; 344 a.
 John ; 279 a.
 Marks, Lord, his regiment (1729) ; 62 b.
 Markyn, Edward ; 374 a.
 Marlborough :
 Earl of, late (1669) ; 130 b.
 — Wm., (1670), writ of summons to ; 142 a.
 Duke of, his MSS., Mr. A. J. Horwood's report on ; x., 1 a, et seq.
 — John Churchill first, letters and papers of ; 1 a.
 — his letters (1702-1712) ; 12 a.
 — Duke of Ormonde and ; 17 a.
 — his relations with William and Mary ; 13 a.
 — Q. Anne's gift of plate to ; 25 b.
 — his estate ; 26 b.
 — Anne's instructions to (1709) ; 36 b.
 — Charles, letters of ; 51 b, 57 b.
 — (1753) ; 219 b.
 — (1754) ; 224 b.
 — (1756) ; 222 b.
 — (1757) ; 224 a.
 — his gift to Oxford (1797) ; 13 b.
 Duchess of, Sarah, letters of ; 26 a.
 — letter of (1738) ; 13 b.
 — her Green Book ; 14 b.
 — letters, &c. of ; 18 a.
 — her vindication ; 1 a, 26 a.
 — mem. by (1708) ; 36 a.
 — (1712) ; 40 b.
 — letters of A. Pope to ; x., 56 a, et seq.
 — letters of and to (1717 and after) ; 57 a, 57 b.
 — plot connected with ; 57 a.
 — and the Spencers ; 566 b.
 — (1737) ; 568 a.
 — her disputes with the king and queen ; ib.
 — Elizabeth, letters to ; 57 b.
 — Caroline, letters of and to ; 57 a, 57 b.
 — letter to (1817) ; 14 a.
 Marlborough ; 221 a.
 commissioners for distressed inhabitants of, letter of (1653) ; 386 a.
 mayor of, letter to ; 584 b.
 Marley, Lieut. J., letter of ; 291 a.
 Marlowe, Great ; 61 a.
 Marly, document dated from ; 285 b.
 Marmyun, Marmion, Lords of Quinton ; 263 a.
 Marocke, straits of ; 236 b.
 Marrant, Will., of Hadleigh, will of ; 332 b.
 Marrell, Ensign Michell ; 595 a.
 Marriott, Thomas, letter of ; 290 b.
 Mars of Falsfield, manor or tithing, co. Gloucester. Act touching ;
 139 b, 148 a.
 Marseilles ; 195 a.
 Marsh Gebyn or Gibbon :
 manor of ; 627 a.
 entries relating to ; 631 a, 631 b.
 Westbury manor in ; 630 a.
 Marsh, T. C., Esq., MSS. of ; xxi.
 Marshall :
 Mr., letter of ; 57 a.
 Quartermaster Alexand. ; 596 a.
 Corporal John ; 523 b.
 John ; 164 b.
 Ralph ; 118 b.
 Radulph, treasurer of Chester, account of ; 367 b.
 Thos., of Chester ; 368 a.
 Marshalsea, the :
 71 b, 155 a, 156 a, 157 b.
 "the nasty jail of" ; 152 b. prisoners in ; 227 a, 243 b, 245 a, 252 a.
 Court, the ; 105 a.
 Marsham, Mrs., letter of ; 57 a.
 Marston, co. York ; 271 a.
 Martan, William, of Dublin ; 528 b.
 Marten :
 Henry ; 541 b.
 — signature ; 8 b.
 Sir Henry, Judge of the Admiralty ; 240 a, 243 a.
 — letters of ; 240 b, 241 a, 243 a.
 — letters to ; 243 a, 245 a, 246 a.
 Oliver, action against ; 276 a.
 Martham, Richard, of Winchelsea, will of ; 332 b.
 Martin IV. Pope, bulls, &c. of ; 263 b, 318 a, 345 b.
 Martin, Martyn :
 Mrs. ; 157 a.
 Andrew, of Elphin ; 466 b.
 Martin, Martyn—cont.
 Elizabeth, answer of ; 124 a.
 Gregory, petition of ; 501 b, 524 b.
 Gerard, deceased ; 154 a.
 Governor, letter of ; 288 b.
 Henry, his lordship of Borisewle ; 521 b.
 John ; 373 b.
 — of Leicester ; 421 a.
 Capt. John ; 592 b.
 P. Wykeham, Esq., M.P., MSS. of ; xxi.
 Richard, of the Mint ; 65 a, 66 b, 66 a.
 — bailiff of Leicester ; 413 a.
 — lawyer ; 532 b.
 Thomas, letter of ; 293 b.
 — petition of ; 511 b.
 William, webster, of Leicester ; 420 b.
 — answer of ; 124 a.
 Marton :
 monastery of ; 2 a.
 William, master of Ewelme Almshouse ; 625 b, 627 a, 627 b.
 — at Oxford ; 628 a.
 Marvell :
 Andrew ; 143 b, note.
 — of the Trinity House ; 286 a, 255 a, 256 b.
 Marvin, Capt. Audley, speech of ; 217 b.
 Mary :
 Queen of England, precept to mayor of Leicester by ; 416 b.
 Queen of Will. III. (1694) ; 283 b, 284 a.
 — letters of and to ; 57 a.
 — her letter to Anne ; 13 a.
 — death of (1695) ; 57 a.
 Queen of Scots, charter by ; 301 a.
 — her flight ; 298 b.
 — her death ; 582 a.
 Mary, the ship, mutiny on ; 244 b.
 Mary and John, the ship ; 245 a.
 Mary and Barbara, the ship ; 243 a.
 Maryborough :
 assizes at ; 537 a.
 siege of ; 610 b.
 governor of ; ib.
 Maryland, papers relating to ; 48 a.
 Masbury, Thomas, corrody to ; 343 a.
 Mascall, John, of London, will of ; 333 a.
 Masci, Hamon de ; 357 a.
 Masey :
 Hugh, mayor of Chester (temp. Edw. IV.) ; 368 a.
 John ; 386 b.
 Mashall, Robt., of Walton, will of ; 335 b.
 Masham :
 Lord and Lady (1710) ; 38 b.
 Lord (1718) ; 87 a.
 Mrs. ; 18 b.
 — Q. Anne and ; 43 a, 53 b.
 — her behaviour ; 15 a.
 — abusive letter to ; 26 a.
 Dame Mary ; 109 a.
 Sam., letter of ; 35 b.
 W., order signed by ; 10 a.
 Mason :
 a gardener ; 189 b.
 B., letters of ; 292 b, 294 a.
 Captain George ; 591 b.
 John Monck, letters of ; 195 b, 205 a.
 — a revenue commissioner in Ireland ; 205 a, note.
 — his unpopularity ; 205 a.
 Moses, his wife ; 237.
 Richard ; 116 a.
 — petition of ; ib.
 — writs touching ; ib.
 Wm. ; 163 b.
 — answer of ; 163 b.
 Masquerade plot, the ; 63 b.
 Mass or Service books, &c. at Ewelme ; 629 b.
 Massachusetts Bay Company ; 585 a.
 Massarano, Prince (1767) ; 488 b.
 Massareene :
 Viscount, petitions of (1663) ; 501 a, 504 b, 511 a, 511 b,
 521 a, 542 a.
 — his adventure (1663) ; 549 a.
 — his company (1663) ; 530 a.
 — lands held by ; 520 a.
 — and Sir Chr. Aylmer ; 531 b.
 Massé, engineer-general in Ireland ; 494 b.
 Massett, Will., grocer, of London, will of ; 333 a.
 Massey, Massie :
 Col., his regiment ; 11 b.
 Ales, widow of Wm., 397 b.
 Sir Edward ; 389 b.
 — letter of ; ib.
 Gerrard, letter of ; 399 b.
 Hugh, quartermaster ; 596 a.
 Richard ; 375 a.
 — late sheriff of Chester, pardon to ; 359 b.

- Massinger, Philip, poems by; 584 a.
 Massola, Fra., consul at Genoa; 244 b.
 Massom (Masham?) co. York; 383 a.
 Massonett, Dr., physician to Duke of York (1664), allowance to; 281 a.
 Master :
 Richard, President of the College of Physicians; 227 a.
 Streynham, at Fort St. George; 256 b.
 Masters, an apothecary; 229 b.
 Masterson, Laurence, prisoner, petition of; 539 a.
 Matchett, Wm., affidavit of; 121 a.
 Matefrey, John, citizen of London; 633 a.
 Mateland, John; 279 a.
 Mathers; 301 a.
 Mathew :
 Capt., killed; 611 a.
 Toby, Abp. of York, dedication to; 583 a.
 Francis, execution of; 607 a.
 Mr., and the Ulster party; 612 a.
 Mathues, Bennet, deposition of; 236 b.
 Matignon, Marquis de; 568 a.
 Matthew, Peter, merchant, captive in Barbary; 241 b.
 Matthews :
 Mr., in Cahir castle; 578 b.
 G., letter of; 292 b.
 Mattocks, Lieut. John R., letter of; 293 b.
 Matucoff, M., letters of; 32 a, 32 b, 38 b.
 Maubert, Nicholas; 115 a, 115 b. order touching; 115 b.
 Mauberge, town of; 36 b.
 Maud, Col. Robert, petition of; 503 a.
 Mauditt, Hugo, clerk, of Leicester; 406 a, 406 b.
 Maule, Major Geo., letters of; 293 b, 294 b.
 Mauleverer, Malliverer :
 Sir Richard, commissioner; 275 a.
 Sir Thomas; 271 a.
 Maunday :
 Thomas, of London, goldsmith; 437 b.
 letter of; ib.
 Maurice :
 John, trooper, petition of; 529 b.
 Prince, his surgeon; 9 a.
 — routed by Col. Rositer (1645); 9 b.
 Mr., candidate for Lincolnshire; 50 a.
 Mauritius; 293 b.
 Maxwell :
 Dr., his deposition; 575 a.
 Edward, letter of; 290 b.
 G., letters of; 46 a.
 Lieut.-Col. Hamilton, letter of; 295 b.
 James, late gentleman usher of the Black Rod (1669); 137 a.
 Robert, Bishop of Kilmore, petition of; 501 a, 521 a.
 May :
 prior of, John; 300 b.
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 Baptista; 278 a.
 Henry, letter of; 392 b.
 John, of Leicester; 420 a.
 — del; 373 b.
 Thomas, of Wadhurst, will of; 333 a.
 William, of Enfield, complaint of; 271 b.
 Mayart, Sergeant; 581 a.
 Maye, Capt., his company; 541 b.
 Mayence, Elector of :
 letters of (1705); 31 a.
 — (1707); 32 a.
 letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — (1710); 38 a.
 Mayerne, Theodore : of the College of Physicians; 226 b, 229 a. notice of; 234 a.
 prescriptions by; ib.
 Mayew :
 President of Magd. Coll., Oxford, letter to; 263 a.
 Procurator-General at Rome; 269 a.
 Mayfelin family, of Everintune; 262 b.
 Mayfield, Vicar of; 383 a.
 Mayflower, the ship; 240 b.
 Mayhew, R., chaplain to Ric. III.; 265 b.
 Mayle, Thomas, order signed by; 373 b.
 Mayly, Patrick, "soveraine of New Rosse, alias Rossponte, co. Wexford," certificate of; 371 b.
 Maymond, F., letter of; 294 a.
 Maynard :
 Lord; 558 a.
 — (1674); 256 a.
 Lady or Dame Mary, of Tooting; 637 b.
 — letter of; ib.
 Sergeant; 147 b, 172 a, 235 b.
 — resolution touching; 107 a.
 — speech of; 168 a.
 — at the Trinity House; 250 a.
 Sir John, letter of; 637 b.
 — levy on; ib.
 Mayne, Capt. C., letter of; 294 b.
 Maynooth, Mannooth, garrison at, in 1648; 594 a.
 Mayo : island of; 80 b.
 papers relating to affairs in (1798-9); 584 a.
 English college at; 585 b.
 Bishop of, J. Bell; 336 a.
 Viscount Bourke's estates in; 549 a.
 Viscount, Theobald (1663-4); 550 b.
 Mayors :
 Sheriffs and others, writ to (1607); 880 b. and others, order to; 391 b.
 Mazar, M., letter of; 38 b.
 Mazarin, Cardinal :
 letters to; x., 1 a, 27 b, 218 a.
 his opinion of Prince Rupert; 552 b. his undertaking with Cromwell; 29 b.
 Mead :
 Mr., solicitor; 232 a.
 R.; 226 b.
 Dr. Richard, of Oxford; 231 b.
 Meadley, Cornelius, Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Meadows :
 Mr.; 62 b.
 Phil., letter of; 47 a.
 Sir Philip, his letter; 33 b.
 — letter of; 36 b.
 Philip, payment to; 94 b.
 Meales, Richard; 365 b.
 Mealesbury, Edward of, his widow; 639 a.
 Meara, Dr.; 614 a.
 Meare, Capt. Thomas, his company; 531 b.
 Meares, Capt. J., letter of; 294 a.
 Mearns, sheriff of the; 297 a, 297 b.
 Measures, standard; 361 a, 361 b, 640 a.
 Meath :
 Bishop of (1778), titular; 197 b.
 see of; 198 a.
 James II.'s lands in; 497 b, 498 a. assessment; 582 a.
 grants to Lord Tyrconnell in; 499 a. burning of; 606 b.
 diocese; 581 b, 582 b.
 losses in, during rebellion (1641); 573 a.
 Bishop of (1641), Thos. Deiz; 603 b.
 — (1648), —; 609 b.
 — (1651), —; 614 b.
 Earl of, his troop (1663); 509 b, 516 a, 516 b, 537 a, 540 b, 543 a.
 Mechlin :
 magistrates of, letter of; 35 b.
 Archbp. of (1708), letter of; 35 b.
 Mecine, Comtesse de, letter of; 37 a.
 Mecklenburg :
 the title of; 34 a.
 Duchy of, memorial, disputes about (1709); 38 a.
 Medhapp, Captain Francis; 595 a.
 Medici :
 Mary de, account of her arrival at Lyons; 283 a.
 — description of her marriage with Henry IV.; ib.
 — at St. James's; 552 b.
 — account of her voyage to England; 554 b.
 Pier Francesco de; 26 b.
 Medina Sidonia, malignant disease in; 233 a.
 Medina, Sir Solomon, at the Hague, letters of; 35 b, 37 a, 38 b, 39 b.
 Mediterranean, the; 27 a, 33 a, 35 a, 235 b, 239 b, 254 a.
 English ships in (1708); 20 a.
 Medland, Robert de, Earl of Leicester; 406 a, 406 b.
 Medlycott, Thomas, letters of; 58 b.
 Medupp, Capt. Francis, weekly charge of his troop; 59
 Medway, the river, baracado for; 240 b.
 Mee, M. du, letters of; 31 b.
 Meeke, Capt. Francis, petition of; 504 b.
 Megercron, M. de; 27 a.
 Megget Water, gold in; 84 b.
 Meighan, Thomas; 482 b.
 Meikle Fairday, superiority of; 310 a.
 Meilds or Miletus, king of Spain; 602 b.
 Meirsch, M., letter of; 35 b.
 Mejercron, M. de; 562 a.
 Melbourne; 335 b.
 Melchbourn, manor of; 10 a.
 Meldreth; 335 b.
 Meldrum :
 David, canon of Dunkeld; 306 a.
 Sir John, his patent; 241 b, 246 a.
 — warrant to; 245 b.
 Melford, 332 b, 334 a.
 William de, archdeacon of Colchester; 633 b.
 Melfort, Lord, letters of (1689-1690); 493 a.
 Melgum and Langrenis, near Largo Law, claim to lands of 308 a.
 Melgund, North; 304 b, 306 b.
 Melicke, Island of; 602 a.
 Melin, M., letter of; 38 b.
 Mell, Thomas, of Long Cliffe; 276 b.

- Mellan, Redmond; 610 b.
 Melle, John, of Horsley, will of; 335 a.
 Mellefont monastery; 604 a.
 Mellent, Earl of, Robert, charter of; 422 a.
 Mellesburgh, manor of; 639 a.
 Mellonière, Mr. de la; 563 a.
 Mellorre, Peter; 357 b.
 Melsame, Corporal John; 512 b.
 Melton; 413 a.
 Melton Mowbray, and the plague at Leicester; 435 a.
 Melvill, Melville :
 Andrew, master of James VI.'s household; 299 a, 302 b.
 John, of Glenbervie; 297 b.
 — chapel erected to; 298 a.
 Robert, of Harvieston; 301 a.
 T., letter of; 293 b.
 Melvin, Thomas, his escape from the Turks; 241 b
 Memardiere, M. de la, letter of; 35 b.
 Memgaric, Roger de; 357 a.
 Memilgar, Roger; 356 a.
 Menardean, M., arrested; 565 b.
 Mendham; 334 a.
 Margery, of Canterbury, will of; 340 a.
 Mendlesham parish, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Mendoza, M. de, letter of; 38 b.
 Meneos, Don Francis de; 30 a.
 Menes, manor of; 264 b.
 Menin :
 commandant of, letter of; 39 b.
 town of; 36 b.
 Menns, Mennes :
 Sir John; 128 b.
 — letter of; 131 b.
 — of the Trinity House; 248 b, 250 a, 251 a, 251 b.
 Sir Matthew, grant to; 4 a.
 — his rents; 4 b.
 — his estate; 6 b.
 Mentmore; 2 a.
 Menzies, Sir Robert, MSS. of; xxi.
 Menzikoff :
 Prince de, letter of (1710); 38 a.
 — letter of (1711); 40 a.
 Meonloghbegg, concealed lands of; 531 a.
 Meonloghmore, concealed lands of; ib.
 Meopham, Kent :
 manor of; 327 b, 330 b.
 church of; 330 b.
 Edmund and Simon de; ib.
 Merbach, M. de, letter of; 38 b.
 Mercer :
 Lieut. Henry, letters of; 295 b. or Mercer, John, of Whitechapel, his will; 271 b.
 Laurence, letters of; 290 b, 291 a, 292 b, 293 a, 294 a.
 Wm., of Chester; 361 b.
 — of Leicester, conveyance by; 413 b.
 — licence to; 413 b.
 — conveyance to; 414 a.
 Mercers' Company of London, the; 145 a, 249 a.
 Merchant Adventurers of England; 122 b, 127 b.
 — otherwise the Hamburg Company (Salmon v.) case;
 147 b.
 Merchants of the Staple, the; 127 b.
 Mercier, Mon., letter of; 293 b.
 Merdeth, Sir Thomas, captain; 596 b.
 Merdon church; 264 a.
 Merecroft, John, of Tavistock, will of; 334 b.
 Meredith :
 Brigadier, letters of; 32 a.
 Major, his troop; 500 b, 533 a.
 Major-General, letter of; 35 b.
 Cornet Charles; 545 b.
 — Robert; 517 a, 518 b.
 — — certificate by; 515 b.
 Sir William, his troop; 514 a, 525 a.
 Capt. William; 595 b.
 Major William; 582 a.
 — — narrative of events in Ireland, 1649-53, by;
 576 a, 599 a.
 Meres, Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 Meress, R., letter signed by; 386 b.
 Mereworth, letters dated at; 569 b, 570 b.
 Meroy, Comte de, letter of; 37 a.
 Merian, M., councillor to the Elector of Mayence, letter of;
 36 a.
 Meridene, Robert de, witness; 1 b.
 Merkes, John de; 357 b.
 Merlane, Gooscham Mill at; 324 b.
 Merlebridge, document dated from; 356 b.
 Merlin's prophecies; 481 b.
 Merrick, Mr., benefactor of the Trinity House; 254 a.
 Merryonge, garrison at, in 1648; 595 a.
 Merryweather, Lady, letter of; 57 a.
 Mersham, Kent; 343 a.
 lands in; 319 a.
 manor of; 325 b, 328 b.
 Harlakindenn annexed to; 328 b.
 Mersshe, Roger, executor; 634 a.
 Merstham; 323 b, 324 a, 352 a.
 Meryke, Isabel, of St. Mary extra Muros, Winchester, will of;
 333 a.
 Mesgrigny, Madame de, letters of; 35 b, 37 b, 40 a.
 Mesnager, Sieur; 39 a.
 Messine, Comtesse de, letter of; 36 a.
 Messinger, Arthur, servant; 378 b.
 Metham, Sir Thomas, grant by; 271 a.
 Methley, co. York; 275 a.
 Methuen :
 ambassador, letters of; 25 a, 31 b, 47 b.
 Jo., letters of; 44 a.
 Mr.; 16 a.
 Paul, envoy to Savoy; 47 a, 53 b, 59 b.
 — letters of; 58 a.
 Mettingham, Sir John de, justice; 421 a.
 Mettingham, John de; 357 b.
 Metz, citadel; 286 a.
 Meverell :
 Dr., evidence by; 229 b.
 Othewell, President of the College of Physicians; 230 a.
 Mevis in the West Indies; 156 a, 157 b.
 Mewi, William de, charter by; 636 b.
 Meyer :
 E. C., letters of; 290 b.
 G., letters of; 292 b.
 G. C., letter of; 294 a.
 Lawrence or Capt. Lawrance, of the Trinity House; 250 a.
 — expelled; 250 b.
 Meynell, Mr.; 134 b.
 Meyrick, James, letters of; 290 a, 291 a, 292 b, 293 b, 394 b,
 295 a.
 Meyvys, Mistris, of Leicester; 433 a.
 Meziriac, Monsieur, work by; 63 b.
 Mezquitta, M., letter of; 38 b.
 Michel, Michell :
 Colonel; 6 a.
 Serjt. Major; 365 a.
 Andree; 281 b.
 Henry Chichley, letter of; 295 b.
 Captain John; 596 a.
 Thomas, of Cannington, will of; 335 a.
 Michelstown, inhabitants of; 462 b.
 Michillone, Ralph, of Leicester; 410 b.
 Micklethwait, Mr., gift by; 231 b.
 Micks, Matthew, captive in Algiers; 241 a.
 Micoe, Mr. Alderman; 110 a, 110 b, 111 a.
 Middelmores, Rich., esquire, of Edgbaston, will of; 334 b.
 Middelworth, Willerin; 324 a.
 Middeltune Church; 316 a.
 Middle Aston, co. Oxford; 125 b.
 Middleburgh; 99 b.
 Middleham, co. York; 636 a.
 Middlesex :
 dragoons furnished by (1645); 8 b.
 gaol delivery for; 46 b.
 New Prison; 71 b.
 Earl of (1628), letters of; 241 a.
 Middleton; 333 b.
 Essex, manor of; 322 b.
 Viscount, MSS. of; xxi.
 Lord; 29 b.
 — (1688); 555 b.
 — his sons (1708); 34 a, 45 b.
 Lieut.-General; 30 a.
 Mr., brother of Lord Clermont; 46 b.
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 Charles, prisoner; 46 a.
 David, pardon to; 360 a.
 — mayor of Chester, book of (temp. Hen. VIII.);
 369 a.
 John, of Leicester, commission to; 417 a.
 — justice, of Leicester; 427 b.
 — petition of; 503 a.
 — in Kilhill; 301 a.
 Col. Thomas, of the Trinity House; 250 a, 251 b, 253 b.
 Capt. Pitts, letters of; 290 b, 291 a.
 Samuel; 291 b.
 — deceased; 291 b.
 Symon, petitions, &c. of; 136 a.
 Thos., letter signed by; 388 b.
 Middlewick, church at; 389 a.
 Midford, John, certificate by; 76 b.
 Midgeley (?), co. York; 636 b.
 Midhurst chapel; 264 a.
 Midsomer Norton, land in; 638 b.
 Midwives of London, their petition; 229 a, 229 b.
 Migeott, M., letter of; 36 a.
 Milan; 20 b, 22 b, 95 a, 96 a, 133 b, 282 b. letters dated at; 20 b.
 Milborn :
 R., letter of; 35 b.
 Major R., letter of; 37 a.
 Richard, letter of; 40 a.
 Milborne Port; 288 a.
 Milckau, M. (a major-genl.), letters of; 35 b, 37

- Mildmay :
 Benjamin, afterwards Lord Fitzwalter, petition of ; 116 b.
 Frances, her case ; 107 a.
 Sir Henry, Bart., MSS. of ; xxi.
 Henry, deceased, amendments concerning lands of ; 107 a.
 Jane, wife of Henry ; 107 a.
 — daughter of Henry, her case ; 107 a.
 Lucy, her case ; 107 a.
 Mary, her case ; 107 a.
 Capt. St. John, MSS. of ; xiii., xxi.
 W., order signed by ; 873 b.
 Walter, letters to ; 583 b.
 Sir Walter, commissioner ; 271 b.
 William, letter of ; 284 a.
- Miles, John, petition of ; 525 b.
- Milett, Will., of Dartford, will of ; 333 a.
- Miletus or Meilds, King of Spain ; 602 b.
- Milford Haven ; 379 b, 380 a, 385 a. lighthouse at ; 251 a, 261 b.
- Milkenap, the ship ; 239 a.
- Millard, Richard, of the Mint ; 66 a, 66 b.
- Millbroke ; 5 a.
- Millbrooke, incumbent of ; 5 b.
- Miller :
 James, letters of ; 294 a, 295 b.
 John, of Egerton, will of ; 340 a.
 Robert, of the Edinburgh Mint ; 81 b, 82 b.
 — petition of ; 83 a.
 — letter supporting ; 83 a.
- Millery, M. de, letter of ; 40 a.
- Millington :
 Sir Thomas, President of the College of Physicians ; 231 b, 235 a.
 — his death and character ; 231 b.
- Millner, Mr., memorial of ; 50 b.
- Mills :
 Col., letter of ; 289 a.
 Mr., payment to ; 526 a.
- Miltonfallon, co. Connaught ; 540 b.
- Milne, Thomas and Elizabeth, of Leicester ; 414 a.
- Milner :
 John ; 272 b.
 — consul, letters of ; 47 b.
- Milton :
 Earnest ; 4 a.
 Sarum ; 333 a.
 Michael, of Pontefract ; 276 a.
- Milwood in Tuddington ; 4 a.
- Minchin, —, lands set to ; 498 a.
- Mindelheim, papers concerning ; 31 b.
- Minehead ; 138 a.
- Ministers, trustees of maintenance of ; 385 b.
- Minorea, Minyorke, Isle of ; 239 b.
- Minshall :
 John, mayor of Chester (1712), letter to ; 395 b.
 Richd., of Chester ; 361 b.
 Thos., of Chester ; 361 b.
- Mint, the ; 103 b. coinage, &c. papers concerning ; 60 b, et seq.
See London, the Tower.
- Minto, Earl (1806), letter of ; 296 b.
- Miranda, Diego de, a Portuguese, his journey to Persia ; 23 a.
- Miremont, Marquis de, Bourbon ; 40 b.
- Misarden, co. Gloucester ; 151 b.
- Misia ; 220 b.
- Missal "de Arbuthnott," description of ; 800 a.
- Missenden, abbey of ; 320 b.
- Missing, Lieut. John, letters of ; 295 b.
- Mistley, letter dated at ; 192 b.
- Mitchell :
 Mr., stoppage of his bank in Dublin ; 196 b.
 Ensign Alexander, letter of ; 292 b.
 Admiral Sir D., letters of ; 31 b.
 David, petition of ; 238 a.
 John, collector, King's co. ; 546 a.
 — defendant ; 529 b.
 Nicholas, petition of ; 510 b.
- Mitre, the, privilege of ; 317 b.
- Mocher, General, commander in Munster ; 200 b.
- Moday, John, of Sutton, his dispute with the Dean of St. Paul's ; 632 b.
- Modena :
 Prince and Princess of, contemplated marriage of daughter of (1763) ; 286 a.
 Duke of (1655) ; 28 a.
 — letters of and to (1661-2) ; 29 b.
- Modewode, Medwode, forest of ; 406 b, 407 a.
- Mody, Wm. ; 367 a.
- Moffat, John, letter of ; 290 a.
- Mogul, the Great, letter of ; 585 a.
- Mogyl, William, archdeacon, agreement by ; 266 a.
- Mohun, Lord :
 Charles, Baron of Okehampton (1667), case of ; 114 b.
 — writ of summons to (1670) ; 146 b.
 — petition of (1671) ; 161 b.
 Warwick, deceased (1670) ; 154 b.
- Mohun, Lord—cont.
 Warwick, deceased (1671) ; x., 161 b.
 letter of (1708) ; 35 b.
- Mohun, Lady :
 letters of ; 54 a.
 Katherine, relict of Warwick, Lord Mohun ; 161 b.
 — petition of ; 154 b.
- Moicha, M., letter of ; 38 b.
- Moigne, Dorothy, of Dublin, petition signed by ; 590 a.
- Moinerie, M. de la ; 27 b.
- Moynhora, co. Wexford ; 508 a.
- Moir, Earl of :
 Sir John Rawdon (1766) ; 481 a.
 letter of (1813) ; 287 b.
- Molakin, Nanfray ; 65 a.
- Moldavia, Prince of ; 130 a.
- Mole :
 Henry, of Leicester ; 430 b.
 M., letter of ; 37 a.
 William, of Leicester ; 420 a.
- Molenschot, M., letter of ; 40 a.
- Moles, Duke of :
 letters of (1706) ; 31 b.
 (1708) ; 33 a.
 letter of (1709) ; 36 b.
 letter of (1710) ; 38 a.
 letter of ; 39 b.
- Molesworth :
 Captain, afterwards Lord (1708) ; 16 a.
 Col., letters of ; 38 b.
 Lord (1714), letter of ; 57 a.
 Mr., letters of ; 39 b, 49 a, 57 a.
 J., letter of ; 57 a.
 R., letters of ; 44 a.
- Molié, M., letter of ; 35 b.
- Mollingar ; 616 b.
- Molloy :
 Mr. ; 482 b.
 Capt. Arthur, petitions of ; 500 a, 513 b.
 — his service under Charles II. ; 500 a.
 Col. Charles ; 618 b.
 John, petition of ; 529 b.
 Capt. Terence, petitions of ; 500 a, 513 b.
 — his service under Charles II. ; 500 a.
- Molo, M. de, letter of ; 40 a.
- Molony, A., letter of ; 290 b.
- Molson, Lady ; 140 b.
- Molwat, Jean Frederick, assumed name of Dykevelt 552 a
- Molyneux, Mollineux :
 Lord (1678) ; 391 a.
 — letter of (1715) ; 40 b.
 Mr., letter of ; 57 a.
 Daniel, Ulster king-at-arms ; 572 a, 582 b, 583 a.
 — transcript by ; 581 a.
 Edmund ; 379 a.
 Nich., agreement by ; 265 a.
 — receipt from ; ib.
 Richard, letter of ; 379 a.
 Thos., letter of ; 71 b.
 — ; 392 b.
 — letter, &c. of ; 392 b.
 — his house in Cornhill ; ib.
 W. More, Esq., MSS. of ; xxi.
- Monaghan co., losses in, during rebellion (1641) ; 573 a.
- Monasteries, &c., domestic arrangements in ; 324 b, 325 a.
- Monboddio ; 301 a.
 Lord, MSS. of ; xxi.
- Monceaux, Dame de (1599), reported death of ; 282 b.
- Monck, Monk :
 Christopher and Elizabeth ; 436 a.
 Colonel ; 610 b.
 General George ; 438 a, 438 b.
 — letters of ; 299 a, 303 b, 438 a, 439 a.
 — letter to ; 438 b.
 — his entertainment at Leicester ; 429 b.
 — at St. Albans ; 438 b.
 — in Scotland ; 30 a.
 — of the Trinity House ; 235 b, 248 b.
 Lieut. Ri. ; 596 b.
 Richard, quartermaster ; 518 b.
- Monckenemers, marsh called ; 235 a.
- Moncketon, R., letter of ; 47 a.
- Mondragon, Duc de, letters of ; 32 a.
- Money, Patrick ; 610 b.
- Money :
 clipped and base, importation of ; 347 a. value of (1669) ; 134 a.
- Mongeham :
 lands in ; 319 a.
 manor of ; 326 b.
 rector of ; 340 a.
- Monginot, médecin ; 564 a.
- Mongois Wells, main of ; 308 b.
- Monkenesnode, "Denn" of ; 329 a.
- Monks, admission of, regulations for ; 321 b.

- Monkton; 382 b. church of; 326 b, 328 b, 341 b.
 manor of; 327 b.
 tithes of; 318 a.
Monmartele, Monsieur; 572 a.
Monmeillan, demolition of; 21 b.
Monmouth:
 ship-money assessment; 383 a.
 garrison (1642); 111 a.
 Duke of, James, writ of summons to (1670); 146 b.
 Duchess of, letters of; 54 a.
 Lord, his apartment at Whitehall (1691); 563 a.
 Countess of (1691); 565 b.
Monoux, Hum., document signed by; 9 a.
Monro, Dr. John, fellow of the College of Physicians; 234 a.
Monroe, in Ireland; 608 a.
Mons:
 victory of; 12 b, 21 a, 26 b.
 taking of; 21 b.
 capitulation of (1711), declaration; 40 a.
 governor of, letter of; 39 b.
Monsigil, counsellor of Marie de Medici; 554 b.
Monson:
 Capt., letters of; 289 b, 290 a, 290 b, 291 a, 293 a, 295 a, 295 b.
 Sir J., letter of; 209 b.
 Sir Thomas; 585 a.
Montacute; 332 a.
Montagu, Mountagu:
 Duke of, letters of (1706, &c.); 32 a, 32 b, 36 a, 51 b.
 — a doctor of physic (1717); 232 a.
 — (1737), command given to; 568 a.
 Lord (1622), his son; 215 a.
 — of Boughton (1671); 440 a.
 — Edward (temp. Commonwealth); 94 b.
 — — payment to (1658); 95 a.
 Abbé; 28 a.
 Sir Edw. Hussey; 219 b.
 Charles, security for Newton; 66 a.
 — warrant signed by; 66 b.
 Lady Essex; 151 a.
 Fredk., letter of; 295 a.
 Sir H., sergeant-at-law; 237 b, 246 b.
 James, Solicitor-General, letters of; 45 b, 46 a, 46 b, 47 a.
 — opinion by; 81 a.
 Ralph, gentleman of the horse to Duchess of York; 279 b.
 Mr., his change of religion; 553 b.
Montaigne's Essays; 25 b.
Montargis; 566 a.
Montargres, M. de, letter of; 40 a.
Montauban; 285 b.
 letters dated at; 28 a, 218 a.
Montbeliard, principality of; 59 b.
Monte Acuto, John de, of the Tower; 89 a.
Monte Alto, Radulph; 356 a, 356 b.
Montesquieu:
 M. le President; 63 a.
 Marechal de, letters of; 40 a.
Montferrat; 16 b, 19 b.
Montfort:
 Agnes de, charter by; 300 b, 301 a.
 M. de la Tour, commandant of Calais; 17 b.
 Simon de, witness; 357 a.
 — Earl of Leicester, his charters to burgesses of Leicester; 403 b, 405 b, 407 a, 408 a, 422 b.
Montgomerie, Montgomery:
 Lord (1646), Charles I. and; 212 b.
 — (1648); 608 b.
 Mr.; 41 b.
 — letter of; 37 a.
 A., letter of; 293 b.
 Major H., letter of; 294 b.
 John, of Giffan; 82 a.
 Lieut. W., letter of; 295 b.
Month or Mount, Lindsay of; 308 a.
 David Lindsay of; 307 b.
Montmelion, camp at; 21 a.
Montmerli, Monsieur, letter of; 290 b.
Mont-Miral, Mons. Langy; 557 a.
Montmorency:
 Baron de Neufville, letter of; 35 b.
 Princess of, letters of; 31 b, 38 b.
Montney, Nathaniel, juryman; 89 a.
Montpensier, Duke (1600); 282 b.
Montresor, Major, letter of; 40 a.
Montroe; 606 a.
 General, his army; 605 a.
 — his son; ib.
 Sir George; 611 a.
Montrose:
 royal burgh of, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Duke of, MSS. of; xxi.
 — (1700); 310 a.
 — (1737); 18 a.
 Marquis of (1648); 27 b.
 —; 212 b.
 Lord, letters of (1708); 48 a.
- Monturpye, Hauhill and, tenants of; 308 a.
Monymail, document dated at; 300 b.
Moody:
 Capt., letter of; 38 b.
 Ann, letter of; 35 b.
Moone, co. Kildare; 508 a.
Mooney:
 John, soldier in Ireland; 513 a.
 Richard, soldier in Ireland; ib.
Moor, Moore:
 Dr., incumbent of Barton; 4 a.
 — Archbishop of Canterbury, letters of; 57 b.
 Mr., letters of; 49 a.
 —; 429 b.
 Lord, list of his troop (1648); 596 b.
 — his troop (1663); 521 b.
 Colonel; 611 b.
 Alice and Jane, of Dublin, petition signed by; 590 a.
 Bartholomew, post footman, petition of; 437 b.
 Capt. Brent; 504 b, 531 b.
 Col. Charles; 496 b.
 Dudley; 16 a.
 Sir Francis, readings, &c. by; 584 b.
 Lieut. Colonel Frann; 592 b.
 Francis, petition of; 71 b.
 Capt. Garrett, his company; 538 b, 543 b, 545 a, 596 b.
 John, of Pontefract; 276 a.
 — waterman; 279 b.
 Cornet John; 596 a.
 Sir Jonas; 76 a.
 Capt. Lewes or Lewis; 605 a, 608 a, 608 b, 609 a, 613 b, 614 b, 617 b.
 Nicholas, of Earl's Colne, will of; 332 b.
 Robert, of Pontefract; 274 a, 274 b.
 Cornet Randal; 546 b.
 Robert, of Naas, petition of; 521 a.
 Roger; 604 a, 610 a, 615 b.
 Lieut. Thomas; 593 a.
 Lieut. William; 592 a, 597 a.
 William, of Saulestown, petition of; 538 a.
 — quartermaster; 596 b.
 Ensign Zachary; 591 b.
Moore, Colonel John; 593 a.
Moors, the, capture by; 239 b.
Moorshedabad; 288 b, 290 a, 292 a.
Moote:
 Agnes, of West Lynn, will of; 333 b.
 Robert, of West Lynn, will of; 333 b.
Morant, J., custodes Archiepiscopatus Cant.; 352 a.
Morat, Carlo, painting by; 100 b.
Moray:
 Col. de, letter of; 39 b.
 C. H. D., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Robert, letter of; 46 a.
 Earl of, MSS. of; xxi.
 — James Stewart, afterwards; 304 b.
Mordaunt, Mordant:
 —; 376 a.
 Lord or Viscount (1594); 376 a.
 — John, his widow (1644); 4 b.
 — (1667), constable of Windsor Castle, articles of impeachment against; 106 b.
 — answer to impeachment; 107 a.
 — (1670); 149 a, 149 b.
 — letters of (c. 1700); 559 a.
 — letters of his wife; 558 b.
 — letters of (1708); 34 a, 36 a.
 Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 General, letter of; 37 b.
 Sir J., commander; 224 b.
 Sir John; 59 b.
 Lieut. or Col. John; 291 b.
 — letters of; 291 a.
 John; 376 a.
Mordington, Mr., letter of; 37 b.
Mordone, Robert de, sheriff of London; 633 a.
More:
 Adam, witness; 306 b.
 Edmund; 386 b.
 John, mercer; 89 a.
 — examination of; 374 a.
 Matthew, of Wells; 639 b. or Moore, Sir William, his son; 156 b, 158 a, 159 a, 159 b.
 — lord of Abircorn; 307 a.
Moreton Hampstead; 324 a.
Moreton:
 Capt. Henry, petition of; 503 a.
 Earl of, John (temp. Ric. I.); 356 b.
 — charters of; 355 a, 356 b.
Morgan:
 Col.; 9 a.
 — governor of Gloucester; 11 b.
 —; 294 b.
 — letters of; 295 a, 295 b.
 Major-General, letter to; 28 b.

Morgan—cont.

- Mr., of the Mint; 82 a.
- payment to; 83 a.
- Col. C., letters of; 298 b.
- Charles (Judge Advocate General), letter of; 296 a.
- Sir Charles; 584 a.
- Lieut. Charles; 594 b.
- David, petition of; 140 a.
- Henry, petition of; 511 a.
- Henry, quartermaster; 595 b.
- Ensign John; 594 b.
- John, petition of; 504 a.
- Josiah, letter of; 295 a.
- Philip, doctor of laws, commission to; 340 b.
- Rice, trooper; 550 b.
- Richard, of the Mint; 83 a.
- and Mary, alias Hill; 522 a.
- Thomas, letter of; 10 b.
- Ensign William; 592 a.
- William; 151 b.
- petition of; 78 b.
- Morgheve, manor of; 634 b.
- Morginne, Mr., conspirator; 434 a.
- Morin, Richard, witness; 407 a.
- Moris, Margaret, of Worcester, will of; 332 a.
- Morish, Daniel, trooper; 546 b.
- Morison, W., of Benholm; 297 a.
- Morland:
 - Henry, vicar of Aketon, Norwich diocese, will of; 335 a.
 - Samuel, clerk of the signet; 94 b.
 - payment to; 94 b.
- Morley:
 - Colonel, his regiment; 438 a.
 - and Mounteagle, Lord, Thomas, petition of (1666); 101 b.
 - Cuthbert; 114 a.
 - petitions of; 114 a.
 - Elizabeth, of Carrow, will of; 334 a.
 - John, agreements by; 272 b.
 - Richard; 279 a.
 - Thomas; 279 a.
 - his case; 170 b.
- Mormyn, co. Longford; 535 b.
- Mornyn, co. Longford; 540 a.
- Morocco:
 - Straits of; 239 b.
 - Emperor of, Charles II.'s treaties with; 1 b, 26 b.
 - King of, horses sent to Charles I. by; 552 b.
- Morpeth corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
- Morrey, Robert, mayor of Chester (1670), letters of and to; 389 a, 389 b.
- Morrice, Morris:
 - Major, at Pontefract Castle; 276 b.
 - Christopher, of Leicester; 439 b.
 - John; 142 b.
 - petition, &c. of; 142 a, 142 b.
 - answer to; 142 b.
 - Richard, of Wapping, captive; 241 b.
 - Robert, bailiff; 5 b.
 - barrister-at-law, memorial of; 295 b.
 - William, document signed by; 90 a.
 - letter of; 211 a.
 - of Worcester; 638 a.
- Morse, Thomas, of Stratford, will of; 334 a.
- Mortain, Earl of, King John, grants by; 319 a.
- Morthairs, M. de, letters of; 40 a.
- Mortimer:
 - barons of, Mortimer, pedigrees of; 366 a.
 - Major, letter of; 607 b.
 - Lord, Hugh (1069), with Wm. the Conqueror against Edgar Atheling, &c.; 366 a.
 - founded Wigmore Abbey; 366 a.
 - James and Ellinor; 535 b.
 - John, a necromancer; 265 a.
 - Major Nicholas; 610 a.
 - Robert de; 316 b.
 - Thomas, of Balmane; 306 b.
- Mortlake, Surrey; 155 a, 158 a.
- Mortnals, Ralph de, witness; 421 b.
- Morton:
 - Mr., of Leicester; 430 b, 431 a.
 - and Sir E. Hastings; 433 a.
 - Regent, letter of; 298 b, 302 a.
 - Earl of, MSS. of; xxi.
 - W., commission to; 2 b.
 - Cardinal, his death; 331 b.
 - John, Abp. of Canterbury, will of; 332 a.
 - prior of Selborne; 264 a.
 - P., letters of; 553 a, 553 b.
 - Thomas, presbyter of York; 266 a.
 - Sir William, justice (1667, &c.); 112 a, 155 a, 156 a, 156 b, 159 a, 159 b.
 - letters of; 158 a, 159 b.
- Moruske, barony of; 526 b.
- Mosca; 23 a.

- Moscow, document dated at; 37 b.
- Mose, William, of Worcester; 638 a.
- Moseley:
 - Honour; 156 b.
 - deposition of; 159 a.
 - Thomas, of Leicester, loan to; 432 b.
 - Wm.; 156 b.
 - deposition of; 159 a.
- Moses:
 - Mr., solicitor to East India Co.; 167 a.
 - examination of, &c.; 167 a, 167 b.
- Mosheim, his Ecclesiastical History; 199 a, 484 a.
- Mosly:
 - Christopher, petition of; 506 a.
 - Henry, clerk of the peace, co. Dublin; 506 b.
- Moss, Mosse:
 - John, petition of; 140 a.
 - ; 380 b.
 - Rich., letter signed by; 386 b.
- Mossley, George, letter of; 375 a.
- Moston, Ensign Symon; 591 b.
- Mostyn, Lord, MSS. of; xxi.
- Moswelle, chapel of; 632 b.
- Motahaneny; 608 b.
- Mothe, Comte de la, letter of; 35 b.
- Mothe Houdaneoust, Comte de la, letter of; 37 b.
- Motte, M. la; 33 b.
- Mottly, Richard, of Athy, petition of; 510 b.
- Motte, J., letter of; 295 a.
- Mottershed, Thos.; 365 a.
- Motum, Robert, witness; 406 a.
- Motun, Jacobus de, inquisition by; 406 a.
- Motynden, Trinity House of; 329 a.
- Mouesley; 333 b.
- Moules, William, servant of Lord Burghley; 227 a.
- Moulinarie, the rebels near; 314 a, 314 b.
- Moulins; 566 a.
- Moulsey, West; 332 b.
- Moultrie, General, letter of; 288 b.
- Moundeford:
 - doctor to Lord Essex; 228 a, 228 b.
 - Tho., president of the College of Physicians; 229 a.
- Mounox, Humphrey, on Bedford committee; 3 a.
- Mountague. See Montagu.
- Mountain, Mr., his influence at Clitheroe; 49 b.
- Mountaine, Sir Philip, commissioner; 275 a.
- Mount Alexander:
 - Lord, his troop (1663); 505 a, 506 a, 518 b, 521 b, 536 b.
 - master of ordnance, document signed by (1663); 525 b.
- Mountayne, Thomas, grant to; 94 a.
- Mount Edgecumbe, Earl of, MSS. of; xxi.
- Mountgarret:
 - Viscount, outlawry of (1641); 59 a.
 - title of; 588 b.
 - (1641-48); 581 b, 603 a, 603 b, 604 a, 607 a.
- Mountjoy; 120 b.
- , his patent; 252 a, 254 b.
- letter signed by (1707); 395 a.
- , his regiment; 493 a.
- Lord, letter of (1709); 37 a.
- his death in Flanders; 53 a.
- letter of (1715); 58 b.
- L.; 65 a.
- Mountmorris, Lord (1779); 203 a.
- Mountnorris, Lord, trial of; 581 b, 582 a.
- Mountrath:
 - Earl of, lands held by; 520 b.
 - late (1663); 521 b.
- Mountsorrel, Mount Sorrell; 414 a, 437 b, 439 a.
- Moussaye, Madame de la, letter of; 37 b.
- Movarisky, Baroness de, letters of; 40 a.
- Mowth, Will., of Lynn Episcopi, will of; 334 a.
- Moxon:
 - Rob., trooper, petition of; 505 a.
 - William, of Pontefract; 276 a.
- Moy Castle; 603 a.
- Moyer:
 - Capt., of the Trinity House; 235 b.
 - Lawrence, of Low Layton; 251 b.
- Moygne, surrender of; 606 b.
- Moylagh rectory, dioc. Tuam; 525 a.
- Moyle:
 - Colonel, in command at Edinburgh; 310 b, 311 b.
 - Joseph, note by; 66 b.
- Moyse, T.; 627 b.
- Moyeses, John, of Whitechapel, deed by; 271 b.
- Muchalls, letter dated at; 304 a.
- Muchberdesham, manor of; 322 b, 323 a.
- Mudd, Simon, of Longborowe, will of; 417 a.
- Muffett, D., physician; 228 a.
- Mugworthy, Thomas, vicar of Sevenoaks, will of; 335 b.
- Muldeghen, Comte de, letter of; 37 a.
- Mulen, Gerard van, a quack; 230 b.
- Muley Zedag, a king in Barbary; 240 b.

Mulgrave :
 Earl of, Edmund, payment to (1658) ; 95 a.
 — letter of (1689) ; 556 a.
 — — — 1690) ; ib.
 — — — (1691) ; 556 b.
 — John, Lord Chamberlain ; 12 b.
Mullaghmast, co. Kildare ; 508 a.
Mullaghmore, lands of ; 525 b.
Mulleneux :
 Lieut. Adam ; 595 b.
 Capt. Thomas ; 593 a.
Mullens, John, letter of ; 291 a.
Muller, Lieut. F. A., letter of ; 295 b.
Mullican, Mary, of Dublin, petition of ; 504 b, 531 b.
Mullin, David, prisoner ; 550 b.
Mullingar ; 470 a, 494 b, 518 b.
 prior of ; 584 b.
Mulsho, Thomas, letter of ; 379 a.
Multon :
 Sir Alan de, his wife ; 264 b.
 Sir John de, letter of ; 264 b.
 Sir Thomas ; 264 b.
 Sir Thomas de, licence to ; 265 a.
 Radulfus, witness ; 404 b.
 Walter de, endowment by ; 343 b.
 William de, witness ; 270 b.
Multon Hall, co. Lincoln, manor of ; 264 b.
Mumford :
 Wm., a brewer ; 155 a (note) ; 155 b, 156 b, 158 a.
 — deposition of ; 158 a.
Muncur, Thomas, de la Monthe ; 308 a.
Munday, David ; 278 b.
Munden, Sir John ; 27 a.
Muneaghan ; 604 b.
Munelly, John ; 380 a.
Mungomery, Ensign Hugh ; 592 b.
Munk, Dr., of the College of Physicians ; 226 b.
Munox, Humphrey, letter to ; 3 a.
Munsey, Mr. ; 289 b.
Munster :
 plantation of ; 99 a, 582 a.
 surrender of ; 611 b.
 insurrection in (1763) ; 474 b, 481 a. agrarian outbreaks in (c. 1760) ; 451 b. assembly in ; 616 a.
 the effect of pasture enclosures in (1762) ; 470 b.
 executions in ; 618 a.
 chapter of, letter of ; 37 a.
 Bishop of (1669) ; 128 a, 130 a.
 — letters of (1707) ; 32 a.
 — letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
Muntgrave, prior of ; 271 a.
Murar, Mr. ; 53 b.
Murchin, John F. de, Earl of Graville ; 30 b.
Mure :
 F., letters of ; 290 b, 291 a, 294 a, 295 a.
 William, letter of ; 289 a.
Murley, Robert, mayor of Chester (1669) letter to ; 369 a.
Murphy :
 Counsellor ; 478 b.
 John, of Dublin, merchant ; 385 b.
 Theodore, petition of ; 510 a.
Murray ; 312 a.
 Mr., to succeed Lord Chesterfield (1748) ; 569 a.
 — memoir of, prosecution for printing ; 570 b.
 Major-General, letters of ; 32 a, 37 b.
 Lieut.-Genl., letter of ; 39 b.
 the Hon. Mr., brother of Lord Ellibank ; 54 b.
 Daniel, letter of ; 295 b.
 David, of Balward, witness ; 306 a.
 Lord Edward (1711), letter of ; 40 a.
 Hon. Mrs. Erskine, MSS. of ; xxi.
 Mrs. Euphyan, petition of ; 243 a.
 Lord George, paper by ; 313 b.
 — his letter to the Duke of Cumberland ; 314 a.
 Sir Geo. ; 14 a.
 Col. John, letters of ; 292 b, 294 a, 294 b, 295 b, 296 a.
 — letter to ; 295 a.
 Sir John, letter of ; 296 a.
 Sir P., sums paid by ; 313 b.
 Sir P. K., MSS. of ; xxi.
 Lieut.-Col. Peter, letter of ; 290 b.
 Regent, documents signed by ; 298 b, 302 a.
 Robert, alderman of Chester ; 361 b.
 — commissions to ; 362 a.
 Major.-Genl. R., letter of ; 35 b.
 Sir Robert ; 134 a, 136 a.
 William, Pitt's speech against ; 225 b.
 — of Tullibardin, witness ; 306 a.
Murreaux, Thomas, constable of the Tower ; 87 a, 88 a.
Mursk barony ; 527 a.
Musam, Capt. Ed. ; 591 a.
Muscogros, Robert de, witness ; 1 b.
Muschamp, Major ; 541 b.

Muscovy :
 ambassador from, arrest of ; 34 b, 35 a.
 Czar of, letters of (1707) ; 32 a.
Musgrave :
 C., letter of ; 40 a.
 E., letter of ; 89 b.
 James, letter of ; 295 b.
 Sir Richard, letters to ; 584 a.
 Col. Thos., letters of ; 290 a, 292 b, 293 a, 293 b, 294 a.
 General Thomas, letters of ; 294 b, 295 a.
Muskerry :
 barony of ; 99 a.
 Lord, his proceedings in Ireland (1645-52) ; 605 a, 605 b, 606 a, 606 b, 614 b, 616 a, 618 a.
 Viscount (1648) ; 28 a.
Musselburgh ; 158 b.
"Mustepha" ; 290 b.
 — letter of ; 291 a.
Muster rolls, &c. of Leicester, temp. Eliz. ; 419 b.
Mustian, Mr., of Cobham ; 553 a.
Mutford ; 333 b, 334 b.
Mutte, Reginald, vicar of Sutton Courtenay, Berks, will of ; 332 b.
Mydwynter, Alice, of Northleach, will of ; 334 b.
Mydwyntre, Will, of Northleach, will of ; 333 a.
Myers, Thomas, letter of ; 294 b.
Myles :
 John, of Apsyden, Herts, will of ; 333 a.
 Richard, of Connock ; 631 a.
Mylnes, John, of Lutterworth ; 414 b.
Mynchynne, Elizabeth, of Romsey ; 234 a.
Mynors, Capt. William ; 249 b.
Myriam, near Dublin, document dated from ; 399 a.

N.

Naas, co. Kildare ; 510 b. innkeepers of, petition of ; 521 a. garrison at, in 1648 ; 594 a, 595 a.
 garrison ; 604 a.
Naerden, synod at ; 565 a.
Nagle, Sir R. ; 581 b.
Nagpour ; 294 a.
Nails, documents referring to ; 625 b, 626 a, 632 a.
Nairn House ; 313 b.
Nairn, Nairne :
 David, letters of ; 16 b.
 — Jacobite agent, letters of ; 25 a, 38 b.
 Sir David ; 82 b.
 Lady, letter of ; 40 b.
Nairs, war with the, account of, Tippoo Sultan's (1789) ; 293 b.
Naisse, Capt. ; 617 a.
Naizon, his dragoons ; 313 b, 314 a.
Najhaf Khan, narrative of (1779) ; 288 b.
Nale, the, co. Meath ; 548 a.
Nelson, Dr. his censure of Dr. Borlace ; 574 a.
Namptwiche ; 397 a.
Namur : taken ; 57 a.
 letter dated at ; 557 b.
 garrison at ; ib.
 magazines at ; 32 a.
Nangle :
 Lieut.-Col. ; 498 a.
 Edmond, licence farmer, petition of ; 529 a.
 Lieut. Edmond, petitions of ; 530 b.
 James, prisoner, petitions of ; 501 b, 533 b, 538 a.
Nantes ; 375 b, 552 a.
 merchants at ; 247 a.
Napier, Col., MSS. of ; xxi.
Naples, letter dated at ; 47 b.
Napper :
 Sir Robert, his sequestration ; 3 b.
 — loan to ; 7 a.
Nappers, Lieut.-Col., weekly charge of his troop ; 597 b.
Nappier, Lieut.-Col. ; 592 a.
Napstown, lands of ; 506 a.
Narford ; 333 b.
Nary, Dr. ; 487 b.
Naseby, field or battle ; 8 b, 501 b, 524 b, 554 b.
Nasmer, M. de, letter of ; 37 b.
Nassau :
 W. de, document signed ; 12 a.
 Lord of Odyck ; ib.
 Princess of, letters of (1705) ; 31 a.
 Princess Dowager of, letters of (1706) ; 31 b.
 Princess of, letters of (1707) ; 32 a.
 — letters of (1709) ; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.

Nassau—cont.

- Comte de, letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.
 Wandenbourg, Comte, letter of (1711); 40 a.
 Weilbourg, Comte, letter of (1711); 40 a.
 Count of, letter of (1692); 557 b.
 Disembourg, Prince of (1691); 565 b. de Frize; 564 b.
 Naturalization Bill (1669); 134 a, 149 b.
 Natzmer, Lieut.-General, letter of; 40 a.
 Naughten :
 Lieut. John; 595 a.
 alias Teig, Katherine, petition of; 511 a.
 Naunton, Robert; 585 a.
 Nauze, Mr. de la; 62 b.
 Navan; 514 a, 523 a, 546 b.
 garrison; 525 a.
 Navigation, Act of, trade improved by; 134 a.
 Navy, the :
 accounts (1664-5); 128 a-133 a.
 commissioners of the; 128 b-129 b, 248 a.
 — letter of; 388 b.
 — letter to; 243 a.
 — reports, &c. of; 128 a-133 b.
 — reference to; 243 a.
 sick and wounded in, arrangements for care of; 231 a, 231 b. treasurer of, office of (1669); 136 b.
 merchant, of England; 134 b.
 Office, 130 b, 131 a.
 — documents dated from; 385 b, 388 b.
 — committee of; 247 b.
 Nayland; 332 b.
 Naylor :
 Francis; 122 b.
 — answer of; 123 a.
 Mary; 13 b.
 Sarah; 122 b.
 — answers of; 122 b, 123 a.
 Naze, the; 382 b.
 Nazmer, M. de, letters of; 38 b.
 Neale :
 John, letter to; 3 a.
 Thomas, of the Mint; 66 a, 71 a, 80 a.
 — letters of; 68 b, 71 b.
 — document signed by; 66 b.
 — warrants to; 66 b, 86 a.
 — his proposal; 77 a.
 Pendoche, letter of; 294 a.
 Richard; 379 a.
 Neasch, Walter; 302 b.
 Neave, J., letters of; 290 b.
 Needham :
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 Edmund, petition of; 244 b.
 — his machine for scouring the Thames; 245 b.
 Needham Market; 334 a, 629 b.
 Neel, Christopher, grant to; 415 b.
 Negropont, letter dated at; 245 a.
 Negus, Daniel, letters of; 290 a, 295 b.
 Nelme, Robert, of Worcester, 638 a.
 Nelson, Nellson :
 Noell v., writ of error; 151 a.
 Major, at Rosse; 600 b.
 Lieut.-Col. John; 512 b, 521 a.
 Ensign John; 595 a.
 William; 151 a.
 Neltrop, Edward; 163 a.
 — statement of his case; ib.
 Nenagh :
 taking of; 609 a.
 skirmish of; 617 b.
 Nesbitt, Lieut. Col., letter of; 295 b.
 Nesselrod, Baron de (1709); 20 b.
 Nesson; 381 a.
 Nest, Thomas, trooper; 549 b.
 Netherlands, the; 147 b.
 provinces, proposed annexation to England of; 215 b.
 See Low Countries.
 Nethersole, Sir Francis, letter of; 214 a.
 Netheway, John, of Taunton, will of; 335 b.
 Netterville :
 at Ballimore; 613 b.
 Lord, petition of; 501 a.
 Viscount, John, his children (1663); 513 a.
 Robert, petition of; 513 a.
 Netzme, M., letters of; 32 a.
 Neur, Captain William; 594 b.
 Neutrality, Act of, king of Sweden's declaration against (1710); 40 a.
 Neuville :
 M. la, letters of; 38 b.
 Madame de, letter of; ib.
 Nevar, Brechin and, lord of; 806 a.
 Neville, Nevell, &c. :
 Edward, deceased; 139 a.
 — son of the preceding; ib.
 — lease to; 283 b.

Neville, Nevell—cont.

- Elizabeth, late sister of Lord Abergavenny (1669), petition of creditors of; 137 b.
 Hon. Mrs. Francis, petition of; 104 a.
 Frank, commissioner; 275 a.
 George, deceased; 104 a.
 — son of preceding; ib.
 Gilbert, deceased; 139 a.
 Henry, deceased; 106 b.
 — grant to; 282 a.
 — of Holt, candidate for Leicester; 439 a.
 — requisition by; 439 b.
 Sir Henry; 282 a.
 — ambassador to France (1599-1600); xiii., 277 a.
 — letters to; 282 b, 283 a.
 — (1600); 283 a.
 — letters, &c. of; 283 a, 283 b.
 — letters to; 283 a, 283 b.
 — warrant of; 282 a.
 — grant to (1615); 283 b.
 — and Lady Perriam v. Sir Robert Albany and Edwd. Staverton; 283 b.
 Mary, widow, petition of; 104 a.
 R., paymaster of pensions; 287 b.
 Richard, alderman of Wokingham, Berks; 284 a.
 — defendant; 529 b.
 Richard Aldworth, letter to; 287 b.
 — certificates touching; 287 b.
 Richard Neville, letters of; 285 a, 285 b, 286 a.
 — letters to; 285 b, 286 a, 287 b.
 — minister at Court of France, letters to; 286 b.
 Richard Neville Aldworth, M.P. (1763); xiii., 277 a.
 — official papers of; 287 a.
 — letter to; ib.
 Sir Robert; 627 a.
 — of Horneby; ib.
 — inq. post mortem of; ib.
 Thomas de, witness; 422 b.
 Sir Thomas, his daughter Margaret; 627 a.
 Thomas, letter of; 37 b.
 William, petition of; 106 b.
 Princesse de, letter of; 37 b.
 New Abbey, lands of; 315 a.
 Newark : reducing of; 10 a.
 and garrison there during Civil Wars; 8 b, 10 b.
 Charles I. at; 9 b.
 siege of; 276 b.
 Sir Henry Beaumont's house at; 441 a.
 Newburgh :
 Lord (1657); 28 b.
 — (1670); 146 b.
 prior and convent of; xiii., 636 b.
 Thomas, petition of; 506 a.
 Newbury; 333 a, 335 b.
 battle of; 5 b.
 Newby, William, of Leicester, Lord Ferrers and; 415 a.
 Newcastle-on-Tyne; 75 a, 212 a, 239 a, 240 b, 242 b, 244 b, 250 b, 256 b, 376 b, 521 b.
 documents dated at; 344 b, 347 a.
 Goldsmiths' Company of; 70 a.
 port of; 94 a.
 coals; 251 a.
 Trinity House at; 235 b, 244 a, 249 a, 249 b, 255 b, 261 a, 261 b.
 mayor, &c. of, letters to; 237 b, 238 a.
 mayor of (1640); 383 b.
 ships trading to; 243 a, 243 b, 257 b.
 proposed free port; 247 b.
 merchant adventurers of, their petition to export cloth; 238 b.
 Newcastle, co. Dublin, manor of; 549 a.
 Newcastle, co. Stafford; 544 b.
 Newcastle, Duke of :
 privilege case (1668); 116 a.
 his death (1691); 565 a.
 his legacy to Lord Clare; ib.
 letters of (1706); 32 a.
 letter of (1708); 36 a.
 (1751); 284 b.
 (1753-57); 213 a.
 his motion for repeal of the Jew Bill (1753); 219 b, 220 a.
 Head of the Treasury; 220 a, 221 b.
 letter to (1754); 220 a.
 Steele's letters to; 1 a, 23 b.
 Mr. Pitt and; 220 b, et seq.
 a "shuffling rascal"; 224 a.
 "an ugly disagreement" with Lord Cholmondley; 288 b.
 his retirement from office, &c.; 222 b, 223 b.
 letters of (1763); 287 b.
 (1765); 191 a.
 Newcome :
 Mr., of Leicester; 430 b.
 — his house; ib.
 — his regiment; 498 b.
 Robert, mayor of Leicester; 426 a.

- Newcomen, Newcomin :
 Captain Richard ; 594 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop ; 597 b.
 Sir Robert ; 594 b.
 — weekly charge of his troop ; 598 a.
 Thomas, petition signed by ; 588 a.
- Newdegate, William, order for ; 3 a.
- Newell :
 Henry, bailiff of the hundred of Hoo, will of ; 334 b.
 or Newelme, Robert ; 628 b, 629 b.
- Newenham, Adam de, licence to ; 2 a.
- Newfoundland ; 36 b, 240 b.
 fish ; 246 a.
 pilchards from ; 246 b, 247 a.
 plantation in ; 236 a.
- Newgent, Garrett, of Athy, petition of ; 510 b.
- Newhaggard, co. Meath ; 499 a.
- Newhall, Lord, Scotch judge (1736) ; 311 b.
- Newhaven harbour ; 255 a, 255 b.
- Newington :
 Kent ; 348 b.
 church ; 318 b, 339 a.
 co. Oxford, with Britewell ; 324 a.
 — Bixbronde in ; 324 b.
 co. Surrey ; 249 b.
 Barrow, alias Highbury, Middlesex, Act for re-investing the manor of in His Majesty (1670) ; 148 b.
 — reasons for passing ; 148 b.
- Newkey ; 398 a.
- Newland ; 334 b.
 Martha, her perversion ; 46 b.
- Newmarch, Sir John, indenture by ; 412 a.
- Newmarket ; 33 b, 158 b.
 letters dated at ; 43 a, 214 b.
- Newnham, Devon, abbot of ; 169 b.
- Newod, terra de ; 264 a.
- Newport, co. Monmouth, ship-money assessment ; 383 a.
- Newport Pagnell :
 letters dated at ; 7 b, 8 b, 9 b.
 garrison at, &c. ; 1 a, 3 a, 4 b, 5 a, 5 b, 7 a, 7 b, 9 a, 9 b, 10 a.
 money for ; 9 a.
- Newport :
 Lord (1670) ; 141 b.
 — Robert Jocelyn ; 443 b.
 — dedication to ; 444 a.
 House ; 142 a.
 Lady (1711), letter of ; 40 a.
 Anne, of Ipswich, will of ; 333 b.
- Newry ; 493 a.
 surrender of ; 599 b.
 Bann Water, near ; 600 a.
- News letters :
 (1686-98) ; 561 b.
 (1711) ; 40 a.
 Italian, (1591) ; 282 a.
- Newstead, James I. at ; 435 b.
- Newton :
 near Chester ; 371 a.
 Kyme, co. York ; 271 a.
 one, his building ; 98 b.
 Mr., letters of ; 35 b, 37 a, 38 a, 39 b.
 Dr. ; 22 a.
 Dr. Henry, letters of ; 47 b.
 Sir Isaac, his Mint papers ; xi., 60 b, et seq.
 — a justice of peace ; 61 a.
 — his funeral ; 62 a.
 — agreement about his MSS. ; 63 b.
 — letters of ; 66 a.
 — patent of grant of Mint Mastership to ; 66 b.
 — letters, &c. of ; 392 b, 393 a.
 — his house near St. James's Church, in Jermyn Street ; 392 b.
 James, complaint against ; 231 a.
 Joachim, keeper of the Fleet Prison, warrant of ; 375 a.
 John, of Whittlesford, will of ; 332 a.
 Rich., of Monkton, will of ; 332 b.
 Wm., clockmaker ; 393 b.
 — recommendation touching ; 393 b.
 — of Leicester, payments to ; 429 b.
- Newton Stallbone, co. Louth, plundered ; 590 b.
- Newtown :
 in Linlithgow ; 307 b.
 Wm. Scott, of ; 637 a.
 lands of ; 506 a.
 co. Dublin, Mosly's house at ; 506 b.
 McCabe, lands, co. Kildare ; 508 a.
- Nice ; 194 a.
 letters dated at ; 194 b, 195 a.
- Nicholas :
 Mr., payment to ; 526 a.
 Edw., documents signed by ; 28 a, 86 a.
 James, letter of ; 294 a.
 Sir John, commissioner ; 275 a.
 Simon, letter of ; 257 b.
- Nicholas III., pope, bulls of ; 318 a.
- Nicholas IV., pope, his grant of a tenth of ecclesiastical benefices ; 345 a.
- Nicholl, Henry, replication of ; 543 b.
- Nicholls, Nicholles :
 Mr. Serjeant ; 435 a.
 Mr., the historian, of Leicestershire ; 425 a.
 Edward ; 521 b.
 — licence farmer, petitions of ; 529 a, 539 b, 545 a.
 — answer to petitions of ; 545 a, 546 b.
 — satisfaction to ; 546 b.
 Richard, late deputy-governor of Duke of York's territories in America, warrant touching ; 280 b.
 — deceased ; ib.
 — of Kilcullen ; 551 a.
 Capt. Simon, of the Trinity House ; 252 b.
- Nichols :
 Mr. J. Gough ; 264 a.
 John, the antiquary ; 404 a.
 Richard ; 278 a.
- Nicholson :
 Mr. ; 382 b.
 Bishop, common-place book of ; 584 a.
 and Briggs, memorial of ; 79 a.
 Edmond ; 381 b.
 Ensign Gilbert ; 595 a.
- Nickson, Christopher, trooper ; 521 b.
- Nicol, Galfred de, of Leicester ; 404 b.
- Nicoll, William, of Braunstone, conveyance by ; 422 a.
- Nicolls :
 Mr., moneyer of the Mint ; 392 b.
 Sir Augustine, serjeant-at-law ; 441 a.
 Edw., on Northampton committee ; 6 b.
 Henry, petition of ; 523 b.
- Nicolson, —, an Irishman ; 16 b.
- Nider, Johannes ; 585 a.
- Nieuport, Viscomte de, letter of ; 40 a.
- Night walkers at Leicester, Act for ; 426 b.
- Nightingale, Ann, letter of ; 294 b.
- Nightingall, Lieut.-Col. Miles, afterwards General Sir Miles,
 letters of ; 288 b, 294 a.
- Nimeguen :
 letter dated at ; 16 b.
 treaty of ; 557 a, 558 a.
- Nipho, Mons. ; 278 b.
- Nisbet's heraldry ; 298 a, 299 a.
- Nislyrath, co. Louth, plundered ; 590 b.
- Nivelle :
 Princess of (1708), letter of ; 36 a. magistrates of, letter of ; 37 a.
- Niwantunum church ; 316 a.
- Nixe, Thomas, of Nottingham ; 417 a.
- Noailles, Marshal de ; 286 a.
- Noble :
 M. le, letters of ; 36 a.
 Richard, captive in Algiers ; 241 a.
- Noel, Noell :
 v. Nelson, writ of error ; 151 a.
 Lady Elizabeth, Act touching ; 101 b.
 Sir Martin, case of ; 151 a.
 — deceased ; ib.
 Thomas, case of ; 151 a.
- Nogelli, Comte, letters of ; 32 a.
- Nolan, Richard, licence farmer, petition of ; 544 b.
- Nollane, James, petition of ; 504 a.
- Nonconformist congregations (1671) ; 159 b.
- Nonconformists, both Houses thank the King for proclamation against (1669) ; 136 a.
- Noone, Anne and Thomas, depositions of ; 435 b.
- Norbery, John, trooper ; 521 b.
- Norbrooke ; 434 a.
- Norbury, John, mercer ; 89 a.
- Norden :
 Mr. ; 118 a.
 John, petition of ; 117 a.
- Nore, the ; 248 b, 261 b.
- Noreis, Robert le, witness ; 1 b.
- Noreys, Robert and Lucy ; 265 b.
- Norff, M., letter of ; 40 a.
- Norfolk :
 sheriff's account (temp. Mary) ; 277 b.
 Charles I.'s manors in ; 209 b.
 horse to be raised by (1645) ; 8 a.
 Earl of, Roger Bigod ; 357 b.
 Duke of, his camp ; 581 a.
 — (1437), wreck of ship belonging to ; 327 a.
 — Henry (1689) ; 86 a.
 — letter and warrant of (1689) ; ib.
 — his brother a prisoner (1715) ; 50 a.
 Countess of (1375) ; 262 b.
 Duchess of (1377) and Dawley ; 568 b.
 — Miss Copinger to be (1767) ; 485 a.
- Norforth ; 333 b.
- Norgaret, William de, proclamation against ; 350 a.
- Norham :
 documents dated at ; 346 b.
 treaty of ; 323 b.
- Norhtburgh, John de, of Leicester Hospital ; 411 a.

- Norice, one, of Wapping; 239 a.
- Norman:
- James, of Baldingham, will of; 334 a.
 - John, bailiff of Leicester; 413 a, 422 a.
- Normanby, Marquis of, letter of (1699); 560 a.
- Normandy; 585 a.
- coast of; 35 a.
- Normans, the, in Ireland; 585 b.
- Norraghbegg, co. Kildare; 508 a.
- Norris, Norreys:
- , in Leicester gaol; 440 b.
 - Sir John, letters of; 38 b, 47 b.
 - Lord, letter of; 582 b.
 - James, Act for settling estate of (1667); 109 a, 109 b.
 - letter to (1670); 151 b.
 - Act to enable him to make conveyances during minority (1670); 151 b.
 - Lady, the Earl of Salisbury's niece (1606); 380 b.
 - Mr.; 238 a.
 - Francis, of Leicester; 425 b.
 - John, sheriff of Chester; 368 b.
 - Samuel, auditor to Dean and Chapter of Canterbury; 316 b.
- Northbroc, Osbert de, purging of; 632 b.
- North, Lord:
- (1594); 376 a.
 - Dudley, writ of summons (1667); 109 a.
 - and Grey, letter of (1708); 36 a.
 - letter of (1711); 40 a.
 - (temp. Geo. III.); 288 b.
 - letters of (1779); 195 b, 201 b, 207 a.
 - letters to; 201 a, 202 a, 206 b.
 - opposition to (1779); 205 a.
- Northall (Northolt):
- Middlesex; 120 a, 120 b.
 - manor; 120 a.
- Northampton; 332 b, 335 a, 431 a.
- letters dated at; 6 b, 56 b, 344 a, 379 a.
 - justices at; 411 a.
 - the Black Monks assembled at (1875); 339 a.
 - committee of; 3 b, 7 b.
 - county, recusants in (1625); 27 b.
 - land revenue; 284 a.
 - land called Allisoe in; 6 b.
 - justices of, letter of; 46 b.
 - justices of; 51 a.
 - John, mayor of London; 89 a.
 - John de, hanged for murder; 326 a.
 - Earl of, commissioner (1604); 95 a, 95 b, 98 a.
 - document signed by (1605); 87 b.
 - (1609); 228 b.
 - (1666); 211 a.
 - privilege case, papers touching (1667); 114 b.
 - (1668); 166 a, 167 b, 173 a.
 - Marquis of (3 Ed. VI.); 416 b.
 - MSS. of; xxi.
- Northansen, information touching affair of; 37 b.
- Northburne, J. de; 341 a.
- Northe, Edward, order signed by; 373 b.
- Northesk, Lord, Treasury Commissioner in Scotland (1708); 83 b.
- Northey:
- Edward, report by; 50 b.
 - opinion by; 80 a.
 - Sir Edward, Attorney-General; 232 a.
- Northfleet:
- church; 318 b, 319 b.
 - rector of; 348 b.
 - Dr. Browne's estate in; 231 b.
- Northfolk, John, of Leicester; 414 b.
- Northleach; 333 a, 334 b.
- Northumberland:
- Earl of (1404), Henry de Percy; 264 b.
 - (1459), Henry Percy, grant by; 266 a.
 - (1605); 228 b.
 - in the Tower; 88 b.
 - (temp. Charles I.), letters of; 1 a.
 - inspeimus by (1639); 243 a.
 - navy under; 217 b.
 - challenge from; 585 a.
 - letter of (1640); 230 a.
 - letters of (1642); 211 b.
 - letter to; ib.
 - letter of (1644); 3 b.
 - letters of (1645); 7 a, 7 b, 9 a.
 - (1667); 116 a.
 - (1669); 136 b.
 - picture of (1680); 257 a.
 - (1754); 225 a.
 - (1757); 223 b.
 - Hugh, Viceroy of Ireland (1763); 477 b, 479 a.
 - (1769); 191 b.
 - Archbishop Stone and; ib.
 - Countess of, privilege case (1671); 161 b.
 - Duke of, MSS. of; xxi.
 - with James II. (1688); 555 b.
 - Duchess of, letter of (1714); 57 a.
- North-west passage, the:
- voyage to discover; 235 b.
 - depositions concerning; 236 b.
- Northwich; 396 a, 397 a.
- Northwick; 347 a.
- Norton, co. Somerset, manor; 625 a, 633 a.
- Norton:
- Dudley, letter of; 382 b.
 - John, on Northampton committee; 6 b.
 - ; 271 a.
 - Ensign John; 593 b, 594 a.
 - Richard, letter of; 36 a.
 - Thomas, verse by; 583 a.
 - Welbury, commissioner; 275 a.
- Norturville, Robt., of Chester; 368 a.
- Norwall, William, of the Wardrobe; 93 a.
- Norway; 134 a.
- tin sold in; 92 b.
- Norwich; 143 b, 242 a, 324 b, 332 b, 333 b, 334 a, passim.
- Bishop's Registry, MSS. of; xxi.
 - Corporation, MSS. of; ib.
 - St. Michael Coslany; 334 a.
 - Mint at; xii., 70 b, 74 b, 80 a.
 - embezzlements at; 80 a.
 - Goldsmiths' Company of; 70 a.
 - petition from, about the weaving at; 50 a.
 - clothiers of; 118 a.
 - dean and chapter of, MSS. of; xxi.
 - mayor of; 210 a.
 - weaving, &c. introduced to Chester by persons from (1674); 390 a.
 - Sir John; 3 a.
 - Bishop of (1299), R. Walpole; 345 a.
 - (15th century), James, petition to; 268 b.
 - Thos. Jane, his death; 333 b.
 - (temp. Geo. I.), C., letter of; 49 b.
 - (1717), letters of and to; 57 a.
 - (1780), letter of; 289 a.
- Noryce, William, justice of Leicester; 427 b, 430 b.
- Nostrevile, Robert, account of; 369 b.
- Not, —, a quack; 227 b.
- Nott, Edward, governor of Virginia; 47 a.
- Nottingham; 431 a.
- documents dated at; 344 b, 353 b, 413 b, 432 a.
 - French prisoners sent to; 34 a.
 - assizes at; 432 a.
 - bailiffs of; 414 a.
 - corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
 - tolls at; 415 b.
 - Richard II.'s court at; 414 a.
 - complaint of Leicester burgesses against; 417 a.
 - James I. at; 435 b, 441 b.
 - Charles I. at; 437 a.
 - Castle, licence of Henry VII. dated at; 331 b.
 - Earl of, David, his annuity (Geo. I.); 12 b.
 - interview with (temp. Anne); 50 b.
 - seals taken from; 53 b.
 - letters of; 54 a.
 - at Portsmouth; 54 a.
 - W. Berkeley (1484); 263 a.
 - commissioner (1604); 95 a.
 - Ld. High Admiral (1610), letter of; 399 a.
 - letter of (1611); 399 b.
 - licence by; 435 b.
 - (1661); 250 a.
 - (1668); 166 a.
 - (1675); 98 b.
 - picture of (1680); 257 a.
 - letters of (c. 1690); 31 a.
 - document signed by (1691); 86 a.
 - (1691); 562 b, 564 a.
 - and the vacant Garter (1691); 565 a.
 - letters of (1692); 58 a, 231 a.
 - letters to (1703); 45 a.
 - Countess of, dame of honour (1691); 565 b, 566 a.
- Nottying, Will., of Foster Lane, London, will of; 335 a.
- Noturville, Robert; 368 a.
- Nouo Castello, William de, witness; 408 a.
- Nowell, —, a doctor; 228 a.
- Noyer, Madame du, letters of; 40 a.
- Noyes:
- Mr., of the Trinity House; 260 a.
 - Peter, of Ramridge; 631 a.
 - R., his brother; ib.
 - Richard; 260 b.
 - Robert, of Wey; 630 a.
- Nozelle, Comte, letter of; 36 a.
- Nuby, Lieut. Michell; 593 b.
- Nugent:
- Lord, letters of; 195 b.
 - (1754); 225 a.
 - Earl, letters of (1778); 199 a, 199 b.
 - Mr.; 469 a.
 - Edmund; 498 a.
 - Nicholas; 582 a, 614 b.

- Ormonde, Marquis and Duke of—cont.
 lord steward of the household (1670), assault on, papers touching; viii., 154 b–159 b.
 letter to (1671); 158 a.
 (1686), letter of; 212 a.
 letters of (1706); 32 a.
 Duke of Marlborough and; 17 a.
 letter to (1712); 78 b.
 (1715); 40 b.
 his Conduct, a book; 59 a. governor of Kilkenny; 58 b.
- Ormonde, Duchess of :
 (1715); 40 b.
 letters of; 54 a.
- Ormond, Upper; 609 b.
- Ormsby :
 John, licence farmer, petition of; 527 a.
 Major Robert; 539 b.
- O'Rodaigh, signature; 582 b.
- O'Rorke :
 James; 481 b.
 Count; ib.
- O'Rourke :
 Thaddens Francis, Bishop of Killala; 442 a.
 Capt. Tiarnan; 442 a.
- Orpington; 335 a.
 manor of; 322 b.
- Orr, Major, letters of; 294 b, 295 b.
- Orrebi, Philip de, justice of Chester; 356 a, 356 b, 370 a.
- Orrery, Earl of : 55 b.
 (1663); 520 a.
 petition of his officers, &c.; 501 b, 533 b.
 lands held by; 520 b.
 letter of (1708); 36 a.
 (1711); 39 b.
- Orsa; 23 a.
- Orseth, manor of; 635 a.
- Orton :
 Richard, requisition by; 439 b.
 William, of Leicester; 419 a, 439 b.
- Osbalston's case (1641); 170 b.
- Osbalston, Mr., prebendary; 6 a.
- Osbalston, alias Kelly, Elizabeth; 535 b.
- Osborn, Sir George, MSS. of; xxi.
- Osborn, Osborne :
 Henry, attack on; 312 a.
 John, counsellor, petition of; 516 a.
 Nicholas; 132 a.
 — examination of; ib.
 — petition of; 510 b.
 Sir Peter, at Guernsey; 7 a.
 Sir Thomas, commissioner; 275 a.
- Osborne, Ensign Owen; 593 b.
- Oscott, St. Mary's College, MSS. of; xxi.
- Osebach, Robert, rector of St. Andrew's, Worcester; 638 a.
- Oseese, co. York, town of; 636 b.
- O'Shanaghane, Shane, convict; 550 a.
- Osnaburg, Bishop of, letters of (1706); 31 b.
- Osney, abbot of, John, commission to; 340 b.
- Ospring :
 hospital at; 320 b, 333 a.
 Eylwarton, near; 323 b.
 Dean of, Cristian, assault on; 349 b.
 Justus de; 341 a.
 Osbertus de; ib.
- Ossian controversy, the; 444 b, 451 b.
- Ossory :
 diocese of; 15 b.
 Bishop of (1648); 609 b.
 Earl of (19 Hen. VIII.); 582 b.
 — Thomas (1666); 102 a.
 — petition of; 102 b.
 — his quarrel with the Duke of Buckingham; 102 a, 102 b.
 — of the Trinity House (1675); 255 a.
 — letter of (1678); 212 b.
 — letter of (1687); 555 a.
 — Thomas; 552 a.
 — picture of; 257 a, 258 b.
 Countess of (1667); 388 a.
 — death of (1763); 285 b.
 — her sister; ib.
- Ossory, Upper, Baron of, Fitzpatrick; 514 b.
- Ossulton, Middlesex, hundred; 164 a.
- Osteley, Thomas de; 342 b.
- Ostend; 12 b, 28 b, 33 a.
 garrison, &c. of; 33 b.
 surrender of; 43 b.
 the fleet at; 49 b.
- Ostenders, their fight with the Dutch; 253 b.
- Ostendorph :
 Katherine; 148 a.
 — answer of; 148 b.
- Osterley Park, Middlesex :
 MSS. at, report on; xi., 92 b.
 paintings removed to; 100 b.
- O'Sullevans, —, proceedings of; 603 a.
- Oswald, —, Member of Parliament; 225 a.
- Oswestry, mayor of; 12 b.
- Otford, Kent, documents dated at; 349 a, 633 a.
- Otham, Kent, manor and church of; 329 a.
- Othen, Miss, MSS. of; xxi.
- Otterbourne :
 Hampshire; 263 b.
 wood of; ib.
 documents concerning; ib.
- Otto and Ottobon, constitution of; 353 a.
- Otway :
 Captain; 595 b.
 — at Rosse; 600 b.
- Oudenarde, battle of; 17 a, 19 a, 19 b, 25 a, 34 b.
- Ouenton, Thomas; 608 b.
- Ouessant, isle d'; 561 a.
- Oughtewell; 333 b.
- Oulton :
 Edward, mayor of Chester (1687), rental of Chester by; 372 a.
 Richard, mayor of Chester (1700), letter to; 393 a.
 co. Chester; 401 b.
- Oundle; 334 b.
- Ouse, the river, fords on; 9 b.
- Outhirothirstrodyr, lands of; 305 b, 306 a, 306 b.
- Outwell; 335 b.
- Over, Andrew, soldier; 534 b.
- Overassel, documents dated at; 17 a, 17 b.
- Overbroynton; 635 b.
- Overbury :
 Sir Thomas, book ascribed to; 94 a.
 — his death; 585 a.
- Overton :
 Benjamin, of the Mint; 64 a.
 — receipts of; 70 a.
- Ovid, French MS. of his Metamorphoses; 100 b.
- Owen :
 the printer, prosecution of; 570 b.
 Anthony; 380 a.
 Brother; 155 b.
 John, charge against; 485 b.
 Rev. John, letters of; 291 a, 294 b.
 Mary, answer of; 136 a.
 Robert, alderman of Ruthin, letter of; 399 a.
 Thomas, answer of; 136 a.
- Owens :
 Sergeant Major; 593 b.
 Major, prisoner; 616 a.
 Edward, trooper, petition of; 511 b.
- Owensworth, Francis, trooper, petition of; 533 b.
- Owston, co. York; 271 b.
- Oxburgh, Col. Hewart, his companies; 494 b.
- Oxen, price of, in 1278; 353 b.
- Oxenden :
 Sir George, letters to; 251 a, 254 a.
 — at Surat; 252 b.
 — present to; 254 a.
- Oxene, Jacobus de, monk of Canterbury; 338 a.
- Oxeneburne, Richard and Walter; 264 b.
- Oxenefort; 422 b.
- Oxenstiern, Comte, letters of (1706); 31 b, 36 a.
- Oxford; 4 a, 6 a, 63 a, 144 a, 209 b, 210 a, 332 b.
 document dated at; 419 a. council of; 352 a.
 Charles I. at; 3 a, 212 b. garrison; 8 b, 9 b.
 siege of; 7 b, 10 b.
 reducing of; 8 b.
 Parliament at; 105 a.
 Friars preachers in (1505); 266 a.
 Hastings Court at (14th century); 266 a.
 Physic Garden at; 285 a.
 Hospital of St. John, grant to; 264 a, 265 b.
 St. Michael's; 335 a.
 Circuit, justices of assize for, warrants to; 393 b, 395 b.
 county, committee of, letter of; 8 b.
 — lord lieutenant of, letter to; 282 a.
- Oxford University : collection for (1319); 354 a.
 in great straits from dearth of provisions; ib.
 scholars (1608); 283 b.
 the learned physicians of (1610); 435 a. professor of astronomy at; 84 a. medical degrees at; 226 b.
 All Soul's College; 50 b, 159 a, 231 b.
 — the windows in; 266 a.
 Balliol College, visitation of; 340 b.
 — MSS. of; xxiii.
 Brasenose College; 380 b, 439 b.
 Canterbury College, foundation of; 324 a, 341 b, 342 a.
 Christ Church; 176 a, note, 212 b.
 Corpus Christi College; 435 a.
 — MSS. of; xxiii.
 Exeter College, MSS. of; ib.
 Jesus College, MSS. of; ib.
 Lincoln College, MSS. of; ib.

Oxford University—cont.

- Magdalen College, MSS. in, reports on; xxiii, 262 a.
- president and fellows, letter to; 264 b.
- president, &c. of, statement by; 266 a.
- Merton College; 227 a.
- MSS. of; xxiii.
- document dated from; 288 b.
- Merton Hall; 234 a.
- New College, MSS. of; xxiii.
- Oriel College; 362 a.
- MSS. of; xxiii.
- Queen's College, MSS. of; ib.
- St. John's College; 232 a.
- MSS. of; xxiii.
- Trinity College, MSS. of; ib.
- University College, MSS. of; ib.
- Wadham College, MSS. of; ib.
- Worcester College; MSS. of; ib.
- Duke of Marlborough's gift to; 13 b.
- scholars, dialogue between; 26 b.
- papal bull to (1484); 266 b.
- the Pope asked to promote the welfare of (1812); 352 a.
- vice-chancellor (1627); 630 a.
- Oxford, Bishop of:
 - (1627), commissioner; 630 a.
 - Walter, writ of summons to (1666); 101 a.
 - (1681); 212 b.
 - W., letter of (1709); 46 b.
 - executor of the Duchess of Marlborough; 567 a.
- Oxford, Earl of:
 - (1254), Hugh de Vere; 632 b.
 - (8 Ric. II.) v. Walter Sibill; 169 b.
 - letter of (1620); 239 b.
 - (1668); 117 a.
 - letter of (1711); 39 a, 40 a.
 - letters to; 68 a, 71 b, 73 a, 73 b, 74 a, 75 b, 78 b, 91 b.
 - letters of (1712); 25 b.
 - (1713); 14 a.
 - petition to (1713); 67 a.
 - prisoner in the Mint (1715); 90 a.
 - character of; 16 b.
 - dedication to; 81 a.
- Oxford, Countess of:
 - Matilda de Veer (1366), her will; 388 a.
 - Maud de Vere (1454); 262 b.
 - Elizabeth (1668); 117 a.
 - Diana, late (1668); 117 a.
 - her sisters, Annie and Elizabeth; 117 a.
- Oxhill; 466 b.
- Oxley, Ensign Arthur; 594 b.
- Oxney, John, monk of Canterbury; 340 b.
- Oyster layings, the Duke of York's (1671); 160 b.

P.

- Pacey, Theo., soldier; 534 b.
- Pacheco, M., letters of; 31 b.
- Packer, J., letter of; 282 b.
- Packers, M., letter of; 36 a.
- Paddy, William, physician, report by; 229 a.
- Padsley, John; 65 a.
- Paedenborn, Bishop of, letters of (1706); 31 b.
- Paeris, Ranulph de; 357 a.
- Pagan, John, letter of; 290 b.
- Page:
 - Dr.; 156 b.
 - Agnes, of Polstead, will of; 333 b.
 - Sir G. and Lady, letters of; 54 a.
 - John and Cecily, conveyance by; 408 a.
 - Radulf; 639 a.
 - Radulfus, witness; 408 b.
 - Richard; 629 b.
 - William, letter of; 295 b.
 - of Willesden, will of; 332 b.
- Paget, Pagett:
 - Lord (1667); 114 a.
 - Edward, master of Christ's Hospital; 258 a.
 - J., letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.
 - Katherine; 234 a.
- Pagham:
 - benefice of; 387 a, 341 b.
 - church; 343 b, 348 a.
- Pagnei, Col., memorial of, on capitulation of Bouchain; 40 a.
- Paine:
 - Mr., steward to Duke of Richmond and Lennox; 142 a.
 - Capt. John, surveyor at Dublin; 519 a, 522 b, 525 b.
 - certificate by; 519 a.
 - weekly charge of his troop; 597 b.
 - or Payne, Thomas, of Ormonde's halberdiers; 528 a, 528 b.
 - See Payne.
- Painters, Company of, v. Company of Plasterers; 170 b.

Paisley:

- documents dated at; 309 b, 310 a.
- monastery of; 308 b.
- abbot of, Claud Hamilton; ib.
- precept, &c. by; 309 b.
- John; 309 a.
- William; 309 b.
- Pakefield; 333 b, 334 a.
- Pakenham, Capt. Henry; 598 b.
- Pakere, John, of Sandwich, clerk, pension to; 350 b.
- Pakker, Nicholas, of Wapley, will of; 335 a.
- Pakyngton, John, of Leicester; 420 a.
- Palatinate, the:
 - defence of, contributions at Leicester for; 436 a.
 - moneys issued for; 2 a.
 - Council of, letter of; 214 a.
- Palatine, Elector or Prince:
 - (1622), letter to; 214 a.
 - Ludovic, his visit to Leicester; 427 b.
 - letters of (1705); 31 a.
 - letter of (1709); 36 b.
 - letter of; 39 b.
- Pale, Lords of; 581 b.
- Paleotti, Marquis de, letters of; 37 b, 38 b, 40 a.
- Palermo; 19 b.
- Palestrina, Cardinal of, nuntio; 338 a, 344 b, 345 b, 346 a, 352 a.
- Palet, Thomas, of Leicester; 420 a.
- Palgrave; 334 a.
- Suffolk, house and manor of; 277 b.
- Paling, Richard, of Leicester; 419 a.
- Pallandt, Baron de, letters of; 36 a, 39 b.
- Pallium, the, privilege of; 318 a.
- Palmer:
 - Mr., gift by; 232 a.
 - Major, letters of; 290 b.
 - Andrew, of the Mint; 66 a.
 - Charles, letter of; 219 b.
 - Edward, waterman; 279 b.
 - Captain Emanuel; 596 a.
 - Sir Geoffrey, Attorney-General; 234 b, 636 a.
 - H., letters of; 245 b.
 - Capt. H., letter of; 292 b.
 - Henry, waterman; 279 b.
 - Sir Jeffrey, candidate for Lincolnshire; 50 a.
 - John, son of Richard the; 408 a.
 - of Lambeth, will of; 332 b.
 - Peter, inquisition by; 406 a.
 - Ralph, his Life of Baldwin Hamsey; 234 a.
 - Ric., physician, report by; 229 a.
 - Richard, defendant; 529 b.
 - soldier; 534 b.
 - Thomas le; 2 a.
 - Thomas, bailiff of Leicester; 419 a.
 - Sir W., his widow; 4 b.
 - William, petition of; 78 b.
 - resident with Mahajee Scindia, letters of; 290 b, 291 a, 294 a, 294 b.
 - Major Wm., letter of; 295 b.
 - William the, mayor of Leicester; 411 a, 421 a.
- Palmerston, Lord (1714), letter of; 57 a.
- Palmes:
 - Mr.; 17 b, 18 a.
 - letters of; 32 b, 35 b, 37 a, 38 a, 39 b.
 - letter to; 36 a.
 - his mission to Savoy; 16 a.
 - his proposals; 33 a.
 - instructions to; 47 a.
 - memorial of; 77 b.
 - General, letters of; x, 1 a, 59 a.
 - Francis, letters of; 19 a, et seq.
 - Fra., letters of; 27 a, 57 b.
- Palmquist, M., letter of; 37 b.
- Palsgrave, Prince, of the Rhine, at Leicester; 429 a.
- Palyart, M., letters of; 38 b.
- Paman, Dr. Henry, of the College of Physicians; 234 b.
- Pampeluna, Bishop of; 338 b, 339 a.
- Pandsthou, Dr., character in a dialogue; 93 a.
- Pandulf the Legate; 319 a.
- Pangaert, M., letters of; 37 b, 38 b.
- Pannell [Paynell], Sir Wm., and Margaret, his wife; 170 a.
- Panton:
 - Edward, petition of; 120 a.
 - answer to; 120 b.
 - T., letter of; 38 b.
- Papillon, Mr.; 134 a, 134 b.
- Papists; 391 b, 393 b, 395 b.
- proclamation against, message, &c. of House of Commons to the King (1666); 103 a.
- in Ireland, disaffection of; 197 a.
- Paraijba, West Indies; 553 a.
- Parbroith, co. Fife, lands of; 308 a.
- Parefoy, Lieut.; 217 b.
- Paris; 40 b.
- letters dated at; 1 a, 23 b, 28 a, 30 b, 41 a, 62 a, 218 a, 218 b, 219 a, 285 a–287 b, 552 b, 555 a, 556 b, 558 a, passim.

Paris—cont.

- treaty of (1763), papers touching ; 287 a.
 University of ; 447 b.
 Gazette, the ; 44 b.
 the Louvre, letters dated at ; 27 b.
 la grande poste de ; 30 a.
 Archbishop of (1691) ; 562 b.
- Parisot, M., letters of ; 81 b.
- Parke :
 Col., letter of ; 88 b.
 Mr., letter of ; 87 b.
 Governor of Leeward Islands ; 40 b.
 George, letter of ; 74 b.
- Parker :
 Lord (1753) ; 220 a.
 Lady, letter of ; 57 a.
 Lord Chief Justice ; 260 b.
 — letter of ; 58 b.
 Lord Chancellor, letter of ; 50 a.
 Mr. Serjeant ; 45 b.
 Francis, extracts by ; 583 a.
 John, sergeant-at-law ; 151 b.
 — his proposal ; 77 a, 77 b.
 Robert, of Leicester ; 428 b.
 Thomas, on Cambridge committee ; 10 a.
 William, prisoner, petition of ; 503 a.
 — prisoner in Carlow Castle, petition of ; 530 a.
- Parkes, Col. ; 43 b.
- Parkhall, co. Warwick ; 427 b.
- Parkham parish ; xxiii.
- Parkhurst :
 co. Warwick ; 427 b.
 Mr. ; 101 b.
 Sir William, of the Mint ; 64 a, 64 b.]
 — warrants, &c. to ; 86 a, 90 a.
 — petition of ; 103 b.
- Parkins, Parkyns :
 Mr. ; 417 b.
 Mr., recorder of Leicester ; 432 a.
 Ri., mayor of Leicester, letter of ; 432 a.
- Parkinson :
 John, of Oulton ; 276 a.
 Thomas, letter of ; 289 b.
- Parkman, William ; 530 a.
- Parley, Thomas, letter of ; 293 b.
- Parliament :
 report of a (1640) ; 383 b.
 committee of, order of (1652) ; 385 b.
 petition to (1652) ; 386 a. commission for proroguing (1666) ; 101 a. petition of city of Chester to (circ. 1667) ; 388 a. prorogation of ; 111 b.
 commission for proroguing ; 137 b.
 writs of summons to. See names of peers.
 Act concerning certain proceedings in (1669) ; 108 a.
 trials in and privileges of, Act for limiting, &c. (1669) ; 108 a. prorogued (1669), proclamation and commission ; 127 a. privilege of, Act concerning (1670) ; 153 a. freedom of speech in, resolutions concerning, &c. ; 115 a, 118 b. opening of (1708) ; 85 a. journal of proceedings in ; 61 b. members of, poor abilities of, in 1765 ; 191 a. annual, in Ireland, speech in favour of ; 185 b.
- Parma, duchy of ; 570 a.
- Parmenter, Richard Le, of Leicester ; 408 a.
- Parnel, Alderman, of Chester ; 365 b.
- Parr :
 Anne Lady, Acts (temp. Henry VIII.), touching ; 102 a.
 Thomas, letter of ; 295 b.
- Parry :
 Charles, letter of ; 76 a.
 Edwd., of Chester ; 361 b.
 Ensign Edward, letter of ; 291 a.
 Thos. ; 279 a.
 Sir Thomas, letters of ; 583 b.
- Parson, William, of Worcester ; 638 a.
- Parsone, William le, licence to ; 2 a.
- Parsons :
 Sergeant-major, weekly charge of his troop ; 598 a.
 Francis, petition of ; 418 b.
 Major James ; 595 a.
 Captain John ; 598 a, 598 b.
 Ensign Richard ; 591 b.
 Thomas, petition of ; 418 b.
 Capt. Will. ; 595 b.
 Col. William, petitions of ; 67 b.
 Sir William, Lord Justice of Ireland ; 589 a.
 — depositions taken by ; 572 b.
- Parsymour, John, of Leicester ; 412 a.
- Parthenio, C., letter of ; 294 a.
- Partman, Thomas ; 513 a.
- Partridge :
 a witness ; 155 a, 156 b.

Partridge—cont.

- George, licence farmer, petition of ; 545 a.
 John, licence farmer, petitions, &c. of ; 529 a, 539 b, 545 a, 546 b.
- Parry, Sir Thos., chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, petition to ; 435 b.
- Pascal :
 Marquis de, letter of ; 36 b.
 M., letters of ; 32 a, 35 b, 38 a, 40 a.
- Pasfield, Capt. ; 248 b.
- Pasley, Paslay, or Pezly :
 Dame Katharine, widow ; 153 b, 154 a.
 — plea and answer of ; 154 a.
- Passelewe, Robert, witness ; 1 b.
- Passes beyond seas, order of Council (1679) ; 391 b.
- Passheley, Roger, gent., of London, will of ; 383 a.
- Paston :
 —, his charges ; 268 b.
 Mr., his bill ; 119 a.
 Edward, letter of ; 37 b.
 — President of English College, Douay, letters of ; 38 b.
 Sir J., and Fastolf's estate ; 268 b.
- Pasturs, Brigadier des, letters of ; 37 b, 38 b.
- Patam, John, of Leicester ; 416 b.
- Patching, Sussex ; 323 b.
- Pate :
 General, his regiment ; 20 b.
 Captain Adam ; 595 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop ; 598 a.
 Adrian, lands held by ; 520 b.
 Edward, of Kettleby ; 65 b.
- Patenage, John de, minor canon of St. Paul's ; 633 a.
- Patenham, Vaux estate at ; 4 b.
- Paternost, Thomas, of Sherston ; 639 a.
- Paterson :
 Col., letter of ; 296 a.
 General, letter of ; 288 b.
 J., letter of ; 294 a.
 John, letter of ; 295 b.
 William, certificate by ; 303 a.
- Pateshill, Simon de, witness ; 270 a.
- Pateshull :
 Martin de ; 632 b, 633 b.
 Symon de ; 356 b.
- Patherish, co. Monmouth ; 384 b.
- Patric, Wm. and Robt. ; 356 a, 356 b.
- Patricio, Wm. ; 357 a.
- Patten, G., letter of ; 219 b.
- Patterdale ; 634 b.
- Patterson, Lieut.-Col., letter of ; 295 b.
- Patteson, Lieut. R.N. ; 289 a.
- Paunt, Roger de, witness ; 270 a.
- Paul, Captain John ; 594 b.
- Paul, Symon, appointment of ; 281 a.
- Paulet, Pawlett :
 Lord (1671) ; 161 b.
 Sir Charles ; 219 b.
 Lord William, letter of ; 40 a.
- Paull, Fr. ; 608 b, 609 a.
- Pauncefote, G., letter of ; 7 a.
- Pauwitz, M., letter of ; 40 a.
- Pavia :
 siege of ; 28 a.
 camp before ; 218 b.
 letters dated at ; ib.
 quarrel at ; 28 a.
- Pawson, Wm., letter of ; 292 b.
- Paynaham, Captain Henry ; 591 a.
- Payne, Payn :
 Captain ; 515 a.
 John, of Worcester, will of ; 335 b.
 Capt. John ; 545 a.
 Ralph, of Carisbrook, will of ; 335 a.
 — of Tewkesbury, will of ; 335 b.
 Sir Ralph ; 202 b.
 Lieut. Thomas ; 591 a.
 Walter ; 281 b.
 Waterton, suit of ; 88 a.
 Will., of Blythburgh, will of ; 334 a.
See Paine.
- Paynell, Sir Wm., and Margaret, his wife ; 170 a.
- Paynton, Nicholas, of Wolverston ; 240 a.
- Peach, John, letters of ; 289 b, 291 a, 292 b, 294 a.
- Peace, the (1709), papers relating to ; 37 b.
- Peacocke, Thomas, Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford ; 380 b.
- Peake :
 Serjeant ; 369 b.
 F., Esq., MSS. of ; xxi.
alias Kemsworth, John, schoolmaster ; 272 a.
 Martiall ; 598 b.
- Pearce :
 Brigadier, letter of ; 38 b.
 Col., letter of ; 36 a.
 Thos., letter of ; 294 a.

- Pearle :
 John ; 140 a, 140 b.
 Richard ; 140 b.
 — Act for relief of ; 140 a.
 Thos., petitions, &c. of ; 140 b.
- Pearls, &c. pawned by Charles I. ; 209 a.
- Pearse, James, chururgeon, warrant for payment to ; 280 a.
- Pearson, Colonel, letter of ; 295 a.
- Peart, John, petition of ; 125 b.
- Pease, prices of (1252-1262) ; 343 b.
- Peasenhall ; 333 b.
- Peasley, Captain James ; 596 a.
- Peasly, Capt. Francis, answer of ; 504 b.
- Peat, Samuel, letter of ; 292 b.
- Peate :
 Lieut.-Col. ; 507 a.
 Lieut.-Col. Adam ; 542 a.
- Peck, Robert, letters of ; 290 a, 290 b.
- Peckham :
 Kent ; 327 b, 329 b.
 Surrey ; 332 a, 335 b.
 Peter, of Denham, Bucks, will of ; 333 a. family ; 569 b.
- Pecock, William, of Stebbing ; 415 a.
- Pedley, Nicholas, petition of ; 109 b.
- Peebles, document dated at ; 344 b.
- Peers :
 Edmund, of Yarmouth, will of ; 333 b.
 Rich., of Shapwick, will of ; 332 b.
- Peers of England, petition of, touching precedence over those of Scotland and Ireland ; 118 a.
- Peerson, John, of Worcester ; 638 b.
- Peirce, Mr. ; 250 a.
- Peirey, James, petition of ; 528 a.
- Peirs or Peirse :
 Captain Edward ; 592 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop ; 597 b.
- Peirson, Benjamin, information of ; 121 b.
- Peke :
 John, conveyance to ; 423 a.
 William, conveyance to ; 423 a.
- Pekerell, John and Agnes, of Leicester ; 423 a.
- Pelham :
 Lord (1709), letter of ; 37 b.
 Lady, letter of ; 294 b.
 Mr., letter of ; 57 a.
 Mr. ; 219 b.
 — doctor ; 228 b.
 — his illness and death ; 221 b, 224 b.
 — his administration ; 196 a.
 Henry, letter of ; 9 b.
 — order signed by ; 10 a.
 Mary ; 150 a.
 — answer of ; 150 a.
 Robert ; 150 a.
 — answer of ; 150 a.
 Th., warrant by ; 69 a.
- Pelican, the ship ; 257 b.
- Pelle or Pette, Richard, of the King's household ; 422 a.
- Pellett, Will., of Steyning, will of ; 335 a.
- Pelliparius, Symo ; 344 a.
- Pellisson, Mr. de ; 564 a.
- Pelsant :
 one, preacher at Leicester ; 432 a.
 William., B.D., of Leicester ; 417 a.
- Pelter, Anthony, trooper ; 525 a.
- Pemberton :
 Henry and Peter, of Chester ; 361 b.
 Hugh, alderman of London, will of ; 332 a.
 Roger, licence farmer, petitions of ; 511 b, 516 a, 525 a.
- Pembroke county, ship money assessment ; 383 a.
- Pembroke, Earl of :
 (1 John), Wm., witness ; 404 b.
 (1312), Piers Gaveston and ; 354 a.
 Valence (1316) ; 262 b.
 (14th century), Hastings, his will ; 337 a.
 (3 Ric. II.) v. Thos. de Roos ; 169 b.
 (1596) ; 378 b.
 William, payment to ; 94 a.
 his players, gift to (1598) ; 428 a.
 and Montgomery, Philip, petition to (1630) ; 229 a.
 his reply ; ib.
 letter to (1632) ; 245 a.
 at Newcastle, with Charles I. (1647) ; 429 a.
 (1668) ; 117 a.
 William, petition, &c. of (1671) ; 162 b, 163 a.
 and Montgomery, Philip, late, petition of his creditors (1671) ; 161 b.
 (1688) ; 555 b.
 (1691) ; 561 a, 562 a.
 at the Hague (1697) ; xi., 100 a.
 High Admiral (1702) ; 260 a.
 Lord Lieut. of Ireland (1707) ; 16 a, 260 a.
 Lord High Admiral (1708) ; 231 b.
 letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
 Lord High Admiral (1709) ; 46 b, 50 b.
 (1763) ; 286 a.
- Pembroke, Countess of, Barbara ; 51 b.
- Penbrugge, Margaret, formerly wife of Sir Fu.ke of, certificate touching ; 370 b.
- Pencester, Steph. de, Lord Warden ; 346 b, 347 a.
- Pendlebury, Colonel, letter of ; 38 b.
- Pendreich ; 305 b.
- Penenden Heath, great Folkmote on ; 321 a.
- Pengelly, Thomas, opinion by ; 232 a.
- Penicuk, clerk of ; 310 b.
- Penifather, Major, in Limerick ; 601 b.
- Penkrich, bridge-keeper at Leicester ; 406 b, 407 a.
- Penn :
 General, of the Trinity House ; 248 b.
 Richard ; letter of ; 294 b.
 William, letters of ; 37 b.
 — heads for treaty of peace by ; 37 b.
 William, letter signed by ; 388 b.
 — his speech ; 219 b.
 Sir Wm. ; 131 b, 171 a.
 — articles of impeachment against, and his answer there- to ; 126 a.
 — an elder brother of the Trinity House ; 248 b, 250 a, 252 b, 253 b.
 — death of ; 254 b.
 — lands held by ; 520 a.
- Penne, Davies and Sibilla, grant to ; 94 a.
- Pennefather, Matt., mustermaster general ; 58 a.
- Pennell, Capt. Richard, letter of ; 294 a.
- Pennington :
 James, letter of ; 295 b.
 Lieut. James, letter of ; 293 b.
 Thomas ; 122 a.
 — petition of ; 121 b.
- Pennsylvanian Loan Office, the ; 208 a.
- Penny :
 G., of Toller, his estate ; 210 b.
 John, of Leicester ; 420 a.
- Pennyfather, Matthew, petition of ; 503 a.
- Pennyman, Sir James, commissioner ; 275 a.
- Pennyng, John, brewer, of London, will of ; 332 b.
- Penrhyn :
 Cornwall ; 254 b, 333 a.
 inhabitants of, letter of ; 142 b.
 mayor ; 142 b.
- Penruddock :
 Edward, letter of ; 399 a.
 Capt. Edward, petition of ; 250 b.
- Pentecost, Will., gift by ; 323 a.
- Pentice, derivation of ; 369 b, 396 b.
- Pentland Hills, gold in ; 84 b.
- Pentlo, Capt., letters to ; 4 b, 6 b.
- Penyton :
 land in ; 626 b.
 Garston ; ib.
 — Butte ; ib.
- Peover, document dated from ; 392 b.
- Peper, Simon ; 281 b.
- Pepin, William, abbot of Leicester ; 405 a.
- Pepper :
 G., letter of ; 40 a.
 Thomas, trooper ; 503 a.
- Pepperdston, co. Louth, plundered ; 590 b.
- Pepyr, John, of St. Olave's, Southwark, will of ; 332 b.
- Pepps, Pypes :
 John, clerk of the Trinity House ; 236 a, 254 b.
 — letters of ; 255 a, 255 b, 256 a.
 — death of ; 256 a.
- Pepps :
 Samuel ; 131 b, 133 a.
 — first master of the Trinity House ; xiv., 235 a, 255 a, 256 a, 259 b.
 — letters of, &c. ; 255 b, 258 a, 259 a, 261 b, 388 b.
 — clerk of the Navy Acts ; 254 b.
 Thomas ; 226 b.
 — examination of ; 230 a.
- Percival :
 Lord, letters of ; 54 a.
 Mrs. Crooke, Clarendon's saying about ; 190 a.
 Geoffrey, fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford ; 380 b.
 Sir Henry, petition of ; 506 a.
 — his father, Sir Philip ; ib.
 John, knt., late Mayor of London, will of ; 334 b.
 Jno. ; 74 a.
- Perey :
 Henry (Hotspur) ; 359 a.
 — (1314), letter to ; 352 b.
 — de (1312), Piers Gaveston and ; 354 a.
 — ; 412 b.
 Robert, of Wetheringsett, will of ; 334 a.
 Thomas, of Hockering, will of ; 333 b.
 — de, Earl of Worcester ; 264 b.
- Perhamstede, Kent ; 327 a.
- Perigord, precentor of ; 352 b.
- Perker, Will., of Waldingfield, will of ; 335 b.

- Perkins :
 Henry, Act touching lands ; 120 a.
 Jane, Act touching lands ; 120 a.
 Capt. John, weekly charge of his troop ; 597 b.
 Captain Richard ; 592 a.
 Ensign Thomas ; 591 a.
 William, petitions of ; 502 b, 507 a.
- Perks, Lieut. Edw., letter of ; 293 a.
- Permin, Mr., commission to ; 280 a.
- Perne, Corporal Robert ; 503 a.
- Perpignan ; 561 b.
- Perrean :
 J. P., letter of ; 295 b.
 R. J., letter of ; 289 b.
- Perriam, Elizabeth, Lady ; 284 a.
- Perrine, Madame de la ; 564 a.
- Perrott, Sir John :
 viceroy of Ireland ; 441 b.
 trial of ; 584 b.
- Perry, Mr., of Christ's Hospital ; 255 a.
- Perryman :
 Ann Posthuma ; 6 a.
 Dorothy, her daughters ; ib.
 Elizabeth ; ib.
- Perryn, Mrs. ; 155 b, 156 b, 158 a, 159 a.
- Persia : account of travels to ; 1 b.
 king of, account of an embassy to (1604) ; 23 a.
- Persons beyond seas, &c., upon whose lives estates depend, Act touching (1666) ; 101 b.
- Persun, Alexander, deed by ; 410 b.
- Perth :
 documents dated at ; 305 b, 307 b.
 King James's Hospital at ; xxiii.
 Royal Burgh of ; ib.
 synod at, in 1206 ; 300 b. attack on (1716) ; 40 b, 41 a.
 the Hessians at ; 313 b.
 the Jacobites at ; 40 b.
 St. William of, legend of ; 348 b.
- Pery, Edmund Sexton :
 correspondence, &c. of, report on ; xviii., 174 b. elected member for Limerick ; 183 a. memoranda of his speeches ; ib.
 letter on his marriage ; 190 a.
 elected speaker of the Irish House of Commons ; 192 a, 192 b.
 Lord Taaffe's interview with ; 479 a.
 John, proposed coinage by ; 75 a.
- Peryam, William, justice ; 272 b, 273 a.
- Peseux, M. de, letter of ; 38 b.
- Pesseux, Chevalier de, letter of ; 40 a.
- Pesters :
 M., letters of ; 36 a, 38 b.
 N., letter of ; 37 b.
- Petrothy, lands of ; 305 a.
- Petrovy ; 306 a, 307 a.
- Petcrowy, lands of ; 308 a.
- Petcullo, Balfour of ; 308 a.
- Peter the wild boy ; 63 b.
- Peterborough, Earl of :
 commission to (1667) ; 280 a.
 deceased (1670) ; 149 a.
 Henry, answers, statement, &c. of (1670) ; ix., 149 a, 149 b.
 — his father and brother ; 149 a.
 Viscount Mordaunt, afterwards, 1687-8, letters of his wife ; 558 b.
 helping the Queen's flight (1688) ; 555 b.
 his government of Tangiers ; 500 b. at Tangier ; 551 b. in Spain ; 1 a, 16 a, 18 a.
 letter of ; 17 a.
 instructions to ; 17 a, 60 a.
 letters of (1705) ; 31 b.
 letters to (1706) ; 47 b.
 his recall from Spain ; 2^a a.
 (1707) ; 17 b.
 at Guadalaxata ; 16 b.
 letter of ; 25 a.
 the Queen's dissatisfaction with ; 27 b. proposed trial of ; 43 b.
 letter of (1708) ; 36 a.
 Lord Charlemont's complaint against (1708) ; 36 a.
 letter of ; (1709) ; 37 b.
 letter of (1720) ; 50 a.
 letters of ; 54 a.
- Peterborough, Countess Dowager of, Elizabeth (1670) ; 149 a.
 petitions of ; 148 b, 149 a, 149 b.
- Peterborough, Bishop of (1668) ; 166 a.
- Petersfield ; 46 b, 324 b.
 letter dated at ; 46 b.
- Petit :
 Mr., his "Jew's Apology" ; 490 b.
 Claudius ; 109 a.
 M., letter of ; 36 a.
- Petitions, Lords' Committee for :
 (1667, &c.) : 136 a, 139 b, 163 b, 164 a.
- Petitions—cont.
 orders of ; 115 b, 151 a.
 report of ; 133 b.
 statement to ; 163 b.
- Petkum, H. :
 Holstein resident ; 39 a, 40 b.
 letters of ; 37 a, 38 a.
- Petling :
 Peter de, of Leicester ; 405 b.
 Robertus de, witness ; 408 a.
- Petra, Simon de, of Leicester ; 404 b.
- Petre :
 Lord (1668) ; 166 a.
 — letter of (1684) ; 219 b.
 Robert, agreements by ; 272 b.
- Petrie, Wm., letters of ; 294 b, 295 a, 295 b.
- Petscott, Wester ; 307 a.
- Pett :
 Capt., shipwright ; 243 a.
 Doctor ; 507 b.
 Joseph, of the Shipwrights' Company ; 261 a.
 Phineas, letter of ; 245 a.
 or Pelle, Richard, conveyance to ; 422 a.
- Pettit, Henry, prisoner in Fleet, &c. :
 petitions of ; 110 a, 110 b.
 — report on ; 110 a.
- Petty :
 John, deputy Surveyor General ; 532 a.
 Sir William, his Irish witnesses ; 575 b.
- Petyt :
 Duncan, archdeacon of Glasgow, witness ; 307 a.
 John, of Bridge, penance done by ; 337 a.
- Peveril, Hugo, witness ; 270 a.
- Pexal, letter dated at ; 25 a.
- Peyster, Capt. de, letter of ; 289 a.
- Peytey, Peter, of Sherborne, will of ; 335 a.
- Peyton :
 Col., letters of ; 36 a, 40 a.
 Mr., of the Mint ; 77 b.
 Craven, of the Mint ; 61 a.
 — letters of ; 68 a, 82 a.
- Pezy [? Pasley], Lady ; 153 b.
- Pharmacopœia Londinensis, the ; 229 b, 233 a.
- Phelip, Thomas, of Leicester ; 420 a.
- Phenney, Geo., governor of the Bahamas ; 91 a.
- Phelips, W., MSS. of ; xxi.
- Phiberd, Peter, petition of ; 513 b.
- Philadelphia ; 575 b.
- Philip :
 Don, his duchies ; 570 a.
 King ; 283 b.
 of Macedon, Dr. Leland's history of ; 486 b.
- Philip III., letter to ; 218 b.
- Philip IV. :
 of France, his dispute with Boniface VIII. ; 348 b. edict by ; 349 a.
- Philipp, Phillip, &c. :
 Ensign Mathew ; 591 a.
 Richard, Richard Floyd v. ; 541 b.
 Thomas, rector of Tempsford ; 262 a.
 Thomas, of Montacute, will of ; 332 a.
 Will. of Bosume, Essex, will of ; ib.
- Philippine Islands, the ; 285 b.
- Phillips, Philips, &c. :
 Major-General, letters of ; 289 a.
 Mr. ; 152 b.
 E., letter of ; 68 a.
 Edward ; 148 a.
 Ensign Edward ; 592 a.
 Humphrey ; 865 b.
 Lieut. Jeffrey ; 595 a.
 John, letter of ; 50 a.
 — of Connock ; 631 b.
 — naif ; 632 a.
 — auditor of the Exchequer, affidavit of ; 132 b.
 Col. Pawlett ; 533 b.
 Richard, of Dublin Castle ; 518 b, 527 a.
 — deputy commissary ; 523 b.
 — his answer ; 541 b, 543 b.
 — deputy mustermaster ; 547 a.
 Thos., letter of ; 293 b.
 — historian ; 480 b, 481 a.
 William, letter of ; 294 a.
- Phillippos, city of, now called Seris ; 435 b.
- Phillipson, General Richard, letters of ; 294 b, 295 a.
- Phillipstowne ; 603 b.
- Philpott :
 Ensign John ; 594 b.
- Thos., letters of ; 290 b, 293 a, 295 a.
- Philpstoun ; 307 b.
- Phinland ; 84 b.
- Phinney :
 Edward ; 139 a.
 — answer of ; ib.
- Phiphoe, Kimbroe, widow, petition of ; 549 b.
- Phippard, John, letter of ; 293 b.

- Phipps :
 Con., Chancellor of Ireland ; 74 a.
 Lieut. Thos., letter of ; 294 a.
- Phitone, Phittone :
 Hugh ; 357 a.
 Richard ; 356 a, 356 b.
- Phoenix, the ship, wrecked ; 257 a, 257 b.
- Physic Garden, the ; 269 a.
- Physicians :
 their refusal to frequent divine service ; 227 b.
 College of, Mr. Horwood's report on manuscripts of ;
 xiv., 226 a.
- Picardy, descent upon ; 34 b.
- Piccolinomini, commander under Spain ; 553 b.
- Picke, John ; 279 b.
- Pickergill ; 383 a.
- Pickering :
 document dated at ; 347 a.
 Major ; 29 a.
 Sir Gilbert, payment to ; 95 a.
- Pickin, Captain John ; 592 a.
- Picot, Ralph, sheriff ; 329 b.
- Picotti, Robertus filius ; 356 b.
- "Pictavie et Cornubie," Richard Earl of ; 357 b.
- Pictures ; 282 b, 285 a.
- Piddocks, Leonard, of Ashby-de-la-Zouch ; 419 a.
- Piedmont ; 19 b, 28 a, 33 a, 218 a.
- Pierce, James ; 279 a.
- Pierpoint, Pierrepont :
 Lady Ann ; 140 a.
 Hon. Francis, deceased ; 136 b.
 Allisimon, afterwards Lady Read ; ib.
 Lady Grace ; 230 b.
 William ; 95 a.
 — of Nottingham ; 440 a.
- Piers, Capt. Henry ; 591 b.
- Pierstowne Marshall, lands of ; 514 a.
- Pignerol ; 561 b.
 letter dated at ; 19 b.
- Pignery, M., letter of ; 37 b.
- Pigot, Pigott, Piggott :
 Lord (1777) ; 288 b.
 Serjeant ; 545 a.
 Al., certificate by ; 506 a.
 Alexander, petition of ; 519 a.
 Ensign Ant. ; 594 a.
 Mr., letter of ; 57 a.
 Rev. Edward, commissioner in Ireland ; 573 a.
 George, serjeant-at arms ; 525 a, 529 a.
 Lieut. J. P., letter of ; 294 a.
 Sir John ; 605 b.
 Capt. John ; 598 b.
 Robert, servant to Sir Arthur Chichester ; 436 a.
 Captain Robert ; 592 b.
 Col. Thomas ; 505 a.
 Thos. sheriff of Chester (1594) ; 370 b.
- Pile, B., letter of ; 291 a.
- Pilgrims :
 to Canterbury, oblations by ; 344 a.
 — form of their certificate ; 352 a.
 to Rome at the Roman Jubilee of 1300, indulgences to ;
 345 b.
- Pilkington :
 Mr., of Leicester ; 417 b.
 — his house at Leicester ; 428 b.
 John, under sheriff of co. Leicester ; 428 b.
 Richard, petition of ; 531 b.
 Tho., security for Newton ; 66 a.
 Cornet Thomas ; 596 b.
- Pille, William, of Leicester, conveyance to ; 408 a.
- Pillebir', Richard de, Constable of the Tower ; 87 b.
- Pillory, the ; 156 a, 157 a, 371 a.
- Pilots, regulations, &c. concerning. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
- Pimm, Francis, son of John, petition of ; 539 b.
- Pinchbeck ; 333 a.
- Pindar :
 Sir Paul ; 136 a.
 Sir Peter ; 389 a.
- Pingnion, Marquis de, letter of ; 36 a.
- Pinto, Monar. de ; 287 a.
- Pinu or Pin', Sibilla del, gift by ; 636 b.
- Pionville :
 M. de, letter of ; 40 a.
 M. de ; ib.
- Pipe, clerk of the, mem. touching grant of office of ; 282 a.
- Piper :
 Comte ; 16 a.
 — letters of ; 32 b, 36 a, 37 b.
 Comtesse de, letter of ; 37 b.
- Pippcott, Francis, his suit ; 3 a.
- Pirates ; 379 b, 380 a, 399 a, 399 b, 400 a.
 Turkish and other, certificates of losses by. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
 — Cromwell's letter about ; 640 b.
- Pisa, Lady Walpole at ; 570 b.
- Pisce, Richard ; 356 a, 356 b.
- Pistoia, Bishop of ; 23 a.
- Pistrino, Symo de ; 344 a.
- Pitblatho, co. Fife, lordship of ; 807 b.
- Pitcarne :
 David, archdeacon of Brechin ; 308 b.
 Isobel, spouse of Patrick, Lord Lindsay ; 308 b.
- Piteruvy ; 307 b.
- Pitirburgh, John, of Leicester ; 414 a.
- Pitlochry, the rebels near ; 314 a.
- Pitman :
 Dr., of the College of Physicians ; 226 b.
 Mary, coiner ; 71 b.
- Pitscottie ; 304 b, 307 a.
- Pitt :
 Dr., censor ; 231 b.
 Mr., keeper of Newgate ; 46 b.
 Robert ; 150 a.
 — petition, &c. of ; ib.
 William ; 286 a.
 — letter of ; 57 a.
 Mr. Secretary (1761) ; 468 a.
 — letter of (1708) ; 46 b.
 — Secretary of State (1757), letter to ; 181 b.
 — his inactivity against Lord Bute ; 190 b.
 — Henry Fox and ; 213 a.
 — candidate for Dorsetshire (1753) ; 219 b.
 — Duke of Newcastle and ; 220 b, et seq.
 — H. Fox makes way for ; 221 a.
 — at the Prince of Wales's levée ; 222 b.
 — his artful, able speech (1756) ; ib.
 — his finest speech ; 225 b.
 — and the Sutherland estate ; 566 b.
 — the Duchess of Marlborough's legacy to ; 566 b, 567 a.
 and March, letter of ; 13 b.
- Pittaro or Pittarro, Wischarts of ; 298 b, 301 a, 302 a
- Pittenweem, robbery of excise office at ; 310 b, 311 a.
- Pittoni, painting by ; 63 a.
- Pla, Mark le, certificate of naturalization ; 164 b.
- Placentia, duchy of ; 570 a.
- Plague, the, in London, 148 a, 386 b, 387 b, 399 a, 400 a.
- Plagues in London : attempts to prevent ; 226 a.
 alleged causes of ; 229 a.
- Plaiستowe, lands near ; 636 b.
- Plan, Roger de ; 356 b.
- Plantation trade, the ; 139 a.
- Plasshy, college of ; 333 a.
- Plate ; 363 b, 365 a, 400 b. inventory ; 371 b. order to convert into coin ; 365 a.
- Plate, John, letter of ; 37 b.
- Platevort, Alexander, trooper ; 525 a.
- Playdell, William, letters of ; 289 b.
- Player :
 Sir Thomas, letters of and to ; 387 a. chamberlain of city of London ; 133 a.
- Players :
 temp. Eliz., payments to ; 428 a.
 at Leicester, Lord Worcester's, their unruly conduct ;
 430 b.
 — memorandum touching others ; 431 a.
- Playter :
 Peter, of Cheam, will of ; 335 a.
 Thomas, expenses of ; 268 b.
- Playters, Sir Wm., 127 a.
- Pleas, Common :
 Lord Chief Justice of (1608), letter to ; 382 b. clerks, &c. of, case of (1641) ; 170 b.
- Plebian, Thomas, witness ; 330 b.
- Pledall, William, petition of ; 529 b.
- Plemondstone, church of ; 371 a.
- Plessen, M. de ; 27 a.
- Plessetis, John de, Earl of Warwick ; 265 b.
- Plesseto, John de ; 357 a.
- Plimton, Plympton :
 St. Peter and St. Paul, church of ; xiii., 636 b. prior, &c. of ; 637 a.
- Plit', Richard ; 357 a.
- Plomer, Thomas, of Swaffham, will of ; 333 b.
- Plot :
 gunpowder, papers relating to ; 434 a.
 late horrible (1678) ; 391 b.
- Plowden, R., letter of ; 290 b.
- Pluche, Noel Antoine, author ; 462 a.
- Pluckele, Osbert de, gift by ; 329 a.
- Pluckley :
 Kent ; 327 a.
 Helgaryndenn in ; 329 a.
- Plummer :
 Mrs., letter of ; 57 a.
 alias Leynham, Sir John, his wife Margaret ; 262 b.
- Plunket, Plunkett ; 494 a. of Rathmore ; 506 b, 507 a. apostate ; 610 b.

Plunket, Plunkett—cont.

- Roman Catholic Primate of Ireland; 164 b.
- Capt.; 390 b.
- Charles; 466 b.
- Ignatius; 511 b.
- Mathew, of Louth, Ireland, his tenants; 511 b.
- Michael, of Oxhill; 466 b.
- of Ardkeena; ib.
- Sir Nicholas; 611 a, 614 a.
- Robert; 466 b.
- Cornet Robert; 596 b.
- Walter, of the Grange, co. Dublin; 506 a.
- Sir Walter, lands held by; 520 b.

Pluscarden, commendator of; 309 b.

Plutarch's Lives; 63 b.

- Plymouth; 34 b, 239 b, 242 a, 248 b, 255 b, 259 b, 393 b, 563 a.
- port of; 94 a.
- threatened by the French; 202 b.
- pirates near; 242 b.
- proposed free port; 247 b.
- Sound; 34 b.
- Sutton water, &c. in; 164 b.

Po:

- the river; 16 b.
- Leonard, physician; 228 a.
- examination of; ib.
- licensed to practise, &c.; ib.
- censured and fined; 228 b.

Pocock, John, of Maidenhead; 35 a.

Podekesey, Pudesreshy; 637 a.

Podington, document dated from, 375 a.

Poell, Ensign, prisoner; 8 a.

Poer, Dickun Le, witness; 408 b.

Poetry, collection of; 24 a.

Pohl, Lieut. Christian, letter of; 295 b.

Poincar, Francis, a French prophet; 46 b.

Pointis, Mr. De; 496 b, 497 b.

Poisson, M., letter of; 40 a.

Poissey, wines gathered at, for Ch. Ch., Canterbury; 344 b.

Poitiers, documents dated at; 351 a.

Poitou, Cornwall and, Earl of, Richard; 263 b.

Poland:

- History of, by Dr. B. Connor; 464 a.
- and Russia (1768); 489 b.
- king of (1702); 16 a.
- letters of (1705); 31 a.
- letter of (1708); 36 a.
- (1709); 36 b.
- (1710); 38 a.
- warrants by (1712); 14 b.
- Augustus; 47 a.
- Stanislaus; 34 a.
- and queen of (1756); 220 b.

Pole:

- Edmund de la, psalter given to; 625 a.
- his mother Katherine; ib.
- his children, dates of their births, &c.; ib.
- John de la; 402 a.
- Sir Michael de la; 626 a, 627 b.
- lease by; 625 a.
- Sir Thomas de la, manors released to; 625 a, 625 b.
- William de la, Earl of Suffolk, Ewelme almshouse founded by; xiv., 624 b, et seq.

Poledavies, sackcloth and, sealing of; 243 a.

Poleman, Dr.; 163 a.

Poley, Mr., letters of; 31 b.

Polgrave, Will., tailor, of London, will of; 332 b.

Poligrac, Abbé de; 558 a.

Poll Bill, the papers touching (1666); 106 a, 128 a.

Pollard:

- John, of co. Bucks; 7 b.
- Miles, soldier; 548 a.

Pollards, clipped or foreign coins, suppression of; 347 b.

Pollet:

- Dr., president of the College of Physicians; 232 a.
- letter to; ib.

Pollexfen:

- Major, letter of; 40 a.
- Mr., his treatise; 80 b.
- Newton's reply to; ib.

Pollyng, Henry, of Tolliton, will of; 335 a.

Polstead; 333 b.

Polton, Calderwood of; 312 b.

Polwarth:

- Lord, letter of (1691); 557 b.
- letter of (1709); 37 b.

Pomeroy, William and Christiana; 637 a.

Pomery or Pomeroy:

- Thomas; 169 b.
- Sir Thomas and Jane; 169 b.

Pompadour, Madame, or Marquise de; 287 b, 572 a.

Pomry, John, of Wells; 639 b.

Pon, Capt. Corneil du; 17 a.

Poncio, Pablo Golardo; 22 b.

Pondū, William, of co. Bedford, indenture by; 362 a.

Ponde, William, of Corton, will of; 333 b.

Ponsonby:

- Col., governor of Dundalk; 599 a.
- Mr., his election to the Speakership; 180 a, 180 b, 181 a.
- or Punsobey, Capt. Henry; 596 b.
- John, elected Speaker of Irish House of Commons; 174 b.
- narrative of events leading to his election; 176 b, et seq.
- his resignation of the Speakership; 192 a.
- late Speaker; 195 b.
- William Brabazon, of the Irish House of Commons; 192 a.

Pont, Frances du, maid to Lady Bolingbroke; 567 a.

Pontage at Leicester, redemption of; 406 a.

Pontefract:

- Corporation of, Mr. Jeaffreson's report on MSS. of; xvi., 269 a.
- document dated at; 270 b.
- notes from parish registers; 276 a.
- made a free borough; 271 a.
- list of mayors; 275 a.
- Common Hall; 275 a.
- book of entries at; 274 a.
- order about trading of foreigners in; 273 b.
- its condition after the Civil Wars; 274 b.
- castle, surprise of; 276 b.
- petition for its demolition; 274 b.
- surrender of; ib.
- order for its demolition; ib.
- sale of materials of; 275 a.
- Park, survey of; 272 b.
- St. Giles' chapel; 276 a.
- Queen Elizabeth's school in, decree concerning; 271 b.
- Knole's almshouse in; 271 b.
- Merchants' Guild at; 271 a.
- Trinity House, near; 271 b.
- Trinity Brethren and Sisters in; 274 a.
- St. Nicholas' Hospital, letters patent concerning; 273 b.
- honour of; 271 a.

Pontington, Nicholas, v. Sir Philip Courtney; 169 b.

Pontrell, Roger; 414 a.

Pontysbury, Nich., of Shrewsbury, will of; 382 a.

Pool, Poole:

- Sir Harry, his son (1608); 288 b.
- Capt. Hugh; 592 a.
- Sir James; 391 a.
- John, mayor of Chester (1664), letters to; 387 a, 387 b.
- Sir Wm., bond to; 283 b.
- mayor of, letters to; 245 a.

Pooles, Capt. Hugh, weekly charge of his troop; 597 b.

Pooley:

- Capt.; 385 b.
- Mr., payment to; 526 a.

Poona; 288 b, 289 b, 290 a, 293 a, 293 b, 294 a, 294 b, 295 a, 295 b.

resident at, letter of; 292 b.

See Malet, C. W.

Poore, Power, Colonel, agent to Lord Muskerry; 616 a.

Pope:

- the (1708), letter to; 36 a.
- Leake's instructions about; 34 a.
- feeling in Rome towards; 19 b.
- the pretended Prince of Wales and; 32 b.
- doctor; 228 b.
- Alexander, letters of; 1 b, 54 a.
- to the Duchess of Marlborough; x., 56 a, et seq.
- critiques on; 460 a, 462 a.
- Bolingbroke's reference to; 566 b.
- his illness and death; 571 b.
- John and Philip; 625 b.
- Thomas, naif; ib.
- W. and Joan, lease to; 630 a.

Popery; 387 b.

- petition of both Houses to the King touching the growth of (1671); 164 b.
- Bill, the (1671); ib.

Popes, lives and portraits of; 582 b.

Popham:

- Chief Justice; 228 b.
- Dionysius de, of Norwich diocese; 634 b.
- E., letter of; 247 a.

Poplar; 238 b, 250 a, 253 a.

Rich., fishmonger, of London, will of; 335 a.

Popoly, Duke de, letter to; 36 a.

Pordom, Major, governor of Balleglahan; 601 b.

Port Mahon; 20 a, 27 a, 33 a.

- surrender of; 35 a.
- taking of; 20 a.

Port Nelson; 30 b.

Portbury:

- v. Ledgingham; 128 a.
- Roger; 141 b.

Porte lands, co. Kildare; 505 a.

Portebrothok, laird of; 305 a.

Porteous riots, the, account of; xviii., 310 b.

Porter :

- Capt. ; 553 a.
- petition of ; 245 b.
- Mr., of the Trinity House ; 231 a, 258 a.
- Charles, solicitor to Duke of York ; 279 b.
- commission to (1660) ; 279 b.
- Edward, soldier ; 542 a.
- Endymion, letter of ; 211 b.
- interrogation to ; 217 b.
- George ; 146 b.
- answer of ; ib.
- Thomas, payment to ; 212 b.
- Capt. Thomas, grant to ; 244 a.
- Wm. ; 367 b.
- of Peasehall, will of ; 333 b.
- Portico, Robert ; 65 a.
- Portington, Roger, commissioner ; 275 b.
- Portland ; 252 b.
- French fleet off ; 211 a.
- lights at ; 261 b.
- , his regiment in Ireland ; 563 a.
- Earl of, Lord Treasurer (1631) ; 247 a.
- his houses in Pall Mall ; 51 a.
- Thomas (1667), writ of summons ; 111 b.
- (1689) ; 556 a.
- (1691) ; 556 b.
- letters of ; 559 a.
- his apartment at Whitehall (1691) ; 563 a.
- and the vacant Garter ; 565 a.
- letter of (1705) ; 44 a.
- letters of (1706) ; 32 a.
- (1707) ; 32 b.
- letter of (1708) ; 36 a.
- (1709) ; 37 b.
- Lady (1714), letter of ; 57 a.
- Margaret, of Alisham, will of ; 333 b.
- Portlester skirmish ; 604 a.
- Portman :
- Lord, his regiment (1708) ; 20 a.
- Mr. ; 131 a.
- Portmanemote, at Leicester, charter reforming laws, &c. of ; 409 a, 413 a, 414 a.
- Portmore, Lord (1710, &c.), letters of ; 38 b, 40 a, 57 a.
- Portnadow Bridge ; 574 a, 575 b.
- Portrush ; 496 b.
- Ports, free, opening of ; 247 b.
- Portsmouth ; 33 b, 67 b, 80 b, 92 a, 131 a, 231 a.
- document dated at ; 347 a.
- summons for military assembly at ; 347 a.
- threatened by the French ; 202 b.
- harbour ; 17 b.
- Duchess of, letters of (1705) ; 31 b.
- letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
- Princess Anne and ; 52 a.
- Earl of, MSS. of, Mr. Horwood's report on ; xi., 60 b.
- Portswood manor, Southampton, Act for settling ; 151 b.
- Portugal ; 17 a, 39 b, 156 a, 394 b.
- importation of wines from ; 206 a.
- treaty with (1706) ; 44 a.
- estimate of English forces for (1709) ; 37 b.
- trade with ; 50 b.
- war in, account of ; 60 a.
- King of, John, letter of ; 25 a.
- letter of (1709) ; 36 b.
- (1710) ; 38 a.
- Portuguese, losses inflicted on the East India Co. by ; 553 b.
- Portumney, surrender of ; 614 b.
- Pory :
- John, treasurer to the late Archbishop Juxon ; 113 b.
- Katherine, petition of ; 113 b.
- Robert, archdeacon of Middlesex ; 117 a.
- petition of and order ; 117 a.
- Post horses, regulations for keeping, at Leicester ; 425 a, 425 b.
- Postwick ; 334 a.
- Potherbach, near Chester ; 358 a.
- Potin, William, witness ; 235 a.
- Potkyn, William, registrar ; 334 a, 336 a.
- Potle, Mr., plague doctor, at Leicester ; 435 a.
- Pott, Robt. Perceval, resident at Moorshedabad, correspondence of ; 289 a-292 b, passim, 295 a.
- Potter :
- Mrs. ; 51 a.
- Ensign Mathew ; 593 a.
- Thomas ; 105 a.
- Dr. Thomas, dean of Waterford ; 539 b.
- Wm., secretary of Hudson's Bay Co., letter of ; 38 b.
- Potton ; 335 a, 335 b.
- Potts :
- J., order signed by ; 10 a.
- James, of Dublin ; 528 b.
- Potyn, Nicholas, obit of ; 329 a.
- Pouce, Fr. John ; 610 a.
- Poucet, document signed by ; 553 a.
- Poularstown, co. Limerick ; 532 b.
- Poulett, Earl of, letter of (1711) ; 39 b.
- Poulford, — ; 377 a.

Poultny :

- Sir John, recommended as burgess for Leicester ; 434 a.
- recommended as recorder of Leicester ; 434 b.
- Poulton, Lieut. Antony ; 594 a.
- Pountney :
- Mr., a grazier ; 157 a.
- Lieut. William ; 504 b, 506 a.
- Pourtepol, prebend of ; 633 a.
- Poussin, Gaspar and N., paintings by ; 100 b.
- Poutow, letter dated at ; 218 b.
- Povey :
- Thomas, treasurer and receiver-general to Jas. Duke of York ; 279 b.
- warrants to ; 279 b, 280 a, 281 a.
- licence farmer, petition of ; 516 b.
- Walter, tailor, of London, will of ; 335 a.
- Powdlych, John, of Wisbeach, will of ; 332 a.
- Powell :
- Bishop of Hereford ; 170 b.
- Mr., harp player ; 24 b.
- James ; 278 a.
- Ensign John ; 594 b.
- John, licence farmer, petition of ; 516 b.
- Sir Richard, commission to ; 280 a.
- Roderick, Queen's purveyor of beer ; 431 a.
- Thomas, letter of ; 377 a.
- Walter, petition of ; 506 a.
- Power or Poore, Colonel, agent to Lord Muskerry ; 616 a.
- Power :
- Andrew, of Mentmore, licence to ; 2 a.
- Capt. Richard ; 529 b.
- his company ; 534 a.
- Thomas, vicar of Littleington, articles against ; 5 a.
- carman, payment to ; 526 a.
- Powerscourt, garrison at, in 1648 ; 592 b.
- Powis, Powys :
- Lord, Wm. (1667), writ of summons ; 112 b.
- (1668) ; 166 a.
- Mrs., her flight with Queen Mary ; 555 b.
- R., report by ; 75 b.
- Mr. Serjeant ; 45 b.
- Powtler, Thomas ; 430 b.
- Pownall, Thomas, letter of ; 207 b.
- Pownder :
- Henry ; 376 b.
- William ; ib.
- Richard ; ib.
- Poynes, Sir Toby ; 522 a.
- Poyning's Act ; 602 b.
- letter relating to ; 182 b.
- Poyntz :
- Mr., "Mr. Littleton's letter to" ; 63 b.
- at Soissons ; 62 a.
- General ; 9 b.
- Prager, Lyon, letter of ; 293 b.
- Prague ; 23 a, 30 a.
- letter dated at ; 214 a.
- Praison, Mr., conspirator ; 434 a.
- Praslin :
- Duc de (1763) ; 285 b, 286 a, 286 b.
- letters of ; 286 a, 286 b.
- letter to ; 285 b.
- Pratt :
- to be Attorney-General ; 225 a.
- Captain ; 429 b.
- Dr., letters of ; 54 a.
- Mr., letters of ; 49 a.
- Will., of Monesley, will of ; 333 b.
- Preistland, co. Louth, lands in ; 532 a.
- Prendelgast, Philip de, indenture by ; 61 a.
- Prendergast, Edmund, letter of ; 37 b.
- Prendirgest, Henry of, witness ; 305 a.
- Presbyterians, the ; 157 b.
- in Edinburgh (1708) ; 48 a.
- a spy among (1713) ; 14 a.
- in Ireland (1751) ; 177 b, 206 a, 207 b.
- Prescott :
- Mrs., MSS. of ; xxi.
- Wm., letter of ; 239 b.
- Presey, Thomas, of Bishopston, will of ; 332 a.
- Prestley, Lieut. Symon ; 591 a.
- Preston ; 335 b.
- Wilts ; 639 a.
- battle of ; 40 b.
- the Cowler of, a farce ; 50 b.
- near Faversham, manor of ; 330 a.
- church of ; ib.
- Lord, letters of (1684) ; 30 b.
- (1691) ; 562 b.
- imprisoned (1691) ; 565 a.
- released ; 565 b.
- Brigadier ; 17 b.
- Col., letter of ; 36 a.
- Sir George ; 535 b.
- Sir James ; 613 a.
- Sir Richard, at Leicester ; 428 b.
- Roger de, of Hickling ; 423 a.

Preston—cont.

- General Thomas, in Ireland; 578 a, 579 a, 603 b–612 a, passim.
 — letter of; 616 a.
 — made Viscount Taragh; 614 b.
 William, of Drayton, his bond; 11 a.
 Prestonpans; 313 b.
 Prestwich, Sir Thomas; 159 a.
 Pretender, the; 396 a.
 the Old; 36 b.
 Preton', Eilweker, witness; 330 b.
 Pretty :
 Matthew; 154 b, 156 b.
 — attestation, &c. of; 156 b, 158 a.
 Prettyman :
 Sir John; 142 a, 142 b, 164 b.
 Dame Theodosia, wife of preceding, petition of; x., 164 b.
 Prettyman, Sir John, letter of; 440 a.
 Pretz, abess of, letter of; 40 a.
 Price :
 a soldier; 390 a.
 Mr., receiver-general in Ireland; 498 b.
 Elizabeth; 461 b.
 Mrs. Elizabeth; 155 a, 156 a, 156 b, 157 a, 157 b.
 — depositions of; 157 a, 158 a.
 Capt. Garret; 385 b.
 H. P., letter of; 16 b.
 John, letter of; 386 a.
 Joseph, letters of; 292 b, 295 a, 295 b.
 Rich., letter of; 386 b.
 Thomas, note of action brought by; 141 b.
 — Bishop of Kildare; 536 a.
 William, soldier; 534 b.
 Prices, illustrations of; 134 a, 146 a, 277 b, 343 b, 358 b, 377 b, 534 b, et seq.
 Pricket, Abacuck, deposition of; 236 b.
 Pride, Mrs., and her children, resolution on Bill touching; 107 a.
 Prideaux :
 — John, commissioner; 630 a.
 R. W., Esq., MSS. of; xxi.
 Pridwell, Adam de; 633 b.
 Prié, Marquis de; 20 a.
 letters of; 31 b, 32 a, 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.
 Priests; 390 b.
 Prigol, Madame de, letter of; 40 a.
 Primatt :
 Anne; 121 a.
 — petition of; 120 b.
 Josiah; 121 a.
 — petition of; 120 b.
 Primogeniture, charters affecting; 407 a.
 Primrose :
 Dr., treatise against; 230 a.
 Major-General; 17 b.
 Prince Royal, the :
 letter of (1709); 36 b.
 letter of (1710); 38 a.
 Prince, George, of Dunchurch; 434 a.
 Princhard —, a bailiff; 146 b.
 Pringle, Pringell :
 Mr., letters to; 244 b, 246 a.
 Capt. James, letters of; 292 b, 293 b.
 Robert, letters of; 59 a.
 Prior :
 Father; 614 a.
 Matthew, letters of; 31 b, 36 a, 37 b.
 — invective against; 15 a.
 Prisoners :
 for debt, Act for relief of (1667); 115 b.
 — Lords of Committee for relief of, petition to; 153 a.
 of war (1708), letter of, to Duke of Marlborough; 36 a. transportation of, Act touching; 142 a.
 taken by the Turks, Moors, &c., certificates concerning.
 See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
 Prisons for debt, state of (1670); 152 a, 152 b, 153 a.
 Pritchard, Prichard :
 Samuel; 102 b, 103 a.
 Thos.; 102 b, 103 a.
 Prittlewell; 332 b.
 Pritty, Col. Henry, petition of; 501 b, 536 a.
 Pritzelwitz, M. de, letter of; 36 a.
 Privateers; 394 b.
 Privileges, committee of (House of Lords), proceedings, &c. of; 101 a, 118 a, 122 b, 136 a, 136 b, 147 a, 167 b.
 Prize :
 Office, the; 44 a.
 money, &c., ancient custom for distribution of; 243 a.
 ships; 129 a.
 Proby, Mr. :
 letter of; 376 b.
 Peter; 374 b.
 Probyn, Peter, attestation by; 411 b.
 Proclamations about coinage, &c.; 61 a.
 Proctor :
 Henry, letter of; 375 b.
 J. of Newcastle; 250 a.
 Lieut. Thomas; 546 a.

- Profaneness and swearing. See Atheism, profaneness, &c.
 "Projet, L'Auteur du," letter of; 36 a.
 Property, lay, assessment of a fifteenth; 346 b.
 Prophecy of events in 1661 and 1688; 209 a.
 Prosser, John; 106 b.
 letter of; 106 b.
 affidavit of; 136 a.
 Protestants :
 in the Cevennes; 16 b. in Ireland, distressed (1641); 573 a.
 German, letters about; 1 a.
 Proverb; 152 b.
 Provision books (1617–1673); 277 b.
 Prowd, John, of the Trinity House; 256 a.
 Prowde, Thomas, of Bristol, will of; 332 a.
 Prujeau, Sir Francis, of the College of Physicians; 234 b.
 Prussia, King of :
 his title of Mecklenburg; 34 a.
 (1705); 52 a.
 letters of; 31 a.
 — (1707); 32 b.
 (1708); 20 a, 33 a.
 the Prince of Orange and; 34 a.
 letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — (1710); 38 a.
 letters of (1715); 40 b.
 at Aix (1742); 571 b.
 Machiavelli and (1742); 56 b.
 his proceedings in Saxony (1756); 220 b.
 his policy towards the Catholics (1778); 198 a, 198 b.
 (1791); 295 a.
 Prussia, Prince Henry of, letter of; 57 b.
 Prynne, William :
 petition of; 210 a.
 papers relating to; ib.
 of the Trinity House; xiv., 235 b, 250 a.
 his death; 236 a, 254 a.
 proceedings against; 584 b.
 Psalter belonging to the De la Pole family; 625 a.
 Pseudo-Abdias, works of; 572 a.
 Pudsey, Pudesedaia :
 co. York; 637 a, passim.
 Col., letter of; 40 a.
 Ambrose, commissioner; 275 a.
 Lieut. Tho.; 592 a.
 Puffendorff's works; 61 b.
 Pugh, John, of Chester; 361 b.
 Pughe, H., letter of; 37 b.
 Pulbrigg, the; 358 a.
 Puleston :
 Sir R., MSS. of; xxi.
 Richard, mayor of Chester (1705), recommendation signed by; 393 b.
 Pulford, Herbert de; 356 a, 356 b.
 Pulteney :
 Brigadier, letters of; 36 a, 38 b.
 Mr., letters of; 35 b, 37 a, 38 a, 39 b.
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 Wm., his proposition for an allowance to the Prince of Wales; 566 a.
 Pulton, Mr., letters of; 32 b.
 Pundit, Hurry; 293 a.
 Punsonby, Colonel; 596 a.
 Punt, Behroo; 292 b.
 Puport, document signed by; 553 a.
 Purbeck : island of; 208 b, 209 a.
 assessment of estates in; 210 b. deputy lieutenants in; ib.
 militia in; 211 a.
 Purcell :
 his dragoons in Ireland; 494 b.
 Major-General; 608 a, 610 b, 615 b.
 Mr. of Dublin; 471 a.
 Henry, musician; 12 b.
 John, of Roscommon; 466 b.
 William, of the Graige, Queens Co.; 545 b.
 Purchas's Pilgrims, books of; 257 a.
 Purches, Will., mercer and alderman of London, will of; 335 a.
 Purcivall, Mr., of Cashell; 15 b.
 Purdon, Sir Nicholas, his company or troop; 530 a, 547 a.
 Purdy, Robert, quartermaster; 596 a.
 Purefoy :
 sergeant-major, weekly pay of his troop; 597 a.
 Major; 591 a.
 Lieut. Arthur; 596 a.
 Gamaliel, on Coventry committee; 7 b.
 Humfrey, letter of; 432 b.
 Lieut. Pet.; 591 a.
 William, directions by; 247 b.
 Purefye, Wm.; 382 b.
 Purife, Humfrey, recorder of Leicester; 482 a.
 Purnock, his claim; 258 a.
 Purpyn, Sir George; 416 b.
 commission to; 417 a.
 Purves, Dr.; 230 a.
 Pusey, Sidney, E. E. Bouverie, Esq., MSS. of; xxi.

Pusignan or Pusiniant, M. de, in Ireland; 493 b.
 Putehen, Mr., of Leicester; 429 a.
 Putte, M., letter of; 38 b.

Puttock, Roger, commissioner; 572 b, 573 b.

Puys:

Monsr. de; 278 a.

Mrs. de; ib.

Pychar, William, of Cambridge, will of; 335 b.
 Pycondale; 371 a.

Pye:

Richard, letters of; 290 b, 291 a, 292 b.

Sir Robert; 170 b.

William, letters of; 289 b, 290 a.

Pykes, John, of Ronighton, Holme (Runham or Ranton?), will of; 333 b.

Pykman, John, clerk, of Bath and Wells diocese, will of; 334 b.

Pyly, Margaret, of Lynn, will of; 334 b.

Pym, Lieut. John, petition of; 515 a.

Pympe, John, son of Reginald; 329 a.

Pynchpole, John, of London, will of; 335 b.

Pyndar, Sir Peter, letters to; 391 b.

Pyne:

Henry, letters of; 290 a, 290 b.

John, petition of; 544 a.

Nicholas; 397 b.

Pynkney, Thomas, his case; 170 b.

Pynnar, Nicholas, surveys by; 572 a, 581 a.

Pynnes, Rich. of East Dereham, will of; 333 b.

Pyrleston; ib.

Pyx, the:

assays of; 61 a.

trial of; 69 b, et seq.

Q.

Quacks, punishment of; 226 b, et seq.

Quaker, a:

his petition to the Duke of Ormonde; 502 a.

T. Butler, petition of; 523 a.

Quakers:

the; 219 b, 388 b, 389 b, 390 a.

opinion, Act against; 388 b.

meetings; 389 b.

Quarry:

Mr., his death; 24 a.

William, trooper, petition of; 510 b.

Quebec, Bishop of:

(1708); 46 b.

Jean, letter of; 46 b.

Queenborough, co. Leicester, Prince Rupert at; 437 a.

Queensberry, Duke of:

his removal; 16 b.

letters of (1706); 32 a.

— (1707); 32 b.

letter of (1709); 37 b.

— (1710); 38 a.

Queensberry, Duchess of, entertainments by (1748); 569 a.

Queen's County:

losses in, during rebellion (1641); 573 a.

plantation in; 581 b, 582 a.

Queen's Hithe or Queenhithe:

the; 89 a.

St. Michael's; 323 a.

Quelch, John, churchwarden of St. John's, Dublin, petition signed by; 528 b.

Quellene, M., letter of; 38 b.

Quelly:

Abp. of Tuam; 604 b.

executed; ib.

Quency:

Matilda de, indenture by; 61 a.

Roger de, Earl of Winton, witness; 407 a.

Quennington; 334 b.

Quenyngburgh, Thomas, de Wymondeswold; 423 a.

Queros, Don, letters of; 32 a.

Quérouaille, Louis de, Duchess of Portsmouth, Charles II.'s grant to; 632 a.

Querton, Edward, payments to; 628 a.

Quesney, M. de, letter of; 37 b.

Quilter, Samuel, letter of; 127 a.

Quinci, Seyerus de, witness; 421 b.

Quine, Quynn, Henry; 382 b.

Quinton, co. Gloucester:

deeds concerning; 263 a.

vicar of, letter of; 263 a.

Quiros, M. de, letter of; 35 b.

Qynton, Walter, priest, of Ipswich, will of; 335 a.

Qwarehill or Estthaitmore, co. Stirling; 307 a.

R.

Raab, Bishop of, letters of (1705); 31 b.

Rabone, Richarde; 374 a.

Raby, Lord:

letters of (1705); 31 b.

—; 32 a.

— (1707); 32 b.

(1708); 33 b.

letter of (1709); 36 b.

— (1710); 38 a.

(1711); 39 a.

letter of; 39 b.

Rachra; 613 a.

Raculore, manor of; 319 b.

Racy, Adam and Elizabeth, of Leicester; 422 a.

Radcliff:

Mrs., prisoner; 50 a.

Arthur, brewer, of London, will of; 332 a.

Edwd.; 140 b.

Sir George; 582 a.

Henry; 376 b.

Richard; ib.

William; ib.

Radewelde, John atte Broke de; 342 a.

Radford; 434 a.

Rading:

Lord Walter de, conveyance to; 410 b.

Walter; 439 a.

Radington, Sir Baldwyn of; 370 b.

Radnor, Lord, executor of Sir J. Cutler (1701); 231 b.

Radway, Thomas, of Cirencester, will of; 334 b.

Raffles, T. Stamford, Esq., MSS. of; xxii.

Rafman, John, steward of Sir J. Fastolf; 268 a.

Ragotski, Ragotzi, Prince:

letters of (1706); 31 b.

(1708); 26 b.

letter of; 37 b.

papers relating to (1710); 38 b.

Rahin lands, co. Kildare; 505 a.

Rahorrow parish, co. Roscommon, lands in; 518 a.

Rainborowe, Capt., before Woodstock; 10 b.

Raine, Lady de la (1738); 13 b.

Rainsborowe, C.; 553 a.

Rainsford:

Baron (1667); 112 a.

Henry; 278 b.

Rait:

William, of Halgrein, licence to; 302 b.

— Laird of Halgreen, letters of; 299 a, 303 a.

Raleigh, Sir Walter:

discourse by; 25 b.

in the Tower; 88 b.

his wine licence; 434 b.

letters of; 582 a, 585 a.

his Ghost; 585 a.

papers by; ib.

Raleigh, Will., Bishop of Winchester; 263 b.

Rallibarnagh, concealed lands of; 531 a.

Ralph:

the ship; 245 a.

James, his history of Charles II.; 569 b.

Ram Head; 252 b.

Ramas, Henry, letter of; 294 a.

Ramillies, battle of; 60 a.

Rampton; 335 a.

Ramridge, Ramrugge, co. Hants:

manor; 625 a, 628 a, 630 a.

rent roll of; 626 a.

court rolls of; 626 a, 631 a.

Ramsault, Monsr. de, letter of; 285 b.

Ramsay:

Sir Alexander, of Dalnulsy; 306 b.

Allan, the poet; 310 b.

— letters of; xviii., 311 a, 312 b, 313 a.

— his son Allan, the portrait painter; 311 a, 312 b.

Governor Andrew, letters of; 290 b, 291 a.

David, petition of; 244 b.

James, of Clatty; 306 b.

Jonet, spouse of David Lindsay; 307 b.

— letters of resignation by; ib.

Sir Ness, of, grant to; 304 a, 304 b.

— his son John, grant to; 305 a.

Walter the, of Crannock; 307 a, 307 b.

Ramsbury; 335 a.

Ramsden:

Bouhey v., writ of error; 151 a.

John, of Pontefract; 274 a, 274 b.

William, of Pontefract; 275 b.

- Ramsey :
 co. Huntingdon, manor, Act for settling boundary of; 153 b.
 East, New Hall in; 262 b.
- Randal, George, letter to; 218 a.
- Randolph, Thomas, poems by; 584 a.
- Ranelagh, Viscount :
 Arthur, certificate by (1663); 505 b.
 — petition of (1663); 523 a.
 Roger, late, President of Connaught; 544 a, 548 a.
 the Prince of Orange and; 556 a.
 (1675); 582 a.
- Ranfurlie, co. Renfrew; 308 b.
- Rangrave :
 the, letter of (1708); 36 a.
 M., letter of; 40 b.
- Ranledge, Nicholas, mariner; 241 a.
- Rannoch, country of; 314 b.
- Ransoms demanded by Turkish pirates, &c. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
- Ranstone, Ranstorne, Lieut.-Col., letters of; 295 a.
- Rantzau :
 Major-General, letter of; 36 a.
 M. de, letter of; 37 b.
- Ranyard, A. C., Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
- Raper, John, canon of Bilsington; 337 a.
- Raphoc, Bishop of, R. Lesly (1663); 514 a.
- Raplock, the Hamilton family of; 308 b.
- Rastall, Robert, trooper; 523 b.
- Ratclif, Ratcliffe, Ratclyffe :
 Mr., mayor of Chester; 381 b.
 — letter to; 399 b.
 — orders of; 400 a.
 Sir George; 143 a.
 Dr. John, a Fellow of the College of Physicians; 226 b, 232 a.
 — fined by the College of Physicians; 231 a.
 — reference by Queen Anne to; 58 a.
- Ratcliff-upon-Sore, co. Nottingham; 416 b.
- Rathconrath, barony of; 537 a.
- Ratheredan, co. Dublin; 499 a.
- Rathduffe, co. Westmeath; 550 b.
- Rathe, in territory of Katterlyn; 300 b.
- Rathlugg, concealed lands of; 531 a.
- Rathmines : fight at; 500 b.
 siege of; 547 b.
- Rathmore; 506 b, 507 a.
- Rathuenalg, concealed lands of; 531 a.
- Rathsquibline, co. Kildare; 508 a.
- Ratisbon, diet of; 30 b.
- Ratooth, co. Dublin, garrison at, in 1648; 595 a.
- Ratray :
 Col. James, MSS. of; xxii.
 Capt. John, letter of; 294 b.
 Capt. Wm., letter of; 291 a.
- Raven :
 Capt.; 255 b.
 John, of Shitlington, will of; 383 a.
- Ravenna, archbishop of; 338 b.
- Ravenscroft :
 Dorothea, petition of; 117 a.
 George, letter of; 383 b.
 Thomas, petition of; 117 a.
 — letter of; 375 b.
- Ravenspur, watchlight at; 238 b, 239 a.
- Ravenswarth, Fitz-Hughs of; 263 a.
- Ravenyng, John, of London, will of; 383 a.
- Rawden, co. York; 383 a.
- Rawdon :
 Lord, letters of; xiii., 287 b, 288 b, 289 a.
 Sir John, Lord Moira; 481 a.
 Major George, his troop; 531 b.
 George, petition of; 547 b.
- Rawledge, Nicholas; 241 b.
- Rawlet, Robert, mayor of Leicester; 422 b.
- Rawlings, John, letter of; 293 b.
- Rawlins, Giles; 278 a.
- Rawlyn, Katherine, of Lynn, will of; 333 b.
- Rawlyns, Robert, will of; 335 a.
- Raworth, Robert; 210 a.
- Rawson, Capt. Gilbert, weekly charge of his troop; 598 a.
- Ray, Thomas, petition of; 523 b.
- Raye, John, bailiff of Romsey; 234 a.
- Raymon, Mr., opinion by; 255 b.
- Raymond :
 Robert, report of; 25 b.
 Ro., report by; 50 b.
- Rayne, Capt. Robert, letter of; 293 a.
- Raynescroft, one, deer stealer; 433 b.
- Raynford :
 Sir Hugh; 386 b.
 Richard, late sheriff of Chester, pardon to; 359 b.
 — treasurer of Chester, account of; 367 b.
- Raynold, Richard, of Polton, will of; 335 b.
- Raynolde, Thomas, of Merton College; 227 a.
- Raynolds, John, of East Bergholt, will of; 333 b.
- Rea :
 James, of Dublin; 528 b.
 Richard; 11 a.
- Reachill, lands; 505 a.
- Read, Reade :
 Cornet Abrah.; 597 a.
 Dame Allisimon; x., 136 b.
 — petition of; ib.
 Capt. Alexander, letters of; 292 b–295 b, passim.
 James; 278 a.
 — petition of; 551 a.
 Sir John, Bart.; x., 136 b.
 — answers of; ib.
 Lieut. John, letters of; 290 b, 294 a.
 Lieutenant; 392 b.
 — letter of; 295 a.
 Sergeant-major; 592 b, 598 b.
 Morgan, consul at Leghorn; 244 a.
 — letter of; 244 b.
 Richard, warrant touching; 280 a.
 William; 65 a.
- Reade and Jenkins, action by; 228 b.
- Reading; 284 a, 285 a, 287 a, 287 b, 335 b, 630 a.
 charter dated at; 2 a.
- Ready, Mr., of the British Museum; 269 a.
- Really, Chaplain James; 595 b.
- Reasons upon protests, Committee for Privileges to consider manner of entering; 137 a.
- Reban; 609 a, 610 b.
- Rebeck, fort of; 246 b.
- Rebellion of 1745 :
 papers relating to; xviii., 313 b.
 O'Connor's reference to; 445 a. letter about; 571 a.
- Rebendow, Comte de, letters of; 88 b.
- Reby, Roger and Margaret; 413 b.
- Reche, John; 626 a.
- Rechteren, Comte de, letters of; 36 a, 37 a.
- Record Office, Public, transcripts of Digby MSS. deposited in; 213 a.
- Reculver, Kent; 248 a. church; 235 b, 342 b, 353 a. charter of; 328 b.
 steeple of; 351 b.
- Recusants; 376 a, 380 b, 390 b. papers concerning; 27 b.
 resolutions for disarming; 102 b.
- Redburn; 1 b.
- Redburnstoak, hundred of; 9 b.
- "Reddbanck one Saltney Side"; 377 b.
- Redde Share, co. Limerick; 601 b.
- Reddy, Dr.; 465 a, 465 b, 484 b.
- Redc :
 Sir Edmund, steward of Marsh manor; 626 b.
 Robert, Bishop of Chichester; 339 b.
- Redenhall and Alburgh; 384 a.
- Redhead, Antony, of the Norwich Mint; 80 a.
 — a prisoner; 80 a.
- Redhode, John, of Chipping Wycombe, will of; 332 b.
- Reding, Kent; 319 a.
- Redman :
 Col. Daniel, his troop, &c.; 529 b, 542 b, 547 a, 550 b.
 W., document signed by; 227 b.
- Redmylde, Jane, daughter of the Duchess of Norfolk, will of; 333 a.
- Redriffe, Redrith; 238 b, 247 b, 250 a, 253 a.
 parson of; 242 a.
- Redshanks in Ulster; 603 b, 604 b, 606 a.
 — killed; 606 b.
- Ree of Homptone, John atte; 262 b.
- Reed, Reede :
 John, merchant of the staple, of Wrangle, will of; 335 a.
 Frederic baron, States' deputy; 12 a.
 M. de, letter of; 37 b.
 Baron de, letter of; 40 b.
- Reek, M., letter of; ib.
- Reeks, Robert; 146 b.
- Reeve :
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 John, letters of; 552 b.
 Wm., of Bulmer, will of; 335 b.
- Refham, Richer de; 635 b.
- Regan, Morice, his narrative; 582 a.
- Regency, the (1751); 284 a, 284 b.

- Regnier, M., letter of; 38 b.
 Regnold, John, canon of Wells; 639 a.
 Rehinder, Baron de, letters of (1706); 32 a, 36 a.
 Reid, Rev. J. S., his history of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland; 576 a.
 Reidesel, Baron, letter of; 289 a.
 Reigate manor, Surrey; 280 a, 280 b.
 Reignoldstown, co. Louth, lands of; 532 a.
 Reilly :
 Colonel, in Ireland; 602 b.
 Capt. Christopher; 611 a.
 Edmund, vicar-general of Dublin; 609 b, 618 a.
 Mich., publisher of Dublin; 444 b, 450 b, 456 b, 457 a, 458 b, 459 a, 462 b, 463 a, et seq.
 Meilds; 610 b.
 Reimond, magister, witness; 270 b.
 Reinaud, M., letters of; 36 a, 40 a.
 Reineuilla, Aldreda de, witness; 270 a.
 Reins, Lient.-Col.; 594 b.
 Religion, diversities in, dialogue on; 93 a.
 Rellishe, Thomas, trooper; 546 b.
 Remingen, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Remy, Mons.; 293 b.
 Renda, Thomas, his proposal; 78 a.
 Rendham; 333 b.
 Renes, Great, court held at; 635 b.
 Renesse, of Utrecht; 553 a.
 Rennell, J.; 295 a.
 Rennes, convent of St. Melanie at; 632 b.
 Renshell, William; 243 a.
 Rentals of lands in Kildare co.; 508 a.
 Rents, fee farm, Act for advancing sale of; 142 a.
 Renuilla, Thoma de, witness; 270 a.
 Renuncini, Prince and Abp. of Fermo; 604 b.
 Reredos, agreement of erection of a; 262 a.
 Reresby : manor, co. Derby; 161 b.
 v. Farnsworth; ib.
 co. Leicester; 420 b.
 Bridget; 161 b.
 Sir George; 162 a.
 Sir John, petition of; 161 b.
 — deceased, father of above; 162 a.
 — commissioner; 275 a.
 Mary; 162 a.
 Sir Thomas; 161 b.
 Rermyncham, Henry, sheriff of Chester; 368 a.
 Resolution, the ship; 248 a.
 Ressons, M. de, letter of; 36 a.
 Restenoth, prior of Berengarius; 300 b.
 Restwold, Richard, pardon to; 625 a.
 Retforth, John, of Wedmore, will of; 335 a.
 Revenue, the, papers concerning; 98 a.
 Reverby, chaplain of; 408 a.
 Revett, Mrs. J., letter of; 37 b.
 Rews, John, of Sherston; 639 a.
 Reyff, Roger, of Melford, will of; 332 b.
 Reynald, Griffith; 370 b.
 Reynes, manor of; 635 b.
 Reynolds; 5 a.
 John; 414 a.
 — conveyance to; 422 a.
 — release by; ib.
 Richard, town clerk of Leicester; 411 a.
 William, of Mountsorrel; 414 a.
 Reynolds; 613 b. vicarage of; 5 b.
 Mr.; 465 a, 471 a.
 Bryan; 551 b.
 C., letter of; 293 a.
 Gen.; 616 b, 617 a.
 Henry; 381 a.
 Ja., memorandum by; 261 a.
 James, petition of; 504 a.
 John, of Belgrave, conveyance to; 423 a.
 Sir Joshua, consulted by the College of Physicians; 226 b, 233 a.
 — Goldsmith and; 489 b, note.
 Richard, mayor of Leicester; 420 b.
 Sir Robert; 539 b.
 S., letters of; 28 b.
 Thomas, petition of; 511 a.
 William, of Sherborne, will of; 332 a.
 Reyt, vice-admiral, his alleged treachery in the West Indies; 563 b.
 Reze, Owen, letter of; 377 a.
 Rhé, isle of; 243 a, 581 a.
 Ria, Henry de; 318 b.
 Ribeira, Comte, letter of; 37 b.
 Riccard, Sir Andrew :
 107 b, 165 b, 166 b, 167 a, 173 b, 174 a.
 answer of; 107 b.
 orders touching; 167 b.
 Rice :
 Griffith, letter of; 46 a. councillor; 487 b.
 Rich :
 Lady, letters of; 54 a.
 Henry, burgess for Leicester; 455 a.
 Samuel, petition of; 151 b.
 William, an empiric; 227 a.
 Richard I., charters, &c. of; 319 a.
 Richard II.; 359 a. writs of; 87 a, 88 a.
 his death at Pontefract; 269 a. charters, &c. of; 319 b, 355 a, 358 b.
 writs, &c. of; 412 b, 413 a.
 Richard III. :
 Mint indenture by; 70 b.
 grant by; 265 b.
 letters patent of; 271 a.
 Richard :
 David ap, and Grace, his wife; 377 b.
 M., postmaster at Paris; 30 a.
 Robert, of Halden, will of; 332 b.
 Richardott, President; 95 a, 95 b.
 Richard's Castle and Chirk, Barons Mortimer of, pedigrees; 366 a.
 Richards :
 Col., letter of; 36 a.
 M., letter of; 90 a.
 Richardson :
 —, defendant; 210 a.
 Alexander; 584 a.
 Captain; 591 a.
 Capt. Edward, weekly charge of his troop; 597 b.
 Richard; 380 a.
 — mayor of Chester (1757), indenture of; 401 b.
 Robert; 151 a.
 Samuel, letter signed by; 386 b.
 Thomas; 361 a.
 — petition of; 547 a.
 Richell, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Richenda, Warnebald and, Robert, son of; 300 b.
 Richman, W., church of Cranbrook given to; 337 b.
 Richmond :
 Surrey; 482 b.
 — documents dated from; 207 b, 378 a.
 co. York, archdeaconry of; 284 a. and Middleham, liberty, co. York; 284 a.
 Duke of, MSS, of; xxii.
 — letter of (1714); 57 a.
 — his travels with Mr. Hill (1727-8); 62 a.
 — a fellow of the College of Physicians (1728); 232 a.
 — operation on (1732); 62 b.
 — his reply to Lord Chatham (1778); 196 a.
 — letter of (1791); 294 b.
 — report to (1794); 296 a.
 — his daughter's marriage to Fox; 571 b.
 Duchess of (1729); 62 b. and Lennox, Duke of, Charles, statement on behalf of (1669); 116 b.
 — — petition to (1670); 142 a.
 — — petition of (1670); 146 b.
 and Somerset, Duke of, Henry; 360 b.
 Richmond Manor, document dated at; 370 a.
 Ride or Ryde, Henry; 108 b, 109 a.
 Ridel :
 Geoffrey, Archdeacon of Canterbury, excommunicated; 317 a.
 Stephen; 356 b.
 William, witness; 405 a.
 Rider :
 Mr., of Petersfield; 46 b.
 Jacob, letters of; 291 a, 294 a.
 John, letter of; 295 a.
 Thomas le, of Leicester; 421 a.
 Sir William, of the Trinity House; 249 b, 250 a, 250 b, 253 b.
 Miss; 569 b.
 Nancy; 569 a, note.
 Ridge :
 Counsellor John; 489 b.
 Robert; 139 b.
 Ridgeley, —, physician; 229 a.
 Ridgway, M., Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
 Ridon, John, of Battersea (Batrichesey), will of; 332 a.
 Riedezell, Baron de; 563 b.
 Rievaulx, convent of; 636 a.
 Riffer, M. de, letter of; 40 a.
 Rigby :
 —; 191 a, 191 b, 192 b, 193 a, 194 b, 221 b.
 —, readings on Statutes by; 584 b.
 Rigewell, Henry, of Dullington, will of; 334 b.
 Riley :
 Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 alias Fountayne, Elizabeth, delinquent; 6 a.
 Rillston, Edward, fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford; 380 b.
 Rind :
 Lieut. J. N., letters of; 290 b, 292 b.
 Lieut. J. W., letter of; 289 b.
 Ring, the, privilege of; 317 b, 318 b.
 Ringe, Major; 438 a.

Ringmere :

- Thos. de, prior of Canterbury ; 319 a, 321 b, 325 b.
- dispensation for ; 344 b.
- Abp. Peckham's monition to ; 345 a.

Rings, memorial ; 371 b.

Rinuocini, the Nuncio ; 464 b, 501 a, 578 a.

Ripariis, Margareta de ; 637 a.

Ripon :

- Thomas ; 361 a.
- treaty of ; 383 b.
- Marquis of, MSS. of ; xxii.

Risborow, Wm. ; 279 b.

Risburgh Monachorum ; 320 b, 324 a.

Risely, assessment at ; 10 a.

Rislett, Kent ; 248 a.

Rismore ; 208 b.

Ritchie, Rytche, Rytch, Capt. Barnabie ; 377 b.

Rithe, Rich., of Rotherwick, petition against ; 263 b.

Ritso, G., letter of ; 290 a.

Riuella, Don, letter of ; 38 b.

Rivaison, M., letter of ; 38 b.

Rivers, Earl of :

- John (1646) ; 365 b.
- Thomas, privilege case (1670) ; 139 b.
- in Spain, &c. (1706) ; 16 a.
- letters of ; 16 a, 32 a.
- letters to (1706) ; 25 a.
- letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
- letter to ; 46 b.
- (1709), letter of ; 37 b.
- letter to (1709) ; 46 b.

Riverstown, co. Meath ; 514 b.

Rives, M. de, letter of ; 40 a.

Robart, Anthony, music-master, order touching ; 280 a.

Robemont, letter dated at ; 28 a.

Roberdes, John, mayor of Leicester ; 420 a, 422 b.

Robert, Lord, his company (1663) ; 545 a.

Robert II. of Scotland, grant by ; 307 a.

Robert III. of Scotland, charter by ; 305 b.

Roberts :

- Lord, William (temp. Commonwealth) ; 94 b.
- John, Lord Privy Seal (1666) ; 104 b.
- — — commission to ; 104 a.
- — — (1667) ; 111 b.
- v. Wynn ; 104 b.
- , counterfeiter of coin ; 393 a.
- Mr., his history of the College of Physicians ; 233 b.
- sum voted to ; ib.
- , auditor ; 624 a.
- Charles Bodvell ; 104 b.
- Edward, auditor ; 509 b.
- Lieut. Edw. ; 592 a.
- Hugh, deposition by ; 209 b.
- Mary, petition of ; 529 a.
- Major R., letter of ; 294 b.
- Major R. C., letter of ; 295 b.
- Rice, usher to James I. ; 441 b.
- Robert and Sarah, case of ; 104 b.
- Sir Walter, his daughter Jane ; 569 a, note.
- William, of Hitchin, will of ; 335 b.
- Ulster king-at-arms, petition of his son Robert ; 501 b.
- — — petition of his son Patrick ; 510 a.
- — — his History of the House of Ormonde ; 581 a, 586 a.

Robertson :

- Mr. ; 84 a.
- one, of Stralock ; 45 b.
- a criminal, and the Porteous riots ; 310 b, 311 a, 311 b.
- Dr., the historian ; 471 b.
- General, letter of ; 288 b.
- Lieut., R.N. ; 289 a.
- James, letters of ; 288 b, 291 a.
- Lieut. John, letter of ; 291 a.

Robery :

- John ; 148 b.
- answer of ; 148 b.

Robethon, M., letters of ; 32 a, 32 b, 37 b, 38 b, 39 b, 40 a.

Robinson :

- Mr., letters of ; 32 a, 35 b, 37 a.
- Christopher, judge in Ireland ; 483 b, 484 a.
- Cornet Francis ; 551 b.
- George, case of ; 151 a.
- Secretary G., letters of ; 288 b, 295 a.
- Henry, his proposal ; 77 a, 77 b.
- Dr. John, envoy to Poland ; 47 a.
- Sir John, Lieut. of the Tower ; 64 a, 64 b, 89 a, 90 a, 129 a, 252 b, 254 a.
- his connection with the Mint ; 64 a, 64 b.
- John ; 278 b.
- of Chester, bond of ; 360 b.
- surgeon ; 596 b.
- Lieut., letter of ; 289 b.
- M., letter of ; 40 b.
- Sir Metcalfe, commissioner ; 275 a.
- Lieut.-Genl. Robert, letter of ; 295 a.
- Sir Thomas, Secretary of State ; 222 a, 225 a.
- speech of ; 225 b.
- his dispute with Pitt ; ib.

Robinson, Sir Thomas—cont.

- Fox's compliment to ; 226 a.
- speech of ; 222 b.

Robson :

- Charles ; 116 a.
- James, affidavit of ; 116 a.

Robucke, lands in ; 506 a.

Robury, Richard, petitions of ; 502 a, 530 b.

Robyns, John, will of ; 332 b.

Roch :

- Captain Adjutant, petition of ; 501 b, 539 b.
- Capt. James ; 547 a.
- Patrick, petition of ; 516 a.
- Ensign Peter ; 592 b.

Rochdale, rectory ; 147 a.

Roche :

- M. de la, letter of ; 36 a.
- Mrs., letter of ; 57 a.
- David ; 614 a, 614 b.
- Thomas, governor of Duncanon ; 605 a.

Rochebrune, M. de, letters of ; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.

Rochegude, Marquis de, letters of ; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.

Rochele, Amice de, conveyance to ; 411 a.

Rochelle ; 375 b.

Rochester ; 238 b, 241 b, 251 b, 256 a, 348 b.

- letter dated at ; 248 a.
- bailiffs of, writ to ; 346 b.
- custom house at ; 244 a.
- prior and convent of ; 235 a.
- St. Andrew's Church ; ib.

Rochester, Earl of :

- John (1667), writ of summons ; 111 b.
- Lawrence Hyde, report to (1684) ; 64 a.
- his advice to Queen Mary ; 13 a.
- letters of ; 31 a, 54 a.
- his desire to re-enter into affairs (1691) 562 b.
- at Portsmouth ; 54 a.
- letter of ; 57 a.
- Dean of (1311) ; 352 a.
- Bishop of (temp. Hen. III.), witness ; 235 a.
- Walter ; 316 b.
- Waleran ; ib.
- excommunicated by Alexander III. ; 317 a.
- (11th century) ; 316 b.
- (c. 1162), forged brief addressed to ; 265 b.
- (1363), Wittlesey ; 264 b.
- (14th century), Hamo de Hethe ; 323 b.
- (1349) ; 337 b.
- (1374), petition to ; 339 a.
- (1665), testimonial by ; 439 b.
- (1666), John, writ of summons to ; 104 a.
- (1667) ; 112 b.
- (1668) ; 173 a.
- (1670) ; 174 b.
- late, John (1670), Act for settling charitable uses devised by ; 136 b, 139 a.
- (1673), Dr. Dolben ; 255 a.

Rochford :

- Earl of, letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
- (1763) ; 286 b.
- letter of ; ib.
- Countess of (1763) ; 286 b.
- Capt. ; 289 a.
- letter of ; 582 a.
- Lieut.-Col. ; 592 a, 598 b.
- Ensign Jasper ; 595 a.
- Ralph, petition of ; 511 b.

Rochfort :

- Lord (1702) ; 17 b.
- Earl of (1708), letter of ; 36 a.
- James, of Larraghs, petition of ; 506 a.
- Rob. ; 74 a.

Rock :

- Lieut. B., letter of ; 291 a.
- Rev. Dr. ; 300 a.

Rocke, or Roche, R., letters of ; 292 b, 293 a.

Rockingham :

- castle, documents dated at ; 87 a.
- Lord, his privilege case (1666) ; 104 a.
- (c. 1754) ; 220 b, 225 a.
- (1757) ; 223 b.

Rocksavage, documents dated from ; 374 b, 381 b, 400 a.

Rockwood :

- a Yorkshireman, conspirator ; 434 a.
- Ambrose ; ib.

Roconnell skirmish ; 604 a.

Roddam :

- Capt., letter of ; 290 a.
- Col., letter of ; ib.

Rodes :

- Sir Edward ; 275 a.
- Francis, justice ; 272 b.

Rodington, Henry de, mayor of Leicester ; 408 a.

Rodipoll parish ; 210 b.

Rodway v. Baber ; 170 b.

Rodwell, Henry ; 383 a.

- Rodyngton, William de; 410 b.
- Roe :
- Bryan; 608 b, 614 b.
 - Fr. John, of the Discalciat Carmelites; 612 b.
 - Henry; 605 b.
 - Sir Phelim; 603 b.
 - Richard, petition of; 510 a.
 - Sir Thomas, speech of; 91 a.
- Roebuck, Benjamin, letters of; 288 b, 293 b, 294 a.
- Roermond, plan of; 22 a.
- Roettier :
- Mr., engraver; 84 a.
 - his house at the Mint; 64 b, 89 b.
 - James, of the Mint; 68 a.
 - John, engraver; 86 b.
 - John, Joseph, and Philip; 67 b.
- Roger, Richard; 278 b.
- Rogers :
- v. Ingram; 170 b.
 - Dr. George, of the College of Physicians; 234 b.
 - J. J., Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
 - Richard, of the Mint; 66 a.
 - goldsmith; 65 a.
 - of Bluntisham, will of; 335 a.
 - Robert, of Drayton, will of; 333 b.
 - Thomas, of Leicester, his horse; 437 b.
- Rogerson, Robert, late sheriff of Chester, pardon to; 359 b.
- Rogger, John; 626 a.
- Rohan, Chevalier de Leon, letter of; 37 b.
- Le Prince de, letter of; ib.
- Rojas et Sandoval, Don Francesco; 22 b.
- Rokerelle, Isabella, her chapel in St. Paul's; 634 a.
- Rokes, Thomas, sen., of Falley, Bucks, will of; 332 a.
- Rokesle, Richard, of Charing, will of his widow Alesia; 338 b.
- Rokley, Thomas, skinner, of London, will of; 333 a.
- Rokulf, William, of Worcester; 638 a.
- Rokynge, church of; 317 a.
- Roland, George and Agnes, of Leicester, conveyance to; 420 b.
- Rollo, Lord, MSS. of; xxii.
- Rollos, John, engraver, petition of; 68 b.
- Rolls, Master of the :
- warrant to (1605); 87 a.
 - (1688); 123 a, 133 b, 139 a.
 - order of; 122 b.
 - his office; 584 b.
- Rolvindene, church of; 323 b.
- Romagnani, Fontanedo Castle, near; 553 a.
- Romain, Thomas, letter of; 37 b.
- Rome :
- letters dated at; 44 a, 197 a, 197 b, 554 a.
 - to Persia, account of travels from; 1 b.
 - state of (1708); 19 b.
 - St. Paul's near, letter dated at; 44 a.
 - earthquakes at (1703); 44 a.
 - news letters from (1691); 282 a.
 - St. Mark's, document dated at; 301 b.
 - English college; 583 a.
- Romer :
- Col., letter of; 36 a.
 - M., letter of; 37 b.
- Romescot, Kent; 316 a.
- Romford; 155 a, 157 b, 158 a.
- Romney :
- Earl of, of the Ordnance (1699); 89 b.
 - Kent; 340 a.
 - barons of town of; 264 b.
 - New, corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
 - Old, Aghene, near; 323 b.
 - Marsh; 325 b, 346 b, 352 b.
 - Lepers' Hospital at; 264 b, 341 b.
- Romsey, abbess of; 234 a.
- Ronan, Capt. Joseph, letter of; 290 b.
- Rondon, Elias de, commissary; 338 a.
- Ronewell Manor; 633 a.
- Ronquillo, Don Pedro :
- Spanish ambassador; 31 a, 561 b.
 - councillor of State; 561 b.
 - account of his death; 564 b, 565 a, 565 b.
 - distress of his servants; ib.
 - his natural son; 565 b.
- Ronton, co. Stafford, priory; 265 b.
- Roo, John, of St. Lawrence, Jewry, will of; 332 a.
- Rooke, Sir George, his fleet; 31 a.
- Roorback, Capt., letter of; 289 a.
- Roos :
- barony of, claim to (1666); 102 a, 105 b.
 - report on; 105 b.
 - Lord, John (1668); x., 117 a.
 - Act concerning (1670); 140 a.
 - (1671); 440 a.
 - Lady Anne, Act, illegitimation of her children; x., 102 a.
 - petition of (1668); 117 a.
- Roosendale, M., letter of; 36 a.
- Roosendall, Baron de, letters of; 40 a.
- Rooth, —, author of the "Analecta Sacra"; 461 a.
- Ropemakers, petition of; 247 a.
- Roper :
- Elizabeth, of Dublin, petition signed by; 590 a.
 - John, of Westgate, gift by; 319 b.
 - demise to; 342 a.
 - Richard, petition of; 514 a.
 - Cornet Robert; 596 a.
 - William, petition, &c. of; 161 a.
- Roploch; 309 b.
- Rogues, Rocques, M. des, letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.
- Ros :
- Lord de, MSS. of; xxii.
 - R. de, commission to; 351 b.
- Rosa, Salvator, painting by; 100 b.
- Rosamond, an opera; 60 b.
- Roscommon; 466 b.
- letters dated at; 475 a, 475 b.
 - survey of lands in; 517 b, 518 a.
 - member for; 442 a.
 - James II.'s lands in; 497 b, 498 a.
 - surrender of; 605 a.
 - Earl of, Wentworth, petition of (1663); 501 a, 537 b.
- Roscrea :
- troops near; 602 a.
 - army in; 607 a.
- Rose :
- Chevalier, letter of; 38 b.
 - Mr., petition of; 67 b.
 - apothecary, action against; 233 b.
 - Cornet John; 595 b.
- Roseberry, Rosebery, co. Kildare; 541 a.
- Rosen, M. de, general in Ireland; 494 b, 497 a.
- Rosenkrantz, M., letter of; 38 b.
- Rositer, Col., his rout of Prince Rupert; 9 b.
- Roslyn Chapel; 313 a.
- Ross, Rosse; 610 b, 611 a, 611 b.
- siege of; 604 a.
 - corporation of; 517 a.
 - quay of; 522 a.
 - the army before (1649); 600 b.
 - New, alias Rosponde, co. Wexford, sovereign of. See Mayly, Patrick; 371 b.
 - co. Hereford, vicarage and rectory, printed case of (1670); 154 b.
 - Ireland; 528 b.
 - co. Wexford; 512 b.
 - licences to trade in; 501 b, 503 b.
 - Mr., keeper of Duke of York's armoury; 279 a.
 - Andrew, letter of; 293 b.
 - Charles, editor of "Cornwallis Correspondence"; xiii., 288 a.
 - Francis, of Leicester; 438 a.
 - George, Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
 - James L., letter of; 293 a.
 - John, deceased; 280 a.
 - Col. P., letter of; 290 a.
 - Lieut.-Colonel Patrick, letters of; 294 b, 295 b.
 - Will., Burgess, of Calais, will of; 334 b.
 - Major-General, letters of; 32 a.
 - Lieut.-Genl., letters of; 36 a, 38 b, 40 a.
 - Duke of, James (1497); 305 b.
 - (1499); 306 a.
 - Lord, letters of (1708); 48 a.
 - Treasury Commissioner in Scotland (1708); 83 b.
 - Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.
 - Lady, letter of; 57 a.
 - (1690); 497 b.
- Rosscrea; 617 a.
- Rossel, Robert, grant to; 637 a.
- Rosserra parish, tithes of; 535 b.
- Rosslyn, Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.
- Rossole, Mons.; 558 b.
- Rotarius, John, son of Walter, gift by; 408 b.
- Rotchford, Henry, of Kilbride; 545 b.
- Roth :
- M., letters of; 36 a, 38 b.
 - , procureur to King Augustus, letter of; 37 b.
 - John, of Kilkenny, petition of; 503 b.
 - Robert; 582 a.
- Rotherfield, John Grey of; 263 a.
- Rotherham, John :
- petition of; 71 b.
 - of Barnet; 71 b.
 - letter of; ib.
- Rotherwick :
- yeomen's petition from; 263 b.
 - church, assault in; ib.
 - Cowfold in, Hampshire; ib.
- Roths :
- Lord, document signed by (1676); 302 b.
 - Countess of, MSS. of; xxii.
- Rothram, Sir Thomas; 594 a.
- Rothsley; 414 a.
- Rothwell parish, co. York; 276 a.
- Rotier, Mr., engraver; 84 a. See Roettier.

- Rotterdam :
 letters dated at ; 16 b, 39 a, 40 a.
 tin sold in ; 92 b.
 journey from ; 99 b.
 great frost at ; 554 a.
 English merchants at ; 584 a.
 Roubay, M. de, letter of ; 36 a.
 Rouen ; 244 a, 283 a.
 King's Chamber of Accounts at ; 265 a. document executed at ; 268 a.
 Archbishop of (1440) ; 268 a.
 Rough, of Edinburgh, a servant ; 312 a.
 Roughton, Josias, of Bedford, Bunyan licensed to preach in his house ; 440 a.
 Roughton, abbot, &c. of ; 637 a.
 Rouillé, President ; 36 b.
 Roundkettle, Henry, of Ipswich ; 242 a.
 Rous :
 Francis, payment to ; 95 a.
 Wm. le ; 168 a, 172 a.
 Rousberghe ; 208 b.
 Rousseau, M., letter of ; 38 b.
 Roussillon ; 25 b.
 French army in ; 18 a.
 Routh, Dame Elizabeth, Act touching ; 141 b.
 Routhale, Thomas de, of Worcester ; 638 a.
 Rovido, Alessandro, of Milan ; 95 a.
 Row, Mr., letter of ; 36 a.
 Rowcliffe :
 Brian, of Cowthorpe ; 273 a.
 Sir John and Margaret ; ib.
 Rowden, Corporal of Ormonde's troop ; 536 a.
 Rowe :
 Mathias, payment to ; 212 b.
 Captain ; 591 b.
 Rowes :
 Mr., of Leicester, his death ; 441 a.
 William, mayor of Leicester, letter of ; 433 b.
 Rowland, Mr., of Bedford, surgeon ; 9 a.
 Rowledge, Nicholas, prisoner ; 237 b.
 Rowles, James, letter of ; 294 b.
 Rowlet :
 Ralph ; 65 a.
 Sir Ralph, of the Mint ; 65 b.
 Rowley :
 Hercules, of Dublin ; 196 b.
 John ; 399 a.
 Rowney, Herts, priory of ; 265 b.
 Rowston :
 co. Lincoln ; 116 b.
 co. York ; 271 b.
 Roxburgh :
 document dated at ; 348 b.
 Lord, letters of (1708) ; 48 a.
 Roysbrok, Walter, of Stowmarket, will of ; 333 a.
 Royston ; 98 a, 332 b.
 letter dated at ; 215 b.
 James I. at ; 441 b.
 Ruairk, Captain ; 609 b.
 Rubempré, Prince de, letter of ; 37 b.
 Rubens, painting by ; 92 b, 100 a.
 Ruckinge, Kent ; 327 a.
 Ruddocke, Capt., his company ; 541 b.
 Rudinges, Walter ; 439 b.
 Rudolph II., letter to ; 213 a.
 Ruds, William, son of Nicholas ; 238 a.
 Rudyard, A., letter to ; 259 b.
 Ruf, Herbert Le, witness ; 408 b.
 Ruffey, Col., letter of ; 37 b.
 Rufford, Will., of Clifton-on-Teme, will of ; 335 a.
 Rugby, Capt. ; 397 b.
 Rugeley, Lt.-Col., letter of ; 289 a.
 Rughford parva, co. York ; 271 a.
 Ruialip, Middlesex, manor ; 120 b.
 Ruiz, Don Diego, letter of ; 38 b.
 Ramage, David, of the Tower ; 90 a.
 Rupert :
 Prince ; 582 a.
 — letter of (1642) ; 437 a.
 — receipt by ; ib.
 — routed by Col. Rositer (1645) ; 9 b.
 — (1666) ; 253 b.
 — his narrative (1666) ; 219 a.
 — (1670) ; 144 b.
 — his surrender of Bristol ; 212 b.
 — his foot regiment, order touching ; 365 a.
 — Mazariu's opinion of ; 552 b.
 Richard, letter of ; 379 a.
 Ruperti, M., Lutheran minister ; 47 a.
 Rupibus :
 Bishop Peter de (c. 1205) ; 263 b.
 William de, witness ; 404 b.
 Ruremonde, Bishop of (1708), letter of ; 36 a.
 Rus, William ; 65 a.
 Rusby, John, mayor of Pontefract ; 275 b.
 Rushenden, Kent, manor ; 119 a.
 Rushworth College, Norwich dioc. ; 342 a.
 Russel, Russell :
 Lord, his march from Calais ; 581 a.
 Lady, letter of (1714) ; 57 a.
 Lady John (1732) ; 63 a.
 Dr., of Stepney ; 254 b.
 Admiral, his proceedings ; 561 a, 563 a.
 — murmurs against ; 565 b, 566 a.
 Col., letter of ; 37 b.
 — letters to ; 255 b.
 Claud, letter of ; 291 a.
 Edward ; 365 b.
 George, licence farmer, petitions of ; 509 a, 544 b, 548 b, 550 b.
 Jeremy, petition of ; 512 b.
 John, petition of ; 255 a.
 — portour ; 367 b.
 — of Sootes ; 414 a.
 Mathew, petition of ; 525 a.
 Ensign Michell ; 591 b.
 O., counsel for Crown (1827) ; 369 b.
 Robert, of Exeter, will of ; 334 b.
 — priest, of Cambridge, will of ; 335 a.
 — witness ; 1 b.
 Sir William, petitions of ; 115 a.
 — his daughter Anne ; 104 b.
 — letters of and to ; 243 a.
 William, petition of ; 255 a.
 Rushton, James, haberdasher, of London, will of ; 333 a.
 Russia ; 134 a. account of journey through (c. 1602) ; 23 a.
 tin sold in ; 92 b.
 Czar of (1708) ; 35 a.
 Emperor of, letter of (1710) ; 38 a.
 — letter of ; 36 b.
 — John Basiliius ; 227 b.
 Empress of, Orina ; 227 b.
 Ruth, Capt., his ship ; 255 b.
 Rutherford :
 Mr., commissioner in Scotland ; 83 a.
 Robt., letter of ; 83 b.
 Samuel, letters of ; xvii., 299 b, 303 b.
 W. Oliver, Esq., MSS. of ; xxii.
 Ruthin ; 399 a.
 Rutland :
 land revenue ; 284 a.
 Earl of, his fleet (1623) ; 215 b.
 — privilege case (1670) ; 139 a.
 — letter of (1670) ; 439 b.
 — his son-in-law, Lord Annesley ; ib.
 — (1671) ; 440 a.
 — letters of (1685) ; 440 b.
 — precept by (1690) ; 441 a.
 — warrant by ; ib.
 Duke of, MSS. of ; xxii.
 — (1670) ; 140 a.
 — (1754) ; 225 a.
 — (1757) ; 223 b.
 Rutledge, Lieut. Edward ; 593 b.
 Rutter, Ralph, king's messenger ; 419 a.
 Rutton, Mathias ; 280 b.
 Ruvigny, —, his regiment ; 563 a.
 Ruxton :
 John, sheriff of Louth co. ; 531 b.
 Cornet John ; 596 a.
 Priscilla, petition for her son John ; 502 b.
 — wife of Lieut. John, petition of ; 529 a.
 Ryalton :
 Lord, letter of (1708) ; 36 a.
 — letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
 Ryan, Ja., lands held by ; 518 a.
 Ryder :
 Sir Wm. ; 167 a, 167 b.
 — order, &c. touching ; 167 b.
 See Rider.
 Rydyall, John ; 272 b.
 Rye :
 mayor and others of, letter of ; 393 a. harbour of ; ib.
 document dated from ; ib.
 corporation, MSS. of ; xxiii.
 haven, decay of ; 246 a.
 Hubert de, gift by ; 322 b.
 Henry de, his heir ; 323 a.
 Ryghtwyse, Margaret, widow of Thomas, of Sall, will of ; 333 b.
 Rykemersworth, land in ; 1 b.
 Ryley, John, letter of ; 295 a.
 Rylyng, John, alias Cawston, hurer, of London, will of ; 333 a.
 Rymeswell manor, co. York ; 628 a.
 Rynard, Francis, corporal and serjeant ; 541 b.
 Ryngolde, William, of Leicester ; 420 a.
 Ryppon, Robert, senr., of Lee, Kent, will of ; 332 b.
 Rypynge, John, of Mutford, will of ; 333 b.
 Ryseby :
 land of ; 627 a.
 High, land of ; ib.

Rysheton, William; 272 a.
 Ryswick, treaty of; xi., 100 a.
 Rysyng, Rich., of Antingham, will of; 334 a.
 Ryves:
 Lieut.-Col., weekly charge of his troop; 598 a.
 John, of Wey; 630 a.

S.

Sabbath, the, persons forbidden to work on; 251 b.
 Saberthwayte, James; 228 b.
 Sabine, Jos., letter of; 38 b.
 Sabyn, John, of Leicester; 413 b.
 Sacellan, Peter, witness; 306 a.
 Sacheverell:
 Dr.; 44 a.
 — trial of; 18 b, 39 a.
 — at Westminster Hall; 49 b.
 Henry, of Ratcliff-upon-Sore; 416 b.
 Wm.; 150 a.
 Sacheverill:
 Thomas, preacher at Leicester; 417 a, 492 a.
 Lieut. William; 596 b.
 Sackcloth and poledavies, sealing of; 243 a.
 Sackville, Sackville:
 Lord, MSS. of; xxii.
 Sir J., letters of and to; 243 a.
 Lord G., speeches of (1756); 223 a, 223 b.
 Lord George; 221 b.
 — letter to (1758); 181 b, 182 b.
 Sacrament certificates; 401 a.
 Sacrist of a monastery, articles provided by; 343 b.
 Sadderby, Henry, of Leicester; 413 b.
 Saddleworth, co. York, chapel, 147 a.
 Sadlar, alias Dore, Robert, of Devizes, will of; 385 b.
 Sadleir, Anthony, letters of; 292 b, 293 b.
 Sadler:
 Sir Ralph; 51 a.
 Lady, gift of lands by; 385 a.
 Sir Ralph, the members for Leicester and; 431 a, 431 b.
 — letter of; 431 b.
 Safediche; 371 a.
 Saffron Walden, the Council of War at; 552 b.
 Sagrym, Segrym, John, his daughter and heir; 634 a.
 Saile, Hastings, mayor of Pontefract, letter to; 275 b.
 Sailors, impressment of; 893 b.
 St. Aignan, Duc de, letter of; 40 a.
 St. Albans; 347 b.
 letters dated at; 8 b, 61 a, 347 a.
 James I. at; 435 b.
 Abbot and convent of, grants, &c. to; 1 b.
 monastery, charters of; 1 a.
 corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Earl of, leases to; 51 a.
 — (1660); 219 a.
 — privilege case (1667); 108 b, 109 a.
 Duke of, George, letter of (1771); 287 b.
 — 3rd; 569 a, note.
 St. Andrew, the ship; 242 a, 243 a.
 St. Andrews:
 documents dated at; 299 b, 303 b, 306 a, 306 b, 307 a, 307 b.
 Holy Trinity kirk at; 307 b.
 port of; 308 b.
 See of, charters relating to; 305 b.
 church of, conveyance to; 300 b.
 St. Leonard's College at; 299 a, 303 a.
 University, MSS. of; xxiii.
 St. Mary de Rupe near; xvii., 304 a.
 — charters relating to; 306 b.
 archbishop of, Hamilton; 304 b.
 — his execution (1571); ib.
 — John (1555); 309 a.
 — charter by (1561); 309 a, 309 b.
 — Andrew Forman (1517); 306 a.
 — James Beton (1532); ib.
 — (1560), Hamilton; 308 b.
 — (1483), William; 305 b.
 archbishops of; 304 b.
 prior of, Thomas; 300 b.
 archdeacon of, Ranulph; ib.
 bishop of (1206), William; 300 b.
 — (1206); 297 a.
 — (1283), Fraser, charter by; 300 b.
 — (1388), Walter, witness; 307 a.
 — (1393), Walter, witness; 305 b.
 — (1452), James; 305 b.
 — charter by; ib.
 St. Angelo, letter dated at; 218 b.
 St. Antony de la Catina, the ship; 373 b.
 St. Asaph, Bishop of:
 Thomas (temp. Eliz.); 94 a.
 Robert, writ to; 634 b.

St. Asaph, Bishop of—cont.
 Henry, writ of summons (1667); 112 b.
 Isaac (1670); 154 b.
 — writ of summons to; 142 b.
 Dr. Fleetwood (1708); 34 a.
 (1753), speech of; 219 b.
 St. Bees, lights at; 261 b.
 St. Bernard:
 Abbey of; 603 a.
 his "Life of St. Malachy"; 572 a.
 St. Bertin; 321 a.
 St. Bohine; 585 b.
 St. Bonaventura, works of; 572 a.
 St. Catherine's; 85 b, 283 a.
 St. Christopher's island; 24 a.
 St. Clare, Lord, his son (1708); 33 a.
 St. Colum Kill; 585 b.
 St. Columb; 335 a.
 St. Cyric in the Baths, Cardinal priest of; 625 b.
 St. Davids:
 ship-money assessment; 383 a.
 Bishop of, Abp. Peckham and; 320 a.
 — (1414), H. Chichele; 340 b.
 St. Domingo; 285 b.
 St. Edmund, William de, witness; 423 b.
 St. Elawde, the ship, of Calais; 242 a.
 St. Eloy, M., letter of; 36 a.
 St. Foix, letter dated at; 218 a.
 St. Gelain or Gislain; 28 b, 29 a.
 St. George:
 the ship, of Calais; 242 a.
 the, of London (Catch); 369 a.
 Fort; 256 b.
 Council of; 296 b.
 Ensign Art.; 595 a.
 Cardinal; 23 a.
 Chevalier, memoirs of; 59 b.
 Oliver, letters of; 58 b.
 Sir Oliver, his troop; 503 a, 517 a, 522 a, 530 a, 546 b.
 Capt. Richard; 595 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop; 598 b.
 Lieut. William; 513 a.
 St. Germain:
 the Pretender at; 34 a.
 fair at; 23 b. en Laye, letters dated at; 16 b.
 — council held at; 553 a.
 Marquis, letter of (1635); 552 b.
 St. Germans, Earl, MSS. of; xxii.
 St. Gylain; 218 b.
 St. Helen, family of; 262 b.
 St. Hippolite, M. de, his services; 21 b.
 St. Ildefonso; 193 a.
 St. Ives, co. Hunts.; 9 b.
 St. John:
 Lord (1645); 9 a.
 — his steward; 11 a.
 the Baptist, a finger of; 268 b.
 Bar., letter of; 3 a.
 Beauchamp, letter of; 9 a.
 Henry; 17 a, 210 a.
 — letters of; 32 a, 32 b, 37 b, 38 a, 57 a
 — documents signed by; 39 b.
 — Secretary of State, letters to; 40 b, 71 b.
 Mrs. Lucie, allowance to; 3 a.
 Oliver, letters of; 379 a, 382 a, 433 b.
 — letter of; 584 b.
 — arguments by; 584 b.
 Richard; 625 b.
 of Jerusalem, Hospital, grant to; 637 a.
 St. John's:
 warden of the Mint; 65 a.
 Mr., Lord Bullingbrook's brother (1712); 395 b. with Skeaghne Moone, co. Kildare; 508 a.
 Wood, Middlesex; 161 a.
 St. Just, Madame de, letter of; 40 a.
 St. Kallock; 246 a.
 St. Laudo, William de, inquisition by; 406 a.
 St. Laurant, M. de, letter of; 36 a.
 St. Laurent, letter dated at; 25 a.
 St. Lawrence:
 Hampshire; 263 b.
 in Thanet; 340 a.
 St. Leger:
 Sir Anthony, of the Mint; 64 a, 64 b.
 — warrant to; 90 a.
 — document signed by; 66 b.
 — his son; 64 a.
 George, petition of; 517 a.
 St. Leofard, G. de, canon of Wells; 350 a.
 St. Leonard's:
 Hospital; 169 a.
 Forest of; 349 b.
 St. Lo or Lawdo, William de, conveyance to; 405 b.
 St. Lorenzo; 215 b.
 St. Lucia, claims of King of France to (1751); 284 a.
 St. Malachy, St. Bernard's Life of; 572 a.

- St. Malo or St. Maloes ; 36 b, 138 a, 561 a.
 St. Margaret at Cliff, vicar of, ex-communicated ; 336 b.
 St. Martin, Camp de, letter from ; 28 a.
 St. Maurice, Comte, letters of ; 38 b, 40 a.
 St. Maurus, Nicholas de, witness ; 407 b.
 St. Mawe's Castle, Cornwall ; 249 a.
 St. Michael, Mount, Normandy, monastery of ; 263 b.
 St. Neots ; 9 b.
 St. Nicholas :
 in Thanet ; 248 a, 340 a.
 — church of ; 342 b.
 St. Nicholas's Gut ; 255 b, 257 a.
 St. Osithe, abbot of, v. John Rokell (15 Ric. II.) ; 169 b.
 St. Oswald's priors, co. York ; 273 a.
 St. Patrick :
 Munster ; 154 a.
 Jocelin's Life of ; 572 a, 582 b.
 St. Philip, of Ostend, the ; 109 b.
 St. Pierre :
 Abbé de, letter of ; 38 b.
 M., letter of ; ib.
 St. Priest, Mr. ; 26 a.
 St. Prisca, Cardinal of, Arnald ; 352 a.
 St. Quentin, letter dated at ; 28 a.
 St. Quintin, Sir William ; 64 a.
 — documents signed by ; 85 a, 85 b.
 St. Remy, Baron ; 21 a.
 St. Rist, Madame, letter of ; 38 b.
 St. Ruth, General, killed ; 563 a.
 St. Saphorin, relation by ; 15 b.
 St. Saphorins, M., credentials to, from Berne ; 37 b.
 St. Sebastian ; 563 a.
 St. Ternan or Terrenanus, of Arbuthnott ; 298 b, 299 b, 300 a.
 St. Thomas :
 M. de ; 20 b.
 Marquess de ; 21 b.
 St. Tronce, Camp de, letter dated at ; 17 b.
 St. Valery ; 34 b, 35 a, 127 b.
 St. Venant, siege of ; 217 b.
 St. Victor, M., letters of ; 40 a, 40 b.
 St. Vincent ; 289 b.
 Salamanca ; 17 a, 18 a.
 University ; 455 a.
 Salesbury, John de, mercer ; 367 a.
 Salian, M., letter of ; 38 b.
 Salich, General, letters of ; 32 a.
 Salis, M. de, letters of ; 37 b, 40 a.
 Salisbury ; 107 a, 333 a, 335 a, 335 b.
 Cathedral, MSS. of ; xxiii.
 Bishop of, H. (1202) ; 356 b.
 — ex-communicated by Alexander III. ; 317 a.
 — (1493), Langton ; 262 b.
 — (16th cent.?), Audley ; 269 a.
 — Alexander (1666), writ of summons to ; 101 a.
 — (1668) ; 173 a.
 — (1670) ; 138 b.
 — Burnet, letters of ; 54 a.
 — (1704), his books ; 51 b.
 — letter of (1708) ; 45 b.
 Cape ; 236 b, 237 a.
 Marquis of, reports on his MSS. ; xxii.
 Earl of (1 John) William, witness ; 404 b.
 — document signed by (1605) ; 87 b.
 — (1606) ; 380 b.
 — letter of ; ib.
 — letters of (1607) ; 381 a.
 — letter of (1608) ; 382 b.
 — (1609) ; 228 b.
 — (1610), Robert, document signed by ; 211 b.
 — letters of (1611) ; 88 b, 399 b.
 — James, writ of summons to (1669) ; 127 a.
 — (1687) ; 209 b.
 — letter to ; 582 a.
 — Robert, papers by ; 584 b.
 the, French man-of-war, capture of ; x., 1 a, 45 b.
 John of ; 319 b.
 John, of Barnstaple, will of ; 335 a. canon of ; 333 a.
 Lieut. John ; 592 b.
 Capt. Thos. ; 120 b.
 — answer of ; 121 a.
 Salisch, M., letters of ; 36 a, 40 a.
 Sall ; 333 b.
 Sallangres, Madlle. de, letter of ; 37 b.
 Salle, M. de la ; 564 a.
 Sallowe, Roger de, his daughter ; 407 b.
 Salmon :
 Dr. Peter v. Merchant Adventurers of England ; 147 b.
 Peter, patent to ; 248 a.
 Salmon fisheries in the Thames ; 632 b.
 Salms :
 Prince ; 16 b.
 Prince of, letters of (1705) ; 31 b.
 Salope, Wlston de, witness ; 638 a.
 Salsbury, Wm., petition of ; 103 b.
 Salsburye, John ; 375 b.
 Salsedo, Peter ; 369 a.
 Salstonstall, Samuel, mayor of Pontefract ; 276 a.
 Salt, Captain ; 541 b, 548 b.
 Saltash ; 255 b.
 Salte, Thomas, quartermaster ; 596 a.
 Salteney, Le Londpul in, called le Blakepul ; 358 a.
 Salterswaye ; 371 a.
 Salterway ; 371 a.
 Saltfleet ; 324 b.
 Saltfleet Haven ; 116 b.
 Saltfleetby, co. Lincoln, deeds relating to ; 264 b.
 Salthouse ; 334 a.
 Saltney marsh ; 370 b, 395 b.
 Saltoun, Lord of, letter to (1708) ; 45 b.
 Saltunestall, town of ; 636 b.
 Saluces, Marquisate of (circ. 1600) ; 283 b.
 Salusburie :
 Owen ; 376 a.
 John ; 375 a.
 Salvin or Selvin :
 Robert ; 112 b, 113 a.
 — petitions of ; 112 b, 113 a.
 Sam, John, soldier in Ireland ; 513 a.
 Samford, Will., of Bruton, will of ; 335 a.
 Samforth, Cristiana, of Kingston-on-Thames, will of ; 332 b.
 Sampson, the ship, of London ; 523 b.
 Samson, Major Richard, warrant touching ; 384 b.
 Samuel, Marcus ; 279 b.
 Sanchye, Col. Jerome ; 618 a.
 Sancroft, Dr., Abp. of Canterbury ; 566 a.
 "Sancto Amando, Amaurico de ;" 357 a, 357 b.
 Sancto Laudo :
 William de, conveyance to ; 408 a.
 — witness ; 408 b.
 Sand, Col. Robert ; 543 a.
 Sanders :
 Edward, huntsman ; 279 b, 280 a.
 Col. Robert, petition of ; 510 a.
 Sanderson ; 493 b, 496 a.
 Capt. of the Charlotte ; 257 a.
 Sir William, master of the Trinity House ; 260 b.
 Sanderton, Mr., payment to ; 526 a.
 Sandford :
 E., letter of ; 293 b.
 Sir Richard, of the Mint ; 64 a.
 — letter of ; 70 b.
 Theophilus, his lands in Rosecommon ; 513 b.
 Thomas, of Leicester, commission to ; 417 a.
 — of Dublin ; 506 b.
 Sandhurst ; 327 a.
 Sandon, letter dated at ; 49 b.
 Sandridge :
 vill of ; 1 b.
 St. Leonard's church of ; 2 a.
 Sands, Mr., speech of ; 222 b.
 Sandwich :
 Earl of, Master of the Trinity House (1660) ; 235 b, 249 a, 250 a.
 — (1662) ; 251 b.
 — (1669) ; 254 a.
 — (1670) ; 147 a.
 — and Lady, letters of (1714) ; 57 a.
 — (1748) ; 570 a.
 — (1751) ; 284 b.
 — letter of (1762) ; 285 a.
 — (1763) ; 286 b.
 — letter of (1763) ; 286 b.
 — letter to (no date) ; 287 b.
 Kent ; 320 b, 350 b, 352 a.
 ships of ; 242 b.
 corporation, MSS. of ; xxiii.
 taking down steeple at ; 254 b. lands in ; 318 b.
 manor of ; 322 b.
 Lyden, near ; 324 a.
 deeds relating to ; 326 b.
 St. Clement's churchyard ; 337 a.
 St. Peter's ; 340 a.
 Nicholas de ; 345 a.
 port of ; 318 b, 345 b, 346 b.
 writ to mayor of ; 346 b.
 Sandy and Girtford, parsonage of ; 4 a.
 Sandys :
 Lord (1668) ; 166 a.
 — Henry (1669), writ of summons to ; 127 a.
 Col., his company ; 530 b.
 Edwin ; 109 a.
 J., letter so signed ; 393 b.
 Sir Miles, deceased ; 109 b.
 Col. Robert, petition of ; 507 a.
 Samuel, the younger ; 109 a.
 — the elder ; 109 a.
 — ; 109 b.
 William ; 139 a.

- Sandys—cont.
 William, petition, &c. of; 139 a.
 —; 278 a.
 Lieut. William, letters of; 293 b, 295 b.
 Sandysone, Richard, of Leicester; 412 a.
 Sanford, Thomas, of Leicester; 416 b.
 Sankey :
 Col., in Ireland; 602 a.
 H., petition signed by; 538 a.
 Sansin, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Santer, Robert de la, deed by; 408 a.
 Santon, land of; 627 a.
 Santry :
 church of; 506 a.
 Baron of, chief justice in Ireland (1663); 526 b.
 Sapcote, John, Knt., of Hartland, will of; 333 a.
 Saragossa; 18 a, 60 a.
 document dated at; 40 a.
 Sarcefields, the; 623 b.
 Sardinia, Queen of, her death (1728); 62 a.
 Sares, John, of Whitechapel, deed by; 271 b.
 Sargent, Eusign Wm.; 593 a.
 Sark; 138 b, 146 a.
 Sarmiento de Acunha, Don Diego; 213 b.
 Sarnier, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Sarracin; 23 a.
 Sarranton; 217 b.
 Sarsfield :
 M., letter of; 37 b.
 Fran., his lands in Limerick; 498 b.
 Capt. Patrick, deposition of; 390 b.
 Patrick, of Tully, petition of; 501 b.
 — made Earl of Lucan; 494 a, 495 a.
 — heir of Lucan; 545 b, 547 b.
 Peter, of Tully, his estate; 540 b, 547 b.
 — his son Patrick; 541 a, 547 b.
 Satterthwaite, Wm., answer of; 124 a.
 Sauce, Simon de la, of Leicester; 405 b.
 Saulestown; 538 a.
 Saunden, John, barber, of Cambridge, will of; 333 a.
 Saunders, Nicholas, missal belonging to; 284 a.
 Saunders :
 Capt. of the "Ruby;" 63 a.
 Sir Edmund, Lord Chief Justice; 232 a.
 — his opinion; 259 a.
 Col. Robert, D. O'Neill and; 519 a.
 Sir Thomas, of the Tower; 89 a.
 Saunderson :
 gaoler at Leicester; 433 a.
 Robert, sheriff of Hull, account of; 627 b.
 Saunford, Robert de; 263 b.
 Saunzavoyr, Sir Ralph, of Selgrave; 330 a.
 Saurin, Mr.; 564 a.
 Sausser, Robert le; 168 a, 172 a.
 Savage :
 Mr., letter to; 381 b.
 Mons. Arnaud, of Canterbury; 343 a.
 Boniface, of Pontefract; 272 a.
 Sir Edward; 387 b.
 John, affidavit of; 140 a.
 — letter of; 366 a.
 Sir John, mayor of Chester; 368 b.
 — letter of; 381 b.
 — letters to; 382 a, 382 b, 400 a.
 Jonadab, petition of; 150 a.
 Lord, document signed by (1635); 209 b.
 P.; 74 a.
 Philip; 278 a.
 Thos.; 365 b.
 Savary :
 Col., letter of; 40 a.
 M., letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 40 a.
 Major, letter of; 38 b.
 Savile, Savill, Savell :
 Lady Frances, Act for securing money to; 118 b.
 Sir George, his motion (1778); 197 b.
 — commissioner; 375 a.
 John, of Methley, order signed by; 275 a.
 Henry, vice-chamberlain (1685); 12 b.
 Thomas, of London; 282 a.
 Savorini, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Savoy; 33 b, 282 b, 570 a.
 envoy from (1707); 17 a.
 Cardinal of, dispute with his servants at Rome; 554 a.
 Savoy, Duke of :
 (1636); 553 a.
 (1705); 44 a.
 letters of; 31 a.
 (1706); 45 b.
 (1708); 1 a, 16 b, 17 b, 18 a, 25 a, 26 b, 32 b, 33 a, 38 b.
 mission to; 16 a.
 Imperial memorial against; 36 a. negotiations with; 19 b, et seq.
 (1709); 47 a.
 letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — (1710); 38 a.
 Savoy, the Prince of (1709), letters of; 36 b, 38 a, 40 a.
 Savoye, Eugene de, letters of; 14 a, 25 a.
 Saweer, Wm.; 281 b.
 Sawford, Edward, his speech; 431 b.
 Sawyer :
 Edmund, his Memorials of State, Eliz. and James xiii., 277 a.
 — his "Winwood State Papers;" 283 a.
 Sir Robert, attorney general; 232 a, 258 a.
 Sir Roger, his opinion; 258 a.
 Sax, Matthew, son of; 636 a.
 Saxby, Elizabeth, of Northampton, will of; 335 a.
 Saxe :
 Prince of, letters of (1705); 31 b.
 Cardinal Prince of, letters of (1706); 31 b.
 Cardinal of, letters of (1707); 32 a.
 Eysnac, Duke of, letters of (1707); 32 a.
 Prince de (1710), letter of; 38 b.
 Gotha, commandants of regiments of (1710); 38 b.
 — Prince William of, letters of (1706); 31 b.
 — Duke of (1709), letter of; 36 b.
 Saxham, Suffolk; 121 b.
 Saxmondham, John, alias Cowper, of Glenham, will of; 333 b.
 Saxony :
 invasion of; 32 a.
 troops of (1705); 44 a.
 Frederick the Great's doings in; 220 b. embassy to, temp. Charles I.; 584 a.
 Say and Sale, Lord :
 letter of (1642); 211 b.
 letters to; ib.
 letters of (1644, &c.); 3 a, 5 b, 8 b, 9 b, 10 a.
 (1668); 166 b.
 W. Fenys; 263 b.
 Say :
 Thomas, of Abingdon, will of; 332 b.
 Will. de, gift by; 323 a.
 William, Dean of St. Paul's; 634 b, 635 b.
 Sayer, John, petition of; 502 b.
 Sayle, Thomas and Hastings, of Pontefract, bequest, &c. by
 275 b, 276 a.
 Saynleger, Ralph, of Ulcomb, will of; 340 a.
 Scanderowne; 239 b.
 port of; 640 b.
 Scarampo; 604 b.
 Scarborough :
 Castle, Piers Gaveston's surrender of; 354 a.
 Lady, letters of; 54 a.
 Earl of, letters of (1706); 32 a.
 — Richard (1715); 51 a.
 — (1745); 571 b.
 Scarcroft, co. York; 271 a.
 Scarlet, the wearing of, at Leicester; 426 b.
 Scarsdale, Lord (1745); 571 b.
 Scawen :
 Capt. Francis; 106 b.
 — Act for restoring; 106 b.
 Robert, petition of; 106 b.
 Sir William, letter of; 37 a.
 Schafe; 637 a.
 Scharneford, Robert and Baldwin de; 405 b.
 Scharp, Richard, gift by; 323 a.
 Schaune, Henry, of Leicester; 408 a.
 Scheld, the, passage of; 36 a.
 Scheldesley, Roger de, of Worcester; 638 a.
 Shelton, Ricardus de, witness; 408 a.
 Schepa, Robert, grant to; 415 b.
 Scherpe, John, sub-prior of Bruton; 264 a.
 Scheues :
 Henry, of Kilquhuus; 305 b.
 John of, witness; 305 b.
 — rector of Inchebrick, witness; 306 a.
 Schevelin, description of; 61 b.
 Schewas, John, inquisition before; 308 a.
 Scheyle, Matilda, Richard son of, conveyance by; 410 b.
 Schilde, M. de, letter of; 37 b.
 Schivas, William, archbishop of St. Andrews; 304 b.
 Schleswig Holstein :
 Duke of, letters of (1694); 557 b.
 — Jean Adolf, his services; ib.
 Schlik, Comte, letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 38 b.
 Schlumdt, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Schmeling, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Schmettan, M., letters of; 31 b, 36 a, 37 b, 38 b, 39 b.
 Scholefield, Abraham; 147 a.
 Scholten, M. de, letters of; 36 a, 38 b.
 Schomberg and Leinster, Duke of; 558 a, 564 a, 565 a.
 (warrant signed (1689); 392 a.
 letters of (1706); 32 a.
 letter of (1708); 36 a.
 letter of (1709); 37 b.
 Schonborn :
 Comte de, letters of (1706); 31 b.
 — letter of; 36 a.
 Schools in Yorkshire, decrees concerning; 271 b.
 Schowts, Capt. Theodorus; 553 a.
 Schrader, M., letters of; 32 a, 36 b, 39 b, 40 a.

- Schrude, M., letter of; 38 a.
- Schulemberg :
 Major-General; 17 b, 19 b.
 — letters of; 40 a, 40 b.
 — —; 36 a, 36 b, 38 a, 40 b.
 — his memoir; 26 b.
- Schutz, M. or Baron, letters of; 31 b, 36 a, 37 b.
- Schwaben, Col., letters of; 40 a.
- Schytz, Baron, letters of (1707); 32 b.
- Scilly isles :
 241 b, 252 b, 257 a, 257 b, 258 a, 258 b, 261 b.
 Lutherans transported to; 47 a. fortification of; 241 b.
- Scindiah, Mahagee; 289 b, 290 a, 290 b, 291 a.
- Scipios, the, account of; 22 b.
- Scoble, Henry :
 clerk of the Parliaments, document signed by; 274 b.
 — payment to; 94 b.
 order signed by; 437 b.
- Scone, abbot of Reimbald; 300 b.
- Scotchmen, their eligibility for the College of Physicians; 228 b.
- Scothe, Sir William de, canon of St. Paul's; 634 a.
- Scotland :
 Edward II.'s wars in; 633 a.
 invasion of (1300); 347 b.
 — Pope Boniface's interference in; 348 a. war against (1314), subsidy from clergy towards; 352 b.
 Observantines in, order of (1482); 301 a.
 — Vicar general of, letter of; 301 b. expected invasion of (1549); 298 b. church of, general assembly of (1608); 299 a. foreign goods imported by (1664); 252 b. value of land and labour (1669); 134 a. labour cheap in (1669); ib.
 register of lands in, account of (1669); 136 a.
 and England, Act for the weal of (1670); 142 b.
 the conspiracy in (1703); 45 a.
 coinage commissioners in, letter of (1708); 83 b.
 De Foe's letters on state of feeling in (1708); 48 a. election of peers in (1708); ib.
 the elections in (1708); 41 b. silver mines in, report on (1717); 84 b, et seq.
 gold mines in (temp. Jac. IV.); xii., 84 b. its relations with Cromwell; 29 b. intending rising in; ib.
 clergy of, Walpole's quarrel with; 18 b.
 General Monck in; 30 a.
 Bank of, commissioners of; 81 a. papers relating to a Mint in; 81 a. war in, the clerical subsidy for; 354 a.
 Covenanters; 383 b. and treaty of Ripon; 383 b.
 English ambassador in; 378 a.
- Scots army about the Severn (1645); 8 b.
- Scots, king of (1596); 577 b.
- Scott, Scot :
 Mr., Duke of Atholl and; 45 b.
 —, letter of; 39 b.
 Col.; 285 b.
 Bridget; 162 a.
 Lieut. Hen.; 595 a.
 Hercules, letters of; 68 b, 81 b.
 Isaac; 162 a.
 Lieut. Jonathan, letter of; 291 a.
 John, commissioner; 275 a.
 Martha, wife of Colonel, petition of; 502 a.
 Michael; 358 a.
 Patrick, letters of; 46 a, 83 b.
 Capt. Richard, letter of; 295 a.
 Thomas, ship master, captive; 246 b.
 — of the Admiralty; 247 b.
 Col. Thomas, petition of; 510 a.
 — answer to his petition; 518 b.
 — petition of his wife Martha; 519 b.
 Sir Walter, his "Heart of Midlothian"; 310 b.
 Major Wm., letters of; 296 a.
 William, of Balwery; 307 b.
 — of Newton; 637 a.
- Scravemour, Mr. de; 564 a.
- Seringeour, Margaret or Mariota, of Dudhope; 298 b, 301 b.
 — admitted into the order of the Observantines; 301 b.
- Scrivener, Rev. Henry; 420 a.
- Seroggs, Sir Wm.; 166 a.
- Scrope :
 Mr. and Mrs., letters of and to; 25 b, 26 a.
 Edward; 376 a.
 Geoffrey Le, justice; 411 a.
 J., of the Treasury, letter of; 79 a.
 — signature; 85 a.
 Lord (1596); 378 a.
- Scryvanis, John de; 634 b.
- Seadamore :
 Col. John, letters of; 47 b.
 S., letter of; 552 b.
- Seure, John, of Pontefract; 274 a.
- Seurloge, Capt.; 613 b.
- Seabrook, Thomas, warrant to; 83 a.
- Seafeld, Earl of :
 MSS. of; xxii.
 letter of (1708); 36 a.
 letters of (1709); 37 a, 83 a.
 — (1710); 38 b, 81 b.
 — (1711); 40 a.
- Sea Flower, the ship; 238 a.
- Seaforth :
 Earl of, in France; 51 a.
 Countess of, Frances, complaint against; 50 b.
- Seager, John, affidavit of; 116 b.
- Seagrave, Stephen, of the Tower; 88 a.
- Seaman, Mrs.; 389 a.
- Sea marks, buoys, &c., regulations, &c. concerning. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
- Seamen :
 their protests against tempestuous weather; 369 a.
 Parliamentary commissioners for sick and wounded, letter of; 385 b. order touching; ib.
 order for impressment of (1653); 386 a. pay, &c. of, regulations and petitions concerning. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
- Searragh, co. Louth; 590 b.
- Seasalter :
 church; 316 a.
 manor and church of; 327 a.
- Seawell, John, of the Battleaxe Guard; 546 b.
- Seckendorff, M., letters of; 38 b.
- Secker, Archbishop, speech of; 219 b.
- Secole, W.; 629 b.
- Secrecy, committee of (1785), letter to; 289 a.
- Sedan, letter dated at; 218 a.
- Sedgmoor, battle of; 51 b.
- Seele, Thomas, provost of Trin. Coll., Dublin, petitions of 501 a, 505 b.
- Segane, Stephen; 357 b.
- Seger, Mr., Garter king-at-arms; 228 b.
- Segovia; 18 a.
- Segraue :
 Gilbert de, witness; 422 b.
 Stephen de, witness; ib.
- Segrave; 347 b.
 Nicholas de; 170 a.
 Sir Stephen and Sir Gilbert de; 265 b.
- Seignelay; 562 b.
- Seigneur, Geo., barber surgeon; 3 a.
- Seissan :
 M., letters of; 38 b, 40 a.
 Col., letter of; 37 b.
- Seitoun :
 Alexander, of Parbroath; 308 a.
 John, his nephew; ib.
- Sekker, Thomas, of Stropham, will of; 334 a.
- Selbey, Ensign Parr; 594 a.
- Selborne; 263 b.
 church of; 263 b.
 priors of, list of; 264 a.
 priory of; 263 b.
 — deeds relating to; 263 b.
- Selbrygge, John; 263 a.
- Selby, Willerin; 324 a.
- Selbys, Lieut. William; 591 b.
- Selden, John :
 treatise by; 584 b.
 arguments by; 584 b.
- Seldon :
 John; 116 a.
 — order touching; ib.
- Seler, Peter, of Leicester; 411 a.
- Selgrave, near Faversham, manor of; 330 a.
- Selkirk, Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.
- Sellerium, Laurence le, of Leicester; 421 a.
- Selling, church of; 349 b.
 — assault on the Dean of Ospringe at; ib.
- Sellow garrison; 11 b.
- Selvin, Robt. See Salvin.
- Selwyn, Mrs., verses on; 24 a.
- Selycke, Count (1709); 20 b.
- Semar, Thomas, of Walden, will of; 332 a.
- Semlin; 27 b.
- Send; 332 a.
- Senewhare, document dated at; 351 a.
- Sennede, Agnes; 268 a.
- Sens, documents dated at; 353 b, 567 b, 568 a.
- Senys, Henry; 367 b.
- Septvaus, John, of Ash, will of; 340 a.
- Serampore; 293 a.
- Seras, kirk of, charter dated at; 307 a.
- Serel, Mr., of Wells; 638 b.
- Sergeant, John, of Dublin; 385 b.
- Sergeants-at-Arms, the King's :
 petitions of; 105 a, 144 a, 152 a.
 order touching; 105 a.
- Sergeants of a monastery, their duties, &c.; 343 b.

- Sergeant, Robert, of Stoke Nayland, will of; 332 b.
 Seris, ancient city of Philippos, now called; 435 b.
 Sermann, Geoffrey, of Sideling, will of; 334 b.
 Sernyse, Gilbert Grant, grant to; 307 a.
 Serranders, M. letter of; 38 b.
 Sersanders :
 M., letter of; 36 a.
 Madame, letter of; 37 b. de Lana, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Servants, Act to prevent certain frauds, &c. committed by (1670); 152 a.
 Sesia, Valley of; 27 a.
 Seton :
 Archibald, letters of; 290 a, 290 b, 293 a, 294 a.
 David, rector of Fethirkarne; 305 b, 306 a.
 Setontowne, co. Louth; 590 b.
 Sevenoaks :
 chantry of; 324 b.
 vicar of; 335 b.
 St. John's Hospital at; 343 b.
 Severn, the; 8 b.
 Seville; 44 a.
 Sewall, Alice, of East Walton, will of; 333 b.
 Seward, Thomas, certificate concerning petition of; 509 b.
 Sewers, Commissioners of; 347 a.
 orders of; 88 a.
 Seymour :
 Lieut.-Gen. (1708), letter of; 36 a.
 Mr.; 53 b.
 Mr., his escape; 88 b.
 F., letter of; 439 a.
 Seynesbury, John, master of Ewelme Hospital; 626 a.
 Seyntlo, William de, gift to; 408 b.
 Seyton, Alexander, of Vrqhairt, charter by; 309 b.
 Shadwell; 233 b, 250 a. minister of; 258 a.
 church; ib.
 Upper, Tippins' Rents, near ye Sun Tavern; 394 a.
 Edwd., letter of; 36 a.
 Shadwell or Shodwell :
 John, v. Abp. of Canterbury (15 Ric. II.); 169 b.
 Sir John, physician to Q. Anne; 50 b.
 Shaftesbury; 220 a, 333 a.
 Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.
 — (1673); 255 b.
 — speech of (1677); 219 b.
 — (1753); ib.
 — (1754); 220 a.
 Shaghe, Wm.; 367 b.
 Shakerley :
 Sir Geffery, governor of Chester Castle; 387 b, 388 b, 389 a.
 Peter, of Chester; 361 b.
 — letters of; 392 a, 392 b, 393 a, 393 b.
 — orders signed by; 392 a.
 — M.P. for Chester city; 394 a.
 — letters of; xv., 394 a, 394 b, 395 a, 395 b, 396 a.
 Shakespeare :
 Thomas, of Lutterworth; 435 b.
 — letter of; ib.
 Shaklock, Symon called; 300 b, 301 a.
 Shaldbourne; 262 b.
 Shales :
 Charles, of the Mint; 68 b.
 Philip, petition of; 67 a.
 — of the Mint; 69 a.
 Shandoye, Lord (1604), his players; 428 a.
 Shanky; 608 a.
 Shannon, the river; 602 a.
 Shannon, Earl of :
 Henry Boyle made; 174 b.
 his troop (1663); 507 b, 508 a, 516 b, 537 b, 543 b, 546 b. (1779); 200 b.
 Shannonrock, co. Louth, lands of; 532 a.
 Shanton, lands, &c. in; 423 a.
 Shapcote, Robert, barrister, petition concerning; 502 a, 513 a.
 Shapwick; 150 a, 332 b.
 Sharp, Sharpe : of Moorfields; 157 b.
 Abraham, mathematician, MS. books of; xiii., 636 a.
 Archbishop; 299 b.
 J., Professor of Divinity; 13 a.
 John, of Horton, accounts of; 637 b.
 — letters to; ib.
 —; 119 b.
 Mary, of Little Horton; 637 b.
 Richard; 368 a.
 Thomas, executor of John; 637 b.
 William, of Leicester; 411 a.
 Sharples, —; 629 b.
 Shaw :
 Mr.; 489 b.
 Lieut. J., letter of; 295 b.
 Sir John, letters of; 86 a, 37 b, 38 b.
 — of Eltham; 568 b.
 Shea, —, agent to Duke of Lorraine; 616 a.
 Sheafe, physician; 230 a.
 Shearborne, Richard; 384 b.
 Sheares, Captain; 508 a.
 Shee, William, petition of; 516 b.
 Sheehy, —, execution at Clonmel of; 481 b.
 Sheep Island; 614 b.
 Sheffield, Alice, petition of; 148 a.
 Sheffington, Mr.; 433 b.
 Sheill, Shiell :
 —, his success; 192 b.
 Dr., his wife; 609 a.
 Hugh; ib.
 Dr. Owen; 612 b.
 Shelburne :
 Col., Leinster forces under; 602 a.
 Joseph, letter of; 291 a.
 Earl of, letter of (1763); 285 b.
 — speech of (1779); 206 a.
 — letter of (1780); 288 b.
 Sheldon, Major-Gen., on Duke of Berwick's council; 494 a, 496 b.
 Shelley, Lieut. Wm., certificate by; 438 b.
 Shelly, Major F., letter of; 294 a.
 Shelsley Walsh; 335 a.
 Shelton; 333 b.
 Margaret, wife of Sir Rauf, of Shelton, will of; ib.
 Shenfield, Essex; 137 a.
 Shepert, Mr.; 563 a.
 Shepeye, William of; 413 a.
 Sheppard, Shepherd :
 Mr., of East India Company; 393 a.
 Mr., of London; 394 b.
 George, of the "Sampson," petition of; 523 b.
 — petition of; 525 b.
 Mr. J. B., his report on the manuscripts belonging to the dean and chapter of Canterbury; xiv., 315 a, et seq.
 Robert; 342 b.
 S., opinion by; 233 b.
 Capt. Thomas, petition of; 515 b.
 Thomas, Marshal-General, of Dublin; 528 b.
 Will., on Gloucester Committee; 11 b.
 William and N., petition of; 78 a.
 Sheppel, General, at Nice; 195 a.
 Sheppey :
 Isle of; 155 b.
 Leysdown in; 318 b.
 Shepton Mallet; 220 b.
 Sherante; 375 b.
 Sherard, Dr., gift of lands by; 235 a.
 Sherborne; 224 a, 332 a, 335 a.
 letters dated at; 216 b, 218 a.
 land in; 638 b.
 Lord Bristol at; 216 b, 217 b.
 Castle, Dorset, report on Mr. G. Wingfield Digby's manuscripts at; 213 a.
 Sheridan, Henry, petition of; 507 a.
 Sheringham; 333 b.
 Sherley :
 v. Hawles; 162 b.
 Elizabeth, wife of Thomas, petition of; 162 b.
 Thomas, petition of; 137 a.
 — physician to His Majesty (1671), petition of; 162 b.
 Sir Thomas; 137 a.
 Sherlock :
 v. Annesley, cause of; 51 a.
 Anne, petition of; 500 b.
 alias Fitzgerald, Ann, petition of; 551 a.
 Christopher, father of Sir John; ib.
 Sir John; 500 b, 594 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop; 597 b.
 Walter, lands held by; 518 a.
 Sherman, John, of Leicester, lease to; 415 a.
 Shermon :
 John le; 367 b.
 Nicholas le; ib.
 William le; ib.
 Sherrard, Lord (1671); 440 a.
 Sherriffe, one they call; 521 b.
 Sherston, co. Wilts; 639 a.
 Shert, Will., of Twinstead, will of; 384 b.
 Sherwin, Mr.; 220 a.
 Sheryngton :
 Walter, Chancellor of Duchy of Lancaster, his testament; 634 a, 634 b.
 his chantries; 634 a.
 Shewyn, Mr.; 94 b.
 Shilletoe, William and Anne, of Castleford; 276 b.
 Shingleton, Robert, extract from will of (1612); 366 a.
 Ship money :
 schedule of assessments upon divers cities, towns, &c. in cos. Chester, Lancaster, &c. (1634); 383 a. decision, the; 190 a.
 Sir John Bankes' papers about; 210 a, 210 b.
 arguments against; 584 b.
 Shipbuilding, Act to encourage; 259 b.
 Shipley, Robert, of Dublin; 528 b.
 Shipman, Sir Abraham, deputy-governor of Chester; 384 a.
 Shipping and navigation, Act touching (12 Car. II.); 149 b.

- Ships, regulations, &c. concerning. See Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.
- Shipton, Mr., his book ; 231 a.
- Shipwarde, Henry, of Melton Mowbray, letter of ; 435 a.
- Shirley :
 E. P., Esq., MSS. of ; xxii.
 Sir Henry, committed to the Fleet ; 103 a.
 Lady Fanny ; 56 a.
 — letter of ; 57 a.
 James ; 22 a.
 — lands held by ; 520 a.
- Shitlington : estate in ; 4 a.
 co. York ; 636 a, 636 b.
 — mill, &c. of ; ib.
 Adam and Philip of ; 636 b.
 co. Lincoln ; 333 a.
- Shoe beacon, the ; 255 a.
- Shomberg, Mr. ; 28 b.
- Shonne, Richard ; 403 a.
- Shore :
 Mr. ; 288 a.
 J., letters of ; 290 a, 293 b.
 John, afterwards Sir John, Lord Teignmouth, letters of ; 288 b.
- Shoreditch ; 155 a, 157 b.
- Shoreham, rector of ; 338 a.
- Shorne :
 Major ; 616 b.
 Daniel ; 604 a, 604 b.
- Short, Shorte :
 Edward ; 545 b.
 Henry, of Limehouse, captive ; 241 b.
 John, killed by John de Northampton ; 326 a.
 Richard ; 367 b.
- Shorter, Sir John, merchant ; 256 b.
- Shottum, John de ; 367 b.
- Shotwickford ; 371 a.
- Shovel :
 Sir Cloudesley ; 17 a.
 — letters of ; 47 b.
 — of the Trinity House ; 260 a.
 — his death ; 236 a, 260 a.
- Showers :
 Lt. Col., letters of ; 294 b, 295 a.
 Melian, wife of Col., letters of ; 294 a, 295 a.
- Shrevenam Cristyane, prioress of Littlemore ; 266 a.
- Shrewsbury ; 332 a, 368 a.
 Duke of, letters of ; 16 b, 31 a.
 — (1703) ; 44 a.
 — (1705) ; 31 b.
 — (1706) ; 32 a.
 — (1707) ; 32 b.
 — (1708) ; 36 a.
 — (1709) ; 15 a.
 — Queen Anne and (1710) ; 43 a.
 — letters of (1710) ; 37 b, 38 b.
 — letter of (1711) ; 39 b.
 — letter to (1713) ; 59 b.
 — letter of (1714) ; 57 a.
 — (1715) ; 58 b.
- Earl of, MSS. of ; xxii.
 — John Talbot (1447), Viceroy of Ireland ; 493 a, 499 b.
 — (1450) ; 264 b.
 — (1458) ; 262 b.
 — George (4 Hen. VII.) ; 420 a.
 — (1608) ; 441 a.
 — Gilbert, letter of ; ib.
 — amendments to his Bill (1671) ; 162 b.
 — document signed by (1689) ; 86 a.
 — (1691) ; 562 b.
 Countess of (1605) ; 428 b.
- Shrimpton, Brigadier, letters of ; 32 a.
- Shrines and altars at Canterbury, deeds relating to ; 320 a.
- Shrivenham, deeds relating to ; 262 b.
- Shropham ; 334 a.
- Shropshire, Salop ; 208 b, 210 a, 379 a. gentlemen of ; 219 b.
 Herald's Visitations of ; 636 a.
- Shrove Tuesday, order for regulation of sports on ; 363 a.
- Shrowder, Everard, of Brems ; 361 a.
- Shuldham, Edward, clerk, parson of Therfield, will of ; 334 b.
- Shute or Barrington :
 John ; 48 a, 49 a, 50 a, 52 a.
 — letters of ; 49 b.
- Shuttleworth, Richard :
 warrants of ; 375 b.
 chief justice, co. Denbigh, letter of ; 377 a.
- Shylbrede, Sussex, priory ; 266 a.
- Sibache, Richard de ; 357 a.
- Sibbald, Henry, petition of ; 511 a.
- Sibthorpe :
 Lieut. Christo. ; 594 a.
 Wm., vicar of Yalding ; 329 a.
- Sibton ; 333 b.
- Sichterman, Col., letter of ; 36 a.
- Sicilian war, the ; 349 b.
- Sicily : expedition to ; 21 a.
 Prince and Viceroy of (1634) ; 245 b.
- Sideling ; 334 b.
- Sidenham, Lord, William (temp. Commonwealth) ; 94 b, 95 a.
- Sidmouth, Lord (1796), letters of ; 296 b.
- Sidney. See Sydney.
- Silk :
 trade with France (1674) ; 91 a.
 Throwers, Act touching (1668), proviso, &c. ; 124 a.
 — Company of London, master and others of, petition of ; 124 a.
 — statement touching ; 124 a.
- Sill, Robert, licence farmer, petitions of ; 512 a.
- Siluerun, Laurence, witness ; 408 b.
- Silver : mines in Scotland, report, &c. on ; 84 b, et seq.
 vessels made at Stebbenheth, inventory of ; 635 a.
 and gold coins, &c., papers concerning ; 60 b, et seq.
- Silvester :
 Edward, of the Mint ; 69 a.
 — smith, of the Ordnance Office ; 89 b.
 Thomas, smith to the Mint ; 68 b.
- Silvie, Robert, of Leicester ; 439 b.
- Simeon, Simon, steward to Duke of Lancaster ; 412 a.
- Simms, Capt. ; 378 a.
- Simonds, Joh. ; 629 b.
- Simons (? Soames) ; 159 b.
- Simpson :
 Lient. Chas. L., letter of ; 295 a.
 Edward, petition of ; 551 b.
 J., letter of ; 289 a.
 James, letter of ; 288 b.
 Thomas, of Chester ; 361 b.
 — town clerk of Chester ; 361 b.
- Sinball, Isaac ; 142 a.
- Sinclair, John, Scotch rebel, letter of ; 49 b.
- Sinderbi, Alan de, witness ; 270 a.
- Sing, Singe :
 Edward, Bishop of Limerick ; 583 a.
 Francis, lands held by ; 520 a.
 — commissioner, co. Louth ; 532 a.
- Singleton :
 Henry, made Keeper of the Rolls in Ireland ; 179 a.
 — his infirm state ; 180 a.
- Sinigaglia, Bishop of ; 338 b, 339 a.
- Sinzendorff, Count, letters of (1705, &c.) ; 31 b, 36 b, 38 a, 39 b.
- Sion House, Middlesex, letter dated at ; 211 b.
- Sisly, of Newton, Robert, son of ; 371 a.
- Sisseuerne, William de, witness ; 1 b.
- Sittingbourne ; 353 b.
 vicar of, admonished ; 336 b.
 — deprivation of ; 337 a.
- Sixeandtenti, Syxeantwendti :
 Simon, witness ; 408 a.
 William, witness ; ib.
- Skardon, Samuel, letter of ; 290 b.
- Skarue lands ; 505 a.
- Skeffington :
 R., on Coventry committee ; 7 b.
 Thomas, commission to ; 417 a.
- Skeld, the river, passing of ; 35 a.
- Skelton :
 Mr., in the Tower ; 555 b.
 Bevil ; 146 a.
 — his Naturalization Act ; ib.
 Sir Henry, his widow ; 246 b.
 Ensign James ; 595 a.
 John, of Dublin, petition, &c. of ; 528 a, 543 a.
 Richard ; 528 a.
 William, petition of ; 541 a.
- Skene, Mr. F., his report on, and calendar of, House of Lords' MSS. ; viii., 101-174.
- Skeres, —, his wife ; 227 a.
- Skerrett :
 Dominick, petition of ; 513 a.
 Edmond, petition of ; ib.
- Skerries, the rock ; 251 a.
- Skerries, the, near Holyhead, lighthouse on, proposed ; 395 b.
- Skete :
 Barth., of Wangford, will of ; 334 a.
 Geoffrey, of Downham, will of ; ib.
 John, senr., of Kersey, will of ; ib.
- Skevington, Mr., high sheriff of Leicester ; 428 a.
- Skinner, Skynner :
 v. East India Company ; ix., 165 a, et seq.
 Mr., consul at Leghorn ; 255 b.
 Elizabeth, petition of ; 518 b.
 Fredk., examination of ; 171 a.
 Henry ; 282 a.
 Thomas ; 108 b.
 — petitions, &c. of ; 107 a, 107 b.
 — merchant, petitions of ; 165 a-174 b, passim.
 Vincent, officer of the Exchequer ; 361 a.

- Skippon :
 Lord, Philip, payment to (1638) ; 95 a.
 Major-General, gift to ; 429 a.
- Skipton, George, of Pontefract ; 276 a.
- Skipwith :
 Capt. ; 397 b.
 Henry, candidate for Leicester ; 431 b.
 — letter for his instruction ; ib.
 William, letter of ; 441 a.
 — his house at Leicester ; ib.
 William de, chief baron ; 412 b.
 Sir William, his house at Leicester ; 428 b.
 — Burgess for Leicester, deceased ; 435 a.
- Skopam, Edmund, of London, will of ; 335 a.
- Skrymgeour, Nicholas, heir to William ; 307 b.
- Skyres in Wootton, Hampshire ; 263 b, 264 a.
- Slade :
 Lieut.-Colonel ; 591 a.
 — weekly pay of his troop ; 597 a.
- Slains, within tenement of Kinnef ; 300 b.
- Slane :
 garrison at, in 1648 ; 594 a. barony, James II.'s lands in ; 498 a.
- Slaney, Abel, woollen draper, proposed new coinage by ; 75 a, 78 a, 78 b.
- Slater :
 John, defendant ; 551 a.
 — licence farmer, petition of ; 529 a.
- Slaughter :
 Major ; 596 a.
 John, jurymen ; 89 a.
- Slave trade ; 293 a.
- Slaves, royalists sold as ; 500 a, 514 b.
- Slayne, Lieut. ; 592 a.
- Sligo ; 493 b, 495 b, 562 a, 606 a.
 member for ; 442 a.
 bay of ; 599 a.
- Slinfold ; 335 b.
- Slingelandt, M., letters of ; 31 a, 31 b, 32 b, 36 a, 37 a, 40 b.
- Slingsby :
 Col. ; 29 a.
 Lady, of Kippax ; 637 b.
 Mr. ; 219 a, 491 a.
 — of the Mint ; 66 a.
 Anne, petition of ; 140 a.
 Henry ; 151 a.
 — petitions of ; 140 a.
 — of the Mint ; 64 b, 70 b.
 — warrant to ; 86 a.
 Sir Thomas, commissioner ; 275 a.
- Sloane :
 Hans, or Sir Hans, President of the College of Physicians, &c. ; 59 b, 226 b, 231 b, 232 a.
 — letter of ; 57 a.
 — distraint on ; 232 a.
- Slodan, John and Matthew, petition of ; 508 b.
- Sloper :
 Capt., letter of ; 290 a.
 Lt.-Genl., letters of ; 289 b, passim.
 Capt. Granby, letters of ; 290 a, 290 b.
 John, letter of ; 290 a.
 Sir R. ; 288 b.
 Robert, letter of ; 291 a.
- Slothanny, the (prize ship) ; 129 a.
- Slough in Upton ; 332 b.
- Slymbridge, deeds concerning ; 262 b.
- Slyndon, Sussex, manor of ; 342 b, 343 b.
- Small :
 Major, letter of ; 289 a.
 General John, letter of ; 296 a.
- Smallburgh ; 334 a.
- Smalley, Will., alias Hewet, of Coventry, will of ; 332 b.
- Smallwell, John, clerk, of Leicester ; 414 b.
- Smallwood :
 James, tenant in co. Louth ; 519 a.
 W., letter of ; 289 a.
- Smaloyssel, J., document signed by ; 301 b.
- Smarden, Kent :
 Schlepnynden in ; 328 a.
 rector of ; 350 a.
- Smart :
 Agnes, wife of John, grocer, of London, will of ; 334 b.
 Lieut. Alexander ; 594 b.
 C., letter of ; 295 b.
- Smethyng, Isabel, of Salisbury, will of ; 333 a.
- Smilan, Mr., aide-de-camp ; 563 a.
- Smith, Smythe, &c. : a witness ; 155 a (note), 156 b.
 Capt. ; 4 b, 6 a, 6 b.
 — collector ; 5 b, 6 b.
 — letter to ; 7 a.
 — ; 603 a.
 Dr., of Oxford ; 227 a.
 Mr., Chancellor of the Exchequer (1709), letter of ; 37 a.
 — ballaster of ships, &c. in Thames ; 120 a, 120 b.
 — mayor of Chester (1597), letters to ; 379 a, 379 b, 380 a.
 Mrs., letter of ; 57 a.
- Smith, Smythe, &c.—cont.
 Lieut. Abraham ; 591 b.
 Anne, of Pontefract ; 276 b.
 B. Piercy, soldier ; 548 a.
 Barnaby, waterman ; 279 b.
 Bernard ; 249 b.
 Charles, his History of Kerry ; 572 b, 583 b.
 Daniel, petition of ; 252 a.
 Capt. Daniell ; 592 b, 598 b.
 Edward, letter of ; 295 a.
 — cooper ; 250 b.
 — of Ormonde's guard of Battle-axes ; 521 b, 541 b.
 — his answer to petition ; 529 a.
 Sir Edward, priest, of Wakefield ; 637 a.
 Erasmus, adventurer ; 99 a.
 — petitions of ; 501 a, 527 b, 549 b.
 Lieut.-Col. George, at Navan ; 514 a, 523 a, 525 a.
 Capt. George ; 537 a.
 George ; 385 b.
 — letters of ; 289 b, 294 a.
 Ensign George ; 594 a.
 Gilbert, of Swythland, alleged sorceries of ; 436 a.
 Henry, of Oxford ; 430 b.
 Capt. Henry ; 597 a.
 J., letters of ; 36 a, 38 b.
 — warrant signed by ; 66 b.
 James, of the Excise, co. Chester ; 386 a, 386 b.
 — petition of ; 386 a.
 Major James, letter of ; 292 b.
 James B., letter of ; 295 a.
 Sir Jeremy ; 128 b, 129 a.
 — letter of ; 131 b.
 — of the Trinity House ; 255 a.
 John, of Bulmer, will of ; 335 b.
 — of Cawood ; 276 b.
 — of Sherborne, letter of ; 218 a.
 — of Sheringham, will of ; 333 b.
 — waterman ; 279 b.
 — farmer of Excise, petitions of ; 519 b, 587 b.
 — of Albemarle's regiment ; 529 b.
 — master gunsmith, in Ireland ; 541 b.
 Ensign John ; 592 b.
 Joshua, of Pontefract ; 276 a.
 Major Lewis, letters of ; 294 a, 294 b.
 Matthew, of Chester ; 396 b.
 — declaration of ; 396 a.
 Meyles, quartermaster ; 595 b.
 Miles, false coiner ; 534 b.
 Millysent ; 379 a.
 Nathaniel, letter of ; 294 b.
 Olyver ; 374 a.
 Peirey, petition of ; 506 a.
 Capt. R. ; 544 a.
 Ensign Raph. ; 591 a.
 Lieut. Richard ; 541 b.
 Richard, tailor, petition of ; 548 a.
 — Quaker, of Chester ; 389 b.
 — of Chipping Norton, will of ; 334 b.
 — of Bungay, will of ; 333 b.
 Robert, receiver for Cornwall, petition of ; 245 b.
 Ensign Robert ; 592 b.
 Robert Orme, letters of ; 289 b, 290 a, 292 b.
 Roger, deceased, agreement of ; 371 b.
 — sheriff of co. Leicester ; 433 b.
 Stephen, of Bromham ; 5 a.
 Symon ; 380 a.
 — of Long Melford, will of ; 333 a.
 T., document signed by ; 65 a.
 Sir Thomas, letters of ; 58 b.
 — letter of ; 237 a.
 — the elder, alderman of Chester, agreement of ; 371 b.
 — mayor of Chester (1596) ; 377 b.
 — letters of and to ; 377 b, 378 a.
 — sheriff of Chester ; 386 b.
 — ; 365 b, 389 a.
 — letters of ; 388 b, 389 a, 400 a.
 — letter to ; 388 a.
 William, of Leicester ; 420 b.
 — of Dublin ; 528 b.
 — of Liston, will of ; 335 a.
 Ensign Wm. ; 592 b.
- Smith's Bill (1671) amendments ; 161 b.
- Smithick v. East India Co. ; 170 b.
- Smithaby, Thomas, deceased, executors of, petitions, &c. of ; 136 a.
- Smithwick, Cornwall ; 247 b.
- Smolensk, governor of ; 23 a.
- Smollett :
 Mr. ; 286 a.
 Sir James, of Bonhill ; 310 a.
 Tobias, his son ; ib.
 Dr. Tobias, his History ; 465 a, 469 a, 471 a.
 — his notice of Dr. Warner's history ; 478 a.
 — his "Critical Review" ; 489 b.
- Smullane, John, petition of ; 518 b.
- Smyly, Lieut. Rich. ; 591 b.
- Smyrna fleet, the ; 561 a, 561 b, 562 a, 563 a.

- Snaith, co. York; 275 b.
 Snape, prior and priory of; 625 b.
 Snawsell, Sedde; 271 a.
 Sneed, Peter; 383 b.
 Suede, Richard, petition of; 381 b.
 Snede, Wm., murager of Chester, book of receipts and payments of; 369 b.
 Sneyd, Rev. W., MSS. of; xxii.
 Snodgrass, Ensign W., letter of; 294 a.
 Snow, Mrs.; 24 a.
 Soames, Soames, James; 159 a.
 Mrs.; 156 b, 159 a.
 Sobieski, King John; 464 a.
 Sockhon, Daniel, of London, merchant; 13 a.
 Sodbury Market [Chipping], Old and Little, freeholders, &c. of, petition of; 119 a.
 Sodwell, Thos.; 154 a.
 Soffi, Col., letter of; 40 a.
 Soham; 335 a.
 Soignies, camp of, letter dated at; 25 a.
 Soissons; 62 a.
 Soke, Winchester; 332 b, 335 a.
 Solares, Col., letter of; 36 a.
 Sold; 29 b.
 Soldiers, impressment of recruits; 393 b, 394 a, 395 a, 395 b.
 Solomon, Temple of, in England; 263 b.
 Someredy, Robert de, his widow; 408 b.
 Somerfeldt, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Somerley:
 William; 121 b.
 — note by; ib.
 Somers, Lord:
 letters of (1698); 582 b.
 letter of (1708); 36 a.
 in the Privy Council (1708); 51 b.
 letter of (1709); 37 a.
 letters of (1710); 38 b.
 Duchess of Marlborough's remarks on; ib.
 Somerset, county records; xxiii.
 documents relating to; 265 a.
 Somerset, Duke of:
 in the Tower (temp. Ed. VI.); 87 b, 88 b.
 Edmund; 581 a.
 letters of (1705); 31 b.
 — (1706); 32 a.
 — (1707); 32 b.
 (1708); 52 a, 53 a.
 letter of; 36 a.
 letter of (1709); 37 a.
 letters of; 54 a.
 Somerset:
 Duchess of, letters of; 54 a.
 Earl and Countess of, their arraignment; 584 b.
 Lord John (1667); 111 a.
 Somerton; 220 b.
 Hall, near Yarmouth; 258 a.
 Roger de, v. Prior of Butthele; 168 a, 172 a.
 Sommer William, petition of; 507 b.
 Sonde, John, of Southwold, will of; 333 b.
 Sonnebury, manor of; 635 a.
 Sonning; 333 a.
 Sonnyngwelle Park, Windsor forest, grant of keepership of; 282 a.
 Sootes; 414 a.
 Sootherton, Mr.; 228 a.
 Sophia:
 Electress of Hanover, letters of; 31 a.
 Princess, letters of; 54 a.
 Sorell, John, of Wisbeach, will of; 332 a.
 Sothern:
 George, of Katam, conveyance by; 272 a.
 — deed by; ib.
 Sotheworth, John, mayor of Chester (temp. Hen. VI.); 367 b.
 Souch, Kentt de, castle of; 411 a.
 South, Oliver, of Drogheda, petition of; 533 b.
 South Shields:
 bailast shore at; 244 a, 244 b.
 wharf at; 245 a, 245 b.
 Southacre; 333 b.
 Southam, Thomas de, Archdeacon of Oxford; 318 b.
 Southampton; 63 b, 395 b.
 document dated from; 395 b.
 port of; 94 a.
 God's House at, records of; xxiii.
 St. Michaels; 103 b.
 St. Lawrence; ib.
 Holy Rhoddes; ib.
 St. John's; ib.
 Act for uniting of churches, &c. of; ib.
 All Saints or All Hallows; ib.
 proposed free port; 247 b.
 Southampton, Earl of:
 title (temp. Eliz.); 94 a.
 (1604); 98 a.
 William, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (temp. Chas. I.); 418 b.
 T., order by (1661); 90 a.
 (1666); 106 a.
 and Ashley, T., letter of; 387 a.
 Southchurch, manor of; 318 b, 322 b.
 Southery, Simon; 2 a.
 Southesk, Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.
 Southworth, John, late sheriff of Chester, pardon to; 359 b.
 Southick, Peter; 109 a. certificate touching; 109 a.
 Southill, minister of; 5 b.
 Southwark; 78 a, 155 a, 155 b, 156 a, 158 a, 250 a, 251 b, 323 a.
 Winchester House; 158 a.
 deeds relating to; 265 a.
 election in (1708); 32 b.
 petition from; 78 b.
 message in; 263 a.
 Bankside; 156 a.
 Blackman Street; 258 a.
 Horsemonger Lane; ib.
 Swan Yard; ib.
 Bridge Street; 323 a.
 St. Mary's Convent; ib.
 St. George's; 126 a, 332 a.
 St. George's Church, Green Dragon, near; 249b
 St. Margaret's; 333 a.
 St. Mary Magdalen; 335 a.
 St. Mary Overy; 332 a.
 St. Mary Overy Abbey; 265 b.
 St. Olave's; 332 b, 334 b, 335 b, 635 a.
 St. Saviour's; 259 a.
 St. Thomas's Hospital; 256 b.
 Bishop of, MSS. of; xxii.
 Southwell, cathedral; 276 b.
 Southwell:
 Col. letter to; 17 a.
 — letter of; 36 a.
 Mr., letters of; 30 b.
 — late Secretary for Ireland; 180 a.
 Bowen, usher of the Black Rod; 192 b.
 Lady E., letters of; 54 a.
 Richard, his lands in Limerick; 498 b.
 Sir Richard, surveyor (temp. Henry VIII.); 93 a.
 — grant to; 94 a.
 Sir Thomas, letters of; 58 b.
 William, letter of; 40 a.
 Southwiche, Southwicke, Thomas, trooper; 547 a.
 Southwold; 256 b, 333 b.
 haven; 239 a, 245 a.
 Southworth, Will., grocer, of London, will of; 333 a.
 Sovereign, the ship; 247 b.
 Spaight, Thomas, a captive; 245 a.
 Spain; 376 a, 394 b.
 treaty with England, Austria, and Milan (1604); 95 a.
 English trade with (1604); 95 a, et seq.
 inquisition of, English merchants and; 97 a. ambassador from (1608), letter of; 213 a. embassy of Sir John, afterwards Lord Digby, in; 313 a, et seq.
 the English match with; ib.
 merchants trading for, petition of; 112 a.
 custom touching debtors in (1670); 152 b.
 papers relating to negotiations with (1750); 284 a.
 and the Low Countries (1684); 31 a. coinage, &c. of; 63 a, 73 a.
 English merchants in (1702); 27 a. war in, account of; 60 a.
 Lord Peterborough in (1706); 16 a, 17 a.
 English troops in (1708); 19 b, 32 b.
 estimate of English forces for (1709); 37 b.
 Irish transported to; 95 a. expected invasion of Ireland (1779); 201 a, 202 a.
 notes of a tour in; 193 a, 193 b.
 King of, Meilds or Miletus; 602 b.
 — (1600); 283 b.
 — his assistance to Chas. II.; 28 b, 30 a.
 — and the Netherlands (1691); 561 b, 564 b.
 — his death; 12 a.
 — letters of (1707); 27 a.
 — letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — letter of (1710); 38 a.
 — letters of (1705); 31 a.
 — (1706); 51 b.
 Queen of (circ. 1586); 282 a.
 Prince Philip of, letter of; 35 b.
 Spanheim:
 Baron or Mons.; 34 a.
 — letters of (1705, &c.); 31 b, 32 b, 36 b, 38 b.
 Spaniards, the, prisoner taken by; 237 b.
 Spanish:
 Armada, the, prayers for deliverance from; 374 b.
 cloth, Act for better regulating manufacture of; 113b, 123 b, 126 a.
 Spann or Spanne, Edward; 386 a, 386 b.
 Spanner, Edward; 385 b.
 Sparke, Robt., of Chester; 361 b.
 Sparke, Will., of Fakenham, will of; 335 a.
 Sparkes, Mr., preacher, of Leicester; 425 b.
 Sparr, Baron, letters of (1706-8); 32 a, 36 a.

Sparrow :

- John, petition of; 102 b.
- Robert, petition of; 241 a.
- mayor of King's Lynn, letter of; 392 a.
- letter to; 392 a.

Speakers of Irish House of Commons, papers, &c. relating to ;

174 b, et seq.

Speed, H., letter of; 571 a.

Speedwell, Her Majesty's ship (1704); 393 b.

Speke, Peter, letters of; 288 b, 289 b, 290 b, 292 b, 293 b, 294 a, 294 b.

Spence :

- Capt. Francis, petition of; 511 a.
- Thomas, stockfishmonger, of London, will of; 334 b.

Spencer :

- Lord, the late (1795); 57 b.
- letter of (1806); 233 b.
- Lady, her rents; 5 a.
- Mr., his will; 566 b, 567 a.
- the Duchess of Marlborough's legacy to; 567 a.
- Earl, MSS. of; xxii.
- Colonel, at Galway; 523 b.
- Hons. Chas. and John, at Eton; 13 b.
- — their expenses; 54 a.
- Lord Charles, his motion (1784); 57 b.
- Lady Diana, letters to; 54 a.
- letter of; 57 a.
- Sir Edward; 115 a.
- Col. John; 536 a.
- petition of; 532 b.
- John, letters of; 51 b.
- Richard; 373 b.
- registrar of Canterbury; 634 b.
- Thos. le; 367 b.
- Hon. William; 13 b.
- chronology by; 22 b.
- petition of; 151 b.
- of Leicester, conveyance by; 413 b.
- licence to; 413 b.
- conveyance to; 414 a.

Spens :

- John, of Maristoun, witness; 308 b.
- Maurice of, grant to; 305 a.

Spenser :

- John, rector of St. Elphege, Canterbury, will of; 340 a.
- President of Corp. Ch., Oxford; 435 a.
- Thomas, of Downham Hithe, will of; 333 b.
- William, of Stamford, will of; 332 a.

Sperlynge, Andrew, pardon to; 625 a.

Sperte, Sir Thomas, comptroller of the King's ships; 260 b.

Spicer, Col., letters of; 40 a.

Spiegel, M., letters of; 38 b.

Spigurnel, Dame Elizabeth, of Selgrave; 330 a.

Spindola :

- in Kilkenny; 604 b.
- his death; ib.

Spinning work at Leicester for the poor; 430 b.

Spinola, order by; 214 a.

Spires, Bishop of (1711), letter of; 40 a.

Spithead; 34 b.

Spittal Boughton, hospital at; 380 b, 383 a.

Sporiour, Roger, chamberlain of Leicester; 413 a.

Spottiswood, John, of ilk; 315 a.

Spring :

- Edmond, petitions of; 107 a.
- Act touching; ib.

Sprostom :

- Robert; 365 b.
- mayor of Chester; 383 b.

Sprot :

- Aldwin, witness; 390 a.
- Thomas and Juliana, of Mersham, corrody to; 343 a.

Sproston; 334 a.

Spry, Capt., letter of; 295 b.

Spurn Head; 247 b, 250 b, 251 a, 255 a, 255 b, 256 a, 256 b, 258 b.

Spurrier, Wm.; 101 b.

Spycer, John, of Tedbury, will of; 334 b.

Spyuk, John, of Cromer, will of; 334 a.

Squibb :

- v.* the King, writ of error; 136 b.
- Edmond; 123 b.
- Lawrence, letter of; 388 a.

Stable, Walter, of Orpington, will of; 335 a.

Stables, John, letters of; 289 b, 290 a.

Staci, John; 637 a.

Stacke, Henry; 545 b.

Staff, the, privilege of; 318 b.

Stafferton, Richard, warrant to; 282 a.

Staffhorst, M. de, letters of; 32 a.

Stafford :

- discharged from being sanctuary for malefactors; 370 b.
- county; 208 b.
- archdeacon of, agreement by; 266 a.
- Viscount (1670); 139 b.
- and Lady, their tenants; 148 a.
- Viscountess, Mary (1670); 139 b.

Stafford—cont.

Earls of (15th century), Hugh and Thomas; 329 b.

Lord, his estate (1644); 5 a.

— Sir W. Howard, his estate (1644); 6 a.

— — his creditors; 11 a.

Mr., of Elphin; 464 a.

Sir Edwd., mem. touching grant of offices to; 282 b.

Capt. Fraunces; 398 b.

Henry, Duke of Buckingham; 265 b.

Hugh, of Elphin; 466 b.

Stage plays and players; 112 a, 364 a.

Stagisden, co. Bedford, manor; 149 a.

Stain, M. de, letter of; 38 b.

Stainbancke, Wm.; 383 b.

Staines; 155 b.

Staines, Dr., "Commissary General under the usurpers" (1671); 163 a.

Stainswick, manor of, deeds concerning; 262 b.

Stair :

Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.

Lord or Earl of, review before; 12 b.

— his election in Scotland (1706); 53 b.

— letter of (1708); 36 a.

— letter of (1710); 38 a.

— envoy (1711); 39 a.

— letter of (1711); 40 a.

— letter of (1712); ib.

— letter to (1714); 27 a.

— letters of (1715); 23 b, 40 b.

— letters of (1716); 1 a, 41 a.

— letter of (1717); 40 b.

— letters of; 54 a.

— (1735); 63 b.

Stakes, near Havant, Hampshire; 376 b.

Stalbridge; 335 a.

Stalgate, John, of St. Lawrence, will of; 340 a.

Stallin, J., letter of; 282 b.

Stalon, Joan, of Norwich, will of; 333 b.

Stamford; 332 a.

deeds relating to; 264 b.

aldermen, &c. of, Richard II.'s writ to; 412 b.

New Place, near; 265 b.

Earl of (1642), Henry, warrant by; 487 a.

— petition of (1668); 117 a.

— (1671); 440 a.

— letter of (1709); 47 a.

Viscountess of, Ann, petition of (1668); 117 a.

Lient., letter of; 293 a.

John, mayor of Leicester; 432 b.

Stamp Office, the, Sir R. Steele at; 1 a.

Stampe, Comte, letters of; 38 b.

Stampu, Comte, letter of; 37 b.

Stampot; 240 a, 240 b, 242 b.

Standish, Wm.; 116 b.

Standley, —; 613 b.

Stanenbrugge, the; 358 a.

Stanes, Cornet John; 596 a.

Stanfast, Walter, alderman of Bristol, letter of; 380 a.

Stanfeilde, John; 375 b.

Stanford; 414 a.

town of; 271 a.

an Irishman; 16 b.

John, of Leicester; 417 a.

— — commission to; ib.

Stanfordbrugge, near Chester; 358 a.

Stanforth, James and John; 8 b.

Stangenbergh; 26 b.

Stanground, John, monk; 625 b.

Stanhope :

co. Durham; 105 a.

Lord, letter to (1606); 380 b.

— warrant by (1717); 76 b.

— (1720); 50 a.

Dr., lecturer of Deptford; 260 a.

— Dean of Canterbury; 260 b.

Brigadier, envoy to Spain; 47 a.

General, letter of; 16 a.

Major-General, letters of; 32 a.

— his going to Spain (1708); 19 a.

Mr.; 18 a, 20 a, 27 a.

— letters of; 16 b, 31 b, 33 a, 36 b, 38 a, 47 b, 57 a.

— letter to; 59 a.

— his embassy (1714); 14 a.

— at Paris (1728); 62 a.

A., envoy extraordinary, instructions to; 13 a.

C., letter of; 76 b.

— mem. by; 77 a.

Charles, deceased; 125 a.

E. F., letter of; 290 b.

Edward, commission to; 432 a.

James, letters of; 17 a, 36 a, 40 a, 40 b, 58 a.

— letters to; 58 a.

Mary; 170 b.

— widow, petitions of; 125 a, 125 b.

— — order on; 125 b.

Stanian, A., letters of; 47 b.

Stanislaus, King of Poland; 34 a, 286 a.

- Stanlawe, Whalley de, documents of; 581 a.
Stanlay alias Walne, W., transcriber; 420 a.
Stanley :
 Lord (temp. Hen. VI.); 367 b.
 Mr., candidate for Lymington; 63 a.
 Ensign Charles; 591 a.
 Sir Charles, Act to enable trustees to make leases, &c.; 110 a.
 — Act touching children and estate of; 112 b.
 Edward, of Ewlow, co. Flint; 396 b.
 Frances, recusant; 435 b.
 J., letter of; 24 a.
 — of the Mint, petition of; 80 a.
 — letters of; 82 a.
 — report by; 68 a.
 — receipt of; 70 a.
 Sir John, of; 370 b.
 — of the Mint; 61 a.
 John, merchant, of Dublin; 524 b.
 Cornet Michael; 516 a.
 Randal, captain of the Isle of Man; 376 b.
 — letter of free passage given by; 377 b.
 Thos., certificate signed by; 374 a.
 Sir Thomas, of Stanley; 415 b.
 — sheriff of Waterford, petitions of; 501 b, 543 a.
 — appointed mayor of Chester; 361 b.
 Captain Thomas; 591 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop; 598 b.
 Thomas, of the Mint; 65 b.
 William, letter of; 433 a.
Stanmere, Wm. and Margaret, of Chester; 368 a.
Stannard, Eaton, made Prime Sergeant; 179 a.
Stannaries, Wardens of the; 91 b.
Stanniard, Lieut. Rich.; 591 b.
Stanton :
 v, Holgate; 161 a;
 Mr.; 9 a.
 Charley, carpenter, indenture by; 257 a.
 Penelope, widow, petition of; 161 a.
Stanwardyn, Richard, draper, of Coventry, will of; 333 a.
Stanyan, Mr., envoy; 27 a, 49 b. letters of; 31 b, 32 a, 35 b, 38 a, 39 a.
Stanywood and Muchells, Lord Fraser of; 299 b, 303 b.
Staple :
 Kent, manor of; 330 a.
 Margery, inq. post mortem of; 262 b.
Staplehill, Walter, petition of; 500 b, 533 a.
Staplehurst, lands in; 329 a.
Stapleton, Stapilton :
 Mr., a preacher; 210 b.
 Bryan, prior; 271 a.
 Sir Henry; 151 a.
 John, petition of; 159 b.
 — letter of; 160 a.
 Sir Philip, deceased; 159 b.
 Richard de, witness; 270 b.
Stapylton, Walter, Bp. of Exeter; 351 b.
Star Chamber, the; 61 a, 209 b, 210 a, 210 b, 217 a, 226 a, 229 b, 239 a, 244 a, 247 a, 417 b, 582 b, 584 a, 584 b.
Starch; 398 b.
Starenberg :
 Marshal, in Spain; 19 b.
 his relation of battle near Brihnege (1711); 40 a.
Stareshmore or Starsmore :
 Wortley, Lady, v.; 163 a.
 Edmund; 163 a, 163 b.
 — answer of; 163 b.
Starkey, Peter, Ricc Williams v.; 371 b.
Starr, Robert, petition of; 123 a.
Starre, James, of Rawden, co. York; 383 a.
Start, Lieut., letter of; 289 a.
States General, the :
 letters of; 35 b, 37 a.
 their deputies at Brussels, &c., letters of; 35 b, 37 a, 39 b.
 letter to (1709); 37 b.
 extracts from resolutions of; ib.
 resolutions of (1711); 40 a.
Statford, Lieut. Thomas; 591 b.
Statutes, the, suggested public reading of in church; 138 a.
Staughton :
 letters dated at; 11 a.
 Little, co. Bedford; 3 a.
 Parva, assessment at; 10 a.
Staunton :
 Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 Robert, deputy steward of Leicester; 415 a.
Staverton, Edward; 284 a.
Stawell, Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
Stearne :
 Col., letters of; 38 b.
 James, Archdeacon of Limerick; 583 a.
 John, Bishop of Clogher; 580 b.
 — MSS. presented to Trinity College, Dublin, by; 572 a.
Stebbing, lordship of; 415a.
Stebonheath or Stebbenheth :
 in the Tower Hamlets; 247 b.
 silver vessels made at; 635 a.
Stebonheath or Stebbenheth—cont.
 Hakeney and Haryngey, manors of; 635 a.
Stedman, Mr., 162 b.
Steedwell, John; 279 b.
Steel, Steele :
 Mr., and the public news; 35 b.
 Owen; 383 b.
 Richard or Sir Richard, letters of; xi., 1 a, 28 b, 49 b.
 — letters to; 23 b.
 — petitions of; 24 a.
 — elected for Wendover; 49 b.
Steeple Morden; 332 b.
Steevens, Anthony; 279 a.
Steinghens, M., letter of; 37 b.
Stella, Comte, letters of; 38 b, 40 a.
Stenboch, Comte, letters of; 38 b.
Stepe, John, prior of Selborne; 264 a.
Stephen :
 King, charters, &c. of; 318 b.
 W., letters of; 49 a.
 W. E., drawing by; 296 b.
 William, his son recommended to Magdalen College; 268 b.
Stephens :
 Dr.; 56 a.
 Edward, of the Shipwrights Company; 261 a.
 Frances; 136 a.
 Major John; 594 a.
 Sir John, Governor of Dublin Castle; 512 b.
 — his case with Erasmus Smyth; 549 b.
 Oliver, proceedings of; 603 a, 603 b.
 — his death; 603 b.
 Richard; 136 a.
 — soldier; 527 b.
 Robert, suit of; 6 a.
 Sir Thomas, petition of; 119 a.
 William, letter of; 385 a.
Stepney; 249 a, 250 a, 250 b.
 document dated at; 253 b.
 parishioners of, application by; 237 a.
 manor; 102 b.
 — tenants of; 243 b.
 Trinity House at; 254 b, 258 b.
 Mr., letters of; 31 a, 31 b, 32 a.
 —, Commissioner of Trade; 34 a.
 Mrs., letter of; 40 a.
Sterling, Capt. Robert, petition of his widow Jane; 515 a, 517 a.
Sterne :
 Mr., letters of; 49 a.
 John, commissioner; 572 b, 573 b.
 Lieut. Robert; 593 b.
Sterrop, Ralph, spectacle maker, of London; 635 a.
Sterton, co. York; 271 a.
Stetter, Comte, letter of; 37 b.
Steuky Hall, Norfolk; 122 b.
Stevemonth, Kent; 248 a.
Stevenage, Col., letter of; 36 a.
Stevens :
 Francis; 148 a.
 Nicholas, fined; 632 a.
 Richard, of Broadway, will of; 335 b.
Stevenson :
 General, governor of Kilmallocke; 601 a.
 — his death; 601 b.
 John, of Mountsorrel; 414 a.
 Thomas, collections by; 583 a.
Stevynson, Thomas, parson of West Wrotham, will of; 333 b.
Steventon, co. Bedford; 103 a.
Steward, Stewart. See Stuart.
Stewart, Sir M. R. Shaw, Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
Stickney; 333 a.
Stiles, John; 375 a.
Still :
 John; 150 a.
 — answer of; ib.
 Mabel; ib.
 — answer of; ib.
Still Vett, letter dated at; 216 a.
Stillorgan, near Dublin; 502 a, 512 a.
Stirling; 40 b, 304 b, 497 a. documents dated at; 40 b, 298 b, 306 b, 307 a, 344 b, 350 a. camp at, letter dated from; 40 b.
 Castle; 313 b.
 chapel royal of; 309 a.
 the Hessians at; 313 b.
 Alva, near; 84 b, et seq.
 Earl of, W., commission to; 2 b.
 Lieut.-Col., letter of; 292 b.
 Major, letters of; 294 a, 295 a.
 Miss M. E., MSS. of; xxii.
Stirruiling, Luke, infetment of; 309 b.
Stisted, Essex, manor of; 318 b, 322 b.
Stockbury church; 339 a.
Stockholm, letter dated at; 24 b.
Stocks, the; 115 a.

- Stockton, Stocton :
Hugo de; 405 b.
Robertus de, witness; 408 b.
Thomas, lands held by; 520 b.
- Stoddan Willey, hundred of; 3 b.
- Stodley, Henry de, saddler, of Worcester; 638 a.
- Stoghton, Peter de, conveyance to; 418 b.
- Stok', Radulph de; 356 b.
- Stoke :
Kent; 239 b.
College; 332 b.
-by-Clare; 332 a.
juxta Guildford; 334 b, 635 a.
Nayland; 332 b.
Newington; 441 a.
South, Oxon; 334 b.
- Stokedale, Will., dean of the College of Leicester, will of; 838 a.
- Stokes :
sheepfolds at; 235 a.
Adrian, commissions to; 416 b, 417 a.
Elizabeth, of Worcester; 638 a, 639 b.
Kitty, natural daughter of Sir R. Sloper; 288 b.
Robert and Joan; 273 a.
Thomas, of Worcester; 638 a, 639 b.
- Stokyll, John, of Ashfield, will of; 334 a.
- Stokys :
Alice, of Send, will of; 332 a.
Robert, of Melbourne, will of; 335 b.
- Stombridge, William, letter of; 385 b.
- Stone by Ospringe, Kent :
Elverton in; 329 b, 330 a.
Semannus atte; 329 b. church of; 330 a.
- Stone :
Mr.; 221 b.
— his foundation school; 76 b.
Francis; 143 a.
George, D.D., Archbishop of Armagh, his rapid promotion; 176 a.
— his tactics to gain power; 176 b, et seq.
— his private character assailed; 177 a.
— opposition of the Cabal to; 177 a, et seq.
— Lord Hartington's conduct towards; 179 b.
— Lord Northumberland and; 191 b.
— Lord Taaffe and; 455 a.
— his sermon before the House of Lords (1759); 465 a.
— letters to (1760); 466 b.
— his death; 191 b.
— O'Connor's opinion of (1761); 467 a.
John, muster-master; 11 b.
- Stonehampton (?), co. York; 271 a.
- Stonehouse or Stonhouse, John, letters of; 290 b, 294 a.
- Stoneleigh; 7 b.
- Stonton Wyvill; 423 a.
- Stonyhurst; 384 b.
College, MSS. of; xxiii.
- Stooteford, manor of; 635 a.
- Storf, M., letter of; 37 b.
- Storke, Ensign Nicholas; 593 b.
- Stortford; 333 a.
- Story :
Edward, Bp. of Chichester, will of; 334 b.
— his death; 335 b.
- Stothir, the, document dated at; 308 a.
- Stoubridge, tithes of; 11 a.
- Stoughton :
George, of Dublin, petition of; 530 a.
Sir John, seal of; 639 a.
- Stour, the river; 320 b.
- Stourmouth mill; 324 b.
- Stourton, John, of Preston; 639 a.
- Stow, West; 335 a.
- Stow's Survey of London, new edition of; 260 a.
- Stowell, Lord, letter of (1821); 287 b.
- Stowmarket; 333 a.
- Strabane, Viscount, dissent by; 59 a.
- Strachan :
David, of Westmeston; 301 a.
John, of Thornton; 301 a.
— of Monboddo; ib.
- Strachey :
Sir Edw., Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
Henry, letter of introduction for; 295 a.
— letter of; 295 b.
- Stradbally :
lands in; 509 a.
surrender of; 609 a.
friars of; 608 b.
- Stradherlyng, lands of; 307 a.
- Strafford, Earl of :
Thomas, lord lieutenant of Ireland (1639); 209 b.
his propositions to Charles I.; 585 a. attainder of; 584 b.
trial of; 210 b, 217 b.
Charles I.'s consent to his execution; 176 b.
his beheading; 610 a.
- Strafford, Earl of—cont.
notice of; 234 a.
list of his troop (1648); 596 b.
Wm., petition, &c. of (1670); 143 a.
letter of (1711); 39 b.
a plenipotentiary (1718); 41 a. master of the Trinity House (1718); 260 b.
letter of (1714); 57 a.
- Stragvagueboe, co. Cavan; 602 a.
- Straiton, George, of that ilk; 301 a.
- Stralock; 45 b.
- Strampeshaugh; 333 b.
- Strange :
Abraham, petition of; 544 b.
Peter, of Dunkitt; 514 b.
- Strangford, Viscount (temp. Chas. II.), bills for sale of his lands; 106 a, 141 a.
- Stranhaver, his regiment; 33 b.
- Strasbourg, letter dated at; 552 a.
- Stratford; 332 b, 334 a.
- Stratford-on-Avon; 334 b.
- Strathalie, Stretcharlie, co. Fife; 307 b, 308 a, 308 b.
- Strathmore, Earl of, MSS. of; xxii.
- Strathnair, Lord, letter of (1710); 38 b.
- Strathnaver, Lord, letter of (1709); 37 b.
- Strathspey; 312 a.
- Stratton, co. Bedford, manor; 3 a.
Rob. de; 339 b.
- Straw :
Richard; 278 b.
— junr.; ib.
- Streatham, document dated from; 285 a.
- Street :
Henry, trooper; 521 b.
Humphry, petition against; 245 a.
Lawrence, letter of; 386 a.
Wm., of Chester, alderman and mayor; 361 b, 390 a, 390 b, 403 a.
— letters of; 389 a.
— commission to; 362 a.
- Strelley :
Nicholas; 123 a.
Park, co. Nottingham; 123 a.
- Strete, —, parson of Heswall; 374 a.
- Strettell, Edward, letter of; 294 a.
- Stretton :
Wm. de; 367 b.
Yuon de, of Leicester; 405 b.
- Streyn :
Richard, of Broadway, will of; 335 a.
Robert, of Broadway, will of; 335 b.
- Stribblehill, Francis and John; 51 a.
- Strichan, Lord, Scotch judge (1736); 311 b.
- Strick, Madame, letter of; 38 b.
- Strickland :
Lord, Walter, payment to (1658); 95 a.
Mrs., her flight with Queen Mary; 555 b.
Sir Robert, commissioner; 275 a.
Sir Thomas, commissioner; ib.
W. C. Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
Walter; 106 a.
— petition of; ib.
— commissioner; 275 a.
- Stringer, Sir Thomas, of the Tower; 89 a.
- Stripe, John, editor of Stowe's Survey; 260 a. See Strype.
- Striuelin, John de, witness; 304 b.
- Strode :
Mr., relation by; 28 b.
Col. John, governor of Dover Castle; 257 a. of Hove, dioc. Chichester, will of; 335 a.
Margaret, Act for disposing of house and lands belonging to sisters of; 140 a.
- Strodes, St. Mary of; 235 a.
- Strokestown; 466 b, 471 b.
- Stroud, Major Joseph, his company; 521 b.
- Strowd :
Mr., servant to the Lord Deputy of Ireland 381 a.
Thomas, his daughter; 6 a.
- Strowthir, document dated at; 308 b.
- Struther, documents dated at; 306 b, 307 a.
- Struthers, estate of; xvii., 304 a.
- Strype, his edition of Stow's Survey; 236 a, 260 a.
- Stuart, Stewart, Stewart :
Admiral; 315 a.
Col., letter of; 37 b.
— his capture by the "Seiks"; 294 b.
Ensign, letter of; 295 b.
Lieut.-Col.; 289 a.
— letters of; 294 b.
Mr., letters to; 277 a, 287 a.
Mr. Alex. Charles, of Eaglescarnie, Mr. Fraser's report on manuscripts of; 310 b.
Andrew, of Logie-cowie; 301 a.
Arabella, viewing of her corpse; 226 a, 228 b.
— cause of her death; xiv., 229 a.
Charles, letter of; 296 a.

Stuart, Steward, Stewart—cont.

- Capt. Charles, letter of; 295 b.
 Hon. Charles, letters of; 289 b, 290 a, 290 b, 293 a, 293 b, 294 a.
 Charles, of the Mint, case of; 69 a.
 Charles (i.e., Chas. II.) Act prohibitory of correspondence with; 385 a.
 Daniel, of the Edinburgh Mint; 81 a.
 — his executors; 81 b.
 — warrant to; 83 b.
 — his death; ib.
 Dugald, brother of Lord Bute; 45 b.
 Lieut.-Col. F., letter of; 295 b.
 Col. J., letters of; 292 b.
 Ensign James, letter of; 294 a.
 James, afterwards Earl of Moray; 304 b.
 Sir James, marriage of his sister Peggy; 312 b.
 John, letter of; 294 b.
 Mary; 162 a.
 Ro., Regent of Edinburgh University; 313 a.
 Lieut.-Col. R., letters of; 292 b, 294 a.
 Sir Robert; 603 a.
 — army under; 605 a.
 Thomas, collector for Kincardine; 303 b.
 Walter, canon of Glasgow, witness; 305 b.
 Lieut. Wm., letters of; 294 b, 295 a, 295 b.
 Stucken, M. Van., Danish envoy; 27 a.
 Sturdy :
 John, tallow-chandler, of London, will of; 332 b.
 Letice, widow of John, of London; 332 b.
 Sturgeon, taken on the Dee, dispute about; 375 b.
 Sturgeon, Andrew, petitions of; 502 a, 588 b.
 Sturges, —, with Lady Walpole; 570 b.
 Sturgys, Andrew, petition of his wife Mary; 514 b.
 Sturler, Mons., from Berne; 200 b.
 Sturminster Castell; 335 a.
 Sturry, bridge of; 328 b.
 Sturt :
 Mr., candidate for Dorsetshire; 219 b.
 H., letter of; 290 a.
 Styche, John; 367 b.
 Style :
 John, grocer, of London, will of; 383 b.
 Richard, of Worcester; 638 a.
 Wm., petition of; 124 a.
 — answer to; 124 a.
 Styles :
 —; 398 b.
 Wm., mayor of Chester (25 Eliz.); 402 b, 403 a.
 Stynton, Alice, wife of John; 432 b.
 Styrum, Countess of; 565 b.
 Suabia, Circle of; 32 a.
 Subsidy :
 and aulnage, Act for ascertaining the duties of; 118 a.
 Bill (1671), amendments, &c.; 165 a.
 Rolls, &c. of Leicester, temp. Eliz.; 419 b. list of lords who have not paid (1667); 114 b.
 Sudabgoz, M., letter of; 40 b.
 Sudbury; 334 a, 334 b, 335 a.
 — document dated at; 61 a.
 — Simon de, Abp. of Canterbury; 339 a.
 Suffolk :
 horse to be raised by (1645); 8 a.
 sheriff's account (temp. Mary); 277 b.
 Duke of, John (4 Edw. IV.); 628 a.
 — Michael; ib.
 — Wm. (temp. Hen. VI.), impeachment of; 114 b.
 — (1450) his acquittal; 266 b.
 — and his widow Alice, payments to; 627 b.
 — — stone images of; 628 a.
 Duchess of (1 Edw. IV.); 626 b.
 — (38 Hen. VI.); 627 b.
 — (1641); 625 b.
 — Alice, letters of; 629 b.
 — grant by; ib.
 Earl of, Wm. de la Pole, Ewelme Almshouse founded by; xiv., 624 b, et seq.
 — Alice, his wife, grand daughter of Chaucer; ib.
 — T., papers signed by; 435 b, 441 b.
 — and Bindon, Earl Marshal; 50 a.
 — (1609); 228 b.
 — T., letter of (1625); 2 b.
 — (1642); 165 b.
 — Theophilus, account touching debts of (1646); 281 a.
 — his portrait; 287 b.
 — letter of (1812); 287 b.
 Countess of; 284 a.
 — account of receipts and payments for; 1699–1700; 284 a.
 — (1691); 565 b.
 Saliarde, John, grant to; 277 b.
 Saligny, Alured de; 356 a.
 Sulleuan, Francis; 603 b, 604 a.
 Sullivan :
 Dr.; 478 a, 479 a, 480 b.
 Dr. F. S.; 476 b.
 Florence, lifeguard; 544 b.
 Sully House, in Forest of Dean; 11 b.

Sulynage, James de; 634 b.

- Sumner, John, letter of; 289 b.
 Sumptuary regulations under Edward II.; 358 a.
 Sumptuor, John; 279 b.
 Sunderland; 238 a.
 Earl of, Charles, warrants to; 12 b.
 — South Sea Company and; 49 b.
 — letter to; 17 a.
 — his library, &c.; 13 b.
 — his secretary, Wynn; 64 a.
 — letters to; 58 a.
 — Robert, fourth, letters of; 51 b.
 — letters, &c. of and to; 59 b, 60 a.
 — Robert, letters to; 1 a.
 — Charles, letters of; ib.
 — Robert, letters to (1671–84); 30 b.
 — letter of (1672); 219 a.
 — President, letter of (1688); 284 a.
 — letter of (1609); 557 b.
 — letters of (c. 1690); 81 a.
 — letters of (1705); 31 b, 44 a.
 — his embassy to Vienna (1705); 45 a.
 — letters of (1706); 27 a, 32 a, 47 b.
 — letter to; 27 a.
 — letter to (1707); 16 b.
 — letter of (1707); 27 a.
 — letters of (1708); 32 b, 48 a.
 — letters to (1708); 45 b, 46 a, 48 a.
 — letters to (1708–10); 19 a, et seq.
 — examination before (1708); 34 a.
 — the elections in Scotland and (1708); 42 a.
 — letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — letters to (1709); 25 a, 47 a.
 — letter of (1710); 38 a.
 — the seals taken from (1710); 49 b.
 — his dismissal (1710); 27 a.
 — letter of (1711); 40 a.
 — Lord Lieutenant of Ireland (1714), letters to; 49 a.
 — carver at the coronation of Geo. I.; 50 a.
 — his illness (1715); 59 a.
 — deputy in Ireland (1715); 15 b.
 — his children (1717); 57 a.
 — letters of (1717); 40 b, 57 a.
 — letters to (1717); 57 a.
 — his death (1722); 13 b.
 — his papers; 26 a.
 — his executors; 51 b.
 — (1729); 62 b.
 Countess of, Judith; 49 b.
 — Anne, letters of; 51 b.
 — estate, disposition of; 566 b.
 Sundernesse Point; 250 a.
 Sundt, Lieut. P., letter of; 295 b.
 Supple, James; 279 a.
 Supremacy, oath of; 361 b, 362 a.
 Surat; 252 b.
 Surgeons :
 their refusal to frequent divine service; 227 b.
 Barbers and, of London, petitions of; 229 a, 230 b.
 Surmont, M. de, letter of; 36 a.
 Surrey :
 deeds relating to; 265 a.
 dragoons furnished by; 8 b.
 election in; 50 a.
 Surry Martyne; 373 b.
 Surseau, Claud, warrant to pay; 281 a.
 Surville, M. de, letters of; 37 b, 38 b.
 Susquehanna River, U.S., official report (1788); 288 b.
 Sussex :
 Earl of, M., letter of; 50 a.
 — (1589) his players, gift to; 428 a.
 — deceased, Thomas (1668); 118 b.
 — T., document signed by; 65 a.
 — James (1668); 118 b.
 Sutham, manor of; 635 a.
 Sutherland :
 Duke of, MSS. of; xxii.
 Colonel; 494 b, 495 a.
 Lieut. Charles, letters of; 293 a, 294 a.
 Suthminster, manor of; 635 b.
 Sutor, Odo; 344 a.
 Sutton :
 in Holland; 332 a.
 manor (Surrey?); 632 a, 633 b.
 — fishing near; 632 b.
 manor, co. Lincoln; 412 a. marshes, co. Lincoln; 146 b. water, pool, &c. of, Plymouth; 164 b.
 Courtenay, Berks; 332 b.
 —; 156 a, 156 b.
 —; lodging at Chester; 380 b.
 Col., letter of; 37 b.
 Lieut., letter of; 295 b.
 Sir Edward, petition of; 504 b, 529 b.
 Hammond, of Wickford, will of; 332 a.
 John, of London and Kirkley, will of; 334 a.
 R., letter of; 40 a.

Sutton—cont.

- Robert, dyer, of Worcester; 638 b.
 Will., priest of St. Stephen's, Walbrook, will of; 335 a.
 Suwer, Johan de, hostage of Beauvoys; 407 b.
 Suse, Valley de; 21 a.
 Swaby :
 co. Lincoln, deeds relating to; 265 a.
 John de, will of; 265 a.
 Walter de, chaplain; 265 a.
 Swaffham; 333 b.
 St. Cyriac and St. Mary's, rectories within Swaffham
 Prior, co. Cambridge; 106 b.
 Swainston, Wm., letters of; 293 a.
 Swale, Sir Solomon, commissioner; 275 a.
 Swalecliff, Thornden Wood in; 327 a.
 Swanley, Capt. John, of the Trinity House; 250 b.
 Swartz, Col., letter of; 39 a.
 Sweden; 284 b.
 embassy to, temp. Charles I.; 584 a.
 embassy to (1656-7); 94 b.
 envoy from, during six governments, death of; 565 b.
 envoy from (1708); 34 a.
 court of; 24 b.
 king of, English and Scotch in service of (temp. Commonwealth); 30 a.
 — (1669); 130 a.
 — treaty with (1701); 41 a.
 — his declaration against the Act of Neutrality (1710);
 40 a.
 Queen of, letter to; 18 b.
 Sweet :
 Mr., letter of; 39 b.
 — letter to; 38 a.
 — accounts of; 31 b.
 Benjamin, letter of; 37 b.
 Sweetman :
 —, apostate; 610 b.
 Mr.; 488 b, 608 b.
 Antony; 609 b.
 Lieut. Law.; 594 a.
 Swepestone, Richard and Alice de; 411 a.
 Swepestone, Ralph; 408 b.
 Swift :
 Jonathan, seizure of books, &c. addressed to; 58 b.
 — the Examiner; 14 b.
 Peter, of Pontefract; 275 a.
 Swilly, Lough, affair of; 193 a.
 Swillyngton, Robert de, deeds relating to; 423 a.
 Swinshead fen; 12 a.
 Swintowne, Col., letter of; 36 a.
 Swiss Cantons, the, religious system of; 197 a.
 Swords, Prospect Point near; 472 b.
 Swuyn, Cristina; 639 a.
 Swyke :
 Thomas, of Leicester; 420 a.
 — grant to; 415 b.
 Swylyngton, Lord Robert of (8 Ric. II.); 422 a.
 Sybald, Matthew, witness; 305 a.
 Sybbald, James, vicar of Arbutnott; 298 b, 300 a.
 Syddowe, Henry, of Leicester, butcher; 433 a.
 Sydenham :
 Col.; 163 a.
 Dr., monument to; 233 b.
 Dr. Thomas, picture of; 232 b.
 Theophilus; ib.
 Major Wm., narrative of Second War with Hyder Ali
 (1782); 296 b.
 Sydney, Sidney :
 Lord (1691); 561 a, 564 a.
 — at Portsmouth; 54 a.
 — (1783); 57 b.
 — letter of (1788); 290 b.
 — grant of lands to; 498 a.
 Mons.; 558 b.
 Sir Henry, payment to; 94 a.
 Sir Philip, letter of; 585 a.
 Symes :
 Col., letter of; 295 b.
 Richard; 108 b.
 — petition of; 109 a.
 Symkins, James, of London; 546 b.
 Symms, Tho., on Cambridge Committee; 10 a.
 Symmys, Thomas, vicar of Mayfield, will of; 333 a.
 Symond :
 Richard, of Chedyngworth; 413 a.
 Thomas, graver, payment to; 95 a.
 Symonds, Col., letter of; 39 a.
 Symondsburly; 116 a.
 Symons, Lieut. John; 591 b.
 Symonson, Nicholas, of the Shipwrights' Company; 261 a.
 Symonstown, co. Kildare; 508 a.
 Symynges, John, President of the College of Physicians; 227 a.
 Synnow, John, of Southacre, will of; 338 b.
 Synott :
 Colonel; 609 a.
 James, petition of; 504 b.
 Paul; 609 b.

Syr, Alex., of Bradfield, will of; 334 a.
 Syria; 239 b.
 new crusade into; 351 a.

T.

Taaffe, Count or Lord :

- Nicholas, sketch of; 452 a, 455 a.
 — his account of himself; ib.
 O'Connor's vindication of; 454 a.
 his death; 455 a.
 (1761); 467 a.
 (1762); 472 b.
 (1763); 477 a.
 Lord Northumberland, and (1763); 479 a.
 letter of; ib.
 letter to (1766); 481 b.
 letter of (1766); 482 b.
 his Observations on Affairs in Ireland (1766); 482 b-486 a, passim.
 pamphlets on, and other references to; 482 b-492 b, passim.
 letter of (1767); 487 b.
 his interview with Lord Chancellor Lifford (1767); 488 a.
 Queen Charlotte and; 488 b.
 Viscount, his proceedings in Ireland (1642, &c.); 603 b-607 a, passim, 614 a.

Taaffe :

- Major; 613 a.
 Luke and Francis; 611 a.
 Tabley, Lord de, MSS. of; xxii.
 Tadington, Peter de; 357 b.
 Taghboy parish, co. Roscommon, lands in; 518 a.
 Tailleir, John and Mary, petition of; 537 a.
 Tailier, John, of Chester; 376 a.
 Tailleir, Robert le, of Wimunde Wold; 404 b.
 Tailliour, Elizabeth, wife of John; 386 b.
 Taisniere, battle of; 26 b.
 Talbot, Lord :
 (30 Eliz.), George; 273 a. de Malahide, Mr. J. T. Gilbert's report on his manuscripts at Malahide Castle, co. Dublin; xviii., xxiv., 493 a.

Talbot :

- Bishop and Mrs., letters of (1714); 57 a.
 Capt.; 390 b.
 Colonel, petition of; 582 a.
 G., master of his Majesty's Jewel House, letter of; 388 b.
 Gulelmus; 370 a.
 James; 518 a.
 John; 143 b.
 — of Malahide, petitions of; 501 a, 504 a, 508 a.
 — Earl of Shrewsbury; 264 b.
 Sir John, commissioner; 275 a.
 Capt. Mark, deposition of; 390 b.
 Sir Neil; 391 a.
 Peter, his brother, a captive; 245 a.
 — Archbishop of Dublin; 164 b.
 Col. Phil., letter of; 36 a.
 Richard; 279 a.
 Col. Richard; 143 b.
 — answer of; 144 a.
 Roger, commissioner; 275 a.
 Sir Wm., deposition of; 390 b.
 — his accounts of James II.'s estates in Ireland, 499 a.
 William, prisoner, petitions of; 501 b, 546 a.
 Talbytt, Henry, justice for Nottingham; 432 a.
 Talisch, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Tallafro, letter of; 213 b.
 Tallant, Mr., of Dublin; 528 b.
 Tallenstowne, co. Kildare; 508 a.
 Tallis, Ensign Will.; 595 a.
 Tame, Elizabeth; 368 a.
 Tamerlane, the play; x., 16 a.
 Tamworth; 334 b.
 Tancore, 288 b.
 Rajah of (1778 ?); 288 b.
 Tancred, Sir Richard, commissioner; 275 a.
 Tanfield, Ralph, executor of Bp. of London; 635 b.
 Tangiers; 156 b, 158 b.
 commissioners; 257 b. expedition to; 500 b, 551 b.
 Tanjore; 290 a.
 Tanners :
 of England, petition of; 116 b. ordinall of, at Leicester; 427 a.
 Tanshelf, Tanshall, co. York; 272 b.
 Tanton, Thos.; 146 b.
 Tapers during service, regulations for use of; 321 b.
 Tapestry, arras, &c. at Ewelme, description of; 628 b.
 Taplow; 332 a.

- Tappourley, Thome de; 367 a.
 Tar water, its great use; 571 b.
 Tara, hosting at; 581 a.
 Taragh:
 co. Meath; 499 a.
 Viscount (1651), Preston made; 614 b, 616 b.
 Tarazena, Marquis de, letters of; 32 a, 35 b, 36 b, 38 a, 39 b, 40 a.
 Tarbat, Viscount; 51 a.
 Tarini, Count (1709); 21 a.
 Tarleton, Lt.-Col., letter of; 289 a.
 Tarragona; 18 a.
 letters dated at; 25 a.
 Tarrega, letter dated at; 58 a.
 Tas, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Tasbrow, John, petition of; 506 a.
 Tasburgh, John, petition of; 514 a.
 Tasen, Count de (1708); 19 b.
 Tasker, George, the (ship); 379 b.
 Tassell, in Holland; 244 b.
 Taswell, G., letter of; 295 a.
 Tatam:
 George, of Leicester; 427 b, 430 b, 431 a.
 John, of Leicester; 431 a.
 Tate:
 Major, letter of; 289 a.
 Francis, paper by; 585 a.
 — treatise by; 584 b.
 Robert, alderman, of London, will of; 333 a.
 Tateshall, Lady de; 264 b.
 Tatham, Robert, of Pontefract; 275 b.
 Tattershall:
 warden of; 264 b.
 goods taken from; 267 b.
 expenses at; ib.
 church building; ib.
 Taunagh, Corballis, lands of; 525 b.
 Taunton; 332 a, 332 b, 335 b. documents concerning; 265 a.
 relief of; 8 b.
 Mr.; 369 b.
 Tavistock; 287 a, 334 b.
 parson of; 221 b.
 Taxis, Prince of, letters of (1705); 31 b.
 Tay:
 Loch; 310 a.
 Wm.; 367 b.
 Taybridge; 313 b, 314 b.
 Taylbus, Sir Robert; 271 a.
 Taylor, Tailor, Tayler, &c.: the famous oculist; 466 a.
 Andrew; 396 a.
 Daniel; 375 b.
 Mr. E. F., his report on, and calendar of, House of Lords' MSS.; viii., 101-174.
 Edward, disbanded soldier; 529 b.
 Humphrey, a trooper; 8 a.
 John, his death; 437 b.
 Lieut. Joseph; 591 a.
 L. M., letters of; 290 b, 295 b.
 Richard; 365 b.
 — Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford; 380 b.
 — of Polstead, will of; 333 b.
 Robert, weaver; 390 a.
 Samuel, of Pontefract; 275 b.
 Thomas, mayor of Pontefract; 276 a.
 W.; 156 a, 156 b.
 — information of; 157 a.
 W., rector of Wey, petition of; 630 a.
 Wm. le; 367 b.
 William, minister of Southill; 5 b.
 Capt. William; 510 b.
 William, petitions of; 521 b, 541 a, 541 b.
 Taymouth; 313 b.
 Tayte, Margaret, widow, petition, &c. of; 150 b.
 Teddington; 8 b.
 manor of; 3 a.
 Tedworth, letter dated at; 44 a.
 Tees, the; 249 a.
 Teig:
 James, son of Katherine, petition of; 511 a.
 alias Naughten, Katherine, petition of; ib.
 Teignmouth, Lord, Charles (1797), letters of; 288 b.
 Tellier:
 M. le; 27 b, 28 a.
 Mons. de or le, letters to; 217 b, 218 a, 218 b.
 Tempest alias Triplandes, John; 375 a.
 Templar, Lord, speech of (1756); 223 a.
 Templars, the, Clement V.'s dissolution of the order; 352 a.
 Temple:
 Lord (1714); 14 a.
 — (1753), speech of; 219 b.
 — (1754), 225 b.
 — (1756), at the Treasury; 221
 — (1757); 224 a.
 Temple—cont.
 Major; 8 a.
 Sir John, reports by; 532 a, 540 a.
 — depositions before; 573 a.
 — his history of the Irish Rebellion; 573 b.
 — his "Muster Rolls"; 573 b.
 Mary, petition of; 237 b.
 Sir Richard, letters of; 36 a, 40 a.
 — his message; 219 a.
 Sir William; 444 a, 460 b.
 Templeogue, castle of; 501 b, 523 b.
 Tempsford, co. Bedford, deeds concerning; 262 a.
 estate in; 3 b.
 Tenant, a quack; 228 b.
 Tench, Lieut. John; 596 a.
 Tendryng:
 Richard, tailor, of London, will of; 332 b.
 Will., of Colchester, will of; 333 a.
 Tenham, church of; 380 a.
 Tentebury, Stephen of, licence to; 2 a.
 Tenterden:
 vill and hundred of; 634 b.
 corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Terence, MS. copy of his comedies; 100 b.
 Ternan:
 Edward, of Tulse; 466 b.
 James, of Strokestown; ib.
 Terrily, —, an Irishman; 16 b.
 Terrington; 334 a.
 Terry:
 Margaret, prioress of St. Sepulchre's Nunnery, Canterbury; 337 a.
 — method of election of; 337 b.
 Terryng, manor of; 351 a.
 Tersender, M., letters of; 32 a.
 Terveer; 99 b.
 Tervoe, co. Limerick, Lord Emly's MSS. at, report on; 174 b.
 Tervot; 306 a.
 Terwait; 305 b.
 Terynure, lands of; 506 a.
 Tesbank, letters from; 32 b.
 Tessé, Maréchal de, letter of; 36 a.
 Test Act, the; 197 b, 198 a, 198 b.
 Testa, W. de:
 nuntius, extortions by; 350 b.
 warning issued by; ib.
 stipend to; 351 b.
 Wingham College and; 352 b.
 Teston, Kent, manor of; 319 a, 329 b.
 Tetbury; 334 b.
 Tetherby, alias Smith, Robert; 380 b.
 Tetlove, Thomas, sheriff of Chester; 361 a.
 Tettall, Col., letter of; 36 a.
 Teviotdale, Archdeacon of; 309 a.
 Tewkesbury; 334 b, 335 a, 335 b.
 taking of; 11 b.
 Annals; 583 a.
 Texel, the; 17 a.
 Textor, Walter, son of Richard; 323 a.
 Teynham:
 church; 326 b.
 rector of; 339 a.
 Thalbot:
 James; 609 b.
 Dr.; ib.
 Sir Robert; 604 a, 608 b, 610 b, 611 b, 612 b, 614 a, 616 a, 616 b. See Talbot.
 Thame; 335 a.
 Thames, the river:
 238 b, 239 b, 240 b, 245 b, 251 b, 254 a, 391 b.
 tolls demanded of strangers coming into; 243 b.
 engine for cleansing; 120 b.
 office of ballasting ships and cleansing; 120 a. scouring and cleansing; 244 b, 245 b.
 Act for preservation of; 244 b, 245 b. damage to, by building houses on the bridge; 245 a.
 salmon fishery in; 632 b.
 Thamworth, co. Stafford; 377 a.
 Thanet:
 Isle of; 320 b.
 Earl of, Richard, governor of Tilbury (1683); 258 b.
 Thanksgiving, day of public; 386 a.
 Theaker:
 Robert, petition of; 253 a.
 — his instrument; ib.
 Theatre, opposition at Edinburgh to license one; 310 b, 313 a, 313 b.
 Thelnetham, St. Nicholas; 334 a.
 Thenwall, Robert de; 367 b.
 Theobalds:
 lease of; 219 a.
 Lord Burghley's house at, document dated from; 380 a.
 James I. at; 435 b, 441 b.
 Theodore, Boris; 23 a.
 Theomolin:
 le Prieur de, letter of; 37 b.
 Prince de (1711), letters of; 40 a.

- Therbert; 618 a.
 Therfield, parson of; 334 b.
 Thetford; 333 b, 334 a.
 Thickpenny, Lieut. Leonard; 590 b.
 Thisquen, M., letter of; 39 a.
 Thistleworth; 55 b.
 Thomaistun, Salomon de, witness; 305 a.
 Thomas :
 v. Dagnall; 136 a.
 Anthony, petition of; 136 a.
 David; 583 a.
 John, of Bristol, will of; 332 a.
 — vicar of All Saints, Bristol, will of; 335 b.
 — trooper; 543 a.
 Prince; 28 a.
 Rachel, letter of; 15 a.
 Richard, appointment of; 281 a.
 Robert, letter of; 248 a.
 Samuel, deceased; 136 a.
 Cornet Samuel; 596 a.
 Dr. Wm.; 279 a.
 William; 626 a.
 — prisoner at Chester; 380 b.
 Thomasson :
 Wm.; 367 b.
 — murager of Chester, book of receipts and payments, &c. of; 369 b.
 Thomé, Col., letter of; 40 a.
 Thomond :
 Lord, Marshal of France (1761); 476 a, 476 b.
 Earl of, his daughter; 605 a.
 Thompson, Thomson, Tomson :
 Dr., and Pope; 571 b.
 Mr., councillor; 257 a.
 — historian of Leicester; 403 b, 404 a, 425 a, 430 a.
 — attorney to Warren Hastings; 291 b.
 Lieut. in Ireland; 600 a, 623 b.
 — his conspiracy; 531 b, 546 a.
 Andrew, letter of; 292 b.
 alias Hill, Barbara, petition of; 542 a.
 George; 128 a.
 Grace; 109 b.
 James; ib.
 John, near Castlereia; 474 a.
 Maurice; 165 b, 166 b.
 — answer of; 107 b.
 Lieut. Richard; 529 a, 529 b, 535 a.
 — ; 595 b.
 Major Richard, petition of his widow Barbara; 502 a.
 Robert, soldier; 543 b.
 Stephen, commissioner; 275 a.
 Lieut. W. A., letter of; 295 b.
 William, his opinions; 258 b, 259 a.
 — commissioner; 275 a.
 — of Leicester; 419 a.
 — of the Mint; 61 a.
 Thonge, Will., potecary, of Northampton, will of; 335 a.
 Thongeston, William de, of Leicester; 421 a.
 Thoppe, Thos.; 365 b.
 Thornbury, manor, co. Gloucester; 139 b, 148 a.
 Thorne, Baldwin, of Worcester; 638 a.
 Thorneby, Roger; 681 a.
 Thorney, Anthony; 272 b.
 Thornhill :
 co. York, church; 276 a.
 — rector of; 636 b.
 Robert, of the Tower Court of Record; 89 b.
 — order touching; 279 b.
 — petition of; 508 b.
 Timothy; 243 a.
 Thornholm Priory, Lincoln; 627 a.
 Thornthwaite; 211 a.
 Thornton, Thorneton; 301 a.
 Capt. Laurence, petition of; 549 b.
 Sir Peter de; 358 b.
 Richard, schoolmaster; 271 b.
 Ensign Richard, prisoner; 8 a.
 Robert; 383 a.
 — of Chester, bond of; 360 b.
 Thomas, master of St. Leonard's Hospital, Leicester; 413 b.
 Thorowgood :
 Sir John; 7 a.
 William; 145 b.
 Thorp, Thorpe :
 co. Leicester; 414 a.
 Ings, co. York; 162 b.
 Underwood, co. York, manor; 162 a, 162 b.
 Agnes, of Cambridge, will of; 335 b.
 Robert, alderman of Norwich, will of; 333 a.
 Simon de, seneschall of Pontefract; 270 b.
 Walter, his chantry in St. Paul's; 634 a.
 Thoulon; 41 b.
 Throckmerton, Francis; 427 b.
 Throckmorton :
 Sir John, letter to; 374 a.
 Sir N. W., Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
 Throghford, John, late sheriff of Chester, pardon to; 359 b.
 Throp, Thos., waterbailiff of Chester; 361 a.
 Throppe, Alderman; 364 b.
 Throsby, Mr., of Leicester; 404 a.
 Thrush, Thos., letter of; 293 b.
 Thungen, Baron de, letters of; 36 a, 37 b.
 Thurkeston, John, of Lutterworth; 414 b.
 Thurland :
 Edward, of Inner Temple, solicitor-general of Duke of York (1660); 279 b, 280 a.
 Sir Edward, attorney-general to Duke of York, commission, &c. to; 280 b.
 Thurles :
 my Lady of (1649); 610 a.
 Viscount, Thos. Butler; 605 b.
 — title of; 588 b.
 Thurloe :
 John, secretary, letters of; 386 b, 387 a.
 — orders signed by; 386 a.
 Thurlow, St. Peter's; 333 a.
 Thurmolin, prior of, letter of; 38 b.
 Thurstanton, Hugh de; 367 b.
 Thurston :
 A., document signed by; 17 b.
 Edmund, of Rendham, will of; 333 b.
 Thwaites, William, of Clonmel, petition of; 503 b.
 Thwayte, William; 271 a.
 Thwaytes, Thomas, Knt., mercer, of London and burgess of Calais, will of; 334 b.
 Thynne :
 Francis, treatise by; 582 b.
 Sir James, advance of money to; 212 a.
 John, of Egham; 51 a.
 Robert, patent to; 241 a.
 Thomas, treatise by; 584 b.
 — Lady Ogle and; 51 a.
 Tiaquin parish, co. Galway, lands in; 532 b.
 Ticehurst; 335 b.
 Tichborne :
 Sir Henry, his troop or regiment in Ireland; 504 b, 506 a 511 a, 523 b, 541 b, 546 b, 549 b, 593 b.
 — lands held by; 520 a.
 — marshal of the army; 547 a.
 Sir William, lands held by; 520 b.
 Tickell, Thomas, of Thornthwaite; 211 a.
 Ticrohan :
 Sir Luke Fitzgerald's house at; 580 a. siege, &c. of; 612 b.
 Tiell, Thomas, of Leicester, submission of; 422 a.
 Tigh, Richard, alderman of Dublin, petitions of; 513 b, 539 b.
 Tigherahan, rendezvous at; 611 a.
 Tighe, Teige, Henry, mayor of Dublin; 573 b.
 Tilbrooke, tax at; 10 a.
 Tilbury :
 Fort; 258 b, 324 a.
 camp at; 432 b.
 Baron of, Lord Vere, petition to; 244 b.
 Till :
 Captain, at Scilly; 257 a.
 Capt. Hugh; 258 b.
 Tillingham manor; 633 a.
 Tillman, Ralph, of Limerick; 543 b.
 Tillson, John; 363 b.
 Tilly :
 Comte (1708), letters of; 36 a, 36 b, 39 a.
 Marshal; 214 b, 215 b.
 Tilmanston, S. de; 341 a.
 Tilney; 333 b, 334 a.
 Tilson, Mr.; 35 b.
 Tilston, John; 361 a.
 Timberhithe, messuage at; 323 a.
 Timoliu quarter; 604 a.
 Tin, &c., papers concerning; 91 b.
 Tinctor, Nicolaus, of Leicester; 404 b.
 Tindale, Northumberland; 116 a.
 Tinghey, Henry, witness; 262 b.
 Tinsendorf, Count de; 14 a.
 Tipperary :
 sheriff of, petition of; 50. b.
 specification of lands in; 520 b.
 specification of Lord Esmond's lands in; 526 b.
 James II.'s lands in; 497 b, 498 a.
 papers relating to affairs in (1798-9); 584 a.
 Tipplers at Leicester, Act for; 426 a.
 Tippo, Sultan, account of his family, revenues, &c. (1789); 293 b.
 Tirimont, Comte de, letters of (1706); 32 a, 36 a.
 Tirlmont; 31 b.
 Tirlington, John, of Leicester; 439 b.
 Tirrell :
 Thomas, petition of; 547 a.
 Sir Timothy, replication of; 552 a.
 Tirryll, Col.; 4 b.

- Tisdall :
 —; 193 a, 193 b.
 Michael, petition of; 549 a.
 Philp, his relations with Archbishop Stone; 176 b.
 — made Solicitor-General in Ireland; ib.
 — Attorney-General in Ireland; 473 b.
- Tisser, James and John; 118 b.
- Tisted, West, church of; 263 b.
- Titchwell manor; 268 a.
- Titherton, alias Smith, Robert, a notorious malefactor; 381 a.
- Titles of estates, Bill for registers to remedy uncertainty of; 134 a.
- Titus :
 Capt.; 9 b.
 —; 134 b.
 Mr.; 134 a, 134 b.
 S., letter of; 8 b.
 Capt. S., letters of; 10 a.
 Silas, petition of; 255 a.
- Tobacco :
 English, report on hurtful nature of; 229 a.
 sale of, in Leicester; 436 b. order against smoking; 248 b.
 smoking, fine on; 235 b.
 Act prohibiting the planting of, in England and Ireland; 138 b.
- Toceter; 398 b.
- Toddington, co. Bedford; 122 a.
- Todpole, Ensign George; 594 b.
- Tofts, church of; 324 b.
- Togher :
 land of; 525 b.
 defence; 613 b.
- Toira, Marshal, his death; 553 a.
- Toke, Simond, of Betele (St. Mary Magdalene), will of; 334 a.
- Tokens, white farthing tokens; 435 b.
- Toker, Will., of Soke, Winchester, will of; 335 a.
- Toledo :
 —, 17 a, 18 a.
 Cardinal of, letter to; 213 a.
- Toleration Act, the, in Ireland; 199 b.
- Tollaghdonnell, co. Louth, plundered; 590 b.
- Tollard Royal; 333 a.
- Tollemache, John, Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
- Toller, Dorset; 210 b.
- Tolleston, co. York; 271 a.
- Tollitore; 335 a.
- Tolls under Duchy of Lancaster; 271 b.
- Tolson, Lieut.-Col. Richard, letters of; 294 b, 295 b.
- Tomdrain, Camp de, letter dated at; 17 b.
- Tomkyns, Lieut., letter of; 293 b.
- Tomline, T., certificate by; 438 b.
- Tomlinson :
 Col., his troop; 386 a.
 Ensign Thomas; 591 b.
- Tomlyns, Katharine; 394 a.
- Tonge, William, Norroy; 582 b.
- Tonstal, Mr., lines by; 24 b.
- Tontine Act, the, in Ireland; 195 a.
- Tonyn : governor; 289 a.
 — letters of; 288 b, 289 a.
- Tooker, Arthur, bookseller; 22 b.
- Tool, —; 497 a.
- Toomes :
 v. Etherington, roll in writ of error; 119 a.
 Richard, application of; 123 a.
 Wm.; 123 a.
- Tooting, Surrey; 637 b.
- Topelive, W., seneschal of Ch. Ch., Canterbury; 341 b.
- Topham, Mr., letter of; 57 a.
- Topleff, Topleffe, [? Topcliff, co. York] rectory; 162 a, 162 b.
- Toplife, Christopher, trooper; 523 b.
- Topping, Michael, letter of; 289 b.
- Torbay; 27 a, 252 b, 565 b.
- Torcy :
 M., letter of; 37 b.
 Marquis de; 39 a.
- Tories :
 the Irish termed; 446 b, 543 a, 618 a.
 Irish, killing of; 501 b.
- Tornham church; 316 a.
- Tornor :
 Margaret, of Norwich, will of; 334 a.
 Wyha, of Hadley, will of; 332 b.
- Torperlegh, near Chester; 358 a.
- Torphichen, Lord, MSS. of; xxii.
- Torrens, W. McCullagh, Esq., M.P., MSS. of; xxii.
- Torrington, Lord :
 his brother killed (1691); 563 a.
 letters of; 54 a.
 documents signed by (1716); 85 a, 85 b.
 warrant by (1717); 76 b.
- Tortosa, capitulation of; 33 a.
- Totness :
 corporation, MSS. of; xxiii.
 Earl of, work by (1769); 491 b, 492 a.
- Totten, John, letter of; 246 a.
- Tottenham, Sir Robert Cecil's lands in; 635 a.
- Touchby, Thomas, of Leicester; 420 a.
- Touchet :
 Ensign Peter; 290 b.
 — letters of; 291 a, 292 b, 294 a.
- Touchprest, M. de; 28 a.
- Toulon; 45 b, 47 a, 195 a. fleet at; 197 b.
- Toulouse, Tholosa, in Aquitania, St. Mary's Convent in, document dated at; 301 b.
- Tour et Tassis, Prince de la, letter of; 36 a.
- Tour, Lieut. Fran.; 594 b.
- Tournaments or jousts :
 forbidden by the Council of Vienna; 352 b. persons present at, threatened by the Archbishop; 353 b.
- Tournay :
 town of; 36 b.
 letters dated at; 29 a, 336 a.
 taking of; 21 a.
 governor of, letter of; 39 b.
 commandant of, letter of; ib.
 Bishop and Chapter of, letter of; 37 a.
 Bishop of, letter of; 40 a.
- Tours; 193 a.
 nuns at; 585 a.
- Towcester; 7 a.
 letter dated at; 3 b.
- Towers, John, Esq.; 5 a.
- Towneley, Colonel, MSS. of; xxii.
- Towns, decay of, dialogue on; 93 a.
- Townsend or Townshend, Lord :
 ambassador; 21 b.
 letters of (1709); 36 a, 37 a.
 ambassador, instructions to (1709); 36 b.
 letter of (1711); 39 b.
 letters to (1714); 16 a.
 — (1715); 17 b, 40 b.
 letter to; 85 b.
 memorial to (1716); 85 b.
 letter of (1717); 40 b.
 lord lieutenant of Ireland (1769); 492 b.
 his administration of Ireland (1771); 192 a, 193 a. unpopularity of; 193 a.
 letters of (1778); xviii., 195 b, 196 a.
- Townsend, Townshend, Townshend : commissary, letter of; 289 a.
 Alianore, Lady, of Reynham, Mary, will of; 333 b.
 Charles, letters of; 294 a, 295 a.
 — speeches of; 222 b, 223 b, 224 a.
 George; 151 a.
 H., letters of; 380 a, 399 b.
 — warrants of; 375 b.
 Mrs. M., letters of; 294 b, 295 a.
 Mary, of Westbury manor; 630 a.
- Townsland, Admiral; 223 a.
- Towson, Wm.; 399 a.
- Tracy :
 W. de, his lands at Docombe; 318 b.
 William de, one of Abp. Becket's murderers; 324 a.
- Trade :
 Council of; 133 b, 247 a, 247 b.
 — report of (1670); 137 b.
 — letters of; 47 a.
 Commissioners for, petition to; 50 a.
 Committee of, list of names of; 136 a. committee to consider decay of, minutes of proceedings; viii., 133 b.
 marks (1669); 134 b.
- Trades' Unions (temp. Eliz.); 403 a.
- Tradescant, John; 269 a.
- Trafford :
 Sir Edmonde, sheriff of co. Lancaster; 397 a.
 Rich. of Oakham, will of; 334 b.
 Lieut. William; 593 a.
- Trall, James, Bishop of Down, sermons by; 489 b, 490 a, 492 b.
- Transportation of prisoners, Act touching (1670); 142 a.
- Trant, Mr.; 391 a.
- Trapham, Thomas, chirurgeon, payment to; 94 b.
- Traponell, John, of Sherston; 639 a.
- Trappony, in Sicily, consul at; 245 b.
- Trapps :
 John, of the Mint; 69 b.
 Wm.; 163 b, 164 a.
- Trasey, Lieut. Roger; 595 a.
- Travers :
 Mr., letters of; 37 b, 39 a, 57 a.
 — preacher at Leicester; 431 b.
 James, petition of; 549 b.
 Joseph; 583 a.
 S., letter of; 36 a.

- Trawn, Marshal de, letters of (1706); 31 b.
- Treago, Roger, of the Delight; 241 a.
- Treasurer of a monastery, his method of keeping accounts; 343 b.
- Treasury :
 Lords of the; 389 a, 389 b, 392 b.
 — letters of; 387 b, 389 a, 389 b, 390 a, 391 b.
 — letters to; 389 a, 391 b.
 — petition to; 388 b.
 — resolution of, on a petition; 391 b.
- Treaties; 26 b.
 ratifications of (1701-2); 12 b, passim.
 secret papers relating to the Definitive Treaty, &c. (1762-1763); 285 a.
- Treavor, Arthur; 121 a.
- Tredcroft :
 John; 124 b.
 — minister, deceased; ib.
 — executors of, petition of; ib.
 John, Edward, and Nathaniel, children of John, deceased; ib.
- Trees for sea marks, letters about preservation of; 246 b.
- Treeton, co. York, rector of; 276 b.
- Treffrey, John, knt., of St. Finbar's, Fowey, will of; 332 b.
- Treganore, Hugh, corrody to; 2 a.
- Tregonwell, —, grant to; 261 b.
- Tregoz, John, constable of the Tower; 347 b.
- Trelawny :
 Mr., his letter; 312 a.
 Capt. Charles, letter of; 36 a.
 Sir J. S., Bart., M.P., MSS. of; xxii.
- Trent :
 the river; 435 b.
 — Act for improving navigation between Boston and, amendments, &c. (1670); 153 a.
- Trentham :
 co. Stafford; 200 a.
 Francis; 117 a.
- Treplaundes. See Tempest, John.
- Treplow Heath; 158 b.
- Treswell :
 Colonel; 503 b.
 Col. Daniel, petitions of; 503 b, 543 b.
- Trethewy :
 John; 125 a.
 — plea and answer of; 125 a, 125 b.
 — order on; 125 b.
- Trething, Lewis; 279 a.
- Treuet, co. Meath; 499 a.
- Treuor, Sir Richard, letter to; 382 a.
- Trevainan, John; 280 b.
- Trevanion, Capt.; 388 a.
- Treves :
 Elector of, letters of (1705); 31 a.
 — (1707); 32 a.
 — letter of (1709); 36 b.
 — (1710); 38 a.
 — (1715); 40 b.
 the notorious London money-lender; 288 b.
 Pellegrine, letters of; 288 b.
 — acting resident at Benares, letters of; 290 a, 293 b, 295 b.
- Treveze, Peter; 166 a.
- Trevor :
 John, M.P.; 384 b.
 Sir John, elected Speaker; 440 b.
 Col. Marcus, in Ireland; 597 a, 599 b.
 Col. Mark, his troop; 540 b.
 Richard; 375 b.
- Trevors :
 Mr., envoy; 30 b.
 —, of Trevalen; 375 b.
- Triacle, a composition; 227 b.
- Trial of Peers of England, Act for better regulating the (1667); 113 a.
- Tribbeko, M., Lutheran minister; 47 a.
- Trilleck, John, Bishop of Hereford; 262 b.
- Trim; 523 a, 546 b, 623 b.
 Parliament held at (1447); 493 a, 499 b.
 the rebels near; 497 a. garrison at, in 1648; 593 b, 594 a.
 surrender of; 610 b.
- Trimleston :
 Lord (1756); 450 b, 452 a, 455 a.
 — (1761); 468 a.
 — (1762); 471 b, 472 a, 473 a, 474 a.
 — (1763); 476 a, 476 b.
- Trinity :
 the ship, of Dublin; 373 a.
 — de la Catyva; 373 b.
 — of Dublin; 503 b.
- Trinity House :
 Company; 120 a.
 Corporation, report on MSS. of; xiv., 235 a, et seq.
 See London, Trinity House.
- Trion, Sir Samuel; 161 b.
- Tripoli; 239 b.
 pirate ships of; 640 b.
- Tripp, Simon, discourse by; 583 a.
- Trishaire :
 Thos.; 156 a, 156 b.
 — information of; 157 a.
- Trivis, Lieut. Arthur; 596 a.
- Trossuagh, lands of; 525 b.
- Trotman :
 Samuel; 153 b.
 — answer of; ib.
- Trowbryng, Robert, of Bridport, will of; 332 b.
- Troy, Ensign Antony; 594 a.
- Troye, Ensign Andrew; 593 a.
- Truelock, Trulock :
 Mr., letter to; 106 b.
 Thomas, petitions, &c. of; 103 a.
 — messenger, petition of; 146 b.
- Truesdale, —, physician; 221 b.
- Trumbrygge, John, of Leicester; 414 a.
- Trambull :
 Mr., agent at Brussels; 242 b.
 Sir William, letters of; 552 a, 556 b, 557 a, 557 b.
- Truro, Cornwall; 254 b. inhabitants of, letter of; 142 b.
 mayor; ib.
- Trussell :
 Gilbert, mayor of Chester, inquisition before 367 a.
 Osman, witness; 411 a.
 Sir Wm.; 370 b.
- Truth, the Naked (1709), paper so intituled; 37 b.
- Trymr, Ensign William; 593 a.
- Tryour, Thomas, of Deopham, will of; 333 b.
- Tuam :
 Abp. or Bishop of (1644), Quelly; 604 b.
 — executed; ib.
 — (1651); 614 a, 616 b.
 — Jo. (1712); 74 a.
 — Jo., letter of (1714); 59 a.
- Tubant, John; 357 b.
- Tubbe, Walter, licence to; 1 b.
- Tubman, Lieut. Mathias; 593 b.
- Tubney, Berks, deeds concerning; 262 b.
- Tuddington, co. Bedford; 4 a.
 estate in; 6 b.
 Park; 6 a.
 rents at; 4 b.
- Tudenhams, North; 333 b.
- Tufton, A., letter of; 291 a.
- Tuit, Colonel; 498 a.
- Tuite :
 Andrew, prisoner; 604 a.
 Andrew Boy; 605 b.
 James; 614 a.
- Tuitte, Edward, killed; 603 b.
- Tuke, Ensign Thomas; 595 b.
- Tulch-Fraser, co. Stirling, lordship of; 305 b.
- Tullamore, Lord, letters of (1714); 49 a.
- Tullibardin; 306 a.
- Tullibardine, Marquis of or Lord, letters of; 31 b, 36 a, 37 b.
- Tully :
 James, petition of; 502 a, 540 b.
 co. Kildare; 501 b, 540 b, 541 a, 543 b.
 co. Louth; 590 b.
- Tulsk; 466 b.
- Tunbridge; 562 b.
 manor or honor of; 320 b, 338 b, 351 a. castle; 354 a. ware; 63 a.
 Lord, letter of (1708); 36 a.
- Tunis, pirates of; 239 b, 241 b, 242 b.
- Tunnah, Charles, his proposal; 79 a.
- Tunstall : benefice of; 340 a.
 Cuthbert, Bishop of London; 634 b.
 James, player; 430 b.
- Tupholme, abbot of; 267 b.
- Turenne, Marshal; 28 b.
- Turin; 27 a.
 letters dated at; x., 16 b, 19 a, et seq., 27 a, 33 a, 36 a, 47 b, 218 b, 552 b.
 siege of; 21 b.
 cathedral at; ib.
- Turing, John, letters of; 294 b.
- Turk, Symon, of Leicester; 408 b, 410 a, 410 b.
- Turkdean; 332 b.
- Turkey :
 Sultan of, Cromwell's letter to; 640 b.
 merchants, company of; 247 a.
 the plague of; 233 a.
 tin sold in; 92 b.
 "full of money in transitu" (1669); 134 a.
- Turkish : pirates; 235 b, 236 a.
 — ships seized by; 640 b.

- Turks, the : expedition against (1482) ; 298 b, 301 b. campaign against (1738) ; 27 b.
 large number of ships taken by ; 238 b. capture by ; 239 b.
 woman taken prisoner by ; 237 b.
- Turlagh ; 516 b.
- Turnbull :
 Adam, letters of ; 289 b, 295 b.
 Lt.-Col. George, letters of ; 288 b, 289 a.
 John, page ; 278 a.
- Turner :
 Baron ; 101 a, 138 b, 150 b.
 — order for ; 127 b.
 Capt. ; 553 a.
 Bartholomew, of Naas, petition of ; 521 a.
 Charles, letter of ; 14 a.
 Sir Charles, Commissioner of Trade ; 34 a.
 Charles, of the Treasury, warrant by ; 79 a.
 Christopher, of Milton Earnest ; 4 a.
 Sir Ed., letter to ; 212 a.
 Sir Edward, speaker ; 252 a.
 John ; 170 b.
 — of Dursley, will of ; 335 a.
 Lieut. Saml., letter of ; 290 b.
 Thomas, letter of ; 292 b.
 — auditor ; 419 a.
 Sir Thomas, Recorder of London (1683) ; 232 a.
 W. H., Esq., MSS. of ; xxii.
 William, counter tenor ; 12 b.
- Turnor :
 Ensign Anthony ; 591 b.
 Edw., Attorney-General of Duke of York, commission to (1660) ; 279 b.
- Turnour, Lieut. Geo., letters of ; 292 a, 293 b.
- Turpin, Turpyn :
 Lady, gift by ; 428 a.
 John, conspirator ; 434 a.
 William, sheriff of co. Leicester, letter to ; 431 b.
 Sir William, commission to ; 418 a.
- Turrett, Robert, of Kettleby ; 434 a.
- Turton :
 v. White ; 161 a.
 Robert, petition, &c. of ; 161 a.
- Turum, Wm. ; 381 a.
- Turvill, Turvyle :
 Henry, letter of ; 432 b.
 John, payment to ; 429 b.
 — letter to ; 437 b.
 — his bill for maces ; 439 a.
- Tuscany, Duke of (1715), letter of ; 40 b.
- Tutbury, Charles I. at ; 427 b.
- Tutchin, Anthony, of the Trinity House ; 256 b.
- Twamlawa, Liulpho ; 356 a, 356 b.
- Tweddall, Capt. ; 393 a.
- Tweed, Henry, of the Mint ; 66 a.
- Tweeddale, Marquis of :
 letters of (1706) ; 32 a.
 letter of (1709) ; 37 b.
- Twickenham ; 55 b.
 letters dated at ; 56 b.
 Pope at ; 54 b, 55 a.
- Twinstead ; 334 b.
- Twisden :
 Mr. Justice ; 116 b, 128 a, 138 b, 141 b.
 — order for ; 127 b.
- Twiss, Lieut. Col. Wm., letter of ; 296 a.
- Twyford : pool in ; 263 b.
 prebend of ; 633 a.
- Tyall, John, of Colchester, will of ; 332 a.
- Tyars, Thomas, of Leicester ; 425 b.
- Tychburne :
 Colonel Sir Henry ; 592 b.
 Capt. William ; 597 a.
- Tydd St. Giles ; 335 b.
- Tyddon-in-Alton, Hampshire ; 263 b.
- Tye, John, of Melford, will of ; 334 a.
- Tyce, John and Cecilia, grant to ; 342 a.
- Tyes, Edmond ; 272 b.
- Tygo, Dame Bate, chaste woman, of Lynn, will of ; 334 a.
- Tykhull, Rauff, of Blechingley, will of ; 333 a.
- Tyldesley, John de ; 367 a.
- Tyler :
 George, letter of ; 290 b.
 John, of Wells ; 639 b.
- Tylnay, Robert, of Witchford (Wittiforth, Ely), will of ; 332 b.
- Tylney, Edmond, Master of the Revels ; 431 a.
- Tylor, Thomas, jun., of Beckley, will of ; 334 b.
- Tymolyn, co. Kildare ; 528 b.
- Tympley, John, of Ipswich, will of ; 335 b.
- Tyndale, William, paper by ; 92 b.
- Tyndall, John, commissioner ; 272 b.
- Tyne, the river ; 237 b, 238 a, 245 b.
- Tynemouth ; 212 a. lights at ; 257 b, 258 a, 258 b, 259 a.
- Tyneswyke, Richard and Alice de, licence to ; 1 b.
- Tynnewell, John of, Bishop of Lincoln ; 412 b.
- Tyngewik, Nicholas de ; 342 b.
- Tyngulle, Thomas and Agnes, of Leicester ; 420 a.
- Tyuterne :
 abbey ; 323 b.
 abbot of ; 345 a.
- Tyrawley, Lord :
 letter of (1708) ; 36 a.
 — (1709) ; 37 b.
 — (1711) ; 40 a.
 letters of (1714) ; 49 a, 58 b.
- Tyrconnell ; 612 a.
 Earl of, lands given to ; 497 b.
 — forfeiture of his lands ; 498 a.
 — grant to ; 499 a.
 — (1691) ; 560 b, 565 a.
 — his skirmish (1642) ; 603 b.
 Duke of, Richard Talbot, letters of (1689-1690) ; 493 a, et seq.
 Duchess of, letters of ; 51 b.
 — letter of (1711) ; 40 a.
- Lady, her jointure ; 25 b.
- Tyrlington, Franke of ; 423 a.
- Tyrone ; 616 b.
 county, losses in, during rebellion (1641) ; 573 a.
 Earl of, Hugh O'Neill created ; 602 b.
 — his sons ; ib.
- Tyrrell, Tyrell :
 Dr., letter of ; 607 b.
 Justice (1667) ; 112 a.
 Cate, wife of Dr. Shiell ; 609 a.
 Edward, letters of ; 40 a.
 Sir Edward ; 497 b, 498 a.
 Dr. Edward, letter of ; 615 a.
 Father James ; 610 b.
 Sir James, his Chronicle ; 354 b.
 Thomas, the lawyer ; 605 a.
 Sir Thomas, executor ; 263 a.
 William ; 615 b.
- Tyrwhitt, Mr. ; 369 b.
- Tysoe, co. Warwick, deeds relating to ; 265 b.
- Tytne, Capt., his troop ; 10 a.
- Tytus, Capt. ; 255 b.

U.

- Udale, Robert, petition of ; 103 a.
- Udall, Quartermaster Hugh ; 595 b.
- Uffenham :
 Alice, of Downton, will of ; 335 a.
 John, of Downton, will of ; ib.
- Uffington ; 333 b.
- Ufford, John, dean of Lincoln ; 337 a.
- Uggan, Vggan :
 Sir John, of Bolston, co. Pembroke ; 379 b.
 Richard ; 379 b.
- Ugtreth, Robert ; 271 a.
- Uthoff, J., assistant at Poona, letters of ; 291 a, 294 b.
- Ulcomb, Kent, church, &c. of ; 337 b, 340 a.
- Ulm, magistrates of, letter of ; 37 b.
- Ulster :
 army, &c. in ; 603 a, 605 b, 606 b, 607 b, 610 b, 612 a, 618 a. plantation of ; 99 a, 399 a, 581 a, 582 a. surveys of ; 572 a, 581 a.
 losses in during rebellion (1641) ; 573 a. revolts in ; 582 a.
 Provincial Assembly ; 611 b.
 Bishop General of, E. MacMahon ; 612 a.
- Umpton, Sir Edward, his brother Henry ; 630 b.
- Uncle, William, of Woodchurch, will of ; 340 a.
- Undertakers, the, Cabal in Ireland called ; 176 a.
- Underwall, Hamo ; 342 b.
- Underwood :
 Mr., of Dublin ; 196 b.
 James, a soldier ; 9 a.
- Unicorn, the ship ; 242 a, 245 b.
- Uniformity, Act of ; 387 a.
- Union Act, the (1707) ; 394 a, 394 b, 395 a.
- Union Jack, the ; 249 b.
- United Provinces ; 283 b.
 plague in ; 387 b.
- Upfield, Robert, trooper, petitions of ; 534 b, 541 b.
- Uphaven ; 630 a.
- Upwell ; 333 b.
- Urban III., Pope, bulls of ; 317 a.

- Urban IV., Pope, bulls of; 318 a.
 Urban V., Pope, bulls of; 318 a, 338 b.
 Urban VI., Pope, bulls of; 318 b, 340 a.
 Urbick, M., letters of; 36 a, 37 b.
 Urganda, prophecy of; 32 a.
 Urie; 301 a.
 Urignon, G., letter of; 294 a.
 Ursel, Comte d', letters of; 32 a, 37 b.
 Ursinis, Latinus de; 264 b.
 Ushurn, co. York; 271 a.
 Ushaw College, MSS. at; xxiii.
 Usher:
 Cusack v., motion paper, &c.; 149 b.
 Capt., prisoner in Ireland; 600 b.
 alias Holmes, Bridget; 548 b.
 James, Primate; 583 b.
 Capt. John, weekly charge of his troop; 598 b.
 Robert, of Cramlin, his will; 548 b.
 Usury; 134 b.
 Uthoff, James, letter of; 289 b.
 Utrecht; 553 a.
 letters dated at; 41 a, 557 b.
 Popish bishoprics of; 198 a, 198 b. congress at; 40 b.
 peace of; 395 b.
 Uttoxeter; 335 b.
 Uvedale, Alice, her marriage; 263 b.
 Uxbridge; 630 a.
 the army at (1688); 555 b, 556 a.
- V.
- Vaaghan, Ensign Thomas; 591 a.
 Vaccination, report on; 233 b.
 Vaccine establishment, a national; 233 b.
 Vachan, Richard, Archdeacon of Surrey; 338 a.
 Vackerbadt, Comte de, letters of (1706); 31 b.
 Vackerbart, Comte de, letters of; 39 a.
 Vaghane, John, adventurer; 511 a.
 Valance, Robert, executor; 634 a.
 Valchtoun; 307 a.
 Valderez, Comte de, letters of; 39 a.
 Vale Royal, co. Chester; 401 b.
 Valée, M. la, letters of; 39 a.
 Valence, Aymer de, Earl of Pembroke; 262 b.
 Valencia; 18 a.
 letters, &c. dated at; 16 a, 16 b, 25 a, 27 a, 44 a, 58 a.
 Valenciennes, town of; 36 b.
 Valensis, Robertus, witness; 270 a.
 Valentia:
 Lady, daughter of Lord Lyttelton; 206 a, and note.
 Wm. de; 172 a.
 Valentine:
 Benjamin; 118 b.
 Robert, soldier in Ireland; 513 a.
 Valerianis, the, painting by; 63 a.
 Valery, General de, letters of; 39 a.
 Valethons, Sanson, of Derwbi, gift by; 408 a.
 Valeur, Her Majesty's ship (1706); 394 a.
 Valladolid:
 document dated at; 40 a.
 University; 455 a.
 Valliere, Marquis de la, letter of; 37 b.
 Vallonia, W. de, witness; 304 b.
 Valmonde, Lady (1738); 13 b.
 Valoniis, Alicia de; 300 b.
 Valoynes:
 Walter de; 345 a.
 William, Walter, and Peter, trespassers; 347 a.
 Valsasine, Comte, letter of; 39 a.
 Van Brock, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Van der Beke, M., letter of; 40 b.
 Van der Broeck, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Van der Heck, M., letter of; ib.
 Van der Kaa, M., letters of; 37 b, 39 a, 40 a.
 Van der Meere, M., letter of; 40 b.
 Van der Nath, Vandernath; 31 b.
 M., letter of; 36 a.
 Comte, letter of; 36 b.
 Van der Vehen, M., letter of; 37 b.
 Van Galen, Dr., of Utrecht; 553 a.
 Van Haren, treaty signed by; 12 a.
 Van Loor, Maria; 143 a.
 Van Mullen, a quack; 230 b.
 Van Rossensteyn:
 John; 143 a.
 Mauritz; 143 a.
 Van Stocken, M., letters of; 31 b, 36 a, 36 b, 37 b.
 Vanas, Major, letter of; 295 b.
- Vanburgh:
 Sir John, letters of; 25 b, 39 a, 54 a.
 — letter to; 25 b.
 Vandal, M., letter of; 39 a.
 Vandegraaff, Governor, letter of; 294 b.
 Vandenberg, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Vandeput, Mr.; 134 b.
 Vanderesse, Mr.; 563 a.
 Vander Heyden, Henry, postmaster, papers by; 99 b.
 Vanderkan:
 M., letter of; 36 a.
 P., letter of; 40 b.
 Vandeuil, Madame de, letter of; 37 b.
 Vandyck:
 portrait by; 232 a. notice of; 234 a.
 Vane:
 Henry, letters of; 247 b, 248 a.
 — Secretary of State; 584 a.
 Vanhouen, Francis, merchant; 209 a.
 Vannoe, "little Jacky"; 392 a.
 Vanschoonhoun, Parret, merchant; 209 a.
 Vargaudt, Lieut., letter of; 295 b.
 Vargas, M., letter of; 39 a.
 Vauasor, Sir Henry; 271 a.
 Vaubonne, Marquis de (1708), letter of; 36 a.
 Vaudemont, Prince of, letters of (1707); 32 a.
 Vaughan:
 —, killed; 611 a.
 Lord (1665); 102 b.
 — (1668); 123 b.
 — privilege case (1670); 140 a.
 Lord Chief Justice, as Speaker of House of Lords, letter to; 114 a.
 —; 141 b, 160 a, 164 b, 315 a.
 — commission to; 139 a.
 Mr., of the Temple; 167 a, 171 b, 172 a, 173 a.
 Baron (1827); 369 b.
 Edward, Esq., grant to; 94 a.
 Sir Henry, report on case of; 122 b.
 afterwards Halford, Henry; 233 a.
 Dr. James, Dean of Achonry; 516 b.
 Sir John, Chief Justice of Common Pleas, commission to; 128 a.
 John, speeches of; 163 a, 169 a.
 Katherine, wife of John, of Bristol, will of; 334 b.
 Owen, licence farmer, petitions of; 505 a, 511 a.
 — answer to; 545 b.
 Sir William; 610 b.
 Vaux:
 Lord, his estate (1644); 4 b.
 Sir Theodore, petition of; 133 b.
 Vauxhall, manor of; 322 b.
 Vavasour, —, of the Trinity House; 258 a.
 Veagleman:
 Robert, clerk of the Trinity House; 257 a.
 — letters of; 257 b–259 a, passim.
 — letter to; 258 a.
 Veer:
 George, Knt., buried at Earls Colne, will of; 334 b.
 Matilda de, Countess of Oxford, her will; 338 a.
 Vegelin, M., letter of; 36 a.
 Vehlen, Comte, letter of; 40 a.
 Veile, Sir John, paymaster, letters to; 11 b.
 Velasco, Antonio de, letter of; 213 b.
 Veldon, Thomas; 499 b.
 Velen, Comte de, letter of; 37 b.
 Velers, Sir James, commission to; 413 a.
 Vellen, Comte, letter of; 36 a.
 Velnirtoft, William de, of Leicester; 410 b.
 Ven, Lieut. Richard; 592 a.
 Venab', Wm. de; 356 a.
 Venables:
 —, at Ballimore; 615 a, 618 a.
 Col., in Ireland; 599 a.
 Sir Hugh de; 358 b.
 Tho., letter of; 375 b.
 William, of Kinderton, and citizens of Chester; 371 a.
 Wm. de; 537 a.
 Venice; 16 b, 23 a, 134 b, 283 a.
 letters dated at; 32 b, 47 b.
 the great canal in; 63 a.
 news-letters from (1691); 282 a.
 Venour, John de, grant to; 343 b.
 Ventris, Charles, his estate; 5 b.
 Ventry, Charles; 3 a.
 Venzat, Comte de, letter of; 39 a.
 Verceil, letter dated at; 552 b.
 Verd', Verdum, Wm. de; 356 a, 356 b.
 Verdon, Nicholas, son of John de, of Draycote; 423 a.
 Vere:
 Lord, Baron of Tilbury, petition to; 244 b.
 Sir Francis, challenge to; 585 a.
 Sir Horace, letter to; 214 b.
 Hugh de, Earl of Oxford; 632 b, 635 a.
 Maud de, Countess of Oxford; 262 b.

- Vergseen, the Audience, commissioner; 95 a.
 Verneuil, Sir J. Fastolf at; 268 a.
 Verney :
 Lord, sale of his books (1783); 234 a.
 Lady Diana, Act for establishing marriage agreements of; 137 b.
 Sir Grevill, Act for establishing marriage agreements of; ib.
 Sir Harry, Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
 Richard; 137 b.
 — letters of; 379 a, 382 b.
 Vernon :
 Mr., letters of; 31 b, 32 a.
 — of the Prize Office; 44 a.
 —; 285 b.
 Mr. Secretary; 393 a.
 — letter of; ib.
 Admiral; 59 b.
 Capt.; 617 a.
 — of Clontarf; 531 b.
 Edoárd, fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford; 390 b.
 George; 152 a.
 Grace, petition of; 119 a.
 James, letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 40 b.
 Secretary, James, letters of; 392 b.
 John, letter of; 290 a.
 Richard de; 356 b.
 Warin de; 357 a.
 Vernons, the, of Haslington; 152 a.
 Venum, Warin de; 356 a, 356 b.
 Verrells, John; 126 a.
 Verrue, siege of; 21 b.
 Vers de Societé, 18th century; 63 b.
 Versailles; 285 a.
 letter dated at; 558 a.
 Louis XV. at; 62 b.
 Vertsauf, Richard, bailiff of Nottingham; 415 b.
 Vertsaue, Richard, bailiff of Nottingham; 414 a.
 Verveins; 217 b.
 Vesci, Vesey, Vesey :
 —; 192 b.
 Viscount de, Thomas; 190 a, note.
 Lady de; 265 a.
 Mr., of Lucan; 491 a.
 Vetch, Col., governor of Annapolis; 50 b.
 Vetry, Francis, document signed by; 4 a.
 Vggan. See Uggan.
 Vickers or Wickers, W., senator; 12 b.
 Victim, the, a tragedy; 50 b.
 Victor Amadé, Duke of Savoy (?), letter of; 27 a.
 Victor Amadeus, King, letter of (1636); 552 b.
 Victoria, Ferdinand de, king's physician; 234 b.
 Victory, the ship; 239 a.
 Vienna; 33 b.
 letters dated at, 14 a, 16 b, 17 b, 19 a, et seq., 24 b, 31 a, 36 a, 44 a; 47 b, 57 b, 484 b.
 Court of; 32 b, 33 b.
 Council of; 352 a, 352 b.
 Vigo; 25 b.
 coinage of gold and silver taken at; 80 a, 86 a.
 Vigers, U.; 581 b.
 Vilein, Robert the, his daughter Silverun; 408 b.
 Villafranca, letters dated at; 218 a.
 Villa Hermosa, Duke de; 212 b.
 Villa Mediana, Count de, commissioner; 95 a.
 Villa Viçosa; 25 b.
 Willars :
 Marshal, or Comte de; 20 a, 26 b, 44 a.
 — letters of; 37 b, 38 a, 39 a, 39 b, 40 b.
 — a prisoner; 17 b.
 — Duke of Marlborough's victory over (1711); 40 a.
 Villegas, M. de, letter of; 36 a.
 Villelongue, Comte de, letter of; 37 b.
 Villeroy :
 the French king's secretary; 283 b.
 Aligre, document signed by; 553 a.
 Marshal de, letter of (1706); 31 b.
 M. de; 34 a.
 Villers, Villiers :
 La baronne douairière de (1708), letter of; 36 a.
 Capt. de, letter of; 37 b.
 M. de, letters of; 39 a.
 Major, in Ireland; 600 a.
 — a prisoner; 600 b.
 Mr. de, his death; 564 b.
 Mrs., letter of; 57 a.
 Dame Barbary, widow, petition of; x., 103 b.
 Blase, of Leicester; 430 b.
 Edward, of the Mint; 66 a.
 — master of Duke of York's robes; 279 a.
 — commission to; 280 a.
 Sir Edward, his petition, &c. concerning Tynemouth lights; 257 b, 258 a, 258 b, 259 a.
 Lady Frances, warrants to pay; 280 b, 281 a.
 Sir George, his soldiers; 439 b.
 Major John; 595 b.
 Villet, Madam de; 571 a.
 Villette, Sr. de, daughter of Lady Bolingbroke, letters of; 567 b.
 Villeurs, Sir George, at Tilbury camp; 432 b.
 Vimar, M., letter of; 36 a.
 Vimare, M. de, letter of; 37 b.
 Vimodia, camp at, letter dated at; 58 a.
 Vinbody, letter dated at; 25 a.
 Vincent :
 pedigrees by; 586 b, note.
 John, of North Tudenham, will of; 333
 Capt. W., letter of; 295 b.
 Will., senr., of Walsingham, will of; 334 a.
 William, prisoner, petition of; 527 a.
 — defendant; 529 b.
 — prisoner; 545 b.
 Vinegar, use of; 232 b.
 Vinell, Alwyn de; 639 a.
 Viner, Mr., minister of Barton; 4 a.
 "Vineyard," the, case of, taken by Spain; 213 a, 213 b, 214 a.
 Vinram, John, professor of theology; 306 b.
 Vinter, George; 124 b.
 Vintners of London, master and others of Company of, petition of; 126 b.
 Violame, M. de, a prisoner; 17 b.
 Virgate of land; 322 b.
 Virgil, MS. copy of his Eclogues, &c.; 100 b.
 Virgilius, a foreigner, rector of Meopham; 330 b.
 Virginia; 158 b.
 governor of; 46 b, 47 a.
 papers relating to; 47 b.
 adventure for; 237 a. plan for subjecting colony of to English Government (1781); 289 a.
 Company, governors of, letter of; 435 b.
 — lottery for the settlement of; ib.
 Virenia (Virginia?); 158 b.
 Vitriol, elixir of, its use; 232 b.
 Vivares, les; 36 b.
 Viviano, painting by; 100 b.
 Vlaerding; 554 b.
 Vniet, Martin, son of; 300 b.
 Volga, the river; 23 a.
 Volmar, Baron de, letters of (1706); 32 a.
 Voltaire, his "General History"; 489 a.
 Vooght :
 Col., letters of; 31 b.
 Vicomte de, letters of (1706); 31 b, 36 a.
 Voragine, Jacobus de; 583 a.
 Vos, M. Jodours de, letter of; 39 a.
 Vosper, James; 128 a.
 Vowell, John; 584 a.
 Vrqhairt; 309 b.
 Vrwel; 306 b, 307 b.
 Vryberge :
 M., States envoy; 34 a.
 letters of; 31 b, 32 b, 36 a, 37 a.
 Vsher, Captain John; 595 a.
 Vuiros, Bernardo, councillor; 58 a.
 Vuldre, Gervis; 386 b.
 Vulson, M., letter of; 40 a.
 Vyell, Ensign Henry; 592 b.
 Vyner :
 Sir Robert; 131 a, 131 b, 155 a, 155 b, 158 b.
 — petition, &c. of; 163 b.
 Sir Thomas, payment to; 95 a.
 Vynnyng, John, alias Dyer, of Wincanton (Vyncalton), will of; 332 b.
 Vyse, Sir Richard, parson of Fallay; 266 a.

W.

- Waad, Sir W. (1594), letter of; 376 a.
 Wackerbart, Comte, letters of; 39 b, 40 b.
 Wadding, Luke; 583 a, 614 a.
 Waddy, Margaret, petition of; 547 a.
 Wade :
 Dame Anne, deceased; 161 a.
 Brigadier, instructions to; 47 a.
 Major-General, instructions to; 50 b.
 General; 312 a.
 Marshal; 569 a.
 Richard, affidavit of; 136 b.
 Will., of Tewkesbury, will of; 335 a.
 Sir William, lieutenant of the Tower; 87 a, 88 a.
 — letter of; 88 b.
 — letter to; ib.
 Wadhurst; 333 a.
 Wadloe, Francis, petition of; 244 b.

Wadlow, John, affidavit of; 109 a.
 Wadyngton, William, fishmonger, London, will of; 333 a.
 Wafer, Simon; 609 b.
 Wagenheim, Colonel, letter of; 294 a.
 Wager :
 Admiral, his capture of galleons; 33 a.
 Sir Charles; 315 a.
 Wages; 377 b.
 Waghorn, Mr.; 63 a.
 Wagstaff, Thomas, of Yarmouth, about to go on pilgrimage to St. Jamys of Gales, will of; 334 b.
 Wagstaffe, Mr.; 493 a.
 Waish :
 Col. James, petition of; 500 a, 509 b.
 John and Margaret, petition of; 514 b.
 Wainfleet, a writer on medicine; 228 a.
 Wainsford, John, commissioner; 275 a.
 Waite :
 Thomas, letters of; 195 b, 200 b.
 — commissioner; 275 a.
 "Waites," for Chester, order; 364 a.
 Waith, Mr., paymaster of Navy; 129 b, 130 a, 130 b.
 Waityng, Thomas, Fellow of the College of Plasshy, will of; 333 a.
 Wake :
 G., letter of; 36 a.
 George, Dr. of Laws, petition, &c. of; 104 a.
 Isaac, paper by; 585 a.
 William, Archbishop, letter of; 100 b.
 Wakefield, Henry; 342 a.
 Wakefield; 637 a.
 Walton Hall, near; xiii., 636 a.
 Wakefield v. Marquis of Huntley; 170 b.
 Wakeham, Richard, disbanded Ensign; 529 a.
 Wakelyn, William, of Bewers; 209 b.
 Walberswicke haven; 239 a, 245 a.
 Walchtoun; 305 b.
 Walcot, Mr., his invention; 260 a.
 Walcott, Thomas, prisoner, petition of; 541 b.
 Waldegrave :
 Lord (1756); 222 b.
 — to be Head of the Treasury (1757); 223 b, 224 a.
 — sale of Duchess of Portsmouth's annuity to; 632 a.
 Lady, letter of; 294 b.
 — her assignment to Queen Anne's Bounty; 632 a.
 Walden, co. Essex; 281 b, 282 a, 332 a. document dated at; 416 a, 416 b.
 abbot of, survey and extent of manors of; 277 a, 277 b. account book of wardens of church of; xiii., 277 a, 277 b. rental of manor of; 284 a.
 Walding, Thomas, petition of; 518 b.
 Waldingfield; 333 b, 335 b.
 Waldrom, Lieut. John; 594 b.
 Wale, Thomas; 626 b.
 Waledone, abbot of; 633 a.
 Walef, Baron de, letters of; 36 a, 39 a, 40 a.
 Walemond, Richard de, gift by; 1 b.
 Walensis, Robert and Eustace; 270 b.
 Wales :
 coal of, exchanged for Irish cattle; 120 a. revolted against Charles I.; 212 b. marches of, council for, warrant, &c. of; 374 a. dioceses of, Abp. Peckham's visitation of; 320 a.
 — their relations with the see of Canterbury; 320 b.
 Prince of, Arthur, son of Henry VII.; 402 b.
 — afterwards Charles I., letters of and to concerning his match with the Infanta; 215 b, 216 a, 216 b.
 — money furnished to; 215 b.
 — afterwards Charles II., letter to; 211 b.
 — letter of (1702); 57 b.
 — letters of; 54 a.
 — afterwards Geo. II., letter to; 15 b.
 — (1716); 84 a.
 — warrant by; 85 a.
 — Frederick, his levée (1756); 222 b.
 — — and Princess; 222 b.
 — — his proposed allowance; 566 a.
 — — George II. and; 566 b, 568 a.
 — — his death, debts, &c.; 570 b, 572 a.
 — answer of Treves, the money lender, to; 288 b.
 Princess Dowager of, and her children (1751); 284 a, 284 b.
 Waleys, Stephen le, witness; 270 b.
 Walford, Mr., of the Exeter Mint; 74 b.
 Walgrave, Lord, death of (1763); 285 b.
 Walker :
 v. Sir John Lambe; 170 b.
 Mr., town clerk of Chester; 362 b.
 Cornet Abra.; 597 a.
 Edward, Garter King of Arms, roll of peers by (1666-1667); 106 b, 113 b.
 — — roll of peers by; 139 a.
 — of Ramridge; 631 b.
 John; 174 a.
 — petition of; 85 a.
 Thomas, letter to; 13 b.

Walker—cont.
 Randell, information of; 383 b.
 Thomas; 382 b.
 Sir Walter, commission to; 280 b.
 Will., of Newland, Heref. dioc., will of; 334 b.
 Walkhampton, co. Devon; 637 a.
 Walkin, Mr.; 39 a.
 Walkins, Charles, quartermaster; 597 a.
 Wall :
 Capt., his company; 530 b.
 Colonel, his treachery; 612 b.
 Mr., letter of; 284 a.
 James, seaman, petition of; 509 a.
 Captain Nicholas; 595 a.
 Peter, seaman, petition of; 509 a.
 Robert, son of John; 377 a.
 Ulick, petition of; 500 a.
 — his father Edward; ib.
 — petition of; 515 b.
 — his father Edward, of Ballinikill; ib.
 Wm., treasurer of Chester; 370 a.
 Wallace, James; 583 b.
 Wallenstein, his character, &c.; 584 b.
 Waller :
 Mr., verses by; 217 b.
 Sir Hardress; 508 b.
 — charges against; 582 a.
 — in Kerry; 601 b.
 Sir W.; 5 b.
 Sir William (1684); 30 b.
 — letters of; 1 a, 3 b.
 Wallsgrove, alias Flytt, John, of Worcester; 638 b.
 Walley, Wally :
 Arthur; 365 b.
 Charles, alderman of Chester, commission to; 361 b.
 — mayor of Chester; 365 b.
 Ralph, of Chester; 361 b.
 Richard; 139 b.
 Robert, petition of; 139 b.
 Wallingford; 287 a.
 corporation, MSS. of; xxiv.
 election (1754); 285 a.
 Lady (1714) letter of; 57 a.
 Wallington; 334 a.
 deeds for; 262 b.
 Wallis :
 Dr., decypherer; 50 b.
 Jacob, petition of; 71 b.
 John, petition of; 126 a.
 — payment to; 90 a.
 Luke; 482 a.
 Marshal; 27 b.
 Ralph, petition of; 503 b.
 — petition of; 543 b.
 Wallop, Walloppe :
 Sir Henry; 61 a, 377 b.
 — Treasurer-at-War in Ireland; 378 b, 397 a.
 — Her Majesty's Treasurer-at the Wars (1597); 378 b.
 — letter to; 379 b.
 — letters to his deputy at Chester, and others; 379 a.
 J., warrant by; 76 b.
 Walmsley :
 Thomas, serjeant-at-law, grant to; 272 a.
 — agreements by; 272 b.
 — Queen's justice; 273 a.
 Walne, alias Stanlay, W., transcriber; 420 a.
 Walney; 635 b.
 Walpole; 333 b.
 —, in a bad way (1715); 59 a.
 Lieut.-Col., a Scotchman; 34 a.
 Mr., letter of (1708); 35 b.
 — (1709); 37 a.
 — (1710); 38 a.
 — at Fontainebleau (1728); 62 a.
 — (1729); 62 b.
 Mrs., of Houghton; 25 b.
 Lady, her conduct at Lucca (1736); 570 b.
 — at Pisa; ib.
 Sir Edward; 219 b.
 Horace; 315 a.
 Ralph, Bishop of Norwich; 345 a.
 R., letter of; 40 a.
 Sir Robert; 26 a, 315 a.
 — letter of (1714); 57 a.
 — documents signed by; 70 b, 85 a, 85 b.
 — warrant by; 79 a.
 — "address" to; 63 b.
 — his excise scheme, foreign policy, &c.; 18 a.
 — his popularity; 18 b.
 — the Duchess of Marlborough and; 18 a.
 — Creed referring to; 25 b.
 — his ministry; 311 a.
 — his administration; 444 b.
 — portrait of; 318 a.
 Robert, letter of; 290 b.
 Will., of Thurlow St. Peter's, will of; 333 a.

- Walsall, Francis, D.D., chaplain, his sequestration; 4 a, 4 b.
- Walsh:
- Mr.; 19 a.
 - his History of the Irish Remonstrance; 474 a.
 - Father, his account of the Irish rebellion; 575 a.
 - Edmond, lands held by; 520 b.
 - Lieut. Edmond; 594 a.
 - George; 163 b.
 - answer of; 164 a.
 - quartermaster; 597 a.
 - Col. Hoyle; 543 b.
 - Peter, letters to; 582 b.
 - apostate friar, &c.; 607 b, 608 b, 609 b, 610 a, 612 b, 613 a.
 - Robert, petition of; 516 a.
 - Ensign Robert; 594 b.
- Walshman, Dr.; 233 b.
- Walshingham; 333 b, 334 a.
- Sir Francis, letters of; 227 b, 374 a, 396 a, 432 a, 583 b.
 - letters to; 396 b, 430 b.
 - farmer of customs at Chester; 360 b.
- Walter:
- meaning of the name; 587 a.
 - v. Walter (1641); 170 b.
 - John, of Bristol, will of; 335 b.
 - Richard, parson of Bramshott; 266 a.
 - Theobald, Herveus and Hubert; 586 a, 587 b.
 - W. G., letter of; 291 a.
- Walters, Mr., Admiralty solicitor; 46 b.
- Waltham; 347 b.
- abbot of; 345 a, 350 b, 632 b.
 - apostolic letters to; 346 a.
 - Cross, poor house at; 432 b.
 - John; 331 a.
 - Roger de, canon of St. Paul's; 633 a, 633 b.
 - Thos.; 367 b.
- Walton; 333 b.
- East; ib.
 - Hall, near Wakefield, MSS. at; xiii., 636 a.
 - dioc. of Norwich; 335 b.
 - priory; 264 b.
 - Bryan, clerk; 635 a.
 - Robert, draper, payment to; 94 b.
- Walworth:
- land in; 319 a.
 - manor of; 322 b, 328 a.
- Wandesford:
- Ensign Richard; 594 a.
 - Thomas, petition of; 551 a.
 - Wm.; 143 a.
 - answer of; ib.
- Wandlesworth, Ralph de, cordwainer; 633 a.
- Wangenheim, Colonel, letter of; 294 b.
- Wangford; 334 a.
- Wanney, Sir Edmund; 358 b.
- Wanor, Richard, of Barking, will of; 332 a.
- Want, Norman le, gift by; 323 a.
- Wapley; 335 a.
- Wapping; 158 a, 233 b, 238 b, 239 a, 239 b, 241 b, 250 a, 253 a.
- Warburton:
- Bishop, on Voltaire; 489 a.
 - Mr.; 55 b.
 - P., counsellor; 383 a.
 - Peter, letter of; 375 a.
 - R. E. Egerton, Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
 - Serjeant, recorder of Chester, 377 b.
 - William, of Leicester; 419 a, 439 b.
- Warcop, Edmond; 278 a.
- Ward de Birmingham, Lord, Edward (1670), writ of summons to; 147 a.
- Ward, Warde:
- Captain Arthur; 593 a.
 - Sir Christopher; 271 a.
 - George, bearward, payment to; 427 b.
 - Capt. John, of Pontefract; 274 b.
 - John; 151 b.
 - alderman and grocer, of London, will of; 333 a.
 - Leonard, of Pontefract; 274 a, 275 b.
 - Lidia; 160 b.
 - Margaret, of Beccles, will of; 334 a.
 - Peter, lands held by; 520 a.
 - Richard, letter of; 417 b.
 - Robt., certificate by; 506 a.
 - Lieut.-Col. Swain, letter of; 294 b.
 - Thomas, letter of; 434 b.
 - of Wymondeswold; 414 a.
 - William, priest, of Itringham, will of; 334 a.
- Wardboyes, co. Huntingdon, manor, Act for settling boundary of; 153 b.
- Wardboyes Fen, co. Huntingdon; 153 b.
- Warden, William, lands held by; 520 b.
- Wardlaw, Sir Henry of, of Tory, witness; 305 b.
- Wardlow, Capt., and Spurn lights; 258 a.
- Wardour, Wm., clerk of the Polls; 128 a.
- Wards, court of; 217 b.
- Ware:
- letter dated at; 210 a.
- Mr.; 398 a.
- cr Warre, Lieut.-Col. Charles, letters of; 291 a, 293 b, 294 a.
- Sir James, his works; 450 a, 455 a, 586 a.
- his niece's petition; 501 b, 520 a.
 - auditor-general; 507 a, 512 a, 550 b.
 - certificate of; 509 b.
- James; 398 a.
- letter to; ib.
- John, of Castletown, petition of his orphans; 519 b.
- alleged murder of; ib.
- Warect, note on; 322 a.
- Wareham river; 208 b.
- Warehorn; 324 a.
- Warewic, Radulf de; 341 a.
- Warfield, Berks, manor; 284 a.
- Wargrave:
- Berks; 283 b.
 - Momburyebarnes; 283 b.
- Warham:
- William, afterwards Abp. of Canterbury, lease to; 264 a.
 - his election; 331 b.
- Warin, John, alderman of Leicester; 405 a.
- Warkeworth, John, master of St. Peter's, Cambridge, will of; 332 b.
- Warlee, Griffin and William of; 405 b.
- Warley, William, Dean of St. Paul's; 634 b.
- Warmfield, vicar of; 637 a.
- Warmingham, John, of Chester; 361 b.
- Warmwell, Mr., prophecy by; 209 a.
- Warnebold and Richenda, Robert son of; 300 b.
- Warneford:
- Edward, son of Oliver; 376 b.
 - John, son of Elizabeth; 376 a.
 - examination, &c. of; 397 a.
- Warner:
- Armiger, payment to; 95 a.
 - Edmond, affidavit of; 109 b.
 - Dr. Ferdinando; 451 b.
 - his history of Ireland; 469 a, 470 b, 474 a, 475 a, 475 b, 476 b, 484 a, 574 a.
 - his treatment by Dr. Smollett, &c.; 478 a.
 - James, deceased; 148 b.
 - John, gent.; 234 a.
 - jun., armourer, of London, will of; 333 a.
 - Thomas; 268 a.
- Warr, Edward, his lands in Limerick; 498 b.
- Warren:
- Earl of (1312), Piers Gaveston and; 354 a.
 - (1314), letter to; 352 b.
 - Major, his troop; 529 a.
 - Mr., of St. Michael's, Wood St.; 50 a.
 - C., opinion of; 233 b.
 - Lieut. Ed., in Wexford; 601 a.
 - Elizabeth, petition of; 533 a.
 - Garret, trooper; 541 b.
 - Henry, petition of, &c.; 540 b, 543 b.
 - replication of; 547 b.
 - John, answer to his petition, &c.; 518 b, 519 a.
 - Col. John, petition of; 510 a.
 - Ensign John; 521 a.
 - William de, witness; 270 a.
- Wars of England, Civil, an epitome of, a manuscript entitled; 233 b.
- Warer, priory of, co. York; 159 b, 160 a.
- Warwick; 3 b, 332 a, 422 b, 434 a.
- letters dated at; 219 b, 379 a, 382 b.
 - county; 208 b, 210 a, 379 a.
 - deeds relating to; 265 b.
- Warwick:
- Earl of (1250), J. de Plesssetis; 265 b.
 - (15th century), bonds by; 267 b.
 - letter of (1586); 431 b.
 - (1645); 8 a.
 - Nicholas de; 170 a.
 - Sir Philip; 131 b.
- Warsaw; 23 a.
- Wartenberg, Count, letters of (1705, &c.); 31 b, 32 b, 36 b, 38 a.
- Wartensleben, Comte, letter of; 36 b.
- Wartenslein, Count, letters of (1707); 32 b.
- Warter, J., letters of; 46 a.
- Warters, Anthony, vicar of Bromham; 4 b.
- Washer:
- Richard; 381 a.
 - Thomas; ib.
- Washington:
- General, letters of; 289 a.
 - letters to; ib.
 - George; 296 b.
 - Laur., direction of court signed by; 283 b.
- Washwhite:
- John; 155 b, 156 a, 156 b.
 - information of; 159 a.
 - petitions of; ib.

- Wassaner, Vice-Admiral ; 34 b.
Wassend, co. York ; 273 a.
Wastull, Wm. de, v. Matthew del Exchequer (18 Edw. I.) ; 170 a.
Watch-meal tax :
 of Dumbarton ; 308 b.
 of Kilpatrick ; 310 a. account of ; ib.
Wateber, Andrea de, witness ; 408 a.
Water, John att, of Wells, will of ; 332 b.
Water, sea, experiments in distillation of ; 232 b.
Watere, Gamaliel atte, his widow Cecilia ; 343 b.
Waterford ; 138 a, 450 b, 495 b, 496 b, 535 b, 538 a, 539 b, 542 a, 580 a, 611 b, 624 a.
 siege of ; 580 a.
 port of ; 252 a, 254 a.
 citizens of ; 582 a.
 corporation, MSS. of ; xxiv.
 congregation ; 609 b.
 houses in ; 501 a.
 licences to trade in ; 501 a, 503 b.
 sheriff of, petition of ; 501 b.
 county, the "depositions" concerning ; 576 a.
Waterhouse :
 Thomas, alderman (of Dublin?), petitions of ; 521 b, 529 a.
 — replication of ; 541 b.
Waterman, Wilke, of Leicester ; 404 b.
Waters :
 et al. v. Powell ; 170 b.
 Benjamin, Blue Coat boy ; 256 a.
Waterton, Charles, the naturalist, his home ; 636 a.
Watford ; 335 b.
Watirman, Gamil le, of Leicester ; 405 b.
Watkin, Henry, chaplain of Willesthorp ; 271 a.
Watkins, Mr., of the Signal Office ; 255 b.
Watlington, Gilbert ; 282 a.
Watson :
 — ; 494 a.
 captain in James II.'s army ; ib.
 Lord (1666) ; 104 a.
 Dr., chaplain to Duke of York (1660) ; 278 b.
 Lieut. John ; 594 b.
 John, commissioner ; 572 b, 573 b.
 Mrs. M., letter of ; 290 b.
 Richard, of Amphill, delinquent ; 5 a.
 Robert, petition and apology of ; 383 b.
 — son of Richard ; 5 a.
 Valentine, letter of ; 247 b.
 William ; 637 a.
 — M.D., tract by ; 233 a.
Watsonis, Robertus filius ; 316 b.
Wattenille, Anne de, letter of ; 37 b.
Watts, Wattes :
 Edmund, clerk, of Bridgham, will of ; 333 b.
 George, witness ; 66 a.
 Henry ; 164 b.
 John, arrest of ; 431 b.
 Thomas, of Beauchamp Roding, will of ; 332 b.
 William, letters of ; 290 b, 294 b.
Watur, John, skinner, of Norwich, will of ; 334 a.
Wauchop, Wauchope :
 A., Esq., MSS. of ; xxii.
 Francis, Esq., prisoner ; 46 a.
 — letters of ; 46 a, 47 a.
Wauesur, John and William le, witnesses ; 270 b.
Waugh, Dr. ; 27 a.
Wayfer :
 John, of Sherston ; 639 a.
 Thomas ; ib.
Wayhous, Reginald, of Leicester ; 411 a.
Waynflete : hospital for lepers at ; 264 b. school at ; 264 b.
 Erlarkare of ; 264 b.
 Bishop, letters to ; 264 b, 268 b.
 — executor ; 263 a.
 — grant by ; 263 a.
 — purchase by ; 263 b.
 — indenture by ; 266 a.
 — executor of Lord Cromwell ; 267 b.
 — petition to ; 268 b.
Wayte :
 Nicholas, his corrody ; 339 b.
 Robert, petition of ; 153 a.
Weald, the, Kent ; 325 b.
Weaver, the river, Bill touching ; 396 a.
Weavers ; 364 a.
Webb :
 —, secretary to the Duke of Lennox ; 246 a.
 Major-General ; 33 b.
 — letter of ; 36 a.
 John, alderman of Bristol, letter of ; 379 b.
 Rev. Thomas, MSS. of ; xxii.
 William, under-sheriff ; 2 b.
Webbey, Agnes, wife of Will., Pewterer, of London, will of ; 332 b.
Webster :
 George, letters of ; 289 b, 294 a, 294 b, 295 b.
 John le ; 367 b.
 John, Esq., MSS. of ; xxii.
 Symon le ; 367 b.
Weddall, John, rector of St. Andrew's ; 306 a.
Weddel, Mr., his claim on the Treasury ; 71 b.
Weddell, Andrew, letter of ; 291 a.
Wedderburn :
 epithet by ; 206 a.
 Anne, letters of ; 39 a, 40 a.
Wedmore ; 335 a.
Wee, Wey, or le Wee, church and rector oi ; 626 a, 626 b, 627 a, 630 a.
Weede, Everard de, States deputy ; 12 a.
Weekes :
 Col. ; 153 a.
 Blanche, petition of ; 519 b.
Weir, Daniel ; 289 a.
Weiss, M., letter of ; 36 a.
Welby, Mr. ; 121 b.
Weld :
 Lady, v. Archbp. of Canterbury ; 170 b.
 Humphrey ; 228 b.
 Sir John, Act touching ; 118 a, 121 b.
Welderen, M., letter of ; 37 b.
Weldon :
 Sir Anthony, tract by ; 60 b.
 Captain Arthur ; 594 a.
 George ; 123 b.
 — petition of ; 123 a.
 — answer of ; 123 b.
 Mr. Kitt, of Dublin ; 471 b.
 Lieut. Richard ; 594 a.
 Lieut. Walter ; 594 b.
 William, of Athy ; 510 b.
Welham, Walter de, of Leicester ; 421 a.
Welle, Isabella de, Lady de Vesey ; 265 a.
Wellington, Welynton, Thomas, of Ewelme ; 627 b, 628 a.
Wellmotts, John, trooper ; 523 b.
Wells ; 332 b, 333 b, 334 b, 335 b. election at ; 219 b, 220 a.
 seal of ; 639 a.
 market ; ib.
 archdeacon of (1 John) ; 404 b.
 Bishop's registry of ; xxiv.
 corporation, MSS. of ; ib.
 Dean and Chapter of, MSS. of ; ib.
 vicars choral of, MSS. of ; ib.
 Bishop Bubwith's almshouses at, report on MSS. of ; 638 b.
 by-the-Sea ; 334 a.
 Lieut. Edmund, letters of ; 290 b.
Wels, Comte, letter of ; 39 a.
Welsh :
 John, information of ; 392 b.
 Oliver, marshal of Dublin ; 538 a.
 Capt. Thos., letters of ; 289 b, 294 a, 294 b.
 William ; 120 a.
Welsh rabbits, reference to ; 567 a.
Welsted, Mr., letter to ; 24 a.
Welz, Count de, letters of (1705) ; 31 b.
Welymet, Robert, of Lavenham, will of ; 335 b.
Wemes :
 Lord of, Michael, witness ; 305 a.
 David of, witness ; ib.
 Michael of, witness ; ib.
Wemyss :
 Major, letters of ; 288 b, 289 a.
 — address to ; 289 a.
 R. G. E., MSS. of ; xxii.
Wendover, letter dated at ; 49 b.
Wenhaston ; 333 b.
Wentwage, Walter, treasurer ; 93 a.
Wentworth :
 Viscount (1636), Thomas, instructions to ; 209 b.
 — (1636), letters of ; 211 a, 211 b.
 Lord, Thomas, son of Lord Cleveland (1644) ; 3 a, 4 a, 6 a, 7 a.
 Lady, Henrietta Maria ; 121 b.
 — Philadelphia, petition, &c., of ; 121 b.
 Davey, order signed by ; 275 a.
 Henry, knt., will of ; 333 a.
 Sir John, commission to ; 245 a.
 Peter, of the Admiralty ; 247 b.
 Sir Peter ; 114 b.
 — questions to be put to ; ib.
 — speech of ; 212 b.
 Sir Thomas, commissioner ; 275 a.
Weodon, in honor of Leicester ; 411 a.
Werburton, Richard de ; 367 b.
Werlen :
 Robert ; 278 a.
 Major-General Robert ; 361 b.
Wermondsford, Essex ; 334 b.

Wermyncham :

Henry ; 368 b.

— Cicilie, his wife ; ib.

Wern, John, certificate by ; 76 b

Werpat, the ; 636 b.

Wesel, evacuation of ; 285 a.

Wesenham, William ; 268 a.

Wesnam, Thomas, trooper ; 536 b.

West :

Mr., letter of ; 57 a.

a grazier ; 157 a.

Matthew ; 281 b.

Ralph del, bailiff of Nottingham ; 414 a, 415 b.

Thomas, letter of ; 291 a.

Westbroke :

Anne, Abbess of Romsey ; 234 a.

Will., haberdasher, of London, will of ; 332 b.

Westbury, manor ; 630 a.

Westby, Edward, gent., of London, will of ; 383 a.

Westcliff, manor of ; 319 a.

Westclive, parish of ; 350 a.

Westcote :

co. Warwick, deeds relating to ; 265 b.

Lord (1779), inherits Hagley ; 206 a.

Westeley, Jacob, letter of ; 552 a.

Westenhanger ; 324 a.

Westenholme, Sir John ; viii., 135 b.

Westenra, Mr., payment to ; 526 a.

Westerfethy, co. Kincardine, lands of ; 305 a.

Westerham ; 323 b.

church of ; ib.

rector of ; 352 a.

Westerlool, Marquis de, letters of (1706, &c.) ; 32 a, 36 a, 37 b, 40 a, 40 b.

Westermiller, Messrs. ; 32 a.

Westfield, William, abbot of Battle ; 336 a.

Westgate, Kent ; 319 b.

Westhorp :

Suffolk ; 277 b, 629 a.

Milo ; 271 a.

Westlee, manor ; 633 a.

Westleton ; 333 b.

Westmeath ; 603 a.

specification of lands in ; 520 a, 520 b.

James II.'s lands in ; 497 b, 498 a.

plantation in ; 582 a.

losses in, during rebellion (1641) ; 573 a.

governor of ; 604 a.

Earl of (1642) ; 603 b.

— (1648-52) ; 608 b, 612 b, 614 b, 616 a, 617 b.

— governor of Leinster (1650) ; 613 a, 615 a.

— cruelties of his men (1651) ; 618 b.

Westmeston ; 301 a.

Westminster. See London and Westminster.

Westminster, Marquis of, his MSS. ; xxii.

Westmoreland :

Earl of, Charles, writ of summons to (1666) ; 101 a.

— (1670) v. Lord Holles ; ix., 150 b.

— command of body guards taken from (1737) ; 568 a.

— letters of (1748) ; 569 b, et seq.

— (1752) ; 568 a.

Lady, letter of (1714) ; 57 a.

— letters of ; 569 a, et seq.

Westoes, William, of Leicester ; 432 a.

Weston :

Lord, Richard, petition to (1630) ; 244 b.

Mr. ; 149 a.

Mr. ; 286 b.

Benjn., certificate of ; 118 b.

John, of Leicester ; 413 b.

— de, constable of the Tower ; 88 a.

— and Margaret ; 265 a.

Nicholas, of Dublin, petition of ; 516 b.

Sir Richard ; 2 a, 585 a.

Robert, mercer, of Mondon, will of ; 333 a.

Thos. ; 365 b.

Westphalia, circle of ; 32 a.

Westwell, Kent, manor of ; 328 b.

rector of ; ib.

lands in ; 319 a.

park, trespass in ; 345 a.

Westwick, Norwich ; 334 a.

Wetheringsett ; ib.

Wetherley, Sir Thomas, president of the College of Physicians ; 234 b.

Wetton :

Wm., arrest of ; 109 a.

— affidavit of ; 108 b.

Wexford ; 508 b, 611 a, 611 b.

governor of ; 611 b.

gaol of ; 533 a.

garrison ; 529 b.

port of ; 252 a, 254 a.

county, lands in ; 61 a.

— specification of lands in ; 520 b.

— James II.'s lands in ; 497 b.

— specification of Lord Esmond's lands in ; 526 a.

— losses in, during rebellion (1641) ; 573 a.

Wexford county—cont.

— marchings of the army in (1649) ; 600 b, 601 a.

— papers relating to affairs in (1798-9) ; 584 a.

bishop of (1778), titular ; 197 b.

Wexham, James, draper, of Hastings, will of ; 332 b.

Wey, Wee, co. Hants, rector, &c. of ; 626 a, 626 b, 627 a, 630 a.

Weyer :

Thos. ; 156 b.

— deposition of ; 157 b.

Weyhill fair ; 630 a.

Weymes, Capt. Sir Patrick ; 597 a.

Weymouster, charter dated at ; 2 a.

Weymouth ; 209 a, 239 b, 241 b, 509 a.

corporation, MSS. of ; xxiv.

garrison ; 210 b.

Lord (1688) ; 555 b.

— the Thynnes and ; 51 a.

— (1708) ; 52 a.

— (1771) ; 192 b.

— (1778) ; 199 a.

— letter of (1779) ; 200 b.

Weys, Paul, petition of ; 587 a.

Weytrode ; 333 b.

Whacker, Francis ; 137 a.

Whales, farming the killing of ; 240 b.

Whaley, Henry, adventurer ; 99 a.

Wharfs on the Thames, regulations, &c. concerning. *See*Trinity House MSS., report on, passim.

Wharnccliffe, Earl, MSS. of ; xxii.

Wharton :

Duke of, Philip, his wife (1762) ; 472 b.

Lord, Thomas (1709) ; 47 a.

— letter to (1709) ; 47 a.

— Thomas, petition to (1713) ; 67 a.

— his death (1715) ; 59 a.

— the late, ballad on (1715) ; 58 b.

— (1745) ; 571 b.

— letter of ; 211 b.

Capt. ; 132 a.

Humphrey ; 105 a.

Michael, commissioner ; 275 a.

Sir Michael ; 559 a.

P., letters of ; 5 b, 7 b, 8 a, 10 b.

— document signed by ; 2 b.

Philip, son of Sir Thomas ; 64 a.

— Magdalena, widow of ; 65 a.

Sir Thomas, of the Mint ; 64 a.

— his conduct as warden ; 64 b.

— petition of ; 543 a.

— Captain ; 595 a.

— weekly charge of his troop ; 598 a.

Dr. Thomas ; 120 a.

— portrait of ; 232 a.

— examination of ; 232 b.

Whateley, George, juryman ; 89 a.

Wharton :

Ales and Robert ; 383 a.

John, of Leicester ; 423 a.

Wheat, prices of (1252-1262) ; 343 b.

Wheatacreburgh ; 334 a.

Wheate, T., letter of ; 90 a.

Wheeler, Wheler :

Col., letters of ; 36 a, 39 a.

— his company ; 529 a.

Lieut.-Col. ; 594 a.

Col. Charles ; 542 a, 543 b.

Sir Francis, his squadron ; 231 a.

John, of Guildford, will of ; 334 b.

— of Haddenham, Cambs., will of ; 332 a.

— joiner, of London, will of ; 332 b.

Ensign Jonas ; 594 b.

Thomas, of Soke (Winchester), will of ; 332 b.

William ; 639 a.

— petition of ; 516 b.

Wheelwright, Walter the, gift by his son ; 408 b.

Wheston, Leicester ; 413 b.

Whetehill, Adrian, of London, will of ; 335 a.

Whettrett, Simond, of Tydd St. Giles, will of ; 335 b

Whipped for punishment, persons ; 386 a

Whitacre, James, of the Mint ; 67 a.

Whitaker :

Admiral, letters of ; 47 b.

Sir Edwd., letters of ; 39 a.

— in the Mediterranean ; 20 a.

Henry, petitions of ; 147 a.

Laurence, letter of ; 8 b.

Whitbee, Robert, letter to ; 400 a.

Whitbread, Henry, of Cadington ; 7 a.

Whitby :

co. York, decayed piers of ; 241 b.

Roger, late his Majesty's Knt. Harbinger (1670), letter to ; 389 b.

White :

lands set to ; 498 a.

Turton v. ; 161 a.

Mr. Consul (Algiers), letter of ; 287 b.

Col., letters of ; 289 b-292 b, passim.

White—cont.

- Major C. H., letter of; 290 a.
- Lieut. Charles, letter of; 291 a.
- Clement, of Weymouth; 239 b.
- Fr., evidence by; 229 b.
- Frank, commissioner; 275 a.
- recorder of Pontefract; 275 b.
- Lieut. George; 594 a.
- Lieut. Henry, letter of; 295 b.
- Hugh, of Henley-on-Thames, will of; 335 b.
- John; 127 a.
- petition of; ib.
- ; 278 b.
- and Edith, of Connok manor; 625 b.
- Nicholas, collector, co. Longford; 537 b.
- Sir Nicholas; 613 a.
- Philip; 255 b.
- Richard, of Chester; 367 b.
- of Nayland, will of; 332 b.
- Robert; 278 a.
- publisher; 552 b.
- Lieut. Robert; 594 b.
- Samuel, answer of; 161 a.
- T., letter of; 90 a.
- Thomas; 124 b, 125 a.
- answer of; 125 a.
- Capt. Thomas, of the Trinity House; 250 a.
- Sir Thomas, late lord mayor, &c. of London, benefaction made to Chester by; 371 a.
- Walter, soldier in Ireland; 513 a.
- William, petition of; 103 a.
- Whitechapel; 159 b.
- Whitecove, Thomas, of Leicester; 420 a.
- Whitehaven; 562 a.
- Whitehead, Benjamin, letters of; 291 a.
- Whiteing, Mary, petition of; 503 a.
- Whitelocke:
 - B., of the Admiralty; 247 b.
 - letter of; 248 a.
 - commissioner of the Treasury; 94 b.
 - Sir Bulstrode, payments to; ib.
 - Lord, payment to; 95 a.
 - James, justice, commissioner; 630 a.
- Whitfield:
 - Serjeant; 210 b.
 - James; 395 b.
 - Capt. Reynolde, his services and distress; 239 a.
- Whitgreave, F., Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
- Whitham in Selwood; 335 a.
- Whithead, Ensign Arthur; 594 a.
- Whithorne, Margaret, widow, petition of; 119 a.
- Whitla, William, letters of; 290 b, 291 a.
- Whitley:
 - Morgan, commission to; 362 a.
 - Roger, of Chester; 361 b.
 - Col. Roger, mayor of Chester (1693), letter to; 392 a.
 - Thomas, son of Roger, of Chester; 361 b.
 - Will., petitions of; 153 a.
- Whitlock, James, lectures by; 584 a, 585 a.
- Whitmore:
 - Charles, deceased; 122 b, 147 b.
 - Robert of; 371 a.
 - William, petitions of; 122 b, 147 b.
- Whitney, Thomas; 238 a.
- Whitshed:
 - Mr., letters of; 49 a.
 - chief justice, letter of; 58 b.
 - examinations before; 59 a.
 - William, sheriff of Dublin; 540 b.
- Whittaker, Thos.; 392 b.
- Whittaker, fishing at; 213 a.
- Whittharte, John, of Milton, Wilts, will of; 333 a.
- Whittell:
 - John; 364 b.
 - letters of; 384 b, 385 a.
 - letter to; 385 a.
 - certificate signed by; 384 b.
- Whittington, co. Salop; 12 b.
- Whittlesford; 332 a.
- Whittlewood, forest of; 114 b.
- Whitton, Charles, trooper, petition of; 517 a.
- Whitworth:
 - Charles; 35 a.
 - letters of; 16 b, 31 b, 32 a, 35 b, 37 b, 38 a, 39 b.
 - John, letter of; 386 b.
 - letter to; 389 b.
 - certificate signed by; 384 b.
- Whityng:
 - Paul, of Clavering, Essex, will of; 332 a.
 - Robert, will of; 332 b.
- Whood, Mr., a painter; 13 b, 63 b.
- Whormby, John, clerk of the Trinity House; 236 a, 261 a.
- Whytsand; 352 b.
- Wibbrand, Alderman Daniel; 526 a.
- Wibrowe, Lieut. John; 597 a.
- Wickendon, Mr., of Dover; 254 a.
- Wickford; 332 a.
- Wickham; 334 a.
- Barlow, letters of; 36 a, 40 a.
- Bartholomew; 377 a, 377 b.
- petition of; 514 a.
- Wicklow; 174 b, 549 b.
- member for; 502 a.
- castle, garrison at, in 1648; 592 b.
- county, losses in, during rebellion (1641); 573 a.
- Wicksteede, Richard, letter of; 386 b.
- Widdington:
 - co. York; 162 b.
 - Lord (1670); 174 b.
 - Jane, letters of; 39 a.
 - Mary, letters of; ib.
- Widdrington:
 - Lord (1667); 111 a.
 - (1668); 166 a.
 - prisoner (1715); 50 a.
 - letter of (1717); 40 b.
 - Sir Thomas, speaker; 94 b.
 - commissioner of the Treasury; ib.
 - payment to; 95 a.
 - Mrs., letter of; 40 a.
- Widmere manor, suit about; 61 a.
- Widmore, Christopher; 125 b.
- Wigan; 383 b, 399 b.
- document dated at; 399 b.
- Wigg, Thomas and Ann; 4 a.
- Wight, Isle of; 241 b, 250 b, 252 b, 235 a.
- Charles I. in; 553 a.
- petition from; 257 b.
- governor of; 257 b.
- intended camp in; 224 b.
- Wight:
 - Mr.; 59 a.
 - Capt. Andrew, letter of; 292 b.
 - Jo., letter of; 315 a.
- Wightman:
 - Brigadier, letter of; 36 a.
 - James, of Burbadge; 427 b.
- Wigmore Abbey, founded by Hugh, Lord Mortimer, MSS. at; 366 a.
- Wignacourt, M., letter of; 40 a.
- Wigtoft, Thomas, rector of Calstock, will of; 340 a.
- Wigton, document dated at; 351 b.
- Wihon, Alan de, witness; 1 b.
- Wilbraham:
 - G. F., Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
 - Lieut. Richard; 593 a.
 - Thomas, letter to; 382 a.
- Wilburgham family, their claim to the manor of West Farleigh; 329 b.
- Wilby, Robt., tallow-chandler of London, will of; 383 a.
- Wilcke, M. de, letters of; 37 b, 40 a.
- Wilcocke:
 - Thomas, mayor of Chester (1670), letters to; 389 b.
 - certificate touching; 361 b.
- Wilde:
 - Mr., preacher, of Leicester; 429 a.
 - J., lease to; 242 b.
 - Rob., parson of Wrasteling, will of; 334 b.
 - Ensign John; 595 a.
- Wilden, co. Beds; 8 a.
- Wilder, Cornet Mathew; 595 b.
- Willey, Capt. William, of the Trinity House; 254 a.
- Wildman, Richard, of Pontefract; 275 b.
- Wildts, Mons. de; 558 b.
- Wilerval, Comte de, letter of; 40 a.
- Wilkes, Timothy, executor; 257 b.
- Wilkie, David, letters of; 13 b.
- Wilkins:
 - Dr. David, letter to; 100 b.
 - Mr. W., letter of; 36 a.
- Wilkinson:
 - Brian, of Bradford, co. York; 373 a.
 - Gilbert; 388 b.
 - James, bond of; 360 b.
 - Thomas; 377 a.
 - Wm., letter of; 294 a.
- Wilkokes, Richard, of Meresh, lease to; 625 a.
- Wilks, Thomas; 383 a.
- Willes:
 - Mr., Member of Parliament; 225 b.
 - Mrs., MSS. of; xxii.
 - J. or W., resident at Furruckabad, letters of; 288 b, 289 b, 290 a, 290 b, 294 a, 295 b.
- Willesden; 332 b.
- manor; 632 a.
- lease of lands in; 635 b.
- Willesthorp:
 - co. York; 271 a.
 - chaplain of; ib.
- William the Conqueror, brethren of Chester who came with; 370 b.
- William I., charters of; 318 b.

- William II., grant by; 318 b.
 William III.; 284 a.
 letters of; 57 a.
 documents signed by; 12 a.
 warrant by; 86 a.
 his absences from England; 13 a.
 his policy towards France; 18 a. address on his escape (1698); 231 b.
 letters to (1698); 582 b.
 letters referring to; 556 a, 556 b.
 letter to, on deplorable state of France; 560 b.
 his debts; 24 b.
 death and dissection of; 1 a, 24 b.
 his death; 558 a.
 Chas. O'Connor's view of his administration; 446 a.
 William Frederick, Prince (1819), letters of; 287 b.
- Williams:
 Mr., letter of; 39 a.
 Dr., his library; xxii.
 Major; 594 a.
 Sergeant-major, weekly charge of his troop; 597 b.
 David, soldier; 545 b.
 Sir Hanbury, his verses; 63 b.
 Sir Henry, lord of Ramsey manor; 153 b.
 John; 393 b, 595 b.
 — letter of; 292 b.
 — v. Richard Griffith; 377 a.
 — letter of; 392 b.
 — essay on tin by; 92 b.
 Lewis, alderman of Chester; 361 b.
 — petition of his widow Margaret; 515 a.
 Margaret, petition of; 504 a.
 Philip, of Chester; 361 b.
 Powell, of Chester; ib.
 Rice, v. Richard Birkenhead and Peter Starkey, record of proceedings; 371 b.
 Robert, soldier; 527 b, 542 a.
 Thos.; 156 a, 156 b.
 — information of; 157 a.
 W. J., counsel's opinion signed; 388 b.
 William, recorder of Chester; 361 b.
 — letters of; 389 b, 390 b, 391 b.
 letter to; 389 b.
- Williamson:
 A., letter of; 293 a.
 Alex., of Winceby, will of; 335 b.
 Cæsar; 583 a.
 Geo., letter of; 290 b.
 Lieut. H., letter of; 290 a.
 Lieut. Henry, letter of; 294 b.
 J., letter of; 559 a.
 Capt. James, letters of; 294 b.
 John, trooper; 521 b.
 Secretary (Sir Joseph); 391 a.
 — letter of; 390 b.
 — committed to the Tower; 390 b.
 Martin, of Oxford; 266 a.
 Philip, brewer, of St. Olave's, Southwark, will of; 334 b.
 Thos.; 377 a.
 — priest, of Burgh, will of; 333 a.
- Williamston, co. Louth, plundered; 590 b.
- Willis:
 Mr., proposed resident at Florence; 22 a.
 Dr. Thomas, his book; 462 a.
 Thomas, trooper, petitions of; 509 b, 527 a.
- Willoughby, Wylughby; 413 b.
 co. Warwick, deeds relating to; 265 b.
 Lord (1505), Joan, his wife; 266 a.
 — (1642), letter to; 212 a.
 — of Parham, Francis; 6 a, 102 b.
 — Wm. (1667), writ of summons; 109 a.
 —; 585 a.
 Col., his regiment; 533 a.
 —; 594 b.
 Sir Francis; 581 b, 595 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop; 598 a.
 Col. Francis, petition of; 542 a.
 — weekly charge of his troop; 598 a.
 — examination by; 589 a.
 Henry, of Lamley, recognizance of; 432 a.
 Lady Honoria, alleged lunatic; 231 a.
 John de, his heirs; 419 b.
 Ma., of Dublin, petition signed by; 590 a.
 Lady Maude; 263 a.
 — letter of; 264 b.
 Sir Robert, Lord of Grosby; 267 b.
 Robert de, of Leicester; 421 a.
 Wm., petition of; 102 b.
- Willows, Mr., preacher, of Leicester; 429 a.
- Wills:
 General, letter of; 36 a.
 Charles, letters of; 40 b, 90 a.
 Lieut. Thomas; 591 a.
- Wills, testaments, &c.:
 collection of, in Province of Canterbury (1500-1502); xiv., 332 a-335 b.
 of Simon de Bockyng, goldsmith; 633 b.
- Wills, testaments, &c.—cont.
 Thomas Fuller; 262 a.
 Rich. Fode; 262 b.
 Richard Litfote; 265 a.
- Willymot:
 John, of Leicester; 420 a.
 — mortgage by; 423 a.
- Wilme, William, mayor of Chester (1680), letter to; 391 b.
- Wilming, John, gift by; 323 a.
- Wilmington, Lord, letter to (1742); 18 b.
- Wilna, Bishop of; 23 a.
- Wilsby, William, petition of; 521 a.
- Wilshaw, Capt. Francis; 256 b.
- Wilson:
 Mr., letter of; 57 a.
 Major-General, letter of; 40 b.
 Alexander, provost of Edinburgh, his account of the Porteous riots; 310 b, 311 a.
 Andrew, and the Porteous riots; 310 b.
 — his execution, &c.; 311 a.
 Anthony, treasurer of sequestrations of Scotland; 120 a.
 — answer of; 120 a.
 Daniel, action by; 276 a.
 Edward; 380 b.
 alias Durnford, Edward; 381 a.
 Edward, surgeon; 236 b.
 — soldier in Ireland; 513 a.
 G., opinion by; 233 a.
 Henry, bailiff; 146 b.
 — lands held by; 520 b.
 Sir John Maryon, Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
 Capt. Lestock, letter of; 293 b.
 Sir Matthew, Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
 Peter; 480 b.
 Randall, of Chester; 361 b.
 Richard, petition of; 105 a.
 — affidavit of; 105 b.
 — petition of; 525 b.
 Robert, trooper, petition of; 505 a.
 Thomas, soldier; 548 a.
 Wm.; 154 b, 156 b.
 — attestation of; 156 b.
 — sailor; 236 b.
 — mayor of Chester, letter to (1671); 390 a.
 — rental of Chester (1686-87) by; 372 a.
- Wilton:
 in Cleveland, co. York, grant of manor and park of 277 b.
 J., letters of; 290 a, 290 b, 291 a, 292 b, 294 a.
 Ensign Roger; 592 b.
- Wiltshire; 210 a.
 Earl of (13 Edw. IV.), John; 415 b.
 — (Philip and Mary); 94 a.
 — and Ormonde, Thomas; 588 a.
- Wimbitsham; 334 a.
- Wimbledon; 18 a, 18 b, 54 a, 55 a.
 letter dated at; 571 a.
 sold to Lord Bristol; 219 a. estate, the Duchess of Marlborough's; 567 a, 568 a.
 Viscount; 585 a.
- Wimborne; 220 b.
- Wimunde Wold; 404 b.
- Wincanton; 332 b.
- Winceby; 335 b.
- Winch, John, affidavit of; 133 a.
- Wincheap, land in; 319 a.
- Winchelsea; 332 b, 333 a.
 Lord (1670); 138 b.
 — (1754); 225 a.
 —; 566 b.
 — his marriage; 567 a.
 — and Nottingham, letters of; 568 a, et seq.
 — MSS. of; xxii.
- Winchester; 63 a, 150 a, 384 b, 335 a.
 documents dated at; 350 b.
 corporation, MSS. of; xxiv.
 All Hallows; 332 b.
 St. Mary extra Muros; 333 a.
 St. Elizabeth chapel, near; 263 b.
 St. Giles's Hill without; 264 a.
 prior and convent of; 262 b. exempted from archiepiscopal jurisdiction; 346 a. charters relating to; 263 b, 264 a. councils of; 321 a.
 diocese of; 25 b.
 John of; 264 a.
 Bishop of (1194); 263 b.
 — (1200), Godfrey, gift by; 264 b.
 — (1244), Raleigh; 263 b.
 — (1258), bond of; ib.
 — Edward II. to be crowned by; 351 a.
 — his executors; ib.
 — (13 Edw. II.), J.; 633 a.
 — (14 Edw. II.); 168 a, 172 a.
 — (1362), W. de Edindon; 263 b.
 — (1366), Edyndon, nominated Abp.; 338 a.

- Winchester, Bishop of—cont.
 Edyndon, his refusal and death; 338 b.
 (1879), Wykeham, grant by; 262 b.
 (1452), conveyance to; 268 a.
 Waynflete, letters to; 269 a.
 (1447), H., son of John, Duke of Lancaster; 635 b.
 (temp. Hen. VII.), Richard; 331 b.
 (1514), Abp. Warham's remarks on; 336 a.
 (1524), R. Fox; 234 a.
 (1546), Stephen, letter signed by; 373 b.
 (1555), letter of; 426 a.
 (1668); 117 a.
 (1708), Jonat., letter of; 46 b.
 (1711), letter of; 40 a.
- Winchester, Winton:
 Earl of (39 Hen. III.), Quency, witness; 407 a.
 — letter to (1586); 582 a.
 — Quincy, pedigrees of; 366 a.
- Winckel, Col. de, letter of; 37 b.
- Wincott, co. Gloucester; 104 a.
- Windebanke, Secretary Sir Francis; 247 a, 552 b, 584 a.
- Windham:
 Justice (1667); 112 a.
 Mr.; 566 a.
 Major-General, letter of; 17 b.
 Sir W., his case, a libel; 58 b.
 — letter to; 59 a.
- Windischgratz, Comte de, letter of; 557 b.
- Windsor or Windsor Castle; 13 b, 34 b, 222 b, 282 a. documents dated at; 34 b, 41 a, 42 a, 43 b, 52 a, 53 b, 57 b, 347 b, 407 b, 559 a. constable of (1667). See Mordaunt, John, Viscount. chapel of; 7 b.
 organist at; 10 a.
 King Henry's tomb at; 420 b.
 Forest, "the Ryding Forster" and Battelles' Walk or Battels Baylewise; 282 a.
 Park; 18 a, 568 a.
 the works at; 12 b.
 schedule of an election poll taken at (1711); 284 a. constable of, Bulstrode Whitelock; 94 b.
 dean and chapter; 115 a.
 New, document dated from; 284 a.
 — the Guildhall, document dated from; 282 a.
 Lord, his regiment (1715); 59 a.
- Wine, Wines:
 1,600 gallons of, presented to Christ Church, Canterbury; 321 a. duty (310,000*l.*) Bill (1668), petition against; 126 b.
 of Bordeaux; 239 b, 240 a.
 of France, supplied to Canterbury; 350 b, 353 b.
 of Spain and the Levant; 239 a.
 Act for better execution of laws concerning prices of (1667); 111 b.
- Winford, Sarum dioc.; 335 b.
- Wingfield:
 Castle, document dated at; 628 a. hangings, tapestry, &c. from, at Ewelme; 628 b.
 church, Suffolk, cost of repairing; 627 b.
 Richard; 397 a.
- Wingham, Kent:
 church of; 316 a, 328 b.
 division of the great parish of; 327 b.
 college of secular canons at; ib.
 college of; 352 b.
- Winnington:
 Sir Francis, warrant to; 281 a.
 Sir Thomas, Bart., MSS. of; xxii.
- Winram, John, professor at St. Andrews; 304 b.
- Winslowe, T., letter of; 386 b.
- Winter, Wynter:
 Edward; 384 b.
 John, agreement by; 265 a.
 — his will; ib.
 Robert, conspirator; 434 a.
 Samuel, provost of Trin. Coll., Dublin; 583 b.
 W., action against; 259 a.
- Winterbottom, Wynterbothome, Wm., of Chester, mason; 368 a.
- Winterfelde, Marquis or Baron de:
 letters of (1706); 32 a.
 letters of (1708); 36 a.
 letter of (1709); 37 b.
 letters of (1711); 40 a.
- Winteringham, in Lindsey; 324 b.
- Winterton, co. Norfolk: lighthouse, &c. at; 238 a, passim, 245 b, passim, 256 b, 258 a, 261 b.
 manor of; 265 a.
- Wintle, J., letters of; 294 b, 295 a.
- Winton, Sir Symon de, grant by; 264 a.
- Wintour:
 Sir John, Secretary to the Queen-Mother; 124 b.
 — petition of; 124 b.
- Winwood, Sir Ralph; 277 a:
 his account of the marriage of Henry IV. of France; xiii. 283 a.
 letters of; 238 a, 282 b, 283 a.
 letter to; 283 a.
 order concerning Arabella Stuart by; 226 a, 228 b.
- Winwood's State papers; 283 a.
- Wirrall, Eliza, of Dublin, petition signed by; 590 a.
- Wisbeach; 332 a, 377 a, 431 a.
- Wischart: of Pittaro; 298
 John; 301 a.
 James; 302 a.
- Wise:
 Mrs.; 279 a.
 Edward, junr., certificate of; 287 b.
- Wishart, Sir James, of the Trinity House; 260 b.
- Wisman, Edward, seaman, petition of; 509 a.
- Wiston, Sussex, manor; 137 a.
- Withye, Edward; 384 b.
- Witchcraft, cases of; 226 a, 228 b.
- Witchford; 332 b.
- Witehead, Henry, of Carington; 6 a.
- Witham:
 manor; 125 a, 125 b.
 Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell, MSS. of; xxii.
- Wither, H., letter of; 36 a.
- Withers:
 Col., letter of; 39
 Lieut. John; 595 a.
 — Walter; 597 a.
- Withybed, John; 161 b.
- Wittenham, West, deeds concerning; 262 b.
- Wittlesey, Will., Bishop of Rochester and of Worcester; 264 b.
- Wittynge, George, of Shaftesbury, will of; 333 a.
- Woburn Abbey, document dated from; 286 b.
- Wodehill, John; 626 b.
- Wodeton; 323 b.
- Wodeward, John, of London, will of; 335 b.
- Wodhall, John, vice-admiral's commissary general (Chester); 360 b.
- Wodhull, Henry, monk of Abingdon; 342 b.
- Wodsworth, W., letters of; 289 b, 290 a, 290 b, 291 a, 292 b, 294 a.
- Wogan:
 Hugh; 499 b.
 James, trooper; 527 a.
 Katherine, petitions of; 501 a, 505 a, 508 b.
- Wokehole or Wokyhole, co. Somerset, manor of; 639 a.
- Wokingham:
 Berks; 335 b.
 high stewardship of; 283 b, 284 a, 287 b.
- Wolaston; 422 a.
- Wolburne, ceasers of; 9 a.
- Wolcott, Geo., on Coventry committee; 7 b.
- Wolf, John, of Frollesworth; 413 a.
- Wolfe, General, in command against the rebels (1745); 314 b.
- Wolfenbottle; 285 a.
- Wollaston, Richard, master gunner; 94 b.
- Wollastone, William, of Whelamton; 5 a.
- Wolley, Mr., letter of; 228 a.
- Wolbye, Wm.; 151 b.
- Wolsey, Lord, Charles, payment to (1658); 95 a.
- Wolsey:
 Cardinal; 234 b.
 — picture of; 231 b.
 — Cavendish's history of; 585 a.
- Wolsingham, co. Durham; 105 a.
- Wolstenholme:
 John, letter of; 243 a.
 Sir John, letter to; 245 a.
 — his narration concerning fishing; 247 a.
- Wolterton, Robert, clerk of Bodney, will of; 332 a.
- Wolton, Rev. Dr., sermon by; 260 b.
- Wolverhampton; 77 a, 79 a.
 letter dated at; 79 a.
- Wolverston:
 Suffolk; 240 a.
 — Mr.; 512 a.
- Wolves in Ireland, the, scheme for destroying; 501 b, 504 a.
- Wolworth, Richard, of Wickwar; 335 b.
- Wombwell, J., letter of; 290 b.
- Wood:
 —, to be Secretary for Ireland (1769); 191 a. objections against; ib.
 Lieut.-Genl., letters of; 36 a, 37 b.
 Mr.; 286 b.
 Abraham, deputy aulneger; 438 a.
 Sir Andrew, of Largo, admiral; xvii., 304 b, 308 a, 308 b.
 Auditor; 130 a.
 David, of Craig; 301 a.
 Capt. G., letter of; 290 b.
 Sir James, letters of; 36 a, 37 b.
 John, of Fettercairn; 301 a.
 Lieut.-Col. Mark, letters of; 291 a, 292 b, 295 b.

Wood—cont.

- Randall, mayor of Leicester; 425 b.
 Robert, letters to; 285 b, 286 a.
 — affidavit of; 116 b.
 — master of Christ's Hospital; 257 b.
 — of Norwich, will of; 333 b.
 Thomas, brewer, petition of; 507 b.
 Lieut. Valentyne; 594 a.
 Will., priest, of Rampton and Yorkshire, will of; 335 a.
 William, of Wolverhampton, his coinage proposal; xii., 77 a.
 — letter of; 79 a.
 — memorial of; 77 a.
 — petition of; 76 b.
 — his office at Bristol; 79 a.
 — testing of his half-pence; 79 a, 79 b.
- Woodbridge; 333 b, 334 a. beacon at; 258 b, 259 a.
- Woodchester, Monastery of Dominican Friars at; xxiv.
- Woodchurch in Thanet; 340 a.
- Woodcote; 219 b.
- Woodfield, William, trooper; 538 a.
- Woodford:
 Dr., master of Ewelme Hospital; 627 a.
 James, letter of; 431 a.
- Woodhay, documents dated from; 377 a.
- Woodhouse:
 Horatio; 148 a.
 — certificate touching; 143 a.
- Woodland, Thomas, of Newark Hospital; 418 b.
- Woodley and Mannering, case between; 585 a.
- Woodnesborough, prior of Christ Church, Canterbury; 316 b.
- Woodstock; 1 a, 13 b, 40 a. charters dated at; 1 b.
 documents dated at; 265 b, 346 b, 415 b.
 Park; 60 b.
 James I. at; 435 b, 441 b.
 Edmund of, Lord Warden, &c., commission to; 354 a.
 —, carter, payment to; 526 a.
- Woodward:
 Mr.; 282 a.
 Col. Benj., his company at Leicester; 438 b.
 John, payment to; 90 a.
 Richard; 379 a.
 Capt. Richard; 596 b.
 Thomas, payment to; 90 a.
- Wool:
 woolfells, &c., Act for preventing frauds in exporting;
 127 a, 137 b–139 a, 160 b.
 report to the King concerning (1670); 137 b. exportation; 277 b.
 statutes regarding, in Ireland; 207 a, 208 a. manufacture; 134 a.
 — in Yorkshire and Lancashire; 208 a. trade in, Leicester guild, regulations for; 421 a. cloth, Act for better regulating manufacture of; 123 b, 126 a.
- Woolpit; 333 b, 334 a, 335 a.
- Woolwich: office of ballasting at; 244 a. ship building at; 245 a, 245 b.
- Woorspoels, Jan Fernando de; 23 a.
- Wootton:
 Skyres in, Hampshire; 263 b.
 Sir Henry, poems by; 584 a.
 William, quartermaster; 595 b.
- Worcester; 9 a, 332 a, 333 a, 335 b, 358 a.
 documents dated at; 46 b, 358 a. battle of; 429 b, 523 b.
 — thanksgivings for victory at; ib.
 Brudeport Street; 638 a. castle; 150 a, 150 b.
 Foregate Street, letter dated at; 62 b.
 Powyk Lane; 638 b.
 St. Andrew's Church, account of deeds belonging to; 638 a.
 St. Mary's Church; 638 a.
 St. Mary's monastery at; 638 b.
 Wodestathe Street in; 638 a. county; 208 b, 210 a.
 — gaol of, Act concerning (1670); 150 a.
- Worcester, Bishop of:
 (1849), John de Evesham; 337 b.
 (1865) Wittlesey; 264 b.
 — elected archbishop; 338 b.
 (1501), S. Giglis; 263 a.
- Worcester, bishopric of; 49 b.
- Worcester, Earl of:
 (1399), Thomas de Percy; 264 b.
 (1582), Wm., his players; 430 b.
 — their unruly conduct at Leicester; ib.
 (1605), his players; 428 b.
 E., document signed by (1608); 87 b.
 (1609); 228 b.
 document signed by (1611); 88 b.
- Worcester, Marquis of:
 Lord Glamorgan, afterwards; 576 b.
 letter of (1646); 590 a.

Worcester, Marquis of—cont.

- Edward (1667); 111 a, 111 b the late (1667), large sums of money expended by, in service of Charles II.; x., 111 b.
- Worcester, Marchioness of:
 letter of (1666); 104 a.
 petitions of Margaret (1667); x., 111 a, 111 b.
- Worcester, W.; 268 b. petition and declaration of; 268 b. expenses of; 268 b.
 notes by; ib.
- Worden, Robert, commission to; 280 a.
- Wordsworth, James, letters of; 290 b, 291 a, 292 b, 293 a,
 294 a, 295 a.
- Workeman, Matthew, soldier; 548 a.
- Worksop:
 Queen Anne of Denmark's visit to; 441 a.
 letters dated at; ib.
- Worldham, East, church of; 263 b.
- Worley, Thomas, of Slough in Upton, will of; 332 b.
- Wormby, John, collector of customs; 260 b.
- Worship:
 Capt., letter of; 289 b.
 Mr., of Leicester; 431 a.
- Worsley:
 Dr.; 133 b, 134 a.
 Mr., instructions to; 47 a.
- Worth:
 Andrew, petition of; 123 b.
 Edward, Bishop of Killaloe, petitions of; 501 a, 523 b,
 536 a.
 Minnis, sluice at; 351 b.
- Worthing, Sussex; 264 a.
- Wortley:
 Lady v. Staesmore; 163 a.
 Mr., of the Treasury; 64 a.
 Sir Francis; 161 b.
 — deceased; 163 a.
 Dame Frances, widow of, petition of; 163 a.
 — answer to; 163 b.
 — commission to; 2 b.
- Wortmuller, M., letter of; 39 b.
- Wotton or Wootton, Surrey; 3 b.
- Wotton:
 Lord (1604); 98 a.
 — (1668); 166 a.
 Edward, president of the College of Physicians; 226 b.
 T., Harwich pilot; 260 a.
 Will., draper, of London, will of; 333 a.
- Wouldham, rector of; 346 b.
- Wramplyngham; 333 b.
- Wrangel:
 M. or Comte, letters of; 36 a, 37 b, 39 a, 39 b.
- Wrangel, Wrangle:
 co. Lincoln; 835 a.
 manor of; 411 b, 412 a, 412 b, 418 a. writ to tenants of; 412 a.
- Wrastelling; 334 b.
- Wratislav; 23 a.
 Count, John Wenceslaus; 12 a, 20 b, 32 b. letters of; 31 a, 31 b, 36 b, 38 a, 39 b, 40 b.
- Wraye, Sir Christopher; 6 a.
- Wregan, document dated from; 397 a.
- Wren:
 Mr., "his Royal Highness' secretary;" 388 a.
 — letter of; ib.
 — letter to; ib.
 Christopher; 230 a.
 Sir Christopher; 27 b.
 — letters of; 39 a, 57 a.
 — comptroller of works; 12 b.
 Mathew, secretary to Duke of York, commission to 280 a.
- Wrench, John; 393 b.
- Wrexham; 390 b.
- Wright:
 Dr.; 229 b.
 Alexander, letter of; 290 b.
 Capt. Andrew, letter of; 295 b.
 Edward; 377 b.
 — suit of; 274 a.
 — petition of, against his son; 522 a.
 Lieut. George; 592 a.
 Governor, letters of; 288 b, 289 a.
 J., of Ipswich, letter to; 256 b.
 Major James, letter of; 288 b.
 John, suit of; 274 a.
 — information of; 127 b.
 — of Chester; 361 b.
 — of Ely, will of; 332 b.
 — of Lapworth, conspirator; 434 a.
 Ensign John; 591 b.
 Mathew, suit of; 274 a.
 Nathan or Sir Nathan, letters of; 440 a, 440 b.
 Richard, of Chester; 361 b, 365 b, 375 b.
 — commission to; 362 a.

Wright—cont.

- Robert; 365 a.
- suit of; 274 a.
- mayor of Chester (1648) letters to; 384 b, 385 a.
- of Castle Donnington, commission to; 418 a.
- Thomas, alderman of Chester; 361 b.
- petition of; 500 a.
- petition of; 509 a.
- baker, of Leicester; 441 a.
- William, of Chester, letter to; 387 a.
- of Chester, deceased; ib.
- mayor of Oxford; 105 b.
- alias* Cooke, Will., of Sprowston, will of; 334 a.
- Wrightman, Major-General; 22 a.
- Wrights, the, of Lincolnshire, conspirators; 434 a.
- Wrighton; 334 b.
- Wriothesley, Lord, Thomas, Lord Chancellor (1546), letter signed by; 373 b.
- Wroth, General, letter of; 40 a.
- Wrotham, West; 333 b.
- Wrottesley, Lord, MSS. of; xxii.
- Wroton; 333 b.
- Wroughton, William, letter of; 289 b.
- Wroxals, co. Wilts; 639 a.
- Wulffin, Cecilia, widow of; 323 a.
- Wulley, Florence, Bishop of Clogher, will of; 334 a.
- Wulpett; 333 b.
- Wulston, John, of Wolaston; 422 a.
- Wurtemberg, Wirtemberg, Duke or Prince of :
 - letter to (1563); 582 a.
 - letter of (1685); 558 a.
 - letters of (c. 1690); 31 a.
 - letters of (1706); 31 b.
 - letters of (1707); 32 a.
 - letter of (1708); 36 a.
 - letters of (1709); 36 b, 37 b.
 - letter of (1710); 38 a.
 - letters of (1711); 40 a.
 - Charles Randolph (1712); 40 b.
 - warrants by (1713); 14 b.
 - his claims; 59 b.
- Wurtzburg, troops of; 44 a.
- Wyat —; 251 a.
- Wyatt, Lieut. Charles, letters of; 291 a, 294 a.
- Wybarne, Agnes, of Ticehurst, will of; 335 b.
- Wyberton; 335 a.
- Wyborton, manor of; 6 a.
- Wybourne :
 - John; 156 a, 156 b.
 - information of; 159 a.
 - Stephen, of Southwark, will of 335 b.
- Wybunbur, Wm., junior; 367 b.
- Wybunbure, Wm. de, senior; 367 b.
- Wybunburg, Wm. de; 367 a.
- Wycan, Mr., of Leicester; 430 b.
- Wyche, Richard, of Castle Cary, will of; 335 b.
- Wyckam, Bartholomew Clement; 376 b.
- Wyclif :
 - John; 334 a.
 - his intrusion into Canterbury College; 342 a.
- Wycombe :
 - High, borough of, MSS. of; xxiv.
 - West; 61 a.
 - William de, chaplain; 633 b.
- Wye :
 - church; 316 a.
 - Wm., prisoner at Chester; 381 b.
- Wyggeston, John, mayor of Leicester; 420 a.
- Wygston :
 - John, mayor of Leicester; 422 b.
 - Roger, mayor of Leicester; 422 b, 423 a.
 - Wyllian, mayor of Leicester; 415 b.
- Wyke, Andrew de; 262 b.
- Wykeham, Wykham :
 - manor of; 635 a, 635 b.
 - William of, purchase by; 263 b.
 - Bishop of Winchester, grant by; 262 b.
 - Sir W. de, archdeacon of Lincoln; 412 b.
 - William, executor of Bp. of London; 635 b.
- Wyker, M. de, letter of; 36 a.
- Wykes, Aquila; 381 a.
- Wykewanc, Robert de; 408 b.
- Wylbram, Thomas, letters of; 377 a.
- Wylde :
 - Walter, of Glastonbury, will of; 335 b.
 - William, taken by the Turks; 245 a.
- Wyles, John; 268 a.
- Wylford, Thomas, son of Robert; 376 b.
- Wyllington, William, of Bishopsbourne, will of; 340 a.
- Wymington, mansion house, &c. in; 6 a.
- Wymondeswold; 414 a, 423 a.
- Thomas, son of John de; 423 a.
- John, of Leicester; 415 b.
- Wymondham; 333 b.
- Wymondsall, Dame; 114 b.

- Wyncall, Jo., his Latin speech to James I. at Leicester; 441 b.
- Wynchecombe, William de, rector of St. Andrew's, Worcester; 638 a.
- Wyndham :
 - Baron; 138 b.
 - Col. Edmond, his regiment; 546 a, 547 a.
 - Francis, justice; 272 b.
 - Thomas; 125 b.
 - Sir William, letters of; 568 a.
 - See Windham.
- Wyne, Thomas, of "Wyndey," will of; 335 b.
- Wynet, Major A., letter of; 295 b.
- Wyngate :
 - Edmund; 7 a.
 - Elizabeth, delinquent; 4 a, 4 b.
- Wynger, Henry, haberdasher, of London, will of; 332 a.
- Wygere, Thomas, of Leicester; 412 b.
- Wyngheld :
 - Elizabeth, wife of Sir John, of Letheringham, will of; 334 a.
 - Henry, clerk, of Letheringham, will of; ib.
- Wynkefeld, Sir John de; 358 b.
- Wynkfeld, John de, of Ipswich; 343 a.
- Wynn, Wynne :
 - Roberts v.; 104 b.
 - Edward, commission to; 362 a.
 - Francis, of Whitby; 241 b.
 - G., letter of; 39 a.
 - George; 103 b.
 - alias* Bodwell, Griffith; 105 a.
 - petition of; 104 b.
 - case of; ib.
 - Griffith, letter of; 377 a.
 - Humphrey, letter of; 212 b.
 - James; 390 a.
 - John, his son; 212 b.
 - Doctor Owen, of the Mint; 64 a, 70 a, 71 a.
 - Capt. Owen; 399 a.
 - Ensign Robert, letter of; 291 a.
 - Rowland; 167 a, 167 b, 173 b, 174 a.
 - orders, &c. touching; 167 b.
 - Thomas; 104 b.
 - W. W. E., Esq., MSS. of; xxii.
- Wynor :
 - member of the Hamburg Co.; 147 b.
 - Joan, of Bradford-on-Avon, will of; 332 b.
- Wynscombe; 639 b.
- Wynthorpe, Ayscough of; 264 b.
- Wynwoode, Peter, mayor of Leicester; 422 b.
- Wyrcetre, William, documents written by; 268 a.
- Wyse :
 - Mr., of Waterford; 450 b, 462 b, 468 a, 470 a.
 - Francis; 542 a.
 - Sir Thomas; 451 a.
 - Thomas, of Waterford; 541 b.
 - petition relating to; 501 a.
- Wysnesiche, Wisneysiche; 371 a.
- Wytsand, port of; 344 b.

X.

- Xavier, Prince; 220 b.
- Ximenes, Marquis de, letter of; 39 a.

Y.

- Yalding; 334 b.
- vicar of; 329 a.
- Yale; 332 a.
- Yarmouth or Great Yarmouth; 29 b, 94 a, 240 a, 241 b, 242 b, 249 b, 252 b, 253 a, 255 b, 256 b, 333 b, 334 b.
- Bill concerning, amendments, &c. (1670); 143 b.
- herrings, exportation, &c.; 235 b, 237 b, 246 a, 246 b, 247 a, passim.
- ships of; 242 b.
- lights and buoys at; 243 b.
- the sands at; 254 a.
- bailiffs of; 252 a.
- letters to; 244 a, 246 a, 256 a.
- petition of; 247 a.
- Somerton Hall, near; 258 a.
- Yarmouth, Lady :
 - (1756); 221 a.
 - Henry Fox and; 220 b, 222 a.
- Yarner, Capt. Abraham; 597 a.
- Yarwood, Randolph, petition of; 148 b.
- Yate, co. Gloucester, freeholders, &c. of, petition of; 119 a.

Yate :

- Elihu, executor ; 257 b.
- John ; 11 a.
- William, mayor of Bristol (1597), letter of ; 379 b.
- letter to ; ib.

Yates :

- Ensign Daniel ; 594 a.
- Richard, of Leicester, his daughters ; 420 a.
- deer stealer ; 438 b.
- Thomas, a poor mariner ; 433 b, 434 a.

Yaxham ; 834 a.

Yaxley :

- Richard, conveyance to ; 273 a.
- Robert, physician ; 284 b.

Ydny, rector of ; 307 b.

Ydonea, daughter of Adam, of Shitlington ; 636 b.

Yeilden, assessment at ; 10 a.

Yeland, Ada de ; 356 a.

Yelland, beside Lancaster ; 386 a.

Yelverton :

- , readings on statutes by ; 584 b.
- H., attorney-general ; 238 b.
- Sir Henry, deceased ; 161 b.
- his widow, Susanna ; ib.
- Katherine, lands held by ; 518 a.
- Neville, Bill touching (1671) ; 161 b.
- Sir W. ; 268 b.
- Sir Will., gifts to ; ib.

Yemalis, Arrura, service of ; 322 a.

Yeoman, Nicholas ; 637 b.

Yeomans, John, letter of ; 295 b.

Ylleghe, manor of ; 322 b.

Ymma, Elfgyfu, manor given to Canterbury by ; 324 a.

Ynggylby :

- John, prior ; 271 a.
- William ; ib.

Yonge :

- Sir George, letters of ; 289 b–295 b, passim.
- letter to ; 289 b.
- Margaret, will of ; 333 a.
- Peter de, of Utrecht, his daughter Lady Denbigh ; 569 a, note.

Yoredale, document dated at ; 346 b.

- York ; 6 a, 209 b, 212 a, 358 a, 417 a, 585 a, 626 a.
- documents dated at ; 1 b, 211 b, 344 b, 352 b, 357 b, 383 b.
- corporation, MSS. of ; xxiv.
- justices at ; 34 a.
- Goldsmiths' Company of ; 70 a.
- company of Merchant Adventurers, MSS. of ; xxiv.
- mint at ; xii., 70 b, 74 b.
- parliament at (1300) ; 347 b.
- (1314) ; 352 b.
- Q. Elizabeth's progress to ; 431 a.
- mayor, &c. of, letter to ; 352 b.
- certificate of ; 46 a.

Yorkshire :

- families, arms, &c. of ; 636 a.
- Worthies, Portraits of ; ib.
- Philosophical Society, MSS. of ; xxiv.
- militia of (1650) ; 637 b.
- woollen manufacturers in ; 207 b, 208 a.
- schools in, decrees concerning ; 271 b.

York :

- Archbishop of, Roger, suspension of ; 317 a.
- settlement of the dispute with the Abp. of Canterbury (1352) ; 320 a.
- (1305), W. de Greenfeld ; 350 a.
- prevented from displaying his cross, &c. in the province of Canterbury ; 351 b.
- his attempt to prevent the Abp. of Canterbury from carrying his cross into the northern province ; 352 b.
- (1396), Arundel, transferred to Canterbury ; 340 a.
- (1460), W. Booth ; 262 b.
- (1519), Wolsey ; 234 b.
- Toby Mathew ; 583 a.
- Richard (1633) ; 383 b.
- (1670) ; 174 b.
- (1691), and Queen Mary ; 562 a.
- dean and chapter ; 145 a.
- Dickinson v. (1671) ; 162 a.
- answer of ; 162 b.
- Duke of, Richard (15th century), warrant of ; 263 b.
- letter of his wife Cecily ; 268 b.
- (1441), his expedition against the French ; 634 a.
- (1460) ; 370 a.
- afterwards James II. ; 30 a.
- (1657) ; 218 b.

York—cont.

- Duke of, commissions, warrants, &c. of (1660, &c.) ; 279 b
- 281 a, passim.
- household book of (1660–1673) ; xiii., 277 a, 277 b.
- High Admiral (1662) ; 251 a.
- his guards of horse (1663) ; 529 b.
- reports to (1664) ; 252 a, 252 b.
- petitions, &c. to (1664) ; 252 b.
- motion by (1667) ; 111 b.
- grant to ; 236 a.
- (1668) ; 120 b, 122 b.
- (1669) ; 131 a, 131 b.
- his oyster layings (1671) ; 160 b.
- privilege case ; 160 b.
- income from ballast office secured to ; 253 b.
- his addresses to Lady Bellasis (1673) ; 498 a, note.
- letter to (1674) ; 256 a.
- picture of (1680) ; 257 a, 258 b.
- congratulations on his escape (1683) ; 230 b, 258 b.
- his estates in Ireland ; 497 b, 499 a.
- mourning for (1728) ; 62 a.
- his wife (1791) ; 295 a.
- Duchess of (1660) ; 278 a.
- deceased (1671) ; 280 b.
- New, letter dated at ; 27 a.
- Lutherans sent to (1709) ; 47 a.
- papers relating to ; 47 b.
- Virginia, U.S., papers relating to capitulation of ; 296 b.

Yorke :

- Hon. Col. (1751), letter to ; 284 a.
- Mr. ; 190 b.
- Hon. Mr., counsel ; 232 b.
- opinion by ; ib.
- Col. J., letter of ; 290 a.
- Joan, of Framlingham, will of ; 333 b.
- Sir John, Commissioner ; 275 a.
- of Wakefield, priest ; 637 a.
- John, of Leicester ; 435 b.
- Philip, report of ; 25 b.

Youghal ; 102 a, 138 a.

- port of ; 252 a, 254 a.
- natives of (1660) ; 99 a.

Young :

- , 166 a.
- , his divorce ; 571 a.
- Alexander, servant to James VI. ; 298 b, 302 a.
- Allen Edward, letter of ; 289 b.
- Lieut. Chas. Wallace, letter of ; 293 a.
- Henry, of Poplar, mariner ; 241 a.
- Samuel, letters of ; 290 a, 292 b, 294 a.
- Simon, petition of ; 511 b.
- Thomas, of Chester ; 361 b.
- Major Wm., letter of ; 294 b.
- Youngson, Lieut. Wm., letter of ; 295 b.
- Ysche, the river ; 26 b.
- Ystele, Nich. de, register by ; 336 b.
- Yugo, Robert, of London, will of ; 332 a.
- Yunne de Luueners, witness ; 270 a.

Z.

- Zagalaepor, fortaleza de ; 22 b.
- Zampeschi, Brunoso, Venetian governor ; 22 b.
- Zanten ; 17 b.
- Zealand ; 387 b.
- Zedag, Muley, a king in Barbary ; 240 b.
- Zehe, Major, letter of ; 39 a.
- Zelada, Marquis de, letters of ; 40 a.
- Zelé, M. le, letter of ; 36 a.
- Zell, Duke of (1691) ; 564 b.
- Zetland, Earl of, MSS. of ; xxii.
- Zinsendorf :
 - Count ; 16 b, 20 b.
 - letter of (1715) ; 40 b.
- Zint, Baron de, letter of ; 37 b.
- Zinzerling, M. or Baron, letters of ; 36 b, 38 a, 47 b.
- Zoborow, Comte, letter of ; 36 a.
- Zouch :
 - Sir Allen ; 122 b.
 - petitions of ; 122 b, 123 a.
 - Dame Katherine, petitions of ; 122 b, 123 a.
- Zoutlandt, M., letter of ; 37 b.
- Zuch :
 - Alan la, of the Tower ; 88 a.
 - Alan Le, witness ; 407 b.
- Zuniga, Pedro de, Marquis of Flores ; 213 b.
- Zurich, Comte de, letter of ; 32 a.

LONDON :

Printed by GEORGE E. EYRE and WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE,
Printers to the Queen's most Excellent Majesty.
For Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

EIGHTH REPORT
OF
THE ROYAL COMMISSION
ON HISTORICAL MANUSCRIPTS.

APPENDIX.—(PART II.)

Presented to both Houses of Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

LONDON:
PRINTED BY GEORGE EDWARD EYRE AND WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE, PRINTERS TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.
FOR HER MAJESTY'S STATIONERY OFFICE.

1881.

[C.—3040.—I.] Price 1s. 9d.

REPORT ON THE MSS. OF HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

CONTENTS OF THE INTRODUCTION.

The Duke of Manchester's MSS.: their past and present condition.

Their relation to books already printed and to unpublished "State Papers."

The families of Montagu and Rich: MSS. formerly belonging to the Rich family.

Other family connexions.

"Augmentation" documents of the reign of Henry VIII.: their value in relation to the history of prices.

Papers of the reign of Elizabeth.

Domestic and miscellaneous papers of the reign of James I.

Papers of the reign of James I. relating to Ireland.

Colonial papers of the reigns of James I. and Charles I.: their high value:—

Voyages to Virginia; condition of the colony in the time of Rolfe and Pocahontas.

Rival factions in the Virginia Company.

Imputations and evidence of piracy against the Earl of Warwick, Captain Argoll, and Captain Elfred.

Massacre of Virginian colonists by Indians; recriminations of the rival factions; a Commission of Enquiry.

Charges of mismanagement and fraud.

Charges of entrapping emigrants by false pretences.

Miseries of the emigrants: sufferings and death upon the passage.

The survivors commonly treated as slaves and sold.

Famine.

Pestilence.

Report of the Commission; relief of the settlers.

Colonisation of the Bermudas or Summer Islands:—

Plague of rats there.

Dissensions in the colony and in the Summer Islands Company.

Religious affairs; introduction of Presbyterianism.

Scarcity of provisions.

Governor Butler and the pirates.

Threat of the settlers to "revolt to the pirates."

Grievances of the colonists.

Commission of Enquiry.

Successful scheme of Governor Bell, the Earl of Warwick, and Captain Elfred to obtain possession of certain islands.

Raleigh's last voyage.

Miscellaneous colonial papers.

Illustrations in the colonial papers of English manners and customs:—

Survival of the feudal spirit.

Puritan morals and conquest.

Almsgiving.

Capital punishment.

Funeral customs.

Domestic and miscellaneous papers of the reign of Charles I.:—

Letters of Lady Dorothy Sidney (Waller's Sacccharissa) to Lord Mandeville.

Families of Montagu and Sidney; the "brotherhood."

Illustrations of various social matters.

Lady Essex Cheeke and her spelling; "Black Tom" and the "Prentices."

Religious controversy; remarkable letter from Henry, first Earl of Manchester, to his son Walter.

Walter Montagu and Edward, second Earl of Manchester.

John Durie and the German Protestants.

Davenant, Bishop of Salisbury.

Morton, Bishop of Durham.

Political documents:—

The king and the Scottish Commissioners.

Hesitation in taking sides at the beginning of the Rebellion.

Letters from the Earl of Warwick.

The Earl of Manchester's Commission in the Parliamentary army.

His difficult position and quarrel with Cromwell.

Papers of the Commonwealth period.

Papers of the reigns of Charles II. and James II.

Papers of the reigns of William and Mary, William III., and Anne:—

Detached pieces.

The fifteen bound volumes of "Manchester Correspondence"; confusion of dates.

Papers of the reigns of William and Mary, William III., and Anne—cont.

The Old and New "Styles": precautions against misinterpretation.

Embassy of Charles, fourth Earl of Manchester, to Venice in 1699; the Partition Treaty.

The Earl's Embassy to Paris 1699–1701, and correspondence of the period.

The Earl Secretary of State, 1701–2.

Letters from Madrid upon the condition of Spain, &c.

England and France: remarkable letters from the Abbé Melani.

Letters to and from "Political Agents" or spies abroad.

Mode of conducting the correspondence.

Character of the agents and of their information.

Miscellaneous papers: Queen Anne and her physicians.

Second Embassy of the Earl to Venice, 1707–8.

Letters from Addison: style and orthography of the 18th century.

Miscellaneous papers.

The Pretender; Harley, Gregg, and Valière.

Queen Anne, the Duchess of Marlborough, and Mrs. Masham.

Friendship and correspondence between the Earl of Manchester and the Duchess of Marlborough.

Miscellaneous papers.

Papers of the reign of George I.

Papers of the reign of George II.:—

The Earl of Manchester created a Duke; last letters from the Duchess of Marlborough.

Miscellaneous papers; Sir George Oxenden's opinion of Pitt.

Letters of George Montagu to Horace Walpole:—

A chanson by Walpole (upon Lady Caroline Petersham and Col. Conway) prefixed.

Character of Montagu and of his correspondence.

His appreciation of Walpole and of Walpole's letters.

Montagu's letters before he went to Dublin.

His letters while Usher of the Black Rod in Ireland.

His return to England; his subsequent letters.

Papers of the reign of George III.:—

Naval and colonial affairs.

Administrations of the Marquis of Rockingham, the Earl of Shelburne, and the Duke of Portland.

The negotiations for peace in 1782 and 1783; Mr. Grenville, Mr. Alleyne Fitzherbert, and the Duke of Manchester.

Mr. Oswald, Lord Shelburne, and Mr. Fox.

Transcripts of official despatches, &c. of 1782–3, in volumes.

Their relation to the series of State Papers transferred from the Foreign Office.

Separate papers, original and otherwise: their general character: their relation to the Foreign Office series.

Omissions in State Paper series made good by private collections.

Private correspondence of the Duke of Manchester, when Ambassador at Paris, with the Duke of Portland and Mr. Fox.

The Ambassador's "appointments;" opinions of the Duke of Portland and Mr. Fox.

The United States: Oswald, Hartley, Franklin, and Fox.

An "ungracious" remark of the King upon the Ambassador.

Suspicion of an intrigue between the Comte de Vergennes and Lord Shelburne.

Mr. Fox on de Vergennes, Shelburne, and his own foreign policy.

The suspicion against Lord Shelburne not confirmed.

The Secretaryship and "appointments" of the Embassy.

An "insidious" remark made by the King.

French political intrigues: the Comte de Vergennes and the Baron de Breteuil.

The Duke of Portland and the India Bill: the Governorship of India offered to the Duke of Manchester.

The offer declined: the Duchess of Manchester.

Fox's apprehensions respecting the India Bill.

The Duke of Portland on the presents to be exchanged at the conclusion of peace: the King's reluctance to make them.

Fox's opinion on the subject.

Epic Poem on the French Revolution: a German rival to Milton.

INTRODUCTION.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

The Duke of Manchester's MSS.; their past and present condition.

The documents (between three and four thousand in number), of which the contents are described in the present volume, have been deposited in the Public Record Office by the Duke of Manchester. The whole collection which his Grace entrusted to the Department for examination included also a great mass of title deeds of every description, with correspondence relating to them. Some of these are very ancient, and are interesting from more than one point of view; they are, however, an essential part of the family muniments, and have of course been returned to Kimbolton.

Every volume and every separate MS. transmitted by his Grace's direction to the Public Record Office has been examined and a note has been made of the contents. The abstracts of those which were found to be of a legal or private nature have been sent, with the documents themselves, to Kimbolton. They have been placed in order, up to a certain point, so as to show the history of the various titles; and it is a matter of regret that some of the deeds were required for reference by the Duke's legal advisers before this arrangement could be completed.

When brought to the Public Record Office the whole collection was in the utmost confusion. Title deeds were mixed with Treaties, and the correspondence of Ambassadors with court-rolls, marriage-settlements, and leases. Papers of the earliest dates were interspersed with those of the latest; a box bearing the inscription "Mr. Fox's Despatches to the Duke of Manchester," though full to overflowing, contained not a single document which could be assigned to any period within a century of the time at which Mr. Fox held any office; and the contents of a portfolio entitled "Magna Carta," were, if any general character could be attributed to them, chiefly illustrative of the early history of Virginia and the Bermudas.

There can be but little doubt that the condition in which the MSS. were found is attributable, in part at least, to a cause which has sometimes had even worse effects. The liberality commonly displayed by the owners of valuable MSS. has only too often been abused. The offence does not perhaps often deserve any more severe epithet than carelessness, and it may be hoped that there has never been an imitator of Ireland, who robbed Penshurst of some of its most precious treasures. But not a little mischief may be done by mere negligence.

A searcher has, perhaps, attained the object for which he made his search, or is unable to decipher the contents of mediæval letters, and throws the papers which he has been permitted to consult into the first receptacle he sees at hand, without care, possibly without ability, to find their true chronological place. This process often repeated soon destroys any previous arrangement, and the process has, no doubt, been repeated again and again at Kimbolton. Were this all, it might, perhaps, be needless to make any comment upon so ordinary an occurrence. It is, however, to say the least, somewhat more unfortunate that any one, ignorant of ancient idioms, or perplexed by ancient handwritings, should alter an ancient MS. with a modern pen in a vain attempt to discover a modern meaning. One at least of the letters* in this collection has been injured in this manner, though happily not so much but that the original writing is still legible. Others render confusion worse confounded by comparatively recent but erroneous endorsements of dates.

It is a work requiring some time and labour to find the exact dates of undated MSS., even when they are all approximately of the same period; and the difficulty is greatly increased when they range over many centuries, and are in complete disorder. In the collection belonging to the Duke of Manchester, the proportion of undated papers is very large. There are, however, very few cases in which a date has not now been assigned (correctly it may be hoped) within very narrow limits, usually within a very few days. Each manuscript or volume has been numbered, and a corresponding number is attached to the description of it given in this Report, so that it can be produced whenever required. In the bound volumes of "Manchester Correspondence," &c., the individual documents, as well as the notices of them, have been marked with a subsidiary numbering to facilitate reference.

As a whole the collection may be said to have included almost every kind of record in the form either of original or of copy; and the portion of it which remains in the Public Record Office, though abounding most in documents of the nature of State Papers, is by no means wanting in variety. This part, though not equal in antiquity to some of the MSS. existing among the title deeds, extends practically from the reign of Henry VIII. to the beginning of the 19th century. Its value depends, of course, in the first instance, upon the importance of its contents, in the second, upon their novelty.

The intrinsic importance of any document appears different to different minds, according to the purpose for which it is inspected; and on that point it can only be hoped that the present Introduction, and the descriptions which follow it, may assist others to judge for themselves. It may, however, be permissible to suggest that there must be something to please nearly every taste in a collection which includes the Sign Manual of Henry VIII., of James I., of Charles I., of Charles II., of William III., and of George III., the signatures of Elizabeth Queen of Bohemia, and Sophia Electress of Hanover, correspondence from States feebly struggling into existence in the New World and from a country newly "planted" with a strong hand in the Old World, letters from famous statesmen, beginning with Thomas Cromwell and ending with Edmund Burke, illustrations of political intrigue and religious controversy, of Ambassadors' schemes and Monarchs' foibles, of social history in most of its aspects (love-making not excepted), and specimens of Greek exercises written at the beginning of the seventeenth century, of Horace Walpole's verses in French and English, written in the middle of the eighteenth century, and of a German Baron's Epic Poem written in English at the beginning of the nineteenth century.

As many of the letters have appeared in various books, it has been thought that it might be of some assistance to historical students to indicate which of the documents have been published, and where, whether in the original language or as translations, whether wholly or in part, whether with or without considerable variations.

By taking care to avoid, as far as possible, the reprinting of matter already printed, I have, at any rate, greatly reduced the bulk of the Report and effected a considerable saving of printers' labour. It is quite possible that in dealing with papers which extend over three centuries I may have failed to discover publications where some of them may be found; but in every case in which I have ascertained that any previous use has been made of them, I have called attention to the fact, and I believe that the omissions in this respect cannot be very numerous.

Among the books thus compared with the Manchester MSS. may be mentioned some volumes of the Archaeologia, of the State Trials, and of the Camden Society's publications, Sir Dudley Digges' "Compleat Ambassador,"* the Duke of Manchester's "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne,"* the various publications of Captain John Smith (sometime Governor of Virginia), including his "True Relation" concerning Virginia (London, 1608, 4to), his "Map of Virginia, with a description of the country," &c. (Oxford, 1612, 4to.), his "New England's Trials" (London, 1622, 4to), his "General History of Virginia" (London, 1626, fol.), and his "True Travels," &c. (London, 1630, fol.), in which the General History is continued, General Lefroy's "Memorials of the Bermudas," the "Sydney State Papers" edited by Arthur Collins, Rushworth's "Historical Collections," Carlyle's "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches," Cole's "Historical and Political Memoirs,"* Rapin's History of England and Tindal's Continuation, Wilkins' "Concilia," the Journals of the House of Lords, the Journals of the House of Commons, the "Parliamentary History," Comenius' "Pansophiæ Prodromus," and Collier's English version of it, Cunningham's "Letters of Horace Walpole," the Earl of Albemarle's "Memoirs of the Marquis of Rockingham and his Contemporaries," Lord Edmond FitzMaurice's "Life of William Earl of Shelburne," Lord John Russell's "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox,"* and "Life of Charles James Fox," the Duke of

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Their relation to books already printed, and to unpublished State Papers.

* No. 468.

* These four publications were mentioned by Mr. Horwood in the First Report of the Historical MSS. Commission, with a suggestion (fully borne out by examination) that they might contain portions of the Manchester collection.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Buckingham's "Court and Cabinets of George III.," Mrs. Gillespie Smyth's "Memoirs and Correspondence of Sir Robert Murray Keith" and Lord Holland's "Memorials of the Whig Party."

In some of these publications were found many documents existing in manuscript in the Duke of Manchester's collection, in others a few, and in some none at all. The result is made apparent in detail in the abstracts of the papers themselves. It is, however, worthy of remark that, although the proportion of matter which has already been printed is certainly considerable, there yet remains more which is new to the public than could have been expected. One of the reasons has, perhaps, already been suggested. The persons who obtain access to MSS. are more numerous than those whose names appear upon title-pages as authors or editors. Many of the MSS. in the present collection could not be easily read by anyone unfamiliar with similar hand-writings, or pressed for time in a hasty search. The confusion brought about by some searchers, too, has probably had the effect of hiding precious letters away from those who were more competent. Thus many interesting papers have hitherto escaped attention.

Apart from printed books, it seemed probable that the contents of some of the Manchester MSS. might be found in one form or other elsewhere. The "State Papers" have therefore been searched in cases in which there was reason to believe that they contained originals, while the Manchester MSS. included only copies, or copies while the originals existed in the Manchester MSS., and the result is stated. Further reference will be made to this subject in another page.

It may be of service to point out, in this place, that when the contents of any document occupy more than one sheet of letter paper, and are not printed in full, the number of pages is indicated, and that when the writing is upon parchment the fact is mentioned.

I cannot conclude these general remarks without expressing my thanks to Capt. Thonger, the Duke of Manchester's private secretary, for his courtesy and for valuable information which assisted me in ascertaining some of the missing dates.

The families of Montagu and Rich: MSS. formerly belonging to the Rich family.

The whole of the earlier documents, in this collection, which are now in the Public Record Office have obviously been at one time in the possession of the family of Rich, for the two brief abstracts referring to the reign of Richard II. were most probably made about the time of the Dissolution of the Monasteries by Henry VIII., when Sir Richard Rich was Chancellor of the Court of "Augmentations of the Revenues of the King's Crown." It may, therefore, be useful to bear in mind the following details of the history of that family, and of its connexion with the family of Montagu.

Sir Richard before his appointment to the Augmentations had been Solicitor General. He afterwards became Lord Chancellor, and was created Baron Rich.

His grandson, Robert Rich, third Baron, married (as his first wife) Lady Penelope Devereux. This third Baron Rich became Earl of Warwick in 1618, and died the same year. Among his children were a son, Robert, and a daughter, Essex. Robert the son succeeded his father as Earl of Warwick, and was Admiral during the Long Parliament. His daughter, the Lady Anne Rich, married Edward Viscount Mandeville, afterwards second Earl of Manchester. Upon her death the Earl of Manchester married her cousin Essex, widow of Sir R. Bevell and daughter of Sir T. Cheeke and of Essex the daughter already mentioned of the first Earl of Warwick. Robert, third Earl of Warwick, also married Anne, a daughter of Sir Thomas Cheeke. The bonds between the families of Rich and Montagu were thus both close and numerous.

From Richard, the first Baron Rich, must have been handed down the documents, in the present collection, which relate to the Court of Augmentations. Through other members of the same family we are brought to the knowledge of papers not less valuable though of a very different character. Robert Rich, the second Earl of Warwick, took a very prominent part in the colonisation of Virginia and the "Summer Islands" or Bermudas. Sir Nathaniel Rich was also one of the chief holders of shares in both enterprises, and his brother Robert not only held shares, but himself became one of the colonists. The same Sir Nathaniel was also appointed one of the "Commissioners for Ireland," in 1621. These facts may suffice to illustrate many points which would otherwise appear somewhat obscure.

A few other details of family history will account for the appearance of one or two papers, here and there, in the present collection. Two of these, for instance, are from Robert Devereux, second Earl of Essex, to his sister Penelope, who married Robert, third Baron Rich and first Earl of Warwick, and grandson of Chancellor Rich. Dorothy, sister of this Robert Devereux, and daughter of Walter Devereux, the first Earl of Essex, married Henry Percy, ninth Earl of Northumberland; and her daughter Dorothy married Robert Sidney, second Earl of Leicester, some of whose letters have been preserved in this collection. Among the issue of this latter marriage was Lady Dorothy Sidney, the famous beauty, Waller's Sackcharissa, of whom more hereafter. The families of Rich and Sidney seem also to have been connected in another way, for Mary, a daughter of Lord Chancellor Rich, married Sir T. Wroth, and in a later generation Mary, daughter of Robert Sidney, the first Earl of Leicester, married Sir R. Wroth. The name of Wroth, it will be seen, occurs more than once in the Duke of Manchester's manuscripts.

It may also, perhaps, be useful to remember the following facts among others in explanation of the appearance of a few individual letters. The second son of Robert Rich, first Earl of Warwick, by Lady Penelope Devereux, was Henry, first Earl of Holland, who was beheaded by the Parliamentarians in 1649. Lord Robartes, afterwards created Earl of Radnor, married Lucy, a daughter of Robert Rich, the second Earl of Warwick. Edward, brother of Henry Montagu, the first Earl of Manchester, was created Lord Montagu of Boughton in 1621, and his daughter Elizabeth married Robert Bertie, Earl of Lindsey, who was killed at Edgehill in 1642.

The documents formerly in the possession of Sir Richard Rich, when he was Chancellor of the Court of Augmentations, have a value and an interest peculiar to themselves. It would, perhaps, be possible to extract from the Augmentation records previously in the Public Record Office equivalent information. But it would be difficult to discover anywhere, in the same number of documents, so many facts illustrating one particular subject—the history of prices. The fees of the officers of the Court of Augmentations, their travelling expenses and those of a Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, the fees of the Attorney and Solicitor General for drawing deeds, the sums paid for the hire of boats and horses, for "horse-meat" and "man-meat," for the dinners and suppers of masters and servants, and various minor items of expenditure appear in the accounts. The cost of building materials is given with great minuteness of detail, together with the wages of carpenters, bricklayers, joiners, sawyers, gardeners and labourers. It is possible to compare not only the rates of pay given to such workmen in the time of Henry VIII. with the present rates, but to estimate their value in relation to the incomes of the higher classes. A joiner, for example, received 9*d.* a day; the chief officers of the Court of Augmentations each received 6*s.* 8*d.* a day; and 4*l.* or 5*l.* would appear to have been a common fee to the Attorney or Solicitor General for drawing deeds. A Vice-Admiral and a Captain of one of H.M. ships each received 18*d.* a day for his "diet," and their mariners and soldiers were victualled at the rate of 20*d.* a week. The wages of the men were 5*s.* a month, the "wages" of the surgeon 10*s.*

A "soldier's coat," cost 3*s.* 4*d.*, the livery for the usher of the Court of Augmentations 13*s.* 4*d.* Bricks were bought at the rate of 5*s.* the thousand. Earth was 3*d.* the load, and dung 2*d.* the load. The charge for a load of "tyleshards" was 20*d.*, and for the carriage of them from Kilburn to Westminster 4*d.*

More minute details will be found in the abstracts of the documents,* which illustrate many of the social habits of the period as well as the prices of materials and labour. It may, however, be not uninteresting to point out, in this place, that the price of silver (which has only recently fallen below 50*d.* the ounce) was, in the reign of Henry VIII., 40*d.* the ounce. That at least was the rate at which the silver from the monasteries was valued, and must have been the "breaking up price" of silver, unless it be assumed that there was some alloy in the plate of the religious houses.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
Other family
connexions.

* "Augmentation" documents of the reign of Henry VIII.: their value in relation to the History of Prices.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

Papers of the reign of Elizabeth.

There are but few papers of dates between 1538 and 1602, and all of them belong to the reign of Elizabeth. Among them are a letter from a prisoner in the Counter in Wood Street, some documents relating to a High Commission case, in which one of the Rich family was involved, and others relating to the prosecution of Job Throckmorton, and Penry for illegal printing. There is also a volume of transcripts of 260 documents relating to Walsingham's first Embassy to France, which have been printed in Digges' "Compleat Ambassador," and there are two letters from Robert, Earl of Essex, to Lady Penelope Rich, which have been printed by the Duke of Manchester.*

The documents of the reign of James I. are numerous and distinct enough to be divided into three classes, viz. (1) miscellaneous documents relating chiefly to England; (2) documents relating to Ireland; (3) documents relating to the Colonies (chiefly Virginia, and the Bermudas).

Domestic and Miscellaneous Papers of the reign of
James I.

In the first class there is a book† showing in minute detail the good or ill repute of the clergy in Essex, where the Rich family held estates. It throws not a little light upon the clerical life of the period both in a religious and in a social aspect. From other papers it is possible to obtain some glimpses of the manners and customs of other classes. Nathaniel Rich, while still in residence at Emmanuel, corresponds, in Latin, with a friend who had gone down from Cambridge and settled in the country. A few years later ill-health seems to be a cause of frequent trouble to him, and the prescriptions which were written for him have been carefully preserved. Draughts, pills, clysters, and electuaries, cures for the gout, the melancholy, and the vertigo, instructions for regulating the diet, and even "directions for my Lady at Bath," as given early in the 17th century, may be compared in detail with modern medical treatment. The extent and character of a lady's wardrobe may be gathered from the very minute inventory of that of Lady Morgan, the sister of Sir Nathaniel Rich, and the mode of raising money upon diamonds from some transactions of Sir John Spilman. There is also a complete list of the members of the House of Commons in the year 1614, and there are a few papers relating to Recusants.

Papers of the reign of
James I.,
relating to Ireland.

The papers relating to Ireland are of interest, chiefly as showing how the Irish were regarded and treated by the English. The epithets commonly applied to the former are "the barbarous Irish" and "the natives." The process to which their land was subjected is described as "plantation," or "thorough plantation," and seems to have been identical with that of the foundation of colonies in another hemisphere. In one letter‡ it appears that a priest was violently thrust out of his church while in the act of performing service, and in many that the "natives" were discontented with the mode of "plantation." Some light is thrown on mismanagement, judicial, financial, and military; the army, in particular, was in a miserable plight, with its pay greatly in arrear. There is also a portion of a book§ which may from internal evidence be assigned to this period, and which contains a variety of details respecting the condition of Ireland after the plantation.

Colonial Papers of the reigns of
James I.
and Charles

No portion of the collection is at once so complete in itself, and so rich in information, as that which relates to the colonies from the year 1605 to the year 1641. The whole of these papers, found in a number of different receptacles—deed boxes, the box inscribed "Mr. Fox's Despatches," the portfolio called "Magna Carta, printed in letters of gold," &c.,—are now brought together. Many of them are undated; but dates have now been assigned to them upon sufficient internal or other evidence, and they constitute a series which (for the period they include, and in relation especially to Virginia and the Bermudas,) will hardly be considered of less value than the Colonial Papers formerly in the State Paper Office.

Voyages to Virginia; condition of the colony in the time of Rolf and Pocahontas.

The story of the discovery of the portion of America, afterwards called Virginia, and of its first "plantation" or settlement by the English, is told in detail by Capt. John Smith (who was afterwards a Governor of the Colony) in his various publications, which have already been mentioned.

Smith describes, among other matters,* the voyage of Waymouth to Virginia. The† first of the colonial documents in the present collection is an agreement between Sir John Zouch (who was to provide two ships) and Capt. Waymouth (who was to be second in command). Sir John was to furnish "all necessaries of victual, provision, munition, and 200 able and sufficient men, that is to say, of such trades and arts as are fitting for a plantation and colony." In the event of a successful occupation of territory, "after Sir John should have made his choice, and assumed into his possession, in manner of inheritance, such quantity of land as he should think good, Capt. Waymouth and his assigns might make his or their choice of land, to hold of Sir John, as Lord Paramount."

The country, the climate, the produce, and the native inhabitants of Virginia are described at length by Smith,‡ but he fails to supply some interesting details which are given by a person hardly less famous than himself.

In 1616 John Rolf (the husband of Pocahontas, whom he had married in 1613,) wrote to Sir Robert Rich "a True Relation of the State of Virginia,"§ which contains a very minute description of the settlement, its government, its wants, its prospects, and the general mode of life in it. Its total population was then 351, of whom 205 were "officers and labourers," 81 were farmers, and the rest were women and children. According to Rolf's representation a farmer might "reap more fruits and profits" than in England "with half the labour," and tobacco was already the "principal commodity." Almost all the documents of a later date, however, are of a very different tenour, and refer to discontent and misery in Virginia, and the most bitter disputes in the governing body in England. They also have the merit of being both interesting and novel; for though Smith has certainly mentioned|| the fact that there were factions in the Company and misery in the Colony, "pillage" in England and massacres in Virginia, he has omitted the details which follow.

The Virginia Company about the year 1619 was becoming divided into two hostile factions, the chief leaders in which were to be on the one side the Earl of Warwick, Sir Nathaniel Rich, and Alderman Johnson, and on the other side the Earl of Southampton, Lord Cavendish, and Sir Edward Sackville. One party supported Sir Thomas Smith, who had been Governor or Treasurer of the Company for the previous twelve years, the other Sir Edwin Sandys, who was elected his successor. The papers formerly in the State Paper Office represent, in the main, the case of Sir E. Sandys, the papers in the Duke of Manchester's collection represent, but far more in detail, the case of Sir T. Smith.

Alderman Johnson appears to have begun the attack upon the new Treasurer. At first he had but little support from men of the greatest influence, for he was censured by a Committee of the Virginia Council, at which both Sir N. Rich and the Earl of Warwick were present.¶ About the beginning of the year 1620, however, there were heard rumours of some mysterious exploit "against the Spaniard" achieved by Capt. Elfred, Elfrith, or Elfree, with a ship called "the Treasurer." Elfred seems to have been, in a sense, acting under the orders of Capt. Argoll or Argall, at one time Governor of the colony of Virginia, who used the Earl of Warwick's "name as a bolster to his unwarrantable actions." He brought his vessel to the Bermudas in an unseaworthy condition, and with her a number of negroes. A few months later, Capt. Butler, then Governor of the Bermudas, wrote to the Earl of Warwick that his lordship's negroes had been disposed of according to directions, but that the "Treasurer's people were dangerous-tongued fellows, and had given out secretly that if they were not paid to their utmost penny of wages they would go to the Spanish Ambassador and tell all."†† When Capt. Yardley was Governor of Virginia he wrote to the Virginia Council in England to the effect that "the Treasurer," which was admitted to be the Earl's property, was supposed to have "gone to rob the King of Spain's subjects in the West Indies by direct rection from my Lord of Warwick." Then followed some remarkable transactions which are recorded in the handwriting of Sir N. Rich.

Sir E. Sandys and the Virginia Council agreed that it was necessary to communicate the information to the Privy Council, but only after having "first blotted my Lord of Warwick's name out of the letters." It was further arranged that the Earl of Southampton (who

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Rival factions in the Virginia
Company.

Imputations of piracy against the Earl of Warwick, Capt.
Argoll, and
Capt. Elfred.

* Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne, I. 296-8.
† No. 128. ‡ No. 188. § No. 202a.

* General History, p. 18. † No. 203.
‡ General History, pp. 20-40. § No. 208.
|| General History, p. 155, and "True Travels," p. 41.
¶ Nos. 250, 251.  No. 261. †† No. 275. See also No. 278.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

must, as well as Sir E. Sandys, have been still on friendly terms with the Earl of Warwick and Sir N. Rich) should be present at the Privy Council when Sir Edwin laid the matter before it, so as "to quiet any further search or stir in the business," and "in case that these fellows, to save their own necks, should lay the business upon my Lord." The affair was thus "dismissed without prejudice to any," the Earl of Warwick having used his influence on behalf of Capt. Argoll. But there "came new letters from the Governor of Virginia," with the deposition of a master's mate or lieutenant of "the Treasurer," confessing her piratical adventures. Sir N. Rich was very indignant that "poor souls" should thus have been "brought to accuse themselves capitally," and still more that Sir E. Sandys should have summoned the Virginia Council and carried a resolution to acquaint the Spanish Ambassador and the Privy Council with the facts and "so to put upon my Lord of Warwick suddenly, ere he was aware, a confiscation of his ship and goods." Thenceforward the Earl of Warwick and his friends became the bitter opponents of Sandys and all Sandys' adherents.

Massacre of Virginian colonists by Indians ;
recriminations of the rival factions ; a Commission
of Enquiry.

An attempt was made to restore harmony in the Virginia Council by referring certain matters ("the ship only excepted") to arbitration, and persuading the Earl of Warwick, the Earl of Southampton, and Sir E. Sandys to receive the Communion together, at some church in London, "in confirmation of mutual accord."† It is not certain whether this proposition was adopted, but it is quite certain that no permanent benefit followed. The massacre of colonists by the Indians in 1622, and the miseries by which it was followed, contributed to the animosities in England. The party which supported Sir E. Sandys palliated the misfortunes of the colony as much as possible. Their adversaries laid as much of the blame as possible upon them, and drew invidious contrasts between Virginia as it had been when Sir T. Smith was the Home Treasurer and Virginia after he had surrendered office to his successor.

The quarrel was coming to its height at the beginning of 1623, when, mainly as it seems at the suggestion of Alderman Johnson, there was drawn up a petition to the King to appoint a Commission to enquire into the causes which had brought the colony of Virginia from a state of prosperity to one of misery.‡ The Commission was granted and each party strained every nerve to exonerate itself and to blacken its adversaries. Sir E. Sackville, in the heat of his anger, so misconducted himself in the King's presence that he was taken down "roundly and soundly."§ In the Courts of the Virginia Company there were charges made and violent invectives uttered in defiance of an order of the Privy Council that "matters of controversy or difference" should be forborne there. The Earl of Warwick's party being aggrieved, possibly by some reference to "the Treasurer," obtained an order to confine Lord Cavendish, Sir E. Sandys, and others, to their houses.|| Soon afterwards Lord Cavendish and the Earl¶ (the latter disguised as a merchant) went to the Netherlands to fight a duel, but probably returned, in deference to the King's wishes, without having fought it.

Charges of mismanagement and fraud.

These, however, were but episodes in the main conflict in which almost every crime was imputed by each side to the other. The supporters of Sandys accused Sir T. Smith of misappropriating the funds of the Company; but the supporters of Smith retorted the charge with equal force and greater precision upon Sir E. Sandys. The very election of Sandys, it was alleged, had its origin in fraud. By collusion with one Gabriel Barber he "got great sums of the money of the Company into his hand," and then contrived, "by secret combinations, to be chosen Treasurer, to avoid being called to account, to which end he devised that Capt. John Bargrave, a professed enemy of Sir T. Smith, should bring in a balloting box to preserve undiscovered those parties he had prepared to give vote unto him," Lotteries (a great feature in the early colonisation of Virginia) had been revived to the advantage chiefly of Sir E. Sandys and of Gabriel Barber, who had the sole "management of them, and bribed those that should more faithfully have examined his accounts."††

Sir Thomas Smith, said the advocates of Sandys, had spent 80,000*l.* of the Company's money in twelve years. He spent barely 70,000*l.*‡‡ replied his supporters, and that in useful works; but Sir E. Sandys had made away with 80,000*l.* or 90,000*l.* in four years, and ruined the Colony to boot. Sir N. Rich was accused* by Sandys of having altered an order of the Virginia Council relating to Capt. Argoll, and, perhaps, to the ship "Treasurer." But he had an opportunity of offering suggestions to the Commissioners, and did not forget to recommend a comparison of the "Court Books" with the "Blurr Books" in search of discrepancies.†

According to the statements of Sandys' faction,‡ in December 1618, just before Smith ceased to be Treasurer, the whole population of the colony was only 600, though more emigrants had been sent out than Smith was willing to confess. On the contrary, replied Smith's party, there were at least 800 at that time; but the printed books of the company§ showed that 3,570 persons had been "transported" in the years 1619, 1620, and 1621, and the "muster roll" of the summer of 1622 (just before the massacre) showed the total number of colonists to be only 1,240; more than 3,000 must therefore have perished in that short time, in addition to the 500 or 600 afterwards slain by the Indians. The usual custom of sending every year "a catalogue of all the people's names residing in the colony" had since been discontinued, obviously with the intention of concealing the extent of the disasters.||

Under the Treasurership of Sandys great efforts had been made to encourage various industries, in order that the colonists might not rely too much upon the growth of tobacco. So at least, said his apologists; but on the other side it was maintained that all the projects which were good were Smith's, and that every failure was the fault of Sandys and his party. The culture of vines had been impeded by the obstinacy of a member of the latter faction, and the iron works which had flourished when Smith was in power had since become worthless; Sandys put forward an item of 5,000*l.* as having been expended on them, but nothing had been imported save "a fire-shovel, tongs, and a little bar of iron."¶

It is needless to detail the minor recriminations respecting appointments made by favour, and salaries assigned to favourites, courts packed, and times of meeting altered to secure a majority, and the more or less usual tactics of hostile parties. But the gravest charge of all has yet to be mentioned, and brings us to the consideration of the actual state of Virginia as told by the colonists themselves.

Sir E. Sandys and his subordinates were accused of having wilfully concealed the truth, and set forth falsehoods, with the object of inducing Englishmen to emigrate to Virginia, and of having made a profit out of unwholesome provisions sold to the dying emigrants at exorbitant rates.†† One of the devices to trap the unwary was the publication of "cosening ballads," as well as of letters and books describing the "happy estate of the Plantation."‡‡ A ballad entitled "Good News from Virginia,"§§ has been preserved in this collection, and, as it was published in March 1623, when the colonists were in the greatest distress, the epithet "cosening" is certainly not too strong to apply to it, though its doggerel rhymes are not worth reprinting. But a still more systematic mode of misrepresentation was alleged against Sir E. Sandys and his party. This was that they gave instructions to their nominees in Virginia to send over "public letters," which could be read officially before the Courts of the Company without creating a too unfavourable impression, while the very same persons in Virginia wrote to the very same persons in England private letters of a different complexion describing the real condition of the colony.||| Famine was thus represented to be plenty, and the probability of death by hunger, pestilence, or massacre, converted into a bright prospect of health, abundance, and security.

The letters formerly in the State Paper Office¶¶ afford some confirmation of this charge, for the Governor and Council in Virginia seemed more anxious to confute Capt. Butler (who had made some unpleasant revelations in his "Unmasking of Virginia"), and to point out the mischief done during Sir T. Smith's Treasurership, than to obtain succour for the colonists, who were perishing of want, infection, and hardship. Of the actual state of the colony there cannot be any doubt. The correspondence and extracts which Sir N. Rich succeeded in collecting, and which are now again placed in order, are quite sufficient to bring home to the feeblest imagination the miserable plight of the unfortunate emigrants.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

* No. 279. † No. 281. ‡ Nos. 328, 329.

§ State Papers, Dom., vol. 143, No. 22. ¶ No. 362. See also Nos. 291, 298.

|| Manchester Collection, No. 367. ¶ No. 160.  Nos. 347, 348.

†† No. 344. See also Nos. 331, 362. ‡‡ No. 362.

* No. 280. † No. 330. ‡ Nos. 352, 362. § But see also Nos. 291, 298.

|| No. 340. ¶ No. 362. See also No. 330.

 No. 362. †† Nos. 347, 348. ‡‡ Nos. 347, 362.

§§ No. 324. ¶¶ Nos. 330, 331, 347.

¶¶ Colonial, ii. 20, 22, &c., Calendar, i. pp. 58, 41, &c.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
—
Miseries of the emigrants: sufferings and death upon the passage.

It was true that many thousands of men and a few women had been persuaded to seek their fortunes in Virginia; but barely one half of them seem to have reached their destination. The ships were over-crowded, and ill-provisioned; and disease almost always broke out among the passengers.* If one ship was better found than another, it must certainly have been that which carried over Lady Wyatt, the wife of Sir Francis Wyatt, the Governor. Yet she and her fellow-voyagers were "so pestered with people and goods, so full of infection, that after a while they saw little but throwing folks overboard. The beer stank so, she could not endure the deck for it."† There was no proper accommodation for the new comers on their arrival, and in one case at least some of them died in the streets at James Town, and there lay "until the dogs had eaten their corpses."‡

Those who survived the miseries of the voyage, and passed alive through the inhospitable streets of the port where they landed, were, perhaps, more to be pitied than those who died on the way. Unless they had the good fortune to be "officers," or landowners, or traders with a little capital, they were (as Rolf had some years before described their mode of life) set to the employments which were required of them, or to which they were bound by covenant. Many of them were in fact, if not in name, slaves, though possibly with a prospect of freedom after the time for which they had made an agreement had expired. They were the bondsmen either of the Company or of individuals; and copies of letters showing the condition of both classes have been preserved. Early in 1623 George Sandys (who was Treasurer in Virginia when Sir E. Sandys was Treasurer or Governor in England) wrote a letter § describing the arrival of Sir William Nuce in the previous October. He came "with a very few of weak and unserviceable people, ragged, and with not above a fortnight's provision, some bound for three years, a few for five, and most upon wages." After his death eleven men were all that remained for the Company, and those, says George Sandys, "I was, for want of provision, enforced to sell." The price was paid not in money but in tobacco, and 2 cwt. per man was all that they would fetch, unless credit was allowed to the purchaser. Four men were placed on Sandys' own plantation, but two of them ran away (to the Indians he believed), and the other two would have followed "if sickness had not fettered them." Sandys also considered himself much aggrieved because Sir W. Nuce had brought him, instead of certain five men he expected, only two little boys "hardly worth their victuals," and one of them was a page "dead before delivered."

Comment on the matter and the tone of this letter is needless. But what was done by George Sandys or behalf of the Company was done also by individual planters at their own discretion. One of them, a Mr. Atkins, sold the whole of the men upon his plantation, and received for one of them as much as 150*l*.|| These poor white slaves wrote home in terms of grief and even indignation, but never questioned the legal rights either of their sellers or of their purchasers.

Such facts are, perhaps, in themselves sufficient to explain the suspicion that some of the inferior colonists "ran away to the Indians." There were, however, other causes which rendered life in the colony almost intolerable, even when possible, and extenuated perhaps in some degree, the conduct of those who sold their own fellow-countrymen. George Sandys pleaded the necessities of the situation, and one of the poor fellows sold by Atkins, admitted in the height of his wrath that his master and the whole household were "like to be starved."

For a poor man there was no food in sickness or in health but oatmeal, and pease, and bread, and water, and no women to tend him on his death-bed because they were all "so well sold."¶ A "wine-quart of corn" and water, with work from sunrise to sunset, "at felling of trees," was the brief description of one man's daily life, in the monotony of which there was no variation save from fear of death at the hands of the Indians, against whom he was totally unarmed. The wealthier planters might purchase some provisions at such rates as 10*l*.†† for a hog, 15*s*. for a hen, and 15*l*. for a hog'shead of meal. But one of them complained in April that he had barely a bushel of meal to support himself and his family until harvest time. So imminent indeed was absolute starvation that even Lady Wyatt wrote pressingly for help from her sisters and mother, especially for such provisions as butter, bacon, cheese and malt.* In April the colonists were all looking forward with the utmost anxiety to the arrival of the "Seaflower," of which the cargo was expected to save them from famine; and the "Seaflower" was destroyed by accident or carelessness before she reached her destination. One lad, of whom it had been charitably remarked that he "had been better knocked on the head"‡ than sent to Virginia, foresaw that he and his fellows would, if this last hope failed them, be "turned up to the land, and eat barks of trees or moulds of the ground." He was, no doubt, better fitted to be a monk than an emigrant, for he "thought no head had been able to hold so much water as daily flowed from his eyes." But his words are touching if not very manly. They are perhaps the last that he wrote.

With want and misery, and the depression following the massacres, came sickness and terrible mortality. It was maintained by the colonists that a new disease was introduced by the new comers who had fallen sick on board ship; and the immediate cause was thought to be the "stinking beer" served out to the passengers.§ There may, perhaps, be a doubt whether an infectious disease entirely sui generis could be thus created and afterwards spread amongst persons living under different conditions. But that the colonists died as by the visitation of a great plague there is no doubt. In 18 months there died in one place 42 out of 56, in another, 77 out of 97.¶ In almost all the letters the ravages of the pestilence are described in similar terms, and the Treasurer of Virginia himself wrote to the effect that the living could hardly bury the dead.||

The cries of the colonists in such distress as this were not to be stifled. They reached a powerful advocate in Sir Nathaniel Rich, for it is evident that he had other influence besides that which he possessed at the council board of the Virginia Company. He not only supported Alderman Johnson, and so obtained the appointment of the Royal Commission of Enquiry, but thwarted with indefatigable energy every attempt to render it nugatory. He seems also to have prompted almost every step¶ that was taken in the name of the King, and to have had his own opinion finally embodied, in the Report of the Commissioners. With the  draft of this document, the series of papers relating to Virginia is brought nearly to a close, as there are but few of a later date in the collection. The practical benefit of the enquiry, however, is to be traced in the Colonial Papers formerly in the State Paper Office, from which it appears that the wants of the unfortunate settlers were relieved with as little delay as possible by an abundance of supplies sent out at the expense partly of individuals and partly of the Company.

The papers relating to the Bermudas or Summer Islands, like those relating to Virginia, are of the highest value for the early history of the colony and the early struggles of the colonists. Beginning about the time when the Summer Islands Company was established on an independent footing in 1615,†† they extend, though not uninterruptedly, to the year 1634, and include a considerable number of letters from the successive Governors and ministers of religion.

In July 1616 Daniel Tucker (the first Governor after the incorporation of the new Company), wrote to Nathaniel Rich, praising the soil of the islands, and regretting only the want of cattle.‡‡ It was not long, however, before great distress was caused by a plague of rats, which was thus described by Lewes Hughes one of the first ministers:—"All the islands have been in a manner like so many coney-warrens, which did put the people much out of heart. It is incredible how they did swarm from island to island, and suddenly, like an army of men, did invade the islands from one end to the other, devouring the fruit of the earth in a strange manner."§§ Their numbers rapidly diminished, though the cause appears never to have been satisfactorily ascertained. It was not certainly the rat-bane from England, for of that the Governor remarked, "We are here much wronged or yourselves much

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
—

Pestilence.

Report of the Commission: relief of the settlers.

Colonisation of the Bermudas or Summer
Islands.

The Plague of rats there.

* No. 322. † No. 338. ‡ Nos. 322, 349. § No. 318.
|| No. 338, Thomas Beatt and Henry Briggs. ¶ No. 338, Thomas Nicolls.
 No. 338, H. Briggs. †† No. 338, Richard Norwood.

* No. 338, Lady Wyatt.
† Nos. 318, 319. ‡ No. 338, Thomas Nicolls.
§ No. 319. ¶ Nos. 372, 374, 377, 378.  No. 352.
†† Pat. 13 James I., Pt. 10. Printed in General Lefroy's Memorials of the Bermudas, i. 83. See also Capt. John Smith's "General History of Virginia," &c., for the discovery and first colonisation of the Bermudas &c.
‡‡ No. 297. §§ No. 210.

DUKE OF ANCHERS-
TERR.
—
sensions the only, and the Sum-
r Islands
pany.

"abused by the provider of the poison now sent, for it is stark nought, and not worth two-pence."*

As in Virginia so in the Bermudas there were continual dissensions, which had their counterparts in the governing body at home. Tucker seems to have been at first on friendly terms with the Rich family, and Sir Nathaniel Rich was willing to assist him in obtaining certain "overplus" land. He was, however, unable to obtain for Sir Nathaniel the "Brother Islands," which were regarded as common, and he was soon plunged into a quarrel with Lewes Hughes, the minister.

igious irs:
duction resby-anism.

Hughes was the "especial friend and bedfellow"† of Robert Rich, Sir Nathaniel's brother. He had a strong objection to "ceremonies" and to the Book of Common Prayer. He took advantage of a temporary absence of the Governor to begin a "Church Government by Minister and Elders, and to choose four Elders for the town publicly by lifting up of hands and calling upon God." He used a form of public service which seems to have been of his own composition. He alleged that Tucker afterwards sanctioned these proceedings, and that they met with general approval.‡ Tucker's version of the affair, however, was, that Hughes, though an honest and religious man, was of "so peevish a disposition" that he would not bear any contradiction. He was permitted to act in accordance with his own views simply because it was feared that, if thwarted in any particular, he would refuse to officiate as a minister and leave the colonists without any religious service at all.§ About the year 1618 Hughes, who had previously described the Governor as giving the Elders "all the grace and countenance" that he could, discovered that he was "wrathful and furious in his passions towards everybody."|| Tucker's position did, in fact, become intolerable in the following year. He offended Robert Rich by some regulations concerning tobacco; he offended others by showing too keen an eye to his own interests. There was much discontent in the colony, and this was reflected in the letters written home by Robert Rich, Hughes, and their supporters. Tucker accordingly left the Bermudas to plead his own cause in England. Miles Kendal was left as his deputy, but Hughes remained practically in victorious possession of the field.

There is reason to believe that the religious dispute is of great interest to many persons in Bermuda.¶ some of whom will be surprised to learn that a Presbyterian form of worship was thus established, in a portion at least of the Bermudas, as early as 1617. Lewes Hughes' complete and amended Liturgy bearing the date 1618, has been preserved, and exists in the present collection. It was not, however, destined to be permanently used in the whole colony. Tucker was displaced, and Capt. Nathaniel Butler sent out as Governor in his stead in 1619. Butler was devoted to the interests of the Earl of Warwick and of the Rich family in general, to whom, as Presbyterians, it may be inferred that the conduct of Hughes was not altogether displeasing. Hughes was the most intimate friend of Robert Rich, and he continued to officiate as minister some years longer. Shortly after Butler's arrival Hughes mentioned him in terms of high praise,†† and did not write disparagingly when the new Governor introduced a translation of the Geneva "form of ministering the sacraments and of marriages."‡‡ Butler, on his part, appears to have had confidence in the minister;§§ and the compromise by which the use of the Book of Common Prayer was avoided seems to have given general, if only temporary, satisfaction.

There are a few other papers in this collection, which throw some light upon the religious history of the colony. Among them may be mentioned a statement||| of the grievances of the colonists in 1622. They alleged that they were "defrauded of their souls," inasmuch as they had only one minister, and had never had more than two, for "1,500 souls dispersed into a length of 20 miles, and those two always "shortened in their promised entertainment." There was a similar complaint in 1634 when George Stirk, the minister, represented that he "had laboured in the work of the Gospel, and come short of his wages."¶¶

ity of sions.

During the earlier years there was very frequently a pressing want of provisions, especially of alcoholic drinks; and at one time it was feared that it would be necessary to administer the Communion with water, as no wine was to be had; but when a ship arrived with any "strong waters" there was an "abominable drunk-ness," which gave almost as much offence to Mr. Hughes as Sabbath-breaking itself, against which he had written a pamphlet.*

The quarrel between the Earl of Warwick's party and the Earl of Southampton's party in England had its effect upon the Summer Islands as well as upon Virginia, for the shareholders of the one company were for the most part shareholders also of the other. Butler complained that he had felt the effects of it as early as October 1620. Every passenger who came from England to the Bermudas described the Court of the Company as a "cock-pit," where each one sought to cross the other rather than to act for advantage of the colony.†

About this time the Company was in the habit of sending a ship with stores once a year, but not oftener, to the Bermudas. The consequence was that the colonists were eager to obtain supplies from any vessel which might touch casually at the islands;‡ but most of the vessels which so touched were more or less under suspicion of piracy, and the suspicion was extended (as afterwards in the days of Capt. Kidd) to persons in authority who were supposed to have an interest in piratical exploits.

The case of Capt. Elfred, and the Earl of Warwick's ship "Treasurer," has already been mentioned. There was also a Capt. Powell, who was in such high favour, during Butler's tenure of office, that the Governor proposed to entrust him with the command of a "small frigate" to fetch corn from the Caribbees, and to grant him land in the Bermudas for his wife and family. His enemies, however, were "over suspicious" of his commissions from Prince Maurice and the Netherlands, and believed his real vocation to be that of "roving" upon "the West Indies."§ Butler repelled the imputation which had been cast upon him, that he knew Powell to be a pirate from the first;|| on the contrary, as he maintained, it was Capt. Kirby who was the pirate. This man had bribed the Deputy-Governor Kendal with 14 negroes, and received provisions and "a murdering piece" in return. He "roved about" without any commission at all. He had boasted that, had he known how few persons were on board the "Bona Nova" (a ship despatched by the Virginia Company), when she was driven to the Caribbees by stress of weather, he "would have carried her away without fail."¶ The Court of the Company, however, wrote to Butler to forbid the reception of such ships as that commanded by Capt. Powell. Butler affected astonishment. He really knew not "how to distinguish between pirates and honest men," if those who instructed him from England were "pleased to term pirates" such men as his friend Powell, commissioned by the Prince of Orange. Perhaps the inhabitants of the Bermudas may be able to judge of the Governor's veracity or otherwise by a statement which he made to encourage hopes of success in the growth of silkworms. "Our very spiders," he said, "spin such strong silken webs as to catch birds as big as black-birds in them."††

The most remarkable indication, however, of the prevalence of piracy, and of the light in which it was regarded, is to be found in a draft memorandum which bears no date, but which was probably drawn up by Sir N. Rich about the beginning of the year 1623.‡‡ There was much discontent in the islands respecting the regulations for the importation of tobacco into England. Unless certain changes were introduced, it was probable, suggested Sir Nathaniel, that these colonists would "revolt to the pirates." The argument seems to have been intended for use as a kind of threat. The Bermudas were believed to be of strategical importance in relation to the West Indies, and should they "advance the strength of the pirates," it was hinted, the gravest results might ensue.

Butler sailed for England in the autumn of 1622, leaving a portion at least of the colonists in a not very hopeful condition. In their Statement§§ of Grievances made at this time there may be recognised some of which the Virginians also complained—especially that they were "pinched and undone by unreasonable rates of necessary clothing and other goods." Children, when their parents died, were "kept in little better condition than slaves." They were "held as mere drudges to their landlords for the only discharge of their dead fathers' debts," learning no trade, and without "necessary clothing to cover their nakedness, and due food to fill their bodies."

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TERR.
—

Governor
Butler and the pirates.

Threat of the settlers to "revolt to the pirates."

Grievances of the colonists.

* No. 214. † No. 232. ‡ No. 200.
§ No. 220. || No. 233.
¶ General Lefroy's "Memorials of the Bermudas, I. 678."
 No. 234. †† No. 262. ‡‡ No. 266.
§§ No. 284. ||| No. 295. ¶¶ No. 419.  No. 269.

* No. 262. † No. 284. ‡ Nos. 267, 284
§ Nos. 267, 268. || No. 275. ¶ No. 270.
 No. 284. †† No. 286. ‡‡ No. 310. §§ No. 295.

Duke of
MANCHESTER.
Commission
of Enquiry.

Partly, perhaps, in consequence of these representations there was appointed a Commission to Enquire into the condition of the Summer Islands (at the same time as the Virginia Commission) in April 1623. The Report (to judge from the draft existing in this collection)* was far more favourable than the Report upon the Virginia Plantation. The same influence is nevertheless apparent in both. It was the object of the Earl of Warwick's faction to throw as much blame as possible on the nominees of the opposite party in Virginia; but it was equally their object to extenuate all evils which may have existed in the Summer Islands, because Butler was wholly devoted to his friends and patrons, the Riches. The colony was declared to be prosperous, and in a satisfactory state of defence. The Commissioners, however, recommended that the "public charges" there should be borne by the shareholders of the Company in proportion to the number of shares held by them. The previous practice had been to tax the tobacco grown in the island in order to meet these expenses; and many documents show that this was felt to be a grievance, because the persons who failed to clear and cultivate their land escaped a burden which fell all the more heavily upon those who made their land productive.

From this time forward the papers relating to the Bermudas are neither so numerous, nor, perhaps, in some respects so important as those of earlier date. There are, however, two at least which deserve mention. One is a document,† in which Governor Bell gives an account of a dispute with his predecessor Capt. Woodhouse, ending in the temporary confinement of the latter. The other is a letter,‡ also from Bell, which is of a very remarkable character.

Successful scheme of Governor
Bell, the
Earl of Warwick,
and Capt.
Elfred, to obtain possession of certain islands.

Bell, like Butler, was a strong partisan of the Rich family, with some of the instincts of the old feudal retainer. He was also very closely associated with that Capt. Elfred, whose exploits were among the original causes of dissension in the Virginia and Summer Islands Companies, and reflected some discredit upon the Earl of Warwick. He was about to marry Elfred's daughter, with whom he expected to receive a "good proportion" of lands discovered by his enterprising father-in-law elect. He had no great faith in the fertility or resources of the Bermudas. The shareholders, it seems, had only given Elfred "ingratitude for his pains and labours already past," and he had, for this reason, been led to "resolve the whole Company should never more have to do with him nor anything belonging unto him." Bell therefore suggested that Elfred should be "set out in a ship or two" belonging solely to the Earl of Warwick, Sir N. Rich, and "such special friends that things might be carried and done with all possible secrecy." It would thus be possible for the Earl to "get the Patent" of the island of St. Kathalina, or "of Fonceta, or rather of both" before their discovery was known. This plan would "take away all the claim and opposition of my Lord of Carlesle or any other." There was some doubt about the position of "Fonceta, one of the bravest and most fertile islands in the world," but none about the position of St. Kathalina, which Elfred knew "as perfectly as needs to be."

The execution of this scheme does not appear from papers in the present collection. It is, however, shown by a Colonial Entry Book§ in the Public Record Office. Bell's letter was written in April 1629, and in the same year a successful voyage of discovery was undertaken by the Earl of Warwick and Sir Nathaniel Rich. In 1630 Bell sailed from the Summer Islands for St. Kathalina,|| and the same year became Governor elect of Providence Island, in succession to Capt. Elfred, who was promoted to the rank of Admiral.

Raleigh's
last voyage.

In addition to the Virginia and Summer Islands papers, there are also a few which relate to other colonies or attempts to found settlements. Not the least interesting of them is a letter¶ to Nathaniel Rich from James Hancock, who sailed with Sir Walter Raleigh in his last ill-fated expedition to Guiana. He had proceeded no further than Falmouth, but misfortunes had already begun. Contrary winds had delayed the voyage. There were "continual quarrels and fighting" among the men, "with many dangerous hurts;" and the commander had "set ashore a great company," partly perhaps because they were insubordinate, but on the alleged ground that "he feared to want provision."

In 1623 one Anthony Hilton wrote to his mother,* from off the Isle of Wight, describing the nature of an expedition in which he was engaged. It was to explore the Hudson River, but he adds,—"If we there find any strangers, as Hollanders, or others, which is thought this year do adventure there, we are to give them fight, and spoil and sink them down into the sea, which to do we are well provided with a lusty ship, stout seamen, and great ordnance. I pray God prosper us therein!"

A letter of 1634† gives an account of the condition, population, and civil and religious government of the colony in Massachusetts. In others will be found a few particulars relating to Providence,‡ Henrietta, Florida, Tobago, and the West Indies in general.

In many papers of this colonial series are illustrations not only of piracy and lawlessness in general, but also of various social habits and sentiments.

"Cælum non animum mutant qui trans mare currunt," is an adage of which the truth was very clearly shown by the colonists who "planted" settlements beyond the Atlantic.

There are many indications that the spirit of feudal allegiance was by no means extinct. In 1617 Edward Athen, one of Sir Robert Rich's tenants in the Summer Islands, thought it necessary to express a hope that his landlord would not be angry with him because he had got himself a wife.§ A broken-down scholar of Cambridge, a student of the law, wished to go to the Bermudas, "under the service and protection of the Earl of Warwick."|| Another unfortunate emigrant was well received by Governor Butler, solely because he had previously served "the old Lord Warwick," and he was very anxious for a recommendation from the new.¶ The colonists seem generally to have had a great dislike to any Governor of obscure position or origin; and some of the original adventurers to Virginia mentioned in a petition their desire that the office should be filled by a nobleman.

The Puritanism, which was yet to make itself still more conspicuous in England, is apparent in many of the letters written from the colonies, not only by the ministers of religion, but also by the members of their flocks. The sinking of a ship was a proof "How much God was offended." The fate of a man who fell overboard from another ship was "a good warning against gadding about on the Sabbath day;" and a "good warning" to all drunkards was "given by taking one away sleeping in his drunkenness."†† On the other hand, a hard-hearted churl, "who would not sell aqua vite under 10s. the gallon" was compared to Ahab and Cain, and a hope was expressed that God would "root such caterpillars out."‡‡ The lust of conquest was sanctified in the hearts of the colonists by the conviction again and again expressed that they were doing the will of God in spreading the Christian religion. Their feelings towards the Indians in Virginia, especially after the massacre, were those of zealots, who would consider it meritorious to hew Agag in pieces before the Lord. Their policy was to deceive their enemies into a false security, by a treaty intended only to be broken upon the first opportunity, to fall upon them unawares and unarmed, and destroy them without mercy. There is, however, one notable exception in the sentiment expressed by a planter who attributed the treachery of the Indians to the evil example set by the Europeans.§§ In Massachusetts there was a reluctance to take a formal census of the inhabitants by reason of "David's example." The writer who tells of this, however, when mentioning the death of nearly the whole of the natives from small-pox, adds with apparent satisfaction, "so as the Lord hath cleared our title to what we possess."||| Most of the letters contain religious reflections or quotations from Scripture.

The letters¶¶ of poor Richard Frethorne praying to be "redeemed," contain a suggestion that a collection should be made for him among his fellow-parishioners

Duke of
MANCHESTER.

Miscellaneous
colonial papers.

Illustrations of English manners and customs.

Survival of the feudal spirit.

Puritan morals and conquest.

Almsgiving.

* No. 384. See also No. 385. † No. 411. ‡ No. 416.
§ 111. 1-3. Cal., I. 121, 122.
|| Lefroy's "Memorials of the Bermudas," I. 502. ¶ No. 219.

‡ No. 364. † No. 421.
§ Nos. 420, 423, 424, 425, 426. § No. 216.
|| No. 244. ¶ No. 253.  No. 247. †† No. 252.
‡‡ No. 287. §§ No. 341. ||| No. 421.
¶¶ Nos. 317, 325.

THE OF NCHES-
TER.

at home, and a complaint that he had less to eat in a day than had been commonly given to a beggar at his father's door. There is matter for reflection in this glimpse of English customs at a time when the poor law, established during Elizabeth's reign, had been not very long in operation.

There is evidence elsewhere* that the subject of capital punishment for minor offences had already attracted some attention, though the attempt to abolish it in the Summer Islands was not successful.

Perhaps, however, one of the most remarkable papers in the collection is a description of the death and funeral of Robert Rich, Sir Nathaniel's brother. The writer (Thomas Durham) was extremely indignant at the conduct of the executor, because he "had not the honesty" or manners to invite Mr. Kendall and Mr. Semer, "who gave Mr. Rich a volley of shot at his burial, to so much as a cup of aqua vite, or anything else," according as the ancient and laudable custom which "heretofore hath been used." Durham, however, himself made good the omission. He "got out some liquor" of his own, to make such friends drink as came to "the burial."[†] tal ishment.

eral oms.

estatic miscelous rs of reign of les I.

Apart from colonial affairs the papers of the reign of Charles I. are numerous and interesting. They belong, however, to a period which is a favourite study with historians. Some of them have therefore already been printed in one form or other, and many, though not printed, contain matter which at most presents in a new shape facts previously well known. They do not, like the colonial papers, furnish the materials for a continuous history, but they may serve to confirm opinions doubtfully formed, and bring out a little more clearly some points of obscurity, and even here and there to supply a missing link in the chain of political events. Regarded from a social point of view they present more features of novelty (though they have been laid under contribution for "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne,") and for that reason the few remarks which seem to be required by documents of a more public nature may be deferred.

Two letters which are by no means unworthy of notice seem hitherto to have escaped observation. One was found in the box of miscellaneous papers marked "Mr. Fox's Despatches to the Duke of Manchester," the other also among some papers of comparatively recent date. They are, there can be little doubt, from Lady Dorothy Sidney, daughter of the Earl of Leicester, and best known as Waller's Saccharissa. One of them[‡] appears at first sight to be a letter to a lover. It combines encouragement with coyness, and concludes with a promise to be a "good mistress and in earnest." A portion of the delicate green silk ribbon with which it was bound still remains attached to it by two seals, each showing distinctly the porcupine, the crest of the Sidneys. It is without date, and is addressed to Viscount Mandeville; and in this fact lies a considerable difficulty.

Lady Dorothy Sidney was probably born in the year 1617. The date given in Lodge's Portraits, but without authority, is 1620. The parish register at Isleworth shows that she was baptized[§] on Oct. 5, 1617. She was married in July 1639 to Lord Spencer, afterwards Earl of Sunderland. Her second letter,^{||} which, though undirected, was probably, like the first, to Lord Mandeville, was written after her marriage, and is signed "D. Spencer." It is, in a sense, an acknowledgment of her fickleness. At some time, therefore, between the age at which she became marriageable (not before 1633), and the time at which she became Lady Spencer, she was in correspondence with a Lord Mandeville on terms which suggest the idea of a marriage with him. This Lord Mandeville could not have been anyone but Edward, afterwards second Earl of Manchester. He was married five times, but the first letter could not have been written either when he was a bachelor, or during one of the periods when he was a widower. The settlements relating to his marriage with his second wife (with Lady Anne Rich), were drawn in July 1628, and Clarendon seems to imply that it was solemnized in this year, as he associates it with the death of Buckingham (in August 1628.) She was alive (and a party to a deed), in 1638. Lord Mandeville also certainly had some wife living in July 1639. Strangely enough there is a letter[¶] written to him by the Earl of Leicester, Lady Dorothy's father, upon the occasion of her marriage in that month, and expressing gratification at his approbation of her choice, and at the prospect that she would be a near neighbour of his "most excellent lady." In the same month also the Earl of Holland* wrote to him to regret that he had not had the opportunity of seeing him and the Earl's own "sweet niece." This could hardly have been anyone but Lord Mandeville's second wife, the Lady Anne, daughter of the second Earl of Warwick, who was the elder brother of Lord Holland.

The difficulty, however, vanishes if we accept the very happy suggestion made by Lord De L'Isle and Dudley. The families of Sidney and Montagu were on terms of the closest friendship, and there may well have been some mock flirtation between a girl who was perhaps little more than a child, and a friend of her father, who was considerably her senior.

The letter from the Earl of Leicester[†] is doubly interesting in relation to this matter, as showing the extreme intimacy between the families of Montagu and Sidney, and the union of some members of them in a "brotherhood," to which Lord Spencer also belonged. The word has been erroneously printed "neighbourhood" in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," but it is plainly enough "brotherhood" in the MS., and this reading is required by the context. It must evidently have been a brotherhood not of blood, but of some order, society, or club. It is made the subject of reference in a subsequent letter from the Earl, in which he expressed his anxiety "to live in the good opinion of the brethren," and a hope that Lord Mandeville would not allow "a poor brother" to suffer from charges made in his absence.[‡]

Among other matters which illustrate social habits, rather than politics, may be mentioned the glimpse of the King who did "feast the French Ambassador on Sunday at Windsor,"[§] a prescription for the cure of "those vapours which arise from the lower parts of the body,"^{||} and a licence from the Bishop of Lincoln to Lord Mandeville and "the Lady Anne, his wife, being at this spring time somewhat sickly, and unto five or six others, such as the said Lord Mandeville shall please" to admit to his table "to eat flesh and poultry during Lent."[¶] There has also been handed down Lord Mandeville's tailor's bill from 1630 to 1638, and we may learn how much he paid for his "ash culler chamlett shewte and" "cloke tufted all over," for his "black bird's-eye velvet shewte," with the "stockings^{††} pickadillied," as well as for other minutely described costumes, in which, perhaps, he may have made mock love to Saccharissa. The cost of the materials and the charge for making are in each case given in detail, and may throw some light upon the history of prices. Two inventories^{‡‡} (one made in 1642, the other in 1645), of the goods in Kimbolton Castle may be worth the inspection of any one wishing to know how a nobleman's house was furnished in the middle of the 17th century.

The letters of Lady Essex Cheeke are remarkable in many ways, but most of all perhaps for their original system of orthography. Spelling was, in her time, not reduced to definite rules as at present; and it would be most unjust to attribute to ignorance that which exhibits considerable ingenuity. Persons who have not studied the history of our language might be pardoned if they regarded Lady Essex as a prototype of Mrs. Tabitha Bramble in "Humphrey Clinker." She had "ryten to her neyse," who was about to "gooe" to the Bath. But that niece (Lord Mandeville's second wife, Lady Anne), should be well advised before she ventured to "usse the Bath," as "she had wont to be very near" "sounding [i.e. swooning, for swooning], when she ussed" "bathing." Lady Essex thought "Black Tom," had "more corage than His Grase, and terror enough in" "his bended broones to amaze the Prentises."^{§§} "Black Tom," and "His Grase," there is good reason to believe, were no other than Thomas Earl of Strafford, and William Laud, Archbishop of Canterbury, for the latter of whom her ladyship had little respect. She describes elsewhere with much feeling her sorrow that her "sonne Ro," (who was probably Robert son of Robert Earl of Warwick, and husband of one of her daughters), had wounded Sir E. Baynton in a duel. "You maye imagen" she says, "how such an acedent as this wold" "afflicte me," but both "Dockter Wryght and the Sirgen," were of opinion that there was no danger.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Families of Montagu
and Sidney:
the "brotherhood."

Illustrations of various social matters.

Lady Essex Cheeke and her spelling:
"Black Tom" and the "Prentices."

* No. 269. † No. 283. ‡ No. 443.
§ Lysons' "Environ of London," III. 11.
|| No. 470. ¶ No. 466.

* No. 465. † No. 466. ‡ No. 483. § No. 433.
|| No. 439. ¶ No. 441.  No. 466.
†† See also a reference to this fashion in the ballad, No. 166:—
"For he that wears no pickadill
By law may wear a ruff."
‡‡ Nos. 508, 576. §§ No. 472.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

She could not send full "particulars," because she had "letters to ryte," and because (to use her own words), "my Lady Carlile beinge here this day, I weyghted on "hir parte of the waye."*

There are a few papers relating to the University of Cambridge,† but they are of little importance, and the principal matters contained in them are to be found in the Journals of Parliament.

Religious controversy:
letter from Henry, first
Earl of
Manchester,
to his son
Walter.

Religious controversy, as might have been expected, has a place in this collection; it appears in a very remarkable form in the reign of Charles I. I found, at intervals of some months, four sheets of paper, each in a different box, containing arguments in favour of Protestantism against Romanism. One, like a letter of Saccharissa's, was in the box marked "Mr. Fox's Despatches to the "Earl of Manchester." The other three were also among documents with which they had no sort of connexion, either in point of time, or in point of subject-matter. None of them bore any date; but the handwriting and other internal evidence sufficed to indicate approximately the period to which they belonged. They were thus brought near together in the first rough arrangement of the MSS. Three of them were then seen to have been written by the same hand, and the fourth though written by a different hand to have been corrected by the writer of the first three. A closer inspection showed that two of them‡ formed a continuous, though unfinished draft, of a letter from a father to his son Walter. The third§ was then ascertained to begin with a repetition in substance of a portion of the second, of which also it was a continuation. The fourth,|| in like manner, showed its relation to the third by the repetition (though with considerable variations) of a paragraph, and brought the letter to a conclusion.

It now seemed probable that the whole was the draft of a letter written by Henry, first Earl of Manchester, to his son Walter, who had abandoned the Church of England for that of Rome. The third Report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission showed that some document of the kind existed in the collection of Lord De L'Isle and Dudley, at Penshurst. His Lordship (to whom I am much indebted both for his suggestion with respect to Saccharissa's letters, and for his kind hospitality), most courteously granted permission to inspect his MSS. It was then at once evident that the letter at Penshurst signed "H. Manchester," and dated 20 May 1636, is the final outcome of the draft deposited by the Duke of Manchester in the Public Record Office.

The hand in which the greater part of the draft is written is that of the Earl of Manchester, who must also have corrected and probably dictated the rest. This point is of some importance, as indicating that the knowledge of theology and ecclesiastical history displayed by the writer must have been his own, and not the borrowed learning of a chaplain or secretary. Henry Montagu who rose by successive stages to be Recorder of London, Lord Chief Justice, Lord Treasurer, Viscount Mandeville, President of the Council, Earl of Manchester, and Keeper of the Privy Seal, must have been a man of no ordinary energy. He found time, in the midst of his legal labours and the cares of state-craft, not only to study divinity but to write a comprehensive historical summary of the arguments in favour of Protestantism which might be adduced to meet the objections of a Roman Catholic. He supported his case with references to a great variety of authors of different ages, from that of Tertullian to his own. Tertullian, indeed, seems to be the only one of the Fathers with whose writings he had much acquaintance. It is possible that the Earl had not much knowledge of Greek; but his knowledge of Latin would enable him to read both the ancient authors, who, like Tertullian, wrote in that language, and the more recent authors who, whatever their birthplace, perpetuated its use for literary purposes. It is thus that he is enabled to refer to De Thou, to Panormita, to Trithem, to Bucholzer, and to a host of other writers of various nationalities. In some cases, indeed, it is not clear whether he was acquainted with the works, or only with the outlines of the lives of some persons who held heretical opinions, as for instance, of Alvarus Pelagius, (Don Alvar de Paez) the Spaniard, whom he associates with Wickliffe and Huss. Yet in some instances he cites not only the writers, but definite passages in their writings; and he leaves no room for doubt that he had read Bellarmine and Æneas Silvius, Cochlens, and Gretser, Guicciardini, and Poplinière, to say nothing of such English theologians as Hooker and Richard Field, Whitacre, and White.

The whole letter is interesting from the evidence it affords (not only indirectly but in positive statements) of the manner in which the Earl had trained his children. He was a zealous Protestant and was anxious that his sons should follow his example in religion. It thus becomes easy to perceive how readily Edward, the elder son, was drawn to the Puritan side, when the civil war broke out, and how keenly the secession of Walter must have been felt both by him and by their father. Yet, in spite of Walter's abrupt abandonment of the Church of England, in spite of his want of respect in distributing copies of the document in which he announced his resolution, before even his father had received the original, this letter is a most touching witness of the parental love struggling through weighty argument and keen reproach.

After the death of the first Earl, we find Walter corresponding* with his brother Edward, the second Earl of Manchester—Walter anxious to come to England to arrange his affairs, Edward no less anxious that he should remain abroad. It was, in every way, natural that the Parliamentary Earl should not desire the presence in England of a brother who was avowedly a Roman Catholic, and it would have been but common prudence in the brother to take his advice. Walter in the end paid the penalty of his obstinacy by a period of confinement in the Tower. The Earl seems to have been always a good friend to him, and they met on affectionate terms when he returned once more to England,† after the Restoration, in the train of the Queen, and as Abbé of Pontoise.

The horror excited by any appearance of papal aggression is well illustrated by a remarkable communication from the Privy Council of Ireland to the Privy Council of England‡ in the beginning of the year 1629. The Rich family, as shown by their encouragement of Presbyterianism in the Bermudas, and by the remarks of Clarendon upon the Earl of Warwick, were strongly anti-papal; and it is therefore not surprising that Sir N. Rich is found in correspondence§ with John Durie, who was anxious to secure a good understanding between the Protestants of Germany and the Protestants of England. Durie was a fast friend of a German divine named Samuel Hartlieb, and was apparently engaged with him in some transactions which it was thought prudent to keep secret. Through this connection, it may be assumed, have been preserved some copies of letters directed to Hartlieb by Comenius, Comna, or Komensky, the author of "Janua Linguarum," "Pansophiæ Prodromus," &c. There is also a portion of some work which may be Comenius' "Pansophia," or a sketch of it, and which is, at any rate, an attempt to apply universal philosophy to Christianity, or Christianity to universal philosophy.||

A copy of a letter¶ written by Dr. Davenant, Bishop of Salisbury, to a clergyman in his diocese seems to belong to the year 1640. It refers to the oath against the change of Church government which is contained in the 6th canon of the Convocation (afterwards called Synod) of that year. A not less remarkable illustration of theories of Church government is, perhaps, to be found in a letter addressed by 11 gentlemen of the Associated Eastern Counties to the Earl of Manchester in his capacity of Major-General of their army. It is in effect a prayer that he would restore to their charges two ministers who had been ejected by a Committee holding authority from him.

There are also a few papers†† relating directly or indirectly to theological matters, which, though undated, must have been written about the time of Charles I. One of them‡‡ seems to have been addressed to John Durie by Thomas Morton, Bishop of Durham, at the time when the former was exerting himself in the cause of religion among the German divines. It represents the chief obstacles to the unity of the Church as being differences of belief with respect to Predestination, and the Eucharist. It is of considerable length, and was copied apparently by an imperfectly educated amanuensis, and corrected afterwards by a scholar, possibly the bishop himself. Another document§§ throws some further light upon the relations of the German Protestant Churches to one another, and to the Church in England. The rest are of a miscellaneous character, and may, perhaps, be considered

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

Walter
Montagu
and Edward second Earl of Manchester.

John Durie and the German
Protestants.

Davenant
Bishop of Salisbury.

Morton,
Bishop of Durham.

* No. 473. Nos. 434, 577, 578. † No. 440.
§ No. 460. ¶ No. 451.

* Nos. 498, 513. † No. 657. ‡ No. 432.
§ No. 444. See also Nos. 464 and 607. ¶ Nos. 453, 454.
¶ No. 487.  No. 552. †† Nos. 597 to 608.
‡‡ No. 603. §§ No. 604.

of the King of Manchester.

political documents.

King
the English missions.

of no great importance. One,* however, takes the form of a religious argument for depriving the King of his life.

Among the political documents of the reign of Charles I. may be mentioned an account of proceedings in Parliament from Jan. 28th to March 10th, 1628-9.† Though the substance has been printed by Rushworth, some additional details respecting that important session are to be found in this MS. For the next ten years there is little of importance, but, on the 26th January, 1638-9, there is a summons‡ under the King's Sign Manual, to "Edward Lord Montague of Kimbolton" to join the King's standard at York, for the approaching campaign against the Scots. The person addressed must be Edward, afterwards second Earl of Manchester, whose title of courtesy was Lord Mandeville, but who sat in the House of Peers during his father's lifetime as Lord Montagu, or Lord Kimbolton.

In a letter§ dated July 16th, which, although the year is omitted, must have been written in 1639, the Earl of Holland expresses to Lord Mandeville his deep regret that the King had been advised to "spoil or destroy the honourable and happy accommodation" with the Scots. The writer was full of anxiety, and unwilling to trust to paper all that he thought and knew. On the following 13th of November Lord Loudoun wrote to the Earl of Holland|| complaining of the manner in which his fellow Commissioner, Lord Dunfermline, and himself had been treated. They had been "debarred his Majesty's presence," and their Parliament had been condemned before they had been heard.

The subsequent papers can hardly be said to be of much political importance until we come to the autumn of 1640, when terms were again being negotiated with the Scots after an unsuccessful campaign against them. Most of the documents of this period, too, have been printed by Rushworth, and the rest,¶ with one exception, throw but little additional light on the proceedings. One, however, which is undated so far as the year is concerned, but which apparently has reference to this matter, is worth attention. It is a note of a scene which occurred on November 13th after the negotiations had been transferred to London. The King was present at an interview between the English and the Scottish Commissioners, and the latter objected that the Commission was "voided" by this very fact. He said he had come in accordance with their desire that he should hear their demands, which must, however, be set down in writing as he on his own part would "not be bound by what he discoursed." The other speakers were Lords Rothes, Loudoun, and Bristol. It is not clear whether the King retired or not, but Rothes seems in the end to have addressed himself somewhat peremptorily to the English Commissioners. His Majesty, he said, must lay aside all scruple about the last Scottish Parliament, because if its authority was questioned the power of the Scottish Commissioners was questioned also.

There is again a considerable interval before the next paper which seems to require notice. This† has no other date but "Monday." As, however, it is addressed to "Lord Kimbolton," it must have been written before November 1642, when the second Earl of Manchester succeeded to his father's title. On the other hand it must have been written after the quarrel between the King and the Parliament had become irreconcilable, and therefore probably little (if at all) before the year 1642. It is from one John Marston a prisoner in the Gate-house, and is in language not unlike that of the famous warning of the Gunpowder Plot. It is an offer of "a discovery of no mean consequence" as affecting the Parliament. Delay would be dangerous, for the writer could "not tell how soon it might be too late." There is nothing in the present collection which throws any further light upon the matter.

Just before the King raised his standard at Nottingham, there was, in the rural districts at any rate, some reluctance to take irrevocably either one side or the other. A letter ‡ written by John Merrill to Lord Mandeville, on Aug. 8, 1642, from Huntingdon, affords an illustration of this fact. The ordinances of Parliament were "little regarded" and "very few of the train men would come at time." Mr. Henry Cromwell had passed through Huntingdon with 50 men, but his intentions were unknown, and it was supposed that he would act against Capt. Valentine Walton, and conduct the Cambridge plate into the North. Something was required "to fetch up the spirits of the freeholders," and it was suggested that Lord Mandeville should appear among them in person or "send some force among them" to give them encouragement. The letter concludes with an invective against "the base and cowardly spirits of men," and an opinion that the Lord had "decreed to afflict and scourge this nation for the manifold crying sins thereof."

In the following month (Sept. 9th, 1642, as it appears by internal evidence) the Earl of Warwick wrote a very characteristic letter* to his son-in-law. It was this Earl of Warwick, be it remembered, who shortly after his accession to the title in 1618, was strongly suspected of being implicated in the piracies of Capt. Daniel Elfred. He appears now and again as a man of masterful will, with a keen eye to his own interests. He was extremely anxious that Sir H. Vane should not "continue the Letter Office in sequestration" to his disadvantage.† He is described by Clarendon, as being, like his son-in-law, one of the pillars of the Presbyterian party, and he shows his hostility to Popery by one of the letters in the present series.‡ It was his "private opinion" that, although Admiral Van Tromp might threaten the trade of Dover, the inconvenience and loss to the revenue were hardly so important as the disadvantage to the country "by the correspondence held between that town and the Papists, both in Flanders and Ireland, the same tending to the transportation of much youth to be trained beyond sea in Popish Seminaries." He was, in 1642, Admiral on the side of the Parliament, and his whole soul seems to be thrown into a few words written in this September; "I pray stand well upon your guard, both military and politic, for you will never get the like opportunity if you slip this, which God hath put into your hands; and loose not your business with civilities or compliments. Give the Cavaliers an inch they will take an ell. Do the work thoroughly and look to yourselves. Be not caught all in one trap at any time, and do all by good and full advice." This, and the reflection that "10,000*l.* is not to be had every day down on the nail, with a reasonable handsome maid,"§ might have been penned by Polonius, had he become a rough sailor, and sent a message from "the Downs."

In August 1643, Edward, the second Earl of Manchester, was entrusted with the command (as Sergeant-Major-General) of the Parliamentary forces in the Associated Eastern Counties, Essex, Hertford, Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridge, and Huntingdon; and his original commission|| signed by the Earl of Essex is in the present collection. Following this are many papers (some from Valentine Walton) relating to the mode of raising men and money for the Earl of Manchester's army.

These and other documents throw some light upon the causes of the quarrel between the Earl and Cromwell, and the charges subsequently made against the Earl. Sir Henry Mildmay on the "14th January," probably in the year 1643-4, gave the Earl a caution that his "faithfullest friends and simplest enemies" were in the Association.¶ It was in fact impossible for him to avoid giving offence somewhere. The inhabitants of the Associated Counties were naturally anxious that the forces supplied by them should be used for their own defence. The executive, or Committee of Both Kingdoms, were no less anxious that an advantage gained in one part of England should not be rendered valueless by want of support from another. Thus in a copy of a very interesting letter from Lord Fairfax on the military situation in the North, it is urged that orders should be given to the Earl to hang upon Prince Rupert's rear, should he march to the assistance of the Marquis of Newcastle. The Committee of Both Kingdoms gave the orders as desired, but on the other hand they had to reprimand the Committee of the County of Suffolk for their want of zeal in the "recruit of my Lord Manchester's army."††

The difficulty of raising supplies appears to have aggravated the disputes and jealousies which already existed. On Sept. 9th 1644, the Earl received a remarkable letter from J. Crewe,‡‡ in answer to some particulars which he had given of one of these quarrels. "My humble advice," says Crewe, "is, that you persuade both parties to defer the examination of complaints to a seasonable time, and to unite their endeavours for the common safety. I beseech your Lordship (although I need not do it) to give all respect to Lieutenant-General Cromwell, and however you have not looked hitherto into the paying of money, and therefore cannot be blamed if it be partially disposed, that you will be pleased to give special directions that

Duke of Manchester.

Letters from the Earl of Warwick.

The Earl of Manchester's commission in the Parliamentary
army.

His difficult position, and quarrel with Cromwell.

tation
King at the rising of Rebel-

* No. 600.
§ No. 465.
 No. 484.

† No. 431.
‡ No. 468.
†† No. 402.

‡ No. 457.
¶ Nos. 480-483.
‡ No. 508.

* No. 506.
§ No. 623.
 No. 534.

† No. 497.
‡ No. 530.
†† No. 539.

‡ No.
¶ No. 530.
†† No. 543.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

" your horse have their share in the next money that comes to your army." Four days later Ireton also wrote to the Earl a letter,* which is not without interest for other reasons, and which, temperately though it is expressed, shows that the greatest dissatisfaction existed amongst the cavalry. "Of divers troops," he says in a postscript, "the officers soberly and calmly profess that having lent all they own, and borrowed all they could find in their troops, to supply them that have wanted for mere necessities, they had at present many horses marching back for want of money to shoe them."

It may be open to question whether there was any partiality in the distribution of the funds at the Earl's disposal, and if so, whether that was an effect or a cause of the enmity with Cromwell. The belief that there was some injustice done was clearly an important factor in this affair. It is no less clear from documents, too numerous to need mention, that the whole of the forces under the Earl's command suffered from want of supplies, but in what proportion there is little or no evidence to show.

The Earl's conduct at and after the second battle of Newbury was the immediate occasion of Cromwell's charges against him; but while his enemies were accusing him of backwardness in the West, his supporters were discontented that he was not in the East, and besought him to "improve his interest that the Parliament might hasten him into the Association."[†]

These seem to be the only points to which special attention need be directed in connexion with the causes of the quarrel. The remaining documents in this collection which relate to the subject have (with the exception of the reply of the Earl[‡] to the charges made against him) been used in one form or other by Mr. Carlyle in his "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches," § or printed in a volume of the Camden Society's Publications, edited by Prof. Masson, and entitled "the Quarrel between the Earl of Manchester and Oliver Cromwell."^{||}

Early in the year 1645 the Parliament adopted the "New Model" for the army. The Earl who, with others, had resigned his commission in accordance with the Self-denying Ordinance, ceased thenceforward to take any prominent part in military or political affairs until the approach of the Restoration. For the remainder of the reign of Charles I. the papers relative to public affairs become, as might have been expected, few in number and of little importance. The substance of the greater part of them has been printed, too, by Rushworth, or in the Journals of the Lords and Commons, and they do not therefore call for any further remark.

As at the end of the reign of Charles I., so during the Commonwealth, the retirement of the second Earl of Manchester from public life affects the number and value of the papers in the Duke of Manchester's collection. At the time of the execution of Charles I. the Earl was Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, and some evidence has been handed down of the reluctance, not only of himself but of other members of the University, to take the "Engagement" to accept a Commonwealth without a King.[†] The Earl, however, continued to be Chancellor without taking the Engagement, until November 1651, when he was required to give a definite answer whether he had taken it or not.^{} His reply in the negative^{††} is explicit enough, though its ironical acknowledgment of the "civil way" in which the question was asked betrays some irritation. The correspondence^{‡‡} relating to the young Lord Mandeville and Sir Christopher Yelverton's daughter shows how the younger members of the old families married and were given in marriage after the ancient customs, in spite of the innovations of Cromwell.^{§§} There is a letter from the Earl of Northumberland in which he sneers at the "new Court," and those who "busy themselves with State affairs." He and others who thought as he did, were waiting quietly until a more favourable time should come.

At the beginning of the year 1660 the hopes of the peers were approaching fulfilment, and opinions were exchanged respecting the manner in which constitutional rights should be asserted. A few documents^{|||} relating to this subject have been preserved, but some have been printed, and none are of very great importance. There is, however, one letter* addressed to the Earl of Manchester which is at once new to the public and interesting. It is dated May 15, 1660, and is from Francis Russell, who, in a postscript, begs him to intercede for "Lord Henry."

It is very despondent in tone, and is a not altogether incorrect forecast of the quarter of a century which was followed by the Revolution. "This dark night seems to me as if it would be long and very stormy, and nothing can, in my opinion, bring in a day-break, unless God makes the King more than an ordinary blessing unto us."

At the Restoration the Earl of Manchester regained all his former honours, and appears once more as Speaker of the House of Lords and Lord Chamberlain. He thus became the recipient of many petitions from persons who desired restitution or reward from the Crown for past services. Two of them show how political changes affected fellowships at the Universities, and one[†] shows the anxiety of the Royalists that not even a mace should be left as a symbol of the authority of the men of the Commonwealth.

Edward, the second Earl of Manchester, died in 1671, and was succeeded by his son Robert. The correspondence of the third Earl includes a letter[§] written in Latin by his son Charles, apparently while a boy at school at Twickenham. Charles succeeded his father (who was one of the Gentlemen of the Bedchamber) in 1682.

Of the reign of James II. there is but one document, —an inventory^{||} of goods at Kimbolton Castle; it is, however, very complete, and may serve for comparison with those of earlier dates.

After the Revolution the papers again became numerous through the prominent position of Charles, Earl, afterwards first Duke of Manchester, in public affairs. There are nearly 1,200, of dates between 1688 and 1708. They cannot, however, be arranged in strict chronological order, as some of them are detached pieces, and others are bound in volumes with the dates, as it were, overlapping. The value of them too is somewhat diminished by the fact that many (indeed the greater part) of them have already been printed, and even printed again and again. Not a few of those which appear in "Cole's Historical and Political Memoirs" reappear, wholly or in part, in Tindal's Continuation of Rapin's History of England.

The detached pieces of the reigns of William and Mary, William III., and Anne, are chiefly instructions to the Earl of Manchester in his capacity of Lord Lieutenant of Huntingdonshire. It may be worthy of remark that some of them indicate an independent action on the part of Mary II., apart from her Consort, and one[†] is sent by the Council in "Her Majesty's name, and by her express command." There is a letter^{} written at the time of the trial of Lord Preston, which is of some interest. The English passport^{††} for the Earl when setting out on his Embassy to Venice in 1699, and a Dutch passport^{‡‡} for his baggage in 1708 have also been preserved.

Most of the documents of this period, however, are in books. One series, entitled "Manchester Correspondence," consists of 15 large volumes very handsomely bound. At first sight the papers appear to be arranged in chronological order, except that enclosures are placed at the end of the volumes; but unfortunately that which seems to have been the original plan has been very carelessly executed. Dates both considerably earlier and considerably later than the year named are included in one binding lettered "1701." But this is the least common, and not the most perplexing kind of error. The binder, or the person who instructed him, was ignorant of the different Styles or modes of dating which prevailed in various countries at various times, and has caused no little confusion through his ignorance.

It will be observed that up to this point the dates between the 1st of January and the 24th of March, as printed in the following Report, represent both the Old and the New Styles, so far as the years are concerned. A letter, for instance, dated by the writer, March 24th, 1680, would appear here dated March 24th, 1680-1, if

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.Papers of
the reigns of
Charles II.
and James II.Papers of the reigns of
William and Mary,
William III., and Anne.Detached pieces.The fifteen bound volumes of
"Manchester Correspondence" confusion of dates.The Old and New Styles precautions against misinterpretation.

* No. 545.

† No. 550.

‡ No. 557.

§ See Nos. 531, 532, 558, 559.

|| See Nos. 556, 558, 560.

¶ No. 610.

 Nos. 617, 618.

†† No. 619.

‡‡ Nos. 626-630.

§§ No. 632.

||| No. 635, &c.

* No. 642.

† Nos. 648, 656.

‡ No. 652.

§ No. 667.

|| No. 670.

¶ No. 675.

 No. 676.

†† No. 679.

‡‡ No. 681.

Papers of the Commonwealth period.

THE OF NCHES-
TER.

written in England. The true order of time is thus preserved, and attention is called to the ancient system of beginning the year on the 25th of March. Between the 25th of March and the 31st of December, the dates given by the writers have hitherto seemed sufficient, as they wrote for the most part in England or its dependencies, and no difficulty could arise from the fact that the same day was known by a different name elsewhere.

When, however, we come to the correspondence arising out of the various employments of Charles, Earl of Manchester, as Ambassador, we find a great number of letters from abroad dated according to the "Style" in use in the country where they were written. In many cases there is a double date in the letter itself, in others an endorsement (usually in the hand of the Earl of Manchester) supplying the defect where only one date is given. A letter from Venice, for instance, where the new style was in use, may be dated May 12, 1700, or May 1^{er}, 1700, and being dated May 12, 1700, it may be endorsed May 1^{er}, 1700. It was written on a day which was called May 12 in Venice, and May 1 in England. Had it been written in 1699, or as far back as 1583, the day called May 12 in Venice would have been called May 2 in England. It may be imagined that any one who, being unacquainted with the difference of styles, had to assign to their places documents of a period when the two styles were in common use, and when the very difference between them was undergoing a change, would sometimes fall into error, from which the Earl of Manchester himself was not always exempt.

As such mistakes cannot be rectified, except by a process of rebinding, to which there are obvious objections, it only remains to point out how the present arrangement may be deprived of all power to mislead. It would, of course, have been possible to print not the dates upon each of the documents but their equivalents according to the old style in use in England (as affecting days of the month), or according to the new style. That appeared, however, to be taking too great a liberty with the originals, many of which bear the two dates. A note appended to each date, which might be misinterpreted, would have been an incumbrance much to be deprecated. The course adopted has, therefore, been to give in every case the date or dates set upon the document itself by the writer and by the endorser. The years indicated by the figures printed in separate lines are those which are given by the writers. The endorsements, where they occur, are mentioned after the dates written upon the face of each document. This general caution will be sufficient to disclaim responsibility for the order in which the bound papers are placed, and to set any one who may consult them upon his guard. It seems only necessary to add that the rule commonly followed by the various correspondents when they used only one "style" in their dates was to use that of the country in which they happened to be, whether agreeing with that of their own country or not. An Englishman, for instance, writing from Paris used both styles or the new alone; writing from London he used both styles or the old alone.

The first* of the 15 volumes now under consideration belongs to the period of the first Embassy of Charles Earl of Manchester to Venice, to which the documents contained in it chiefly relate. Ambassadors, however, are in receipt of communications from various quarters, by which they are put in possession of the events passing at home and abroad, and the aim of the policy of their own country. Thus, even this volume, which abounds less in such matter than many of the others, contains some correspondence which has no direct relation to the Venetian Embassy. Among others may be mentioned the famous letter of William III. to Lord Chancellor Somers for the secret issue of a Commission to treat for the Partition of Spain, and Somers's answer.† These, however, like a great number of the rest, have been printed in Cole's "Historical and Political Memoirs."

The next six volumes include the time of the Earl's visit as Ambassador Extraordinary to Paris. His first instructions are dated May 30, 1699, and he announces his recall on October 2, 1701. The remarks made upon the first volume are equally applicable to these six, though the latter contain a far greater number of documents relating to the general policy of England and the other European States. They include also some papers of a later date, which (as already explained), have been misplaced by the binder. There are few of any importance which have not been printed wholly or in part by Cole, though the originals may be consulted here in cases in which Cole has supplied only a translation. But among those few may be mentioned a letter* written by the Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Albemarle on the 2nd of July 1701, and never sent. It is a general survey of nearly the whole of the political area of Europe, not a little complicated at this time, when there were various influences at work in the North, when William III. had abandoned his project for the partition of the Spanish dominions, and acknowledged Philip V., the son of the Dauphin, as their ruler, and when Austria was preparing to assert certain claims of her own. The English Succession, like the Spanish, was a subject of great interest both in England and on the Continent. "I should think," says the Earl "a match might be proposed between the Electoral Prince [of Hanover] and the sister of the King of Sweden," with the object of attaching the Swedes to the English alliance.

The Earl's observations upon the attitude of France, the influence of Madame de Maintenon upon it, and her relations with "Madame" are also not without interest.

The six volumes of the "Manchester Correspondence" which relate to the Earl's Embassy to France do not, however, include the whole of the documents of that period. There is a large portfolio or volume containing transcripts of letters written by him to Blathwayt, the Secretary at War, and to Vernon, the Secretary of State. Almost all of them have been printed either wholly or in part by Cole; and the substance of the matter omitted anywhere by him is usually to be found in some other document which he has published. While, therefore, it has been thought right to point out the connexion between this series and the series entitled "Manchester Correspondence," it has not seemed necessary to describe the contents at any great length. One letter, however, in which Vernon is informed of some proceedings of the Jacobites will be found in extenso.‡

The Earl, who was recalled from Paris when the French Court acknowledged the Pretender as King of England upon the death of James II., became Principal Secretary of State in January 1701-2, but retained office only until the following May. The 8th and 9th volumes of the "Manchester Correspondence" consist chiefly of the documents of this brief period, which are valuable, if for no other reason, because they seem to have escaped notice hitherto, and have not, like so many of the others, been printed. In these few months occurred some great political events, including the death of King William III., the accession of Queen Anne, and the expedition of Philip V. of Spain to Naples.

The most numerous, the most lengthy, and in some respects, perhaps, the most important letters in the 8th volume are from M. Schonenberg, the representative of England and the Netherlands at the Court of Madrid. They describe the deplorable condition of Spain with an iteration which becomes somewhat wearisome, and a verbosity which, if the subject were less painful, would be almost ludicrous. The writer, whether Schonenberg himself or his secretary, had a great command of the French vocabulary, of which he was so proud that he made no attempt to attain French terseness of expression. For this reason it has not appeared necessary to print the whole of his correspondence at length. His general view of the situation is made sufficiently plain in one of his earlier communications dated Jan. 25, 1702, of which the greater part will be found translated in full,|| though it is difficult in any translation to do full justice to the original. In the same volume are some letters written by Stepney at Vienna, by Broughton at Venice, and by Sir Lambert Blackwell at Florence; but they are for the most part of no great length, and occupied with minor local details or news repeated at second hand.

The Abbé Melani, too, was in correspondence with the Earl of Manchester, and two of his letters are remarkable. In one¶ he cautions the Earl against Marlborough, who, as he alleged, had been making some enquiries, apparently in a hostile spirit, respecting the delay of the Earl in returning to England from Paris. In another he points out that the death of William III. and the accession of Anne might be converted into a favourable opportunity for establishing good relations between England and France. If Anne would notify her accession to the French Court, he assured the Earl, she would be acknowledged by the King of France as Queen of England, and the mischief done by Ministers who desired war in their own interests would be repaired. It may be questioned whether it was possible for England to take the course thus recom-

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

The Earl
Secretary of State,
1701-2.

Letters from Madrid upon the condition of Spain, &c.

England and France remarkable letters from the Abbé Melani.

* No. 687 (Vol. VI. of the "Manchester Correspondence"), xlii.
† No. 697. ‡ xl. § Nos. 689 and 690.
|| No. 689 (viii). ¶ ii.  xliii.

* No. 68

† lxii. and lxiii

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Letters to and from "Political Agents" or spies abroad.

Mode of conducting the correspondence.

Character of the agents and of their information.

mended in face of the recent recognition of the Pretender by France. But it is not impossible that the Abbé may have been correctly informed, that France would have been glad to avoid a war with England, and that the battles of Blenheim, Ramillies, and Oudenarde need never have been fought, could there have been found any means of surmounting the difficulties of political etiquette.

Both the 8th and the 9th volumes contain some documents of a kind with which the public eye is not familiar. These are letters from persons who are sometimes included in the general description of "Political Agents," but to whom a shorter name may be applied with equal fitness. They should be compared with some papers not included in the "Manchester Correspondence," but placed together in a volume,* entitled "Letters to Political Agents Abroad." The latter show the instructions from the office of the Secretaries of State in England to correspondents willing, for a consideration, to make known as much as they could ascertain of the secrets of the French Court or of the British Court at St. Germain's. The "Manchester Correspondence" shows some of the results. The letters from England are full of complaints that the persons employed seemed more anxious to receive money than to send information of any value. The letters from the Continent for the most part leave the impression that England was hardly as well served by her spies abroad, as France was served by Gregg and Valière in England.

Much of this correspondence was transmitted through agents in Holland or Dutch agents in Paris, who served as links in a long chain between the spy himself and the Secretary of State. There was, for instance, one Hopkins at St. Germain's who betrayed or affected to betray the movements of the Pretender. He was placed in communication with M. Vroesen who was at Paris, but had also the address of a merchant at the Hague in case of need. M. Vroesen sometimes directed to Mr. Morgan, merchant, London, under cover to Mr. Thompson, wine merchant, Garlick Hill. The names, however, of the pretended correspondents in England seem to have been frequently changed, and were in fact mere nominiis umbrae. It was known at the Post Office that certain addresses, however numerous and various, had all one meaning, which was that the letters on which they appeared were to be delivered to the Earl of Manchester.

There was in Paris a M. Martin or Martine, who was entrusted with the management of the affairs of Geneva, and of Hesse-Cassel. He was willing to increase his income, to the extent of 3,000 francs a year, by a correspondence with the Earl of Manchester. Some of his letters have been preserved, as well as some others from Paris which are not in his handwriting, but which may possibly have been sent through him. The most interesting of these is, perhaps, one of great length written from some one in Paris to a correspondent in Holland. It does not supply many details which would be useful to the commander of an army or a fleet, but indicates a feeling of discontent in France at the hardships endured, and the national danger incurred, through the restless ambition of one man. It anticipates the possibility of some such movement as that which was actually brought about in a later generation and took the form of the great Revolution.

Other correspondents were French refugees, the chief of whom was M. Jurieu, in Holland. They either could, or pretended that they could, give information derived from their acquaintances in France. Jurieu had a salary of 3,000 florins from England; and considerable sums were paid to a M. Caillaud, and a M. de la Force. The latter seems to have acted in concert with Hopkins, and remittances were sent for division between the two. Caillaud, like Martine, was expected to discover, above all other matters, the movements of the French navy. Some particulars were, no doubt, ascertained in this way, but by no means so many as the Secretary of State wished to know.

Jurieu's letters are remarkable for his bold justification of his correspondence with the enemies of his country—a justification of which perhaps the very vehemence betrays the sting of conscience. A letter† which might be shown to other persons contains many high flown sentiments upon the abasement of tyrants, the freedom of Europe, and the establishment of the true religion. A postscript intended for the eyes of the Earl of Manchester alone deals with the "petites affaires," (or in other words the mode of remitting money) in a thoroughly business-like fashion.

Among the "Letters to Political Agents Abroad" are some directed to M. Schonenberg, who was to establish, if possible, a "secret correspondence" before he left Madrid. He replied,* more suo, pointing out at great length the dangers which would be incurred by any one who undertook such a task in Spain, and the consequent difficulty of finding such a person. The object, however, seems in the end to have been attained through the agency of the Danish Envoy at Madrid.†

In the 9th volume of the "Manchester Correspondence" there are some official documents relating to the Prince de Montbéliard, two Reports from the Commissioners of Trade upon the American Plantations (of which one is dated January 24, 1701-2, and the other is undated, but must have been made after 1716) and some copies of letters from the King of France and others on the subject of the expedition of Philip V. of Spain to Naples. Here appear the instructions given to Mr. Methuen, as Plenipotentiary at Lisbon, by Queen Anne, for the purpose of detaching Portugal from France and bringing it into the alliance with England. Here also is to be found a paper‡ suggesting grave charges against the physicians who had attended Queen Anne before her accession to the throne. The imputation upon them is that they wilfully and treacherously subjected her to a wrong course of treatment in order that she might not be delivered of a living heir, and thus gave additional strength to the possible claims of the Pretender.

In the 10th volume§ begins the correspondence of the period during which the Earl of Manchester was employed on his second Embassy to Venice. The greater part (as in the case of the two previous Embassies) has been printed by Cole, or in the Duke of Manchester's "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne." Among the exceptions may be mentioned letters from the Earl of Manchester|| to the Duke of Marlborough, from Lord Cowper¶ to the Earl of Manchester (illustrating the habit of deep drinking), from Sir John Norris (on the mishap at Toulon), and from Lord Godolphin†† (on the terms to be offered the Venetians if they would join the Grand Alliance.)

Among the hitherto unpublished papers in the 11th volume‡‡ are a few from Addison. The new matter which they contain is not of any great political importance. But any one interested in the history of English orthography and English style might discover matter for reflection by comparing the original letters of Addison with the original letters of Charles, Earl of Manchester, and with those of the 17th century. Addison though he indulges in the 18th century affectation "you was," shows care in his punctuation, and makes some approach to the modern mode of spelling. He uses "bin" for been, "woud" for would, "ghess" for guess, and other phonetic devices, but sentence often follows sentence written as they might be to-day. The Earl discards punctuation altogether, save an occasional comma, but spells only a little less in the present mode than Addison, though his "opertunity" for opportunity, and his substitution of adjectives for adverbs may often provoke a smile. The difference between these letters and those of the earlier part of the previous century is very striking, though of course even then individuals differed inter se, and in all words of Latin origin approached our recent standard more nearly in proportion as they had received a classical training.

The remarks§§ of Sir P. Medows on an Austrian bear-hunt are only too brief, but there is an exquisite simplicity in his confession that he would "rather go out" of his way to avoid such a creature than travel thirty "miles to pursue it." In one of Stanyan's letters||| there is an indication that the claim of the King of Prussia to Neuchâtel was not successful until some money had been judiciously distributed.

The contents of the 12th volume¶¶ are for the most part Memorials, &c., officially presented, and not calling for any comment. Among the exceptions, however, may be mentioned a note of a wager, between an Italian and an Englishman, upon the issue of the attack upon Toulon, and a letter which seems to have been written by an Italian lady whose acquaintance the Earl of Manchester had made at Venice.†††

In the 13th volume‡‡‡ are bound a considerable number of letters from Addison, many of which are of interest and importance. Most of them, though not quite all, have been printed elsewhere, but not in every case with strict verbal accuracy. Partly for this reason, and

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Miscellaneous
papers:
Queen Anne and her physicians.

Second Embassy of the Earl to Venice,
1707-8.

Letters from Addison:
style and orthography of the 18th century.

Miscellaneous
papers.

The Pretender:
Harkness,
Gregg, and Valière.

* No. 686. † "Manchester Correspondence" Vol. IX: (686) xviii.
‡ "Manchester Correspondence," Vol. VIII. (689) v.

* xxxv. † lvi. ‡ x. § No. 691. || xxv.
¶ lxi.  lxii. †† lxx. ‡‡ No. 692.
§§ xxxix and xlv. ||| xlv. ¶¶ No. 693.
 xix. ††† xxx. ‡‡‡ No. 694.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

partly because they constitute in themselves a little history of the Pretender's attempted landing in Scotland in 1708, of Harley's intrigues and dismissal, and of the proceedings against Gregg and Valière, all the portions of them which refer to those matters are given in full. They may, perhaps, serve to illustrate Addison's orthography which has for that purpose been faithfully preserved.

Harley's schemes were closely associated with the rise "of a bed-chamber woman, whom" to use Addison's words, "he had found out to be his cousin." This was, of course, Mrs. Masham, whose progress in the favour of Queen Anne excited not a little commotion among all who had been in the habit of regarding Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, as the most powerful of patronesses. "The lady I formerly mentioned," says Addison, in a letter* not previously printed, "maintains her post still "in spite of opposition."

Remarks in illustration of this subject are frequent also in the 14th volume.† It was reported that Mrs. Masham's husband was to be created Earl of Dover,‡ but the story seems to have arisen simply out of the panic excited in some quarters by her rapid rise, as there was no more foundation for it than the simple fact that the Duke of Queensberry was made Duke of Dover. About the same time (May 1708) Vanbrugh wrote to the Earl of Manchester, telling him "my "Lady Marlborough now goes very often to Court and "is in perfect good humour. I hope all will keep "right."§ On July 27th he referred to the subject again, when although the Duchess of Marlborough was "mighty well at Court, the Queen's fondness of t'other "lady was not to be expressed."

Notwithstanding the possible decline of the Duchess's power, the Earl of Manchester showed not the least diminution in his friendship for her. He had cultivated a taste not only for music but for many of the arts; and as the Duchess was looking forward to the furnishing of Blenheim, he threw himself into the consideration of the damasks and velvets required by her with much ardour, and with great anxiety that she should not be put to unnecessary expense. The details given by him throw some light upon the state of the manufactures of Genoa and Venice, and may appear valuable to persons who take an interest in upholstery. There are also some letters from the Duchess in which she expresses her thanks and her desire to be of service to the Earl. In this, as in all the other volumes relating to the Embassy to Venice, there is much correspondence showing the various political and military movements on the Continent during a very exciting period. The facts, however, are sufficiently well known to historians, and many of the documents (including some written or signed by the Duke of Marlborough) have been printed.

The contents of the 15th volume|| are very miscellaneous. Many of the papers have an indirect relation to the Venetian Embassy, being notes of the conduct and instructions of previous Envoys, as far back as 1560, and of their reception at Venice. One¶ which is undated, but which internal evidence proves to be of the period when the civil war between Charles I. and the Parliament was beginning, is worth attention, as showing the attitude of some of the continental Powers at that time, and the superstition with which an alleged apparition of fiery and bloody rods and a sword in the heavens was regarded. There are a few documents of the year 1715, showing some of the precautions taken against the Pretender; and at the end is an "account "of what was bought at Venice for her Grace the "Duchess of Marlborough."††

With the exception of those bound in the 15th volume of the "Manchester Correspondence" there is but one document in the collection which can be assigned to the reign of George I., and even that has no date but Feb. 24. It is a letter‡‡ from Sarah Duchess of Marlborough, thanking some one, probably the Earl of Manchester, for some tickets. The occasion may possibly have been the proceedings against the rebels taken after the rebellion of 1715.

The Earl was created a duke in 1719. He received a letter§§ from his old friend the Duchess of Marlborough on the subject of a purchase of land which she intended to make, in August 1729, and another * of much greater interest in August 1733. She had been asked to lend her influence for the return of Mr. Pigott as a member of Parliament, and she very frankly explained to the Duke of Manchester her reasons for declining. She knew what his "Grace had been obliged to vote, and likewise what my "Lord Robert Montagu must vote for the same reason," and she would oppose "any man living who had voted "not to look into the public accounts and several other "things that the nation had a right to be satisfied in, "but had been disappointed by a corrupt majority." The whole letter, though only signed in her own handwriting, is very characteristic, and is the last of hers found among the Manchester MSS.

An intimate friend of the first Duke of Manchester, Savile Cust, whose name frequently appears in the family settlements, wrote him, under the singular date of June 31st, 1742, a long gossiping letter,† which includes some particulars of an attempt of the Pretender to carry on a correspondence with the Duke of Argyll, as well as some strictures upon the Report of the Secret Committee, and its reception in the House of Commons. The letter‡ next in order, written by J. Laroche, deals also with the latter subject at some length. The Report itself appears in full in the Journals of the House.§ but it may be of some interest to note how particular points in it affected the hearers, and how the members who served upon it, and others, conducted themselves when it was presented.

With the exception of some meagre drafts relating to an Association in Huntingdonshire for the protection of George II., and an abstract of military estimates for the year 1746, there are no documents to throw light either on the rising of 1745, or on political events during the rest of the King's reign. The only paper that seems to deserve mention is a letter|| from Lady Oxenden, which is dated May 8th, and though the year is not stated, was evidently written just after Pitt was made Paymaster in 1746. She gives Sir George Oxenden's views of the appointment in somewhat forcible language, though she leaves some blanks which it is easy to fill up. "The "way to obtain the most profitable employments in the "nation is to abase and vilify in the House of C[ommons] the person who wears the" [purple, or crown].

There is, however, a collection of letters¶ from George Montagu to Horace Walpole, beginning towards the end of the reign of George II., and extending to the year 1770. Unlike most of the MSS., they were, with two exceptions, found in a packet by themselves, and to some extent arranged in chronological order. Most of them are without dates either of the year or of the month; but it is nevertheless possible to assign almost every one of them to its proper place from internal evidence of one kind or other, or by comparison with the letters written by Walpole to Montagu. Some of them have short rough notes scribbled by Walpole on the back.

Prefixed to these letters is now a *chanson written by Walpole in French, with a translation, also by Walpole, in English. It was found among some papers of the period of James I., and has probably not been hitherto printed. The Lisette of the French version and the Chloe of the English are names given to Lady Caroline Petersham. She did not smile upon the suit of Col. Conway, who is supposed to be the speaker in the chanson. It is difficult to fix the exact date of the composition, but it must have been written somewhat early in the career of Lady Caroline, and therefore before any of the letters of George Montagu, preserved in this collection, the first of which may belong to the year 1754.

Montagu's letters hardly gratify the expectations raised by the name of the writer. "George Montagu," writest† Walpole to the Earl of Strafford, on Aug. 1, "1783, said of our last earthquake that it was so tame "you might have stroked it." This is a flash of humour worthy of Walpole himself; and in a few of the letters there are similar touches of drollery which, perhaps, please the more because they occur unexpectedly. Montagu, however, seems to have been an indolent man, to whom letter-writing was a troublesome task, rather than the agreeable business that it was to Walpole. He often apologises for sending a mere "dab" in reply to one of

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

The Earl of Manchester created a Duke: last letters from the Duchess of Marlborough.

Miscellaneous papers: Sir George Oxenden's opinion of Pitt.

Letters of George Montagu to Horace Walpole.

A chanson by Walpole prefixed.

Character of Montagu and of his correspondence.

* lviii.

§ x.

xxi-xxiii.

† No. 695.

|| No. 696.

†† xxxii.

§§ No. 700.

‡ ix. and xvii.

¶ ii.

‡‡ No. 699.

* No. 702. † No. 703. ‡ No. 704. § Vol. XXIV., p. 289.

|| No. 713a. ¶ No. 719-902.  No. 718.

†† Horace Walpole's Letters, Ed. Cunningham, viii. 393.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

his brilliant friend's descriptions of society. When he is at Greatworth he has too little to tell, and when he is in Dublin he has too much to do; he is usually ready enough with an excuse, but seldom taxes his ingenuity further. Sickness and annoyance are for him the greatest incitements to epistolary effort. He becomes eloquent and witty on the subject of rheumatism; and he says sharp things of his cousin Lord Halifax and Miss Falkener, especially when there is no prospect that Lord Halifax will give him an appointment. When he is at his best he writes with much of the freedom, though little of the ease, of Walpole. He uses many words that gentlemen of the present day would hardly put upon paper, but there are some at which he stops short, and for which he judiciously leaves a blank.

His appreciation of Walpole and of Walpole's letters.

Although Montagu does not hesitate to speak ill of his benefactor, both before and after receiving benefits from Halifax, though he sneers at "Little Garrick," and rarely has a good word to say of "Cliquetis" (or Bentley), he seems nevertheless to have had a sincere regard for Walpole. Not the least of the elements of interest in his letters is the firm belief which he displays in Walpole's kindness of disposition. One* of them, indeed, illustrates the contrast which may sometimes be observed between the words and the acts of Walpole. It is difficult enough to discover in Walpole's own letters any mention of Rousseau which does not appear upon the surface ill-natured and even malicious. Of all the severe things that Walpole ever said, the most severe were, perhaps said against Rousseau; and the pretended letter from the King of Prussia must have given a cruel wound to the sensitive Frenchman. Yet we know from Walpole's own narrative,† that he did all he could to improve the fortunes of Rousseau; and this letter from Montagu expresses satisfaction that Walpole had been so kind as to assist him.

Walpole, in writing such letters as he alone could write to Montagu, was by no means throwing his pearls before swine, for if, as Byron said "appreciation is a talent" Montagu undoubtedly possessed it. "Think" he says‡ "what a treasure they will be a hundred years hence to a Madame de Sevigné of the house of "Montagu;" and for that reason they were to be "bequeathed with the most solemn trusts and precautions to the last Cu of the Cudoms"—the last representative of the house of Montagu.

Montagu's letters before he went to Dublin.

Montagu's own letters, too, although disappointing to any one who hopes to find in him a second Walpole, afford some amusing glimpses of life, manners, and character. When he obtained his appointment as Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod to Lord Halifax in Ireland he became "all life from the baldness of his crown to the gout in his foot."§ As a plain country gentleman he dilates upon the advantages of a life without ambition, but as an official of the future he becomes very anxious about his personal appearance, consults Walpole on the details of dress, and even touches on a still more delicate subject. "I have a notion," he says "that as my hair is very thin and bald a tour such as you wear would be of service to my deformities.¶

His letters while Usher of the Black Rod in Ireland.

When at Dublin Montagu tells|| how on a certain day (probably the 4th of November the birthday of William III.) every coach in the city paraded round King William's statue, "and every man was drunk to the memory of Old Glorious by six." In another letter he says "I have had one of my small officers dead, and in "Ireland everything goes to market, and Charles [his brother General Montagu] is now trafficking for me." He also tells a strange story†† about "M. de Novillar, "Chevalier de Malte, a young officer that was killed at the attack at Carrickfergus." Montagu had "got his "pocket book with his engagements, little songs, and "two pictures of his mistresses. I have sent" the letter continues "to have him decently buried, for they "used to take him out of his grave by his fine long "hair to show the French enemy."

Montagu held the appointment in Ireland only a few months, and Greatworth soon "restored him to honest "George from the riotous usher." After that time, as before, he frequently sympathises with Walpole, as Walpole sympathises with him, on the gout. He denied that his own afflictions were caused by intemperance, though he often owns to a great consumption of claret in Ireland, "but," writes‡‡ he to Walpole, "all wine you think excess."

In describing a visit to Oxford (apparently at Commemoration time) Montagu tells§§ how "a parson played "on the kettle-drum at the Oratorio, and Parson "Fletcher had a beam from one of the windows fall on "his head, but he was brute enough to sit with a vast "beaver on which preserved his brains." Visits to country houses are also noticed, and often in a similar strain.

The names of Mr. Chute, Mrs. Clive, and the Bentleys are those which are perhaps most frequently mentioned, though Montagu touches briefly on a great variety of subjects and of persons—from Cumberland's Comic Opera to the Duke of Cumberland on the stage—and from an Archbishop's ring to one of Quin's bons mots. The letters, as a whole, are the more interesting from the fact that very few of them appear to have been printed either wholly or in part. Some extracts from them are given in Mr. Cunningham's edition of Walpole's Letters, to which references have been made as occasion required.

In the reign of George III. the political papers of this collection again become numerous, but most of them have reference to one very brief though very critical period. From the King's accession in 1760 to the end of the year 1781 there are hardly more than a score of documents. Among them, however, may be mentioned two volumes* of "Intelligence," or information relating to the movements (chiefly naval) of Foreign Powers, a few detached pieces of a similar nature, some comments on the Navy Estimates, two letters† from J. Blankett describing the position of affairs at the Cape of Good Hope and the ease with which the Dutch colony there might be converted into a valuable "entrepôt" (under English Government) between Europe and India, another‡ showing how Ceylon also might be taken from the Dutch by the English, and one§ from Admiral Rodney which is undirected, and in which he complains of want of succours.

Not until March 1782 are there any indications of the conspicuous position that George, fourth Duke of Manchester, was about to take in public affairs. In that and the following month he was in correspondence with the Marquis of Rockingham (a few short but confidential notes|| from whom have been preserved) upon his acceptance of the office of Lord Chamberlain in succession to Lord Hertford. The Marquis died in the following July, and his successor was the Earl of Shelburne, during whose administration, Provisional Articles of Peace with the United States were signed at Paris on Nov. 30th, 1782, and Preliminary Articles with France and Spain at Versailles on Jan. 20, 1783. In the negotiations which led to these results the Duke of Manchester had no part, though he successfully concluded the general pacification in which they were important steps. His connexion was with the Marquis of Rockingham, the Duke of Portland, and Mr. Fox rather than with the Earl of Shelburne, between whom and Mr. Fox there was, as is well known, so great a breach that the latter did not hold office under the premiership of the Earl.

In April 1783 a new Ministry was formed under the Duke of Portland; and the Duke of Manchester was at once selected for the post of Ambassador Extraordinary at Paris to conclude the negotiations for Peace. He was of course placed in possession of full information with respect to all the earlier proceedings, and the MSS. which have remained in his family include transcripts of the correspondence of Mr. Grenville and Mr. Alleyne Fitzherbert.

There are not, however, any letters from or to Mr. Oswald, who played a prominent part in the first attempts to effect a treaty with the revolted American States, and his name is only once or twice even incidentally mentioned. The omission is strange, but may be only accidental. This very critical period, however, in English history was marked not only by losses abroad, but also by some bitter animosities even among members of the same party at home. As a nominee of Lord Shelburne, Mr. Oswald was not regarded with the highest favour by those statesmen who were on the side of the Duke of Portland and Mr. Fox. It is possible that the absence of all his correspondence from the present collection may be in part attributable to this cause. His position and the authority upon which he acted in Paris, are described in Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice's "Life of the Earl of Shelburne." There seems to be some reference to the animus against him in one of Fox's letters in the present collection, which will be mentioned in another place.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Papers of the reign of George III. Naval and Colonial affairs.

Administrations of the Marquis of Rockingham, the Earl of Shelburne, and the Duke of Portland.

Peace negotiations: Grenville, Fitzherbert, and the Duke of Manchester.

Mr. Oswald, Lord Shelburne, and Mr. Fox.

* No. 874. † Works IV., 249, et seq. ‡ No. 737. § No. 763.

|| No. 759. ¶ No. 770.

†† No. 787.

‡‡ No. 805.

§§ No. 813.

* No. 809 and 922.

† No. 913.

‡ No. 915.

† No. 911 and 914.

‡ No. 926-929, 931.

THE OF SCHERS-
FER. cripts ficial atches, 1782-3,
lumes.

The documents relating to the various negotiations are partly in the form of detached pieces, of which many are originals, and partly in the form of volumes of transcripts.* The latter begin, as early as 1753, with some correspondence relating to Turk's Islands. The greater portion of them however is occupied with the transactions for which the administrations of Lord Rockingham, Lord Shelburne, and the Duke of Portland were responsible. They include, though not always in strict chronological order, the "Negotiations of Mr. Grenville at Paris," (April 30, 1782, to July 9, 1782"), the "Correspondence of Lord Grantham [and of Mr. Fox] Secretary of State, with Alleyne Fitzherbert Esq., Minister Plenipotentiary at Paris," (Aug. 9, 1782, to May 30, 1783), the "Correspondence of Alleyne Fitzherbert Esq., Minister Plenipotentiary at Paris, with Lord Grantham, Secretary of State," as well as with Mr. Fox (Nov. 29, 1782, to May 3, 1782), the "Correspondence of C. J. Fox, Secretary of State, with the Duke of Manchester, Ambassador at Paris," (April 29, 1783, to December 2, 1783), the "Correspondence of the Duke of Manchester with C. J. Fox, Secretary of State," (May 11th, 1783, to December 7th, 1783), and a few other letters extending to the year 1787.

r rela-
to the s of Papers ferred
the sign
o

These transcripts, so far as they relate to the proceedings of Grenville, Fitzherbert, and the Duke of Manchester, are merely copies of State Papers, or official despatches, numbered for reference in their respective series, the originals or official drafts of which either exist or must at some time have existed among the Foreign Office Papers. It will be remarked that in the Duke of Manchester's collection, most, though not quite all of the letters from Alleyne Fitzherbert to Lord Grantham are wanting, but that copies of almost all the letters from Lord Grantham to Mr. Fitzherbert have been preserved. The cause may possibly be the same as that which has excluded the correspondence of Mr. Oswald: it may be either accident or design in both cases, or accident in one, and design in the other. But though these deficiencies seem deserving of notice, it should be remarked also, that there are among the Kimbolton transcripts some documents which are either altogether wanting in the Foreign Office series, or, at any rate, not to be found there in their proper place.

In the descriptions of these transcripts printed in a subsequent page, the relations between the "State Papers," commonly so called, and the Manchester MSS. are more minutely set forth. As it is a Foreign Office regulation that papers of a date later than the death of George II., are not open to public inspection without special permission, it is obvious that they cannot, as yet, be calendared like those of an earlier period. It may, however, perhaps, without presumption be suggested, that whenever a calendar of them may be in contemplation it can hardly be rendered complete or even intelligible without reference to the Manchester MSS.

urate
pre, inal and rwise: general
acter:
r rela-
to the sign
e series.

The foregoing remarks apply not only to the volumes of transcripts, but also to the separate papers in the Manchester collection which relate to the conclusion of the Peace of 1783. In some respects indeed they apply more strongly to the latter; for in many instances the original exists among the Manchester MSS., and a copy only, or not even a copy among the State Papers of the Foreign Office series. Each collection is in fact supplementary to the other; a letter may be found in one, the answer to it in the other, a postscript in one but not in the other, an enclosure in one, the reference to it in the other. The volumes of transcripts, as being but transcripts, are obviously of less value than original documents, and, being to a great extent identical with the "State Papers," seem to require only that their relation to those State Papers should be made known. The detached pieces, however, have been described individually, and the contents of some of them have been printed in full. Their true position and worth, however, could be shown only by a complete calendar including both them and the State Papers, of which they are an essential part.

These papers, separately numbered, are of various kinds. Some are duplicates, or originals, or original drafts of the documents of which there are transcripts in the volumes already described. Many are drafts or copies of the Preliminary Treaties and Definitive Treaties, and of the several Articles of them, often with observations upon each particular point. Many are letters received by the Duke of Manchester from Foreign Ministers, including M. le Comte de Vergennes, M. le Maréchal de Castries, and M. le Comte d'Aranda, or written by him to them. Many are from the British Ministers at foreign courts, including among others Viscount Torrington who was at Brussels, D. G. Jacmar who was at Turin, Sir Robert Murray Keith who was at Vienna, Thomas Wroughton who was at Stockholm, Horace Mann who was at Florence, Lord Dalrymple who was at Warsaw, Sir John Stepney who was at Berlin, Robert Liston who was at Madrid, Sir James Harris who was at St. Petersburg, and Sir Robert Ainslie who was at Constantinople.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

The information transmitted by the British Ministers at Foreign Courts to the Duke of Manchester was, of course, also transmitted by them to the other British Ministers abroad, and directly to the Secretary of State in England. It cannot, therefore, be of any great novelty, though there is a possibility that there might be here and there an expression or a sentence which might help to throw light upon doubtful points or even make good some important omission.

The letters from the French Ministers, M. de Vergennes and M. de Castries, from the Spanish Ambassador at Paris, M. d'Aranda, and from the Dutch Ministers at Paris, Messrs. Van Berkenroode and Brantzen, are for the most part originals. In some instances a copy may be found in the "State Papers (France)" in the Public Record Office, but in others not even a copy. Copies and drafts of the various Treaties and separate Articles of Treaties exist, of course, among the State Papers.

Not the least important feature in this portion of the collection is the evidence which it affords that the documents yet to be brought to light through the Historical Manuscripts Commission may be expected to make good numerous omissions in the correspondence preserved at the Foreign Office and transferred thence to the State Paper Office or Public Record Office. It would probably be discovered, in every case in which the manuscripts of an Ambassador have been preserved, that the foreign "State Papers" might be supplemented in the same manner as by the Manchester papers. In many instances communications of a strictly public nature have, there is every reason to believe, been preserved only in this manner, and in all there would be found private notes certainly not less important.

Omissions
in State Paper
Series made good by private collections.

Among the letters in the present collection which relate to the Peace of 1783, and the political movements of the period, those will probably be thought of greatest interest which passed between the Duke of Portland and Mr. Fox, on the one hand, and the Duke of Manchester on the other, in a non-official form. The originals of Mr. Fox's* and of the Duke of Portland's† private letters have been preserved, and the copies or drafts of the Duke of Manchester's private letters‡ to them are in his own handwriting.

Private correspondence of the Duke of Manchester, when Ambassador
at Paris, with the
Duke of Portland
and Mr.
Fox.

In some instances Lord John (afterwards Earl) Russell has had access to drafts or copies of Mr. Fox's official correspondence with the Duke of Manchester, and has printed them in his "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox." He does not, however, appear to have made use of the Kimbolton collection, and most of the private letters that passed between the Duke and Mr. Fox seem to have escaped publication at the hands either of Earl Russell or of others.

Among the most remarkable points in the private correspondence may be mentioned a difficulty about the Duke's "appointments" in his capacity of Ambassador. It is frequently mentioned both by Fox and by the Duke of Portland. Fox promised his "utmost exertions" to have the sum made sufficient "not only out of good will, but from a conviction that the public service required it." The obstacle he said "is the particular situation in which we stand with respect to the Civil List."§ The Duke of Portland wrote:—"I am only sorry that the state of the Civil List in no degree corresponds with the expectations we were encouraged to entertain||" and added the following very forcible expressions, "It should seem that the persons who have apportioned the different heads of expenditure were influenced by the same fatal policy that has contributed in a great measure to the deplorable situation to which this country is reduced, and that they imagined Foreign Negotiations to be as useless as Foreign Alliances, for they have allotted no more than 4,500l. in aid of present appointments for Foreign Ministers, and have totally forgot that such a personage is necessary at the Hague. Your

The Amba-
sador's
"appointments;"
opinions of the Duke of Portland
and Mr.
Fox.

* Nos. 956, 957, 974, 975, 1038, 1096, 1108, 1120, 1141, 1148, 1156, 1167, 1168, 1175, 1200, 1202, 1204, 1209, 1229, 1250, 1254, 1268, and 1273.

† Nos. 978, 1157, 1162, 1208, 1212, 1218, 1244, 1316.

‡ Nos. 1116, 1134, 1135, 1146, 1147, 1149, 1182, 1184, 1206, 1219, 1236.

§ No. 974.

|| No. 976.

* Nos. 1220-1223.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"Grace may, however, depend upon my best and earliest endeavours to make your situation suitable to the very reasonable and just wishes you express, and that in conjunction with Mr. Fox I shall hope to find out the means of putting the employment you have been so kind as to undertake upon such a footing as may no longer render it an object of terror to persons whose fortunes do not keep pace with their abilities."

The United States; Oswald, Hartley, Franklin, and Fox.

One of Fox's earliest letters* to the Duke contains a reference to the American negotiations, and introduces Mr. Oswald's name in a manner suggesting that there had been some previous dissensions respecting him, "I have directed Mr. Hartley to hold upon all occasions the most confidential intercourse with your Grace, and you will therefore perceive that he has either mistaken or been inadvertent to my instructions upon a most material point when you read my despatch to him of this date. I own I rely very much upon your prudence to prevent him, for the future, from going so very fast, for I can attribute to nothing but hurry the very strange error he has committed in this instance. If he lets himself be taken in by Franklin he will disgrace both himself and us, especially after all that some of us have said upon Oswald's negotiation." These letters were written in May 1783.

An "ungracious" remark of the King upon the Ambassador.

In July the Duke of Manchester wrote to Mr. Fox a letter† showing that he was much pained by some remarks which had been made by the King. "As far as my talents or my assiduity could reach," he says, "everything has been done that could be done by me to serve my country and my King, and I can on reflection sincerely say I have on this point nothing to reproach myself with. I flatter myself that you and the rest of my friends in the Cabinet will think so; I cannot expect the same good fortune elsewhere, as his Majesty, I find, is not contented with me. In a conversation with Lord Ludlow, I am told the King asked rather peevishly what I was doing, why I was so slow. You know the reasons, and I hope you will justify me, should there be occasion. He expressed likewise a dissatisfaction at my private secretary, who I have every reason to be pleased with and to confide in. He is very diligent and attentive; however, as I never will, in an affair so important to the Public, have any ground of jealousy that may be in my power to get rid of, I will, as soon as it may be done without giving an offence to a man who does not merit it, remove him from his present employment; but I must feel hurt that his Majesty places so little confidence in me; it is indeed ungracious."

To this Mr. Fox evidently replies‡ immediately, when he says, "I shall always be ready to bear testimony that the imputation you allude to is the most unfounded of any I ever heard thrown out, and is so notoriously contradicted by facts that it could only arise from some momentary ill humour. You have a right to my testimony upon all subjects but upon none more than upon the individual point."

Suspicion of an intrigue between the Comte de Vergennes and Lord Shelburne.

The jealousy which subsisted between the parties of the Duke of Portland and Mr. Fox on one side, and of Lord Shelburne on the other, of which there is a suggestion in the remark upon Mr. Oswald, reappears in a note§ dated July 18, from the Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox: "I write this merely to inform you that the Comte de Vergennes is in correspondence with Lord Shelburne, which I think it right you should know; as a proof, he has proposed to Abbé Morlé, who is a friend of Lord Shelburne's, and an able intriguing man, to go and visit his Lordship at Spa, and, to induce him to do so, has acquainted him his expenses will be defrayed." The same subject is touched in a subsequent letter|| dated July 31:—"I have great reason to believe the Comte de Vergennes has some correspondence that may not at this moment, perhaps, forward our business. A remarkable thing has just happened—the Abbé Morlé, whom I mentioned to you in a former letter, has got a pension granted to him by the Comte de Vergennes upon the avowed recommendation of the Earl of Shelburne. This, though it may arise from an innocent motive, you will allow, has, at this instant a singular appearance."

Mr. Fox on De Vergennes, Shelburne and his

Mr. Fox replied on Aug. 4:—"I thank you for your intelligence respecting Vergennes; the correspondence you allude to ought to be watched as closely as possible. I believe the real reason why he is so dissatisfied with us is our refusal to join in the Oriental business; and I believe he thinks (in which he may be deceived too), that Shelburne would have acted with him in this affair. I am sure I never will. Your Grace knows my sentiments upon the necessity of this country's forming a connexion with the Northern Powers of Europe too well to make it necessary for me to repeat them. You may tell both the Russian and Austrian Ministers in confidence, if there is an opportunity, that you know my sentiments are favourable to them, and that England will probably give them every assistance she can without going to war herself. You will of course not say this unless a fair opportunity offers, and then you will mention it as your opinion from your knowledge of my way of thinking, and not as anything you have in charge to say."

The Duke of Portland also in a letter* dated September 4th, refers apparently, among various other matters, to the connexion of the Abbé Morlé with Lord Shelburne: "In consequence of the visit which you told Mr. Fox was to be made to Spa, my curiosity prompted me to enquire whether there had been any correspondence previous or subsequent to it, and I do not find that more than two letters have been received from our countryman since the 2nd April; one of those is dated 24th May, the other 8th June, but they contain nothing material—only general congratulations and assurances that the present can only be a Summer Administration, and that he hopes to renew his correspondence on public affairs (I understand in a ministerial capacity), soon after the opening of the next Session. This intelligence I received on the 16th of last month."

In the same letter there is a discussion of the qualifications of "Gibbon, Dudley Long, Tom Walpole's son, Mr. William Ponsonby, Mr. Charles O'Hara, and 'Fawkener,'" apparently for the Secretaryship of the Embassy. There is also another reference to the Duke of Manchester's "appointments," which the Prime Minister had not relinquished "the idea of rendering adequate to the station."

At the end there is the following postscript:—"I omitted to tell you that in a conversation with His Majesty upon your subject he did you great justice, but asked me insidiously enough if I knew what your opinion was of the introduction of M. de Breteuil into the French Cabinet. He observed that B. could not be brought there for nothing, that he could not be a cipher. What made it strike me at that time was that you had not mentioned the event in any of your public despatches—I mean those which are communicated to His Majesty."

It may perhaps be doubtful what is the precise meaning of this passage as addressed by the Duke of Portland to the Duke of Manchester. The circumstances however to which the King must have referred, are those described in a previous letter† (of the private and confidential kind), from the Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox:—"There is a great deal of political intriguing now going on here, and the party of the Comte de Vergennes does not appear strong; they say he got his employment merely from his being thought more a man of business than some of his competitors, but the Queen's influence must be very great, and though he seems to accommodate himself very much to her wishes, yet he is not properly with her party. The promotion of the Baron de Breteuil does not seem to be to his advantage; the Queen has long pushed for his being employed, and though he has not at present any immediate Department, having quitted the Embassy of Vienna, in order to be called to the Council as a Minister, there is little doubt but that he will be soon employed in a conspicuous manner."

In this private correspondence, as in the official documents, there are, of course, numerous details relating to individual points of the negotiations. Among them may be mentioned the desire of the Dutch for a renewal of their alliance with England, and the difficulty with Spain respecting the 6th Article which referred to the "Mosquito Shore." Lord John Russell refrained from printing some of Mr. Fox's letters on the latter subject under the apprehension that they might be "tedious;"‡ and none of these matters seem to call for further notice in the present introduction.

After the signature of the Treaties of Peace on September 3rd, the Duke of Manchester's duties as Ambassador Extraordinary were practically at an end; and on

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
own foreign policy.

The suspicion against Lord Shelburne not confirmed.

The Secretaryship, and "appointments" of the Embassy.

An "insidious" remark made by the King.

French political intrigues: the Comte de Vergennes and the Baron de Breteuil.

The Duke of Portland and the India Bill.

* No. 975. † No. 1116. ‡ No. 1120. § No. 1135 (second draft). || No. 1149. ¶ No. 1150.

* No. 1192. † No. 1149. ‡ Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox. II. 134.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
Governorship of India offered to
Duke of
Manchester.

the twentieth of the same month the Duke of Portland, in a letter marked "most secret," offered him a new and most important employment in words* interesting from the insight they afford into that India Bill which was introduced into the House of Commons in the following November, and passed, but which was obnoxious to the King and led to the overthrow of the Ministry.

"It is not only since I have now been in office, but for years back, that my mind has been distressed with regard to the hands in which the Government of the East Indies should be placed on the removal of Mr. Hastings; and it is only since I have formed the resolution of proposing it to your Grace that I have felt perfectly in repose by the satisfaction which I am conscious of being entitled to by having thus religiously discharged my duty to the Public in that part of the globe as well as in this. The circumstances of that country are too well known to you to make it necessary for me to enter into any detail of them, and I will therefore confine myself shortly but confidentially to state to you my ideas of the reform which it will be proper and essential to effect before I should wish to expose you in a situation where all your efforts might be useless, except a good and stable Government could be established at home, so far at least as relates to the administration of East Indian affairs. Considering the very great disorder that prevails throughout the whole of that system, the corruption of the Proprietary, who are become the instruments as they are in general the creatures of the Company's servants in India, who through them control the Court of Directors, considering besides the very great sum in which the Company is indebted to the Public (not by means of extortion, but by duties which they have not been able as yet to discharge), it appears to be incumbent on us to form an Administration for them in this country as well as in India, which shall be independent of the Proprietors for a certain number of years (not less certainly than three, and probably not exceeding five), which I would make equal in number to the present Direction, but would alter the composition of by throwing into it members of both Houses of Parliament who would be able and willing to undertake the charge. This idea has been already confidentially discussed, not generally in the Cabinet, but with Lord North who concurs in it, and with some of our principal and most active friends both in the Lords and Commons, and also with such of the Directors and Proprietors as it could be opened to with safety, and I think it is so far advanced as that it may be considered as a measure upon which the existence of the present Administration will be fairly tested, and may be risked with credit, for though it is strong and unprecedented, and may wear the appearance of violence and injustice, the evil which it is to remedy is grown so rank, all palliatives have been proved so ineffectual, the cure is of so much importance to the existence and character of the nation that I pant for the experiment, on the success of which the happiness of millions and the restoration of our national character seem essentially to depend. My proposal to you, therefore, is conditional; neither do I offer it to your consideration nor wish for your acceptance of it upon other terms than the formation of such an Administration here as can effectually support you in the reformation which it is our duty as Christians, as much as Statesmen, to attempt in the East Indies. . . . I have not communicated my design of submitting this proposition to you to any person whatever but Charles Fox, who most heartily concurs in the very anxious wishes I express for its being adopted by you."

The Duke of Manchester, though approving of the measures proposed by the Duke of Portland and Mr. Fox, hesitated to accept the appointment of Governor-General of India. He withheld his final decision until he should have had an opportunity of consulting the Duchess.† He was pressed more than once to undertake the arduous duties of the office, but in the end firmly declined.

The terms in which he mentions the Duchess seem worth quoting for more reasons than one. "I can do no more than to request you to permit me to confide the "secret" to one person, and consult one counsellor, who "is too much interested in this affair for me to take any "absolute decision without her, and whose strength of "mind I know is equal to any proposition." Her views upon the subject quite coincided with the Duke's, and her influence, no doubt, finally determined him. Some of her letters have been preserved, and prove that his estimation of her was not, in the least degree, too high. They show her to have been a most affectionate wife and mother, as well as a lady of a noble and graceful mind. They contain, however, so many matters which are of a strictly private nature, that they could not with propriety be treated as part of a historical collection, and they have therefore been sent back to Kimbolton.

Fox appears to have foreseen danger from the India Bill before it had even passed the Commons. "I am "very sorry" he writes* on Nov. 1, "that you have "determined as you have about the East Indian business. "It will be a troublesome affair here; and in the House "of Lords in particular I am afraid the Duke of Port- "land will meet with much opposition, so that your "Grace's presence and support may be peculiarly de- "sirable."

At the time at which the Governorship of India was offered to the Duke of Manchester, another subject, if less important, was almost equally embarrassing both to him and to the Ministry. "I had the King's commands," writes† the Duke of Portland, "to write to you "to know the value of the present you had received "from His Most Christian Majesty, as well as of those "which have been given to the Ambassadors and Minis- "ters of the mediating Powers, and to your Secretary, "to whom I think you say that a snuff-box has been "or is intended to be presented in the French King's "name. I am also commanded to inform you that His "Majesty sat yesterday for his picture, and to observe to "you that in this country it is necessary to bespeak the "ornamental part of these trifles, and that our workmen "who are attentive to the finishing of their work re- "quire time for that purpose. I tell you in confidence that "His Majesty expresses his particular reluctance at "being obliged to make these presents on this occasion "in addition to that which he feels generally at this "mode of disposing of his money. His wish is that the "presents to each of the Ambassadors, and M. de Ver- "gennes, should not exceed 1,000*l.* each, and that those "to the Russian Plenipotentiaries should be of an infe- "rior value. He was very indecisive upon the propriety "of making any present to M. de Vergennes's Secre- "tary, but upon that much will depend upon what is "done by the other Powers. My own opinion is clear "that if the presents from our Court are not equal to "those of the Courts of France and Spain, it would be "infinitely better to make none at all, and that it never "can be worth a saving of 2,000*l.* or 3,000*l.*, to act "shabbily in trifles which notwithstanding reflect upon "the national character. I therefore desire you would "not keep anything back for the purpose of gratifying "a certain petitesse d'esprit, which, perhaps, disposes me "to be more out of humour than the thing is worth."

Fox seems to have held the same views‡ upon this subject, though he puts the matter somewhat differ- "ently:—"I have not seen the Duke of Portland since "I received your private letter of the 30th, relative to "the presents made to the Duchess of Manchester, and "consequently can say nothing to it, as everything "relating to presents has passed between him and the "King. Indeed, I wished it should be so, because I felt "myself awkward in recommending expenses which I "did not know whether the Treasury were able to pay. "I am for doing the whole as magnificently as possible, "and, if the Duke of Portland can find money, I believe "he is of the same opinion." In a previous letter§ he, like the Duke of Portland, laments the King's "awk- "wardness upon these little matters."

There remains but little else in the collection which seems to require special comment. The approaching French Revolution is foreshadowed in some letters from Captain Taylor, a political agent, but the events which he describes do not present any novel features. There is, too, a note from Burke to the Duke of Manchester, in which|| he enclosed the first Article of the accusations against Warren Hastings, and another¶ in which he congratulated Lord Hawkesbury (the future Earl of Liverpool and Prime Minister), upon his first and very successful speech in the House of Commons.

At the end is a letter, with an enclosure, from Baron de Harold, a Major-General in "the Elector Bavaro-Palatine's service," addressed to the Duke of Manchester. This German Baron was the author of a "Complete Epic Poem in eleven books or cantos, on the "French Revolution, in English blank verse." He did not, in his own person, draw comparisons between him- self and any English authors to their disadvantage, but sent "a complimentary Latin poem" upon himself, which he had received from "one of the most learned "Societies in Europe." The name of this distinguished body is, from modesty or some other cause, withheld—a

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
Fox's apprehensions respecting the India
Bill.

The Duke of Portland on the presents to be exchanged at the conclusion of Peace; the King's reluctance to make them.

Fox's opinion on the subject.

Miscellaneous papers;
notes from
Edmund
Burke.

Epic poem on the French Revolution: a German rival to Milton.

* No. 1208.

† No. 1210.

* No. 1250.
§ No. 1168.† No. 1218.
|| No. 1204.
§ No. 1335 and 1336.† No. 1229.
¶ No. 1352.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

fact the more to be regretted as a few of the sentiments expressed in the hexameters may, perhaps, be thought to show a slight tendency towards exaggeration by some plain Englishmen who are not altogether ignorant of their own and other languages and writers. After pointing out that Milton had displayed epic genius which entitled his Paradise Lost to be ranked with the Iliad, the Odyssey, and the Æneid, the unnamed but highly endowed panegyrist proceeded to show, in somewhat halting lines, that even Milton's genius was transcended by that of the Baron:—

"Tu reseras, Harolde, viam, qua nemo priorum
Hactenus incessit vatum; nec inane loquendo
Aut sanam lædis rationem, auresve fatigas.
In toto regnant Concordia, Nexus, et Unum.
Respondit miris eventibus exitus ingens;
Conatusque tuos Majestas rara coronat."

It seems to be implied, in this passage, that, as Homer sometimes nods, so Milton sometimes becomes dull, but that the Baron de Harold's poetry is faultless. Possibly, however, in deference to English susceptibilities and prejudices, the superiority of the Baron is gracefully waived in subsequent verses, and England is congratulated that such a pair of authors as Milton and de Harold should have written in her language:—

"Anglia, nunc iterum lætare! tibi ecce secundus,
Sed nulli ingenio, nulli arte secundus, honorem
Conciliat Vates; reliquos quo totius orbis
Excellis populos famam super æthera tollens
Miltono, Haroldoque tibi par gloria nata."

The Baron appended some of the choicest specimens of his composition, including the exordium, or invocation to the "Sacred Ghost." Like both Milton and Dryden, De Harold was willing to accept very moderate remuneration for his poetic labours, and informed the Duke of Manchester that he intended to "give this work to the Public by the way of subscription at the very small price of half-a-guinea the exemplar."

L. OWEN PIKE.

MANUSCRIPTS OF HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

REIGN OF RICHARD II.

1389-1390.

1. 13 Richard II.—Two small slips of paper pinned together. The first contains the briefest possible abstract of a petition "that the Pope's Collector be commanded to avoid the realm within 40 days, or else be taken as the King's enemy." The second contains an abstract of a document in which "John Mandor, clerk, is commanded not to send to Rome to attempt anything against the archdeaconry of Durham in prejudice of the King or his laws, or the party thereunto presented by the King." Both these abstracts or notes were perhaps made in the reign of Henry VIII. from documents of the date above mentioned.

REIGN OF HENRY VIII.

[1535.]

2. April 17.—Facsimile of a letter from Thomas Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury, to "Maister Crumwel" (Cottonian, Cleopatra, E. vi. 181) touching the refusal of the Bishop of Rochester and "Master More," to be sworn to the Preamble of the Act of the King's Succession.—Croydon.

1536.

3. July, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Richard Ryche, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell) of "the costs and expenses [aid] out by Sir Richard Riche, knight, and John Onley, esquire, and their servants, riding from London to Dover to the King, and coming home to London by the space of eight days, as appeareth particularly by a bill, viz., 4*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*"

4. July 6, 28 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to Thomas Pope, Esq., Treasurer of the Augmentations, to deliver to John Gostwike (Treasurer of the First Fruits and Tenths), for the King's use, plate from the suppressed monasteries, to the value of 5,000*l.*

5. Sept. 19, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Richard Ryche, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell) of payment of 22*s.* 6*d.* "to clerks for the engrosyng of the certificatts of Suffolk, Darby, and Sussex."

6. Sept. 20, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum or warrant to Mr. Pope, Treasurer of the Court of the Augmentations, for the costs of the Attorney and Solicitor for 16 days, 6*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.*

For their fees for 16 days at 6*s.* 8*d.* a day, the same journey, 10*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

For the Attorney's fees for 16 days in his journey to "liver" to the King, 5*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*

For the costs and charges of the Solicitor for the survey of Otford and other lands for the exchange between the King and the "Bishop" of Canterbury, 4*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.*

For his fee for 9 days, 3*l.*

Signed by Richard Ryche, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell.

7. Sept. 28, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Richard Ryche, Thomas Pope, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell) of "the costs of Thomas Pope riding with nine horse to the Court about the affairs of the Court of Augmentations, the King's Grace then lying at Dunstable, and for the same Thomas at the same time, being 6*s.* 8*d.* per diem by the space of three days, that is to say, for mine expenses 3*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*, and for my fee 20*s.*; [total], 4*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*"

Oct. 3.—"Item for the costs and expenses of Thomas Pope and Robert Sowthwell the third day of Oct. anno supradicto riding to Windsor, by the King's commandment, about the affairs of the Court of Augmentations, and for the fees of the same Thomas and Robert for 5 days; for their expenses, 5*l.* 17*s.* 14*d.*, and for their fees of 6*s.* 8*d.* by the day, 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; summa, 9*l.* [sic] 3*s.* 94*d.*"

8. Oct. 4, 28 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt by John Gostwyke, esquire (Treasurer of First Fruits and Tenths of the Spiritualities), from Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, of various parcels of plate (silver and silver-gilt) lately belonging to suppressed religious houses. (A roll of parchment.)

9. Oct. 8, 28 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay 1,900*l.* to John Gostwyke, Treasurer of the Tenths and First Fruits, or Robert Lord, his clerk. (Parchment.) Attached to which is

10. Oct. 9 and 15, 28 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of 1,400*l.* by Robert Lord, and of 500*l.* by John Gostwyke on the 9th and 15th Oct. respectively.

11. Oct. 12, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Richard Ryche, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell, and directed to the Treasurer of the Augmentations) of the costs and expenses (100 shillings) of Sir John Baldewyn, knight, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, "for coming from his house in Buckinghamshire to London to take a kowlegge [acknowledgment] of a fine and deed touching the lands that the King's Highness had of the Earl of Northumberland."

12. Oct. 12-25, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Thomas Pope, Richard Ryche, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell) of the "costs of Thomas Pope riding to the Court by the King's commandment, and for hiring of post horses, and for fee for two days, 59*s.* 04*d.*"

"For the costs of Thomas Pope the 14th day of October, by the King's commandment, with four men in post, as appeareth by my Lord Privy Seal's letters, and for fee of 6*s.* 8*d.* for one day, 30*s.* 10*d.*"

"For post horses at three other times sent to the Court, &c., 33*s.* 94*d.*"

"For the costs of the same Thomas Pope the 25th day of October riding to Windsor about the business of the Court of Augmentations, and for his fee of 6*s.* 8*d.* a day by the space of three days, 54*s.* 7*d.*"

13. Oct. 31, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Thomas Pope and John Onley) of "my costs for riding to the Court at Windsor, and for Mr. Robt Sowthwell's costs, Solicitor of the Augmentations," and "for both our fees" for three days, 4*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.*

14. Nov. 18, 28 Hen. 8.—Receipt given by Roger Wheler and Richard Stannfelde, "late canons of the monastery of Derford, in the county of Sussex, desolvdyd . . . for 53*s.* 4*d.* from the Treasurer of the Augmentations of the Revenues of the King's Crown, by way of reward."

15. Attached is the order to the Treasurer of the Augmentations (bearing the same date) to pay the

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF ANCHES-
TER.

money. It is signed by Richard Ryché, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell.

16. Nov. 14.—Statement of claim addressed "to Master Pope" by Thomas Wolley, for,
"ii. C. of wenescote, at vj. li. the C., xij. li.
"For lying at the warfe, iij. 4*d.*, and for warfage,
"xij*d.*,—iij*s.* iij*d.*"

Signed [as approved] by Richard Ryché, Robert Southwell, and John Onley.

17. Nov. 16, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of the following expenses:—

For green cloth, and for making "my receyte," 6*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.*

For the costs and charges of Thomas Pope, John Onley, Robert Sowthwell, and Richard Duke riding to Windsor, for horse-hire, and for their fees for three days, 6*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*

For their costs going to the King at Richmond, and for their fees for three days, 4*l.* 19*s.* 7*d.*

For boat hire at Westminster, 12*s.* 9*d.*

Signed by Richard Ryché, Thomas Pope, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell.

18. Nov. 19, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of costs of John Onley in going to the Court at various times in the year 28 Hen. 8.:—

"For horsbred" on Oct. 12, at London, 8*d.*

For three men's costs for three days at Windsor, 4*s.*, for "horsemete," 5*s.* 4*d.*, and for "feryage," or "for-yage" 6*d.*

For dinner at Hounslow, 2*s.*, and "horsemete," 10*d.*

For "horsemete" at London, 20*d.*

For the hire of 6 horses, 4 days at 12*d.* the day, 24*s.*

For the hire of one horse, two days, 2*s.*

For the hire of three horses, three days, 9*s.*

For "horsemete" at Windsor, five days, 11*s.*, and for "mansmete," 10*s.*

Onley's fee for six days, 40*s.*

For two men's meat for three days, 2*s.* 4*d.*

Signed by Richard Ryché, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell.

1536-7.

19. Jan. 31, 28 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to the Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay 662*l.* 0*s.* 1*d.* to Anthony Denny, "keeper of the King's manor beside Westminster, and Paymaster of the buildings there," for the erection of a house "for the officers of the Augmentation, within the old Palace of Westminster." Further warrant to pay a further sum of 2,000*l.* to the said Anthony, to be employed upon buildings at "the King's manors of Westminster, Chelsea, and Hakeneye, together with a house at St. James, within the park belonging to the manor of Westminster," &c. Endorsed with receipt of Denny's deputies for 662*l.* 0*s.* 1*d.* (Parchment.)

20. March 10, 28 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to the Treasurer of the Augmentations to pay 187*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.* to William Gonson, esquire, to be disbursed in the following manner:—

To Sir John Dudley, knight, captain of H.M.S. "Mynyon," and Vice-Admiral, for his diet for a month at the rate of 18*d.* the day, 42*s.*

For the wages of 109 mariners, soldiers, and gunners, at 5*s.* each a month, 27*l.* 5*s.*

For the wages of one surgeon, 10*s.*

For 16 "dedsharys" for like time, to be divided "to the master and mariners, 4*l.*

For rewards to be divided among the gunners, 30*s.* 10*d.*

For the victualling of the said 110 men for a month at 20*d.* each a week, 36*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

For Thomas Semour, one of the gentlemen of the Privy Chamber and Captain of H.M.S. "Swepestake," for his diet for like time, 42*s.*

For Robert Kirke for his diet, after the same rate, 42*s.*

For the wages of 109 mariners, soldiers, and gunners, after the rate above said, 27*l.* 5*s.*

For the wages of one surgeon, 10*s.*

For 16 "dedsharys" for the master and mariners, 4*l.*

For rewards for gunners, 30*s.* 10*d.*

For the victualling of the said 110 persons in the said ship for a month, at 20*d.* each a week, 36*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

For William Nicholson, yeoman of the King's henchmen, and Captain of H.M.S. "Lyon," for his diet after the same rate, 42*s.*

For the wages of 60 mariners, soldiers, and gunners for the said ship at 5*s.* each, a month, 15*l.*

For the wages of one surgeon, 10*s.*

For 12 "dedsharys" for the master and mariners, 4*l.*
For rewards to be divided among the gunners, 20*s.* 10*d.*

For the victualling of the said 61 persons in the said ship for a month, at 20*d.* a week each, 20*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.*

Gonson's receipt is at foot. (Parchment).—See No. 41.

21. March 23, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of money expended by Richard Modye for boat hire "of his master and other of the Council of the Court of Augmentations and their servants, at divers times since the beginning of Lent," viz., 4*s.* 3*d.*

Signed by Richard Ryché and John Onley.

1537.

22. April 18, 28 Hen. 8.—Statement of charges (30*s.* 8*d.*) "to Lewsam for the surveying of the King's woods by the King's commandment:—

"Costs, 20*d.*

"Wages of a carpenter, 12*d.*

"Item for my necessities, 6*s.* 8*d.*

"Fee, boat-hire, and costs, 21*s.* 4*d.*"

Signed by Richard Ryché, John Onley, and Thomas Pope.

23. After Hilary Term, 28 Hen. 8.—Memorandum that Richard Modye had expended 9*s.* 4*d.* at various times before Hil. Term, 28 Hen. 8, for boat-hire and diet for himself and his master's servants at Greenwich and Westminster.

Signed by Richard Ryché, Thomas Pope, and John Onley.

24. [28 or 29 Hen. 8. ?]—Order (signed by Richard Ryché, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell, but undated and undirected,) to pay "Mr. Baker, the King's General Attorney, 4*l.* for his travell and paynes taken in drawyng of certain deeds for lands purchased by the King's Highness in Westminster."

25. After Easter, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of money expended by Richard Modye (32*s.* 8*d.*) and by Richard Hechonsou (68*s.* 10*d.*) "for the costs and charges of their masters and their servants going from London to Greenwich and Westminster at divers and sundry times since the beginning of Easter Term." Signed by Thomas Pope, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell.

26. May 6, 29 Hen. 8.—Certified copy of Decree of the Court of Augmentations, authorising the payment of 8*l.* to William [Nicholson] in satisfaction of all sums due to him of the late Priory of (Parchment, partly obliterated.)

27. Attached is the receipt of William Nicholson, dated May 14th, 29 Hen. 8., for the sum of 8*l.* as per decree. (Parchment, Latin.)

28. May 28, 29 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay 4,000*l. to Thomas Lord, gentleman, and Thomas Agard, gentleman, to the King's use, for "affairs and enterprises" in Ireland, and to cause all the relics remaining in his hands from the suppressed monasteries "to be defasid," and the gold and silver from them to be delivered to the same persons, excepting, however, one relic from the Monastery of Stratford-at-Bowe, "named to be a piece of the Holy Cross," which he was to deliver to Thomas Henage, esquire.

The following memorandum is at the foot: "Be it remembered that the relic above named to be a relic of the Holy Cross was delivered to the King's Majesty at Hampton Court, the 19th of June, by the hands of my Lord Privy Seal, as my Lord Chancellor and Master Chancellor of the Augmentations can witness." (Parchment. Indorsed with memoranda of payments by instalments).

29. June 2, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment by Robert Lord, gentleman, of receipt from Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations (to the King's use), of "all the garnishing of silver and gilt being about all the relics coming from the suppressed monasteries under written," viz.:—

Biasham,† Hurley, Sawtre, Kirkby-Bellewes, Stratford-at-Bow, Colne, Coverham, Brecknock, Tyntern, Kilburn, Saint Michael-beside-Stamford, Mottesone, Saint Sixborough, Pelle, Boxgrave, Garoden, Langley, Maiden Bradley, Letteley, Quarre, and Tortington. The inventory of the plate from each house is given, and is of the usual character. It includes a flower with serpents' tongues and counterfeit stones from Kirkby, and fifteen relics from Stratford, and a sixteenth from the same

* See Nos. 31, 32, 38, 43, 62 and 78.

† Biasham may, perhaps, be identified with the Bishampton mentioned in Dugdale's Monasticon, Kirkby-Bellewes with Kirkby-Beler, Coverham with Covenham, Mottesone with Motisfont, St Sixborough with St. Sexburga, Pelle with Pille or Pilla, and Garoden with Garredun.

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

place, respecting which there is a note to the same effect as the memorandum appended to No. 28, viz., that it was "named to be a piece of the Holy Cross," and delivered into the King's own hand. (4 pages.)

30. June 3, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Thomas Pope and John Onley) of "my costs riding to the Court by the King's commandment to make provision for 4,000*l.* to be employed about His Grace's affairs in Ireland, 6*s.* 11½*d.*, and for my fee for the same day," total, 13*s.* 7½*d.*

31. June 4, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of 2,000*l.* to the use of the King's Highness (in part payment of a warrant for 4,000*l.* dated 28th May), by Robert Lord, from Thomas Pope, esquire, treasurer of the Augmentations, "to be employed about His Grace's affairs in Ireland."

32. June 8, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of 500*l.* to the use of the King's Highness (in part payment of 2,000*l.*, "parcel of a warrant" for 4,000*l.* dated 28th May) by Robert Lord, gentleman, from Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, "to be employed about His Grace's affairs in Ireland."

33. Whitsun Week, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum signed by Robert Sowthwell, of his "fee the Friday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, from London to Hampton Court, 26*s.* 8*d.*"

"Item for charges, 9*s.* 4*d.*"

Also Memorandum signed by Thomas Pope and John Onley of the "costs and expenses of Thomas Pope, Treasurer of the Augmentation, the Friday afore Whit Sunday, and the Monday and Tuesday in Whitsun week, from London to Hampton Court, 12*s.* 2*d.*, and for fee the same days, 20*s.*" Total, 32*s.* 2*d.*

34. June 15, 29 Hen. 8.—Receipt of Lewis Brecknock, late Prior of the Monastery of Monkton Farleigh in Wiltshire for 20*s.* sterling, in part payment for his "costs journeying from Bath unto London, by commandment of the worshipful Sir Richard Riche, knight, Chancellor of the Court of Augmentations."

35. June 15, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of John Onley's diet and costs at Hampton Court, viz., 10*s.* 9*d.*

36. June 24 and 25, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum signed by Thomas Pope of costs going to the Court about the King's affairs at Hampton Court, and for fees the same two days, 22*s.* 2½*d.*

37. June 28, 29 Hen. 8.—Order signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell to pay the Abbot of Valle Crucis 6*s.* 8*d.* for his costs while remaining in London to declare to the Court of Augmentations certain matters for the King's advantage.

38. July 1, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of 500*l.* to the use of the King's Highness (in part payment of 1,500*l.* "parcel of warrant," for 4,000*l.*, dated 28th May), by Robert Lord, gentleman, from Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, "to be employed about His Grace's affairs and enterprises in Ireland."

39. July 1, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of John Onley's costs and diet (viz. 33*s.* 4*d.*) "for four days going to the Court about the King's affairs, that is to say, two days at one time to know the King's pleasure for the Abbey of Chertsey, and the lands of the Bishop of Canterbury, and the other two days attending upon Mr. Chancellor to Hampton Court."

40. July 11-12, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum made by Thomas Pope of boat hire, &c. for himself, "Mr. Chancellor, Mr. Attorney, and the King's General Solicitor, and their servants to Lambeth, about the King's business, and for our dinners, and our servants' the same, 11th day of July, at the King's Head, by the Temple, 13*s.* 2*d.*" On the back is part of a draft of a letter.

41. July 12, 29 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to the Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations to pay to William Gonson, esquire, 340*l.*, portions of which were to be expended in the following manner:—24*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* for one week's wages, and victuals of three ship masters, and 160 mariners and gunners.

13*l.* 10*s.* for 81 soldiers' coats at 3*s.* 4*d.* each.

15*l.* for 200 mariners' and gunners' coats at 1*s.* 6*d.* each.

92*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.* for one month's diet and wages of Sir John Onley, knight, Sir George Carew, knight, William Nycollson, yeoman of the King's henchmen, and 281 soldiers, mariners, and gunners of H.M. Ships "Swepestake," "Jenytt," and "Lyon."

194*l.* for two months' victuals of the 281 men.

(Parchment. Endorsed with Gonson's receipt.) See No. 20.

42. July 12, 29 Hen. 8.—Warrant of Richard Ryche and John Onley to the Treasurer of the Augmentations to pay 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* to Thomas Arderne, one of the clerks of Edward North, esquire, Clerk of the Parliament, "in "recompense of such pains as he and his fellows have taken in and about the writing and making of certain books of Acts of Parliament for the King's Highness concerning as well the suppressed lands as the King's Highness' purchased lands."

43. July 13, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of 160*l.* to the use of the King's Highness (in part payment of 1,000*l.* "parcel of a warrant" for 4,000*l.* dated 28th May), by Robert Lord, gentleman, from Thomas Pope, esq., Treasurer of the Augmentations, "to be employed about his Grace's affairs and enterprises in Ireland."

44. July 13, 29 Hen. 8.—Receipt of John Onley for 56*s.*, i.e., for his diet, and costs for Mr. Chancellor's horses, and his own at Chertsey and elsewhere for four days, 46*s.*, and for his "horsemete for three days at London, 10*s.*"

45. Sept. 9, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum signed by Thomas Pope of costs and charges coming to London, about the King's business, 4*s.* 4½*d.*

"For my fee the same day 6*s.* 8*d.*"

46. Sept. 17, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Thomas Pope) of money "paid for the costs and expense of Mr. Chancellor of the Augmentations and others of the Council of the same Court, being on the King's business at Assher [Esher] touching the purchasing of certain lands lying within the park there, and also for certain money paid in earnest to divers persons for the same lands, and for the fee of me the said treasurer the said day 8*s.* 9*d.*"

47. Sept. 20, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of money laid out by Richard Hochonson about the King's business, viz.:

May 28th.—"For one boat from Putney to London, 16*d.*, for four servants' dinners 12*d.*, two servants' suppers 6*d.*, being at London for the payment of 4,000*l.* to Mr. Lord according to the King's Grace's warrant." May 29.—"Being at London, for the same cause, paid for five servants' dinners 15*d.*, and for one boat to Putney 12*d.*"

May 31.—"Paid to Bewley and John Ward for their costs at Hampton Court 8*d.*, and horsemete 8*d.*"

June 6.—"For one boat to Westminster, 3*d.*"

June 10.—"Paid for your servants' costs and charges at Hampton Court with 8*d.* for horsemete, 2*s.* 8*d.*"

June 18.—"For one boat to Westminster, and from Westminster, 6*d.*"

June 24.—"For five servants' dinners giving attendance of you at Hampton Court, 18*d.*, and one horsemete 2*d.*, and to a poor man for waking [walking?] of the horse, 2*d.*"

June 25.—"For two servants' dinners at Hampton Court 8*d.*, and for the horsemete, 8*d.*"

June 26.—"For four servants' dinners giving attendance at My Lord Chancellor's, 12*d.*"

July 2.—"For one boat from the Crane to Westminster, and from thence to the Crane, 6*d.*"

July 10.—"For two boats from the Crane to the Bishop of Canterbury's place at Lambeth, and from thence to the Temple, Mr. Chancellor and his servants being there, 16*d.*"

"For ink, paper, and parchment at divers times, 20*d.*"

Signed by Richard Ryche and John Onley.

48. Sept. 27, 29 Hen. 8.—Warrant (signed by Richard Ryche, Thomas Pope, and Robert Sowthwell), to the Treasurer [of the Augmentations] to pay 40*s.* to William "Walter, one of Mr. Solicitor's Clerks" for engrossing "certain books" relating to the purchase and exchange of certain lands for the King.

49. Sept. 29, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by Thomas Pope) of various charges, viz.:

"For fish sent to Otlads the 26th day of September for Mr. Chancellor's dinner, and other of the Council of the Court of Augmentations, lying there about the King's affairs, 13*s.* 6½*d.*

"For two loads of hay laid in at Putney for Mr. Chancellor's horses and mine, being about the King's business at Assher by the space of 12 or 13 days, 18*s.*

"For 12 bushels of oats, 6*s.*

"For seven dozen of horsebread at the same time 7*s.*"

Postscript.—"Paid for my costs going to London to make provision for payment of Colewell and others for lands the King's Highness had of them, and for my fee for two days, 18*s.*

"For the costs of one of my servants riding to Mr. Chancellor, to Essex, for business of the King's, that Mr. Brown willed me to advertise Mr. Chancellor, 5*s.*"

50. Oct. 14, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum (signed by

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
TREAS.

Thomas Pope) of "the boat-hire and costs of John Ward going and returning three times from Lambeth to Putney to Mr. Solicitor's house for books betwixt the King's Highness and my Lord of Canterbury touching the exchange," 3s. 6d.

51. Oct. 20, 29 Hen. 8. — Order of Richard Ryche to the Treasurer of the Augmentations to pay Joan Copeland 10s. for her costs homeward to the "Archedeneri" of Richmond, where her late monastery stood.

52. Oct. 30, 29 Hen. 8. — Memorandum of "the costs and charges of my master [Richard Riche probably] with his servants as well for riding from his house at Leghes in Essex to Windsor to the Court, as also his returning home again," in the month of August, 29 Hen. 8.

London, on the way to Windsor. — "For my master's servants' suppers there at the sign of the Woolsack, 18d., for horsemeat there the same night 5s. 4d., and for shoeing of certain of my master's horses, 10d.

Windsor. — "For my master's servants' meat and drink 4s. 8d., being there by the space of three days, and for horsemeat there, 10s., and in a reward given to Mr. Ward's servant, 2s."

London, on the way home. — "For my master's servants' costs there, 16d., and for horsemeat there 4s. 4d."

"Laid out by Camswell for his costs riding to London, and his tarrying there by the space of three days to warden [warn?] Brown out of his farm, and to deliver possession thereof to Mr. Denys, 10s."

Signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell.

53. Nov. 7, 29 Hen. 8. — Memorandum of expenses in September, 29 Hen. 8, viz. :—

Tuesday, 18th. — For dinner at Esher, 6s.

Wednesday, 19th. — For horsemeat and other expenses at Kingston, 3s. 2d.

Friday, 21st. — For horsemeat and other expenses at Hampton Court, 18d.

Sunday, 23rd. — For horsemeat and other expenses at Kingston, 2s. 8d.

Monday. — For expenses at Moulsey, 10d.

For "horsebread" at Putney, 5s.

For horse-shoeing, 22d.

Also "laid out by [Richard Hales at Putney and at Esher at my master his last being there, 2s. 8d."

Note, that the sum was allowed, signed by Richard Ryche, Thomas Pope, and Robert Sowthwell.

54. Nov. 7, 29 Hen. 8. — Memorandum of "expenses laid out for the Court of Augmentations" in the year 29 Hen. 8. :—

"A double plate lock, stock, and spring for the lower house at the stair foot, 6s.

"A pair of creepers for the chamber weighing 30 pounds, at 2d. the pound, 5s.

"A fire shelve [shovel] for the same chamber weighing 12 pounds at 2d. the pound, 2s.

"Six pair of double joints for presses, at 20d. the pair, 10s.

"Two locks for the said presses, 3s. 4d.

"For 4 bolts to the said presses, 8d.

"Three pair of garnets for the Augmentation door, at 10d. the pair, 2s. 6d.

"Three bolts for the same door, 12d.

"For the table in the chamber with 3 trestles, a long form, 2 short forms, 2 stools, and three framed doors, 28s. 6d.

"In the Trinity term for the Court of Augmentations for 5 dozen of rushes, 7s. 6d.

"For my livery for the Usher of the Augmentations, 13s. 4d."

Signed by Richard Ryche and John Onley.

55. Decr. 4, 29 Hen. 8. — Memorandum (signed by Richard Ryche, and Robert Sowthwell) of the costs, &c. of "Mr. Henley, Solicitor unto the King's Court of Augmentations, with his 4 servants, and horsemeat in giving attendance in and about the King's business," 7 days at 6s. 8d. "the day," 46s. 8d., and in a reward given to his clerks for writing certain of the King's books by the said time 26s. 8d., and also for his costs by the same time 40s., in all 113s. 4d.

56. Dec. 5, 29 Hen. 8. — Order (signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell to the Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay "Mr. Horwood, the King's General Solicitor, 5 marks sterling for his travell and paynes taken in the King's affayres touching certayn exchanges." The receipt of William Walter (Horwood's servant), dated Dec. 11, appears at the foot.

57. Dec. 10, 29 Hen. 8. — Memorandum of money laid out by Richard Mody, on behalf of the Court of Augmentations :—

Oct. 26. Boat-hire to Lambeth, 10d.

On Friday in the same week boat-hire to Lambeth, and to Nete, and so homeward, 20d.

Laid out by Wright and Jesper the same day for boat-hire, 12d.

Nov. 6. Boat-hire to Lambeth and home, 8d.

Dec. 7. Reward given to the late prior of Hatfield Peverell, for his costs to London and home again, 6s. 8d.

Signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell. Richard Modye's receipt is at foot.

58. Dec. 10, 29 Hen. 8. — Memorandum (signed by Richard Ryche, Thomas Pope, and Robert Sowthwell) of the costs, &c. of John Menefy in Michaelmas term :—

"The first day ye went to Westminster from Putney, for boat-hire, 8d."

Paid the 25th Nov. for 2 boats to the Court and home, 12d.

To a poor woman, 1d.

The 26th Nov. for a boat to the Court and home two times, 12d.

The same day for "your one [own] boat" 8d.

For "Mr. Chonsler" [Mr. Chancellor's] men, 3d.

To a poor man, 1d.

To my Lord Bechem's [Beauchamp's?], 2d.

The 27th Nov., to the Court and home, 6d.

The 2nd Dec., to the Court and home, 12d.

The 3rd Dec., for 3 boats to the Court and home, 18d.

"To a poor man, for a boat, 4d."

59. Dec. 20, 29 Hen. 8. — Order of the Court of Augmentations to pay 4l. 13s. 4d. to Richard Duke, clerk of the Council of the Court of Augmentations, for his costs and charges for himself and two servants riding from Colchester to Hampton Court a month before the previous Michaelmas, and abiding there fifteen days, and riding to Windsor at Michaelmas, 28 Hen. 8, and abiding there 10 days. It is signed by Richard Ryche, Robert Sowthwell, and Walter Hendle; and Duke's receipt is at foot.

60. Dec. 22, 29 Hen. 8. — Warrant of Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell to the Treasurer [of the Augmentations], to pay 6l. 14s. 4d. to Edmond Hatley, "one of Mr. Crok's clerks of the Chancery, for his travel and pains taken for making a book in parchment of all the King's deeds and indentures of his Grace's purchased lands." Hatley's receipt is at foot.

61. Dec. 26, 29 Hen. 8. — Order of the Court of Augmentations (signed by Richard Ryche, Thomas Pope, and Robert Sowthwell) for the payment of 40s. to Walter Farr and George Wright "for writing in paper and for engrossing of the indenture tripartite made between the King's Highness, Giles Leigh, and Sir John Alen, knight, concerning the exchange of the manor of Walton, in the county of Surrey; which paper containeth 24 sheets of paper, the indenture engrossed containeth three large skins of vellum, a patent engrossed for Leigh's recompense containeth one skin of parchment; and for engrossing of a patent for the due recompense of such lands as the King hath of the Hospital of Savoy, lying near the King's manor of Hanworth, containing one skin of parchment." Farr's receipt is at foot.

62. Dec. 27, 29 Hen. 8. — Acknowledgment of receipt of 500l. (in part payment of 840l., parcel of a warrant for 4,000l. dated 28th May) by Robert Lord, gentleman, from Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations, "to be employed about His Grace's affairs and enterprises in Ireland."

1537-8.

63. Jan. 10, 29 Hen. 8. — Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations, to pay 200l. to Morgan Wolf, the King's goldsmith. Wolf's receipt at foot. (Parchment.)

64. Jan. 18, 29 Hen. 8. — Warrant to the Treasurer [of the Augmentations] to pay 5l. to the widow of Mr. Onley, late the Attorney of the Court of Augmentations for money expended by him "for his costs and diet, travelling about the King's affairs." Memorandum at foot (signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell) that Mistress Onley had confessed receipt of the money.

65. Feb. 1, 29 Hen. 8. — Order (signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell) to the Treasurer of the Augmentations to pay 4l. sterling to "My Lord Bald-

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"wyn for his travell, payns, and costs that he hath taken in ryding to take dyvers kowlegges [acknowledgments] touching certyn exchaunges made betwixt the King's Highness and dyvers persons."

66. Attached is the receipt of Sir John Baldwyn, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in which he mentions his journey to the Monastery of Chertsey, and taking "knowleges there."

67. Feb. 4, 29 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King's sign manual) to Thomas Pope, Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay to Anthony Denny 2,000 marks to the King's use. (Parchment); attached to which is:—

68. Feb. 5, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of the money by Anthony Denny. (Parchment.)

69. Feb. 6, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of "reward" given to Walter Hendle, Solicitor of the Court of Augmentations, for attendance (56 days) from Feb. 12, 29 Hen. 8, to following 8th April, "as well in hearing the accounts of the said Court as in riding to Abingdon to survey the King's lands belonging to the said late Monastery, and riding to Canterbury by the King's commandment for the exchange to be had between his Highness and the Archbishop of Canterbury, for the rents and liberties of the said Archbishop in Southwark and Chistlet Park, 18l. 13s. 4d." Also for boat-hire and for hackney horses "from London to Canterbury, and back to London, 20s. 8d." Also for his expenses to Canterbury and back to London, five days, 6s. 8d."

Hendle's receipt is at foot, and the signatures of Richard Ryche, and Robert Sowthwell are appended.

70. Feb. 10, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of the expenses of Walter Hendle, Solicitor of the Court of Augmentations, "about the King's affairs."

There is a note at foot, signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell:—"Allow for his costs and charges, and for his travel 10l.," for which sum Hendle gives a receipt.

The items, to which, however, no special sum is assigned, include riding to Canterbury with four horses and making a new deed by the advice of the Master of the Rolls, concerning the exchange of lands between the King and the Archbishop of Canterbury; sending a clerk to London to Mr. Chancellor, six days; sending him to Canterbury to "set the King's bokys concerning the seyd exchange," four days, "and rode as well by nyght as by day, and destroyed me a good geldyng;" a six days' journey of the same clerk into Essex; and a journey of 11 days undertaken by Hendle, with six hired horses, to Otford, Knolle, and Maidstone, to survey and take attornments on behalf of the King.

71. Feb. 11, 29 Hen. 8.—Receipt of William Cooper for 22l. received of the Treasurer of the Augmentations for costs and charges in surveying divers manors for the King.

72. Feb. 12, 29 Hen. 8.—A bill of particulars (signed by Richard Ryche and Walter Hendle) is attached, but is incomplete.

73-76. Five documents (sown together) relating to the expenses of Robert Sowthwell, Esq., Attorney of the Augmentations, viz.:—

73. Feb. 21, 29 Hen. 8.—(1.) Receipt of Thomas Baylye, his servant, for 15l. 19s. 9d. received on his behalf from the Treasurer of the Augmentations.

74. (2.) Memorandum of diet, boat-hire, and servants' dinners, 29 Hen. 8, on Christmas even, and the day next after to Greenwich, 16s. 2d.

75. (3.) Memorandum of boat-hire and servants' dinners at Lambeth "for resorting to my Lords of Canterbury for the finishing of the exchange between the King's Highness and my said Lord at divers and sundry times, 12s. 2d."

76. (4.) Memorandum that forty-two days (Jan. 4 to Feb. 14, 29 Hen. 8) were spent in surveying the late Monastery of Westacre and about other the King's affairs in Norfolk. The items "for my diet in that space" (14l.) has been struck out apparently by the same pen with which the signature of Richard Ryche was made. The signatures of Robert Sowthwell and Walter Hendle are also appended. They are followed by a note in Sowthwell's handwriting on the question whether "Mr. Chancellor" would allow the sum claimed, and undertaking to refund in the contrary event.

77. (5.) Memorandum of diet and hire of two horses, for one day after Christmas when the King lay at Oatlands, 11s. 5d. Signed by Ryche, Sowthwell, and Hendle.

78. Feb. 28, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of 340l. (in full payment of a warrant for 4,000l., dated 28 May, 29 Hen. 8) by Robert Lord, gentleman, from Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, "to be employed about his Grace's affairs and enterprises in Ireland."

79. March 9, 29 Hen. 8.—Order for the payment of 17l. 15s. for the expenses of Sir Richard Riche "for the meat and drink of Mr. Henley, Mr. Cowper, and others, with servants and clerks, and for rewards given at places when we lay att our frynds' howses, and for presents." Signed by Richard Ryche and Walter Hendle. At the foot is a receipt given by William Glascock on behalf of his master (Sir Richard Riche).

80. Austin Friars, London, March 13, 29 Hen. 8.—Order to the Treasurer [of the Court of Augmentations] to pay John Hynde twenty shillings sterling "in full recompense and satisfaction of suche paytents as the said John had of the late Earl of Northumberland's grant."

Hynde's receipt for the money follows.

Both apparently copies.

81. March 19, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of expenses and boat-hire paid by John Menefye for the Chancellor and others of the Council of the Court of Augmentations from Feb. 3 to 16 March, 21s. 4d.

Also of money paid by William Glascock, the said Chancellor's servant, for his master's boat-hire, 2s. 1d.

In each case reference is made to a bill of particulars.

The signatures of Richard Ryche and Thomas Pope are appended.

1538.

82. Austin Friars, April 12, 29 Hen. 8.—Order to pay 44l. for charges and expenses of Sir Richard Riche, Master Richard Pollard, Master Richard [sic] Sowthwell, and others during three weeks in and about the surveying of all the Duke of Suffolk's lands and the late Priory of Buttleby, and "all Danby lands" in the counties of Essex, Suffolk, and Norfolk. Signed by Richard Ryche, Robert Sowthwell, and Walter Hendle.

Received by George Wright (Riche's servant). (Parchment.)

83. April 16, 29 Hen. 8.—Receipt for 20 marks received of the Treasurer of the Augmentations by William Browgh or Burgh for the redemption of a grant of the receivership of the lands belonging to the Earl of Northumberland in the south which had been made to the said William Burgh by Henry, Earl of Northumberland.

84. The said grant (dated July 15, 19 Hen. 8) is attached. (Parchment.)

85. April 18, 29 Hen. 8.—Order to Thomas Pope, the Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay 5l. 16s. 8d. for Master Richard Sowthwell's expenses in and about the suppression of the Houses of Benehame and Byston, in the county of Norfolk. (Signed by Richard Ryche and Sowthwell.) A receipt by George Wright, on behalf of Sowthwell, is at the foot.

86. April 18, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of payment (by Richard Hochonsou) of 12s. 2d. to Gilbert Brown, t.e., "for a greate bote, two dayes to the Cowrte at Grenewyche from London, and agayne for Mr. Chancellor and others of the Council of the Cowrte of Augmentations for busynes of the King's, 12s.; for rushes 2d."

Signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell.

87. April 18, 29 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of money paid out by Richard Hochonsou "about the King's affairs," viz.:—

Boat-hire for Thomas Pope, Esq., Treasurer of the Augmentations, at divers times in November, 29 Hen. 8, 15s. 2d.

Boat-hire for the same and for Mr. Hendle "going to the Court at Westminster at 3 times to speak with the King" in March, and for charges of servants, in attendance there, 3s. 2d.

Boat-hire for Sir Richard Riche, knight, Chancellor of the Augmentations, Thomas Pope, the Treasurer, and Richard Southwell, Esq., Particular Receiver in the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, with their servants, from the Crane to the Duke of Suffolk's place at Westminster, and from thence to the Old Swan, 2s.

Hochonsou's receipt is at foot, and the signatures of Riche and Southwell are appended.

88. April 20, 29 Hen. 8.—Order of the Court of Augmentations to pay 9l. to Richard Duke, Clerk of the Council of that Court, for "making and writing divers

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"writings concerning the erection and making of "Hampton Court Chace," and other documents relating to the purchase or exchange of lands for the King. It is signed by Richard Ryche, Robert Sowthwell, and Walter Hendle, and Duke's receipt is at foot.

89. [29 Hen. 8.]—Memorandum (imperfect) of various expenses, signed by Richard Ryche, Robert Sowthwell and Thomas Pope, and including—

The charges of the Archbishop of Canterbury's indenture [details torn off].

The charges for Giles Leghe's indenture and patent. The details are partly torn off, but the following particulars appear:—"For the charges of his patent, that "is to say, first for the petty fees, 26s. 8d.; for the Clerk "of the Hamper's fee, 6s. 8d.; for 2 writs of allowance, "13s. 4d.; for the Signet and Privy Seal, 4l. 13s. 4d.; "for the writing, 26s. 8d.; for the enrolling, 20s.; for "drawing of the letters, 5s.; for the examination there- "of 8d.; for green wax, 12d.; and for green lace, 20d."

The charges of the Abbot of Bisham's patent, which are the same as for Legh's, except "for the writing, being "4 great skins of vellum, 106s. 8d.; for the enrolling "thereof, 4l.; and for drawing of the great letters, "6s. 8d."

The charges for sealing Sir John Aleyn's indenture with the Great Seal, 20s. 4d.

The boat hire of Mr. Chancellor, Mr. Treasurer, and Mr. Attorney, being at Greenwich about the King's affairs the 24th and 25th Dec., 29 Hen. 8, with servants' dinners, 12s. 7d., and for the diets of the said Mr. Treasurer the said 2 days, 13s. 4d.

The costs and charges of Mr. Treasurer going to Greenwich to pay there, by the King's commandment, 4,000 marks by his Grace's warrant, 22 Jan., 29 Hen. 8, to Mr. Hennage, 5s. 8d., and for his diet, 6s. 8d.

The charges and boat hire of Mr. Treasurer and Mr. Chancellor, going to Westminster and from Westminster, the King's Highness lying there, in the month of January, 29 Hen. 8., 4s. 5d.

90. Undated. [29 Hen. 8.]—Memorandum of "the costs "and charges of Mr. Chancellor, Thomas Pope, Treasurer "of the Augmentations, John Onley, Attorney of the "Augmentations, and Robert Sowthwell, Solicitor of the "Augmentations, to the Court to Greenwich, 6 days," 56s. 7d.

Also "for fees of the same Thomas Pope and "Robert for the same 6 days," 6l.

Also "for six cushyns [cushions] for the Court of "Augmentations," 27s. 4d.

Also for boat hire at divers times going to the Court, 22s. 11d.

Signed by Richard Ryche, John Onley, and Robert Sowthwell.

91. [29 Hen. 8.]—Memorandum of the expenses of the Chancellor, Treasurer, Attorney, and Solicitor of the Court of Augmentations in going to the King on the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd of February, 47s. 4d.

For fees of the Treasurer, Solicitor, and Attorney, the same days, 3l.

Boat-hire at various times during Hil. Term, 24s. 6.

92. August 1. [About 29 Hen. 8.]—Letter from Sir Richard Riche to "Mr. Treasurer Pope," acknowledging the receipt of "the book for Bisham," expressing an intention of being in London in a few days to "appoint "lands to the late Abbot of Chertsey," asking the Treasurer to be there also, if possible, and to pay 5l. to the King's Solicitor for his pains, expressing gratification that the Lord Chancellor was "merry and in "good health," and inviting the Treasurer and his "good lady" to come on a visit to Essex.

93. May 10, 30 Hen. 8. Austin Friars.—Order of the Council of the Court of Augmentations, to Thomas Pope, Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay his servant, Richard Hechonsen, 37s. 5d., "as well for the charges "and expenses of us, the Kyng's Council of his Court "of Augmentations as the Quayne's Council with "divers other gentlemen being in comyssion by the "Kyng's Grace's commandment to survey the common "pertaining to his Grace's manor of Cullington, within "the countye of Surrey."

Signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell. Hechonsen's receipt at foot.

94. May 18, 30 Hen. 8.—Memorandum of expenses (30l.) of William Cowper and his attendants, in surveying the woods of the late Monastery of Abingdon, in the county of Berks, and "certain woods in divers "manors lying in the counties of Suffolk and Norfolk, "belonging to the Duke of Suffolk, from the 18th Feb., "29 Hen. 8., to the following 18th April, being 60 days,

"at the rate of 10s. per diem." Signed by Richard Ryche and Walter Hendle. At foot is a receipt signed by William Humberston on behalf of his master, and by William Cowper.

95. May 20, 30 Hen. 8.—Certified copy of order of the Chancellor and Council of the Court of Augmentations to pay to Humphrey Jurdan, gentleman, 3l. 13s. 4d., "in "recompense" for payment by him of the same sum to the late prior of the dissolved Monastery of Westacre, in the county of Norfolk, as part of the purchase money of the manor of Westacre-in-Grimston. (Parchment).

96-99. May 21, 30 Hen. 8.—Four documents (sown together) relating to the expenses of Robert Sowthwell, esquire, Attorney of the Court of Augmentations, viz.:—

96. (1.) Memorandum of boat-hire and other charges for servants, Monday and Wednesday in "Hestern" [Easter] week, and Sowthwell's diet, 17s. 2d.

97. (2.) Memorandum of Sowthwell's diet for 39 days, from Tuesday in the first week of "clene Lent," 29 Hen. 8, to "Hestern day" next following, in attending upon the Chancellor at London, to hear the Receiver's accounts, &c., 8l. 10d.

98. (3.) Sowthwell's diet for 10 days from Low Sunday, 30 Hen. 8., to the beginning of Hestern Term following, "as well in attending upon Mr. Chancellor in London "as in riding with him to Otlands, Hanworth, and Cud- "dynton about the King's affairs, by the day, 6s. 8d.;" total, 66s. 8d.

Also for "horsemeat of 4 horses and horsekeeper's "expenses at Kingston the night that Mr. Chancellor "lay at Mr. Page's," 21d.

Also for horsemeate and man's meate at Ewell, when Mr. Chancellor was at Cuddingtons, 14d.

(These three "bills" are signed by Richard Ryche and Robert Sowthwell.)

99. (4.) Receipt for 12l. 6s. 9d., received from the Treasurer of the Augmentations by Thomas Baylye, on behalf of his master, Robert Sowthwell.

100. May 27, 30 Hen. 8.—Letter from Thomas Cromwell, apparently to Thomas Pope, Treasurer of the Augmentations, directing him to give an acquittance to John Freeman for plate to the value of 917l. 2s. 8d., which the said John had delivered in the name of the person addressed, to "Maister Gustik," Treasurer of the "First Fruits and Tenths."

101. Attached is an acknowledgment of receipt by John Gostwyk of plate to the amount named from Thomas Pope by the hands of John Freeman, Receiver of the Augmentations in Lincolnshire, dated Oct. 4, 28. Hen. 8. (Parchment.)

102. June 16, 30 Hen. 8.—Warrant of Sir Richard Ryche to Thomas Pope, the Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay to Sir John Wallop, knight, 50l. being one half year's rent of the site and demesnes of the late Monastery of Barlegh, in the county of Somerset, and other manors granted by the King to the said Sir John by patent dated the previous 29th of May.

103. Sir John Wallop's receipt, of the same date, is attached.

104. April 26 to Sept. 7, 30 Hen. 8.—A book (12 leaves) containing a statement of the charges and sums of money laid out by Richard Duke, clerk of the Council of the Court of Augmentations as well for the "floryng, bord- "yng, and celyng with waynscott" of the house under the Court of Augmentations at Westminster, with the iron-work and locks to the same, as also for the making and amending of the walls of the garden there, and making of the garden, and carrying away of the rubbish out of the same garden, the coping and amending of the leads over the Court and the chimneys there:—

April 26.—For carriage of 16 loads of wainscot 5s. 4d.

For 7 loads of "jeysse" [joists?] 4s. 8d.

Twelve loads of clench boards, 8s.

Four loads of quarters, 44s.

"Two hundred of wainscot and a quarter," 9l.

Paid for loading of the wainscot, 10d.

Twenty hundred of boards, 3l.

Eight score "gyesse" [joists?], 5l. 6s. 8d.

A load and a half of "puncyons," 16s. 6d.

Boat-hire at divers times, 12d.

Scaffold timber, poles, and hurdles, 20s. 8d.

"For basse at divers times to make the scaffold withal," 8s. 7d.

Timber, 12s. 6d.

Nails, 16d.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

The payments, to individual workmen are then given in detail, and may be thus summarised:—

To carpenters, some at the rate of 8*d.*, and some at the rate of 9*d.* the day.

To bricklayers, some at the rate of 8*d.*, some at the rate of 9*d.*, and some at the rate of 10*d.* the day.

To labourers, some at the rate of 4*d.*, some at the rate of 5*d.*, and some at the rate of 6*d.* the day.

To joiners, at the rate of 9*d.* the day.

To sawyers, at the rate of 8*d.* the day.

To gardeners, some at the rate of 4*d.*, some at the rate of 5*d.*, some at the rate of 6*d.*, and one at the rate of 10*d.* the day.

With these items are intermixed others for material, &c., viz. :—

May 11.—Three thousand of sixpenny nails, 10*s.*

Carriage of a load of presses, 8*d.*

May 18.—Carriage of rubbish out of the ground, 26*s.*

“For 8 punnyons,” 4*s.*

“For quarters,” 3*s.* 4*d.*

Carriage of the same “quarters and punnyons,” 8*d.*

Four loads of laths, 48*s.*

A piece of timber, 16*d.*

Hire of two boats to carry boards, 6*d.*

Two thousand sixpenny nails, 6*s.* 8*d.*

Gutter stone, 8*s.*

Two hundred tenpenny nails, 20*d.*

May 25.—Three thousand sixpenny nails, 10*s.*

A load of quarters, 11*s.*

For carriage of the same, 8*d.*

For carrying away of rubbish out of the ground, 18*s.*

Basse for the scaffold, 8*d.*

Nails, 7*d.*

Seven hundred “planche” boards, 21*s.*

Eight “punnyons,” 3*s.* 6*d.*

Four thousand tenpenny nails, 26*s.* 8*d.*

Paid for a cart for carrying presses at Westminster, 8*d.*

One thousand sixpenny nails, 3*s.* 4*d.*

June 1.—For carrying rubbish out of the ground at 1½*d.* a load, 26*s.* 2*d.*

For a grate, and mending of pickaxes, 8*s.* 4*d.*

For baskets, 3*s.* 4*d.*

June 8.—Fourteen quarters of here [hair?] at 2*s.* the quarter, 28*s.*

For carrying rubbish out of the ground, 17*s.* 3*d.*

For “sprigg” nails, 18*d.*

For “three somes of ruff” nails, 20*s.*

June 15.—For mending of pickaxes and hammers, 2*s.*

For carrying rubbish out of the ground, 11*s.*

For carriage of three loads of presses, 2*s.*

June 22.—For carrying rubbish, 6*s.* 8*d.*

June 29.—For carriage of two loads of presses, 16*d.*

For carrying rubbish, 21*s.*

July 6.—Three loads of “gyesse” [joists?], 2*s.*

July 13.—Timber and boards, 8*s.*

For two carts for the carriage of the frame and the door of the house of office in the garden, 16*d.*

A load of “tyleshardes,” 20*d.*

A plank over a door, 6*d.*

A piece of basse, 3*d.*

Two ladders, 12*d.*

For carrying of rubbish, 18*s.*

For the carriage of 3 loads of presses, 2*s.*

For fetching the “tyleshardes” at Kilburn, 4*d.*

July 20.—For carrying of rubbish, 8*s.* 7½*d.*

July 27.—Paid to John Atkins for making the ground level and digging out stones, 40*s.*

For 40 loads of sand, 13*s.* 4*d.*

For 32,000 bricks, at 5*s.* the thousand, 8*l.*

For 37 hundred of lime, at 5*s.* the hundred, 9*l.* 5*s.*

Aug. 3.—For mending of pick-axes and steeling of hammers, 21*d.*

A pair of hinges and hooks for the door in the garden, 10½*d.*

Two locks and two staples, 4*s.*

A round bolt, 4*d.*

A pair of “jemmers” [jambs?], weighing 11 lbs., 2*s.* 11*d.*

A handle for a door and 2 crannies, 8*d.*

For “sharpyng” of 12 pickaxes and mending of hammers, 16*d.*

Given in reward to Mr. Nedam’s servant, 3*s.* 4*d.*

Aug. 10.—Two loads of tiles, 10*s.*

Four hundred of lime, 20*s.*

Four loads of sand, 16*d.*

Carrying of rubbish, 26*s.* 4*d.*

John Williams’ boat-hire at divers times, 12*d.*

For going for a load of tiles, 4*d.*

For carrying three loads of presses, 2*s.*

For tile-pins, 2*d.*

Aug. 17.—For tubs and mending of the same, 3*s.* 4*d.*

A stool for a jakes, 8*d.*

“A halpase and tyle,” 14*d.*

“For making of the hall pase,” 4*d.*

Aug. 24.—For baskets, 12*d.*

Aug. 31.—A quarter of wainscot, 20*s.*

Sep. 7.—For 400 loads of earth at 3*d.* the load, 5*l.*

For 400 loads of dung at 2*d.* the load, 5*l.* 6*s.* [sic]

For lime, 6*l.* 5*s.*

For 12 loads of bricks, 3*l.*

For sand, 16*s.*

For nails “of all sorts,” 40*s.*

For the iron-work of twelve presses, 5*l.* 13*s.*

For three great locks, 30*s.*

For “yerbes” to set in the garden, 7*s.* 6*d.*

For the finishing of the partitions of the presses, “sealing of the wyndowe,” and the cloth for the bord, 50*s.*

The sum total, including workmen’s wages, was 168*l.* 19*s.* 8½*d.*

The account is signed by Richard Ryche and Walter Hendle.

105–108. 29 and 30 Hen. 8.—Four documents (fastened together) relating to payments out of the Court of Augmentations for the King’s use, viz. :—

105. (1.) Dec. 27, 29 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King’s sign manual) to Thomas Pope, esquire, Treasurer of the Augmentations, to pay 4,000 marks to Thomas Hennage, knight, one of the gentlemen of the Privy Chamber. (Parchment.)

106. (2.) Jan. 12, 29 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of the above-mentioned 4,000 marks by Thomas Hennage. (Parchment.)

107. (3.) Feb. 26, 30 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment (under the King’s sign manual) of receipt by the King of 10,000 marks from Thomas Pope, Treasurer of the Augmentations, by the hands of Sir Thomas Hennage, knight, and Anthony Deneve, esquire. (Parchment.)

108. (4.) April 24, 28 Hen. 8, to Michaelmas, 30 Hen. 8.—Label, “Moneys delivered to the King’s coffers” between the dates above mentioned. (Parchment.)

109. Nov. 4, 30 Hen. 8.—Exemplification of an order of the Chancellor and Council of the Court of Augmentations (dated Sept. 2, 30 Hen. 8) for payment to Laurence Wasshyngton, executor of the will of William Bonde, of Northampton, fishmonger, of 100*l.*, being part of a sum for which the late Monastery of St Andrew’s, Northampton, had given bonds to the said William. (Parchment. Latin. Torn.)

110. Attached is Wasshyngton’s receipt, dated 20 Nov., 30 Hen. 8.

111. Dec. 8, 30 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King’s sign manual) to the Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations to pay to Thomas Audeley, knight, Lord Audeley of Walden, Lord Chancellor of England, 500*l.* Lord Audeley’s receipt at foot. (Parchment.)

112. Memorandum attached, to the effect that Lord Audeley had married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas, late Marquis of Dorset, who had bequeathed 900*l.* to her, out of the issues of certain manors, &c., but had died in debt to the King. Lord Audeley was accordingly not only to receive the 500*l.* in ready money, but was also to have all “specyalties” concerning the remaining 400*l.* delivered to him “for full satisfaction of the said nine hundred pounds.” (Parchment.)

1538–9.

113. Feb. 3, 30 Hen. 8.—Warrant (with the King’s sign manual) to the Treasurer of the Augmentations to pay 100*l.* to Anthony Seyntleger, knight, “toward the paling of the King’s New Park at Canterbury.” (Parchment.)

To which is attached:—

Feb. 16, 30 Hen. 8.—Acknowledgment of receipt of the said sum by the said Anthony.

114. [30 Hen. 8?]—A “Declaration of all such parcels of plate” as John Gostwyk, esquire, Treasurer of the First Fruits and Tenths, had received, at various times, through his Deputy, Robert Lord, from Thomas Pope, Treasurer of the Augmentations, and John Freeman, Particular Receiver in the County of Lincoln. The total value was 5,286*l.* 10*s.* 4½*d.*, at the rate of 4*s.* 0½*d.* the ounce for “gilt,” 3*s.* 8*d.* for “parcel gilt,” and 3*s.* 4*d.* for “white.” (Two sheets of paper, the one containing in part a repetition of the contents of the other.)

REIGN OF ELIZABETH.

1568–9.

115. March 16, 11 Eliz.—Copy of Royal Warrant to Sir Nicholas Bacon, knight, keeper of the Great Seal of

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

E OF CHES-
R.

England, to cause to be enrolled in Chancery the decision of the Justices upon some disputed points relating to the jurisdiction of the County Palatine of Chester. It is followed by a copy of the decision (dated 18 Feb 1568-9), which, however, is incomplete. (Eight leaves.)

1570-72.

116. Aug. 11, 1570, to March 19, 1572.—An ancient volume (270 pages) of MS. copies of documents relating to the first Embassy of Walsingham to France, Aug. 11, 1570, to March 19, 1572.

The documents are printed in Sir Dudley Digges's "Compleat Ambassador," pp. 1-348.

There are some variations between the MS. and printed copies, especially in the dates. They are indicated in three sheets of modern MS. placed loose in the volume. The "Compleat Ambassador" contains 54 documents which are not in this MS. volume. The latter does not extend to Walsingham's second Embassy to France.

At the end are a few brief references to matters contained in the correspondence.

1574.

117. Extract headed "Vexillum" from a MS. in Trin. Coll. Cambridge, containing prophecies of wars in Europe affecting the Austrians, the Germans, the French, the English, the Danes, the Swedes, the Spaniards, the Portuguese, the Bohemians, the Pope, &c. (Latin, 2 pp. Torn.)

1579-80.

118. March 2. Tho. Chamber to Francis Harvey, esquire, one of Her Majesty's Pensioners, asking the latter to intercede and prevail upon others to intercede (for his release) with Mr. Riche, at whose suit he was imprisoned on an action of 1,000*l*. He adds, "I would be lothe to be in yrons, which I cannot escape longer than this afternoon . . . and the price of them will be vj li, which I cannot pay."—From the Counter in Wood Street.

1580-1.

119. March 7. "The copy of the letter sent by Mr. Barwicke unto the ould Lady Rich, copyed out of his owne letter sent up by Mr. Howell thorough Mr. Kitchen, one other that dwelleth in the black friers, coming with him." Barwicke, the parson of Much Stambridge, endeavours to remove the displeasure of Lady Rich against him "as one denying to sette his hands concerning the doings of Wright and Dick Riche in the life-time of the late Lord Riche." He alleges that he was the person who brought the matter to the notice of the Bishop of London, and recriminates against Mr. Beryman, who had spoken unfavourably of him to Lady Riche.—Much Stambridge.

1581.

120. Oct. 28 and 29—23 Eliz. Depositions of "John Nicholson, John Bonde, and Barnabas Turner, clerks and vicars in Rochdale Hundred, taken by Mr. Wardall, clerk, Mr. Berriman, clerk, and Mr. Barwick, parson, by virtue of a commandment sent them from the Bishop of London, and other his associates."

Barwick had preached a sermon on the observance of the Queen's accession-day, and an altercation ensued at Lord Rich's house, between the preacher on the one hand, and Robert Wright and Richard Riche on the other. The two latter objected to the expression, "holy day," as applied to the accession-day, and to a comparison of the Queen with Romulus, Alexander, and Lyncurgus. Barwick said that he had not spoken of a "holy day" but of a "solemn day," (though he was prepared to justify both expressions) and the witnesses confirmed his statement.

1582.

121. June 14.—Petition of Richard Riche and Robert Wright to the Privy Council to be released from prison, into which they had been thrown upon the accusation of Barwick, who, as they alleged, had compared the Queen to Romulus, Alexander, and Lyncurgus (subjects of idolatrous worship), and preached that "as their birth-day was celebrated, we ought in like manner to solemnise Initium Regni." They alleged that the Bishop of London was not opposed to their release if the Queen's displeasure could be appeased, and denied that they had been guilty of any disrespect to her.

1582-3.

122. Jan. 24.—Order of the Court of High Commission to Richard Riche, gentleman, and Robert Wright to pay 9*l*. 6*s*. 8*d*. (the costs of a commission for the examination of witnesses, which they had been ordered to pay on Jan.

18, 1581-2), or to appear and answer for their contempt in the Consistory in Paul's Church, London, within ten days.

1589.

123. Dec. 10.—The examination of Valentine Symmes and Arthur Tamlin, stationers, taken by the command of the Lord Chancellor of England, the 10th of December, 1589, in the case of Job Throckmorton and Penry.

It relates to the employment of persons to print secretly the "Theses Martinianæ," "Martin senior," "Martin junior," &c. Its effect is to implicate Job Throckmorton as the author of the works. At the end are the signatures of Symmes, and the mark of Tamlin, followed by the signatures of Lord Cobham, Lord Buckhurst, Sir John Fortescue, Justice Gawdy, &c. (Five closely written pages.)

1590.

124. Oct. 14.—Job Throckmorton to Sir Christopher Hatton (Lord Chancellor) beseeching the latter to "be a means of his peace," after the indictment found against him.—From Throckmorton's "poor house at Haseley."

1592.

125. May 24.—Petition of tenants of North Runcton, addressed to Francis Gawdye (one of Her Majesty's Justices of the Queen's Bench), that Mr. Grubb, one of the preachers of King's Lynn, might be made their parson.

Undated.

126. [Reign of Elizabeth.]—Elizabeth Russell to Judge Gawdye reproaching him, in no measured terms, for having committed her "man," and asserting that the arrest was effected on a warrant not available in her liberty, and that she stood as much upon her loyalty and reputation as the judge upon his life. (Imperfect.)—"The Court."

1596.

127. Nov. 4.—E. Mountagu to his son Henry Mountagu on family matters.

[About 1597?]

127 (a.) The Earl of Essex to his "dear sister the Lady Penelope Rich," describing "the Court of as many humours as the rainbow hath colours, the time more inconstant than women's thoughts, more miserable than old age itself," &c. (Printed. "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," I., 296.)

[About 1597?]

127 (b.) The Earl of Essex to his sister the "Lady Penelope Rich" complaining of sickness and "other secret causes" of dulness, and philosophising on the vanity of human pursuits and wishes. (Printed. "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," I., 298.)

REIGN OF JAMES I.

(MISCELLANEOUS.)

Endorsed, 1602. [i.e., March 24, 1602-3].—Possibly in reality of a date a little later.

128. A book entitled "A view of the state of the clergy within the county of Essex, the substance whereof is ready to be proved at the King's Majesty's pleasure." First of all are given the names "of the diligent and sufficient preachers (94 in number) with their several livings and values." Then follow the names of "preachers" (21 in number) not further described, and after them of "preachers some insufficient, some negligent" (48 in number). The next class (75 in number) is that of "ministers which be either non-residents, double beneficed, or no preachers," to which are added five holders of "united benefices." The last class (106 in number), to which the greatest space is devoted, is that of "ministers which be scandalous, whereof many double beneficed, many no preachers, and some non-resident." In each case the value of the living is mentioned, and the name of the incumbent in every class except the last. The reason for the omission will be obvious from the nature of the remarks, of which the following may serve as specimens:—

One had "been lately a common stealer of deer with greyhounds, and infamous for drunkenness and incontinency." Many were "notorious usurers," "common gamesters and ale-house haunters" and otherwise "infamous." Many also were "horrible swearers," and two had been indicted for common barratry. One had erected "a common bowling place which cost him 50*l*;" another "when sitting as substitute for the arch-deacon did enjoin a penance for whoredom, and after,

D 2

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"in an ale-house he and the registrar did discharge the said penance for 40s." A common charge was that the incumbent was a "dumb minister," or a "ridiculous preacher," or that he had been a seminary priest, or had obtained his preferment by simony. Some were said to be "common hunters," and one to "shoot daily in a piece at wild fowl." One was "an usual seller of books in markets and carried oftentimes as a labourer the barrow in sea-wall works." One was "a common horse-leech and cow-leech, and thereby offensive, a very imperfect reader, and omitteth the hard names in reading, or else readeth them so absurdly that he moveth thereby much laughter." One had been "absent from his charge above a year, and carried a harlot away. He is vagrant." A vicar who had not preached in his parish for 30 years did "much [trouble] a godly preacher hired there at the charge of the parish. His manner is most comonly to sleep in the sermon time there, being in the view of the people, to the evil example of others. He is a notorious liar, a quarreller, a railer, a fighter, and contentious in law," as many others were said to be also. One of the "ridiculous preachers" had recited these verses as part of his sermon:—

"Those that are so precise
That they will eat no Christmas pies,
It were good the crows should pick out their eyes."

One of the "common gamesters" "so delighteth therein that for want of company he playeth oftentimes both games himself and chafes if either game go not to his mind, as if he were playing with another and had lost his money."

One was "a haunter of lewd company, full of filthy behaviour, a quarreller. He brake open the chest of the poor's evidence, defeating the poor of their rents. He beat his wife, an ancient woman, out of doors in shameful and evil sort, her hair about her ears being all in gore blood, with much other lewd behaviour." His next neighbour in the list left "the cure unserved, and the dead unburied," and played "the summoner and bailiff in serving process." The character of another is thus painted, "a negligent, railing, and ridiculous preacher, calling honest women, in the pulpit, whores and drabs, and tells fond tales there of the Devil in a red cap, &c. He is a notorious epicure, and spendeth most part of his time in keeping company and drinking excessively. He is openly infamous for having together more wives than one, for common whoredom with a pedlar's daughter, and a tinker's wife, and others of the like sort."

One had been a proctor and continued to act as a mere civilian. One, in addition to being a wife-beater and swearer, was "stained with many other vices," had "been imprisoned for debt often, even the very most disordered man in the parish."

The vicar in another parish was in even worse repute, "a dumb minister, but taketh on him to preach sometimes, which he doth very ridiculously. He is a hinderer of other preachers which come thither, a common and most shameful drunkard, a shameful ribald, a great gamester at dice and other games, alluring others to play, a fearful blasphemer and swearer, a jester, and so is used. For his wicked and horrible vices he is called the Vicar of Hell, to which name he will as readily answer as another man will to his proper name." (18 pages.)

1603.

129. May 18.—Notification to Lord Rich to be prepared with the money due by him for the first payment of the third entire subsidy granted by Parliament, 27th Oct., 43 Eliz. It is signed by "Tho. Egerton," [the Lord Chancellor], "T. S. Buckurst" [Lord High Treasurer], "Northumberland," "Gilb. Shrewsbury," "J. F. Worcester," "Howard," and "S. Howme," [Chancellor of the Exchequer].—"The Court."

130. Nov. 17.—Similar notification touching the second payment of the same. Signed by "T. Ellesmere" [Lord Chancellor], "T. S. Buckurst" [Lord High Treasurer], "Suffolke," [Lord Chamberlain of the Household], "Devonshire," and "Rob. Cecyll," [Secretary of State].

1604.

131. April 26.—Notification to Lord Rich to be prepared with the money due by him for the first payment of the fourth entire subsidy granted by Parliament, Oct. 27, 43 Eliz. It is signed by "T. Ellesmere" [Lord Chancellor], "T. S. Dorset" [Lord Treasurer], "Nottingham" [Lord High Admiral], "Suffolke"

[Lord Chamberlain], and "Devonshyre."—"At the Court."

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

1605.

132. May.—[Signature imperfect,] "to my very friend Mr. Nathaniel Riche, at Emanuel College," on language, logic, &c., with a considerable display of old-world learning. This is a curious specimen of a letter from one who describes himself as "hominem subagrestem" to a friend at the University. At the end are some verses:—

"Quid mirum Pyladi si quis se præstet Orestem,
"Vere Agamemnonius non adamatus amat,
"Non quod amor te diligo sed quia dignus amore es
"Sic persta o vere dos opulenta Dei."

The apology for them is, perhaps, not misplaced:—"Ecce repente poeta existere præsumo: verum non Phœbeus sed Vulcanius, mutilus, atque claudus, non nisi tamen prius a te provocatus. Ride, si placet, sed ama." The whole is in Latin.

1606.

133. April 2.—Lord Lisle to Sir Henry Montague, knight, Recorder of London, asking his opinion on "this note" [an enclosure probably], and recommending Sir Christopher Hatton's Bill in the Commons.—Barnard Castle.

134. Sept. 22.—Pope Paul V. to the English Catholics, sympathising with them in the persecutions they were suffering, and encouraging them to disregard the laws against Recusants, and not resort to "heretical churches." (Copy.)—Rome.

1606-7.

135. Feb. 21, 4 James I.—Acquittance for 37l. 17s. 9d., due as arrears of money received for sale of woods of King Henry 8, by Richard Riche, Esquire, deputy of Charles, Duke of Suffolk, Justice of all the said King's forests, &c. Reference to the Great Roll [Pipe Roll] of 43 Eliz., Essex. (Parchment. Latin.)

1608.

136. Dec. 7, 6 James I.—Acquittance for 40l., being the sum at which Robert Lord Riche was assessed for the first of three entire subsidies granted by the "magnates" to Queen Elizabeth in the 39th year of her reign. Reference to the Great Roll [Pipe Roll] of 4 James I., Essex. (Parchment. Latin.)

1609.

137. Michaelmas, 7 James I.—Pells Office memorandum Kent and Essex) relating to the sum of 66l. 3s. 4d., being the composition made with George Chute, esquire, and others, for a recognisance of 200 marks acknowledged by George Harper, 23 May, 30 Hen. 8., for the Surveyor of Woods, (Parchment. Latin.)

1610.

138. Oct. 9.—Notification to Lord Riche to be prepared with the money due by him for the first payment of one entire subsidy granted by Parliament Feb. 9th, 7 James I. It is signed by "F. Ellesmere" [Lord Chancellor], "R. Salisbury" [Lord Treasurer], "H. Northampton," "T. Suffolke" [Lord Chamberlain], and "Gilb. Shrewsbury."—"At the Court."

1611.

139. April 11.—Similar notification with the same signatures (excepting that of the Earl of Suffolk), respecting the second payment of the same subsidy.—"At the Court."

140. Aug. 9, 9 James I.—Fragment of Commission of the Peace for the county of Huntingdon. Oliver Cromwell, knight, was appointed Custos Rotulorum. (Parchment. Latin.)

1612.

141. June 22, 10 James I.—Letters Patent of licence to Henry Mountagu, knight, sergeant-at-law, to act as Justice of Assize in the county of Northampton, notwithstanding the fact that he was born in that county, and the Act 33 Hen. 8. [c. 24]. (Parchment. Latin.)

1613.

142.—Draft or copy of heads of the prayer of Frances, Countess of Essex, for a decree of nullity of marriage, and of the answer of the Earl of Essex. (See State Trials, Vol. II., p. 786.)

1614.

143. 12 James I.—List of the Members of the House of Commons, in the year 12 James I., with the name of the county, borough, &c., represented by each. (A book of 28 pages.)

1615.

144. Sept.—Prescription for an electuary, and general directions relating to diet and mode of life, written by W. Mayerne for Nathaniel Rich. (In Latin.)

145. Undated.—“Dr. Turnor’s directions for my “Lady at Bath.” The mode of bathing is minutely described, and some prescriptions (to be used in case of need) are added.

146. Undated.—Prescriptions for Mr. Riche, including a somewhat remarkable one for the gout, and “a gentle “purge against melancholy.” There is a list of “meats” allowed, and a direction to “dine at 10 o’clock, sup at “five, and eat but of one dish at one meal.”

147. Undated.—“Directions to make clisters to sup-“presse melancholike fumes,” with other prescriptions intended for the same purpose.

148. Undated.—“Bragott and Dr. Hunton’s directions
“against the vertigo, from my Lord of Huntingdon.”

149. Undated.—Prescription for a draught.

1616.

150. Oct. 29 (14 James I.)—Bill of sale by Sir John Spilman, of the parish of St. Martin’s-in-the-Fields, knight, to Mary Robinson, of London, widow, of “two greate “table dyamonds, ech of them sett in a collet of gould “enamyled black.” The sum advanced was 800*l.*, and was to be repaid, with 40*l.* interest, on the following 1st of May. [See No. 153.]

1616-7.

151. Feb. 23, 14 James I.—Privy Signet Bill directed to Lord Chief Justice Montague, instructing him to examine certain persons touching an alleged sale of the office of Steward, &c. of Windsor Castle, and to state his opinion whether the office was legally forfeited to the King in consequence.—Westminster.

1617-18.

152. A book in MS. entitled “An Advertisement to “Christian Princes concerning the waies by which the “Jesuits guide their affairs, what meanes they use to “prie into the secret counsels and designs of Princes and “advance the greatness of their Society. Printed at “first at Milan by Pandolfo Malatesta, 1617, and after “corrected and reprinted in Rome by Antonio Bru-“giotti, A.D. 1618. With licence of superiors.” (pp. 25.)

1619.

153. May 5 (17 James I.)—Bill of Sale by Sir John Spilman, of the parish of St. Martin’s-in-the-Fields, knight, to Francis Haddon, citizen and goldsmith, of London of “two greate table dyamonds ech of them sett in a “collett of gould enemyled black.” The sum advanced was 1,020*l.*, and was to be repaid, with 25*l.* 10*s.* interest, on the following sixth of August. (See No. 150.)

[1619 ?]

153 (a). “A Treatise tending to pacification in the present controversies of predestination and the dependents thereupon.” Endorsed, “Dr. Hackwell’s “Treatise tending to pacification in the controverted “articles which were determined by the Synod of “Dor” [Dort ?] (19 pages.)

1620.

154. May 10, 18 James I.—Notes of the scope and powers of a Commission concerning Recusants, their concealments of lands, &c., and of a commission concerning “pursuants” and informers.

1620-1.

155. March 24.—Tho. Burby to Sir Nathaniel Rich, giving the “Meditation” of the former “upon his “apprehension of God’s exceeding rich mercy towards “Great Britain in the admirable discovery of the late
“most horrible and incomparable treason that ever
“was contrived upon the face of the earth, and intended to have been effected upon the 5th of November, A.D. 1605.”—Depden.

1621.

156. Dec. 4.— . . . [Signature imperfect] to Sir Nathaniel Rich, on behalf of Mr. Lee, who, “being in “the protection of a worthy member of your House, “was, to the great contempt of the House and breach “of privilege, arrested by the sheriff.”—“Harford “House.”

1622.

157. June 18.—Richard Spittye to Sir Nathaniel Rich on domestic affairs, sale of tobacco, &c.—Warwick House.

27

158. Aug. 17.—M. d’Aersen to Lord Cromwell, describing the military dangers affecting the Low Countries, and regretting that the English Court appeared indisposed to render any assistance. (In French.)—London.

159. Nov. 13.—“A note of my Ladies [Lady Morgan’s] wearing apparell linge in a great bard cheast
“in my Ladies bedchamber,” as well as in “a bard “chest in my Ladies closet, being her owne cheast of “linen that she brought with her, November the 11,” and “a red leather little trunke standing in my Ladies closet.” A very minute inventory, with a note signed “Eliza Morgan,” that she gave a portion to her brother Sir Nathaniel Rich.

1623.

160. Aug. 12.—Arthur, Lord Chichester, to the Countess of Warwick, touching the projected duel between the Earl of Warwick and Lord Cavendish, the embarkation of the Earl (disguised as a merchant) to be present at the meeting in the Netherlands, his discovery at Ghent, and the probability that he would defer to the King’s wishes and return home.—Holborn.

[1623 ?]

160 (a). Susan Mountagu to her husband Edward Mountagu, on family matters. (Printed in “Court and “Society from Elizabeth to Anne,” I., 314.)

1624.

161. July 21.—R. Willis to Sir Nathaniel Rich, requesting the latter to go to Chelsea to speak with “My Lord.”—Westminster.

162. Oct. 16.—D. Norton to Sir Nathaniel Rich, expressing the continuance of his friendship in spite of the troubles of the times.—Dublin.

1624-5.

162 (a). Jan. 17.—Sir Isaac Wake to Mr. Secretary Conway, giving an account of his reception as Ambassador in Venice, of the propositions submitted by him to the Venetian Senate, and of the Senate’s reply to the effect that they would “concur with His Majesty in “the prosecution of His pious designs.” (Copy, 8 pages.)—Venice.

1624-5.

163. Jan. 24.—The Duke of Buckingham to Mr. Edward Montagu, condoling with him on the loss they had both sustained in the death of her “whom God had taken” [i.e., Mr. Montagu’s wife.] (Printed in “Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne,” I., 324.)—Wallingford House.

164. The Countess of Devonshire to Sir Nathaniel Rich (who had been elected Member of Parliament by two different boroughs) asking him to transfer the Burghership for Retford upon her son, “who had sat “for that place in the previous Parliament.

165. Feb. 15.—The Countess of Devonshire to Sir Nathaniel Rich, thanking him for having “quitted his pretense to represent Retford in Parliament, and shown her “how to obtain the election” for her son. Wrongly endorsed, “Harding’s letter.”

Undated.

166. James I.—“A Cambridge Madrigal confuting
“an Oxford Ballad,” in English and in Latin.

167. James I.—Rules, under the sign manual of James I., for the ordering of attendance in his Privy Chamber.

168. James I. ?—Rough notes to serve apparently for the drawing up of a petition to have the law against Recusants enforced.

169. James I. ?—A copy of Greek verses on Pleasure, the value of which may be estimated from the first four—

Ἡ μὴν ἡδονὴ ἐν ἑλκεὶ συμπάντα βιοῦντα
Οὐδεὶς τις ἐργῶ τέρεται ἀλλὰ τινι.
Πόλλοις ἀνθρώποις φίλοι πολεμοὶ τε μαχὰι τε
Εἰσι λείπονται τὰς ἑτέροις τε μαχὰς.

(The accents are printed as they appear in the MS.)

On the back are the names of Greek tenses, with

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

numbers probably used for reference in some parsing exercise.

170. James I.?—Lady Mandeville to Lord Mandeville, describing her ailments.

Mich., 16 James I., to Mich., 15 Charles I.

171. A roll of acquittances to Robert, Earl of Warwick, for the issues of his office (not stated), with references to the Pipe Rolls, under the head of "Essex." (Parchment, 10 membranes made up chancery fashion. Latin.)

REIGN OF JAMES I.

(IRELAND.)

1616-18.

172. Copy of the King's instructions to Sir Oliver St. John, Deputy of Ireland, to be observed by him with the advice of the Council in that Kingdom in the plantations of the County of Leitrim, King's County, and Westmeath. Six closely written pages touching the relations of the British settlers to the "barbarous Irish."

1621.

173. Nov. 11.—Copy of instructions of the Lord Deputy to the Irish judges to make inquiry concerning the sufficiency of a conveyance of land by Sir James Craig to the King, and of their reply to the same. They certified, among other matters, that the lands being near Mallow were in "so civil a part of the kingdom" that the rent might at all times be answered to his "Majesty."—Dublin Castle.

1622.

174. March 26.—The Earl of Oxford to Sir Nathaniel Rich on the "patent for the creation of Lord Viscount Dillon," the sums to be received from him for it, and the mode of payment.—"Darby House."

175. April 14.—The Earl of Oxford to Sir Nathaniel Rich, one of His Majesty's Commissioners for Ireland, requesting him to hasten his dealings with Burlimachi's correspondents [in the matter of the money due on Viscount Dillon's patent], and giving some items of gossip.—London.

176. April 14.—The Earl of Oxford to Sir Nathaniel Rich, (then "one of His Majesty's Commissioners for Ireland at Dublin,") touching "the exchange of the first thousand pounds" [due on Viscount Dillon's patent].—London.

177. May 16.—Sir John King to Sir Nathaniel Rich, touching the security required upon the grant of the Patent for Viscount Dillon's creation.

178. May 25.—Jo. Wright to Sir Nathaniel Rich, touching some bills of exchange [given as security on Viscount Dillon's creation], and "his lordship's" [the Earl of Oxford's] imprisonment.—Gray's Inn.

179. June 22.—Unsigned draft of letter to their "honourable Lordships" [the Privy Council], touching the complaints of "the natives" with regard to the mode of "plantation" adopted in Ireland, and the measures taken to appease them. (4 pages.)—Dublin Castle.

180. June.—Draft of Report of Commissioners on the subject of courts of justice in Ireland.—Dublin Castle.

[1622 ?]

181. "A draught offered me [Sir Nathaniel Rich] by Sir Francis Annesley, to express the receipt of my Lord of Oxford's money, which I did not sign." It refers to the patent for Viscount Dillon's creation.

182. "A true relation of the rectory and parish of Tawnatalee alias Mounterheyney," giving a description of the church, with inventory of its contents, the names of parishioners, the number of communicants, &c.

162 . . . [1622 ?]

183. Aug. 5.—"A note of the names of all the tenants of William Brownlowe, esquire," apparently in Clambresail.

1622 .

184. Aug. 6.—Description of the parcels of "the Lord Grandizon's proportion in the barony of Orier and county of Ardmarche, [Armagh] being 1,500 acres, called by [the name of] the Manor of Ballymore," signed by Richard Atherton. (6 pages.)

185. Aug. 10.—The Earl of Essex to Sir Nathaniel Rich, touching the disposal of land "in that country," in which a "thorough plantation" was contemplated.—Drayton.

186. Aug. 11.—Sir Henry Holcroft to Sir Nathaniel Rich, one of the General Commissioners for Ireland, touching the disposal of the money and securities received from Viscount Dillon.—"At the Court at Farnham."

187. Aug. 27.—List of "the names of the freeholders planted upon the two small proportions of Aghivillan and Broughes, in the county of Armagh, being the lands of Sir John Dillon, knight," followed by "the names of the leaseholders planted upon the same," and signed "John Dillon." (Two sheets of paper).

188. Aug. 30. Copy of a letter (unsigned) to the Bishop of Meath, touching the dissatisfaction of "the natives," with "the manner of the plantation," the influence of Jesuit priests and friars among them, and the manner in which the writer, having "found an old priest and about 40 with him in the church beginning the Communion . . . took him by the shoulder and thrust him out of doors in his habit."—Athlone.

189. Oct. 11.—Jo. Wright to Sir Nathaniel Rich, touching the imprisonment of the Earl of Oxford, and the consequent impossibility of consulting him on the subject of the 1,500*l.*, for which Sir Nathaniel had taken security from Viscount Dillon. Wright expresses full belief in the Earl's loyalty.—Gray's Inn.

190. Oct. 23.—Sir Dudley Diggs to his "friend and partner," Sir Nathaniel Rich, one of His Majesty's Commissioners at Dublin, touching the proposed recall of the Commissioners from Ireland, to which there was some opposition on the part of the King and some of the Council, but which Sir Dudley still hoped to obtain. There is also a reference to some previous communication in which Sir Henry Bourchier and Sir Nathaniel were concerned.

191. Oct. 24.—Warrant under the King's sign manual to Sir Nathaniel Rich, one of the Commissioners employed for the general affairs of the realm of Ireland, to deliver to Sir John King, one of the Privy Council of Ireland, certain bonds for the payment of 1,500*l.* entered by the Lord Viscount Dillon to the use of the "Earl of Oxford."—Westminster.

192. Dec. 18.—Lord Caulfield to Sir Nathaniel Rich, asking for information respecting any attempt to obtain the sum of thirteen hundred and odd pounds, of which he had requested Sir Nathaniel and Sir Dudley Diggs to procure payment, and indicating the course to be taken in case they had failed.

1622-3.

193. Feb. 26.—Sir Henry Docwra [Treasurer-at-War in Ireland] to Sir Nathaniel Rich, referring briefly to the contents of a previous letter, and to "the new orders for settling the state of" Ireland.—Dublin.

[1622-3 ?]

194. March 4.—Sir Francis Blundell to Sir Nathaniel Rich complaining of the conduct of some of the Commissioners towards him, and asserting that he had never been a receiver of bribes.—Dublin.

1623.

195. April 3.—Lord Treasurer Middlesex to Sir Nathaniel Rich, asking for particulars of 22,000*l.* of the better sort of debts owing to the King in Ireland, "intended for clearing the arrears of the army."—Chelsea.

196. April 26.—Sir Francis Blundell to Sir Nathaniel Rich, explaining the difficulties of his position, and the malicious statements made about him.—Dublin.

197. June 17.—The Earl of Holderness to Sir Nathaniel Rich, one of the Commissioners for Ireland, recommending the petition of a gentleman [Mr. Veazie, according to the endorsement].—Greenwich.

[1622 or 1623 ?]

198. July 20.—Sir Francis Blundell to Sir Nathaniel Rich, expressing gratification that he had the approval of the Lord Treasurer, and that Sir Nathaniel had been appointed one of the Commissioners, and giving some particulars of steps taken for payment of arrears due to the army in Ireland.—Dublin.

1623.

199. July 25.—Copy of a letter from Sir John King to the Lord Treasurer [Middlesex], touching the arrears of pay due to the army in Ireland, and the confusion in the accounts of that kingdom. "The poor condition of the army," he says, "is such as in all my life I have not seen the like wheresoever I have been."

[1622 or 1623 ?]

200. Aug. 26.—Sir Francis Blundell to [Sir Nathaniel Rich] touching the proposed appointment of Mr.

DUKE OF
MANCHES-
TER.

OF 182- Meredith as Receiver of the Court of Wards in Ireland, and various abuses in the receipt of public revenues there. (Three large closely-written pages).—Dublin.

1623-4.

201. Feb. 21.—Sir Francis Blundell to Sir Nathaniel Rich on the payment of arrears due to the army in Ireland, and complaining that he was not well supported in his efforts to call in money due to the King.—Dublin.

1624-5.

202. Jan. 11.—Lord Caulfield to Sir Nathaniel Rich, correcting a statement in a previous letter that the pay of the army was 14 months in arrear, but asserting that it was 10 months in arrear, &c.—Dublin.

Undated.

202 (a). [James I. ?].—Portion of a book (somewhat after the model of Domesday), containing an account of the lands held by English and Scottish settlers or "undertakers" in Ireland, the houses or castles erected on them, and their capabilities of defence, &c. (Imperfect at beginning: 43 pages.)

REIGNS OF JAMES I. AND CHARLES I.

(COLONIAL.)

[1605.]

203. Oct. 30. 3 James I.—Articles of agreement between Sir John Zouche, of Codnor, in the county of Derby, knight, and Captain George Waymouth (elsewhere Waymouth), of Corkington, in the county of Devon, gentleman, in respect of a proposed voyage to Virginia for the foundation of a colony there. Sir John was to "set forth" at his own cost two ships furnished with "all necessities of victual, provision, munition, and 200 able and sufficient men, that is to say, or such trades and arts as are fitting for a plantation and colony." He was to give Capt. Waymouth 100*l.* for his "travell and pains to be taken in and about the voyage, and for his own charge defraying." Sir John being chief in command, was to give the next place to Capt. Waymouth. If it so pleased God "to prosper and bless the intended voyage and the actions of the same, that thereby the land should be inhabited with our English nation, and according to politic estate of Government proportion of land be allotted to such as should be transported thither to inhabit, then after Sir John should have made his choice, and assumed into his possession, in manner of inheritance such quantity of land as he should think good, Capt. Waymouth and his assigns might make his or their next choice of land to hold of Sir John as Lord Paramount." Capt. Waymouth was to aid in the enterprise to the best of his power. It was also provided that, as Capt. Waymouth had previously agreed with some merchants of Plymouth, named Parker, Love, Came, and Morgan, "to carry them with their shipping and provision to the land of Virginia, there to fish and traffic, and do what else should be fitting for a merchant voyage," Sir John was to permit them to trade without hindrance for a year and no longer. (Parchment.)

[1611.]

204. Sept. 8, 9 James I.—Authorisation to George Weymoth, of London, gentleman, by Sir William Bonde, of Highgate, in the county of Middlesex, knight, to make the purchases, and other arrangements necessary for building, victualling, arming, and manning (with a crew of 20) a ship of 40 tons, and for victualling it for a year. (Parchment.)

1612-13.

205. March 12, 1612-3, to June 1613.—Portion of what appears to have been a history of the Virginia and Summer Islands settlements. The eight pages remaining consist chiefly of an abstract of the "third charter" to the Virginia Company, dated 12 March, 9 James I. Mention is made also of the "separation of the Summer Islands from the Virginian body," of Capt. Argall's voyage in 1612, and of a letter from him to Mr. Nicholas Hawes in June 1613, in which he gave a more favourable account of the colonies than had been expected.

1615.

206. Nov. 20.—Edward Dun to Sir Robert Rich, asking to have an allotment of ground in Sir Robert's shares, and mentioning the intention of the colonists to plant corn and tobacco.—Summer Islands.

1616.

207. July 14.—Daniel Tucker to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, praising the quality of the land in the Summer Islands, and remarking that the chief want was cattle.—St. George's, in the Summer Islands.

208.—"A true relation of the State of Virginia" at the time when Sir Thomas Dale left it in May 1616. It is in the form of a letter from John Rolfe, [the husband of Pocahontas,] to Sir Robert Rich. The healthiness of the climate and water, and the fertility of the soil are very highly praised. Cattle and horses were scarce, but the greatest want was held to be "good and sufficient men as well of birth and quality to command, soldiers to march, discover and defend the country from invasions, as artificers, labourers, and husbandmen." When the colony was governed at the beginning "by a Council and President aristocratically, the President yearly chosen out of the Council," dissensions were rife and "in this Government happened all the misery." When, two years later, "a more absolute Government was granted monarchally" the colonists began to prosper; and when a peace was concluded with the Indians every man sat "under his fig tree in safety, gathering and reaping the fruits of his labour with much joy and comfort." Sir Thomas Dale is described as an excellent Governor, and his policy in making peace with the Indians much commended. The names of the places already occupied are mentioned, and the division of the "main body of planters into officers, laborers, and farmers" is described. "The officers have the charge and care as well over the farmers and labourers generally that they watch and ward for their preservations, and that both the one and the other's business may be duly followed to the performance of those employments which from the one are required, and the other by covenant are bound unto. These officers are bound to maintain themselves and families with food and raiment by their own and their servants' industry. The labourers are of two sorts. Some are employed only in the general work, who are fed and clothed out of the store. Others, especially artificers, as smiths, carpenters, shoemakers, tailors, tanners, &c., do work in their professions for the Colony, and maintain themselves with food and apparel, having time limited them to till and manure their ground. The farmers live at most ease, yet by their good endeavours bring yearly much plenty to the plantations. They are bound by covenants both for themselves and servants to maintain His Majesty's right and title in that Kingdom, against all foreign and domestic enemies; to watch and ward in the towns where they are resident; to do 31 days' service for the colony when they shall be called thereunto, yet not at all times, but when their own business can best spare them; to maintain themselves and families with food and raiment; and every farmer to pay yearly into the magazine, for himself and every man-servant, two barrels and a half a piece of their best Indian wheat."

No one was allowed to grow tobacco unless he had two acres of land for himself and each man-servant sown with corn; but upon fulfilling that condition anyone might grow as much tobacco as he pleased, and tobacco was the "principal commodity" of the colony. The total number of colonists was 351, viz., 205 officers and laborers, 81 farmers, and the rest women and children. Their distribution in the different settlements is indicated. "Seeing too many poor farmers in England," says Rolfe, "work all the year, rising early and going to bed late, live penuriously, and much ado to pay their landlord's rent, besides a daily tasking and care to feed themselves and families, what happiness might they enjoy in Virginia, where they may have ground for nothing more than they can manure, reap more fruits and profits with half the labour." There are many religious reflections in the paper, and an attempt to convert the natives to Christianity is recommended. In a postscript the number of cattle in the colony is stated to have been 144, of horses 6, of goats and kids 216, with "hogs, wild and tame, not to be numbered, and poultry great plenty." (pp. 17.)

1617.

209. May 19.—Lewes Hughes to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, praising the exertions of Mr. Robert Rich, who was "distributing to every man his due" out of the "provision" sent over by Sir Robert Rich, as there was danger from fire in storing goods, when the buildings were chiefly of "palmeto leaves." Some of the colonists were, nevertheless, dissatisfied. Then follow some details relating to the arrangements made for religious worship:—"The ceremonies are in no request, nor the

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"Book of Common Prayer, I use it not at all. I have, by the help of God, begun a Church Government by Minister and Elders. I made bold to choose four Elders for the town publicly by lifting up of hands, and calling upon God, when the Governor was out of the town, in the Main. At his return it pleased God to move his heart to like well and to allow of that we had done, and doth give to the Elders all the grace and countenance that he can. We do not meddle with excommunication as yet, till the people have more knowledge. They whom we find obstinate we purpose to deliver to the Governor to be corrected. Hitherto, I thank God, we have found none obstinate, but all willing and ready to obey our admonition. God, I hope, will give his blessing to this poor and weak beginning to His own glory. I have sent to Mr. Bampford the manner of the public service of God that I do use here, and have entreated him, with the help of such other godly ministers as he thinks fit, to peruse and amend it where they think good, and to send it again by the next ship. I pray you, good sir, call upon him to have a care of it, that the service of God in these islands may be so established now as hereafter there be no such bitter contention about it, as is in England."—Summer Islands.

210. May 19.—Same to Sir Robert Rich to the same effect. In a postscript it is added, "Rats have been and are a great judgment of God upon us. All the islands have been, in a manner, like so many coney-warrens, which did put the people much out of heart. It is incredible how they did swim from island to island, and suddenly like an army of men did invade the islands from one end to the other, devouring the fruit of the earth in strange manner. . . . As God hath begun to help us to destroy the rats, I hope that in his good time he will help us to take the whales. If the Adventurers send no clothes to this poor people before this time 12 months, many of them will be naked if not dead."—Summer Islands.

211. May 20.—Mr. Robert Rich to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, requesting the latter to receive money due to the former from a Mr. Keath, and promising to send a good quantity of tobacco, "both good and vendible."—Summer Islands.

212. May 20.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother Mr. Nathaniel Rich, touching the purchase of shares in the Summer Islands.—St. George's.

213. May 21.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother, Mr. Nathaniel Rich, recommending Mr. Norwood.—Summer Islands.

214. May 21.—Daniel Tucker, Governor of Bermuda, to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, "You give me to understand," he says, "that you have bought for your brother, Mr. Robert Rich, Mr. Hamor's 10 shares, which falling out in bad ground, you desire to have Brother Islands and another little island to be registered as parcel of those shares. . . . The Brother Islands being bird islands, ever heretofore common and great relief to many, of which benefit if I should upon the instant deprive them it would give great discouragement, and cause the inhabitants of the Main to tax me with injustice, I desire you to have a little patience." The "whale voyage" had not been successful. A pinnacle to trade with the West Indies would be fitting for the speedy planting of the Bermudas with cattle. The rats had greatly decreased, "but," says Tucker, "we are here much wronged, and yourselves much abused by the provider of the poison now sent, for it is stark nought, and not worth twopence." He hoped to see vines flourish. He desired Mr. Nathaniel Rich's interest to have allotted to him an "overplus of land" fallen out by the subdivision."—Summer Islands.

215. May 22.—Marmaduke Dando and William Smith to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, touching 25 acres of land rented by them from Robert Rich.—Summer Islands.

216. May 23.—Edward Athen to Sir Robert Rich, expressing a hope that Sir Robert would not be angry because the writer had got himself a wife, and giving some particulars of the colony, similar to those already mentioned in previous letters.—Summer Islands.

217. May 24.—Charles Wolferston to Sir Robert Rich on the failure of the whale-fishing, the trouble still given by rats, which found refuge in the "unsupplied" parts of the islands, the injury to tobacco from worms, the fitness of the climate and soil for growing vines, figs, sugar canes, pines, potatoes, &c., the want of shoes and shoe-leather, the expediency of bringing divers from the West Indies to bring up the treasures of the sea, and asking for materials to make a net to catch mullets, of which there was "great store" about the islands.—Summer Islands.

218. May 25.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother, Nathaniel Rich, on the general state of the colony in the Summer Islands, to the same effect as previous letters. He recommends the purchase of certain shares, and asks to have some necessaries, as sheepskins, beer, and aqua vitæ, sent out.—Earl of Southampton's [Tribe, in the Summer Islands.]

219. June 16.—James Hancock to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, describing the commencement of the voyage [of Sir Walter Raleigh, to Guiana]. "It hath been hitherto," he says, "very tedious and without comfort to all that are on ventures, but we are still fed with hope. We set sail from Plymouth the Wednesday in Whitsun week, but the Sunday following, by contrary wind we were driven back into Falmouth Harbour, where we attend the pleasure of Almighty God for a fair wind. Concerning the number of our fleet, there is 10 ships, our Ambareill [Admiral] called the Destiny, the Vice-Ambareill called the Jason, the Rear-Ambareill, called the Thunder, Captain Pennington captain of the Vice-Admiral, and Sir Warram Selinger [Warham Saint Leger] captain of the Rear Admiral; the other ships commanded by those captains whose names are underwritten:—Sir John Fearn, Capt. Whitney, Capt. Chidly, Capt. Baylye, Capt. Barker, Capt. King, Capt. Mitchell. . . . Here is no variety of news, but continual quarrels and fighting amongst our own company, with many dangerous hurts, but I thank God we have lost never a man yet in all the fleet. When we get to sea, I hope they will be more quiet. Our General and all the captains have this day discharged and set ashore a great company of our men. He pretends, as he saith, not to return while July come twelve-months; therefore he feareth to want provision, which causeth him to lessen his company."—Falmouth.

1617-8.

220. Feb. 22.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother [Nathaniel?], giving a very full account of the produce, capabilities, and wants of the shares of lands already acquired, and recommending the purchase of more. (8 large closely written pages.)—Southampton Tribe [Summer Islands.]

221. Feb. 13.—William Smythe and Marmaduke Dandoe to Sir Nathaniel Rich, asking to be allowed to pay their rent yearly instead of half-yearly, and to have certain necessaries sent out to them.—Summer Islands.

222. March 5.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother [Nathaniel], requesting the latter to receive payment of a bill of Charles Beck due at sight. Written at the foot of the bill itself, which is dated Feb. 24. 1617-8.—[Summer Islands.]

223. Feb. 27.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother [Nathaniel], giving a list of goods which he wished to have sent out to him.—[Summer Islands.]

224. March 4.—Edward Athen to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, to the effect that, with Mr. Wolverstone and Thomas Turner, he had raised 135 lbs. of tobacco, and adding messages for his wife and family, &c.—Summer Islands.

225. March 7.—Bill for tools, &c. in the Summer Islands, receipted by Stephen Parker.

226. About same date.—"A note [list] by my [Nathaniel Rich's?] brother of our men upon our shares in the Summer Islands." The total is 21. There is a memorandum by the writer to the effect that 1,500 lbs. of tobacco per annum for 5 years were offered if the number should be increased to 50. (Imperfect.)

227. March 7.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother on some tobacco sent over in charge of one Walker. (Direction imperfect.)—St. George's.

228. March 10.—Edward Dun to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, excusing himself for having sent but a small quantity of tobacco, and expressing hopes to be able to pay his debt to Mr. Robert Rich.—Summer Islands.

229. March 10.—Daniel Tucker to Nathaniel Rich, Esq., expressing his belief that it would be advantageous to have a joint stock to maintain the people 3 years, not spending most of their time in making tobacco but to manner plant and set the Islands. "For thereby the plantation would be made to flourish and yield much pleasure to the inhabitants with willingness to proceed, who now, much discouraged by want of apparel, are continually fleeing." He

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

regretted that the "noble-minded" were few, and those who sought present profit many, but hoped the noble-minded would approve of his conduct in "fortifying, building of houses and boats, planting, setting fencing, and making of highways." He had repaired the forts built by Mr. More which had fallen into ruin. He thanked Rich for his "willingness" in the matter of the "overplus" upon which he had settled four men, and the plantation of which would be of advantage to the colony in general, especially in the destruction of rats. Corn suffered from "blasting;" vines, pines, and plantains grew well, but sugar canes beat of all, and he recommended the purchase of certain lands well suited to them. He had sent a pinnace to Virginia for cattle, but it had not returned, and he was anxious to trade to "the Indies" for the same purpose. He believed Mr. Lewis (the minister) to be an honest and religious man, but bent upon establishing a form of prayer according to his own tradition to the exclusion of the Book of Common Prayer. He was forced to permit this because the minister was of "so peevish a disposition" that if thwarted he would leave the colonists without any religious service at all. He sent a "box of Potargoes as a small remembrance of love."—St. George's, Summer Islands.

230. March 10.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother Nathaniel Rich, recommending Mr. George Neddham as a person who would give a faithful account of the colony.—St. George's.

231. March 12.—Mr. Robert Rich to his brother [Nathaniel], asking to have currant vines sent over, and the opinion of an expert on some tobacco shipped by the Diana. He was annoyed with the Governor, who had "meddled with his tobacco" and "tossed it from place to place, and no place appointed for the stowage of it but only the Church." The "tribes" were discontented because the chief part of the stores sent out by Sir Robert [Rich] had fallen to the lot of St. George's. The share in the Pembroke tribe, on which John Man was placed, was one of the best in the Island, but Man was an obstinate and worthless fellow. He disapproved of Mrs. Stookes, and wondered that Sir Robert could have assigned land to her husband (for in wickedness none could surpass her) and mentioned other persons not very favourably. He wished stores to be sent to him to distribute, and not to other persons individually, and deprecated warrants to return to England being sent except in general terms and subject to his approval. (Three large closely-written pages).—St. George's.

232. March 12 [according to endorsement].—Same to same, mentioning enclosure of invoice of goods sent over in the "Diana." His "especial friend and bedfellow," Mr. Lewis, was very weak. The rats no longer destroyed the corn, and the sharp winter had destroyed many of them. Twenty thousand pounds of tobacco would be ready for shipment in October; and the writer believed that, in spite of all difficulties the colony would yet prosper if supported from home. He wished to have some able men with two or three boys sent over "for some term to remain" with him, and provision for them for one whole year, as well as a "vinnerone" [vignerone] and gardener, and a "store of good liquor," &c. (Two large closely written pages).—[Summer Islands.]

1618.

233.—Lewes Hughes to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, requesting the latter to have his "Doctrine of the Sabbath" printed, reporting that the Governor was "wrathful and furious in his passions towards everybody," and making some remarks upon the characters of other persons. He sends a copy of the order he observes in the public worship of God.—Summer Islands.

234. March.—A complete Liturgy for use in the Summer Islands, as sent over by Mr. Hughes. (17 pages of manuscript.)

235. May 29, June 10, June 24, and June 30.—"Copy of Orders of Court against such as would not supply their shares in the Summer Islands."

236. June 29.—Rough memoranda for future use in the management of estates in the Summer Islands.

237. Dec. 12.—Miles Kendall to Sir Nathaniel Rich, asking the latter to assist him, by bringing his case before the Court for the Summer Islands, and alleging that the money which he had disbursed for two shares, and seven years spent in manual labour and hardships had benefited him nothing.—Summer Islands.

238. Dec. 15.—Edward Athen to Sir Nathaniel Rich, on the condition and produce of the shares of the latter in "Mansfeld Tribe." He praises Mr. Robert Rich, expresses suspicion of Wolverston, and asks to be allowed to return to England by the next ship.—Summer Islands.

239. Dec. 15.—Lewes Hughes to Sir Nathaniel Rich, giving his reasons for not using the Book of Common Prayer, his opinions of the Elders, &c.—Summer Islands.

240. Dec. 23.—Lewes Hughes to Mr. Delbridge, calling attention to the case of Ambrose Can, who had been employed by Captain Tucker and suffered ill-usage, including imprisonment in irons.—Summer Islands.

[1618?]

241. A complete list in alphabetical order, of the "Adventurers to Virginia," with the several amounts of their holdings. (41 pages).

[1618-9.?

242. Last day of February, [endorsed 1618].—John Beckwith to Mr. Nathaniel Rich, asking to have sent out to him, a lease of a share of land in Southampton Tribe for seven years, at a rent of 12*l.* 10*s.* per annum, and a warrant to permit himself and his wife to visit England.—Summer Islands.

1618-9.

243. March 12.—John Delbridge to Sir Edwin Sands and Sir Nathaniel Rich, or either of them, offering accommodation for 30 or 40 passengers at the rate of 5*l.* each, in a ship of 80 tons about to be despatched to the Summer Islands.—Barnstable.

[1619.]

244. April 15, 17 James I.—Note of the terms upon which an intending emigrant (who refers to his "brother and sister Barnes") was prepared to go to the Summer Islands "under the service and protection of the Earl of Warwick." He wished to "go in some better place and fashion than every one that goes," because he had been "a scholar of the University of Cambridge, and sithence student of the law."

1619.

245. April 27.—Draft of Report of a Committee describing the "particular duties" of the several officers of the Virginia Company. The names of Sir E. Sandys, Sir E. Harwood, Sir J. "Worselham," Sir N. Rich, and Alderman Johnson appear in the margin. (6 pages.)

246. April 28 to July 21.—Notes made from the Court books [of the Virginia Company] "concerning the manner of levying public charges."

[1619?]

247. Copy of a petition to the "Lords and rest of the Council and body politic for the state of His Majesty's Colony in Virginia" from "many of the first personal adventurers and planters, willing and ready to prepare themselves with families thither again," setting forth the expediency of selecting a nobleman for Governor, such as had been Lord de la Warr (now deceased), the predecessor of the existing Governor [Capt. Yeardley?]. The subscribers, on behalf of themselves and others, were Sir T. Gates, Captains Francis West, Samuel Argall, Daniel Tucker, Laurence Bohun, Robert Beheathland, and Roger Smith, and James Swift, ensign.

[1619.]

248. April 30, 17 James I.—Sale of the ship called the "New Year's Gift," of 120 tons burthen, by Roger Dunster, of London, merchant, and John Tompson, of Queen's Ferry, Scotland, to Robert, Earl of Warwick, for the sum of 800*l.* (Parchment.)

1619.

249. May 19.—John Dutton to Sir Nathaniel Rich, on a projected voyage of Dutton's to the "Somer Islands." He would go not from necessity, but because of his liking for Robert Rich.

250. July 8.—Copy of minutes relating to the censure passed upon Alderman Johnson, by a Committee of the Council for Virginia, for having in open court used injurious and intemperate language against the Governor, Sir Edwin Sandys. The members present were the Earl of Southampton, the Earl of Warwick Sir John Danvers, Sir Thomas Gates, Sir Nathaniel Rich, Mr. John Wroth, Mr. Thorpe, and Mr. John Farrar.—Southampton House.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

251. July 8.—Short draft of censure against Alderman Johnson, abandoned apparently in favour of the preceding.—Southampton House.

252. Aug. 12.—Lewes Hughes to Sir Nathaniel Rich, informing the latter that his people had followed their business carefully according to the directions left by his brother when departing, "only some of the new comers are almost at a stand, and do sigh to see how many trees they have to fell and how their hands are blistered." John Beckwith having fallen overboard a ship and never again been seen, was "a good warning against gadding abroad upon the Sabbath day," and another "good warning" to all drunkards had been given "by taking one away sleeping in his drunkenness." Three ministers were too few for the whole colony; there ought to be one in every tribe. "Mr. Lang and his wife are in good health; God send us more such." Another project had been suggested for whaling. In a postscript it appears that the crew of a Flemish man-of-war, of whom 4 were English and 2 negroes, had been cast away near Somerset. Hughes had advised the Governor to "disperse them in the Main among such as wanted help, and not to receive them into the colony, where they might see our harbours and our strength or rather our weakness," until instructions came from the "Adventurers."—Summer Islands.

253. Nov. 17.—"A copy of an answer to His Majesty's Letters sent to the Virginia Company dated the 17th Nov. 1619." It refers to the "royal command for the speedy transportation of 50 persons into Virginia such as from His Majesty's Knight Marshall should be recommended." The Virginia Court had resolved that they should be sent out as soon as circumstances permitted, had allotted "a great part of the Company's poor stock," which would be sufficient for that purpose, and proposed, in the meantime, to give them "such daily allowance as (together with the labour of so many of them as were able to take pains) might suffice for their present maintenance."

254. Nov. 17.—Draft of the same letter [drawn up by Sir Nathaniel Rich?].

[1619?]

255. Undated.—Thomas Durham to [Sir Nathaniel Rich?] asking to have three apprentices sent over [to the Summer Islands], and giving various particulars relating to various persons, the growth of tobacco, the arrival of Capt. Butler (the Governor), &c. He considered Mr. Robert Rich was too good-natured, and gave a warning against a practice of planting a "wife's crop" of tobacco. With "women's tobacco they will women all" from [the Earl of Warwick and Sir Nathaniel.] Four closely-written pages.—[Summer Islands.]

1619.

256. A statement of account of several persons in relation to "the store sent in the Warwick to the Summer Islands, 1619," together with an account of the sums owing by each of the tenants [of Sir Nathaniel Rich?] "for their supplies by the 'Blessing'."

1620.

257. List of the names of "all the adventurers in the 'Summer Islands,'" with the number of shares held by each.

1619-20.

258. Jan. 6.—John Salmon to Mr. Thomas Grimsditch, explaining his voyage to the Summer Islands. Two merchants who should have paid him money had broken, and he was ashamed to show himself to his friends, and sailed with Lord De la Warr for Virginia. When he arrived (Lord De la Warr having died at sea) he "got to go by Capt. Argall's favour" in the latter's ship "for the West Indies." He put into the Summer Islands, and received some kindness from Captain Butler, "our now Governor," because he had previously served the "old Lord Warwick." He begs Grimsditch to use influence with "My Lord," [the second Earl of Warwick, of the Rich family?] to have a letter sent to Governor Butler in his favour. He adds in a postscript:—"This place is very hopeful."

259. Jan. 17.—Miles Kendall to Robert Rich, Esq., on various matters of business, with a postscript containing a complaint that Thomas Atwell had been preferred to himself in the letting of certain lands (Long Bird Island).—Summer Islands.

260. Jan. 18.—Miles Kendall to Sir Nathaniel Rich, asking the latter to speak to Sir Edwin Sandys, and to use his influence with the Court [of the Summer Islands Company] so that Kendall might have the use of certain negroes for five years, and complaining that Thomas Atwell (now made Provost Marshal) had "privately procured the Governor's letter to obtain Long Bird Island wholly to himself pro termino vite." This he "hoped the Court would not confirm."—Summer Islands.

261. Jan. 20.—John Dutton to the Earl of Warwick, giving an account of his voyage to the Bermudas. Nine passengers were set ashore at "Quinbor," and five (including Capt. Butler) were taken in at Plymouth. The voyage lasted 10 weeks and 2 days, and there was no mortality, and little sickness. The "Treasurer" was no longer seaworthy. Mr. Daniel Elfred, after having done "some exploit (undoubtedly on the Spaniards)," had brought 29 negroes, and some provisions from Virginia. There was a doubt about the right to the people and goods in the ship which had for this year been "disposed of to the use of the Company." "It was Capt. Argall's unwonted boldness to use his Lordship's name as a bolster to his unwarrantable actions." His Lordship had been "abused in the freight of his ship." The "Garland" came in fourteen days later, after "a hard voyage, many of her people dead at sea, almost all sick." The survivors were kindly treated by the Governor, but some died after landing. Edward Dan committed suicide, and his wife married Thomas Welles. The men sent in the last three ships would probably be unprofitable servants. Elizabeth Clarke, who came over to marry one of Lord Warwick's servants, had married another, and security had been taken for her passage. His Lordship's people were discontented because they had not had servants sent to them like the rest; two or three apprentices to every head of a family would give encouragement. The loss of the "Warwick" through a violent storm "in the very harbour" is described. Some minor details respecting the management, and business of the colony are added. (Four large closely written pages).—Summer Islands.

[1619-20?]

262. [Jan. .].—Lewes Hughes to Sir Nathaniel Rich, urging that "godly preachers" should be sent out. He was "not able to express the abominable drunkenness, loathsomeness, spitting, swearing, swaggering, and quarrelling while the ship was in harbour with any wine or strong waters in her." The sinking of the Warwick showed "how much God was offended," as did many other untoward events, including the appearance of a "strange disease." The conduct of the Governor, Capt. Butler, was most praiseworthy, but he "prevailed little" against the various sins of the place. Mr. Lang was taking great pains, Mr. Dutton doing all he could, "to bring the people to live in good order," and Thomas Durham, who, in the previous year, was "somewhat out of heart," purposed this year "by the help of God to stir himself." The people were "given much to profane the Sabbath day," and Lewes was anxious that his own pamphlet on the subject might be printed and distributed.

1619-20.

263. [Endorsed Jan. 1619].—John Sharvill to the Earl of Warwick, praying that he might not be deprived of his holding to make way for others.—[Summer Islands.]

264. [Endorsed Jan. 1619].—Lewes Hughes to Sir Nathaniel Rich, reflecting upon the character of Thomas Foster, and defending himself from certain alleged aspersions cast upon him by Capt. Tucker. He did not condemn the Church of England or rail against its bishops, though he could not subscribe to every article of its faith.—[Summer Islands.]

265. Feb. 12.—Lewes Hughes to Sir Nathaniel Rich, complaining of the conduct of Mr. Lang, and suggesting that a grave and discreet minister should be sent to the colony. In a postscript dated March 16th, it is stated that the Governor had introduced a translation of the Geneva "form of ministering the sacraments, and of marriages," and a complaint is made of Mr. Yates's drunkenness, and "mutinous buzzing into the people's ears."—Summer Islands.

266. Feb. 14.—Wm. Avis to Sir Nathaniel Rich, making an appointment to call upon Sir Thomas Smith.—Crutched Friars.

267. March 15.—Nathaniel Butler (Governor) to Sir Nathaniel Rich, to the effect that as shipping was sent to the colony only once a year, and then with "scarce a quarter" of the necessaries required, it was expedient to give a good reception to vessels touching casually at the islands, and that such a reception had been given to

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

THE OF KOHES-
FER.

Capt. Powell's frigate, and another holding commissions from Prince Maurice and the Netherlands. He complains of the damage done by turkeys, and asks to have live pheasants and partridges sent over. Capt. Powell was the bearer of the letter (with an inclosure.)—St. George's, Summer Islands.

268. [March 15.]—Postscript [apparently to the above letter] announcing that Capt. Po[well] wished to have a grant of land in the Summer Islands, on which to settle his wife and family, and recommending that it should be made, and that Powell should be entrusted with the command of a "small frigate," which might sail to the "Savage Islands" [Caribbees] for corn. This "would effect a general release from great distress," nor could "any over suspicious objection of roving" upon the West Indies be admitted against it.

[First half of 1620 P]

269. Governor Nathaniel Butler to [Sir Nathaniel Rich?] on the substitution of "mulots and fines" for capital punishment in the colony. The experiment was being tried, but when malefactors deserving death had to be sent to England there arose this remark:—"the only way to get home is to steal a hen here." The "non-divident" of tobacco was "very improper," and the finishing of the new church "scarce finished by the half," had already cost "1 cwt. of tobacco." There is a postscript on the subject of the division of "the overplus" of land. Butler intended not to carry out to the letter the decree of the Company which appeared to have been founded on insufficient knowledge, but to make the division into "shares (not into parts)." Capt. Tucker would receive 3, Sandys' tribe 2, and the glebe of Southampton tribe 2, as intended by the Company, but there would still remain a "surplusage," of which they would have the disposal.

270. Postscript [to a letter of Governor Nathaniel Butler's] complaining of the scarcity of corn caused by "the fond wastes" of the last year before his arrival, the "over pressing" of "ill-supplied newcomers," and "a blast" of the winter's crop. Capt. Kendall, then Deputy Governor, had further delivered 50,000 ears "to the use of Daniel Elfrye," who touched at the Islands with the "Treasurer" on her voyage to the West Indies, "being since returned, as also to the behalf of" one Kirby, an Englishman. This man roved about "in these parts without any commission, and since his departure hence was in a fair possibility to have stolen away the Bona Nova, who being, in her last voyage to Virginia, forced by contrary winds to fall to the southward as far as the Savage Islands, was there met withal by him, who reported since that if he had thought when he came aboard her that so many of her men had been ashore, and so few aboard, he would have carried her away without fail." Kirby, in return, presented Kendall with the 14 negroes, about whom there was a dispute. The passengers by the Garland had arrived almost destitute of meat, drink, and clothing, and in addition to them supplies had to be found for "all the Treasurer's company, the 14 negroes the Dutchmen of the wreck, and those Virginians that were shipped by Mr. Ferrar in the Garland." For these reasons more land, by 1,500 acres, had been set with corn than in any previous year. There were "some dangerous rumours and opinions" in the colony.

[About May 1620 P]

271. Copy of opinion of counsel upon the patents of the [Virginia] Company, with special reference to the power of removing Sir Thomas Smith from the office of treasurer, the power of continuing Sir E. Sandys in that office without re-election, and the power of punishing and pardoning offences committed in Virginia. (Two large sheets of paper.)

1620.

272. Aug.—Extract from a letter of the Council [of the Virginia Company?] affecting Capt. Argall.

273. [Before Sept.]—Account of the acquisition and subsequent disposition of shares in the Summer Islands by:

1. The Earl of Warwick.
2. Sir Nathaniel Rich.
3. Mr. Robert Rich.
4. Joseph Man.

274. Sept. 24.—John Hanmor to Sir Nathaniel Rich, announcing the death of Sir Nathaniel's brother, and asking for one of "my Lord's three shares" [in the Bermudas.]—Port Royal.

275. Oct. 9.—Governor Nathaniel Butler to the Earl of Warwick. His Lordship's negroes had been "disposed of," according to directions. Captain Tucker had been spreading false reports of the governor. As many "of the Treasurer's people" as wished it were allowed to go home, but were "dangerous tongued fellows," and had "given out secretly that if they were not paid to their utmost penny of wages, they would go to the Spanish Ambassador and tell all" [probably the exploit mentioned in No. 261]. Butler asks for Lord Warwick's support against attacks upon his reputation and authority in the "public courts." He had received "scurvy letters" from some of the "petty chapmen" of the company. Sir John Danvers had also played a similar part against him. He saw no prospect of advantage in growing vines or sugar canes. "If any staple commodity," he thought, "besides tobacco and a fair war with Spain, prove real here it will be making of silk." There was now "good plenty of all things" in the colony. He repels the imputation of having entertained Powell, knowing him to be a pirate; and the main quarrel his accuser had with him was not what they represented, but "about the Treasurer," his action in regard to which was justified by "the order of court." In a postscript he adds, he had been "informed by divers of the Treasurer's men that half of those 14 negroes came in the frigate were never of the Treasurer's company, but were stolen from one 'Youpe a Dutchman.'" He had reserved seven out of the 14 to remain in the colony, and if he heard nothing from the company concerning them would, next year, "silently" deliver them over to his Lordship. (Three large closely written pages.)

276. Oct. 14.—John Hanmor to Sir Nathaniel Rich, giving an account of tobacco grown on the shares of the latter.—Port Royal, in the Summer Islands.

277. Oct. 16.—Samuel Lang to Sir Nathaniel Rich, announcing the death of the brother of the latter, and asking for Sir Nathaniel's interests with "the court" to make good the means they had assigned him "by word of mouth," so that he might be able to meet "the troubles of the married estate."—Pembroke Tribe, (Summer Islands.)

278. Oct. 17.—John Dutton to the Earl of Warwick, describing most of his Lordship's people "as of so vile condition, ill-chosen, and idly bred" that there was no hope they would "prove good for him or themselves." "The negroes which came in Elfred and the pines" would be placed as might "stand with his Lordship's most convenience," but the favour shown to "that man" seemed ill placed. The tobacco crop was not good. The people were in need of supplies, for the "magazine" was eating them up. Canvas, hose, shoes, and soap were especially needed. Dutton prays relief "from the slavery the Company imposed upon bailiffs" in their letters to the Governor, in these words, "they shall relinquish their thirtieths, but shall do the duties of their places as before." He gives a warning that Capt. Kendall was "a very silly man, but a fit instrument for Sir Edwin Sands to use in the abuse" of his Lordship.—Summer Islands.

[1620 P]

279. Statement (possibly intended for a speech by Sir Nathaniel Rich), before the Virginia Company, in defence of the Earl of Warwick, against whom Sir Edwin Sandys was accused of entertaining some ill-feeling. The Earl had sent the "Treasurer" to Capt. Argall, then Governor resident in Virginia, by whom it had been despatched to "the Western Islands for salt and goats," and who had sailed for England before its return. Capt. Yeardeley, the existing Governor, had "advertised Sir Ed. Sandys (then Treasurer)" [of the Company] and the Council of Virginia, that the ship was supposed to have "gone to rob the King of Spain's subjects in the West Indies by direction from my Lord of Warwick." Sir Edwin and the Council agreed that it was necessary [in conformity with their oaths] to communicate this information to "the lords" [of the Privy Council], having "first blotted my Lord of Warwick's name out of the letters." But this precaution was not considered sufficient, in the interests of the Earl, "in case that these fellows, to save their own necks, should lay the business upon my Lord." It was accordingly arranged in accordance with the wishes of the Earl, and [Sir Nathaniel], that the Earl of Southampton should be present when Sandys opened the matter before the Council, and should use his influence "to quiet any further search or stir in the business;" and the result was that "the business was dismissed without prejudice to any," the Earl of Warwick having used his influence

E 2

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER

Council, and "so to put upon my Lord of Warwick, " suddenly ere he was aware, a confiscation of his ship " and goods," with other ill consequences. (Four closely written pages.)

[1620 P]

280. Rough notes, made apparently by Sir Nathaniel Rich, for the purpose of speaking in his own defence before the Council of the Virginia Company, on a charge of having altered an order of that Council which he had been requested to draw up in writing. The order had some reference to Capt. Argall; and Sir Edwin Sandys had taken exception to the form in which Sir Nathaniel had cast it.

[1620 P]

281. Rough draft of propositions affecting the Virginia Company, viz., that matters in dispute between them and Capt. Argall (the ship only excepted) should be referred to the arbitration of Lord Zouch, the Bishop of London, and the Recorder, under certain specified conditions, that the Virginia Court and the Bermuda Court should not "intermeddle with the proceedings of " each other," that Sir Thos. Smythe's accounts should be "perfected within one month," and that "all parties " anyways interested in these differences, particularly " my L. Sou. [the Earl of Southampton], my L. W. [the " Earl of Warwick], Sir Ed. S." [Sandys], and others should "at some church in London receive the Com- " munion together in confirmation of mutual accord."

1620.

282. Oct. 17.—John Dutton to Sir Nathaniel Rich on the leasing of lands and various matters of business in the colony. (Imperfect; a sheet wanting apparently; three pages remain).—Summer Islands.

283. Oct. 18.—Thomas Durham to Sir Nathaniel Rich, announcing the death of Mr. Robert Rich, and lamenting that he had been treated by Edward Athen after the manner of "a blind physician or rather a quacksalver," speaking of a petition to the King against such oppressions. Butler was popular and Tucker the reverse, but still it would be well not to "huddle discontents" upon the colonists as had been done by the "confounding " non-divident, the impositions upon tobacco, the want " of provisions, the base Newgatiens sent among " them, and the like." Butler complains bitterly of the little discretion allowed to him by the Court [of the Company] in the matter of "passionate private " men's suits," so that although he heard the parties he could not do justice. The letters forbidding the reception of such as the court was "pleased to term " pirates," lest the Spaniard should retaliate, were most unpopular, and had raised a suspicion that they were "set on foot for fear lest the poor inhabitants by " getting some refreshments and clothing from them " should not be tied (as hitherto) to the cut-throat " prizes [prices] of the magazine ship." Sir Thomas Smith had written in the King's name to prohibit the reception of such ships, though commissioned by the Prince of Orange. But the vessels were only such as were "every day admitted into the harbours of England," and Butler knew not "how to distinguish " between pirates and honest men." The orders of the Court respecting sugar canes and vines interfered with the erection of a block-house for the protection of women and children in case of a sudden invasion. Powder had been wanted, and in reply came a quotation of "the " King's command to put down all shooting out of " ships at London Bridge, as if the Thames and the " Bermudas were all one, or we could shake the " windows of Whitehall from hence, or give offence with " our smoke." Aqua vitæ, coal, and iron, were urgently required but not sent, and the ten "Newgatiens" who had been sent were worse than worthless, and had, as believed, brought with them the disease of which Robert Rich and others had died. Butler complains that, though he was Governor, any evil report of him from the mouth of the meanest member of the Company was entertained, and gives various instances. He praises "Mr. Lewes" who would give an account of the re-

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

[1620?]

287. Thomas Durham to Sir Nathaniel Rich. He purposed to send over 5 cwt. of tobacco, "such rich stuff" indeed that the very worst of it should be worth 5s. "a pound in the island." All that was of inferior quality would be burnt. Dutton would not allow him to have more than one negro, but kept the rest for himself, and was a hard-hearted churl, causing men to beg, starve, steal, and be hanged, "for want of provision" which was due yet wrongfully detained." Someone that was religious and feared the Lord, should be substituted for Dutton, who is compared to Ahab and Cain, and who would not sell aqua vitæ under 10s. a gallon, though it cost but 2s. 6d. in England. Plain men took this oppressor to be "some comedian or stage man acting before an audience rather than a man of civil government," and there was a talk of a "general letter" to the Earl [of Warwick] and Sir Nathaniel against him, though some few opposed it. It was to be hoped that God would "root such caterpillars out." Durham wished to have 3 men sent from England to work, or else to be allowed 3 male negroes and one female, and would pay for them. Then follows "a true certificate" of some apparent abuses offered by Mr. Dutton to "many of" the Earl's, and Sir Nathaniel's, people. If placed in authority himself Durham could repair some of the mischief. Capt. Kendall could confirm what was alleged against Dutton. (Four closely written pages).—Summer Islands.

[About 1620?]

288. A list of the names of "His Majesty's Council for Virginia":—

- (1.) In the first Instructions upon the first Patent.
- (2.) In the second Instructions upon the first Patent.
- (3.) In the second Patent, dated May 1609.
- (4.) In the third Patent, dated 12 March 1611-2.
- (5.) "Chosen" since the date of the third Patent.

A note at the foot:—Ninety of these are yet living.

289. Dated Jan. 12, 1620, i.e., 1620-1, but endorsed 1619, perhaps correctly.—Governor Nathaniel Butler to Sir Nathaniel Rich to the effect that he found himself "delivered up to a world of confusion." Capt. Tucker had obtained "such a concealed plot of ground, such a seat, such a house, fit only for a Governor," that it was easy to perceive the Company had given him "they knew not what." Capt. Kendal, whom Butler had found "commander" in the islands, was "not good Governor. His one year's general waste would not be recovered in two" of Butler's; and he had been so improvident as to tell Butler that he relied more upon his election by the colonists than upon his commission from Capt. Tucker. The officers left by him were such creatures that one had already been "had by the heels for stabbing of a fellow dangerously, about the not pledging of a health to the Devil." It would be well to send over some "honest or at least civil old soldiers" to fill subordinate posts. The ministers did not agree well, but, of the two, Lewes was more reasonable than Lang, as Lang, being "more young" so also was "more wilful." "I pray you," says Butler, "do your best to procure us more store and if you will better." The order countermanding "the dividend of tobacco" was most ill-judged: "our only current money is tobacco, and if you take away that, farewell all commerce among ourselves." The export of coin should be prohibited in the Islands as in England. "Munition" should be sent over, as the forts were "little better than scarecrows." Complaint is made of the "paucity of the general men," which was so great that "were it not for the accidental negroes" not a pound of tobacco could be raised. Capt. Kendal "pretended an interest by way of gift in 14 of them," but if he deserved reward he should be rewarded in another way, for "the slaves were the most proper and chief instruments for this plantation, and not safe to be anywhere but under the Governor's eye." Asses would be useful. Butler could find only 8 out of the 30 men mentioned by the Court, and if he had the full number it would be "all one," for he was "put to this exigent" that if he had men he had no land, and if he had land he had no men; he therefore wished the Company to give him 100l. a year "the pay of their preachers" and resume his "whole allowance to their own disposition." If this could not be done he begged to have some beer, oil, and wine sent, that the colonists might not "be forced to receive the Communion in water." Properly supported the plantation would flourish.—St. George's, Summer Islands.

[1620-1.]

290. Jan. 21.—Copy (certified by John Porey, Secretary) of a letter from Sir George Yeardlye, George Thorpe, Thomas Nuce, Nathaniel Powle, Samuel Maycock, John Rolph, and John Powntesse, to the Earl of Southampton and "the Council and Company for Virginia," forwarding a petition of the colonists in Virginia against the King's proclamation forbidding the importation of tobacco into England. Copy of petition at foot.—James City.

291. [March?].—"A note of the shipping and provisions sent and provided for Virginia by the Earl of Southampton and the Company, this year 1620." The ships despatched between August 1620 and February 1620-1 were the Bona Nova, the Elizabeth, the May Flower, "the Supplie, of Bristow," the Margaret and John, and the Abigail, with (in the aggregate) 600 persons. Preparations were being made to "transport the Governor, Treasurer, and Marshal of Virginia with their companies, together with other private plantations to the number of 400 persons." There were "sent and in sending" 500 persons "for public uses, for the increase of the number of the Company's tenants, and for maintenance of officers, whereof besides the new Governor, there are six principal sent and chosen." To George Thorpe, the "Deputy for the College land," belonged 10 tenants; to Capt. Thomas Nuce, Deputy for the Company's land, 50; to the place of Secretary of State, 20; to Dr. Bohun, physician to the colony, 20; to George Sands, Treasurer of Virginia, 20; and to Capt. William Nuce, as Marshal of Virginia, 50. Three principal men were sent as "masters of the iron works," three "sufficient men for perfecting the salt works," four "Dutchmen from Hamburgh to erect sawing mills," and eight French vigneron from Languedoc, who also had skill in breeding silkworms and making silk. One hundred kine of English breed were being sent from Ireland. The Earl of Pembroke, Sir Rich. Worsley, Sir Rich. Bulkeley, Sir William Monnson, Capt. Willm. Nuce, and Capt. Ralph Hamor, to whom Patents had been granted, had undertaken to transport great multitudes of people and cattle. (Printed, pp. 3.)

1621.

292. Decr. 9.—John Dutton to Sir Nathaniel Rich, complaining of the "unneighbourly solicitation" of Capt. Elfery, who was attempting to obtain certain "shares" of land and negroes to the disadvantage of Dutton's "sister Rich"—Summer Islands (by the way of Virginia).

1622, endorsed 1623.

293. March 27.—Copy of a letter from [the Lord Treasurer], to the officers and farmers of the customs, and to Abraham and John Jacob, the collectors who had delayed the passing of the tobacco in a ship from the Bermudas, "in regard of the pretence of a contract with the Company of Bermudas and Virginia for the importation of tobacco, being intended upon His Majesty's part for the benefit of the companies." The Privy Council had decided that the contract was "rather prejudicial" to the companies, and the tobacco was therefore "to be delivered to the several proprietors thereof," upon payment of 3d. per pound for the subsidy which the farmers were "contented to accept of without demanding any defalcation from the king." It had been "resolved by the Lords of the Council, and so promised by many of the Company both of Virginia and Bermudas, that they would thenceforward bring in all the tobacco exported from Virginia and Bermudas into His Majesty's dominions." For impost or increase of subsidy there was to be paid for "all Virginia and Bermudas tobacco belonging to any planter or free brother of the companies, 6d. per pound, the rate formerly agreed on," and for tobacco not belonging to such planter or free brother the usual impost of 18d. per pound.—Chelsea.

[1622?]

294. Petition from the inhabitants of the Summer Islands to "the Lords of the Summer Islands Company." The "particular evidences" were left to Capt. Butler, the late Governor "to single out" to their Lordships. "Brought by Capt. Butler," according to the endorsement. See No. 295.

[1622.]

295. Statement of "the grievances instanced, proved, and particularised," being according to the endorsement those of "the people in the Summer Islands brought by Capt. Butler." They were (1.) "defrauded of the food of their souls," as they had only one minister, and had never had more than two for "1,500 souls dispersed into a length of twenty miles," and those two

E 3

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

always "shortened in their promised entertainments." They were (2.) "neglected in the safety of their lives," through the deficiency of ammunition and gunners for the forts, though two or three thousand pounds had been raised "by imposition upon tobacco under the "pretence of supplying these necessities." They were (3.) "censured contrary to His Majesty's laws," in proof whereof three instances of severe sentences for trifling offences are adduced. They were (4.) "frustrated in "their important and nearly touching covenants." For example, John Dutton was allowed by "the particular "adventurers of Warwick tribe a 30th part of all such "parcels of tobacco as should yearly be made up in the "said tribe for executing the office of bailiff; but by an "injunction in the general letters," he was deprived of his 30th, and yet required to fulfil the duties of the post. Moreover, "by unexpected General Order of "Courts" many poor planters were "forced to send "over all their tobacco into England unto their under- "takers, undivided," though they had a covenant with their undertakers "to divide their yearly tobacco" in the islands, and to be accountable for the moiety only. They were (5.) "pinched and undone by unreasonable "rates of necessary clothing and other goods," for though tobacco, their only money, was valued by the adventurers at the average of 2s. 6d. a pound in the islands, yet the commodities sent over were valued, by the same persons, at various exorbitant rates, of which some examples are mentioned. Their children (6.) "their "parents dying, were left behind them and kept in little "better condition than slaves," and were "held as "mere drudges to their landlords for the only discharge "of their dead fathers' debts," learning no trade, and without "necessary clothing to cover their nakedness "and due food to fill their bodies." This document is signed by Lewes Hughes, William Seimer, Miles Kendall, John Dutton, John Perenchef, Stephen Paynter, William Pollard, Thomas Penistone, George Nedham, and Anthony Jenour.

1622.

296. Sep. 5.—Certified copy of Order of Court of the Summer Islands Company to deliver certain specified accusations presented by Mr. James Butler against Capt. Kendall to the Governor of the colony [Capt. Nathaniel Butler]. Should the Governor and Mr. Hughes be prepared to maintain the accusation the "Scindicators" were "required to proceed in strict and severe manner" against Kendall, but otherwise there were to be no further proceedings. The charges relate to matters mentioned in Nos. 270 & 289.

297. Nov.—Draft form for the conveyance of shares by "the Governor and Company of the City of London, "for the Plantation of the Summer Islands."

1619-22.

298.—Notes taken from the lists of Mr. Wroth showing the total number of emigrants to Virginia, and making the total loss 3,000, and the total number of survivors 1,700.

1622.

299.—"A note of all the shares that are supplied in the Summer Islands immediately before the arrival of Captain Barnard."

1622-3.

300. Feb. 17.—Rough draft memorandum of proceedings in the "Derivative Preparative Court held for the "Summer Islands at Mr. Farrar's house," when there was an altercation between the Earl of Southampton and Sir Nathaniel Rich on the subject of a salary of 2,500l. per annum agreed upon by the Virginia Court. There is a reference to an expected proclamation by the King "to restrain the importation of tobacco only to "those two companies." [Written apparently by Sir Nathaniel.]

301. Memorandum of proceedings "at a court held "for the Summer Islands, Lord Cavendish, Sir Ed. "Sackville, Sir Ed. Sandys, present." To a motion that "the matter of imposition might be laid equally "upon lands in the Summer Islands after the custom "of England, it was answered that this could not be by "reason a great part of the Summer Islands was barren "and some other unoccupied and lay waste." In confirmation of this view and illustration of the mode of dealing with "unsupplied shares" and providing for "the well-ordering of the business," extracts are given from the court books of earlier date, viz., May 29, June 10, June 24, and June 30, 1618.

302. Feb. 20.—Memorandum that certain persons dissented from a resolution of the Summer Islands Courts, "as touching the officers and salary for venting "[vending] the Summer Islands' tobacco... as well in his "Majesty's behalf as for the planters' and adventurers' "good and encouragement." There are 25 signatures, including those of the Earl of Warwick, Sir Nathaniel Riche, Sir Thomas Wroth, Capt. Argall, Alderman Johnson, &c.

[1622-3.]

303. Feb. 8.—Beginning of a rough draft of "proposi- "tions to be resolved on behalf of the adventurers and "planters of the Summer Islands," touching the grant of salary. The colonists wished to know "how much would "be required in each pound," and upon what terms those who "dispossessed themselves of their goods" would have them returned. (Two sentences only.)

[Feb. 1622-3?]

304. Rough notes [of Sir Nathaniel Rich] touching the affairs of the Virginia and Summer Islands companies, and especially "the salary." (A fragment.)

[Feb. 1622-3?]

305. "A note of shares wanting by the map," with list of names. Endorsed, "Adventurers in the slave "trade taken out of the map."

[Feb. 1622-3?]

306. List of names endorsed, "The names of the salary men." There are twelve, including Sir Edwin Sandys, Director, and Mr. John Farrer, Treasurer.

[Feb. 1622-3?]

307. List of names of "such as have supplied their "shares in the Summer Islands." It has the following note:—"In all 74 adventurers that supply, whereof "Capt. Tucker, Jo. Forsith, — Felgate, Capt. Elfrey, "are known to live in the country. Lady Wynwood "hath no voice; so but 70."

[Feb. 1622-3?]

308. List of names [of shareholders of the Summer Islands Company?], indicating those whose "voices" were "suspended."

[Feb. 1622-3?]

309. List of names [of members of the Summer Islands Company?], with amounts set opposite to them. Rough notes relating to "the salary" on the back.

310. Rough list of names of persons holding shares in the Summer Islands (with the number of shares held by them) "that oppose the contract."

[1622-3?]

311. Statement showing the advantages to the [Virginia and Summer Islands?] Companies of a contract in force, as compared with a previous period beginning 1619. It relates to the claims of the King in the form of customs or otherwise, and the mode of satisfying them.

[March 1622-3.]

312. "First rough draft of a proposition for advance- "ment of his Majesty's profit, and good of the Planta- "tions of Virginia and the Summer Islands, by settling "the trade of tobacco, by which they now chiefly sub- "sist," drawn up apparently by Sir Nathaniel Rich, and afterwards delivered to the Lord Treasurer. The King was to have the pre-emption of the tobacco, and allow the adventurers and planters 2s. 6d. a pound clear of all customs, freight, or impositions. Some persons who would become "the King's merchants," would allow him 5s. a pound, and would in return have the "sole "power to licence the retailers." All tobacco sold at alehouses was to be in paper, sealed with the seal of a licensed retailer, who was to sell it "to the alehouses in "penny papers, 13 to the dozen," so that the alehouse-keeper might get "a penny in the shilling." Should this course be followed, the Virginia and Summer Islands planters would no longer be in danger of unsuccessful competition with Brazil and the West Indies; and if a "good custom" were set on Spanish-grown tobacco, the King's merchants might buy it or not, as they pleased.

313. Another and somewhat fairer draft of the same, with some slight differences in detail.

[Between March 1622-3 and July 1624.]

314. Rough notes of an estimate of the value to the King for a year of the proposed pre-emption of tobacco and pepper.

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

1622-3.

315. March.—Rough notes for a statement touching the freight of tobacco from the Summer Islands, and the relative advantages of different schemes to King, Company, and colonists.

[March 1622-3P]

316. Part of some notes or draft memorandum [by Sir Nath. Rich] touching upon the "2s. 6d. got upon" each pound of tobacco by bringing it into one hand." This is the conclusion of some argument. With respect to the Virginia tobacco, the King might take what course he pleased, but the "parcel which was the whole" crop of the Summer Islands should be first sold, "or there might be a "revolt to the pirates." If the inhabitants might "have the former rates and always a "ready market as in the course formerly propounded" they would be contented, but otherwise they might "advance the strength of the pirates;" and it ought to be remembered that their position was one of great importance in relation to the West Indies.

1622-3.

317. March 5.—Copy of a letter from Richard Frethorne to Mr. Bateman describing the evil case of the colonists after the massacre, and asking to have a collection made for him among the parishioners for the purpose of sending out goods to him or "redeeming" him.—Virginia.

[March? 1623.]

318. Copy of a letter from G. S. [Sandys?] sent (according to the endorsement) "to Mr. Farrer, by the "Hopewell." Sir William Nuce had arrived about the beginning of October "with a very few of weak and "unservicable people, ragged, and with not above a "fortnight's provision, some bound for 3 years, a few "for 5, and most upon wages." After his death, 11 men were all that remained for the Company, and those the writer was "for want of provision enforced to sell." Three were sold to Capt. Wilcocks for 6 cwt. of tobacco, two to Capt. Smyth for 4 cwt., one to Capt. Tucker for 1 cwt. in hand and 2 cwt. the next crop, and one to Capt. Croshaw for 2 cwt. Four were sent to the writer's own plantation, but two of them ran away (to the Indians, he feared), and the other two would have done likewise "if sickness had not fettered them." For the five men which Sir W. Nuce should have delivered to him he was glad to take a page " (dead before delivered) and another little boy hardly worth their "victuals." There was "little tobacco left which the "magazine had not received or the merchants and seamen not gleaned for their sacks and strong waters. "As for the Duty Boys they thought much to be brought "to a back reckoning, since they paid as much as was "demanded for them and received acquittances." Yet Sir George Yardley would "pay the overplus for "those which he reserved to himself," and had behaved himself very nobly in the service of the country though he had lost two-thirds of his estate. The shipwrights' project had failed, chiefly through the loss of Capt. Barwick and six or seven of his principal workmen. The glassworks had succeeded no better, chiefly by reason of the conduct of the Italians employed there, "for a more damned crew Hell never vomited." Vincenzo had cracked the furnace with a crow of iron, Capt. Norton was dead, and the Italians were purposely making little progress, in order that they might be sent back to England. Some hopes were entertained of the silkworms, and new arrangements had been made for the cultivation of vines, hitherto unsuccessful. The "College men" had been despatched to their plantation in a ship, but such dispersion of the colonists was a mistaken policy, for a variety of reasons, which are stated. A "pestilent fever never before known in Virginia" was raging, and had been caused by infection from the passengers by the Abigail, who had been "poisoned with "stinking beer." (Four pages.)

1623.

319. March 28.—George Sandys to Samuel Wrote, suggesting that some trustworthy person "of judgment and integrity" should be sent out to inquire into the true state of Virginia. There had been "extreme sickness and unheard of mortality." The officers had been forced by some of the instructions from the Company to act in opposition to their own judgments. There was a deficiency of the necessities of life, and the persons sent from England came "so famished to halves" that they made "a dearth of a plentiful harvest." Five hundred had died, and there were scarcely as many left, so that the living could hardly bury the dead. Dupper with his "stinking beer" had "poisoned" most of the passengers and spread the infection all over "the colony." The orders to disperse the colonists, instead of settling them within a small circuit and fortifying the towns, were most injurious and full of danger. Calumny and misrepresentation were rife. Only 180 men (of whom "80 were fit only to carry burdens") could be raised to encounter 1,000 of the enemy. Had "Mr. Secretary been good for anything" he would not have been permitted to go home, and the Doctor was a "pitiful councillor." If two Frenchmen "skilful in silkworms" were sent to him he would pay them 20 marks each per annum.—James City.

320. March 30.—Same to his brother, Sir Samuel Sandys, to the same effect, in part, as the preceding. Sir Edwin had written "that struck with a panic fear," the colonists had entertained the idea of "a removal to the "eastern shore;" but that alleged "treason against "God and man" went no further than a survey "of "the place and a party there seated." It was unjust to taunt them with a falling off since Sir Thomas Dale's time, for they had not (as he had) 500 men at their "own "disposal both fed and apparelled out of England," nor even one unless hired with private purses or taken "injuriously from their masters." The tenants sent "on that so absurd condition of halves were neither "able to sustain themselves nor to discharge their "moiety, and so dejected with their scarce provisions, "and finding nothing to answer their expectation, that "most gave themselves over and died of melancholy, "the rest running so far in debt as left them still behindhand, and many (not seldom) losing their crops "whilst they hunted for their bellies." A captain of a ship had been sent over "to build a fort in the sea on a "shoal of oyster shells," where it would be almost as easy to build "a castle in the air." The miseries of the colony had been caused by "vain glory and presumption" at home. Nevertheless the "Great King" had sued for peace, and the colonists would erect a fort upon a sure foundation. A cheerful disposition was in Virginia "an antidote against all diseases," and through the possession of it Lady Wyatt had recovered. It had been "a hard year," and George entreated his brother to send "one year's rent" of his annuity in advance.—James City.

321. March 30.—Same to his brother, Sir Miles Sandys, Bart., to the same effect. Both in this and in the preceding letter occurs this sentence respecting the peace with the Indians, "we will try if we can make "them as secure as we were, that we may follow their "example in destroying them."—James City.

322. March 31.—William Capps to John Farrar, making a variety of complaints, as e.g., that in Thorp's time "the Governor stood for a cypher whilst the Indians stood ripping open our guts; Captain Newce, he "cuts our throats on the other side, and he lets in the "Indians." That "old smoker," the Governor, was mild and religious, but says Capps, "the country is poor, "and the Company is poor, and Capps is poor already, "and poorer he will be if he follow this course." In a postscript some particulars are given of sickness on board passenger ships from England, and suggestions for preventing it. "Sir William Newce," it is added, "came "indeed into the country and died; Mr. Sandys [the "Treasurer] he griped all for the Company, for all your "Order of Court." The Company should send Capps 10 or 12 carpenters and bricklayers, with provision for the first year, and he would "build a substantial guest-house, the first at Elizabeth, the other at James," to prevent such mortality as there had recently been. "Could you but see," he says, "how miserable they "die for want of provision and housing you could not "but pity their case."—Virginia.

323. [March or April?]—William Capps to Dr. Wynston, complaining that there were not sufficiently energetic efforts made against the Indians, who were "drawn off as far as a man can hurl a stone at twice." He casts some vague imputations upon "the right "worthy statesman for his own profit, Sir George," and concludes a postscript with these words:—"Swounds, I could tear myself to see what weather-beaten crows we are to suffer the heathen kennel of "dogs to indent with us in this order." The letter might be shown to Captain Butler, who was Capps' friend, but not to members of Council who might be his enemies.—Virginia.

324. March.—Ballad, "Good News from Virginia, "sent from James his town by a gentleman in that

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"country," celebrating the defeat of the Indians, and published apparently with the object of inducing Englishmen to try their fortunes in the colony. (Printed.) London.

325. April 2 and 3.—Copy of a letter from Richard Frethorne to his father and mother, describing his unhappy condition. The nature of the country was such that it caused many diseases and made "the body very poor and weak." Since he landed he had eaten nothing "but pease and loblolly (that is water-gruel)." He had seen no venison and was not allowed to go after fowl, but had to "work both early and late for a mess of water-gruel and a mouthful of bread and beef—a mouthful of bread, for a penny loaf must serve for 4 men." The people cried out day and night "Oh! that they were in England without their limbs . . . though they begged from door to door." They lived in continual fear of the enemy "by reason of the dearth and sickness." There was nothing to be got "but sickness and death, except that one had money to lay out in some things for profit." But Frethorne had "nothing at all, no not a shirt to his back but two rags, nor no clothes but one poor suit, nor but one pair of shoes, but one pair of stockings, but one cap, but two bands." His cloak had been stolen by one of his fellows. He had not a penny to help him to "spice, or sugar, or strong waters," without which it was impossible to live. He had grown weak, for he had often "eaten more in a day at home" than was now allowed him for a week, and his parents had often given more than his present day's allowance to a beggar at the door. Goodman Jackson had been very kind to him, and marvelled much that he had been sent "a servant to the company," and said he "had been better knocked on the head." He entreated his father to "redeem" him, or at any rate to send over provisions which might be sold at a profit, especially cheese that might be bought at the cheesemongers in England for 2½d. or 2½d. If his father could not afford this he might "get a gathering and entreat some good folks to lay out some little money" for the purpose. The answer to this letter, if it found him still alive, would be life or death to him. He gives a list of "them that be dead of the company that came over" with him to serve under their lieutenant. They are 20 in number (including the lieutenant himself) or one-half of the whole, and the sailors said that two-thirds of the 150 they brought over were already dead, and that between Christmas and March 20th. The Indians had stolen a pinnace with arms and ammunition, and there was great danger to be apprehended from them, as the bearer could testify. Unless the Sea-flower came in with provisions, his master's men would have but a half-penny loaf each for a day's food and might be "turned up to the land and eat barks of trees or moulds of the ground. Therefore," he says, "Oh! that you did see my daily and hourly sighs, groans, and tears, and thumps that I afford mine own breast, and rue and curse the time of my birth with holy Job. I thought no head had been able to hold so much water as hath and doth daily flow from mine eyes." (Six pages.)—Martin's Hundred, Virginia.

326. April 11.—G. Sandis to John Farrar, complaining of the "very weak council" [in Virginia] and suggesting that "some of quality and worth" should, if possible, be persuaded to go over there and strengthen it. Sir George [Yardley] was "too much taken up with his own private," and did not wish that "his government should be eclipsed by his successors." The secretary and doctor were "ciphers." Mr. Puntis meant well, but Capt. Hamor's extreme poverty forced him "to shifts." Capt. Smith was "fitter for action than advice, yet honest in both." These were all, and it was difficult to find others in the colony. Capt. Mathews would attend to nothing but his crop. Capt. Tucker was "industrious and fit," but had to consult Mr. Farrar's interests. Mr. Blaine, when he had discharged his present "trust in the magazine," might be qualified by his public spirit and good understanding; and Lieut. Peirce, the Governor of James Town, was inferior to none in experience, industry, and capacity; but no others were even deserving of mention.

327. April.—List of names of "Adventurers that dislike the present proceedings of business in the Virginia and Summer Islands Companies." They are 83 in number, including the Earl of Warwick, Sir Nath. Rich, Sir S. Argall, Sir T. Wrothe, Alderman Johnson, &c.

[April 1623?]

328.—A Petition "of sundry adventurers of the Virginia and Summer Islands Plantations," to the King, that a Commission might be appointed to enquire into the causes which had brought the colony of Virginia from a state of prosperity to one of misery. A very rough draft endorsed "Alderman Johnson's rough draft of a petition."

[April 1623?]

329.—Rough draft of a Commission to be appointed by James I. to enquire into the condition of the Plantation in Virginia, and to report upon the same. [Endorsed, "Alderman Johnson's rough draft."]

[1623.]

330. April 14.—Draft of instructions [suggested by Sir N. Rich] for the Commissioners for Virginia.

To inspect the "Records of the Court" and their duplicates, the Court Books, which warranted them, and the "Blurr Books," which warranted the Court Books, in order that any discrepancies might be discovered.

To require the production of all the "public letters" from Virginia, and to enquire (upon oath) whether they were written upon instructions sent from England, and whether Sir E. Sandys and Mr. Farrar did not receive letters from the Governor and Council of Virginia, or some of them, contradictory to those read in court.

To enquire into the wild projects of Sir E. Sandys, especially his iron-works, concerning the lotteries and the disposal of the money raised by them, concerning the mode of "planting" as affecting the "general stock," and private individuals.

To enquire "upon what grounds we obtained the Chickahominy country," and whether Sir G. Yardley had treacherously fired upon them when he had invited them to a parley, and thus brought about the massacre of the English in revenge for his perfidy.

To enquire whether the last letters from Virginia did not "speak of great misery there for want of victuals, yet the Council's letter from thence, which was publicly read, desired no more corn."

To examine whether all that had gone to the plantations had taken the Oath of Supremacy.

[April 1623.]

331. Draft of suggested "Articles of Enquiry humbly offered to his Majesty's Commissioners for Virginia," and directed to Sir Nathaniel Rich. The enquiry should "respect two several times, viz., the time when the affairs of these plantations were chiefly directed by Sir Thomas Smith, and the time since he gave over the said Government to the present." It should extend to (1) the mode of government from the time of the grant of the first Patent; (2) the receipts from all sources, and the accounts of them; (3) the ships, men, cattle, "munition and furniture" sent in each year; (4) the public works, whether carried out by private adventurers or "upon the public stock;" (5) the prices of corn and other provisions whether supplied by private individuals or "upon the public stock;" (6) the number of "magazines" sent, and the manner in which they were managed; (7) the "staple commodities raised;" (8) dissensions (if any) in the company with regard to a state of peace or enmity with the savages; (9) all details affecting the lotteries and the frauds which may have been connected with them.

Great care should be taken to distinguish between supplies sent by "private patentees" and those sent "upon the public stock." An attempt should also be made to ascertain whether the "multitudes of people sent these last four years" had not caused famine and excessive mortality, and whether official letters describing "great plenty" had not been sent by instructions from England at a time when, in fact, the true state of the colony was wholly different, as appeared from letters sent privately by the same persons to some "chief men of the Company." (Two large sheets of paper fastened together.)

[April 1623.]

332.—Another draft of the same.

[April 1623.]

333.—A fair copy of the same.

[April 1623?]

334. Very brief heads of inquiries to be made in Virginia, suggested apparently by one of the Commissioners appointed to proceed thither, who was anxious

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"not to be detained too long" from his "fishing voyage," on which were fixed his "private hopes."

1623.

335. April 21.—"A memorial of some things which it may please the Lords to insert in their Lordships' letters to Virginia and the Summer Islands," endorsed with memorandum that it was delivered [by Sir Nathaniel Rich] by the Lord Treasurer.

(1.) The late contract, appearing to the Privy Council prejudicial to the colonies, was "dissolved."

(2.) No tobacco was in future to be admitted into England or Ireland unless imported from Virginia or the Bermudas, except forty thousand weight of Spanish tobacco yearly.

(3.) All tobacco exported from those colonies must be brought into England.

(4.) Three pence out of the shilling previously paid for "import and custom" would thenceforth be abated.

(5.) Commissioners had been appointed to inquire into grievances.

(6.) The colonists were admonished to give up the immoderate planting of tobacco, and apply themselves to other industries, especially the growth of silk-worms.

(7.) Advantageous sites should be chosen for health, safety, and mutual help.

(8.) The colonists were to send a complete "Catalogue of the names of all the English men, women, and children," their ages and occupations, and particulars of the houses, towns, ordnance, churches, inns, bridges, forts, cattle, corn, and prices in Virginia, and to state how many new immigrants could be "entertained with convenient lodging and diet upon arrival."

(9.) They were to "increase in the true and frequent worship of God," live in unity, and be industrious.

336. April 28.—Copy of an Order of Council suspending the imposition of 4*d.* per pound on tobacco imported from the Summer Islands, until receipt of the Commissioners' Report. (Calendared from Colonial Entry Book, Vol. LXXIX. p. 204. in Cal. St. Papers, Colonial, I. 44.)—Whitehall.

337. April 28.—Another copy of the same.

[Dated March and April, and delivered on June 19, 1623.]

338. A list of letters (with copious extracts from the greater part), compiled apparently by Sir Nathaniel Rich for the purpose of showing that the condition of Virginia was admitted in private correspondence to be most miserable, though the official reports might give a different impression. The two letters from Capps (Nos. 322 and 323) are among those mentioned; the others are (in the following order):—

Undated.—From Lady Wyatt to her mother, lamenting the hard life, the dangers from the Indians, the dearth, and the death of men and cattle.

April 4.—From Sir Francis Wyatt, to his father, George Wyatt, Esqr. to the same effect. Capt. Each, the Master of the Abigail, had made an absurd attempt to build a fort upon an oyster bank, but died. A block-house was being erected in its stead, under the directions of Capt. Roger Smyth, who "lived 12 or 13 years in the wars in the Low Countries."

Undated.—From George Sandys to Mr. Tradescant. Mentioned only.

Undated.—From William Hobart to his father, to the effect that Mr. Gookin, at whose plantation the Governor and his wife were staying, had but seven men left, that it was unsafe to go out to labour without an armed guard, that there had been a second massacre of between 20 and 30 persons, and that there was very little tobacco or coin in the colony.

April 14.—From P. Arundle to Mr. Canning. He had but one bushel of meal to keep himself and his family until harvest-time, and was bidden by the Treasurer to pray for the speedy arrival of the Seaflower. Virginia was "governed wholly by Sir E. Sandys' faction." The letter should be shown only to those that were "impartial and specially to Sir John Worsenholme." Oysters contributed "the most evident hope from altogether starving."

April 15.—From the same to John Farrar. He thought it necessary that strict orders should be sent from England for the preservation of mulberry trees, or the silk work would end in loss, though in other respects "very hopeful." He had "but a little more than half a bushel of English meal" to maintain himself and his people until harvest time.

I 120.

March 25.—From the same to Thomas Wheatley, describing the scarcity of meal. A bushel of Indian corn had sold for 20*s.*

March 25.—From the same to Mr. Canning. He had been forced to buy a hogshead of meal, which cost him 12*l.* "A fair gilt silver bowl with a cover paid for part of it." The old planters died daily.

April 2.—From Thos. Niccolls to Sir John Worsenholme, suggesting that the Company should "allow to each man a pound of butter and a pound of cheese weekly, as there was no food in sickness or in health but oatmeal and pease, and bread and water. Women were necessary members for the colony, but the poor men were never the nearer for them, they were so well sold." The poor tenants "departed the world in their own dung, for want of help in their sickness." The women who were sent over should be bound to serve the Company for a certain number of years, whether they married or not. As matters stood, "all that the multitude of women did was nothing but to devour the food of the land, without doing any day's deed whereby any benefit might arise either to the Company or the Country." It were better not to encourage men to come over by those vain hopes which "some lying Virginians" used. Nineteen English persons were "retained in great slavery" by the Indians.

March 2.—From the same to the same, and to the same effect. The mortality had been so great in 18 months that out of a company of 56 there were but 14 left, and out of a company of 97 but 20; and it was believed that Capt. Newce died heartbroken from the loss of his people.

April 4.—From Lady Wyatt to her sister Sandys. The ship in which she had gone over had been "so pestered with people and goods . . . so full of infection, that after a while they saw little but throwing folks overboard." Few were left alive that came in it. It was so over-loaded that she had not even her cabin to herself. The "captain seemed to be troubled at it, and laid all the fault on the two Mr. Farrars, and, to make the people amends, died himself. The beer stunk so" she could not "endure the deck for it." On land she found little to encourage her, and would be undone unless her sisters or mother could help her. Butter, bacon, cheese, and malt were specially needed. The cattle had died as well as the men, and the Indians gave no opportunity of hunting with any profit.

April 8.—From Richard Norwood to his father. He had been "half starved" on his passage, and "kept with stinking beer and water. One pound of bread and a quart of pease porridge was the allowance for five men a day." Twenty passengers died, and all were sick except three or four. They had fallen in with the Abigail. When he landed he found provisions so scarce that a hen cost 15*s.*, a hog 10*l.*, and a hogshead of meal 15*l.*

Undated.—From the same to Mr. Marshall, to the same effect.

March 24.—From Samuel Sharpe, describing sickness and mortality. Of seven men sent in the Abigail there were but two living.

April 14.—From Edward Hill to his brother John Hill, mercer, in "Lumber Street." More than 400 persons had perished in the first massacre, more than 20 in the second, and a pinnace, a shallop, and a small boat, with 26 men, had been cut off on March 23 by the Indians. A great famine was imminent, for the colonists had not been "suffered to plant as much corn as they would," and were afraid to "step out of doors either for wood or water."

April 14.—From the same to his father-in-law, Mr. Richard Boyle, to the same effect. Corn was 30*s.* a bushel, and meal 12*l.* a hogshead.—Elizabeth City.

Undated.—From Phœbus Canner to Mr. Laurence Ley, merchant. The miseries from "sword, famine, and great mortality" had been so great that he was "quite out of heart."

April 12.—From Thomas Best to his brother-in-law and cousin. His master and whole household were "like to be starved." Mr. Atkins had sold him for 150*l.*, "like a damned slave," as his master was "for using him so basely."

April 3.—From William Rowsley to his brother, describing the scarcity and dearth of provisions, and asking to have some sent from England. The colonists were "fully determined to set mainly upon the Indians" in the summer.—James City.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

F

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Undated.—From Henry Brigg to his brother "Thomas Brigg, merchant, at the Custom House Quay." His master, Atkins, had sold him and the rest of his fellows. He had to live on "a wine quart of corn" a day, and water, and to work hard from sunrise to sunset "at felling of trees." He begged to have provisions sent over, and "a piece, powder, and shot," for want of which he went every day in danger of his life.

April 4 [14?].—From Sir Francis Wyatt to his father. It would have been impossible to build the fort upon the oyster-bank; and if even "there had been in the ship men of skill sufficient the great charge of the ship would have eaten [the colonists] up to the bone, being 160*l.* a month. It pleased the Company to propose the freight of the ship to be made by transporting 64,000 lbs. of tobacco, whereas in truth there was not made so much throughout the colony," and there would have been great dissatisfaction had the Abigail alone been freighted to the exclusion of other ships. In many other matters there was an "antipathy" between the "vast commands" of the Company, and the "grumbling obedience" of the colonists, as e.g. with respect to the "gathering of sassafras," and the raising of two armies, one of 500 and the other of 150 men, which would have left "half a man" to guard each plantation. The "great works, Fortification, Discovery of the South Sea, Mines, and the like, should have been done when all were Colony Servants, and under absolute command, but all that huge expense was merely cast away." Sir Francis wished that "little Mr. Farrar" were in Virginia that he might add to his zeal a knowledge of the country. There might be bitter censures passed, but the Company "could not give reason" for it without "dissembling the condition and numbers" of the colonists.

April 1.—From Christopher Best to Mr. John Woodall. There was great dearth. "One Rousley, a surgeon" had brought ten men with him; but all were dead. There were "none but women in captivity with the Indians," who had put the men to death. Some men who had shot a calf had been "confined to serve the colony seven years for it."

There is an endorsement to the effect that these letters were brought by the Abigail, and that "among them were none found directed to the Council or the Company of Virginia or to Lord Southampton, Sir E. Sandys (Treasurer), or Mr. Nicholas Farrar, Deputy of the company." (Eight closely-written pages.)

339.—A similar list. The letters mentioned (though the extracts are generally shorter, and are given in different order) are the same as in the last with the following exceptions. The letters from Sir Francis Wyatt to his father, from P. Arundle to Wheatley and Canning (March 25), and from Lady Wyatt to her sister, are omitted. The letters from George Sandys to Mr. Wrote (No. 319), and to his brother Sir Miles Sandys (No. 321), and from Richard Frethorne to Bateman (No. 317) and to his father (No. 325) are included, and there are some extracts from each. (Six pages.)

[April-June 1623.]

340.—Notes (with extracts from a few of the letters already mentioned) to show the real condition of Virginia. The usual custom of sending every year "a catalogue of all the people's names residing in the colony" had this year been omitted without explanation. According to the "muster roll" of the previous summer, "about the time of the massacre," there had been only 1,240; and 500 or 600 were known to have perished since. The printed books of the Company showed that 3,570 had been "transported" in the years 1619, 1620, and 1621; and there were at least 800 left in the Colony when Sir Thomas Smith "left the government," so that more than 3,000 must have been lost before the massacre. Endorsed, "An abstract of the letters from Virginia, all but Frethorne's, which must be added out of the copy at large." The only letters, however, to which reference is made are those of George Sandys to Mr. Wrote, to Sir Samuel Sandys, and to Mr. J. Farrar, of Sir F. Wyatt to his father, of Lady Wyatt to her sister Sandys, and of William Capps to John Farrar. (Four pages.)

[April 1623?]

341.—Extract from a letter from P. Arundel, recounting how Captain Spilman and his men were cut off by the Indians, and attributing the treachery of the latter to the example set by Europeans.—[Virginia.]

[Between April and May 1623.]

342.—Rough notes of heads and references to prove charges of mismanagement against the Sandys faction in the Virginia Company.

[Between April and June 1623.]

343.—"A complaint from divers the Adventurers and Planters to His Majesty's Commissioners, of some errors, abuses, and practices which have been contrived and committed by Sir Edwin Sandys, John Farrar, Nicholas Farrar, and their associates, in time of these last four years' Government." It is unfinished, but is to the effect that Sir Edwin, having by collusion with Gabriel Barber, "got great sums of money of the Company's into his hand" contrived "by secret combinations to be chosen Treasurer of Virginia, to avoid being called to account, to which end he devised that Capt. John Bargrave, a professed enemy of Sir Thos. Smith, should bring in a balloting box to preserve undiscovered those parties he had prepared to give vote unto him," and that "the plantation had been almost ruined in his hands."

[Between April and June 1623.]

344.—"A Brief Declaration of the State of the Plantation in Virginia during the first twelve years when Sir Thomas Smith was Governor of the Company, together with a Discovery of sundry errors and abuses which (as is conceived) have hindered the happy progress of the Plantation in Virginia, &c. since that time, and occasioned the miserable and most desperate estate that the colony and the affairs thereof are now reduced unto." The object is to show that during Sir T. Smith's Governorship the colony made good progress, and that when he resigned (April 28, 1619) and Sir Edwin Sandys was elected Treasurer, the affairs both of the Company and of the Colony fell into disorder. The lotteries were revived to the advantage chiefly of Sir E. Sandys and Gabriel Barber, who had the sole management of them, and "bribed those that should more faithfully have examined his accounts." Too many emigrants were sent from England, and were badly provisioned both on the voyage and after they landed. (Four pages; apparently an incomplete draft.)

345.—Another draft of the same "Brief Declaration," differing from the above in some details, and endorsed with some notes of heads of charges affecting Sir E. Sandys, &c.

346.—A third draft of the same. Reference is here made to the device of "buying up old shares, for a trifle, of such as had left the business or else had their freedoms freely bestowed upon them, so that the face of the Court (as Mr. Farrar professed it should be ere long) was quite changed, and composed of a number of friends, allies, and confidants, ready to assist with their votes what by this faithful Treasurer should be projected." By his practices, orders, and prosecutions Sir E. Sandys wearied out the old planters, whose place was taken by new comers without experience, to the great injury of the colony.

[Between April and June 1623.]

347.—Part of a draft statement (under heads numbered 10-39) touching the miserable condition of Virginia, and its causes:—

(10.) The excessive prices of the commodities sent from England. Corn was sold for 12*l.* or 80 lbs. of tobacco the hogshead. Most of the planters were "tenants by halves" and forbidden to plant more than 1 cwt. of tobacco for every man, so that each paid "for 12 months bread, 2 years' labour, and for clothes, tools, and other necessaries had nothing left."

(11.) The want of frequent correspondence between the Colony and the Company, the interval commonly being from June to the end of March.

(12.) The "stating of new officers in the colony with excessive proportion of tenants," by which the Company was brought into debt.

(13.) "The many wild and vast projects set on foot" at a time when there were not men enough to build houses and plant corn.

(14.) The dispersion of the colonists, through grants of 50 acres of land to each.

(15.) The two last-mentioned causes had forced Sir G. Yardley to "make a dishonourable peace with the natives," after the massacre.

(16.) The decay of the bridge built at James City in Sir Thomas Smith's time.

(17.) The decay of the forts and other public works erected in Sir T. Smith's time.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

IN OF CHES-LE.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(18.) The practice of sending "double and contradictory letters" from the chief officers of the Colony to the Company, those sent officially giving "assurance of abundance," and those sent privately asking for "large supplies," so that many persons were "allured to go over" on false pretences.

(19.) The spreading of false rumours, and publication of letters, books, and ballads describing the "happy estate of the Plantation, which was most unreasonably put in practice this last Lent, when the colony was in most extreme misery."

(20.) The removal of the old planters from their habitations, cultivated lands, and places of security.

(21.) The covetousness and improvidence of officers and planters, who had grown tobacco for profit instead of corn for food.

(22.) The improvidence of the Company in sending no more than 200 head of cattle for 4,000 persons in 4 years.

(23.) The want of experienced and skilful officers, the appointments having gone by favour.

(24.) The difficulty of having laws made in Virginia confirmed in England.

(25.) The ambiguous wording of the laws for the government of the Company in England which were compiled by Sir E. Sandys, and made to serve his turn by his own "wrested glosses."

(26.) The consequent evasion of these laws by acute "distinctions and metaphysical reasons."

(27.) The unlimited authority of the Treasurer and Deputy. There are references to the laws in proof of this point.

(28.) The existence of the "Pistorian law" (so called because first proposed by a baker) which was contrary to the Letters Patent.

(29.) The bitter aspersions upon the opponents of "the late pernicious contract and salary" which had caused nearly all the adventurers most conversant with the affairs of the plantation to "desert the business."

(30.) The disregard of His Majesty's "directions for choice of officers."

(31.) The concealment of a petition to the King from the whole Plantation in Virginia.

(32.) The "late contract and exorbitant salary" contrived for the benefit of a few persons, especially Sir E. Sandys and Mr. Farrar.

(33.) The "partial and malicious setting down of Courts, gracing whom they favour, and disgracing others."

(34.) The "packing of Courts by turning over shares to their friends and confidants to compose their private ends."

(35.) Proroguing Courts till 9, 10, or 11 o'clock at night, reserving the weightiest business till the rising of the Court, putting the Negative before the Affirmative Proposition, "partial summoning of their friends, assembling great persons in awful reverence of whose presence men forbore to speak," by all which devices matters were managed at the will of a few."

(36.) The continuance of the Deputy's place between the two Farrars, "who were accountable only "to their Superintendent Sir E. Sandys."

(37.) The publication, in the name of the Council and Company, of scandalous accusations set on foot by a few individuals against men even of the "chief rank and quality."

(38.) The "inviting of strangers, yea of women, to be present in a lattice gallery," in the Court "to be spectators of their courses and hearers of their calumnies, to the end the rumour thereof might be more generally spread."

(39.) The want of an impartial audit of the accounts. They should be carefully examined, and especially with reference to 6,000*l.* or 7,000*l.* paid to Sir E. Sandys for the Plantation in Southampton Hundred, and with reference to "the monies brought in upon the collection of parishes, and by other means for pious and public uses." (8 closely-written pages.)

348.—Another draft of a portion of the same. The heads are differently numbered (viz. 4-18 and 1-8), but are not in themselves different, except Nos. 4-9 which seem to have been intended, at one time, to stand as Nos. 1-6. These are headed "Disorders in the Company" and Colony the last 4 years," and refer to:—

(4.) "The transporting of great multitudes of people" without sufficient provision.

(5.) The insufficiency of provisions "sent with the tenants."

(6.) "The changing of those provisions by the officers, who gave them Virginia corn in exchange, the beating whereof being exceeding painful, together with "the bareness and sudden change of diet, brought them into fluxes."

(7.) The bad quality of the meal which was sent, and the fact that "the Committee which provided this meal was buyer and seller."

(8.) The insufficient accommodation and food on the passenger ships which caused a pestilence.

(9.) The excessive mortality (3,000 persons in five years) brought about by the causes already mentioned. (7 pages.)

[Between April and June 1623.]

349.—A statement drawn up "from the attestation of divers sufficient and understanding sea-men" after one of the voyages of the Abigail [to Virginia]. The landing place [at James Town] was bad, and goods lay uncared for until spoiled by the tides washing over them. The old planters wished "the Government had remained in the same state it was in Sir Thomas Dale's time and Sir Samuel Argoll's," when the Indians "paid a tribute of corn, and those Governors so husbanded that business that the Indians were forced to borrow corn, for seed, of the English, and to repay it, at their harvest, with great advantage." The Treasurer was in bad repute and the colonists were compelled to pay exorbitantly for anything they required from the magazine. Some of the passengers by the Abigail on her last voyage had died in the streets at James Town, and there lay "until the dogs had eaten their corpses."

[Between April and June 1623 ?]

350.—Beginning of rough draft of a certificate affirming the truth of statements made by Capt. Butler, respecting the miserable condition of Virginia, with two or three references to letters already mentioned, and a note that the Seaflower ("which was expected to relieve the colony from starving") had been blown up.

[April 1623 ?]

351.—Rough draft abstract of the charges made against Sir Thomas Smythe, with answers to them.

[Between April and June 1623.]

352.—"Note of the men sent [to Virginia] in Sir Thomas Smythe's time over and above the 600 contracted," with the names of the ships conveying them. Eight ships are mentioned and the total number of persons conveyed in them amounts to 810.

[April 1623 ?]

353.—"The Answer of divers of the Adventurers and Planters of Virginia and the Summer Islands to a petition exhibited to His most Excellent Majesty by the Lord Cavendish and some few others in the name of the Companies." A brief defence of Alderman Johnson, and of a petition presented by him, with a statement that the "relations" on the other side were "propounded and confirmed" in the "surreptitious court" on Easter Eve.

[May 1623 ?]

354.—"Mr. Nicholas Ferrar, his computation, by which he would prove that to pay but 9*d.* the pound for our [the Plantations'] tobacco, and to bring all in, is worse for the Company than before to pay 12*d.* and to be left at liberty what we would bring in, in which he speaks not one word of the benefit of sole importation that accompanies the 9*d.*, whereas before we paid 12*d.*, and all other tobacco came in." This is apparently Sir N. Rich's endorsement describing a short calculation on the paper. (See Colonial Entry Book, lxxix. 204, Calendar I. 45., and General Lefroy's Memorials of the Bermudas, I. 294.)

[April or May 1623 ?]

355.—Nathaniel Butler to Sir Nathaniel Rich complaining that their adversaries "stole a court" upon them on Easter Eve, though some of their own party "coming to an inkling of it, presented themselves unwelcomed." The Petition and Butler's Declaration [the Unmasking of Virginia ?] seemed to be "uncopied and unknown in the particulars." The petitioners had "been by Sir Sackfelde [Sir E. Sackville ?] openly termed traitors to the Company." Butler had been "publicly taxed for delivering any writing whatsoever concerning the Company (though unto the King and by his command as this was) without first acquainting their Court with it. A cross-petition was to be delivered to the King. The Earl of Warwick had been "blurred

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

" upon in the point of the Treasurer," and should be " hasted in his return from Rochford," and Rich should consider well what course was to be taken.

[April or May 1623.]

356.—List of names of persons who were fit to be Governors and Deputies of the Virginia and Summer Islands Companies. (Directed to Sir N. Rich.)

[April or May 1623 ?]

357.—Rough note of similar list, containing some but not all of the same names.

[April or May 1623 ?]

358.—Another similar list with slight variations, having at the foot the words, "Deus Peccatores non exaudit, sed tamen exaudit peccantes."

[April or May 1623 ?]

359.—Another similar list with slight variations. There are notes that the election for the Virginia Company was to be held on the 14th of May, and for the Bermudas Company on the 21st, and there is a heading, "That the Governor and Officers in the Colonies may continue as they are until the Commission be despatched." It appears from these lists that the Chief Officer of the Virginia Company was now called indifferently "Treasurer" or "Governor."

[May 1623 ?]

360.—"A Relation of the late Proceedings of the Virginia and the Summer Islands Companies, in answer to some imputations laid upon them, together with the discovery of the grounds of such unjust objections, and the remedy proposed for better avoiding the like inconveniences hereafter, humbly presented to the King's most Excellent Majesty by the said Companies."

In answer to the charge that "some few of the Company led and overruled the Courts, and in the particular business of the Contract, intending their own private, especially in point of salary had for that cause persuaded and misled the Courts," it is alleged that nothing unfair or unprecedented was done or attempted, that the salaries were not excessive, and that the persons who received them accepted unwillingly the offices to which they were attached.

In answer to the charge that "the Courts were overawed, and particularly were so in the business of the Contract, by informing the Courts that it was pressed upon them by the King," it is asserted that the question had been put at certain Courts, and it had been unanimously voted that there had been no intimidation. The contract "in respect of importation from the Plantations," was the best that could be made in the circumstances, and the Committees had used every endeavour to induce the Lord Treasurer to give up the importation of 80,000 lbs. of Spanish tobacco, and to bring "the retribution of a third" down to a fourth.

In answer to the charge that certain persons "did draw on and spin out the Courts till 11 o'clock at night," and until their opponents had departed, it is maintained that the length of the sitting on the particular occasion to which reference was made was caused by a press of important business, which is mentioned in detail, and that 100 persons in addition to "divers, noblemen and knights" were present when the question was put.

In answer to the charge that "when the contract was first to be concluded the Courts were on purpose put off seven weeks together by reason that some planters that were shortly to go away might not have opportunity to complain against it," there is a positive denial, and an assertion on the other hand that the Courts had met with more than usual frequency during the long vacation.

In answer to the charge that a petition of the Virginia planters "to bring all their tobacco into England" had been suppressed by the officers of the Company, it is alleged that the purport of the petition was not what had been represented, and that the grievance of which complaint was made (viz., the prohibition to sell tobacco in England) had already been redressed by Royal Proclamation.

In answer to the allegation that the business of the Courts was interrupted by "faction and wrangling" it is asserted that the accusers, a factious minority of 26 who brought up their strength from the country, were the only disturbers. The Virginia Company consisted of nearly 1,000 persons (of whom 200 often assembled at once), the Summer Islands Company of more than 120

(of whom 70 or 80 often assembled at once), and their general conduct was so peaceable that it could "hardly be paralleled."

In answer to the complaint that the government of the Companies was "democratical and tumultuous," and ought to be "reduced to the hands of some few persons," it is maintained that the charge was for the most part groundless, that at any rate the Plantations were governed according to the Letters Patent, and there was a conspiracy set on foot by Capt. Butler, who had recently returned from the Summer Islands, to place power in the hands of his associates.

The malice and opposition of the 26 malcontents were caused by the displacement of the "old officers" under whom the colonies had not flourished, and by jealousy of their successors under whom there was "present prosperity," as might be seen more at large in "the Declaration of the present state of Virginia." The former officers were raising a commotion in order to prevent the examination of their accounts. Some of other ranks had had their hands partly in spoiling the Plantation of Virginia, and setting out a ship called the Treasurer for robbing into the West Indies, and partly in protecting and abetting those that have "so done." These persons had no propositions of their own to make, but rested "content with destroying that which was before established." The King is therefore entreated to show some mark of his favour to the Companies, and especially to "extend" his power, and "send back to the Plantations such as having been accused of heinous crimes committed in the Plantations, had by undue means and practice gotten hither, and here braved the Companies." (Four very large, closely written pages).

[May 1623 ?]

361.—Beginning of "a brief answer to a Declaration lately made and delivered to His Majesty's Commissioners by some few persons unduly (as is conceived) assuming the name of the Council for Virginia touching the state of the country and colony there." (Two short introductory paragraphs only).

362. Draft of "An Answer to a Declaration of the present state of Virginia which was presented to His Majesty in Easter week last, by part of the Company for Virginia usurping the name of the whole Company, when in truth a fourth part of the whole Company were neither summoned nor present at the publishing of it, and very few had their hands in it." It was a perversion of the truth to allege (as in this Declaration) that there were but 600 men and 300 head of cattle left in Virginia in December 1618; nor was it correct to assert that during the 12 years when Sir T. Smith was "principal Governor of the Company" there had been expended more than 80,000*l.* of the public stock in addition to "other sums of voluntary planters." There had not been 70,000*l.* expended in all, as (it was maintained by Sir T. Smith) the books would show, and great and important public works had been carried out with the money in addition to large stocks of provisions sent over. Nor was it true that Sir T. Smith had left the Company 5,000*l.* in debt. It was much to be feared that there were not (as alleged in the Declaration) 2,500 persons in Virginia for, if there were, the fact could be proved by the muster-rolls, which were being concealed; but it was true that great multitudes of people had been sent over without any adequate provision during the last four years. During those four years, too, there was reason to believe that not less than 85,400*l.* had been expended, on one account or other, for which only the most insignificant results could be shown. The statement that there were at present 1,000 head of cattle in the Colony was incredible, and, if true, reflected no honour on the managers, as they had sent only 192 head of cattle and thousands of human beings. If goats and hogs were plentiful, Sir T. Smith's government alone could claim the credit, as his successors had sent none over. The alleged payment of 5,000*l.* of previous debt was a mere deception, as the Company must now be in debt between six and seven thousand pounds; it was bound to provide tenants for the Governor, Treasurer, Secretaries, Physicians, Vice-Admirals, the Deputy for the Company and the Deputy for the College in Virginia, and the pay of all its officers was in arrear, as well as the wages of the French vigneron. Thus far it appears the answer has been dealing with the "first branch" of the Declaration. The "second branch" seems to have referred to the deficiency of "staple commodities" in the colony, which is in part denied, and of which the blame is in part thrown on Sir E. Sandys. The reply to the third branch is that

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

THE
OF NICHOLAS
FARRAR.

during the former government the ironworks prospered in the colony, and, during the present, 5,000*l.* pounds had been spent upon them and nothing imported from them but "a fire-shovel and tongs and a little bar of iron." The reply to the 5th branch is that if the cultivation of vines had been neglected it was the fault of John Farrar, who, when Deputy, would not allow Capt. Each to take over the 2,000 or 3,000 plants which he had procured to Malaga. The reply to the 6th branch is that, if mulberry trees and the silk-worm culture had not flourished, the fault was not that of the old government, but of the new, and particularly of Mr. John Farrar, who had not exercised proper skill and care in sending over the eggs. The reply to the seventh branch is that the saw-mills could only be considered "the most indigested project" set on foot by the Company, and the "poor Dutchmen" (from Germany) who had been sent to establish them had fallen sick after being almost famished, and (excepting the one or two who had died) had been permitted to return because the work was impracticable; that of the shipwrights who had been sent "many had brought their death with them into the country, being fed by corrupt victuals in the ship called the "Furthrance," and "almost all the passengers that went in her died immediately upon their landing"; that in this respect the new government was "many degrees behind the old," under which had been built "barges, pinnaces, frigates, hoys, shallops, and the like"; and that the salt works had so failed that colonists had to "buy all their salt for their necessary use," though Sir E. Sandys had striven to procure a monopoly of it, as well as "the sole sale of tobacco, and neither the primitive salt, nor the derivative salary prospered with him." The reply to the eighth branch is that the law which "stricted men from planting more than 100 lbs. weight of tobacco," of which half went to "the undertaker in England," was not, as alleged, an advantage to the planter by substituting a fixed rent for a "tenancy at halves," because, the price of tobacco being only 1*s.* per lb. in Virginia, and all other "commodities" dearer than in England, the planter had practically not more than 3*s.* worth of "commodities" per annum for his own needs; and further that less tobacco had been sent from Virginia during the previous year than from "the little poor plantation of the Summer Islands, which was brought to the perfection that it was now come unto by the labour and charge only of a few private men." The reply to the ninth branch is that the new officers in Virginia could hardly be "applauded for their obedience in executing the directions of the Company" when the loss of men and money was lying so heavy upon it. The reply to the tenth branch is that any laws which had been made for the government of the colony during the last four years had been made by the General Assembly in Virginia, and not confirmed in England, and that the officers in the colony were chosen by favour, and paid at a great cost, which had been defrayed only by lotteries "out of the purses of the subjects in general." The reply to the eleventh branch is that the cares of the new government had not been "ineffectual," as they had brought about famine, sickness, and war with the Indians, and induced numbers of English to emigrate to the colony through false representations of its prosperity. The reply to the twelfth branch is that although it might be admitted that 44 patents to plant in Virginia had been granted in the last 4 years, and that the old government had been "not so lavish in parchment," the "good fruits" were not apparent. The reply to the thirteenth branch is that the introduction of a hundred new adventurers had been of no advantage to the colony or Company, for they had not subscribed 300*l.* to relieve the colonists, and their only function was to support their patrons by their presence at the Courts, so that Virginia might say of them, "inopem me copia fecit." The reply to the fourteenth branch is that the 42 sail of ships in 4 years had been injurious rather than advantageous to the colony, because human beings had been carried instead of provisions, which were urgently needed. After this answer there is a leaf (the 11th) wanting. In conclusion there is a recapitulation of points already mentioned (the expenditure of the Company in the last four years being here estimated at 90,000*l.*), and a complaint that the forts in Virginia had been allowed to decay and were unsupplied with ordnance, and that "cosening ballads" had been printed to induce Englishmen to emigrate. (Twenty-two large pages).

[1623?]

363. May.—Draft petition of "sundry the adventurers and planters of the Virginia and Summer Islands "Companies" to the Privy Council, to make enquiry touching certain "matter of unjust accusation and contention" read by Nicholas Farrar, Deputy, on the 30th April, at a meeting to which both the Virginia and Summer Islands Companies were summoned "after a new confused manner." It is submitted that such matters should have been laid before the Commissioners. (Directed to Sir N. Rich.)

1623.

364. May 4.—Anthony Hilton to his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hilton, informing her that he had begun a voyage, of which the object was, after landing 45 gentlemen (some with their wives and families) in Virginia, to explore Hudson's River. He adds, "If we there find any strangers as Hollanders, or other which is thought this year do adventure there, we are to give them fight, and spoil and sink them down into the sea, which to do we are well provided with a lusty ship (90 tons), stout seamen, and great ordnance. I pray God prosper us therein." The expedition was undertaken by virtue of a commission from Lord Southampton, the Governor, and the Council of "the [Virginia] Company." He mentions his obligations to "that hopeful and religious gentleman Mr. Gabriel Barbor, a man of great estate," and refers to some book of which the last edition was published in 1622 for "all things concerning Virginia."—Isle of Wight.

365. May 8.—Rough draft of a proposition "for His Majesty's pre-emption of tobacco." A modification of some schemes already mentioned. The King should allow 2*s.* 6*d.*, 3*s.*, and 3*s.* 6*d.* per lb. for the three different qualities respectively upon a total of 400,000 lbs.

366. May [after the 7th and before 13th].—Petition of "sundry the adventurers and planters of the Virginia and Summer Islands Companies" to the Privy Council, "to command the Lord Cavendish, Sir E. Sandys, Mr. John and Nicholas Farrar, to appear" before their Lordships with certain writings read, on May 7th, by Mr. Nicholas Farrar, at a Court to which both companies were summoned "after a new confused manner." These writings were "full of most grievous calumnies and reproachful accusations tending to the defamation of the petitioners in general and in particular of the Earl of Warwick." They were affirmed to be true by Lord Cavendish, and heard by "many strangers placed in a latticed gallery," in disobedience to an Order of Council, according to which all "matters of controversy and difference" should be forborne in the Companies and referred to the Privy Council.

367. May 13.—Copy of Order of Council to confine Lord Cavendish, Sir Edwin Sandes, Nicholas Farrar, and John Farrar to their houses or lodgings for contempt of a previous Order committed by writing and causing to be read certain invectives and aspersions against the Earl of Warwick, one of the principal "Adventurers in the Plantation of the Summer Islands," when all matters in dispute had been referred to Commissioners. (Calendared from the Colonial Entry Book, Vol. lxxix., p. 205, in the Calendar of State Papers, Colonial, Vol. i., p. 45).—Whitehall.

368. May 16.—"A note which I [i.e., apparently Sir Nathaniel Rich] presently took of Capt. Bargrave's discourse to me concerning Sir E. Sandys." The purport is that Sandys was opposed to monarchical government in general, had "moved" the Archbishop of Canterbury (unsuccessfully) to "give leave to the Brownists and Separatists to go to Virginia, and designed to make a free popular State there, and himself and his assured friends to be the leaders."

[Endorsed May 20, 1623.]

369. Copy of the King's letter to the "Governor and Company of the Summer Islands," forbidding them to choose as their Governor or Deputy, at their meeting to be held on the following day, "any of those persons who, for their late offence, are restrained, or had any hand in contriving or counselling" certain scandalous writings read on the 7th of the current month in the Virginia Court, or any who had previously held office, the first "being in the nature of delinquents" (viz., Lord Cavendish, Sir John Danvers, Sir Edwin Sandys, John Farrar, and Nicholas Farrar) and the government of the other being subject to question by an existing Commission. They are further required to keep their governing body and place of meeting distinct from those of the Virginia Company.

F 3

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

[1623.]

370. May 24.—Copy of an Order of Council requiring the officers of the Virginia and Summer Islands Companies to deliver all their books, &c. to the Clerk of the Council. Reference is made to a previous order [probably that of May 22, Colonial Entry Book, lxxix., 206, Calendar State Papers, Colonial, I. 46.] Some of the books (especially the "blurred books") had been concealed. They were to be given up at once (as were any official documents which might come from Virginia or the Summer Islands during the existence of the Commission).

[May 1623?]

371. List of the names of knights, citizens, and burgesses of the Lower House of Commons that are "Adventurers and Free of the Virginia Company, and yet have not followed the business for sundry years." Endorsed "By Mr. Farrar."

372. Undated.—Heads of a letter to be written by "Mr. Secretary," declaring His Majesty's pleasure respecting the management of the Virginia Company, viz., that no one should be admitted to Courts or Committees who had not "some men in Virginia planted on his shares," and that no complaints should be "brought to the Commissioners against any man, in the name of the Company, which tended only to defamation," &c. (Drawn up apparently by Sir N. Rich.)

373. Rough draft of suggestions relating to the constitution of the Court of the Virginia Company, drawn up apparently upon the occasion of the King's interference with a letter requiring all persons to be excluded who had not "men planted upon their shares."

[May 1623.]

374. Heads of suggested answer to an intended petition of the Virginia Company to the King, to reconsider his letter respecting the constitution of their Courts or Committees, and forbidding complaints to be "brought to the Commissioners, in the name of the Company."

375. Petition from the Treasurer, Council, and Company of Virginia to the King, to alter the commands of his late letter or refer them to the Privy Council. The first was that no one should be admitted to the Courts or Committees of the Company who had not "some men now or lately planted on his shares or was not engaged to send men or supplies thither by the next shipping." The second was that "the Council or Company should not bring unto the Commissioners any complaint in their own name against any man." Mention is made of the "reasons hereunto annexed."

[1623.]

376. May 25.—Copy of the "reasons" [alleged by the Treasurer, Council, and Company of Virginia] to persuade the King to reconsider his letter [of the 18th of May?]. The objection to the Order that no one who had not had men planted upon his shares should be admitted to the Courts or Committees was, that it would cause the whole of the "great work to be forthwith abandoned." According to the constitution of the Company, under its Letters Patent, a Court could not be formed without five of the Council and fifteen "of the generality." The King's restriction would preclude the holding of any such Court, because although there were about 1,000 adventurers in the Company, very few of them had "any men planted on their particular shares," it being the custom for divers to join together in one "body or joint stock," and the like course was held with magazines. It would also alienate many men of quality and experience, and add to the "discouragement given" by Capt. Butler's "Unmasking of Virginia." The order that no complaint should be brought to the Commissioners against any man in the name of the Council or Company would "tend to no less than an exemption from any complaint to be brought against any of those times and persons wherein and by whom huge sums were in greatest part misspent, His Majesty's directions violated, the Plantation oppressed, robbed, and ruined, and other outrages of very high nature committed by roving and robbing on the Spanish territories in the West Indies." Such matters as those affected the Company as a whole rather than individuals, and the Company in its corporate capacity should exhibit complaints respecting them without prejudice to the right of individuals to state their own individual cases.

[May 1623.]

377. "Mr. Johnson's [draft] observations" on the mode of interpreting His Majesty's letter adopted by some members of the Court [of the Virginia Company]. They are to the effect that the letter did not need alteration, but only explanation, so as to admit to the Courts of the Company those who had set planters upon shares, not only individually but on the principle of a "joint stock," &c.

1623.

378. June 4.—Copy (attested by E. Collingwood, Secretary of the King's letter to "the Treasurer, Council, and Company of Virginia," to explain his letter dated the previous 18th of May, which had, contrary to his intention, caused the "Courts and Committees to be borne, and the prosecution of businesses before the Commissioners to be neglected." It was not his intention to exclude from the Courts any persons entitled to be present according to the terms of his Letters Patent nor any "adventurer," but such as had been or might be introduced "for the strengthening of sides and maintenance of faction." He did desire to deprive the Company of its right to prosecute in its own name before the Commissioners "such causes as concerned its united body." But it was not to take upon itself the prosecution of any private individual's cause, nor was "any matter of personal charge tending to the public disgrace of any person to be read in its public Court." Such matters were to be left to "such of H.M. Council for Virginia as the body of the Company had no complaint against, or such other Committees as the Courts should think convenient."—Whitehall.

379. June 23.—Draft of propositions [of Sir N. Rich?] delivered to the Lord Treasurer, "for resettling the estate of Virginia." They are: (1) that the election of "officers for Virginia" should be postponed to the following Wednesday fortnight; (2) that some Commissioners should be sent into Virginia, and that the ship which took them out should "bring home all the tobacco of the next crop" at the rate usually paid; (3) that the present "managers of the affairs of the Plantation should be dismissed from all further meddling with it," should there be a certificate from the Commissioners that lives and money had been "negligently cast away" there; that the old adventurers should be invited to subscribe anew, and that none should have a voice in the Court but those who would "underwrite 20l. per annum for four years"; (4) that the Governor and other principal officers of the Summer Islands should "be chosen out of some of the deepest adventurers," in order that the evils might there be avoided which had befallen Virginia.

[1623.]

380. June 24, 21 James I.—Copy of the King's letter to the "Treasurer, Council, and Company of Virginia," requiring them to forbear the election of any officers for a fortnight at least, as he expected to receive in a few days a Report from the Commission appointed to "examine the state of the Virginia Plantation."—Greenwich.

[June? 1623.]

381. Rough draft project for the better government of the Virginia and the Summer Islands. (Endorsed "Notes taken for reference to Commissioners," and written apparently by Sir N. Rich.)

[June or July 1623?]

382. Draft Preliminary Report of Commissioners upon the condition of the Colony of Virginia. They found that it was in a "weak and miserable" state as shown by the letters brought in the last ship, and that very few colonists were surviving, though there had been more than a thousand when Sir T. Smith left the government, and though more than 4,000 had been sent over in the subsequent four years. Though the King's subjects had been "drained by lotteries," and more than 30,000l. had been brought into the "public stock" of the Company in three or four years, that stock was "entirely exhausted," and the Company in debt. The poverty and famine among the colonists could be relieved only by sending "corn and other provisions, not by way of merchandise, as had lately been used, to take advantage of their necessities by making them pay most unconscionable prices, but either of free gift or at reasonable rates." Some "able and experienced governors and commanders" should forthwith be sent out to enable the colonists to cope with the Indians. (Two large closely-written pages.)

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

[June or July 1623.]

383. Rough draft of "Reasons delivered to the Commissioners why the levies of monies for public charges in the Summer Islands should be upon the lands." (Partly in duplicate. Ten pages.)

[June or July 1623?]

384. Draft preliminary Report of Commissioners upon the condition of the Summer Islands. The Plantation was well situated for the preservation and defence of Virginia, was strongly fortified and well supplied with arms and ammunition. The land had been cleared and the colony had become prosperous through the energy and enterprise of private individuals. The chief defect was that there was "no staple commodity there raised," except a small quantity of tobacco. It was unjust and impolitic to tax this product in order to defray the "public charges" of the colony, because the burden was thus laid upon the industrious and enterprising planters for the benefit of the others. The Commissioners therefore recommended that these "public charges" should be borne by all the members of the Company, "according to each man's quantity of land." This was the more reasonable because, during the plague of rats, the vermin found harbour upon the uncultivated lands, to the great detriment of the colonists who had cleared their ground. (Apparently incomplete. Endorsed "Rough draft of a certificate for the S. Islands.")

1623.

385. July 8.—Certified copy of order of Commissioners respecting the "public charges" of the Summer Islands. The seal of the Company had been given for 1,400*l.*, of which 400*l.* was to be obtained by an "imposition to that value" upon tobacco imported during the current year, from the Summer Islands. The residue of that debt, and all other "debts, duties, and future charges to be laid for the public" were to be "borne equally by the adventurers according the number of each man's shares. And for the more ease of the adventurers" 2*d.* upon the pound was to be "laid upon the tobacco of the planters towards public charges, and 6*d.* upon the pound of all the tobacco brought in from the Summer Islands by such as were neither planters nor freemen of the Company." The order was signed by William Jones, Henry Spiller, Francis Gafton, Nicholas Fortescue, and Richard Sutton.

386. July 12.—Rough draft of heads of charges against the Governors of the Virginia Company presented to the Commissioners. [Drawn up apparently by Sir Nathaniel Rich.]

[July 1623?]

387. Draft answer or notes for answer to the propositions made by Lord Chichester for the better settling of the Plantation in Virginia.

[After July 1623.]

388. Draft Petition and Answer of "divers the Adventurers and Planters of the Summer Islands" to two petitions exhibited by Nicholas Farrar and Francis Meverell, in which the latter had represented that the sum of 1,000*l.* due by the Company could be raised only by a levy of 4*d.* per lb. on all tobacco imported from the Islands. The petitioners in answer pray for a confirmation of the order of the "Commissioners for the Plantation of Virginia and the Summer Islands," dated the previous 8th of July.

389. A fairer copy of the same, in which are given the names of Petitioners in Answer, viz.:—Sir Thomas Smith, Sir Thomas Wroth, Sir N. Rich, Alderman Johnson, and "divers others."

1623.

390. November 28.—Copy of Order of Committee [of the Summer Islands Company] to move the Lords [of the Privy Council] "for the confirmation of the course set down by the Commissioners for the levying of monies to pay the debts and defray the public charges of the Company, both past, present, and future," and to take certain steps consistent with that order. Sir N. Rich was deputed to bring the matter to the notice of the Council by petition or otherwise.

391. December.—Petition of the "Deputy and Company of Adventurers to the Summer Islands" to the Privy Council, praying them to continue the order of the Commissioners touching the mode of defraying

"public charges." (Endorsed [probably by Sir Nathaniel Rich] "This was not, as I take it, delivered.")

392. December 8.—Copy of Order of Council reciting and confirming the Order of Commissioners, dated July 8th, "for rating the money for public charges in the Summer Islands upon the shares." The Commissioners' Order had been agreed to by a General Quarter Court of the Summer Islands Company on the previous 26th of November.—Whitehall.

393. December 8.—Copy of Order of Council referring to the Attorney-General the statement of certain petitioners (presented by Nicholas Farrar), that the Commissioners had not, as required, provided for the payment of the debts of the Summer Islands Company. (Calendared from the Colonial Entry Book, vol. lxxix., p. 209, in the Calendar of State Papers, Colonial, vol. i. p. 55.)—Whitehall.

394. December 8.—Copy of Order of Council, touching the costs of a Quo Warranto affecting the charter of the Virginia Company. (Calendared from the Colonial Entry Book, vol. lxxix., p. 209, in the Calendar of State Papers, Colonial, vol. i., p. 55.)—Whitehall.

395. December 17.—Richard Paulson to Sir Nathaniel Rich, touching an agreement for four shares, with four or five "prentisses on the land" [in the Summer Islands] bought of Mr. Caswell for 90*l.*

396. List of the names of the "officers of the Summer Islands" [Company] for the year 1623.

1623-4.

397. [End of January.]—"A minute of my [Sir Nathaniel Rich's] speech to His Majesty in his Bedchamber at Whitehall in the name of the Bermuda Company, presenting their humble thanks for His Majesty's vouchsafing to hear and decide the difference of the Company about the election of Sir Thomas Smith."

398. February 11.—Copy of an Order purporting to be made by a Quarter Court of the Summer Islands Company (with names of members present), prohibiting Sir Thomas Smith to act as Governor and Mr. Edwards as Deputy-Governor, on the ground that they had not been duly elected in the place of Sir Edward Sackville and Mr. Barber at any General Quarter Court.—Founders' Hall.

399. February 22.—Nathaniel Butler to Sir Nathaniel Rich on the alleged discovery of a Spanish design to make an attempt upon the Summer Islands, and mentioning enclosure of a note of the forces, &c., there available. (Imperfect, torn.)—Blackfriars.

1624.

400. April 24.—John Harvey to Sir Nathaniel Rich, expressing a belief that the colony would flourish if the Indians could be driven away. Harvey and his "friends" appointed had found "the persons to be more in number, and provision of victuals to be more plentiful" than had been expected, though there was great want of ammunition. The "first fruits" of the General Assembly, held in February, had been bitter invectives against the 12 years' government of Sir T. Smith. Copies of petitions, &c. in that sense had been obtained and sent over in the hope that they might anticipate the originals.—Virginia.

[April 1624.]

401. Copy of a petition of John Bargrave to the House of Commons' Committee of Grievances, complaining of the conduct of Sir Thomas Smith, late Treasurer of the Virginia Company, and Alderman Johnson, and of mismanagement of various kinds affecting the Virginia colony and its produce. (Calendared in Calendar of State Papers, Colonial, vol. i. p. 60.)

[April or May 1624?]

402. Copy of a letter from Capt. John Bargrave to the Lord Treasurer, containing a number of suggestions for the better management of the colony of Virginia. It is written in a curious style, and adorned with historical illustrations from the time of Lycurgus to that of Charles V. The writer proposed "a military intendency" by tribe, as set forth in his five treatises, and offered to induce seven or eight gentlemen, each having 7,000*l.* or 8,000*l.* per annum, to go out and become heads of Plantations. He deprecated the "taking away of the Patent," the idea of which was "hatched at Alderman Johnson's house at Bow at the King's being there." He asserted that the King was "pressed to it by Sir T. Smith's friends of the Bedchamber to conceal the falsehood of his accounts, and the grossness of their government

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
—

"from His Majesty's knowledge." (Four closely-written pages.)

1624.

403. Endorsed June 22.—Copy of a short Petition concerning Virginia, intended for presentation to the King, with a letter unsigned and unaddressed, describing the unfortunate state of the colony. The petitioners prayed that the report of the Commissioners might be published and some action taken upon it.

[June 1624?]

404. Draft of suggestions for the pre-emption of tobacco and for "prohibiting the planting of it in England, Ireland, and Wales, and the importing of any but only "from Virginia and the Bermudas."

[June 1624?]

405. Copy of Petition of the Commons to the King, for the exclusion of Spanish and all other tobacco not grown in His Majesty's dominions.

[June 1624?]

406. Rough draft of a proposed Bill to restrain the planting of any tobacco (intended for sale) in England, Wales, and Ireland, and the importation of any tobacco not grown in Virginia or the Summer Islands.

[June 1624?]

407. Rough draft of "Reasons to prove that His Majesty may lawfully restrain the planting of English tobacco, and not infringe the liberty which the subject claims to do what he will with his own grounds," the premisses being indicated in logical form in the margin, as "major," and "minor," and the relations of Christianity, the Devil, colonisation, and the tobacco trade being duly pointed out. This is followed by a rough draft of a petition to the King to prohibit (in the interest of the tobacco growers in the Summer Islands) the planting of tobacco in England. The first settlement in the Islands is mentioned as having been made 8 or 9 years previously.

[November 1624.]

408. Copy of the answer of Sir Thomas Smith and Alderman Johnson, to the complaints made against them by John Bargrave. (Calendared in Calendar of State Papers, Colonial, vol. i, p. 60.)

[1624?]

409. Rough notes [by Sir N. Rich], in criticism of Capt. Bargrave's proposition. There is the beginning of a letter on the back.

1624.

410.—Heads of a speech [by Sir N. Rich], in the House of Commons, on a petition presented by the Virginia Company.

[March 1626-7?]

411. Account given by [Capt. Philip Bell, Governor of the Summer Islands] of a dispute between himself and his predecessor, Capt. Woodhouse. He announced that he should call a General Assembly, to enquire into the true state and condition of the country, and advised Woodhouse to return to England before it met, but the advice was not taken. Upon "a Council table being called" he then complained of injury done by Woodhouse "in offering to imprison and exercise any office of "Government" after his arrival, but waived that point and proceeded to "the business in hand." Woodhouse then repudiated an order of his own making, and accused the Secretary of falsifying the records; but the accusation was disproved before the whole Council, as appeared more at large "in the copy of records sent "unto the Company." Upon this Woodhouse accused the Governor of browbeating the Council, and brought Capt. Stokes to support the charge, which, however, the rest of the Council "proved false and contrary." The overplus of the glebe lands which should have gone "towards the raising of Mr. Stirk's salary, due and yet unsatisfied" had been given by Woodhouse (to the extent of 100*l.*) to Mr. Morgan, and the orders of the Company wholly disregarded. When the Assembly met it was found that the poor people who had presented petitions "had all been used and proceeded against not "only illegally but very cruelly and unjustly," and "those former proceedings" were reversed. Woodhouse, however, went about using insolent and defiant language, even in the Governor's house, against the Assembly, before which he refused to appear though twice summoned by the sheriff. He was then "quietly "censured according as his fault had deserved" by fine and imprisonment, though the latter was only confinement to the best and largest house in St. George's. He availed himself of the two or three days' liberty granted him before his departure to take "private attestations" in support of his previous conduct. His subsequent complaint against Bell, that the vote of censure passed by the Assembly had been the work of those only "who "had formerly been delinquent before himself, and so "censured by him," was unfounded, because there were not more than six or seven out of 40 or 50 who "thus "had been delinquents." To apply the term even to those six or seven was a "most unreasonable misconception, not unlike the fable of the fox which was "met running away upon the lion's proclamation against "horned beasts, for fear lest his pricked ears should be "accounted horns." Neither the Assembly nor Bell himself had in any way exceeded their powers in their dealings with Woodhouse, after he had ceased to be Governor and become a private individual. (Imperfect. Beginning lost. Six closely-written pages).—See Gen. Lefroy's Memorials of the Bermudas, i. 421, et seq.

1628-9.

412. March 14.—Tho. Downum to Sir Nathaniel Rich touching the shipment of the Earl of Warwick's and Sir Nathaniel's tobacco.—Port Royal.

413. March 18.—John Hanmer to Sir Nathaniel Rich, mentioning enclosure of bills of lading of tobacco &c., and asking for supplies, which were much needed in the colony.—Summer Islands.

1629.

414. April 28.—"Invoice of tobacco delivered to me" [Sir Nathaniel Rich?] from tenants in Warwick and Southampton Tribes in the Summer Islands.

415. Delivered April 28.—Copy of a letter from the Council of the Summer Islands Plantation to the Company in England, respecting the admission of Delbrige's ship from Barnstable to trade at the Islands. The Governor was not in any way to blame, as he wished to carry out the instructions of the Company, but the Council had "taken the matter upon themselves." Delbrige supplied, at reasonable rates, necessaries of which there was great dearth, and dealt fairly with the colonists who adventured a few pounds of tobacco with him. Great hardships would have to be endured if the ships from London were alone permitted to trade at the Islands, as their arrival was uncertain and the prices charged for the goods brought in them exorbitant. The Council unanimously prayed that the existing Governor might be continued in office for three years. In consideration of the loss of time incurred in going to St. George's on public business, they requested that they might have each a boy sent over to serve him during his term of office, or else be permitted to resign. Signed by Patrick Copeland, Miles Kendall, Daniel Elfrith, John Milner, Lewis Ford, John Welch, Nathaniel Ward, Richard Levicraft, Anthony Jenour, Hugh Wentworth, Thomas Jenings, and Roger Wood, Secretary.

416. Delivered April 28.—Capt. Philip Bell [Governor of the Summer Islands, to Sir Nathaniel Rich], expressing grief and surprise that he had been blamed by the [Summer Islands] Company at home without having had an opportunity of defending himself. His "impartial course of justice had pulled upon him not only "taxation at home but malicious opposition and division" in the colony. Mr. Stirk was one of his opponents, but the ringleader was Stephen Painter, a man of "a Luciferian pride, and a headstrong perverse nature," and Stirk's father-in-law. The cause of contention was that Bell would not "suffer the conclusions "of the General Assembly and the general equity of the "whole land to give place to Painter's proud and "licentious humour." Stirk, however, was "a learned "and truly religious gentleman," and would act with propriety were he not under Painter's influence, though another minister, Mr. Graimes, was "of a disposition "and nature every whit as bad, if not worse, than "Painter himself." Capt. Pollard was becoming "every day better husband than other," but it would be "hard absolutely to reclaim him." John Hanmore and Tom Durrhame were trusty servants, but Sir

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
—

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
THE.

Nathaniel should beware of Thomas Downshame. Hugh Wentworth, a Councillor, and one of the Earl of Warwick's tenants, was an honest and religious man. Capt. Chadocke was a most "crafty and hollow-hearted man," and was scheming to be made Governor. The Council had written a general letter to the Company in Bell's favour, and it had been signed by all except Chadocke, who had withdrawn from his promise to sign it, for purposes of his own. Chadocke made a cloak of religion, and "not long since he was unable to write 'his own name.'" The "main business" of the letter, however, was connected with two ships of Sir Nathaniel's (the Earl Warwick and the Summer Islands), which were now returning, with Daniel Elfrith on board the Earl Warwick. Capt. Chamock, "with 30 odd men," had been left upon an island called St. Andrews, "a very fertile and hopeful place," says Bell, "and such as will give the adventurers good satisfaction; notwithstanding his own island which was pointed and aimed at, he hath yet reserved undiscovered to himself to put only into my Lord's [Earl of Warwick's] hand and yours, with such selected friends and companions as shall be thought worthy to be made partakers thereof, for he doth absolutely refuse and resolve the whole Company shall never more have to do with him, nor anything belonging unto him, in respect of their ingratitude towards him for his pains and endeavours already past. The name of it is Kathalina, and lies not above some 20 or 30 leagues distant from the other where these men are left, but it differs much from that place both in the pleasantness and rich fertility of the soil. . . . There is another island called Fonceta, which lies some 100 leagues to the eastward of the Caribbee Islands, and out of all the Spaniards' roads and ways, which by the report of some Indians which once straggled from thence, and could never find it again, as also of some seamen which once touched there, and which Daniel Elfrith did afterwards speak withal, it is one of the bravest and most fertile islands in the world. . . . This island I have put Daniel Elfrith in resolution to discover . . . and if he find it answerable to report and expectation, then he may stay and settle with his men and provisions there; but if either he or the place should fail of our hopes, then without any prejudice at all he may proceed forwards to the island which cannot fail, and which he knows as perfectly as needs to be." Bell had but a poor opinion of the fertility and resources of Bermuda, and was resolved to remove and settle wherever Elfrith went; and he had the promise of "a good proportion" to himself, as a portion with Elfrith's daughter. He concludes with this advice:—That Elfrith "may be set out in a ship or two belonging solely to my Lord, yourself, and such special friends that things may be carried and done with all possible secrecy, that my Lord [Earl of Warwick] may get the Patent of Fonceta, or rather of both, before they be discovered, which will be easily obtained, and will take away all the claim and opposition of my Lord of Carlisle, or any other." (Four closely written pages.)—[Summer Islands.]

[Same date?]

417. Same to same, on some matters that he had "almost forgotten." Mr. Ward was an estimable minister, and though he did not regard the observance of the Sabbath as "part of the moral law," yet he was temperate in arguing the point, and seemed unable to answer Bell's references to Scripture. Mr. Caswell was a double-dealer. The responsibility of what had been done "in behalf of the Bastable ship" was with the whole Council, but not shared by Bell. Sir Michael Geare, destined by my Lord for a command "unto the Indies," was not a man under whom good seamen would serve. Various religious and other matters are also mentioned.

1627–1631.

418. Copy of account of tobacco and money received by George Stirk for salary in the Summer Islands, showing the amount remaining unpaid.

1633–4.

419. Jan. 27.—George Stirk to Sir Nathaniel Rich, complaining that he had "come short of wages in the 'work of the Gospel,'" and asking for Sir Nathaniel's mediation with "the Court" [of the Summer Islands Company] to obtain redress.—Summer Islands.

1634.

420. May 16.—Roger Floyd to Sir Nathaniel Rich on the accidental burning of Capt. Camock's pinnace, which had been sent to Henrietta to saw boards for a shallop, and the crew of which had been brought into Providence in a Flushing ship. Governor Hilton [of Association] had opened negotiations for Floyd's shallop and suddenly broken them off. Floyd apprehended that Capt. Camock would be "distracted in his business" through the delay. Some trade might be done at Darien, and Governor Hilton proposed to be there in July. Capt. Daniel Powell had taken a prize worth 10,000*l.*—Providence.

I 120.

421. May 22.—John Winthrop to Sir Nathaniel Rich. The people of the Colony had not been formally numbered, by reason of "David's example," but were believed to be more than 4,000, "in good health and for the most part well provided." There had been very little sickness or mortality "through the Lord's special providence." Provisions were for various reasons sufficient and plentiful. The winters were "sharp," but the summers more "fervent in heat than in England." "Our civil government," says Winthrop, "is mixed. The freemen choose the magistrates every year (and for the present they have chosen Thos.* Didlye, Esq., Governor [?]) and at 4 courts in the year, 3 out of each town (there being 8 in all) do assist the magistrates in making of laws, imposing taxes, and disposing of lands. Our juries are chosen by the freemen of each town. Our churches are governed by pastors, teachers, and ruling elders and deacons, yet the power lies in the whole community and not in the presbytery, further than for order and precedency. For the natives, they are near all dead of the small-pox, so as the Lord hath cleared our title to what we possess." The letter concludes with an account of some violence offered to Lord Saye's men, who wished to trade, and some of whom lost their lives in the brawl. In a postscript it is added that 6 ships had arrived with passengers and cattle after six weeks' sail, and that a plantation had been settled 200 miles to the northward, near Merrimac, of which Mr. Parker was to be the minister.—Boston, Massachusetts.

422. May.—Petition of George Stirk, Minister in the Summer Islands, to Lord Saye, Lord Brooke, Sir Nathaniel Rich, and Mr. Gabriel Barber, representing that he "had laboured in the work of the Gospel and 'come short of his wages,' and asking them to be his 'mediators to the honourable Court.'"

1639.

423. Nov. 20.—John Symonds to Lord Mandeville, praying the latter to move the King on his behalf and that of his fellow-sufferers on "his Lordship's island." He had already "been a suitor through Mr. Carter to 'Mr. Henry, Lord Saye, and Lord Brooke.'" Nearly 30 had been shipped with him for the island, and it was not expected that the Company would disburse so large a sum as would be required for their relief. There were "near 2,000 English Christians besides renegadoes" upon the island. Some had been "forced to filthiness, 'some to despair, and so turn the back upon Christ.'" The writer had been much solicited, but God had established "his heart in Christ."—"Aryter" [most probably Henrietta].

1641.

424. March 27.—Jo. Humfrey to Lord Mandeville, explaining the difficulty of doing anything for his Lordship's "parts and plantations," caused by want of shipping, and the project of certain persons to plant some part of Florida. Fears were entertained for the safety of Providence Island, as it was insufficiently manned.—Boston.

1646.

424 (a). April 26.—Unsigned letter to the Earl of Manchester on various local topics and scandals, and especially on the summoning of a so-called Parliament by Capt. Turner, the Governor, by which the Royalists were enabled to oust the Parliamentarians from the chief posts in the colony.—Summer Islands.

[1647.]

425. Aug. 12, 23 Charles I.—Articles of agreement made by Robert Earl of Warwick with Capt. Thomas Middleton, of Ratcliffe, Thomas Kendall, of London,

* The reading is perhaps somewhat doubtful. John Haynes seems to have been chosen Governor by the "General Court" about this time. See State Papers, Colonial, viii., 15 (an undated letter, however), Cal. i. 180. But Thomas Dudley was undoubtedly Governor afterwards. See State Papers, Colonial, xi., 16., Cal. i. 340.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

merchant, and George Pasfield, of Redriffe, merchant, for the colonisation of the Island of Tobago, in the West Indies, which had been granted by Letters Patent to Philip, Earl of Montgomery, and conveyed by him to the said Earl of Warwick. (Parchment.)

[Charles I.]

426. "Considerations upon a Society to be established for the Conquest and Plantation of the West Indies." (Imperfect, only three heads remaining, out of 24.)

REIGN OF CHARLES I.
(MISCELLANEOUS.)

1626.

427. May 26.—Requisition signed by "E. Lenox" [Esme Duke of Lennox, if still living?] and Oliver Lord St. John, to some person addressed "Sir" to cause "a light horse compleatly furnished with a man and other furniture belonging to the same" to be at the muster at Eggden Green, near Stoughton, on July 2nd.—London.

1638.

On the back are some notes relating to the case of Eliz. Bevill v. Robert Bevill.

1626.

428. May 28.—Abstract of Report from the Committee of Grievances to the House of Commons declaring a Patent for a new method of making salt to be contrary to the Statute against Monopolies, with notes of an answer apparently made or intended to be made in Parliament. (Four closely written pages. There is an entry, relating apparently to this matter, in the Journals of the Commons, i. 864, according to which, Sir N. Rich, on the part of the Earl of Warwick, was willing "that the Patent should be annihilated.")

1627.

429. October 9.—W. Bedell to Sir Nathaniel Rich, giving an account of his proceedings upon taking the position of Provost [of Trinity College, Dublin] and of the reforms introduced by him. (Three closely written pages.)

1628.

430. Lady Holland to Sir Nathaniel Rich on money matters. The beginning is "Sweet Friend."

January 20, 1628-9, to 10 March 1628-9.

431. "An exact abstract, breife, or particular, of "everydaye's proceedings in Parliament this last Session, "beginning the 20th of January 1628, and ending the "10th of March 1628." (A MS. book, in parchment cover, of pp. 64. The substance of the proceedings, and the principal speeches are given in Rushworth's Collections, i., 643-662, but they are more minutely detailed in this MS.)

1628-9.

432. January 31.—Copy of a letter from the Privy Council of Ireland to the Privy Council of England.

"We heretofore have, in discharge of our duties to Almighty God, to our gracious Lord and Master, and the great trust reposed in us here, given intelligence to your Lordships of the insufferable increase of Jesuits, seminary priests, and friars, in all the parts of this kingdom, pretending all their ecclesiastical power and interest from the Bishop of Rome, which we do not, as hating the persons of any of them being born His Majesty's subjects, and many of good families here, but out of a sense we had of the mischiefs and fearful consequences which must ensue upon their pernicious doctrines and practices against His Majesty's most prosperous government, and in hope that by some direction from His Majesty or your Lordships, the well affected of this kingdom might be comforted, and we might be encouraged at least to give some limit to their vast presumption. Also we have not been silent to your Lordships of the extreme insolencies of some Popish clergy here, who now have erected titular Archbishops and Bishops in the several dioceses, Abbots to the supposed Abbeys, Vicars-General in several precincts, Superiors to the several Orders of Friars, and several other officers and ministers, answerable to the execution of the papal jurisdiction, who do not only take upon them the judicature over His Majesty's subjects in cases spiritual, but do over-reach unto the ordering of differences temporal, even to the renting [rending?] out of His Majesty's hands a great part of his jurisdiction and authority Royal, and to charge the miserable inhabitants with a double jurisdiction, which will trench very near to their utter consumption. All which we have endured to see and know, with great anxiety and disquiet of mind, as the assured originals of dangerous alterations if timely prevention interpose not. We do still crave pardon, in all humble observation to your Lordships, and patient expectation of your good pleasures, to express our feelings that these continuing evils and the daily increase thereof, as sharp pricks in our sides, which we may not neglect, and the rather at this time, in respect we have seen a proclamation lately set forth by His Majesty in England, against Richard Smith, a Popish priest, usurping to himself ecclesiastical jurisdiction from the See of Rome, perverting His Majesty's good subjects in religion, dissuading them from their due allegiance, and holding intelligence with His Majesty's enemies, all which the afore-named persons do in this kingdom in a high measure. And if one be so dangerous there, many hundreds here cannot but be extreme pernicious in a kingdom much more subject to their regiment than that is. We invoke not rigour from the Royal justice against them answerable to their proceedings, but if His Highness or your Lordships will think good to grant us directions in that behalf we doubt not, with fair moderation and little adventure to abate their arrogances, restrain their jurisdiction, lessen their numbers, and weaken their practices, as shall be healthful to this Commonwealth, satisfactory to His Royal Majesty, joyful to his good people, and prevention to the strong working of his enemies' designs."—Dublin Castle.

1629.

433. September 3.—Sir Anthony Forest to Sir Robert Bevill. "Good brother, I received my nag, and I thank you. I have been at Dover with my Lord Suffolk, to take his oath [as Warden of the Cinque Ports?] or "I had written before now. The King doth feast the French Ambassador on Sunday at Windsor. All lords and ladies are commanded to be there, and on Monday the Court to London, on Friday to Theobalds. "No news yet from the Burse [Hertogenbush or Bois-le-Duc?] but expect to take it, and the Spaniards hope to take Wesel back, for Count John de Nassau "is there with 10,000 Spaniards." There are a few more items of gossip.—Hatfield.

1629-30.

434. February 24.—Samuel Ward to Sir Nathaniel Rich on the subject of a disputed election to a fellowship. (Two large closely written pages.)—Sidney College.

1630.

435. July 13.—Instructions [of the Privy Council] (signed by the Earl of Manchester, Lord Keeper Coventry, the Earl of Dorset, and others) to the Deputy Lieutenants of the county of Huntingdon, touching the continuance of the Muster-master and of the allowance to him.—Whitehall.

[December 1630?]

436. Certificate of Thomas Beard, D.D., "that Oliver Cromwell, Esquire, and Willm. Kilburne, gent., "with a free assent and consent did agree to the renewing" of the charter of Huntingdon, and to the substitution of the word "mayor" for that of "bailiffs." (See State Papers, Dom. vol. 176, No. 34, Cal. p. 402.)

[About 1630, or, perhaps, somewhat later?]

437. Letter [of the Privy Council] to the Earl of Manchester and the Earl of "Bullingbrooke," Lords Lieutenants of the county of Huntingdon, complaining of their neglect to supply a proper muster-roll yearly, and requiring past omissions to be made good before Christmas Day. (Imperfect.)

[1631.]

438. May 12, 7 Charles I.—Acquittance for 240*l.*, being the sum due by Robert Earl of Warwick, on four out of five entire subsidies granted by the "magnates" to King Charles I., in the third year of his reign. Reference to the Great [Pipe] Roll of 5 Charles I., Essex. (Parchment. Latin.)

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

1632.

439. September 23.—“Mr. Burnett's directions” for the cure of “those vapours which arise from the lower parts of the body.”

[1633 P]

440. Copy of “the last will and testament with the profession of the faith of Humphrey Fenn, sometime pastor of one of the churches in Coventry, but cast out by the High Commission for labouring in a peaceable manner the reformation of our discipline.” There is another copy of the same document in the “State Papers, Domestic,” 1634, vol. 260, No. 83, but with a few variations in the wording. In the State Paper Office copy (dated 1631) Fenn's age is stated to be 79. In the present copy (undated) his age is stated to be 81. At the end are some Latin elegiacs (six couplets) against Popery. They were “composed by Mr. Melum, a Scotch Minister, upon the altar in King's Chapel, for which he was imprisoned within the Tower until the Duke of Bullen procured his liberty and made him Regius Professor at Sedand, where he died. Per relacionem he made these extempore upon Mr. Seymour's request touching both their imprisonments:—
“Causa mihi tecum communis carceris ara,—
“Regia bella tibi, regia sacra mihi.”
(A book of 11 small pages.)

[1632-3.]

441. March 14, 8 Charles I.—Licence of the Bishop of Lincoln to Lord Mandeville, and “the Lady Anne his wife, being at this spring-time somewhat sickly . . . and unto five or six others such as the said Lord Mandeville shall please to admit to his table,” to eat flesh and poultry during Lent.

1633.

442. March 29.—Henry Noel to the Earl of Manchester, asking the latter to deliver a petition to “the Lords.”—Peterhouse.

[1633 P]

443. April 2.—D. Sidney [Lady Dorothy Sidney], to Lord Mandeville. “My Lord, though the returning of my thanks for your favor in an other poscript would beare no proportion wth the declarations that I have made of my kindnes, I would not not give more if I did believe that anything kept you from coming yourselfe but the want of my incouragement, and I do not wishe that you should have such a confidence] as will admit no doubts because some litle ones do ever accompany a great affection w^{ch} I pretend to have from you, for I give much, and will ever be to you a kinde mistres and in earnest a most faithfull servant.” (Verbatim et literatim.) 1633.

444. April 1st.—John Durie to Sir Nathaniel Rich recommending Mr. Hartlieb, the German divine. The want of learned men in the Palatinate, and in Germany generally, is lamented. “The particulars of all things here,” it is added, “have been from time to time imparted to Mr. Hartlieb. From him you shall be able to know all that I have hitherto learned, or shall learn hereafter, for I have not only taken a course to have my letters addressed to him although I be absent from Fr . . . but also have obliged at Frankfort two to keep correspondence with him, the one for common current news, and the other for matters of greater moment. Mr. Fitzer hath promised to send him the weekly gazettes, and Mr. Tournemain, a preacher of that town, will entertain him with intelligence of greater consequence if he require it, for which cause I wish he were well instructed how to prosecute the correspondence which may be kept with this last, for he is a grave and wise man, able to instruct him fully and judiciously of the passages of all things. For if he make right use of this man he needeth not any more almost in Germany. Your Prudence will be pleased to advise him how to make use of this instrument, and to favour him in a way how to be supported in such charges as this employment will require. As for mine own affairs, because this meeting of the States taketh up all men's thoughts, I can come to no certain conclusion as yet with the Lutherans with whom I am now busy; yet I have good hopes and will, by God's grace make use of this opportunity, and all others, so long as I shall be able to subsist and have means of going forward in this purpose.” (Imperfect.)—Heilbronn.

[Feb. 1633-4.]

445. Copy of the Answer of William Prynne, in the Star Chamber, to the Information of the Attorney-General touching the publication of the “Histriomastix.” (pp. 4. The substance only is printed in Rushworth's Collections, ii. 221.)

1633-4.

446. March 24.—Charles Fitzgeffrie to [the Lord Roberts, according to an endorsement in the hand of Sir N. Rich]. It begins, “Ever honoured sir,” and contains an account of a thunderstorm on the previous 6th of January, in which the tower of Fowey Church was struck, and other damage done.—Fowey.

1634.

447. July 2.—Sir Nathaniel Rich to the Earl of Manchester (Lord Privy Seal) on money matters.—Warwick House.

[1635.]

448. “Sir Thomas Wrothe, his declaration of the life, sickness, and death of his dearest and most beloved wife.” Directed to her brother, Sir Nathaniel Rich. Verses in her honour at the end. (8 pages. The greater part is printed in “Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne,” i. 343.)

[May 20, 1636.]

449. Beginning of draft (unsigned, undated, and unfinished) of a letter [from Henry first Earl of Manchester] to his son Walter. “Walter, your letter dated from Paris, 21 Nov. 1635, tells me how much debate you had with yourself whether by silence to suspend my belief of the declaration you had there made of yourself, or by a clear profession to assure me what you feared to present to me. What was most satisfactory to your first duty to God that you thought most justifiable to your derivative duty to nature, therefore resolved to give me an ingenious* account of the declaration you had there made. Had you asked my counsel before you signified your resolution, it would have showed more duty in you and bred less discomfort in me. But think how unwelcome that letter could be which at once tells of your intention and signifies your resolution. Say, you could not expect from me so much theological learning as to satisfy your scruples, yet it had been a fair address of a son to a father in a matter of that consequence. You are not ignorant of my care, I dare say knowledge, studied for the settlement of my children in that true Faith which their father professeth and the Church of England hath established. Therefore it would have been your greater justification and my less sorrow so to have lost you with love if I could not have holden you in with religious reason. Haply you will return upon me the misconstruction of that speech, ‘If any man come to me and hate not his father he cannot be my disciple.’ But I must tell you that by this post-dated duty you have trespassed both upon love and duty; for you have robbed me of the means of helping you with my advice, which, as it is the best part of a father's portion to give, so not the least testimony of filial duty to ask.

“Now to lay such a blemish upon all my care of your former education as not to think me worthy to see your game till you had set up your rest is such a neglect that without overmuch fatherly candour cannot be forced into an excusable interpretation. It makes me suspect that some politic respects or private seducements, if not discontentments, have wrought upon you. Policy and religion, as they do well together, so they do as ill asunder, the one being too cunning to be good, the other too simple to be safe; but upon policy to change religion there's no warrant for it, less for discontentment or seducement.

“When I look upon your whole letter, which you term an ingenious* account of yourself, it seems to me not an account of your now professed religion but rather an exprobration of mine, and so of ours of the Church of England. Had I known your doubts before, I might have been an adviser; but, objecting then after you had resolved you call me up now to be a disputer. Although I be of his opinion who thought that truth did oft times suffer by too much altercation, it being a common error amongst great clerks to contend more for victory than verity, yet since you have so punctually led me into it, though it be contrary to my first resolution of silence

* i.e., ingenuous.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(else you had heard from me sooner), and finding that the letter you sent me had a further reach than to give me satisfaction, (else the copies of it would not have been divulged before I came to receive it, and uses made of it to my discomfort) I therefore thought myself tied to give you an answer, lest those of your now profession should think, as some of them say, that a new lapsarian was more able, by a few day's discipline, to oppose our religion, than an old father and a long professor was able to defend it. Having this tie upon me, I hope, on the one side, our learned divines will pardon me if for my son's sake I dip my pen in their ink, and you, on the other side, will lay my arguments more to heart, proceeding from the bowels of a father, than if they had been framed in the brain of a learned divine.

"In this case also I have an advantage of other men, who, though they might write more learnedly, yet cannot do it so feelingly, for my interest is not only in the cause but in the person—a person for whom I must account, if there were failure on my part to reduce him to truth—a person whose letter I take in my hand as he did the urn of his son's ashes to shed over it veras lacrymas as well as arguments of truth, both which I hope shall persuade forcibly if there be any of that blood left in you which I sent you. It is true affection is not to rule religion, yet in this way Nature may coöperate with Grace. True it is, as your letter saith, the greatest part of your life capable of distinction of religions hath been in places and conversant with persons opposite to the faith I bred you in. Therefore, you say, it had been strange, if natural curiosity, without any spiritual probation, had not invited you with desire of looking upon the foundation you trode on rather than holding fast blindfold by your education, to be always carried after it. In your education God knows my first care was to season you with true religion, wherein, from a boy, you attained to such a knowledge, as Spain can witness, when you were but a youth, how strong a champion you were for the Protestant profession. The Court of France, nor yet all the Courts of the Princes of Christendom, most of which you have visited, could never, till now, taint your faith, but always rendered you sound in the religion you carried hence with you. But now Italy hath turned you because England hath discontented you. You say that in your last journey into Italy you applied all your leisure to confirm your judgment in the doctrine introduced by your education, which if you had done you could not so soon, nor would not at all, upon so weak motives, have let go your hold; for, of all other tenets [tenets] the two you mention are the weakest and have received clearest satisfaction, whereby it appears you were resolved to give up the cause before you came at it, and what you would not hold blindfold to give up blindfold, which is worse. Could that be a motive to your desertion of our Church, as persuaded that Luther was the father of our faith?

"We hold our faith upon Christ not upon Luther, upon the doctrine of Scripture not upon the inventions of men. In religion, if the doctrine be divine it is in vain to seek the author. The baptism of John, was it from Heaven or of men? So, the Protestants' doctrine, is it from Heaven or of men? If of men, I grant not of Heaven, if of Heaven not of men. Could this be proved against us that Luther or any man, how grey-headed soever, were the inventor of our faith, there were no more to be said, we would contend no longer. We renounce all men alike as inventors of our religion, or any part of it, but hold only the Apostolical doctrine of the ancient primitive and Catholic Church, and presume not to coin any new creed. Yet we are not unwilling to grant that Luther was one but not the first of many that restored the purity of the doctrine which had been long smothered by the Papacy. Our faith, if you take it in whole, is no other but what is epitomised in the Apostles' Creed, included in the Scriptures; if you take it in a lower and straiter way, for so much of it as is opposite to the corruptions of Popery, you must remember that these points are neither the whole nor greatest part of our faith. In religion, if the doctrine be divine, it is needless to seek the approvers of it; yet there is not any of the points of our faith but we are able to show they have had maintainers, few or more, in all ages since the Apostolic time, and in every one of these ages these superstructures of Popery, opposed, some by one man, some by another. I wonder, therefore, to see you carried away with that common and decried calumny that Luther was the inventor of our faith. And why? Because that for an interval of 800 years before, as you say, there was no apparent profession of faith differing from Rome, which you recollect by historical search of all the stories and records ecclesiastical and civil. It seems Italy affords you no copies of our writers, else you might see in them [? a life] which they carry thorow all those spaces, and show how most of our tenets have had the suffrage of the learnedest of Rome's side, and how many several men in the decursion of time from the ancientest of fathers have some of them declared themselves, some of them apparently and earnestly contended for the truth of our doctrines. And where you say Waldo, Wickliff, and Hus had scarce any relation to the professed Protestantism, if you mean because we disclaim those horrid opinions which are put upon them, for truly God knows therein you say truly, neither they to us nor we to them have any relation, but in the main points of doctrine touching faith and opposition to the superstition and usurpation of the Papacy we have a joint consent.

"Of all the best writers, historians, and divines of both sides that they and we consent in one, your great Cardinal Bellarmine joins together the Waldenses, Wickliffites, Hussites, as those which aimed together against the two great articles of faith, the Church and the Sacraments. Æneas Silvius and Cocleyus say that Luther played his pranks per libros Hussiticos. Gretser says, Perversorum dogmatum potissima, quibus mortalium animas fascinant, Lutherani et Calviniste ex pestilentibus Waldi, Hussi, et Wickefi mammis suerunt. Guiserden [Guicciardine in the margin] says freely that Luther ran into the errors of the Bohemians, and that John Hus and Jerome of Prague were two principal heads of those heresies as he terms them. Poplinarius saith, Doctrina Waldensium ab ea quam hodie Protestantæ amplectuntur parum differt. Nay, saith Thuanus, of the Waldenses, Exstiter semper per intervalla qui eorum doctrinam mortuam renovarunt—Johannes Wickleus in Anglia, Johannes Hus, et Jerom Pragensis; nostra vero etate crescente, Lutheri nomine, vires sumere ceperunt. Many more of your and our authors agree in this, that they and we agreed in these new doctrines, as you term them. It is strange, therefore, to say these had no relation to the Protestant's profession who, for substance of religion, held as we do. Their errors we own not, and the consent of times do all agree that it was 400 years before Luther that the Waldenses flew out against the corruptions of Rome. Quidam dicunt, saith Kaynerus, quod secta ista duraverat a tempore Silvestri, alii quod a tempore Apostolorum, deriving their fundamental doctrine from the time of the Apostles. Nor were they few sed multiplicati, nor plebeians only, sed principum potestate armati fuerunt, as by the King of Arragon, the Earls of Toulouse, and some of England, so that there are witnesses more than sufficient that there were many who opposed themselves to the Papacy in the Protestants' tenets, before Luther. Therefore, your first supposition fails.

"Now to let you see your mistakes in the subsequent passages, and to open to you my sense, hoping yet that I may draw you again to me, you having as you conceive showed a defect of visibility in our Church till Luther's time, you labour to prove a necessity of visibility requisite to every true Church and that by testimonies of our own divines, secondly by arguments. By testimony of our divines you would have Mr. Hooker, Dr. Field, and Dr. White, confess needfulness of visibility and yet for their own Church they fly to latency. For the second instance, Dr. Whitecars, and Dr. White, one of them to confess our Church for many ages to have been in a secret solitude, and the other to let go his defence of visible succession by flying to an invisible subterfuge of non-appearance. If you had perused better the tract of these writers they would have given you full satisfaction, but you mistake both the persons and the point; for they make demonstration of these three points, that neither the Church's obscurity is repugnant to the visibility of it, nor her visibility such as excludes all latency, nor yet the latency of orthodox Christians in the swaying times of Popery such as had not requisite lineaments of an accountable visibility. But you must understand that visibility doth not always carry the same height, but admits of degrees, so that we cannot say that wants visibility which hath it in a lower degree of appearance. The sun compared with himself is in a degree visible though in a mist, but not so clearly visible as when it shines out. So it is with the state of the Church, because her splendour is not in termino but such as receives degrees by augmentation or diminution, yet, like the sun, is truly visible under a cloud, as in her brightness, though not so clearly visible. Therefore not to admit the Church to be visible except she be glorious is an error, for there is a variation of the Church's visibility in respect of the object—the want of

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

which consideration I verily believe is one cause why many deceive themselves in this point. Secondly, there is another diversity which rises from the visible organs. Some may see and will not; there the fault is not in the object but the beholder. Philosophers say visibilia non sunt minus visibilia cum videntur quam quando non videntur. The objects of sight remain still discernible even when they are not discerned. So it is with the Church. There are structures of visibility discernible in her obscurest conditions, but it is visibile non visum which falls out when men will not open their eyes, or shut their eyes of purpose, which happened in the prevailing time of Popery, when, notwithstanding, there were lights which appeared for the defence of truth and discovery of error in every age of your interval. But sure our men labour in vain to demonstrate this visibility whiles they of the Papacy are still so dissatisfied as not to acknowledge it upon any demonstrations; otherwise this controversy had been long since ended if they had been as well disposed to see as we ready [to] show our visibility, with this, that men are to consider that there is a double splendour of the Church which makes way for the visibility. The proper splendour of the Church consists in the purity of doctrine and the public orthodox profession of divine truth. The common splendour of a Church consists in the outward accommodations which pertain not to the being but the well-being of the Church, as temporal power, multitude of professors, local succession of pastors. Yet persecution may interrupt this succession of pastors; it may cut off the multitude of professors. Heresy may so prevail as to make the orthodox Church pull in her head (because iniquity shall be increased, the love of many shall wax cold, 24 Mt. 12) witness the time of Arianism, when few but godly. Athanasius and some few with him were fain to keep in corners. And of this our divines are to be understood when they speak of our latency:—that for this outward splendour it suffered a great obscurity for divers hundred of years; that when it was at the lowest the doctrine was visible and some professors still in the eye of the world.

“Consider well these three things:—First, that the state of the Church upon earth, if men consider it rightly, is so ordered by our Great Master, Christ, that she is to expect her times of obscurity as well as her times of splendour. He hath made her state militant, and appointed her to a passive condition as well as an active, and designed her vicissitudes of obscurity as well as lustre, and yet showed her no less glorious in her obscurity than in her triumph. As Tertullian saith of virtue, Extruitur duritie, destruitur mollitie. The Church lost not her proper lustre in the wilderness. Secondly, this visibility, represented by a numerous multitude, local succession, secular state—these were not considered in the first times when the Church stood sound, nor in the latter time when she got some recovery, but only in the intermediate when she lay under the Cross. And, were these the probate of faith, it had been ill with the Israelites’ Church, in the time of Elias, worse with the Apostolical Church when the Scribes and Pharisees sat in Moses’ chair, worse in the times of Arianism, and shall be in the times of Antichristianism, which, as most of your side hold, are to come, times when few Christians were to be found in the one, and scarce any shall be found in the other, when it shall come, as most of your own men hold. This made our Saviour say, When the Son of Man comes shall he find faith on earth, 18 Luke, 8. Thirdly, the glorious succession that Rome brags of is a deceitful medium whereby to measure the truth of a Church, because a Church may be a true Church without it, and it may be also a false Church with it. Now Colligitur necessario ibi esse ecclesiam ubi est successio, saith Bellarmine, though Stapleton be of another mind. Alexandria challengeth succession as well as Rome. The Church of Constantinople fetches her pedigree from St. Andrew the Apostle, and brings it down to our times. As a false Church may have succession, so a true Church may want it; otherwise Rome herself must be no true Church, for her chair at Rome hath sometimes been empty, sometimes it hath carried double, and both have been deposed, to say nothing of woman Pope, and heretical Popes. Qua Papa will not serve the turn. These broken links mar the entire chain of succession so much gloried in.” [This draft ends here; but see No. 450].

450. Another draft of a portion of the same. It begins with the passage “Now to let you see your mistakes,” &c., and differs but little from the above. It continues, however, after the words “gloried in,” as follows:—

“But because this rather concerneth the persons than the thing, it may be otherwise showed that there may be a true Church which hath not his uninterrupted succession, for then no Church at all could be true in his first plantation, for successions are by descents. Descents have no place in first originals, whereas the doctrinal part doth the very first day put her into the possession of Apostolical Succession, as Tertullian well saith that Churches which have not their original descent from the Apostles, yet if they embrace the doctrine of the Apostles, they are apostolical propter consanguinitatem doctrine.

If it were taken for granted that it is simply necessary to the essentiation of a Church to be able to demonstrate in all times both a visible number of professors of the apostolical truth, and also a visible succession of pastors, we are able to demonstrate, for our own defence, both that our doctrine hath always had a discernible profession and our Church of England a visible succession of bishops and priests, and more uninterrupted than the Church of Rome.” [This draft ends here; but see No. 451].

451. Another draft of a portion of the same, by which the letter is concluded. It is not in the handwriting of the Earl of Manchester, but has been corrected by him. It begins, as will be seen, with the last paragraph of No. 450, but somewhat differently worded:—

“The third proposition is this: if it were taken for granted that it is simply necessary to the essentiation of a Church to be able to demonstrate in all times both a visible number of professors of the truth, and also a visible succession of pastors, we are able to demonstrate both for our own defence, both that our own doctrine hath always had discernible profession and our Church of England a requisite succession of bishops and priests, not indeed more uninterrupted but for some considerations less questionable than the Church of Rome herself. At the first hearing of this proposition the doctors of the Papacy would startle, and account it a bold undertaking, but I shall be better able to make it clear than our Rhemish fugitives will be to uphold their excellent assertion, which will become no man so well as themselves, that we are not able to show that ever we had any one bishop of our Church. Nay, without comparison, I reckon it no hard task to give you a plain and positive demonstration of both parts of the proposition. For that part which concerns profession, the monuments of ecclesiastical history will prove it farther than I have undertaken that the doctrine of the Protestants in all times of the vacancy you speak of had some persons which were professors of it, nay, which is more, not only professors but champions, which did oppose themselves to the several innovations of Popery, some that opposed the bringing in of images into the Church, some the Pope’s supremacy, others the forbidings of priests’ marriage, their half communion, their transubstantiation, their traditions, their prayers in an unknown tongue. I’ll not argue about the quality or number of the persons; it belongs not to the present question. Were they good or bad, learned or unlearned, more or few, it sufficeth to prove an outward profession, if there were any. St. Paul calls it a Church which was only in an house, and Tertullian, in Exhort. ad. Cast., affirms that it may be preserved even in three, and these lay persons (ubi tres, ecclesia est, licet laici), alluding in likelihood to Christ’s speech ‘where two or three are gathered together in my name’; nay, if Panormitan’s account be current, that, at the time of Christ’s passion, the true faith remained only in the Virgin Mary, it may be in one. Yet we are not cast into these straits. The opposers of the Papacy were both of note for quality and of account for number, and the testimonies they left behind them very conspicuous; of note, I say, for quality, for there were bishops and doctors of the Church in every age. In the sixth age, as Gregory the Great was against the universal Primacy, so Serenus, who was Episcopus Massiliensis, opposed himself to the setting up of images, as Alphonsus testifies, and brake those which were begun to be set up, as Epiphanius, Bishop of Cyprus, had done before. In the seventh age there was Adlebertus and Clemens Scotus, who opposed Boniface, Bishop of Mentz, and preached against the Pope’s supremacy, traditions, images, purgatory, and masses for the dead, and in defence of priests’ marriage, There is mention of them in Aventinus and Nauclerus. In the eighth age there was Claudius Taurinensis of France who resisted images also, and worship of Saints, and pilgrimage. Jo: Scotus, who contradicted the real presence, which at that time some private men begun to set on foot, of him Antoninus speaks quod a Latinorum tramite ad Græcos deviauit. There was also the famous Bertram, who writ a whole book against it, of whom Trythemius in his Catalogue saith that he was a man

Rhem. in
Ep. 4.Alphons.
i. 8.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

learned in the Scriptures and expert in secular learning, and as eminent for his life as his learning.

Baro., an.
992, num. 21.

"In the ninth age, which Baronius observes to be called the obscure age, because it was barren of good writers, there was Ælfricus, Abbot of St. Albans, and, as some think, Archbishop of Canterbury, who preached against the real presence, and published his homilies to that purpose; Arnulphus, likewise, who, in a synod held at Rheims, with other bishops there, proclaimed the Pope to be Antichrist.

Domin. in Septuag., et 18 post
Trin. Hcm.
1 et 2

"In the tenth age there was Rodulphus Ardens, who preached against merits and ability to keep the law, as it is to be seen in his Book of Homilies. Add to him the Bishops of France and Germany, who, as Aventinus testifieth, resisted Hildebrand and deposed him, when he would restrain the clergy from marriage. In the same age it was that Leutherius, an archbishop in France, denied the real presence, and so did Berengarius; yea, and Baronius observes that more were of his mind; but Wald. de Sacram. c. 19, saith they could not so easily be known. In the same age lived Rodulphus Glaber, who, as Baron. and Possevino observe, wrote against the Pope's universal power, which, as he says, was the opinion of all the Prelates in France. In the same age lived Sigebertus, who, Chron. an. 1088, calls the Pope's excommunicating of Princes and absolving their subjects from their obedience, non solum novitatem sed heresim, both novelty and heresy.

Baro., an.
1004, num. 5.

"In the eleventh age St. Ber. opposed merits, justification by works, free will, ability to keep the law, and the seven Sacraments. Then came in the Waldenses, of whom I have spoke before.

Car. Chron
an. 1202.

"In the twelfth age you have Almaricus, a doctor of Paris, who was burned for withstanding altars, images, invocation of Saints, and transubstantiation; and Robert Grosthead, Bishop of Lincoln, who besides that he daily inveighed against the abuses of Rome, whereupon he was called Romanorum malleus, he said of the Pope that he was heretical and anti-christian, as Matthew Paris affirms, and he was so good a man that he was called Sanctus Robertus; and means was used by the University of Oxford to have him canonized. In the same age was Dantes the Florentine, who wrote against the Pope's height, for which cause his book was proscribed, and he, as Nauclerus saith, was condemned of heresy, and Arnoldus de Villa Nova, who spoke against the sacrifice of the mass and papal decrees, and had so many who adhered to him in Spain, that the papists called them Arnoldistas. Crantz, Metropol. 2. 8, talks of others about this time in Sweden, who did publicly preach the Pope and his bishops to be heretics. And Aventine, l. 7, tells us of Everard, an Archbishop of Germany, who in an assembly of bishops at Regenspurg, said boldly that the Popes were priests of Babylon, children of perdition, in whose foreheads is written the name of blasphemy, &c.

Buchol: Index Chio.
Naucler.
Vol. 2. gen. 8

"Lastly, for the thirteenth and fourteenth ages, every man knows what was done by Marsilius Patavinus, Alvarus Pelagius, John Wickliffe, John Hus and Hierome of Prague, to whom we may add Nihus,* who writ against purgatory and the Pope's supremacy, Sanavatola,† who, as he preached for the communion under both kinds, so against the usurpations of the Pope, against traditions, indulgences, shrift, pilgrimages, extreme unction, and the primacy. Besides these there are divers schoolmen, as Altisiodorensis, Arimensis, Occham, in whose writings are found many things opposite to the Roman doctrine. By name Occham was the great champion of the Emperor against the Pope's authority. In sum, after usurpation was once set on foot, there was no age in which some appeared not against it, and those no mean persons, but full of as good note as these which I have named. Yea, moreover, they were not few for number, neither are these which I have named the whole company. I might put in Petrus Bruis, Joachim, Clemanges, Aliaco Rupescissa, Grego. Heymburg, and Gulielmus de Sancto Amore, our famous Chauser, who went not into corners as ashamed of what they did. Nay, their appearing was so public that it must needs be thought that many more were of their opinions, and these not men dispersed or scattered, but whole Synods and Councils of Bishops which appeared for some points.

"The sixth General Council, Can. 13, decreed them arriage of priests, when the Church of Rome laboured to restrain it, and Concil. Bracat., 3, c. 1, appointed the administration of the cup to the people when the Church of Rome interdicted that. The Council of Constantinople, under Leo Isaurus and Constantinus Copronimus, decreed against images, so did the Council of Frankfort, an. 794; and Charles the Great, together with Ludovicus his son, caused a book to be made against them. Nay, I may raise the account a little higher, even to the whole Greek Church, which was never extinguished so much as in show, and their defence hath been constant of many of the Protestant tenets. They defend the marriage of priests, and oppose the usurped primacy and papal infallibility, their purgatory and private masses, and sacrifices for the dead. Therefore the doctrine of the Protestants, as it was never lost, so it was not at any time undiscernible; it was preserved in the Greek Church in many points, in every point propugned or stood for by some or other in the Latin; and the world could not but take notice of it because the testimonies given to it were public in sermons and disputations and writings of the learned in which" [there appears to be here some omission].

"What you have done that you may disengage yourself from that obligation, which as yet hath only ensnared your soul, but will destroy it if you go on, your soul, I say, which is far more precious than your fortunes. Were your fortunes only at stake, I could bear the burden with you in kind; but being it is your salvation, I can only bear it by sympathy. Religion is a better legacy than of fortune; it is the legacy of our blessed Saviour, more worth than all the world beside. Of one Nonius I read that he did choose rather to lose all his honours and fortunes than his ring; of such a price, but a far richer jewel, is your first religion, a legacy that again and again I commend unto you, living; and if you recall not yourself by time, you will make me do it somewhat sooner dying. I thought you should have wept over me when nature had called for her due, but you have prevented me. I see I must now bestow these tears upon you, as David over both his sons, his beloved Absalom when dead, and the child that was living. In which state to set you I know not well, but I rather reckon you as the Apostle did his lost disciple, when being asked where he was, he answered mortuus est. I can think no otherwise of you whilst you remain in this condition, which calls me to more sad thoughts than if I followed you to the grave; but it will be in your power to turn them into tears of joy, and to cause me so to weep as the father did over his son in the gospel when he returned out of the far country. That I may do so I must change holy David's words:—'I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me.' Nay, my confidence is of the one part, that I shall not go to you, only some hope of the other, that you will return to me, not only in the safety of your person, but of your faith. And to that you will hasten if you take into your thoughts and lay to heart the scandal you have given to the Church in which you were bred, which if she be not your spiritual mother, it must follow you have none, the perplexities of your father whom you have wounded, and cannot heal again but by your own recovery. Consider, I pray you, the passions of descending love; of Christ who redeemed you, to hold fast His faith, not to forsake it; of the angels, your keepers, who grieve for their lost depositum; of me, your father, who is in no less agonies for his lost son. Even fathers have their pangs as well as the other sex, and I never travailed of you till now; and I tell you it is with a great deal of pain, with tears and prayers that God in mercy would look upon us both, that I may bring to the birth and both bear you and beget you the second time, that both you may be twice my son, and I also not twice, but always, whilst I breathe in this world,

"Your loving father."

1636.

452. Instructions given to Lord Fielding as Ambassador to Venice. (Copy. 2 pp.)

January 16, 1638, to July 1, 1638, n.s.

453. Copies of four letters in Latin on the writer's "Didactica" and "Pansophia." They are entitled "Copiæ Epistolarum Comenianarum ad Samuelem Hartlibium." Three of the originals were probably sent to Samuel Hartlieb by the author named Comna, Komensky, or Comenius, who, like Hartlieb, was acquainted with John Durie. One of them, however, was sent to a "fautor" or patron of the writer and of Hartlieb, and contains the outline of a system of universal philosophy founded on Christian principles. One of them was sent by way of Leipzig and Amsterdam, apparently from Vienna to England. (22 pages.)

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

* Sic in M.S.

† Sic in M.S.; possibly to Savonarola.

[About 1638?]

454. Portion of a copy of a treatise which seems to have been a system of universal philosophy founded on Christian principles, and may have been the "Pansophia" mentioned in No. 453, or the outlines of that contemplated work. It is not the "Pansophia Prodromus," published in London, in 1639, nor the original of Jer. Collier's "Pattern of Universal Knowledge," published in 1651. (M.S. Latin, 68 pages: beginning and end wanting.)

1638.

455. September 25-27.—Copy of certificate of the Deputy Lieutenants of the county of Huntingdon, stating the number of "trained forces in the same, both of horse and foot," as viewed and mustered at Huntingdon, September 25, 26, and 27, 1638. The totals were two captains of foot, 147 corslets, 153 muskets, and 50 light horse, in the four Hundreds of Toseland, Hurstonston, Leightonston, and Normanscross.

April 16, 1630, to November 1, 1638.

456. A tailor's bill for Lord Mandeville, containing, among others, the following items:—

"A ash culler chamlett shewte and cloke tufted all over, dublett cutt in bands and edged with satten:
"For canvas and stifning - - -	0 5 0
"For cutting the bands - - -	0 1 0
"For tufing the shewte - - -	1 0 0
"For 7 yards of calico at 18d. - -	0 10 6
"For 3 yards of sea to cotten the hose, at 20d. - - -	0 5 0
"For hookes and eis - - -	0 0 10
"For Fustean for pocketts - - -	0 1 4
"For making the cloke and shewte - -	1 10 0
	<hr/>
	3 13 8 "

"A black birds eie velvett shewte and a payer of stockings, dublett cutt in 4 bands with a satten eadg and velvett chene lace stockings pickadillied." The total, including the making, was 4*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*

"A blacke cloth shewte and cloke for mourning lined with taffety" cost 1*l.* 7*s.* 0*d.*

"A Cordevante lether wastcoate with one wight silke eadging lace in a seame lined with sersnatt and a payer of shamway draers and stockings" cost 2*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*

"A deare culler cloth shewte and cloke drawne in the seames, dublett lined satten, hose with taffety, the cloke lined with plush" cost 1*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.*, the material being set down as "6 yards of Spanish Segovia cloth at 1*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* = 10*l.* 1*s.* 0*d.*"

In every case the charge for materials and for making is stated separately. (pp. 14.)

[1638-9.]

457. January 26, 14 Charles I.—Summons under the King's sign manual to Edward, Lord Mountague, of Kimbolton, to join the King's standard at York (with a force suited to his condition), on the following first of April. (Imperfect).—Westminster.

[1638-9?]

458. February 27.—The Earl of Lindsey to the Earl of Manchester, asking the latter to explain to the Earl of Essex that his journey to London had been delayed by illness, and mentioning that Lord Brooke had marched with his forces at night, but it was not known whither. "I have promised," adds Lord Lindsey, "if I be well, not to stir till he return."

1639.

459. April 21.—Copy of an Act of Council, prescribing the oath to be taken by the King's army, and giving the names of those who took it on the spot, as well as of two (Viscount Say and Lord Brook) who desired time to consider of it. (The principal clause is in the State Papers, Dom., 1639, vol. 415, No. 117, and is printed in the Calendar, p. 636.)—York.

[16]39.

460. Ap. 24.—The Earl of Manchester to Lord Mandeville, chiefly on domestic matters, but referring also to 20 cart-horses and 7 carters required by the Master of the Ordnance, and to an enclosure to be communicated to the Deputy Lieutenants. Remembrance to Lord and Lady Roberts, who were staying at Kimbolton.

1639.

461. May 1.—Edward Montague to his uncle, Lord Mandeville, touching the form of the military oath, the refusal of Lord Say and Sele and Lord Brook to take it, and their subsequent committal.—Boughton.

462. Undated.—Rough statement of receipts and expenditure of the Earl of Warwick. The receipts are calculated at 8,000*l.*, out of which 1,500*l.* were paid to Lord Rich (the eldest son), 600*l.* to the other children, 1,338*l.* in annuities and jointures. "Ordinary outpayments" are set down as 400*l.* The "ordinary charges" at Leeze amounted to 281*l.*, including 30*l.* to the house-keeper, 10*l.* for fire charges, 120*l.* for garden charges, and 40*l.* for repairs of the house and out-houses. The Rochford house-charges were 50*l.*

1639.

463. June 12.—Mary Mountagu to her father-in-law, the Earl of Manchester, thanking him for a piece of plate, and asking him to send her husband some money to pay her father's creditors.—Lackham.

464. June 25.—John Durie to "Mr. Ball, Preacher of the Gospel," offering a number of religious congratulations, reflections, and exhortations. (pp. 6.)—Ham-burgh.

[1639.]

465. July 16.—The Earl of Holland to Lord Mandeville. He regretted that he had been unable to see his "sweet niece" and Lord Mandeville at Kimbolton, when he reached Huntingdon on his march. He had met the Lord Marshal at Stilton, "full of complaints against the Covenanters for their new protestations and declarations." The letter continues, "He desired me extremely to bring the King from the believing he may be in danger amongst them. I am persuaded that there is something discovered by the Scotch Lords that has made them thus renew their Covenant, and explain our articles. God forgive them that thus do advise our master to spoil and destroy this honourable and happy accommodation as he might have used it. If I had seen you I would have said something that I am unwilling to trust unto paper. Yet this I will tell you:—If the lords in Scotland will only stand upon the taking away the Episcopal Government they will do well to declare that in all other things they will pay the perfect and civil duty of subjects, which, if they will freely and roundly do, it may be less distasted than as now things are supposed to be carried by them. This I say to avoid farther danger and mischief that else may break out by the ill offices and affections of ill-disposed persons to this accommodation so approved of by all honest men."

1639.

466. July 28.—The Earl of Leicester to Lord Mandeville. "I can never think so well of myself as when your judgment authoriseth my intentions or ratifies my actions; nor can anything more confirm me in the opinion of my daughter's good fortune than your approbation of her choice, to which I assure your Lordship my consent was much invited by the hope which I conceived of her having the happiness to live in the neighbourhood of my good sister, your most excellent Lady, from whose conversation and example she cannot choose but receive contentment and instruction. And though, for myself, I be but a reprobate, yet I promise you that no documents of mine shall excite my daughter to divert her husband from confirming the inclination which, I hear, his ancestors have had into the brotherhood. And if I be not much deceived in him, he is like to prove both a good husband and a good man, which, I presume, will not displease you by being a comfort unto me. I am now upon going over sea, and if I stay this winter there, I believe my wife, daughter, and son-in-law will be so charitable as to keep me from the solitariness wherein I have lived there. But notwithstanding this transmigration, though it were to the uttermost part of the world, my Lady and your Lordship may be confident that wheresoever we are, there you may be sure of so many servants as we are in number. This bearer came hither yesterday, and, by coming 40 miles more than he looked for, it seems, he was so set on running as I had much ado to stay him from going away this Sunday, but I threatened to excommunicate him, if he gave such scandal, so I prevailed with him, and if he have done amiss, you must in justice lay the blame on me, which, I assure myself, will not be too severe when you consider how sincerely I am your Lordship's faithful brother and most humble servant ——" (Printed,

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

but not quite correctly, in "Court and Society from "Elizabeth to Anne," I. 353.)—St. Stephen's, near Canterbury.

467. October 2.—W. Jessop to Lord Mandeville, chiefly on matters of business, but mentioning that the King had decided that Sir John Pennington should "leave both sides at liberty to fight it out," in the impending naval engagement between the Dutch and the Spaniards.—London.

468. Nov. 13.—Lord Loudoun to the Earl of Holland. "Your lordship's affection to his Ma . . . service and noble disposition towards the peace of both kingdoms, whereof you gave so real proof at the camp, makes me now at this time bold to s . . . to your Lordship that albeit we have had a full and free General Assembly wherein religion is reformed, the wor . . . of God established, and the government of the Church . . . yet when we expected the civil sanction and ratification of Parliament to be added to the constitution of the Assembly according to His Majesty's gracious Declaration and Articles of Pacification, we have encountered many unexpected difficulties and lets, and in place of a hap . . . conclusion His Majesty hath commanded to prorogue the . . . ament in a way which delays the settling of th . . . of that Church and Kingdom, and is conceived . . . be prejudicial to the Articles of Pacification, which doth flow from the malice and misinformation made to His Majesty against the proceedings of the Parliament, whereof the Earl of Dunferlin [Dunfermline] and I were sent up to give His Majesty any true account . . . offered to vindicate all our proceedings against all t . . . calumnies and unjust aspersions laid upon us and . . . clear that we never did nor had the least intention . . . attempt anything which might trench upon His Majesty's royal authority or diminish his princely power. But we did find the malice and power of our adversaries so great as we were debarred His Majesty's presence, and our Parliament condemned before we be heard, which we regret as harder measure nor we are conscious to ourselves to have deserved, and will ever be hopeful, and wish that His Majesty's justice and goodness may s[bine?], through these clouds of misinformation, upon his ancient and native kingdom. And we take God, who is the searcher of all hearts, to witness that we have no other ends but such as serve for the King's honour and for the procuring the more cheerful and hearty obedience of his subjects, whereas the malice and misinformation of our adversaries gives reason to suspect that they are labouring (before they should suffer their due punishment) to bring all in the estate of their justly deserved confusion, which we pray God to avert, and are hopeful that your Lordship and all such as love His Majesty will employ their credit and abilities to give him such faithful advice as may contribute for his honour and the general peace of all his kingdoms." (Copy; imperfect at the edge).

469. Dec. 4.—Sir John Bramston to Sir Robert Bevell in behalf of Mr. Edward Moore, who was imprisoned for a debt owing to Sir Robert.

[1639-40?].

470. Jan. 13.—D. Spencer [Lady Spencer] to [Lord Mandeville?]. "I that thought it impossible for me ever to be neer quareling wth you, have now found cause for your believing my kindnes subject to change with the climat, but if your Lo: will banishe this opinion I will my exseption, and be more then it is posible to expresse your Lo. servant." (Verbatim et literatim).—Paris.

1639-40.

471. Feb. 4.—The Earl of Northumberland to [Lord Mandeville?] expressing a fear that his "Generalship" against our brethron in Scotland" would "make him be thought almost as great a reprobate as any Bish." He refrained, on that account, from asking the person addressed to accept a command.—London.

[1640?]

472. May 16.—S. X. [Lady Essex Cheeke] to [the Earl of Manchester, or Lord Mandeville?] After a few words of courtesy she proceeds:—"I find such cause for the valene I have of my Lord Admarall, and such inclynations of my oune, to love and esteeme his Lo. as I know not what it may grooe too. War I not so ould I think it might arive to portion. The action that Co. Go. [Colonel Goring?] and thos that accompanied him

"was such a on asseuets well with them, and discovered great corage to incounter broome-men and pinne-maekers and a rabble of such poore men who have nothing to offend but thear tungs, nor to resist but thear hands. It may be they did it to ingratiate themselves, and that is as meane as the other foolishhe. I wishe mysefve with you, but I cannot come till the laterend of the next weak if then, and their is a just cause. Black Tom [the Earl of Strafford?] hath more corage then his Grase [the Archbishop of Canterbury?], and thearfore will not be so apprehencive as he is, nor suffer a gard to attend him, knowinge he hath terror enough in his bended broones to amaze the prentises.* I desyer your Lo. will send a waye this inclosed to my dearest neyee [Lady Mandeville?] by the post, for I hear you gooe not till Thirsday at the sounest. I have ryten to hir to be very well advised before she usse the Bath, hearing by my sister of Warwick that she purposeth to take that in hir way heather. She had wont to be very neare sounding [swooning?] when she ussed bathing, and then was much stronger then she is now, and I can not think it can be good for hir beinge so weake and leanne. Lete hir much hast, for, beleve it, the vexation she will have, where she is, will do her much harme. I have a will to say more, but I hope you give my Lo. of W[arwick] friendly counsell; he hath nede of it. I will [leave?] your Lo. and be so kinde as not to take ill your not cominge heather, sene you saye you have ocations to kepe you in the toun." (Endorsed by the writer "for your Lo.", and wrongly endorsed in a modern hand "Lord Essex, letter from.")

[About 1640?]

473. S. X. [Lady Essex Cheeke] to her daughter Essex [Lady Bevell]:—

"The news is too true, and Sir Edward Baynton who my sonne fought with is hurt, but yesternight my sonne Jack [?] cam from Padington whear thay fought, and was assured by Dockter Wryght and the sirgen that searched the wound that there is no danger. There went a post, a man of my Lord of S. X., with a letter from the Queen, and an other from my Lord Marquis Hartfor, to bege his pardon and secuere his future if the other shold dye, which God forbid he shold. You maye imagen how such an acedent as this wold afflicte me to aunty that I love [reading of last five words doubtful] for the winne of it is more than anny thinge else. My sonne Ro. [?] lyes concealed least he shold gooe into a prison this infection tyme, for this facte will not admitte of beinge bayled. I trust in God the gentellman shall live, that my sonne be not so unfortunat as to be gilty of murder. Your sister knows nothing of it, nor shall not so longe as I can kepe it from hir. This will kepe us from coming to Lesse [Leeze?] this sumer, for it will be fortyn day befor the wonde that is given [or green?] can be healed, and all that tyme your brother Ro. [?] must conseale him selfe. Therefor when you wold have the coach send for it. I can not send you the particulers, for I have letters to ryte to London [reading doubtful], and my Lady Carlile beinge here this day, I weyghted on hir part of the way, and came not home till it was late." On the back is the following postscript:—"I feare that when your sister hears of this acedent she will be in great affliction though her hus. be well, and I shall be in fears a great while." (Wrongly endorsed in a modern hand "Lord Essex.")

[Note.—The "son Ro." is probably Robert son of Robert, 2nd Earl of Warwick, who had married his cousin Anne, a daughter of Sir T. and Lady Essex Cheeke, and sister of Essex Lady Bevell, afterwards Countess of Manchester.]

1640.

474. July 16.—The Earl of Manchester to Lord Mandeville, urging him to get the Kimbolton men forward for the King's service, as they were "somewhat slack," and asking him to thank Sir Capel Bedells, Sir Oliver Cromwell, and Sir Robert Osborne "for their care and pains."—London.

475. Sept. 8.—Copy of a letter from eighteen Scottish Lords to Lord Lanerick, Secretary of Scotland, giving a summary of their "humble desires," of which the particulars were "contained in the conclusion of the late Parliament, and our printed declarations," and ex-

* There was a riot of apprentices in the beginning of May 1640, in which Lambeth Palace was threatened. Strafford was at that time in England. See Rushworth's Collections, iii., 1173-4.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

pressing their desire for peace. (pp. 2. Printed in Rushworth's Collection ii., 1258.)—"Scottish Leaguer at Newcastle."

476. Sept. 11 [wrongly endorsed Feb. 11].—Edward Mountagu to his nephew, Lord Mandeville, saying, "I think he neither fears G[od] nor honours the King, nor w[ishes] well to the Commonwealth that will not join in the petition," [to his Majesty for summoning of Parliament?]. (Partly destroyed by fire).—Boughton.

477. Oct. 2.—Draft of Scottish propositions touching the preliminaries of a pacification. (Printed in Rushworth's Collections, ii., 1287).—Ripon.

[1640].

478. Draft or copy of Instructions to the Earls of Bedford, Hertford, Essex, Salisbury, Bristol, Warwick, Holland, and Berkshire, and Lords Mandeville, Paget, Wharton, Brooke, Paulet, Howard, Savile, and Dunsmore, nominated by the King and Great Council of Peers at York to treat with the Scots at Ripon on Oct. 1st. (pp. 3. Printed in Rushworth's Collections, ii., 1283).

1640.

479. Oct. 8.—An unsigned document, apparently a draft protest on the part of the Scottish Commissioners, touching the treaty negotiations at Ripon. (Printed, but with some verbal variations, in Rushworth's Collections, ii., 1292).—Ripon.

480. Oct. 10.—Unsigned draft letter of the King's Commissioners to the Scots:—"His Majesty hath taken into his consideration the proposition concerning the maintenance of your army at Newcastle during this treaty, and for that end hath required us, his Commissioners at Ripon, to repair unto York to give him advice concerning the same, which he doth for expediting of an answer, and with no intention to decline, determine, or delay the treaty. For which cause His Majesty doth desire that the Commissioners of both parts might repair unto the city of York, there to receive a speedy determination and answer, after debate. And further to signify unto you that, whereas you did intimate unto His Majesty some apprehensions by reason of the person* who doth command his army, His Majesty doth assure you that, whilst he is there himself in person, none doth command the army or shall be answerable for your safety but himself, who hath already under his hand and seal assured the same unto you, and of which you may be confident. And further, His Majesty hath commanded us to show unto you his great desire of keeping this treaty on foot, so as, if you shall mislike the removal from hence to York, we are commanded not to remove till we do receive farther order from him."—Ripon.

481. Oct. 16.—Draft of Scottish propositions touching the sum to be allowed for the King's and for the Scottish army, viz., 850*l.* per diem for each, and touching coal, forage, &c.—Ripon.

482. Oct. 17.—Draft of agreement on the part of the Scots to the proposed allowance of 850*l.* per diem for their army for two months from Oct. 16, with request that "the point of cessation of arms, the limits to be fixed to both armies, and the matter of coal and forage might be made so plain and clear that there might be no misunderstanding."—Ripon.

483. Oct. 22.—The Lord Keeper, Finch, to the Lords Commissioners, conveying the King's assent to the adjournment of the Treaty from Ripon to London.—York.

[1640?].

484. Nov. 19.—Short rough notes [of an interview of the Scotch Commissioners with the English Commissioners, at which the King was present]:—

"The King: 'Because you had a desire I should hear your demands, I am come hither to hear, and my Lords being assistant, I hope to give you such an answer as shall be fit. Two things I desire:—What you desire to be set down in writing; I will not be bound to what I discourse.'

"Lord Rothes: 'Quere, whether the Commission be voided by the King's presence?'

"This being passed by, they demanded to have our Commission read, which was read by the clerk.

"After this was read the Scotch Commission.

* Strafford. See Rushworth, ii. 1298. The present letter seems to be the reply to the letter from the Scottish Commissioners.

"Loudoun, Rothes: 'We desire to know your Lordships' Commission.'

"Bristol: 'We treat with you in a double capacity, as by the Commission under the Great Seal, and by orders of approbation from both Houses of Parliament.' (These to be shown to the Scotch Commissioners).

"Rothes: 'Whether the King shall sit here any more?'

"Unless the King do come, no cause to raise this question.

"Rothes: 'The next proposition concerning the maintenance of the Scotch army is'—

"Bristol: 'We did represent the state of your army to the House of Commons, and we doubt not but it will take good effect, for the Commons' House told us this day that they would give us a speedy answer.'

"Rothes: 'This order must be held. We desire his Majesty will give [up?] his scruples to our demands, which are contained in the Lord Lenerick's letter, and we shall give your Lordships satisfaction accordingly. We cannot lay aside the question about the last Parliament, for our Commission is from that Parliament, and that Parliament being questioned, our powers are questioned.'

On the back is a note relating apparently to the allowance to the Scottish army in England.—London.

1640.

485. Dec. 31.—Short speech delivered by Mr. Pim after the articles against Sir George Ratcliffe had been read. The case of Sir George is compared with that of Strafford. (Imperfect).

[1639 or 1640?]

486. Sir Arthur Ingram to Lord Mandeville, mentioning enclosure of a letter sent by Lord Holland. The King was going to Newcastle.

[1640.]

487. Copy of a letter written by Dr. Davenant, Bishop of Salisbury, to a minister in his diocese, upon the oath against the change of Church Government. On the fly-leaf is a note, signed S. Wilson, to the effect that he received it from Mr. Martin in the Charterhouse, to whom it had been communicated by the minister. This must refer to the oath in the 6th Canon of the Synod or Convocation of 1640. See Wilkins, Concilia, v., 543. (pp. 6).

1640-1.

488. Feb. 5¹⁵.—The Earl of Leicester to [Lord Mandeville?]. "I am so desirous to live in the good opinion of the brethren, that having heard of a complaint made of me to the House of Commons by a notable, wise, and well-informed Alderman, I cannot choose but beseech your Lordship that if you hear any more of it, or if you find it hath left any impression to my prejudice you will do me the favour to set me right with your Peers, and by your means reform any sinister belief that may remain of me in the House of Commons, for, in the word of a brother, I assure you that of all the men in the world I have the least obligation and least affection to the little * Ex-secretarius that is come hither. I never held any other correspondence with him heretofore than that which his office and my employment required; and since his being here he hath had no more from me than such civility as is due to a person of his quality, painfully and dangerously accused I must confess, but not yet condemned for aught I know, and I am sure it doth not belong to me to judge him or to degrade him. He comes often to my chapel, though he find no altars there to bow unto, nor any candles upon them to help a blind devotion; and whosoever did know what hath passed between us and what we think of one another would not believe that there could be much confidence or intelligence between us. I thought some of my old friends would have answered the

* There were, at this time, two ex-secretaries, Sir John Coke and Sir Francis Windebank; and serious accusations had been made against both. Coke, however, had the reputation of being a zealous Protestant, Windebank of being in fact, if not in name, a Catholic. Windebank, too, was certainly in Paris; and it is probably to him that Leicester refers; but, if so, his own account of his reception is somewhat different from Leicester's. He wrote to the Queen on Feb. 7, 1641, N.S. "I have received much honour from my Lord Ambassador here." State Papers, Domestic, 1641, No. 90. See also State Papers, Domestic, 1641, No. 35, B. Reade to Windebank's son, 8 Jan. 1641, N.S.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"Alderman in my behalf, but, though that were omitted, I hope you will take order that a poor brother shall not suffer. I should not doubt at all of your favour though I had not my Lord Admiral's assurance of it, and I desire you to be as confident of my service, for which you shall also have my Lord Admiral's testimony. We hear of great changes in England, and I wish with all my heart that you may have that part which the voice of the people gives unto you, or any other that may bring you all the honour and contentment that you can desire. And though I expect little other, yet I hope for this benefit in my particular, that by your mediation I may hereafter be better paid by our new Lord Treasurer than I have been, for the modern bishops have not much favoured me. If they had been like the primitive ones, I am vain enough to believe that they would have used me better. I pray, take heed of your neighbour of Bugden. I doubt not but you know him well, yet I could tell you some things of him which I believe you have not yet heard, and I am sure you would not like. You have also another notable man in your society, my Lord of Bristow, of whom I could likewise tell you somewhat to the purpose. Look well about you, and I beseech you both to pardon and conceal this freedom," &c. (This letter, which contains much additional information, and is nearly four pages in length, has been printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," partly in vol. i., p. 362, and partly in vol. ii., p. 17. Some alterations, however, have been made in the MS. by a modern hand, and in one instance, at least, the new reading has been adopted in the printed copy. For that reason, among others, it has seemed expedient to reprint the first part of the document.)—Paris.

[1640-1?]

489. Feb. 27.—Walter Strickland to Lord Mandeville, thanking him, apparently, for an introduction to Lord and Lady Hertford and their children. The two young Lords were "exceeding sweet, and good natured, and civil." They all hoped for "some good success of this Parliament." (Two pages.)—Orleans.

[March 1641.]

490. Copy of articles of accusation against Strafford, with notes of his answers and of the proofs against him. (31 sheets of paper.)

1641.

491. Endorsed April 13.—Conclusion of the speech of Strafford to the Lords in defending himself against the alleged articles of treason. (Three pages. Printed in Rushworth's Collections, Trial of Strafford, 658-660.)

[About 1642?]

492. Monday.—John Marston to Lord Kimbolton [Mandeville]. "Though my own miseries press me hard to solicit your honour's compassion, yet that you may be assured how much I am unseduced from my former temper, I shall now dis-serve myself (though my condition be very calamitous) to serve your honour and the Parliament in a matter of no mean concernment. The errand I send this paper on to your Lordship is to offer to your honour a discovery of no mean consequence, which I beseech your honour not to slight before you know it; for when you do, I am sure you will not. To which purpose I humbly beg that your honour will send some such trusty and rational messenger to me, whose relation to your honour may be here unknown, and that the same messenger may bring me some assurance that I shall be concealed in the business. My Lord, I hope you will not delay, for I cannot tell how soon it may be too late. For the future, I beseech your honour to esteem me a most faithful servant to your honour and the Parliament."—The Gate House.

[1641-2?]

493. New year's night.—Lady Essex Cheeke to her daughter, Lady Bevell, touching the illness of the latter's husband. (Wrongly endorsed, in a modern hand, "Lord Essex to his daughter." Some extracts have been printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 378.)—Warwick House.

1641-2.

494. Feb. 21.—Edward Maria Wingfield to [Lord Mandeville?], asking for the command of a troop for service in Ireland. "I confess," he says, "I never knew wars, but I doubt not my own industry and a willing mind to vanquish those inhuman and irreligious rebels in time may make me worthy of that or the like honourable command."—Keiston.

495. March 21.—Edward Mountagu to his nephew, Lord Mandeville, calling his attention to the great sin committed by the Parliament, i.e., "not once nor twice but thrice an allowance of usury," pointing out that sin is "the ruin of kingdoms," and expressing surprise "that reverend divines passed over the reprehension of this sin" of usury, of which they could not plead ignorance.—Boughton.

1642.

496. March 25.—Richard Delamain to Lord Mandeville, giving calculations of the quantity of land in Ireland, with the object of satisfying "some scruples" if there will be found two millions and a half [acres] "of forfeited lands" there. (Two large closely written pages.)—"House at the Dyall-wall in Grayse Inn Field."

497. April 11.—The Earl of Warwick to Lord Mandeville, requesting him to look to the Earl's interests in the House of Commons, in respect of "the Letter Office," which Sir Henry Vane the younger wished to "continue in sequestration." There is a postscript:—"Good son, have a care of this business, it concerns me so deeply, and more."—"From on board the James in Tilbury Hope."

[1642?]

498. April 12.—W[alter] Montagu to his brother Lord Mandeville, chiefly on money matters, which he asked Lord Mandeville to arrange for him, as the latter had dissuaded him from coming to England.—Pontoise.

[About 1642?]

499. July 4.—Lord Home to Lord Mandeville, recommending a "noble gentleman," a convert from Catholicism to Protestantism who was "put upon" some "employment" by the Justices of Ireland.—"Eden-burg?"] 1642.

500. July 27.—Hamon L'Estrange to [the Speaker of the House of Lords?], thanking him for his "grace and goodness" to some "poor men" (L'Estrange's neighbours), who had been summoned to answer accusations before the House of Peers, at the instance of "one John van Haesdonck, gent."

501. July 29.—The Earl of Warwick to Lord Mandeville, informing the latter that he had written to the Speaker of the House of Lords "touching Admiral Tromp's stoppage of some ships that had passed under the convoy of some of the Fleet," and the consequent danger to the trade of Dover, but adding his "private opinion." It was that the advantage to the revenue of that particular trade was "answered with a very great inconvenience by the correspondence held between that town and the Papists both in Flanders and Ireland, the same tending to the transportation of much youth to be trained beyond sea in Popish Seminaries." He thought this correspondence (unless care were taken) would be "far more prejudicial" than any gain to the revenue would be "advantageous."—The Downs.

502. Aug. 1.—A "testimonium commeatus" in favour of John Montanus (a German mathematician), signed by Lord Mandeville, who is also described as "Baro a Kimbolton, necnon ex illustrissimo Anglicana nobilitatis ordine ad Parlamentariam supremam domus congregationem deputatus procer." He certifies that Montanus with wife and children had lived many years in England, partly in his house and partly elsewhere, and was about to travel through the Netherlands to Poland. Various officials are requested to give free passage, &c. to the traveller, as in a modern passport. The word "nostra" in the passage "in domo nostra de Mandeviel" has been struck out and the word "mea" substituted in Lord Mandeville's handwriting. (Latin. Foreign hand.)—Mandeville House.

* At this time a Speaker seems to have been appointed for each sitting of the House of Lords, and letters addressed to the Speaker were understood to be for the Speaker pro tempore. The Earl of Manchester was frequently speaker in May 1642, his son, Lord Kimbolton (or Mandeville), in July. The Earl of Warwick, no doubt, foresaw a probability that one or other would be the recipient of his letter "to the Speaker."

* His brother-in-law the Earl of Northumberland.

KE OF NCHES-
TER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

503. Aug. 8.—John Merrill to Lord Mandeville (then at Chelsea). "Ordinances of Parliament are little regarded, good people openly reviled and threatened, the town of Huntingdon so disaffected to Capt. Walton that, when he sent out his warrants to raise two hundred of the train bands to resist the force that would have carried Cambridge plate into the North, some others did send out and employ their strength the other way, and very few of the train men would come at time." The mayor and some other inhabitants had left the town. "Mr. Henry Cromwell came with 50 men armed, and with horse and muskets through Huntingdon on Saturday morning last, to help, as some think, to conduct the plate against Capt. Walton's ordinance and force, the country nothing persuaded to accommodate the Parliament either with horse, arms, plate, or monies. The improvement of Capt. Walton's power by virtue of the ordinance prevails nothing among them, inasmuch that, if your Lordship yield not your present assistance you will assuredly find that nothing will be done. Your Lordship not appearing in the county proves greatly disadvantageous to the common cause. If you will be pleased to send your letter to Mr. Clapham to provide some horse in our town it is probable something may be done. I know no way at this present to fetch up the spirits of our freeholders but either to appear in your person, or send some one among them whereby they may receive encouragement. Oh! the base and cowardly spirits of men that may prove the Parliament's desertion and their own destruction! The corrupt clergy and gentry are raging mad with us, especially against myself, which makes me think we are now come to ripeness, and that the Lord hath decreed to afflict and scourge this nation for the manifold crying sins thereof."

—[Huntingdon.]
504. Aug. 17.—Copy of an Order of Parliament to the Earl of Warwick to "take an account" why Capt. Kettleby and Capt. Stradling commanding the King's ships Bonaventure and Swallow, appointed to guard the coast of Ireland, had "deserted that charge," to dispose of the ships as he should think fit, and to compel the commanders to obey him, if necessary. (Printed. Journals of the House of Lords, v. 299.)

[1642?]

505. Aug. 30.—W. Stane to Viscount Mandeville, offering suggestions on the means of obtaining recruits and supplies for the Parliamentary army. His opinion was that the chief need was "dragoons, whereof some 500 or 600 might soon put an end to this great business." The horses in the King's army were "most body, and bulk, else two countrymen could not surprise 6 troopers."—Coventry.

[1642.]

506. Sep. 9.—The Earl of Warwick to Lord Mandeville. "I am glad to hear Portsmouth is reduced, and sorry to hear my Lord of Bedford hath retired himself from Sherborne Castle. It was ill advice given to send him to take or beat down his brother-in-law's castle; you had been better to have chosen another. I am glad to hear the army is to march. I pray, stand well upon your guard both military and politic, for you will never get the like opportunity if you slip this, which God hath put into your hands, and loose not your business with civilities and compliments. Give the Cavaliers an inch, they will take an ell. Do the work thoroughly, and look to yourselves. Be not caught all in one trap at any time, and do all by good and full advice." In a postscript, he adds, "I cannot think they mean well that now would set out such a false Declaration and so spiteful as the last."—The Downs.

1642.

507. Dec. 14.—John Gyfford (the Mayor) and other members of the Corporation of Northampton to the Earl of Manchester, requesting him to accept the office of Recorder of their town, in return for various favours shown to it by him, and especially for having provided for its defence.—Northampton.

508. December.—Inventory of goods at Kimbolton Castle. (pp. 6.)

[1642.]

509. Representations concerning the "Farm of Coals," apparently from the "Corporation of Hoastmen" of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. They recite the relations of the Crown to the coal trade from the time of King John downwards, the several grants of the imposts to farm by Elizabeth and James I., and the fines for new leases paid in the reigns of James I. and Charles I. They claim that their acts are legal under the Statute of Monopolies, and appeal to the King and Parliament for justice.

[About 1642?]

510. "An information tending to the improvement of His Majesty's or the State's Revenues within the affairs of the Custom House," submitted by Richard Boothby. It refers to the import and export of jewellery.

[1642-3.]

511. Feb. 8.—Margaret Clotworthy [wrongly endorsed in a modern hand, "Holworthy,"] to Lord Mandeville, asking to have a letter addressed to the Lord Lieutenant [of Ireland] requesting him to give the troop of horse lately Captain Upton's to her husband. Mr. Pym had already sent a letter to the same effect, but as yet without result.

[1642-3?]

512. Feb. 13.—Statement respecting the garrison and defences of Winchester.

[1642-3?]

513. Feb. 16.—W[alter] Montagu to the Earl of Manchester, on money matters, and asking for a pass for some goods to be sent to him, as the Earl did not wish him to come to England. He intended to go to France and live quietly.—The Hague.

1642-3.

514. Feb. 27.—Edward Bosworth to [the Earl of Manchester], asking for directions respecting a tax of 35s. a week for six months "laid upon the lordship of Eltington," "to be levied and assessed as the 400,000l. was."—Eltington.

515. March 6.—Francis Littleton to the Earl of Manchester, asking the latter to move the Lords in Parliament for his release after his arrest in the Tower of London "at the suit of one William Walforde, a broken fellow." The Earl of Pembroke had previously freed him "upon the like accusation, and committed the party that arrested him."—The Tower.

516. March 22.—Thomas Grey to the Earl of Manchester, Speaker of the House of Peers, suggesting the expediency of seizing the estates of some "Delinquent Lords," and requesting that the House of Lords might be moved upon the subject. Lord Newport, Lord Brudenell, the Countess of Devonshire, "and Mr. Candish" are mentioned, as well as "the young Viscount Cambden," who had raised "a brave troop of horse," who was at Beever Castle, and whose rents should be seized.—Leicester.

1643.

517. May 21.—John Merrill to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the books and desks of the latter had been packed up according to directions, reminding him that John Ekins of Isham was anxious to obtain some military employment, and complaining of the depredations of "stragglers." The reports of Parliamentary successes in the "Weekly Intelligencer" were, if true, most encouraging.

518. May 30.—Stephen Constable to the Earl of Manchester, touching the proposal that Mr. Pike and Mr. Constable should allow Mr. Chichely 50l. per annum for his support "after the sequestration was passed in the committee."—Houghton.

519. June 22.—Warrant of the Committee of Lords and Commons for the safety of the Kingdom, to arrest Richard Blake, "lying at the Black Boy in Drury Lane," and bring him and his papers before them. It is signed by the Earls of Pembroke, Northumberland, Salisbury, and Manchester, and Lord Howard.

520. Aug. 12.—Commission of the Earl of Essex to Edward, Earl of Manchester, constituting him Sergeant-Major-General of the forces in the counties of Essex, Hertford, Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridge, and Huntingdon. (Parchment.)

521. Sept. 22.—Commission to the Earl of Manchester, appointing him Governor of King's Lynn and commander of the garrison there. It is signed by members of the Committee of the Lords and Commons, including the Earl of Denbigh, Lord Say and Sele, Sir Harbottle Grimston, Nathaniel Fiennes, and John Pym. (Parchment.)

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

522. Nov. 2.—Statement of monies received and disbursed by Thomas Buckley, of Cambridge, as Treasurer of the Association of Eastern Counties, from April 20 to Nov. 2, 1643, "truly collected out of the bookes of " accomptes belonging to the sayd treasurer, examined " and agreeable with the orders (for payments) from " the committee under their hands, and cast up per " John Welbore, gent." (A large sheet of paper.)

[1643?]

523. Valentine Walton to the Earl of Manchester, ("Major-General at his quarters,") touching the difficulty of raising supplies, and asking for an order for 600*l.* to pay for arms for which Walton had rendered himself liable.

524. Considerations to be offered to the Committee of Lords and Commons for the maintenance of the army under the command of the Earl of Manchester, charged upon the associated counties. Signed by Valentine Walton. (Very brief; one small page).

525. Sir Robert Osborne to the Earl of Manchester, complaining that seven hundred horses, "besides one " troop at the first to furnish Capt. Walton," had been taken out of a county consisting of but four small hundreds, and that they had not been "booket and branded," as ordered by Parliament.

526. Dec. 6.—Sir H. Mildmay to the Earl of Manchester, touching an expected march of Prince Rupert, with 2,000 horse, to Newark, and the danger in which Cambridge stood, and suggesting that the Earl's presence at Cambridge would be for his own advantage and that of the public.

527. Richard Langley to the Earl of Manchester, requesting the latter to "desire Colonel Cromwell" not to accept without proof the accusations of persons who "made him a malignant," and praying to be excused imprisonment on the score of age.

528. Gregory Gawsell to the Earl of Manchester, respecting the means of paying and supplying the Parliamentary forces.

1643-4.

529. Jan. 14.—Copy certified by Colonel Valentine Walton (Governor of King's Lynn) of his contract with Nicholas Marshall, Thomas Stephens, and Peter Newton, of London, for the supply of armour (consisting of "a " breast-plate (high-pistol-proof), a backe and a pott " heade peece with 3 barres,") for 800 harquebusiers, at the rate of 33 shillings per head.

[1643-4?]

530. Jan. 24.—Sir H. Mildmay to the Earl of Manchester. The Earl's "faithfullest friends and simplest enemies," were in the Association [of the Eastern Counties]. Mildmay was going to Bury, where "three " of every county in the Association" were to meet to consult upon their "neglected condition." It would be a "good opportunity to agitate" anything his Lordship might wish.

[1643-4.]

531. March 10.—Copy of a letter from Oliver Cromwell, beginning "Sir," and having on the back an address to the Earl of Manchester. The original was probably written (as suggested by Mr. Carlyle) to Major-General Crawford, and the copy placed by the latter at the disposal of the Earl for his defence. It is to the effect that there was not sufficient justification for dismissing a lieutenant-colonel [Packer] on the ground that he was an Anabaptist. (Printed in Carlyle's "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches," i. 147.)

532. Transcript of the same, with notes in Mr. Carlyle's handwriting.

1644.

533. April 15.—The Earl of Northumberland and Lord Maitland on behalf of the Committee of both Kingdoms, to the Earl of Manchester, desiring him to send reinforcements for the protection of Boston, which was threatened by the King's army.—Derby House.

534. April 20.—Lord Fairfax to [the Committee of Both Kingdoms?]. "I intended on Tuesday last to " have begun my march into the North. But it seems " the Marquis of Newcastle, hearing of the defeat of " his forces, and either fearing the loss of York, or that " he should be closed up betwixt the Scottish army and " mine, drew off his army from Durham on Saturday " last, and in a flying march hastened to York, where he " arrived on Tuesday last. Peradventure his intention " was (thinking the Scots would have stayed upon a " siege of Newcastle) to have fallen upon my army as " the weaker, hoping to have gained repute by some " advantage against us; but therein he is also prevented " by the providence of the Scots' general, the Earl of " Leven, who, observing Newcastle's retreat, followed " him close with an army of 2,000 horse and 14,000 " foot, and upon Thursday last came to Wetherby, where " I with my horse met them, and have had several consultations how to proceed against the common enemy, " the Marquis of Newcastle, who hath drawn all his " force, both horse and foot, to York, where the bridge " near Ouse gives him advantage at his pleasure to " bring his whole army over the river either into the " West Riding, where our armies are now quartered, " or into the North and East Ridings, when opportunity " presents itself, which we cannot suddenly prevent " without apparent hazard of some part of our forces. " So, for the present, my lord of Leven, with his army " and part of my horse, are drawing to quarter nearer " York upon the West side, until a way be contrived to " put part of the army by a bridge or float over the " river to straiten the enemy on the East side also, and " so force them to fight upon some disadvantage, unless " the pursuit of the design be diverted by some force " to be brought down upon us out of the south, for I " have had sundry intelligences that Prince Rupert is " already upon his march towards Newark, intending " northwards, with an army of 4,000 horse and all the " foot can be spared out of those parts. And therefore " I desire your lordships will be pleased to send speedy " order to the Earl of Manchester's army or some " other forces that are now in readiness, that they may " neglect all other reasons, and only wait upon the " motions of Prince Rupert, and if he march towards " us, that they follow close in his rear, that so the service may receive no disrepute by the access of those " forces to Newcastle's, nor our men discouraged by " being shut up betwixt two enemies. In the meantime I shall neglect no opportunity to advance the " service wherein we all stand engaged. By some intercepted letters from Sir Philip Musgrave to the Marquis of Newcastle and others, I find that the Earl of " Montrose, being assisted by 1,000 horse and foot " raised in Cumberland and led by Sir P. Musgrave, " did about the 14th of this instant month, take Dumfries and is in hope to prevail further in Scotland " which I doubt not but your Lordships will take into " consideration and so provide that those troubles may " not occasion the retreat of the Scottish army from " hence until the public safety and peace of these parts " be settled in some better condition, which I beseech " the God of peace speedily to grant."—Selby.

535. April 27.—The Committee of Both Kingdoms [by Wharton and Maitland] to the Earl of Manchester, desiring him "to keep a vigilant eye upon the motions " of the enemy." An enclosure of a copy of a letter from Lord Fairfax is mentioned.—Derby House.

[1644.]

536. May 7.—H. Sidney to [the Countess of Manchester?], assuring her that the Earl of Manchester's health had not suffered in the campaign, and giving reasons for the hope that York would soon fall, and some details of the operations of the siege, and suggesting that Col. King should be desired to go to the Earl, as it might be for the advantage of both.—Quarters near York.

1644.

537. May 23.—"Articles of agreement concluded upon " between Major-General Lawrance Craufurd, Colonel " Francis Russel, and Sir John Vgan [Vaughan?] for " and on the behalf of the Right Hon. Edward, Earl of " Manchester, of the one part, and Lieut.-Col. Geo. Cartwright for and by the appointment of Sir Richard " Byron, Governor of Newark, on the other part." Three articles, signed by the Earl of Manchester, relating to the exchange of prisoners.

538. July 25.—The Committee of Both Kingdoms (by Wharton and Maitland) to "My Lords," desiring them to "appoint such a strength" as might be able to fight against Prince Rupert in Lancashire. He had 8,000 or 9,000 horse and dragoons there, and the Earl of Derby was very powerful and active in that country, with command of Liverpool for reinforcements from Ireland.—Derby House.

539. July 30.—The Committee of both Kingdoms (by Wharton and Maitland) to the Committee of the County of Suffolk urging them to make their forces "ready to " march," and to "have a care of the recruits of my

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"Lord Manchester's army." The previous delay had caused inconvenience and unnecessary expense to other counties.—Derby House.

540. Aug. 31.—Hamon L'Estrange to the Earl of Manchester, asking the latter to assist him in obtaining reparation for the losses he had sustained "for the brand and character of malignancy," especially after the siege of Lynn. He had "referred himself unto a strict soliloquy . . . and reconciled his opinion to the sense of the Parliament."

[Summer 1644?]

541. Lady Essex Cheeke to her daughter, the Countess of Manchester. Sent with present of peaches, nectarines, and grapes. It appears by a postscript that the Cavaliers had carried off the Earl of Manchester's horses, and made an inroad as far as Cambridge. (Extract printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 379.)

1644.

542. Sept. 5.—Wm. Botterell to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of arms and ammunition sent to Cambridge.—Lynn.

[1644.]

543. Sept. 9.—J. Crewe to the Earl of Manchester. "I have conferred with Mr. Baall concerning those things mentioned in your Lordship's letter. My humble advice is that you persuade both parties to defer the examination of complaints to a seasonable time, and to unite their endeavours for the common safety. This ill news out of the West, which is very sad in many respects will yet be of some advantage, being a strong argument for laying aside for the present all differences amongst ourselves, how just soever. I beseech your Lordship (although I need not do it) to give all respect to L.-G. Cromwell, and however you have not looked hitherto into the paying of money, and therefore cannot be blamed if it have been partially disposed, that you will be pleased to give special directions that your horse have their share in the next money that comes to your army. Your Lordship hath often prevailed against the armies of your enemies, and I doubt not but you will have the happiness to prevail with your own army in that which is for the public good."—London.

1644.

544. Sept. 12.—Letter with three signatures (including that of Edward Farmar, the sheriff) to Gregory Gawsell, Esq., asking for instructions with respect to the disposal of 100 dragoon horses which had been sent for Lieut.-Col. Lilburne's recruits, and on which musketeers had not been mounted as promised by Lieut.-Gen. Cromwell.—Northampton.

[1644.]

545. Sept. 13.—10 a.m.—Henry Ireton to the Earl of Manchester (at Chelsea). "Since my last despatch to your Lordship I have considered that, your Lordship intending some present money to the horse before they go, it will require at least to-morrow's stay about St. Alban's to receive the money, for, after the arrival of your Lordship's letter, it was not possible to get the officers hither to receive the money, nor could the Treasurer have stayed here to deliver it, so that they cannot come to despatch that business before this night at St. Alban's, or to-morrow morning. I conceive also, that the horse designed to march before (having no dragoons with them, nor being so strong a party as to afford a watch sufficient to fight the enemy's horse that lie about Wallingford or Oxford, whence they may assail our quarters, for I hear there are so many as sufficed to raise the siege at Basing), will be forced for two nights, before they come to Abingdon, to be in the field, or as bad (all together about some towns), and what security or quiet they will have the third night or after I know not (lying betwixt two enemy garrisons so near); and in their march through so woody and enclosed a country (for want of dragoons), if the enemy should man any pass against us with musketeers and some horse it would put us to some difficulties or a circuit about. I thought good to acquaint your Lordship with these my thoughts, but shall (if I hear not further to the contrary by to-morrow morning) proceed to draw these three regiments that way: Col. Vermuden's to Amersham, and the Lieutenant-General's and Col. Fleetwood's towards Beconsfield, "where your Lordships's further pleasure may be known." [In a postscript.] "Having at several rendezvous taken special notice of the condition of the horse, I find, my Lord, that it is very miserable, and such as (though I have perceived very few the more backward to the service they are called upon as yet) it does really indispose and disable them for the service without some supply of money. Of divers troops the officers soberly and calmly profess that, having lent all their own and borrowed all they could find in their troops to supply them that have wanted for mere necessities (as shoeing horses, &c.), they had at present many horses marching back for want of money to shoe them."—Hitchin.

1644.

[546. Sept. 14.—Letter (signed "Gabriel Homes" and "Geo. Montgomery") to the Earl of Manchester, touching the difficulty of finding provisions and pay for the regiments, the inhabitants being unwilling or unable to "accommodate the soldiers with victuals" upon trust.—St. Alban's.

547. Sept. 15. Lady Lindsey to her kinsman the Earl of Manchester, requesting him to write to "the Governor" to release her son Peregrine (who was ill) upon bail.

548. Sept. 17. Gregory Gawsell to the Earl of Manchester on the difficulties of procuring money for the army commanded by the Earl, and suggesting that he should make a representation on the subject to Parliament.—St. Alban's.

549. Oct. 25. Letter with the King's sign manual at the top, and signed at foot "by His Majesty's command, "E. Walker," to Lord Coleraine, to explain that his Lordship's house at Longford had been made a garrison, not because his Lordship was under any suspicion, but because the public interest demanded it. The King had seen Lord Coleraine's letter to the Earl of Lindsey, in which he expressed a fear that he had fallen under his Majesty's displeasure, and assured him that he was still held "in favour and good esteem."—Newbury.

[1644.]

550. Oct. 2.—William Pardon and five others to the Earl of Manchester, congratulating him upon the result of the battle of Newbury, and thanking him for a "warrant for dispose of money." The Association [of the Eastern Counties] should bear the burthen of "this business of Crowland" as well as the particular county which the writers represented. They trusted the Earl would "improve his interest that the Parliament might hasten him into the Association," that they might be secured from the enemy and "these extraordinary and vast charges."

1644.

551. Nov. 27.—Brief report touching the movements of the King's troops about Wantage and Farringdon.

552. Dec. 9.—Letter from eleven gentlemen of the Associated Eastern Counties to the Earl of Manchester, the Major-General of the army of the Association, requesting him to restore Mr. Williams and Mr. Locke to their charges, as they were considered good and orthodox ministers by all but certain Independents. It was to be regretted that the Committee authorised by his Lordship had countenanced the prosecution and ejection of them.—Norwich.

553. Dec. 12.—Gregory Gawsell to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that he had received 4,000*l.* from Cambridge for the pay of the army, of which 700*l.* had been "ordered by the committee for Col. Ayloff's regiment," and asking the Earl to sign a warrant for the delivery of the money to Capt. Titus. He wished to have the signature of the commissary also, as he had heard that he was "much designed at."—Reading.

554. Dec. 12.—Warrant (signed B. Gurdon and H. Walcot) to "Gregory Gawsell, Esq., Treasurer," to pay 700*l.* to the use of Col. Ayloff's regiment, and 300*l.* to the use of Col. Pickering's, on account.

555. Dec. 30.—Petition (with six signatures, including that of Edward Farmar, Sheriff) to the Earl of Manchester, to promote Captain Redman to be Major of the regiment of horse in garrison, vice Major Lytcott promoted to be Colonel.—Northampton.

[End of 1644.]

556. Brief notes of proceedings and evidence upon the charges of military mismanagement, and "backwardness" made against the Earl of Manchester. The names of the speakers or witnesses are mostly indicated by two initials, e.g., Ireton by Ir., Cromwell by Cr., Sir William Waller by Sir W. W., &c. (5 pages. Printed, but with "Jn" substituted in some places for "Ir," (i.e., Jones for Ireton) in "The Quarrel between the Earl of Manchester and Oliver Cromwell," Camd. Society, 1875, p. 97.)

H 3

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

557. Draft reply [of the Earl of Manchester] to the charges of military mismanagement. (12 pages. Defective at beginning.)

[Beginning Feb. 1643-4, drawn up at the end of 1644.]

558. "A brief recollection of passages in my Lord of Manchester's army," containing sundry reflections upon the character and conduct of Cromwell, &c. Endorsed "from Major-General," and attributed by Mr. Carlyle to Major-General Crawford. The narrative, however, is in the first person, and Crawford's name occurs in it in the third person. (11 pages. Mentioned by Mr. Carlyle in "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches," i. 149, and printed at length in "The Quarrel between the Earl of Manchester and Oliver Cromwell," Cam. Soc., 1875, p. 55.)

559. Transcript of the same, with notes in Mr. Carlyle's handwriting. See also "Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches," (1857), i. 149.

[1642-1644.]

560. A similar document, containing reflections upon the character and conduct of Cromwell, from the time he was captain of a troop of horse under the Earl of Essex until about the end of the year 1644. (4 pages). It was written by an officer of cavalry, and refers chiefly to the Isle of Ely and neighbourhood. Endorsed, "Delivered by Co——." (pp. 4. Printed at length in "The Quarrel between the Earl of Manchester and Oliver Cromwell," Cam. Soc., p. 71).

Jan. 1, 1643-4, to Jan. 1, 1644-5.

561. "An account of monies received by us, William Leman and Gregory Gawsell, treasurers, appointed and chosen by the Right Hon. Edward, Earl of Manchester, Major-General of the Association, and the Committee for the Association sitting at Cambridge from the first day of January 1643 until the first of January 1644." (3 pages.)

1644-5.

562. Jan. 12.—[Major-General] Craufurd to [the Earl of Manchester], giving some particulars of military plans, &c., of dissensions with the Committee at Cambridge, and especially with Hammond, and beseeching that a course might be "taken for paying of the army," in its new quarters.—Cambridge.

563. Jan. 17.—W. Paterson to the Earl of Manchester, denying the charge that he was a "debased or immoderate liver," or "did ever delight in swearing or drinking, or in any disorder."—Bedford.

564. Jan. 23.—Certificate that Mr. John Goodday, of Christ's College, had been examined by the Assembly, and was "thought fit to be Fellow in such a College as he should by his honour [the Earl of Manchester] be designed to."—Cambridge.

565. Jan. 30.—"The Result of a Conference at the meeting of Deputy Lieutenants and Committees selected and deputed from the Committees of the several Associated Counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Essex, Hertford, Cambridge, Huntingdon, and Lincolnshire," touching the relation of the army of the Associated Counties to Parliament, and the danger that the inhabitants and the Association would suffer if the proposed "New Model" for the army were adopted. This is followed by the letter (agreed upon at the meeting) to the "Committee of Both Kingdoms," and the instructions given to the gentlemen deputed to present it. (9 pages.)

566. Feb. 8.—The inhabitants of the county of Rutland (by six representatives) to the Earl of Manchester, requesting him to protect them against the "inroads of the enemy's forces from Newark," &c., and against the exactions of forces under his Lordship's command. It is suggested that the force under Capt. Poe at Stamford should "join with Colonel Rosceter to straiten the enemy's quarters near Belvoir."

567. Feb. 11.—W. Hamilton to the Earl of Manchester, complaining that he had maintained the garrison of Strabane three years at his own charge, and received "not one sixpence for himself nor his soldiers" either in money, clothes, provisions, or ammunition. He was unable to attend the "Committee of both Kingdoms" through sickness, and begged for the Earl's influence on his behalf.

568. Feb. 16.—Letter (of which the signature is wanting) to Major Watson, "Scoutmaster-General to the Earl of Manchester," giving a few military details and mentioning enclosure of "intelligence from the enemy's quarters."—Alsford.

569. March 3.—Letter bearing 13 signatures (endorsed in a modern hand, with doubtful accuracy, "Corporation of Norwich,") to the Earl of Manchester, requesting him to assist the gentlemen entrusted with their "late letter and instructions from Bury St. Edmunds." It refers apparently to No. 565, q. v.—Norwich.

570. March 15.—Letter (bearing six signatures) to the Earl of Manchester, recommending Capt. William Poe "for encouragement by some considerable part of his pay now in arrear," on account of "his valorous carriage in the late fight near Melton Mowbray."—Bury St. Edmunds.

571. March 19.—Major-General Craufurd to the Committee of the Associated Counties, touching the supply of horses for dragoons. He was going "to Bedford to receive my Lord General's Horse, and some troops of the Earl of Manchester's," and intended to march thence towards Cheshire.—Huntingdon.

572. March 20.—Letter signed by Nath. Bacon, Thomas Bendyshe, and four others (probably members of the Committee of the Associated Counties at Cambridge) and directed to the Earl of Manchester, to certify that they had "no means" to provide horses, &c. for dragoons, as desired by Major-[General] Crawford, when he "found it convenient to recruit some companies of dragoons with horses out of other troops" under Lieut.-Col. Lilburne.—Trinity College, Cambridge.

573. March 28.—The Earl of Essex to [the Earl of Manchester?], mentioning enclosure of packet from Major-General Craufurd, who had been delayed by the slow march of his horse. Had half the care now shown been taken for Essex's relief in the west "the war, in all probability, had been ended."—Pergo.

[1645?]

574. Declaration of "the Committee for the Association at Cambridge," showing the reasons why "the provision of the weekly assessment was not sufficient to discharge the charges of their proportion of the war." Signed by Sir H. Mildmay, Nathaniel Bacon, Gregory Gawsell, and 6 others.

1645.

575. April 21.—Inventory of all the goods at Kimbolton Castle. (pp. 3.)

576. July 1.—Lord Leven to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the army would, on the following day, march towards Worcester.—Nottingham.

577. Aug. 4.—Copy of Order of the Commons, directing "the Committee of the Association sitting at Cambridge" to continue the University of Cambridge in possession of its ancient privileges ("until the right should be determined"), with list of Committee of Commons appointed to consider and report upon disputes between the University and the town of Cambridge, and upon what ground the Mayor of Cambridge had refused to take the usual oath. (Printed, Journals of the Commons, iv., 229). This is followed by a copy of a similar Order of the Lords, dated Aug. 5, 1645. (Printed, Journals of the Lords, vii., 525.)

[1645?]

578.—Copy of Order of the House of Lords, reciting that the "Committee of the Association sitting at Cambridge" had been dissolved, and requiring the Mayor of Cambridge to respect the liberties and privileges of the University.

1645.

579. Aug. 12.—Samuel Slater to some person addressed as "Worthy Sir," requesting the latter to use his interest with the Earl of Manchester in respect of an allowance of 18*l.* per annum, of which the applicant had, as a brother of St. Catherine's Hospital, been deprived.

1645-6.

580. Jan. 29.—Copy of the King's message directed to the Speaker pro tempore of the House of Peers, to be communicated to the two Houses of Parliament at Westminster, and the Commissioners of the Parliament of Scotland. It contains a disavowal of the proceedings of the Earl of Glamorgan in Ireland, so far as they

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
TRE.

affected religion, and propositions for the King's return to London and the conclusion of peace. (Printed in Rushworth's Collections, pt. 4, vol. i., p. 222.)—Oxford.

581. March 21.—George Payne to the Earl of Manchester, complaining that the pay of his regiment was 60 weeks in arrear, and the garrison discontented in consequence of the neglect of Parliament.—Abingdon.

1646.

582. March 28 and 31.—Copy of summons of the Committee of both Kingdoms to the garrison of Newark to surrender, on the ground that there were 16,000 Parliamentary troops before the place, and that further defence would cause useless bloodshed. The answer of John Bellasis, the Governor, is on the same sheet of paper, and is a request for a free pass for a messenger to the King, without whose consent the place could not be given up. (Imperfect. Printed in Rushworth's Collections, pt. 4, vol. i., p. 250.)—Bolderston and Newark.

583. April 18.—Copy of a letter from Christina, Queen of Sweden, to the Elector Palatine, promising to advocate his cause with all her influence. (In Latin.)—Stockholm.

584. April 23.—The "Committee for His Majesty's Revenue" to the Earl of Manchester, requesting payment of arrears of rent due to the Crown. Six signatures, including those of the Earl of Pembroke, the Earl of Salisbury, and Sir Henry Vane.—Westminster.

585. May 19.—"Heads of a conference to be desired" with the Lords, touching words spoken by Sir John Evelyn at a former conference" in relation to the manner of disposing of the King's person. (Printed, Journals of the Commons, iv., 550.)

586. Aug. 5.—Thomas Hill to the Earl of Manchester, thanking him for "a warrant," expressing a hope that the Parliament would consider Cambridge rather than leave her to help herself, &c.—Trinity College [Cambridge].

587. Sept. 16.—Certificate (of which the signatures are obliterated by damp) directed to the Speaker of the House of Lords [the Earl of Manchester], to the effect that the Committee for plundered Ministers had ordered the rent of 40*l.* per annum ("reserved out of the tithes" of Chesterfield and Wingerworth, to the Dean of Lincoln "coln improprieate thereof") to be paid for the increase of the maintenance of the minister of Brampton (Peter Watkinson), but that a difficulty had arisen through an Order of the Lords that Sir Edward Leeche, "farmer" of the aforesaid Rectory, should receive his rents, "tithes, and profits of the Rectory of Chesterfield."—Bakewell.

588. Sept. 22.—List of Committee of the Lords appointed to meet "a proportionable number of the House of Commons," to confer with the Commissioners of Scotland touching the disposal of the King's person. (Imperfect. Printed, Lords' Journals, vii., 499.)

1646-7.

589. Jan. 29.—Copy of order of the "Committee of Lords and Commons for advance of money and other necessities for the Army," for the sale, by Edward Maria Wingfield, of Keston, in the county of Huntingdon, of so much of his estate as should produce 800*l.*, due upon a bond to Wolley Lee, of Thorpe, in the county of Surrey, esquire, a Delinquent, since deceased.

589 (a). [End of reign of Charles I. ?]—Statement for the consideration of Parliament respecting the Spaniards who had landed at Wyrewater, in Lancashire, from a frigate of the fleet of Dunkirk which had sailed from the Groyne, and been cast upon a bank through the miscalculation of a pilot, as alleged. The ship had been burnt by the Earl of Derby, and the officers taken by him to his own house at Latham, but the crew had been "dispersed into several parts" by the townsmen of Wyrewater. The Spanish Ambassador, who disclaimed any intention on the part of his Government of interfering in the internal dissensions of England, requested that the men might be sent to London, and thence to Flanders.

Of doubtful date.

590. [Charles I. ?]—[Lady] Frances Leek to the Countess of Manchester, requesting the latter to "speak to Mr. Gesel" about some business on which Lady Frances and her brother had written to him.

591. April 20.—(?) to the Earl of Manchester, asking the latter to "pity us and call us home" on account of the dulness and solitary life being led where the writer was.

The letter is endorsed in a modern hand (that which describes Lady Essex Cheeke as Lord Essex) "Lord Stamford" to the Earl of Manchester." It is directed to "the Earl of Manchester, my much-honoured Lord," who is addressed as "My dear Lord and companion." It seems to be feminine in style. The signature might be read "Stanford" or in other ways.—Brunston.

592. [Charles I. ?]—George Mountagu to the Earl of Manchester, expressing dissatisfaction with the terms of settlement offered on the part of his niece's intended husband (the son apparently of Dr. Wiseman), mentioning the illness of his "sister Chandos," and asking for the loan of a milch ass for Lady Irby. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 78.)

593. [Charles I. ?]—Copy of verses "To the honourable Lady, the Lady Carew."

594. [Charles I. ?]—Petition of Lewis Phillips, late Under-sheriff of the County of Huntingdon, and Henry Burnby, bailiff of the Hundred of Toseland, for the interest of the Earl of Manchester, to obtain their release from the Fleet Prison.—Fleet Prison.

595. [Charles I. ?]—John Sm . . . to [the Earl of Manchester] on a family affliction. (Imperfect.)

596. [Charles I. ?]—Edward Wray to one addressed "Most Noble Lord," who was connected by marriage with the Earl of Northumberland, touching a second marriage in contemplation for Wray's daughter with some relation of the Earl's.

597. [Charles I. or later ?]—"Meditation on a Good Friday, riding from London into the West Country." (In verse.)

598. [Charles I. ?]—Remarks upon the Sacraments. (Latin.)

599. [Charles I. ?]—Notes "De Vectigalibus," (attributed to Mariana, a Spanish Jesuit), touching the duties of a king in relation to the public revenues, with remarks on the distinction between a king and a tyrant, and between various forms of Government. (3 pages.)

600. [Charles I. ?]—Portion of a treatise or sermon against the Mass, asserting that "the Princes take counsel against the Lord," that it "were better one man die than the whole nation perish" (Joh. xi. 15), and that "if we let him alone the Romans will come and take away the kingdom" (4 pages remaining.)

601. [Charles I. ?]—Reflections on Confession and the observance of the Lord's Day, and verses of a religious character.

602. Beginning of draft of a letter (unsigned and undirected), followed by some religious reflections.

603. [Charles I.]—A treatise, in the form of a letter, on the difficulties standing in the way of the writer and his correspondent, "quominus in unum Ecclesiæ corpus brevi coalescamus." These obstacles he describes as having reference to the Eucharist and the doctrine of predestination. The name at the end is Tho. Dunelmensis, i.e., probably Thomas Morton, Bishop of Durham. He was probably addressing (as "vir eximie" and "Mi Duri") John Durie. The document is a copy made by a scribe not quite equal to the task (especially where a few Greek words are introduced in the midst of the Latin), and is corrected by another hand. (15 pages.)

604. [Charles I. ?]—An account of the Protestant churches of Germany, and their differences, together with "a request in the name of some foreign churches" to all godly divines of Great Britain and Ireland." (10 pages.)

605. [Charles I. ?]—Short rough note of quotations from theological writers. (Latin.)

606. Portion of a draft of a treatise on the nature of Faith as an act of the will. (4 pages.)

607. [Charles I. ?]—A treatise on the goodness of the work of religious pacification, addressed to some "right worthy gentlemen," and signed "J. D." [John Durie ?] (19 pages.)

608. [Charles I. ?]—Notes on texts of Scripture. (Nine small pages.)

609. [Charles I. ?]—Note of an agreement between the Conservators of the Isle of Ely and the Corporation of Lynn for a Bill to be introduced into Parliament for improving the navigation of the River Ouse, &c.

COMMONWEALTH.

1649.

610. Dec. 26.—Thomas Hill to the Earl of Manchester, describing the reluctance of the better part of the members of the University of Cambridge to sign the Engagement.* At Trinity Hall, however, nearly every one had

* Of fidelity to the Commonwealth, without King.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
TER.

subscribed, as well as almost all the fellows of Caius, besides some at King's and St. John's, and a few at the lesser colleges. At Oxford "they assembled a Convocation, sent a modest petition declining the thing in terminis, only professing to live peaceably," &c.

[1650?]

611. "E. [the Countess of F] Northumberland" to the Countess of Manchester, requesting her to come and speak with "my lord."

612. Aug. 4.—Same to the Earl of Manchester, expressing friendship, though friendship was now "almost worn out in our world."

1650.

613. July 17.—Order of a committee holden for the affairs of Sutton Hospital (consisting of Wm. Lenthall, "Speaker of the Parliament," Edward Lord Howard, Philip Lord Lisle, Sir Wm. Armyne, Sir Henry Vane, and George Garrard, Esq., Master of the said Hospital), appointing Oliver Cromwell, a Governor of the Hospital, in the place of the Earl of Manchester removed. The Earl had written that he was "not any ways concerned" by an Order of the Parliament that "such of the Governors as had subscribed the Engagement, or the major part of them, should proceed in the business of the Hospital." At the end is "a note of the Governors' names and their successors."

1651.

614. Jan. 31 (n. s.).—M. Hainhofer to the Earl of Manchester, asking for money, and describing the progress made by the Earl's son in his studies. (In French, of which a translation is printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 375.)—Lyons.

1650-1.

615. Feb. 13.—The Earl of Warwick to his son-in-law the Earl of Manchester, on money matters. In a postscript, "Your milk-pans are made and ready," &c. (Wrongly endorsed 1630.)—Warwick House.

1651.

616. June 24.—Robert Bernard to the Earl of Manchester on legal business. He adds, "This case in closed was delivered me by Mr. Scowan. The City have been busy to take a course against your Lordship."

617. Nov. 4.—Copy of Order of Parliament to the "Committee for regulating of the Universities" to examine "the matter of fact why a new Chancellor of the University of Cambridge has not been elected, if the present Chancellor [the Earl of Manchester] be continued contrary to the Act, and that they proceed according to the Act."

618. Nov. 13.—James Chaloner to the Earl of Manchester (Chancellor of the University of Cambridge), requiring him "clearly to express to this Committee whether his Lordship has taken the Engagement, upon notice whereof this Committee is to proceed according to direction of Parliament."—Westminster.

[1651.]

619. [Nov.]—Unsigned and unaddressed draft [of the Earl of Manchester's reply to Mr. Chaloner]: "Sir, I have received your letter, and according to your desire give you this clear expression that I have not taken the Engagement, and return you my acknowledgements for the civil way which you have taken in making this enquiry, by which you oblige me to own myself your friend to serve you."

[1651?]

620. S. Bolton to Edward Earl of Manchester, Chancellor of the University of Cambridge, to the effect that he had unpleasant news for the Earl, which would be communicated by the bearer.

1651.

621. Nov. 17.—S. Bolton to the Earl of Manchester, forwarding some communication respecting the University of Cambridge, of which the Earl was Chancellor.

1651-2.

622. Jan. 21.—Nathaniel Fiennes to the Earl of Manchester, touching the means of bringing "the improvident business of Providence" [the Providence Island Company?] to a happy issue, and suggesting interviews at the Earl of Warwick's, to consider that matter and the affair of "Newman's ship." Both Lord Brooke and Mr. Pim were better disposed than ever before.—London.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
TER.

[1653?]

623. The Earl of Warwick to his son-in-law the Earl of Manchester, touching "the business of Mrs. Massingberd." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne.")

1653.

624. Nov. 19.—The Earl of Warwick to "Frank," reproving the latter for undutiful behaviour to parents. (Endorsed in a modern hand, "Lord Warwick to his grandson Frank," but said in "Court and Society" &c., to addressed to Lady Frances Montagu.)

1654.

625. April 17.—Petition of James Mountagu, "third brother to Edward Earl of Manchester, to the supreme authority the Parliament of the Commonwealth of England," praying relief from vexatious suits to which he was, as he alleged, subjected by the Earl in respect of "a deed poll of 100*l.* per annum," and of the manor of Culworth, bequeathed to the petitioner by his father, Henry Earl of Manchester. Reference is made to "that most destructive Statute to your petitioner, anno 32 H. 8., concerning wills." It is certified at foot by Lisle Long to be "His Highness' pleasure that the Earl should be made acquainted with the petition, and desired to return what answer thereunto he judged meet within some convenient time."

626. July 4.—Sir Christopher Yelverton to [the Earl of Manchester], on the subject of a proposed marriage between the Earl's son and Sir Christopher's daughter. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 382.)—Easton Mauduitt.

627. July 10.—Sir Christopher Yelverton to [the Earl of Manchester], on the insufficiency of the settlement proposed by the Earl upon a contemplated marriage of his son with a daughter of Sir Christopher. The latter thought the amount should be not less than 1,500*l.* a year; the former had offered only 1,000*l.* On the other hand, the portion expected by the Earl could be had only "out of the nobility or the city, for from amongst the gentry it is hardly to be expected." (Four closely written pages.)—Easton Mauduitt.

628. Oct. 11.—Sir Christopher Yelverton to [the Earl of Manchester], on the same subject.—Easton Mauduitt.

629. Oct. 13.—Sir Christopher Yelverton to [the Earl of Manchester], on the same subject.—Easton Mauduitt.

630. Oct. 19.—Sir Christopher Yelverton to [the Earl of Manchester], on the same subject. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. p. 388.)—Easton Mauduitt.

[1654.]

631. Oct. 19.—S. X. [Lady Essex Cheeke] to the Earl of Manchester, pressing him not to break off the contemplated marriage [of Lord Mandeville] by raising unnecessary objections to the terms of settlement. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 387.)—Warwick House.

1655.

632. Aug. 2.—The Earl of Northumberland to the Earl of Manchester, expressing the hope of seeing the latter and the Countess of Manchester in the winter. He would then "neither envy those that delight themselves with our new Court, or that busy their thoughts to no purpose with state affairs."

[Year wanting. Commonwealth.]

633. July 18.—The Earl of Manchester to his brother George Mountagu, asking the latter to visit "Lord Whytlock" to request a hearing for him on the subject of a Certificate "made by the Committee at Worcester House." The Earl, it appears, was in some danger through his kindness to another brother, to whom George was requested to forward a letter and a copy of the Certificate.—Kimbolton.

1659-60.

634. Jan. 29.—Certificate of George Monk that Charles Zinzan had faithfully discharged his duties as Deputy Treasurer at War for Scotland, with recommendation for future employment in the same capacity.

635. March 5.—The Earl of Northumberland to [the Earl of Manchester], on the prospects of restoring the

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Peers to their position in Parliament. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 395.)

636. Mar. 19.—Lord Say and Sele to the Earl of Manchester, explaining that he did not go up to London because he thought he might be of more service in his own neighbourhood during the election of the new Parliament. He intended, however, to wait upon the Earl and the rest of the Lords some 10 or 12 days before the meeting of Parliament (which was expected to be on April 25th) to consult upon the means to be taken for the re-assertion of their rights, and the good of the nation. He calls attention to some technical difficulties in the summoning of a new Parliament, which would "much pussell men how to act."

1660.

637. April 2.—Lord Broghill to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his satisfaction that the House of Lords had sat again, and explaining why he had not hastened to England as requested by General Monk. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 396.)—Dublin.

638. April 4.—Certificate of the Commissioners of the Militia for the county of Huntingdon (including Valentine Walton and J. Cromwell) to the Commissioners of Militia for the county of Middlesex, touching the assessment of the Earl of Manchester for horses and arms.

639. April 21.—Copy of Order of the Council of State for restoring the Earl of Manchester to the office of Custos Rotulorum of the county of Huntingdon.—Whitehall.

640. April 29.—The Earl of Leicester to the Earl of Manchester (Speaker of the House of Lords), promising to attend at the House of Lords when his health permitted.—Penshurst.

641. May 6.—Copy of Order of the Lords in Parliament for the restoration of the Earl of Manchester to the office of Custos Rotulorum of the counties of Northampton and Huntingdon, from which he had been "displaced in the time of Oliver Cromwell."

642. May 15.—Francis Russell to the Earl of Manchester. "These unlucky times and divisions, my Lord, hath not parted me from owning your Lordship as a person worthy of all love and respect, so that if I had never told you thus much yet I must have always thought so. I shall be glad, my Lord, if in these dark times, your worth and sobriety may shine, for indeed we need some such kind of light, everybody almost being ready to run out of the way which leads to true sobriety and moderation. How these things come to pass all sober men may judge a little, but God, who wisely disposes of all things, thinks it good at present that it should be so. This dark night seems to me, my Lord, as if it would be long and very stormy, and nothing can, in my opinion, bring us a daybreak, unless God makes the King more than an ordinary blessing unto us. When I do consider that he hath been a Prince under the cross and great trials, I cannot but hope he hath learned a wise good lesson thereby, and therefore knows how to pity some of his poor subjects, who are likely to taste of that cup which hath passed by himself and he so largely drank of. As I am out of the way of public business, so my mind hath got some advantage by it, having no desire to look back towards any things that I have left behind me, and this I do account as a great mercy." In a postscript, "My Lord, if, when it comes in your way, you would be pleased to remember my Lord Henry's condition, all his friends, besides himself, his poor wife and children, will have reason to own it with thankfulness."—Chippenham.

643. May 18.—George Monk to the Earl of Manchester, Speaker of the House of Peers, representing the claims of Mr. Falkener and Major Nicholls to the offices of Storekeeper and Clerk of the Ordnance, and requesting that Mr. March and Mr. Sherburne, who had been "appointed to be restored" to those offices by the Lords, might be suspended until His Majesty's pleasure was known.—St. James's.

REIGN OF CHARLES II.

644. Abstract of English history from the Norman Conquest to the restoration of Charles II. (pp. 74.)

645. A document endorsed "Ordnance for Militia" probably addressed to the Lord Lieutenant of some county. The writing is almost all destroyed—apparently by water. (Parchment.)

I 120.

[1660?]

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

646. Petition of John Colladon to King Charles the Second to "be admitted to continue one of His Majesty's Physicians in Ordinary as from the time he was sworn in 1640."

647. Petition of Abraham Dowcett to the King [Charles II.] for confirmation of grant of the "Paddock Walk by Windsor" made to him for three lives by Charles I. for important services rendered.

648. Richard Colbrand to the Lord Chamberlain [the Earl of Manchester] urging his claim to a senior fellowship at Caius. He had been ejected from a junior fellowship during the "troubles." His claim was denied by the fellows who had been confirmed in their fellowships by the King.

649. Elizabeth Queen of Bohemia, to the Earl of Manchester, asking him to remind the King of a promise to "get the Parliament to pay" her debts. The two seals remain in a very perfect condition. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 399).—The Hague.

[16]60.

650. June 7.—Elizabeth, Countess of Exeter, to the Earl of Manchester, requesting him as Lord Chamberlain to find some post for Mr. Dayrell. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 401.)

1660.

651. June 13.—C. Zinzan to the Earl of Manchester, requesting to have a place bestowed on him, and mentioning enclosure of certificate (probably No. 634) from Lieutenant-General [Monk] of good service as Deputy Treasurer of War for Scotland. (Printed in part in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 397.)

652. June 26.—Unsigned warrant to Henry Bulstrode, one of the Sergeants-at-Arms, to seize and secure to His Majesty's use a large mace that lately belonged to the Council of State.

[16]60.

653. July 17.—Francis Walsall to the Earl of Manchester, Lord Chamberlain of His Majesty's Household, asking for the Earl's "best assistance with most convenient speed," and representing the "bleeding condition" of his "poor flock" during his absence. (See "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i. 402.)—London.

1660.

654. Sept. 3.—Warrant under the sign manual of Charles II. to prepare a Bill for a grant of the donative of Taring, in the county of Sussex, to Anthony Tuckney, D.D.

655. Sept. 27.—Letter from some person, whose signature is torn and partly obliterated, to the Earl of Manchester, as Lord High Chamberlain, asking that William Dynes might have the post of one of the messengers in ordinary.

656. Oct. 16.—Anthony Tuckney to [address wanting] touching the claims of "Sir Weatherly" and Mr. Ambrose to a fellowship, with a request that the matter might be brought to the notice of the Earl of Manchester. Weatherly had been recommended by the King for the first vacancy, but was considered a disorderly person in the University. Ambrose, too, was "very rude in his carriage," and demanded his fellowship as a right. Many of those who had obtained fellowships during the Commonwealth and since been ejected were now destitute. Freedom of election to fellowships was much to be desired. (1 p. with a short note attached. Endorsed "Send by Will. Waterson, at the Bull in Bishopsgate Street, on Thursday.")—Cambridge.

657. Oct. 23.—W[alter] Montagu to the Earl of Manchester. "The Cardinal's gentleman is returned fully satisfied with your civilities, and very shortly I hope in God to partake of them myself, being obliged by my place in the Queen's family to attend her. Though my stay will be very little, yet I confess my great satisfaction in seeing once again my friends, and especially you whom I love with all the tenderness of nature and duty of consideration of all your goodness and kindness to me, and since it is incumbent to my duty to the Queen I presume my appearance in my own profession cannot be offensive. I presume by your desire of it that it will not be unseasonable, so that my contentment in this oppor-

I

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"tunity of seeing you is very great, which I hope "shortly to express you myself; and truly you may "be assured that the Queen hath a most right under"standing of your merit to her, and a great desire you
"(sic) make you all the return in her power, whereof
"my Lord of S Alban's and I will be caution." (See "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 18.)

658. Nov. 5.—Lord Berkeley to the Earl of Manchester, touching the burial of the Earl's aunt.—
"Durdence."

[1660?]

659. Undated. "Reasons humbly presented to the "serious consideration of the Lords and Commons "assembled in Parliament, showing that the islands of "Jersey and Guernsey ought (with all submission) to "be comprehended in the now intended Act of General
"Pardon and Oblivion, and other acts relating to the "late unhappy differences." They include some technical arguments concerning the relations of the English Parliament to the islands, and the inconveniences that would ensue if the islands were not comprehended in the indemnity as prayed. (pp. 2).

1660.

660. Dec. 2.—Lord Fairfax to the Earl of Manchester, apologising (on the ground of sickness) for not having waited on the Earl, whom he wished to thank in person for favours received.

[1660?]

661. Undated.—Petition of John Jackson, of the Inner Temple, Esquire, to the Earl of Manchester, as Lord High Steward of the city and liberty of Westminster (to which office was "incident and adherent" that of Custos Rotulorum), to restore him to the office of Clerk of the Peace there, from which he had been ousted by John Bradshaw.

[1661?]

662. [May 2, 13 Charles II?].—Charter to the soap-makers of London. (Parchment.) Two large skins.
Almost wholly illegible, the surface being nearly destroyed by damp. Repaired as far as possible in the Public Record Office. Compare the enrolment of a charter to the soap-makers of London, dated May 2, 13 Charles II., Pat. R. Pt. 10, No. 1. But see also Rushworth's Collections sub anno 1631.)

663. May 18.—P. Lisle [Lord Lisle?] to the Earl of Manchester, Speaker of the House of Lords, touching pictures and statues belonging to the late King which he had bought in open market, and which, he suggested, could not fall within the recent Order of the Lords relating to the late King's collections. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i.
403.)

1662.

664. July 17, 14 Charles II.—Instructions under the the King's sign manual for Edward, Earl of Manchester, and Edward, Earl of Sandwich, Lords Lieutenants of the county of Huntingdon. (Three large pages.)— Hampton Court.

[Year wanting. Charles II.]

665. List of names [to be in the Commission of the Peace] in the County of Huntingdon. Endorsed "Justices of the Peace, Huntingdon."

1670.

666. Instructions given to Lord Falconberg on proceeding as Ambassador Extraordinary to Venice. Also instructions given to Mr. Weston as Ambassador Extraordinary. (Copies. Three pages. There is a note in the handwriting of Charles, Earl, afterwards first Duke of Manchester:—"Lord Fielding Ambassador at Venice
"1636.")

[After 1671.]

667. Charles Montague to his father [Robert] Earl of Manchester, expressing pleasure at the news that the Earl was coming to see him at Twickenham. (In Latin.
Imperfect.)

1672.

668. Oct. 19.—Charles Montague [not the son] to the Earl of Manchester, asking to have certain money returned to him, to have his voyage to Gothenburgh stopped, and to have the Earl's interest exerted to get him "leave to cruise in the Channel," where he would be "every day in the way of getting somewhat."— London.

1679.

669. Aug. 13.—Treasury warrant for the payment of 500*l.* (a half-year's salary as one of the Gentlemen of the Bed-chamber) to the Earl of Manchester. The sum was to "be satisfied by levying one or more tallies upon
"Anthony Rowe, Esq., and his partners, contractors
"for the hearth money."—Treasury Chambers, Whitehall.

REIGN OF JAMES II.

1687.

670. Sept. 28.—"A true inventory of the goods of "Charles Earl of Manchester in and about the Castle of "Kimbolton belonging, taken by H. Willaston." (pp. 25.)

REIGNS OF WILLIAM AND MARY, AND WILLIAM III.

1689.

671. July 25.—Order of the King in Council respecting appointments to the Band of Gentlemen Pensioners, of which Lord Lovelace was captain.—Whitehall.

1689-90.

672. Feb. 13.—Instructions of the Council to the Earl of Manchester, as Lord Lieutenant of Huntingdonshire, to settle the Militia as the law directed, and report upon its condition to His Majesty and the Board.—Council Chamber, Whitehall.

673. March 6.—Instructions of the Council to the Earl of Manchester (Lord Lieutenant of Huntingdon-shire), "by His Majesty's express command," respecting the impressment of seamen. (Imperfect.)

1690.

674. July 2.—Instructions of the Council to the Earl of Manchester, as Lord Lieutenant of the County of Huntingdon, to raise half the Militia Horse within his Lieutenancy and keep them together for twelve days, to prepare for raising the other half, and to secure Papists and other persons suspected of an intention to aid an insurrection or invasion. These instructions are given "by Her Majesty's express command." Fourteen signatures, including that of the Marquis of Carmarthen, President of the Council.—Council Chamber, Whitehall.

675. July 17.—Instructions of the Council to the Earl of Manchester, as Lord Lieutenant of the County of Huntingdon, to seize all horses belonging to Papists and persons who were disaffected to the Government, or who should refuse to take the oaths, within his Lieutenancy.
These instructions are given "in Her Majesty's "name, and by her express command."—Council Chamber, Whitehall.

1690-1.

676. Jan. 17.—H. Willaston to "Mr. William Love
"at his house at Kimbolton," mentioning enclosure of two letters from the King and Council (both for the Earl of Manchester, but one for him in his capacity of Lord Lieutenant, the other in his capacity of Custos Rotulorum of the county of Huntingdon) and requesting Mr. Love to communicate the contents of the one to the Deputy Lieutenants and of the other to the Justices of the Peace, that they might "consider of the "most effectual ways and means to answer the contents "of them." He adds, "My Lord Preston's trial is to"day, but I believe we shall not hear to-night how "things go. He was one night this week with the "King in his closet an hour and half, and it's gen-
"rally believed he hath confessed very much, in hopes "of His Majesty's pardon. In case he is condemned,
"there is two more taken which came out of France,
"and it is said with raps about them that give great "light into wicked designs. The King went towards "Holland yesterday I desire when you "return any money for my Lady Lucy Bright, that "you will desire Mr. Manning to remember the
"the 12*l.* 10*s.* which I paid her Ladyship for the deduc-"tion for taxes which you had made and she said she "would allow altogether at Christmas. I have by my "Lord's order franked this letter for their Majesties'
"Service, so that you must not pay postage."
(Endorsed "For their Majesties' Service, by Kimbol-"ton bag." Franked by the Earl of Manchester.)— London.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

1691.

677. Dec. 9.—Certificate relating to the sums paid on account of an annuity of 1,000*l.* per annum granted by Letters Patent of Charles II. to Robert, Earl of Manchester, as one of the Gentlemen of His Majesty's Bed-chamber.

1692.

678. June 23.—Instructions of the Council to the Earl of Manchester, as Lord Lieutenant of the County of Huntingdon, to direct the deputy-lieutenants to restore such horses as had been seized (in accordance with previous instructions, to seize the horses of disaffected persons) to any owners ascertained to be true Protestants. "By Her Majesty's command."—Council Chamber, Whitehall.

1699.

679. May 30.—Passport for Charles, Earl of Manchester, upon his appointment as Ambassador Extraordinary at the Court of France. The sign manual of William III. is at the top, and the signature of the Earl of Jersey at the foot. (Latin. Parchment.)—Kensington.

Of doubtful date. Seventeenth Century.

680. Unsigned, undated, and undirected letter in Latin, beginning "Honoratissime Domine, Heri post meridiem acta fuit causa in senatu secretioris admissionis inter Hispanos et Belgas, sed foribus clausis, et nemine præter advocatos partium admissio." A ship had been taken two years previously by the Netherlands (a Belgis) not far from the Azores. It was laden with sugar and tobacco. There were thirty persons in it, but twenty-six were put out at St. Michael's, and seventeen Netherlands (Belgæ) sent on board. After the ship, which was from Lisbon, (Ulissipponensis) had been in the power of the Netherlands a month, it was driven out of its course by a storm and brought into Plymouth. The Spanish Ambassador in England obtained permission to arrest it; but the merchants of the Netherlands were indignant that their prize was wrested from them in a friendly country, and strove hard to have it restored. A judgment in their favour had been obtained in the English Court of Admiralty, against which the Spaniards had appealed "ad Regem." The writer had himself been received by the King "finito statum prandio, mirifica comitate, et onustus spe bona." He would write again, two days later, when he had further news from the Netherlands. (Endorsed "D. Dor. Epistola")

REIGN OF ANNE.

1705-6.

680 (a.) Feb 9.—Letter to the Right Hon. Charles, Earl of Manchester, with eight signatures, apparently of Justices of the Peace in Huntingdonshire, who report that they have issued their warrants to search for "straggling sea-men, watermen, lightermen, bargemen, and fishermen," and that very few are to be found. They add that they may find several healthy and able-bodied men who do not belong to the classes specified, but who "may be serviceable on board," and "crave directions how to dispose of them."

1708.

681. June 29.—Passport of the States General of the Netherlands for the baggage of the Earl of Manchester, British Ambassador at Venice. (In Dutch.)

VARIOUS DATES.

(Chiefly of the reigns of William III. and Anne.)

FIFTEEN VOLUMES OF "MANCHESTER CORRESPONDENCE," (Nos. 682-696).

682.—VOL. I. Marked "1697-8."*

1697-8.

(i.) Feb. 8.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of business in the two Houses of Parliament. Five English regiments had arrived in Ireland from Flanders. Those previously there were "to be broke."—Whitehall.

1697.

(ii.) April 23.—Instructions given by King William III. to Charles, Earl of Manchester, upon his appoint-

* See the Introduction for some remarks upon the dates of the papers in these volumes.

ment as Ambassador Extraordinary to the Republic of Venice. (Printed in Cole's Historical and Political Memoirs, p. 1.)—Kensington.

(iii.) April 26.—Henry James, of Queen's College, Cambridge, to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the senior Esquire Bedell had been sent to the Earl with a Patent for the office of High Steward of the University. —Queen's College, Cambridge.

(iv.) July 31.—The Duke of Shrewsbury to the Earl of Manchester, giving him notice that he would shortly be despatched on his Embassy, and that there would be no difficulty at the Treasury with respect to money. The Duke had suggested to the King the propriety of allowing a Secretary.—Whitehall.

(v.) Aug. 12.—The Duke of Shrewsbury to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that he would be allowed to have a Secretary of the Embassy, viz., Mr. Stanyan. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 2.)—Whitehall.

Year wanting.

(vi.) Aug. $\frac{9}{19}$.—The Earl of Portland to the Earl of Manchester, regretting that the King would not make any promise with respect to the post of Exempt of the Guards, vacant through the death of Mr. Davenant. (In French.)—Loo.

1697.

(vii.) Sept. 18.—The Earl of Albemarle to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the King would allow a Secretary of the Embassy to Venice, and had given the Duke of Shrewsbury instructions to that effect. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 3.)—Loo.

(viii.) Sept. 20.—The Duke of Shrewsbury to the Earl of Manchester, wishing the latter success in his capacity of public minister and "bonnes fortunes" as a young man. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 3.)—Grafton.

(ix.) Sept. 21.—Additional instructions to the Earl of Manchester, as Ambassador Extraordinary to the Republic of Venice. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 3.)—Whitehall.

(x.) Sept. 28.—Further additional instructions. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 4.)—Whitehall.

(xi.) Oct. 19.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, promising to send news in a subsequent letter. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 5.)—Whitehall.

(xii.) Oct. 29.—The same to the same, giving various small items of news and gossip.—Whitehall.

(xiii.) Nov. 7.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, thanking the latter for exerting his influence with the King to obtain an appointment for Mr. Meeres, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 5.)—Cologne.

(xiv.) Nov. $\frac{12}{22}$.—The Earl of Portland to the Earl of Manchester, regretting that they had not met at the Hague. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 5.)—Whitehall.

(xv.) Nov. 26.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, regretting that the Duke of Shrewsbury was compelled to leave town on account of his health, and touching the subject of military organisation, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 5.)—Whitehall.

(xvi.) Nov. $\frac{30}{20}$.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, to the effect that neither the Prince of Baden nor the townspeople of Nuremberg were satisfied with the terms of the Peace. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 6.)—Augsburg.

Year wanting.

(xvii.) Dec. $\frac{10}{20}$.—The Earl of Manchester to Sir Joseph Williamson, announcing arrival at Venice. (Draft.)—Venice.

1697.

(xviii.) Dec. $\frac{20}{10}$.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [the Earl of Sunderland], announcing his arrival at Venice. (Draft.)—Venice.

(xix.) Dec. $\frac{20}{1}$ 1697 according to the endorsement, but 1707 in the letter.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, announcing arrival at Venice, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 7.)—Venice.

(xx.) Dec. $\frac{27}{17}$.—The same to the same, stating that the Earl had taken a house, and was about to make

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

his arrival known, in form, to the Republic. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 7.)—Venice.

(xxi.) Dec. $\frac{31}{21}$.—The Earl of Albemarle to the Earl of Manchester, expressing a hope that the journey to Venice had been agreeable to the end. (In French.)—Kensington.

Undated.

(xxii.) 1697 according to endorsement of the Earl of Manchester.—Statement of legal questions arising out of the wills of William Godolphin, formerly Ambassador to the Court of Spain, with prayer that the Earl of Manchester might be authorised to employ his offices at Venice for a solemn hearing of a cause relating to Godolphin's money in the Bank of Venice.

1698.

(xxiii.) Jan. 3, n. s.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, announcing that the Earl had officially notified his arrival at Venice to the Republic. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 7.)—Venice.

(xxiv.) Jan. 10, n. s.—The same to the same, relating to the expected mode of official reception of the Earl as Ambassador at Venice. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 8.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xxv.) Jan. 11.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of proceedings in Parliament, Lord Sunderland's resignation of his staff [as Lord Chamberlain], the arrival of the Czar of Muscovy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 9.)—Whitehall.

(xxvi.) Jan. 15.—The Duke of Shrewsbury to the Earl of Manchester, regretting that he had not answered the Earl's letters.—Eyford.

1697.

(xxvii.) Jan. $\frac{7}{17}$. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, stating that he had nothing of great importance to communicate. (Draft.)—Venice.

(xxviii.) Jan. $\frac{7}{17}$. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Albemarle, expressing good will, and stating that his official reception at Venice had been delayed. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 8.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xxix.) Jan. $\frac{20}{30}$.—Edward Griffith to the Earl of Manchester, stating that he wrote by desire of the Prince and Princess [of Denmark] to make excuse for their delay in writing. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 10.)—London.

(xxx.) Jan. $\frac{24}{14}$. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, complaining of his reception having been needlessly delayed, stating that the day for it had at length been fixed, and giving some details of the political situation. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 9.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xxxi.) Jan. 28.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly upon the subject of the well-known accusation against Mr. Duncombe with respect to Exchequer Bills. (This letter is printed in part in Cole's Memoirs, but the most important passage, that relating to Mr. Duncombe, is there omitted.)—Whitehall.

(xxxii.) Jan. 31. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, stating that the official reception at Venice had again been postponed, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 10.)—Venice.

(xxxiii.) Feb. 1.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the King's opinion that the Earl's stay at Venice need not continue long after the ceremony of reception, and that he doubted the expediency of establishing a Resident there. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 11.)—Whitehall.

1698.

(xxxiv.) Feb. 7, n. s.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, giving a brief account of the reception and audience at Venice. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 11.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xxxv.) Feb. 12.—The Duke of Shrewsbury to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the King was not yet disposed to sanction a visit of the Earl to the Court of Turin. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 16.)—Eyford.

Undated.

(xxxvi.) Endorsed Feb. 14, 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, stating that he hoped soon to receive the answer of the College, and bring his mission to an end. Lord Pagett had been invited by the Grand Vizier to Adrianople. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 16.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xxxvii.) Feb. 15.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of parliamentary business, and chiefly of Mr. Duncombe's defence in the House of Commons with respect to the affair of the Exchequer Bills.—Whitehall.

1698.

(xxxviii.) Feb. 16.—Copy of a letter from the Senators, &c. of thirteen Swiss Cantons to the King of France, expressing gratitude for the regard shown to their interests by him in including them in the terms of the Peace. (In Latin.)—Zurich.

1697-8.

(xxxix.) Feb. 18.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the account of the Earl's audience had been laid before the King, who left it to the Earl to return when he thought proper. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 16.)—Whitehall.

(xl.) Feb. 21.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, reporting the progress of his mission, and suggesting the expediency of appointing a Resident at Venice. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 17.)—Venice.

(xli.) Feb. 22.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of an unsuccessful attack, in the House of Commons, upon the Lords of the Treasury, on the subject of Exchequer Bills, &c.—Whitehall.

(xlii.) Feb. $\frac{28}{18}$. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, to the effect that he had presented letters from the Prince and Princess of Denmark to the Republic, and that he hoped his mission would be followed by results beneficial to trade. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 21.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xliii.) March 1.—Lord Somers to the Earl of Manchester, congratulating the latter upon the honours received in his Embassy, and complaining of bitter attacks upon their party in the House of Commons. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 22.)—London.

(xliv.) March 1.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the progress of "Mr. Duncombe's Bill" [of Pains and Penalties]. Lord Dursey had been appointed Ambassador to Turkey upon the death of Sir James Rushout.—Whitehall.

(xlv.) March 7, n. s. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, expressing his intention of leaving Venice in about ten days. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 23.)—Venice.

(xlvi.) March 7.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Secretary Vernon, to the same effect. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 23.)—Venice.

1698.

(xlvii.) March 14.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, expressing hopes of a satisfactory reply from the Republic before his departure, and mentioning various reports in reference to foreign politics. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 24.)—Venice.

1697-8.

(xlviii.) March 15.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the rejection of "Mr. Duncombe's Bill" by the Lords, and mentioning the arrival of Lord Paget with news from Turkey. The Duke of Shrewsbury suffered from spitting of blood.—Whitehall.

1698.

(xlix.) March 21.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, expressing fears that he would not have received as definite an answer as might be desired

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

from the Republic before leaving Venice. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 24.)—Venice.

Year wanting.

(l.) March 21. Endorsed 1698.—The Earl of Portland to the Earl of Manchester, expressing a hope that the latter had enjoyed himself at Venice, especially during the carnival. (In French.)—Paris.

1698.

(li.) March 28.*—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, announcing that he had had his audience of leave, was detained in Venice only by his brother's illness, and still hoped his mission might in the end have a good effect. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 24.)—Venice.

(lii.) April 4.—The same to the same, regretting further delay in leaving Venice from the same cause. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 27.)—Venice.

(liii.) April 8.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving briefly the news of the Court and an account of racing at Newmarket. There had been an indirect attempt in the House of Commons to make a precedent for admitting Mr. Duncombe to bail. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 41.)—Newmarket.

(liv.) May 3, o. s.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Yard, announcing his arrival in Paris, and requesting that the King might be asked to place a yacht at his disposal to cross the channel. He contrasts the wealth of the English visitors with the poverty of the French, everywhere to be observed. (Draft.)—Paris.

(lv.) May 8/13.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Shrewsbury, asking to have a yacht placed at his disposal, and expressing hopes that the Duke approved of his conduct as Ambassador. (Draft. Printed, in part only, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 27.)—Paris.

(lvi.) May 4, n. s.—The same to the same, apologising for not having himself notified to the Duke his departure from Venice, on account of his brother's death, and mentioning prevalent rumours of a new war being imminent. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 27.)—Lyons.

(lvii.) May 23.—The same to the same, announcing his arrival in London and the King's satisfaction with his proceedings, and recommending Mr. Stanyan as a proper person to be resident Ambassador at Venice. (Draft. Printed, in part only, in Cole's Memoirs p. 27.)—London.

(lviii.) May 25.—The Duke of Shrewsbury to the Earl of Manchester, congratulating the Earl upon his return. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 28.)—Grafton.

(lix.) June 4.—The same to the same informing the Earl that the King was not disposed to appoint a Resident at Venice. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 28.)—Grafton.

Undated.

(lx.)—Speech of the Earl of Manchester to the Doge-ressa of Venice, containing many compliments to herself and the Doge, upon taking leave. (In Italian.)

1697.

(lxi.) April 21.—Copy of the credentials given by William III. to the Earl of Manchester for presentation to the Doge of Venice, upon the appointment of the Earl as Ambassador Extraordinary. (In Latin.)—Kensington.

1698.

(lxii.) Aug 15.—Copy of a letter from King William III. to a person unnamed (but who, from internal evidence, must have been Lord Somers, the Lord Chancellor), requesting him to send secretly "the full powers under the Great Seal with the names in blank to treat with C. Tall." (i. e. Count Tallard), concerning the succession of the kingdom of Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 30, and Tindal's continuation of Rapin, vol. ii., p. 456.)—Loo.

(lxiii.) Aug. 28.—Copy of the answer, without signature, in which the writer [Lord Somers] says that he has "put the Seal to the Commission without expecting the return of the warrant," that "the Commission is wrote by Mr. Secretary, and no other creature has the least knowledge of anything besides the persons

* In this and in most of the copies of letters from Venice mention is made of important enclosures, of some of which there are copies at the end of the volume.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"already named," viz., "Mr. Mount. [Charles Montagu, Chancellor of the Exchequer], Lord Orford, and the Duke of Shrewsbury." In this answer the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed treaty for the partition of Spain are discussed. (Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 30, and, with a slight variation, in Tindal's continuation of Rapin, vol. ii. p. 458.)—Tunbridge Wells.

Undated.

(lxiv.)—The Earl of Manchester's first speech to the Venetian Senate, expressing hopes of the continuance of friendship between England and Venice. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 11.)

(lxv.)—The Earl of Manchester's speech upon delivering letters from the Prince and Princess of Denmark to the Venetian Senate. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 22.)

(lxvi.)—Answer of the Senate to the above speech. (Italian, with translation at foot. Very brief. The translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 23.)

(lxvii.)—Answer of the Senate to the first speech of the Earl of Manchester, expressing cordial sentiments towards the King of England and his Ambassador. (In Italian, with translation. The translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 12.)

(lxviii.)—Speech of the Earl of Manchester upon the occasion of presenting his "First Memorial" at Venice, in which he calls attention to the chief points, viz:—

Redress for injuries to British subjects, especially seamen.

Removal of restraints on trade as affecting British subjects.

The case of the ships "Mary" and "Samuel and Mary."

Justice to the right heirs of Sir Wm. Godolphin.

(Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 17.)

(lxix.)—Copy of the first Memorial (to which reference is made above) in full. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 18.)

(lxx.)—Answer of the Senate to the speech made by the Earl of Manchester (on presenting his first Memorial), expressing a desire to act in accordance with the wishes of the English Government. (Italian, with translation. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 21.)

(lxxi.) Speech of the Earl of Manchester, made at his audience of leave at Venice, in which he expresses disappointment at not having received a satisfactory answer to his Memorial before his departure. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 25.)

(lxxii.) Answer of the Senate to the Memorial of the Earl of Manchester, and to his speech at the audience of leave, in which particulars are given of the mode of dealing (past and future) with British merchants, with British subjects in Venetian courts, and British seamen entering the Venetian navy, and promises are given that, after due enquiry, justice shall be done with respect to the specific subjects of complaint. (In Italian.)

(lxxiii.)—Translation of the above answer. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 25.)

683. VOL. II. Marked "1699."

1699.

(i.) Jan. 1. Endorsed 1699-1700.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, giving a few particulars respecting the attitude of the Danes, the Duke of Holstein, and the French ministers in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 91.)—Hamburg.

(ii.) Jan. 23 [n. s.]—Signor Girolamo Duodo to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes of the settlement of the claims of the heirs of the late Sir William Godolphin. (In Italian.)—Venice.

1700.

(iii.) March 14. Endorsed March 14/25.—The King of Sweden to the King of France, complaining of an infraction of the treaty of Oliva by a Saxon force under the command of one Flemming (a Lieutenant-General of the King of Poland), who had invaded Livonia, and requesting the interference of the King of France in support of his guarantee. (Latin. Copy. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 114.)

(iv.) March 14. Endorsed March 14/25.—The same to the States General, and to the same effect, mutatis mutandis. (Latin, with translation of all but the formal words of address. The translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 114.)—Stockholm.

(v.) Feb. and March [n. s.]—Abstract of Treaty between the King of England, the King of France, and the States General of the United Provinces, signed at

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

London the 21st Feb. 1699-1700, and at the Hague 25 March 1700, [being the second Treaty for the Partition of Spain]. (French, with translation. The translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 113.)—London and the Hague.

1699.

(vi.) May 27.—A "Memoire touchant les affaires d'Orange," being apparently draft instructions from William III. to his Ambassador at Paris respecting the approaching settlement of matters affecting Orange and Burgundy.—(In French.)—London.

(vii.) May 30.—Instructions, under the sign manual of William III., to Charles, Earl of Manchester, upon his appointment as Ambassador Extraordinary to the King of France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 32.)—Kensington.

(viii.) May 30.—Copy of credentials for the Earl of Manchester, directed by William III. to the Duchess of Orleans. (In French.)—Kensington.

(ix.) May 30.—Copy of similar credentials directed to the Duchess of Burgundy. (In French.)—Kensington.

(x.) May 30.—Copy of similar credentials directed to the Duke of Burgundy. (In French.)—Kensington.

(xi.) May 30.—Copy of similar credentials directed to the Dauphin. (In French.)—Kensington.

(xii.) May 30.—Copy of similar credentials directed to the Duke of Orleans. (In French.)—Kensington.

(xiii.) May 30.—Copy of credentials of the Earl of Manchester to the King of France, given by William III. to the Earl in his capacity of Ambassador Extraordinary to the Court of France. (In French.)—Kensington.

(xiv.) June 16.—Copy of agreement between the Ambassador Extraordinary of the King of Portugal and the Resident of the King of Sweden at the Court of France, respecting the conduct of the ministers of the second rank meeting at foreign courts. (In French.)—Paris.

(xv.) June 29.—Acknowledgment by the Earl of Manchester of the receipt of 1,066 ounces of gilt plate from the Treasurer of H.M. jewels, for the use of his Lordship's chapel during the period of his embassy. List at foot. (Parchment).

(xvi.) July 17.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, conveying the King's wishes with respect to various memorials for the Prince de Vaudemont, Lady Russell, and others upon which representations were to be made at the Court of France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 33.)—Whitehall.

(xvii.) Aug. 10.—The same to the same, with suggestions respecting the proper mode of dealing with matters relating to Mlle. Malauze, and announcing that the bearer had with him the ratification of the "Treaty for the business of Orange."—Whitehall.

(xviii.) Aug. 10.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Ratification of the Convention relating to the principality of Orange had been sent to the Dutch Ambassador at Paris for exchange on the 18th Aug. The son of Sir G. Norton, under sentence of death for the murder of a dancing master, took opium and died, and his aunt attempted suicide in the same way, but was recovering.—Whitehall.

(xix.) Aug. $\frac{4}{14}$.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, conveying the King's desire that the interest of the Prince de Vaudemont should be supported at the Court of France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 35.)—Loo.

(xx.) Aug. 14.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, concerning the proposed exchange of Macdonnell for Pierre Peraut, and the privileges of the Scots in France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 36.)—Whitehall.

(xxi.) Aug. $\frac{15}{25}$.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing papers relating to an attack by a French ship upon an English ship sailing from a foreign port, upon which the Earl was to form a complaint. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 37.)—Loo.

Undated.

(xxii.) Endorsed, "Received Aug. $\frac{17}{27}$."—Antonio de Ubilla to Mr. Alexander Stanhope, English Ambassador Extraordinary at Madrid, on the subject of the Spanish succession and the Treaty of Partition, contemplated after the transactions at Loo, of which he had heard. (In Spanish. Copy. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 37.)

1699.

(xxiii.) Aug. $\frac{17}{27}$.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing copies of papers from Antonio de Ubilla, who is described as "Secretary of the Despacho Universal," and expressing satisfaction that correspondence had been commenced with that office. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 37.)—Madrid.

(xxiv.) Aug. 23.—J. Robinson to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that Swedish troops had marched into the duchy of Holstein to act against the King of Denmark, and that His Majesty (William III.) and the States General were doing their utmost for the preservation of peace. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 40.)—Stockholm.

(xxv.) Aug. 24.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing papers from the merchants concerned in the Danzig ships taken by Du Bart, and giving instructions to press M. Torcy for reparation, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 41.)—Whitehall.

(xxvi.) Aug. 25.—Copy of the Treaty concerning the principality of Orange, with memorandum of the exchange of ratifications.

(xxvii.) Aug. 28.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions on various points, enclosing a paper presented to the Lords Justices on the subject of the 12 Protestants taken out of a homeward-bound English ship by a French sloop, and suggesting the expediency of making inquiries respecting the "Scotch having any deputies at St. Germain's." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 42.)—Whitehall.

(xxviii.) Sept. $\frac{21}{11}$.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to congratulate Monsieur and Madame [the Duke and Duchess of Orleans], in the King's name, upon the birth of their grandson, the Prince of Lorraine. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 45.)—Loo.

(xxix.) Sept. 4.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly upon the subject of the goods in the Danzig ships taken by Du Bart, and said to belong to British subjects, with directions to present another memorial on the matter. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 46.)—Whitehall.

(xxx.) Sept. 4.—The Earl of Manchester to M. de Torcy, requesting the latter to procure a private audience for him with the King of France on the following morning. (In French. Copy.)—Paris.

(xxxi.) Sept. $\frac{5}{15}$.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, expressing fears that he would be detained in Berlin by the outbreak of hostilities in Holstein, and asking patronage for Mr. Lewis. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 46.)—Berlin.

(xxxii.) Sept. 8.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, conveying the King's instructions to press for the restoration of Brisac. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 44.)—Loo.

(xxxiii.) Sept. $\frac{11}{1}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing a memoir upon the case of one Girard (a minister of Neuchâtel whom the King of France was protecting against Madame de Nemours, the lawful sovereign of the place), and instructing the Earl to press the court of France for a decision by competent judges. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 44.)—Loo.

(xxxiv.) Sept. $\frac{11}{21}$.—William III. to the Elector Palatine, expressing an intention of supporting the Treaty of Ryswick, as affecting the Elector, and announcing that the English Ambassador at Paris had been instructed to call the attention of the King of France to the infractions of it. (Copy. In Latin.)—Loo.

(xxxv.) Sept. 14.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing letters from William Beeston, Governor of Jamaica, with news that the Scotch had "deserted their" settlement at Caledonia, in the country of Darien." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 48.)—Whitehall.

(xxxvi.) Sept. $\frac{15}{25}$.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing a copy of a letter from the King to the Elector Palatine, and instructing the Earl to use his good offices in the Elector's favour at the Court of France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 49.)—Dieren.

(xxxvii.) Sept. 21.—Certificate of baptism (by the name of Jaques), on the 26th June 1644, of a son of Monsieur David de Rodon. (In French.)—Orange.

(xxxviii.) Sept. $\frac{26}{Oct. 6}$.—H. Greg to the Earl of Manchester, stating that the French Ambassador at Copen-

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

hagen denied the receipt of definite instructions to restore to English subjects their goods seized on Danzig ships, and requesting the Earl to insist on having positive orders sent to Mr. de Chamilly. (Printed almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 56, but wrongly dated there, "Oct. 8.")—Copenhagen.

(xxxix.) Sept. 28. Endorsed $\frac{\text{Sept. 28}}{\text{Oct. 9}}$ —R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, respecting the intended apprehension of Mills and Lord Drummond's priest, and the King's intention to direct the Spanish Ambassador to leave the kingdom. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 57.)—Whitehall.

Undated.

(xl.) Endorsed $\frac{\text{Sept. 30}}{\text{Oct. 10}}$, 1699.—Message sent by Mr. Secretary Vernon to the Spanish Ambassador (who had caused an offensive paper to be delivered to several of the Lords), notifying that the King required him to leave the country within 18 days, and to remain within his house in the meantime. (In French. Copy. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 59.)—Whitehall.

(xli.) Endorsed Oct. 1699.—Paper entitled "Représentation aux premiers Seigneurs et Ministres de l'Angleterre," containing severe animadversions on the proposed Treaty relating to the Spanish succession and the Partition of Spain, which had become known to the Spanish King, and against which he had instructed his Ambassador Extraordinary in England to protest in this form. (In French. Copy. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 58.)

1699.

(xlii.) Oct. $\frac{2}{12}$.—J. Hill to the Earl of Manchester, calling attention to the case of the Prince de Vaudemont, and recommending His Highness's Secretary to the Earl's favour. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 60.)—Brussels.

(xliii.) Oct. 2, n.s.—The same to the same, giving some particulars of one O'Bryan, a suspected person, requesting further information about him, and conveying instructions to let the French ministers know how seriously the King interested himself on behalf of the Prince de Vaudemont. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 54.)—Brussels.

(xliv.) Oct. 3.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, deprecating any efforts to have Count Bosselli released from the Bastille, and giving a number of very various items of intelligence. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 54.)—Venice.

(xlv.) Oct. 5. Endorsed Oct. $\frac{5}{15}$ —R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the Spanish Ambassador's speedy departure, and the non-appearance of persons expected at Dover. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 61.)—Whitehall.

(xlvi.) Dec. 8.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chancellor, expressing regret that Mr. Montague had left the Treasury, and anxiety for the speedy conclusion of the matters in which the Earl was concerned at Paris. (Draft. Printed, with slight variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 81.)—Paris.

(xlvii.) Dec. 8.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Montague, partly upon money matters, and partly giving an account of the difficulties of the Ambassador's position at Paris. (Draft. Printed, with slight variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 82.)—Paris.

Undated.

(xlviii.) Endorsed Oct. 10, 1699.—Another copy of the "Représentation aux premiers Seigneurs Ministres de l'Angleterre" already described, (xli.) but with the heading "Remonstrance de Dom Pedro Colonna, Ambr. d'Espagne aux Ministres d'Angleterre," and followed by a memorandum of the notice given to the Ambassador to quit England, and of his reply.

1699.

(xlix.) Oct. 12. Endorsed "Oct. $\frac{24}{12}$ "—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, on the subject apparently of Mills and the other persons expected at Dover. A long letter, almost entirely in cipher, undeciphered. No key to the ciphers of the period is known to exist among the State Papers; but the subject of this document may be inferred from the partial deciphering of previous letters from Yard.—Whitehall.

(l.) Oct. 16.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the King was expected at the Hague, and that O'Bryan had been sent to England, &c. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 61.)—The Hague.

(li.) Oct. 16. Endorsed Oct. $\frac{16}{26}$ —R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, on the subject of Mills, Lord Drummond's priest, &c. (Nearly all in cipher, undeciphered.)—Whitehall.

(lii.) Oct. 23. Endorsed $\frac{\text{Oct. 23}}{\text{Nov. 3}}$ —The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, telling him it was the King's wish that he should discuss the Partition Treaty with Mr. Prior. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 66.)—Whitehall.

(liii.) Oct. 24. Endorsed 3 Nov., n. s.—Extract from letter of Mr. Secretary Vernon to Mr. Cressett upon the mediation in the affairs of Holstein and Denmark. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 69.)

(liv.) Oct. 26. Endorsed $\frac{\text{Oct. 26}}{\text{Nov. 5}}$ —The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, upon various subjects connected with the embassy of the latter, with enclosure of extract from Mr. Secretary Vernon's letter to Mr. Cressett upon the subject of Holstein. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 68.)—Whitehall.

(lv.) Oct. 30. Endorsed $\frac{\text{Oct. 30}}{\text{Nov. 9}}$ —The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, upon the conduct of the Ambassador of Portugal at the French Court. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 70.)—Whitehall.

(lvi.) Oct. 31. The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Prior, on the rudeness of the Portuguese Ambassador at Paris, and the Earl's expenses there. (Draft. Printed, with slight variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 64.)—Paris.

(lvii.) Nov. $\frac{2}{12}$ —Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of the notification he had received to leave Madrid, and enclosing a copy of his answer. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 71.)—Madrid.

(lviii.) Mr. Stanhope's answer when required to leave the Spanish dominions in 18 days and not to leave his house in the meantime. (Copy. Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 72.)

(lix.) Nov. 2. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{2}{12}$ —C. Godolphin to the Earl of Manchester, requesting him to use his influence with the Venetian Ambassador at Paris and others to procure a just settlement of the claims of the heirs of Sir Wm. Godolphin in respect of money in the Bank of Venice.—London.

(lx.) Nov. 3.—M. de Torcy to the Earl of Manchester, pointing out a legal difficulty in the case of the Prince de Vaudemont, who, while entering upon his possessions in accordance with the treaty of Ryswick, could enjoy them only subject to previous charges. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 65.)—Marly.

(lxi.) Nov. 2, n. s.—English translation of Mr. Stanhope's notification to Don Antonio de Ubilla that the Spanish Ambassador had been required to leave the dominions of the King of England. Endorsed as having been "delivered at the Escorial the 3d November 1699, n. s." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 67.)

(lxii.) Nov. 4. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{4}{14}$ —The Duke of Schonburg to the Earl of Manchester, asking the Earl to make representations to the King of France in order that the Duke might continue in quiet possession of the estates of which the Duke's brother was attempting to dispossess him by law suits. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 76.)—London.

(lxiii.) Nov. 5, n. s.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that the Spanish Court would probably disavow the recent action of the Spanish Ambassador in London. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 67.)—Madrid.

(lxiv.) Nov. $\frac{8}{18}$ with postscript Nov. 14.—H. Greg to the Earl of Manchester, upon the subject of the goods said to belong to British subjects seized on board Danzig ships by the French, with a few remarks on the affairs of Holstein. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 77.)—Copenhagen.

(lxv.) Nov. 6. Endorsed Nov. 12.—"Mr. Stanhope's" Paper to Don Antonio de Ubilla, expressing the King "His Majesty's orders to return home, and desiring "His Catholic Majesty's passports." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 72.)—Madrid.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(lxvi.) Nov. $\frac{3}{13}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, giving directions to employ good offices on behalf of the Prince de Vaudemont, the Prince de Montbeliard, and some French Protestants at the galleys. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 75.)—Whitehall.

(lxvii.) Nov. 13. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{13}{3}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, telling of the King's satisfaction with the Earl's proceedings at Paris, and giving various items of gossip. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 76.)—London.

(lxviii.) Nov. 28.—"Copie de la Resolution du Roi du 28 Novembre 1699," being the refusal of the King [of Denmark] to resume the negotiations begun by his father at Pinneberg with respect to Holstein, on account of the conduct of the Duke of Gottorp. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 78.)

(lix.) Nov. 20. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{20}{30}$.—Copy of a letter unsigned (written apparently by a spy or conspirator in concealment) directed to "Mr. Proctor, chez M. Veard, à St. Cosme dans la Rue la Harpe, à Paris." It contains little or nothing of importance, but there is at the end this note:—"Ld. Middleton's letters come under a cover directed à Mr. Levesque St. Jean, banquier, à Paris."

(lxx.) Nov. 30. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{30}{Dec. 10}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, on various subjects, and concluding "O'Bryen is this morning brought to town." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 84.)—Whitehall.

(lxxi.) Dec. 4. Endorsed Dec. $\frac{4}{14}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, on the case of "Count Boscoli," and the "interrogatories of Burk," who was suspected of piracy, &c. in Bretagne. (Printed with the variation of "Bosselli" for Boscoli," in Cole's Memoirs, p. 84.)—Whitehall.

(lxxii.) Dec. 7. Endorsed Dec. $\frac{7}{17}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, on points of precedence affecting ministers at Paris, and mentioning enclosure. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 86.)—Whitehall.

(lxxiii.) Dec. 7. Endorsed Dec. $\frac{7}{17}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, on business in Parliament and other matters. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 86.)—Whitehall.

(lxxiv.) Dec. $\frac{14}{24}$.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that nothing worthy of note had occurred since the reply of Madame de Nemours to M. de Torey on the subject of her new Governor, whose displacement had been demanded by the King of France. In a postscript he asks the Earl to give him "une adresse sure," in order that his letters might not be intercepted. (In French.)—Venice.

(lxxv.) Dec. 15. James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on the probable outbreak of hostilities in Northern Europe. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 85.)—Hamburg.

(lxxvi.) Dec. 22. James Cressett to Mr. Stanyan, expressing hopes that a rupture in the North might be avoided, and mentioning certain points relating to mediation "on the other leaf," which, however, is here wanting. But see lxxx. (Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 87.)—Hamburg.

(lxxvii.) Dec. 25.—"J. Vanbrook" to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of business in Parliament, and various items of gossip. 5 pages. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 53.)—London.

(lxxviii.) Dec. 25.—Copy of instructions to Mons. de Vrybergh on the affairs of Neuchâtel and Madame de Nemours. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 90.)

(lxxix.) Dec. 28. Endorsed Dec. 28, 1699 Jan. 8, 1700.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing copy of instructions to Mons. de Vrybergh, with whom the Earl of Manchester is directed to confer on the subject of Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 90.)—Hamp-ton Court.

Undated.

(lxxx.) Preliminary Articles (five in number) held necessary for the preservation of peace in the North during negotiations. (In Latin. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 87. This is obviously "the other leaf" mentioned in lxxvi.)

1700.

(lxxx.) Projet de Traité between the King [of France], the Emperor, and the Princes of the Empire, with secret articles relating to subsidies to the Princes from the King, who undertook to make his grandson, the new King of Spain, a party to the treaty. Undated. (In French, pp. 8.)

Undated.

(lxxxii.) Particulars of the representations to be made at the French Court respecting the domains of His Majesty [William III.] in France. (In French.)

1699.

(lxxxiii.) Speeches of the Earl of Manchester on presenting himself at the French Court, viz., to the Dauphin, to Monsieur, to Madame, to the Duc de Chartres, to the Duchesse de Chartres (unfinished), to the Duc de Bourgogne, to the Duchesse de Bourgogne, and to the Duc d'Anjou et de Berry. (In French.)

(lxxxiv.) Another copy of the "Representations aux premiers Seigneurs Ministres de l'Angleterre," as delivered by the Spanish Ambassador Extraordinary in England. (In French.) See xli. and xlvi.

684. Vol. III. Marked "1700."

1700.

(i.) Jan 1. Endorsed Jan. $\frac{1}{12}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, on "the payment agreed to in relation to Hudson's Bay." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 92.)—Whitehall.

(ii.) Jan 8. Endorsed Jan. $\frac{8}{19}$, 1699-1700.—The same to the same, giving instructions on various subjects. (Partly in cipher. Printed not quite correctly in Cole's Memoirs, p. 94.)—Whitehall.

1699-1700.

(iii.) Jan. 11. Endorsed Jan. $\frac{11}{22}$.—The same to the same (partly in cipher, deciphered), announcing that "the great affair had come to a good conclusion, the province of Holland having consented." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 96.)—Whitehall.

(iv.) Jan 15. Endorsed $\frac{15}{26}$.—The same to the same, giving instructions on the subject of the goods alleged to belong to English subjects, which had been on the Danzig ships taken by the French. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 96.)—Whitehall.

(v.) Jan 18. Endorsed $\frac{18}{29}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of proceedings in Parliament, and of the troublesome and dangerous efforts of the opposition, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 97.)—Whitehall.

(vi.) Jan. 19. Endorsed $\frac{19}{30}$.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on the political situation in the North of Europe. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 99.)—Hamburg.

(vii.) Jan. 25. Endorsed Jan. 25. Feb. 5.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester giving instructions on various subjects. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 100.)—Whitehall.

(viii.) Jan 29. Endorsed Jan. 29. Feb. 9.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of proceedings in Parliament, &c.—Whitehall.

(ix.) Feb. 1.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions on various subjects. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, Cole's Memoirs, p. 101.)—Whitehall.

(x.) Feb. 5.—The same to the same, on the subject of the Danzig ships, and giving instructions on various matters, and mentioning the approaching signature of the Partition Treaty. (Partly in cipher. Deciphered and printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 102.)—Whitehall.

(xi.) Feb. 12.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, on Parliamentary affairs including an expected attack upon the Lord Chancellor. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 103.)—Whitehall.

(xii.) Feb. 15.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving a long account of the debates in the House of Commons upon the grants.—London.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(xiii.) Feb. 15.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, respecting a proposed pardon and pension to some one (described here as la personne, and in other letters as "la personne dont il s'agit") for the discovery of important facts, and giving instructions on other subjects. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 104.)—Whitehall.

(xiv.) Feb. 22. Endorsed 4 March, n.s.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the conclusion of the "grand affair," and mentioning the address of the Commons to the King, "la personne dont il s'agit," &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 106.)—Whitehall.

1700.

(xv.) March 1.—Mr. Lubières to the Earl of Manchester, requesting the Earl to bring to the notice of M. de Torcy certain difficulties respecting French servants at Orange. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 105.)—Orange.

Feb. 21, 1699 (o.s.), March 3, 1700 (n.s.).

(xvi.) Copy of Treaty between the Kings of France and Great Britain, and the States General, for the partition of the Spanish dominions after the death of the reigning King of Spain. (In French. pp. 12.)—London.

Feb. 21, 1699 (o.s.), and March 25, 1700 (n.s.).

(xvii.) Feb. and March.—Abstract of the same Treaty as signed at London, 21 February, 1699 (o.s.), and the Hague, 25 March, 1700 (n.s.). (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 113.)—London and the Hague.

1700.

(xviii.) March 7.—A long and unsigned document on the proposed partition of the Spanish dominions, and its probable consequences. (In Italian. Partly in cipher, deciphered. pp. 5.)

1699-1700.

(xix.) March 7. Endorsed $\frac{7}{18}$.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, referring to the unpopularity of the King, through his partiality for the Dutch, and giving an account of business in Parliament, including the Bill for the Union.—Whitehall.

(xx.) Feb. 29 —James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on the outbreak of hostilities in Livonia. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 107.)—Hamburg.

1700.

(xxi.) March 12.—Don Silvio Boccone, Cistercian monk, to the Earl of ("Duca de") Manchester, asking the Earl to distribute copies of a work written by the monk. (In Italian.)—Palermo.

1699-1700.

(xxii.) March 14.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly on the subject of an alleged plot to murder the King. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 110.)—Whitehall.

1700

(xxiii.) March 14.—The King of Sweden to the King of France, on an infraction of the treaty of Oliva. (Latin. Another copy of the same document has already been described, No. 683, Vol. II. of the "Manchester Correspondence," iii.)

1699-1700.

(xxiv.) March 18. Endorsed $\frac{18}{29}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, on the proceedings of the King of Poland against the Swedes, and announcing that the King of England had fitted out a squadron to preserve the peace. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 111.)—Whitehall.

(xxv.) March 22 —James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that affairs in the North depended entirely on the appearance of the English and Dutch flags. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 115.)—Hamburg.

1700.

(xxvi.) Feb. and March. Endorsed March 25.—Secret Article of the second Treaty of Partition. (In French.

1120.

A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 119.)—London and the Hague.

(xxvii.) March 28.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of proceedings in Parliament.—Whitehall.

(xxviii.) April 1. Endorsed April $\frac{1}{12}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, instructing the latter to represent to the French Court the dangers of war in the North, and touching upon the subjects of the alleged plot, and the Danzig ships. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 117.)—Whitehall.

(xxix.) April 1. Endorsed April $\frac{1}{12}$.—[Matthew Prior] (whose signature is omitted) to the Earl of Manchester, asking for the Earl's good offices in the presentation to the library of the King of France of a Horace printed at Cambridge, and in a contemplated purchase of Greek types. (Printed, not quite correctly, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 118.)—Whitehall.

(xxx.) April 4. Endorsed April $\frac{4}{14}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, on the recall of Mr. Stanyan, and the expenses of the Embassy.—Whitehall.

(xxxi.) April 10 (o.s.) Endorsed April $\frac{10}{21}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, on parliamentary business, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 121.)—Whitehall.

(xxxii.) April 11.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, on parliamentary business, the prospects of parties, &c. (Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 122.)—Whitehall.

(xxxiii.) April $\frac{15}{26}$.—M. Van Vryberge to the Earl of Manchester, recommending the case of the Sieur de Rodon, one of the King's officers and a native of Orange, and mentioning enclosure of his memorial. The journey [of William III.] to Holland was not, and probably would not be, spoken of until the proceedings of the Scotch Parliament were known. (In French.)—London.

(xxxiv.) April 15. Endorsed April $\frac{15}{26}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, instructing the latter to renew his representations at the French Court with regard to the necessity of preserving the peace in the North, and announcing that "the great affair was quite finished, &c." (Partly in cipher. Printed, without the part in cipher, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 122.)—Whitehall.

(xxxv.) April 18. Endorsed April $\frac{18}{29}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, on the presentation of the Cambridge Horace, on the desire of the University of Cambridge to be furnished with Greek types from France, on the recall of Mr. Stanyan, &c. (Printed, in part only, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 124.)—Whitehall.

(xxxvi.) April 18. Endorsed April $\frac{18}{29}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, instructing the latter to act in concert with M. de Torcy respecting the notification of "the affair" at Vienna and Madrid, &c. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 124.)—Whitehall.

Undated.

(xxxvii.) Endorsed April $\frac{11}{22}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, expressing "My Lord's" [the Earl of Jersey's] regret at not having yet had an opportunity of speaking to the King "to be" the Earl of Manchester's "gossip."

1700.

(xxxviii.) April 25 (o.s.)—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions on various matters, and mentioning the alleged plot. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 126.)—Hampton Court.

(xxxix.) April $\frac{27}{16}$.—H. Greg to the Earl of Manchester, touching the goods of English subjects seized on the Danzig ships, and mentioning enclosures. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 123.)—Copenhagen.

(xl.) May 2. Endorsed May $\frac{2}{13}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester, referring to the "great affair."

K

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Sir William Ellis, Lord Chief Justice Holt, &c. (Partly in cipher. Deciphered and printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 128.)—Hampton Court.

(xli.) May 2. Endorsed May $\frac{2}{13}$.—J. Robinson to Mr. Stanyan, giving an account of military and naval movements. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 128.)—Stockholm.

(xlii.) May 4.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that whatever was undertaken by Danes or Saxons was concerted at Berlin. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 125.)—Berlin.

(xliii.) May 4. Endorsed May $\frac{4}{15}$.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, conveying the King's approval of the Earl of Manchester's past proceedings in his Embassy, and giving instructions on various points to guide his future conduct. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 131.)—Whitehall.

(xliv.) May 7.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope (then at the Hague), on the complications in the North, and asking for information with respect to the intentions of the Muscovites, which were considered of great importance. At the top is a note by the Earl:—"This should come before the letter to the Earl of Jersey, dated, Paris, May 8, 1700." (Draft.)—Paris.

(xlv.) May 7.—On the same paper is a draft of a letter from the Earl of Manchester to Mr. Cressett, on the same subject, with mention of a report that the Muscovites intended to assist the King of Poland.—Paris.

(xlv.) May 9. Endorsed May $\frac{9}{20}$.—J. Robinson to

Mr. Stanyan, giving an account of military and naval movements in the North, and stating that the Czar would probably not interfere. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 134.)—Stockholm.

(xlvii.) May 11.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, stating that there was much ill will against the King of England at Berlin, and expressing a wish to be recalled. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 128.)—Berlin.

(xlviii.) May 13.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, respecting the interpretation of an article in the Treaty of Partition in certain eventualities. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 135.)—Hampton Court.

(xlix.) May 13.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes that the King of Denmark would be brought to agree to a reasonable peace, and that neither the King of France nor the Czar had hostile intentions. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 129.)—The Hague.

(l.) May 18.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, stating that all he could obtain from the Court of Berlin (which he was leaving) was a very doubtful neutrality, and giving an account of some movements in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 133.)—Berlin.

(li.) May 20.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Elector of Brandenburg had been making overtures "underhand" to France, in favour of Denmark and Poland, and instructing him how to proceed. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 138.)—Hampton Court.

(lii.) May 23.—Endorsed June 3, n.s.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions on various subjects. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 139.)—Hampton Court.

(liii.) May 31.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, describing the approach of the Swedes and Lunenburghers, and expressing a belief that the Danes would soon change their tone. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 137.)—Hamburg.

685. VOL. IV. Marked "1700."

1700.

(i.) June 9.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, giving an account, at some length, of conversations with M. de Torcy and others, at Paris, on the subject of affairs in the North, and other matters, and expressing confidence in the good faith of the French Court. (Draft, pp. 6. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 141.)—Paris.

(ii.) June 3.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, expressing delight at the probable "agony" of the Pope and the Spaniards when the Partition Treaty was made known to them, and giving some particulars of the state of affairs in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 140.)—The Hague.

(iii.) June 6.—M. Plantamour to the Earl of Manchester, on affairs in the North, and especially on the movements of the Elector of Hanover, and the Duke of Zell, and the probable relief of Toninghen by the Lunenburghers. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 140.)—Berlin.

(iv.) June 11.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on affairs in the North, with especial reference to the refusal of French mediation by the Duke of Holstein. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 142.)—Hamburg.

(v.) June 12.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, chiefly on the state of affairs in the North. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 143.)—Paris.

(vi.) June 13.—M. Plantamour to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that orders had been given for the march of troops to the Elbe, &c. (In French. A translation, not however quite complete, is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 144.)—Berlin.

(vii.) June 13.—Project for an Armistice of fifteen days between the King of Denmark and the Guarantors of the Treaty of Altona. (In French.)—Pinnenberg.

(viii.) June 14.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that neither Denmark or Holstein was willing to accept the mediation of France apart from that of the Emperor, and that an engagement between the Danes and the Allies appeared imminent. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 144.)—Hamburg.

(ix.) June 15.—Paul Methuen to Mr. Stanyan, giving an account of the reception of the news of the Partition Treaty by the King of Portugal. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 144.)—Lisbon.

(x.) June 16.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, on the mode of communicating the treaty to the minor German Courts, and other matters. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 145.)—Paris.

(xi.) June 19.—Robert Sutton to [the Earl of Manchester], expressing an opinion that the Emperor, though displeased with the Partition Treaty, had not yet formed any resolution upon it. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs p. 146.)—Vienna.

(xii.) June 19.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, suggesting the expediency of apprehending certain persons, and giving some particulars of Northern affairs. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 146.)—Paris.

(xiii.) June 20.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, on the conditions upon which the Emperor and Portugal would "come to" the Partition Treaty, and giving instructions on various matters.—Hampton Court.

(xiv.) June 21.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on Northern politics. (Printed, not quite correctly, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 147.)—Pinnenberg.

(xv.) June 23.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, on the affairs of the Prince de Montbeliard, the doings at St. Germain's, &c. &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 147.)—Paris.

(xvi.) June 24.—M. Lubières to the Earl of Manchester, requesting the good offices of the latter with M. de Torcy in the case of M. de Rodon (against whom there had been some misrepresentations made by his enemies), as well as on behalf of "le nommé François Vial," who had been detained three months in prison, and had been a resident in Orange since 1665. (In French.)—Orange.

(xvii.) June 24.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, on the communication of the Partition Treaty to the Powers, and on the policy of the Czar. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 148.)—The Hague.

(xviii.) June 24. Endorsed July 5, n.s.—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Earl of Jersey had succeeded the Duke of Shrewsbury as Lord Chamberlain, &c., &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 155.)—Whitehall.

(xix.) June 26.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, on the mode of reception of the Treaty of Partition by the various Powers, on affairs in the North, on the case of the Prince de Montbeliard, &c. &c. (Draft, 7 pages. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 149.)—Paris.

(xx.) June 27.—M. Plantamour to the Earl of Manchester, announcing a change of policy at the Court of Berlin, which had withdrawn its support from Denmark, and recommended that Power to come to terms. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 151.)—Berlin.

(xxi.) June 28.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, complaining of the partiality of the French Ambassador towards Denmark, and giving an account of the state of affairs in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 152.)—Pinnenberg.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

THE
OF CHIEF
1772.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(xxii.) June 30.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Prior, promising to let the Earl of Jersey know, by a subsequent letter, what was occurring. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 152.)—Paris.

(xxiii.) July (1 or 4?).—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, on the case of the Prince de Montbelliard, on Venetian affairs, on the publication of the Treaty of Partition, &c. (Draft. Incomplete. For conclusion see xxx. Printed, with some variations, under date July 8th, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 156.)—Paris.

(xxiv.) July 1.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, on the state of affairs in the North. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 153.)—The Hague.

(xxv.) July 2.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, giving an extract from a despatch on Northern affairs and policy, which had been sent to Mr. Vernon. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 153.)—Hamburg.

(xxvi.) July 3.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, mentioning an enclosure relating to news brought by recent letters from Spain. (Draft.)—Paris.

(xxvii.) Also, on the same sheet of paper, draft of letter from the Earl of Manchester to Mr. Prior, stating that "Col. Slinsby" had gone to England, possibly with the consent of the Government.

(xxviii.) July 7.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, on the Emperor and the Treaty of Partition, affairs in the North, the cases of M. de Rodon and the Prince de Montbelliard, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 156.)—Paris.

(xxix.) July 7. Endorsed ⁷/₁₈ July.—J. Robinson to the Earl of Manchester, giving copy of letter of same date to "Mr. Secretary" [Vernon], on affairs in the North, especially the movements of the fleets. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 164.)—Malmöe.

Undated.

(xxx.) Endorsed July 8.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey. (Part of a draft asking for employment for Mr. Stanyan. It seems to be the conclusion of xxiii.)

1700.

(xxxi.) July 8. Endorsed ⁸/₁₉ July.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on the case of the ship "William and Jane," seized by the French on the coast of Africa, on the state of affairs in the North of Europe, and on the Scottish Parliament. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 168.)—Whitehall.

(xxxii.) July 9.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, forwarding particulars (as sent to Mr. Secretary Vernon) relating to affairs in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 157.)—Hamburg.

(xxxiii.) July 9.—Copy of Memorial presented by the French Ambassador to the Diet at Bâle, announcing the conclusion of the Partition Treaty. (In French.)—Bâle.

(xxxiv.) July 10.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Prior, regretting that the Earl of Jersey and Mr. Prior had left their offices. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 159.)—Paris.

(xxxv.) July 10.—Undirected and unsigned letter, beginning "Sir," giving some particulars of affairs in the North, and indicating the reserve of the Court of Vienna on the subject of the Partition Treaty. (Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 160, as part of a despatch of the same date from Mr. Sutton, in whose handwriting it appears to be, to the Earl of Manchester. See xlv.)—Vienna.

Undated.

(xxxvi.) Endorsed July 17.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey. (Draft of the end of letter xxxviii. See below.)

1700.

(xxxvii.) July 15. Endorsed July ¹⁵/₂₆—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, asking for information respecting the movements of "the assassins," &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 173.)—Whitehall.

(xxxviii.) July 17.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, mentioning enclosure from Mr. Cressett, giving some account of the proposed mediation in the north, and the probable reception of the Partition Treaty by the Swiss, &c. (Draft, imperfect. See xxxvi. The whole letter is printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 162.)—Paris.

(xxxix.) July ⁸/₁₈ (sic).—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, on the approaching Diet at Soleure and the reception of the Partition Treaty by the Swiss. (In French. A translation, under date ⁷/₁₈ July, is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 164.)—Berne.

(xl.) July 18. Endorsed July ¹⁸/₂₉—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on the seizure of English ships by the French, off the coast of Africa, the slave trade, and other matters affecting mercantile marine, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 174.)—Whitehall.

(xli.) July 19.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Danes had at length consented to treat, and giving some particulars of affairs in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 165.)—Allies' camp, near Oldeslo.

(xlii.) July ⁸/₁₉.—Copy of a statement (unsigned, but for which Mr. Robinson was probably responsible), giving an account of the movements of the Swedish fleet, the protests of Admiral Guldenlew, and interviews with him, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 166.)—Elsinore.

Undated.

(xliii.)—Copy of an address to the "Gran Duca" [of Tuscany?], announcing the conclusion of the Partition Treaty. (In Italian. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 178, where the document is described as "Sir Lambert Blackwell's Speech.")

1700.

(xliv.) July 20, or possibly 10. Endorsed July 10.—R. Sutton to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosed advices, and expressing an opinion that the Emperor would give his good offices towards securing peace in the north, and would not take active measures to prevent the execution of the Partition Treaty. (Printed, under date July 10, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 160. See xxxv.)—Vienna.

(xlv.) July 21.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, mentioning an enclosure, and the acceptance of mediation by King of Denmark. (Copy.)—Paris.

(xlv.) July 22.—Extract from a letter from M. le Comte de Chamilly to some unnamed person at Hamburg, mentioning a promise of a favourable answer from the King of Denmark, but expressing doubts on the subject. The letter was to be communicated to the Abbé Bidal.

(xlvii.) July 22.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, referring to an enclosed abstract of letter from Mr. Robinson, and making some remarks on Northern affairs. (Printed, not quite correctly, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 169.)—The Hague.

(xlviii.) July 22 Aug. 2.—Abraham Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on the subject of Broccard's salary, and announcing that Mr. Montagu would write to him by Lord Kingston, whom "several knights and Kitt Catters" attended to his yacht. (Printed. Cole's p. 181.)—London.

(xlix.) July 22. Endorsed ²²/_{2 Aug.}—R. Yard to the Earl of Manchester, on the Darien capitulation and the state of feeling in Scotland. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs p. 181.)—Whitehall.

(l.) July 23.—Cavaliere Coriolano Montemagni to the English Envoy [Sir Lambert Blackwell], sending (li.) the reply of the Grand Duke of Tuscany to the communication in which he was made acquainted with the Partition Treaty. (Copies. In Italian. Translations are printed in Cole's Memoirs, pp. 177–8.)

Undated.

(lii.)—Copy of the reply of the Grand Duke of Tuscany to the French Envoy on the subject of the Partition Treaty. (In Italian. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 178.)

1700.

(liii.) July 23.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of his speech to the Grand Duke, and expressing an expectation of obtaining a more definite answer than he had yet received on the subject of the Partition Treaty.—Florence.

(liv.) July 23.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on the state of affairs in the North, and mentioning enclosure of copy of a letter from M. de Chamilly. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 170.)—Hamburg.

(lv.) July 25. Endorsed ^{July 25}/_{Aug. 5}—James Vernon to

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

the Earl of Manchester, on the English ships seized by the French off the coast of Guinea, and the claims of the African Company, and on the correspondence and agents passing between Scotland and St. Germain's. (Partly in cipher, deciphered.)—Whitehall.

(lvi.) July ¹⁶/₂₇.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, on the Danish difficulty, and mentioning enclosure relating to the positions of the fleets. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 178.)—The Hague.

(lvii.) July 29.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, on the retreat of the Danish Fleet, the defeat of the Saxons, &c., with mention of enclosure. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 176.)—The Hague.

(lviii.) July 30.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, on politics in the North, and mentioning the bombardment of Copenhagen by Sir George Rooke. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 178.)—Hamburg.

(lix.) July 30.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosures already described, under date July 23, viz., answers of the Grand Duke of Tuscany to the English and French Envoys on the subject of the Partition Treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 177.)—Florence.

(lx.) July 31.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Jersey, suggesting the expediency of an interview with the King at Loo. (Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 179.)—Paris.

(lxi.) Aug. 1, n. s.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Swiss Cantons were contriving to gain time before giving an answer on the Guarantee of the Treaty of Partition, &c. (In French. A translation of the chief part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 180.)—Berne.

(lxii.) Aug. 5. Endorsed Aug. ⁵/₁₆.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on the various political topics of the day. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 193.)—Whitehall.

(lxiii.) Aug. 6.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes that a just and reasonable peace might be signed at the Hague, and concluding thus:—"I have personell as well as politick reasons to long for peace, for no dog can be more tyr'd with bearbaiting than I am." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 184.)—Hamburg.

(lxiv.) Aug. 7.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey], mentioning an enclosure, and touching very briefly on conversations with M. de Torcy respecting the Partition Treaty, and the views of Portugal on the subject. "The only discourse we have here is bombarding the Danes," he says; "it is certain nothing else will do."—Paris.

(lxv.) Aug. 9.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that a despatch had been sent to the King with the news of a successful landing of Swedish forces near Elsinore. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 186.)—Hamburg.

(lxvi.) Aug. 12.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester on Northern affairs, and stating that Riga was threatened by the King of Poland. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 189.)—The Hague.

(lxvii.) Aug. 13.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester on affairs and prospects in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 190.)—Hamburg.

(lxviii.) Aug. 15 and 18.—Paul Methuen to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that a Treaty of Guarantee (relating to the Partition Treaty) had been signed on behalf of the King of Portugal. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 192.)—Lisbon.

(lix.) Aug. ⁷/₁₇.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, on the attitude of the Swiss with regard to the Partition Treaty. The Canton of Bern, it was expected, would raise a difficulty with respect to the payment of its troops in case of war. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 194.)—Berne.

(lxx.) Aug. 17.—R. Sutton to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Emperor had definitely refused to accede to the Partition Treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 194.)—Neustadt.

(lxxi.) Aug. 20.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, expressing a belief that the Treaty to be signed within a few hours near Segeberg would put an end to hostilities in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 198.)—Loo.

(lxxii.) Aug. 20.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the signature of a Treaty of Peace at Travendal. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 199.)—Segeberg.

(lxxiii.) Aug. 22.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the conclusion of peace in the North, and mentioning an enclosure in which the principal points were set forth. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 199.)—Loo.

(lxxiv.) Aug. 24.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, sending a copy of a despatch to Mr. Blathwayt. In the latter are given some particulars relating to the manner in which the Treaty of Travendal was concluded, and mention is made of an "Act signed sub specie ratificationis." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 200.)—Hamburg.

(lxxv.) Aug. 24.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to make complaint to M. de Torcy respecting the arrest of Mr. Chetwynd at Valenciennes as a breach of the privilege of Foreign Ministers. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 201.)—Loo.

(lxxvi.) August 25. Endorsed ²⁵/_{5 Sep.}.—J. Robinson to the Earl of Manchester on the Treaty of Travendal, the renewed menaces of the Danes, and the slowness of the Swedish Court in acceding to the Partition Treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 205.)—Helsingborg.

Undated.

(lxxvii.) Endorsed *Aug. 25, "1699. R. 1700."—Postscript to a letter from J. Robethon to [the Earl of Manchester], on the religious difficulties in Orange and the case of M. Blisson, who was anxious to pass into Holland. It is in reply to a letter from the Earl dated Jan. 29. (In French.)

1700.

(lxxviii.) Aug. 27.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey], on the refusal of the Emperor to accede to the Partition Treaty, and on the case of Count Boscelli, on which instructions are requested. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 202.)—Paris.

686. Vol. V. Marked "1700."

1700.

(i.) Sep. 3.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester on Mr. Chetwynd's arrest, on the Emperor and the Treaty of Partition, and on affairs in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 203.)—Loo.

(ii.) Sept. 4, n. s.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Diet of the Cantons would be held on the 19th of the same month, for the consideration of the Partition Treaty. He also enquires in what manner it would be right for him to go into mourning for the Duke of Gloucester. (In French.)—Berne.

(iii.) Sept. 5.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to make the King of France acquainted with the desire of the English that there should be a pacification between Sweden and Poland. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 204.)—Loo.

(iv.) Sept. 10.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, sending a copy of a letter "to Court," in which he recommends the demolition of the Hittler fort in the Elbe—a question submitted to the arbitrage of England, France, and Holland. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 207.)—Hamburg.

(v.) Sept. 20.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, announcing his departure from Hamburg to press the Court of Lunenburg to accede to the Partition Treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 210.)—Hamburg.

(vi.) Sept. 23.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, on the attitude of Spain in respect of the admission of foreign troops into the Italian dominions, and on dissensions concerning the Spanish succession. (In French. A translation of the principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 211.)—Madrid.

(vii.) Sept. 24.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey], mentioning enclosure from M. Schonenberg, and asking for instructions respecting the mode of notifying the death of the Duke of Gloucester at the French Court, &c. (Draft. The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 211.)—Paris.

(viii.) Sept. 25.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, mentioning enclosures, of which one was from M. Schonenberg. One for Mr. Blathwayt should not be delayed. They were supposed to refer to the entrance of Imperial troops into Spanish territory in Italy. (Copy.)—Paris.

(ix.) On the same paper is a copy of a letter to Mr. Blathwayt, also mentioning enclosures.

* Written in error for February!

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(x.) Sept. 17.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey], asking what were the King's intentions with respect to the appointment of Exempt of the Guards, for which he wished to recommend an officer. He also mentions a report that the Elector of Brandenburg was to be declared King of Prussia upon condition of furnishing 8,000 men to the Emperor against Italy. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, and without the part relating to patronage, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 209.)—Paris.

(xi.) Sept. 29.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Swiss had declined to accede to the Partition Treaty. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 213.)—Soleure.

(xii.) Oct. 3.—The Earl of Manchester to M. Schonenberg, expressing thanks for information respecting the Spanish Court, and a belief that the good understanding between France and England would continue. (Draft, in French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 214.)—Paris.

(xiii.) Oct. 3.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Methuen, announcing that the Electors of Hanover and Brandenburg would shortly meet the King at the Hague, and that there was a probability of the enlargement of the Act for the settlement of the English Crown. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 214.)—Paris.

(xiv.) Oct. 4.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, giving some details of the manner in which he had "carried his pack of Spanish merchandise [the "Partition Treaty"] about with him from Court to Court, "and yet did not see many customers fond of it." (Six pages. Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 214.)—Zell.

(xv.) Oct. 6.—M. Robethon to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions respecting the delivery of an "ordonnance visée" to the bearer of the King's order, and touching upon various other matters affecting the principality of Orange. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 216.)—Loo.

(xvi.) Oct. 7.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning briefly Sir Charles Duncombe and the Court of Aldermen, Lord Bradford's illness, &c., and asking for copies of accounts (about to be reprinted by the Court of St. Germain's) of the death of King Charles, and the Duchess of York in the Catholic Faith.—Whitehall.

(xvii.) Oct. 11.—Beginning of an unfinished and undirected letter written by the Earl of Manchester, on the affairs of Orange. (In French.)—Paris.

Also on the same sheet of paper,—

(xviii.)—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Blathwayt on the reception, by the French King, of the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 218.)

Also on the same sheet of paper,—

(xix.)—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, on the expected death of the King of Spain, and its probable consequences. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 220.)

(xx.) Oct. 11.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey] on the expected death of the King of Spain, the attitude of the Emperor, the augmentation of the French army, the movements of the French navy, &c. (Draft, pp. 7. Printed with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 218.)—Paris.

(xxi.) Oct. 14.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, giving news of the march of the Czar to the assistance of the King of Poland against the Swedes, and other matters. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 221.)—The Hague.

(xxii.) Oct. 14. Endorsed ¹⁴/₂₅.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on the expected arrival of the King of England and other topics. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 229.)—Whitehall.

(xxiii.) Oct. 16.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Blathwayt, expressing his belief that the King of France was anxious to co-operate with the King of England in bringing the King of Poland and the Czar to terms of peace with Sweden, and announcing that the Elector of Brandenburg contradicted the report that he had engaged to support the Emperor with troops. (Draft, pp. 5. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 222.)—Fontainebleau.

(xxiv.) Oct. 17.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Blathwayt, on various reports from Spain, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 223.)—Fontainebleau.

Also on the same sheet of paper,—

(xxv.)—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, mentioning some reports from Spain, the Polish difficulty, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations in Cole's Memoirs, p. 222.)

Also on the same sheet of paper,—

(xxvi.) Oct. 18.—The Earl of Manchester to some French official, on the case of Mr. Hart, who had been delayed in France by the attempt of a woman to extort money from him. The Earl was reluctant to speak to M. de Torcy on the subject. (Draft. In French.)

Also on the same sheet of paper,—

(xxvii.) Oct. 21.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, stating that he had no further news. (Draft.)

(xxviii.) Oct. 21.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Blathwayt, on the attitude of the Emperor, and on the interpretation of the treaty of Oliva, by the Polish Envoy, with respect to the Courland forts. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 224.)—Fontainebleau.

(xxix.) Oct. 21.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, giving a copy of a letter to Mr. Blathwayt on the continuance of dissensions in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 225.)—Goër.

(xxx.) Oct. 21.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Cressett, touching briefly on various points of European politics. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 225.)—Fontainebleau.

Also on the same sheet of paper,—

(xxxi.) Oct. 24.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, mentioning enclosures to the Lord Chamberlain and Mr. Blathwayt. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 229.)

(xxxii.) Oct. 21. Endorsed Nov. 1. n.s.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him not to encourage the Danes in any hopes of keeping the Hitler fort, and giving some particulars of home affairs. (Printed, with the variation of "Hether" for "Hitler," in Cole's Memoirs, p. 233.)—Hampton Court.

(xxxiii.) Oct. 21.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the King of Spain, who in the extremity of his illness had been persuaded to sign a will in favour of the second son of the Dauphin, had, upon his recovery, shown great indignation against the ministers who had advised him. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 226.)—Madrid.

(xxxiv.) Oct. 22.—The same to the same, informing him that the King of Spain had signed another will or codicil, of which the purport was kept secret, but in which it was supposed that he had named the Archduke Charles of Austria his successor. (In French. A translation of a portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 228.)—Madrid.

(xxxv.) Oct. 22.—Alexander Stanhope to [the Earl of Manchester], expressing a belief that the King of Poland was willing to make peace with Sweden, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 227.)—The Hague.

(xxxvi.) Oct. ¹¹/₂₂.—William Blathwayt to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning an enclosure which would show what were his Majesty's "intended motions," &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 228.)—The Hague.

(xxxvii.) Oct. 24.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey] on Spanish affairs, military movements of the French, &c. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 228.)—Fontainebleau.

(xxxviii.) Oct. 25.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Mountagu, expressing anxiety about the next Session of Parliament, and repeating some details given in other letters. (Draft.)—Fontainebleau.

(xxxix.) Oct. ¹⁵/₂₆.—H. Greg to the Earl of Manchester, on the delay of the Danish King to accede to the Partition Treaty, and various affairs in the North. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 230.)—Copenhagen.

(xl.) Oct. 26.—R. Sutton to the Earl of Manchester on the reluctance of the Emperor to accede to the Partition Treaty, with details, at some length, respecting the position and resources of the Empire. (6 pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 231.)—Vienna.

(xli.) Oct. 28.—The Earl of Jersey to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions respecting proposed modifications of the Treaty of Partition, in favour of the Duke of Savoy. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 238.)—Whitehall.

(xlii.) Oct. 27.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the King of Spain had had an alarming relapse. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 232.)—Madrid.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

* See No. 697, Third Division.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(xliii.) Oct. 28. Endorsed Nov. 8. n.s.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to bring to the notice of M. de Torcy certain practices of the Indians sanctioned by the Governor of Canada, and giving an account of the trial of 90 French pirates at the Admiralty Sessions, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 238.)—Whitehall.

(xliv.) Oct. 31.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the King of Spain was not expected to live through the night, and that certain powers had been given to Cardinal Portocarrero. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs p. 233.)—Madrid.

(xlv.) Nov. 1.—M. Blisson to the Earl of Manchester, requesting the latter to interest himself on behalf of M. Blisson who was unable to obtain a passport, who justified his past conduct, and hoped he would not be abandoned after displaying much zeal and assiduity. (In French.)—Orange.

(xlvi.) Nov. 2. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{2}{13}$.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of the Secret Article by which the Emperor was allowed two months after the death of the King of Spain to decide whether he would accede to the Partition Treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 243.)—Whitehall.

(xlvii.) Nov. 3.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Chamberlain [Earl of Jersey] on Spanish affairs:—to the effect that the French King was satisfied with the mode of partition but would consent to any reasonable alteration of the Treaty, if desired by the King of England. (Draft. Printed, with some variations and omissions, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 234.)—Paris.

Undated.

(xlviii.)—Part of an undirected letter, in the handwriting of the Earl of Manchester, on Spanish affairs, the relations of "the Elector" with the Emperor, &c.

1700.

(xlix.) Nov. 4.—Paul Methuen to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the King of Portugal had signed his Act of Accession to the Partition Treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 235.)—Lisbon.

(l.) Nov. 4. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{4}{15}$.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the King did not consider it expedient to make any change in the Partition Treaty until two months had elapsed after notification of the death of the King of Spain to the Emperor. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 244.)—Whitehall.

(li.) Nov. 4.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a packet for his Majesty, and announcing that upon the death of the King of Spain it was found that the Duc d'Anjou had been named successor by will. Other details are given, both of the will, and of the post mortem examination of the body of the King of Spain. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 235.)—Madrid.

(lii.) Nov. 5.—The Earl of Manchester to M. de Lubières on the affairs of Orange, and expressing hopes of obtaining a passport for M. Blisson. (Draft in French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 236.)—Paris.

(liii.) Nov. 5.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, giving a copy of a despatch to Mr. Secretary Vernon on Northern affairs, and on the probability of Danish troops entering Saxony. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 237.)—Zell.

(liv.) Nov. 11.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester on the interpretation of the Treaty of Travendal, and difficulties anticipated from the march of Danish troops into Saxony. (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 241.)—The Hague.

(lv.) Nov. 18.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure for the King, and giving an account of the attitude of the Queen Dowager of Spain, and the movements of French troops. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 245.)—Madrid.

(lvi.) Nov. 18. Endorsed Nov. $\frac{18}{29}$.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester on the Partition Treaty, and on the project for placing a French Prince on the throne of Spain. (Partly in cipher, with decipher on fly-leaf. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs p. 248.)—Whitehall.

(lvii.) Nov. 26.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the march of the Danes towards Saxony, and of the Swedes towards Wismar, and expressing an opinion that the conjuncture was important. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 247.)—Hanover.

(lviii.) Dec. 2.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the proclamation of the Duc d'Anjou as Philip V., King of Spain, and giving various details of the situation. (In French. A translation of the greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 255.)—Madrid.

(lix.) Dec. 3.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, announcing the expected departure of the Duc d'Anjou for Spain, and expressing fears that "the affairs of Europe were in a very ill condition." (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 255.)—Paris.

(lx.) Dec. $\frac{5}{15}$.—Project of Treaty for the settlement of the affairs of Orange as sent to M. Vryberge by Lord Portland. (In French.)

(lxi.) Dec. 8. Endorsed Dec. $\frac{8}{19}$.—J. Robinson to the Earl of Manchester, giving a long account of the victory of the Swedes over the Muscovites. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 266.)—Stockholm.

(lxii.) Dec. 10. Endorsed Dec. $\frac{10}{21}$.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester directing him to forward an enclosed letter containing a copy of the instructions given to Dr. Aglionby who had been appointed to carry his Majesty's answer to a letter received from the Regency of Spain. The Earl was to forward this enclosure to M. Schonenberg as a precaution against the possible detention of Dr. Aglionby by adverse winds. Particulars are also given of a conversation between Mr. Secretary Vernon and M. Tallard, chiefly on affairs connected with Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 267.)—Whitehall.

(lxiii.) Dec. 10.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the States had despatched their preliminary answer to the French King (in which they asked for time to arrive at a decision on matters connected with the Spanish succession) and expressing an opinion that it would be premature to take any action with respect to the Dutch troops in Flanders. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 259.)—The Hague.

(lxiv.) Dec. 10. Endorsed $\frac{10}{21}$.—Matthew Prior to the Earl of Manchester on the probability of a new Parliament being summoned, and on political prospects in general. (6 pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 269.)—Whitehall.

(lxv.) Dec. 12. Endorsed $\frac{12}{23}$.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving some particulars of Mons. Tallard's interview with the King, and of the movements of Meers and Captain Magrath. (Partly in cipher, deciphered on fly-leaf. Nearly all printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 270.)—Whitehall.

(lxvi.) Dec. 16.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the measures, military and otherwise, adopted by the Court of Madrid, with reflections upon the weakness of Spain. (In French. A translation of the principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 263.)—Madrid.

(lxvii.) Dec. 17.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, giving a copy of a letter to Sir Charles Hedges on the politics of Brunswick, Zell, Hanover, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 263.)—Zell.

(lxviii.) Dec. $\frac{8}{19}$.—J. Robethon to the Earl of Manchester on the affairs of the Principality of Orange. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 265.)—Hampton Court.

(lix.) Dec. 19.—The Earl of Manchester to Lord Halifax [late Mr. Montague], complaining that his expenses had not been paid, and asking Lord Halifax to mention the matter to the Earl of Jersey, who had more interest than ever with the King, and who had named the new Secretary. "I cannot," he says, "comprehend what we are doing, and what measures we intend to take with France." He wished to have "some light" into affairs at home, and how people stood affected.—Paris.

(lxx.) Dec. 20.—The Earl of Albemarle to M. Schuylenbourg, directing him to give the necessary order to the King's Treasurer at Orange for an extra payment of 2,000 francs per annum to M. Lubières, the King's Commandant there. (Copy. In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 266.)—Hampton Court.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

1699.

(lxxi.) Dec. 25. Endorsed Jan. 4, 1700. n.s.—S. Edwin to the Earl of Manchester on various social topics, with a mention of the promotion of Newton to be Master of the Mint. Mr. Montagu being "out of the Treasury" was "all over pleasure and making his house as fine as possible to entertain the ladies; particularly the bathing room is to be mightily finished with a fine field bed."

1700.

(lxxii.) Dec. 26.—The Earl of Manchester to M. Schonenberg informing him that the Emperor was preparing to enter Italy, but that the French troops would be there first. (Draft in French.)—Paris.

(lxxiii.) Dec. 30.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that the new King of Spain might be maintained in a reasonably independent position by the firmness of England and Holland, in spite of the conduct of the Regency. (In French. A translation of the principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 274.)

Undated.

(lxxiv.) Endorsed 1700.—Representation of the British Minister to the Swiss Cantons on the subject of the Partition Treaty. (Copy in French, pp. 7.)

(lxxv.) Endorsed 1700.—Memorial of certain "confessors" to William III., praying him to make representations to the King of France, with the object of obtaining the release of persons sentenced to the galleys for their religion, who were said to suffer great hardships and cruelties. (In French. Endorsed "The French Protestant Remonstrance to the King.")

(lxxvi.) Endorsed 1700.—Draft project of Treaty of Peace between the Kings of Sweden and Poland, presented by M. du Heron, with amendments by M. de Beuchling, Chancellor of His Polish Majesty. (In French, pp. 6.)

(lxxvii.) Endorsed 1700.—Statement of the claims of the House of Montbeliard to the land and seignories of Henricourt, Blamont and Châtelot in Burgundy. (In French.)

687. VOL. VI. (Marked "1701.")

1700.

(i.) Jan. 13. Endorsed Jan. 13, 1700
24, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester touching briefly upon a variety of topics. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 283.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(ii.) Nov. 11.—Abstract of Treaty between the King and the States General, confirming the alliance of March 3, 1677, &c.—The Hague.

1700.

(iii.) Jan. 24. Endorsed Jan. 24, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving instructions on various matters, and some Home news. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 290.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(iv.) Jan. 27.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the arrival of the new King of Spain at Irun, the expected retirement of the Queen Dowager of Spain to Toledo, the notice given to Count Auersberg to leave the Court of Madrid, the Count's acceptance of it as a declaration of war, &c. (In French.)—Madrid.

1700.

(v.) Jan. 27. Endorsed Jan. 27, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning a report of the occupation of Nieuport by the garrison of Dunkirk, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 225.)—Whitehall.

(vi.) Jan. 30. Endorsed Feb. 11, 1701. n.s.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, telling him that the occupation of Ostend and Nieuport by French troops had given great alarm in England. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 301.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(vii.) Feb. 1.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of preparations for the withdrawal of the troops of the Duke of Bavaria from Brussels, in anticipation of the occupation of that city and other places by the French, and expressing a belief that the conjuncture was very critical. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 221.)—The Hague.

(viii.) Feb. 3. n.s.—J. Robethon to the Earl of Manchester on the affairs of Orange. (7 pages. In French. Endorsed, "These letters were left out." See No. 697. Third Division.)—Hampton Court.

(ix.) Feb. 5.—The Earl of Manchester to M. de Torcy, to the effect that he had been empowered by the States General to make some representations in their name, for which purpose he would visit M. de Torcy on the following morning. (Draft in French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 293.)—Paris.

1700.

(x.) Feb. 6. Endorsed Feb. 6, 1700
17, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving some account of an interview between M. Tallard and the King, and of other matters. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 380.)—Whitehall.

(xi.) Feb. 3. Endorsed Feb. 3, 1700
14, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the King's anxiety respecting the Dutch troops in Flanders, (where the inland towns had been occupied by the French) and of an interview of the King with M. Tallard upon the recall of the latter. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 302.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(xii.) Feb. 8.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, expressing fears that the affairs of Holstein would soon be again "embroiled in earnest," and giving some minute details respecting the actions and intentions of the Northern and some of the minor German Courts. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 295.)—Hamburg.

1700.

(xiii.) Feb. 10. Endorsed Feb. 10, 1700
21, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the French would permit the Dutch troops to leave Flanders, but expressing suspicions of French military and naval preparations. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 313.)—Whitehall.

1700-1.

(xiv.) Feb. 11. n.s.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, expressing fears that the intentions of the French were not pacific, and regretting that some despatches had fallen into the hands of the Regents of Spain through an accident to his messenger, Mr. Jolly. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 300.)—Paris.

1700.

(xv.) Feb. 13. Endorsed Feb. 13, 1700
24, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on the approaching meeting of Parliament and various other subjects. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 315.)—Whitehall.

(xvi.) Feb. 17. Endorsed Feb. 17, 1700
28, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the King had communicated to the House of Commons a Memorial in which the States General acquainted His Majesty that they had resolved to acknowledge the King of Spain, and requested His Majesty to have succours in readiness, in accordance with existing treaties. The King had also communicated to both Houses a letter of the Earl of Melfort to the Earl of Perth, disclosing schemes for an invasion, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 319.)—Whitehall.

(xvii.) Feb. 20. Endorsed Feb. 20, 1700
March 3, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving a long account of an interview with M. Tallard (who had expostulated against the communication of the Earl of Melfort's letter to Parliament), the purport of the despatches lost through the death of Mr. Jolly, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 322.)—Whitehall.

(xviii.) Feb. 24. Endorsed March 7, 1701. n.s.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester to the effect that there was a "good accord" between the King and the Parliament, and that preparations for defence (in

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

the event of war) would be made with all diligence. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 325.)—Whitehall.

(xix.) March 3. Endorsed March 3 1700
14 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester on Lord Melfort's letter, on the proposed enlargement of the succession, and on some untrue reports of a league between England, Holland, and the Empire. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 329.)—Whitehall.

(xx.) March 6. Endorsed 6 March 1700
17 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, informing him of negotiations to be carried on at the Hague, and of naval preparations made in England. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 331.)—Whitehall.

(xxi.) March 10. Endorsed 10 March 1700
21 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving him some instructions and some items of news. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 335.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(xxii.) March 10.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, on French influence in Spain, the attitude of Portugal, military movements, &c. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 327.)—Madrid.

1700-1.

(xxiii.) March 18.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, on the negotiations at the Hague and the political prospect in general. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 333.)—Paris.

1700.

(xiv.) March 24. Endorsed March 24, 1700
April 4, 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on the reception of the Partition Treaty by Parliament, the suspicious conduct of the French, a grievance of the African Company against them, and the case of Count Boscelli. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 350.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(xv.) March 25.—A. S. [Alexander Stanhope] to the Earl of Manchester, giving some account of the proceedings at the Conference at the Hague. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 338.)—The Hague.

1700.

(xvi.) March 20. Endorsed March 20 1700
31 1701.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, giving further particulars of the opinion of the Lords upon the Partition Treaty, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 348.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(xvii.) March 29.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the French regarded the demands of England as unreasonable. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 346.)—The Hague.

(xviii.) March 31. Endorsed April 11.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the King had laid before the House of Commons a Memorial from M. Geldermalsen, to the effect that the States were threatened with a sudden attack, and desired succours from England in accordance with the Treaty of [16]77. (Printed, not quite correctly, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 356.)—Whitehall.

(xix.) April 5.—M. Robethon to "Messieurs du Chapitre" of Orange, recommending them to come to an amicable settlement with the Consistory. (In French. Copy. It is followed by a copy of M. Vryberghe's Attestation enclosed in the original. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 360.)—London.

(xx.) April 7.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the public entrance of the new King into Madrid had been fixed for the 14th of April, and giving some particulars of Spanish finance, military movements, &c. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 353.)—Madrid.

(xxi.) April 8.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that the King of Denmark and the Duke of Holstein would "jangle to eternity," but would not yet come to blows, and adding that the presence of the Danish troops in Saxony caused some disquiet in respect of Zell and Hanover. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 353.)—Zell.

(xxii.) April 15 n.s.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope, informing him that the Duke of Savoy had signed the Treaty with France, that the French troops were advancing towards Venice, and that there was a rumour of a Treaty between France, Spain, and Portugal, to exclude English and Dutch ships from Portuguese ports in case of war. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 360.)—Paris.

(xxiii.) April 21. Endorsed May 2.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to press M. de Torcy for the release of "the St. Lo yacht" and her commander. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 370.)—Whitehall.

(xxiv.) April 24. Endorsed May 5.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosures of answers of the Admiralty to complaints of France, and giving some particulars of Home affairs. (Printed, with a paragraph not existing in the original, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 374. See xxxv.)—Whitehall.

Undated.

(xxxv.)—Sheet of paper with writing in cipher, deciphered to the effect that a defensive alliance with England and the States General would be proposed to the King of Portugal, and that his answer would show how far he was engaged "the other way." (Printed, as portion of the preceding letter, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 374.)

1701.

(xxxvi.) April 28. Endorsed May 9.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, touching briefly on various topics. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 376.)—Whitehall.

(xxxvii.) May 1. Endorsed 1 May.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, touching briefly on various topics. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 377.)—Whitehall.

(xxxviii.) May 3.—A. S. [Alexander Stanhope] to the Earl of Manchester, on the conduct of M. d'Avaux in the matter of the negotiations between the States General and France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 371.)—The Hague.

(xxxix.) May 5.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the proposed marriage of the Princess of Savoy with the new King of Spain, and giving an account of the property found on the person of M. Jolly, the Earl's Gentlemen of the Horse [who had been drowned]. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 374.)—Madrid.

(xl.) May 10.—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that M. d'Avaux had presented a Memorial to the States which was of a conciliatory nature. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 376.)—The Hague.

(xli.) March 27. Endorsed April 8.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, touching various topics and especially a "protestation" of the Envoy of Savoy in the name of the Duchess of Savoy "for asserting her right to succeed to the Crown after His Majesty and the Princess" [Anne]. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 354.)—Whitehall.

(xlii.) June 9. Endorsed 9 June.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the King had no intention that England or the States should be separated from the Emperor to whom reasonable satisfaction might be given. Some instructions for his conduct in relation to this matter and some particulars of Home affairs are added. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 394.)—Whitehall.

(xliii.) July 2.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Albemarle. "I took the liberty to trouble your Lordship some time since, and I do not doubt but you have mentioned what I desired to His Majesty. The opportunity I have now, and as His Majesty is going for Holland I thought it convenient to lay before your Lordship my thoughts of the present posture of affairs as well as I can understand them where I am. And since I hear nothing of my being recalled it makes me conclude the King's intentions are, if possible, to come to such an accommodation conjointly with the Emperor that may secure the liberty of Europe, rather than hazard the success of a war. This being the foundation, it will much depend upon the alliances we make, and on the success the Imperialists have in Italy. The belief and the assurances they pretend to have had here that the Parliament would not engage, on any account, in a war, has made them neglect several Princes, who, it is true, expected considerable sums, in particular the Kings of Denmark and Poland. The former is, out of dispute, engaged with us and the Emperor; the latter, there is reason to believe, is with the Emperor, or will be. They begin now to see their error, and will

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"endeavour to prevent a peace between Sweden and Poland, which, on several accounts, in the common interest, should be brought about. I do not know but the engagements there is already between us and Sweden are sufficient, but to have him entirely in our interest, to bring him to those terms which at present are necessary (now the succession of the Crown is settled on the Duchess of Hanover), I should think a match might be proposed between the Electoral Prince and the sister of the King of Sweden. I cannot but believe England would be pleased with it, and we cannot fortify ourselves enough against the power of France and the bigotry and zeal of the Romish religion. The minister of the Duke of Saxe-Gotha has been with his master with proposals from this Court. He is lately returned, and in all probability has his orders. I am told by one of his friends that his master will not be otherwise engaged but with the Circles, which will be soon seen, if so. Besides, the question now will be whether the Princes opposant with the loss of the King of Denmark, Prince of Baden, &c. can be so considerable as that France will think it worth their while to give a considerable sum to have them neuter. I know already the Duke of Wolfenbüttel, with whom France has made a treaty, begins to be uneasy to find himself the only one of all those Princes that is engaged with France, and that the measures France has taken in the Empire seem to have so little success.

"The great point at present is what side Portugal will take, if any. This Court does make them all the offers that are possible, (contrary to the opinion of several of the ministers) and are ready to agree to anything they can desire. They have hitherto resisted their fair words and promises, and it is to be hoped they will continue so. The proceedings of the House of Commons have, till of late, been such that all Europe could not give any judgment of their intentions. I can assure you the Court of France, as well as St. Germain's, have been mightily deceived in their calculations, and the late address has opened their eyes, which was far from what they expected, and it will have its weight at this Court.

"It is certain what alliances France has made, they are either with such Princes that are not in a condition to do you much good, or those that are they very much distrust, whether with reason time must show.

"I do perceive of late so great an alteration, and by the many overtures that have been made me, that I am morally assured, as much as one can be of this Court, that they will do what they can not to engage in a war, since it will be general; and in Spain things go on so ill that they see no possibility to redress them, and the French are so incensed against them, since they find they must bear the whole burden, that if the opinion of the people were asked, they would soon give any terms that could be desired. I take as for England and Holland this Court will readily come into any measures for their security. The difficulty of the satisfaction for the Emperor does still remain. Whether it will long do so I cannot tell, since they are apprehensive at present, not being sure of Portugal. But if the Emperor has the least success we may push at the whole monarchy. It would be too tedious to acquaint your Lordship with the intrigues of this Court in relation to Madame de Maintenon and the Ministers, she being the person that governs all things; she was the chief occasion of accepting the testament of the King of Spain. I cannot tell whether you have heard what has happened to Madame since the death of Monsieur, the King having intercepted several of her letters to the Duchess of Hanover, wherein she expressed herself in very free terms concerning the King, Madame Maintenon, and the misery of France, and in one where she congratulated her on the succession of the Crown of England, which you may imagine is not pleasing here. Madame de Maintenon, upon visiting her, now she is at Versailles ever since Monsieur's death, took occasion of letting her know she ought to fling herself at the King's feet and beg his pardon, at which Madame, who has a great spirit, seemed much surprised, but, being informed how that matter stood, she owned it and gave her reasons. In short, it is made entirely up, and Madame de Maintenon and she are good friends, and she commends Madame to the last degree." The Earl concludes with a suggestion that he should have an interview with the King at Loo. (There is an endorsement, and a note elsewhere, to the effect that the letter was not sent. The sheets are bound in wrong order.)

I 120.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(xlv.) July 14.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, informing him of the discontent among all classes of Spaniards at the prospect of foreign domination, and giving some particulars of the French squadron at Cadiz, the Spanish navy, &c. (In French. The conclusion, wanting in its proper place, is attached to M. Schonenberg's letter of Sept. 8, 1701. See xlviii. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 399.)—Madrid.

(xlv.) July 28.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, asking to be furnished with immediate information, as soon as a rupture with France became inevitable, (in order that British traders in Spain might receive timely warning), and giving particulars relating to the French fleet and the general condition of affairs in Spain. (In French. 6 pages. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 404.)—Madrid.

(xlv.) Sep. 5.—M. Robethon to the Earl of Manchester, on the claims of Madame Isanghyen and her determination to bring them before the Grand Council of Mechlin. (In French. 7 pages. A translation of nearly the whole is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 413.)—Loo.

(xlvii.) Aug. 28.—M. Lubières to the Earl of Manchester, on the affairs of Orange, and the proposed arrangement with the Chapter. (In French.)—Orange.

(xlviii.) Sept. 8.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the departure of the King of Spain to meet his future wife (the Princess of Savoy) the extraordinary powers entrusted to Cardinal Porto-carrero, and various other matters. (In French. The conclusion of a letter from the same to the same, dated July 14. (xlv.) is attached. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 415.)—Madrid.

(xlix.) Sept. 27, n. s.—Paul Methuen to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of an interview with the King of Portugal, who, however, being encouraged by the appearance of a French fleet, had not been persuaded to explain his relations with France and Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 423.)—Lisbon.

(i.) Dec. 28.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, giving a minute account of the miserable condition of Spain, the hopelessness of her finances, the defencelessness of her sea-board, and the advantages enjoyed by French artisans at the expense of the Spaniards. He recommended the strictest secrecy with respect to all measures to be taken against the growth of French domination. (In French. 7 pages.)—Madrid.

(ii.) Dec. 28.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon announcing that he had removed the Arms of England from his house, as the Spanish Court had recognised the pretended Prince of Wales, and asking for further instructions, as he was placed in a delicate and difficult position. (In French.)—Madrid.

1700.

(iii.) Dec. 23.—Endorsed Jan. 3, 1701, n. s.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, on various topics, including an unexplained project of M. Lillierote [i.e. Lillienroot]. (Printed, with the exception of a paragraph in cipher, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 275.)—Whitehall.

1701.

(iii.) Dec. 24.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, announcing that he was about to remove the Arms of England from his house, according to instructions (as the Spanish Court had recognised the pretended Prince of Wales) and giving some particulars of the want of money in Spain. (In French.)—Madrid.

1700.

(liv.) Dec. 26. Endorsed Jan. 6, 1701, n. s.—James Vernon, to the Earl of Manchester on various topics. all briefly touched. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 277.)—Whitehall.

(lv.) Dec. 30. Endorsed Jan. 10, 1701, n. s.—James Vernon to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the arrival of the Emperor's Envoy in support of the Emperor's claim to the Spanish succession and the fief of Milan, and giving some particulars of the King's illness. (Partly in cipher, deciphered. Printed, as deciphered, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 278.)—Whitehall.

1700-1.

(lvi.) Jan. 9.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Robinson, expressing gratification at the defeat of the Muscovites, and a belief in a strong union between France and Spain. (Copy).—Paris.

(lvii.) Also on same paper: The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Stanhope to the same effect. (Copy.)

L

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

1701.

(lviii.) Jan. 13.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Spanish Court was falling more and more under the influence of France. (In French.)—Madrid.

1700-1.

(lix.) Jan. 22.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, on a great variety of subjects relating to Venetian and Italian affairs, &c. (6 closely written pages. A portion is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 282.)—Venice.

1695-6.

(lx.) Jan. 26.—Hugh Broughton to Soranzo and Venier, Ambassadors Extraordinary of the Republic of Venice in London, complaining that he had not, as British Consul, been received with due respect.

Also on the same sheet of paper a portion of the same in Italian.—Venice.

Undated.

(lxi.) Draft articles of agreement, respecting the navigation of the Gulf of Venice, exemption of British ships from payment of certain dues, &c., with remarks on the same. (In Italian. Six large and closely written pages.)

(lxii.) Probably 1707 or 1708. Certainly later than Oct. 8, 1703.—Copy of a representation made by the Earl of Manchester, on behalf of the Queen of England [Anne] to the Emperor, with the object of inducing him to grant investitures of the fief of Montferrat and other provinces to the Duke of Savoy, in accordance with the treaty of Turin of 1703, and to repay a loan. (In French.)

1671.

(lxiii.) Aug. 20.—Draft or copy of resolutions, respecting the constitution and pay of a garrison to occupy, on behalf of the Emperor, the fortress of Bitche, which belonged to the Prince de Vaudemont. (In French.)—Cologne.

1708.

(lxiv.) Oct. 20.—Passport of the States General of the United Netherlands for the baggage, equipage, &c., of the Earl of Manchester, Ambassador of the Queen of Great Britain to the Republic of Venice. (In Dutch. Endorsed with visés also in Dutch.)—The Hague.

Undated.

(lxv.)—Proposal of an Italian (probably Venetian) official for a conference with the British Ambassador on the subject "che per tutta l'Europa ha causato tanto strepito," i.e. probably the Partition Treaty. (In Italian.)

1704.

(lxvi.) Aug. 4.—Copy of Treaty between the Duke of Savoy and the Queen of Great Britain. (Partly in French, and partly in Latin. pp. 31. A translation of a portion, viz., the secret articles, is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 429.)—Turin.

688. VOL. VII. (Marked "1701.")

Undated.

(i.) Endorsed 1701.—Memorial of the Earl of Manchester to King William III., petitioning for arrears of pay due to him as late Ambassador in France.

1701.

(ii.) Jan. 10.—Phillip [V], King of Spain, to the Queen Dowager of Spain, announcing that it would be necessary for her to retire to one of a number of towns to be indicated by him. (In French. Copy. An English translation "out of Spanish" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 290.)—Tarias.

(iii.) Jan. 15.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, being the answer of the States to the Memorial presented to them by the Comte Briord, Ambassador Extraordinary from France, in which he gave the reasons inducing the King of France to accept the will of the late King of Spain. (In French. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 285.)

(iv.) Jan. 15.—The same in Dutch. See above (iii.).

1700-1.

(v.) Jan. 16.—Instructions, under the King's sign manual, given by William III. to the Earl of Manchester, upon the appointment of the latter as Ambassador Extraordinary in France. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 293.)—Kensington.

1701.

(vi.) Jan. 25.—Copy of Memorial to the King of France, embodying the reply of the States General already (iii.) mentioned. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 286, with the addition of the signature, "V. Heemskerk.")—Versailles.

Undated.

(vii.) Endorsed 1701.—Petition of Count Galeasse Boselli, an Italian, to the King of Great Britain, praying that representations might be made to the French Court in favour of his release from the Bastille, in which he had been imprisoned on a charge of a plot against the said King. (In French.)

1701.

(viii.) Jan. 29.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, being instructions to M. Heemskerk, Ambassador at the Court of France, to offer to the French King a contradiction of reports spread abroad, that the States desired war, and an assurance that they were anxious to preserve peace. (In Dutch. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 294.)

(ix.) Jan. 29.—The same in French.

(x.) Letter, signed W., addressed to the King [apparently of England], and referring to some secret design, for the execution of which W. was very anxious that a sufficient sum of money should be remitted to him. (In French. Five pages.)—La Cour de France?

(xi.) Jan. 31.—Letters of Credence of the States General for the Earl of Manchester, who was requested to represent them at the French Court during the illness of M. Heemskerk. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 295.)

(xii.) Feb.—Memorial, presented to the King of France by the Earl of Manchester on behalf of the States General, to the same effect as the extract from their Register of Resolutions of the preceding 29th January (viii.) (Copy. In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 298.)—Versailles.

(xiii.)—Also on same sheet of paper the substance of the answer of M. de Torcy to the same memorial. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 299.)

(xiv.) Feb. 7.—The Earl of Manchester to the States General, thanking them for the honour they had conferred upon him and their Letter of Credence, and informing them that he had presented a Memorial on their behalf. (Copy. In French. A translation is printed, without date, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 298.)—Paris.

(xv.) Feb. 7.—Memorial, presented to the States General by the Sieur de Quiros, the Spanish Ambassador Extraordinary at the Hague, offering explanations of the occupation of fortresses in the Spanish Netherlands by French troops acting as auxiliaries to the Elector of Bavaria, the Governor of the Spanish Netherlands, after the French King had decided to accept the will of the late King of Spain in preference to the Partition Treaty. (In French. Copy. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 305.)—The Hague.

(xvi.) Another copy of the same.

(xvii.) Feb. 9.—The States General to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing a copy of the Memorial of the Sieur de Quiros, and an extract of the Resolution taken upon it. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 307.)—The Hague.

(xviii.) Feb. 9.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, (a reply to the Memorial of the Sieur de Quiros, to be sent also to the Comte de Briord), disclaiming any warlike intentions which might have been inferred from the position of their troops in certain places in the Netherlands. (In French. See xix.)

(xix.) The same in Dutch, with two additional sentences. (A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 308.)

(xx.) Feb. 13.—Copy of the first Memorial of the Comte d'Avaux to the States General, expressing the desire of the King of France that peace should be maintained, and accompanied by a copy of a Letter of Credence (dated Feb. 2) to him as Ambassador Extraordinary. (In French. Translations are printed in Cole's Memoirs, pp. 311-312.)—The Hague.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

Undated.

DUKE OF LANCHES-
TER.

(xxi.) Endorsed Feb. ¹⁶/₂₇.—Copy of a Memorial of the Sieur de Geldermalsen, Envoy Extraordinary of the States General to the King of Great Britain, announcing that the States thought it necessary to proceed to the recognition of the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain, and that they wished to act in concert with his Britannic Majesty, upon whose assistance they relied in the event of an attack upon them by France. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 320.)

1701.

(xxii.) Feb. 18.—The Earl of Manchester to the States General, giving an account of an interview with M. de Torcy (on the subject of the reply of the States General to the Sieur de Quiros), and of the pacific assurances then received. (In French. Copy. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 312.)—Paris.

(xxiii.) Feb. 21.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States-General of the United Netherlands, being the decision to inform the Comte d'Avaux that the States were willing to acknowledge the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain, and hoped the King of France would consequently withdraw his troops from the Spanish Netherlands. (In French. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 316.)

(xxiv.) Feb. 22.—The States General of the United Netherlands to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that they had decided to recognise the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain, and that the Sieur de Heemskerck would deliver the decision to the French Court. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 316.)—The Hague.

(xxv.) Feb. 22.—Copy of a letter from the States General to the King of France, in which they acknowledge the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain, and express their congratulations upon his accession. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 318.)

(xxvi.) Feb. 22.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, being the resolution upon which the last-mentioned letter was founded. (In French. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 318.)

1700-1.

(xxvii.) Feb. 25.—Copy of instructions to Alexander Stanhope, Esq., as Envoy Extraordinary to the States General, for the purpose of negotiating a treaty for the withdrawal of the French troops from the Spanish Netherlands. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 332.)—Kensington.

1701.

(xxviii.) March 3.—Copy of the reply of the King of France to a letter addressed to him by the States General. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 324.)—Versailles.

(xxix.) March 4.—Copy of a letter from the Earl of Manchester to the States General, giving some particulars of an interview with M. de Torcy, who had said that the French troops would be withdrawn from the posts in the Netherlands as soon as the King of Spain was in a position to provide for their defence himself. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 325.)—Paris.

(xxx.) March 22.—Copy of a Memorial of the Comte de Briord (the French Ambassador) to the States General, on the occasion of taking his departure for the re-establishment of his health. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 341.)—The Hague.

(xxxi.) March 22.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, being the decision to communicate (in concert with Mr. Stanhope, the British Envoy Extraordinary) to the Comte d'Avaux, the articles of a projected treaty having for its object the withdrawal of the French troops from the Spanish Netherlands, and a general settlement which would be acceptable to all the parties to the Treaty of Partition from which the King of France had withdrawn. (French. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 341.)

1700.

(xxxii.) March 22. Endorsed 1700-1.—Propositions delivered to the Comte d'Avaux by Mr. Stanhope at the first conference with him. They are of the same purport as the document last mentioned. (In French. 6 pages. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 339.)

1701.

DUKE OF MANCHES-
TER.

(xxxiii.) March 22, 6 p.m.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, relating to the sitting at which was received, from the Deputies for Foreign Affairs, a report of their conference with M. d'Avaux, who had told them it was necessary he should consult his master upon the subject of the proposal that the English should hold Nieupoort and Ostend, and the States certain other places as "places de sureté." (In French. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 343.)

(xxxiv.) March 24.—Copy of a letter of Philip V., King of Spain, to William III. of England, announcing that he had obtained possession of the Spanish dominions, and expressing hopes that he might enjoy the friendship of the English King. (In Latin. A translation, of all but Philip's full style and title, is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 344.)—Buen Retiro.

(xxxv.) March 31. Endorsed ^{March 31}/_{April 11}.—Message of William III. to the House of Commons, informing them of the apparent termination of negotiations between the States General and the King of France, and of the application made by the States General for assistance from England, according to the terms of the treaty of 3rd March 1677. (Printed in the Commons' Journals, XIII., 402.)—Kensington.

(xxxvi.) April 10.—Abstract of the proposition of Count Schlick, General in the Emperor's Army, to the Electors of Cologne, asking them to aid the Emperor in the assertion of his claim to the Spanish monarchy, in the event of a rupture among the powers. It is followed by an abstract of the unfavourable reply of the Electors. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 356.)—Bonn.

(xxxvii.) April 17.—Copy of a letter from William III. to Philip V., of Spain, congratulating the latter upon his accession, and expressing good will, and hopes of lasting friendship. (In Latin. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 370.)—Kensington.

(xxxviii.) May 2.—Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the States General of the United Netherlands, being the decision to represent to the Comte d'Avaux their anxiety to secure the general peace of Europe as well as their own interests. (In French. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 371.)

(xxxix.) May 3.—Another extract from the same, being the decision to communicate to Mr. Stanhope the refusal of the Comte d'Avaux to consent to his presence, as representing British interests, at any conference in which the matters discussed related to the States General, though he might be present "pour seconder les intérêts de cet Estat." (In French. This and the preceding document are fastened together, and the dates are reversed in their endorsements. An English translation "out of Dutch" is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 372.)

(xl.) May 8. Endorsed May ⁸/₁₉.—Message of William III. to the House of Commons, communicating to them a letter from the States General, and representing that the safety of England and the very existence of Holland were in danger. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 384.)—Kensington.

(xli.) May 13. Endorsed May ²/₁₃.—Copy of a letter from the States General to William III., to the effect that they regarded the interests of their country and of England as inseparable, though the Comte d'Avaux had objected to the presence of Mr. Stanhope as representative of British interests at any conference affecting the interests of the States, that they perceived in his conduct a desire on the part of France to put an end to the negotiations, and that they were in urgent need of British succours, as there were already important movements of French troops. (In French. Seven closely written pages. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 379.)—The Hague.

(xlii.) May ²²/₁₁.—Copy of a Memorial of the Emperor's Envoy [Count Wratislaw], to William III., representing the alleged dangers threatening Europe, from the ambition of the King of France, and requesting aid in accordance with the treaty of 1689. (In Latin. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 385.)—London.

(xliii.) May 28.—Extract from the Resolutions of the Circle of Suabia, being a reply to the Envoy Extraordinary of France (who had offered explanations respecting the march of French troops into Alsace, &c.) to the effect that Suabia and the whole Empire would be compelled to take up arms in defence, should any State belonging to, or dependent on the Empire be touched. It is stated, at the foot, that the French Envoy took his leave a few days after the receipt of this reply. (In French.)—Ulm.

L 2

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(xlv.) June 15.—Abstract of the Secret Articles of the Treaty concluded with Denmark by England and the States General. (Printed, with some verbal variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 393.)—Copenhagen.

(xlv.) June 15.—Abstract of the Treaty between England, Denmark, and the States General. (pp. 5. Printed, with some verbal variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 391.)

(xlv.) Sept. 26
Oct. 7.—Abstract of a Convention between England, Sweden, and the States General. (Six short articles. 1 p.)—The Hague.

(xlvii.) Sept. 7.—Abstract of the Treaty between England, the Empire, and the States General. (Printed, with some verbal variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 416.)—The Hague.

(xlviii.) Oct. 2.—Copy of the letter of the Earl of Manchester, announcing his recall upon the recognition of the Pretender by the King of France, and copy of M. de Torcy's reply. (In French. Translations are printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 426.)

689. VOL. VIII. (Marked "1702.")

1702.

(i.) Jan. 7.—[M. Vroese or Vroesen] to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning the correspondence of a Jesuit in London (Father Plaud) with the French Court, and some military movements in Italy, whither the King of Spain had found it necessary to send reinforcements of his best troops. (In French.)—Paris.

(ii.) Jan. 4. Endorsed 1701-2.—The Abbé Melani to the Earl of Manchester, cautioning him against "Milord de Maleborath" [Marlborough], who had sent to make enquiries respecting the Earl's delay in leaving Paris, and giving an account of the hardships endured by the mother and wife of the Count Bosselli in the Bastille, where the Governor had made them suffer for the Count's escape. (In French. 7 pages.)—Paris.

(iii.) Jan. 11.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, giving an account of the illness of the King of Spain, and of the recall (at the instigation of France) of certain officers from the Spanish army in Italy, who were supposed to be too favourably inclined to Austrian interests. He suggested, in a postscript, that when the time came for his own recall he should have Letters of Credence to the King of Portugal, who might be persuaded to act as the allies desired. (In French.)—Madrid.

(iv.) Jan. 11.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon (but according to the endorsement "sent open to Lord Manchester.") He describes his successful efforts to protect the interests of British traders in Spain, the difficulty with which the Governor of Cadiz was restrained from firing at British frigates driven under the citadel by a violent storm, and the lethargy with which the Spanish nation abandoned itself to French influence. He had been questioned on the subject of the removal of the Arms of England from his house, and had not scrupled to give the real reason. (See vol. vi., No. 687, liii.) The French King had given assurance to the Spanish Ambassador that he would do everything in his power in support of his engagements, though not in a position to do as much as he desired. (In French pp. 6.)—Madrid.

Undated.

(v.) Endorsed Jan. 19, 1701-2.—M. Jurieu to the Earl of Manchester. He and his co-religionists looked upon the King of England as a man chosen by God to abate the pride of tyrants, preserve the liberty of Europe, and spread the true religion. The King of England had quite as much right to uphold the Edict of Nantes as the King of France to interfere in the matter of the succession to the English throne. Letters had been sent to the principal Ministers of State to the effect that God had not blessed previous treaties, because His interests had been altogether forgotten in them. The Earl was implored, on that and other accounts, to press upon the attention of the King the interests of Protestants abroad. Memorials on the subject had been sent to Mr. Secretary Vernon. (In French. 7 pages.)

Also postscript to the same, written on separate paper, so that while the letter could be shown to various persons, the "petites affaires" between Jurieu and the Earl would be kept to themselves. This relates to the amount and mode of remittance of the money to be paid to Jurieu, and to a M. Caillaud. The latter, it seems, undertook the "correspondences de France," but not the "correspondences de Flandre." The details had been arranged by Mr. Blathwayt and Mr. Vernon. The remittances, however, were not sent quite in accordance with the wishes of the "correspondents." (In French. 4 pages.)

1702.

(vi.) Jan. 20.—Memorandum relating to the affairs of Lithuania, including the death of the young Sapieha. (In French.)—Warsaw.

(vii.) Jan. 27.—M. Martine to [the Earl of Manchester], promising to keep him informed of events which might occur at Paris, but pointing out that it would be necessary to take some precautions. Martine could not depend on any official position to enable him to send his letters openly, because he could not claim it on the ground of his employment in the service of the Republic of Geneva, and his employment in the service of the Court of Cassel would cease with the expected rupture. (In French.)—Paris.

(viii.) Jan. 25.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon. After discussing the possible movements of the Mexican fleet and the French squadron under Chateau-Renaud he proceeds as follows:—The Court scarcely troubles itself about the pitiable condition to which the kingdoms of Spain are reduced, though without troops, or fortresses, or any means of making good these defects and others of equal importance, so universal and profound is the financial collapse. There is not a single port, with the exception of Cadiz and Gibraltar, in a condition to make the least resistance to an attack by a squadron of 8 or 10 ships of war, carrying a few troops for a descent on land. Nevertheless, people here are fallen into inconceivable negligence and lethargy, without disquiet, without a care for the future, just as if they were enjoying the assurance of peace, so enervated and lost in impotence has become the spirit of this nation, insensible to present ills, and blind to the future misfortunes with which it is threatened. The Government, it is true, seems to rely upon some flattering tales, which it receives from various quarters, that England and the Netherlands are incensed only against the predominant power and the overweening ambition of France; that Spain herself has nothing to fear, even should war be openly declared, because, according to all appearances, operations would be restricted to Italy and the Netherlands, and possibly America; and that France will have to take upon herself the difficult task of defence. France has, beyond dispute, the greatest interest in the preservation of all these vast dominions, not so much for the sake of honour as of the incalculable advantages which she, above all other Powers, expects to derive from them, and especially with the prospect of sapping the most solid foundations of the navigation and commerce of England and Holland. According to this view, Spain, while preserving a perfect calm in the midst of the storm about her, will be able to devote herself to the improvement of her fallen condition, beginning with home affairs, which are the source of her other misfortunes. At the same time she will be able to look to her wool-trade and her fruit-trade, and the increase which her revenues may derive from them, supposing always that the English and the Dutch will be content to sail to her ports and to traffic with her. Such is the language used to sustain the failing hopes of the people. I confess this idea seems to me somewhat chimerical; at any rate, I am quite sure it would be well to induce a conviction that it is so. Even should the intention of the Allied Powers be to leave Spain to her fate, it would still be expedient to keep the secret impenetrable, and simulate, on the other hand, a design to make sharp attacks upon the coasts of these kingdoms, and landings to gain possession of the most secure ports, and to carry the war into the heart and centre of the monarchy. This, I am sure, would terribly alarm the Court and people, and immediately compel the ministry to entreat France to grant the succours necessary for their defence, as being the matter of the greatest urgency, while France would be unable to comply, except by a considerable diversion of her forces.

With respect to the affair of "Zas de Gand" this Court remains immovable, just as if it had no concern in the matter, and France alone were interested. It abandons itself absolutely to the superior and arbitrary

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

THE
OF HACKING
THE.

direction of the French Court, to which it entrusts without reserve the most important rights and the sovereign power. Of this the French do not fail to take the utmost advantage. They do not concert measures with this Government until they have long taken action themselves, and thus appear to add mockery to insult and contempt by asking an opinion on a course already taken. This Court understands well enough that France, under pretence of consulting it, imposes on it the necessity of approving everything that she has done; but, however high-handed and masterful the proceeding might be, this Court would never dare to complain or murmur except in secret, in such abject submission has it fallen to the good pleasure of France. (In French. pp. 6.)—Madrid.

(ix.) Jan. 26.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, referring again to the financial embarrassments of Spain, mentioning the delay of the British ships of war at Cadiz through stress of weather, and the rumour from France that the King of Spain was to command in Italy in person, and touching on some minor details of Spanish affairs. (In French. 6 closely written pages.)—Madrid.

(x.) Jan. 27.—Unsigned paper (possibly sent by Martine, though not in his handwriting), giving information of the decision of the Council and King in France in favour of the departure of the King of Spain for Naples. The latter would probably go on afterwards to the Milanese, if, indeed, there were not found insuperable objections to the whole project at the last moment. Much surprise had been caused by the ready vote of 5,000,000*l.* to the King in England. Various rumours which had reached the writer are mentioned, and among them one that the Princess of Denmark was pregnant. (In French.)—Paris.

(xi.) Jan. 27.—John Cole to the Earl of Manchester, on the affairs of Lithuania, where the families of Sapieha and Oginski had become reconciled (thus opening the way to peace between Sweden and Poland) on the negotiations of the Emperor with the Elector of Bavaria to the discomfiture of the Elector of Cologne, and on the warlike preparations in the Netherlands, where the resolutions taken in England had given much encouragement.—Amsterdam.

(xii.) Jan. 28.—M. Plantamour to the Earl of Manchester, congratulating him on his appointment as First Secretary of State, and mentioning enclosure. (In French.)—Berlin.

(xiii.) Jan.—Enclosure, giving some particulars of news lately received at Berlin. (In French.)—Berlin.

(xiv.) Jan. 31.—M. Martine to the Earl of Manchester, suggesting that his letter to the Earl should, for the sake of secrecy, be directed, under cover, to some person in trade. A little judicious expenditure might aid in the discovery of what was going on at Court. M. Martine was not in any way actuated by a regard for his own interest, and he would prefer to receive whatever the Earl might be pleased to give him, not in one sum, but as an annual salary. (In French.)—Paris.

(xv.) Jan. 31.—Paper (unsigned, and possibly sent by M. Martine, but not in his handwriting), on French military affairs, and the projected expedition of the King of Spain to Naples and the Milanese, on the news from various parts of Europe, and especially from Italy, and the alarm excited in France by the attitude of England. (In French.)—Paris.

(xvi.) Feb. 9.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, giving an account of the alarm felt in Spain at the projected voyage of the King to Naples, of the refusal of the traders of Madrid to make a special contribution to meet emergencies, and of the hopeless condition of Spain in general. He mentions enclosure of a copy of a letter from the King of France to the King of Spain. (In French.)—Madrid.

(xvii.) Feb. 5.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes of the success of the Imperialists in Italy, and of the accession of the Archduke to the Crown of Naples, and asking for the Earl's influence that he might be appointed to bear the King's congratulations upon that event. Count Mansfeldt, the Austrian "President of War," had always lived in good correspondence with the Duke of Savoy, and still hoped he might "play his old game and change sides." It would therefore be expedient "so to manage Count Maffei as to keep open a door for reconciliation to which the Duke's natural love of change would contribute." Jordan was "like to go out in a snuff at Paris," as his master's "volatile spirit was at last fixed in favour of the Allies." Perhaps Bavaria would do the same after the vigorous resolutions of the English Parliament, which had inspired great confidence in Austria. An enclosure is mentioned.—Vienna.

(xviii.) Feb. 5. Endorsed "Received Feb. 9, o. s."—Memorandum (endorsed "Stepney,") giving particulars of the Austrian troops destined for the expedition to Naples, against which the Nuncio, Prince Eugene, and the Envoy of Modena had remonstrated, as calculated to weaken the Imperial forces elsewhere. A draft treaty between the King of Poland and the Emperor for the supply of troops to the latter had been brought from Warsaw.—Vienna.

(xix.) Feb. 8.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, showing how completely Spain was under the influence of France, even to matters of ecclesiastical patronage, and how it would be through that influence that the King would set out for Naples, and giving some financial, military, and naval details. (In French. 7 closely written pages.)—Madrid.

(xx.) Feb. 10, n. s.—"J. G." to "Mr. Hainning, at the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Portland's lodgings," giving an account of the news which had reached Paris of the surprise of Cremona, effected by Prince Eugene, and of his subsequent defeat by the French, though he had retained Marshal Villeroy as his prisoner.—Paris.

1701-2.

(xxi.) Feb. ¹⁰/₂₁—Alexander Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, expressing satisfaction with the great public spirit displayed by the Dutch, and their readiness for war. He touches on the humiliation of Marshal Villeroy, and the various probabilities of the political and military situation. Lord Albemarle had arrived.—The Hague.

1702.

(xxii.) Feb. 11, n. s.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, on the attitude of the various Swiss Cantons with respect to the recognition of the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain, and the efforts of the Marquis de Puisieulx, the French Ambassador, to obtain it. (In French.)—Bern.

(xxiii.) Feb. 21.—Etienne Caillaud to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Comte de Breuille and a person named La Roche were supposed to have embarked at the Brill for London. It was expected that the address of La Roche in London could be obtained from his wife. The Earl was thanked for his protection of Caillaud's brother. The return of M. Coetlogon to Brest, without the galleons, which remained at Vera Cruz, would seriously derange the finances of Louis XIV. (In French.)—Rotterdam.

(xxiv.) Feb. 18.—Unsigned memorandum (by M. Hervart?) on the attitude of the Swiss Cantons in relation to Austria and to France. They had decided that they would not congratulate the Duc d'Anjou [on his accession to the throne of Spain]. The Marquis de Puisieulx had represented the affair at Cremona as advantageous to the French, and had, in consequence, been compared to the "Cuckold in the Comedy," who was beaten and content. (In French.)—Baden.

(xxv.) Feb. 22.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, on British subjects who had become naturalised in Spain, especially Francois Archer, a banker, said to be a violent Papist and partisan of France, and a zealous supporter of the party opposed to "the rights of the legitimate succession in the Protestant line." (In French.)—Madrid.

(xxvi.) Feb. 22.—M. Schonenberg to Mr. Secretary Vernon, giving an account of the suspicions entertained in Spain that the Spanish King's intended voyage to Naples might be followed by his abandonment of Spain for the throne of Naples and Sicily alone, of the discontent general among all ranks in Spain, and of the difficulty of finding money for the public service. M. Schonenberg maintains the accuracy of the details in this and previous letters of the helpless condition of Spain, though the reports of some persons, and even of some consuls, might cause a different impression. The partisans of France were striving to inspire confidence in expectation of the return of the Mexican fleet. Their boasts would probably come to nothing, but the allies would do well to make a demonstration with promptitude. (In French. 7 pages.)—Madrid.

(xxvii.) Feb. 22.—Memorandum (unsigned) on the proceedings of the Swiss Cantons, including their resolution to accede to the demand of the Emperor for a levy of troops. The Protestant Cantons had decided that they would not recognise the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain; the others held the question ad referendum. (In French.)—Baden.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(xxviii.) Feb. 22.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning difficulties caused by the demand of the Canton of Zurich to nominate the Colonel of one of the regiments demanded by the Emperor from the Swiss. (In French.)—Bern.

(xxix.) Feb. 25, n. s.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that the Swiss Cantons would remain firm in their resolve not to recognise the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain. (In French.)—Bern.

(xxx.) Feb. 28, n. s.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that the French Ambassador would be unsuccessful in the demand which he had made for a corps of 6,000 Swiss, according to the terms of the Treaty of Alliance, and giving some of his reasons. (In French.)—Bern.

(xxxi.) March 7.—Joseph Shallett to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that the province in which he had been drained of troops (for the intended campaign in Italy) and of money (which had been sent to France).—Barcelona.

(xxxii.) March 8.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, calling attention to two points in an enclosed paper. He adds:—"I must entreat your Lordship that what I write to you upon occasion may not interfere with Mr. Secretary in what relates to his province, and that he be left to relate to his Majesty all that I have to represent. Your Lordship is sensible this is a duty I owe him in his post, and if it should happen otherwise it might be a means of making him less favourable to me."—Vienna.

(xxxiii.) March 8.—The enclosed paper to which reference is made above. The two points to which attention is called are:—(1.) The definitive sentence of the Pope (of which some details are given) in favour of the Elector Palatine in his dispute with the Duchess of Orleans. (2.) The permission given by the Emperor to the King of the Romans "to make the campaign." He would command upon the Rhine, and the French would have full employment upon all hands.—Vienna.

(xxxiv.) March 8.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, pointing out the difficulty of finding any one in Spain who would incur the danger of corresponding with the English Government, after a rupture had occurred, and M. Schonenberg had himself left Madrid. The suggestion that such a person should be found had been made by William III. (In French. Six closely written pages.)—Madrid.

(xxxv.) March 8.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, on the alarm and difficulties caused in Spain by the delay of the Spanish fleet in returning from Mexico, the exhaustion of the Spanish finances, and the uncertainty whether the King of Spain would undertake the voyage to Naples. (In French. Seven pages.)—Madrid.

(xxxvi.) March 9.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning the departure of half a dozen English families under escort of the English man-of-war "Filborough," the restitution of papers taken from the Queen Dowager's confessor, the appearance of a comet, and other minor matters. (In French.)—Madrid.

Undated.

(xxxvii.) Endorsed March 22, n. s.—[Received] 6th Apr. o. s.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester. The King of Spain was about to embark for Italy, but without the young Queen. There was great embarrassment caused both to France and to Spain by the detention of the Mexican fleet. Spain was in a state of defencelessness both by land and by sea. The Danish army had received orders to leave Madrid. An enclosure is mentioned. (In French. 6 pages.)

1702.

(xxxviii.) March 22.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, suggesting that when the time should come for leaving Madrid he should return by way of Portugal. The Government of the Netherlands approved of this route, and had sent him a Letter of Credence for the King of Portugal. He hoped the King of England would take the same view. An enclosure is mentioned. (In French.)—Madrid.

(xxxix.) March 22.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, requesting the latter to represent to the King that he was in urgent need of money for his ordinary and extraordinary expenses. His outlay had been very great, and there would be new calls upon him when he withdrew. (In French.)—Madrid.

(xl.) March 23.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the ratification of the article against the Pretender, and expressing some anxiety respecting the position of Prince Eugene in Italy, although the expedition to Naples had been deferred. (Partly in cipher.)—Vienna.

March 23.—Attached is a memorandum giving the news which had reached Vienna of the progress of events in Europe. (pp. 5.)—Vienna.

(xli.) March 28¹⁷—Etienne Caillaud to [the Earl of Manchester], mentioning enclosure of a list of French vessels of war as existing in 1699, promising to send such information as he could obtain of changes in their number and disposition, and describing the great sorrow felt in the United Provinces at the death of King William. Some consolation, however, was found in the good disposition of the Queen, his successor, and of the English Parliament. (In French.)—Rotterdam.

(xlii.) April 6.—Richard Brown to the Mayor of Canterbury, demanding restitution of fees paid by him to the gaoler of the gaol to which the mayor had committed him.—"The Venetian Ambassador's in St. James's Square."

(xliii.) April 7.—The Abbé Melani to the Earl of Manchester, expressing great regret at the death of King William. The French Court had gone into mourning for him as Stadholder of the United Provinces. The Abbé could assure the Earl that if Her Majesty would announce to the King of France the death of her predecessor, and her own accession, the period of mourning would be extended, and she would be acknowledged as Queen of England. Ministers who had been employed to bring about a good understanding between the two nations had fomented quarrels through a regard to their own interests. An attempt should now be made to establish between England and France "un honneste" correspondence, laissant aux Allemands à faire la "guerre avec leur methode ordinaire." (In French.)—Paris.

(xliv.) April 19, n. s.—M. Hervart to the Earl of Manchester, on dissensions among the different Swiss Cantons, especially with respect to the recognition of the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain. The Canton of Lucerne had now recognised him, and might therefore have to provide him with forces for the defence of the Milanese. (In French.)—Bern.

(xlv.) 29 March⁴ 9 April.—L. [Sir Lambert] Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, sending present of "graine tobacco" and an enclosure with the news from Naples to the first of April, and from Rome to the fourth of April. (pp. 5.)—Florence.

Undated.

(xli.) Endorsed 1702.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester. The Grand Duke, Prince, and Princess [of Tuscany], were very uneasy because the King of Spain had not yet left Naples. News of a great action fought by Prince Eugene, who was watching Vendôme, might be expected. An enclosure is mentioned.

1702.

(xlvii.) Memorandum giving the news from Naples up to April 8, from Rome up to April 11, from Pisa up to April 14, and from Leghorn up to April 14.

(xlviii.) April 15.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his regret at the death of King William III., and his wish to be transferred to Venice, and mentioning an enclosure, which seems to be the above (xlvii.)—Florence.

(xlix.) April 14.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, expressing surprise that he had received no letter from his Lordship's office, and asking to be honoured with instructions to communicate the death of King William and the accession of Queen Anne to the College. He was put to great charges, which the "perquisites by consulage" would not support in the event of war, and entreated the Earl to "patronise the "propagating" his interest. There was good reason to suppose that his letters sent by way of Flanders had been delayed or intercepted since the French "turned" out Prince Tassis [Taxis] at Brussels," and he suggested a remedy. He understood there would be no delay in Venice in acknowledging the Queen, as there had been in the case of her predecessor.—Venice.

(l.) April 18.—Thomas Kirke to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Emperor's Envoy was about to quit Genoa, because the Government of the Republic had refused to comply with a demand for money for the campaign in Italy.—Genoa.

(li.) April 21.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Mau-

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

THE
OF NOTES
TER.

chester, giving various items of news, and among them the report of the English fleet being about to enter the Mediterranean. He was anxious to have a new commission from Her Majesty by the Earl's influence. He mentions the case of the Venetian Ambassador's messenger, who had been intercepted and sent to prison by the Mayor of Canterbury. (See letter of April 6, xlii.)—Venice.

(lii.) April 29.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, on the ill effects of not having an English fleet in the Mediterranean (which might have hindered the passage of the Duc d'Anjou) on the designs of the Emperor with respect to Italy, and on the difficulty of "bringing about" the Duke of Savoy. Some exchanges of territory for the last-named purpose had been suggested, but such propositions could hardly be entertained before the end of the war.—Vienna.

(liii.) May 2.—M. d'Ebeling (Envoy of Monbeliard) to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes that England and the States General would support the re-establishment of His Serene Highness of Monbeliard in his sovereignty. (In French.)—The Hague.

(liv.) May 13.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of copies in Italian and English of the Grand Duke's answer to Her Majesty's letter, duplicates of which had been previously sent under another cover. He depended on the Earl's influence to have credential letters for Venice added to letters for Florence. He would attend to Lord Kingston's and Sir Alexander Rigby's affairs and send the Earl's picture. He was in correspondence with Prince Eugene, to whom he had done a service in respect of some deserters, and whom he had requested to send "the journal of the camp, by every quick conveyance," to the Earl. He wished to be remembered to Lord Halifax.—Florence.

(lv.) May 20.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning some enclosures, and among them a letter from Prince Eugene (with translation into English). The picture for the Earl of Kingston was of great value, and Sir Lambert parted with it purely to oblige him and the Earl of Manchester. The copy for the latter might be put on board any man-of-war which came "so high" as Leghorn. The small merchant shipping there was not to be trusted to the value of 10*l*. Sir Lambert again asked for credentials to Venice.—Florence.

(lvi.) May 23.—M. Schonenberg to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his belief that the appearance of a fleet of the Allied Powers would be required to bring Portugal to a satisfactory attitude, as the Portuguese ministers had entered into very close and almost indissoluble engagements with the French. He hoped the Danish envoy at Madrid had by this time begun to send the Earl particulars of events in Spain. (In French.)—Lisbon.

(lvii.) May 25.—Prince Eugene of Savoy to Sir Lambert Blackwell, thanking him for a service rendered in respect of some deserters, and explaining the difficulties in the way of sending his diary to the Earl of Manchester, as all matters relating to the diaries were issued from the German Chancery, and it would be a long process to translate them into either French or Italian. (In Italian.)—Imperial Camp at Curtotone.

(lviii.) May 26.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, giving the news which had reached him from Naples up to May 9, and from Rome up to May 20, with particulars of military movements of the French and Germans in the State of Mantua, &c.—Venice.

7 June
(lix.) 27 May.—M. Jurieu to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his regret that the latter had been succeeded as Secretary of State by Lord Nottingham, with whom, however, he would maintain communication. (In French.)—Rotterdam.

(lx.) June 2.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, thanking the latter for the renewal of his commission and expressing fears that some difficulties might arise from the fact that the State of Venice had prevented an English ship, with eight English seamen on board, freighted by the Emperor's Ambassador, and carrying the Imperial colours, from leaving port.—Venice.

(lxi.) June 2.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of news received from Naples up to May 26, and from Rome up to May 27, with some details of the military movements in Italy, &c.—Venice.

(lxii.) June 9.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, giving the news received at Venice from Naples up to May 30, and from Rome up to June 3, with some particulars of military movements.—Venice.

(lxiii.) June 6.—Hugh Broughton to the Earl of Manchester, giving news from Naples up to June 6, from Rome up to June 10, and the particulars known at Venice, at the date of the letter, of military movements in Italy.—Venice.

(lxiv.) Aug. 12, n. s.—Sir Lambert Blackwell to the Earl of Manchester, thanking the latter for recommending Sir Lambert to Lord Nottingham, from whom he had received new credentials and instructions about Sir Alexander Rigby's business. He trusted the Earl had received the snuff. He refers again to his account with Lord Kingston and to the painting to be sent to the Earl.—Florence.

690. VOL. IX. (Marked "1702.")

Undated.

(i).—"Points to be debated" respecting the Ninth Electorate and the Empire.

(ii).—Memorial drawn up for the purpose of inducing the British Government to support the Prince de Monbeliard. (In French. pp. 6.)

(iii).—Memorial drawn up for the purpose of inducing the Diet of Ratisbon to support the Prince de Monbeliard. (In French.)

(iv).—Memorial drawn up for the purpose of inducing the Swiss Cantons to support the Prince de Monbeliard. (In French.)

(v).—Memorial drawn up for the purpose of inducing the Emperor and States General to support the Prince de Monbeliard, upon the recommendation of the British Government. (In French.)

(vi).—Abstract of Treaty of Alliance concluded by the Emperor with the King of England and the States General, Sept. 7 [1701.] (In French. Printed. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 416. See also vol. VII., No. 688, of this collection, xlvii.)

(vii).—Memorial concerning the difficulty raised by the ministry of Lorraine with respect to the counties of Bitche, Sarwarden, and Bougenon, belonging to the Prince de Vaudemont. (In French.)

(viii).—Another copy of the same.

(ix).—Address of the Lords and of the Commons to Queen Anne, and her answer respecting the treachery of William Gregg, and the general want of secrecy in Mr. Secretary Harley's office [1707-8.]

(x). Endorsed:—R[ecieved] Feb. 3, 1702.—"Some few Queries about the Preparatives of making way for a Prince of Wales in the year 1687, &c."

"Q. 1. Whether the two children of the Princess Anne, Lady Mary and Lady Ann, died of any disease, or else were destroyed by physic, and who were the authors of it, or also of Her Highness miscarrying at the same time, all to make way for the pretended Prince of Wales, when the doctors tried practices upon the Princess, and Dr. S. disputed the case with Dr. R. at that time, and told him he deserved to be whipped about the pig-market for what he had done to the Princess, and Dr. S. at the same time took pains by the help of Mrs. Boyl, and the Countess of Clarendon, and the Lady Ranelagh, Dowager, to have brought such help to the Princess as had not failed, and would have been communicated to the Princess's doctors?"

"(2.) At the same time, Sir Thomas Powys (the King's Attorney-General at that time), his Lady was put in the same course of physic as the Princess was, but her Ladyship held it not above eight days, and was like to have lost her own life and the child's too, yet her Ladyship did accept of the help that was offered to be communicated to the Princess's doctors, and was by that means carried through her full time of a son, which is yet alive, and the Princess had a son born two months before the time, which, as was supposed, lay dead a full month within her?"

"(3.) Whether the same persons have not been the great opposers of the Princess having help, though the late gracious Queen made it her desire to the Princess to accept of such help, which her Highness could run no hazard in, since her doctors might have been judges of the case, and her own apothecary might make up the medicines, and within a few days or weeks after this desire of the Queen, there was a breach made between the two great sisters, and for what is fit to be queried, it was in the year 1690, and the Princess has had eight or nine dead children since that time?"

"(4.) Whether it be not proper to be queried who have been the persons that have opposed the same help since the Queen's death, five or six of the children having been born dead since 1695?"

"(5.) Whether the promoters of the Assassination Plot, and the advancers of the pretended Prince of

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Wales's interest, are not all of a piece? If that be true, the next query may be :

"(6.) Who were the persons that promoted, or at least winked at both the assassination, invasion, and insurrection, which, with humble submission, is no hard matter to make appear.

"(7.) Whether all these evil designs upon the Princess has not been a preparative to usher in the pretended Prince of Wales, after the death of King James, on purpose to cut off the Princess from her right to the Crown, and to set up Popery and arbitrary government in these nations."

Endorsed : "Mrs. Margaret Mortimer's paper."

(xi.) [After 1716.]—A Representation of the state of America given to the King by the Lords Commissioners of Trade, &c., showing the respective situations, governments, strength, trade, &c. of the several "Plantations, on the Continent of America. (42 pages. Printed in part, in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 394.)

1702.

(xii.) Jan. 12, Endorsed Jan. 12, n. s., Received Jan. 9, 1701-2.—Paper unsigned and unaddressed, but probably drawn up by direction of Martine. It gives some particulars of French naval, military, and financial affairs. Madame de Maintenon was so careful to prevent the King receiving any news which might annoy him that she was beforehand with every one who had occasion to speak to him, and had recently been in the habit of instructing M. de Catinat as to what he should say.

Mention is also made of the affair of Mirandola, for which M. de la Citardie was blamed. A number of men in disguise had been introduced into the place on pretence of a fair, after which "the Princess" had sent for Citardie and offered him a passport enabling him to retire with his battalion. She had made common cause with Prince Eugene, because the French were unable to protect her from the insults of the Germans. She was Regent during the minority of the young Prince, her grandson. It was said, there were orders for the arrest of De la Citardie. It was certain that Catinat had left [Paris?] on the 2nd; Prince Eugene was retreating and his troops going into winter quarters. The numbers of French, Spanish, and Savoyard troops intended for the expedition to Italy are stated. (In French, pp. 7.)—Paris.

(xiii.) Jan. 23.—Copy of a letter from the King of France to the King of Spain, expressing strong approval of the expedition to the latter to Italy. (In French.)

(xiv.) Another copy of the same.

(xv.) A third copy of the same.

1703.

(xvi.) Feb. 8. Endorsed 1701-2.—Translation of a notification of the Spanish Consul, Navarro, to the Earl of Manchester, that the King of Spain had prohibited the importation into his dominions of any merchandise of the growth of the Emperor's countries.—London.

(xvii.) The same notification in French. It is dated Feb. 8, 1702.

1702.

(xviii.) Feb. 24.—Copy of a letter (unsigned) to a friend of the writer's in Holland, on the surprise of Cremona, and on French and Spanish prospects in Italy, the Netherlands, &c. The tone is one of indignation against the ambition of the King of France, which threatened the country with disgrace and defeat at the hands of the enemies he provoked, and which might cause a demand among the people for a change of Government. These sentiments are represented as being common in France. It was also considered necessary for the security of England and Holland that the House of Bourbon should cease to have any share in the monarchy of Spain, and that assurances should be given for the protection of commerce. (In French, 17 pages. Probably sent to the Earl of Manchester through the agency of Martine.)—Paris.

1701-2.

(xix.) Jan. 24.—Report of the Lords Commissioners of Trade to the King, setting forth the state of defence of the several "Plantations" of America as ascertained by the replies of the Governors to the enquiries of the Commissioners. It is signed by the Earl of Stamford, Sir P. Medows, Mr. Secretary Blathwayt, John Pollexfen, and Mathew Prior. (24 pages.)

1702.

(xx.) March 11.—Copy of a letter from M. Schonenberg to Don Joseph Perez de la Puente, asking for his passports. (In Spanish.)—Madrid.

(xxi.) Translation of the same into French.

(xxii.) March 22.—Copy of a letter from the King of France to the King of Spain, congratulating the latter on the character of his consort, and on the good sense shown by both in reconciling themselves to a separation necessary for his glory [in consequence of the expedition to Italy]. Also, on the same sheet of paper, a copy of a similar letter to the Queen of Spain. (In French.)

(xxiii.) Another copy of both letters. (In French.)

Undated.

(xxiv.) Endorsed April 6, 1702.—Copy or translation into English of a letter of Queen Anne to the King of Portugal, announcing her accession to the throne.

(xxv.) Endorsed April 6, 1702.—Draft of some instructions to Mr. Methuen, to point out to the King of Portugal the dangers of a French and the advantages of an English alliance.

(xxvi.) Endorsed April 6, 1702.—"Particulars relating to the instructions intended for Portugal," being criticisms and suggestions.

1702.

(xxvii.) April 6.—Instructions at length to Mr. Methuen, to demand of the King of Portugal free entrance into all the ports of his kingdom for the fleets of England and her allies without restriction of number, and to return to England immediately should the demand be refused. He was also to endeavour to bring Portugal into the alliance with England, the Netherlands, and the Empire, and to offer territorial inducements for that purpose. (pp. 6.)—St. James's.

(xxviii.) A draft of the same, with some variations.

(xxix.) Another draft of the same, and of the "particulars relating" to them already mentioned.

(xxx.) April 6.—Another copy of Queen Anne's letter, announcing to the King of Portugal her accession to the throne. (See xxiv.)

(xxxi.) April 8, n. s.—M. Hervart to Queen Anne, congratulating her upon her accession, and asking to be continued in his employment in Switzerland. (In French.)—Bern.

(xxxii.) May 1.—Prince Eugene of Savoy to Sir Lambert Blackwell, asking for information, about deserters from his army, and promising a diary of all that passed in it. He requested Sir Lambert's good offices with respect to the letters of Don Sebastian de Villa Torres, and Don Francisco Pacheco. (In Italian. On the same paper is a translation of the same into English.)—General Quarters at Lazzara.

(xxxiii.) May 7.—Translation into English of a letter from Cardinal Grimani to Cardinal Paulucci, remonstrating against the reported intention of the Pope to send a Legate to congratulate the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain upon his arrival at Naples. This is followed by a translation of the reply of Cardinal Paulucci, to the effect that, although the Pope intended to send a Legate to congratulate the King of Spain upon his arrival in Italy, no investiture had yet been granted. On the same paper are also copies of the last-mentioned two letters in Italian.—Rome.

(xxxiv.) May 12.—Copy of a letter from the Grand Duke of Tuscany to Queen Anne, upon her accession to the throne of England. (In Italian.)—Florence.

(xxxv.) Translation of the same into English.

(xxxvi.) Another copy of the last-mentioned translation.

691. VOL. X. (Marked "1707.")

1707.

(i.) Jan. 1.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that a projected attack of the French upon Switzerland, though postponed, was not abandoned, and that the situation might be improved to the advantage of the Allies.—Bern.

(ii.) Jan. 7.—The Sieur J. J. Hamel Bruyninx to the Earl of Manchester, expressing surprise that certain news of the infantry destined for Catalonia having sailed had not yet been received, and a hope that Count Guido de Staremberg would prove a successful commander in place of Prince Eugene. (In French.)—Vienna.

1706-7.

(iii.) Jan. 7. Endorsed Jan. 18.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to return to town, and prepare for immediate departure for his post [at Venice]. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 434.)—Whitehall.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

1707.

THE
OF
MANCHESTER.

(iv.) Feb. 15, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, requesting him, when in Vienna on his way to Venice, to assist the Duke of Savoy in respect of an article of a Treaty with the Austrian Court relating to the province of Vigevanasco, in the State of Milan.—Turin.

1706-7.

(v.) March 7. Endorsed March $\frac{7}{18}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, directing him to hasten his journey to Vienna in order to dissuade the Court there from sending troops to Naples, as that course would be destructive to the concerted design of carrying the war into Dauphiné and France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 434.)—Whitehall.

(vi.) March $\frac{7}{18}$.—Robert Harley to the Earl of Manchester, to the same effect, and mentioning enclosure of a Memorial from M. Vryberge. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 434.)—Whitehall.

(vii.) March $\frac{25}{14}$.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, giving an account of an interview with the Pensionary. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 435.)—The Hague.

1707.

(viii.) March 25.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, urging haste upon the journey to Vienna, in order to prevent the intended expedition to Naples. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 437.)—Whitehall.

(ix.) March 28.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, warmly recommending M. Bruyninx [the Envoy of the States at Vienna] for his ability and honesty, as well as some inferior persons. (The chief part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 436.)—Brussels.

(x.) March 28.—G. Stepney to the Earl of Manchester, recommending Mr. Hicks to his notice.—Brussels.

(xi.) March 29.—The Earl of Manchester to Lord Godolphin, giving an account of an interview with the Pensionary, expressing a belief that the Duke of Marlborough would "find all things well at his arrival," and touching very briefly on various points in the military and political situation.—The Hague.

(xii.) April 1.—The Electress Sophia of Hanover to the Earl of Manchester, thanking him for his attachment to her House. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 436.)—Hanover.

(xiii.) April 4. Endorsed April $\frac{4}{15}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a copy of the project concerted with the Duke of Savoy for entering France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 439.)—Whitehall.

(xiv.) April 5.—M. de Robethon to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a letter from the Elector of Hanover. Their Electoral Highnesses held the Earl in high esteem. (In French.)—Hanover.

(xv.) April 5.—The Elector George Louis of Hanover to the Earl of Manchester, expressing regret that the Earl had been unable to pass through Hanover. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 437.)—Hanover.

(xvi.) April 5.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, mentioning enclosure of an important paper given to the Earl by the bearer of the letter. (Draft. Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 437.)—Düsseldorf.

(xvii.) April 18. Endorsed April $\frac{18}{29}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, directing him to lose no time in pressing upon the Court of Vienna the matters upon which he was instructed. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 441.)—Whitehall.

(xviii.) April 27.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, expressing hopes that the Court of Vienna would at least defer the intended expedition to Naples, though they were "very fond in that matter." Fears were entertained at Vienna respecting the movements of the King of Sweden. It would be hard to satisfy the Duke of Savoy with the proceedings of the Imperial Court. (Draft.)—Vienna.

(xix.) April 30.—[The Earl of Manchester] to M. de Robethon, requesting him to thank the Elector and Electress of Hanover for their letters. "A great scheme in the affairs of Europe" was now being undertaken, which it was to be hoped the King of Sweden would not thwart. All eyes were upon the Duke of Marlborough. (Not signed. Endorsed "Not copied.")

I 120.

(xx.) May 4.—Extract from a letter from Mr. Robinson, giving an account of the reception of the Duke of Marlborough by the King of Sweden at Halle, and of the proceedings of the Duke before his departure for Berlin. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 442.)—Leipzig.

(xxi.) May 6. Endorsed May $\frac{6}{17}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, renewing instructions to dissuade the Court of Vienna from the expedition to Naples, and to persuade it, if possible, to give reasonable satisfaction to the Duke of Savoy. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 447.)—Whitehall.

(xxii.) May $\frac{6}{17}$.—Robert Harley to the Earl of Manchester, to the same effect, but insisting more particularly upon the French success in Spain as an argument to be used. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 447.)

(xxiii.) May 6. Endorsed May $\frac{6}{17}$.—Queen Anne to the Emperor, urging upon him the importance of making a diversion by invading France, after the French success in Spain. (Copy. In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 448.)—Kensington.

(xxiv.) May 9. Endorsed May $\frac{9}{20}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him that the Court of Vienna would never have the Queen's consent to their project upon Naples. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 453.)—Whitehall.

(xxv.) May 11.—[The Earl of Manchester] to the Duke of Marlborough, informing him that the Austrian troops (about 10,000 in number) were on the march for Naples, but that the Court of Vienna promised the expedition into France should not be prejudiced in consequence. An enclosure relating to the Duke of Savoy is mentioned. Great reliance was placed upon England by the Imperial Court. They would do whatever his Grace thought was for the common good. The Earl would send the patterns for "my Lady Duchess." (Signature wanting. Paper torn.)—Vienna.

(xxvi.) May 12.—Undirected letter from Count Ardizzone, Minister of State of the Duke of Mantua, complaining that the Duke was kept out of possession of Monterrat and other fiefs dependent on the Holy Roman Empire. (In Latin. Copy. Endorsed "sent by Broughton unto the Earl of Sunderland at the instance of the Duke of Mantua." A translation, headed "to the Earl of Sunderland," is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 446.)—Venice.

(xxvii.) May 18.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer (Lord Godolphin), expressing doubts whether the Imperial Court would aid in the invasion of France, and giving some particulars of the European situation as affecting Italy, Sweden, Poland, Hungary, &c. (Copy. Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 452.)—Vienna.

(xxviii.) May 18.—Le Sieur J. J. Hamel Bruyninx to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning an enclosure received from the Prince of Salm, apparently on the subject of the Naples expedition. (In French.)

(xxix.) May 18.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, mentioning an enclosure which related to the affairs of the Duke of Savoy and another enclosure which was an extract from a letter from the Prince of Salm, and describing the relations of Sweden with the Emperor. (Copy. Reference is made to this letter, though it is not printed, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 453.)—Vienna.

(xxx.) May 17.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that he intended to join the army at Halle, and there was a prospect of a battle. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 448.)—Brussels.

(xxxi.) May 22.—Count Tarin to the Earl of Manchester, regretting that he had had no better success than the Earl in his diplomacy at the Court of Vienna, and requesting the Earl to confer with the Marquis de Prié. (In French.)—Vienna.

(xxxii.) May 25.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his desire to give battle to the enemy, in order to repair the misfortune in Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 453.)—Camp at Lembecq.

(xxxiii.) May 27. Endorsed "or June 7."—H. Boyle to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that the French had 90,000 men in Flanders, and that the Queen was detained in town by the excess of business connected with the Union. As Boninchini could not be "got over" to England, it would be necessary to be content with having his music, especially his new opera. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 223.)—London.

(xxxiv.) June 6, o. s.—Robert Sutton to the Earl of Man-

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

M

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

chester, on the relations of the Porte and the Tartars with the Empire and with Muscovy, and on the probable maintenance of peace by Turkey for at least a year. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 456.)—Pera of Constantinople.

1701.

(xxxv.) June 20.—James Cressett to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that the Electress of Hanover considered the Earl to be one of her friends, and would receive a letter from him with pleasure. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 395.)—Hanover.

1707.

(xxxvi.) June 24. Endorsed "or July 5."—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, informing him of the Queen's desire that the Duke of Savoy should obtain satisfaction at the Court of Vienna. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 459.)—Whitehall.

(xxxvii.) July 6, o. s.—Robert Sutton to the Earl of Manchester, describing a serious conspiracy to depose the Sultan, and stating that the French had sent nearly 200,000 dollars to the Hungarian malecontents. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 461.)—Pera of Constantinople.

(xxxviii.) July 6.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer (Lord Godolphin), giving a description of the character of the Duke of Savoy, and of the political situation as affected by the age and health of the Emperor, his wife, and King Charles, and by the expedition to Naples. (Draft, with many interlineations and alterations.)—Venice.

(xxxix.) July 11. Endorsed July $\frac{11}{22}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, assuring him of the Queen's continued support of the Duke of Savoy. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 462.)—Whitehall.

(xl.) July $\frac{15}{26}$.—Joseph Addison to the Earl of Manchester, sending a copy of a short letter from Lisbon on the state of affairs in the Peninsula.—Whitehall.

(xli.) July 18.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, giving a description of an enclosed design for restorations at Kimbolton, &c. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 227.)—London.

(xlii.) July $\frac{8}{19}$.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the land forces were within four marches of Toulon, and that Sir Cloudesley Shovell had appeared off the Isle of Hières. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 461.)—Camp at Frejus.

(xliii.) July $\frac{19}{30}$.—Lord Halifax to the Earl of Manchester, expressing thanks for a Cantata of the Emperor's own composition, as well as other musical works, and an opinion that the Emperor would excel his predecessor in music more than in politics. The Cantata was so good that Bonincini might be suspected to have "had a hand in it." Blackall would not be made bishop of Exeter, but Daws would be made bishop of Chester, and Dr. Trimmel, bishop of Norwich.—(Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 231.)

(xliv.) July 22.—M. Boury to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that there was nothing new to report of the armies of the Netherlands. (In French.)—The Hague.

(xlv.) July 25. Endorsed Aug 5.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, expressing fears that the Emperor would not, after his success in Naples, aid in the expedition against France, but would adhere to the practice of "riding a new acquired country with German garrisons." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 466.)—Whitehall.

(xlvi.) July 25.—C. Godolphin to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a Memorial relating to claims of the Godolphin family in the Venetian law-courts, and giving explanations. (Signed only by C. Godolphin.)—London.

(xlvii.) July 25.—The same letter, written and signed by C. Godolphin.

(xlviii.) July 26.—Lord Raby to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that there was uncertainty respecting the designs of the King of Sweden, and that the position of the Imperial army was improved. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 463.)—Berlin.

(xlix.) July 27.—Le Sieur J. J. Hamel Bruyninx to the Earl of Manchester, lamenting the inaction in the Netherlands, and expressing his opinion that the Imperial movements would be too late, and that to attempt to make anything better of a German was as hopeless a task as to wash a black-a-moor white. (In French.)—Vienna.

(l.) July 27. Endorsed Aug. 7.—Sir Cloudesley Shovell to the Earl of Manchester, giving some details of the preparations for an attack upon Toulon, but expressing doubts of the result. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 467.)—Fleet before Hières.

(li.) July 29.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, giving a description of the Tribunal for settling the claim of the King of Prussia to Neufchâtel, and expressing his belief "that the weighty arguments of religion and liberty will turn the scale in our favour" "if we pay as much for justice as any of our competitors." Some details of the forces for the invasion of France are added. (Six pages, of which the first four are printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 463.)—Neufchâtel.

(lii.) July 29.—Sir James Montague to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the proceedings in Parliament after the Union, with some family and other gossip. (Endorsed "Baron Mountague.")—London.

(liii.) July 31.—Sir James Montague to the Earl of Manchester, to introduce the son of Sir Francis Child. (Endorsed "Baron Mountague.")—London.

(liv.) Aug. 3.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, complaining that "things did not go as they ought to do" before Toulon. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 465.)—Camp at La Valette.

(lv.) From Aug. $\frac{3}{14}$ to Aug. 20, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the sortie of the French from Toulon, and of subsequent military movements, and concluding with the news that "the Allies were to steal away as they could." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 470. The beginning is in the form of a journal said, in Cole's Memoirs, to have been sent to Mr. Cole.)—Camp at La Valette.

(lvi.) Aug. 4.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning that (according to a letter from Mr. Robinson) a conference had been held, at the desire of Count Wratislaw, between Count Piper and the Dutch minister. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 465.)—Camp at Meldert.

(lvii.) Aug. 5.—The Earl of Manchester to Lord Godolphin, requesting the presentation of a letter to the Queen "in relation to passing a Privy Seal for the Plate" the Earl had had of the Crown, as he had now served on three embassies with it. (Draft.)—Venice.

(lviii.) Aug. 5.—J. D'Alais to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Elector of Hanover would have his preparations for the expedition to the Rhine completed at the end of the month. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 367.)—Hanover.

(lix.) Aug. 5. Endorsed Aug. $\frac{5}{16}$.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, instructing the latter to ascertain whether the Venetians would be willing to join the Allies and furnish troops if the Imperial garrison were withdrawn from Mantua. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 469.)—Whitehall.

(lx.) Aug. 9.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a Memorial on the subject of the conflicting claims to Neufchâtel, and some information received concerning the position at Toulon. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 468.)—Neufchâtel.

(lxi.) Aug. 10.—Lord Cowper to the Earl of Manchester, speculating on the probable issue of the attack on Toulon, about which public feeling was uneasy. Should it succeed, he says, "I apprehend through the transport of joy, or the effect of it here, where good fellowship is in fashion, we should be in danger of losing no small number of honest men in the cause at home."—Herlingfordbury.

(lxii.) Aug. 11. Endorsed Aug. $\frac{11}{22}$.—Sir John Norris to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the retreat of the allied army and the departure of the fleet from before Toulon. He had always "had a doubt if a certain man" was earnestly desirous of this expedition. "He would, if he had the opportunity, give the Earl verbally his real opinion on that matter, and the present misfortune."—On board the Torbay before Toulon.

(lxiii.) Aug. 12.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, touching very briefly on various topics. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 472.)—Whitehall.

(lxiv.) Aug. 13.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that orders had been sent to Count Martinitz to permit the Duke of Savoy to draw out "what numbers [of troops] he judged reasonable." M. Mellaredé had been at Vienna since the Earl left, and was not less dissatisfied. The Austrians were making merry

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

the past attempts to dissuade them from the Naples expedition, which alone had been successful. The fate of Europe was like to turn on the good behaviour, conduct, and success of his Royal Highness.—Vienna.

(lxv.) Aug. 15.—Lord Godolphin to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to take the first opportunity of proposing to the Republic of Venice to enter into the Grand Alliance, and support the Allies with 10,000 or 12,000 men, and mentioning the terms which were to be offered:—viz., the troops to be commanded by a General of their own; a subsidy to be allowed, and peace not to be made without notice to the Venetians, and their participation in it.—Windsor.

(lxvi.) Aug. 26. Endorsed ^{Aug. 26} Sept. 6.—E. Lewis to the Earl of Manchester. Lord Peterborough had been ordered to "prepare a relation in writing of what he had done abroad in execution of his commission." Mr. Scott, one of the chamberlains at Hanover, had been intriguing "to promote the invitation," but had been disavowed by the Elector. It was expected that the Duke of Devonshire would "have his father's staff [as Lord High Steward], and that the Earl of Manchester would have his Guards again." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 244.)—Whitehall.

(lxvii.) Aug. 29. Endorsed ^{Aug. 19} Sept. 9.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, touching very briefly on various topics. It was hoped that the Duke of Marlborough would "set all things right again, as he had done formerly when affairs were in a more desperate posture." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 245.)—Whitehall.

(lxviii.) Aug. 29.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning advices from Lisbon to the effect that the French had not followed up their victory at Almanza, and had allowed their adversaries time to recover. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 475.)—Whitehall.

(lxix.) Aug. 19, o. s.—The Duke of Somerset to the Earl of Manchester. The Duke of Devonshire was dead. Lady E. Savage, old as she was, had married young St. John Manwaring. The Queen was going to Newmarket about the end of September, and the Prince was better and might be able to go there also.—Syon.

(lxx.) Aug. 19.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, describing the growing warmth of the dispute between the Prince de Conti and the Prussian Ambassador for precedence. (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 469.)—Neufchâtel.

(lxxi.) Aug. 20.—Sir P. Meadows to the Earl of Manchester, giving some particulars of "Count Wratislaw's affair," expressing apprehensions of the progress of the French arms, and mentioning a remittance of 200,000 dollars from France for the service of the Hungarians. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 472.)—Vienna.

(lxxii.) Aug. 20.—Sir Cloudesley Shovell to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the siege of Toulon had been raised, and that the allied army had decamped. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 471.)—Association, before Toulon.

(lxxiii.) Aug. 26.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester to the effect that the hearing of the claims to Neufchâtel had been deferred by the Tribunal at the instance of the Prince de Conti. (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 474.)—Neufchâtel.

(lxxiv.) Aug. 27.—Sir P. Meadows to the Earl of Manchester, expressing fears that the King of Sweden intended mischief to the Allies. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs p. 474.)—Vienna.

602. VOL. XI. Marked ("1707.")
1707.

(i.) Sep. 14.—Henry Newton to the Earl of Manchester, complaining of the oppression of the Italians by the Germans, and giving news from Naples to Sep. 6, from Toulon to Aug. 25, and from Genoa to Sep. 10.—Florence.

(ii.) Sep. 8.—Lord Raby to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the King of Sweden had come to an agreement with the Emperor. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 476.)—Berlin.

(iii.) Sep. 6.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the preliminary proceedings of the Tribunal for deciding upon the claims to Neufchâtel. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 476.)—Neufchâtel.

(iv.) Sep. 9.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, on the plans for re-building at Kimbolton, &c. [Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 250.]—London.

(v.) Sep. 10.—Sir P. Meadows to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Treaty with the King of Sweden had been despatched, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 447.)—Vienna.

(vi.) Sep. 11, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a journal containing an account of the retreat from Toulon. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 477.)—Salusse.

(vii.) Sep. 13.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on the proceedings of the Tribunal for trying the claims to Neufchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 478.)—Neufchâtel.

(viii.) Sep. 16.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly on the same subject. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 480.)—Neufchâtel.

(ix.) Sep. 6.—Endorsed ¹⁶ Sep. 27.—J. Addison to some person addressed as "Sir," announcing the death of Mr. Stepney. (Printed, as having been addressed to Mr. Cole, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 481.)

(x.) Sep. 16.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer (Lord Godolphin), on the improbability that the Venetian Republic would be induced to join the Grand Alliance after the failure of the attack on Toulon. (Draft. Printed, with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 479.)—Venice.

(xi.) Sep. 5.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, attributing the mishap at Toulon to the indolence and ill-will of some of the Generals of the Allies, and announcing that an attempt was to be made upon Susa and La Perouse. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 479.)—Camp at Scalin.

(xii.) Sep. 17.—Sir P. Meadows to the Earl of Manchester. It was said that King Charles [III., of Spain] was about to be married. The Venetians were "willing to withdraw their offer," which the Austrian Court had "never embraced." The "Savoy ministers," too, had been alarmed at it, and it was feared that His Royal Highness was soured by the delay in granting him the investitures desired by him.—Vienna.

(xiii.) Sep. 23. Endorsed ^{Sep. 23} Oct. 3.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to continue his efforts to bring the Venetians into the Grand Alliance. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 483.)—Whitehall.

(xiv.) Oct. 2.—A. Cardonnel [secretary to the Duke of Marlborough] to Mr. Cole, complaining of the conduct of the Germans, and adding "God preserve us hereafter from such allies." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 482.)—Camp at Helchin.

(xv.) Sep. 23.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that great damage had been done to Toulon by the bombardment before the fleet withdrew, and the French had sunk twenty of their own ships to save them from burning. Lord Peterborough had been ordered to give in his accounts by the following Sunday, and be examined by the Committee of Lords.—Whitehall.

(xvi.) Sep. 26.—J. Addison to Mr. Cole, mentioning enclosure of a letter from the Bishop of Salisbury to Erizzo (which the bishop wished Mr. Cole to superscribe), and giving some particulars of Mr. Stepney's will.

(xvii.) Oct. 4.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that the King of Prussia would probably be declared Prince of Neufchâtel, after the withdrawal, under protest, of the other Pretenders. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 483.)—Neufchâtel.

(xviii.) Oct. 5 to Oct. 8.—Journal (endorsed J. Chetwynd, Esq.) of events including the fall of Susa, &c. (A portion is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 484.)—Turin.

(xix.) Dec. 6.—J. Addison to [the Earl of Manchester?], describing a debate in the House of Commons on the question of continuing the Privy Council in Scotland. "The Scotch members were divided, and spoke very largely and they say well on each side, the rest of the House remaining silent for two hours and giving an obliging attention to their new brethren."

(xx.) Oct. 7.—Signor Cornaro to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes that the Earl would enjoy his sojourn at Venice, especially during the carnival, mentioning an opera sent by the Earl from Vienna, and recommending

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

the music of Mendicanti and Biffi. (In French).—Newmarket.

(xxi.) Oct. 7.—M. Boury to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Duke [of Marlborough] was passing a few hours at the Hague before rejoining the army. He would afterwards proceed to Frankfort to concert measures with the Electors of Hanover and Mayence. (In French).—The Hague.

(xxii.) Oct. 7.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a project of a commercial treaty with the Republic of Venice, and giving some items of Home news. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 487.)—Cockpit.

(xxiii.) Oct. 8.—Henry Newton to the Earl of Manchester, expressing doubts whether the Court of Florence could be persuaded to join the Allies, unless the fall of Gaeta caused some change of policy. The garrison of Gaeta (officers and soldiers) had been put to the sword.—Florence.

(xxiv.) Oct. 8, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that there were some hopes that the Duke of Savoy and Prince Eugene might make the winter quarters of the troops under them in Savoy and on the frontiers of Dauphiné. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 484.)

(xxv.) Oct. 12 and 15, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, giving the news from various parts of Italy. (A part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 485.)—Turin (xxvi.) Oct. 14. Endorsed Oct. 14.

25.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that efforts should still be made to bring the Venetians into the Grand Alliance, and that the differences between the Duke of Savoy and Prince Eugene were to be deplored. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 492.)—Whitehall.

(xxvii.) Oct. 15.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a copy of a French Memorial, which charged partiality against the Tribunal for deciding the claims on Neuchâtel, and made certain demands, &c. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 486.)—Neuchâtel.

(xxviii.) Oct. 15.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that the Court of Vienna was not pleased with the suggestion that Mantua should be garrisoned with troops in English and Dutch pay, as an inducement to the Venetians to join the Grand Alliance. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 486.)—Vienna.

(xxix.) Oct. 11.
22.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of Proceedings of the Council at which it was decided that the troops should not take up winter quarters in Savoy, &c. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 492.)—Turin.

(xxx.) Oct. 22.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a second Memorial from the French Ambassador, and giving other details respecting the proceedings in relation to the claims to Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 491.)—Neuchâtel.

(xxxi.) Oct. 22.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the investitures long withheld were about to be granted to the Duke of Savoy by the Emperor, &c. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 492.)—Vienna.

(xxxii.) Oct. 27.—Robert Sutton to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that there was no reason to suppose the Turks had any design against the Republic of Venice, but that they were favouring the Hungarian malecontents of the Empire. Some particulars relating to the Church in Armenia are added. (Pp. 5. The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 492.)—Pera of Constantinople.

(xxxiii.) Oct. 28. Endorsed Nov. 8, n. s.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of various naval disasters, including the loss of Sir Cloudesley Shovell. He adds: "There is that noble spirit in the nation and our new British Parliament that, I hope, will surmount all difficulties." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne." ii., 259.)—Cockpit.

(xxxiv.) Oct. 29.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, expressing a belief that the "Three States" would give the King of Prussia the investiture of Neuchâtel on the 3rd or 4th of November. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 494.)—Neuchâtel.

(xxxv.) Oct. 31. Endorsed Oct. 31.
Nov. 11.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the draft treaty of commerce would be finished in a few days. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 495.)—Whitehall.

(xxxvi.) Oct. 31.—J. Addison to Mr. Cole, describing the finding of the body of Sir Cloudesley Shovell on the coast of Cornwall. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 496.)—Cockpit.

(xxxvii.) Nov. 4.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer (Lord Godolphin), respecting the payment of his allowance. (Draft.)—Venice.

(xxxviii.) Nov. 5.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the decision of the Swiss Tribunal in favour of the claim of the King of Prussia to Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 494.)

(xxxix.) Nov. 5.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester. He wondered at the conduct of the Venetian Ambassador at Vienna, who was raising a great "stir and to-do about the proposition made a considerable while ago by order from Whitehall." The Prince of Salms had been preferred to Cardinal Lemberg. This was disagreeable to the "first favourite the Grand Veneur," who by way of compensation had been declared a Prince of the Empire, and had gone beyond Baden to prepare a bear-hunt for the Emperor. Count Wratislaw had arrived at Frankfort, and proceeded thence to the Hague with the Duke of Marlborough.—Vienna.

(xl.) Nov. 7. Endorsed Nov. 7.
18.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, informing him of the Queen's approval of every step he had taken, and assuring him that Parliament desired to prosecute the war with the utmost vigour. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 498.)—Whitehall.

(xli.) Nov. 9.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a copy of the Sentence by which the Investiture of the Counties of Neuchâtel and Vallangin was granted to the King of Prussia. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 495.)—Neuchâtel.

(xlii.) Nov. 10.—Sir James Montague to the Earl of Manchester, partly on family business, but partly on the question whether the Earl should accept the office offered to him on his return. Reference is also made to the discussion whether the Parliament was new or old, which was "compromised by agreeing to part with such officers as were declared incapable to sit and vote in any Parliament which should be holden from and after the determination of the last."

(xliii.) Nov. 11. Endorsed Nov. 11.
22.—E. L. (endorsed Mr. Lewis) to [Mr. Cole?], to the effect that the Parliament had been "voted new" (with a reservation in favour of certain office-holders), and that "My Lord might have the Yeomen of the Guard," as a matter of course (Incomplete).—Whitehall.

(xliv.) Nov. 12.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester. "The face of our affair is not so fair." The Duke of Mantua would probably not be put to the Ban of the Empire, and "H.R.H.," [the Duke of Savoy] would not "infinitely succeed." Medows had been with the Court to the bear-hunt, but he would rather "go out of his way to avoid such a creature than travel thirty miles to pursue it."—Vienna.

(xlv.) Nov. 1.
12.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his belief that that the Court of Vienna had terminated matters to the satisfaction of "H.R.H." [the Duke of Savoy] in all except the equivalent for the Vigevenasco. The investiture for Montferrat, however, was not quite as H.R.H. desired, since the Ban had not been published against the Duke of Mantua. There had been a delay in the embarkation, but it was hoped that all the troops would have sailed before the end of the month.—Turin.

(xlvi.) Nov. 12.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester. The Catholic cantons were disinclined to acknowledge the award of Neuchâtel to the King of Prussia, and France had "published a prohibition of commerce." Mr. Stanyan's return to Bern was delayed because "Count Metternich had desired the Dutch minister" and Mr. Stanyan "to sign some accounts of money which had been laid out for his master's service during the negotiation, and distributed by our approbation."—Neuchâtel.

(xlvii.) Nov. 16 to Nov. 19.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars (derived from letters) of military movements, &c.—Turin.

(xlviii.) Nov. 15.—James Dayrolle to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a journal, and expressing an opinion that the Dutch would be willing to continue the war, if they could support the expense, and saw "England earnest upon the matter."—The Hague.

(xlix.) Nov. 26.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, expressing fears that there was no prospect of a successful campaign in his neighbourhood, and that the

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER. Duke of Savoy would be glad to see the war at an end. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 499.)—Turin.

(i.) Nov. 26.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, on various proceedings and rumours at the Court of Vienna. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, 499.)—Vienna.

(ii.) Nov. 28. Endorsed Dec. 9.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, acknowledging receipt of a Memorial of the Venetian Senate, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 504.)—Whitehall.

(iii.) Nov. 30 and Dec. 3.—Memorandum [from Mr. Chetwynd] to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of naval and military movements, &c., as made known to him by various correspondence.—Turin.

(iiii.) Dec. 3.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of the above memorandum. Chetwynd had heard from "H.R.H." that he was to be recalled, and prayed the Earl's protection.—Turin.

(liv.) Dec. 4.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on a threatened invasion of Neuchâtel by the French, on the willingness of the Protestant cantons to aid in its defence, and on the probability that a treaty of neutrality for it would be arranged. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 502.)—Bern.

(lv.) Dec. 5.—[Major-General] William Cadogan to the Earl of Manchester, announcing his appointment as Envoy Extraordinary to the United Provinces. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 503.)—Brussels.

(lvi.) Dec. 9.—Christopher Crowe to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that every effort would be made to apprehend seamen who had deserted.—Leghorn.

(lvii.) Dec. 11.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, again expressing a belief that there would be a treaty of neutrality between France and Neuchâtel. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 504.)—Bern.

(lviii.) Dec. 13.—The Duke of Modena to the Earl of Manchester. Letter to serve as a Credential to the Abbate Giardini. (In Italian.)—Modena.

(lix.) Dec. 16. Endorsed Dec. 16/27.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, describing some parliamentary proceedings, but chiefly the consideration in the House of Lords, of the case of Lord Peterborough and the expedition conducted by him. "Public business never went on better."—Cockpit.

(lx.) Dec. 17, n.s.—Henry Newton to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the death of Admiral Dilks, at Leghorn, &c.—Florence.

(lxi.) Dec. 17.—William Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that his brother had gone to Genoa to facilitate the embarkation of troops for Spain, and mentioning two enclosures received from Mr. Stanyan. Nothing more had been heard touching his brother's recall.—Turin.

(lxii.) Dec. 23. Endorsed Jan. 3, 1708.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, expressing a hope that the Address (described as being enclosed) of both Houses to the Queen would remove any impression that England was disposed towards peace. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 508.)—Whitehall.

(lxiii.) Dec. 23.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of a debate in the House of Lords on the conduct of the war.

(lxiv.) Dec. 24.—William Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that transports had sailed from Genoa to Vado, for the embarkation of troops for Spain. An attempt upon Sardinia now seemed probable. Orbitello and San Stefano had declared for King Charles. The delays of the Court of Vienna might drive H.R.H. to a "rash resolution" of which he was by no means incapable.—Turin.

(lxv.) Dec. 24.—J. Dayrolle to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that the Dutch were convinced of the necessity of continuing the war until "the French generation was removed from Spain." (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 507.)—The Hague.

(lxvi.) Dec. 25.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his belief that the French Ambassador had concealed from the French Court the offer of neutrality for Neuchâtel made by the King of Prussia, and giving some particulars of the situation. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 507.)—Bern.

(lxvii.) Dec. 26.—C. Godolphin to the Earl of Manchester, giving a summary of the proceedings in his case at Venice, and praying the Earl's protection.—London.

(lxviii.) Dec. 14/25.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Sunderland, giving minute details of the preparations for the proposed expedition to Spain, an estimate of the French force at sea, &c. (Copy. Four large pages.)—Savona.

(lxix.) Dec. 25.—E. Howe to the Earl of Manchester, announcing his return to Hanover, and mentioning an enclosure.—Hanover.

(lxx.) Dec. 19/30.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Sunderland, giving various particulars of the expedition to Catalonia, and expressing grave apprehensions of the result of the decision of the naval commanders to make for Lisbon rather than remain in the Mediterranean after the landing of the troops. This is followed by what appears to be a letter from Chetwynd to the naval commanders, suggesting their return to Italy after landing the troops in Catalonia. It is dated "Cornwall, Vado, Dec. 18/29." (Copies. Four large pages in all.)—Bay of Vado.

(lxxi.) Dec. 31.—William Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the whole of the troops destined for Spain had embarked, though both officers and men had shown unwillingness. The Governor of La Perouse had been defeated by the Vaudois. The Marquis de Constance, Envoy of H.R.H. to Vienna was about to set out. An enclosure from Mr. Stanyan is mentioned.—Turin.

693. VOL. XII. (Marked "1707.")

1706-7.

(i.) Jan. 25.—Memorandum on the subject of the recognition of the King of Prussia by the Republic of Venice. (In French.)—Westminster.

1705.

(ii.) Feb. 23.—Extract from a Declaration made on behalf of the Emperor to Count Tarino, regretting that mischances had prevented the payment of debts to the Duke of Savoy, and making promises for the future. (In French.)—Vienna.

1706-7.

(iii.) March 7/18.—Memorial of M. van Vryberge, the Dutch Envoy in England, communicating to Queen Anne the instructions given to the Dutch Envoy Extraordinary in Vienna to represent to the Imperial Court the advantages of an attack upon France rather than upon Naples. (In French.)—London.

1707.

(iv.) March 14.—Answer of Count Zinzendorf to the Memorial presented to the Emperor by General Doppf, the Dutch Envoy, on the conduct of the war. (In French.)—Vienna.

Undated.

(v.) [1707.]—Memorandum, relating to the Vigenasco. (In French.)

(vi.) Endorsed 1707.—Another memorandum, relating to the Vigenasco, almost identical with the last.

1707.

(vii.) April 1/11.—Count Piper to Count Zinzendorf, communicating a Memorial [from the King of Sweden] on the subject of Muscovite troops which had passed from Saxony into the Swedish camp.—Alt Ranstatt.

The Memorial follows, and is dated March 30. (Copies: the letter in French, the Memorial in Latin.)

Undated.

(viii.) [1707.]—Statement, relating to the Vigenasco and the claims of the Duke of Savoy. (In French. Endorsed, "Earl of Manchester's Memorial" with the Answer." The document, however, is the Answer without the Memorial, which is at the end of the present volume (xxxii.). Translations of both are printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 449.)

(ix.) Endorsed 1706-7.—"Memorial of Articles presented to Sir Charles Hedges, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State, for the improvement of our trade to Venice."

(x.) Another copy of the same.

(xi.) [1707.]—Memorandum, on the subject of the Vigenasco and the claims of the Duke of Savoy. (In French.)

(xii.) Endorsed 1707.—Memorial of the Elector Palatine to the Emperor, embodying certain claims, and giving a historical retrospect. (In French. Copy. pp. 6.)

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

1707.

(xiii.) April 15.—Copy (certified 15 April, 1707) of a protest of the Duke of Savoy on the subject of the Vigenasce. (In Italian.)—Turin.

Undated.

(xiv.) Endorsed 1707.—Project presented to the Emperor for the regulation of the new free port to be opened at Buccari. (In Italian. pp. 6.)

1707.

(xv.) April 25.—Memorial of J. J. Hamel Bruyninx, Dutch Envoy at Vienna, urging the importance of the allied expedition against France as compared with the Imperial expedition to Naples. (In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 441.)—Vienna.

Undated.

(xvi.) Endorsed 1707.—Remonstrances and defence of the Imperial Court, in relation to the campaign in Italy, with reference to the fifth Article of the Grand Alliance. (In French. Copy. Ten pages.)

1707.

(xvii.) Aug. 1.—Francesco Maria Ottieri to the Earl of Manchester, giving the news which had reached him from various quarters. (In Italian.)—Rome.

(xviii.) Aug. 22.
Sept. 1.—Confirmation of the treaty of Osnaburg by the King of Sweden. (In Latin. Copy.)—Camp at Trancovic.

(xix.) Aug. 23.—Note of a wager between Robert Davis and Pietro Bernard, the one betting that Toulon would be in the hands of the Allies in October, the other that it would remain in the hands of the French. (In Italian.) Venice.

(xx.) Oct.—Memorandum, relating to the embarkation of the allied troops to be sent from Italy to Spain, and to the difficulties attending it. (In French. Copy).—Turin.

(xxi.) Nov. 3.—Extract from the Register of the "Trois États," being the award of Neufchâtel and Valangin to the King of Prussia. (In French. Endorsed, "Extrait du Registre des trois Estants, &c., concernant Orange.")

Undated.

(xxii.) Endorsed 1707.—The Earl of Manchester to [Count Tarin, Tarini, or Tarino?], on the affairs of the Duke of Savoy. (Draft. In French. Endorsed, "Lord Manchester's letter after his arrival at Venice.")—Venice.

(xxiii.) Endorsed 1707.—Copy of a Report (transmitted apparently to the Earl of Manchester) of Erizzo and Pisani to the Venetian Government, on their return from their Embassy to England. (In Italian.)—Venice.

1707.

(xxiv.) Oct. 19.—Extract, relating to proceedings of the "Trois États," touching the affairs of Neufchâtel. (In French.)

Undated.

(xxv.)—Unsigned note to the Earl of Manchester, agreeing to his proposal of a verbal discussion on the subject of a proposed treaty of commerce. (In Italian.)—[Venice?]

(xxvi.)—Unsigned Memorial (of the Earl of Manchester apparently) to the Doge of Venice, urging the advantages to the Republic of joining the Allies, and pointing out the dangers of isolation. (In Italian. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 497, where the date assigned is Nov. 15, 1707.)—Venice.

1707.

(xxvii.) Oct. 20.—Memorial of the Earl of Manchester to the Doge of Venice, urging the advantages to the Republic of joining the Grand Alliance, and stating the terms on which Venice might accede to it. (In Italian. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 489.)—Venice.

Undated.

(xxviii.)—Note by the Earl of Manchester of the sum remaining due to him on account of his Embassy to Venice.

(xxix.)—Sonnet (by Aurelio Aureli) to the Earl of Manchester, on the occasion of his going to hear the opera "Igène, Regina di Sparta," at Vicenza. (In Italian. Printed.)

(xxx.)—V. C. to her "Sovrano Signor" [the Earl of Manchester?], assuring him that her heart had been "privo di consolatione," since he had left Venice, and she found herself separated from "un sì beneficio Protettore," &c. Her only wish in life was to be his most humble and ready slave, unchangeably until death. (In Italian.)

(xxxi.) [1707.]—Draft of treaty of commerce between Queen Anne and the Republic of Venice.

(xxxii.) Endorsed 1707.—Memorial of the Earl of Manchester to the Emperor, on the claims of the Duke of Savoy. (Copy. In French. A translation is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 449, together with a translation of the Answer, a copy of which in French is bound in the present volume, ante viii.)

694. VOL. XIII. (Marked "1708.")

1707-8.

(i.) Jan. 2. Endorsed Jan. ²/₁₃.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, recommending to the protection of the latter the affairs of Mr. Carre, whose ship, the "Joseph Gally," had been seized by the French in Venetian waters. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 509.)—Whitehall.

(ii.) Jan. ³/₁₄.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosures of copies of letters to the Earl of Sunderland, which contained a full account of transactions relating to the succours to Spain from Italy. Mr. Chetwynd now hoped that he would not be recalled.—Turin.

1708.

(iii.) Jan. 7.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, giving various items of news from Vienna. (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 508.)—Vienna.

(iv.) Jan. 8.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, expressing doubts of the intentions of the French with respect to Neufchâtel, and announcing that they had concentrated 12,000 men on the frontiers, to be commanded by Marshal Villars.—Bern.

(v.) Jan. 12.—Count Comazzi's statement, relating to the causes of his imprisonment (which he attributed to the Earl of Manchester), and prayer to have his Memorial submitted to the Prince of Salms. (In Italian.)—Neusdorf.

(vi.) Jan. 15.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that 10,000 troops had been sent to the frontier of Franche-Comté to defend Neufchâtel, and expressing hopes that the French would agree to a Treaty of Neutrality. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 509.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(vii.) Jan. 16. Endorsed Jan. ¹⁶/₂₇.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, on the discussion of Lord Peterborough's expedition in the House of Lords. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 269.)—Bern.

(viii.) Jan. 16. Endorsed Jan. ¹⁶/₂₇.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of draft treaty of commerce. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 510.)—Whitehall.

1708.

(ix.) Jan. 22.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, describing the offer of the French king to let Neufchâtel remain in a perfect neutrality, if the Cantons would engage to keep the territory in sequestration till a general peace was made. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 510.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(x.) Jan. 24 or 29. Endorsed Jan. ²⁴/_{Feb. 4}.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, describing debates in the House of Commons upon the Recruiting Bill, and upon Ways and Means. The Bill for abolishing the Privy Council, and establishing Justices of the Peace, in Scotland had passed. (Printed in "Court and Society, from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 273.)—Bern.

1708.

(xi.) Jan. 29.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, expressing an opinion that the Cantons would not agree to the scheme for the sequestration of Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 511.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(xii.) Jan. 30. Postscript Feb. 3. Endorsed Feb. 14.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, on proceedings in Parliament, especially on the case of Commodore Kerr in the House of Lords.

1708.

(xiii.) Jan. 31.—Lord Raby to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that there need be no doubt on the subject of "the 8,000 men," as the King of Prussia was well disposed to Her Majesty. The Venetians were not worthy of much consideration, but would, perhaps, be more tractable when the Swiss were drawn into an offensive war against France, as they probably would be before they were "well aware of it."—Berlin.

(xiv.) Feb. 4, n. s.—The Earl of Galway to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the arrival of a part of the forces from Italy, and expressing apprehensions of delay in the transport of the rest. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 512.)—Barcelona.

(xv.) Feb. 4.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, describing proposals of the Imperial Court for the despatch of re-inforcements to Spain, and the position of the Duke of Savoy's affairs. The French had been contriving to get Fribourg into their hands, and 100,000 livres was the price set, but the commander, a Swiss, was too honest for them, and gave General Thungen notice from time to time, so that if they had proceeded to put their design in execution, the 22nd of the last month they had cost the Imperialists powder and ball.—Vienna.

(xvi.) Feb. 5.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that the issue of the deliberations of the Diet, and the real designs of the French respecting Neuchâtel were still in uncertainty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 512.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(xvii.) Feb. 6.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, giving the numbers in the division in the House of Lords on the dissolution of the Scotch Privy Council. "This day," he adds, "being the Queen's birthday, there has been a great appearance at Kensington, and will be a greater this evening. Her Majesty did not come to town, and has not ordered any ball or comedy," which they say will be reserved for H.R.H.'s birthday. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 275.)—Cockpit.

(xviii.) Feb. 6. Endorsed Feb. 17.—S. Edwin to the Earl of Manchester, on the state of parties, the Court, the proceedings in the House of Lords relating to the Scotch Privy Council and Lord Peterborough, &c. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 270.)—Exchequer.

1708.

(xix.) Feb. 7. Endorsed Feb. 18.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, confiding to him the dismissal of Mr. Secretary Harley, and the appointment of a committee of Lords to examine Gregg, and "other State criminals," especially Valiere, who, having been employed by Harley as "an owl," had carried on a secret correspondence between the French Court and some of their friends in this country. The final debate in the House of Lords on the abolition of the Scotch Privy Council is also described. Mr. Boyle was to succeed Harley, and would be succeeded at the Treasury by the Speaker. (Printed, without date, in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 278.)

(xx.) Feb. 11, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning the enthusiasm excited at Turin by a picture of Queen Anne, announcing his re-call, and asking for the Earl's interest and protection.—Turin.

(xxi.) Feb. 12.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on proceedings relating to the proposed neutrality of Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 513.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(xxii.) Feb. 13.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the appointment of Mr. Boyle as Secretary, and mentioning various rumours of other appointments. "It is said Mr. Harley and his friends had laid scheme to undermine most of our great officers of State, and plant their own party in the room of "em. If we may believe common fame, he himself was to have been a Peer and Lord Treasurer . . . It is, I believe, very certain that the Duke of Marlborough and Lord Treasurer refused to sit any longer in Council with so wily a Secretary, and would have laid down themselves, if he had not been removed. It is said he had hopes of working his ends by the assistance of a Bed-chamber woman, whom, it seems, he has found out to be his cousin." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 280.)

1708.

(xxiii.) Feb. 17.—Sir James Montague to the Earl of Manchester, on family matters, and on the recent changes of office, the dismissal of Mr. Harley, "for setting up a faction against My Lord Duke of Marlborough and Lord Treasurer," his own expected promotion to be Attorney-General, &c. (Printed in "Court and Society, from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 282.)

1707-8.

(xxiv.) Feb. 17. Endorsed Feb. 23.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, instructing him to press the treaty of commerce upon the Venetians, and to give no encouragement to the Duke of Mantua. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 515.)—Whitehall.

1708.

(xxv.) Feb. 18.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that he expected to be succeeded by Mr. Palmes, and giving some particulars relative to the Duke of Savoy.—Turin.

(xxvi.) Feb. 19.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on the prospects of arranging a neutrality for Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 513.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(xxvii.) Feb. 20.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, on various proceedings in the Houses of Lords and Commons. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 284.)

(xxviii.) Feb. 24.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, on the opera in London. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 289.)—London.

(xxix.) Feb. 24.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, on the opera, and on debates in the Commons. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 291.)

(xxx.) Feb. 25.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the investiture of Montferrat, &c. had been conceded to the Duke of Savoy by the Court of Vienna, but that it was unlikely he would succeed in obtaining the Novarese in compensation for money advanced on the Emperor's account. Some details respecting the movements of the fleet are added, with an unfavourable opinion of the expedition to Spain.—Turin.

1708.

(xxxi.) Feb. 25.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly upon the terms upon which the Court of Vienna was willing to grant investiture of the Palatinate, &c. Count Staremberg's luggage was on its way to Italy. The Duke of Marlborough, it was expected, would meet Prince Eugene at Hanover "for their concerting measures." At Ratisbon it had been agreed to borrow 1,000,000 crowns, and to take 3,000 Saxons into the service of the Empire.—Vienna.

(xxxii.) Feb. 26.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on various aspects of the Neuchâtel affair. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 515.)—Bern.

1707-8.

(xxxiii.) Feb. 27.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester. "This day the Committee of Lords make report of their examination of the State Criminals, but, I believe, I must stay till the next post before I shall be able to give your Lordship any account of it. We look upon the debate of last Tuesday, which I have had the honour to mention to your Lordship already, as that which has fixed all men in their proper parties, and thoroughly established the present ministry. Stanhope and Erle arrived very apropos to give some account of the Spanish affairs that were then in dispute, and it is said they did it very handsomely. Colonel Mordaunt at the end of his speech had these words: 'If a late modest scheme had taken effect we

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

" 'should neither have had troops abroad nor Generals 'at home.' As this scheme is the great subject of discourse here I must acquaint your Lordship with so much as I have heard of it, and can give some credit to, as having it from good hands. It seems my Lord Rochester and Mr. Bromley were taken no care of in the intended promotions, and 'tis supposed were not in the secret. The Treasury, they say, was to have been in Commission, and Mr. Harley at the head of it, in order to have it broken in a short time, and himself to have been Lord High Treasurer of Great Britain. Mr. St. John and the Earle Pawlett were, as it is said, to have been Secretaries of State, and Harcourt Lord Chancellor. Sir T. Hanmore, too, was to have come in for his share, but I have forgot his post. They did not question, it seems, but my Lord Marlborough would have acted with them, and therefore thought their scheme good till his Grace refused to sit any longer in Council with the late Secretary. I am credibly informed that the same resolution had bin taken by the Lords Treasurer, H[igh] Steward, Privy Seal, President of the Council, Lord Chancellor, and the other Secretary of State. How this so much talked of scheme proved abortive and came to light before its time is still a mystery."—Cockpit.

(xxxiv.) March 2.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, on Parliamentary business and on the great naval preparations made by Great Britain against the expected French invasion in the interests of the Pretender. The Postscript only is in Addison's hand:—"My eyes being out of order, I am forced to make use of another hand." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 296.)

1708.

(xxxv.) March 2.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer, expressing his belief that little good was to be effected at Venice, and that the alliance of the Venetians was of little worth, could it even be obtained. Affairs at Vienna were managed by Cardinal Lambert, Prince Eugene, and Count Wratislaw. The Prince would not go to Spain, but would meet the Duke of Marlborough at the Hague. The chief hope of the allies must be fixed upon his Grace. The Earl expresses his thanks for the Privy Seal giving him his plate, and calls attention to the sum due to him from the Treasury. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 298.)—Venice.

Undated.

(xxxv.) Endorsed, in the handwriting of the Earl of Manchester, 1708.—Speech of the Earl of Manchester [apparently to the Doge of Venice.] (Printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 481, where the probably correct date assigned is Sep. 22, 1707.)

1708.

(xxxvi.) March 2.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Montagu, acquainting him with the arrival of Lord Hinchinbrook at Venice, and offering suggestions respecting the future movements of the young man who had more life and spirit than powers of application, and who had recently had a difference with M. la Come, which had been accommodated by the Earl. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," i., 309.)—Venice.

1707-8.

(xxxvii.) March 3.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, thanking the Earl for his protection and advice. Marshal Staremberg was, according to advices from Vienna, "the person designed for Spain," whither more Imperial troops would be sent. It was, however, to be feared the Duke of Orleans would make his footing in Spain so good that it would be no easy matter to dislodge him. An enclosure relating to the affairs of Savoy is mentioned.—Turin.

1708.

(xxxviii.) March 4.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on various matters relating to the proposed neutrality of Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 516.)—Berne.

1707-8.

(xxxix.) March 5.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester. "On Tuesday last, the Lords had before them the examination of Gregg and Clarke alias Valiere, the reading of it taking up near four hours. They afterwards referd the consideration of it to a Committee of the whole House. Gregg, it seems, had formerly dealt in clipping and coining, and in the year 1697 was tried, with his wife, on that occasion. The latter took the guilt upon her and pleaded her belly, and after her delivery was burnt. I don't hear that Gregg could confess anything material. He laid his guilt upon his great necessities, and said he had been employed by Mr. Harley as a kind of spie in Scotland to give him information, from time to time, of the steps that were made in the Union. Valiere had been employed by Mr. Harley to bring him intelligence from France, under the pretence of an owler. He carried on, at the same time, a criminal correspondence between several on this side the water and in the Court of France, but how far this went, and whether by any commission or connivance from any hence, is now under consideration. Your Lordship will see by the yesterday's votes the alarm that we have received from the coast of France. Mr. Cadogan's letters mention that the Prince of Wales was in Dunquerque, ready to embark with 15 battalions, and that the Duke of Berwick and Dillon were to go along with the expedition, that they had been invited over by several Scotch Lords and promised the assistance of all their friends and dependencies. Several letters add that the French Court had assurances given them that the Castle of Edinburgh should be put into their hands on the first arrival of their forces, and that there are actually several near relations of the first families of Scotland now in France as hostages to the French King for the performance of articles on the Scotch side. I told your Lordship in my last how well prepared we are for the crushing this intended invasion, and I think there wants nothing else to the settling of the Union, this expedition being the last effort of the party that opposed the uniting of the two nations. I forgot to tell your Lordship that the Duke of Argyle goes for Scotland to-morrow, and that the Governour of Edinburgh Castle is already gone."

1708.

(xl.) March 7 and 10.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly on the proceedings at a meeting of the States of Hungary at Pressburg. Some arrivals at Vienna, and some appointments to the Imperial army in Catalonia are noticed, as well as some acts of violence committed by Hungarian malcontents.—Vienna.

(xli.) March 7.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on matters relating to Neuchâtel. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 517.)—Berne.

1707-8.

(xlii.) March 9.—J. Addison to [the Earl of Manchester.] "All our talk at present turns upon the intended invasion, which we fancy will still be carried on, since the joining of the Brest squadron with the fleet that was before at Dunquerque. This squadron they say, consists of six men-of-war, and five privateers. Our Admirals say they cannot hinder the enemy from reaching Scotland, as I have heard, about twenty hours before them, but whether that will suffice for the débarquement of so many troupes and pieces of artillery, or whether the French will be willing to sacrifice all their transports and risque their men-of-war is very much doubted, especially since the news we have received this morning of the pretended Prince of Wales's falling sick of the measles. The last news we have from Sir J. Leake says that he was sailed with the grand fleet and trade under his convoy, but we are afraid the contrary wind this day will drive him back. We have strong reports, as there are always towards the end of a session, that there will be great changes at Court. My Lord Cardigan has been talked of for some time to be Lord Chamberlain, the Earle of Pembroke to be Admiral, Lord Wharton Viceroy of Ireland, and Lord Sommers President of the Council, but whether there be any ground for all this a little time will show us." (xliii.) March 12.—J. Addison to [the Earl of Manchester.] "The enclosed prints will acquaint your Lordship with all that is yet come to our knowledge of the designed invasion. Expresses are expected every hour of the further motions of the two fleets. We generally look on this project as a desperate push of the Court of St. Germain, for they have not above 5,000 men on board, and are followed by a fleet of double their force. Our troupes that are sailing from Ostende will outnumber them if they land, and the troupes which are ordered to march out of England, and to be transported from Ireland with those that are already in North Brittain, will make an army of above 20,000 foot and 3,000 horse, whereas the enemy have not a horse

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

107
108
109
110
111
112
113
114
115
116
117
118
119
120
121
122
123
124
125
126
127
128
129
130
131
132
133
134
135
136
137
138
139
140
141
142
143
144
145
146
147
148
149
150
151
152
153
154 155
156
157
158
159
160
161
162
163
164
165
166
167
168
169
170
171
172
173
174
175
176
177
178
179
180
181
182
183
184
185
186
187
188
189
190
191
192
193
194
195
196
197
198
199
200 201
202
203
204
205
206 207
208
209
210
211
212
213
214
215
216
217
218
219
220
221
222
223
224
225
226
227
228
229
230
231
232
233
234
235
236
237 238
239
240
241
242
243
244
245
246
247
248
249
250
251
252
253
254
255
256
257
258
259
260
261
262
263
264
265
266
267
268
269
270
271
272
273
274
275
276
277
278
279
280
281
282
283
284
285
286
287
288
289
290
291
292
293
294
295
296
297
298
299
300
301
302
303
304
305
306
307
308
309
310
311
312
313
314
315
316
317
318
319
320
321
322
323
324
325
326
327
328
329
330
331
332
333
334
335
336
337
338
339
340
341
342
343
344
345
346
347
348
349
350
351
352
353
354
355
356
357
358
359
360
361
362
363
364 365
366
367
368
369
370
371
372
373
374
375
376
377
378
379
380
381
382
383
384
385
386
387
388
389
390
391
392
393
394
395
396
397
398
399
400
401
402
403
404
405
406
407
408
409
410
411
412
413
414
415
416
417
418
419
420
421
422
423
424
425
426
427
428
429
430
431
432
433
434
435
436
437
438
439
440
441
442
443
444
445
446
447
448
449
450
451
452
453
454
455
456
457
458
459
460
461
462
463
464
465
466
467
468
469
470
471
472
473
474
475
476
477
478
479
480
481
482
483
484
485
486
487
488
489
490
491
492
493
494
495
496
497
498
499 500
501 502
503
504
505
506
507
508
509
510
511
512
513
514
515
516
517
518
519
520
521
522
523
524
525
526
527
528
529
530
531
532
533
534
535
536
537
538
539
540
541
542
543
544
545
546
547
548
549
550
551
552
553
554
555
556
557
558
559
560
561
562
563
564
565
566
567
568 569
570
571
572
573
574
575
576
577
578
579 580
581
582
583
584
585
586
587
588
589
590
591
592
593
594
595
596
597
598
599
600
601
602
603
604
605
606
607
608
609
610
611
612
613
614
615
616
617
618
619
620
621
622
623
624
625
626
627
628
629
630
631
632
633
634
635
636
637
638
639
640
641
642
643
644
645
646
647
648
649
650
651
652
653
654
655
656
657
658
659
660 661
662
663
664
665
666
667
668
669
670
671
672
673
674
675
676
677
678
679
680
681
682
683
684
685
686
687
688
689
690
691
692
693
694
695
696
697 698
699
700
701
702
703
704
705
706
707
708
709 710
711
712
713
714
715
716
717
718
719
720
721
722
723
724 725
726
727
728
729
730
731
732
733 734
735
736 737 738
739
740
741
742
743
744 745
746
747 748
749
750
751
752
753
754
755
756
757
758
759
760
761
762
763 764
765
766
767
768
769
770
771
772
773
774
775
776
777
778
779
780
781
782
783
784
785 786
787
788
789
790 791
792
793
794 795
796
797
798
799 800
801
802
803
804
805 806
807
808
809
810
811
812
813
814
815
816
817
818
819
820
821
822
823
824
825
826
827
828
829
830
831
832
833
834
835
836
837
838
839
840
841
842
843
844
845
846
847
848
849
850
851 852
853 854
855
856
857
858
859
860
861 862
863
864
865
866
867
868
869 870
871
872
873
874
875
876
877
878
879
880
881
882
883
884
885
886
887
888
889
890
891
892
893
894
895
896
897
898 899
900 901
902
903
904
905
906
907
908 909
910
911
912
913
914
915
916
917
918
919
920
921
922
923
924
925
926
927
928
929
930
931
932
933
934
935
936
937
938
939
940
941
942
943
944
945
946 947
948
949
950
951
952
953
954
955
956
957
958
959
960
961 962
963
964
965
966
967
968
969
970
971
972
973 974
975
976
977 978
979
980
981
982 983
984
985
986
987
988
989
990
991
992
993
994
995
996
997
998
999
1000

that Admiral Byng was in sight of the French fleet, however, led to the belief that no landing would be effected. The Duke of Marlborough had letters from Paris to the effect that "this project was opiated by the King of France, against the opinion of others; which would incline one to think if it did not succeed one way he wished it would another, by getting rid of the Pretender, which is likely enough to happen." There is also some discussion of operatic matters. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 318.)—London.

1708.

(xlix.) March 17.—John Scudamore to the Earl of Manchester, on damask velvets wanted by the Duchess of Marlborough, and the price of marble chimney-pieces. The English fleet at Gibraltar was short of provisions.—Genoa.

(l.) March 18.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a letter from Geneva, which purported to give an account of the French project for the invasion of Scotland. (See xlii. The greater part of the letter, but without the enclosure, is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 518.)—Bern.

(li.) March 21 and 24.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, on the Emperor's approval of the resolution of the Diet, the religious affairs of the Empire, the proceedings of the Hungarian malecontents, the departure of Prince Eugene for Holland, the proposal that England should transport 6,000 Germans from Italy to Catalonia at her own expense, the insufficiency of the forces supplied by the Emperor, and the proposal to make Bucari a free port. (pp. 7.)—Vienna.

1707-8.

(lii.) March 22.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, on the buildings in progress at Kimbolton. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 320.)—Stevenage.

1708.

(liii.) March 22.—E. Howe to the Earl of Manchester, on the preparations of Hanover for the forthcoming campaign.—Hanover.

1707-8.

(liv.) March 23.—J. Addison to [the Earl of Manchester], giving some small items of news, including the arrest of the Duke of Hamilton. The French squadron was supposed to have "got into some of the ports of Norway." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 328.)

1708.

(lv.) March 24.—Colonel Broune de Camus to the Earl of Manchester, recommending to his favour an Irish gentleman named Hurly, who wished to serve as captain of cavalry in the British army in Spain. (In French.)—Pavia.

(lvi.) March 25.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, on difficulties arising out of the neglect of the King of Prussia to pay the Swiss troops in Neuchâtel, &c. (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 518.)—Bern.

(lvii.) March 26.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, giving various small items of news. Mr. Stanhope was appointed Envoy Extraordinary to the King of Spain, and Major-General commanding the British forces in Catalonia.—Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 327.)

(lviii.) March 30.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester. "We hear the Pretender and all his forces are embarked at Dunkerque, but so very sick of their expedition that the town could scarce furnish them with hospitals. Our letters advise that this great project was undertaken at the urgent solicitations of the Jesuites and the Pope, who, they say, contributed to it very largely, and I hear it whispered that our Parliament may possibly show their resentments on this occasion in an Adresse to Her Majesty.

"The Lords have printed their examinations of Gregg and Valiere. The book being too bulkie to send your Lordship, I have ordered the conclusion of it, with the Queen's answer to it (the whole being in the form of an Adresse), to be copied and enclosed to your Lordship. "The Duke of Shrewsbury being in town, and having received several visites from our great men, several are of opinion that his Grace will be President of the Council. Major-General Meredith will be Gentleman of the Horse to the Duke of Somerset, in the room of Mr. Walsh, deceased.

1708.

(xlv.) March 16.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duchess of Marlborough, recommending a Venetian musician to the notice of the Duchess, and of the Queen. (Draft. Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 321.)—Venice.

(xlv.) March 16.—Letter (unsigned and unaddressed) containing an account of a circular letter of the King of France, on the occasion of the projected invasion of Scotland, and some particulars of the expedition, and of the Pretender's movements. (In French. See A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, l.)—Geneva.

1707-8.

(xlvii.) March 16.—Henry Newton to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that he had little news to mention except the arrival of a ship from Turkey, which had been captured by a Zealand privateer.—Leghorn.

(xlviii.) March 16.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, regretting that Great Britain had trusted too much to her navy, and that there were no land forces in Scotland to meet the projected invasion. The news

THE OF JCHES-
TER.DUKE OF MANCHE-STER.

passing through Turin, had failed to see H.R.H., who wished to have as little as possible to do with the Republic. Mr. Chetwynd asked for the Earl's interest with the Ministers. (pp. 6.)—Turin.

(v.) May 6.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester. It was not known that the ratifications of the Treaty of Neutrality for Neuchâtel had yet been exchanged. The differences respecting Toggenburg would probably be satisfactorily adjusted, so that the inhabitants could be secured in the free enjoyment of their religion and liberties. It was to be hoped that the Earl would, before leaving Venice, obtain satisfaction for the affront offered him "in visiting his gondola and what is more, plundering it." The Earl would naturally be "little obliged" to Mr. Brown that drew him into the difficulty.—Bern.

(vi.) May 8¹⁹.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester.

Mr. Stanhope had arrived, but was "almost as much in the dark" as Chetwynd himself about the expected reinforcement of 5,000 Imperialist troops for Spain. He had written very pressing on the subject both to the Duke of Marlborough and to Lord Sunderland. The delays of the Imperialists were causing uneasiness. "Mr. Palmes" would pass through Venice on his way to Turin. Perhaps, the Earl could ascertain Mr. Chetwynd's "destiny" from him.—Turin.

(vii.) May 9.—General Palmes to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that he hoped to conclude his negotiation at Vienna, and proceed to Italy in a few days.—Vienna.

(viii.) May 10.—The Earl of Manchester to Prince Hercolani, informing him that he was about to start for Vicenza, on the following day, on his return home, and that a complete rupture with Venice was imminent. The Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene were both at Hanover, and the Duke would not return to England but join the army at once. (Draft. In French.)—Venice.

(ix.) May 11.—S. Edwin to the Earl of Manchester. Correspondence was difficult, as letters were commonly opened, if not intercepted on the way. The Duke of Hamilton had been bailed, and would, in all probability, be "one of the sixteen peers for Scotland." Sir James Montagu was not yet made Attorney-General. The Whigs were stronger in Parliament by 44 votes since the last election, and the Tories and Jacobites much dejected. "Mr. Massam" was said to have his "patent for Earl of Dover. I need not tell your Lordship by what interest that goes, though 'tis by one that has appeared since you left us." Sir T. Mansell had "served his election" by being "out of Court" and "purged of his place." for "all our Tory confederates deserted us, and the Whigs of our country that were engaged against us make a conscience of changing sides, so that we are in confusion for this time."—Exchequer.

(x.) May 11.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly on operative affairs, but with the following postscript:—"My Lady Marlborough goes now very often to Court, and is in perfect good humour. I hope all will keep right." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 354.)—London.

(xi.) May 11.—H. Boyle to the Earl of Manchester, acknowledging the Earl's congratulations offered to him upon his appointment as Secretary.—London.

(xii.) May 13.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, touching briefly on various matters. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 532.)—Bern.

(xiii.) May 15.—Philippo Hercolani to [the Earl of Manchester]. He expected to be at Mantua on the 21st, and to go on thence to Milan. He thanked the Earl for procuring him the protection of the Queen, and an employment in which he might be useful to the common cause. He hoped to receive letters from the Earl at Milan, and would then endeavour to conclude a business which should awake in the Court of Vienna sentiments consistent with the Imperial dignity. He had never been guilty of any base action in his life, and would not enter upon one now that he had the honour to serve His Imperial Majesty. (In Italian.)—Crocetta.

(xiv.) May 17.—Valeriano Pellegrini to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that he was about to set out for Düsseldorf in the following week. (In Italian.)—Verona.

(xv.) May 18.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, expressing the belief that the Duke would be the deliverer of this country, and that reparation would be made for the affront offered to himself at Venice. (Copy.)—Venice.

(xvi.) May 18.—James Stanhope to the Earl of Manchester, on the prospects of the campaigns in Flanders and Catalonia. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 533.)—Savona.

(xvii.) May 18.—S. Edwin to the Earl of Manchester. "The title of Dover" was not to be given to "Mr. Massam," but to the Duke of Queensborough. The elections had been favourable to the Whigs. There would be another attempt to make Lord Somers and Sir James Montague President of the Council and Attorney-General. A sea expedition with ten regiments from England and Ireland, and the great naval preparation of the Dutch were much talked of.—Exchequer.

(xviii.) May 20.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the ratification of the Treaty for the Neutrality of Neuchâtel. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 533.)—Bern.

(xix.) May 22.—... Hurly, an Irishman, to the Earl of Manchester, asking the latter to intercede for him with the Vice-Roy of Naples, and mentioning a recommendation from Col. Broune. (In French.)—Naples.

(xx.) May 30.—General Palmes to the Earl of Manchester, on the affairs of the Elector Palatine and the Duke of Savoy, and on the concentration of 40,000 men at Coblenz under Prince Eugene. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 534.)—Vienna.

(xxi.) June 1.—Thomas Prichard to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning the indisposition of the Venetian Ambassador, and consequent difficulty of delivering a box to him and obtaining a receipt. There were great complaints of the scarcity of money in England. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 358.)—London.

(xxii.) June 2, n.s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester on the formation of camps at Bussolino and Ivrea, the seizure of Comaccio, and the probable reluctance of other powers to let the Emperor have so good a port in the Adriatic. The Queen of Spain was at Milan. There had been no news of the fleet.—Turin.

(xxiii.) June 3.—J. Quinton to the Earl of Manchester, chiefly on family matters. He had waited on the Duchesses of Marlborough "with the patterns" which "pleased her extremely," and she would "give his Lordship more trouble about them." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 359.)—London.

(xxiv.) June 4.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, expressing willingness to join with Lord Sunderland in any thing the Earl could desire. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 535.)—Camp at Torbanck.

(xxv.) June 8.—Lady Elizabeth Montague to her brother the Earl of Manchester, on his probable return to England, and on various matters of gossip, e.g., the marriages of friends, &c. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii., 365.)

(xxvi.) June 9.—Henry Newton to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the capture of a number of French vessels laden with ammunition, &c., by Sir John Lake.—Florence.

(xxvii.) June 17²⁸.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that he had been engaged in fitting out transports which would be ready on the 5th or 6th of the following month, and have all the troops embarked on them within ten days afterwards.—Vado.

(xxviii.) June 20.—Paolo Abbate Franceschini to the Earl of Manchester, thanking him for his patronage and protection. He had met the Secretary of the Imperial Ambassador, from whom he had learned that he might expect a letter from the Duca Moles. (In Italian.)—Milan.

(xxix.) June 22.—Alexandre de Bonneval to the Earl of Manchester, pointing out the advantages of the site of Commachio for commercial purposes and as a harbour for ships of war. (In French.)—Commachio.

(xxx.) May 26.—Undirected letter of the Duca Moles to the effect that he had presented the memorial which had been forwarded by the Envoy Stanhope, to "His Majesty" [Charles III. of Spain?], who regarded it favourably, and was disposed to grant a pension. (Copy. In Italian. See xxxi.)—Barcelona.

(xxxi.) June 27.—Paolo Abbate Franceschini to the Earl of Manchester, inclosing a copy of a letter from the Duca Moles, which had been sent to the Abbate by the Imperial Ambassador at Venice, and again thanking the Earl for his protection and recommendation. (In Italian. See xxx. Endorsed, "Ab. Franceschini, and one from the D. of Moles.") (xxxii.) June 24.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the Pope had asked the Catholic Cantons for assistance against the Emperor to defend the Holy See, as the Imperial troops had invaded the Ferrarese, and that the French Ambassador, M.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Puisieux, was to be succeeded by the Comte de Gerzé. He mentions enclosure of a copy of the Nuncio's Memorial to the Cantons.—Bern.

(xxxiii.) June 25. Endorsed 6 July.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, acknowledging the receipt of copies of a memorial of Lord Manchester, and of the Senate's answer to it, and assuring him of the Queen's complete approval of all his proceedings. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 540.)—Whitehall.

(xxxiv.) June 26, o.s.—Sir John Norris to the Earl of Manchester, giving a variety of details of the military position and prospects in Spain, and of the embarkation of troops at Vado. (pp. 6.)—On board the Ranelaugh, with the Fleet, at Vado.

(xxxv.) June 28.—G. Germain to the Earl of Manchester, apologising for his delay in writing, caused by the supposition that the Earl was about to return at once from Venice. He had had the Lord Treasurer, Lord Sunderland, Mr. Boyle, and "le bon homme Mons. de Spanheim" to dine with him, and they had drunk the Earl's health. (In French.)—London.

(xxxvi.) June 30.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester congratulating the Earl upon his success at Venice, giving some particulars respecting Prince Eugene and the Duke of Savoy's affairs, and mentioning in a postscript the threatening attitude of "the Swede." (pp. 6.)—Vienna.

(xxxvii.) July 1.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that the religious difficulty in Toggenburg was accommodated, that the Catholic Cantons would probably send 3,000 men to the assistance of the Pope, and that the Duke of Savoy would put in the field an army of 36,000 foot, and 8,000 horse. (Printed, in part only, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 540.)—Bern.

(xxxviii.) July 4 and July 7.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, on the introduction of the Elector of Hanover into the Electoral College, and on various matters relating to Imperial politics. (The greater part is printed under date July 7, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 542.)—Vienna.

(xxxix.) July 6.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duchess of Marlborough.

"I think myself extremely happy that I can any ways demonstrate to your Grace the sincere zeal I shall ever have for your service, and it is a real pleasure to me to be employed on all such occasions. By the honour of yours, I find you approve of the yellow and green damask, and have already given directions that there shall be made what quantity you command. It is always best to have rather more than less [than] you shall want, for in the measuring of the rooms they may be mistaken. Besides, there must be chairs, window curtains, and for the doors, according to the manner in Italy, which looks very handsome, and is as cheap as anything, I think, as can be made of silk. The people here are poor and are glad of work; else I am sensible it could not be done at such a rate, but your Grace may rely it shall be done well, as also, whatever velvets you shall command. The height of the hangings for the rooms I must know; else there will be a great loss when they come to be cut to make the figures join right, for they can be made to what height you please. I have sent by the express that comes to M. Cornaro patterns of velvets, and upon enquiry, though Genoa has the name, yet they now make them as well here, and I will engage, being upon the place, to have them done better than trusting to another there. I find the scarlet is the most difficult colour, and in Italy they cannot dye that as we do. I have sent also a pattern of that, and it can be made much brighter. All the velvets can be made of the same breadth those are of damask; but what is general made is of the breadth you will see these patterns are of. They run most here of plain velvet, or the ground of one colour, and the flowers of several, as your Grace will see by those figured patterns. There is none to be had by [but?] what is bespoke. You must not judge of these patterns, but only to the colour, which will still be better when ordered. The goodness of velvets depends on the quantity of ounces of silk; and one cannot be deceived, for every piece is weighed, so there must be that number of ounces as is agreed of. Figured velvets can be made also all of one colour in the [same] manner as the damask; or if any design in little was sent me, I could have it done. I have been more particular that your Grace may take your measures, and I will take that upon me that whatever is ordered shall be the best of the kind, as also you shall not pay more than what a merchant must do that is to sell it again. If you please to send me a pattern of scarlet, as also the other colours you would have, little pieces of large ribbon may come by the post. I shall then judge whether the scarlet can be done (for all others it is certain), and I will have them first make a trial.

"As to the music, I had the honour of your Grace's, and am sorry to find our operas are still on so bad a foot. They are at a great expense, and have nothing good; still if the method is taken that is here, we must expect no better. I have prevailed with one of the best voices in Italy, who will be in England by the end of September. I hope he will find his account. As he succeeds all the rest will follow." (Draft.)—Venice.

(xl.) July 8.—Paolo Franceschini to [the Earl of Manchester?], announcing that he [had] secured a passage to Vado, and been promised an introduction to Admiral Leake. (In Italian.)—Genoa.

(xli.) July 8.—Thomas Kirke to the Earl of Manchester, to the effect that a passage to Barcelona had been secured for the Abbate Franceschini on board H.M.S. Defiance.—Genoa.

(xlii.) July 9.—The Duca di Moles to the Earl of Manchester, expressing pleasure at having been able to use his influence to procure a pension for the Abbate Franceschini from the King of Spain. (In Italian.)—Barcelona.

(xliii.) July 14.—C. Cole to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of various letters, and touching on various rumours and matters of gossip. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 544.)—Venice.

(xliv.) July 15.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, giving some particulars of the battle of Oudenarde. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 544.)—Camp at Wervick.

(xlv.) July 18.—General Palmes to the Earl of Manchester, conveying news of the French defeat at Oudenarde.—Vienna.

(xlvi.) July 20.—M. Runkel to a person addressed as "Monsieur" [Mr. Stanyan], giving particulars of the battle of Oudenarde. (In French. Copy. See xlviii. and xlix.)—Schaffhausen.

(xlvii.) July 20, n. s.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, giving some particulars of the embarkation at Vado, and mentioning the success of Mr. [General] Palmes in securing the investiture of Montferrat for the Duke of Savoy. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 545.)—Genoa.

(xlviii.) July 21.—M. Runkel's paper, giving fuller details of the news conveyed in his letter of the 20th July. (In French. 7 pages. Copy.)—Schaffhausen.

(xlix.) July 22.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of copies of letters from the Dutch Minister at Schaffhausen, on the victory at Oudenarde. (See xlv. and xlviii.)—Bern.

(l.) July 23.—J. Addison to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning the arrest of the Muscovite Ambassador by bailiffs, expressing strong hopes of the success of the combined operations against France, congratulating the Earl on the approbation given to his conduct at Venice, &c. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 546.)—Cockpit.

(li.) July 23.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, conveying the Queen's approval of Lord Manchester's prudent conduct at Venice, and mentioning the enclosure of a letter of recall to be used as Lord Manchester might see fit. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 545.)—Whitehall.

(lii.) July 23.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, expressing his belief that it would be difficult to make the Court of Vienna "go a different pace from what it thinks fittest to go." There was, however, a King whose "Gothic politics" made their councils "a little uneasy and uncertain." It was to be hoped the Duke [of Marlborough] would "set us up in the world again."—Vienna.

(liii.) Aug. 5.—The Duchess of Marlborough to [the Earl of Manchester].

"I have received the honour of your Lordship's of the 27th of July, for which I give you a thousand thanks. That is all I can do, but Lord Marlborough, I hope, will return your goodness to him by a success that, I hope, will bring such a peace as you and your family may always be the better for. The news we had lately from the Indies, I hope, in consequence is equal to another victory, and I believe France will be pressed every way this year. The last post I troubled your Lordship with particular directions about the damask and velvets, but I forgot these two patterns which I said then I would send you. I give your Lordship many thanks for your goodness in offering me the velvets you had directed for yourself, but you will find by my last letter that my inclination is to silks of one

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"colour. I wish I could do anything for your service here."—Windsor Castle.

(liv.) July 26.—Sir John Norris to the Earl of Manchester, conveying the information that he had landed the troops at Barcelona, and giving various particulars relating to the probable course of the campaign in the Peninsula. (5 pages. A part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 545.)—"Ranelagh, with the Fleet."

(lv.) July 27.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer, asking to be named Plenipotentiary, in the event of a peace with France. His dispute at Venice had been at last adjusted. (Draft. Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 373.)—Venice.

(lvi.) July 27.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, explaining how he had lost money by the opera, giving details of the buildings at Blenheim, &c., and mentioning that the Duchess of Marlborough was "mighty well at Court, but the Q.'s fondness of t'other lady was not to be expressed." (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 377.)—London.

(lvii.) July 29.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, giving further particulars relating to the battle of Oudenarde and its results.—Bern.

(lviii.) July 30.—E. Lewis to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a lampoon said to have been made by Mr. M. . . g, and congratulating him upon his approaching return to England.—Whitehall.

(lix.) Aug. 1.—The Duchess of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, thanking him very warmly for the trouble he had already taken, and giving very full details of the velvets, damasks, &c. which she wished to have sent to her. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 387.)—Windsor Castle.

(lx.) Aug. 3.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, congratulating him upon the victory of Oudenarde, making some comments upon the general military situation, and expressing his anxiety to leave Venice. (Draft.)—Venice.

(lxi.) Aug. 4.—A paper unsigned and unaddressed, giving an account of the disembarkation of troops at Barcelona, and of the military situation in Spain. (In French.)—Barcelona.

(lxii.) Aug. 5.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a paper in French, and giving some details of the disposition of forces in Flanders and on the Rhine.—Bern.

(lxiii.) April 6.—The Earl of Manchester to Lord Halifax, complaining of an attack made upon his gondola at Venice, and explaining the necessity of having some public satisfaction. (Draft. The particulars are given at greater length in the Earl's letters to Sunderland, dated May 30, and April 6, and printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 519 and p. 521.)—Venice.

(lxiv.) Aug. 10.—The Duchess of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester. "I have received the honour of your lordship's letter, with the patterns and directions how to proceed in that affair, which are so exact that it is my fault if there ever happens any mistake. I will keep them very carefully by me till Lord Marlborough takes a resolution to furnish Woodstock, and I am sure, whenever he begins that work, your papers will be of great use to him. I wish I may ever be of any to you."—Windsor Castle.

(lxv.) Aug. 11.—Paolo Abbate Franceschini to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that he had seen the British Envoy, General Stanhope, and the Duca Moles, and that his promised pension was to issue out of lands in Italy, from which he would probably receive nothing for years. He asks for a further recommendation from the Earl, and mentions the arrival of the fleet and troops at Barcelona. (In Italian.)—Barcelona.

(lxvi.) Aug. 11.—W. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, announcing that he concluded he would be Resident at Genoa, and mentioning a French attack upon Naples, the barbarous execution of the Abbé de Riveroles for alleged correspondence with the British Court, and the rumour of a council of war to inquire into the circumstances of the surrender of Tortosa.—Genoa.

(lxvii.) Aug. 11.—E. Howe to the Earl of Manchester, describing the position of the forces on the Rhine.—Muhlberg.

(lxviii.) Aug. 13.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, describing the difficulties of the mountain passes, and expressing hopes of a successful campaign.—Chaumont.

(lxix.) Aug. 14.—Unsigned letter to the Earl of Manchester on the state of the Court, a quarrel between the Duchess of Marlborough and the Lord Chamberlain, and the probability that the Earl might obtain the Lord Chamberlain's post. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 383.)—London.

(lxx.) Aug. 15.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, expressing hopes that the campaign would be followed by an honourable and lasting peace. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 546.)—Camp at Helchin.

(lxxi.) Aug. 17.—J. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester, on the re-building at Kimbolton, and on operatic affairs. (Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 383.)—Biggleswade.

(lxxii.) Aug. 18.—W. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, mentioning enclosure from Sir J. Norris on the state of affairs in Spain. The Emperor would be asked to send 4,000 foot out of the forces in Italy, but it was not expected that he would consent. Five men-of-war had touched at Genoa, and just been despatched, Chetwynd had sent with them 50,000 pistoles for Mr. Stanhope. The money might "be able to stop many a man's mouth, and raise their spirits," of which there was need.—Genoa.

(lxxiii.) Aug. 18.—Sir John Norris to the Earl of Manchester, describing the capture of "Callery" [Cagliari]. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 547.)—"Ranelagh, near Callery."

(lxxiv.) Aug. 19.—A. Stanyan to the Earl of Manchester, giving particulars of the various military movements as reported to him.—Bern.

(lxxv.) Aug. 26.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, announcing the commencement of the siege of Lille. (Printed, Cole's Memoirs, p. 547.)—Camp at Amongies.

(lxxvi.) Sept. 1.—Sir P. Medows to the Earl of Manchester, giving an account of the reinforcements to be sent by the Emperor to serve under General Staremberg in Spain, together with some particulars of the unsatisfactory plight of the Hanoverians and Würtembergers.—Vienna.

(lxxvii.) Sept. 5.—General Palmes to the Earl of Manchester, describing some of the movements of the Duke of Savoy, who was not expected to march beyond Fenestrelles for some time.—Turin.

(lxxviii.) Sept. 7.—J. Chetwynd to the Earl of Manchester, informing him that as Fenestrelles had fallen, nothing further would be undertaken by the Duke of Savoy until another year.—(Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 547.)—Camp at Mantoule, near Fenestrelles.

(lxxix.) Sept. 14.—The Earl of Sunderland to the Earl of Manchester, congratulating him upon the satisfactory termination of the affair at Venice. (Printed, nearly in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 551.)—Whitehall.

(lxxx.) Sept. 14.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duchess of Marlborough, on the damasks, velvets, &c. which he had been purchasing for her, &c. (Draft. Printed in "Court and Society from Elizabeth to Anne," ii. 389.)—Venice.

(lxxxi.) Sept. 20.—The Earl of Manchester to the Duke of Marlborough, announcing that he was about to have his audience of leave on the following day. The British fleet had gone to Port Mahon. Nothing untoward was to be apprehended except only that the promised reinforcements would not be sent by the Emperor from Naples to Spain by reason of the dispute with the Pope. The Republic of Venice would not "concern themselves till they saw a sure game."—Venice.

(lxxxii.) Sept. 21.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Sunderland, mentioning enclosure of the speech made at his last audience of the Doge. The fleet had sailed for Minorca. (Draft, printed with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 549.)—Venice.

(lxxxiii.) Oct. 1.—Translation of the answer made to the last speech of the Earl of Manchester by the Senate. (A translation, substantially the same, but differently worded, is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 552.)—Venice.

(lxxxiv.) Oct. 5.—The Earl of Manchester to the Lord Treasurer, to the effect that he was about to return home by way of Hanover and Holland, and that the dispute between the Emperor and the Pope appeared to be gaining strength. (Draft.)—Venice.

(lxxxv.) Oct. 5.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Sunderland, alleging that the attack on his boat had been made at the instigation of the Inquisitor Ruzzini, and asking for a Credential Letter to be presented by Mr. Cole to the College. (Draft. Printed with some variations, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 551.)—Venice.

(lxxxvi.) Oct. 9.—The Principe di Chiusano to the Earl of Manchester, wishing the Earl a prosperous

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
FMS.

journey to London, and requesting to have his own respects conveyed to the Duke of Marlborough in Flanders. (In Italian.)—Naples.

(lxxxvii.) Oct. 7.—The Marquis de Prié to the Earl of Manchester. The squadron for the transport of troops from Naples to Barcelona had arrived at Leghorn on the 29th of the previous month. Cardinal Grimani, the Viceroy of Naples, however, was of opinion that it might be with advantage detained in Italian waters, as there did not appear to be a necessity for large reinforcements in Spain. Great vigilance would be required to thwart the schemes of the French in favour of an Italian league with the Pope. Marshal de Tessé had not, however, as yet been very successful, and it did not seem probable that he would have better fortune at Venice than elsewhere. De Prié himself had been sent to Rome by the Emperor, with the object of inducing the Pope to disarm. (In French.)—Rome.

(lxxxviii.) Oct. 26.—R. Powys to the Earl of Manchester, on money matters.—Whitehall.

(lxxxix.) Oct. 5.—A statement of accounts.—Venice.

(xc.) Nov. 9.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Sunderland, describing his journey homewards. He would probably travel with the Duke of Marlborough after leaving the Hague, and asked for a yacht for his voyage to England. He thanked Lord Sunderland for having "settled Mr. Cole at Venice." (Draft.)—Hanover.

(xci.) Nov. 23.—The Earl of Manchester to the Earl of Sunderland, mentioning a report that Brussels was invested by the Elector of Bavaria. (Draft.)—The Hague.

(xcii.) Nov. 30.—The Earl of Manchester to Mr. Secretary Boyle, to the effect that there was great joy in Holland at the crossing of the Scheldt by the Duke of Marlborough, and the relief of Brussels. "It is now plain wherever the Duke marches the enemy will retire as fast as they can." The Dutch were disposed to continue the war and augment their forces. There had been an exchange of courtesies between the Earl and the Muscovite Ambassador. (Draft.)—The Hague.

(xciii.) Nov. 30.—The Duke of Marlborough to the Earl of Manchester, expressing regret that he would not be able to meet the Earl in Holland, and mentioning the affair of the Scheldt, and the good news that the Elector [of Bavaria] had been "obliged to raise the siege of Brussels very shamefully."—Alost.

(xciv. and xcv.) Dec. 25.—R. Powys to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing statement of accounts, &c., and statements of the allowances to the Earl of Ranelagh, as Paymaster of the Forces, and to Mr. Howe.

(xcvi.) Dec. 17.—Speech made in the College at Venice by Mr. Cole, Her Majesty's Secretary there, on presentation of Credentials. (In Italian.)—Venice.

Undated.

(xcvii.)—The Earl of Manchester to the Duchess of Marlborough :—

"As soon as I came to Turin, I did not fail to obey your Grace's commands in sending to Genoa a person who was well known here to inform himself what method was best in relation to velvets and damasks. I was much surprised to find there was no quantity of either ready-made, and hardly two pieces to be found that were exactly of the same colour, and all old patterns wherever there was any figure. I sent your Grace what could be found, though you will see them much better in England. There is also the prices, which they assure me is as low as ever any was sold according to the colour and goodness, and what other information could be had you will find by the paper enclosed. Whatever is sent from Genoa is bespoke, and about four months' time any quantity may be had by employing so many more. My Lord Rivers has two pieces making of yellow damask. He sent the pattern from England drawn upon paper. The only difference is that when it is a new pattern they must be paid for setting the loom. If I might advise your Grace, I should think the best way would be to have the several colours which you will have plain painted on paper, with the breadth and quantity specified that will be wanting to each room; and whatever you will have figured, and with several colours, the whole design must be sent, as it is always done, and then it will be made exactly to your own mind. It will be very easy to be informed in England of the prices the merchants pay at Genoa, and care shall be taken not to give more. Besides, the insurance which the merchant is obliged to, during the war, which will be saved by bringing it on board the men-of-war, will make it considerable cheaper than to buy it in England. I am told the duty there is also very high. I should think myself extreme happy could I contribute anything that might be for your Grace's service, having ever that ambition, and shall with pleasure receive your commands."—(Draft.)

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
FMS.

696. VOL. XV. (Marked "1707-37.")

Undated.

(i.) Endorsed 1707.—Reply to the answer made by the Court of Vienna to the Memorial of the Earl of Manchester on the subject of the claims of the Duke of Savoy. (Copy, pp. 6. In French.)

(ii.) March 20 [1642-3?] and March 18 [1642-3?].—An unsigned and undated statement concerning politics and military movements on the Continent. The "army of Guebrian" was "in great straits." The King of France was not expected to live, though his health was somewhat improved by "using the waters of Forges." The Jesuits were growing "mightily insolent." "The Huguenots," the paper continues, "here [i.e. in Paris or France] will shortly be in a most woful condition, especially if the Parliament of England use any more rigour than formerly they have done against the Papists there or the Queen, for they watch but for such opportunities and seeming pretences. I could tell you a long story what means are used in past, and will more and more be used, both secretly and openly, utterly to extirpate them out of that kingdom, if God do not put some hook or other in their jaws."

The portion dated at Amsterdam begins :—"The King of Denmark's preparations are very great both by sea and land. It is written that he is resolved in person to go to sea upon some great enterprise, but nobody can make any true judgment, as yet, of any of his affairs or designs, for he keeps all very secret. Some guess that he intends to fall upon Hamburg, others upon Dantzic, others upon Sweden. As for his designs for England, it is believed that underhand he will do what he can to assist the King, but will never engage himself very far in any open way against the Parliament, except he may do with consent of his kingdom. About the middle of this month the States are to meet him in a Parliamentary way. Till that be ended we shall not know the certainty of any of his resolutions. This is the substance of letters written from faithful hands out of Hamburg. But why doth the Parliament of England delay so long to clear the justice of their cause and proceedings in some manifest or other towards foreigners? The King hath a great advantage against them in this particular, who hath laid very heavy crimes upon them at Frankfort and other assemblies and courts of Princes, by large and plausible informations, &c." Then follow some further small details of foreign politics and military movements, among which occurs the following passage :—"It is certain there have been fiery and bloody apparitions of rods and a sword seen again over the city of Leipzig which always have portended some great action or other." There had been a happy conclusion of the great meeting at the Hague. The Prince of Orange would be "kept under," and the common good of the Netherlands "advanced" and secured. The Parliament of England had cause "to rejoice at this good news." (pp. 7.)—Paris and Amsterdam.

1610.

(iii.) Ratified Dec. 31.—Treaty of Neutrality of the Duchy and County of Burgundy, between Louis XIII. of France, and Philip III. of Spain. (In French. Copy pp. 23.)—Paris.

1691.

(iv.) Dec. 10, n.s.—Captain General Domenico Mocenigo to Captain General da Mar on commercial regulations affecting the islands of Zante and Cephalonia. (In Italian.)—"Romania."

Undated.

(v.) [June 8, 1670.]*—First speech of Lord Fauconberge to the Duke and Senate of Venice. (Copy.)—Venice.

1609 and 1610.

(vi.) Extracts (apparently) from the correspondence of Sir Henry Wotton (Ambassador at Venice in 1609).

* This is the date assigned, by endorsement, to the Italian version of the same speech in the "State Papers, Venice," in the Public Record Office.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

and Sir Dudley Carleton (Ambassador at Venice in 1610), touching the honours due to Ambassadors upon their reception at Venice.—Venice.

Undated.

(vii.) Endorsed Nov. 12, 1670.—Speech of the English Resident upon reception and presentation of Credentials at Venice. (Copy.)—Venice.

(viii.) Endorsed Sep. 9, 1670.—Answer of the Senate to the speech of Lord Fauconberge, English Ambassador at Venice, when taking leave. (Copy.)—Venice.

1560 to 1639.

(ix.) Endorsed 1560 to 1670.—Abstract of negotiations at Venice from 1560 to 1639, giving the names of the English Residents and Ambassadors. (24 pages.)

1670.

(x.) Nov.—Statement of the case of Mr. Hayles, English Consul at Venice in respect of "consolage" dues of that port.

1673.

(xi.) Instructions to Sir Thomas Higgon, Envoy Extraordinary to the Republic of Venice. (Copy.)—Whitehall.

Undated.

[xii.] [After 1685].—Memorial of Marie Cardin, widow of Elie Genays (laundress in ordinary of the Queen Dowager of England) to the King of France. Her goods had been seized as if she had been one of the fugitives from France, who were affected by the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. She had, however, a brevet de conge (recited) which was dated Oct. 26, 1682, and she prayed relief. The memorial was, according to the endorsement, to be placed in the hands of the English Ambassador. (In French.)

1695–6.

(xiii.) (Feb. 3.—Hugh Broughton to the Duke of Shrewsbury, on the circumstances of his reception as English Consul at Venice. The letter concludes with an anecdote of the Conte della Torre, who died of vexation at the manner in which he was treated by the College. (Three very large closely-written pages.)—Venice.

Undated.

(xiv.) [About 1695?].—List of Secretaries and Under Secretaries of State, and of the Household apparently of James II. when living at St. Germain.

1703.

(xv.) Jan. 10.—J. Oldfield to the Earl of Manchester, to introduce a Prince of the House of Brunswick-Wolfenbüttel. (In French.)—Wolfenbüttel.

(xvi.) Certificate of delivery of plate to the Earl of Manchester, from the Jewel House, upon the occasion of his embassies in 1697 and 1699. The total amounts to 1,779 oz. of gilt valued at 889*l.* 10*s.*, and 6,337 oz. of white, valued at 2,165*l.* 2*s.* 10*d.*

1704–5.

(xvii.) Mar. 13.—The Lord Keeper (Sir Nathan Wright) to the Lord Great Chamberlain, in reference to a gallery to be erected by Sir Christopher Wren "over the lobby door cross the House," for which the Lord Chamberlain was desired to issue his warrant. (Copy.)

1709.

(xviii.) March 7.—C. Cole to the Duke and Senate of Venice, asking for a passport for the house furniture of the Earl of Manchester to be conveyed overland to England. (In Italian.)—Venice.

(xix.) Feb. 22.—"Jacomo" Peiger to James d'Ayrol, (Secretary to the British Embassy at the Hague), on the transmission of the effects belonging to the Earl of Manchester. (In Italian.)—Nuremberg.

1710.

(xx.) July 4.—R. Powys to the Earl of Manchester, on money matters.

1715.

(xxi.) Sep. 21.—Lord Townshend, by the King's direction, to the Earl of Manchester (Lord Lieutenant of the county of Huntingdon), recommending the due and punctual execution of an Order in Council to enforce the laws concerning Papists, Non-jurors, and other disaffected persons.—Whitehall.

(xxii.) Sep. 19.—Lord Townshend to the Earl of Manchester (Lord Lieutenant of the County of Huntingdon), directing him to "take care of regulating the militia" of his county, and especially to give notice to those who had to provide horses that they were to prepare for marching whenever his Majesty's service should require it.—Whitehall.

(xxiii.) Sep. 26.—The Earl of Manchester to the Deputy-Lieutenants of the county of Huntingdon, instructing them to "put the militia in good order, especially the horse." In order to save expense to the county, cloth coats "all of a colour" might be substituted for buff coats, and "would be handsomer and more useful." He did not doubt that proper care would be taken for seizing the arms and horses and apprehending the persons of all who might be suspected.—Kimbolton.

1719.

(xxiv.) Sep. 12.—Lord Mandeville to the Duke of Manchester, describing the antiquities, &c. in the neighbourhood of Naples.—Naples.

1720.

(xxv.) July 13.—Lord Mandeville to the Duke of Manchester, asking for the Duke's interest in favour of Mr. Skinner's "pretensions to the Consulship" at Naples.—Lucca (xxvi.) July 20, n. s.—Lord Mandeville to the Duke of Manchester, asking for the Duke's interest in favour of Mr. Skinner.—Lucca.

(xxvii.) July 8.—Princess Panfilì to the Duke of Manchester, giving an account of Lord Mandeville's recovery from a serious illness, of his departure from Rome, and of the care bestowed upon him by Mr. Beverley. (In French.)—Rome.

(xxviii.) Dec. 7.—Princess Panfilì to the Duke of Manchester, asking that Mr. Beverley might be appointed Mr. Davenant's successor as English "Envoy" at Genoa. (In French.)—Genoa.

1727.

(xxix.) Sep. 2.—Rev. Peter Boundy (the Duke's chaplain) to the Duke of Manchester, giving the state of the poll at a recent election [for Bedfordshire], when Mr. Bing and "Sir Rowland" [Alston] were successful, and gave "such a mortifying blow to that furious party" that he never expected "to see them lift up their heads any more."—Dean.

1737.

(xxx.) June 23.—Lord Warwick to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning some appointments and rumours.—London.

Undated.

(xxxi.) Estimate of the cost of some damask and mohair. (xxxii.) [1708.]—"Account of what was bought at Venice for her Grace the Duchess of Marlborough." (In the handwriting of the Earl of Manchester.) "Total 4,755½ Venetian yards of damasks and velvets. Something above 3,300 English at nine shillings a Venetian yard, one with another, with all expenses to England, makes, in English money, 2,139*l.* 19*s.* 0*d.*"

REIGN OF WILLIAM III.

697. A VOLUME OF TRANSCRIPTS SUPPLEMENTARY TO THE FIFTEEN VOLUMES OF MANCHESTER CORRESPONDENCE.

FIRST DIVISION (sewn together).

Copies of letters from the Earl of Manchester. With one exception (viz., No. ix., which is a letter, dated Aug. 12, 1700, to the Earl of Albemarle) the whole of the letters in this division (Nos. i.—xxxviii.) are addressed to Mr. Secretary Blathwayt, and for that reason the names are not repeated.

1700.

(i.) July 19.—On the proposal of joint mediation with France in the affairs of Denmark, and on the marriage of Mr. Fitzjames to Mlle. Lusan. (Printed* in Cole's Memoirs, p. 165.)—Paris.

(ii.) July 23.—On the policy of the Duke of Savoy and the marriage of Mr. Fitzjames. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 169.)—Paris.

* All the letters from the Earl of Manchester as printed in Cole's Memoirs, though substantially agreeing with the copies in MS., show slight but numerous variations of diction.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

- (iii.) July 26.—On the plans of the Court of St. Germain's and its adherents in Scotland. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 172.)—Paris.
- (iv.) July 30.—On the affairs of Spain and the Duke of Savoy. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 176.)—Paris.
- (v.) Aug. 6.—On French policy in the North of Europe, the position of the French squadrons, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 184.)—Paris.
- (vi.) Aug. 9.—On French policy in the North, Spanish affairs, and the Papal Consistory. An enclosure from Florence is mentioned. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 186.)—Paris.
- (vii.) Aug. 12.—On an alleged design against the life of the King [William III.]. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 189.)—Paris.
- (viii.) Aug. 13.—Describing a conversation with M. de Torcy on Northern affairs, repeating the caution with respect to the alleged design against the King's life, &c. There is a note in the margin:—"This should follow the next letter." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 189.)—Paris.
- (ix.) Aug. 12.—Giving full details of the alleged design against the King's life. (Addressed to the Earl of Albemarle. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 187.)—Paris.
- (x.) Aug. 16.—On the arrest of Mr. Chetwynd [secretary of the Earl of Manchester] at Valenciennes, the suspected design against the King's life, and the rumoured death of the Duke of Gloucester. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 192.)—Paris.
- (xi.) Aug. 20.—Describing an interview with M. de Torcy, at which the detention of Mr. Chetwynd was mentioned, as well as the affairs of Spain, and of the North of Europe, &c. (6 pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 196.)—Paris.
- (xii.) Aug. 23.—On the suspected design against the King's person. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 199.)—Paris.
- (xiii.) Aug. 27.—Mentioning the illness of the King of Spain, who, however, was somewhat better, the illness of the Pope, and the refusal of Cardinal de Bouillon to obey the French King, which might lead to something further.—Paris.
- (xiv.) Sep. 10.—Pressing for instructions for the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester to the French Court, and pointing out the various inconveniences of delay.—Paris.

1701.

- (xv.) July 15.—On the relations of France and the Empire, the march of Prince Eugene across the Po, the affairs of Spain and Portugal, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 400.)—Paris.
- (xvi.) July 18, n. s.—Describing a victory of the Imperialists (under Prince Eugene) over the French at Carpi, &c. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 401.)—Paris.
- (xvii.) July 22.—On the unwillingness of the French Court "to agree to a satisfaction for the Emperor," the probability of war between England and France, of a battle in Italy, &c. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 403.)—Paris.
- (xviii.) July 25.—On the affair at Carpi, the prospects of war, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 404.)—Paris.
- (xix.) July 27, n. s.—On the successful strategy of Prince Eugene in the north of Italy, the intention of the French to raise 40,000 men, and various rumours. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 404.)—Paris.
- (xx.) July 29.—Describing an interview with M. de Torcy on the subject of the war in Italy, the relations of France, the Empire, and Spain, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 405.)—Paris.
- (xxi.) Aug. 1.—Mentioning the probability that M. d'Avaux would leave the Hague, giving the substance of the news received in Paris of the Italian campaign, and pointing out the closeness of the relations between France and Portugal, which seemed dangerous to England.—Paris.
- (xxii.) Aug. 5.—On the relations of England and France, the position of the troops in Italy, a probable design of the French upon Maestricht, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 407.)—Paris.
- (xxiii.) Aug. 8.—Touching various topics, but giving little news on any. (The principal part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 407.)—Paris.
- (xxiv.) Aug. 12.—On the military movements in Italy, the return of M. d'Avaux from the Netherlands, &c. Enclosures of letters for His Majesty from the Dauphin and the Duke and Duchess of Burgundy are mentioned. (A portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 409.)—Paris.

(xxv.) Aug. 15.—On the military movements in Italy, which were very embarrassing to the French, the departure of Marshal Villeroy for Milan, the illness of the Duchess of Burgundy, and the approaching departure of M. Zinzendorf.—Paris.

(xxvi.) Aug. 19.—On the style of address to be adopted towards the Duc d'Orléans, and on the military situation in Italy. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 409.)—Paris.

(xxvii.) Aug. 22.—On the military situation in Italy, the return of M. d'Avaux to Paris, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 410.)—Paris.

(xxviii.) Aug. 26.—On the probability of an important battle in Italy, on French naval movements, on the case of Count Boscelli, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 410.)—Paris.

(xxix.) Aug. 29.—On the military situation in Italy and the illness of King James. Enclosures from "Madame" and the Duchesse d'Orléans are mentioned. (A small portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 411.)—Paris.

(xxx.) Sep. 2, n. s.—On the escape of Boscelli from the Bastille, and the military situation in Italy. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 412.)—Paris.

(xxxi.) Sep. 5, n. s.—On the style to be adopted in addressing the Duc d'Orléans, the military movements in Italy, and the illness of King James. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 412.)—Paris.

(xxxii.) Sep. 9.—On the expected death of King James, and recognition of the pretended Prince of Wales as his successor by the French Court, on the military situation in Italy, &c. (Printed in part in Cole's Memoirs, p. 417.)

(xxxiii.) Sep. 12.—On Italian affairs, an engagement at Chiari, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 418.)—Paris.

(xxxiv.) Sep. 16.—On the intention of the French Court to recognise the pretended Prince of Wales as King of England after the expected death of King James, on the late action at Chiari, &c. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 418.)—Paris.

(xxxv.) Sep. 19.—Giving details of the recognition by the French Court of the son of James II. (now dead) as James III., King of England, and describing the financial difficulties of France. (pp. 6. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 420.)—Paris.

(xxxvi.) Sep. 23.—Representing that it was useless to remain in France after the recognition of the Pretender, and mentioning enclosure of a copy of a letter from Spain, &c. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 422.)—Paris.

(xxxvii.) Sep. 26.—Describing an interview with M. de Torcy on the subject of the recognition of the Pretender by the French Court, and giving some particulars of the military situation in Italy. (A small portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 423.)—Paris.

(xxxviii.) Oct. 4.—Mentioning enclosure of the reply of M. de Torcy to the announcement of the Earl's recall, and giving a caution with respect to the attitude of the King of Sweden, and some details of an engagement in Italy. (A small portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 425.)—Paris.

SECOND DIVISION.

(Sewn together, but separate from the first division.)

Copies of letters from the Earl of Manchester. With two exceptions (viz., Nos. lxi. and lxxx.) the whole of the letters in this division (Nos. xxxix.—clxxv.), are addressed to Mr. Secretary Vernon, and for that reason the names are not repeated.

1700.

(xxxix.) July 14.—Describing the place of meeting of the Jacobites in London, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 161.)—Paris.

(xl.) July 21.—"I cannot see there is anything doing at St. Germain's, only that at present there is a greater resort of those people at Paris than there used to be. Most of the Assassins are here; it may be it is in order to receive their pensions. It is certain there has been a message from those in Scotland to press the late King to send money, and also, if he could, to come himself, with 3,000 men; he would certainly be restored. The answer that was made was that he could not comply with either, but hoped his friends would continue to do what they could till a more favourable opportunity.

"Mr. Fitz-James, who was lately married, is soon to have the Garter. This marriage was made by the Duke of Maine, and underhand Madame de Maintenon was engaged. As soon as any Scotch gentleman comes here

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

all endeavours are made to carry him to St. Germain's, and most are prevailed with. One Sir William Hope is lately gone to Scotland, who kissed the King's hand, and is now zealous in their interests, though before, it is said, he was much otherwise.

"You will have had an account how ready the King of Denmark is to enter into the guaranty concerning the succession of Spain. This Court is extremely pleased at it, as also that he does agree to the mediation of England and Holland joined with France. They pretend here as if they were afraid he would not have consented, but I think there was no danger, since they could take such a pretence as discourses between me and their Envoy here. I have taken notice of it to him and M. de Torcy, and they both own I was far from making such a proposal, though it can have no ill consequence. I have acquainted Mr. Blathwayt fully of that matter, in order to lay it before the King."—Paris.

(xli.) July 24.—On the case of the ship William and Jane, and on the state of affairs in the north of Europe. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 171.)

(xlii.) July 28.—On the same subjects, on the Jacobite feeling in Scotland, and on a forthcoming book against the English Government. (Printed: Cole's Memoirs, p. 173, where, however, "Duke Hamilton" becomes "D—H—.")—Paris.

(xliii.) July 31.—On the "Assassins" at St. Germain's, and on the mediation in the affairs of Denmark. (Printed, in part only, and with the substitution of the initial "H" for the name "Hope," in Cole's Memoirs, p. 180.)—Paris.

(xliv.) Aug. 4.—On the cases of Daniel Johnson and of the ship "William and Jane," and the rights of the African and Senegal Companies in general, on French naval movements, and on proceedings at St. Germain's. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 182.)

(xlv.) Aug. 7.—On French naval movements, on the bombardment of the Danes by the English, and on the case of the "William and Jane." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 185.)—Paris.

(xlvi.) Aug. 11.—Touching very briefly on various topics, but chiefly on the good understanding between England and Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 187.)—Paris.

(xlvii.) Aug. 14.—On the cases of the ships "William and Jane" and "St. George," and minor topics. (Printed, in part, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 191.)—Paris.

(xlviii.) Aug. 18.—On the mode of notifying the death of the Duke of Gloucester to the French Court, the proceedings of the Court at St. Germain's, and the affairs of the North of Europe. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 195.)—Paris.

(xlix.) Aug. 21.—On the Spanish difficulty, the conclusion of peace in the north of Europe, and the disposition of the Scots, including Lord Lorne, to favour the Jacobite cause. (Much of the substance of this letter is also in letters to Mr. Blathwayt, dated 20 and 23 Aug., and printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 196 and p. 199.)—Paris.

(l.) Aug. 25.—On a report that Lord Paston had killed Lord Portland, and on various matters relating to the Court at St. Germain's. Mr. Pitts, a member of Parliament, and "one Lacy, a lawyer of the Temple," had been there. Lord Melfort and Lord Middleton had met at a Council there; and it was thought Lord Middleton would be appointed Governor to the pretended Prince of Wales, in order to "show some sort of countenance" to the Protestants."—Paris.

(li.) Sept. 8.—Pressing for instructions relative to the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester to the French Court, and giving particulars of proceedings at St. Germain's and Jacobite intrigues. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 206.)—Paris.

(lii.) Sept. 15.—On the manner of notifying the death of the Duke of Gloucester to the French Court. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 208.)—Paris.

(liii.) Sept. 18.—Calling attention to a report that the Elector of Brandenburg was about to be declared King of Prussia, giving an account of proceedings and plans at St. Germain's, and mentioning enclosure relating to two French seamen. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 209.)—Paris.

(liv.) Sept. 22.—On the mode of notifying the death of the Duke of Gloucester, and on affairs at St. Germain's, especially in relation to one Brocard, apparently a spy. (Printed, in part only, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 210.)—Paris.

(lv.) Sept. 25.—On the receipt of a despatch from Spain at the French court, and on some British subjects at St. Germain's. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 212.)—Paris.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(lvi.) Sept. 29.—Mentioning enclosure of the Requisitions made to the Court of France by the Princes opposed to the ninth Electorate. Reference is also made to some Jacobite movements, and to the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester. (A small portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 212.)—Paris.

(lvii.) Oct. 2.—On the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester to the French Court, and on affairs at St. Germain's. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 213.)—Paris.

(lviii.) Oct. 6.—Chiefly on the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester to the French Court. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 216.)—Paris.

(lix.) Oct. 9.—Describing the reception of the notification of the death of the Duke of Gloucester by the French King, and giving news of the illness of the King of Spain, French military preparations, affairs in the North, &c. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 217.)—Paris.

(lx.) Sept. 13.—Touching Father Cosmo, alias Clark, (a spy) the affairs of the African Company, the reported death of the King of Spain, and the printing, by order of King James, of the account of the declaration made by Charles II., at his death, that he was a Roman Catholic, &c. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 220.)—Paris.

(lxi.) Oct. 18.—On the affairs of Spain and the North of Europe, and on the English goods on board Dantzic ships seized by the French. Two enclosures are mentioned; one related to Venetian affairs, the other was King James's publication. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 223.)—Fontainebleau.

(lxii.) Oct. 22.—On the affairs of Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 226.)—Fontainebleau.

(lxiii.) Oct. 26.—On the illness of the King of Spain, affairs in the North of Europe, and the Dantzic ships. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 230.)—Fontainebleau.

(lxiv.) Oct. 30.—On the Court of St. Germain's and its supporters, and on the arrival of Madame de Verne (mistress of the Duke of Savoy), at a convent near Versailles. (A small portion only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 232.)—Paris.

(lxv.) Nov. 3.—On proceedings at St. Germain's, and the affairs of Spain. (Printed, with some omissions, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 234.)—Paris.

(lxvi.) Nov. 6.—On various topics, including the extreme illness of the King of Spain, his will, &c. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 237.)—Paris.

(lxvii.) Nov. 8.—On the expected death of the King of Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 238.)—Paris.

(lxviii.) Nov. 9.—Mentioning enclosure to acquaint His Majesty of the death of the King of Spain, giving the substance of the will of the latter, and expressing a belief that France would abide by the treaty. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 239.)—Fontainebleau.

(lix.) Nov. 12.—Announcing that there was an end of the [Partition] Treaty, so far as the French were concerned, and that they definitely accepted the disposition made by the late King of Spain in favour of the Duc d'Anjou. (Addressed to the Earl of Jersey. 7 pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 241.)

(lxx.) Nov. 12.—Commencement only of letter addressed to Mr. Secretary Vernon.—Paris.

(lxxi.) Nov. 13.—Mentioning the names of some Jacobites, asking for payment of arrears, and announcing the rumoured death of the Duke of Bavaria. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 243.)—Paris.

(lxxii.) Nov. 17.—On the recognition of the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain by the French Court, and on an affront to the French Ambassador at Rome, &c. (Printed, almost entire, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 244.)—Paris.

(lxxiii.) Nov. 20.—Mentioning enclosures for the King, and a probability that sufficient inducement might be offered to the Elector of Bavaria to engage him in the interest of France. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 246.)—Paris.

(lxxiv.) Nov. 24.—On the Partition Treaty, the will of the late King of Spain, the attitude of the French King, the Emperor, the Elector of Bavaria, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 247.)—Paris.

(lxxv.) Nov. 27.—On the manner in which the decision of the French respecting the Partition Treaty and the Will of the late King of Spain was communicated, and on the case of Richard Beard's ship and others like it. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 248.)—Paris.

(lxxvi.) Dec. 1.—On various points relating to the recognition of the Duc d'Anjou as King of Spain. A copy of a Memorial of the Dutch Ambassador on the same subject, of M. de Torcy's answer, and other enclosures are mentioned. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 249.)—Paris.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(lxxvii.) Dec. 4.—On the departure of the Duc d'Anjou for Spain, and matters relating to his accession. Mention is made of an enclosure of a despatch from M. Schonenberg, and a caution is given that information was furnished to the Court of St. Germain's by some one in the office at Whitehall. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 257.)—Paris.

(lxxviii.) Dec. 8.—On the approaching departure of M. Tallard for England, with a letter for the King, the case of the Danzig ships, and the importance of taking, if possible, Capt. Rob. Maxwell, a messenger from the Court of St. Germain's, to Scotland. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 258.)—Paris.

(lxxix.) Dec. 11.—Touching very briefly on various topics. (Printed, except a passage relative to "the Exempt's place" in Cole's Memoirs, p. 260.)—Paris.

(lxxx.) Dec. 15.—On the relations of France with the other Powers, and especially the Empire, in view of the accession of the Duc d'Anjou to the throne of Spain, and on the declaration of the Elector of Brandenburg as King of Prussia. (Addressed to the Earl of Jersey. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 261.)—Paris.

(lxxxi.) Dec. 15.—On the French preparations for war, the despatch of troops towards Italy, the case of the "William and Jane," and a complaint that an English man-of-war had fired upon a French ship off Plymouth. (This, as well as the rest of the letters to the end of the series, is addressed to Mr. Secretary Vernon. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 262.)—Paris.

(lxxxii.) Dec. 18, n. s.—Expressing an opinion that the French (having nothing further to gain) desired the maintenance of peace, and giving some particulars relating to a Captain Magrath, who could impart information concerning the Court of St. Germain's. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 264.)—Paris.

(lxxxiii.) Dec. 22.—On the relations of France with Holland, affairs at St. Germain's, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 270.)—Paris.

(lxxxiv.) Dec. 25.—On the preparations of the French for a campaign in Italy, their wish to have the Dutch troops sent out of Flanders, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 271.)—Paris.

(lxxxv.) Dec. 29.—On Mr. Chetwynd's mission, on the project of a league between England, Holland, France, and Spain for the security of Flanders, on military movements at Metz and Thionville, spies at St. Germain's, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 273.)—Paris.

1700-1.

(lxxxvi.) Jan. 1.—On "a sort of coldness" between the English and French, the relations of France with Spain and Holland, and a complaint against a British ship at Zante. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 275.)—Paris.

(lxxxvii.) Jan. 5.—On Spanish affairs, including a statement that the Regents had written a letter to the King of France, desiring him to take their monarchy under his protection. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 276.)—Paris.

(lxxxviii.) Jan. 8.—On the relations of the Duke of Savoy to France and the Empire, the assumed royalty of the Elector of Brandenburg, and various reports and conjectures. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 277.)—Paris.

(lxxxix.) Jan. 12.—On the predominant influence of the French in Spain, the probability of a conflict between the French and the Imperialists in Italy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 279.)—Paris.

(xc.) Jan. 15.—Announcing that M. d'Avaux had been nominated to proceed to Holland, as successor to M. Briord. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 280.)—Paris.

(xci.) Jan. 19.—Announcing that M. d'Avaux would not proceed to Holland before M. Briord's death, which had not occurred as reported, and expressing belief in the desire of the French to avoid a general war. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 280.)—Paris.

(xcii.) Jan. 22.—To the effect that the French expected but did not desire a general war, and giving various small items of news. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 281.)—Paris.

(xciii.) Jan. 26.—On the relations of France and the States General, the military preparations of the French, and the belief in France that a war in Italy was certain. Enclosures of a Memorial containing a Resolution of the States, and copies of Papal briefs to the King of France and the Republic of Venice are mentioned. (Five pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 284.)—Paris.

(xciv.) Jan. 26.—On the case of Count Boscelli. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 287.)—Paris.

(xcv.) Jan. 29.—On the ambiguous conduct of the Duke of Savoy, and the King of Portugal, the intentions of the French with respect to Flanders, &c. (Printed: Cole's Memoirs, p. 288.)—Paris.

(xcvi.) Jan. 29.—Mentioning enclosure relating to affairs in Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 289.)—Paris.

(xcvii.) Feb. 2.—On the alleged exclusion of English and Dutch ships from Spanish ports, the relations of France with the States General, and the expediency of sending M. Vryberg to Paris to take the place of M. Heemskeerk incapacitated by illness. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 289.)—Paris.

(xcviii.) Feb. 5.—Describing an interview with M. de Torcy, in which the latter gave assurance that the King of France desired a "firm and solid peace," and mentioning enclosure of copies of letters in which the States General requested the Earl of Manchester to "take a little care of their affairs." (Printed, with translation of a small portion in French, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 292.)—Paris.

(xcix.) Feb. 9.—Mentioning enclosure of copy of reply to letters from the States General, and announcing the occupation of places in Flanders by the French troops, and the equipment of French privateers. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 297.)—Paris.

(c.) Feb. 11.—Mentioning the loss of despatches (which fell into the hands of the Spanish Regents) through the accidental drowning of a messenger in Navarre, and the enclosure of a list of French officers entrusted with commands in Flanders, and adding, "I cannot see but by a peace we are undone, though a war has also its difficulties." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 300.)—Paris.

(ci.) Feb. 12.—On the relations of France with the States General, and on French naval preparations. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 301.)—Paris.

1701.

(cii.) Feb. 15.—On the French occupation of Flanders, and preparations for war, and on persons supposed to have knowledge of a plot to assassinate King William. There is, as a postscript, the information of the plot and its details, given by Wm. Butler. (Eight pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 303.)—Paris.

(ciii.) Feb. 19.—On the military preparations of the French, their rumoured alliance with the Duke of Savoy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 310.)—Paris.

(civ.) Feb. 23.—On the relations of France with the States General, and her preparations for war. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 314.)—Paris.

(cv.) Feb. 26.—Mentioning enclosure of a letter from the States General to the Earl of Manchester, in which they acknowledged the new King of Spain, and expressing hopes of peace. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 315.)—Paris.

(cvi.) March 2, n.s.—On the great naval preparations of the French, the settlement of the English succession, the levy of troops in France, and the desire of the French people for peace. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 320.)—Paris.

(cvii.) March 5.—On Jacobite plots and plotters (including Lord Melfort), and the relations of France and the Netherlands, and mentioning enclosure of a copy of a letter from the King of France to the States General. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 323.)—Paris.

(cviii.) March 9.—Describing an interview with M. de Torcy, on the subject of Lord Melfort's letter, and the relations of the French Court with the Court of St. Germain's, and mentioning some warlike rumours. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 326.)—Paris.

(cix.) March 12.—Touching on various topics, and calling attention to the warlike preparations of the French. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 328.)—Paris.

(cx.) March 16, n.s.—On the military preparations of the French and the serious illness of King James. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 330.)—Paris.

(cxv.) March 19.—On the capitulation in France, the various prospects of peace and war, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 335.)—Paris.

(cxii.) March 23, n.s.—Describing an interview with M. de Torcy on the subjects of Lord Melfort, and the relations of France with the States General, and touching briefly on various topics. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 336.)—Paris.

(cxiii.) March 26.—On the serious illness of King James, the projects of the Imperial Court, and the probability that France might accede to the wishes of England if she perceived that England and Holland were prepared for war. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 343.)—Paris.

(cxiv.) March 30.—Describing at length an interview

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

with M. de Torcy on the subject of the demands made by the States General, and discussing the general European position, as affected by the abandonment of the Partition Treaty, and adherence to the will of the late King of Spain. (7 pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 346.)—Paris.

(cxv.) April 1, n.s.—On the correspondence of the Court of St. Germain's as betrayed by Brocard, the indignation excited in France by the demands of the States General, the possibility of a Catholic league, including the Emperor, against England and Holland, and the prospect of war. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 349.)—Paris.

(cxvi.) April 2.—Expressing the opinion that good conditions for England could be obtained only by war. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 350.)—Paris.

(cxvii.) April 6.—On the preparations of the French for war, which was believed in France to be inevitable. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 352.)—Paris.

(cxviii.) April 9.—On the relations of Portugal and Venice with France, the advance of French troops into Italy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 355.)—Paris.

(cxix.) April 13.—Expressing an opinion that the French desired to evade negotiations at the Hague, and would not yield anything until they had "seen the success of this summer over," and reviewing the military and political situation, especially as affecting Italy. (5 pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 358.)—Paris.

(cxx.) April 16.—On the probability that the Emperor would have to make war without allies, and mentioning enclosure of a paper in cipher. See cxxi. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 361.)—Paris.

(cxxi.) April 16.—On alleged communications from the French Court to members of the English Parliament. (Printed, as the enclosure above mentioned, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 362.)—Paris.

(cxxii.) April 20.—Expressing belief that the French would not make concessions with respect to the Netherlands, describing their preparations for war, especially on the Rhine, and mentioning enclosure, from M. de Torcy, of the notification of the accession of the King of Spain. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 363.)—Paris.

(cxxiii.) April 20.—On information expected from spies, and a report that "French money was stirring" in England. (Printed, as an enclosure in the above letter, cxxii, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 363.)—Paris.

(cxxiv.) April 23.—On the preparations for a campaign on the Rhine, and the attitude of the Venetian Republic, and mentioning enclosure of a letter from M. Schonenberg. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 366.)—Paris.

(cxxv.) April 27.—On the return of M. Tallard to France, the case of the St. Lo yacht, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 368.)—Paris.

(cxxvi.) April 30.—On the probability that the neutrality of the German Princes would prevent a declaration of war by the Emperor against France, the case of the St. Lo yacht, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 368.)—Paris.

(cxxvii.) May 4, n.s.—On the attitude of the Elector of Cologne (with mention of enclosure relating to the subject), the case of the St. Lo yacht, the case of English merchandise on board Dantzic ships taken by the French, &c., with postscript relating apparently to spies upon the Jacobites. (Six pages. Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 373.)—Paris.

(cxxviii.) May 7, n.s.—On the case of the St. Lo yacht, the French fleet, and financial difficulties, the opportunity for the English "to show themselves considerable abroad," &c. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 375.)—Paris.

(cxxix.) May 11.—Referring again to the scarcity of money in France, and expressing an opinion that no treaty between France and Portugal had yet been concluded. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 377.)—Paris.

(cxxx.) May 14.—Expressing an opinion that the French would not come to satisfactory terms with respect to the Netherlands, and mentioning the military preparations of the Emperor, and a disturbance at Messina. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 378.)—Paris.

(cxxxi.) May 14.—Announcing that the King of Portugal had refused to sign a treaty with France, and recommending the despatch of a British squadron to encourage him. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 378.)—Paris.

(cxxxii.) May 18.—On the relations of France with the States General, and the preparations of the French for war. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 381.)—Paris.

(cxxxiii.) May 18, n.s.—On the suspicion of the French that a British fleet was destined for Naples and Sicily, in the interests of the Emperor, and on Mr. Aglionby's request for a pass to come through France.—Paris (cxxxiv.) May 21.—On the declaration of the Princess of Savoy by the King of Spain as his Queen, and the doubtful attitude of the Duke of Savoy. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 383.)—Paris.

(cxxxv.) May 25.—Touching briefly on the attitude of Portugal, and the movements of one Captain Campbell and the Jacobites.—Paris.

(cxxxvi.) May 25.—On the relations of France with the States General, and various items of news from Italy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 384.)—Paris.

(cxxxvii.) May 28.—Mentioning enclosure of a paper relating to Portugal. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 386.)—Paris.

(cxxxviii.) May 28.—On French troops under orders for Flanders, the military situation in Italy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 386.)—Paris.

(cxxxix.) June 1, n. s.—On the negotiations affecting France and the Netherlands. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 386.)—Paris.

(cxli.) June 4.—On the negotiations affecting France and the Netherlands, French military movements, and the military situation in Italy, with a postscript referring to the Court of St. Germain's. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 387.)—Paris.

(cxlii.) June 8.—On the negotiations affecting France and the Netherlands, (in which the Earl did not believe M. d'Avaux would be successful) on a proposition made by the French to the King of Portugal that the Duc de Berri should marry the Infanta, on the rumoured despatch of a French fleet to the coast of Spain, and on the great scarcity of money in France, where there was a talk of "obliging all persons to bring their plate to the mint."—Paris.

(cxliii.) June 11.—On the death of the Duc d'Orléans, the commencement of the campaign in Italy, French military movements, and negotiations at the Hague. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 388.)—Paris.

(cxliiii.) June 15.—On the death of the Duc d'Orléans, the negotiations at the Hague, the news from Italy, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 390.)—Paris.

(cxliv.) June 18.—On the negotiations at the Hague and the march of French troops to Italy, and mentioning enclosures. Some one had practised a trick in connexion with a packet for Mr. Aglionby. The Duc d'Harcourt would be assisted at Madrid by the Comte de Marsine. (The last part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 394.)—Paris.

(cxlv.) June 22.—On the negotiations at the Hague, the posture of affairs in Italy, and the case of Count Boscelli. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 395.)—Paris.

(cxlvi.) June 25.—On the negotiations at the Hague, the military situation in Italy, French military movements, the attitude of the Duke of Savoy, &c. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 396.)—Paris.

(cxlvii.) June 29.—Expressing his belief that the Address of the Commons would make the French "very uneasy," that the French would not yield anything to the Emperor, and that a war would arise out of the difficulty in the Netherlands. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 396.)—Paris.

(cxlviii.) July 2, n. s.—Expressing a belief that the French would continue the conferences at the Hague until the course of events in Italy (of which some particulars are given) was more decided, and announcing the ratification of a league, offensive and defensive, between France, Spain, and Portugal. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 397.)—Paris.

(cxlix.) July 6, n. s.—On the military situation as affecting the campaign in Italy, and on the Treaty with Portugal. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 398.)—Paris.

(cl.) July 9, n. s.—On the military situation in Italy, and on the movements of "the Assassins" and the Court of St. Germain's. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 398.)—Paris.

(cli.) July 13, n. s.—On the military situation in Italy, the formation of a Company for the trade to Mexico and Peru, the illness of King James, &c.; with postscript on the Treaty made by Portugal with France and Spain. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 399.)—Paris.

(clii.) July 16.—On the position of the French and Imperial armies in Italy, and the probability of war between France and England. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 401.)—Paris.

(cliii.) July 20.—Giving some particulars of an engagement between Prince Eugene and the French at

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Carpi, and of the case of John Barbier, condemned to the galleys. (The latter part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 402.)—Paris.

(cliv.) July 22.—On the case of Capt. Johnson and some Irish officers anxious to leave St. Germain's and take service with the Emperor, with some particulars relating to two Jacobites named Philips and Dicks. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 402.)—Paris.

(clv.) July 23, n. s.—Expressing belief that a war with France was inevitable, and giving some details of the military situation in Italy. (Printed, almost in full, in Cole's Memoirs, p. 404.)—Paris.

(clvi.) July 27.—Mentioning enclosure of an account of Prince Eugene's movements, and a report that Sir G. Rooke had sailed, with a British and Dutch fleet, "for the Straits." M. Chateaufort was still at Brest.—Paris.

(clvii.) July 30.—On the action at Carpi, the movements of Prince Eugene, the unwillingness of the French to make any concessions with respect to Holland, the attitude of Portugal, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 406.)—Paris.

(clviii.) Aug. 3.—On the position of the French fleet, the general belief that war was imminent, &c. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 406.)—Paris.

(clix.) Aug. 5.—Mentioning enclosure relating to the posture of affairs in Italy, &c.—Paris.

(clx.) Aug. 10, n. s.—On the tactics of Prince Eugene in Italy, and touching briefly on various other topics. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 408.)—Paris.

(clxi.) Aug. 13, n. s.—On the recall of M. d'Avaux from the Hague, the campaign in Italy, and the case of M. Barbier. The Earl wished to have Mr. Stepney's cipher, as there was a suspicion that letters from Vienna were opened.—Paris.

(clxii.) Aug. 17.—On the despatch of Marshal Villeroy to take the command in Italy, the military situation there, and the disposition of the French fleet.—Paris.

(clxiii.) Aug. 20.—On the campaign in Italy, the wish of the Duc d'Orléans to be addressed as "Monsieur," and the expediency of searching persons who might land at Rye. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 409.)—Paris.

(clxiv.) Aug. 24.—On the great probability that war was inevitable, on the posture of affairs in the Netherlands since the recall of M. d'Avaux, the equivocal declaration of the Portuguese envoy, the disposition of the French fleet, and the military situation in Italy.—Paris.

(clxv.) Aug. 27.—Mentioning enclosure of the last news from Italy, and of extracts from letters from Madrid and Lisbon, and some rumours current in Paris.—Paris.

(clxvi.) Aug. 31.—Touching very briefly on a variety of subjects. (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 411.)—Paris.

(clxvii.) Sep. 3.—On the military situation in Italy, where Marshal Villeroy had arrived, on the dubious conduct of the Portuguese Envoy, on the expediency of bringing the Embassy of the Earl of Manchester to an end, though he might still remain for a time in Paris, on the illness of King James, and on the escape of Count Boscelli.—Paris.

(clxviii.) Sep. 7.—On the claim of the Duc d'Orléans to the title of "Monsieur," the approaching death of King James, the campaign in Italy, &c. (6 pages. The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 414.)—Paris.

(clxix.) Sep. 10.—On the campaign in Italy, the escape of Count Boscelli, the desire of the Earl of Manchester to be recalled, and the news of an engagement in Italy. (The greater part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 417.)—Paris.

(clxx.) Sep. 14.—Giving some particulars of the engagement at Chiari, and referring to the intention of the French Court to acknowledge the pretended Prince of Wales as King of England upon the death of James, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 418.)—Paris.

(clxxi.) Sep. 17.—Announcing the death of King James II. and the recognition by the French Court of the Pretender as James III. King of England, and giving some further particulars of the battle at Chiari. (The chief part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 419.)—Paris.

(clxxii.) Sep. 21.—On the recognition of the Pretender by the French Court as King of England, and mentioning enclosure of a letter from Spain, &c. (The chief part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 421.)—Paris.

(clxxiii.) Sep. 24.—Describing a conversation with M. de Torcy, on the subject of the recognition of the Pre-tender by the French, and expressing an opinion that it would be necessary to treat with France "Les armes à la main." (Printed. Cole's Memoirs, p. 422.)—Paris.

(clxxiv.) Sep. 28.—On the political situation as affected by the death of James II., the contents of his will, the campaign in Italy, &c. (A part only is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 424.)—Paris.

(clxxv.) Oct. 1.—Announcing that the King had ordered the Earl of Manchester to return to England, and referring briefly to the campaign in Italy. (The chief part is printed in Cole's Memoirs, p. 425.)—Paris.

THIRD DIVISION.

There are also in this Volume the following two papers relating to the Principality of Orange.

1700.

(clxxvi.) Oct. 26.—M. Robethon to the Earl of Manchester, enclosing a copy of an order which M. Robethon had drawn up, and discussing the affairs of the Principality of Orange. M. Lubières had hoped the Earl would have made a new effort in favour of the French established there before the treaty of Ryswick. There seemed to be an opportunity when M. de Julien was at Court, but perhaps his influence with M. de Torcy was not so great as commonly supposed. (In French.)—The Hague.

(clxxvii.) Oct. 26.—Order (with the Sign Manual of William III.) to the Earl of Manchester, to deliver to the bearer the "ordonnance visée"* for the payment of the second third of a sum of 700,000 livres sent to the Earl by the King of France. Endorsed with acknowledgment of the receipt of the "ordonnance visée" by A. Hebert, on the 14th Nov. 1700. (In French.)—The Hague.

REIGNS OF WILLIAM III. AND ANNE.

698. A volume of "Letters to Political Agents Abroad" (supplementary to the 15 volumes of "Manchester Correspondence.")

It contains memoranda of sums paid to political agents or spies abroad (Jan. ¹⁶/₂₇ 1701¹/₂ to April 9, 1702, o. s., and copies of letters to them.

1702.

(i.) Jan.—April.—Memorandum of payments.

1701-2.

(ii.) Jan. 5.—[The Earl of Manchester] to M. Vroesen, mentioning that the writer was appointed Secretary of State, and that letters were to be sent to him in place of Mr. Vernon, but addressed to Mr. Morgan, merchant, London, under cover to Mr. Thompson, wine-merchant, Garlick Hill. Mr. Vroesen is thanked for giving notice of a project to send evil-disposed persons into England, and requested to enquire of Hopkins whence came certain letters, and to promise rewards to an unknown person if he could reveal anything of importance. (In French.)

(iii.) Jan. 5.—[The Earl of Manchester] to Mr. Hopkins, requesting him to communicate through Mr. Vroesen. Should the latter be compelled to leave Paris, Hopkins was to concert measures with him, and, in case of need, make use of the address of a merchant at the Hague. (In French.)

(iv.) Jan. 6.—[The Earl of Manchester] to M. Jurieu, announcing that he was appointed Secretary of State, and that France belonged to his department, promising money for M. Caillaud, and requesting information of movements at Dunkirk and Ostend. (In French.)

(v.) Jan. 8.—[The Earl of Manchester] to M. Martin, requesting information respecting the affairs of France, which he would be able to send with safety, as he held a public position, and for which he might receive presents or a regular salary, as he preferred. (In French.)

(vi.) Jan. 8.—[Same] to M. Vroesen, sending enclosure for M. Martin. (In French.)

(vii.) Jan. 9.—[Same] to M. Jurieu, sending remittance for M. Caillaud. The information most wanted was that which concerned the naval armaments of France. (In French.)

(viii.) Jan. 11.—[Same] to M. de la Force, informing him that he was to divide a sum of 100 louis, and another sum of 1,400 francs, with Mr. Hopkins, and stimulating him to increased exertions. (In French.)

* See No. 696 "Manchester Correspondence," vol. V., (xv.) Oct. 6 1700.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

(ix.) Jan. 12.—[Same] to Mr. Hopkins, announcing that he had sent (through M. Vroesen) 100 louis to be divided with De la Force, and instructing Hopkins to write under cover to Mr. Servas, wine-merchant, at the Hague, or (in the event of having to communicate directly) to use one of the four names, Gardiner, Wilton, Peterson, and Ford, merchants, at London, in which case the Postmaster would deliver the letters [to the Earl]. (In French.)

(x.) Jan. 12.—[Earl of Manchester's secretary] to M. Vroesen, enclosing a bill for 100 louis for Hopkins, and informing him that England would furnish 40,000 men for the succour of her allies, beside the troops remaining in England, and 40,000 sailors. The vigorous proceedings of Parliament were giving general satisfaction, especially to Foreign Ministers. (In French.)

(xi.) Jan. 17.—[The Earl of Manchester] to M. Schonenberg, pointing out that in the event of the recall of the latter from Spain (upon which, however, no decision has yet been taken), it would be necessary to establish "some correspondence" in that country. The Parliament granted everything required by the King, and the Fleet would be larger than ever. (In French.)

(xii.) Jan. 20.—[Same] to M. Jurieu, expressing his belief that his bill of exchange could be duly honoured, and requesting information respecting movements at Dunkirk rather than Ostend. (In French.)

(xiii.) Jan. 22.—[Same] to M. de la Force, informing him that the Earl's Secretary, Mr. Lewis, had paid to M. — 100 Louis, as well as another sum of 1,400 francs, for division with De la Force, urging the latter to render more essential services, and expressing esteem for his "frank and honest manners." (In French.)

(xiv.) Jan. 22.—[Same] to Mr. Hopkins, complaining that his letters contained demands for money instead of information, and asking what was the character of Mr. Johnson, Scottish Minister at St. Germain's. (In French.)

(xv.) Jan. 22.—[Same] to M. Martine, expressing pleasure that the latter was willing to enter into correspondence, and asking for a list of French troops and their stations. (In French.)

(xvi.) Feb. 2.—[Same] to same, arranging the mode of transmitting correspondence, and promising 3,000 francs per annum, and more for special services. Letters to the Earl were to be directed to "Mr. John Barford, merchant, London," and the Postmaster would take care to deliver them with despatch. (In French.)

(xvii.) Feb. 10.—[Same] to M. Schonenberg, to the effect that the Parliament was voting men and money, in accordance with the King's wishes, and that the States General were also doing their part. (In French.)

(xviii.) Feb. 16.—[Same] to M. Martine, acknowledging the receipt of a paper on the subject of "the portrait," and agreeing to take every precaution to prevent discovery. (In French.)

(xix.) Feb. 19.—[Same] to same, asking the number and rank of all vessels arming at Brest, Toulon, Rochefort, and Port Louis, the number of guns and men carried by each, and the time when they would be ready for sea, where the Comte de Chateaurenau was, and whether another squadron was to be sent to the West Indies. (In French.)

(xx.) Feb. 20.—[Same] to M. Caillaud, asking the number and rank of vessels arriving at various ports, and how the fleet was to be distributed. (In French.)

(xxi.) Feb. 26.—[Same] to M. Martin, referring to delays in the correspondence, and asking how Martin wished to have his money paid. (In French.)

(xxii.) Feb. 26.—[Same] to M. Schonenberg, touching some missing letters. The King had quite recovered his accident (a fall from his horse, in which he had broken his collar bone). Everything was in good train in England. (In French.)

(xxiii.) March 5.—[Same] to same, promising a letter from His Majesty to the King of Portugal for M. Schonenberg to deliver at Lisbon on his way from Madrid. The King had had a slight attack of fever, which, however, had not incapacitated him for business.

(xxiv.) March 5.—[Same] to M. Martin, acquainting him that the name of Barford, under which he was to write to the Earl, was purely fictitious, and that M. Vroesen could furnish him with some others which would serve the purpose equally well, and asking information respecting a League which he had mentioned. (In French.)

(xxv.) March 19.—[Same] to M. Martin, directing how correspondence was to be carried on through Holland, explaining that the death of the King would make no difference in the course of public affairs in England, and asking for information respecting the French navy and the movements of M. Chateaurenau. (In French.)

(xxvi.) March ¹⁰/₂₁.—[Same] to M. Caillaud, asking him for a copy of his complete list of ships in the French navy, and for information respecting the ports in which they were distributed. (In French.)

(xxvii.) March ¹⁰/₂₁.—[Same] to M. Schonenberg, notifying the death of William III., and the accession of Anne and recommending the establishment of a "secret correspondence" before M. Schonenberg left Spain. Had the King lived, M. Schonenberg would have received credentials for the King of Portugal, but that was no longer possible. (In French.)

(xxviii.) March 20.—[Same] to M. Jurieu, requesting him to continue his correspondence on the same footing as before the King's death, and promising him repayment of sums which he might have to advance. (In French.)

(xxix.) March 24.—[Same] to M. Schonenberg, expressing confidence that the latter would succeed in the difficult matter entrusted to him by the late King [the establishment of a "secret correspondence"], and that his position [as representative of the States General] would serve him at Lisbon, though he could not have the letter promised by King William. Mr. Methuen was to receive new instructions, and would be glad of M. Schonenberg's support in detaching the Ministers of the King of Portugal from the interests of France "if money and fair promises" from that Court had not already caused them to commit themselves. (In French.)

P.S. (in English).—"A duplicate of this letter was sent "to Lisbon."

1702.

(xxx.) April 7. [Same] to M. Jurieu, promising to remit the 3,000 florins alleged to be due according to agreement with him, desiring him to write to his correspondents at the seaports to procure good information, and complaining that the Paris letter was of little value, and not always in accordance with others from the same place, and that there was reason to suspect that the same letters were sent to the Earl and to other persons in England. (In French.)

REIGN OF GEORGE I.

[1715-16?].

699. Feb. 24.—The Duchess of Marlborough to [the Earl of Manchester?]:—

"I give your Lordship a great many thanks for the honour of your letter and tickets. I knew the order of the Lords before I troubled you with my message, and I acknowledge it to be a favour done me which I will not brag of if it will bring any inconvenience upon your Lordship; and yet the wind has been so cross that one can't be sure the Duke of Marlborough has not a title to his tickets, if it has forced him again into England. But, for your case, my Lord, I will be more secret than is common in my set, and, as a reward for it, I hope you will continue the same number of tickets as many days as the trial holds."—Tunbridge Wells.

REIGN OF GEORGE II.

1729.

700. Aug. 6.—The Duchess of Marlborough to the Duke of Manchester:—

"I write to your Grace in the greatest hurry imaginable for fear the post should be gone, to let you know that after you went I received Mr. Byng's letter, by which I find my Lord Torrington is resolved to bid for Mr. Luke's estate, though it lies mixed with the very best estate that is settled upon my posterity, and that I can shew I agreed for it long before my Lord Torrington thought of it, or, I believe, came into that country. So that your Grace need not give yourself the trouble to speak to Mr. Byng any more, since I find it must be purchased by those that will give most, and it is so agreeable a purchase to me that, rather than not have it, I will give a great deal more for it than the worth. I thank you for the favour of your company so long as you had liberty to stay here."—Tunbridge Wells.

1732.

701. Oct. 12.—"Holles Newcastle" to the Duke of Manchester, regretting that he could not obey "the Duke's commands" touching the Governorship of North Caro-

O 3

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

lma, which had been already promised, in the event of the recal of the existing Governor.—Kensington.

1733.

702. Aug. 24.—The Duchess of Marlborough to [the Duke of Manchester?]:

"I am ashamed to have been so long without answering your Grace's letter of the 9th of August, which did proceed from my unwillingness to say anything to you which might look like not complying with your desire, which I can solemnly protest will always be a great pleasure to me, in everything in the world that relates entirely to yourself, unless it be in what way turn to the prejudice of the public, and as to that principle I can never alter. To preserve the liberties of England has cost a great deal of blood and treasure; and after the share the Duke of Marlborough had in venturing his life so often to secure them, it is not possible for me to assist in the choosing any members of Parliament but such as are most likely to act for the true interest of the nation. I think we have nothing left to keep us from slavery but a wise and honest House of Commons; and after having sent away King James to secure our very valuable constitution, I would sooner die than give it up to any minister. As to Mr. Pigott, I don't know what his circumstances or inclinations are; but I do know what your Grace has been obliged to vote, and likewise what my Lord Robert Montagu must vote for the same reason. And I am sure, when you reflect, you must be so reasonable as to excuse me for what I say. For, if your Grace was my own son and would, for any reason, make an interest contrary to the nation's, if I had a thousand votes to dispose of, I would give them all against you, or against any man living who has voted not to look into public accounts, and several other things, which many members have done, that the nation has a right to be satisfied in, but have been disappointed by a corrupt majority. Therefore, my resolution is when I know what members offer themselves at any places where my estate gives me an interest I will certainly give it to those men who have the best estates, the best characters, and who have not in former Parliaments given their votes to keep themselves in their employments. My nature is, if I must speak, always to be sincere, and with the same sincerity I do assure you that I shall be always glad to oblige you upon any other point."—Tunbridge Wells.

1742.

703. June 31 (sic).—Savile Cust to the Duke [of Manchester]:—"In obedience to your commands I went after the housekeeper at St. James's, whom I did not find so easy a matter to speak to as your Grace imagines, but after having spent the whole morning in search of her I got to the 'Roaster' as you desired, and by it I find that you go into waiting on the first of August and on the 31st of October. Lord Dunmore has been in town ever since you left it, and is here still; and Col. Murray, his brother, whom I saw to-day, tells me he does not know when that Lord will go to Flanders, but he says it will not be this fortnight. I put all your questions to him, and he has promised me to answer them in a day or two; but when I saw the Roaster I imagined I might have spared him (I mean Col. Murray) the trouble, for by the 'Roaster' I find that Lord Dunmore was to go into waiting for himself the sixth of June and the fifth of September. The first, to be sure, he has himself performed, as he is now in town, and his second waiting, which commences the fifth of September, will be after your Grace's waiting is over. So much for my observations on the 'Roaster,' but if I should find myself mistaken with relation to Lord Dunmore, after I have seen Col. Murray again, your Grace may depend upon hearing from me.

"Great news from abroad. The Dutch have agreed to join the English forces with 50 battalions and 50 squadrons in Flanders, in all about 45,000 men, which, with 16,000 of the Queen of Hungary's forces, now in Flanders, 20,000 Hanoverians, 6,000 Hessians, and 16,000 English, will make a very good hundred thousand men in Flanders, besides what the King of Prussia can send them, if he is well paid for it. The King of Sardinia and the Queen of Hungary in conjunction have taken Modena, and made three thousand Spaniards prisoners of war taken in the castle, beaten the Spanish troops sent to relieve it, and killed two thousand, some say three, and that Montemar was there himself. Our English men-of-war have burnt six Spanish galleys laden with stores for Italy, in some of the French ports in the Mediterranean, where they sailed for protection.

Vernon is sailed from Porto Bello back to Jamaica, and Wentworth is disappointed in his attempt on Panama from that place. Most of his army is dead by the country's inclemency, and they say poor Layton amongst the rest. No news from Bohemia to be depended on.

"The town is full of talk on a letter said to be wrote from the Pretender to the Duke of Argyll. Take the account as I had it:—The Pretender in that letter tells his Grace that he is greatly obliged to his Grace for the great service he has done him and his interest in England by prosecuting and endeavouring to bring that arch-rebel Walpole to justice, and he conjures him to pursue him to destruction, and to make use of his interest to procure some wholesome laws for the good of the people, and vigorously to pursue the way he is in which, the Pretender says, must improve his interest for which the Pretender assures his Grace he shall be amply rewarded when he has brought things in England to a happy conclusion. This letter is said to be left at his Grace's house in Oxfordshire by Lord Barrimore. The Duke, on reading it, sent it to Lord Islay, his brother, who carried to the King, where on perusal by the old and new ministry it was agreed to be the Pretender's own handwriting. Lord Barrimore was examined, who knew nothing of the contents but produced a Jacobite doctor, who left it with him to send to the Duke of Argyll, as he was going into Oxfordshire where that Duke then was; and this doctor on examination says he had it of one Dr. Cicel who is not to be found at present. The last 'Craftsman' being upon 'Ploots' is said to be also in the secret. And so much for 'Ploots.'

"The Secret Committee made a report yesterday, and Lord Limerick was two hours reading it at the bar; and whilst the clerk was reading it a second time he got out of the way, so that the House was for some time silent, and the members staring at each other till Veltus Cornwell got up and moved to have it printed. The question was put; about four cried 'Aye,' but all joined in the word 'No;' and so it dropped without one word or motion from any of the Secret Committee, or any other of that party except Cornwell. It is long and strongly worded, full of pompous words of popularity, and the facts found fault with are that Lord Orford, on resigning his places, accepted of a pension of four thousand a year, that Sir Charles Wager had 1,500*l.* out of the Treasury, to which he added 500*l.* of his own, and gave it to Lever, the high bailiff of Westminster, for smart money, on his being confined by the House of Commons; that money was sent to other Corporations from the Treasury, but not personally given to any by Lord Orford; and the Report concludes with saying that the committee is enquiring into the papers relating to the Convention, of which they will make a further Report as soon as they can. But, as none of the Secret Committee spoke, Mr. Winnington took notice how far the year was spent, and desired the Committee would acquaint the House when they would make this further Report; otherwise, as the House had now no business they must adjourn, and if they adjourned they might be prorogued. But no one said one word, which makes us conclude all is over for this year. They met to-day, but at 3 o'clock I saw Sir R. Burgoyne and others, who told me they believed nothing further would be done as to the Report till a further Report was made, and that would take up so much time that they concluded the House would be adjourned before it could be completed, and by that means they should be denied justice; and I hear the Parliament will be prorogued next week. It was positively said that the King would go abroad, but now everyone that ought to know assures me to the contrary.

"Mrs. Woodcock wants her birthday venison only in November, but, as she is a great lover of it and gets but little, if your Grace can spare some soon, I shall be greatly obliged to you for some to give her. I put in the word soon, as I hope to get away from this hot and tiresome place soon after Parliament is up."—Margaret Street.

704. July 1.—J. Laroche to [the Duke of Manchester?], chiefly on the report of the Secret Committee, and giving some details mentioned in No. 703. "The Report begins," he says also, "with telling the House that the Committee had found so many obstructions that it was difficult to get at the whole truth, and that the Lords (by throwing out the indemnifying Bill) had deprived them of the proper means for the enquiry, so that they thought it not advisable to enter into any new matter but what was before them previous to the rejecting of the Bill.

"That it appeared to them that the Earl of Orford

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

107 "had the principal if not the sole direction of the Treasury affairs, but, the Committee being obstructed in the enquiry, they could not trace every particular management home to him.

"The Committee then begins with the contract made by the Treasury with Mr. Peter Burrell and Mr. Bristow, for supplying the forces in America with money. That contract they allege is far from being a beneficial one, but is the reverse, because they allowed only 120 pds. Jamaica currency for 100l. sterling, whereas the exchange is at 135 and 140 currency, and they instanced the bills drawn on account of the navy. They further acquaint the House that it had appeared that Mr. Monson, and Mr. Williams for a friend of his, had each $\frac{1}{2}$ share of the profit, without running the risk of any loss, for so much of the money as issued out of their offices.

"The next particular related to the Earl of Orford intermeddling and issuing out monies on account of elections, and mentioned Orford and Colchester, but that in the Weymouth election he had displaced those who would not vote for Pierce and Olinus, and put in others. In this election they were very particular, and have endeavoured to fix it home to the Earl.

"The third head relates to the great issues of money for Secret Services, Special Services, and Contingencies. The amount for 10 years past is 1,400,000, and they compare this with the 10 years from 1707 to 1717, when the nation was actually in war, the late King came to the Crown, and the unnatural rebellion in the kingdom, and that then the expenses under these heads exceeded not 400,000.

"Then Mr. Scrope would not take the oath, for that he said he had consulted eminent lawyers and divines, who told him that if he once swore he would be obliged in conscience to answer all questions whatsoever, and that he thought himself bound, and had His Majesty's directions not to divulge the Secret Service money; and by this answer they were prevented from coming to the bottom of these mysteries.

"Under this head, they have traced out that Mr. Lever, the high bailiff of Westminster, had 1,500 paid him for his extraordinary charges and expenses on account of the Westminster election, which money was paid him while he was in custody of the Sergeant. The last remark is that Lord Orford procured warrants for sums for himself 30,000, the very day he resigned his employment, at a time that there was not in the Exchequer above 16,000 belonging to the Civil List, and that Mr. Scrope had prepared a warrant for Lord Orford's pension of 4,000l. during the King's and his Lordship's joint lives." (For the text of the Report, see Journals of the House of Commons, xxiv. 289.)—King Street.

1743.

705. July 3.—J. Laroche to [the Duke of Manchester], touching very briefly on the proceedings of the Secret Committee in relation to "the Convention," and the agreement of Holland to be ready with 40,000 foot and 7,500 horse.—King Street.

1744.

706. Nov. 28, o. s.—Philip Laxton to the Duke of Manchester, giving a few details of military matters. Two deserters had been shot and hung in chains. It was dangerous to walk out after 7 o'clock without a link, in consequence of the frequency of murder in Ghent.—Ghent.

1745.

707. June 29.—Wm. Mitchell to [the Duke of Manchester], describing an interview with Mr. Pelham, on the subject of some post sought by the writer, but not obtained. It was promised to Lord Sandwich through Lord Leicester.—Carshalton.

708. Aug. 27, o. s.—Philip Laxton to the Duke of Manchester, giving an account of his exploit in destroying bridges close to the French camp, and regretting that his colonel (Pattison) was prejudiced against him, though Generals Bland and Cholmondeley were pleased with what he had done. He wished the Duke to write a letter in his favour to General Cholmondeley or Colonel Ottway.—Antwerp.

[1745.]

709. Draft of an Engagement to join in an Association in the county of Huntingdon to protect George II. against the Pretender.

1745.

710. Sept. 30.—Another draft of the greater part of the same, but with a different conclusion.

[1745.]

710a.—Memorandum of scheme for putting the same in execution.

[1745?]

711.—Draft of a "Scheme for the service of the King and the honour of the country," i.e., for raising men and money. (Incomplete.)

1745.

712. Nov. 17, o. s.—Lieut. Peter Fleury to [the Duke of Manchester], begging the latter to assist him in obtaining a company after 21 years' service as a subaltern.—Minorca.

713. Undated.—Copy of a petition from Lieutenant Fleury to the Secretary-at-War for promotion after 18 years' service. (Possibly sent with the preceding letter.)

[1746?]

713a. May 8.]—Lady Oxenden to [the Duke of Manchester], expressing Sir George Oxenden's opinion on a recent appointment in the following terms:—"The way to obtain one of the most profitable employments in the nation is to abuse and vilify in the House of C—— the person who wears the ——; but as religious principles furnish the best maxims to those who govern the State, he supposes that the Ministry, in promoting Mr. Pitt to be Paymaster, have followed what in the Scripture is said to be the practice in Heaven, and made more fuss and racket with one repenting sinner in the House of Commons than with ninety-nine honest members whose actions are so just to the Crown as not to call for repentance, unless it be when they see a notorious sinner exalted above them."

1746.

714. July 15.—J. Laroche to [the Duke of Manchester], giving some items of news (which, however, were mere rumours), and asking for tickets for the trial of the Scotch Lords in Westminster Hall.—King Street.

715. Aug. 14.—Savile Cockayne Cust to [the Duke of Manchester], asking the latter to represent to "His Grace" [the Duke of Cumberland?] the unreasonableness of "turning him adrift," after he had subscribed 50l. to the Association in Lincolnshire, and ordered his regimentals.—Hatley.

715a.—"An Abstract of the Estimates of the Charge of Guards and Garrisons for 1746."

1757.

716. July 25.—Anthony Todd to the Duke of Manchester, on some postal matters.—General Post Office.

1758.

717. July 29.—F. Otway to the Duke of Manchester, giving an account of his journey with Lord Mandeville from Verona. There is a postscript dated Augsburg, Aug. 5, in which he says they met but "cool civilities in Munich," but adds, "when I reflect upon Blenheim and Dettingen, I do not wonder that Englishmen are no favourites in Bavaria."—Munich.

REIGNS OF GEORGE II. and GEORGE III.

LETTERS OF GEORGE MONTAGU TO HORACE WALPOLE.

(With Chanson by Walpole.)

718. CHANSON.

Heading (in George Montagu's handwriting.)

"On Lady Caroline Petersham and Col. Conway, by Mr. Horace Walpole."

(In Walpole's handwriting.)

1.

Une faveur, Lisette,
M'a prouvé ton amour;
Au son de ma musette
Tu danse nuit et jour.
A celle de Sylvandre
Tu ne danserois pas,
Mais tu daigne l'entendre;
Non, tu ne m'aime pas.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER

2.

L'autre jour dans la danse
Avec moi sous l'ormeau
Tu suivois la cadence
De mon doux chalumeau :
Sylvandre vint paroître
Et tu fis un faux pas ;
Je sçus bien le connoître ;
Non, tu ne m'aime pas.

3.

L'autre jour sur l'herbette
Mon chien vient te flatter
D'un coup de ta houlette
Tu sçus bien l'écarter ;
Mais quand le sien, cruelle,
Par hazard suit tes pas,
Par son nom tu l'appelle ;
Non tu ne m'aime pas.

4.

Pour toi dans la prairie
Je cueillis un bouquet,
Je l'offris à Sylvie
D'un air assez coquet,
Feignant de rendre hommage
A ses naissans appas,
Tu n'en pris pas d'ombrage ;
Non, tu ne m'aime pas.

1.

One favour, Cloe, lets me see
What from your lips I ask in vain,
When to an artless pipe like mine,
All day you dance upon the plain.
When Silvio plays, no more you dance,
Your graceful motions seem forgot ;
Yet still he plays, and still you hear,
No, Cloe, no, you love me not.

2.

We danced together t'other day,
Beneath a beech's spreading shade,
Your easy steps, your melting look
Adapted to the notes I played ;
Silvio appeared, you made a slip ;
But I'm not easily so caught ;
Too well I saw from whence that step ;
No, Cloe, no, you love me not,

3.

Last night my dog but lick'd your feet,
As on the verdant turf you lay,
Fawning to what his master loves ;
You drove him with your crook away :
If his by chance, thou cruel maid,
Approaches to that happy spot,
You kindly call him by his name ;
No, Cloe, no, you love me not.

4.

In yonder blooming mead of flowers
I chose a garland for your hair,
But offered it to Celia first,
I thought with a coquettish air,
To her young charms and opening grace,
Call'd it the tributary lot ;
Coolly you saw it, yes, unmoved ;
No, Cloe, no, you love me not.

The whole of the letters numbered 719-902 are from George Montagu to Horace Walpole, whose names it is unnecessary to repeat.

[Spring of 1754 ?]

719. Undated, perhaps one of the earliest.—Mentioning no matters of importance, but making the following remark:—"This weather pierces even my fat sides, and I am afraid must pinch even yours that are not so well fenced."

[July ?] 22, [1755 ?]

720. Touching the illness of Montagu's sister, an expected visit of Miss Trevor and Miss Rice, the success of the Wetenhales in recovering a small estate that belonged to Bishop Wetenhale, and "the North's" admiration of Walpole's "Commanderie," &c.—Greatworth.

[1755.]

721. Oct. 15.—Thanking Walpole for his sympathy [on the occasion of the death of Montagu's sister]. See Walpole's letters to Montagu and Bentley, Ed. Cunningham, ii., 474.—Hankelow.

[1756.]

722. May 26. — Announcing an intention of being at Strawberry Hill to dinner on Tuesday, June 1, and mentioning the engagement of "young Rice" to Lord Talbot's daughter, and the march of "the Colonel's" [Charles Montagu's] regiment to Bristol.—Greatworth.

[June 1756 ?]

723. Touching some pictures expected by Montagu. (See Walpole to Montagu, June 18, 1756. Cunningham, iii., 21.)

[Oct. 1756 ?]

724. Touching "my Lady Chariot" (for which Montagu would not give more than 10*l.*), some pictures, the destination of "Charles's regiment," and "a most inflaming letter from a German officer to his brother, published in the last Oxford Journal."—Greatworth.

1756.

725. Nov. 3.—Giving some account of the society at Dallington, near Northampton, where Mr. Montagu's sister, Lady Ann Jekyll, was living "à la Maintenon," &c. Montagu enquires after Mr. Mann, and "the poor Cliquetis and his fondling hospital." The closing sentence is, "My Lord Mayor and his brethren speak good English. I wish their representation was translated for the use of the Courts of Germany and Count Isenburg."—Greatworth.

[June 1757 ?]

726. Giving some gossip touching the bequest of his family estate by Mr. Denton to Sir James Chamberlain's son, &c.

727. Thanking Walpole for six [lottery ?] tickets, a print, &c. (See Walpole to Montagu, May 27, and June 2, 1757, Cunningham, iii., 77, 80.)

[July 1759 ?]

728. Mentioning that Montagu had read Clarendon's Memoirs, Voltaire's Candide (in English), &c.

1759.

729. July 29. — Touching a contemplated visit to Strawberry Hill, a project for taking Walcot House, &c.—Greatworth.

[1759.]

730. October 9.—Giving a few small items of gossip, and among them "Sir George Osborn, a boy of 17, is Major of the Bedford Militia and student of Trinity College. There are but two officers in that corps that are not minors. He called here in his way to Horton and shewed me his commission ; I should else have taken it for a joke." (See Walpole to Montagu, Oct. 11, 1759, Cunningham, iii., 252.)

1759.

731. Oct. 15.—To announce that Mr. Montagu was about to set out for Strawberry Hill on the following Monday.—Greatworth.

[November 1759.]

732. Touching a picture of a Lady Cutts, with a doubt expressed as to whether it was the Lady Cutts who was Mr. Montagu's grandmother. Montagu asked that Mr. Chute might be requested to "unravel all this." "The tradition is," says Montagu, "he [Lord Cutts] came down in a chariot and six Flanders mares and carried off our afflicted widow grandmother, and poked her. Swift, you know, has an epigram upon him in the character of Salamander. Upon this score the Duke of Marlborough, whose great favourite he was, gave him that name for being always in the hottest fire in all engagements." (See Walpole to Montagu, Nov. 8 and 17, 1759, Cunningham, iii. 260, 265.)

733. Touching the promotion of the "young General" [Charles Montagu] to a staff appointment in Ireland, (through the favour of Mr. Secretary Rigby) Lord Mandeville's picture, the end of the feud between Lord Sandwich and Lord Manchester, &c. There is the

DUKE OF MANCHESTER

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

following postscript:—"Look at the end of the 16th " Satire of Dr. Donne, and you will find something in " your way of Lord Essex and Queen Elizabeth."

734. On the impertinence of Müntz the painter, and on the demands of Lord Temple which were "like the " Sybil's leaves. As Mr. Pitt's popularity increases he " rises (sic) his price. I am for having them all burnt." Mention is made of an enclosure to Mr. Chute "'tis about " the lady Cutts, not her that Bishop Atterbury " preached so fine a funeral sermon on—we don't call " kin. Our Magdalen was virtuously poked by her hus- " band, and had but little time to repent of her " matrimony." (See Walpole to Montagu, Nov. 17, 1759. Cunningham, iii. 285.)

[1759.]

735. Dec. 4.—Declining to apply to Lord North on the subject of a pension to Mr. Bentley.—Greatworth.

29 [Dec. 1759].

736. Giving a few particulars as sent by Charles [Montagu] of a riot in Dublin, mentioning a paraphrase of the Magnificat in Lady Winchelsea's "Atalantis," and expressing great regret at having been unable to ask a favour for Mr. Bentley. There is a note on the back, by Walpole:—"Our ancestors christened us; it is but just " we should return the compliment."—Greatworth.

1760.

737. Feb. 3.—Expressing a sense of the great value of Walpole's letters. "Think what a treasure they will " be a hundred years hence to a Madame Sevigné of " the House of Montagu." They were to be "bequeathed " with the most solemn trusts and precautions to the " last Cu of the Cudoms."—Greatworth.

[April 1760?]

738. Referring to Walpole's account of the trial of "Sir George" [Sackville], and asking for an explanation of a letter from Mr. Bentley, in which the daughter of the latter was described as Montagu's god-daughter.—Greatworth.

[Shortly after Easter (April 6) 1760.]

739. Sending a hamper of cider, &c., and adding "Lord " Halifax is going to be married to Sir Thomas Drury's " daughter, and his Miss Falkener is retired upon half- " pay."—Greatworth.

[1760.]

740. May 5.—Mentioning a contemplated visit of Walpole to Lord Beauchamp at Oxford.

[July 1760?]

741. Regretting inability to be at Oxford on the day of Walpole's intended visit to Ch. Ch.—Greatworth.

8 [July 1760].

742. Expressing Mr. Montagu's hopes that, although he was expecting his sister on a visit, he might still be at Oxford at the same time as Walpole, and adding:—"I " delight in Lady Carlile's judgment that finds a " perfect resemblance between Gray's sage taciturnity " and your bold intrepid impetuosity; 'tis very like " a whale or a camel." (See Walpole to Montagu, July 4, 1760, Cunningham, iii., 324.)—Greatworth.

1760.

743. July 20.—Touching on some domestic matters, and the projected marriage of Miss Legge and Mr. Brudenel.

[1760?]

744. August 23.—Sympathising with Walpole on the subject of the gout.—Hankelow.

745. Sep. 16.—Making an excuse for "the General," who was unable to visit Strawberry before his return to Ireland, and adding "the great Cu was the most " disconsolate and neglected of beings at his races. " The young lady was there and only presented her Cu."—Greatworth.

1760.

746. Oct. 7.—"I take it kind, yet it was your duty to " notify to me this brave match of your niece's, which " I most truly rejoice at and congratulate you upon. " I don't see but Katherine Swinford's children may " make a figure in the world. Since there is no issue " by the rest of the family, I reckon the Pigwiggins " absolute issues in its most nasty sense.

I 120.

"I am abominably vexed with the indiscretion of " Cliquetis and his weakness for his honest woman, the " burthen of whose follies I know will be sent from the " Fleet upon your shoulders. It would not have been " in my power to prevent his journey to London, though " I should have endeavoured at it. He has never " opened his lips to me in his life concerning his " domestic happiness, and till they were married I " would never know there was a Miss Falkener in the " world," &c.—Greatworth.

[October 1760?]

747. Congratulating Walpole on his new honours, and adding, "you are just at the age when virtue rots and " is fit for use, and I put in for some of your parings." (See Walpole to Montagu, Oct. 14, 1760, Cunningham, iii. 347.) There occurs also the following passage:—"I have just been on the Horton side of Northampton- " shire, and am more outrageous than Regan and " Goneril, and could put out his eyes. He [Lord " Halifax] has pissed upon twenty brave old Cus, worth " an hundred Drury's. Believe me there are ancestors " mildewing and eligible in his Hall worth all the Sun- " burys in Kelder." There follows a description of "this poor Dido," [the daughter of Sir Thomas Drury, who was to have married Lord Halifax?], &c.—Greatworth.

[October 1760?]

748. Begging to be remembered in the time of Walpole's "exaltation," and suggesting that Mr. Chute might be "a suiter to the fair widow Brown."

749. Remarking, "Lord Charles Spencer, whom we " here thought sure of being accepted as representa- " tive for the county of Oxford, has been rejected by " the clamours of two hot parsons of colleges and two " tradesmen near, and Lord Abingdon will support Sir " James Dashwood, and promised to turn out a bag " fox at their next meeting to join him. The peaceable " ones were forced to subscribe to support this interest. " You make Kings and Ministers while we support the " Pretender and High Church, after they are gone mad " and turned Methodist."

[November 1760?]

750. Congratulating Walpole on being satisfied with his own "Anecdotes," &c. (See Walpole to Montagu Nov. 24, 1760, Cunningham, iii. 364.)

1761.

751. Jan. 11.—Remarking (among other matters), "I have been reading Mlle. Montpensier's Memoires, " with notes by Princess Emily. 'Tis strange how much " I love to read of the Court of Lewis the 15, I, who " am so indifferent to my own that I have at hand. I " know more of the Fronde than the Jew Bill, and " think the Duke of Beaufort an abler man than my " cousin Newcastle, the king of Clare Market."—Greatworth.

[January 1761?]

752. Saturday 17.—Expressing an intention of visiting London in February.—Greatworth.

[Feb. 1761?]

753. Mentioning an intended visit to London about the second of March, and remarking, "You all think, " being buried alive, I have kept myself fat and eatable. " You will find 'tis true; no pearl in my shell, but you " will find me sound and faithful and cleaving. I walk " out of it merely to shew you I am alive and not to be " trod under foot, and shall just take a peep at you and " close again totus, teres, atque rotundus. I know no " more of what is passing in the world than the veriest " oyster on the bank, and make my appearance in Lent " when only I may be fit for the table. You will have " been cloyed with flesh-pots, and be glad to sit with " Daniel at his pulse. Sir, I would have you to know I " never was less fit for the great world and never fitter. " I never had better spirits to cope with the humours " of the times, and never so humoursome. I am all " Almanzor. I could fight, drink, swear, do anything. " I know not what it is to be old, for I will not try my " strength. I now repent me I am of no consequence. " I would I were a thousand strong to take the young " man by the leg," &c.

[March 1761.]

754. Mentioning the loss of a lawsuit, "by the " knavery of an antagonist who tampered with the " P"

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"jury," and expressing hopes of better fortune in "the other kingdom" [i.e., Ireland, where his cousin, Lord Halifax, was appointed Lord-Lieutenant]. (See Walpole to Montagu, March 21, 1761, Cunningham. iii. 388.)

[1761?]

755. March.—Touching tickets for Mrs. Clive's benefit, "Cliquetis's drawings," (which had been shown to Worsley [the Surveyor of the Board of Works?] to show to the —), and Mr. Cumberland's visit to the Bishop of Durham and Mr. Hampden.—Greatworth.

[March or April 1761.]

756. Announcing that Mr. Montagu was (as he had heard from Mrs. Rice) to be appointed Black Rod [in Ireland].

[March or April? 1761.]

757. Announcing Lord Halifax's promise to give Mr. Montagu some post in Ireland.

[March or April 1761.]

758. On the expectation of obtaining a good employment (probably the Black Rod) from Lord Halifax, Walpole's visit to Houghton, &c.—Greatworth.

[Spring of 1761.]

759. On the way in which Montagu was to be "rigged out" for his new office in Ireland, which he expected would be that of Black Rod, and on some matters of gossip. He says, among other details relating to dress:—"I have a notion that, as my hair is very thin and bald behind, a tour, such as you wear, would be of service to my deformities."

[April 1761?]

760. Announcing that Mr. Montagu was actually appointed Black Rod in Ireland, and giving a copy of the letter from his cousin [Lord Halifax] in which he was informed of the fact.

[Spring of 1761.]

761. Expressing an intention of seeing Walpole before leaving for Ireland ("most likely in May"), but asking, "would you have me have been in town amongst all the cabals of violence of Lady Fanny and her brother, and drawn in to give my opinion and into a thousand scrapes?"

[April 1761?]

762. To the effect that Mr. Montagu hoped to visit Strawberry in June, that the Duke of Grafton was said to be going abroad, because he had ruined himself at play, &c.

[1761.]

763. Saturday, June 2.—Giving some news of his brother (General Montagu), and of his cousin (Lord Halifax) who "was to hold the Lieutenancy in commendam," mentioning the contemplated visit to "your Honour's Strawberry and Mr. Chute's Vine," and asserting that the writer was "all life, from the baldness of his crown to the gout in his foot."—Greatworth.

1761.

764. June 9.—Proposing to pay a visit to Strawberry in the following week.—Greatworth.

[June 1761.]

765. Agreeing to pass a day or two with Walpole (beginning on the 22nd), before taking the oaths to the Vice-Roy, &c. There is the following Postscript:—"Do you know Prince Rupert invented Mezzo-tinto and Prince's Metal?"

[June or July 1761.]

766. Containing a few complimentary remarks, and mentioning the names of Mr. Chute and Mrs. Mary Trubrige. (See Walpole to Montagu, July 5, 1761. Cunningham, iii. 408.)—Berkeley Square.

[June or July 1761?]

767. Sending compliments from Mr. Chute, who was better, and mentioning with approval Mrs. Mary Sturbridge.—Berkeley Square. See No. 776.

[July 1761.]

768. Apologising for having gone away "without saying a word" to Walpole, after having "made an Inn" of his house.

[July or August 1761.]

769. Congratulating Walpole on his "German victory," mentioning General Conway with kindness, declining an offer of a place for the Coronation Procession for Montagu himself, but asking for one for his brother John, and remarking, "Every fool thinks he has a right to your ear, and I would lose both mine before I would pass a day with little Garrick."—Greatworth.

[August 1761.]

770. Remarking, "I carry your letter of advice in my pocket as a charm to Dublin," and mentioning "a very kind letter from my little Lord Dacre."—Greatworth.

[1761.]

771. Aug. 15.—To the effect that Montagu was about to set out for Ireland "with as much anxiety as he did to Mrs. Hamilton's dinner."—Greatworth.

1761.

772. Sept. 15.—Announcing arrival in Dublin, with some description of the journey, and an expression of surprise at the size and beauty of the city.—St. Stephen's Green.

[1761.]

773. Oct. 1.—Thanking Walpole for his description of the Coronation, and for the ticket sent for Montagu's brother, and giving some account of Dublin and the houses in the neighbourhood.—[Dublin.]

1761.

774. Oct. 8.—On the popularity of the Lord Lieutenant, and the sobriety of his Court. "Cliquetis," it is added, "does not come over, as the Primate tells me, who has diverted himself with me a whole afternoon with his remembrance of all his histories."—Stephen's Green, Dublin.

[1761.]

775. Oct. 12.—Expressing Mr. Montagu's satisfaction with his new position, and mentioning that he was about "to go and see the Deanery of St. Patrick's, where there are many remains of Swift's wit about the house. I don't wonder," he adds, "he disliked his situation, for, from what appeared from the Archbishop's windows, it was enough to turn a stronger wit than his to dulness or madness."—Dublin.

[Nov. 4, 1761?]

776. Describing the beauty of the site of Lord Fitzwilliam's villa, and Lord Charlemont's villa, and expressing a hope of being able to return to England in February. There is the following postscript:—"This day we banquet with King William's ghost, and every coach in Dublin parades round his statue, and every man is drunk to the memory of Old Glorious, by six."—[Dublin.]

[1761.]

777. Nov. 17.—Thanking Walpole for his "Pernkes," [Print of Hogarth's Five Orders of the Periwigs?] adding, "They have entertained me much." &c. Mr. Bentley's play, "with alterations" was in rehearsal.—[Dublin.]

[1761.]

778. Nov. 19.—Giving Walpole the information that Sir Compton Domvill, Clerk of the Hanaper of Ireland, was not expected to live, and that General Conway had the reversion of his place. On the back is (in Walpole's writing) a list of names (mostly in pairs, lady and gentleman) including the King, Queen, and members of the Royal Family.—Dublin.

1761.

779. Nov. 23.—Regretting the miscarriage of a letter in which Montagu had been informed by Walpole that there was a place for his brother to see the Coronation.—Dublin.

[1761.]

780. Nov. 27.—Mentioning "the most magnificent of entertainments at the College," &c.—Dublin.

24 [Dec. 1761.]

781. Saturday.—Sending a speech of "His Excellency's" who still continued to be very popular.—[Dublin.]

[Late in 1761 or early in 1762.]

782. Mentioning "business of an agreeable sort. I have had one of my small officers dead, and in Ireland every thing goes to market, and Charles is now trafficking for me."—[Dublin.]

1762.

783. Jan. 2.—Asking Walpole to buy Montagu a pair of lace ruffles, with the remark, "On the Queen's birthday we are all to exhibit ourselves in the manufacture of the kingdom. I am to aver the lace is made in Tipperary, as Lady Falmouth swore to her insolvency with the diamond ring the Emperor gave her on her finger." Montagu promises to send "The Wishes," &c., and adds, as a joke: "The labours of your Press, if they don't amuse your friends, at least they increase the parish, and I shall hear you are presented as a nuisance by the Bishop of Peterborough, and Mrs. Olive, Lady Fanny Shirley, and C—."—Dublin.

[1762.]

784. Jan. 23.—Expressing an intention of returning to England when Montagu's brother, the General, was sent upon duty from Dublin.—Dublin.

[About Jan. 1762?]

785. Mentioning "Mr. Bentley's Epistle to Lord Melcomb in the Horatian Bentleian Cliquetis manner," promising to send a copy of it, and copies of "The Wishes," and the tragedy, and giving some particulars of the society in which Montagu found himself.—[Dublin.]

1762.

786. Feb. 6.—Mentioning that De Courcy, Premier Baron of Ireland, had just taken his seat in the House of Lords. "Our Peers need not fear him assuming his privilege of being covered, for, till the King gives him a pension, he cannot buy the offensive hat. In short he was bred a carpenter at Jamaica, and is come over and proved his descent, and to learn a new trade, and to make a bow." There is strong praise of Mr. Hamilton's speech on the augmentation of the forces, followed by some small items of gossip.

787. Feb. 18.—Telling Walpole that Sir Edward Walpole had written a play, and how "the youths at the University dined at three, and were at the play in their gowns, as at Stourbridge fair, at night." Montagu had "got the pocket-book of M. de Novillar, Chevalier de Malte, a young officer that was killed at the attack at Carrickfergus, with his engagements, little songs, and two pictures of his mistresses. I have sent to Carrickfergus to have him decently buried, for they used to take him out of his grave by his fine long hair to show the French enemy." He also describes two pictures of Madame Grammont in the possession of Lady Kingsland, one by Sir Peter Lely, &c.—[Dublin.]

[1762.]

788. Feb. 20.—Requesting Walpole to send his "two new Books of Painting," by Capt. William Burton, who was about to visit London for a few days.—Stephen's Green.

[February 1762.]

789. Saturday, 27.—Giving an account of the Lord Lieutenant's absolute refusal of any increase of salary.—[Dublin.]

[February 1762?]

790. Describing the enthusiastic reception of the Lord Lieutenant, &c., and remarking, "I am out of all patience with my Lord Pembroke, and pity his poor wife. The D.'s never liked him while he was love making." Walpole's books, it is added, were much liked in Ireland. (See Walpole to Montagu, Feb. 22, 1762. Cunningham iii., 486.)—[Dublin.]

[February or March 1762.]

791. On Walpole's books, Mr. Bentley's Ode, the popularity of the Lord Lieutenant in Ireland, "where 'tis but lately they had any cray-fish, perch, pheasants, or good Lord Lieutenants," and asking for a few lines in memory of Lord Cutts. (See Walpole to Montagu, March 9, 1762, Cunningham, iii., 493.)—[Dublin.]

[Early in 1762.]

792. On Mr. Bentley's tragedy, which was "Cliquetis all over double proof. There are a thousand pretty "things in it, some really fine; many conceited expressions, and no harmony at all. He seems to affect to tear the ear to pieces instead of charming. Hannah appears in more scenes than one. Indeed, she is in good company, the Pitt, the Bute, the K. and Q., some of his friends, and his own self." Lord Charlemont's collection, and some minor matters of gossip are also mentioned.—[Dublin.]

1762.

793. April 12.—Announcing Montagu's intention of returning to England on April 21st, mentioning an expedition of General Montagu's against "a sort of riotous levellers," who would probably be soon dispersed, and adding, "the Bishop of Ferns comes with me to Chester. You know I must have a man of God to direct all my courses by sea and by land."—Stephen's Green.

794. April 26.—Announcing that "a body had got safe and well to his native land," that the Lord Lieutenant was about to leave Ireland on the following Wednesday, and that Mr. Montagu was about to turn his thoughts towards a visit to Strawberry.—Hankelow.

[1762.]

795. May 5.—Making the following remarks:—"I have daily threats of the Irish malady from Irish claret and debauchery;" . . . "Pray put your name [i.e., frank] to my little fellow-traveller's [the Bishop of Ferns] letter, for he is only current in Ireland," and "I marvel what his Excellence, my cousin, is about; I do not hear he is arrived. Perhaps they have found business to retain him and plague, for they are a plaguey race of animals as bad as our toads or spiders."

[May? 1762.]

796. Mentioning that Montagu had sent two songs and a piece of Congreve's that he "picked up in Dublin. They were wrote by his own hand, and were amongst many verses that he used to send over to a friend of his there, and a vast collection of his letters I had not time to read." Greatworth had restored him to honest George from the riotous usher." He wished to have any news of his cousin's promotion in England "for many reasons."

[1762.]

797. Monday, May 17.—Informing Walpole that Madame Osborn would send him thirty prints of Irish worthies, that the "copy of Madame Grammont would soon be done," and that Montagu had no desire to return to Ireland except for "some comfortable sinecure. But that will be at an end by this new system."—Greatworth.

798. May.—Complaining of illness, which, with an expected visit of Montagu's brother, the General, would prevent him going to Strawberry.—Greatworth.

799. May.—Apologising for the conduct of "Old Richard" in "carrying two dozen of franks" to Walpole.—Greatworth.

800. August 9.—Mentioning receipt of a letter from Walpole "with old Richard's," the report that "the Secretary had been fishing about Lord Hertford's" going to Ireland, &c.—Greatworth.

1762.

801. August 18.—Thanking Walpole for "the prettiest pair of buttons," and mentioning that "the Manchester" had left, well pleased with Greatworth.—Greatworth.

[Sept.] 1762.

802. Sunday, 19.—Giving some particulars of a visit to Oxford:—"There is a Montagu woman entombed in one of the aisles [of Christ Church Cathedral] with a black border round her arms, and very ancient. This unbastardises our modern Cudoms, and I want to know who she is." Mention is also made of a proposed visit of the General to town.—Greatworth.

[Dec. 1762.]

803. Giving reasons why Montagu doubts his ability to accompany Walpole to Italy, and recommending the latter to go to Bath.—Greatworth.

[End of 1762 or beginning of 1763.]

804. Announcing that the General was about to be married to Lady Grandison:—"Much wealth, good blood, good quality, and he in the humour of it much," &c.—Greatworth.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

[April 1763.]

805. Sympathising with Walpole and his niece on account of the illness of Lord Waldegrave, denying that Montagu's own scorbutic habit was caused by intemperance, "though," it is added, "all wine you think excess," lamenting that he was not to go to Ireland again to secure "a round sum," and agreeing with Walpole on the merits of Mr. Bentley's Epistle.—Greatworth.

[April 1763.]

806. Condoling with Walpole and his niece on the death of Lord Waldegrave. There occurs also the following remark: "It is a symptom that the people of England are not abandoned, who have drove away that dangerous First Minister; but I am far from being satisfied till the stable is swept clean, and all the Tory dung cast out."—Greatworth.

[April 1763.]

807. Remarking, after a tribute to the merits of Lord Waldegrave, "I am so sick of the generality of great lords and their great knaveries, and the great support they have found, that I am perfectly easy in this my insignificant state. Truly I think they have used you very ill by giving away the reversion of your place. 'Tis a kind of wishing one dead . . . So the poor Cliquetis is afloat again. I own I am sorry for him; he had better have staid where he was than dangle about a fulsome incense-pot to every vain fellow in power. Nothing makes power so odious to me as the retinue of sycophants that follow and make up the train." . . . "Do you know your Anecdotes are become very scarce." Montagu invites Walpole to Greatworth.—Greatworth.

[April 1763?]

808. Asking Walpole to have some family portraits (presented to Montagu by his aunt Cosby at Hampton Court) packed up and forwarded.—Greatworth.

[1763.]

809. May.—Expressing delight at Walpole's "description, and the gallantry of the Strawberry Aftermath," lamenting that the gallery had not been ready for the foreigners to see, promising to visit Strawberry in August, and remarking "I am truly glad to hear Mr. Bentley has got something. I wish his nephew had the receipt of it, and could pay him quarterly."—Greatworth.

[May 1763.]

810. On Walpole's intended visit to Hinchinbrooke and Kimbolton. Montagu adds I heard. . . . "your fête was very gallant and the verses pretty. Is Miss Chudleigh to have a pension upon Ireland? I hope you will get a pennyworth."

[1763.]

811. June 9.—On Walpole's recent visit to Kimbolton, Hinchinbrooke, &c.—Greatworth.

812. June 14.—On the mode of forwarding Montagu's pictures, and on an intended visit of Walpole and Chute to Greatworth.—Greatworth.

813. Undated.—On an expected visit of Walpole, Mr. Bentley, and Mr. Müntz to Greatworth, on Lady Pomfret's reception in the Theatre at Oxford where "a parson played on the kettle-drum at the Oratorio, and Parson Fletcher had a beam from one of the windows fall on his head, but he was brute enough to sit with a vast beaver on which preserved his brains," &c.

814. June 23.—To the effect that Montagu was pleased to hear Walpole was about to visit him, but would be unable to accompany Walpole on a tour.—Greatworth.

815. Tuesday, July 5.—Expressing pleasure at Walpole's intended visit to Greatworth, and giving among other gossip the following:—"Sir Charles Cotterel is going to sell General Dormer's fine collection of books, and turn the room into an eating chamber. There is a place in the suburbs of Oxford called Sots Hole, just by Bullock's Lane. He had better have taken an apartment there."—Greatworth.

815a. July 23.—Asking Walpole for the address of Eckhart, the painter, for Charles and his wife [General Montagu and Lady Grandison].—Greatworth.

816. Thanking Walpole for having been "trafficking with General Conway about obliging" Montagu, &c., and expressing pleasure at the prospect of seeing Walpole soon.

817. Aug. 23.—Giving a somewhat minute description of Crewe Hall, and expressing an intention of visiting Chute at the Vine, and Walpole at Strawberry, where, says Montagu, "I am ambitious to efface Mrs Clive's rubicundity with my own deep claret dye that I brought from Dublin. Pray, my service to her. I don't require you to communicate the first part of my message, lest it make her blush, and there I am no match for her, and that would be a double disappointment, and to be her match one must be doubly pointed. . . . I am your faithfulest old body."

818. Saturday, Aug. 28.—Asking for a catalogue of the sale of Lord Waldegrave's effects, and adding that Montagu had heard his "young cousin's Grace was staunch in the good cause, and rejected all overtures that had been made him."—Greatworth.

819. Monday, Sep. 5.—On the intended visit of Montagu with his brother Charles and Lady Grandison to Walpole. Lady Beaulieu also wished to see Strawberry. "I do not bring them," adds Montagu, "it is the renown of the place."—Frogmore.

[Sep. 1763.]

820. Friday, 9.—Definitely promising a visit to Strawberry on the following Wednesday.—Frogmore.

821. Tuesday, 27.—On the mode of sending the portraits from Hampton Court to Greatworth, on the portrait gallery at Bulstrode, where were "two very curious ones of James the First, and Prince Henry in his creation robes, and near thirty of the great personages of King James's Court, and all well preserved, and most of them well done." There is a sympathetic reference to the "shocking accident at Hampden." (Memoranda by Walpole on the back.)—Frogmore.

[1763.]

822. Oct. 19.—Assuring Walpole that neither of the Beaulieus could have seen "the picture in the bed-chamber." Lady Beaulieu had only scolded Montagu for hurrying, and on a future occasion he would "take care to whip up first and put it under the bed," &c.—Greatworth.

823. Nov. 15.—Thanking Walpole for the catalogue [of Lord Waldegrave's effects], and adding "Hamilton always treated the great people of Ireland with contempt, and the Primate, who is the chief personage at the castle, could never endure him. Lord Shannon's son is going to marry the Speaker's daughter, and the Primate, who hates the alliance, has begged to perform the ceremony."—Greatworth.

824. Nov. 26.—Beginning "I have no need to come to town when you send it me by the post. It may be a joke to you, but it is death to me, to hear it so absurd and abominable, and that my flesh and blood is become tainted and corrupt. I shall see their quarters flyblown at the end of every sheet. When the Sandwich cries whose first I expect his life and conversation will not long be a secret, and then they may search where searching began, and the Lord knows where it will end. I am sick of this bad world, but you are good," &c. (See Walpole to Montagu, Nov. 20, 1763, for some of the doings of Montagu's cousin, Lord Sandwich.)

[Jan. 1764.]

825. Thanking Walpole for the "Fairy Verses," and sympathizing with him on the gout, &c., &c. There had been bold thieves near Greatworth. "I don't visit," says Montagu, "without my servants armed, and I shall come to London with the posse comitatus."—Greatworth.

[April 1764.]

826. Expressing regret at the report that General Conway was dismissed (see Cunningham, iv., 224. et seq.), and remarking "We have another blue ribbon in our house." [Lord Halifax?]-Frogmore.

1764.

827. May 1.—"I am grieved, though I do not wonder, to find you so much affected for the treatment of that valuable person, your friend [General Conway,* who had been dismissed?] Sure it will open the eyes and mouths, too, of all the honest men in the kingdom. I have not wrote to congratulate my cousin [Lord Halifax upon having the Garter?] I cannot compliment where I don't esteem. There was an Anthon! The great Lord Halifax, my uncle, lived in harmony with his family, was the patron of the worthy and witty men of

* See Walpole's works, ii. 560.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

his age, and died rich and regretted. May his end be the same. If you go to Lady Young's auction, and there is any Sidney picture that is pretty and cheap, be so good as to buy it for me, and pray send me the catalogue, that I may know what things there are. Truly I think, if I had attended a drunken woman for so many years, and got all her matters from her sister and children, I should have been ashamed to expose them to the whole town in my life time," &c.—Greatworth.

[1764 P]

828. May 13.—Thanking Walpole for a purchase made on Montagu's behalf. In sending his compliments to "the good General Conway," Montagu says: "I have got an hero more to John Hampden, and "Algernon, to my Litany." In a postscript he adds, "Cliquetis was to see my cousin [Halifax?] gartered. "He has long licked his shoes."

[1764.]

829. May 27.—Acknowledging receipt of the pictures bought for Montagu by Walpole "at Lady Yonge's iniquitous sale," and adding "I would fain believe the "little boy is Lord Romney, my great uncle, and the "girl Lady Lucy Pelham or Saccharissa," &c. (On the back, in pencil, by Walpole, "We know one gentleman, "who has been two or three times set up, and as often "pulled down, sometimes for insufficiency, sometimes "for all-sufficiency, and by whose semblance of power "no man has been imposed upon but himself.")

[1764 P]

830. June 27.—On the pictures previously mentioned, Montagu had found in a book of prints at Lord Guilford's "the very individual two little Sidneys in a "mezzo-tinto picture, and wrote Robert and Dorothy "Sidney. The daughter is Saccharissa, and the son "the Earl of Leicester, of our kin." He was glad "the poor Bentley had got a good place," and hoped a good use would be made of it.—Greatworth.

1764.

831. August 30.—Thanking Walpole for the present of "the two prettiest books" Montagu "ever saw," and expressing an intention of visiting Strawberry.—Greatworth.

[1764.]

832. Sunday, October 13.—Promising to go to Strawberry, describing an accident (caused by horses taking fright and running away), and expressing pleasure that a legacy had been left to General Conway. (The 13th of October fell on Saturday in the year 1764, but the date may be fixed by the legacy, which is mentioned in a letter printed in Mr. Cunningham's edition, iv. 281. Montagu's nerves were shaken by the accident: hence, perhaps, the mistake.)—Frogmore.

[1764 P]

833. October 24.—Sending a civil message for Lady Mary Churchill and compliments to Mr. Chute, &c.—Frogmore.

[1764.]

834. October 26.—Asking Walpole, on behalf of Mrs. Margaret Trevor, to recommend some "poor old servants of the Castle" to Lady Mary Churchill.—Frogmore.

[December 1764 P]

835. Montagu congratulates himself on being "freed "from the mortal vexations of these horrid times. To "amend them it is not in my power; to be witness of "the daily progress of the hateful Junto would exceed "my patience." He expresses an intention of going to Bath if unable to visit Strawberry, "because I had "rather hear the groans of the gout, and the repentant "sighs of old rakes, than be forced to keep silence "when my heart is hot within me . . . In London I "wish the Foreign Ministers were as much avoided or "confined as at Venice or Constantinople. I would no "more speak French than Scotch, and am afraid of the "pox as well as the itch. We have scurvy enough of "our own in this best of all possible constitutions . . " . . . You fancy I have a levée of parsons and a cry "of squires I sell no servitude by the ounce "or prerogative by handfuls." He asks for a copy of the new edition of the "Anecdotes of Painting," &c.—(See Cunningham, iv., 301.)

[1764.]

836. December 23.—Asking Walpole to include a letter for France in any packet directed to Lord Hertford, remarking that "all the women in town were in love with Lord Herbert," [i.e. Walpole's Life of Lord Herbert, of Cherbury], and discoursing at some length on the advantages of a life without ambition. Montagu had just kept his 51st birthday.—Greatworth.

[January 1765.]

837. Thanking Walpole for a muff, the "Anecdotes," the "Castle of Otranto," &c., and expressing doubts whether Montagu could see him before he went to France.—Greatworth.

[1765 P]

338. February 3.—Asking for Parliamentary support for two ladies, who, as ladies of the manor, were opposing the enclosure of Sulgrave.—Greatworth.

[February 1765.]

839. Sunday 24.—Declining Walpole's offer of a ticket for the "ceremony" [trial of Lord Byron], and expressing Montagu's preference for the country rather than town, and his intention of being in London shortly, and seeing Walpole before the departure of the latter for Paris.—Greatworth.

[Beginning of 1765.]

840. On Montagu's secluded life and the prospect of being able to see Walpole before his departure for France. "A gentleman," it is added, "lately saw Mr. "Bentley all in rags, and the next day met him clothed "in purple and gold, and dirty linen; indeed he is "enough to dirty anything." Montagu asks for tickets for his "little aunt Wilmot" and some friends to see Strawberry.

[April 1765.]

841. Thanking Walpole for "Quin's Patriotism," asking for "four tickets for Mr. Woodhull," and giving some small items of gossip, &c.

[July 1765.]

842. Expressing delight that Walpole was well enough to be able to write, and referring to "that horrid article in the papers." (See Walpole to Montagu, Cunningham, iv., 379.)—Greatworth.

[1765 P]

843. July 16.—Mentioning the promotion of the General [Conway?], and remarking "my cousin [Lord Halifax?] carried his old mistress [Miss Falkener?] to "his old mansion at Horton, who did the honours of "the house to those few sycophants who come to see "his setting sun. I do not more rejoice at the end of "my two cousins than you can do at the rise of yours."—Greatworth.

[1765 P]

844. Expressing regret that Montagu would be unable to see Walpole before the departure of the latter for France in the autumn, and mentioning among other items of gossip the following, "the Primate wears in a "ring the stone Lady Northumberland voided in "Dublin."—Greatworth.

[1765.]

845. Aug. 2.—Expressing pleasure at Walpole's recovery, and referring again to the article in the newspapers which had alarmed Lord Guilford about Walpole's health. Montagu dilates on the mode of treating the advance of age, and remarks that "at a certain period "of life we all feel an alteration, the wheels are taken "out, brushed and cleaned, and the machine goes the "better for a great while."—Greatworth.

[Aug. 1765.]

846.—Touching the death of "Lady Bab" (respecting which Montagu had received a sympathising letter from Walpole), a visit to Chicksands, to see "Sir George Osborn," and a visit to "Lady Fanny." Montagu gives a list of engagements which would prevent him seeing Walpole before the departure of the latter for France, but asks Walpole to take charge of a parcel of books for Madame Roland. He had met a Clare Hall man who had diverted him with an "ample detail of the Cambridge Conclave for the "election of High Steward, and showed the maxim of "Dryden's priests of all religions being the same in a 'clear light,' &c.—(See Walpole to Montagu, Aug. 23, 1765, Cunningham, iv., 391.)

[1765.]

847. "Thursday, Aug. 5." Probably a mistake for Sep. 5.—Making excuses for inability to see Walpole before his departure, and expressing a wish to send copies of Shakspeare, Congreve, and Swift, to Madame Roland. (The letter must have been written shortly before Walpole's departure for Paris. The 5th September in that year was a Thursday; not so the 5th August.)—Greatworth.

848. Oct. 15. — Mentioning a projected visit to Bath, where Lady Ann Jekyl and the Guilfords were staying; expressing a hope that Walpole would "pick up many things in Paris" for Montagu to see; and giving some items of gossip among which are the following:—"My cousin [Halifax ?] acted 'the king to us' at the Northampton Races, and had 'only his nephew, Sir George, to be gracious to. None of the gentry of the country attended him, they were apprehensive of a second edition of Mrs. Donaldson in all her glory. The mode of lying is revived, and the knaves find credit with the fools for 'the most absurd extravagancies. Half the world believe the Duke of Grafton has lost all his estate at play, and the wretched mis-representations of people and their dispositions are swallowed without the pills being washed over with leaf gold. I have enough to do to make them comprehend common sense, so many false prophecies are gone out into the land.' . . . 'Lady Huntingdon has built a new chapel at Bath, and distributed tickets with proper mottoes.'—Greatworth.

[1765.]

849. Nov. 2.—Expressing regret that Walpole was laid up with the gout in France, giving some details about the books for Madame Roland, and announcing Montagu's intention of going to live at Roehampton, &c.—Greatworth.

850. Dec. 7. — The change of scene, Lady Anne [Jekyl]'s lively disposition and children had "wonderfully brightened up" Montagu. He had met "Mr. Percy, the editor of the old songs" who had "been lately at Appleby Castle, where there is a profusion of old portraits (but most of them nameless), three very curious historical pictures of the Dorset and Pembroke Countess, with her father and mother, tutor, and nurse, another with the principal events of her life, and another with her sisters and husband, covered with mottoes, texts of Scripture, and vanity.

"The ball at Court for the Dowager's birthday was most triste. No peeress danced; but twelve minuets, and only three Earl's daughters that danced them. . . . My cousin [Halifax] keeps his Christmas at Horton, but leaves the Lady on Hampton Court Green.

"It is well General Conway is not within Lady Ann's reach; she would kiss him to death. He has given Mrs. Wilkinson 50*l.* a year out of his own pocket till he obtains a pension for her on her memorial. She is widow to the Duke of Cumberland's agent. . . .

"Cumberland's comic opera is soon to be exhibited. Under each new administration he produces a dramatic performance; 'tis better than to be forced to swallow his old ones with his uncle.

"I heard a bon mot of Quin's at Bath. They asked him to traffic for a pair of embroidered shoes:—"No, let them who ride them shoe them."

There are also some minor details of gossip in the letter.—Dallington.

851. Dec. 24.—Touching "a friendly transaction of Lady Beaulieu" towards Montagu, in respect of the Deputy-Rangership of Rockingham Forest, and Walpole's visit to Paris. Montagu adds "Dr. Barnard made 'all the boys at Eton weep when he took leave of them. 'His continuing master till the holidays, though 'Provost, gives me a great esteem for him.'—Greatworth.

1765.

852. Dec. 30. — Asking Walpole's permission to occupy two rooms in Walpole's house in Arlington Street during Montagu's intended visit to London, requesting Walpole to get the epitaph of a Provost Montagu buried in Paris, and remarking "I see by the 'papers that Admiral Cornish is to have a patent. 'I will be hanged if it is not to qualify Tyger Talbot's daughter one of these days, and, if it is so, I shall be "glad, for she is a good lady. Sir Charles Sedley figures 'by the same tenure—but war Mr. Hampden's son.'—Greatworth.

1766.

853. Jan. 8.—Sending enclosure for Madame Roland, giving various small items of gossip, an imaginary dialogue between Montagu and the Rheumatism, &c.

[1766.]

854. Jan. 20.—Thanking Walpole for the loan of his house, expressing regret that a marriage had been arranged between Lord Hinchinbrooke and Lady Betty Montagu, the latter of whom was "made of gentlestuff," and describing Madame Roland's plan of her "Mall," &c., which had been sent as a present to Montagu. He says: "I shall not announce your arrival, only let me know that 'I may not be at home when you arrive, as Madame Bentley was, with a Scotch officer. I fancy this same 'Mr. Bentley is much chagrined; his nephew's opera 'was not more liked than his own play."

[1766.]

855. Tuesday, Feb. 11.—Expressing satisfaction with the comforts of Walpole's house, &c.—Arlington Street.

856. Feb. 19.—On Montagu's prospect of obtaining the Deputy-Rangership of Rockingham Forest, &c.—[Arlington Street.]

857. March 7.—Telling Walpole that the new play was "admirably well acted, but not a grain of wit in 'the whole mess," that Mr. Pitt "charmed the house 'with his wit and humour," that the General had "met Mr. Bentley very dirty, very poor, and very old," with other similar matters of gossip. "I was amazed," says Montagu, "at the sight on the Queen's birthday. 'All entertainments are grander, and at Lady Grey's 'above an hundred and fifty wax lights in one room.—[Arlington Street.]

858. March 12.—Describing Lady Townshend's appearance at Lady Grandison's Assembly, "in the last 'quarter of her beauty. Her face is no bigger than 'a silver penny, all her upper substance is descended 'into the middle region, which indeed forms a gros 'eou." Montagu had met "a group of little chori Episcopi Keppels" in Kensington Gardens; he "never saw 'such cherubims but about the altar." Lord Halifax had been to see him three times, "so great a master of 'ceremonies is humiliation." [The marriage of Lord Hinchinbrooke and Lady Betty Montagu] "was all 'conducted à la Sandwich, and the child is to be 'christened with Rochester's Poems," &c.—[Arlington Street.]

1766.

859. March.—Thanking Walpole for the use of his house during his absence, making some observations on the unusually courteous conduct of Montagu's cousin [Lord Halifax?], on the wedding at Lord Guilford's, on the Earl of Sandwich and his sons, on Sir John Sebright and Miss Knight, on Lord Ashbrooke, who had "gone and married a waterman's daughter, near Oxford," on "goody Carlisle at 'Mother Durham's," and her conversation, &c.—[Arlington Street.]

[March 1766?]

860. Expressing regret at the delay in Walpole's expected return to London. Montagu was obliged to leave town on business connected with his forest appointment.—London.

[1766 ?]

861. Monday, April 28.—Regretting that Montagu had missed seeing Walpole in London, and expressing dissatisfaction with the forest appointment.—Greatworth.

[1766.]

862. May 5.—Expressing regret that Montagu's cousin of Grafton had quitted his employment, asking for some tickets for the Morlands and the Pleydells to see Strawberry, &c.—Greatworth.

863. May 29.—On the death of Lord Grandison, and the advantage to Lady Grandison (General Charles Montagu's wife), &c.

[1766 ?]

864. June 23.—Expressing regret at being unable to think of a visit to Strawberry on account of a severe attack of the gout, and mentioning a letter from Lord Guilford to announce "our cruel loss" [that of Lady Anne Jekyl].—Greatworth.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

[June 1766?]

865. Mentioning again the death of "Lady A. J.," [Anne Jekyl], and her previous reconciliation with her brother, &c.—Greatworth.

[1766?]

866. July 12.—To the effect that Montagu looked upon "these whirlingig ministries as the annuals in his garden that we call by great names and wonder at for a little time, and then sow new ones for another decoration, that serve the purpose just as well," and that he hoped to be able to see Walpole soon.—Greatworth.

[1766.]

867. Monday, July 28.—Expressing an intention of setting out for Strawberry on the following Monday.—Greatworth.

868. Mentioning enclosure of a letter from Madame Roland, and the agreeable days lately passed at Strawberry, and sending "compliments to the house of Clive."—Greatworth.

[Sep.?] 27 [1766?]

869. Saturday.—Expressing hopes that Walpole would benefit by his visit to Bath, &c.—Hankelow.

[1766.]

870. Oct. 12.—To the same effect, and describing a visit to Lord Vernon at Sudbury, whence an excursion was made to Lord Scarsdale's seat, the decorations of which are somewhat minutely described:—"tripods, vases of crystal, lamps, &c., which had been fetched up from Herculaneum, Leda, and Bacchanals that would fetch up the Old One himself in every room. I never saw so much of pure nature got together in plaster of Paris, and bronze, and painting," &c.—Greatworth.

871. Oct. 27.—Telling stories about Montagu's "good cousin's son, Lord Boreas, and a girl of the town," and about "Mother Osborn" and the practice of bed-warming, Lord Sandwich and the game of cricket, and the Duke of Bedford and his "dab of blue riband." Montagu promises some bulbous roots for "the Clive," and asks "Is the letter to General Conway from Rousseau genuine?"

872. Dec. 10.—Offering Walpole some doe-venison, of which part was to be for Mrs. Clive.—Greatworth.

873. Dec. 16.—On the subject of the venison. Montagu adds some severe remarks upon "Nero on the stage again," [the Duke of York as Lothario in the Fair Penitent?]. "I had rather read of the knaves of former days than hear of the fools of these."—Greatworth.

1766 or [1767?]

874. Expressing the opinion that Mr. Bentley's tragedy was "a very poor performance," and adding "I am glad you have been so kind as to asit [sic] Rousseau. The more unhappy he is the more to be pitied, and I am glad the Minister find [sic] help in his want." (See Walpole's Works, iv., 249-264.)—Greatworth.

[Jan. 1767?]

875. On the subject of the venison, with some not very delicate remarks on Charles Montagu's wife, who was about to be made a Countess in her own right.

[1767?]

876. May 24.—On a contemplated visit of Montagu to his "Cousin Durham," taking Strawberry by the way.

877. August.—Mentioning the death of Lady Suffolk, and remarking "I am glad you have sent the Gentle Shep-herd and his scabby troop to starve upon the barren mountains. I would as soon write such a book as Lord Lyttelton's as read it." Montagu asks Walpole to take charge of a silver casket for Madame Roland, who was at Rheims. (See Walpole to Montagu, July 31.)

[Aug. 1767.]

878. On Walpole's intended visit to Paris, the present for Madame Roland, the pedantry of Lord Lyttelton's book, &c.—Greatworth.

[1767.]

879. Oct. 8.—Announcing Montagu's good fortune in being appointed private Secretary to Lord North, Chancellor of the Exchequer.—Greatworth.

[1767?]

880. Oct. 15.—Montagu complains "I have now the gout knocking at my foot, begging entrance. I will admit below stairs with all by heart, but he has got into my study and tumbled every thing about there most sadly." Montagu alleges that two or three French ladies [as he had been informed by Madame Roland] had learned English on purpose to read Walpole's works, and asks Walpole to forward a packet to "Mother Osborn."—Greatworth.

[1767.]

881. Nov. 14.—On the contemplated taking of General Trapaud's house near Strawberry Hill by Montagu.—Greatworth.

[1768.]

882. March 14.—On the project of taking a house at West Drayton, the winter at Greatworth &c.—Greatworth.

883. April 14.—Announcing that Montague had taken a house at Adderbury in Oxfordshire, &c.—Greatworth.

[1768?]

884. June 12.—On the bad season, the hope of seeing Walpole at Adderbury, the mode of restoring mildewed pictures, &c.—Adderbury.

[1768.]

885. Aug. 8.—Asking Walpole to mention a time when he could come to Adderbury.—Adderbury.

886. Nov. 5.—Promising to send a cheese, and expressing inability to visit Walpole immediately, &c.—Adderbury.

887. Nov. 12.—Expressing sympathy with Walpole, who had recently had an attack of gout, offering to go to town to him, and describing the amiable character of Montagu's "Ducal neighbours."—Adderbury.

888. [Nov.] 27.—Asking Walpole to look at a lodging at the corner of his street which Montagu thought of taking. (The chief part is printed. Cunningham v., 136, note 1.)—Adderbury.

[December 1768?]

889. A few lines to announce that Montagu expected to arrive on a visit to Walpole shortly after his letter "on Tuesday the fifth."

[1769.]

890. April 11.—Describing Montagu's ailments with some humour. (Printed in full. Cunningham, v. 158, note 1.)—Adderbury.

[May 1769.]

891. Explaining Montagu's silence, and expressing an intention of visiting London, &c.—Adderbury.

[1769.]

892. August.—Thanking Walpole for his letter, lamenting the continued illness of Lord Guilford, &c. (An extract is published. Cunningham, v. 185, note.)—Adderbury.

893. Aug. 27.—Asking Walpole to buy some old fashioned plate in Paris for Montagu, and giving some amusing gossip. (Printed nearly in full. Cunningham, v. 185, note.)—Adderbury.

1769.

894. Sept. 18.—Asking Walpole to bring, if not plate, at least "something home from fair," and to mention Montagu to Madame du Deffand. "I wish I could see her. If anything could make me take a journey to Paris it would be to see her who is all the Paris I should desire to see. Not but I believe I should relish the way of life there, provided I had some thousand pounds to maintain me at my ease. One may batten and grunt in one's own sty at home, and be a hog to oneself, but one has no right to be a beast abroad. I envy you to convey yourself to any part of the globe, and be wound off and manufactured for the use and pleasure of all who know how valuable you are." Montagu complains of "our well-bred newspapers who have the power of life or death, and use it most unmercifully. I have been shedding unnecessary tears for the sudden departure of the great Halihulco" [Halifax?]. He had had "a houseful of school boys—Sir George Osborn, Col. Burgoyne, Capt. Boscawen, young Osborn, a parson of theirs,

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"and one of their squires. . . . The boys have brought me to youth again, and I can talk blackguard with the greatest Buck in a cockade. I shall be awkward at morning and evening prayer when I get amongst my good ones. . . . The boys found your tragedy of the Mysterious Mother, and, boys as they are, they had no patience till they finished it, and we read the acts amongst us, for my lungs could not Pritchard it through. They left off quinze gambling, and claret, and were the Florians of your play. The churchman indeed looked grave, but they threw him his ten commandments and bottle of port, and amused themselves without." (An extract is printed, not quite correctly, by Cunningham, v., 196, note.)

[1769?]

895. Friday, Oct. 6.—Mentioning an intention of visiting Strawberry, and a report that the Duke of Cumberland was dead.—Frogmore.

[1769.]

896. [Oct.] 22.—Thanking Walpole for his description of St. Cyr, &c. Montagu had heard "an admirable account of young Lord Malpas," Walpole's nephew. In a postscript he thanks Walpole for a present, &c.—Adderbury.

897. Dec.—Mentioning the loss of "a very valuable friend" [Miss Trevor], the pleasant society at the "Little Graces," the "Bentleyisms" in the prologue and epilogue of [Cumberland's The Brothers], &c. (Extracts are printed by Cunningham, v., 206, notes 1 and 2.)—Adderbury.

[1770.]

898. March 27.—Announcing that Montagu had procured a print of Alderman Backwell for Walpole.—Adderbury.

899. June 18.—Suggesting that Walpole should visit Montagu's sister Wetenhall on his way to "the domain and castle at Cholmondeley," and describing a visit to the grounds of Blenheim, where Montagu saw Lord Hardwick: "I could not finish my course in a scarlet gown as his lordship did—and why I cannot comprehend—I mean the High Steward of Cambridge playing such a part at Oxford. The whole Park was covered with his coaches-and-six, and landaus and retinue. I thought it was the Emperor incog. or Mr. Alderman Townshend with the County at his heels." . . . "I am rejoiced," adds Montagu, "to hear you are about your last volume of Painters. When you set about anything you perform it as soon as it is begun. Parson Stanton, of Eton, would give a man to the second lesson and beat him hollow." (A few words relating to Lord Guilford are printed in Cunningham, v., 240.) On the back, written in pencil by Walpole, is the following draft:—

"With a beautiful frown on her brow, T'other day, in a pet, said the Venus of Stowe,
To the rest of the gods,
What a fuss is there made with that arch just erected;
Now our temples are slighted, our altars neglected;
Since that nymph has appeared we are noticed no more;
All throng to her arch, all her presence adore."
—Adderbury.

[1770.]

900. [July] 17.—On the reversion of Walpole's place, with Lord Guilford's thanks sent through Montagu to Walpole, "for timely information." (Printed. Cunningham, v., 251, note 2.)—Adderbury.

901. Oct. 2.—Containing the following sentence:—"I go to Waldershare for about six months, and then come to town for the winter," (for Walpole's remarks on which, see Cunningham, v., 357.)—London.

902. Oct. 6.—Describing Waldershare: "I have never yet seen the sea, though I have been every day to reconnoitre it. 'Tis not so big as my hand, and my eyes are not so intelligent as to find it out, though others vow it is at the end of my nose." (Another portion of the letter is printed. Cunningham, v., 262, note 1.)—Waldershare.

REIGN OF GEORGE III. (Various.)

1762.

903. May 23.—Memorandum that George, Duke of Manchester, took the oaths (before the King in Council), upon appointment to be Lord Lieutenant of the county of Huntingdon.—St. James's.

1769.

904. List of ships in the navy of Spain.

1770.

905. List of ships headed "the navy of France at Brest."

1774.

906. List of ships in the navy of Sweden.

907. List of ships in the navy of Russia.

1778.

908. Feb. 6.—Copy of Treaties between France and the thirteen United States of America, published by order of Congress. (Printed at Philadelphia, and reprinted in 1782, in London, pp. 40.)

[March 1778?]

908a. "Remarks on the List of Ships bought for the Government" tending to show that the price paid was excessive.

908b. The "price of building the King's ships" compared with the price in 1685.

908c. Statement of the cost of building new ships of war, showing that it would have been cheaper to burn the whole fleet and rebuild every ten years, than to repair at the rate voted by Parliament.

908d.—Printed comments on the Navy Estimates and Accounts from 1727 to 1776, with charges of waste and corruption.

March 10, 1778, to December 21, 1779.

909.—A note-book marked at one end "Intelligence," and at the other "Letters." It is chiefly a diary from March 10th, 1778 to December 21, 1779. The various important movements of the British and hostile fleets during this critical period are recorded together with other current events, and notes of information received chiefly from France. There are some copies of letters which indicate a secret correspondence. In one of them signed Fidelio and dated Passy, Sept. 4, 1778, there is a request for payment in the following terms: "Services of so important a nature as those we are engaged in have been ever highly rewarded. The late Lord Chatham, when Mr. Pitt, gave 10,000*l.* for the simple article of intelligence 'The Family Compact,' and I do not see, because we act upon principles of honour and do our duty beforehand, why we should be the less considered." The book contains 130 pages, nearly all of which are filled.

1779.

910. Oct. 6.—Unsigned, undirected, and incomplete letter [from F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester?], giving some particulars of the movements of the French and combined fleets.—Paris.

911. Oct. 24.—[J. Blankett (?) to the Duke of Manchester?], giving various particulars relating to the Dutch colonists at the Cape, their dissatisfaction with the conduct of "the Company," the probability that they would willingly accept English rule, and the value of the Cape as an entrepôt between Europe and India. (4 pages; the end wanting.)—Cape of Good Hope.

912. Dec. 3.—Statement of the stations of the French fleet on foreign service.

1780.

913. Feb. 22.—J. Blankett to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning the spirit of revolt among the Dutch colonists at the Cape, explaining how the Dutch obtained a footing in Ceylon, on pretence of driving out the Portuguese, and how the English might obtain possession of the island on pretence of driving out the Dutch, and asserting that a British fleet of unnecessary magnitude was stationed at Ceylon "to please the Nabob and to enrich individuals."—Trincomalee, Island of Ceylon.

914. Feb. 23.—J. Blankett to [the Duke of Manchester?], giving particulars of the first settlement, government, progress, and existing condition of the Dutch colony at the Cape of Good Hope. The colonists openly threatened revolt. "They only wanted the protection of a maritime power, and looked earnestly to England for the advantages they flattered themselves they would enjoy by a freer commerce."—Trincomalee, Island of Ceylon.

915. June 2.—Undirected letter from Admiral Rodney, asking why no succours had arrived, and announcing that he intended to block up the French fleet in Port

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
TER.

Royal Harbour, and that he hoped to meet the Spanish fleet.—Barbadoes.

916. June 23.—Undirected letter signed "H.F.," describing the English fleet as being hopelessly outnumbered by the Spanish in the West Indies.—St. Lucia.

917. Sept. 30.—F. Taylor to [the Duke of Manchester], giving the "news in town" especially of the British disasters and unfortunate position in America. Notwithstanding all the bad news the Ministers were "gone to the country—Nero fiddling" while Rome is burning.—London.

1781.

918. Feb. 12.—F. Taylor to [the Duke of Manchester], criticising the naval tactics of Admiral Darby.—London.

919. Sept. 15.—F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning some naval movements, and adding "yesterday Lord George Gordon was at the levée to deliver his book, but the King would not receive it. That genius will stir up something or other very disagreeable if not prevented."—Norton Street.

920. Oct. 30.—F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester, on the ships destined for Jamaica, and the prospect of British naval disasters in addition to the reverses on land in America.—Norton Street.

[End of 1781?]

921. Statement of French naval movements, with a list of ships which had sailed with Guichon for the West Indies.

July 1779 to Jan. 8, 1782.

922. A volume containing transcripts of statements (furnished apparently by spies or political agents in France), respecting the strength and movements of the French ships of war. In some cases the information is set forth in a tabular form and appended to a letter. The number of distinct communications is 49, six of which are not bound with the rest, but loose, and are placed between the cover and the first page. (Though the information conveyed agrees for the most part, as far as it goes, with that of the "Advices and Intelligences" in the "State Papers, France," (in the Public Record Office) vol. 556, A.D. 1781, it seems to have been supplied from a different source.)

[1782.]

923. Copy of a Petition from Nicolas Alexiano, a Greek, late Captain of the Port at Mahon, to the Duc de Crillon for restitution of goods, and of an Order of the Duc de Crillon for enquiry to be made.

1782.

924. Feb. 17.—Copy of a translation of the Report of the Assessor upon an enquiry into the case of Capt. Alexiano, with the decision of the Duc de Crillon that he had no power to dispose of property that had become the right of the army under his command by the terms of the capitulation.

925. March 31.—The Marquis of Rockingham to the Duke of Manchester, to inform him that he would have the Lord Chamberlain's office, and that the Duke of Portland would "go to Ireland."—Grosvenor Square.

926. April 2.—The Marquis of Rockingham, to the Duke of Manchester, recommending the latter to attend the Levée as successor to Lord Hertford, though it was not certain whether the latter had yet been "regularly apprised" of his dismissal.—Grosvenor Square.

927. April 3.—The Marquis of Rockingham to the Duke of Manchester, on a temporary delay in the contemplated appointments.—Grosvenor Square.

928. April 7.—The Marquis of Rockingham to the Duke of Manchester, on the formalities of Lord Hertford's dismissal, and the Duke's succession to his office. Endorsed "you'll return this as soon as you have read it."—Grosvenor Square.

929. April 8.—The Marquis of Rockingham to the Duke of Manchester, on the formalities of Lord Hertford's dismissal, and the Duke's succession to his office.—Grosvenor Square.

930. May 1.—C. J. Fox, to "the Honourable Mr. Thomas Walpole." "I am commanded by His Majesty to give you authority to receive from the French ministry the claims properly certified of the French subjects whose effects were taken on shore at the capture of St. Eustatia, in order that all com"plaints upon this subject may be finally settled in a manner agreeable to those principles of justice and equity which His Majesty always wishes to observe upon all occasions, not excepting those where the subjects of a Prince with whom he is at war may be principally concerned. It is His Majesty's pleasure that you, sir, should transmit an account of these claims to me, with whom you are to correspond upon this business, with such observations as you shall think fit, and as may tend to elucidate the matter in question."—St. James's.

931. May 3.—Charles Montagu to [the Duke of Manchester?], mentioning the defeat of the French fleet by Sir G. Rodney, and expressing a hope that the writer would obtain a separate command if it was true, as reported, that "the Duke of Grafton, Rockingham, and Shelburne party were come into power."—Jamaica, Stoney Hill Barracks.

932. May 18.—Note of the victory obtained by Sir George Rodney, on April 12th, over the French fleet under the Comte de Grasse.—Admiralty.

933. May 26.—The Earl of Sandwich to [the Duke of Manchester], on names to be included in the Commission of the Peace for the County of Huntingdon.—Hertford Street.

934. June 11.—The Marquis of Rockingham to the Duke of Manchester, to tell him that he need not put himself to inconvenience to attend the House of Lords that day, &c.—Grosvenor Square.

935. June 27.—Undirected letter from Richard Foxall, giving an account of the French forces at Martinique, and in the West Indies generally, and making some suggestions on the best means of improving the English position there.

936. July 3.—The Earl of Sandwich to the Duke of Manchester, suggesting that William Thornton Astell, Esquire, should be included in the Commission of the Peace for Huntingdonshire.—Hertford Street.

937. July 28.—Unsigned letter (according to the endorsement from Mr. Walpole to Mr. Secretary Townshend), on the settlement of the claims of French subjects "whose effects were taken on shore at the capture of St. Eustatia." It is stated at the foot, that "this letter was addressed to Mr. Townshend by mistake, and was sent to Lord Grantham."—Paris.

938. Nov. 15.—Eccles Nixon to [the Duke of Manchester?], giving a not very hopeful account of the military situation in India.—Trichinopoly.

939. Nov. 15.—Copy of the reply of M. de Vergennes to the Memoir of the court of London, dated 21 October 1782. It contains the French proposals of Preliminary Articles of peace, 17 in number. (In French. This reply is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 558.)—Versailles.

940. Nov. 15.—Copy of the Observations of M. de Vergennes on the project of Preliminary Articles proposed to the Court of London on Nov. 15, 1782. (In French. These observations are in the "State Papers, France," vol. 558.)—Versailles.

941. Nov. 30.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], on American affairs, the objections of Spain to the terms of the proposed peace, French naval movements, &c.—Paris.

942. Nov. 30.—Copy of Provisional Articles (9 in number), signed at Paris by the Commissioner of his Britannic Majesty, and the Commissioners of the United States of America. (Printed. pp. 4.)—Paris.

943. Nov. 30.—Another copy of the same Provisional Articles, printed in London. (pp. 8.)

944. Dec. 26.—Copy of a Memorandum on the subject of Dominica signed by M. de Vergennes, and previously (Dec. 24) submitted to the French King in Council in consequence of a letter from M. Bayneval, dated Dec. 20, and the statements made by Mr. Fitzherbert at a conference with M. de Vergennes on the 23rd Dec. The necessity of Dominica being entirely in the hands of the French is firmly insisted upon, and complaint is made of delay on the part of the British Government in replying to French despatches and in the negotiations with Holland. (In French. The Memorandum is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 558.)—Versailles.

945. Dec. 26.—Copy of a letter from M. [Lord] Grantham to the Spanish Ambassador, explaining that English public opinion would not be satisfied with the settlement of points in dispute with respect to wood-cutting, suggested on behalf of Spain, but expressing a desire for an arrangement agreeable to both sides, and proposing alternatives. (In French. 7 pages. There is another copy of this letter in the "State Papers, France," vol. 557. It is there endorsed "Draft to the Comte

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
TER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
PER.

d'Aranda," but without the name of the writer.) — Whitehall.

[About 1782?]

945a. "A list of His Majesty's Regalia in the Tower " under the charge and care of Geo. Hoare, Esq., " followed by a list of plate in the possession of the Earl of Darlington, " which his Lordship took for his use when " he was Master of His Majesty's Jewel Office."

N.B.—There are various copies of the following drafts (Nos. 946-955) relating to the Preliminary Treaties with France, Spain, and Holland, and observations upon them in the "State Papers, France," vol. 560.

[End of 1782 or beginning of 1783].

946. Draft of articles 3 and 5 of the projected Treaty of Great Britain with Spain. Articles 3 and 4 of the accepted Preliminary Articles agree, in part, with this draft.

[Jan. 1783?]

946a. Project of four Preliminary Articles between Great Britain and the States General of the United Provinces, the most important of which (No. 2) provides for the cession of Negapatnam to Great Britain. (In French. Endorsed "in Mr. Fitzherbert's No. 7.") 1783.

947. Jan. 20.—Copy of Preliminary Articles of Peace (11 in number) between Great Britain and Spain, signed at Versailles. (In French. Printed. pp. 3.)—Versailles.

948. Jan. 20.—Another copy of the same Preliminary Articles, printed in London. (In French and English. pp. 10.)

949. Jan. 20.—Copy of Preliminary Articles of Peace (23 in number) between Great Britain and France. (In French. Printed. pp. 5.)—Versailles.

950. Jan. 20.—Another copy of the same Preliminary Articles, printed in London. (In French and English. pp. 14.)

951. Jan. 20.—A copy of No. 946 and a copy of No. 948 sewn together.

952. Draft of the Preamble and first six articles of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with France. (In French.)

953. Draft of Preliminary Articles of Peace with France, containing numerous corrections and observations [made by Alleyne Fitzherbert?], and some matter not in the printed copy. (In French. pp. 9.)

954. Draft of Preliminary Articles of Peace with France corrected so as to agree with those actually adopted. (In French. pp. 20.)

955. "Authentic copies of the Preliminary Articles of " Peace between " England and France, Spain, and the United States of America, signed at Versailles. (Printed in London. pp. 32.)

955a. Draft of note [of Alleyne Fitzherbert?] touching on various points of the projected Treaty of Peace between France and England. (In French. This is a portion only of a note of which the whole is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 560.)

November 1782 to March 1783.

955b. Rough notes with references to documents relating to negotiations as affecting France, Spain, &c.

1783.

956. April 11.—"Mr. Fox presents his compliments to the Duke of Manchester, and has the honour of informing him that Mr. Maddison is appointed Secretary to the Embassy at Paris.

Mr. Fox thinks there can be no objection to Mr. Maddison's kissing the King's hand to-day, and understands that he will immediately pay his respects to his Grace."—St. James's.

[April 1783.]

957. C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].
"My Dear Lord,

"I am quite ashamed of not having written to you last night as I promised, but I was kept so long at the House of Commons that it put it out of my recollection.

"I cannot learn anything about the King's going out of town; so that with respect to your audience of leave I have no information to give you. With respect to your time of going next week, all I can tell you is that our project for a Definitive Treaty will go over before the end of this, and I suppose you would wish to go soon after it."

1783.

958. April 23.—Instructions, under the Sign Manual of George III., to the Duke of Manchester, upon his appointment as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the King of France. (12 pages. There is a copy in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561.)—St. James's.

[1783.]

959. Project of Definitive Treaty between the King of France and the King of Great Britain delivered by M. de Rayneval, and taken "ad referendum." (In French. pp. 7. There is a copy of this Project in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563.)—St. James's.

960. Another copy of the same.

961. "Particulars in the Warrant of Allowances of State and Chapel Furniture to the Duke of Manchester, Ambassador to France."—St. James's.

N.B.—The last four documents are enclosed in a sheet of paper bearing this description:—"The Duke of Manchester's Credentials, together with three Projects and a despatch referred to in the Instructions.

[April 23 1783.]

962. List of papers delivered to the Duke of Manchester with his Instructions. (There is another copy in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561.)

[1783?]

963. Undated. Draft of invitation to the Imperial Court to participate in the final conclusion of Peace, as the Preliminaries had already been agreed upon. (In French. There are, on the back, some rough notes perhaps written by Alleyne Fitzherbert.)

1783.

964. May 2.—Thomas Walpole to the Duke of Manchester, giving particulars of the French lottery loan of 24 millions of livres.—[Paris?]

[May 3 1783].

964a. Draft of a letter [from Alleyne Fitzherbert to Mr. Fox] marked No. 45, acknowledging the receipt of despatches Nos. 48 and 49 [from Mr. Fox] with enclosed "sketches for "definitive treaties with France and Spain," and giving the general result of his conversations with M. de Vergennes on the subject of the proposed Treaty with France. (pp. 15. There is a copy of the same letter in No. 1220, where the date is given, as well as in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563.)—Paris.

[1783].

964b. May [3].—Draft of a letter [from Alleyne Fitzherbert to Mr. Fox], giving an account of what had passed between himself and the Spanish Ambassador respecting the Definitive Treaty with the Court of Madrid. (Marked No. 46 and referring to despatch No. 48 [from Mr. Fox]. pp. 7. There is a copy of the same letter in No. 1220, where the date is given, as well as in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563.)—Paris.

1783.

965. May 3.—Alleyne Fitzherbert to the Right Hon. C. J. Fox, to the effect that he had communicated to M. de Vergennes the orders for the restitution to France of St. Pierre and Miquelon, &c. (Marked No. 47 and referring to letter No. 50 from Mr. Secretary Fox. There is a copy of the same letter in No. 1220, as well as in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563, where the date given is May 4th.)—Paris.

[1783?]

965a. Undated.—Statement concerning the ship "La Rose," taken by a Dutch privateer called the "Zeelust," on the 12th Sept. 1782. British subjects with a passport from the King of France had embarked on board it after the capture of the Isle of Montserrat by the French, and the English Court desired the good offices of the French Court for the indemnification of British subjects. (In French. Apparently written by Alleyne Fitzherbert.)

1783.

966. May 3.—Copy of a letter from [the Duke of Manchester] to the Comte de Vergennes, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to ask on what day the King of

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.
PER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

France would grant him audience as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary. (In French).—Paris.

967. May 3.—M. de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], making an appointment for audience of the King of France. (In French).—Versailles.

968. May 3.—M. de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], acknowledging the announcement of the death of Octavius, youngest son of George III. (In French).—Versailles.

969. May 7.—Copy of a letter (in French) from the Duke of Manchester to M. le Comte de Vergennes, transmitting the two following enclosures.—Paris.

970. April 29.—(1.) Copy of a letter from Lord North to the Lords of the Admiralty, signifying the King's pleasure that Rear-Admiral Campbell should be instructed to restore the islands of St. Pierre, and Miquelon to the French, and put French subjects in possession of the fisheries on the coast of Newfoundland allotted to them by the 3rd and 4th articles of the Preliminaries signed on the preceding 20th Jan. at Versailles. (There is another copy in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563).—Whitehall.

971. April 30.—(2.) Copy of a letter from Lord North to "Lieut.-Governor Fall of the Island of Jersey," instructing him to enquire into the alleged sailing of three privateers from Jersey after signature of the Preliminaries of Peace, and to afford the most ample relief to any French subjects who might be brought into port in captured ships (There is another copy in the "State Papers," France, vol. 563).—Whitehall.

972. May 13.—M. le Comte d'Aranda to the Duke of Manchester, on the death of Prince Octavius. (In French).—Paris.

973. May 13.—Viscount Torrington to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on his appointment as Ambassador to the Court of France.—Brussels.

974. May 15.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

Private.
"I do assure you, my dear Lord, that no opportunity shall escape me of forwarding your Grace's wishes with respect to Lord Charles Montagu, but whether any such opportunity will immediately offer itself I much question.

"With respect to the other point upon which your Grace touches, of the expenses attending your situation, I have already more than once spoken to the Duke of Portland upon it, and nothing but the particular situation in which we stand with respect to the Civil List can cause a moment's doubt upon it in my mind; and you may depend upon my utmost exertions to have it settled according to your Grace's suggestions, not only out of good will for your Grace, but from a thorough conviction that the public service requires it."—St. James's.

975. May 15.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Secret and Confidential."

"My dear Lord,

"I have directed Mr. Hartley to hold upon all occasions the most confidential intercourse with your Grace, and you will, therefore, perceive that he has either mistaken or been inadvertent to my instructions upon most material point, when you read my dispatch to him of this date. I own I rely very much upon your rudeness to prevent him for the future from going so very fast; for I can attribute to nothing but hurry the very strange error he has committed in this instance. If he lets himself be taken in by Franklin, he will disgrace both himself and us, especially after all that some of us have said upon Oswald's negotiation. I need not say that this is written to your Grace in the most perfect confidence, and that I reply upon your goodness to make use of it in such a manner as not to give pain to Hartley for whom I have a very great regard."—St. James's.

976. May 15.—The Duke of Portland to the Duke of Manchester.

My dear Lord,

"I am to return your Grace my best thanks for the very early attention you were so good as to give to the wish I troubled you with, at your departure, respecting the sum and the terms on which it was borrowed from the French Court, and I shall think myself much obliged to you if, at your leisure, you would take the trouble of explaining to me how so small a loan could be sufficient, and, being so trifling, what could be the reason for giving so large a price for it. Might I also beg your Grace to let me know what premium the French Court bear, and whether there is any great quantity of unfunded debt for which provision must be made.

"By your Grace's letters of the 10th and 11th, which I had the honour of receiving from you yesterday, I find our ideas with regard to the expenses attending your situation fully justified and confirmed, and I am only sorry to say that the state of the Civil List in no degree corresponds with the expectations we were encouraged to entertain of a considerable appropriation to that article. It should seem that the persons who have appropriated the different heads of expenditure were influenced by the same fatal policy that has contributed in a great measure to the deplorable situation to which this country is reduced, and that they imagined Foreign Negotiations to be as useless as Foreign Alliances, for they have allotted no more than 4,500*l.* in aid of the present appointments for Foreign Ministers, and have totally forgot that such a personage is necessary at the Hague. Your Grace may, however, depend upon my best and earliest endeavours to make your situation suitable to the very reasonable and just wishes you express, and that in conjunction with Mr. Fox. I shall hope to find out the means of putting the employment you have been so kind as to undertake upon such a footing as may no longer render it an object of terror to persons whose fortunes do not keep pace with their abilities.

"Your Grace's wishes for Mr. Matthew will certainly dispose me to give every facility to his attainment of the object he has so much at heart, but my situation will not allow me to take any part in it but through the medium of the Lord Lieutenant, who ought always to be considered as the sole channel of favour by the gentlemen on the other side of the water. I cannot therefore empower your Grace to say so much from me now to Mr. Mathew as I should have ventured to have done during the time of administration in Ireland, where I must, however, assure you that my memory will not furnish me with the recollection of any circumstance that should have induced Mr. Matthew to relinquish any view he might have formed of representing the county of Tipperary in the ensuing Parliament, and the manner in which I conceive this matter might have been not partially stated would be this, that Mr. M., upon finding his interest not so good as heretofore in this county, more readily gave way to this inclination for the peerage in which he had indulged himself, and was not unwilling to construe any civility from the Lord Lieutenant as an assurance of the accomplishment of his favourite object. However, as I by no means think Mr. M. an improper candidate for the honour he solicits, I would wish your Grace to say that if the Lord Lieutenant to whom, and to whom only, his application should be addressed, is disposed to recommend him to His Majesty, I shall be the last man to give it any opposition, and shall even be very well disposed to co-operate in giving it effect."—London.

977. May 17.—D. G. Jacmar to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.—Turin.

[May 1783.]

978. H. Elliot to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.

1783.

979. May 17.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, enclosing a note respecting the merchant ship "Hereford," from Cork, which had been compelled by stress of weather to put into the port of Nantes, and had been there detained by the authorities. (In French).—Paris.

980. Copy of the note above mentioned. (In French).

[May 1783?]

981. Copy of a formal note sent by the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, touching the English ship "The Merlin," taken by the privateer "La Sophie," of Dunkirk. (In French.)

1783.

982. May 18.—Louis Braun (His Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires in Switzerland) to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France. (In French).—Berne.

983. May 19.—Ralph Heathcote to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.—Bonn.

984. May 21.—Sir Robert Murray Keith to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.—Vienna.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

985. May 21.—John Milliquit (in the absence of Mr. Eden) to the Duke of Manchester, upon the Duke's appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.—Dresden.

986. May 23.—Emanuel Mathias to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.—Hamburg.

987. May 24.—Viscount Torrington to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that he had had his first audience as Minister Plenipotentiary in the Austrian Netherlands.—Brussels.

988. May 25.—M. le Marquis de Castries to the English Ambassador, informing him of the release of the British ship "Hereford," which had been compelled by stress of weather and want of provisions to enter the Loire in the previous February. (In French).—Versailles.

989. May 26.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, requesting that the order for the release of the "Hereford," not enclosed in the letter from the Marquis, might be sent to the Duke. (In French).—Paris.

990. May 27.—M. le Marquis de Castries to the Duke of Manchester, to the effect that orders had been sent to the Judges of the French Admiralty for the release of the English ship "Hereford," to which there would be no obstacle. (In French).—Paris.

991. May 28.—Sir Robert Murray Keith to the Duke of Manchester, on the imminence of war between Russia and Turkey, and the doubtful attitude of Austria. (Partly in cipher deciphered).—Vienna.

992. May 29.—John Strange to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating his Grace upon the appointment as Ambassador to the Court of France, mentioning the death and embalming of his own wife, &c.—Venice.

993. May 30.—Thomas Wroughton to [the Duke of Manchester], congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the French Court, and informing him (in cipher deciphered) that the journey of the King of Sweden into Finland, on pretence of reviewing a camp there, would really be made with the object of having an interview with the Empress of Russia, who wished to detach that king from French connexion. It is added in a postscript that the Prince Royal of Sweden had been inoculated "unknown to the Queen."—Stockholm.

994. May 30.—Horace Mann to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon his appointment as Ambassador at the French Court, and mentioning the interest taken by the Grand Duke [of Tuscany] in ecclesiastical affairs, the expected arrival of a Russian squadron at Leghorn, &c.—Florence.

[1783.]

995. Short rough notes on various matters of policy.

1783.

996. May.—Notes of a Project of a Treaty with Holland delivered to the Dutch Minister by the Duke of Manchester.

N.B.—Other copies of the last mentioned and following Projects and Drafts of Treaties, and Articles of Treaties exist in the "State Papers, France," vol. 560 et seq:

Various dates, 1783.

997. A sheet of paper endorsed "Projet de Traité Definitif avec la France," and enclosing Nos. 998 to 1007.

998. The Preamble, in draft, of the Definitive Treaty with France, marked in pencil as "sent to Mr. Fox in Mr. Fitzherbert's No. 45." (In French.)

999. An imperfect commencement of the same Preamble. (In French.)

1000. Draft of Article 5 of the same Treaty, with corrections in pencil. (In French.)

1001. Draft of Article 7 of the same Treaty, marked as "received from Mr. Fitzherbert, 4th May 1783." (In French.)

1002. Another draft of Article 7, with corrections, marked June 16. (In French.)

1003. Draft of Article 9 of the same Treaty. (In French.)

1004. Draft of Article 13 of the same Treaty. (In French.)

1005. Draft of Article 16 of the same Treaty, with note in pencil "Art. 16 enclosed in M. de V.'s letter of May 31st is substituted in room of this." (In French.)

1006. Draft of Article 18 of the same Treaty with the note, "France has proposed another 18th article." (In French.)

1007. Copy of "an Additional Article proposed by France," relating to prizes and seizures made before the rupture. See Article 21 of the actual Treaty. (In French.)

1008. Draft of the Preamble of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1009. Draft of Article 1 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1010. Draft of Article 2 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1011. Another draft of Article 2 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1012. Draft of Article 3 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1013. Another draft of Article 3 of the Definitive Treaty with France, marked in pencil "comme dans le traité de Paris." (In French.)

1014. Draft of Article 4 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1015. Draft of Article 5 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1016. Draft of Article 6 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1017. Draft of Article 7 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1818. Another draft of Article 7 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1019. Draft of Article 8 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1020. Draft of Article 9 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1021. Draft of Article 10 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1022. Draft of Article 11 of the Definitive Treaty with France, with corrections. (In French.)

1023. Draft of Article 12 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1024. Draft of Article 13 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1025. Draft of Article 14 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1026. Draft of Article 15 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1027. Draft of Article 16 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1028. Another draft of Article 16 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1029. Draft of Article 17 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1030. Draft of Article 18 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1031. Draft of Article 19 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1032. Draft of Article 20 of the Definitive Treaty with France, a passage of some length being struck out. (In French.)

1033. Draft of Article 21 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1034. Draft of Article 22 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1035. Draft of Article 23 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1036. Draft of Article 24 of the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1037. Draft of the "Separate Articles" (two in number) of the Definitive Treaty with France. Marked in pencil "comme dans le traité de Paris." (In French.)

1038. Draft of the Separate Article No. 2, as it appears in the Definitive Treaties, both with France and Spain. In two places, however, the word "traité" has been struck out, and the words "Articles Préliminaires" substituted. (In French. Endorsed "Holland.")

1039. Draft of four Separate Articles apparently intended for the Definitive Treaty with France, but not adopted. (In French.)

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

1040. Draft of the first three paragraphs of the Declaration appended to the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1041. Draft of the commencement of the Declaration appended to the Definitive Treaty with France, marked as having been "sent by Lord Grantham to Mr. Fitzherbert, January 10, 1783." (In French.)

1042. Draft of the Declaration appended to the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1043. Draft of the French Counter-Declaration appended to the Definitive Treaty with France. (In French.)

1044. Fair draft of the Definitive Treaty with France, the Declaration and Counter-Declaration alone being omitted. (In French. pp. 25.)

1783.

1045. May 31.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, proposing modifications of the 16th article of the Project of Definitive Treaty, and referring to enclosures relative to that article, and others affecting the inhabitants of Grenada. (Copy. In French. This letter and an appended note on the 16th article are in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564.)—Versailles.

1046. May 31.—Lord Dalrymple to [the Duke of Manchester], congratulating him on his appointment as Ambassador to the Court of France. The Russian army in the Ukraine had begun its operations.—Warsaw.

1047. May 31.—Sir John Stepney to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France. The conclusion (in cipher, deciphered) is on the design of Russia and Austria to encroach upon the Turkish Empire, and on the importance of narrowly observing the attitude of France and Prussia in their relations to the aggressors and defenders.—Berlin.

[About May 1783.]

1048. Draft of the Preamble of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French. Incomplete.)

1049. Draft of Article 1 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1050. Draft of Article 4 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1051. Draft of Article 5 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1052. Draft of Article 6 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain, with various corrections. (In French. Endorsed "Honduras.")

1053. Another draft of Article 6 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French. Two sheets of paper.)

1054. Draft of Article 7 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1055. Draft of Article 8 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1056. Draft of Article 9 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1057. Another draft (somewhat different in form) of Article 9 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1058. Draft of Article 10 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1059. Draft of Article 11 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1060. Draft of a projected Article 11 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain, relating to the raising of the blockade of Gibraltar. A pen has been run through it. (In French.)

1061. Draft of Article 12 of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1062. Draft of the two Separate Articles of the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1063. Draft of the Spanish Counter-Declaration appended to the Definitive Treaty with Spain. (In French.)

1064. "Fair draft" of the Definitive Treaty with Spain, the Declaration and Counter-Declaration alone being omitted. (In French, pp. 18.)

1065. Draft of the Preamble of the Preliminary Articles of Peace between Great Britain and the Netherlands. (In French.)

1066. Draft of Article 1 of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1067. Draft of a projected Article 2, apparently of Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands (referring to the Treaty of Westminster, 9 Feb. 1673-4) which was not adopted. (In French.)

1068. Draft of a projected Article 3, apparently of Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands, which was not adopted. It refers to commerce, and there is a note appended that a separate Treaty of Commerce would be preferable. (In French.)

1069. Draft of Article 4 (Art. 3 in printed copy) of Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1070. Draft of Articles 5 (imperfect) and 6 (Articles 4 and 6 in the printed copy) of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1071. Draft of an Article numbered 6 and 7 (No. 5 in printed copy) of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1072. Draft of Article 8 of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1073. Draft of Article 9 of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1074. Draft of Article 10 of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1075. Draft of Article 11 of the Preliminary Articles of Peace with the Netherlands. (In French.)

1076. Project of Preliminary Articles of Peace (9 in number) between Great Britain and the Netherlands. (In French. pp. 8.)

1077. Draft of Preliminary Articles of Peace (11 in number) between Great Britain and the Netherlands. (In French. pp. 11.)

1783.

1078. June 1.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, asking for certain information that the expected orders had been given respecting wood, of which the French colonists of St. Pierre and Miquelon were in urgent need. (In French.)—Versailles.

1079. June 2.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, mentioning enclosure of papers from Mr. Fox, to show that orders had been duly given for the cessation of hostilities. (In French.)—Paris.

1080. June 2.—John Collet to [the Duke of Manchester], on French naval preparations, the Russian mode of colonising the Crimea with families from Genoa, the Spanish preparations against Algiers, &c.—Genoa.

1081. June 3.—Viscount Torrington to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a petition to the Queen of France from Mr. O'Sullivan, who had been excluded from the Order of Malta as being a Roman Catholic British subject.—Brussels.

1082. June 3.—Wm. Mottier (Mr. Walpole's secretary) to the Duke of Manchester, expressing hopes of the success of the latter's Embassy.—Lisbon.

1083. June 4.—D. G. Jacmar to the Duke of Manchester, giving an account of the Sardinian preparations for war in anticipation of a rupture in the East. (In cipher, deciphered.)—Turin.

1084. June 5.—Copy of a letter addressed by the Maréchal de Castries to General Melville, with a copy of the demands of the inhabitants of Tobago, and a copy of the reply made to them by the French Government in parallel columns. (pp. 6. In French.)—Versailles.

1085. May 26. June 6. Sir James Harris to the Duke of Manchester, on the war about to be made by Russia against Turkey and the attitude of the other Powers, and especially of the King of Prussia, who "appeared to be" playing an artful game by cajoling equally England and France." (Partly in cipher, deciphered.)—St. Petersburg.

1086. June 8.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, acknowledging the receipt of papers relating to privateers sailing from Jersey. (In French.)—Versailles.

1087. June 10.—John Strange to the Duke of Manchester, communicating a copy (in Italian) of the three principal articles proposed by the Empress of Russia to the Porte, with particulars (also in Italian) of the pressure brought to bear upon the Porte by the Austrian Ambassador.—Venice.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

1088. June 10.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"I have no time to write any more to your Grace than to assure you that I will not neglect any of the points which you have mentioned in your private letters. The last I have received is one which was brought me yesterday morning by Mr. Young, and which I will answer by the next messenger. Have you received a letter I wrote you by one St. Hilaire, a French officer, who served in America? If you have not, pray enquire secretly if such a man is in Paris. If he is and has not been with you he has cheated me; but I took care to give him such a letter as would not be very mischievous if it were seen. I need not remind your Grace to be very cautious in not answering this letter or any other of the kind by any conveyance but that of a messenger or some person whom you are sure of."

1089. June 11.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Dutch Ambassadors (mentioned, according to the endorsement, in the "Despatch No. 12" to Mr. Fox), announcing that their Project of Treaty had been forwarded to the British Court, and asking them to bring seriously to the notice of their Government the question of a sufficient equivalent for Negapatnam, of which the Dutch desired restitution. (In French.)—Paris.

1090. June 11.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to Messrs. de Berkenroode and de Brantzen (the Dutch Ambassadors), impressing upon them that two points in their propositions would be considered inadmissible by the British Court. (In French.)—Paris.

1091. June 11.—Memorandum respecting the anxiety of the inhabitants of Tobago for the preservation of the high woodlands there, for the attraction of rain and prevention of drought.—Paris.

1092. Undated.—Notes of three Articles relating to Tobago marked "allowed." (The Articles in French. Incorporated in the 7th Article of the Definitive Treaty with France.)

1093. Undated.—Draft of nine Articles relating to Tobago. (In French. Partly incorporated in the 7th Article of the Definitive Treaty with France.)

1094. Undated.—Draft agreement respecting privileges to be enjoyed by the British inhabitants in Tobago and St. Lucia after the cession of those islands to France. (In French. Partly incorporated in the 7th Article of the Definitive Treaty with France.)

1095. June 12.—Copy of a letter from the Dutch Ambassadors to the Duke of Manchester, expressing the hope that their propositions would be further considered by the Duke and his Court, and explaining that, after the sacrifices they had already made, they had nothing further to offer as an equivalent for the restitution of Negapatnam. (In French. The original is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564.)—Paris.

1096. June 14.—C. J. Fox [to the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"I have received your two private letters of the 7th, and am very much obliged to you for them. I cannot yet give you a positive answer, but do assure you that it will make me very happy if I can comply with your wishes. If I can, can you answer for your brother that he will accept the employment?"

"I entirely agree with you in all you say upon the expediency of appointing a Minister to the United States."—St. James's.

1097. June 16.—M. le Comte d'Aranda to the Duke of Manchester, expressing the regret of the King of Spain at the death of Prince Octavius. (In French.)—Paris.

1098. June 19.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, promising the necessary order to the Farmers General for the free admission of the Duchess of Manchester's effects brought from England. (In French.)—Versailles.

1099. June 19.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, requesting the restitution of Turk's Island, in accordance with the spirit of the Preliminary Articles. (In French.)—Paris.

1100. Another copy of the same.

1101. June 20.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, complaining that the orders for the release of the ship "Hersford" had not been sent to Nantes. (In French.)—Paris.

1102. June 22.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosures of a copy of a letter sent by order of the King of France to the Foreign Ambassadors &c. at his court, and of copies of Ordinances, dated July 7, 1782, and Oct. 13, 1782, forbidding servants to carry arms &c., or civilians to assume the military habit, and requesting the Duke to enforce their provisions among the members of his household. (In French. See Nos. 1102, a, b, c, and d.)—Versailles.

1782.

1102a. July 7.—Copy of the Ordinance of the King of France, forbidding servants to bear arms. (In French. Printed.)—Versailles.

1102b. July 7.—Another copy of the same.—Versailles.

1102c. Aug. 7.—Copy of letter written by order of the King of France, to the Ambassadors and Ministers of foreign courts, forbidding servants to carry arms &c. (In French.)—Versailles.

1102d. Oct. 13.—Copy of the Ordinance of the King of France, forbidding civilians to wear epaulettes or other portions of military costume, &c. (In French. Printed.) La Muette.

1783.

1103. June 23.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, on the case of the ship "Merlin" taken as a prize by the French on its voyage from the island of Nevis to Bristol, though it sailed in accordance with the terms of the capitulation of the island, and was furnished with a French passport. (In French.)—Paris.

1104. June 25.—Sir Robert Ainslie to the Duke of Manchester, explaining at length the pacific desires of the Porte, and its relations with Germany, Russia, and Tartary, describing the activity and skill of the Grand Vizier, and giving an account of the increase of the plague, with some items of news from India. (9 pages.)—Constantinople.

1105. June 25.—Lord Dalrymple to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that two Russian corps had, without any previous notification, entered Poland.—Warsaw.

1106. June 26.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, promising full enquiry respecting an insult offered to Mr. Moore, an under-secretary [in the British Embassy?] and the punishment of the offender. (In French.)—Versailles.

1107. June 27.—Copy of a note from the Duke of Manchester to the Spanish Ambassador, to announce that he sent a copy of his Full Powers. (In French.)

1108. June 27.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"My dear Lord,

"I only write this lest you should be surprised at waiting so long for the return of the couriers you have sent me. I have deferred answering your earlier letters till I send the messenger with my answer to your last material despatch. This I expected to do to-day, but unavoidable circumstances prevent my getting a Cabinet Council till Monday, so that I shall hardly be able to send till Monday night or Tuesday. Pray tell Mr. Hartley that he will hear from me at the same time."—St. James's Place.

1109. June 29.—Copy of a certificate from General Murray, late Governor and Vice-Admiral of the island of Minorca, in favour of Captain Alexiano, Captain of the port of Mahon, who had "distinguished himself as a judicious, zealous, and spirited officer."—Beaufort.

[June 1783?]

1110. Copy of a Note in reply to the "Declaration" sent by the Duke of Manchester [to M. de Vergennes?] on the previous 22nd of May. Objection is taken to the use of the words "droits" as applied to the subjects of either power in the projected treaty of peace between France and England, and it is suggested that the words "les privilèges personnelles et les avantages mutuels" would be sufficient. (In French.)

1783.

1111. July 1.—Sir John Stepney to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that Austria did not conceal from France her intention of assisting the Empress of

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

Russia against the Turks. (In cipher deciphered).—Berlin.

1112. July 3.—William Hamilton to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on his appointment as Ambassador at the Court of France.—Dresden.

1113. July 3.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, enclosing a copy of the Observations of the English Post Office upon the propositions made by the French Post Office. (In French.)—Paris.

1114. The "Observations" above referred to. (In French).

1115. Further Observations also enclosed. (In French).

1116. July 3.—Copy of a letter from [the Duke of Manchester] to the Rt. Hon. C. J. Fox.

"Private and Confidential.

"MY DEAR SIR,

"I HOPE by the next courier to receive your final instructions, and to be able to close the negotiation, which, I do not doubt, you will do me the justice to believe has never been neglected nor one moment delayed by me; as far as my talents or my assiduity could reach, everything has been done that could be done by me to serve my Country and my King, and I can on reflection sincerely say I have on this point nothing to reproach myself with. I flatter myself that you and the rest of my friends in the Cabinet will think so; I cannot expect the same good fortune elsewhere, as His Majesty, I find, is not contented with me. In a conversation with Lord Ludlow, I am told, the King asked rather peevishly what I was doing, why I was so slow. You know the reasons, and I hope will justify me; should there be occasion. He expressed likewise a dissatisfaction at my private secretary, who I have every reason to be pleased with and to confide in. He is very diligent and attentive; however, as I never will in an affair so important to the Public have any ground of jealousy that may be in my power to get rid of, I will, as soon as it may be done without giving an offence to a man who does not merit it, remove him from his present employment; but I must feel hurt that His Majesty places so little confidence in me; it is indeed ungracious. The conversation that I allude to was between the King and Lord Ludlow, and therefore must not be quoted, as it may be deemed a private conversation, though certainly not a confidential one. Yet I could not rest contented without stating to you the unpleasant situation in which I am now placed. I received by the last post yesterday your private letter, dated the 27th June."—Paris.

1117. July 5.—M. le Maréchal de Castries to the Duke of Manchester, to the effect that, as the Captain of the ship "Hereford" had not appeared to claim it in accordance with the terms of the order for its release, the matter must be presumed to be at an end. (In French.)—Versailles.

1118. July 6.—Copy of a "letter from 'le Marquis' [Maréchal] de Castries to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that the King of France had ordered the ship "Merlin" with its cargo or the proceeds of their sale to be given up to the owners, but without allowance for damages or interest. (In French. The original is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564).—Versailles.

1119. July 7.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, thanking him for notice of the decision of the case of the ship "Merlin." (In French.)—Paris.

1120.—July 8.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"MY DEAR LORD,

"I HAVE received your Grace's private and confidential letter of the 3rd, which I do not answer by this conveyance for obvious reasons; but thus much I beg leave to say that I shall always be ready to bear testimony that the imputation you allude to is the most unfounded of any I ever heard thrown out, and is so notoriously contradicted by facts that it could only arise from some momentary ill humour. You have a right to my testimony upon all subjects, but upon none more than upon the individual point."—St. James's.

1121. July 9.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Dutch Ambassadors, informing them that the cession of Dutch settlements on the Western coast of Sumatra, together with Surat, &c. could not be accepted by the British Government as an equivalent for the cession of Negapatnam. (In French.)—Paris.

1122. July 11.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, acknowledging receipt of communications touching the postal arrangements between France and England. (In French.)—Versailles.

[July 1783?]

1123. Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester "intended," according to the endorsement, "for the Comte d'Aranda but not delivered." It refers to Honduras and British settlements in that part of the world, and purports to give Mr. Fox's views respecting them. (In French.)

1124. July 12.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Rayneval, expressing regret that the Comte d'Aranda would not accede to contemplated arrangements. (In French.)

1125. July 12.—Messrs. Van Berkenroode and Brantzen (the Dutch Ambassadors) to the Duke of Manchester, recalling to his recollection that they had proposed, at a conference, an equivalent in money, instead of the cession of Negapatnam, and that they had not received an answer upon that point, and suggesting the expediency of frankness on both sides. (In French. There is a copy of this letter in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561.)—Paris.

1126. July 12.—Thomas Walpole to [the Duke of Manchester], mentioning enclosure of copies of letters touching "the business of St. Eustatia," viz., one from Mr. Fox to Mr. Walpole, and one from Mr. Walpole to Lord Grantham.

1127. July 13.—M. le Comte d'Aranda to [the Duke of Manchester], touching a conversation between M. d'Aranda and M. de Rayneval on the interpretation of the 6th Article [of the projected Treaty with Spain]. (In French.)—Paris.

1128. July 13.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. d'Aranda, enclosing an extract from the 6th Article of the project of Treaty, with additional words which he proposed to insert. (In French.)

1129. The enclosure above referred to. (In French.)

1130. July 14.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Dutch Ambassadors, informing them that the English Court considered the offers, made by the Dutch, of equivalents for Negapatnam to be inadmissible, and that the objection distinctly applied to the offer of money no less than to the offer of the Dutch settlements in Western Sumatra and Surat. (In French. There is a copy of this letter in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561.)—Paris.

1131. July 15.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. Tronchin, informing him that a letter which he had mentioned as having been addressed by him to the King of England on the part of the Council of Geneva had not reached the Office of the Secretary of State. (In French.)—Paris.

1132. July 16.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, informing him that the King of England had accorded the desired permission to French fishermen to cut wood in Newfoundland. (In French.)—Paris.

1133. July 17.—Copy of a letter from M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, assuring the latter that the French Court had no wish but that the "Iles Turques" should remain in the same condition, in all respects, as before the war. (In French.)—Versailles.

1134. July 17.—Draft of a letter [from the Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox].

"My Dear Sir,

Mr. Shirley, who is acquainted with one of the Dutch Ministers, informs me that in a conversation he has been sounded to know whether it was probable that England would renew her old alliance if facility offered. Hint France might make pretence to sign without them. I thought this hint worth mentioning and improving. I beg to hear,—"(The draft ends abruptly here).—Paris.

1135. July 18.—Draft of a letter [from the Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox].

"My dear Sir,

"In my private letter sent to you by last dispatch I mentioned that in a private conversation between Mr. Shirley and Messrs. Boerts and Van der Perre, the Dutch gentlemen had expressed great uneasiness at their situation, great jealousy of the French, and a strong desire of reconciliation and alliance with England. As it appears to me that such reconciliation, if properly brought about, might be most important to Great Britain, I thought it worth while to encourage the idea, and to sound how far it was well founded. Mr. Shirley has this morning repeated to me a fresh conversation he has had with the same gentlemen; there are several circumstances attending it which I cannot well relate in a letter; I have, therefore, requested him to wait upon you and to inform you minutely what has passed. When you have considered the matter I beg you to communicate to me His Majesty's disposition on the business. I have at this time held out that England still wishes well to Holland, and that, were that Power not so intimately connected with France, Holland might find us ready to act generously by her. It is certain the Dutch are much disgusted with France, and look upon themselves as sacrificed; they are ready to seize a pretext to return to their old allies, if they can be convinced they may do it with safety. Should the Cabinet judge this matter to be of the importance it strikes me to be, I hope to have some instructions early, as the conduct of the Dutch may probably now be guided very much by the hints they may receive from me."

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

On the same sheet of paper is:—

"2d letter, same date.

"Dear Sir,

"I write this merely to inform you that the Comte de Vergennes is in correspondence with Lord Shelburne, which I think it right you should know; as a proof, he has proposed to Abbé Morlé who is a friend of Lord Shelburne's, and an able intriguing man, to go and visit his Lordship at Spa, and, to induce him to do so, has acquainted him his expenses will be defrayed."—Paris.

1136. July 18.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a copy of the reply of M. de Castries on the subject of hostages detained in France. (In French.)—Versailles.

1137. July 12.—The enclosure above referred to. It explains that the hostages could not be released, as they were held to ransom by French privateers, and the ransom had not been paid. (In French.)—Versailles.

1138. July 19.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Marquis de Castries, calling his attention to the case of Messrs. Jevers and Hill, whose property, taken by the privateer "La Sophie," of Dunkirk, had not yet been restored to them. (In French.)—Paris.

1139. July 19.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, asking for an explanation of the Duke's letter, of the 16th of the same month, touching the right of cutting wood in Newfoundland, which was not disputed in the case of French fishermen, but which was claimed for the French colonists of St. Pierre and Miquelon. (In French.)—Versailles.

1140. July 20.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, informing him that the English Court was willing to give orders that the French colonists of the Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon might be permitted to cut wood in Newfoundland. (In French.)—Paris.

1141. July 20.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester], authorising the Duke to accede to the 6th Article of the contemplated Treaty with Spain, unless the consideration of it could be deferred, and expressing regret that the Duke had not sooner apprised him of its full purport, but general satisfaction with the manner in which the Duke had conducted the negotiations. (Marked "Private." Printed, under the date "July 21," in Lord John Russell's "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox," vol. ii., p. 134.)—St. James's.

[1783?]

1142. July 20.—F. Montagu to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the approval generally accorded to his labours at Paris, lamenting that his "appointments" were insufficient, &c.—Salcey Forest.

1783.

1143. July 22.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of the reply of the French Post Office to the Observations of the English Post Office. (In French.)—Versailles.

1144. July 26.—M. le Maréchal de Castries to the Duke of Manchester, promising restitution of goods taken by the privateer "La Sophie" to Messrs. Jevers and Hill, upon presentation of a proper request to the Admiralty at Dunkirk. (In French.)—Versailles.

1145. July 28.—Statement (from the Spanish point of view apparently) of the negotiations relative chiefly to the 6th article of the contemplated Treaty, as affecting the Mosquito territory. (In French. 6 pages. Headed: "C'est la même note lue par M. le Duc de Manchester, le 28 Juillet 1783.")

[July? 1783].

1146. Draft of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox.

"MY DEAR SIR,

"I HAVE in my public dispatch given you, I believe, a very correct account of my proceedings with the Spanish Ambassador, and must now, partly to justify myself, add a few lines. When I consented to the article No. 6 which was in great measure drawn up by the Comte d'Aranda, I did certainly think myself authorised so to do by your dispatch No. 26, in which you pressed me strongly to agree, and certainly in so doing looked upon one part of the article as equally binding as the other. You must imagine, therefore, it gave me some uneasiness to find myself partly disavowed at home, and d'Aranda did not fail to reproach me with it. However, if any advantage could be promised to the Public by it, I was willing silently to admit this sort of blame. But now having, I think, strained every point to the uttermost, you must give me leave to observe that the whole spirit of the negotiation, from the outset of it, appears to me to support the interpretation of the Spanish Ambassador, though I have never let him know my thoughts. Lord Shelburne early treated the business of the Mosquito shore very lightly; Lord Grantham actually proposes to give it up, in his letter, Dec. 26, to d'Aranda; and Mr. Fitzherbert declares he always understood any settlements there were to be abandoned. Under these circumstances, and the pressing directions you sent me to agree with the Spanish Ambassador, I saw no option but to make the best bargain I could, which I accordingly endeavoured.

"I find, likewise, in Mr. Fitzherbert's dispatch to you No. 46, in which M. d'Aranda's project for the article in question was transmitted, the words partout ailleurs inserted in the article, and in your dispatch to me No. 13 in answer to No. 46, no notice is taken of these words. I must not omit to say that the Comte de Vergennes expressed the strongest alarm when I mentioned the objections which have now arisen, and said, 'if you persist in them vous en aurez encore pour deux ans.' As the matter stands I see no remedy unless by direct application to the Spanish Court, if such measure should be thought advisable. I cannot conclude this business without saying that, however, it may occasion clamour or dissatisfaction, it must rest entirely with the old Administration, and neither His Majesty's present Ministers nor his Ambassadors can be charged with giving the matter up. It was done before, and I shall never dread to meet a Parliamentary enquiry on the topic, or to submit every paper that has gone from me on this business to the strictest examination, as I think I stand upon good ground, and have full proof for what I have advanced. From a gentleman here, a Jamaica proprietor, I heard this day that the few troops (being about 90 in number) the Spaniards left on the Mosquito Shore have been since totally destroyed by some of our settlers, joined with the Indians who had fled into the woods on the Spanish attack, which proves the impossibility of the Spaniards keeping that coast to themselves. Perhaps this fact may not have reached you.

"I beg you to accept my best thanks for your private letter. The business I am upon requires now and then a little encouragement; it is very laborious, and by no means pleasant; if I can give satisfaction, it will then become so. Your letter in cipher concerning Tobago, which I received this evening, shall be answered as soon as possible."—Paris.

1147. Draft of a letter [from the Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox].

"My Dear Sir,

"You may depend upon my trying everything to get rid of the 6th Article, though the known pertinacity of the Spanish Ambassador gives me small hopes of succeeding. The only light I see is through the account of the Spanish expedition to the Mosquito Shore, and the proclamation of Don Galvez; these two put together may, I think, be used as strong arguments to justify the caution of the English Cabinet, as the one shows a resolution to eject all English settlers on the Mosquito shore, and the other may be urged as a proof of the necessity of some explanation of the 6th Article, since the orders of Don Galvez, if strictly executed, must render the cession of the Honduras district of small avail or advantage to the English. This Proclamation of Don Galvez is directly contradictory to what passed between the Ambassador and me in regard to a regulation of internal government or police of the Honduras settlers. Although there is a giving of the sovereignty to Spain, yet the Comte Aranda saw immediately the necessity of some internal police, and said to me, 'You will settle that as you will.' The memorial states that no government will, under the Proclamation, be allowed but that of the Spanish Guarda costas; if this is really the intention of the Court of Spain, the Honduras settlers would certainly be in very precarious circumstances and under a miserable government. Should the Spanish Ambassador say he has no authority to ensure the Honduras settlers from the effects of the Proclamation, I think it may be pressed as a reason for adopting the expedient of putting off the settlement of Honduras, and putting the sense of the Preliminary Article. The Spanish Ambassador always urges that the Treaty we now to sign is with a view to consolidate a perfect peace and friendship between our two countries, and no object of jealousy may be left; this must be retorted upon him. But I am rather staggered by the restlessness our Cabinet shows, and your directions to me to sign as soon as possible. Should what I have said be of weight to you, I wish to hear once more from you before I sign the Treaty; there will be full time for me to return, as, even if we were this moment mutually agreed, it would take some days only to copy the treaties, as fair copies must be made for the signatures of the mediating Powers, exclusive of a decent time to be given to the Dutch Ambassadors. After my effort in my power has been used to prevail upon the Spanish Ambassador to conclude and sign the Treaty without the 6th Article, should I find him not only unable, but likewise, perhaps, violent upon the occasion, I, however reluctantly, withdraw my objections and to him, as your instructions do not justify me to the matter to the risk of a breach. Yet as I will, unable to be done without risk, defer the absolute signing to this 6th Article until I hear from you again, signing I can do it without stopping or delaying the press—"(Draft ends.)—Paris.

DUKE
MANCHESTER.

[1783.]

July 29.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].
 "Dear Lord,
 "I am too much hurried at this moment to write more than to tell you that I believe Mr. Lawrence's sentence to be entirely false. I have no notion of a change being intended before the meeting of Parliament; and when Parliament is met, what happens must determine the situation. I like both Shirley and intelligence very much. I should be glad to hear whether there is any appearance of more than business between M. de Vergennes and the Prussian Minister at present."—St. James's.

1783.

July 31.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to [Mr. Fox.]

"Dear Sir,
 "I have in my public dispatches given you a full account of my last interview with the Comte de Vergennes when his behaviour was certainly such as gave me ground to suspect something new had occurred to him, perhaps, to alter his system. It might possibly be a temporary chagrin, which might arise from public or private measures. But there is a great deal of political intriguing now going on here, and the party of the Comte de Vergennes appear strong; they say he got his employment from his being thought more a man of business than of his competitors, but the Queen's influence over him is very great, and though he seems to accommodate himself very much to her wishes, yet he is not without her party. The promotion of the Baron de Salm does not seem to be to his advantage; he has long been pushed for his being employed, and has not at present any immediate Department, but being attached to the Embassy of Vienna in order to be in the Council as a Minister, there is little doubt he will be soon employed in a conspicuous manner. Another matter may have had weight. Mr. Lawrence, on his return here, industriously spread about, I do not know with what foundation, that our Ministry was going out, and that the lists of the new one were making. The Americans took alarm, and though they profess great belief in the good intentions of yourself and our immediate friends, yet they pretend to doubt whether there may be the same good intentions throughout the Government. As the American Treaty is immediately Mr. Hartley's commission, and he exerts himself with the utmost zeal and industry to bring it to a happy conclusion, I am very delicate of doing anything that may in the least appear to intrench upon him, though I must do him the justice to say he is too open to admit any jealousy. However, I must now speak without disguise and tell you that, in the present humour of the French Court, I see no possibility of bringing the Minister of France to sign until some Convention is ready to be signed with the Americans. It absolutely stops all other Treaties. The French Court have likewise heard a rumour of some negotiation being on foot in London to assist the Russians in case of their war with Turkey. If there is such a thing, I do not wish a communication of it further than it may be useful to His Majesty's affairs at this place. I do not believe Monsieur Morkoff knows anything of it; at least, he asked me a question which marked a different suspicion; that was, whether the French Court had not thrown out insinuations to ours, and made offers that might be prejudicial to Russia. I assured him I knew of none. Some of these incidents, or all together, might perhaps cause the manner of the Comte de Vergennes to appear different to me, and it may pass over; but I am afraid the American business, if not brought to a conclusion, will be a serious difficulty. I must add that I have great reason to believe the Comte de Vergennes has some correspondence that may not at this moment, perhaps, forward our business. A remarkable thing has just happened: the Abbé Morlé, whom I mentioned to you in a former letter, has got a pension granted to him by the Comte de Vergennes upon the avowed recommendation of the Earl of Shelburne. This, though it may arise from an innocent motive, you will allow, has at this instant a singular appearance. I will trouble you no longer than to say that whatever you may communicate to me confidentially will certainly rest with me."

Postscript.—"I hope you will remember my brother. He wants notice, and deserves some."—Paris.

1150. May-July.—Rough notes with references to documents relating to Spain and the Mosquito Shore.

1151. May-July.—Similar rough notes.

1152. August 3.—M. de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], appointing a day for a conference with him and the Comte d'Aranda, and expressing satisfaction that the difficulties which attended the negotiations with the court of Spain were removed, and a hope that Mr. Fox would send the necessary instructions for a settlement with the Dutch Ambassadors, and a definitive answer touching the demand for indemnity for the losses of French subjects at St. Eustatia. (In French).—Versailles.

1153. August 4.—Draft of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, informing the latter that he was prepared to sign the Treaties with France and Spain. (In French).—Paris.

1154. Copy of the same.

1155. Another copy of the same.

1156. Aug. 4.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"I am extremely vexed that the American business should cause any further delay; I really think the reasons given in my public letter were sufficient to lead me to expect that it would not. I thank you for your intelligence respecting Vergennes; the correspondence you allude to ought to be watched as closely as possible. I believe the real reason why he is so dissatisfied with us is our refusal to join in the Oriental business; and I believe he thinks (in which he may be deceived too) that Shelburne would have acted with him in this affair. I am sure I never will. Your Grace knows my sentiments upon the necessity of this country's forming a connexion with the Northern Powers of Europe too well to make it necessary for me to repeat them. You may tell both the Russian and Austrian Ministers in confidence, if there is an opportunity, that you know my sentiments are favourable to them, and

R

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
—

that England will probably give them every assistance she can without going to war herself. You will, of course, not say this unless a fair opportunity offers, and then you will mention it as your opinion from your knowledge of my way of thinking, and not as anything you have in charge to say. You may depend upon my attending to your brother whenever it is in my power. I really believe Laurens's intelligence about us was quite groundless."

Postscript.—"If Hartley has left Paris, you will open not only the dispatch that goes to him by this messenger, but any future ones that shall come directed to him."—St. James's.

1157. Aug. 6.—The Duke of Portland to [the Duke of Manchester], to introduce "our friend George Byng's son and Major Carncross." Regret is expressed that no satisfactory arrangement had yet been made with respect to the Duke of Manchester's "appointments."—London.

1158. Aug. 8.—Horace Mann to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a letter to Lord Radnor touching the death of Mr. Long.—Florence.

1159. Aug. 9.—The Superior of the Seminary of St. Sulpice to the Duke of Manchester, asking for the Duke's good offices in favour of two young French priests who had gone out to Montreal, but had been sent to England by the Governor of Canada because they had not paid their respects to him or taken the oath of allegiance at Quebec. (In French.)—Paris.

1160. Aug. 13.—The Duke of Manchester to Sir John Stepney, on the progress of the negotiations as affecting France, Spain, the States of America, and Holland, and the relations of France, Russia, and Turkey. (Copy.)—Paris.

1161. Aug. 13.—The Duke of Manchester to Sir Robt. Murray Keith, in words nearly identical with those of the letter of the same date to Sir John Stepney. (Copy.)—Paris.

1162. Aug. 13.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating the latter on the happy progress of negotiations with the United States of America, and remarking that, if there had been any delay in the negotiations with Holland, M. de Vergennes could not be held responsible for it. (In French. There is a copy of this letter in the "State Papers, France," vol. 562.)—Versailles.

1163. Aug. 13.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Comte d'Aranda, enclosing précis of the complaint of Mr. Lever, a merchant, touching the capture of his ships and goods in the Mississippi in 1777, and of the complaint of Messrs. Nivet and Co., touching damage suffered after the taking of Minorca, and asking for reparation. (In French.)—Paris.

1164. The enclosure above referred to, containing statement of Mr. Lever's case. (In French.)

1165. The enclosure above referred to, containing statement of the case of Messrs. Niven and Gibbons. (In French.)

1166. Aug. 14.—M. le Comte d'Aranda to the Duke of Manchester, acknowledging the receipt of a letter on the subject of the complaints of Messrs. Lever and Niven, respecting their losses in Louisiana and Minorca. (In French.)—Paris.

1167. Aug. 19.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"I write you these two lines only to tell you that your despatches were received, and that a messenger will set out to-morrow evening or Thursday morning with answers to them. We cannot help flattering ourselves, however, that the signature of the Definitive Treaties need not wait even the arrival of this messenger."—St. James's.

1168. Aug. 21.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester], on difficulties connected with "the article of presents," especially in the case of "the four Americans," and "the King's awkwardness upon these little matters." He also expresses gratification at the manner in which the French "remonstrance" was received at St. Petersburg. (Printed in Lord John Russell's "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox," vol. ii., p. 141.)—Wimbledon.

1169. Aug. 27.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a copy of his Full Powers, and expressing a hope that the Treaties might be signed on the following Wednesday. (In French.)—Versailles.

1170. Aug. 28.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, requesting the latter to attend at Versailles on the following Wednesday to sign the Treaties of Peace. (In French.)—Versailles.

1171. Aug. 28.—M. de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], expressing regret at the death of "Mr. Maddison," and offering medical and other assistance to discover whether poison had been the cause, as suspected. (In French.)—Versailles.

1172. Aug. 28.—M. de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], introducing M. Gaultier, Inspector of Army Hospitals, as a man with ability to discover truth and the courage to declare it [with respect to the death of Mr. Maddison]. (In French.)—Versailles.

1173. Aug. 28.—M. Bariatinsky to [the Duke of Manchester], thanking the latter for writing to inform him of the arrangement with the Plenipotentiaries of France and Spain for the signature of the Definitive Treaties (In French.)

1174. Aug. 28.—M. Marcoff to [the Duke of Manchester], thanking the latter for writing to inform him of the arrangement with the Plenipotentiaries of France and Spain for the signature of the Definitive Treaties. (In French.)

1175. Aug. 28.—C. J. Fox to the Duke of Manchester. "My dear Lord,

"Mr. Oakes, the bearer of this, is, I am told, likely to be of use in a way in which he will himself tell your Grace. If he has anything material to send he will give his letters to your Grace, and you will, of course, take the opportunity of a messenger to send it to me."—St. James's.

1176. Aug. 31.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, to the effect that the English were prepared to make good the losses sustained by French subjects at St. Eustatia as soon as the French had given due attention to the claims of the English East India Company, and other counter-claims for depredations on the coast of Africa. (In French.)—Paris.

1177. Aug. 31.—The Dutch Ambassadors to the Duke of Manchester, requesting him to appoint a time on the following day for an interview, to arrive at a definite settlement. (In French.)

[Aug. or Sep. 1783?]

1178. The Memorial of Hercules Ross, Esq., of Soho Square, London, in favour of Daniel Ross, Esquire, whose property in Dominica had been seized, and who had been condemned to death by sentence obtained in the inferior court of Grenada, reversed by the superior court, but afterwards confirmed in France. (pp. 10. There is a Memorial from Hercules Ross, in the "State Papers, France," vol. 552, which has a similar beginning, but is much shorter.)

1783.

1179. Sep. 2.—Sir John Stepney to the Duke of Manchester, on the prospect of a winter campaign to be undertaken by Russia and Austria against the Turks, and on the probability that the Prussians, though admitting negotiations, would not enter into alliance with France. (The latter part in cipher, deciphered.)—Berlin.

1180. Sep. 2.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, to the effect that he sent three documents relating to the expenditure of the English East India Company, for the maintenance of French prisoners from 1752 to 1765, viz., (1.) Extract from the answer of the Duc d'Aiguillon (19 May 1775) to the English Commissioners; (2.) Copy of a letter from the President of the Council of the English East India Company to Mr. Secretary Fox (Aug. 14, 1783); and (3.) Abstract of sums paid by the English Company. (In French.)—Paris.

1181. Sep. 2.—Copy of Preliminary Articles of Peace (11 in number) between Great Britain and the States General of the Netherlands, signed at Paris. (In French. Printed. pp. 3.)—Paris.

1182. Sep. 3.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Duke of Portland.

"Private.

"My Dear Lord,

"I signed yesterday the Preliminaries with the Dutch Ambassadors at my house here, and hope they

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.
—

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

will be approved; I look upon it to be a point gained to have done this before I concluded with the other powers. They are now set free from that immediate dependance upon France, under which they have hitherto been obliged to act. I might have made the Treaty definitive, but had I done so all hopes of nearer connexions with Holland must have been at an end, and the States would have been completely bound to France. I hope your Grace will therefore think I have done prudently in leaving the road open.

"I am now going to Versailles to conclude the other Treaties. There is nothing new at this Court: the same little interior intrigues go on. There has been a struggle between the parties, but, for the present, the Comte de Vergennes seems secure."—Paris.

1183. Sep. 3.—"Copy of letter from the Duke of Manchester to the British Ministers abroad," to acquaint them that he had signed the Preliminary Articles with Holland.—Paris.

1184. Sep. 3.—The Duke of Manchester to Mr. Secretary Fox, on the signature of the Preliminary Treaty with the Dutch, and a proposition to make it definitive which had probably been originated by the Comte de Vergennes. The Duke was going to Versailles to conclude the other Treaties. (Copy. Marked "Private." Printed in Lord John Russell's "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox," vol. ii., p. 151.) Paris.

1185. Sep. 3.—Copy of the Definitive Treaty between Great Britain and France signed at Versailles. (In French. Printed. pp. 10.)—Versailles.

1186. Sep. 3.—Copy of the Definitive Treaty between Great Britain and Spain signed at Versailles. (In French, Printed. pp. 7.)—Versailles.

1187. "A true copy of the map delivered by the Comte d'Aranda, the Spanish Ambassador, at the Treaty of Peace signed at Paris 1783," as affecting the 6th Article. There is an explanatory note in Spanish, and another in French, in the margin.

1188. Sep. 3.—Copy of the Definitive Treaty between Great Britain and the United States of America signed at Paris. (Printed. pp. 22.)—Paris.

1189. Sep. 3.—Another copy of the same treaty.

1190. Sep. 3.—Robert Liston to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that he had presented his credentials to His Most Catholic Majesty.—St. Ildefonso.

1191. Sep. 3.—Sir Robert Murray Keith to the Duke of Manchester, on the imminence of war between Turkey and Russia, and the importance of ascertaining the intentions of Austria, France, and Prussia. (4 pages, chiefly in cipher, deciphered.)—Vienna.

1192. Sep. 4.—The Duke of Portland to the Duke of Manchester.

"My dear Lord,

"It would have been a very great satisfaction to Fox as well as to myself if you had intimated any preference, or suggested any hint that would have led us otherwise than negatively to the proposal of a proper person to answer your purpose. In consequence of your confidential communication to me every application from a certain quarter shall be resisted, and the utmost care taken that in those who shall be offered to your consideration, there may be no offensive taint or mixture of the sort to which you so prudently and reasonably object. It happens, however, unluckily, though not unaccountably, to be very difficult to meet with persons at all versed in business of the kind in which you are engaged who are in that respect not exceptionable; and indeed, upon considering the subject with Fox, no one occurred either to him or me who had ever been tried in a political career. Gibbon, Dudley Long, Tom Walpole's son, Mr. William Ponsonby, Mr. Charles O'Hara, and Fawkener who was to have gone with Lord Carmarthen, were all objects of our discussion. The two first you are well acquainted with yourself and could better determine upon than we could, if either of them should be disposed to accept the employment which I should not willingly offer without your sanction to any of them. With respect to Walpole, Fox is somewhat embarrassed by a sort of promise he made to Lord Camden when they were in administration together, to find out some foreign employment for this young man, but his opinion preponderates greatly in favour of O'Hara, whom he thinks equal in point of ability to any situation, and with respect to temper and manners almost certain to render himself agreeable as well as useful to your Grace. As for Mr. Ponsonby, who is my particular friend, I would not have mentioned him to you if I did not think his talents fully equal to the employment, that his partiality to that line of business convinces me that he has particularly made it his study, that he is a most perfectly honest man, and entirely to be depended upon in every respect, and from having lived much abroad is master of the language, and fond of the style of living which prevails in France. Of Fawkener I shall say nothing, and indeed from the precipitation with which he announced his resignation of the secretaryship on our coming into office, it is very doubtful whether he would now accept it. Excepting Fawkener, it is certainly true that none of these gentlemen have ever acted as members of the Diplomatic Corps, but if their characters suit in other respects, and that you are satisfied of their abilities, I should be inclined to think that that deficiency would soon be made up, and that their other qualifications would amply compensate for their want of experience in the common routine of office, the attainment of which I believe to be soon acquired by a little attention directed by a good understanding. Excepting only the Profession of the Law, where that Grimgribber and forms are of real importance, I never could bring myself to allow any considerable degree of merit to the most consummate professors of technicality in any walk of life, and, indeed, even in the first I cannot look upon that sort of skill in any other light than that of a nugatory (?) quality. But I am almost sorry for having obtruded these sentiments upon you, because, as I am conscious of the difficulties and vexation you must have experienced, I should not forgive myself for having increased any imaginary embarrassment, and I will therefore say no more upon this subject. In consequence of the visit which you told Mr. Fox was to be made to Spa, my curiosity prompted me to enquire whether there had been any correspondence previous or subsequent to it, and I do not find that more than two letters have been received from our countryman since the 2nd April; one of those is dated the 24th May, the other 8th June, but they contain nothing material, only general congratulations and assurances that the present can only be a Summer Administration, and that he hopes to renew his correspondence on public affairs (I understand in a ministerial capacity) soon after the opening of the next Session. This intelligence I received on the 16th of last month.

"With respect to your appointments you may be assured that I shall never lose sight of the hope or relinquish the idea of rendering them adequate to the station you occupy, and in that I feel myself so wholly uninfluenced by any private consideration that your Grace will have nothing to thank me for personally in case of success. I hold such an addition to be due to the office and incumbent upon this country, and upon that ground my best endeavours will be exerted to obtain it. Your Grace named Mr. Geary to me before you set out for Paris, and I certainly will show him every possible attention; I should much wish that it could be as early as your recommendation entitles it to be. In the new arrangement of the Distributors of Stamps which these last duties have occasioned, and in consequence of which several new Head Distributors must be appointed, I fear it would not be for Mr. Geary's dignity to accept such an employment, but if you think it would suit Mr. Rust it should be much at his service, and I will keep it open till I receive your directions upon it. Five per cent. is allowed the Distributors for all stamps disposed of by them, and where their districts are so extensive as to require sub-distributors, the Head Distributor (as I am informed) divides the commission money with his deputy in proportion to the quantity disposed of by such deputy. The emoluments of the Head Distributors consequently vary very considerably according to the districts allotted to them, and I should not suppose Huntingdonshire to be very productive; but, such as it is, and possibly with the assistance of Cambridgeshire, which I suppose is held in commendam, your Grace will dispose of it if you think proper, and such a new employment should be deemed necessary by the Stamp Office. I am desired by Mr. Conolly as well as George Byng to return you their best thanks for your very kind protection of young Byng and Mr. Carnecross."

Postscript.—"I omitted to tell you that in a conversation with His Majesty upon your subject, he did you great justice, but asked me, insidiously enough, if I knew what your opinion was of the introduction of M. de Breteuil into the French Cabinet. He observed that B. could not be brought there for nothing, that he could not be a cipher. What made it strike me at that

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

time was that you had not mentioned the event in any of your public despatches, I mean those which are communicated to His Majesty."—Chiswick.

1193. Sep. 5.—Robert Liston to the Duke of Manchester, announcing the delivery of the Princess of the Asturias of twin-princes, and the departure of two Spanish ships of the line and a frigate for Constantinople.—St. Ildefonso.

1194. Sep. 9.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Dutch Ambassadors, mentioning enclosure of a memorial from Mr. Grant. (In French).—Paris.

1195. Sep. 10.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, suggesting that arrangements should be made for sending orders to India respecting the restitutions to be made on both sides, and mentioning the Memorial of British subjects who claimed the value of their effects embarked on the ship "La Rose" after the taking of the Isle of Montserrat. (In French).—Paris.

1196. Sep. 11.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, mentioning enclosure of a copy of a letter from Lord North to General Matthew touching the restitution of St. Lucia, and asking for copies of French orders touching restitutions agreed upon. (In French).—Paris.

1197. Sep. 11.—M. de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], promising to transmit the orders sent to various parts of the world by the Maréchal de Castries as soon as received from him, but explaining that there would be some delay as the Marshal would have to wait until some papers sent by the Duke had been translated. (In French. There is a copy of this letter in the "State Papers, France," vol. 562).—Montreuil.

1198. Sep. 11.—Col. Braun, British Chargé d'Affaires in Switzerland, to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the signature of the Preliminaries of Peace with Holland, and of the Definitive Treaties with France and Spain. (In French).—Bern.

1199. Sep. 12.—Chas. Hanbury to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the "accomplishment of the important points of his Embassy."—Hamburg.

1200. Sep. 12.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester], pointing out the difficulties in the way of an understanding between England and Holland, offering some conjectures on the relations of France, Prussia, Turkey, and Russia, and adding that "in this article of a continental alliance as a balance to the House of Bourbon" consists the whole of my foreign politics." (Marked "Private." Printed in Lord John Russell's "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox," vol. ii., p. 155).—St. James's.

1201. Sep. 12.—Copy of a letter from M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, on the interchange, between the French and English Governments, of orders touching the restitution of Goree, Trincomalee, &c. (In French. The original of this letter is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 562).—Versailles.

1202. Sep. 13.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"MY DEAR LORD,

"I know nothing more of the case of Mr. D. Ross, whose brother, Mr. H. Ross, will deliver your Grace this as well as my public despatch, than what I learn from the Memorial; but it really appears to me to be a very hard case if the facts are true.

"If the case appears to your Grace in the same light as it does to me, I am sure Mr. Ross will not want any further recommendation from me for your protection.

"I have just seen Shirley, who is so far from well that it is doubtful whether he will be able to go. If he is not I will look out for some other person, as it really appears to me material to send somebody."—Wimbledon.

1203. Sep. 16.—Viscount Torrington to the Duke of Manchester, asking him to intercede on behalf of a Swiss, who had been deranged, and had been apprehended by mistake as the Chevalier Durand. The Chevalier had escaped from prison, and his extradition was demanded by the French.—Marimont.

[1783.]

1204. Sep. 17.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"MY DEAR LORD,

"I am too much hurried at this moment to give you any other answers to your private letters than to thank you for them. The Duke of Portland has, I know, mentioned several persons to you to succeed Maddison; there is another, Mr. Storer, who is very strongly recommended, and the disposition of whose place here would be very remarkably convenient. Though I have always thought your Grace in the right in wishing that we should appoint, and think it in every respect fair that we should do so, yet I should be very sorry to recommend any one who would be disagreeable to you."—St. James's.

1783.

1205. Sep. 18.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, promising to transmit to England some papers which he had received on the subject of St. Eustatia and Chandanagore. (In French).—Paris.

1206. Sep. 19.—The Duke of Manchester to Mr. Fox. There was reason to believe that the supposed treaty between France and the King of Prussia did not yet exist. The idea of sending a combined French and Spanish fleet to dispute the entrance to the Mediterranean with the Russians had been abandoned. Some conversations with the Russian and Dutch Envoys at Paris are mentioned. (Copy. Marked "Private." An extract is printed in Lord John Russell's Memorials and Correspondence of C. J. Fox, vol. ii., p. 159.)

1207. Sep. 20.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, asking for remission of the sentence of death and confiscation of goods passed upon Mr. Daniel Ross until further enquiry could be made. (In French).—Paris.

1208. Sep. 20.—The Duke of Portland to the Duke of Manchester.

"Most Secret.

"My dear Lord,

"I have very little more to trouble you with upon the subject of the letter I received from you on Monday morning than my best thanks and the most ample assurances of the testimony I shall always be most ready to bear to the liberality with which you undertook as well as the ability with which you have conducted this important and arduous negotiation which has been happily confided to you. But be not surprised, my dear Lord, if these considerations have affected me in such a manner as to determine my mind in the choice of you for a still more difficult, but then I can add a more honourable, more important, and more advantageous situation. It is not only since I have now been in office, but for years back, that my mind has been distressed with regard to the hands in which the Government of the East Indies should be placed on the removal of Mr. Hastings; and it is only since I have formed the resolution of proposing it to your Grace that I have felt perfectly in repose by the satisfaction which I am conscious of being entitled to by having thus religiously discharged my duty to the Public in that part of the globe as well as in this. The circumstances of that country are too well known to you to make it necessary for me to enter into any detail of them, and I will therefore confine myself shortly but confidentially to state to you my ideas of the reform which it will be proper and essential to effect before I should wish to expose you in a situation where all your efforts might be useless, except a good and stable Government could be established at home, as far, at least, as relates to the administration of East Indian affairs. Considering the very great disorder that prevails throughout the whole of that system, the corruption of the Proprietary, who are become the instruments as they are in general the creatures of the Company's servants in India, who, through them, control the Court of Directors, considering besides the very great sum in which the Company is indebted to the Public (not by means of extortion but by duties which they have not been able as yet to discharge), it appears to be incumbent upon us to form an Administration for them in this country as well as in India, which shall be independent of the Proprietors for a certain number of years (not less certainly than three, and probably not exceeding five), which I would make equal in number to the present Direction, but would alter the composition of by throwing into it members of both Houses of Parliament who would be able and willing to undertake the charge. This idea has been already confidentially discussed, not generally in the Cabinet but with Lord North, who concurs in it, and with some of our principal and most active friends both in the Lords and Commons, and also with such of the Directors and Proprietors as it could be opened to with safety, and, I think, it is so far advanced as that it may be considered as a measure upon which

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

the existence of the present Administration will be fairly staked, and may be risked with credit; for, though it is strong and unprecedented, and may wear the appearance of violence and injustice, the evil which it is to remedy is grown so rank, all palliatives have been proved so ineffectual, the cure is of so much importance to the existence and character of the nation, that I pant for the experiment, on the success of which the happiness of millions, and the restoration of our national character seem essentially to depend. My proposal to you, therefore, is conditional; neither do I offer it to your consideration, nor wish for your acceptance of it upon other terms than the formation of such an Administration as can effectually support you in the reformation which it is our duty as Christians as much as Statesmen to attempt in the East Indies. It is to you, my dear Lord, that I wish to entrust this great, this salutary and necessary charge. I must tell your Grace that I have not communicated my design of submitting this proposition to you to any person whatever but Charles Fox, who most heartily concurs in the very anxious wishes I express for its being adopted by you. I am sorry to say that this country cannot afford you a competitor, but I make the acknowledgment in justice to your principles, and from a persuasion of its being the most powerful argument I can use to induce your acceptance, which I most devoutly pray God to dispose you to grant. I will not add one word more. Farewell, my dear Lord. Do not hastily reject my prayer."—Chiswick.

1209. Sep. 21.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"After considering all the circumstances of the case, it was impossible for to avoid naming Mr. Storer to succeed Mr. Maddison, and you will accordingly hear of his appointment in my next letter. It is true that his principal attachment is to Lord North, but I have been much acquainted with him ever since we were at school together, and have no doubt but he will consider himself entirely as appointed by me, and act accordingly. When I say this I do not mean to insinuate that I have the least jealousy of Lord North's wishing him to do otherwise; for I do assure you (and the Duke of Portland will tell you the same thing) that it is impossible for people to act more cordially together and with less jealousy than we have done. With regard to what your Grace mentions of the manner in which Storer mentioned the thing to you, I have perfectly undeceived him, if ever he entertained the idea you seem to imagine. He is certainly a man of some parts and knowledge, and used when he was very young to have an uncommon degree of application; but whether the dissipated and very idle habits of his life have changed him in this respect is more than I know. This I am sure of, that he is very desirous to please me, and that he is perfectly sensible that the best road to this object is by giving every possible satisfaction to your Grace. I will only add that I have had personal knowledge of him long enough to know that he is a man in whom confidence may be reposed without any hazard. The only thing that concerns me in this business is that I am not able to oblige Lord Camden, and Mr. Thomas Walpole, to both of whom I feel myself very much engaged; but they may depend upon it that it shall not be long before I find some opportunity. Mr. Hartley has said a word to me about your Grace's particular situation. I do assure you that both my inclination and opinion lead me to think that the appointments ought to be made up to at least 10,000*l.* a year clear money, and I shall be very happy to propose the measure to the King whenever the Duke of Portland tells me the Treasury is ready to pay it. If it cannot be done, I think it perfectly reasonable that by spending part of the year in England you should enable yourself to make your salary something more adequate to the necessary expenses of your situation.

"The Duke of Portland either writes to you by this messenger, or certainly will by the next, upon a subject your determination upon which may, and, I hope, will make all the above discussion of no consequence to your Grace. I will not forestall what he has to say to you any more than by just saying that the moment the idea was first mentioned to me by him it met with my warmest approbation, as I am convinced the trust to be proposed to you is much the most important remaining concern of this country.

In regard to public affairs, I think nothing could be so judicious as the footing upon which you have put the Dutch business; but yet I much question whether we shall be able to make any advantage of it. Such is the fury of the present prevailing party in Holland that they profess openly that they prefer a worse peace obtained through France to a better if negotiated immediately with England. On the other hand, I think the Russian business cannot turn out otherwise than favourably to this country. Indeed, I think the foolish figure France has already made in the business is some advantage gained to us; what they mean to do further I do not guess till I know what connexions they have entered into with Prussia. I understand some decisive answer has certainly been given from thence, but what it is I do not yet know. You will naturally watch all this business, and the Russian Ministers at Paris are, no doubt, well enough apprised of the friendly and confidential terms upon which our two Courts now are, to give you every assistance in their power."—Wimbledon.

1210. Sept. 22.—John Collet to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the signature of the various Treaties.—Genoa.

1211. Sept. 23.—Thomas Wroughton to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the signature of the various Treaties.—Stockholm.

1212. Sept. 23.—The Duke of Portland to the Duke of Manchester, informing him of the despatch of a turtle, and expressing confidence that Lord North would attend to the recommendation in favour of Lord Charles Montagu.—Chiswick.

1213. Sept. 25.—A. Storer to the Duke of Manchester, thanking him for confirming Mr. Fox's nomination of Mr. Storer as Secretary to the Embassy at Paris. — Portugal Street.

1214. Sept. 26.—Lord Keppel to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him upon the conclusion of the Definitive Treaties, and giving some details of naval matters.—Admiralty.

1215.—Sept. 26.—Horace Mann to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the signature of the various Treaties, and mentioning some ecclesiastical reforms in the Grand Duchy of Tuscany.—Florence.

1216. Sept. 26.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, mentioning enclosure of the necessary orders for the restitution of the island of Goree. (In French.)—Paris.

1217. Sept. 27.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, informing him that the British Government consented to his proposition concerning the mode of giving back Trincomalee, on condition that orders were given at the same time for the restitution of the Cape to the Dutch. (In French.)—Paris.

1218. Sept. 27.—The Duke of Portland to the Duke of Manchester.

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"I had the King's commands to write to you to know the value of the present you had received from His Most Christian Majesty, as well as of those which have been given to the Ambassadors and Ministers of the mediating Powers, and to your Secretary, to whom I think you say that a snuff-box has been or is intended to be presented in the French King's name. I am also commanded to inform you that His Majesty sat yesterday for his picture, and to observe to you that in this country it is necessary to bespeak the ornamental part of these trifles, and that our workmen who are attentive to the finishing of their work require time for that purpose. I tell you in confidence that His Majesty expresses his particular reluctance at being obliged to make these presents on this occasion in addition to that which he feels generally at this mode of disposing of his money. His wish is that the presents to each of the Ambassadors and Monsieur de Vergennes should not exceed 1,000*l.* each, and that those to the Russian Plenipotentiaries should be of an inferior value. He was very indecisive upon the propriety of making any present to Monsieur de Vergennes's Secretary; but upon that much will depend upon what is done by the other Powers. My own opinion is clear, that if the presents from our Court are not equal to those of the Courts of France and Spain, it would be infinitely better to make none at all, and that it never can be worth a saving of 2,000*l.* or 3,000*l.* to act shabbily in trifles, which notwithstanding reflect upon the national character. I therefore desire you would not keep anything back for the purpose of gratifying a certain petitesse d'esprit which, perhaps, disposes me to be more out of humour than the thing is worth.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

"You will easily imagine how impatient I am for your answer to the letter I wrote to you upon a very different subject; the more I consider it the more anxious I am for your acceptance, and you will not blame me for acknowledging that I am so infinitely more upon the public than upon your own account; but I will add that in that case I think your advantages will be mutual and permanent."

Postscript.—"Could your Grace obtain for me some capitul Champagne and Burgundy, or any white Hermitage, a wine I have but lately heard of, but which is spoken of in a superlative style—or even red of a superior growth?"—London.

1219. Sept. 30.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Duke of Portland.

"My dear Lord,

"After thanking you cordially for the flattering things you have wrote to me relative to my negotiation here, I will dwell no longer on that subject than just to assure you I have gone through it with as much public zeal and private assiduity as my abilities would permit, and as if the mission had been the anxious object of my choice. Now I will enter upon the other important part of your letter. I quite agree with your Grace that the abuses in the government of East Indian affairs at home, and the crying corruptions and violences abroad, have brought a disgrace upon our country and call for an immediate and radical cure. I do believe that this cannot be done by any palliatives whatever; the reform must be real and must be carried through, perhaps, by a temporary dictatorial power. Whether men's minds are sufficiently opened to the greatness of the evil as to adopt so extraordinary a measure, but which yet seems the only one that can promise any effectual remedy, your Grace can better judge than me.

"A firm and settled Administration at home might give vigour and, perhaps, humanly speaking, ensure success to such proposed reform, but in the present circumstances of the State can such a flattering prospect be expected? His Majesty, perhaps, might be induced to acquiesce without being thoroughly convinced of the fitness of the measure, and should he coldly support it in the outset, means at the same time might be found from some quarter to thwart it before it could be brought to maturity. I argue a little from the tragical history that passed in India a few years since which must suggest itself to every one's mind on such occasion. I do not see any way to secure the fair trial of such a system unless Parliament should be induced to lodge the necessary power in the executive part of such new government under proper regulations for a limited time, without power of recall unless by Act of Parliament. Such step might perhaps be thought unconstitutional, as it must be unprecedented, but without some such security all other attempts would, I doubt, be fruitless.

"Thus much for the public measure; now, my Lord, a word for myself. I am highly bound to you for the extreme confidence you place in me, and wish I had means and talents to answer it. I have, as your Grace wished me to do, taken some time to reflect on your proposal and have considered it over in various lights. The offer of such a command to be given with a view of restoring justice to injured nations is of too high and important a nature to be lightly refused. If a man should chance to be so circumstanced that by his exertions he might bring about such a salutary work, which another could not do so well, and his country should call him forth, it would, in my way of thinking, be almost criminal in him to refuse, whatever might be the sacrifice he might make on his part. But such a supposition can scarce exist in a great State; and I trust there are many, though not perhaps immediately in view, great and worthy characters fit to undertake this arduous, laborious, and important charge. As to myself I am not speaking from a false or affected modesty, but I do not think, from various circumstances, that I am equal to it. A strong constitution that can resist the heats that reign most part of the year in India is essentially necessary; for my own part, I contend very ill with the sun, being easily affected with fevers and headaches. Caution and moderation might possibly overcome this difficulty; at least I am not so attached to life as to be very anxious about the risk, if the object calls for and justifies such risk. But, my Lord, give me leave to mention my family. I have five children, two of an age almost to enter upon the great stage of life, whose education is a most important point. It would be hard to leave them, and the Duchess, who deserves all I can do for her, and whose attachment I have had such constant proofs of, but whose constitution would not resist the violent heats of such a climate, the heat of Paris having been too much for her this summer. All these I must separate from. My dear Lord, it would be an honourable banishment, but a distant and severe one. Nothing could induce me to undertake it but absolute conviction that it would be the means of restoring happiness to the numbers that may have been oppressed by the Company's servants, and I cannot have the vanity to suppose this power in me. If, after what I have wrote, you should still continue in the same thoughts I can do no more than to request you to permit me to confide the secret to one person and consult one counsellor, who is too much interested in this affair for me to take any absolute decision without her, and whose strength of mind I know is equal to any proposition. You will easily see I mean my wife. I would not do this without your leave; but with your leave we would examine the proposition together. Whatever may be the event, I beg you to believe that I am truly sensible of this great mark of your esteem and confidence."—Paris.

1220-1223. Four Volumes of transcripts relating to the negotiations for Peace in 1783.

Nov. 29, 1782, to May 3, 1783.

1220. A volume containing transcripts of papers entitled "Correspondence of Alleyne Fitzherbert, Esq., Minister Plenipotentiary at Paris with the Right Honourable Lord Grantham, Secretary of State, 1782 to 1783." The last 10 letters, however, are to Mr. Secretary Fox. The total number of letters from Mr. Fitzherbert is 27. They are in two series numbered 73 to 78, and 1 to 47 respectively. Nos. 1 to 72, and Nos. 76 and 77 of the first series are wanting; and the second series also is very defective, as there are 26 numbers omitted out of the 47. There are extracts only from Nos. 21 and 37. But, in the first series, there is one letter unnumbered, and in the second one letter and four extracts. There are also copies of 13 enclosures. The total number of documents in the volume is thus 46, and they occupy 216 pages. They refer to the various negotiations for Peace, and are for the most part copies of those which exist in the "State Papers, France," in the Public Record Office. Thus the contents of this volume, as far as the letter numbered 36 in the second series, are to be found in the "State Papers, France," vols. 558, 560, 561, where the series up to that number is complete. No. 37 has been found only in the Duke of Manchester's volume, where, however, it appears only as an extract. No. 38 is in vol. 563 of the "State Papers, France," where it exists in duplicate, but not elsewhere. No. 39 is in the last-mentioned volume of State Papers, and a copy of it in the Duke of Manchester's volume. No. 40 is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561, and a copy of it in the Duke of Manchester's volume. Nos. 41 and 42 are in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563, and copies of them in the Manchester volume. No. 43 is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561, and a copy of it in the Manchester volume. Nos. 44, 45, 46, and 47 are in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563, and copies of them in the Manchester volume.

Aug. 9, 1782, to May 30, 1783.

1221. A volume containing transcripts of papers entitled "Correspondence of the Right Honourable Lord Grantham, Secretary of State, with Alleyne Fitzherbert, Esquire, Minister Plenipotentiary at Paris, 1782 and 1783." The last seven letters, however, are from Fox who (under date April 4, 1783) announces his own appointment as Secretary of State, and (under date April 11) that of the Duke of Manchester as Ambassador Extraordinary to the Court of Versailles. The total number of letters to Mr. Fitzherbert is 86. They are in two series numbered 1 to 36 and 1 to 51 respectively. There are notes to the effect that No. 11 of the first series, and Nos. 26, 34, 48 and 49 of the second series were "not to be found." (Copies of Nos. 48 and 49, however, it should be observed, exist in the volume numbered 1223 in the present collection). On the other hand there is one letter not numbered as well as two numbered "25" in the first series, and one not numbered in the second series. This last has been identified with a letter numbered 26 among the State Papers. Besides the letters there are copies of 53 enclosures (two of which are loose), making the total number of documents in the volume 139, which occupy 427 pages. They refer to the various negotiations for Peace, and include some draft Treaties and Articles. There are numerous omissions of enclosures and the words "multa desiderantur" frequently occur in the margin.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

The contents of this, as of the preceding volume are, for the most part, copies of "State Papers," which may be best consulted in the volumes known as "State Papers, France" in the Public Record Office. In some cases, however, these transcripts make good the deficiencies of the State Papers. Thus in the first series Nos. 2, 6, 12, 14, 15, 18, 19, 27, and 35, a letter unnumbered (p. 38) and a note (p. 215), are either wanting or misplaced and not readily to be found among the "State Papers." The same remark applies to some of the enclosures. So also in the second series, No. 8, and a postscript to No. 16, apparently absent from the State Papers, exist among these transcripts, as well as Nos. 35, 42 and 43. No. 48 of the same series, apparently wanting in the State Papers, is not in its place among the transcripts in this volume, but is in the volume of transcripts (Manchester collection) numbered 1223.

On the other hand there are wanting in the Duke of Manchester's book a letter "Separate and confidential," after No. 16, which is in the "State Papers, France," Vol. 560, where there are also two letters numbered 26, though only one appears in the Duke's book, and that without a number. No. 34, wanting in the Duke of Manchester's book, is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561.

There is a letter numbered 36 in the Duke of Manchester's book, and a letter numbered 36 in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561, both purporting to be of the same series, but they are not in any respect identical. A copy of a memorial of the Grenada proprietors enclosed in No. 45 exists in the Manchester volume, but is not in its proper place in the State Paper series. No. 49 wanting in this volume, is to be found in No. 1223 of the Manchester collection, and in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563. The letter numbered 51 in this volume (from Mr. Fox to Fitzherbert) appears in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564, but numbered 11 in another series.

There are occasionally slight verbal variations between the documents among the "State Papers" and the copies of them among these transcripts. Both in the volumes of State Papers, and in these volumes of transcripts, enclosures are sometimes omitted or misplaced. In some cases they may be found, in the form of originals, among the unbound papers in the Manchester collection.

April 30, 1782, to December 7, 1783.

1222.—A volume containing transcripts of papers, entitled:—

(1.) "Negotiations of Mr. Grenville at Paris, April 30, 1782, to July 9, 1782."

(2.) "Correspondence of his Grace the Duke of Manchester, Ambassador at Paris, with the Right Honourable C. J. Fox, Secretary of State, May 11, 1783, to December 7, 1783."

(1.) Mr. Grenville's correspondence was (excepting two letters, one from and one to Lord Shelburne) with Fox. The letters exchanged are 12 in number. The first and the last are unnumbered; the rest are in a series numbered 1 to 10. There is no number 9, but two letters are numbered 8, apparently in mistake. There is also a copy of one enclosure. The total number of documents in the series is thus 13, and they occupy 50 pages. They refer to the Preliminaries of the general pacification.

With the exception of the enclosure (a communiqué dated June 21, 1782, from the French Court to Mr. Grenville), the whole of this correspondence is printed in Lord John Russell's "Memorials and Correspondence" of Charles James Fox, vol. iv.; and the whole (including the communiqué) exists in MS. in the "State Papers, France," vol. 557.

(2.) The letters from the Duke of Manchester to Fox are 58 in number, and are numbered consecutively 1 to 58. There are also 49 enclosures. The total number of documents in the series is thus 107. They refer to the negotiations for the conclusion of Peace, and occupy 310 pages.

There are also two loose sheets in the volume, on one of which is the endorsement, "Papers delivered to Lord Walsingham, July 7, 1786," applicable apparently to both. They contain extracts from the despatches of Lord Grantham to Alleyne Fitzherbert, of Fox to the Duke of Manchester, and of the Duke of Manchester to Fox, and a report of a conversation between the Duke of Manchester and M. Chevalier, in November 1783, on the trading rights of the English and French Companies in India. The documents are six in number and occupy about five pages.

In this as in the other volumes of transcripts the copies are not arranged in the same way as the originals in the volumes of State Papers, in which indeed the arrangement is somewhat difficult to follow. The contents of No. 1222 are divided (as far as they have been found at all), among vols. 557, 561, 563, and 564 of the "State Papers, France." In the second series there is a copy of No. 4. (a short note) in the Manchester volume which does not seem to be in the State Papers. There is a copy of an enclosure in No. 16 in the Manchester book, which is not in its place among the State Papers, but which is placed after No. 15 in vol. 563, No. 16 being in vol. 561.

No. 30 has, in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564, a postscript which is wanting in the Duke of Manchester's book.

No. 42 has, in the "State Papers, France," vol. 562, a concluding paragraph wanting in the Duke of Manchester's book, and referring to the enclosure of the Spanish map of the Bay of Honduras. This was probably No. 1187 of the Manchester collection.

In the Duke of Manchester's book there is a copy of an enclosure in No. 47 which is not in its place in the State Paper volume (562), and which is a note of the ratification of the Preliminary Articles between England and Holland. In it there are also copies of Nos. 50 and 51 which have not been found in the State Paper series.

April 29, 1783, to December 2, 1783.

1223. A volume containing transcripts of papers entitled "Correspondence of the Right Honourable C. J. Fox, Secretary of State, with the Duke of Manchester, Ambassador at Paris, 1783."

The letters from Fox to the Duke of Manchester, are 67 in number, and are in a series numbered 1 to 67 but not quite consecutively. There are two letters numbered "18," none numbered "19," two numbered "36," and none numbered "39." Nos. 49 and 50 are transposed, no letter is numbered "52," and two are numbered "63." There are 19 copies of enclosures. The total number of documents in the series is thus 86, and they occupy 169 pages. They refer to the negotiations for the conclusion of Peace.

In this volume an enclosure in No. 3 of the series of letters from Mr. Fox to the Duke of Manchester is a printed copy of the "Supplément à la Gazette [de France], Oct. 29, 1782," i.e., the newspaper itself, of which there is only a MS. copy in the "State Papers, France," vol. 563. There is a copy of an enclosure in No. 5 which does not appear in its proper place in the State Papers, France, vol. 561. There are copies of Nos. 10 and 12 which seem to be wanting in the State Paper series.

The second letter here numbered 18 is numbered 19 in the "State Papers, France," vol. 561. There is here a copy of No. 25 which does not appear to be in the State Paper series. The two letters numbered "36" in this volume are also both numbered 36 in the State Papers; and No. 38, wanting in this volume, is in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564. No. 43, of which there is a copy in this volume, appears, in draft, in vol. 564 of the State Papers, France, but is there unnumbered.

Nos. 45 and 48 of which there are copies in this volume have not been found among the State Papers, and No. 46 appears in the latter series in vol. 561, but unnumbered.

Nos. 56 and 61, of which there are copies in this volume, do not appear to be in the State Paper series. Both the letters here numbered 63, exist, in draft, in vol. 562 of the "State Papers, France." The second is there placed out of the numerical order, and after No. 64, but correctly with reference to date.

Aug. 20, 1753, to 1787.

In the same volume are other documents relating, for the most part, to various branches of the same subject. Some are of dates later than the signature of the Treaties of Peace, others of dates earlier than Fox's correspondence with the Duke. They include correspondence and enclosures in reference to Turks' Islands, beginning as early as 1753; Fox's letters Nos. 48 and 49, to Alleyne Fitzherbert, with the projects and counter-projects for peace (both of which letters are wanting in the series as it appears in the Manchester collection No. 1221, and the former of which seems to exist only in this volume); the Instructions and Credentials to the Duke of Manchester upon his appointment as Ambassador Extraordinary; the letters to the French Court, announcing his recall; some letters from Lord North to the Directors of the East India Company and the Governor of Jamaica, Sept. 30-Oct. 10, 1783, on the terms of pacification and restitutions to be made; and the King's certificates for the

R 4

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

latter purpose. At the end (loose) is a statement of the number of French ships in the West Indies in 1787, drawn up for the purpose of showing that France had not adhered to the agreement made upon the conclusion of peace.

In this latter part of the volume there are 42 documents, occupying 165 pages.

Lord John Russell's work, the "Memorials and Correspondence of Charles James Fox," does not include any of the correspondence between Fox and the Duke of Manchester found in the two volumes last described.

1783.

1224. Oct.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, enclosing the following copy. (In French.)

1225. Sept. 26.—Copy of a letter from M. le Maréchal de Castries to M. le Comte de Vergennes, on the subject of English prisoners detained at Valognes. They had been taken by subjects of the States General, and the matter was, therefore, referred to M. Berkenroode. (In French.)—Versailles.

1226. Oct. 1.—Lord Dalrymple to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him on the signature of the various Treaties, and mentioning the threatened ruin of Dantzic through differences with the King of Prussia, and the stay of the Russian troops in the Polish Ukraine. —Warsaw.

1227. Oct. 2.—Henry Shirley to [the Duke of Manchester], congratulating him on the skill with which he had conducted his negotiations, and making comments on the various political aspects of the time, especially the scarcity of money and lowness of the funds in England.—Argyll Street.

1228. Oct. 3.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester [not addressed], mentioning a letter received from Viscount Torrington, the British Minister at Brussels, touching a case which might affect the life of some person believed to be innocent. (In French.)—Paris.

1228a. Oct. 4.—Sir Robert Murray Keith to the Duke of Manchester, informing the latter that no letter from his Grace of a later date than Aug. 16 had reached him. —Vienna.

1229. Oct. 4.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"MY DEAR LORD,

"I HAVE not seen the Duke of Portland since I received your private letter of the 30th, relative to the presents made to the Duchess of Manchester, and consequently can say nothing to it, as everything relating to presents has passed between him and the King. Indeed, I wished it should be so, because I felt myself awkward in recommending expenses which I did not know whether the Treasury were able to pay. I am for doing the whole as magnificently as possible, and if the Duke of Portland can find money, I believe, he is of the same opinion.

"I take for granted you received my letter relative to Storer's appointment dated, I think, the 21st Sept., though you do not mention it. As soon as I hear anything from Holland I will let you know it. I can scarce venture to say one thing upon your own business, but as the Duke of Portland has sent me your letter, and as he may possibly not know of the messenger who is now setting out, I can so far venture as to say that I am sure he can have no objection to your consulting the Duchess, without whose opinion no man could suppose you could give anything like a decisive answer in such a business. I cannot help hoping you will decide as we wish, from seeing that you see the importance of the object in the light it deserves. This being the case it would be impertinent in me to add a word, for as to private considerations no one can judge of them but your Grace yourself and your family. All I shall say, therefore, is that I do not know any other hands in which I shall see the most important concern of this country with half so much satisfaction. Whether a permanent Government can be expected here is a point difficult to be resolved, but I am sure that such a plan must be formed, and adopted by Parliament, as to make a permanent Government in India before I would advise your Grace or any friend of mine to go thither. Whether the mode of doing this should be exactly that which you hint at I doubt; but something permanent there must be, and whoever goes must see that there is that something before he goes. The moment our scheme is a little more digested it shall be sent in confidence to your Grace, and I am sure you will understand that it was only upon the supposition of your approving it that it was proposed to you to take so considerable a part in it. I am so tired with writing that I am afraid this is hardly legible."—St. James's Place.

1230. Oct. 7.—Morton Eden to the Duke of Manchester, announcing his appointment as Envoy Extraordinary at the Saxon Court.—Dresden.

[1783?]

1231. Oct. 7.—F. Montagu to the Duke of Manchester, congratulating him "upon the great work of "peace being completed," and touching very briefly upon a variety of topics.—Lower Brook Street.

1783.

1232. Oct. 10.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, announcing that he sent copies of the necessary orders for the stipulated restitutions as affecting St. Lucia and the East Indies. (In French.)—Paris.

1233. Oct. 11.—Le Comte d'Aranda to the Duke of Manchester, on the case of the Alexianos, a suspected Greek family banished from Spain. (In French.)—Paris.

1234. Oct. 15.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, acknowledging the receipt of duplicates of orders sent by the Court of London to the East and West Indies, and Africa, touching the restitutions to be made in those countries. (In French.)—Versailles.

[1783.]

1235. Oct. 20.—[The Duke of Manchester] to Sir John Stepney, touching briefly on the relations of England, France, Prussia, Russia, and Holland. (Copy.) —[Paris.]

1783.

1236. Oct. 21.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, on some complaints made by Lord Cranstoun and Mr. Moriarty, who occupied the Chateau de Bréauté, near Dieppe, against neighbouring farmers, which complaints M. de Vergennes alleged were shown on enquiry to be not well founded. (In French.)—Fontainebleau.

1237. Oct. 22.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, to present a Memorial from Mr. Mallet of the island of Jersey (whose ship "Enterprise," laden with tobacco, had been driven on the coast of Brittany, and detained at Morlaix, as carrying contraband), and a Memorial from Mr. Hooper, a London merchant, claiming, as a creditor of Mr. Ross, certain negro slaves seized upon the lands of the latter in Dominica. (In French.)

[1783.]

1238. Oct. 23.—Copy of a letter [from the Duke of Manchester] to the Duke of Portland.

"My dear Lord,

"Your letter of the 10th inst. I should have acknowledged sooner had not the removal of the court to this place caused so much visiting and embarras that I was obliged to postpone business for a few days. I must now be under the necessity of saying that the great undertaking you proposed to me lately I have thoroughly weighed and examined, and upon the whole find it impossible for me to engage in it. The object is certainly great, and had I only myself to consider, and could I be convinced that the risk and trouble I must go through would be attended with the public benefit you suppose, such reasons ought greatly to sway with anyone. But the ties of my family and the duties I owe them forbid the idea to me on a private account, and (what your Grace must allow is to the Public much stronger) my want of sufficient knowledge of the nature of the country and people with whom I should have to deal renders me likewise quite unequal to the important charge. Your Grace will, therefore, permit me to thank you for the high opinion you are pleased to entertain of me, and to assure I am always ready to serve His Majesty in any manner within my power, but entirely to decline the particular employment proposed. The business, you may rely on, will remain absolutely secret until you shall think proper it should be otherwise, and if my services can be of any use at home your Grace may at all times command them. I do not propose to be at the meeting of the Parliament unless you wish I should. In that case I will come at the first notice; but I had intention, with His Majesty's approbation, of being in England about the end of next month. Should you

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

ire me to be there sooner I beg to receive your ers."—Fontainebleau.

1783.

239. Oct. 13²⁴.—Alleyne Fitzherbert to the Duke of Manchester, announcing his arrival and first audience as ister Plenipotentiary at the Russian Court. — St. ersburgh.

240. Oct. 25.—Translation into English of a copy of etter from M. le Maréchal de Castries, Minister of rine, to M. le Marquis de Bussy, giving orders recting the delivery of the harbours and forts of ncomalee. Though the French were to make the very to the English Commissary, who was to make ant restoration to the Dutch Commissary, the Mar-de Bussy was to take care that the French troops not evacuate the positions until the Dutch troops
e ready to enter them.—Fontainebleau.

241. Oct. 25.—Copy of a letter from M. de Vergennes he Duke of Manchester, announcing that the extradiof the person arrested at Bruges under the name of Chevalier Durand was deferred until time had been wed to prove whether he was a native of Yverdun a domicile at Yarmouth. (In French.)—Fontaine-
u.

242. Oct. 25. — The Duke of Manchester to Sir R. ray Keith, announcing the close of negotiations ept with the Dutch) and touching on the relations Holland, France, Prussia, Turkey, and Russia.
y.)—Fontainebleau.

243. Oct. 26.—The Duke of Manchester to Viscount ington, mentioning enclosure of a letter from the te de Vergennes in regard to the Swiss, in whom Viscount had interested himself [and who had been sted as the Chevalier Durand].—Fontainebleau.

244. Oct. 26.—The Duke of Portland to the Duke of chester.

7 dear Lord,

"I flatter myself that the manner in which I expressed my sentiments and wishes to you upon very important proposition I submitted to your con-sation will be a sufficient protection of me from suspicion of importunity or impatience in the hope ertain of its being favourably received and accepted.
as time presses, and that so very considerable, ed, so very essential a feature in this great business h is in contemplation cannot be concealed or kept the knowledge of those to whom it is primarily and dentially to be opened, you will not be surprised at anxiety I feel to learn your determination, and if as yet decidedly correspondent with the wishes h are as inseparable from the duty of my station as private opinion and personal attachment, that the letion of it may be suspended till you arrive here, h I should entreat might not be delayed one unsary moment after the receipt of His Majesty's person for your return. I know not how to add any-
; that can convey to you with more energy the extent y wishes than the entreaty which is the subject of etter."—London.

245. Oct. 27.—M. de Rayneval to [the Duke of Maner], asking for the name of an employé of the Bank ngland whom the Duke desired to have arrested at is. (In French.)—Fontainebleau.

246. Oct. 27.—P. E. van de Perre to [the Duke of chester], explaining that the English party in nd were outnumbered by their opponents, and that, pite of all objections, the Baron de Lynden was inted Minister Plenipotentiary at the English t, but expressing a hope that the English party in nd would, in the end, prevail. (In French.)— elburg.

[1783 P]

247. Unsigned statement relating to conversations Messrs. Boerts and Van de Perre, and referring me letters dated the previous June and July.

1783.

248. Oct. 30.—Memorandum that the Duke of Maner wrote to Mr. Fox concerning a box found on the near Paris, with letters addressed to various ns, including the King and the Duke of Gloucester, upposed to have been "brought from India by a Henry Abbot."—Fontainebleau.

249. May–October.—Rough notes with references to nents, relating to negotiations with the Dutch ssadors.

I 130.

[1783.]

1250. Nov. 1.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"As I understand that your Grace wished to come over the latter end of this month, I mentioned to the King who made no difficulty, so that your Grace may come whenever you please, and I believe the Duke of Portland thinks the sooner the better. I will order a provisional appointment of Plenipotentiary, in case of your Grace's absence, to be made out for Mr. Storer, and send it by some early opportunity, though I do not think there is any occasion for your waiting for this if you should be inclined to come. If you think it is likely to be some time before you come I wish you would make some pretence to send Storer, as an appearance of strength at the opening of the Session is everything.
In this case let me know when you mean to come yourself, and I will take care that he shall be back with you in time.

"I am very sorry that you have determined as you have about the E. I. business. It will be a troublesome affair here; and in the House of Lords in particular I am afraid the Duke of Portland will meet with much opposition, so that your Grace's presence and support may be peculiarly desirable."

Postscript.—"I wish you had ordered one of your secretaries just to write us some account of what the conversation of Paris was upon the Caisse d'Escompte business, as well as some more of the general talk upon the subject of the factions and intrigues in the French Ministry. I do not say this for myself, because I conclude when you say nothing upon these topics, that you have no material intelligence to communicate;
but you can guess, perhaps, where these little things are thought to be of more value. I am sure you will consider this hint as intended in the most friendly manner, and excuse the liberty I take in giving it you."
—St. James's.

1783.

1251. Nov. 2.—Robert Liston to the Duke of Manchester, giving an account of an esclandre between
M. de Gersdorff, the Saxon Minister at the Spanish
Court, and M. Favre, Secretary of Legation to Count Nostitz, the Prussian minister, and of the demand made by General Elliott upon the Spanish commander of the lines of St. Roch, to evacuate the advanced works constructed during the siege of Gibraltar. The conclusion of the letter is in cipher (deciphered) and suggests suspicions that the disposition of the Spanish Court was highly unfavourable to Great Britain, that there was danger from the union of the two Houses of Bourbon, and that the policy of the Spanish Court was to disgust the English with Gibraltar "by rendering the possession of it as uneasy as possible." (10 pages.)—Escorial.

1252. Nov. 3.—Copy of a letter from M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, informing him that orders had been sent (as agreed) to Trincomalee and the Cape of Good Hope, for the evacuation of forts, and that any delay which might occur would be caused solely by deficiency of transports. (In French. There is another copy of this letter in the "State Papers, France," vol. 564, but the original is in vol. 562.)—Fontainebleau.

1253. Nov. 3.—Viscount Torrington to the Duke of Manchester, on the case of one Barrelet, a Swiss, who had been imprisoned four months at Bruges, having been mistaken, as alleged, for the Chevalier Durand.—
Brussels.

1254. Nov. 5.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Maréchal de Castries, asking for information touching the case of Mr. Ross. (In French.)— Fontainebleau.

1255. Nov. 6.—Copy of a Memorial of Nicolas Alexiano to Mr. Secretary Fox, calling attention to a previous Memorial respecting his property in Minorca, and disclaiming complicity with his brother-in-law, Nicolas Giorgio, whom the Spanish Government accused of treason.—London.

1256. November 7.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"I send you, by this post, leave to come home, a provisional commission for Storer, &c.; but I repeat again that I wish you to do as best suits your own convenience.
I do not think the business in the House of Lords is

S

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

like to be of much consequence in the first weeks of the Session; but whenever we shall have got our India measure through the House of Commons, the House of Lords will become the scene of action, and a very distressing one possibly to the Duke of Portland, who will, I know, find less support upon this question than upon others. If you send Storer over, only let me know when you will want to set out, and I will take care he shall be back by the day.

"If your Grace should have any opportunity of ascertaining what is the real state and strength of the armament at Toulon it will be very material."

P.S.—"I should be much obliged to your Grace if you would send the enclosed letter to Lord Malden, whose direction I do not know."—St. James's Place.

1257. November 8.—M. le Maréchal de Castries to the Duke of Manchester, promising attention to the Memorial of Mr. Daniel Ross, a merchant. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1258. November 8.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, enclosing a copy of a letter from M. le Maréchal Duc de Croy to M. le Maréchal de Segur, touching the person accused of having forged Bank of England Notes. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1259. October 31.—The enclosure to which reference is made above, and which is to the effect that the English agent of the Bank of England was satisfied that the person suspected was not guilty of the charge. (In French).—Calais.

1260. November 11.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Dutch Ambassador, acknowledging the receipt of the Memorial of Messrs. Kempenaer and Van den Kerkhoff. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1261. November 13.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, sending a copy of a letter from Viscount Torrington on the subject of M. Barrelet. (In French).

1262. November 16.—Copy of a letter from M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, informing him that consent would be given to the release of Barrelet as soon as it could be proved that he was not the so-called Chevalier Durand. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1263. November 17.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that he sent the passport necessary to pass free of duty the luggage and equipages of the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland travelling under the titles of Earl and Countess of Dublin. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1264. November 19.—M. Brantsen to the Duke of Manchester, acknowledging receipt of a letter addressed to him and M. Berkenroode. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1265. November 19.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, requesting that a paper sent to Mr. Jennings, captain of the packet-boat "Empress," by a Mr. Thomson, might be forwarded to M. de Vergennes, in order that M. le Maréchal de Castries might be able to decide upon a complaint respecting dues exacted at Calais, of which Mr. Thomson had made complaint. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1266. Copy of the same.

1267. November 19.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Dutch Ambassadors, communicating the proposition of the British Government that the Definitive Treaty should be signed either at London or at the Hague, and requesting an early decision. (In French).—Fontainebleau.

1268. November 21.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"I have only time, my dear Lord, to acknowledge your Grace's letter, and to let you know that Mr. Storer will set out on the 28th, and that the sooner you come the more the Duke of Portland will be obliged to you.

"Mr. Pitt did not choose to divide upon the India Bill yesterday though supported by Jenkinson, and everything looks very well at present."—St. James's Place.

1269. Nov. 22.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, to the effect that he knew nothing of a paper supposed by the Maréchal de Castries to have accompanied a letter written by Mr. Thomson on the subject of duties exacted at Calais. (In French).—Paris.

1270. Nov. 22.—Robert Liston to the Duke of Manchester, announcing that the rigour of the measures adopted by the Spaniards with respect to Gibraltar was, in one or two articles, abated, and that the "fancy of making air-globes" [balloons] had "reached even these uncultivated regions." A large one was nearly finished, and it was "proposed that some animal (probably a "jackass) should be carried up upon the scaffold that "was to be suspended from it."—Escorial.

1271. Nov. 26.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to the Spanish Ambassador, asking for an answer to the Memorial of Messrs. Nivet and Niven, respecting their losses at the taking of Mahon. (In French).—Paris.

1272. Nov. 26.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, asking permission for the marriage of M. Rouquier le Fils with Miss Jennings, daughter of the late Dr. Jennings, whose widow had married Major Stanton. (In French).—Paris.

1272a. Nov. 28.—M. d'Aranda to the Duke of Manchester, promising to bring again to the attention of his Court the Memorial of Messrs. Nivel (sic) and Niven, to which no reply had been given, though it had been forwarded to the Spanish Court together with that of the Alexianos. (In French).—Paris.

1273. Dec. 2.—C. J. Fox to [the Duke of Manchester].

"Private.

"My dear Lord,

"Storer will set out in a few hours after the messenger who carries you this, and when he is arrived it will be in your Grace's choice to come whenever you please. Our division last night in the House of Commons was 217 to 103, so that our majority has rather increased since Thursday, and all hopes of opposition in the House of Commons are effectually cut off. Their whole dependence is now in the House of Lords, where the majority of debaters against us is, no doubt, formidable, though in point of numbers, I am told, there is no cause to fear. The Bill will go up to the House of Lords either on the 8th or 9th of this month, and it is not unlikely but on one of those days there may be a debate and a division upon fixing the day for the second reading. In consideration of this being possible I enclose you a proxy which, if you please, you may send back by the messenger, as there is scarcely a probability of your being here by the time I have mentioned. The second reading is intended to be fixed for Monday the 15th, on which I suppose the decisive debate and division will take place. I have left the proxy blank, because I do not know whether the Duke of Portland may not have two already, but if he has, you may depend upon it's being in hands you would not disapprove. I have spoken again and again about the presents but have always been answered that they are not ready."

Postscript.—"It does not appear to me that there is much probability of the Custom House Bill being again taken up this year."—St. James's Place.

1274. Dec. 3.—Copy of a letter from the Duke of Manchester to M. de Vergennes, notifying that he had received permission to return to London, and asking for his passports. (In French).—Paris.

1275. Dec. 4.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, expressing his own and his King's regret at the Duke's contemplated departure. (In French).—Versailles.

1276. Dec. 4.—M. de Vergennes to the Duke of Manchester, sending passports. (In French).—Versailles.

1277. Dec. 5.—Thomas Walpole to the Duke of Manchester, describing the constitution, mode of operation, and position of the Caisse d'Escompte.—Paris.

1278. Dec. 6.—Sir Robert Murray Keith to the Duke of Manchester, to the effect that the sentiments of the Turkish Government were pacific, and that they would probably acquiesce in the proposals of Russia. (Chiefly in cipher, deciphered).—Vienna.

1279. Dec. 6.—The Duke of Manchester to "R. Liston, Esquire, H. B. Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary at Madrid," chiefly on the "Lines of Gibraltar," and the attempts of the Spaniards to disgust the English with their acquisition of the fortress. (Copy).—Paris.

1280. Dec. 7.—The Duke of Manchester to Alleyne Fitzherbert, Esquire, congratulating him upon his arrival

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

at St. Petersburg, explaining the delay in the signature of the Definitive Treaty with Holland &c. (Copy.)—Paris.

1281. Dec. 7.—The Duke of Manchester to Sir Robert Ainslie, explaining that he was waiting for ciphers before he could communicate anything of importance, and giving reasons for the delay in signing the Definitive Treaty with Holland. (Copy.)—Paris.

1282. Dec. 20.—Lord Charles Montagu to his brother the Duke of Manchester, announcing his arrival near Halifax, with men lately belonging to his regiment (now reduced) for the purpose of forming a colony. He had heard that he had been appointed Governor of Jamaica, but would prefer a more Northern station, and suggested certain arrangements with that object.—Halifax.

[1783?]

1283. Note of the case of two ships belonging to Mr. Grant which had been seized by the Dutch at Surinam in 1781. (In French.)

1784.

1284. Jan. 8.—A. Storer (Chargé d'Affaires at Paris in the Duke's absence), to [the Duke of Manchester], promising to return to England as soon as he received his letters of recall, and thanking the Duke for kindness to him.—Paris.

1285. Jan. 10.—Lord Keppel to the Duke of Manchester, giving some particulars of Sir Edward Hughes' conduct in a naval engagement off Trincomalee on the evening 20th June, and of proceedings at Madras.

1286. Jan. 22.—M. le Comte de Vergennes to [the Duke of Manchester], acknowledging the intimation of the Duke that he had ceased to act as Ambassador but was unable to present, in person, his letters of recall. (French.)—Versailles.

1287. May 13.—P. P. [van de Perre] to [the Duke of Manchester], expressing regret that the latter no longer took part in public affairs. It would be a misfortune if the Definitive Treaty of peace [between England and the Netherlands] were to be concluded on the same terms as the Preliminary Articles. The relations of England, France, and Holland are discussed with some minuteness with respect especially to Indian affairs. (In French.)—Brussels.

1785.

1288. March 1.—The Duke of Portland to [the Duke of Manchester], thanking him for a proxy.

1289. Oct. 6.—Robert Herries to the Duke of Manchester. "Your conjecture of the French Minister's inclination to keep the peace between the Emperor and the Dutch was from a true connaissance de cause. I own that I thought he would not be able to patch up this Peace, and now that it has taken place, I have even my doubts whether all the Provinces will agree to ratify it, or, even if they should, that it will prove lasting. But one thing seems to admit of no doubt, and that is that the Dutch as a State are likely to be totally undone, were it only by their own quarrels among themselves. I wish we may not too soon follow; yet the individuals of both countries are rich and thriving." The writer foresaw danger to English interests from a treaty, said to have been concluded between the English and French East India Companies. London.

1290. Nov. 12.—Copy of the Treaty of Alliance between King of France and the States General of the United Provinces of the Netherlands. (In French. 15 pages.)—Mantenebleau.

1785?

1291. [End of November.]—Portion of the "Morning Chronicle" newspaper.

1785.

1292. Dec. 8.—Portion of the "Morning Chronicle" paper.

[1785?]

1293. Portion of the "Morning Chronicle" newspaper.

[1786.]

1294. Feb. 8.—Mr. Burke to the Duke of Manchester, enclosing enclosure of "the first Article of the specific charges which are to be made with relation to Indian iniquity."—45, Pall Mall.

[1786.]

1295. Rough notes [by the Duke of Manchester] relating to the charges against [Warren] Hastings.

[1786?]

1296. Sketch of the history of India, its princes and its politics from 1765, showing that "however light the natives of Indostan hold their treaties with us, we, on our side, have paid as little regard to those even which we ourselves have framed." (10 pages.)

[1786?]

1297. Feb. 10 — 22.—Notes of proceedings in the House of Commons relative to the defence of the dockyards of Portsmouth and Plymouth.

1786.

1298. March.—Draft of a motion for papers relative to the defence of Portsmouth and Plymouth, "intended to have been made on March 3rd" [by the Duke of Manchester] in case the Commons had not rejected the measures introduced into their House on that subject.

[March 1786?]

1299. Rough draft of a speech to be made by the Duke of Manchester in the House of Lords on National Defence.

1300. Another draft of the same.

1301. "Data" in reference to the same (so far as the fortifications of Portsmouth and Plymouth dockyards were concerned), with notes.

[1786?]

1302. Copy of a Report made by Land and Sea Officers on the defences of Portsmouth and Plymouth, with notes.

1786.

1303. July 14.—Copy of the Convention between His Britannic Majesty and the King of Spain, signed at London. (Printed. pp. 15. In French and English.)—London.

1304. Dec. 2.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], describing the objections of Spain to the commercial Treaty between France and England, and the dangers of civil war in Holland, and giving various items of general foreign news.—Paris.

1787.

1305. List of French and Dutch ships in the East Indies.

1306. Jan. 4.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], giving reasons for believing the Cabinet of France to be in earnest in desiring a reconciliation between the Stadholder and the States, and lists of the French and Spanish navies, with some details affecting the relations of Turkey and Russia.—Paris.

1307. Feb. 2.—Extract from a letter from Paris, touching a commercial Treaty between France and Portugal.

1308. Feb. 22.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], giving some particulars of a projected Treaty of commerce between America and France, of official changes in France, and of news from Russia and Holland.—Paris.

1309. June 14.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], on French naval preparations (with a list of ships at Brest ordered for sea), on the state of affairs in Holland (caused by the quarrel between the Stadholder and the Burgomasters) and its danger to Europe, on the tumultuous meeting of the Janissaries and its probable consequences, and on the imminence of war between Turkey and Russia.—Paris.

1310. July 21.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], on the request of the States of Holland for the mediation of France in the dispute between them and the Stadholder, and on the attitude of Prussia, France, and Austria, and the general foreign news.—Paris.

1311. Aug. 11.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], on the preparations of the Emperor for a campaign in the Netherlands, the attitude of France and Prussia, the movements of the French fleet, &c.—Paris.

1312. Sept. 16.—[F. Taylor] to the Duke of Manchester, on the imminent attack of the Prussians upon Utrecht, the preparations of the French for war on behalf of the States as against the Prince of Orange, &c. There follows an announcement, dated the 18th Sept.,

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

that the Prince of Brunswick had taken possession of Utrecht.—Paris.

1313. Oct. 5.—F. Taylor to [the Duke of Manchester], complaining that he had not obtained his promotion to be Rear-Admiral of the Blue, and had not received the due reward of the "intelligence" supplied by him. On the fly-leaf are (under date Paris, Sept. 28, 1787), some particulars of the naval preparations for war made by France, and some reports concerning the movements of the Russian fleet.

1314. Oct. 6.—M. Boers to [the Duke of Manchester], explaining with some minuteness various details of the constitution and politics of Holland, the insult offered to the Princess of Orange, the action of her brother the King of Prussia in consequence of it, and the attitude subsequently taken up by France. (In French. 7 pages.)—9, Beaufort Buildings, Strand.

1315. Oct. 13.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], on the French preparations for war, especially in the marine, the determination of the Emperor to join the Russians against the Turks, and the prospect of a general conflict throughout Europe.—Paris.

1316. Oct. 17.—The Duke of Portland to [the Duke of Manchester], expressing his opinion that "the protection of the Dutch against a French faction, and the support of the constitution of that country as settled in '46 or '47 was a right and necessary measure," but repudiating the suggestion that he had condescended to communicate his sentiments to "the news writers."—Bulstrode.

1317. Oct. 18.—List of the whole of the French ships of the line fit for service. (In Taylor's handwriting.)

1318. Oct. 27 and Nov. 6.—F. Taylor to [the Duke of Manchester?], giving some details of the movements of Ministers in France, and of the French fleet. He comments upon the discontent existing in France, and adds various small items of "intelligence."—Paris.

1319. List of French ships of war in the West Indies.

1320. Nov. 14.—F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester, mentioning enclosure of a statement of the "naval force of France in the East and West Indies since the hurricane in the Mauritius."

1321. Nov. 14.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], giving news respecting the outbreak of war between Turkey and Russia, French movements, the "very disagreeable appearances of the French people in general against King and Ministers," &c.—Paris.

1322. Nov. 26.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], giving news of defeats of the Russians by the Turks, affairs in Holland, confusion in France, &c.—Paris.

1788.

1323. Jan. 18.—[F. Taylor to the Duke of Manchester], giving the political news of the day from various places, and specially noting French naval and military preparations.—Paris.

1324. Feb. 12.—[Same to same], giving the political news of the day and the names of the French ships which had just sailed from Brest for an unknown destination.—Paris.

1325. Feb. 27.—[Same to same], sketching various probable political combinations as affecting Holland, France, Austria, Turkey, Russia, Spain, and England.—Paris.

1326. March 5.—[Same to same], giving such political news and reports as had reached him, and noting especially the apprehension of a general rising in France.—Paris.

1327. April 6.—[Same to same], giving short items of news from various parts of the world, including Turkey and India.—Paris.

1328. April 21.—[Same to same], giving briefly news and reports from various quarters, and mentioning disturbances in France.—Paris.

1329. April 28.—[Same to same], stating that there were four thousand English sailors in the Russian fleet, and eight thousand French sailors in the Spanish fleet intended to oppose the Russian attempt to pass the Straits of Gibraltar, and mentioning various other reports.—Paris.

1330. May 10.—[Same to same], giving news from various quarters, and a list of French "ships ordered at Toulon," with some account of the dissensions in France.—Paris.

1331. May 18.—[Same to Same] giving an account of the alarming condition of France—regiments refusing to obey orders and sympathising with artificers, &c.—and of reports concerning the war against Turkey, with a list of Spanish ships for the attack of the Russian fleet.—Paris.

1792.

1332. March 2.—Mr. Burke to Lord Hawkesbury, congratulating him on a speech in the House of Commons. (Beginning in the third person and continued in the first.)—Duke Street.

1793.

1333. March 1.—Memorandum that William, Duke of Manchester, took the oaths (before the King in Council) upon appointment to be Lord-Lieutenant of the County of Huntingdon.—St. James's.

[About 1800?]

1334. Undated.—Directions for finding "the error of a watch by equal altitudes of the sun," sent by R. A. Newman of H. M.'s ship "Andromache" to Lieut. Charles Gordon, R. N. of H. M.'s ship "Ariadne" at the Cape of Good Hope.

1801.

1335. Dec. 27.—Baron de Harold, Major-General in "the Elector Bavaro-Palatine's service" to [the Duke of Manchester?], asking him to subscribe ("at the very small price of half a guinea the exemplar") for a copy of the Baron's "Complete Epic Poem in eleven books or cantos on the French Revolution, in English blank verse."—Düsseldorf.

1336. A copy (enclosed in the last mentioned letter) of a "complimentary Latin poem" received by the Baron from "one of the most learned Societies in Enrope" (unnamed), in which England is congratulated on having a new writer in her language at least equal to Milton. Some specimens of the Epic are subjoined, including the invocation to the "Sacred Ghost."

L. OWEN PIKE.

DUKE OF
MANCHESTER.

INDEX TO EIGHTH REPORT APPENDIX, PART II.

A.

- Abbot, Henry; 137 a.
 Abigail :
 the ship; 37 b, 39 a, 41 a, 41 b, 42 a.
 — seamen of, statement by; 43 b.
 Abingdon; 24 a, 61 a.
 document dated at; 63 a.
 late monastery; 24 a, 25 a.
 Lord (1760); 113 b.
 Acts of Parliament concerning suppressed lands, &c., books of, made for Hen. VIII.; 22 b.
 Adderbury :
 co. Oxford; 119 b.
 documents dated at; 119 b, 120 a.
 Addison, Joseph :
 letters of; 14 b, 90 a–100 b, passim.
 orthography of; 14 b.
 Admiral, Vice, a (temp. Henry VIII.), pay of; 3 b.
 Admiralty, the :
 documents dated from; 121 b.
 lords of, letter to (1783); 123 a.
 Adrianople; 68 b.
 Aersen, M. d', letter of; 29 b.
 Africa : coast of; 180 b.
 restitutions in; 186 b.
 African Company, the; 76 a, 80 a, 105 a, 105 b.
 Agard, Thomas, warrant to pay; 21 b.
 Agents, political, or spies, abroad, letters to and from, and memoranda of sums paid to; 14 a, 108 b.
 Aghivillan and Broughes, co. Armagh, freeholders at; 30 b.
 Aglionby :
 Dr.; 78 b.
 Mr.; 107 b.
 Aiguillon, Duc d'; 130 b.
 Ainslie, Sir Robert :
 minister at Constantinople, letters of; 17 b, 126 b.
 letter to; 139 a.
 Albemarle, Earl of :
 letters of (1697); 67 b, 68 a.
 letter to; 68 a.
 letter of (1700); 78 b.
 letter to; 103 b.
 letters to (1701); 13 b, 80 b.
 (1702); 85 b.
 Alen, Sir John; 23 b.
 Alexiano, Nicolas :
 late Capt. of the port at Mahon; 126 b.
 letter of; 121 a. report on his case; ib.
 memorial of; 187 b.
 Alexianos, the, Greek family banished from Spain, case of (1783); 186 b, 188 b.
 Aley, Sir John; 25 a.
 Algiers; 125 b.
 Almanza, victory at; 91 a.
 Almaricus, a doctor of Paris; 54 a.
 Aloft, document dated at; 102 a.
 Alsace; 84 a.
 Alsford, letter dated at; 62 b.
 Alston, Sir Rowland, member for Bedfordshire; 103 b.
 Altona, treaty of (1700); 74 b.
 Ambassadors at Paris (1788), value of proposed presents to, George III.'s remarks on; 19 b, 133 b.
 Ambrose, Mr., of Cambridge; 65 b.
 America, or United States of; 84 b, 121 a.
 the forces in (1742); 111 a.
 and France, copies of treaties between (1778); 120 b.
 commissioners of, articles signed by (1782); 121 b. appointment of minister to; 126 a. articles of peace, &c. (1783); 18 a, 122 a, 129 b, 180 a, 181 a.
 Indians of; 45 a, 46 b, 47 b. plantations in, reports on, by Lord Commissioners of Trade, &c.; 88 a.
 Amersham; 61 a.
 Amongles, camp at, document dated from; 101 b.
 Amsterdam; 54 b.
 documents dated at; 85 a, 102 b.
 Anabaptists; 60 a.
 "Andromache," His Majesty's ship; 140 b.
 Anjou, Duc d' :
 (1700), his proclamation, &c. as Philip V. of Spain; 78 a, 78 b, 83 a, 85 b, 86 a, 86 b, 88 b, 105 b, 106 a.
 See Spain, king of.
 et de Berry, speech to (1699); 72 b.
 Anne, Queen :
 (1701); 80 b, 87 b.
 her children; 87 b.
 her accession; 86 b, 109 b. effects of her accession; 13 b.
 her treaty with the Duke of Savoy (1704); 82 a. address of Lords and Commons to, and her answer; 87 b.
 letters of; 88 b, 89 b.
 letters to; 88 b.
 her business connected with the Union (1707); 89 b. and the Duke of Savoy; 90 a. address of both Houses to (1707); 93 a.
 memorial to; 93 b.
 treaty between Venice and (1707); 94 b.
 her birthday (1708); 95 a. enthusiasm excited at Turin by a picture of; 95 a.
 and Lord Manchester; 98 a. charges against her physicians; 14 b. and Mrs. Masham; 15 a.
 Annesley, Mr.; 98 a.
 Antwerp, document dated from; 111 a.
 Appleby Castle; 118 a.
 Aranda, Comte d', Spanish ambassador, letters of and to; 17 a, 17 b, 122 a, 123 a, 126 a, 127 b, 128 b, 129 a, 129 b, 130 a, 181 a, 136 b, 188 b.
 Archer, Francis, a banker in Spain; 85 b.
 Arderne, Thomas, warrant to pay; 22 a.
 Ardizoni, Count, minister of Duke of Mantua, letter of; 89 b.
 Argall or Argoll :
 Capt., afterwards Sir Samuel, governor of Virginia, &c.; 4 b, 5 b, 34 a, 34 b, 35 a, 35 b, 36 a, 38 b, 40 a, 43 b.
 his voyage in 1612; 31 a.
 petition of; 33 b.
 Argyle, Duke of :
 (1708); 96 b.
 attempt of the Pretender to carry on correspondence with (1742); 15 b, 110 b.
 "Ariadne," His Majesty's ship; 140 b.
 Armenia, church in; 92 a.
 Army, the, committee for advance of money, &c. for (1642), order of; 63 a.
 Armyne, Sir Wm., order of; 64 a.
 Arundle, P., letters of; 41 a, 42 a.
 Ashbrooke, Lord (1766), marriage of; 118 b.
 Assassination plot, the; 87 b, 88 a.
 Ascher (Esher) park; 22 b.
 Astell, Wm. Thornton, of co. Huntingdon; 121 b.
 Asturias, the, Princess of; 132 a.
 Athen :
 Edward; 8 b, 36 a.
 — letters of; 82 a, 32 b, 33 a.
 Atherton, Richard, description of land by; 30 b.
 Athlone, document dated at; 30 b.
 Athol, Duke of (1708); 98 a.
 Atkins :
 Mr., Virginia planter; 6 a, 41 b.
 John; 26 a.
 Atterbury, Bishop; 113 a.
 Attorney-General, the (temp. Hen. VIII.), fees of; 3 b.
 Attorneys' costs and fees (1536); 20 a.
 Attowell, Atwell, Thomas; 34 a, 34 b.
 Audeley :
 Sir Thomas, Lord Audeley of Walden, Lord Chancellor (1538); 25 a.
 — warrant to pay, and receipt of; 26 b.
 Lady Elizabeth, his wife; ib.
 Auersberg, Count, to leave Madrid; 79 a.
 Augmentations, court of :
 documents (temp. Hen. VIII.); 3 a.
 their value in relation to history of prices; 3 b.
 fees, &c. of, officers of (temp. Hen. VIII.); ib.
 orders, accounts, and other papers in connection with (1536), treasurer of, warrants, &c. to; 30 a, et seq.
 officers of, erection of a house at Westminster for (1537); 21 a. charges for work in connection with; 25 b, 36 a.
 Augsburg; 111 b.
 document dated at; 67 b.
 Aureli, Aurelio, sonnet by; 94 a.
 Austria :
 Emperor of (1700–8), his proceedings connected with the Partition Treaty, &c.; 74 b–107 b, passim.
 Archduke Charles, of; 77 b.
 Avaux :
 M. or Comte d'; 80 b, 83 b, 104 a, 106 a, 107 b, 108 a.
 — memorial of; 82 b.
 — proposition to; 83 a.

Avis, Wm., letter of; 34 b.
 Ayloff, Col., his regiment; 61 b.
 Ayrol, James d', secretary at the Hague, letter to; 103 a.
 Azores, the; 67 a.

B.

- Baall, Mr.; 61 a.
 "Bab, Lady," death of; 117 b.
 Backwell, Alderman; 120 a.
 Bacon :
 Nath., letter of; 62 b.
 — declaration signed by; ib.
 Sir Nicholas, keeper of Great Seal, warrant to; 26 b.
 Baden; 92 b.
 documents dated from; 85 b.
 Prince of (1697); 67 b.
 — (1701); 81 a.
 Baker, Mr., the King's (Hen. VIII.) attorney; 21 b.
 Bakewell, document dated from; 63 a.
 Baldewyn :
 Sir John, Chief Justice, his house in Buckinghamshire; 20 b.
 — Chief Justice of Common Pleas, order to pay, and receipt of; 24 a.
 Bâle :
 document dated from; 75 a.
 Diet at, memorial presented to (1700); 75 a.
 Ball, Mr., preacher of the Gospel, letter to; 55 b.
 Ballads, "cosening"; 45 a.
 Balloons, manufacture of; 138 b.
 Ballymore, manor of, barony of Orier, description of; 30 a.
 Bampford, Mr.; 32 a.
 Barbadoes, document dated from; 121 a.
 Barber :
 Mr.; 47 b.
 Gabriel; 45 b.
 — petition to; 49 b.
 — and Sir Thos. Smith; 5 a.
 — and Sir E. Sandys; 42 b.
 Barbier, John, condemned to the galleys; 108 a.
 Barcelona; 101 a, 102 a.
 letters dated at; 86 a, 95 a, 99 b, 100 b, 101 a.
 Barford, Mr. John, merchant, of London, assumed address; 109 a.
 Bargrave :
 Capt. John; 5 a, 42 b, 45 b.
 — petition and letter of; 47 b.
 — answer to complaints of; 48 a.
 Bariatinsky, M., letter of; 130 b.
 Barker, Capt.; 32 b.
 Barlegh, Somerset, late monastery; 25 b.
 Barnard :
 Capt.; 38 a.
 Dr., provost of Eton; 118 a.
 Barnes, "brother and sister"; 33 b.
 Barnstaple; 48 b, 49 a.
 documents dated at; 33 b.
 Barrelet, a Swiss, mistaken for Chevalier Durand; 137 b, 138 a.
 Barrimore, Lord (1742); 110 b.
 Barwick :
 Capt.; 89 a.
 Mr., parson of Much Stambridge, letter of; 27 a.
 — depositions taken by; 27 a.
 Basing, siege at; 61 a.
 Bateman, Mr.; 42 a.
 — letter to; 39 a.
 Bath; 9 b, 22 a, 29 a, 56 b, 115 b, 117 a, 118 a, 119 a.
 Lady Huntington's chapel at; 118 a.
 Bavaria; 85 a.
 Elector of (1700-8); 82 b, 85 a, 103 a, 105 b.
 Duke of, rumoured death of (1700); 103 b.
 — (1701); 79 b.
 Englishmen no favourites in (1758); 111 b.
 Baylye :
 Capt.; 32 b.
 Thomas, receipts of; 24 a, 25 a.
 Baynton, Sir Edward, wounded in a duel; 9 b, 56 b.
 Bear hunt; 92 b.
 Beard :
 Richard, his ship; 105 b.
 Thos., D.D., certificate of; 50 b.
 Beauchamp (Bechem) :
 Lord (1537); 23 b.
 — (1760); 113 a.
 Beaunfort :
 document dated at; 126 b.
 Duke of (1761); 113 b.
 Beaulieu, Lady; 116 b, 118 a.
 Beck, Charles, bill of; 32 b.
 Beckwith, John, letter of; 38 b.
 Beckwith, John, drowned; 84 a.
 Beconsfield; 61 a.
 Bedell, W., provost of Trin. Coll., Dublin, letter of; 50 a.
 Bedells, Sir Capel; 56 b.
 Bedford; 62 b.
 document dated at; 62 a.
 Earl of, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 — retires from Sherborne Castle (1642); 59 a.
 — his brother in law; ib.
 Duke of (1766), and his "dab of blue riband"; 119 a.
 Beeston, Wm., governor of Jamaica; 70 b.
 Beheathland, Capt. Robert, petition of; 33 b.
 Belhaven, Lord; 98 a.
 Bell :
 Capt. Philip, governor of the Bermudas or Summer Islands; 8 a.
 — his scheme to possess certain islands; ib.
 — account by, of dispute with his predecessor; 48 a.
 — letters of; 48 b, 49 a.
 Bellasis, John, governor of Newark, answer of, to summons to surrender; 63 a.
 Belvoir or Beavor Castle; 59 b, 62 a.
 Benchling, M. de, Chancellor of Poland (1700); 79 a.
 Bendyshe, Thomas, letter of; 62 b.
 Benchame House, Norfolk, suppression of; 24 b.
 Bentley :
 Richard, or "Cliquetis"; 16 a, 16 b, 113 a, 116 a, 117 a, 117 b, 118 b, 120 a.
 — his epistle to Lord Melcomb; 115 a.
 — his play; 114 b, 115 a, 115 b.
 — his epistle; 116 a.
 — his tragedy; 119 a.
 Madame; 118 b.
 Berkeley, Lord (1660), letter of; 66 a.
 Berkenroode, M. de, Dutch ambassador at Paris; 17 b, 126 a, 127 b, 136 a, 138 a.
 Berkshire, Earl of, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 Berlin; 17 b, 70 b, 89 b.
 documents dated at; 70 b, 74 a, 74 b, 85 a, 90 a, 91 a, 95 a, 130 b.
 Bermudas, or Summer Islands :
 the colonisation of, &c.; 2 a, 3 a, 4 a, 6 b, 31 a-49 b, passim.
 Presbyterianism in (1617); 6 b.
 Company; 6 b, 7 b.
 plague of rats; 6 b, 32 a. dissensions and religious disputes in; 7 a. piracy (1620); 7 b. grievances and inquiry (1623); 7 b, 8 a.
 Bernard :
 Pietro, wager by; 94 a.
 Robert, letter of; 64 a.
 Berne, Bern :
 canton of; 76 a, 92 b.
 documents dated at; 75 b, 76 a, 85 b, 86 a, 86 b, 88 b, 93 a, 94 b-101 b, passim, 123 b, 132 a.
 Berri, Duc de (1701); 107 b.
 Berriman, Mr., clerk, depositions taken by; 27 a.
 Bertie, Peregrine; 61 b.
 Berwick :
 Duke of (1708); 96 b.
 mayor of; 97 a.
 Beryman, Mr.; 27 a.
 Best :
 Christopher, letter of; 43 a.
 Thomas, letter of; 41 b.
 Bevell, Bevell :
 Sir Robert; 3 a.
 — letter to; 50 b.
 — letter to; 56 a.
 Lady, letter to; 58 a.
 — illness of her husband; ib.
 Lady Essex, letter to; 56 b.
 — her sister; ib.
 Eliz., v. Robert Bevell (1688), notes; 50 a.
 Beverley, Mr.; 103 b.
 Bewley, —; 22 b.
 Bidal, Abbé; 75 b.
 Biff, musician; 92 a.
 Biggleswade, document dated at; 101 b.
 Bisham (Bishampton) :
 monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Abbot of; 25 a.
 "the book for;" 25 a.
 Bitche :
 fortress of, resolutions touching; 82 a. county of; 87 b.
 Blackall, "would not be made Bp. of Exeter" (1707); 90 a.
 Blackwell :
 Sir Lambert, letters of; 13 b, 75 b, 76 a, 86 b, 87 a, 88 b.
 — speech of; 75 b.
 Blaine, Mr., in Virginia; 40 a.
 Blake, Richard, warrant for his arrest; 59 b.
 Blamont, Burgundy, land, &c. of; 79 a.
 Bland, General; 111 a.
 Blankett, J., letters of; 16 b, 120 b.
 Blathwayt, William, Secretary at War, letters of and to, &c.; 13 b, 70 a, 70 b, 76 a, 76 b, 77 a, 77 b, 84 b, 88 a, 103 b, 104 a, 104 b, 105 a.

- Blenheim : battle of; 14 a, 111 b.
 co. Oxford, furnishing of; 15 a.
 — buildings at; 101 a.
 — visit to (1770) described; 120 a.
 "Blessing," the ship; 34 a.
- Blisson :
 M.; 76 b, 78 a.
 — letter of; 78 a.
- Blundell, Sir Francis, letters of; 30 b, 31 a.
- Boccone, Don Silvio, Cistercian monk, letter of; 73 a.
- Boers, M., letter of; 140 a.
- Boerts, M.; 127 b, 137 a.
- Bohemia; 110 b.
 Elizabeth, Queen of; 2 b.
 — letter of; 65 b.
- Bohuh :
 Dr., physician to colony of Virginia; 37 b.
 Capt. Laurence, petition of; 33 b.
- Bolderton, document dated at; 63 a.
- Bolingbroke, Earl of, letter to (1630); 50 b.
- Bolton, S., letters of; 64 a.
- "Bona Nova," the ship; 7 b, 35 a, 37 b.
- "Bonaventure," the ship; 59 a.
- Bonde :
 John, vicar in Rochdale hundred, deposition of; 27 a.
 Wm., of Northampton; 26 b.
 Sir Wm., of Highgate, authorisation of; 31 a.
- Boninchini, musician; 89 b, 90 a.
- Bonn, documents dated from; 83 b, 123 b.
- Bonneval, Alexandre de, letter of; 99 b.
- Boothby, Richard, information submitted by; 59 b.
- Boreas, Lord (1766); 119 a.
- Borneo, factory at; 98 b.
- Boscawen, Capt.; 119 b.
- Boscelli, Boselly, Boscoli :
 Count, case of; 71 a, 72 a, 76 b, 80 a, 104 b, 106 a, 107 b, 108 a.
 — petition of; 82 b.
 — his escape from the Bastille; 84 a.
- Boston :
 co. Lincoln, threatened by the King's army (1644); 60 a.
 Massachusetts, documents dated at; 49 b.
- Bosworth, Edward, letter of; 59 b.
- Botterell, Wm., letter of; 61 a.
- Bougenon, county of; 87 b.
- Boughton, documents dated at; 55 b, 57 a, 58 b.
- Bouillon, Cardinal de; 104 a.
- Boundy, Rev. Peter, Duke of Manchester's chaplain, letter of; 103 b.
- Bourbon :
 house of, and Spain; 88 a.
 houses of; 137 b.
- Bourchier, Sir Henry; 30 b.
- Bourgogne, Duc et Duchesse de, speeches to (1699); 72 b.
- Boury, M., letters of; 90 a, 92 a.
- Bow, Alderman Johnson's house at; 47 b.
- Boxgrave monastery, relics from; 21 b.
- Boyle :
 Secretary (1708); 95 a, 98 a, 100 a.
 — letter to; 102 a.
 Mrs.; 87 b.
 H., letters of; 89 b, 99 a.
 Richard, letter to; 41 b.
- Bradford, Lord, illness of (1700); 77 a.
- Bradshaw, John, president; 66 a.
- Bragott, —, prescription by; 29 a.
- Brampton, minister of; 63 a.
- Bramston, Sir John, letter of; 56 a.
- Brandenburg, Elector of (1700), afterwards King of Prussia; 74 a, 77 a, 78 a, 105 a, 106 a.
 See Prussia, King of.
- Brantsen, Mr., Dutch minister at Paris, letters of, &c.; 17 b, 136 a, 127 b, 138 a.
- Braun :
 Col., letter of; 132 a.
 Louis, envoy in Switzerland; 123 b.
- Brazil; 88 b.
- Brecknock :
 monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Lewis, late prior of Monkton Farleigh, receipt of; 22 a.
- Brest; 85 b, 96 b, 108 a, 109 a, 139 b, 140 a.
 list of French navy at (1770); 120 b.
- Bretagne; 72 a.
- Breteuil :
 M. or Baron de, his introduction into French cabinet (1783); 18 b, 129 a.
 — and Comte de Vergennes, intrigues between; 18 b.
- Breuille, Comte de; 85 b.
- Brigg :
 Henry, letter of; 42 a.
 Thomas, letter to; 42 a.
- Bright, Lady Lucy; 66 b.
- Brill, the; 85 b.
- Briord :
 Comte de, French ambassador at the Hague; 82 a, 106 a.
 — memorial of; 83 a.
- Brisac, restoration of; 70 b.
- Bristol; 112 b, 126 b.
 Earl of (1640); 11 a, 57 b.
 — instructions to; 57 a.
 — (1641); 58 a.
- Bristow, Mr., Treasury contract with; 111 a.
- Britanny; 136 b.
- Brocard, Broccard :
 a spy; 105 a, 107 a.
 — his salary; 75 b.
- Broghill, Lord, letter of (1660); 65 a.
- Bromley, Mr.; 96 a.
- Brooke :
 Lord, petition to (1634); 49 b.
 — (1639); 49 b.
 — his forces; 55 a.
 — and army oath; ib.
 — instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 — (1652); 64 b.
- Brother Islands, the; 32 a.
- Broughes, Aghivillan and, co. Armagh, freeholders at; 30 b.
- Broughton, Hugh, British consul at Venice, letters of; 13 b, 71 a, 82 a, 86 b, 87 a, 89 b, 103 a.
- Brough or Burgh, William, receipt of; 24 b.
- Brown :
 fair widow; 113 b.
 Col.; 99 b.
 Mr.; 22 b, 23 a.
 — at Venice; 99 a.
 Gilbert, payment to; 24 b.
 Richard, letter of; 86 b.
- Brownists, the; 45 b.
- Brownlowe, William, names of his tenants; 30 a.
- Bruce of Kinross, Sir W.; 98 a.
- Brudenell :
 Lord (1643); 59 b.
 Mr., his marriage; 113 a.
- Bruges; 137 a.
- Brugiotti, Antonio, of Rome; 29 a.
- Brunston, document dated at; 63 b.
- Brunswick; 78 b.
- Brussels; 17 b, 86 b, 98 b, 102 a.
 documents dated from; 71 a, 89 a, 89 b, 93 a, 98 b, 123 a, 124 a, 125 b, 139 a.
 Bavarian troops at; 79 b.
- Bruyninx, J. J. Hamel, Dutch envoy at Vienna; 89 a.
 letters of; 88 b, 89 b, 90 a.
 memorial of; 94 a.
- Buccari, projected free port (1707); 94 a, 97 b.
- Buckhurst :
 Lord (1589); 27 b.
 — (1603); 28 a.
- Buckingham, Duke of, letter of (1625); 29 b.
- Buckley, Thos., treasurer of Eastern Counties Association, statement by; 60 a.
- Buen Retiro, document dated at; 83 b.
- Bugden; 58 a.
- Bulkeley, Sir Richard; 37 b.
- Bullen, Duke of; 51 a.
- Bulstrode :
 document dated from; 140 a. portrait gallery at; 116 b.
 Henry, sergeant-at-arms, warrant to; 65 b.
- Burby, Tho., letter of; 29 a.
- Burgoyne :
 Col.; 119 b.
 Sir R.; 110 b.
- Burgundy :
 settlement affecting (1699); 70 a.
 claim of Montbeliard to lands, &c. in; 79 a.
 Duchy of, treaty touching (1610); 102 b.
 Duke and Duchess of, credentials for Earl of Manchester to (1699); 70 a.
 — (1701); 104 a.
- Burials, ancient and laudable custom at; 36 a.
- Burke :
 suspected of piracy; 72 a.
 Edmund; 2 b.
 — letters of; 19 b, 139 a, 140 b.
- Burimachi; 30 a.
- Burnby, Henry, bailiff of the hundred of Toseland, petition of; 63 b.
- Burnett, Mr., his directions for cure of "vapours"; 51 a.
- Burrell, Peter, Treasury contract with; 111 a.
- Burse, the [Hertogenbush, or Bois le Duc?]; 50 b.
- Burton, Capt. Wm.; 115 a.
- Bury St. Edmunds; 60 a, 62 b.
 document dated from; 62 b.
- Bussolino, camp at; 99 b.
- Bussy, Marquis de, letter to (1783); 137 a.
- Bute, Earl of (1762); 115 b.
- Butler :
 James, his charges against Governor Butler; 38 a.
 Capt. Nathaniel, Governor of the Bermudas or Summer Islands; 4 b, 7 a, 7 b, 8 b, 34 a, 87 b, 39 b, 43 b.
 — letters of; 34 b-37 a, 43 b, 47 b.
 — his "Unmasking of Virginia"; 5 b, 46 a.
 Wm.; 106 b.

Buttley, late priory of; 24 b.
 Byng, Bing :
 Mr., member for Bedfordshire; 103 b, 109 b.
 Sir George, Admiral; 97 a, 97 b, 98 a, 98 b.
 George; 180 a, 181 b.
 Byron :
 Lord, trial of (1765); 117 b.
 Sir Richard, governor of Newark; 60 b.
 Byston House, Norfolk, suppression of; 24 b.

C.

Cadix; 84 b.
 governor of; 84 a.
 French squadron at; 81 b.
 British ships of war at; 85 a.
 Cadogan, Mr.; 96 b.
 Major-Gen. Wm., letters of; 93 a, 98 b.
 — appointed envoy extraordinary to the United Provinces (1707); 93 a.
 Cagliari, capture of; 101 b.
 Caillaud :
 Etienne, informer; 14 a, 84 b, 108 b.
 — letters of; 85 b, 86 b.
 — letters to; 109 a, 109 b.
 Calais; 137 a, 138 a.
 document dated at; 138 a.
 Cambden, the young Viscount (1648); 59 b.
 Cambridge :
 Committee of Associated Counties at, &c.; 60 a-63 a, passim.
 — declaration of; 62 b.
 — orders touching; ib.
 arms, &c., sent to; 61 a.
 parliament forces, conference touching (1645); 62 a.
 disputes between University and (1645); 62 b. mayor of, his oath; ib.
 University of; 33 b, 73 b.
 — fellowships in; 65 b.
 — scholar of; 8 b.
 — papers relating to; 10 a.
 — reluctant to accept a commonwealth without a king; 12 a, 63 b.
 — orders of Lords and Commons touching (1645); 62 b.
 — disputes between town and (1645); ib.
 — chancellorship of; 12 b, 64 a.
 — office of high steward; 67 b.
 — election of high steward (1765); 117 b.
 — high steward of, Lord Hardwick; 120 a.
 — Esquire Bedell of; 67 b. madrigal, a (temp. Jac. I.); 29 b. plate for the north (1642); 11 a, 59 a.
 Caius College; 63 a.
 — fellowship of; 65 b.
 Christ's College; 62 a.
 "the Assembly" at; 62 a.
 Clare Hall; 117 b.
 Emanuel College; 4 a, 28 b.
 King's College; 63 a.
 Peterhouse, document dated at; 51 a.
 Queen's College, document dated at; 67 b.
 St. John's College; 63 a.
 Sidney College, document dated at; 50 b.
 Trinity College, documents dated at; 62 b, 63.
 — extract from MS. in; 27 a.
 Trinity Hall; 63 b.
 Camden, Lord (1783); 131 a, 133 a.
 Came, —, merchant, of Plymouth; 31 a.
 Camock, Capt.; 49 a.
 Campbell :
 Capt.; 107 b.
 Rear-admiral; 123 a.
 Camswell, —; 23 a.
 Camus, Col. Broune de, letter of; 97 b.
 Can, Ambrose, case of; 83 b.
 Canada :
 governor of (1700); 78 a.
 — (1788); 130 a.
 Candish, Cavendish, Mr.; 59 b.
 Canner, Phœbus, letter of; 41 b.
 Canning, Mr., letters to; 41 a, 41 b.
 Cantata composed by the Emperor of Germany; 90 a.
 Canterbury; 24 a.
 mayor of (1702); 87 a.
 — letter to; 86 b.
 the king's new park; 26 b.

Canterbury—cont.
 archbishop of (1535), letter of; 30 a.
 — (1536), his lands at Otford; ib.
 — (1537); 22 a, 23 a.
 — (1538); 25 a.
 — exchange of lands between Hen. VIII. and; 24 a.
 — (1623); 45 b.
 — William Laud (1640); 9 b, 56 b.
 Cape of Good Hope :
 the Dutch colony there; 16 b, 133 b, 137 b, 140 b.
 document dated from; 120 b.
 the Dutch in; ib.
 Capital punishment in the colonies; 9 a.
 Cappe :
 William; 42 a.
 — letters of; 39 b, 41 a.
 Captain of H.M. ship, a (temp. Hen. VIII.), pay of; 3 b.
 Cardigan, Lord (1708); 96 b.
 Cardonnel, A., secretary to Duke of Marlborough; 98 b.
 letter of; 91 b.
 Carew :
 Sir George, his diet, &c.; 22 a.
 Lady, verses to; 63 b.
 Carleton, Sir Dudley, ambassador at Venice in 1610, extracts from correspondence of; 103 a.
 Carlisle :
 Lord (1629); 8 a, 49 a.
 Lady (1640); 10 a, 56 b.
 — (1760); 113 a.
 "Goody"; 118 b.
 Carlyle, Mr. Thomas, notes by, on Cromwell; 60 a, 62 a.
 Carmarthen, Marquis of :
 president of the Council (1690); 66 b.
 (1783); 131 a.
 Carncross :
 Major; 180 a.
 Mr.; 131 b.
 Carolina, North, governorship of (1732); 109 b.
 Carpi; 104 a, 108 a.
 Carre, Mr.; 94 a.
 Carribee Islands, the; 7 b, 35 a, 49 a.
 Carrickfergus, attack at; 16 a, 115 a.
 Carshalton, document dated from; 111 a.
 Carter, Mr.; 49 b.
 Cartwright, Lieut.-Col. Geo., articles of agreement by; 60 b.
 Cassel; 84 b.
 Castries, Maréchal or Marquis de, letters of and to; 17 a, 17 b, 123 b, 124 a, 125 b, 126 a, 127 a, 128 a, 136 a, 137 a, 137 b, 138 a.
 Caswell, Mr.; 47 b, 49 a.
 Catalonia; 88 b, 93 b, 96 b, 97 b, 99 b.
 Catholics (English), letter to; 28 b.
 Catinat, M. de; 88 a.
 Caulfield :
 Lord (1622), letter of; 30 b.
 — (1625), letter of; 31 a.
 Cavendish :
 Lord, and the Virginia Company (1619); 4 b.
 — (1623); 38 a, 45 a.
 — answer to petition exhibited by; 43 b.
 — Council order for confinement of; 45 b.
 — his threatened duel with Lord Warwick; 5 a, 29 b.
 Cecil, Robert, document signed by; 28 a.
 Cephalonia, island of; 102 b.
 Ceylon; 16 b.
 the Dutch and Portuguese at; 120 b.
 Chadocke, Capt.; 49 a.
 Chaloner, James, letters of and to; 64 a.
 Chamber, Thomas, letter of; 27 a.
 Chamberlain, Sir James, his son; 112 b.
 Chamilly :
 M. or Comte de; 71 a, 75 b.
 letter of; 75 b.
 Chamock, Capt.; 49 a.
 Chandanagore; 132 b.
 Charlemont :
 Lord (1761), his villa in Dublin (?); 114 b.
 — (1762); 115 a.
 Charles I. :
 feasts the French ambassador at Windsor (1629); 9 b, 50 b. argument for depriving him of his life; 11 a.
 and the Scottish Commissioners (1639); 11 a, 57 a. petition to, for summoning Parliament (1640); 57 a. sign manual of; 55 a.
 his army (1639), oath to be taken by; 55 a. going to Newcastle; 57 b.
 letter of (1644); 61 b.
 his message to Parliament (1646); 62 b.
 his proposed return to London (1646); 63 a. disposal of his person, list of committee to confer with Commissioners of Scotland; 63 a.
 — conference touching; ib.
 pictures and statues of, bought in open market; 66 a. assistance to, from King of Denmark; 102 b.

- Charles II. :
 letters on his restoration ; 65 a. petitions to ; 65 b. and the Duchess of York, their deaths in the Catholic faith ; 77 a.
 his declaration that he was a Roman Catholic, printed by James II. ; 105 b.
 warrant of ; 65 b.
- Charles III. of Spain (1707) ; 90 a, 91 b, 93 a, 99 b.
- Chartres, Duc et Duchesse de, speeches to (1699) ; 72 b.
- Chateau-Renaud, French squadron under ; 84 b, 108 a, 109 a.
- Châtelot, Burgundy, land, &c. of ; 79 a.
- Chatham, Lord, said to have given 10,000*l.* for one article of intelligence ; 120 b.
- Chaumont, document dated at ; 101 a.
- Cheeke :
 Lady Essex, letters of ; 9 b, 56 a, 56 b, 58 a, 61 a, 64 b.
 — her spelling ; 9 b.
 — her sons Jack and Robert ; 56 b.
 Sir Thomas, his daughter Anne ; 3 a.
- Chelsea ; 29 b, 59 a, 61 a.
 documents dated at ; 30 b, 37 b.
 king's manor of ; 21 a.
- Cherbury, Lord Herbert of ; 117 b.
- Chertsey ; 22 b.
 abbey of ; 22 a, 24 a.
 late abbot of ; 25 a.
- Cheshire ; 62 b.
- Chester :
 co. palatine, jurisdiction of ; 27 a.
 Bishop of (1707) ; 90 a.
- Chesterfield, tithes and rectory of ; 63 a.
- Chetwynd :
 Mr. ; 99 a, 106 a.
 — (secretary of Earl of Manchester) his arrest at Valenciennes ; 76 b, 104 a.
 J., letters of ; 89 a–101 b, passim.
 William, letters of ; 93 a, 93 b, 101 a, 101 b.
- Chevalier, M. ; 185 a.
- Chiari ; 104 b.
 engagement at ; 108 a.
- Chichely, Mr. ; 59 b.
- Chichester :
 Lord, Arthur (1623), letter of ; 29 b.
 — answer to propositions by ; 47 a.
- “Chickahominies' country” (Virginia) ; 40 b.
- Chicksands ; 117 b.
- Chidly, Capt. ; 32 b.
- Child, Sir Francis, his son ; 90 b.
- Chippenham, letter dated at ; 65 a.
- Chistlet Park ; 24 a.
- Chiswick, documents dated at ; 132 a, 133 a, 133 b.
- Chiusano, the Principe di ; 101 b.
- Cholmondeley :
 domain and castle of ; 120 a.
 General ; 111 a.
- Chronology, old and new styles of, precautions against misinterpretation of ; 12 b.
- Chudleigh, Miss ; 116 a.
- Church : government, papers concerning ; 10 b.
 statutes, controversy about (1708) ; 97 a.
- Churchill, Lady Mary (1764) ; 117 a.
- Chute :
 Mr., friend of Horace Walpole ; 16 b, 112 b, 113 a, 113 b, 116 a, 116 b, 117 a.
 — his seat the Vine ; 114 a.
 George (1609) ; 28 b.
- Cicel, Dr. ; 110 b.
- Cinque Ports, warden of ; 50 b.
- Citardie, M. de la ; 88 a.
- Clambresaill, note of tenants in ; 30 a.
- Clapham, Mr., of Huntingdon ; 59 a.
- Clarendon, Countess of ; 87 b.
- Clarke :
alias Valiere (1708), examination of ; 96 a, 96 b, 97 a.
 Elizabeth ; 34 b.
alias Cosmo, Father, a spy ; 105 b.
- Clergy in Essex, book on state of (1603) ; 27 b.
- “Cliquetis” (or Bentley) ; 16 a, 114 a–117 a, passim.
 his “fondling hospital” ; 112 b.
 his honest woman ; 118 b.
- Clive :
 Mrs. ; 16 b, 115 a, 116 b, 119 a.
 — her benefit ; 114 a.
- Clotworthy, Margaret, letter of ; 59 b.
- Coals, farm of, representations concerning ; 59 a.
- Cobham, Lord (1589) ; 27 b.
- Coblentz ; 99 b.
- Codnor, co. Derby ; 31 a.
- Coetlogon, M. ; 85 b.
- Coin, export of ; 37 a.
- Coke, Sir John, secretary ; 57 b, note.
- Colbrand, Richard, letter of ; 65 b.
- Colechester ; 23 b.
 election at ; 111 a.
- Cole :
 Mr. ; 101 b, 102 a.
 — letters to ; 91 b, 92 b.
 C., secretary at Vienna (1708), letters of ; 100 b, 103 a.
 — his speech ; 102 a.
 John, letter of ; 85 a.
- Coleraine :
 Lord, letter to (1644) ; 61 b.
 — his house at Longford made a garrison ; ib.
- Colewell, — ; 22 b.
- Colladon, John, physician, petition of ; 65 b.
- Collet, John, letters of ; 125 b, 133 b.
- Collingwood, E., secretary of Virginia Co. ; 46 b.
- Colne, monastery, relics from ; 21 b.
- Cologne :
 letters dated at ; 67 b, 82 a. elector of (1701) ; 107 a.
 — (1702) ; 85 a.
 electors of, proposition to and reply (1701) ; 83 b.
- Colonna :
 Dom Pedro, Spanish ambassador in England (1699), paper addressed to the Lords by ; 71 a.
 — remonstrance of ; ib.
 — notice to quit England, and his reply thereto ; ib.
- Colonial affairs, papers relating to ; 31 a, et seq.
- Colonists in Virginia and the Bermudas, treatment of ; 6 a, 7 b.
- Comaccio, seizure of ; 99 b.
- Comazzi, Count, statement of ; 94 b.
- Come, M. la ; 96 a.
- Comenius :
 Comna or Komensky, letters of ; 10 b.
 — his “Pansophia” ; ib.
- Comet, appearance of a (1702) ; 86 a.
- Commachio :
 a harbour ; 99 b.
 document dated from ; 99 b.
- Commenius, letters of ; 54 b.
- Commons, House of :
 list of members (1614) ; 4 a, 28 b.
 names of members who are adventurers in Virginia Co., &c. ; 46 a.
 petition to ; 47 b.
 Committee of Grievances, abstract of report (1626) ; 50 a. debate in, described by Addison (1707) ; 91 b.
- Comna, Komentsky or Comenius, letters of ; 54 b.
- Confession, reflections on ; 63 b.
- Congreve, songs, &c. of ; 115 b.
- Conolly, Mr. ; 131 b.
- Constable, Stephen, letter of ; 59 b.
- Constance, Marquis de (1707) ; 93 b.
- Constantinople ; 17 b, 132 a.
 Pera of, documents dated from ; 90 a, 92 a.
- Conti, Prince de (1707) ; 91 a.
- Conway :
 Col., and Lady C. Petersham ; 15 b.
 — chanson by Horace Walpole on ; 111 b.
 General ; 114 b, 116 a, 116 b, 117 a, 117 b, 118 a, 119 a.
 Secretary, letter to ; 29 b.
- Copeland :
 Joan, order to pay ; 23 a.
 Patrick, letter of ; 48 b.
- Copenhagen :
 documents dated at ; 71 a, 71 b, 77 b, 84 a. bombarded by Sir Geo. Rooke ; 76 a.
- Cork ; 123 b.
- Corkington, Devon ; 31 a.
- Cornaro :
 M. ; 100 a.
 Signor, letter of ; 91 b.
- Cornish, Admiral ; 118 a.
- Cornwell, Veltus, member of Parliament ; 110 b.
- Cosby, Mrs., aunt to Geo. Montagu ; 116 a.
- Cosmo, alias Clark, Father, a spy ; 105 b.
- Cotterel, Sir Charles ; 116 a.
- Court of High Commission, order of ; 27 a.
- Council, the :
 letter and instructions of ; 50 b, 66 b. order of, on tobacco ; 41 a.
 letters to ; 30 a, 50 a.
 petitions to ; 45 b, 47 a.
 orders of ; ib., 65 a.
- Courland forts, the ; 77 b.
- Coventry :
 a pastor of ; 51 a.
 document dated at ; 59 a.
 lord keeper (1630), instructions signed by ; 50 b.
- Coverham (Covenham), monastery, relics from ; 21 b.
- Cowper :
 William ; 24 b.
 — receipt of ; 24 a.
 — mem. of his expenses ; 25 a.
 Lord, letters of (1707) ; 14 b, 90 b.
- “Craftsman,” the ; 110 b.
- Craig, Sir James, conveyance by ; 30 a.
- Crane, the, tavern or wharf (Westminster ?) ; 22 b, 24 b.
- Cranfield, Lord Treasurer, letters, &c. to ; 37 b, 38 b, 41 a, 46 b, 47 b.

- Cranmer, Thomas, Archbishop, letter of; 20 a.
 Cranstoun, Lord (1783); 136 b.
 Craufurd, Crawford :
 Major-Gen. Laurence; 60 a, 62 b.
 — letters of; 62 a, 62 b.
 — articles of agreement by; 60 b.
 — "A Brief Recollection of Passages in my Lord of Manchester's Army," attributed to; 62 a.
 Cremona, surprise of, by Prince Eugene; 85 b, 88 a.
 Cresset :
 James, letters of; 69 b, 72 a-80 a, passim, 90 a.
 — letters to; 71 b, 77 b.
 Crewe, J., letters of; 11 b, 61 a.
 Crewe Hall, description of (1763); 116 a.
 Cricket, game of; 119 a.
 Crillon, Duc de, letter to (1782); 121 a.
 Crimea, the, colonisation of; 125 b.
 Crocetta, document dated at; 99 a.
 Crok, Mr.; 23 b.
 Cromwell :
 Lord, letter to (1622); 29 b.
 Henry, at Huntingdon; 11 a, 59 a.
 J., certificate of; 65 a.
 Oliver; 65 a.
 — letter of (1644); 60 a.
 — certificate touching (1630); 50 b.
 — Colonel; 60 a.
 — Lieut.-General; 11 b, 61 a.
 — his quarrel with Earl of Manchester, papers touching; 11 b, 62 a.
 Sir Oliver; 56 b.
 — appointed Custos Rotulorum of co. Huntingdon; 28 b.
 Thomas; 2 b.
 — letter of; 25 b.
 — letter to; 20 a.
 Croshaw, Capt.; 39 a.
 Crowe, Christopher, letter of; 93 a.
 Crowland; 61 b.
 Croy, M. le Maréchal, Duc de; 138 a.
 Croydon, document dated at; 20 a.
 Cuddington; 25 b.
 Cullington, Surrey, king's manor of; 25 a.
 Culworth, manor of; 64 b.
 Cumberland :
 royalist forces raised in; 60 b.
 Duke of; 16 b.
 — (1746); 111 b.
 — (1765); 118 a.
 — report of his death (1769); 120 a.
 — and Duchess (1783); 138 a.
 Mr. [Richard]; 114 a.
 — his comic opera; 16 b, 118 a.
 — "The Brothers," by; 120 a.
 Curtotone, imperial camp at, document dated from; 87 a.
 Cust :
 Saville, letters of; 15 b, 110 a.
 Savile Cockayne, letter of; 111 b.
 Custom House, the :
 information tending to improvement of revenues within (1642); 59 b.
 Bill (1783); 138 b.
 Officers of, letter to; 87 b.
 Cutts :
 Lord, "Salamander"; 112 b.
 — (1762); 115 a.
 Lady, picture of; 112 b.
 — note upon; 113 a.

D.

- Dacre, Lord (1761), little; 114 b.
 D'Alais, J., letter of; 90 b.
 Dale, Sir Thomas, as governor of Virginia; 31 b, 39 b, 43 b.
 Dallington : near Northampton; 112 b.
 document dated at; 118 a.
 Dalrymple, Lord, minister at Warsaw, letters of (1783); 17 b, 125 a, 126 b, 136 a.
 Dan, Edward, suicide of; 34 b.
 Danby lands; 24 b.
 Dando, Marmaduke, letters of; 32 a, 32 b.
 Dantzic; 102 b, 106 a, 105-107 a, 136 a.
 ships of, taken by Du Bart; 70 b, 71 a, 71 b, 72 b, 73 b.
 Danvers, Sir John; 33 b, 35 b, 36 b, 45 b.
 Darby, Admiral; 121 a.
 Darlen; 49 b.
 Caledonia in, Scotch desert their settlement at; 70 b. capitulation of; 75 b.
 Darlington, Earl of (1783); 122 a.
 Dashwood, Sir James, candidate for Oxfordshire; 113 b.
 Dauphiné; 89 a, 92 a.

- Davenant :
 Dr., Bishop of Salisbury; 10 b, 57 b.
 Mr.; 67 b.
 — at Genoa; 103 b.
 Davis, Robert, wager by; 94 a.
 Daws, "would be made Bp. of Chester" (1707); 90 a.
 Dayrell, Mr.; 65 b.
 Dayrolle, James, letters of; 92 b, 93.
 Dean, document dated at; 103 b.
 De Courcy, premier baron of Ireland, bred a carpenter; 115 a.
 Deffand, Madame du; 119 b.
 "Defiance," H.M.S.; 100 b.
 Delamain, Richard, letter of; 58 b.
 Delbridge :
 John, letter of; 33 b.
 — letter to; ib.
 his ship from Barnstaple; 48 b.
 De L'Isle and Dudley, Lord, his MSS. at Penshurst; 10 a.
 Denbigh, Earl of (1643), commission signed by; 59 b.
 Deneye, Anthony; 26 b.
 Denmark : affairs of, letters referring to; 69 b, 71 b, 74 a-78 a, passim, 86 a, 87 a, 103 b, 105 a. secret treaty between England, the States General, and (1701); 84 a.
 King of (1643); 102 b.
 — his assistance to Chas. I.; ib.
 — (1699); 70 b.
 — his resolutions touching Holstein (1679); 72 a, 80 a.
 — and treaty of Altona (1700); 74 b.
 — and the Partition Treaty, &c. (1700); 74 a, 74 b, 75 b, 77 b, 80 b, 81 a, 105 a.
 Prince and Princess of; 68 a, 68 b, 69 b, 85 a.
 Denny :
 Anthony, keeper of the king's manor beside Westminster; 21 a.
 — warrant to pay, and receipt of; 24 a.
 Denton, Mr., his estate; 112 b.
 Denys, Mr.; 28 a.
 Depden, letter dated at; 29 a.
 Derby, Earl of :
 (1644); 60 b.
 (1647), burns a Spanish ship; 63 a.
 his house at Latham; ib.
 Derford, Sussex, dissolved monastery; 20 b.
 "Destiny," the ship; 32 b.
 Dettingen, battle of; 111 b.
 Devonshire :
 Lord, documents signed by (1604); 28 a, 28 b.
 Countess of (1625), letters of; 29 b.
 — her son; ib.
 — (1643); 59 b.
 Duke of (1707), Lord High Steward; 91 a.
 Diamonds, sale of; 29 a.
 "Diana," the ship; 33 a.
 Dicks, a Jacobite; 108 a.
 Didlye, Thos., governor; 49 b.
 Dieppe, Chatteau de Bréauté, near; 136 b.
 Dieren, document dated at; 70 b.
 Digges :
 Sir Dudley; 30 b.
 — letter of; 30 b.
 — his "Compleat Ambassador"; 27 a.
 Dilks, Admiral, death of; 93 a.
 Dillon :
 —; 96 b.
 Viscount, payments on his creation (1622); 30 a, passim.
 Sir John, lands of; 30 b.
 Docwra, Sir Henry, letter of; 80 b.
 Domesday book :
 portion of book after model of (Jas. I.); 31 a. lands of settlers in Ireland (Jas. I.); ib.
 Dominica; 130 b.
 mem. touching (1782); 121 b.
 slaves in; 136 b.
 Domvill, Sir Compton, clerk of the Hanaper of Ireland; 114 b.
 Donaldson, Mrs.; 118 a.
 Donne, Dr., satire of; 113 a.
 Doppf, General, Dutch envoy (1707), memorial presented by; 93 b.
 Dormer, General, his collection of books; 116 a.
 Dorset :
 Marquis of, Thomas, late (1538), his daughter Elizabeth Lady Audeley; 26 b.
 Earl of, T. S., document signed (1604); 28 a.
 — instructions signed by (1630); 50 b. and Pembroke, Countess of, pictures of; 118 a.
 Dort, Synod of (1619?), controverted articles determined by treatise touching; 29 a.
 Dover; 11 b, 50 b, 58 b, 71 a.
 Hen. VIII. at; 20 a.
 Earl of (1708); 99 a, 99 b.
 Duke of, Queensberry made; 15 a.
 Dowcett, Abraham, petition of; 65 b.
 Downs, the, documents dated from; 11 b, 58 b, 59 a.
 Downshame, Thomas; 49 a.
 Downum, Tho., letter of; 48 b.

Drayton :
document dated at ; 30 a.
West ; 119 b.
Dresden, documents dated at ; 124 a, 127 a, 136 b.
Drummond, Lord :
his priest (1699) ; 71 a, 71 b.
(1708) ; 98 a.
Drury, Sir Thomas, his daughter ; 113 a, 113 b.
Dryden, John ; 118 a.
Du Bart, ships taken by ; 70 b.
Dublin ; 16 a, 114 b. letters dated at ; 29 b, 30 b, 31 a, 114 b, 115 a. description of, &c. ; 114 b.
Commissioners for Ireland at (1622) ; 30 a.
riot in (1759) ; 113 a.
Castle, documents dated at ; 30 a, 50 b.
statue of William III. at ; 16 a, 114 b.
St. Patrick's, deanery of, and Swift ; 114 b.
St. Stephen's Green, documents dated from ; 114 a, 114 b.
Trinity College, provost of ; 50 a.
University ; 115 a.
Earl and Countess of, travelling title of Duke and Duchess of Cumberland (1783) ; 138 a.
Dudley, Sir John, captain of H.M.S. "Mynyon" and vice-admiral ; 21 a.
Duels ; 29 b, 56 b.
Duke :
Richard, clerk in Court of Augmentations, orders to pay ; 23 b, 24 b.
— mem. of his expenses ; 21 a, 25 b.
Dumfermline, Lord (1639), Scots commissioner ; 11 a, 56 a.
Dumfries, taken by Montrose (1644) ; 60 b.
Dun, Edward, letters of ; 31 a, 32 b.
Duncombe :
Mr., accusation against, regarding Exchequer bills ; 68 a, 68 b, 69 a.
Sir Charles ; 77 a.
Dunkirk ; 96 b, 97 b, 108 b, 109 a, 123 b, 128 a, 128 b.
fleet, the ; 63 a.
garrison of ; 79 a.
Dunmore, Lord (1742) ; 110 a.
Dunsmore, Lord, instructions to (1640) ; 57 a.
Dunstable, Henry VIII. at ; 20 a.
Dunster, Roger, merchant of London ; 33 b.
Duodo, Signor Girolamo, letter of ; 69 b.
Dupper, — ; 39 a.
Durand, Chevalier, his arrest, &c. ; 132 a, 137 a, 137 b, 138 a.
Durdans, "Durdence," letter dated at ; 66 a.
Durham :
archdeaconry, and Rome (temp. Ric. II.) ; 20 a.
Bishop of, Morton, letter of ; 10 b, 68 b.
— (1761) ; 114 a.
Marquis of Newcastle's army at ; 60 a.
"Mother," 118 b.
"Cousin," 119 a.
Thomas, letters of ; 9 a, 34 a, 34 b, 36 a, 37 a.
Tom ; 48 b.
Durie, John :
and the German Protestants ; 10 b. letters and papers of ; 10 b, 51 a, 54 b, 55 b, 63 b.
treatise signed by ; 63 b.
Durseley, Lord (1698), appointed ambassador to Turkey ; 68 b.
Düsseldorf ; 99 a.
letters dated at, 89 a, 140 b.
Dutton :
Mr. ; 34 b.
John, executor of Robert Rich ; 36 a.
— letters of ; 33 b, 35 b, 36 a, 37 b.
— his sister Rich ; 37 b.
— tobacco allowance to ; 38 a.
Dynes, Wm. ; 65 b.

E.

Each :
Capt. ; 45 a.
— captain of the Abigail, death of ; 41 a.
Eastern Counties :
Association of (1643) ; 60 a, 62 a.
— letters of ; 10 b, 61 b, 62 a.
— letters to ; 62 b.
Parliamentary forces in (1643) ; 11 b.
Easton Mauduit, documents dated at ; 64 b.
Ebeling, M. d' (envoy of Monbellard), letter of ; 87 a.
Eckhart, the painter ; 116 a.
Eden :
Mr. ; 124 a.
Morton, letter of ; 136 b.
Edinburgh ; 98 a.
document dated at ; 58 b.
Castle ; 96 b, 98 a.

Edinburgh—cont.
governor of ; 96 b.
Frith ; 97 a.
Edwards, Mr., deputy governor of Summer Islands Co. ; 47 b.
Edwin, S., letters of ; 79 a, 95 a, 99 a, 99 b.
Egerton, Tho. (afterwards Lord Ellesmere) ; 28 a.
Elkins, John, of Isham ; 59 b.
Elbe, the ; 74 b.
Hittler fort in ; 76 b, 77 b.
Elector Palatine, the :
letter to (1646) ; 63 a.
(1701, &c.) ; 81 a, 86 a, 99 b.
Elfred, Elfrie, or Elfrith :
Capt. Daniel, of the ship "Treasurer," 4 t, 7 b, 8 a.
— his piracies, &c. ; 11 b, 34 b, 35 a, 35 b, 37 b, 38 b.
— letter of ; 48 b.
— his daughter ; 49 a.
Elizabeth :
Queen, warrant of ; 26 b.
— and Lord Essex ; 113 a.
— sermon preached on observance of her accession day ; 27 a.
the ship ; 37 b.
town, Virginia ; 39 b.
— document dated at ; 41 b.
Queen of Bohemia, letter of ; 65 b.
Ellesmere, Thos., Lord (1604) ; 28 a.
Elliot, H., letter of ; 123 b.
Elliott, General ; 137 b.
Ellis, Sir Wm. ; 74 a.
Elsingore ; 76 a.
letter dated at ; 75 b.
Eltington :
document dated from ; 59 b.
lordship of ; ib.
Ely :
Isle of ; 62 a.
— conservators of, note of agreement ; 63 b.
Emigrants to Virginia, treatment of ; 5 b, 6 a.
Emily, Princess (1761) ; 113 b.
"Empress," packet boat ; 138 a.
Engagement :
the (1649), and the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge ; 64 a.
— and the Earl of Manchester ; ib.
England, crown of, succession to (1701) ; 80 b, 81 a.
"Enterprise," the ship ; 136 b.
Erizzo ; 91 b.
Venetian ambassador to England, report of (1707) ; 94 a.
Erle, — ; 95 b.
Escompte, Caisse d' ; 137 b, 138 b.
Escher ; 23 a.
Park ; 22 b.
Essex :
clergy (temp. Jas. I.), character of ; 4 a.
"A View of the State of the Clergy within," book (1603) 27 b.
Parliament forces, conference touching (1645) ; 62 a.
Earl of, Robert, letters of ; 4 a, 27 b.
— and Queen Elizabeth ; 113 a.
— answer to his wife's plea for nullity of marriage (1613) ; 28 b.
— letter of (1622) ; 30 a.
— (1639) ; 55 a.
— (1640) ; 56 b.
— instructions to (1640) ; 57 a.
— commission of (1642) ; 11 b.
— (1643) ; 59 b.
— Cromwell captain under ; 62 a.
— letter of (1645) ; 62 b.
Countess of, Frances (1613), her prayer for decree of nullity of marriage ; 28 b.
Eton College ; 118 a, 120 a.
Eugene :
Prince, of Savoy ; 85 b–108 a, passim.
— letter of ; 88 b.
Evelyn, Sir John, heads of a conference touching words spoken by ; 63 a.
Ewell ; 25 b.
Exeter :
Bishop of (1707) ; 90 a.
Countess of, Elizabeth (1660), letter of ; 65 b.
Eyford, documents dated at ; 68 a, 68 b.

F.

Fairfax, Lord, letters of (1644) ; 11 b, 60 a, 60 b, 66 a.
Faith, treatise on ; 63 b.
Falconberg, Lord, instructions to, as ambassador to Venice (1670) ; 66 a.

Falkener :

Mr., his claims to storekeepership of the Ordnance ; 65 a.
Miss, and Lord Halifax ; 16 a, 113 a, 113 b, 117 b, 118 a.

Fall, Lieut.-Governor of Jersey, letter to ; 128 a.

Falmouth ; 8 a.

document dated at ; 82 b.

harbour ; 32 b.

Lady (1762) ; 115 a.

Farmar :

Edward, sheriff of Northampton, letter of ; 61 a.
petition of ; 61 b.

Farnham, the Court at, document dated at ; 30 b.

Farr, Walter, warrant to pay, &c. ; 23 b.

Farrar, Ferrar :

Mr. ; 35 a, 38 a.

— letter to ; 39 a.

— list by ; 46 a.

little Mr. ; 42 a.

the two Mr. ; 41 b.

John, of the Virginia Company ; 33 b.

— treasurer of Summer Islands' Company ; 38 b, 40 b, 42 a, 42 b, 43 a, 45 a, 45 b.

— letters to ; 40 a, 41 a.

— charges against ; 42 b.

— Council order for confinement of ; 45 b.

Nicholas, Deputy-Governor of Virginia ; 42 a, 45 b.

— complaint against ; 42 b.

— computation by ; 43 b.

— Council order for confinement of ; 45 b.

— answer to petitions of ; 47 a, 47 b.

Farrington, movements of King's troops about (1644) ;
61 b.

Fauconberge, Lord (1670), speeches of ; 102 b, 103 a.

Favre, M., Secretary of Legislation to Count Nostitz ; 137 b.

Fawkenner, — ; 18 b, 131 a, 131 b.

Fearne, Sir John ; 32 b.

Felgate, — ; 38 b.

Fenestrelles ; 101 b.

Fenn, Humphry, pastor of Coventry, will of ; 51 a.

Ferns, Bishop of (1762) ; 115 b.

Ferrar. See Farrar.

Ferrarese, the, invasion of ; 99 b.

Feudal system in the Colonies (1617) ; 8 b.

Fielding, Lord, ambassador at Venice (1636) ; 54 b, 66 a.

Fiennes, Nathaniel, letter of ; 64 a.

— commission signed by ; 59 b.

"Filborough," English man of war ; 86 a.

Finch, Lord Keeper (1640), letter of ; 57 a.

Fitzer, Mr., of Frankfort ; 51 a.

Fitzgeffrie, Charles, letter of ; 51 b.

Fitzherbert :

Alleyne, correspondence of ; 16 b, 17 a.

— note, &c. by ; 122 a, 122 b.

— minister plenipotentiary at Paris, letters of and to ;
134 b, 135 a, 135 b.

— at Russian Court, letter of ; 137 a.

— letter to ; 138 b.

Fitzjames :

Mr., married to Madlle. Lusan ; 103 b.

— to have the Garter (1700) ; 104 b.

Fitzwilliam, Lord (1761), his villa in Dublin (?) ; 114 b.

Flanders ; 11 b, 58 b, 63 a, 78 b, 79 b, 84 b, 89 b, 99 b, 101 a,
106 a.

Fleetwood, Col. ; 61 a.

Flemming, Lieut.-General under King of Poland ; 69 b.

Fletcher, Parson, at Oxford ; 16 b, 116 a.

Fleury, Lieut. Peter, letter and petition of ; 111 b.

Florence ; 13 b, 17 b.

documents dated at ; 75 b, 76 a, 86 b, 87 a, 87 b, 91 a, 92 a, 93 a, 99 b, 124 a, 130 a, 133 b.

Florida ; 8 b, 49 b.

Floyd, Roger, letter of ; 49 a.

Fonceta, island of ; 8 a, 49 a.

Fontainebleau, documents dated at ; 77 a, 77 b, 105 b, 136 b, 137 a, 137 b, 138 a, 139 a.

Force :

M. de la, informer ; 14 a, 109 a.

— letters to ; 108 b, 109 a.

Ford :

merchant of London, assumed address ; 109 a.

Lewis, letter of ; 48 b.

Forest, Sir Anthony, letter of ; 50 b.

Forgery of Bank of England notes, alleged ; 138 a.

Forges, waters of ; 102 b.

Forsyth, Jo. ; 38 b.

Fortescue :

Sir John ; 27 b.

Nicholas, order signed by ; 47 a.

Foster, Thomas, of Summer Islands ; 84 b.

Fowy :

document dated at ; 51 b.

church tower struck ; ib.

Fox, Chas. Jas., Secretary of State, letters and despatches of ;
2 a, 4 a, 16 b, et seq., 121 a-138 b, passim.

Foxall, Richard, letter of ; 121 b.

France :

letters touching affairs of temp. Will. III. ; 74 a-109 b, passim.

navy or fleets of (Will. III.-Geo. III.) ; 81 b, 96 b, 97 a, 97 b, 104 a, 108 b, 109 a, 120 b, 140 a.

six vols. of MSS. touching Earl of Manchester's visit to Paris as Ambassador Extraordinary (1699-1701) ; 13 a.

Protestants of (1700) ; 79 a.

— at the galleys ; 72 a.

privileges of Scots in (1699) ; 70 a.

Schonenberg's letter on the relations of, with Spain, &c.
(1702) ; 84 b.

treaties with United States (1778) ; 120 b.

preliminary articles of peace (1782) ; 121 b.

treaties with ; 122 a.

articles of peace (1783) ; 16 b.

treaty with Prussia (1783) ; 132 b.

lottery loan in (1783) ; 122 b.

revolution in, beginnings of ; 140 a, 140 b.

court of, rudeness of Portuguese ambassador at (1609) ;
71 b.

— mourning at, on death of William III. ; 86 b.

King of (1643) ; 102 b.

— Louis XIV., letters referring to, &c. (1699-1701) ;

13 b, 70 a, 70 b, 71 a, 71 b, 72 a, 74 a, 76 b, 78 b, 83 b, 85 a, 96 b, 98 b, 103 a, 105 b, 106 a, 106 b.

— letters of and to ; 68 b, 69 b, 73 a, 83 a, 88 a.

— memorials to ; 82 a, 82 b.

— treaties of (1700) ; 72 b, 73 a.

— notification to, of Duke of Gloucester's death (1700) ;
77 a.

— money sent to Earl of Manchester by (1700) ; 108 b.

— circular letter of, projected invasion of Scotland
(1708) ; 97 a.

— his library ; 73 b.

— (1783) ; 122 b.

— treaty with ; ib.

— his presents to the ambassadors, &c. (1783) ; 133 b.

— his treaty with the States-General (1785) ; 139 a.

Queen of (1788) ; 18 b.

— petition to (1783) ; 125 b.

the Dauphin, his second son to be King of Spain (1700) ;
77 b.

— credentials for Earl of Manchester to (1699) ; 70 a.

— speech to (1699) ; 72 b.

— (1701) ; 104 a.

Franceschini :

Paolo Abbate ; 98 b, 100 b.

— letters of ; 99 b, 100 b, 101 a.

Frankfort ; 51 a, 92 a, 92 b, 102 b.

Franklin, Dr. Benjamin, at Paris ; 18 a, 123 a.

Freeman, John, receiver of the Augmentations, co. Lincoln ;
25 b, 26 b.

Frejus, camp at, document dated at ; 90 a.

Frethorne, Richard, in Virginia, letters of ; 8 b, 39 a, 40 a.

Fribourg, taking of ; 95 a.

Friday, Good, meditation on ; 63 b.

Frogmore, documents dated at ; 116 b, 117 a, 120 a.

Fronde, the ; 113 b.

Funeral customs in the Bermudas ; 9 a, 36 a.

"Furtherance," the ship ; 45 a.

G.

Gaeta, fall of ; 92 a.

Gaſton, Francis, order signed by ; 47 a.

Galleys, the, French Protestants' remonstrance against (1700) ;
79 a.

"Gally, Joseph," the ship ; 94 a.

Galvez, Don ; 128 b, 129 a.

Galway, Earl of (1708), letter of ; 95 a.

Gand, Zs de, affair of ; 84 b.

Gardiner, merchant of London, assumed address ; 109 a.

"Garland," the ship ; 84 b, 85 a.

Garoden (Garredun) monastery, relics from ; 21 b.

Garrard, George, master of Sutton's Hospital, order of ; 64 a.

Garrick, David, Little ; 16 a, 114 b.

Gates :

Sir Thomas ; 33 b.

— petition of ; 33 b.

Gaultier, M., inspector of hospitals ; 130 b.

Gawdy, Gawdy, Francis, Justice of the Queen's Bench (1589), petition and letter to ; 27 b.

Gawsell :

Gregory, letters of ; 60 a, 61 b.

— letter to ; 61 a.

— treasurer of Eastern Counties Association, account by ; 62 a.

— warrant to ; 61 b.

— declaration signed by ; 62 b.

Geare, Sir Michael ; 49 a.

Geary, Mr. ; 131 b.

Geldermalsen, M., States' envoy, memorials of ; 80 a, 83 a.

Elic, deceased; 103 a.
 Marie Cardin, memorial of; 103 a.
 Geneva; 14 a, 97 b.
 document dated from; 97 a.
 Council of; 127 b.
 republic of; 84 b.
 Genoa; 91 a, 93 a, 100 a, 103 b. letters dated at; 86 b, 97 b, 100 a, 100 b, 101 a, 101 b, 103 b, 133 b. manufactures of; 15 a. velvets at; 102 a.
 the Crimea colonised from; 125 b.
 Gentlemen pensioners, band of, orders touching (1689); 66 b.
 George III.:
 coronation of; 114 b.
 letters to; 137 a.
 document signed by; 122 b.
 his conversation about the Duke of Manchester (1783); 18 a, 127 a. sits for his picture; 19 b, 133 b.
 his presents for the French king, the ambassadors, &c.; ib.
 death of his youngest son Octavius; 123 a.
 Germain, G., letter of; 100 a.
 Germany:
 Protestants of, and John Durie; 10 b. account of Protestant churches of (Chas. I. ?); 63 b. treaty between England, the States General, and (1701); 84 a.
 Gersdorff, M. de, Saxon minister at Spanish court; 137 b.
 Gerzé, Comte de, ambassador in Switzerland; 100 a.
 Gesel, Mr.; 63 a.
 Ghent; 29 b.
 document dated at; 111 a.
 frequency of murder in; ib.
 Giardini, Abbate; 93 a.
 Gibbon, Edward; 18 b, 131 a.
 Gibraltar; 84 b, 138 b.
 English fleet at (1708); 97 b.
 siege of; 137 b.
 lines of; 138 b.
 Straits of; 140 b.
 Giorgio, Nicholas; 137 b.
 Girard, —, minister of Neuchâtel; 70 b.
 Glamorgan, Earl of (1646), his proceedings in Ireland; 62 b.
 Glascock:
 William, receipt by; 24 b.
 — mem. of money paid by; ib.
 Gloucester, Duke of:
 (1700), death of; 76 b, 77 a, 104 a, 105 a, 105 b.
 (1783), letters to; 137 a.
 Godolphin:
 C., letters of; 14 b, 71 b, 90 a, 93 a.
 Lord Treasurer, letter of (1707); 14 b, 91 a.
 — letters to; 89 a–91 b, passim.
 — (1708); 98 a, 100 a.
 — letters to; 96 a, 101 a, 101 b.
 Sir Wm., heirs of, and Venetian Senate (1697); 68 a, 69 b, 71 b, 90 a.
 Goër, document dated at; 77 b.
 Goneril; 113 b.
 Gonson:
 William, warrants to pay; 21 a, 22 a.
 — receipt by; 21 b.
 Goodday, John, of Christ's College, Cambridge, certificate touching; 62 a.
 Gookin, Mr., his plantation; 41 a.
 Gordon:
 Duke of (1708); 98 a.
 Lord George and George III. (1781); 121 a.
 Lient. Charles, of H.M.'s ship "Ariadne;" 140 b.
 Goree; 132 a.
 Goring, Colonel; 56 a.
 Gostwike:
 John, treasurer of First Fruits and Tenths; 20 a.
 — receipts of; 20 b, 25 b.
 Gothenburgh; 66 a.
 Gottorp, Duke of (1699); 72 a.
 Grafton:
 document dated at; 67 b, 69 a.
 Duke of (1708), and Mrs. Knight; 98 a.
 — his losses at play, &c. (1765); 114 a, 118 a, 118 b.
 — his party (1782); 121 b.
 Graimes, Mr., minister in the Summer Islands; 48 b.
 Grammont:
 Madame; 115 b.
 — pictures of; 115 a.
 Granada; 130 b.
 Grandison:
 Lord (1622), his lands in barony of Orier; 30 a.
 — death of (1766); 118 b.
 Lady (1762); 115 b.
 — (1763); 116 a, 116 b.
 — her assembly (1766); 118 b.
 Grant:
 Mr., memorial of; 132 a.
 his ships seized by the Dutch; 139 a.

Grantham:
 Lord, Secretary of State; 121 b, 125 a, 128 b.
 — correspondence of; 17 a, 121 b, 127 b, 134 b.
 Grasse, Comte de, defeat of French fleet under, by Rodney 121 b.
 Gray, the poet; 113 a.
 Greatworth; 16 a.
 letters dated at; 112 a–119 b.
 Greek types; 73 b.
 Greenwich; 21 b, 24 a, 25 a.
 documents dated at; 30 b, 46 b.
 the court at; 24 b.
 Greg, H., letters of; 70 b, 71 b, 73 b, 77 b.
 Gregg, William, French spy or traitor, proceedings against; 14 a, 15 a, 87 b, 95 a–98 a, passim.
 Grenada; 125 a. proprietors; 135 a.
 Grenville:
 Mr., correspondence of; 16 b.
 —, his negotiations at Paris (1782); 17 a, 135 a.
 Grey:
 Lady; 118 b.
 Thomas, letter of; 59 b.
 Griffin, Lord (1708), committed to the Tower; 98 b.
 Griffith, Edward, letter of; 68 a.
 Grimani:
 Cardinal, letter of; 88 b.
 viceroys of Naples; 102 a.
 Grimgribber; 131 b.
 Grimsditch:
 John, letter of; 36 b.
 Thos., letter to; 34 a.
 Grimston, Sir Harbottle, commission signed by; 59 b.
 Groshead, Robert, Bishop of Lincoln; 54 a.
 Groyne, the; 63 a.
 Grubb, Mr., preacher, of King's Lynn; 27 b.
 Guard, Yeoman of the; 92 b.
 Guards, the, exempt of; 67 b, 77 a.
 Guards and garrisons for 1746, abstract of estimates; 111 b.
 Guebrian, army of (1643); 102 b.
 Guernsey, reasons presented to Parliament touching Act of Oblivion, and; 66 a.
 Guiana, Raleigh's ill-fated expedition to; 8 a, 32 b.
 Guichon, list of ships with; 121 a.
 Guilford, Lord:
 (1764); 117 a.
 (1765); 117 b, 118 a.
 (1766); 118 b.
 illness of (1769); 119 b.
 (1770); 120 a.
 Guinea, English ships seized by French off; 76 a.
 Guldenlew, Admiral; 75 b.
 Gunpowder Plot, meditation on; 29 a.
 Gurdon, B., warrant signed by; 61 b.
 Gyfford, John, mayor of Northampton (1642), letter of; 59 a.

H.

Hackney, Hakeneye, king's manor; 21 a.
 Hackwell, Dr., treatise by; 29 a.
 Haddon, Francis, goldsmith; ib.
 Haesdonck, John van; 58 b.
 Hague, the, political affairs at, and documents dated from; 17 b, 59 b, 65 b, 70 a–108 b, passim, 123 b, 138 a.
 Hainhofer, M., letter of; 64 a.
 Hainning, Mr., at Earl of Portland's lodging, letter to; 85 b.
 Hales, Richard; 23 a.
 Halifax, Lord:
 letter to (1700); 78 b.
 (1702); 87 a.
 letter of (1707); 90 a.
 letter of (1708); 98 b.
 letter to (1708); 101 a.
 (1760); 113 b. and Miss Falkener; 16 a, 113 a, 113 b, 117 b, 118 a.
 Lord-Lieut. of Ireland (1761); 16 a, 114 a–115 b, passim.
 (1764); 116 b.
 his father; ib.
 (1765); 118 a.
 (1766); 118 b.
 reported death of (1769); 119 b.
 Halifax, Nova Scotia; 139 a. document dated at; ib.
 Halle, the Duke of Marlborough at; 89 b.
 Hamburg; 37 b, 102 b.
 letters dated at; 55 b, 69 b, 72 a–76 b passim, 132 a.
 Hamilton:
 Duke of (1700); 105 a.
 — (1708); 99 a.
 — arrest of (1708); 97 b.

Hamilton—cont.

- Mr., his speech; 115 a.
 Mrs.; 114 b.
 W., letter of; 62 a.
 William, letter of; 127 a.
- Hammond, on Cambridge Committee; 62 a.
- Hamor:
 Mr.; 32 a.
 Capt. Ralph; 37 b, 40 a.
- Hampden:
 accident at; 116 b.
 Mr.; 98 a, 114 a.
 — his son; 118 b.
 John; 117 a.
- Hampton Court; 22 a, 22 b, 23 a, 116 a, 116 b.
 documents dated at; 72 a, 73 b, 74 a, 74 b, 77 b, 78 b, 79 b.
 Hen. VIII. at; 21 b, 22 a.
 Chase, writings touching the making of; 25 a.
 Green; 118 a.
- Hanbury, Charles, letter of; 132 a.
- Hancock, James, letters of; 8 a, 32 b.
- Hankelow, documents dated from; 112 b, 113 a, 115 b, 119 a.
- Hanmor, Hanmer:
 John; 48 b.
 — letters of; 85 a, 35 b, 48 b.
- Hanmore, Sir T.; 96 a.
- Hanover; 78 b, 80 a, 91 a, 95 b, 99 a, 101 b. documents dated at; 78 b, 89 a, 90 a, 90 b, 93 b, 97 b, 98 b, 102 a.
 Elector, or Electoral Prince of (1700–1708); 13 b, 74 a, 77 a, 90 b, 92 a, 100 a.
 — George Louis, letter of; 89 a.
 Electress of, Sophia; 2 b.
 — letter of; 89 a.
 — (1701); 90 a.
 Duchess of (1701); 81 a.
 — Madame de Maintenon's letters to; 81 a.
- Hanworth; 25 b.
 the king's manor of; 23 b.
- Harcourt:
 Duc d' (1701); 107 b.
 (1708), to have been Lord Chancellor; 96 a.
- Hardwick, Lord (1770); 120 a.
- Harford House, document dated at; 29 a.
- Harley:
 Robert, Secretary of State, letters of; 89 a, 89 b.
 — his intrigues and dismissal; 15 a, 87 b, 95 a, 95 b, 96 a, 96 b.
- Harold, Baron de: letter of; 19 b, 140 b.
 poem by; ib.
- Harper, George; 28 b.
- Harris, Sir James, minister at St. Petersburg, letters of; 17 b, 125 b.
- Hart, Mr.; 77 b.
- Hartley, Mr.; 18 a, 123 a, 126 b, 129 b, 130 a, 133 a.
- Hartlieb:
 Samuel; 51 a.
 — letters to; 10 b, 54 b.
- Harvey:
 Francis, letter to; 27 a.
 John, letter of; 47 b.
- Harwood, Sir E., of the Virginia Company; 33 b.
- Haseley, document dated at; 27 b.
- Hastings, Warren, articles of accusation against; 18 b, 19 b, 132 b, 139 b.
- Hatfield:
 document dated at; 50 b.
 Peverell, prior of; 23 b.
- Hatley:
 document dated from; 111 b.
 Edmond, warrant to pay; 23 b.
- Hatton, Sir Christopher, his Bill in the Commons; 28 b.
- Hawes, Nicholas; 31 a.
- Hawkesbury, Lord, afterwards Earl of Liverpool, congratulated by Burke (1792); 19 b, 140 b.
- Hayles, Mr., English consul at Venice, his case (1670); 103 a.
- Haynes, John, governor; 49 b, note.
- Heathcote:
 Sir Gilbert; 98 a.
 Ralph, letter of; 123 b.
- Hebert, A., receipt of; 108 b.
- Hechonsou:
 Richard, mem. of money spent by; 21 b.
 — order to pay; 25 a.
 — receipt of; ib.
- Hedges, Sir Charles, Secretary of State; 78 b, 93 b.
- Heemskerk:
 Dutch Ambassador at Court of France; 83 a, 106 b.
 — instructions to (1701); 82 b.
 — illness of; ib.
- Heilbronn, letter dated at; 51 a.
- He chin, camp at, documents dated at; 91 b, 101 b.
- Helsingfors, document dated from; 76 b.
- Henage, Hennage:
 Thomas; 21 b.
 Sir Thos., warrant to pay, and receipt of; 26 b.

Hendle, or Henley:

- Walter, solicitor of Court of Augmentations, warrant, &c. signed by; 23 b, et seq.
 — mem. of reward given to, &c.; 24 a.
- Henricourt, Burgundy, land, &c. of; 79 a.
- Henrietta island; 8 b, 49 b.
- Henrietta Maria, Queen; 56 b.
- Henry, Prince, portrait of; 116 b.
- Henry, Mr.; 49 b.
- Henry VIII.:
 warrants of; 20 b, et seq.
 "relic of the Holy Cross" delivered to; 21 b, 22 a.
 his exchange of lands with Abp. of Canterbury; 24 a.
- Herbert of Cherbury, Lord, life of; 117 b.
- Hercolani:
 Phillippo, letter of; 99 a.
 Prince, letter to (1708); ib.
- Herculaneum; 119 a.
- Hereford, the ship, of Cork; 123 b, 124 a, 126 b, 127 a.
- Herlingfordbury, document dated at; 90 b.
- Hermitage, white, a wine but lately heard of (1783); 134 a.
- Heron, M. du, project of treaty presented by; 79 a.
- Herries, Robert, letter of; 139 a.
- Hertford, co., Parliament forces, conference touching (1645) 62 a.
- Hertford:
 Marquis of (1640); 56 b.
 Earl of, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 Lord and Lady (1641); 58 a.
 Lord (1762); 115 b.
 — (1764); 117 b.
 — (1782); 16 b.
 — his dismissal; 121 a.
- Hervart, M., letters of; 72 a, 75 a, 76 a, 76 b, 85 b, 86 a, 86 b, 88 b.
- Hesse-Cassel; 14 a.
- Heysham, Mr., his proposition in House of Commons; 98 a.
- Hicks, Mr.; 89 a.
- Hières:
 Isle of, Sir C. Shovell's fleet off; 90 a.
 — document dated from; 90 b.
- Higgons, Sir Thomas, envoy to Venice, instructions to (1673) 103 a.
- Highgate, Middlesex; 31 a.
- Hill:
 Edward, letters of; 41 b.
 J., letters of; 71 a.
 John, letter to; 41 b.
 Thomas, letters of; 63 a, 63 b.
 and Jevors; 128 a.
- Hilton:
 Anthony, letter of; 8 b, 45 b.
 Elizabeth, letter to; 45 b.
 Governor; 49 b.
- Hinchinbrooke; 116 a.
 Lord, at Venice (1708); 96 a.
 — his marriage (1766); 118 b.
- "Histriomastix," Fyrrne's answer touching publication of; 51 b.
- Hitchin, document dated at; 61 b.
- Hitler fort. See Elbe, the.
- Hoare, Geo., in charge of Regalia in the Tower (1782?); 122 a.
- Hobart, Wm., letter of; 41 a.
- Hochonsou:
 Richard, mem. of money laid out by; 22 b.
 — mem. of payment and receipt by; 24 b.
- Hogarth's Five Orders of the Periwigs; 114 b.
- Holcroft, Sir Henry, letter of; 30 b.
- Holderness, Earl of, letter of (1623); 30 b.
- Holland:
 political affairs of, letters touching; 66 b, 72 b, 76 b, 78 b, 79 a, 79 b, 81 a, 83 b, 84 b, 92 b, 102 a, 105 a, 106 a, 111 a, 120 b, 133 b, 138 a.
 fleet of (1639); 56 a.
 to join forces with England (1742); 110 a. treaties with; 122 a, 124 a, 130 b, 131 a. definitive treaty with (1783); 138 a, 139 a.
 the English party in (1788); 137 a. dangers of civil war in; 139 b.
 the Duke of Marlborough in; 89 a.
 Earl of (1639), letters of and to; 9 b, 11 a, 55 b, 56 a.
 — (1640); 57 b.
 — instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 Lady (1628), letter of; 50 a.
- Holstein:
 duchy of; 70 b, 71 b, 74 b, 79 b.
 King of Denmark's resolutions touching (1699); 72 a.
 Duke of (1699); 69 b.
 — (1700); 74 b.
 — and Denmark; 80 a.
- Holt, Lord Chief Justice; 74 a.
- Home, Lord (1642?), letter of; 58 b.
- Homes, Gabriel, letter of; 61 b.
- Honduras; 127 b, 129 a.
 bay of; 135 b.
- Hooper, Mr., a London merchant; 136 b.
- Hope, Sir William; 105 a.

Hopewell, the ship; 39 a.
 Hopkins :
 spy at St. Germain's; 14 a.
 Mr.; 108 b.
 letters to; 108 b, 109 a.
 Horace, a, printed at Cambridge, requested for library of Louis XIV. (1700); 73 b.
 Horton :
 co. Northampton, 112 b, 113 b, 118 a.
 Lord Halifax's mansion at; 117 b.
 Horwood, Mr., the King's (Hen. VIII.), solicitor; 23 a.
 Houghton; 114 a.
 document dated at; 59 b.
 Hounslow; 21 a.
 Howard :
 Earl of (1603); 28 a.
 Lord, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 — warrant signed by (1643); 59 b.
 — Edward, order of (1650); 64 a.
 Howe :
 Mr.; 102 a.
 E., letters of; 93 a, 97 b, 98 b, 101 a.
 Howell, Mr.; 27 a.
 Howme, S. (1605); 28 a.
 Hudson's Bay; 72 b.
 Hudson's River; 8 b. expedition to explore (1623); 45 b.
 Hughes :
 Mr.; 38 a.
 Sir Edward, his engagement off Trincomalee; 139 a.
 Lewes, minister of Bermuda; 6 b, 7 a, 33 a.
 — his amended liturgy; 7 a, 33 a.
 — letters of; 31 b-34 b.
 — statement of; 38 a.
 Huguenots, the; 102 b.
 Humberston, William, receipt of; 25 b.
 Humfrey, Jo., letter of; 49 b.
 Hungary; 89 b, 90 a, 91 a, 92 a, 96 b, 97 b.
 Queen of (1742); 110 a.
 Huntingdon; 11 a, 55 b.
 documents dated from; 11 a, 59 a, 62 b. charter of, and Oliver Cromwell; 50 b. muster at; 55 a. disaffected to Capt. Walton (1642); 59 a. county, association in for protection of George II.; 15 b, 111 a.
 — Lord Lieutenant of; 120 a, 140 b.
 — Lord Lieutenant of, letter to; 50 b.
 — Deputy Lieutenants of, instructions to; ib.
 — certificate of; 55 a.
 — letter to; 103 b.
 — Commissioners of Militia for, certificate of; 65 a.
 — militia in; 66 b.
 — papists in; ib.
 — justices, list of; 66 a.
 — justices of peace, letter of; 67 a.
 — commissions of peace for; 28 b, 121 b.
 Lord of (1615); 29 a.
 Lady, builds a chapel at Bath; 118 a.
 Hutton, Dr., prescription by; 29 a.
 Hurley monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Hurly; 97 b.
 —, an Irishman, letter of; 99 b.
 Hurston hundred, co. Huntingdon; 55 a.
 Hynde, John, order to pay, and receipt of; 24 b.

I.

Independents, the; 61 b.
 India, East Indies; 120 b, 121 b.
 the Duke of Portland's letter on affairs in (1783); 19 a, 132 b.
 Bill, the (1783); 138 a.
 — debates on; 138 b. governorship of, Duke of Manchester offered (1783); 19 a, 132 b, 133 a, 134 a, 136 a, 137 a, 137 b. company; 180 b, 134 a.
 — letters to; 135 b.
 French companies in; 135 b.
 companies, English and French; 139 a.
 French ships in; 140 a.
 list of French and Dutch ships in (1787); 139 b.
 sketch of history of (1765-86); 139 b.
 Indies, West; 8 b, 38 b, 44 b, 46 a, 97 a, 109 a, 121 a, 121 b. considerations upon a society for conquest and plantation of (temp. Chas. I.); 50 a.
 French ships in (1787); 136 a, 140 a. restitutions in; 136 b.
 Ingram, Sir Arthur, letter of; 57 b.
 Intelligencer. Weekly, the (1643); 59 b.

Inventories : of goods at Kimbolton; 9 b, 12 b, 59 a, 62 b, 66 b.
 of plate in suppressed monasteries; 21 b.
 Irby, Lady; 63 b.
 Ireland; 21 b, 23 b, 24 b, 60 b.
 papers touching; 4 a.
 how its natives were regarded by English (temp. Jac. I.); 4 a.
 Commissioners on courts of justice, &c. in (1622); 30 a. plantation of (temp. Jac. I.); ib.
 Lord Deputy (1621), his instructions to the Irish judges and their reply; ib.
 Jesuits in; 30 b.
 — increase of (1629); 50 a.
 army in (1623 and 1624); 31 a.
 lands held by English and Scotch "undertakers" in; ib.
 kine exported from; 37 b.
 Privy Council of (1629), letter of; 50 a. forfeited lands in; 58 b.
 coast of; 59 a.
 Earl of Glamorgan's proceedings in (1646); 62 b.
 English regiments from Flanders in; 67 a.
 Lord Lieutenant of (1761), Halifax; 114 a, 114 b, 115 a, 115 b.
 Primate of (1763); 116 b, 117 b.
 Court of Wards, receivership of; 31 a.
 Ireland, who robbed Penshurst; 2 a.
 Ireton :
 Henry; 62 a.
 — letters of; 12 a, 61 a.
 Ironworks in Virginia; 5 b.
 Irun; 79 a.
 Isanghyen, Madame; 81 b.
 Isenburg, Count (1756); 112 b.
 Isham; 59 b.
 Islay, Lord (1742); 110 b.
 Isleworth register; 9 a.
 Italy : affairs of, during the war of succession, &c.; 84 a-95 a passim, 101 b, 104 a, 104 b, 106 a, 107 a, 108 a.
 Spanish territory in; 76 b. invasion of; 79 a, 80 b, 86 a. velvet manufacture in; 100 a.
 Ivrea, camp at; 99 b.

J.

Jackson :
 Goodman; 40 a.
 John, of Inner Temple, petition of; 66 a.
 Jacmar, D. G., minister at Turin, letters of; 17 b, 123 b, 125 b.
 Jacob, Abraham John, letter to; 37 b.
 Jacobites, the; 105 a-107 b, passim.
 their place of meeting in London (1700); 104 b.
 Jamaica; 110 b, 115 a.
 governor of; 70 b, 139 a.
 — (1783), letter to; 135 b.
 the currency in; 111 a.
 Stoney Hill barracks, document dated from; 121 b.
 James I. :
 warrant of; 30 b.
 answer of Virginia Company to letter of (1619); 34 a. petition of Virginia Company to; 46 a.
 letters of; 45 b, 46 b.
 minute of speech to; 47 b.
 at Alderman Johnson's house at Bow; 47 a. portrait of; 116 b.
 James II. :
 alleged plots on behalf of his son; 87 b, 88 a.
 at St. Germain's, list of his Secretaries of State; 103 a. illness and death of; 104 b, 106 b, 107 b, 108 a.
 his will; 108 b.
 "James III.," king of England; 108 a.
 James, Henry, of Queen's College, Cambridge, letter of; 67 b.
 "James," the ship; 58 b.
 James city or town, Virginia; 6 a, 43 b.
 documents dated at; 37 b, 39 b, 41 b.
 ballad sent from; 39 b.
 bridge at; 42 b.
 governor of; 40 a.
 "Jason," the ship; 32 b.
 Jekyl :
 Lady Anne; 112 b, 118 a,
 — death of, &c.; 118 b, 119 a.
 Jenkinson, India Bill supported by; 138 a.
 Jennings, Jennings :
 Capt. of the packet-boat "Empress"; 138 a.
 Dr., his widow afterwards wife of Major Stanton; 138 b.
 Thomas, letter of; 48 b.
 Jenour :
 Anthony, letter of; 48 b.
 — statement of; 38 a.

"Jenyttie," H.M. Ship ; 22 a.

Jersey :

privateers of ; 123 a, 125 b. reasons presented to Parliament touching Act of Oblivion and ; 66 a.

Jersey, Earl of :

letters of (1699) ; 70 a, 70 b, 71 b, 72 a.
signature of (1699) ; 67 a.
letters of and to (1700) ; 72 b-78 b, passim, 105 b. succeeds the Duke of Shrewsbury as Lord Chamberlain
(1700) ; 74 b.

Jesper ; 23 b.

Jessop, W., letter of ; 56 a.

Jesuits, the ; 63 b, 97 b, 102 o.

their influence in Meath ; 30 b.

"An advertisement to Christian Princes concerning,"

MS. book entitled ; 29 a.

in Ireland ; 50 a.

Jevers and Hill ; 128 a.

Jew Bill, the ; 113 b.

Jewel House :

certificate of plate delivered from, to Earl of Manchester ;
103 a.

Office, his Majesty's ; 122 a.

Jewels, treasurer of his Majesty's, acknowledgment of gilt plate from ; 70 a.

Johnson :

Alderman, and the Virginia Company ; 4 b, 5 a, 6 b, 33 b, 38 b, 40 a, 47 a.

— censure passed on ; 33 b, 34 a.

— defence of ; 43 b.

— observations by ; 46 b.

— answer of, to complaints against ; 48 a.

— his house at Bow ; 47 b.

Capt., case of ; 108 a.

Mr., Scottish minister at St. Germain's ; 109 a.

Daniel, case of ; 105 a.

Jolly, Mr., death of, and loss of his despatches ; 79 b, 80 b.

Jones, William, order signed by ; 47 a.

Jordan, at Paris ; 85 a.

Julien, M. de ; 108 b.

Jurdan, Humphrey, order to pay ; 25 b.

Jurien, M. :

in Holland ; 14 a.

letters of ; 14 a, 84 a, 87 a.

letters to ; 108 b, 109 a, 109 b.

K.

Kathalina, island of ; 8 a, 49 a.

Keath, Mr. ; 32 a.

Keiston, document dated at ; 58 b.

Keith :

Sir Robert Murray, minister at Vienna, letters of ; 17 b, 123 b, 124 a, 130 a, 131 a, 136 a, 138 b.

— letter to ; 137 a.

Kempnaer, Mr., memorial of ; 138 a.

Kendal :

Miles or Capt., deputy governor of Bermuda ; 7 a, 7 b, 9 a,
34 a-38 a.

— letters of ; 33 a, 34 a, 48 b.

— statement of ; 38 a.

Thomas, of London, agreement of ; 49 b.

Kensington :

documents dated at ; 67 a, 67 b, 68 a, 69 a, 70 a, 82 b, 83 b, 89 b, 109 b.

Queen Anne's birthday at (1708) ; 95 a.

Gardens ; 118 b.

Keppel :

Lord, letters of (1783) ; 133 b, 139 a.

"Chori Episcopi" ; 118 b.

Kerr, Commodore : 95 a.

Keston, co. Huntingdon : 63 a.

Kettleby, Capt., order touching ; 59 a.

Kidd, Capt. ; 7 b.

Kilburn ; 3 b, 26 a.

monastery, relics from ; 21 b.

Kilburne, William, certificate touching ; 50 b.

Kilayth, Viscount of (1708) ; 98 a.

Kimbolton or Kimbolton Castle ; 2 a, 55 a, 56 b, 66 b, 116 a.

letters dated at ; 64 b, 103 b.

inventories of goods in (1642, 1645, 1687) ; 9 b, 12 b, 59 a, 62 b, 66 b.

restorations at ; 30 a.

re-building at ; 91 b, 97 b, 101 b.

Kimbolton :

Lord (1640?), letter to ; 11 a.

See Lord Mandeville.

King :

Capt. ; 32 b.

Col. ; 60 b.

Sir John, letters of ; 30 a, 30 b.

King's :

Chapel ; 51 a.

County, plantation of (1618) ; 30 a.

Kingsland, Lady ; 115 a.

King's Lynn :

document dated at ; 61 a.

preacher at ; 27 b.

corporation of, agreement by ; 63 b.

governor of ; 59 b, 60 a.

siege of ; 61 a.

Kingston :

Earl of (1702) ; 87 a, 87 b.

— (1770) ; 75 b.

— upon-Thames ; 23 a, 25 b.

Kirby :

Capt., suspected pirate ; 7 b, 35 a.

Kirkby-Bellewes (Kirby-Beler) monastery, relics from ; 21 b.

Kirke :

Robert, his diet ; 21 a.

Thomas, letters of ; 86 b, 100 b.

Kit Kat Club, members of ; 75 b.

Kitchen, Mr., 27 a.

Knight :

Mrs., and Duke of Grafton ; 98 a.

Miss ; 118 b.

Knolle ; 24 a.

Komensky, letters of ; 54 b.

L.

La Muette, document dated at ; 126 b.

La Perouse ; 91 b.

governor of ; 93 b.

La Roche, — ; 85 b.

"La Rose," the ship, statement touching ; 122 b.

La Valette, camp at, documents dated from ; 90 b.

Lackham, document dated at ; 55 b.

Lacy, a lawyer of the Temple ; 105 a.

Lake, Sir John, French vessels captured by ; 99 b.

Lambert, Cardinal ; 96 a.

Lambeth ; 22 a, 22 b.

Palace ; 22 b, 24 b.

— apprentice riot (1640) and ; 56 b note.

Lanerick, Lord, Secretary of Scotland, letters to (1640) ; 56 b.

Lang :

Mr. ; 34 a, 34 b.

— complaint against ; ib.

— minister, Summer Islands ; 37 a.

Samuel, letter of ; 35 b.

Langley :

monastery, relics from ; 21 b.

Richard, letter of ; 60 a.

Languedoc ; 37 b.

Laroche, J., letters of ; 15 b, 110 b, 111 a, 111 b.

Latham, Earl of Derby's house at ; 63 a.

Lawrens, Lawrence, Mr., his intelligence ; 129 a, 129 b, 130 a.

Laxton, Philip, letters of ; 111 a.

Layton, —, death of ; 110 b.

Lazzara, general quarters at, document dated at ; 88 b.

Leake :

Sir J., his fleet ; 96 b.

Admiral ; 100 b.

Lee, Mr., member of Parliament, arrest of ; 29 a.

Wolley, of Thorpe, delinquent ; 63 a.

Leeche, Sir Edward ; 63 a.

Leek, Lady Frances, letter of ; 63 a.

Leeze ; 55 b.

Legge, Miss, her marriage ; 113 a.

Leghe, Giles, his indenture, &c. ; 25 a.

Leghes, in Essex ; 23 a.

Leghorn ; 86 b, 87 a, 93 a, 102 a, 124 a.

letters dated at ; 93 a, 97 a.

Leicester :

document dated at ; 59 b.

Earl of, letters of and to (1639) ; 9 b, 55 b.

— letter of (1641) ; 57 b.

— letter of (1660) ; 65 a.

Robert, portrait of ; 117 a.

— (1745) ; 111 a.

Countess of (1639) ; 55 b.

Leigh, Giles ; 23 b.

Leightonston hundred, co. Huntingdon ; 55 a.

Leipsic ; 54 b.

document dated from ; 89 b.

apparitions seen at ; 102 b.

Leitrim co., plantation of (1618); 30 a.
 Lely, Sir Peter, pictures by; 115 a.
 Leman, Wm., treasurer of Eastern Counties Association, account by; 62 a.
 Lembecq, camp at; 89 b.
 Lemberg, Cardinal; 92 b.
 Lenerick, Lord (1640); 57 b.
 Lennox, Duke of, Esmé (1626), requisition signed by; 50 a.
 Lenthall, Wm., Speaker, order of; 64 a.
 Lesse [Leeze?]; 56 b.
 L'Estrange, Hamon, letters of; 58 b, 61 a.
 Letteley monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Leven, Earl of:
 (1644), Scotch General; 60 b.
 letter of (1645); 62 b.
 Lever:
 high bailiff of Westminster; 110 b, 111 a.
 Mr., a merchant; 130 a.
 Levicroft, Richard, letter of; 48 b.
 Lewis:
 Mr., minister of Summer Islands; 33 a, 36 b, 37 a.
 Mr.; 70 b.
 — Earl of Manchester's secretary (1702); 109 a.
 E., letters of; 91 a, 92 b, 101 a.
 Lewsam (surveyor); 21 b.
 Ley, Laurence, letter to; 41 b.
 Lilburne:
 Lieut.-Col.; 62 b.
 — his recruits; 61 a.
 Lillierote, M.; 81 b.
 Lille, siege of; 101 b.
 Limerick, Lord (1742); 110 b.
 Lincoln:
 county, Parliament forces, conference touching (1645); 62 a.
 — association in (1746); 111 b. bishop of (1623), licence of; 9 b, 51 a. dean of (1646); 63 a.
 Lindsey:
 Lord, letter of (1639); 55 a.
 — (1644); 61 b.
 Lady, letter of (1644); 61 b.
 — her son Peregrine; 61 b.
 "Lion", the king's ship; 21 a, 22 a.
 Lisbon; 14 b, 67 a, 90 a, 93 b, 108 a, 109 a, 109 b.
 documents dated from; 74 b, 76 a, 78 a, 81 b, 87 a, 125 b.
 Lisle, Lord:
 letter of (1606); 28 b.
 Philip, order of (1630); 64 a.
 — letter of; 66 a.
 Liston:
 Robert, minister at Madrid, letters of; 17 b, 131 a, 132 a, 137 b, 138 b.
 — letters to; 138 b.
 Lithuania:
 mem. relating to (1702); 84 b. affairs of (1702); 85 a.
 Littleton:
 Sir Edward, our new Lord Treasurer (1641); 58 a.
 Francis, letter of, from the Tower; 59 b.
 Liturgy for the Summer Islands (1618); 33 a.
 Liverpool; 60 b.
 Livonia; 69 b, 73 a.
 Locke, Mr., minister, ejection of; 61 b.
 London and Westminster:
 Argyll Street, document dated from; 136 a.
 Arlington Street; 118 a.
 — documents dated from; 118 b.
 Austin Friars, documents dated at; 24 b, 25 a.
 Berkeley Square, documents dated from; 114 a.
 Bishopsgate Street, Bull in; 65 b.
 Blackfriars; 27 a.
 — document dated at; 47 b.
 Bridge; 36 b.
 Lower Brook Street, document dated from; 136 b.
 Charterhouse; 57 b. See Sutton Hospital.
 Clare Market; 113 b.
 Cockpit, the, documents dated at; 92 a, 93 a, 95 a, 96 a, 97 a, 98 a, 100 b.
 Crutched Friars, document dated at; 34 b.
 Custom House Quay; 42 a.
 Derby or Darby House, documents dated at; 80 a, 60 a, 60 b, 61 a.
 Drury Lane, the Black Boy; 59 b.
 Duke Street, Westminster, document dated at; 140 b.
 Fleet Prison; 63 b.
 — document dated from; ib.
 Founders' Hall (Summer Islands Co.), documents dated at; 47 b.
 Garlick Hill; 14 a, 108 b.
 the Gate House, Westminster; 11 a.
 — document dated at; 58 a.
 Gray's Inn, document dated at; 30 a.
 Grayse Inn Feild, the Dyall Wall in, document dated at; 58 b.
 Grosvenor Square, documents dated at; 121 a, 121 b.
 Herald's College; 86 a.

I 120.

London and Westminster—cont.
 Hertford Street, documents dated from; 121 b.
 Holborn, document dated at; 29 b.
 King Street, Westminster, documents dated from; 111 a, 111 b.
 Lumber [Lombard] Street; 41 b.
 Margaret Street, document dated from; 110 b.
 Norton Street, documents dated from; 121 a.
 Old Swan Pier; 24 b.
 45, Pall Mall, document dated at; 139 a.
 Portugal Street, document dated from; 133 b.
 General Post Office, document dated from; 111 b.
 St. James's; 21 a, 110 a.
 — documents dated at; 65 a, 88 b, 98 b, 120 a, 121 b, 122 a, 122 b, 123 a, 126 a–182 b, passim, 137 b, 140 b.
 — Place, documents dated from; 126 b, 136 b, 138 a, 138 b.
 — Square, the Venetian Ambassador's, documents dated at; 86 b.
 St. Paul's, Consistory of; 27 b.
 St. Martin's-in-the-Fields; 29 a.
 Savoy, Hospital of, lands of; 23 b.
 Soho Square; 130 b.
 Southampton House, documents dated at; 33 b, 34 a.
 Strand, Beaufort Buildings, document dated from; 140 a.
 Sutton Hospital, committee for affairs of, order appointing Cromwell a governor of; 64 a.
 — note of governors of; ib.
 Temple, the; 22 b.
 — King's Head by; 22 a.
 Inner Temple; 66 a.
 Tower, the, document dated at; 59 b.
 — Lord Griffin committed to (1708); 98 b.
 Wallingford House, document dated at; 29 b.
 Warwick House, documents dated at; 29 b, 51 b, 58 a, 64 a, 64 b.
 Westminster; 21 a, 22 b, 25 a.
 — documents dated at; 29 a, 29 b, 63 a, 64 a, 93 b.
 — house for Officers of Augmentation at; 21 a, 25 b.
 — king's manor beside; 21 a.
 — old palace; ib.
 — lands purchased by Henry VIII. in; 21 b.
 — Duke of Suffolk's place at; 24 b.
 — lord high stewardship of; 66 a.
 — clerk of the peace at; ib.
 Westminster Hall, trial of Scotch lords in (1746); 111 b.
 Whitehall, documents dated at; 41 a, 45 b, 46 b, 47 b, 50 b, 65 a–68 a, 70 b–81 b, 88 b–95 b, 98 a, 98 b, 109 a–103 b, 122 a, 123 a.
 Wood Street, the Counter; 4 a.
 — letter dated at; 27 a.
 Worcester House, Committee; 64 b.
 "Prentices"; 9 b, 56 b.
 Soapmakers of; 66 a.
 Bishop of (1581); 27 a.
 — (1620); 36 a.
 Recorder of (1620); 36 a. See Montague, Sir Henry.
 Long:
 Mr., death of; 130 a.
 Dudley; 18 b, 131 a.
 Lisle, reference by; 64 b.
 Longford, Lord Coleraine's house at; 61 b.
 Loo; 76 a, 81 a.
 documents dated at; 67 b, 69 a, 70 a, 70 b, 76 a, 76 b, 77 a, 81 b.
 Lord:
 Robert, Deputy Treasurer of Augmentations, payments to, and receipts of; 20 b–26 b, passim.
 Thomas, payments to; 21 b, et seq.
 Lords, House of, its sitting again (1660); 65 a.
 Lord's Day observance, reflections on; 63 b.
 Lorne, Lord (1700); 105 a.
 Lorraine:
 Prince of, birth of (1699); 70 b. ministry of (1702); 87 b.
 Lotteries; 46 b.
 — used in colonisation; 5 a.
 Loudoun:
 Lord, Scots Commissioner, letters of (1639); 11 a, 56 a.
 — (1640); 57 b.
 Louis XIII. of France, treaty with Philip III., of Spain; 102 b.
 Louis XIV. See France, king of.
 Louis XV., his court; 113 b.
 Louisiana; 130 a.
 Love:
 —, merchant of Plymouth; 31 a.
 William, letter to; 66 b.
 Lovelace, Lord (1689); ib.
 Low Countries, the; 29 b. See Netherlands, the.
 Lubiers:
 M., letters of; 73 a, 74 b, 78 a, 81 b.
 King's commandant at Orange; 78 b, 108 b.
 Lucca, documents dated from; 103 b.
 Lucerne, Canton of; 86 b.
 Ludlow, Lord (1783); 18 a, 127 a.

U

Luke, Mr., his estate; 109 b.
 Lunenburg, Court of; 76 b.
 Lunenburghers, the; 74 a, 74 b.
 Lusan, Mile., married to Mr. Fitzjames; 108 b.
 Luther; 52 a.
 Lynden, Baron de (1783), envoy from Holland; 137 a.
 Lynn. See King's Lynn.
 Lyons, documents dated at; 64 a, 69 a.
 Lytcott, Colonel; 61 b.
 Lyttleton, Lord, his book (1767); 119 a.

M.

Maconnell, —, proposed exchange of, for Pierre Peraut; 70 a.
 Maddison:
 — Mr., secretary to embassy at Paris; 122 a, 138 a.
 — death of, at Paris; 130 b.
 Madras; 139 a.
 Madrid:
 — political affairs at, and letters dated from; 13 b, 14 b, 17 b, 70 b–88 b, passim, 107 b, 108 a, 109 a, 138 b.
 — Escorial, the, documents dated at; 137 b, 138 b.
 Maestricht; 104 a.
 Maffei, Count; 85 a.
 Magrath, Capt.; 78 b, 106 a.
 Mahon, Port; 101 b, 121 a, 126 b, 138 b.
 Maiden Bradley monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Maidstone; 24 a.
 Maine, Duke of (1700); 104 b.
 Maintenon, Madame de; 13 b, 81 a, 88 a, 104 b.
 Maitland, Lord, letter of (1644); 60 a, 60 b.
 Malaga; 45 a.
 Malatesta, Pondolfo, of Milan; 29 a.
 Malauze, Madlle.; 70 a.
 Malden, Lord (1783); 138 a.
 Malebroath, Milord de. See Marlborough, Duke of.
 Mallet, Mr., of Jersey; 186 b.
 Mallow, lands near; 30 a.
 Malmö, document dated from; 75 a.
 Malpas, young Lord (1769); 120 a.
 Man:
 — John; 33 a.
 — Joseph; 35 a.
 Manchester:
 — Earl of, Henry (1621–42), his sons; 10 a.
 — letters, &c. of and to; 50 b–59 a, passim.
 — Edward, second; 10 b, et seq.
 — sergeant major-general of parliamentary forces; 11 b, 59 b.
 — his quarrel with Cromwell; 11 b, 12 a.
 — reply to charges against; 12 a, 62 a.
 — Speaker of H. of Lords and Lord Chamberlain; 12 b.
 — Chancellor of Cambridge University; 12 a.
 — letters, &c. of and to (1642–71); 10 b, 11 b, 12 b, 49 b, 59 a–66 a, passim.
 — Robert, letters to; 66 a.
 — warrant, &c. touching; 66 b.
 — Charles (1682), afterwards Duke of; 12 b, 67 a.
 — passports for; ib.
 — his embassies; 12 b, 13 a.
 — (1701), Secretary of State; 13 b.
 — letters of; 13 b, 15 b.
 — letters to (1702); 13 b, 14 b, 15 b.
 — his friendship with the Duchess of Marlborough; 15 a.
 — letters and papers of and to, allusions to, &c.; 66 b–109 b, passim.
 — Duke of, MSS. of, present and past condition of; 2 a.
 — deposited in the Public Record Office; ib.
 — their relation to printed books and State Papers; 3 a, 17 a.
 — William, second, letters to; 109 b.
 — Robert, third, letters to; 110 a–111 b.
 — George, fourth, ambassador extraordinary at Paris; 16 b, 17 b.
 — correspondence of (1783); 16 b, 17 a, 19 a, 120 a–140 b.
 — Geo. III.'s remarks on; 18 a, 127 a.
 — his presents exchanged with ambassadors and ministers at Paris; 19 b, 133 b, 136 a.
 — governorship of India offered to (1788); 19 a, 132 b, et seq.
 — William, fifth, mem. touching (1793); 140 b.
 — Countess of (1644, &c.), letters to; 60 b, 61 a, 63 a, 64 a.
 — Lady (1708); 98 a.
 — Duchess of (1783); 19 a.
 Mandeville:
 — Lord and Lady (temp. Jac. I.), letters of and to; 30 a.

Mandeville—cont.

— Viscount, Edward, afterwards second Earl of Manchester, Dorothy Sidney's letter to; 9 a.
 — his marriages; ib.
 — letter to (1633); 51 a.
 — and his wife, licence to eat flesh in Lent; 9 b, 51 a.
 — his tailor's bill; 9 b, 55.
 — letters to (1639); 11 a, 49 b, 55 a, 56 a.
 — letters to (1640); 56 a, 56 b, 57 b, 58 a.
 — instructions to; 57 a.
 — letters to (1641); 49 b, 57 b.
 — (1642); 11 a, 58 b, 59 a.
 — certificate of; 58 b.
 — letter to (1643); 59 b.
 — his marriage negotiations with Sir Christopher Yelverton's daughter (1655); 12 a, 64 b.
 — Lord, letter of (1719); 103 b.
 — letters of (1720); 103 b.
 — his illness; ib.
 — (1758); 111 b.
 — his picture (1759); 112 b.
 Mandeville House, document dated at; 58 b.
 Mandor, John, clerk; 20 a.
 Mann:
 — Mr.; 112 b.
 — Horace, minister at Florence, letters of; 17 b, 124 a, 130 a.
 Manning, Mr.; 66 b.
 Mansell, Sir T.; 99 a.
 Mansfeldt, Count, Austrian President of War (1702); 85 a.
 Mantoule, camp at, near Fenestrelles; 101 b.
 Mantua:
 — State of; 87 a, 90 b, 92 a, 99 a.
 — Duke of (1707); 92 b.
 — (1708); 95 b.
 Manwaring, St. John, marries Lady Savage; 91 a.
 Mar, Capt. General da, letter to; 102 b.
 March, Mr., of the Ordnance; 65 a.
 Marcoff, M., letter of; 130 b.
 "Margaret and John," the ship; 37 b.
 Mariana, a Spanish Jesuit, notes attributed to; 68 b.
 Marimont, letter dated at; 132 a.
 Marlborough:
 — Duke of (1717); 84 a, 89 b, 91 a, 92 a, 92 b.
 — letters of; 89 b, 90 b.
 — letters to; 14 b, 89 a, 89 b.
 — his secretary; 91 b.
 — (1708); 95 b, 96 a, 97 b, 98 a, 98 b, 99 a, 100 b, 101 a.
 — letters of; 99 b, 100 b, 101 a, 101 b, 102 a.
 — letters to; 99 a, 101 a, 101 b.
 — and Lord Manchester; 13 b.
 — his liking for Lord Cutts; 112 b.
 — (1716); 109 b.
 — Duchess of, Sarah, her influence with Queen Anne; 15 a.
 — letters, &c. of; ib.
 — her friendship with Lord Manchester; ib.
 — (1708); 97 b, 99 a, 99 b.
 — letters of (1708); 98 b, 100 b, 101 a.
 — letters to (1708); 97 a, 100 a, 101 b, 102 a.
 — letter of (1716); 109 b.
 — (1729); 109 b.
 — (1733); 110 a.
 — her quarrel with the Lord Chamberlain; 101 a.
 — velvets bought for; 100 a, 102 a, 103 b.
 Marly, document dated at; 71 b.
 Marshall:
 — Mr., letter to; 41 b.
 — Nicholas, contract with; 60 a.
 Marsine, Comte de (1701); 107 b.
 Marston, John, prisoner in the Gatehouse, letters of; 11 a, 58 a.
 Martin:
 — Mr., in the Charterhouse; 57 b.
 — Martine, M., letters, &c., of; 14 a, 84 b, 85 a, 88 a.
 — letters to; 108 b, 109 a.
 "Martinianæ, Theses"; 27 b.
 Martinique; 121 b.
 Martinitz, Count; 90 b.
 Martin's Hundred, Virginia, document dated at; 40 a.
 Mary, Lady, afterwards Queen; 87 b, 88 a.
 Mary II., independent action apart from her consort; 12 b.
 "Mary," the ship, case of; 69 b.
 Masham, Massam:
 — Mrs., her favour with Queen Anne; 15 a, 95 b, 101 a.
 — Mr., reported to be created Earl of Dover; 15 a, 99 a, 99 b.
 Mass, sermon against; 68 b.
 Massachusetts:
 — government of colony, 1634; 8 b.
 — inhabitants of; 8 b.
 Massingberd, Mrs.; 64 b.
 Mathews, Capt., in Virginia; 40 a.
 Mathias, Emanuel, letter of; 124 a.

- Matthew :
 General, letter to ; 132 a.
 Mr. ; 123 b.
- Maurice, Prince ; 7 b, 35 a.
- Mauritius ; 140 a.
- Maxwell, Capt. Robt. ; 106 a.
- Maycock, Samuel, letter of ; 37 b.
- Mayence, Elector of (1707) ; 92 a.
- Mayerne, W., prescription by ; 29 a.
- "Mayflower," the ship ; 37 b.
- Meadows, Medows :
 Sir P., letters of ; 90 b-97 b, passim, 100 a, 100 b, 101 b.
 — report signed by ; 88 a.
 — his opinion of an Austrian bear hunt ; 14 b, 92 b.
- Meath, Bishop of (1622), letter to ; 30 b.
- Mechlin, Grand Council of ; 81 b.
- Mediterranean, the ; 86 b, 98 b, 110 a, 132 b.
- Meeres, Mr. ; 67 b.
- Meers, — ; 78 b.
- Melani, Abbé, letters of ; 13 b, 84 a, 86 b.
- Meldert, camp at, letter from ; 90 b.
- Melfort :
 Earl of (1700) ; 105 a.
 — (1701) ; 79 b, 106 b.
- Mellaredé, M. ; 90 b.
- Melton Mowbray, fight near (1645) ; 62 b.
- Melum, Mr., a Scotch minister, imprisoned in the Tower, &c. ; 51 a.
- Melville, General ; 125 b.
- Mendicanti, musician ; 92 a.
- Menefye, John, mem. of his expenses ; 24 b.
- Meredith :
 Major-General ; 97 b.
 Mr. ; 31 a.
- "Merlin," the ship ; 123 b, 126 b, 127 a.
- Merrill, John, letters of ; 11 a, 59 a, 59 b.
- Merrimac ; 49 b.
- Messina ; 107 a.
- Methodists, the ; 118 b.
- Methuen :
 Mr. or Paul, at Lisbon ; 14 b, 109 b.
 — letters of ; 74 b, 76 a, 77 a, 78 a, 81 b.
 — instructions to (1702) ; 88 b.
- Metternich, Count (1707) ; 92 b.
- Metz ; 106 a.
- Meverell, Francis, answer to petition of ; 47 a.
- Mexican fleet, the (1702) ; 84 b, 85 b.
- Mexico, company for trade to ; 107 b.
- Mezzo-tinto, Prince Rupert inventor of ; 114 a.
- Middleburg, document dated at ; 137 a.
- Middlesex :
 Commissioners of militia for, certificate to ; 65 a.
 Lord Treasurer (1623), letter of ; 30 b.
 — letter to ; ib.
- Middleton, Lord :
 his Paris letters (1699) ; 72 a.
 — (1700) ; 105 a.
 — his two sons arrested (1708) ; 98 b.
 Capt. Thomas, of Ratcliffe, agreement of ; 49 b.
- Milan ; 29 a, 85 a, 86 b, 99 a, 99 b, 104 b.
 document dated from ; 99 b.
 fief of ; 81 b.
- Mildmay, Sir Henry :
 letter of ; 11 b, 60 a.
 declaration signed by ; 62 b.
- Milliquit, John, letter of ; 124 a.
- Milner, John, letter of ; 48 b.
- Mills, —, arrest of, &c. ; 71 a, 71 b.
- Milton, John, his Paradise Lost, remarks on ; 19 b, 20 a.
- Ministers, plundered, Committee for ; 63 a.
- Minorea ; 101 b, 130 a, 137 b.
 document dated at ; 111 b.
 governor of ; 126 b.
- Miquelon, island, restoration of ; 122 b, 123 a, 125 b, 128 a.
- Mirandola, affair of ; 88 a.
 document dated at ; 98 b.
- Mississippi, the ; 130 a.
- Mitchell :
 Capt. ; 82 b.
 Wm., letter of ; 111 a.
- Mocenigo, Capt. General Domenico, letter of ; 102 b.
- Modena :
 taken ; 110 a.
 document dated at ; 93 a.
 envoy of (1702) ; 85 b.
 Duke of, letter of (1707) ; 93 a.
- Modye, Richard, mem. of money spent by ; 21 b, 23 b.
- Moles :
 the Duca ; 99 b, 101 a.
 — letters of ; 100 b, 101 a.
- Monasteries :
 suppressed, &c., plate from (1536) ; 20 a, 20 b.
 — relics from ; 21 b.
- Monck, Monk :
 General George ; 65 a.
 — letter of ; 65 a.
 — certificates of ; 64 b, 65 b.
- Monkton Farleigh, monastery ; 22 a.
- Monopolies, statute against ; 50 a, 59 b.
- Monson, Mr. ; 111 a.
- Montanus, John, certificate in favour of ; 58 b.
- Montbeliard, Monbeliard :
 Prince de (1699-1702) ; 14 b, 72 a, 74 b, 75 a, 87 a.
 — memorials touching (1702) ; 87 b.
 House of, statement of claims of (1700) ; 79 a.
- Montemar, at Modena ; 110 a.
- Montemagni, Cavaliere Coriolano, letter of ; 75 b.
- Montferrat ; 89 b, 92 b, 95 b, 100 b.
 fief of ; 82 a.
- Montgomery :
 Earl of, Philip (1647) ; 50 a.
 George, letter of ; 61 b.
- Montpensier, Madlle., her memoirs ; 113 b.
- Montreal ; 130 a.
- Montreuil, letter dated at ; 132 a.
- Montrose, Earl of (1644), takes Dumfries ; 60 b.
- Montserrat, Isle of ; 122 b, 132 a.
- Montagu, Mountague :
 Duke of (1708) ; 98 a.
 — letter to ; 96 a.
 and Rich families ; 3 a.
 — connections between, &c. ; ib.
 — MSS. of ; 3 a.
 and Sidney families, intimacy, "brotherhood," &c., between (1639) ; 9 b.
 of Kimbolton, Edward Lord, summoned to King's standard at York (1639) ; 11 a, 55 a.
 —, woman so named buried at Christ Church, Oxford ; 115 b.
 Lord Chief Justice, instructions to (1617) ; 29 a.
 Lady Betty, her marriage ; 118 b.
 Mr., of the Treasury ; 71 a, 79 a.
 — his house ; 79 a.
 — appointed Black Rod in Ireland ; 114 a.
 — (1770) ; 75 b.
 — letters to ; 71 a, 77 b.
 Charles, letter of ; 66 a.
 Charles, son of Robt., Earl of Manchester, letter of ; 66 a.
 — Chancellor of the Exchequer ; 69 b.
 Charles ; 115 a, 119 a.
 — letter of ; 121 b.
 Col. Chas. ; 112 b.
 General Charles ; 16 a, 113 a, 114 a, 115 a, 115 b, 116 a, 116 b, 118 b.
 — his appointment to Ireland ; 112 b.
 Lord Charles (1783) ; 123 a, 133 b.
 — letters of ; 139 a.
 Edward, afterwards second Earl of Manchester ; 10 a.
 — letters of ; 27 b, 55 a, 57 a, 58 b.
 — letters to ; 29 b.
 — death of his wife ; ib.
 Lady Elizabeth, letter of (1708) ; 99 b.
 F., letters of ; 128 a, 136 b.
 Lady Frances, letter to ; 64 b.
 George, letter of ; 63 b.
 — his sister Chandos ; ib.
 — brother of Earl of Manchester, letter to ; 64 b.
 — letters of ; 15 b, 112 a-120 a.
 — character of his correspondence ; 15 b.
 — Usher of the Black Rod in Ireland ; 16 a.
 — his sister, illness and death of ; 112 a.
 Henry, afterwards Earl of Manchester, his career and studies ; 10 a.
 — letter to ; 27 b.
 Sir Henry, Justice of Assize in co. Northampton ; 28 b.
 — recorder of London, letter to ; 28 b.
 James, brother to Edw., Earl of Manchester, petition of ; 64 b.
 Sir James ; 99 a, 99 b.
 — letters of ; 90 b, 92 b, 95 b.
 John ; 114 b.
 Mary, letter of ; 55 b.
 Provost, buried in Paris ; 118 a.
 Lord Robert (1788) ; 15 b, 110 a.
 Susan, letter of ; 29 b.
 Walter (afterwards Abbé of Pontoise), turns Catholic ; 10 b.
 — letters of ; 58 b, 59 b, 65 b.
 — letter to ; 51 b.
- Moore :
 Mr., under secretary ; 126 b.
 Edward, in prison for debt ; 56 a.
- Mordaunt, Col., his speech ; 95 b.
- More :
 Mr., of the Summer Islands ; 83 a.
 "Master" (Sir Thomas), [1535] ; 20 a.
- Morgan :
 Lady, sister of Sir Nathaniel Rich ; 4 a.
 — inventory of her wearing apparel, &c. (1622) ; 29 b.
 Eliza, note signed by ; 29 b.

Morgan—cont.

- Mr.; 48 a.
- merchant of Plymouth; 31 a.
- merchant of London, letters for Lord Manchester addressed to; 14 a, 108 b.
- Moriarty, Mr., of Dieppe; 136 b.
- Morkoff, Monsieur; 129 b.
- Morlaix; 136 b.
- Morlands, the (family); 118 b.
- Morlé:
- Abbé; 128 a, 129 b.
- and Lord Shelburne; 18 a.
- Morning Chronicle (newspaper, 1785), portions of; 139 a.
- Mortimer, Mrs. Margaret, her paper; 88 a.
- Morton, Thomas, Bishop of Durham; 10 b.
- Mosquito territory and Spain; 128 b, 129 a, 129 b.
- Motifont, Mottesone, monastery, relics from; 21 b.
- Mottier, William, letter of; 125 b.
- Moulsey; 23 a.
- Mounson, Sir William; 37 b.
- Mounterheyney, alias Tawnatalee, rectory and parish of; 80 a.
- Muhlberg, document dated at; 101 a.
- Munich; 111 b.
- document dated at; ib.
- Müntz, the painter; 113 a, 116 a.
- Murray:
- Earl (1708); 98 a.
- Col., brother of Lord Dunmore; 110 a.
- General, governor of Minorca; 126 b.
- Muscovy, Czar of, his arrival in England; 68 a.
- See Russia.
- Musgrave, Sir Philip, intercepted letters from; 60 b.
- Music; 92 a.
- "Mynyon," King's ship; 21 a.

N.

- Nantes:
- Edict of; 84 a, 103 a.
- port of; 123 b.
- Naples:
- expedition of Philip V. to, &c.; 13 b, 85 a–94 a, passim, 107 a.
- documents dated from; 99 b, 101 b, 103 b.
- Viceroy of; 99 b.
- French attack upon (1708); 101 a.
- antiquities of, described (1719); 103 b.
- Nassau, Count John de; 50 b.
- National defence (1786), draft of speech on; 139 b.
- Navarre; 106 b.
- Navarro, Spanish consul in London (1702), notification of; 88 a.
- Navy, the, lists, estimates, &c., and diary touching (1778–79); 120 b.
- Nedam, Mr.; 26 a.
- Neddham, George; 33 a.
- Nedham, George, statement of; 38 a.
- "Needham, Old;" 36 b.
- Negapatnam, cession of; 122 a, 126 a, 127 b.
- Nemours, Madame de, and Neuchâtel; 70 b, 72 a.
- Nete; 23 b.
- Netherlands, the, or United Provinces:
- affairs of; 35 a, 67 a, 80 a, 82 a–88 b, passim, 90 a, 93 a, 102 b, 106 b–108 a, passim.
- the States General, letters of and to, &c.; 69 b, 70 b, 79 b, 83 a, 83 b.
- passport of (1708); 67 a.
- their representative at Madrid (1702); 13 b.
- treaty of (1700); 73 a.
- treaty with William III. (1701); 79 a.
- paper touching defensive alliance between England and (circ. 1701); 80 b.
- treaty with England, Sweden, and (1701); 84 a.
- treaty with England, the Emperor, and (1701); 84 a, 87 b.
- England, Denmark, and, secret treaty between (1701); 84 a.
- Definitive Treaty with (1783), articles of; 125 a, 126 b.
- Neuchâtel, Neuchâtel; 72 a.
- documents dated from; 90 b–92 b, passim.
- the King of Prussia's claim to; 14 b, 90 b–99 b, passim.
- threatened invasion of; 93 a.
- and Vallangin, investiture of counties of, granted to King of Prussia (1707); 92 b.
- minister of; 69 b.
- Prince of (1707); 91 b.
- Neusdorf, document dated at; 94 b.
- Nevis, island of; 126 b.

- Newark; 60 a, 60 b, 62 a.
- governor of; 60 b.
- document dated from; 63 a.
- garrison of, summons to surrender (1646); 63 a.
- Newbury:
- battle of; 12 a, 61 b.
- document dated at; 61 b.
- Newcastle-on-Tyne:
- Scottish army at (1640); 57 a.
- Scottish leaguer at, letter so dated; 57 a.
- corporation of "hoastmen" (1642); 59 a.
- siege of; 60 b.
- Newcastle:
- Marquis of (1644), defeat of his forces; 60 a.
- his retreat to York; 60 b.
- Duke of, letter of (1732); 109 b.
- "King of Clare Market" (1761); 113 b.
- Newce. See Nuce.
- Newfoundland fisheries; 123 a, 127 b, 128 a.
- "Newgaters"; 36 b.
- Newman, R. A., of H.M.'s ship "Andromache;" 140 b.
- Newman's ship, the affair of; 64 b.
- Newmarket; 91 a, 98 a.
- documents dated from; 69 a, 92 a.
- races; 69 a.
- Newport, Lord (1643); 59 b.
- Newton:
- Henry, letters of; 91 a, 92 a, 93 a, 97 a, 99 b.
- Sir Isaac, master of the Mint; 79 a.
- Peter, contract with; 60 a.
- "New Year's Gift," the ship, deed of sale of; 33 b.
- Nicolls, Thos., letters of; 41 b.
- Nicholls, Major, claims of, to clerkship of Ordnance; 65 a.
- Nicholson:
- John, vicar in Rochdale hundred, deposition of; 27 a.
- Wm., capt. of H.M.S. "Lyon"; 21 a.
- payment to; 21 b.
- Nieuport, occupied by French (1701); 79 a, 83 b.
- Nivel, Niven, or Nivet, Mr., case of or memorial of; 130 a, 138 b.
- Nixon, Eccles, letter of; 121 b.
- Noel, Henry, letter of; 51 a.
- Non-jurors; 103 a.
- Norfolk, Parliament forces, conference touching (1645); 62 a.
- Normanscross hundred, co. Huntingdon; 55 a.
- Norris, Sir John, letters of; 14 b, 90 b, 100 a, 101 a, 101 b.
- North:
- Lord (1759); 113 a.
- Chancellor of the Exchequer (1767); 119 a.
- letters of (1783); 123 a, 132 a, 135 b.
- and the India Bill, &c.; 19 a, 132 b, 133 a, 133 b.
- Edward, clerk of the Parliament (1587); 22 a.
- Northampton:
- documents dated at; 59 a, 61 a, 61 b.
- mayor and others of, letter of; 59 a.
- sheriff and others of, letter of; 61 a.
- petition of; 61 b.
- races; 118 a.
- late monastery of St. Andrew's; 26 b.
- Dallington, near; 112 b.
- Earl of, H. (1610); 28 b.
- Northumberland:
- Earl of (1536); 20 b.
- (1588); 24 b.
- (1603); 28 a.
- letter of (1640); 56 a.
- warrant signed by (1643); 59 b.
- letter of (1644); 60 a.
- letter of (1655); 12 a, 64 b.
- letter of (1660); 64 b.
- Lady (1765); 117 b.
- Countess of, E., letters of (1650); 64 a.
- Norton:
- Capt., death of; 39 a.
- D., letter of; 29 b.
- Sir G., suicide of his son; 70 a.
- Norway; 97 b.
- Norwich:
- documents dated at; 61 b, 62 b.
- corporation of (?), letter of; 62 b.
- Bishop of (1707); 90 a.
- Norwood:
- Mr.; 32 a.
- Richard, letters of; 41 b.
- Nostitz, Count, the Prussian minister; 137 b.
- Nottingham:
- document dated at; 62 b.
- Lord (1604); 28 a.
- Secretary of State (1702); 87 a, 87 b.
- Novillar, M. de, Chevalier de Malte, his pocket-book, &c.; 16 a, 115 a.
- Nuce:
- Thomas; 37 b.
- letter of; ib.

Nace—cont.

- Capt. or Sir William, in Virginia; 6 a, 37 b, 39 a, 39 b.
- death of; 39 b, 41 b.
- Nuremberg; 67 b.
- document dated from; 103 a.
- Nycollson, Wm., yeoman of King's henchmen (1537); 22 a.

O.

- Oakes, Mr.; 130 b.
- Oatlands; 22 b, 25 b.
- Hen. VIII. at; 24 a.
- Oblivion, Act of, reasons presented to Parliament touching Jersey and Guernsey, and; 66 a.
- O'Bryan :
 - a suspected person; 71 a.
 - sent to England; 71 b.
 - brought to London; 72 a.
- Octavius, Prince, youngest son of George III., death of; 123 a, 126 a.
- Oginski, family of; 85 a.
- O'Hara, Charles; 18 b, 131 a.
- Oldeslo, Allies' camp near, letter from; 75 b.
- Oldfield, J., letter of; 103 a.
- Oliva :
 - treaty of; 73 a, 77 b.
 - letter of King of Sweden to King of France touching (1700); 69 b.
- Olms, candidate for Weymouth; 111 a.
- Onley :
 - John; expenses of; 20 a, et seq.
 - documents signed by; ib.
 - Sir John, his diet, &c.; 32 a.
 - Mr., late Attorney of Court of Augmentations, his widow, warrant to pay; 23 b.
- Opera, Cumberland's comic; 16 b, 118 a.
- Operas; 100 b.
- Orange :
 - Prince of (1620); 7 b, 36 b.
 - (1643); 102 b.
 - (1787); 139 b.
 - Princess of (1787); 140 a.
 - principality of, affairs of, and treaties affecting (1699–1707); 70 a–81 b, 94 a, 108 b, passim.
- Orbitello; 93 a.
- Ordinance, self-denying, the; 12 a.
- Ordinance, the, offices in; 65 a.
- Orford :
 - election at; 111 a.
 - Lord (1698); 69 b.
 - Sir R. Walpole, his pension (1742); 110 b.
- Orier barony, Ardmarche (Armagh), description of lands in; 30 a.
- Orleans :
 - document dated at; 58 a.
 - Duke and Duchess of (1699); 70 a, 70 b.
 - Duke of (1701); 104 a, 108 a.
 - death of; 107 b.
 - (1708); 96 a.
 - Duchess of (1702); 86 a.
- Orthography (18th century), peculiarities of, in Addison and Lord Manchester; 14 b.
- Osborne :
 - Sir Robert; 56 b.
 - letter of; 60 a.
- Osborn :
 - Sir George; 112 b, 117 b, 119 b.
 - Madame; 115 b.
 - Mother; 119 a, 119 b.
 - young; 119 b.
- Osnaburg, treaty of, confirmation of; 94 a.
- Ostend; 83 b, 96 b, 108 b, 109 a.
- occupied by French (1701); 79 a.
- O'Sullivan, Mr.; 125 b.
- Oswald :
 - Mr., and Lord Shelburne; 16 b, 18 a.
 - his negotiation in Paris; 123 a.
- Oxford, Kent; 24 a.
- survey of; 20 a.
- "Otranto, Castle of," Walpole's; 117 b.
- Ottieri, Francesco Maria, letter of; 94 a.
- Ottway, Col.; 111 a.
- Otway, F., letter of; 111 b.
- Oudenarde, battle of; 14 a, 100 b, 101 a.
- Onse, the, navigation; 63 b.
- Oxenden :
 - Lady, letter of (1746); 15 b, 116 b.
 - Sir George; 15 b.
 - his opinion on Pitt's appointment; 111 b.

- Oxford; 61 a, 118 b, 120 a.
- document dated at; 63 a.
- ballad, an (temp. Jac. I.), a Cambridge madrigal confuting; 39 b.
- Sot's Hole, near Bullock's Lane; 116 a.
- University, and the Engagement (1649); 63 a.
- Christ Church; 113 a.
- Cathedral; 115 b.
- commemoration (1763), described; 16 a, 116 a.
- oratorio at; 16 b, 116 a.
- Earl of (1622); 30 a.
- letters of and to; ib.
- imprisonment of; 30 b.
- Oxfordshire, election for (1760); 113 b.

P.

- Pacho, Don Francisco; 88 b.
- Packer, Lieut.-Col., Cromwell's letter touching; 60 a.
- Paddington, duel at; 56 b.
- Page, Mr., of Kingston[on-Thames]; 25 b.
- Paget, Lord :
 - instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 - (1698); 68 b.
- Painter, Stephen; 48 b.
- Painting, Anecdotes of, Walpole's; 115 a, 117 a, 117 b, 120 a.
- Palatinate; the; 51 a, 95 b.
- Palatine, Elector, the :
 - letter to (1699); 70 b.
 - memorial of (1707); 98 b.
- Palermo, document dated from; 73 a.
- Palmer :
 - Mr.; 95 b, 99 a.
 - General, letters of; 99 a, 99 b, 100 b, 101 b.
- Panama, attempt on; 110 b.
- Panfli, Princess, letters of (1720); 103 b.
- Papal Consistory, the (1700); 104 a.
- Papists; 103 a.
- in Huntingdon; 66 b.
- Pardon, Wm. and others, letter of; 61 b.
- Paris; 51 b, 72 a.
- documents dated at; 56, 58 a, 69 a–71 b, 74 a–88 a, passim.
- 102 b–108 a, 117 b–140 b, passim.
- Lord Manchester's embassy to; 13 a.
- Venetian ambassador at (1699); 71 b.
- Bastille, the; 71 a, 82 b, 84 a, 104 b.
- St. Cosme dans la Rue la Harpe; 72 a.
- St. Sulpice seminary; 130 a.
- Parker :
 - , merchant of Plymouth; 31 a.
 - Mr., minister; 49 b.
 - Stephen, receipt of; 82 b.
- Parliament :
 - proceedings in, additional details (1629); 11 a, 50 a.
 - order of, to Earl of Warwick (1642); 59 a.
 - army, the (1642); 59 a.
 - and Cambridge University (1645); 62 b.
 - Charles I.'s message to; ib.
- Pasfield, George, of Redriffe, agreement of; 50 a.
- Passy, document dated at; 120 b.
- Paston, Lord, and Lord Portland (1700); 105 a.
- Paterson, W., letter of; 62 a.
- Pattison, Colonel; 111 a.
- Paul V. (Pope), letter of; 28 b.
- Paulet, Pawlett :
 - Lord, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 - Earl (1708); 96 a.
- Paulson, Richard, letter of; 47 b.
- Paulucci, Cardinal, letter to; 88 b.
- Pavia, document dated at; 97 b.
- Payne, George, letter of; 63 a.
- Paynter, Stephen, statement of; 38 a.
- Peiger, "Jacomo," letter of; 103 a.
- Peirce, Lieut., governor of James Town; 40 a.
- Pelham :
 - Mr. (1745); 111 a.
 - Lady Lucy, supposed portrait of; 117 a.
- Pelle, Pille, or Pilla, monastery, relics from; 21 b.
- Pellegrini, Valeriano, letter of; 99 a.
- Pells Office, memorandum; 28 b.
- Pembroke Tribe, in the Summer Islands; 35 b.
- Pembroke, Earl of :
 - (1621); 87 b.
 - (1643); 59 b.
 - warrant signed by; ib.
 - letter of (1646); 63 a.
 - (1708); 9 b.
 - his wife (1762); 115 a.
- Penistone, Thomas, statement of; 38 a.

IPTS COMMISSION

Popery :

- Lord Warwick's hostility to; 11 b.
- latin elegiacs (1633) against; 51 a.
- Popish Seminaries; 58 b.
- Porey, John, Secretary of Virginia Company; 37 a.
- Port Louis; 109 a.
- Portland, Earl of :
 - letters of (1697); 67 b.
 - letter of (1698); 69 a.
 - (1700); 78 b.
 - and Lord Paston; 105 a.
 - (1702); 85 b.
 - Duke of, (1783, &c.); 16 b, 121 a, 133 a, 136 a, 137 b, 138 a, 138 b.
 - letters of and to; 17 b, 18 a, 19 b, 123 a, 130 b, 131 a, 133 b, 134 a, 136 b, 137 a, 139 a.
 - his letter on the India Bill (1783); 19 a, 132 b.

Port Royal :

- documents dated from; 35 a, 35 b, 48 b.
- French fleet in (1780); 121 a.

Porto Bello; 110 b.

Portocarrero, Cardinal; 78 a, 81 b.

Portsmouth :

- reduced (1642); 59 a.
- dockyards; 139 b.

Portugal :

- King of (1700-1), and the Partition Treaty; 74 b, 76 a, 78 a, 80 a, 80 b, 81 a, 81 b, 84 a, 86 a, 87 a, 104 a, 106 b, 107 a, 107 b, 108 a, 109 b.
- (1702) letter to; 88 b.
- his ambassador and the resident of Sweden at court of France, agreement between; 70 a.
- rudeness of ambassador of, at French court (1699); 71 b.
- Infanta of (1701); 107 b.
- and Ceylon; 120 b.
- treaty with France (1783); 139 b.

Post Office, the; 58 b.

Post Offices, English and French; 127 a, 128 a.

"Potargoes" sent from the Summer Islands; 33 a.

Powell, Capt. or Capt. Daniel :

- suspected pirate; 7 b, 35 b.
- his frigate; 35 a.
- prize ship taken by; 49 b.

Powis, Powys :

- Mr.; 97 a.
- R. letters of; 102 a, 103 a.
- Sir Thomas, Attorney General, his wife; 87 b.

Powle, Nathaniel, letter of; 87 b.

Powntesse, John, letter of; 37 b.

Prayer, Common, Book of; 33 a.

Predestination, treatise touching (1619 ?); 29 a.

Presbyterianism in Bermuda (1617); 7 a.

Prescriptions, medical, 17th century; 4 a, 29 a.

Pressburg; 96 b.

Preston, Lord, trial of (1691); 12 b, 66 b.

Pretender, the old; 13 b, 14 a.

- (1700); 105 a.
- (1701); 84 a, 108 a.
- recognition of, by French Court; 104 b.
- (1702); 87 b, 88 a.
- ratification of articles against (1703); 86 b.
- his attempted landing in Scotland (1708); 15 a, 26 a, 96 b.
- 97 a, 97 b, 98 b.

Pretender, the young :

- his letter to Argyle (1742); 15 b, 110 b.
- association to protect Geo. II. against (1745); 111 a.
- (1760); 113 b.

Prices :

- value of "Augmentation" documents (Hen. VIII.) in relation to; 3 b.
- illustrations of; 21 a—26 b, passim, 41 b, 42 b, 45 a, 55 a, 60 a, 103 a, 108 b.

Pritchard, Thomas, letter of; 98 a, 99 b.

Prié, Marquis de; 89 b.

letter of; 102 a.

Prince's-metal, Prince Rupert inventor of; 114 a.

Prior, Matthew :

- letter of; 70 b-73 b, passim, 78 b.
- letters to; 71 b, 75 a.
- report signed by; 88 a.

Privateers; 106 b.

Privy Chamber, the, (temp. Jac. I.), rules touching attendance in; 29 b.

Proctor, Mr., letter to; 72 a.

Protestantism against Romanism, arguments; 10 a.

Protestants abroad, interest of (1702); 84 a.

Providence island; 8 a, 8 b, 49 b.

document dated at; 49 b.

Company; 64 a.

Prussia, King of :

- (1700); Elector of Brandenburg to be; 77 a, 105 a, 106 a
- his claim to Neuchâtel; 14 b, 90 b-93 a, passim.
- (1707), his recognition by Venice; 93 b.
- (1708); 95 a, 97 b.
- (1742); 110 a.
- (1788), his artful game; 126 b.

a, King of—cont.
 is supposed treaty with France (1783); 132 b. and Dantzic; 186 a. is sister Princess of Orange (1787); 140 a.
 a, ambassador of, and the Prince de Conti; 91 a. e, William, his "Histriomastix"; 51 b.
 , Don Joseph Perez de la, letter to; 88 b.
 ilx, M., French ambassador in Switzerland; 85 b, 100 a.
 , Mr., in Virginia; 40 a.
 a morals and conquest in the Colonies (1619); 8 b. vants, notes on commission concerning (1620); 29 a.
 ; 22 b, 23 a.
 im :
 r.; 59 b.
 each of; 57 b.
 — (1652); 64 b.
 hn, commission signed by; 59 b.

Q.

monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 ; 130 a.
 Ferry, Scotland; 33 b. erry, Duke of, made Duke of Dover; 15 a, 99 b.
 m mot of; 118 a. patriotism"; 117 b. or" (Queenborough?); 34 b.
 , J., letter of; 99 b.
 Sieur de :
 nish ambassador at the Hague (1701); 82 b, 83 a.
 norial of; 82 b.

R.

rd :
 rs of (1707); 90 a, 91 a.
 r of (1708); 95 a. ewmarket; 69 a.
 orthampton; 118 a.
 Lord, letter to (1783); 130 a.
 Sir Walter, his voyage to Guiana described; 8 a,
 , battle of; 14 a.
 :
 of, paymaster of the Forces (1708); 102 a.
 , Dowager; 87 b. h, the :
 with the Fleet at Vado; 100 a.
 ments dated from; 101 a, 101 b.
 Alt, document dated at; 93 b.
 :
 lessex; 49 b.
 eorge, articles against; 57 b.
 95 b.
 of; 87 b.
 ue of, in Bermudas; 6 b, 32 a.
 M. de; 122 b.
 of; 137 a.
 to; 127 b.
 document dated at; 61 b.
 of 1715, the; 15 a.
 fice, Public, MSS. deposited in, by the Duke of ster; 2 a.
 Bill, the (1708); 94 b.
 :
 relating to; 4 a.
 on commission concerning (1620); 29 a.
 for petition against (temp. Jac. I.); 29 b.
 apt. or Major; 61 b.
 0 a.
 the Tower, his Majesty's (1782?), list of; 122 a.
 3 b. suppressed monasteries; 21 b.
 rghership of; 29 b.
 ommittee for his Majesty's (1646), letter of; 63 a.
 French, Epic Poem on; 19 b.
 19 a.
 ; 86 a, 90 b, 101 a, 107 a.
 g," 112 b.
 114 a.
 112 a.

Rich :

and Mentagu families; 3 a.
 — connections between, &c.; 3 a.
 — MSS. of; 3 a.
 Lord (1581); 27 a.
 — notifications to (1608); 28 a.
 — Robert (1608, &c.)
 — acquittance for money assessed on; 28 b.
 — notifications to; ib.
 — (1639?); 55 b.
 "ould Lady," letter to (1581); 27 a.
 Lady Anne; 9 a, 9 b.
 Nathaniel, at Emmanuel College; 4 a, 28 b.
 Nathaniel or Sir Nathaniel, Commissioner for Ireland, of the Virginia Company, &c.; 4 a, 7 b, 8 a, 30 a, et seq.
 — letters, &c., of and to; 6 b, 8 a, 28 b, 29 a–51 b, passim.
 — (1619), and the Virginia Company; 4 b, 6 b.
 — charge against; 5 b.
 — and Daniel Tucker; 7 a.
 — prescriptions for; 29 a.
 — elected M.P. by two different boroughs; 29 b.
 Lady Penelope, letters to; 4 a, 27 b.
 Richard, expenses of; 20 a, et seq.
 — documents signed by; ib.
 — warrants, &c. of; 22 a–26 b, passim.
 — deputy of Chas. Duke of Suffolk, acquittance of; 28 b.
 Richard or Dick; 27 a.
 — petition of; ib.
 — order touching; ib.
 Sir Richard, chancellor of Court of Augmentations; 22 a,
 24 b.
 — order to pay; 24 b.
 — warrant letter of; 25 a.
 Robert; 7 a, 31 b, et seq.
 — letters of; 32 a.
 — death and funeral of; 9 a, 35 a, 36 a.
 Sir Robert; 8 b, 31 b.
 — letters to; 31 a, 32 a, 32 b.
 Richard II., documents of his reign; 20 a.
 Richmond :
 Surrey, Henry VIII. at; 21 a.
 "archedeneri" of; 23 a. monastery; ib.
 Riga; 76 a.
 Rigby :
 Sir Alexander; 87 a, 87 b.
 secretary; 112 b.
 Ripon :
 documents dated from; 57 a. treaty of, papers respecting; 57 a.
 Riveroles, Abbé de, execution of; 101 a.
 Rivers, Lord (1708); 102 a.
 "Roaster," the; 110 a.
 Roberts, Lord :
 letter to (1634); 51 b. and Lady (1639); 55 a.
 Robethon, J. :
 letters of; 76 b, 77 a, 78 b, 79 b, 80 a, 81 b, 89 a, 108 b.
 letter to; 89 a.
 Robinson, J., or Mr. :
 letters of; 70 b, 74 a, 75 a, 76 b, 78 b, 89 b, 90 b.
 letter to; 81 b.
 statement of; 75 b.
 Mary, widow; 29 a.
 Rochdale, hundred; 27 a.
 Rochefort; 109 a.
 Rochester :
 Bishop of (1535); 20 a.
 Lord (1708); 96 a.
 Rochford; 44 a, 55 b.
 Rockingham, Marquis of, letters of (1782); 16 b, 121 a.
 his party; 121 b.
 Rockingham forest, deputy rangership of; 118 a, 118 b.
 Rodney, Admiral :
 letters of; 16 b, 120 b.
 his victory over the French fleet; 121 b.
 — Admiralty note of; ib.
 Rodon :
 David de, his son Jaques; 70 b.
 Sieur or M. de; 73 b, 74 b, 75 a.
 Roehampton; 118 a.
 Roland, Madame; 117 b, 118 a, 118 b, 119 b. plan of her "Mall"; 118 b. silver casket for; 119 a.
 Rolf, John :
 a true relation of State of Virginia by; 4 b. letter of, on State of Virginia; 31 b.
 letter of; 37 b.
 Rolls, Master of the (1538); 24 a.
 Romania :
 document dated from 102 b.
 Romanism against Protestantism arguments; 10 a.
 Romans, king of the (1702); 86 a.
 Rome; 29 a, 86 b, 87 a, 108 b, 105 b.
 documents dated at; 28 b, 88 b, 94 a, 102 a, 103 b.
 Bishop of (1628); 50 a.

Romney, Lord; 117 a.
 Rooke, Sir Geo.: bombs Copenhagen; 76 a.
 sails for "the Straits"; 108 a.
 Rosceter, Col.; 62 a.
 "Rose, La," the ship; 132 a.
 Ross:
 Daniel; 130 b, 132 a.
 — under sentence of death; 132 b.
 — memorial of; 138 a.
 Hercules, of Soho Square, memorial of; 130 b, 132 a.
 Mr.; 136 b, 137 b.
 Rothés, Lord (1640); 11 a, 57 a.
 Rotterdam, documents dated at; 85 b, 86 b, 87 a.
 Rouquier, M., le Fils; 138 b.
 Rousley, a surgeon; 42 a.
 Rousseau:
 Walpole and; 16 a.
 letter of; 199 a.
 Rowe, Anthony, contractor for hearth money; 66 b.
 Rowlesley, Wm., letter of; 41 b.
 Runeton, North [Norfolk], tenants of, petition of; 27 b.
 Runkel, M., letter, &c. of; 100 b.
 Rupert, Prince; 11 b.
 his march to Newark; 60 a, 60 b. in Lancashire; 60 b.
 "invented Mezzo-tinto and Prince's metal"; 114 a.
 Rushout, Sir James, late ambassador to Turkey (1698); 68 b.
 Russell:
 Lady (1699); 70 a.
 Elizabeth, letter of; 27 b.
 Francis, letters of; 12 b, 65 a.
 Col. Francis, articles of agreement by; 60 b.
 Lord John, afterwards Earl, his memorials of C. J. Fox; 17 b.
 Russia; 74 a, 78 b, 93 b, 133 b. defeat of (1701); 81 b.
 ambassador from, arrested; 100 b.
 list of ships in Navy (1774); 120 b.
 ambassadors from (1783); 133 b. and the Mediterranean (1783); 132 b.
 English sailors in fleet of (1788); 140 b. and Poland; 136 a.
 and Turkey (1783); 124 a-131 a, 138 b-140 b, passim.
 Czar of, the (1700); 74 a, 74 b.
 — assists the King of Poland against Sweden; 77 a.
 Empress of (1783); 124 a, 125 b.
 Rust, Mr.; 181 b.
 Rutland, co., inhabitants of, letter of; 62 a.
 Ruzzini, the Inquisitor; 101 b.
 Rye; 108 a.
 Ryswick, treaty of; 70 b, 71 b, 108 b.

S.

"Saccharissa," supposed portrait of; 117 a.
 Sackville:
 Sir Edward, and the Virginia Company (1619); 4 b, 5 a, 38 a, 43 b, 47 b.
 Sir Geo., his trial; 113 a.
 Sacraments, Latin remarks upon; 63 b.
 Safety, Committee of, warrants of; 59 b.
 St. Albans; 61 a.
 documents dated at; 61 b.
 Lord (1660); 66 a.
 St. Amand; 98 b.
 St. Andrew's Island; 49 a.
 St. Catherine's Hospital; 62 b.
 St. Cyr; 120 a.
 St. Eustatia, capture of, &c.; 121 a, 121 b, 127 b, 129 b, 130 b, 132 b.
 St. George:
 the ship, case of; 105 a.
 in the Summer Islands, letters dated at; 31 b, 32 a, 32 b, 48 b.
 St. Germain's:
 James II's, court at; 14 a, 74 b, 76 a, 77 a, 81 a, 96 b, 103 a, 104 a, 104 b, 105 a, 105 b, 106 a, 106 b, 107 b, 109 a.
 the "Assassins" at; 105 a, 107 b.
 St. Hiliare, a French officer; 126 a.
 St. Ildefonso, letters dated at; 131 a, 132 a.
 St. Jean, Mr. Levesque, banker, of Paris; 72 a.
 St. John:
 Mr.; 96 a.
 Sir Oliver, deputy of Ireland (1618), instructions to; 30 a.
 Lord, Oliver (1626), requisition signed by; 50 a.
 St. Leger, Seyntleger:
 Sir Anthony, warrant to pay and receipt of; 26 b.
 Sir Warham; 32 b.
 St. Lo yacht, the; 80 b, 107 a.
 St. Lucia; 126 a, 132 a, 136 b.
 document dated from; 121 a.
 St. Michaels; 67 a.
 St. Petersburg; 17 b, 130 a, 139 a.
 document dated at; 137 a.
 St. Pierre Island, restoration of; 122 b, 123 a, 125 b, 128 a.
 St. Roeh; 137 b.
 St. Sixborough (St. Sexburga), monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 St. Stephen's, near Canterbury, document dated at; 56 a.
 Salcey Forest, document dated at; 128 a.
 Salisbury:
 Earl of, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 — warrant signed by (1643); 59 b.
 — letter of (1646); 63 a.
 Bishop of (1640), Davenant, letters of; 10 b, 57 b.
 — (1707); 91 b.
 Salm, Prince of (1707); 89 b.
 Salmon, John, letter of; 34 a.
 Salms, Prince of; 92 b, 94 b.
 Salt, manufacture of; 50 a.
 Salusse, document dated at; 91 b.
 "Samuel and Mary," the ship, case of; 69 b.
 San Stefano; 93 a.
 Sandwich, Earl of:
 Edward (1662), Lord Lieut. of co. Huntingdon; 66 a.
 (1745); 111 a.
 (1759); 112 b.
 (1763); 116 b.
 and his sons (1766); 118 b. and the game of cricket (1766); 119 a.
 letters of (1782); 121 b.
 Sands, Sandys:
 Lady Wyatt's sister, letter to; 41 b.
 Sir Edwin, treasurer of Virginia Company; 4 b, 6 a, 33 b.
 84 a, 35 a, 36 b, 38 a, 39 b, 42 a, 44 b, 45 a, 45 b.
 — charges against; 5 b, 42 b.
 — letter to; 33 b.
 — Alderman Johnson's abuse of; 33 b.
 — council order for confinement of; 45 b.
 — his ill-feeling to Lord Warwick; 35 b.
 — his wild projects; 40 b.
 — his faction; 41 a.
 George, treasurer in Virginia; 6 a, 36 b, 37 b, 39 b.
 — letters of; 39 a, 39 b, 40 a, 41 a.
 Sir Miles, letters to; 39 b, 42 b.
 Sir Samuel; 42 a.
 — letter to; 39 b.
 Sapieha, family of; 85 a.
 Sardinia; 93 a.
 King of (1749); 110 a.
 Sarwarden, county of; 87 b.
 Savage Islands (Caribbees), the; 35 a.
 Savage, Lady E., marries St. John Manwaring; 91 a.
 Savile, Lord, instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 Savona, documents dated at; 93 a, 99 b.
 Savoy; 88 a, 92 a, 96 a.
 Duke of, affairs of (1700-8); 77 b, 82 a, 85 a, 87 a, 89 a-95 b, 99 b-107 b, passim.
 — his treaty with France (1701); 80 a.
 — and Queen Anne, treaty between (1704); 82 a.
 Princess or Duchesse of (1701); 80 b, 81 b.
 — her claim to England; 80 b.
 Sawtrej monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Saxe-Gotha, Duke of (1701); 81 a.
 Saxony; 76 a, 78 a, 80 a, 93 b, 95 b, 136 b.
 Say, Saye, Lord:
 (1634); 49 b.
 petition to; ib.
 (1639); 49 b.
 and the army oath (1639); 55 a, 55 b. and Sele, commission signed by (1643); 59 b.
 — letter of (1660); 65 a.
 Scaln, camp at, document dated from; 91 b.
 Scarsdale, Lord (1766), his seat; 119 a.
 Schaffhausen:
 documents dated from; 100 b.
 Dutch minister at; ib.
 Scheldt, the; 102 a.
 Schlick, Count, general in the Austrian army, proposition of and reply thereto; 83 b.
 Schonburg, Duke of:
 letter of (1699); 71 b.
 his brother; ib.
 Schonenberg, M., representative of England and the Netherlands at Madrid, letters of and to, &c.; 13 b, 76 b-81 b, 84 a-88 a, passim, 106 a, 107 a, 109 a, 109 b.
 Schuylenbourg, M., letter to; 78 b.
 Scotland:
 campaign against (1639); 11 a.
 negotiations with England (1639-40); 11 a.
 Parliament of (1639-40); 11 a, 56 a.

Scotland—cont.

army of, in England (1640); 57 a.
 — (1644); 60 a, 60 b.
 Covenanters, the; 55 b.
 Lords of, letter of, to Secretary of (1640); 56 b. treaty of Ripon, propositions of; 57 a.
 Commissioners of Parliament of, message of Charles I. to (1646); 62 b. inhabitants of, in France, privileges of (1699); 70 a.
 Parliament of (1700); 73 b, 75 a. state of feeling in (1700); 75 b. and St. Germain's, correspondence, &c. between (1700); 76 a.
 the Privy Council in; 91 b.
 the Scotch members in House of Commons, debate described by Addison (1707); 91 b.
 Bill for abolishing Privy Council and for establishing justices of peace in (1708); 94 b, 95 a. clans of, proceedings in House of Commons touching (1708); 97 a.
 the Pretender's attempted landing in (1708); 15 a. threatened invasion or French expedition to (1708); 96 b—98 b, passim. peers of, arrested (1708); 98 a.
 Jacobite feeling in; 105 a.
 Lords of, trial of, in Westminster Hall (1746); 111 b.
 Scott, Mr., chamberlain at Hanover; 91 a.
 Scowan, Mr.; 64 a.
 Scrope, Mr., and the secret service money; 111 a.
 Scudamore, John, letter of; 97 b.
 Seafort, Earl of (1708); 98 a.
 Seafower, the ship; 6 b, 40 a, 41 a.
 Seamen:
 wages of, temp. Hen. VIII.; 21 a. impressment of; 66 b, 67 a.
 Sebright, Sir John; 118 b.
 Sedand; 51 a.
 Sedley, Sir Charles; 118 a.
 Segeberg; 76 a.
 document dated at; 76 a.
 Segur, M. le Maréchal de; 138 a.
 Seimer, Wm., statement of; 38 a.
 Selby, document dated from; 60 b.
 Selinger, Sir Warram. See St. Leger, Sir Warham.
 Semer, Mr.; 9 a, 36 a.
 Semour, Thos., capt. of H.M.S. "Swepestacke"; 21 a.
 Senegal Company, the; 105 a.
 Separatists, the; 45 b.
 Servas, Mr., at the Hague; 109 a.
 Sevigné, Madame de; 16 a, 113 a.
 Seymour, Mr.; 51 a.
 Shallett, Joseph, letter of; 86 a.
 Shannon, Lord (1763), his son; 116 b.
 Sharpe, Samuel, letter of; 41 b.
 Sharvill, John, letter of; 34 b.
 Shelbarne, Earl of:
 (1782); 16 b.
 intrigue between Comte de Vergennes and; 18 a.
 his party (1782); 121 b.
 (1783); 128 a, 128 b.
 letter to; 135 a.
 (1784); 129 b.
 Sherborne Castle; 59 a.
 Sherburne, Mr., of the Ordnance; 65 a.
 Shirley:
 Mr.; 127 b, 128 a, 132 a.
 Lady Fanny; 115 a.
 Henry, letter of; 136 a.
 Shovell, Sir Cloudealey; 90 a.
 letters of; 90 b, 91 a.
 his death; 92 a.
 his body found; 92 b.
 Shrewsbury, Lord, Gilbert (1603); 28 a.
 Shrewsbury, Duke of:
 letter to (1696); 103 a.
 letters of and to (1697); 67 b.
 (1698); 69 b.
 illness of; 68 b.
 letters of and to; 68 a, 68 b, 69 a.
 lord chamberlain (1700); 74 b.
 (1708); 97 b, 98 a.
 Sicily; 85 b, 107 b.
 Sidney, Sydney: and Montagu families, intimacy and "brotherhood" between; 9 b.
 Algernon; 117 a.
 Lady Dorothy (Saccharissa), daughter of Earl of Leicester, letters of; 9 a, 51 a.
 — particulars concerning; 9 a.
 — and Robert, portraits of; 117 a.
 H., letter of; 60 b.
 Silkworms:
 and spiders; 7 b.
 breeding of, in the Summer Islands; 36 b, 39 a, 41 a, 45 a.
 Silver, price of (temp. Hen. VIII.); 3 b.
 Sinclair, Lord (1708); 98 a.

Skinner, Mr., his pretensions to consulship at Naples; 103 b.
 Slater, Samuel, letter of; 62 b.
 Slave trade; 38 b, 75 b.
 Slinsby, Col.; 75 a.
 Sm . . . , John, letter of; 63 b.
 Smith, Smyth:
 Capt.; 39 a, 40 a.
 Mr., made Chancellor of the Exchequer; 98 b.
 Capt. John, governor of Virginia, his story of discovery, &c. of Virginia; 4 a.
 Richard, a Popish priest; 50 b.
 Capt. Roger; 41 a.
 — petition of; 33 b.
 Sir Thos., treasurer or governor of Virginia Company; 4 b, 34 b, 35 a, 36 a, 36 b, 40 b, 42 a, 42 b, 43 b, 44 b, 46 b, 47 a, 47 b.
 — charges against; 5 a, 43 b.
 — answer to; 48 a.
 William, of Summer Islands, letters of; 32 a, 32 b.
 Soapmakers of London, charter to (1661?); 66 a.
 Soleure: diet at; 75 b.
 document dated at; 77 a.
 Solicitor-General, the (temp. Hen. VIII.), fees of; 3 b.
 Solicitors' costs and fees (1536); 20 a.
 Somers, Lord Chancellor:
 letter of William III. to, and his reply; 13 a.
 letter of (1698); 68 b.
 letters of and to; 69 a, 71 a. attack on; 72 b.
 (1708); 96 b, 99 b.
 Somerset:
 Duke of, letter of (1707); 91 a.
 — (1708); 97 b.
 in the Summer Islands; 34 a.
 Sophie, La, the privateer; 123 b, 128 a.
 Soranzo, ambassador of Venice in London (1701), letter to; 82 a.
 Southampton, Earl of:
 and the Virginia Company; 4 b, 7 b, 32 b, 33 b, 35 b, 36 b.
 letter to (1621); 37 b.
 (1623); 38 a, 42 a, 45 b.
 Southampton Tribe in the Summer Islands; 32 b, 33 b, 35 a.
 Southwark; 24 a.
 Southwell, Sowthwell:
 Richard, orders to pay; 24 b.
 Robert, attorney of Augmentations, mems. signed by, warrants, &c. of; 20 a, et seq.
 — account of his expenses; 20 b, et seq.
 Spa; 18 a, 18 b, 128 a, 131 b.
 Spain; 35 b, 52 a, 133 b.
 Partition treaty regarding succession of kingdom of and war resulting from (1698, &c.); 69 b—80 a, 82 a, 83 a, 85 a, 89 b, 93 a—95 b, 98 b—101 b, 104 a—109 b. condition of (1702, &c.); 13 b, 81 b.
 state of (1702), Schonenberg's letter on, and its relations with France; 84 b.
 articles of peace (1783); 16 b.
 treaties with; 122 a.
 definite treaty with (1783); 122 b, 125 a.
 and the Mosquito territory (1783); 128 b, 129 a, 129 b. its feeling towards England (1783); 137 b. and Gibraltar; 138 b.
 fleet of (1639); 56 a.
 French sailors in fleet of (1788); 140 b.
 ships of, for attack of Russian fleet (1788); ib.
 ship of, cast ashore and burnt at Wyrewater; 63 a. navy of (1701); 81 b.
 fleet of, from Mexico; 86 a. defeated at Modena; 110 a. list of navy of; 120 b.
 English agents in; 14 b.
 Ambassador of (1699), required to leave England; 71 a, 71 b.
 — representations of; 72 b.
 Ambassador from, letter to (1782); 121 b.
 — letter to (1783); 138 b.
 King of, expected death of (1700); 77 a.
 — his death; 78 a, 105 b.
 — late (1701), his will; 77 b, 82 a, 82 b, 105 b.
 — the new (1700), Philip V., acknowledged; 79 b, 83 a.
 — (1700); 73 a, 79 a, 104 a.
 — his entrance into Madrid (1701); 80 a.
 — his marriage; 80 b.
 — and his future wife; 81 b.
 — (1701); 106 b, 107 a.
 — (1702); 83 a, 84 a, 86 a, 88 b.
 — letters to; 88 a.
 — letter of; 82 a.
 — army of (1702); 84 a.
 — his expedition to Naples, &c.; 13 b, 85 a—94 a, passim.

Spain—cont.

- King of (1708); 100 b.
 — (1783); 126 a.
 — and George III., convention between (1786); 139 b.
 Queen Dowager of (1700-2); 78 a, 79 a, 86 a.
 — letter to; 82 a.
 the young Queen of (1702 ?); 86 a.
 Queen of, letter to (1702); 88 b.
 — (1708); 99 b.
 regents or regency of (1700); 78 b, 79 b, 106 a, 106 b.
 court of, recognises pretended Prince of Wales (1701); 81 b.
 Spanheim, Mons. de; 100 a.
 Spencer :
 D., Lady, letter of; 56 a.
 Lord, afterwards Earl of Sunderland, his marriage (1699); 9 a.
 Lord Charles, rejected for co. Oxford (1760); 113 b.
 Spey; 98 a.
 Spiders and silkworms; 7 b.
 Spies or political agents abroad, letters to and memoranda of sums paid to (1702); 108 b.
 Spiller, Henry, order signed by; 47 a.
 Spilman :
 Capt.; 42 a.
 Sir John; 4 a.
 — bills of sale by; 29 a.
 Spittye, Richard, letter of; 29 b.
 Stamford; 62 a.
 St. Michael-beside-, monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 Lord (?), letter signed by; 63 b.
 Earl of, report signed by (1702); 88 a.
 Stanbridge, Much, Essex :
 parson of; 27 a.
 document dated at; 27 a.
 Stane, W., letter of; 59 a.
 Stanhope :
 Alexander, ambassador at Madrid (1699), letters of and to; 70 a-71 b, passim.
 — to leave Spain; 71 b.
 — at the Hague, letters of and to; 74 a-81 b, passim, 85 b.
 — instructions to; 83 a.
 — propositions by; ib.
 James (1708); 95 b.
 — letter of; 99 a.
 — his project regarding the clans of Scotland; 97 a.
 — envoy to Spain; 97 b-99 b, passim, 101 b.
 General; 101 a.
 Stannfelde, Richard, late canon of Derford monastery, receipt of; 20 b.
 Stanton :
 Parson, of Eton; 120 a.
 Major, his wife; 138 b.
 Stanyan :
 Abraham, secretary of embassy; 67 b, 75 a.
 — letters of; 14 b, 75 b, 88 b, 90 b-101 b, passim.
 — letters to; 72 a, 74 a, 74 b, 100 b.
 — proposed as resident at Venice; 69 a.
 — recall of; 73 b.
 Staremborg :
 Count Guido de; 88 b.
 Marshal; 96 a.
 Count (1708); 95 b.
 General, in Spain; 101 b.
 State Papers, Foreign Series, connexion of the Manchester MSS. with; 17 a.
 Statues belonging to Charles I., bought in open market; 66 a.
 Stephens, Thomas, contract with; 60 a.
 Stepney :
 Mr.; 108 a.
 George, at Vienna, letters of; 18 b, 70 b, 85 a, 86 a, 87 a, 89 a.
 — death of; 91 b.
 — his will; ib.
 Sir John, minister at Berlin, letters of; 17 b, 125 a, 126 b, 130 b.
 — letters to; 130 a, 136 b.
 Stevenage, document dated at; 97 b.
 Stilton; 55 b.
 Stirk :
 George, minister of the Bermudas or Summer Islands; 7 a, 48 a, 48 b.
 — letter and petition of; 49 a, 49 b.
 — his salary; ib.
 Stockholm; 17 b.
 letters dated at; 63 a, 69 b, 70 b, 74 a, 78 b, 124 a, 133 b.
 Stokes, Capt.; 48 a.
 Stooches, Mrs.; 33 a.
 Storer :
 Mr. or A.; 132 b, 133 a, 136 a, 137 b, 138 a, 138 b.
 — letters of; 133 b, 139 a.
 Stoughton, Egden Green, near; 50 a.
 Stourbridge fair; 115 a.
 Stowe, the Venus of; 130 a.
 Strabane garrison; 62 a.

- Stradling, Capt., order touching; 59 a.
 Stratford :
 Earl of, "Black Tom" (1640); 9 b, 56 b, 57 a, 57 b.
 — articles of accusation against, &c. (1641); 58 a.
 — speech to Lords in his defence; ib.
 — letter to (1783); 15 b.
 Strange, John, letters of; 124 a, 125 b.
 Stratford-at-Bowe, relics,—one, "a piece of the Holy Cross"—from monastery of; 21 b.
 Strawberry Hill :
 Horace Walpole at; 112 b-120 a, passim.
 Gen. Traupad's house near; 119 b.
 Strickland, Walter, letter of; 58 a.
 Sturbridge, Mrs. Mary; 114 a.
 Suabia; 84 a.
 Circle of, resolutions of; 83 b.
 Subsidies granted by Parliaments of James I. and Charles I. 28 b, 50 b.
 Sudbury, Lord Vernon at; 119 a.
 Suffolk :
 committee of co.; 60 b.
 Parliament forces in, conference touching (1645); 62 a.
 Duke of (1538); 25 a.
 — his lands; 24 b.
 — his place at Westminster; ib.
 — Charles (1607); 28 b.
 — documents signed by (1604 and 1610); 28 a, 28 b.
 — (1629); 50 b.
 Lady, death of (1767); 119 a.
 Sulgrave, enclosure of; 117 b.
 Sumatra, Dutch settlements in; 127 a, 127 b.
 Summer Islands or Bermudas, documents dated from; 31 b, et seq.
 the ship; 49 a.
 See Bermudas, the.
 Sunderland :
 Earl of, Lord Spencer afterwards, his marriage (1639); 9 a.
 — lord chamberlain, letters to (1697); 67 b.
 — resignation of (1698); 68 a.
 — letters of (1707); 88 b-93 a, passim.
 — letter to; 93 a.
 — (1708); 98 b, 99 b, 100 a, 101 b.
 — letters of; 94 a, 95 b, 98 a, 98 b, 100 a, 100 b.
 — letters to; 101 b, 102 a.
 "Supplie," the ship, of Bristol; 37 b.
 Supremacy, oath of; 40 b.
 Surat, Dutch settlement in; 127 a, 127 b.
 Suripam; 139 a.
 Susa, fall of, &c. (1707); 91 b, 98 b.
 Sutton :
 Richard, order signed by; 47 a.
 Robert, letters of; 74 b, 75 a, 75 b, 76 a, 77 b, 89 b, 90 a, 92 a.
 "Swallow," the ship; 59 a.
 Sweden :
 affairs of (1700, &c.); 70 b, 73 a, 74 a, 76 a, 76 b, 77 a, 77 b, 78 a, 85 a, 89 b, 100 a, 102 b.
 list of ships in navy (1774); 120 b.
 fleet of; 75 b.
 victory of Swedes over Muscovites (1700); 78 b. project of treaty of peace with Poland (1700); 79 a. treaty with England, the States-General, and (1701), 84 a.
 King of (1699), his resident and the King of Portugal's ambassador at Court of France, agreement between; 70 a.
 — letters of (1700); 69 b, 73 a.
 — his sister (1701); 13 b, 81 a.
 — (1707); 89 a, 90 a, 91 a, 94 a.
 — his reception of the Duke of Marlborough; 89 b.
 — memorial from (1707); 93 b.
 — (1701); 104 b.
 — (1783); 124 a.
 Prince Royal of, inoculated; ib.
 Queen of, Christina, letters of (1646); 63 a.
 "Swepestake," King's ship; 21 a, 22 a.
 Swift :
 Dean; 114 b.
 — his epigram on Lord Cutts; 112 b.
 James, ensign, petition of; 33 b.
 Swinford, Katherine, her children; 113 a.
 Switzerland : and the partition treaty, &c.; 75 a, 75 b, 76 a, 76 b, 77 a, 85 b, 86 a, 86 b, 88 b, 92 b, 94 b, 95 a, 99 b, 100 a.
 cantons of; 87 b.
 — representation of British minister to partition treaty (1700); 79 a.
 — senators, &c. of, letter of (1698); 68 b.
 — mem. on proceedings of (1702); 85 b.
 Symmes, Valentine, stationer, examination of; 27 b.
 Symonds, John, letter of; 49 b.
 Syon, document dated at; 91 a.

T.

's bill (1630-1638); 9 b, 55 a.
 ; Lord (1756), his daughter; 112 b.
 , his daughter; 118 a. d, M.; 69 a, 78 b, 79 b, 106 a, 107 a. n, Arthur, stationer, examination of; 27 b.
 , document dated at; 82 a.
 Tarino:
 ount, letter of (1707); 89 b.
 — letter to; 94 a.
 — declaration to (1705); 93 b.
 , Sussex, Bill for a grant of donative of; 65 b.
 talee, alias Mounterheyney, rectory and parish of (1622);
 or Tassis, Prince; 86 b.
 :
 pt., political agent; 19 b.
 letters of; 120 b, 121 a, 121 b, 139 b, 140 b.
 , Lord (1759); 113 a.
 Marshal de; 102 a.
 , the; 36 b.
 lds, Court at; 50 b.
 ille; 106 a.
 on, Mr., wine merchant, Garlick Hill, assumed address;
 108 b. n, Mr.; 138 a.
 ; 63 a.
 , of the Virginia Company; 33 b. orge; 37 b.
 — letter of; 37 b.
 vernor of Virginia; 39 b.
 rey; 63 a.
 orton:
 , case of; 4 a, 27 b.
 — letter of, from his "poor house at Haseley"; 27 b. er," the ship; 32 b.
 , General; 95 a.
 Hope; 58 b.
 nonastery, relics from; 21 b. y lace; 115 a.
 pt.; 61 b.
 lations for growth of, trade in, &c. in Virginia; 6 a,
 , 31 b-48 a, passim.
 ns to prove that the King may restrain planting of glish tobacco; 48 a. l of; 8 b, 125 b, 126 a.
 agreement touching colonisation of; 50 a. thony, letter of; 111 b.
 rg; 98 b, 99 a, 100 a.
 9 a.
 John, of Queen's Ferry; 33 b.
 , relief of; 74 b.
 camp at, document dated at; 99 b.
 ; 70 b, 72 a-78 a, passim, 80 b, 82 b, 88 a, 104 a-108 b, sim.
 etters of; 71 b, 84 a.
 etters to; 70 b, 79 b. te della, anecdote of; 103 a.
 :
 1729); 109 b.
 inister at Brussels (1783); 123 a, 136 a. etters of and to; 17 b, 124 a, 125 b, 132 a, 137 a,
 b, 138 a.
 monastery, relics from; 21 b.
 render of; 101 a.
 ndred, co. Huntingdon; 55 a, 63 b.
 ck on, 14 b, 90 a, 90 b, 91 a, 91 b. ager as to issue of; 14 b, 94 a. d armaments at; 109 a, 138 a. dered at, list; 140 b.
 orbay" before, document dated on board; 90 b.
 , of Frankfort, Mr.; 51 a. etters of (1715); 103 a, 103 b. y, letter to; 121 b.
 766); 118 b.
 n (1770); 120 a.
 Commissioners of, reports by, on state of American
 ; 88 a.
 Mr., letter to; 41 a.
 mp at, document dated from; 94 a.
 ernal, his house near Strawberry Hill; 119 b. d (1708); 98 a.
 aty of peace signed at; 76 a, 78 a.
 the ship; 4 b, 5 b, 7 b, 34 b, 35 a, 35 b.
 attack upon in House of Commons (1698); 68 b. rant of; 66 b.

Treaty, Treaties; 69 b, 73 a, 76 a, 82 a, 84 a, 87 a, 102 b, 105
 122 a, 122 b, 136 a, 139 a. partition, the; 18 a.
 definitive, with France, articles of; 124 a, 124 b.
 Trevor:
 Miss; 112 a, 120 a.
 Mrs. Margaret; 117 a.
 Trichinopoly, document dated at; 121 b.
 Trimnel, Dr., to be Bishop of Norwich (1707); 90 a.
 Trincomalee, Ceylon; 132 a, 133 b.
 documents dated from; 120 b.
 delivery of; 137 a, 137 b. engagement off; 139 a.
 Tronchin, M., letter to; 127 b.
 Trubrige, Mrs. Mary; 114 a.
 Tucker, Capt. Daniel:
 governor of the Bermudas (1616); 6 b, 7 a, 34 b-40 a,
passim.
 letters of; 6 b, 31 b, 32 a, 32 b.
 petition signed by; 33 b.
 Tuckney:
 Anthony, DD.; 65 b.
 — letter of; ib.
 Tunbridge Wells, documents dated at; 69 b, 109 b, 110 a.
 Turin; 17 b, 98 b, 99 a, 102 a.
 documents dated at, 82 a, 89 a, 91 b, 92 a, 92 b, 93 a-96 a 98 b, 99 a, 99 b, 101 b, 123 b, 125 b.
 court of; 68 b.
 treaty of; 82 a.
 Turkey; 97 a.
 embassy to; 68 b.
 Sultan of (1707), conspiracy to depose; 90 a.
 the Grand Vizier; 68 b. its alleged design on Venice; 92 a.
 and Russia (1783); 124 a-131 a, 138 b-140 b, passim.
 Turk's Island, correspondence relating to; 17 a, 126 a, 135 b.
 Turner:
 Barnabas, vicar in Rochdale hundred, deposition of; 27 a.
 Thomas, 32 b.
 Capt., governor of Summer Islands; 49 b.
 Turnor, Dr., prescription of; 29 a.
 Tuscany:
 Grand Duke of, address to (1700); 75 b.
 — reply of; ib.
 — and partition treaty; 76 a.
 — (1702); 86 b, 87 a.
 — letter of; 88 b.
 — (1783); 124 a.
 Grand Duchy of; 133 b.
 Twickenham; 12 b, 66 a.

U.

Ubilla, Antonio de:
 letter, &c. of; 70 a, 70 b.
 letter to; 71 b.
 notification to; ib.
 Ukraine, the Polish; 125 a, 136 a.
 Ulm, document dated at; 84 a.
 Union, the, Bill for; 73 a, 89 b, 96 b.
 Universities, the:
 fellowships at (1660); 12 b. committee for regulating, order to; 64 a.
 Upton, Capt., his troop; 59 b.
 Utrecht: attack of Prussians on; 139 b.
 Prince of Brunswick takes possession of; 139 b.

V.

Vado; 93 a, 100 a, 100 b.
 documents dated at; 99 b, 100 a.
 Bay of, letter dated at; 93 b.
 Valangin, awarded to Prussia; 94 a.
 Valenciennes; 76 b, 104 a.
 Valière:
alias Clarke, in England, French spy; 14 a.
 — proceedings against; 15 a, 95 a-97 b, passim.
 Valle Crucis, abbot of, order to pay; 22 a.
 Valognes, English prisoners at; 136 a.
 Van Berkenroode, Mr., Dutch minister at Paris, letters of 17 b.
 Van den Kerkhoff, Mr., memorial of; 138 a.
 Van Tromp, Admiral; 11 b, 58 b.
 Van Vryberge, M., letter of; 73 b.
 Vanbrook, J., letter of; 72 a.

Y

- Vanbrugh :
J. or Sir John, letters of; 15 a, 90 a, 91 b, 95 b, 97 a, 97 b, 99 a, 101 a, 101 b.
- Vane, Sir Henry :
(1646); 11 b.
letter of; 63 a.
order of; 64 a.
the younger; 58 b.
- Vaudemont, Prince de :
(1671); 82 a.
(1679); 70 a, 71 a, 71 b, 72 a.
(1702); 87 b.
- Vaudois, the ; 98 b.
- Vaughan, Sir John, articles of agreement by ; 60 b.
- Veard, M. ; 72 a.
- Veazie, Mr., his petition ; 30 b.
- Velvets at Venice and Genoa, manufacture of ; 100 a, 102 a, 103 b.
- Vendôme ; 86 b.
Duke of (1708); 98 b.
- Venice :
political affairs of, documents dated at, &c.; 13 b, et seq., 67 a-69 b, passim, 71 a, 72 a, 75 a, 80 b, 82 a, 86 b, 87 a, 90 a-103 a, passim, 107 a, 124 a, 125 b.
Sir Isaac Wake's embassy to; 29 b.
Lord Fielding's embassy to (1636); 54 b, 66 a.
Lord Falconberg's embassy to, instructions (1670); 66 a.
Earl of Manchester's embassies to (1699); 12 b, 13 a, 14 b. affront to English ambassador at (1708); 98 a, 98 b, 99 a. ambassador of, at Paris (1699); 71 b. ambassador from (1708); 98 b.
its recognition of the King of Prussia; 98 b. treaty between England and (1707); 94 b.
abstract of negotiations, with names of English residents and ambassadors at (1560-1639); 103 a. velvets at, manufacture of; 15 a, 100 a, 103 b.
Doge of, and Dogeressa; 69 a.
— memorials to (1707); 94 a.
— speech to (1707); 96 a.
— (1708); 101 b.
Duke and Senate, letter to (1709); 103 a.
Bank of; 68 a, 71 b.
College at; 102 a, 103 a.
Carnival at; 69 a, 91 b.
Gulf of, navigation of; 82 a.
- Venier, ambassador of Venice in London ; 86 b.
letter to; 82 a.
- Vera Cruz ; 85 b.
- Vergennes :
M. or Comte de, letters of and to; 17 a, 17 b, 18 a, 121 b-123 b, 136 a-139 a, passim.
intrigue between Lord Shelburne and; 18 a. and Baron de Breteuil, intrigues between; 18 b. suggested present to; 19 b.
his party and influence; 129 a.
- Vermuden, Col. ; 61 a.
- Verne, Madame de, mistress of the Duke of Savoy ; 105 b.
- Vernon :
Lord, at Sudbury (1766); 119 a.
Admiral; 110b.
Mr.; 108 b.
James, Secretary of State, letters of and to; 13 b, 67 b, 68 a, 68 b, 71 a, 71 b, 75 a-81 b, 84 a-85 b, 104 b-108 b, passim.
- Verona ; 111b.
document dated from; 99 a.
- Versailles ; 81 a, 105 b.
documents dated at; 82 b, 83 a, 121 b, 122 a, 123 a, 125 b-132 a, passim, 136 a, 136 b, 138 b, 139 a.
- Verses, Greek, on Pleasure ; 29 b.
- Vgan. See Vaughan.
- Vial, François, of Orange ; 74 b.
- Vicenza ; 94 a, 99 a.
- Vienna, political affairs at, documents dated from, &c.; 13 b, 17 b, 54 b, 73 b-75 b, 77 b, 85 a, 85 b, 88 b-102 b, passim, 108 a, 123 b, 124 a, 131 a, 136 a, 138 b.
- Vigevanasco, province of Milan ; 89 a, 92 b, 93 b.
- Villa Torres, Don Sebastian de ; 88 b.
- Villars, Marshal ; 94 b.
- Villeroy, Marshal :
(1701); 104 b, 108 a.
(1702), prisoner; 85 b.
- Vincenzio, — ; 39 a.
- Vine, the, co. Hants, Mr. Chute's seat ; 114 a, 116 b.
- Vines, culture of, in Virginia ; 5 b.
- Virginia :
colonisation of, 2 a, et seq.
Rolf's true relation of state of (1616); 4 b, 81 b.
Council in England, the; 4 b.
Company, the, rival factions in; 4 b. massacre of colonists by Indians (1622); 5 a. entrapping emigrants to (temp. Jas. I.); 5 b. sufferings of emigrants to; ib.
famine and pestilence in (1623); ib.
colony and Company of, papers relating to; 33 b, et seq.
- Vroeze or Vroessen :
M.; 14 a.
letter of; 84 a.
letters to; 108 b.
- Vryberge, M. van :
Dutch envoy in England; 78 b, 80 a, 89 a, 106 b.
memorial of; 93 b.
- Vrybergh, Mons. de, instr. ctions to ; 72 a.
- W.
- Wager, Sir Charles ; 110 b.
- Wages, temp. Hen. VIII. ; 3 b, 21 a-26 a, passim.
- Wake :
Sir Isaac, letter of; 29 b.
— his embassy to Venice; ib.
- Walcot :
H., warrant signed by; 61 b.
House; 112 b.
- Waldegrave, Lord : illness and death of (1763); 116 a. character of; ib.
sale of his effects; 116 b.
- Waldershare ; 120 a.
document dated at; ib.
- Waldo ; 51 b.
- Wales, Prince of :
queries about making way for a (1687); 87 b, 88 a.
(pretended), recognized by Spain (1701); 81 b.
(1708), at Dunkirk; 96 b.
illness of; ib.
- Walforde, William ; 59 b.
- Walker :
—; 32 b.
E., letter signed by; 61 b.
- Waller :
Edmund, his "Saccharissa"; 9 a. See Sidney, Lady Dorothy.
Sir Wm.; 62 a.
- Wallingford ; 61 a.
- Wallop :
Sir John, warrant to pay 25 b.
receipt of; ib.
- Walpole :
—; 98 a.
Mr., letter of (1782); 121 b.
his secretary; 125 b.
Sir Edward, his play; 115 a.
Horace; 2 b.
— letters to; 15 b, 112 a, et seq.
— chanson by; 15 b, 111 b.
— his "Commanderie"; 112 a.
— his "Mysterious Mother"; 120 a.
— his "Anecdotes of Painters"; 115 a, 117 a, 117 b, 120 a.
Sir Robert, Lord Orford, the Secret Committee on (1742); 110 b, 111 a.
— styled by the Pretender as "that arch-rebel"; 110 b.
Thomas; 133 a.
— letters of; 122 b, 127 b, 138 b.
Hon. Thomas (1782), letter to; 121 a.
Tom, his son; 18 b, 181 a.
- Walsall, Francis, letter of ; 65 b.
- Walsh, Mr., deceased ; 97 b.
- Walsingham :
Lord (1786); 135 a.
Sir F., his first embassy to France; 4 a, 27 a.
- Walter, William, payments to ; 22 b, 23 a.
- Walton, Capt. Valentine ; 11 a.
letters of; 11 b, 60 a.
at Huntingdon; 59 a. governor of King's Lynn; 60 a. certificate of; 65 a.
- Walton, Surrey, manor ; 28 b.
- Wantage, movements of King's troops about (1644) ; 61 b.
- Ward :
Mr., minister, Summer Islands; 49 a.
Nathaniel, letter of; 48 b.
John; 22 b, 23 a.
Samuel, letter of; 50 b.
- Wardall, Mr., clerk, depositions taken by ; 27 a.
- Warr, Lord de la, deceased, late Governor of Virginia (1619) ; 33 b, 34 a.
- Warsaw ; 17 b, 85 b.
documents dated at; 84 b, 125 a, 126 b, 136 a.
- Warwick, Earl of :
and the Virginia Company (1619); 4 b, 7 b, 8 a, 8 b, 33 b. and Capt. Nathaniel Butler; 7 a. sale of ship to; 33 b. acquittances to (temp. Jas. I. and Chas. I.); 30 a.

Warwick, Earl of—cont.

- (1620); 34 a, 35 a, 36 b, 37 a.
 letters to; 34 b, 35 b.
 defence of, against Sir E. Sandys; 35 b.
 (1623); 38 b, 40 a, 43 b, 45 b. goes to the Netherlands to fight a duel with Lord Cavendish; 5 a, 29 b.
 (1626); 50 a.
 (1629); 48 b, 49 a.
 acquittance for money paid by (1631); 50 b. statement of account (1639?); 55 b.
 (1640); 56 b.
 letter to; 34 b.
 instructions to; 57 a.
 his son Robert wounds Sir E. Baynton in a duel; 9 b,
 56 b. letters of (1642); 11 b, 58 b, 59 a.
 order of Parliament to (1642); 59 a.
 agreement of (1647); 49 b.
 letter of (1651); 64 a.
 letters of (1652); 64 b.
 his grandson Frank (?), letter to; 64 b.
 (1737) letter of; 103 b.
 the ship; 49 a.
- Warwick, Countess of (1623), letter to; 29 b.
 (1640); 56 b.
- "Warwick," the ship, account touching stores, &c. in; 34 a.
 loss of; 34 b.
- Wasshyngton, Laurence, executor, order for payment; 26 b.
 receipt of; ib.
- Waterson, Will., carrier; 65 b.
- Watkinson, Peter, minister of Brampton; 63 a.
- Watson, Major, letter to; 62 b.
- Waymouth, Capt., agreement of; 4 b, 31 a.
- Weatherly, Sir, of Cambridge; 65 b.
- Welbore, John; 60 a.
- Welch, John, letter of; 48 b.
- Welles, Thomas; 34 b.
- Wentworth:
 his attempt on Panama (1742); 110 b.
 Hugh; 49.
 — letter of; 48 b.
- Wervick, Camp at, document dated from; 100 b.
- Wesel, Count John de Nassau at; 50 b.
- West, Capt. Francis, petition of; 33 b.
- Westacre, Norfolk:
 late monastery of, survey of; 24 a.
 — prior of; 25 b.
 —in-Grimston, Norfolk, manor of; 25 b.
- Western Islands, the; 35 b.
- Westmeath, plantation of (1618); 30 a.
- Westminster. See London and Westminster.
- Weston, Mr., ambassador, instructions to; 66 a.
- Wetenhale:
 family, the; 112 a.
 Bishop; ib.
- Wetenhall (Geo. Montagu's sister); 120 a.
- Wetherby, Lord Leven at; 60 b.
- Weymouth, election at; 111 a.
- Wharton, Lord:
 instructions to (1640); 57 a.
 letters of (1644); 60 b.
 (1708); 96 b.
- Wheatley, Thomas, letter to; 41 b.
- Wheler, Roger, late canon of Derford Monastery, receipt of;
 20 b.
- Whitelock, Bulstrode, Lord Ambassador; 64 b.
- Whittney, Capt.; 32 b.
- Wight, Isle of, document dated at; 45 b.
- Wilcocks, Capt.; 39 a.
- Wilkinson, Mrs.; 118 a.
- Willaston, H.:
 inventory by; 66 b.
 letter of; ib.
- William III.:
 independent action of Mary apart from; 12 b.
 his letter to Lord Chancellor Somers; 13 a, 69 a. orders in Council; 66 b.
 his instructions to Lord Manchester as ambassador; 67 a, 70 a, 82 b.
 sign manual; 67 a.
 treaty with King of France and States-General, abstract of;
 (1700); 69 b.
 letter of; 70 b.
 his domains in France; 72 b.
 treaty of; 73 a.
 unpopularity of, through his partiality for the Dutch; 73 a.
 alleged plot to murder; ib.
 his journey to Holland (1700); 78 b. ill will against, at Berlin, (1700); 74 a.
 and settlement of English crown; 77 a. memorial of "confessors" to; 79 a.
 his treaty with the States-General (1701); 79 a.
 going for Holland (1701); 80 b. memorial of Lord Manchester to; 82 a. vote of 5,000,000*l.* to; 85 a. letter and messages of 3 b

William III.—cont.

- letters to; 82 b, 83 b.
 alleged design against life of (1700); 104 a, 106 b. order of; 108 b.
 accident to; 109 a.
 attack of fever; ib.
 his death; 13 b, 86 b, 109 a, 109 b.
 — feeling at, in Holland and France; 86 b. celebration of his birthday at Dublin; 16 a, 114 b.
 "William and Jane," ship seized by French; 75 a, 105 a, 106 a.
- Williams:
 Mr., minister, ejection of; 61 b.
 Mr., charge against; 111 a.
 John; 26 a.
- Williamson, Sir Joseph, letter to; 67 b.
- Willis, R., letter of; 29 b.
- Wilmot, Montagu's "Little Aunt"; 117 b.
- Wilson, S., note by; 57 b.
- Wilton, merchant, London, assumed address; 109 a.
- Wimbledon, letters dated at; 130 a, 132 a, 138 b.
- Winchelsea, Lady, her "Atalantis"; 113 a.
- Winchester, garrison and defences (1643); 59 b.
- Windebank, Sir F., secretary, in Paris; 57 b, and note.
- Windsor or Windsor Castle; 20 b, 21 a, 23 a, 25 a, 50 b.
 documents dated at; 91 a, 101 a.
 office of steward; 29 a.
 Paddock Walk by; 65 b.
 the Woolsack at; 23 a.
- Wingerworth, tithes of; 63 a.
- Wingfield:
 Edward Maria, of Keston or Keiston, letter of; 58 b.
 — sale of estate of; 63 a.
- Winnington, Mr., member of Parliament; 110 b.
- Winthorp, John, letter of; 49 b.
- Wiseman, Dr., son of; 63 b.
- "Wishes," the; 115 a.
- Wismar; 78 b.
- Wolf, Morgan, goldsmith, payment to; 23 b.
- Wolfenbüttel:
 Duke of (1701); 81 a.
 Prince of (1703); 103 a.
 — document dated from; ib.
- Wolferston, Charles, letter of; 32 a.
- Wolley, Thomas, statement by; 21 a.
- Wolverstone, Mr.; 32 b, 33 b.
- Wood, Roger, secretary of Council of Summer Islands Plantation, letter of; 48 b.
- Woodall, John, letter to; 42 a.
- Woodcock, Mrs.; 110 b.
- Woodhouse:
 Capt., governor of Bermuda; 8 a.
 — late, account of his dispute with Capt. Bell; 48 a.
- Woodhull, Mr.; 117 b.
- Woodstock; 101 a.
- Worcester; 62 b.
- J. F. (1603); 28 a.
- Works, Board of; 114 a.
- "Worselnham," Sir J.; 33 b.
- Worsenholme:
 Sir John; 41 a.
 — letters to; 41 b.
- Worsley:
 surveyor of Board of Works; 114 a.
 Sir Richard; 37 b.
- Wortly, Mr.; 97 a.
- Wotton:
 Sir Henry, ambassador at Venice in 1609, extracts from his correspondence; 102 b.
 — memorial of; 83 b.
- Wratlaw, Count; 90 b, 91 a, 92 b, 96 a.
- Wray, Edward, his daughter; 63 b.
- Wren, Sir Christopher; 103 a.
- Wright; 23 b.
 Dr.; 9 b, 56 b.
 George, warrant to pay; 23 b.
 — receipts of; 24 b.
 Jo., letters of; 30 a, 30 b.
 Sir Nathan, Lord Keeper, letter of (1705); 103 a.
 Robert; 27 a.
 — petition of; ib.
 — order touching; ib.
- Wrote, Samuel, letter to; 39 a, 42 a.
- Wroth, Wrothe:
 Mr.; 38 a.
 John, of the Virginia Company; 33 b.
 Sir Thomas; 38 b, 40 a, 47 a.
 — declaration touching his deceased wife; 51 b.
- Wroughton, Thomas, minister at Stockholm, letters of; 17 b,
 124 a, 133 b.
- Wurtemberg; 101 b.
 Duke of, letter of (1708); 98 b.
- Wyatt:
 Lady, her voyage to Virginia; 6 a, 38 b, 39 b.
 — letters of; 41 a, 41 b.
 Sir Francis, governor of Virginia; 6 a.
 — letters of; 41 a, 42 a.
 George, letter to; 41 a.

Wynston, Dr., letter to; 39 b.
Wyrewater, co. Lancaster, Spanish ship lost at (1647); 63 a.

Y.

Yard, R., letters of; 67 a-75 b, passim.
Yardley, Yeardley :
 Capt., or Sir George, governor of Virginia; 4 b, 33 b, 35 b, 39 a, 39 b, 40 a, 40 b, 42 b.
 — letter of; 37 b.
Yarmouth; 137 a.
Yates, Mr., of Summer Islands; 34 b.
Yelverton :
 Sir Christopher, letters of; 64 b.
 — his daughter and Lord Mandeville (1654); 12 a, 64 b.
York :
 documents dated from; 55 a, 57 a.
 act of Council at (1639); 55 a.
 the King's standard at (1639); 11 a, 55 a.
 Marquis of Newcastle at; 60 a.
 the bridge near Onse; 60 b.
 siege of (1644); 60 b.
 quarters near, document so dated; ib.
 Duke of, as Lothario (1766); 119 a.
 Duchess of, and Charles II., their deaths in the Catholic faith; 77 a.

Young, Yonge :
 Lady, her auction (1764); 117 a.
 Mr.; 126 a.
Youpe, a Dutchman; 35 b.
Yverdun; 137 a.

Z.

Zante, island of; 102 b, 106 a.
Zas de Gand; 84 b.
Zealand; 97 a.
Zeelust, the, Dutch privateer; 122 b.
Zell; 80 a.
 documents dated at; 77 a, 78 a, 78 b, 80 a.
 Duke of; 74 b.
Zinzan, Charles :
 deputy treasurer-of-war for Scotland; 64 b.
 letter of; 65 b.
Zinzendorf, Count or M.; 104 b.
 answer of; 93 b.
 letter to; ib.
Zouch :
 Lord (1620?); 36 a.
 Sir John, of Codnor, agreement of; 4 b, 31 a.
Zurich :
 document dated at; 68 b
 canton of; 86 a.

LONDON:

Printed by GEORGE E. EYRE and WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE,
Printers to the Queen's most Excellent Majesty.
— For Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

E I G H T H R E P O R T

OF

T H E R O Y A L C O M M I S S I O N

ON

O R I C A L M A N U S C R I P T S .

APPENDIX.—(PART III.)

ted to both Houses of Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

L O N D O N :
I N T E D B Y G E O R G E E D W A R D E Y R E A N D W I L L I A M S P O T T I S W O O D E ,
P R I N T E R S T O T H E Q U E E N ' S M O S T E X C E L L E N T M A J E S T Y .
F O R H E R M A J E S T Y ' S S T A T I O N E R Y O F F I C E .

1881.

1.-II.] Price 1s. 4d.

MANUSCRIPTS OF THE EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

(First Notice.)

I should proceed in making my of Ashburnham's Collection of which caused me much. Their great number, the variety which they range, the antiquity of celess value of others, their often at I may call their personal of their authors, of their original through which they passed before collection, the antiquaries who forth,—and the light which they history by volumes upon volumes other documents which have never of these considerations seemed to a single report to give even an ate idea of the wealth of this noble only does it contain the splendid brought together at Stowe by Buckingham, but also those which rian zeal and judgment of the late of M. Barrois, and of Professor latter collections of itself constitutes able interest. The manuscripts at are in truth a collection of collec- th may be again subdivided into lt of a life devoted to their formation. pwards of 3,000 manuscripts, many several volumes. It is obvious ral description could do justice to n of treasures, nor could it be done l process of classifying the manu- ads of the different subjects of which their number, and adding such ere common to them all. A third t from the catalogues some of the lumes, and be content with stating nerally the subjects, of the remainder. ion applied to this as to the other ned, nor did I see that it was possible sfactory result except by making a f, of each manuscript. In this way ould speak for themselves, if only by ource I have thought it best to pursue. h which would be free from grievous perfect, indeed, must any but a very on be of so extensive a collection, but , as far as possible, to avoid that have taken the only course that was ver, competent for me to combine with of those to which I have already that of selecting some of the MSS. as role. The only difficulty in doing this cient self restraint where the tempta- and the opportunities so abundant, to s. I shall select these specimens from ion, of whose history this may be the y a word or two. n in a direction left by Thomas Astle his library of MSS. should be offered s of Buckingham on certain specified hich was the payment of the sum of not the measure of their value, but gratitude to the Grenville family. In ville, then First Lord of the Treasury of the Exchequer, employed him in it of papers and other business which wledge of ancient handwriting, and r gave him the office of Receiver- Civil List. This was the beginning of ne which, supported by high qualifica- . Astle to the post of Chief Clerk in the und afterwards to that of Keeper of the e Tower. The Marquess of Bucking- the offer, and showed his appreciation ubsstantially a most valuable bequest, by . (afterwards Sir John) Soane to prepare tment for the reception of the MSS. at were in every way worthy of the respect which was thus paid to them. Amongst them are:—A volume of Anglo-Saxon charters, a collection unrivalled in number, beauty, and preservation; the Psalter of King Alfred the Great; the Original Wardrobe Book of Edward II.; the Register of Hyde Abbey, near Winchester, written in the reign of Canute, and many other Register Books, &c., relating to the history and possessions of some of the most celebrated abbeys and monasteries in England; the original Inventories of Queen Elizabeth's Wardrobe, Plate, and Jewels; the Hanoverian State Papers, and other collections of original letters, of which I will say more presently; a volume containing some original accompts in the hand-writing of Wolsey; the Historical and Antiquarian Collections of Mr. Anstis, Garter King-at-Arms, his Correspondence, and his Aspilogia, or Treatise on Ancient Seals; the correspondence of Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, and of Charles Lyttelton, Bishop of Carlisle; Mr. Secretary Coventry's State Papers in the reign of Charles the Second; Mr. Secretary Stanhope's Despatches and Correspondence with the Ministers of King William the Third during his residence at the Hague; the Correspondence of Mr. Richard Phelps, Under Secretary of State in the early part of George the Third's reign, and many other curious works and papers from the libraries of Sir Henry Spelman, Sir Roger Twysden, Sir Edward Dering, Ralph Thoresby, John Anstis, Peter Le Neve, Morant, the author of the History of Essex, whose daughter Mr. Astle married, Dr. Ducarel, Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, and other well known antiquaries.

Mr. Astle's Collection had not been long at Stowe when there was added to it the ancient Irish MSS. and other MSS. relating to the history and antiquities of Ireland, formerly belonging to Mr. O'Connor, of Belanagare, in the county of Roscommon, the historian of Ireland, whose grandson, Dr. Charles O'Connor, was appointed librarian at Stowe, where, under the patronage of the Marquess of Buckingham, and of his son, the late Duke of Buckingham, he made his translation of the Early Irish Annals into Latin from the original ancient chronicles and records at Stowe, and in other collections.*

Another addition to the library at Stowe was the correspondence, state papers, and other valuable books and documents formerly belonging to Arthur Capel, Earl of Essex, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in the reign of Charles II., which were purchased from his descendant, the Earl of Essex, in 1808, by the Marquess of Buckingham. From time to time further additions were made by the late Duke of Buckingham of collections and single volumes, until there was brought together a mass of original materials for the history of these three kingdoms unequalled in any private collection. A time came, however, when this accumulation of treasures was on the eve of being dispersed. In 1849 the Stowe MSS. were advertised for sale, and matters went so far that the days for the auction were appointed. It would have been deeply to be deplored if that design had been carried out. Fortunately it was prevented. A patron as munificent as those who had formed the library saved it from being scattered, and the late Earl of Ashburnham became its purchaser by private contract.

In original letters the Stowe MSS. are immensely rich. They are of almost every reign, from Edward III. to George III. Many are from foreign princes, beginning with the Doge of Venice, Andrea Contarini, who commends certain ships going to London to the protection of King Edward III., and ending with Napoleon Bonaparte when First Consul. More numerous are the letters from our own monarchs and statesmen.

A remarkably interesting volume contains original letters and other historical documents of the time of Henry VII. and Henry VIII., several of which are from the abbots of religious houses concerning calumnious reports that had been made against them, and the contributions to be levied on their monasteries. In this volume

* Berum Hibernicarum Scriptores Veteres.

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

is the original declaration of the eight bishops in favour of the King's power in ecclesiastical affairs, and maintaining that Christian princes may make ecclesiastical laws. The period of the Civil Wars is fruitful of interesting documents. One volume of letters relates, in the main, to the contributions raised in Essex for the Long Parliament from 1642 to 1660. To the same period belong letters from Charles I., Cromwell, Hampden, Sir Edward Hyde (afterwards Earl of Clarendon), the Earl of Northumberland, and others. Next there is the original return concerning the levy of ship money made to Sir Peter Temple, High Sheriff of Bucks, in 1635, with a list of the names of those who refused to pay it, at the head of which stands that of John Hampden. The signature of the author of "Paradise Lost" is attached to a warrant of Cromwell's directing the payment of salaries to certain officers, of whom Milton, as Cromwell's Latin secretary, was one. More noteworthy are three small sheets of vellum, which contain the original secret article of the treaty made in 1654 between Cromwell and Louis XIV., for the expulsion of Charles II. from France, together with the Duke of York and eighteen royalists, who are named. Later on there are letters of Charles II. and the Duke of York; others addressed to Charles II. by the Privy Council in Scotland, by the Duchess of Portland, the Dukes of Montrose and Albemarle, &c.; together with others chiefly addressed to the Earl of Rothes, Lord High Commissioner in Scotland, by the Dukes of Hamilton and Argyll, the Duchess of Buccleugh, the Countess of Lauderdale, Lords Home, Holles, Essex, Coningsby, Arlington, and Danby, Lady Rochester, the Archbishop of Glasgow and St. Andrews, &c., from 1668 to 1680. In a collection of letters (tempore Elizabeth and James I.) there are many of exceptional interest. One is from Sir Philip Sidney, dated Flushing, August 14, 1586 (he died on the 7th of October following), entirely in his own hand. Another, also holograph, is from the Earl of Leicester to Humphrey Ferrers, concerning a suit in the Star Chamber relating to Harcourt Park. Again there is a note written and signed by Sir Francis Bacon, and there is also the Original Statement of a Loan to Queen Elizabeth from the various counties of England, in 1588, with an account of the principal nobility and gentry of each county, the names of the subscribers, and the sums subscribed by each. A series of original letters and documents, chiefly of the reign of Charles, is replete with matter of historical interest.

I now come to some remarkable MSS. relating to the history of Ireland. The first is a series of 16 volumes, containing the distribution of lands forfeited by the rebellion of 1641, according to the Down Survey, which, though made by Sir William Petty in support of the Cromwellian settlement, was adopted as the basis of the Acts of Settlement and Explanation in 1662, showing to whom the forfeited estates belonged when the rebellion occurred, and to whom they were let out under the provisions of these Acts. These volumes were compiled by Thomas Taylor by command of the Earl of Essex during his lord-lieutenancy (1672-8). Taylor's qualifications for the task are described by Lord Essex in a letter addressed to Mr. Harbord, his confidential secretary, dated Dublin Castle, March 28, 1674. "Mr. Thomas Taylor, formerly a sub-commissioner in the Court of Claims, had the curiositie (and no other as I know of besides himselfe) to keep books of entrys of the disposition of all lands made by that Commission. This is the man I have employed by comparing his books with the other Records to see what can by this means be discovered to belong to the Crown. For what relates to the Records, this person, Mr. Taylor, is a very able man, and indeed the only man in the kingdom that can do a work of this nature." In another letter Lord Essex writes further with regard to this survey. "By his Majesty's command all the Records of the Kingdom which relate to the distribution of lands by the Act of Settlement, have been searched, and extracts made out of them, in order to the discovery of concealed lands. This work is contained in 12 or 14 volumes," (the volumes under consideration), "now ready to be sent over; and much matter will arise upon this subject to propose to his Majesty, in order to the finding out such lands as are fraudulently concealed, and concerning the distribution of them pursuant to the Act of Settlement." It thus appears that the utmost pains were taken in the compilation of these volumes to secure accuracy and exhaustiveness. Six of them embrace the province of Leinster, seven that of Munster, two Connaught, and one Ulster. They are valuable upon yet another account. In compiling them use was made of Sir William Petty's maps, which, together with the original copper-plates of all the baronies of Ireland that were measured by him, were preserved in Dublin during Lord Essex's administration. From one cause or another the plates have disappeared, and of the maps not one half are extant. It is therefore only from these volumes that an accurate account can be had of the Cromwellian distribution of Irish lands. Nothing can be more ample than the information they contain. Not only is the name given each proprietor before the forfeiture, but the limits and boundaries of each estate, the person or persons on whom it was settled, the quality of the land, whether profitable or unprofitable, bog, wood, or barren mountain, and the title by which it was settled, whether by a declaration of "innocence" during the rebellion, or by a certificate of the Commissioners for executing the Acts of Settlement and Explanation, or otherwise.

I pass on to another remarkable series of volumes, 22 in number, and intimately connected with those just mentioned. They contain the State Papers and Correspondence of the Earl of Essex during his viceroyalty. It would be vain to attempt in general terms to give any idea of the variety and interest of the contents of these volumes; nor is their importance to be estimated except by thorough examination. For the five years of Lord Essex's Government they constitute a complete and minute record of the condition of Ireland in all the phases of a state of society in which every element of disorder was present. The Acts of Settlement and Explanation are the leading subjects of Lord Essex's public correspondence, and there is no account of the proceedings under the acts that can bear any comparison in point of fulness of detail with what is found in these volumes, especially when coupled with the survey of forfeited lands above noticed. As to the disposal of the forfeited estates Lord Essex's letters show how beset with difficulties was the task of appeasing the thirst to get possession of them. Writing to Mr. Harbord, March 28, 1674, and speaking of certain applications that had been made for grants of forfeited lands to those who should discover them, he observes, "Many others, I hear, are ready, and no doubt of will be gained; and I cannot but say that by this course the King hath brought, as our English proverb is, an old house on his head; for here are abundance of men preparing to go into England upon these designs, and I find several of them have already been advising with council to frame letters for this purpose, so as his Majesty may expect disquiet enough by their solicitations;" and he goes on to add, "the lands of Ireland have been a mere scramble, which makes all men so unsettled in their estates and so unquiet in their possessions." Lord Essex himself was much disquieted by a grant made by the King, of Phoenix Park to the Duchess of Cleveland. Rather than submit to such a humiliation he threatened to resign, and in the result the Duchess was compensated by a grant of other lands. It has been remarked by Dr. O'Connor that the history of Ireland during Lord Essex's viceroyalty cannot be written without the aid of these volumes. They contain not only the original draughts of Lord Essex's letters to the King and his ministers, but also the original letters addressed to him by the King, and by statesmen and men of rank and note of that time. They write to him upon the news of the day, the continental and Dutch wars, the debates in Parliament, divisions in the Cabinet, intrigues at Court, and the political and social state of England. Moreover the completeness of this collection is vouched for by Lord Essex himself, who, in a letter to Secretary Coventry, dated Dublin Castle, 15th May 1675, writes, "I doo keepe my papers in that order as nothing hath passed since my entrance in publick employment but I can have immediate recourse to it, and see the ground of all I have done, which must justify me if ever anything be brought in question."

Belonging to the early part of the eighteenth century there are two volumes of letters, addressed to Mr. Secretary Craggs between 1711 and 1719 from such correspondents as Lord Cadogan, Lord Polwarth, Sir Charles Wager, Sir Robert Walpole, Lord Stair during his embassy to Paris, and other writers of like standing. Another volume contains 25 letters addressed to him by the Duke of Marlborough, to some of which there are postscripts in the handwriting of the Duchess, from whom there are 75 letters in another MS. of the same period, addressed to Craggs, some of them extending over several sheets, and all extremely interesting for the freedom with which the writer expresses her opinions on

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

politics, on the Court, and ministry. Of the same period is a collection of letters addressed to Sir Thomas Parker, afterwards Lord High Chancellor and Earl of Macclesfield, by many of the most distinguished persons of the reigns of Anne and the first and second Georges, chiefly on political, literary, and legal subjects. A volume of letters from Lord Macclesfield's collection relates to the Pretender's private correspondence and practices from the 23rd of April to the 28th of August 1722. They are Lord Macclesfield's copies from the intercepted originals. Several refer to Lord Oxford, who is said both by Marr and Kelly to be coming forward earnestly in the common cause, and also to a proper understanding between him and Rochester, and a hearty reunion of all parties in that cause. According to another letter, as long as the King supports his Whig ministry no good can be effected unless Ormond or the Pretender make good a landing, in which case the King "would run for it." The writer observes that it is in Marlborough's power to render good service, and that Oxford, by his mysterious diffidence and doubts, was doing more harm than good. Macnamara writes to Dillon, London, June 21, 1722, that notwithstanding the activity of Townsend and Walpole "he will confound them." He also gives an interesting account of the state of parties in London. In letters from Kelly and other Jacobites complaint is made of the treachery of the Regent of France, who, on hearing confidentially from General Dillon what their plans were, revealed all to George I. Macnamara writes again to Dillon, London, July 4, 1722, on the state of parties; that if Spain will insist King George will restore Gibraltar; that this will cause woeful discontent in England; that several members of Parliament confer privately with him, and that now is the time for action. London, July 23, 1722, the prospects for the Pretender are encouraging; if the Czar moves, George must return to Hanover. Other letters deal with arrests in Ireland and Rochester's opinion that an attack by the Channel cannot fail of success. John Semple writes to Fr. Semple on a plan of insurrection in London, to be carried out on the night of Marlborough's funeral. Delafaye writes to Lord Townsend enclosing examinations relative to a correspondence with Ormond and others, and papers tending to implicate Rochester. Rochester to Jackson (i.e., the Pretender), April 20, 1722, recommends great caution, and promises that he will not be idle though he must absent himself from meetings. Davenant, British Resident at Genoa, writes to, Rome, 4 May 1722, on the discovery of a Spanish project to invade England or Ireland from Cadiz and other ports; that a squadron from Barcelona is to meet the Pretender at Porto Longone; that Cardinal Aquaviva is actively engaged in this plot, and that the Pretender had a long conference on it with the Pope. On the 10th May 1722, Schaub, the Hanoverian Minister at Paris, writes to Lord Carteret that the Jacobite conspiracy is more formidable than he suspected when he last wrote; that the conspirators have amassed large sums of money, arms, &c.; that they ask no aid of France but only neutrality, and that Lansdowne (Dillon) is preparing a memorial to that effect. Several other letters of the same year state that Captains Roche, Murphy, and Morgan command strong ships of war with commissions from the Pretender; that Ormond's Spanish preparations are delayed in consequence of some discoveries; that the Pretender is in the greatest consternation on account of them, and that an Irish captain arrived at Civita Vecchia and had a long conference with him. Two anonymous letters, dated 4th and 11th July 1722, give a detailed account of the whole plan of invasion, while others describe the consternation of the cardinals on the discovery of their projects.

More important still are the 10 volumes of Hanoverian State Papers, largely consisting of original letters which were collected by Robethon, private secretary to King William III. and afterwards to George I. whilst Elector of Hanover. On the death of the Princess Sophia in 1714 the Elector deposited her papers with Robethon, who must have made considerable additions to them, as the documents contained in these volumes range from 1692 to 1719. They were purchased at the sale of the effects of Colonel Robethon, the secretary's eldest son, by Mr. Duane, upon whose death they descended to his relative Mr. Bray, of Wimbledon, from whose collection they passed into Mr. Astle's, and thence to Stowe. The letters throw an interesting light upon a critical period of the history of this country, more particularly upon the jealousy between the English and Hanoverian Courts occasioned by Anne's choosing a Tory ministry on her accession to the throne, and the resentment with which the Princess Sophia regarded the fall of Godolphin and Marlborough, and the foreign policy which led to the Treaty of Utrecht, the preliminaries of which were signed in the following year without any communication having been made to her or to her son, a fact which the Princess never forgave Anne. The first volume, entitled "Princes," contains letters from Louis XIV., King William III., the Elector and Electoral Prince of Hanover, the Princess Sophia, and the leading persons of the Court of Queen Anne. They are in French, a few excepted which are in English addressed to Sophia. Mr. Macpherson has published extracts from some of them, but not always correctly. The second volume is entitled "Strafford." It contains the Earl of Strafford's letters to the Princess as well as others, which are all original with the exception of the Princess' replies, which are the original draughts in Robethon's handwriting. The document numbered 73 is entitled "State of the Peerage with respect to the Hanover Succession, or a list of for and against," in the handwriting of the Bishop of Bristol. Volume 3 is entitled "Stair," and contains chiefly the correspondence of Lord Stair with the Princess, Robethon, the Abbé Dubois, Berenstorf, and others, from 1714 to 1719. The fourth volume, "Miscell. d'Etat," contains a great variety of letters from persons of high rank at home and abroad, between the years 1692 and 1718. In addition to the letters is Mr. Smith's original account of the affairs of Scotland in 1704, with a Scheme for the Union of Scotland in 1705, and the sketch of an Act for the security of that kingdom; also "Proceedings of the Commissioners on the Union in 1706;" a Protest against the Union with the names of the protesters in 1707, and a list of the members of the new Parliament in 1710; "Harangues to be made to the King of Prussia by Lord Raby," composed by Robethon, and in his handwriting in 1701; a short poem by Prior representing King William as a "hen-pecked husband," and stating that the Tories hated his person and the Whigs his power (1701); Copies, in Robethon's handwriting, of letters from St. Germain's to Jacobites in England in 1703; correspondence of several Whigs with the House of Hanover in 1710, in Robethon's handwriting. The fifth and sixth volumes, both entitled like the preceding, "Miscell. d'Etat," contain a variety of letters from persons of eminence; also (Vol. 5.) the Baron de Wasenaer Duvenville's character of the Princess of Wales, afterwards Queen Caroline, in his own hand, with various letters from Sweden, Denmark, and Hanover, from De Croissy, Fabrici, and others, addresses to George I. on his accession to the throne, and letters relating to the rebellion of 1715. The seventh volume is entitled "Schutz fils." It contains the younger Schutz's correspondence with Robethon, Berenstorf, Kreyenberg, Bothmar, Rosencrantz, Gatkin, Kleingraff, Townsend, and others in 1713 and 1714. These letters relate chiefly to the design of bringing the Electoral Prince into England before Queen Anne's death under the title of Duke of Cambridge, in order to counteract the intrigues of the Tories and Jacobites. The eighth volume, entitled "Bothmar," contains his correspondence with Robethon and others from November 1712 to August 1714, continued in Volume 9 to January 1717. The tenth and last volume is entitled "Rebelles." It contains original letters and translations of letters from and to various Jacobites in France, England, and Scotland during the years 1717-19. Some of these are written in fictitious names, and have apparently been opened at the Post Office and then forwarded as directed. The Jacobite cypher is explained in No. 183. There is another collection of Hanoverian State Papers in two volumes, to the first of which the following note, in Mr. Astle's handwriting, is prefixed. "These volumes "are a valuable appendage to the ten volumes of "Robethon's correspondence, and although several of "them are transcribed from that collection, many others "have been added from the State Papers in the Earl of "Hardwicke's library and others, exclusive of the "original letters of several of the principal persons "who flourished in England in the reign of Queen Anne. "The original letters and papers in the second volume "relative to the Earl of Clarendon's negotiations at the "Court of Hanover in 1714 are very interesting and "curious. They were purchased by me at the sale of "the Earl of Clarendon's papers by Baker and Leigh in 1765." The first article in Vol. 1 is an extract from a letter of the Rev. Mr. Etough to Dr. Buck, 14 January 1743-4, beginning, "I can inform you how the Duchess "of Kendal received 12,000*l.* for procuring what was "done for Lord Bolingbroke, how near she was making "him prime minister, &c.," to which Mr. Astle appends

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

this note,—"When Lord Bolingbroke was taxed with ingratitude for his opposition to Sir Robert Walpole, who was supposed to have favored his restoration, Lord B. replied it was not done by Sir Robert but by the cabinet. If 12,000*l.* were paid to the Duchess of Kendal that sum was probably raised partly by the French Court or by the Duke of Bourbon and his friends in England." The money came from Bolingbroke's second wife, the widow of the Marquis de Vilette and niece of Madame de Maintenon, who brought Bolingbroke a considerable fortune.

Lord Townsend's letters to Sir Robert Walpole, written during Townsend's residence at Hanover in attendance upon King George I., form an important volume, which also contains some letters of Bolingbroke, of the Dukes of Newcastle and Bedford, Sir Robert Walpole, and George I. They relate to a great variety of interesting and important subjects. Lord Townsend writes to Walpole, Hanover, June 29, 1723, reproaching Lord Carteret's sycophancy, double dealing, and blundering; a month later he writes that the King's partiality to the Whigs increases daily; that no negotiations with Bolingbroke or the Tories ought to be listened to, nor a suspicion of it even slightly entertained; and that the Czar's designs against Sweden must be opposed, Sweden being a barrier against his growing power. July 14, 1723, a large sum is to be raised to oppose the Czar, but as privately as possible, lest the Tories and Jacobites take advantage of these difficulties in which the Whig ministry are placed by the Czar's proceedings. In a letter to Finch, the English minister at Stockholm, ^{23 July} 1723, Townsend writes that the King of Sweden must not hope to be subsidized for his private exigencies, but only for war with the Czar. Walpole writes to Lord Townsend, Whitehall, July 23, 1723, dissuading the King from interfering in the internal policy of Sweden, and giving his opinion candidly of the proposal of Bolingbroke, Wyndham, Bathurst, Lord Gower, and other Tory leaders to renounce Jacobitism and to join the Whigs. "I answered that it was both impossible and inadvisable for me to enter into any such negotiation, &c. I need not observe to you here is a direct confession of Carteret's dealing with the Tories throughout all last session, which they are very explicit in." Townsend to Walpole, Hanover, Aug. 6, 1723, marked "Private," against granting money to the King for the King of Sweden's designs against the Diet of Sweden, but only against the Czar in case of a rupture, adding that he had gained the King over to his policy in spite of Carteret and Bernstorff; that Bolingbroke must not be admitted to see the King; that the Court of Hanover is the focus of every species of intrigue, and that "since it is absolutely necessary to rest on the Whig bottom, double diligence should be used to keep well with the bishops." Again, ^{27 Aug.} 1723, ^{7 Sept.}

"the Bishop of Salisbury stands well with the King and with the mob of the Whig party and must be gained, his very weaknesses will make him an easy acquisition; the King of Prussia has invited George I. to Berlin, and his friendship must be cultivated," &c. Sept. 17, 1723, "very private," drawing for 1,000*l.* in favour of the Countess Walsingham's sister, to be kept a secret from the Duchess of Kendal. The lady was Madame de Litz. She lived at Paddington down to 1766, and was about 22 years of age when this letter was written. Sept. 18, 1723, the Czar to be confined to his own territories, Sweden being the bulwark between him and England. Sept. 24, character of the Duke of Orleans, his policy and favourites, necessity of a spy to watch him, and instructions to that effect. This letter is followed by others on the same topic, particularly by one, Sept. 25, desiring that Sir Robert Walpole's brother, Horace, who was employed on this occasion, be very dexterous in sounding Schaub, the Hanoverian Minister at Paris, so that he may be recalled if detected in falsehood or if unfavourable to the Whigs. Townshend again writes to Walpole, Gohrde, Oct. 25, 1723, on Horace Walpole's visit to Paris. Lord Carteret's influence with the King is sunk, as well as his colleague Schaub's, while that of Townshend and Walpole is rising daily. On ^{30 Nov.} 1723 Townshend writes that the King has given 3,000*l.* to the Countess of Platen, and "I shall to-morrow draw two bills of 1,500*l.* each for that sum;" that three other Hanoverian ladies are to be placed on the Pension List; the King is well pleased with H. Walpole's conduct in France, and he has added 200*l.* per annum to Madame de Wendt's pension, &c. A letter from the Duke of Newcastle to the Lord Privy Seal, dated Claremont, May, 28, 1734, is very interesting, on the balance of power, the Duke of Berwick's forcing the German lines, Prince Eugene's retreat, situation of the armies on the Rhine and in Italy, and Don Carlos' expedition to Naples. The subsequent letters are of the year 1743, and relate to the affairs of Prussia and the Empire in the course of that year.

Three other manuscripts I may mention as samples of the original documents and letters relating to English history which are among the Stowe MSS. They are three volumes, containing copies in his own handwriting of Mr. Stanhope's despatches while he was resident at the Hague from 1700 to 1704; six volumes, containing the correspondence of Richard Phelps; and the military collections of the three brothers, Generals Michael, Jacob, and John Richards, in 34 volumes. Stanhope's despatches relate principally to the events consequent on the league between Peter the Great, the King of Denmark, and the Elector of Saxony, who had succeeded John Sobieski on the throne of Poland, against Charles XII., for the purpose of extending the Czar's Baltic dominions, and the renewal of Charles' alliance with England and Holland. Several relate to the Treaty for the Partition of Spain, secretly signed by England, Holland, and France, and the Grand Alliance signed by the Emperor, the King of England, and the States General to prevent the union of France and Spain. In the second volume there are letters respecting the death of William III. and the succession of Anne, and there is also a letter, July 7, 1702, which gives an account of William and Mary's jewels, beginning "I was present yesterday at the opening of the strong box," &c. Another to Lord Jersey of the same date relates to the King's last will and effects. Many of the letters bear upon the mercantile intercourse and treaties between England and the Northern Powers, and subsidies for the Confederate States of Germany as well as the military operations of the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene. The second series of letters is the correspondence of Richard Phelps, Under Secretary of State during the latter years of George II. and the commencement of the reign of George III. The military collections of the brothers Richards are highly interesting. All three were men of eminent ability. Jacob is described by his brother John in a letter to General Michael Richards, London, April 10, 1703, as one of King William's "greatest favorites." "The King gave him an apartment at Court under his own bed chamber, from there they had a communication by back stairs. The King made him a Lieut.-General, augmented his pension, &c., all which gave jealousy to the greatest favourites at Court, as well as the chief general of the army. He died in 1701." It was the writer of this letter who refused to surrender the castle of Alicant during the war of the Spanish Succession, though he had been warned that, at the expiration of 24 hours, death to himself and to all who were in the castle would be the penalty of his refusal. At the end of Volume 29 there is a loose sheet in the handwriting of General Michael Richards, entitled "My brother's reasons against capitulating for the surrender of the castle of Alicante," and in several of the other volumes there are interesting details of the war in Spain and Portugal which are to be found nowhere else. Volume 20 contains General John Richards' letters to his brother-in-law, Secretary Craggs, to his brother Michael and others in 1703 and 1704, in which he gives accounts of the war in Spain and Portugal in those years. Volume 21 is entitled "A Diary of the Campaign in Portugal, 1704." It is by General John Richards, and there are several loose papers at the end, also in his handwriting, containing a relation of the campaign in Portugal in 1704 and 1705, a Memorial on the Court of Portugal, &c. The letters in Vol. 22 from the same writer give ample details of the War of the Succession in 1704, after the Duke of Savoy and the King of Portugal had joined the Grand Alliance against Louis XIV. The 28th and 29th volumes contain General John Richards' letters from Alicant, 1707-9, the last of which, dated the 25th and 26th February 1709, mentions the mine of 1,200 barrels of powder which the Spaniards, unable to take the castle, had prepared for its destruction, and by which it was destroyed on the 3rd of March following.

Here I may stop. It would be easy to extend these notices almost without limit. But what I have thus far written fulfils the intention with which I set out, of combining with a list of Lord Ashburnham's manuscripts a more detailed mention of a few of them, in order the

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

their deeply interesting and proceed now to the second part adopted,—that of giving a list he only means by which it is alth of the most remarkable kingdom.

MANUSCRIPTS.

THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS FROM TO CHARLES II.

land to James I. of Scotland, December, 1403, demanding the y due upon an exchange of pri-latin. On vellum.

States of Holland and Lorraine, ner Treaties. In Latin. On hristopher, King of Denmark, ids, 25 February 1447, desiring atherine, of Hull, &c. In Latin.

he Barons of the Cinque Ports, oey Prince Henry, Duke of York, I.), who was appointed Constable rd Warden of the Cinque Ports. June, 1495. With the original

Sir Thomas Arundel, Justice of wall, admonishing him against istering justice, and complaining l with much labour expelled the ne, yet that Papists and the pro- es are not punished. It is dated, , but the year is not mentioned. shed is the Wooden Stamp used by end of his life, and is of consider-on the back of the case in which it VIII. to Anne Boleyn," and cons- of vellum, each about an inch written in English the seven pene- bound in gold, enamelled in black, two small gold rings, by which it pended round the waist of its pos- the Tracts on Miscellaneous Anti- forace Walpole, at Strawberry Hill, Life of Sir Thomas Wyatt, that: possession of Mr. Wyatt, of Charter- cendant from Sir Thomas), a small , in vellum, set in gold, enamelled Anne Boleyn gave at her execution nour, Mrs. Wyatt, sister probably ie portrait of Henry VIII., which it d to be a modern addition.

g little volume in its original crimson utaining various useful calendars and ten on leaves of vellum, about three is believed to have been given by the s a token of remembrance immediately cution. On the flyleaf, written with his ese sentences:—"Fere of the lord is wisdom: put thi trust in the lord : be not wise in thyne own conseyte and fle frome evele frome the toware ay deth, 1551. E. Somerset." At k there is in a very minute hand the Caterine Hartford Caterine Seamoar," Henry Grey, Duke of Suffolk, and sister y. She married the eldest son of the et.

I. to the Archbishop of Canterbury, ook of Common Prayer to be used ugland, dated 25th December 1549. With n-manual of the King and the auto- rivy Council, Cranmer, Ryche, Dorset, wick, &c. &c.

order from Queen Mary to George Bridge- : grooms of her Privy Chamber, to pay igham, Esq., whom she has appointed xchequer, the sum of 8,000*l*. Dated at 7th of October, 5th and 6th year of her illum, with the Queen's sign-manual, eno."

10.—Original authority from Queen Mary to the Lord High Treasurer and the officers of the Mint to take throughout England artificers, metals, and other materials for making of money, with authority to imprison such as shall resist this Order. On vellum, with the original sign-manual, "Marye the Quene." One of Her Majesty's titles in this document is, "Defender of the faythe, and in earthe of the Churche of England, and allsoe of Ireland the Supreame hedd."

11.—Philip II. of Spain to his Treasurer, ordering an annual pension to Colonel Edward Randolph. Dated London, 3rd April 1555. With the original signature of the King, and the seal, which is in perfect preservation.

12.—Original letter of Queen Elizabeth, dated "Easto Grenewiche, 17th July, in the Sixte yere of our Reign," to John Fortescue, Esq., of her great Wardrobe in London, ordering him to deliver to persons mentioned a certain quantity of crimson velvet for a jerkin with sleeves, and lining for the same, &c. &c. On vellum, with the original sign-manual of the Queen and a perfect impression of her seal.

13.—An original letter from Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Shrewsbury. Dated Greenwich March, 30 1574. It relates to the safe custody of the Scottish Queen, and the autograph of Elizabeth is at the top of the page thus:—

"Your assured lovinge Sovereaine,
"ELIZABETU, R."

14.—William Cecil, afterwards Lord Burghley, an original letter addressed to Lord Ledington, Secretary to the Queen of Scots. Entirely in his hand. Not dated.

15.—Secretary Maitland to Sir Nicholas Throgmorton. Dated 21st May 1568.

16.—Original letter from Nau, Secretary to the Scottish Queen. Dated Chartley, 15th June 1586.

17.—Original warrant under the sign-manual of King James I. for the "lyverie of Robert Tias, Clarke of the Great Wardrobe." Dated November 13, 1603. On vellum, with the seal perfect.

18.—Original letter from King James I., addressed to the Lord Zouch, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, granting permission to his subjects to go into the service of the King of Spain, without taking the Oath of Allegiance to him at their going. It is dated the 28th day of August, in the nineteenth year of his reign. The King's sign-manual and seal are prefixed.

19.—A curious Emblematical Drawing in colours, upon vellum. It is dated in several places from 1619 to 1628.

20.—Elizabeth, Queen of Bohemia, to the Earl of Northampton. Entirely in her own hand with the following post-script: "I pray commend my love to your ladie, your white horse is a verie good one, I have ridden him." The seals are in perfect preservation.

21.—The Lady Arabella Stuart to Charles Gosling, dated 28th March 1609. The postscript is as follows:—"Remember the old Buck of Sherland, and the rosted tench I and other good company eat so savorly at your house, and if thou be still a good fellow and an honest man, show it now or be hanged."

22.—The Earl of Holland to the Queen of Bohemia, entirely in his handwriting, the seals perfect. The letter concludes thus:—"I am ever that faithful servant and creature to your Ma^{tye} that I have ever vowed to bee, from which condission I shall never alter as long as I breathe, for I shall have no condission to glory more in than in my being your Ma^{tye} most humble," &c. &c.

23.—King Charles I. on the proposal of the King of Poland for his neice, the Princess Palatine, dated Westminster, January 27th 1634. It is in Latin and signed by the King "Vester benevolus Amicus Carolus, R."

24.—Original deed by which Queen Henrietta Maria appoints Thomas Mallett her Solicitor. The Queen's sign-manual "Henriette Marie" is at the top of the instrument, which is on vellum, and ornamented with an illuminated border &c.

25.—King Charles I.; original warrant under the King's sign-manual, addressed to the Earl of Denbigh, Master of the Great Wardrobe, desiring him to deliver to Sir Wm. Segar, Garter, for His Majesty's instalment at Windsor, certain very curious particulars which are described in the warrant. It is dated from Hampton Court, July 10, 1625. The seal is perfect. Vellum.

26.—Original letter from Sir Edward Hyde, afterwards Earl of Clarendon, dated Nottingham, 22nd of

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

July (1642). It is addressed to the Lady Carnarvon, and an endorsement, in the hand of Mr. Richard Grenville states, that it had been taken out of a trunk of Lady Carnarvon's, which was searched by Colonel Goodwin. The following extract alludes to her endeavours to bring over to the King some person of distinction not named:—"If your advice and interest do not prevail with your favour, I have no hope left, 'tis not possible for me to say more in the argument to him than I have, nor can I imagine what ill spirit can engage him thus to venture his fortune and his fame, his honour and the honour of his house, in a vessel where none but desperate persons have the government. His carriage of late hath been well represented to the King, and well received, for God's sake let him not fall into a relapse: but if the propositions now sent be not accepted, persuade him away hither, upon my life he will repent it else, and it will be too late, and sure no honest man can think any unreasonable thing is asked."

27.—Algernon Percy, Earl of Northumberland, to Sir Thomas Fairfax, respecting a piece of land the ownership of which was in dispute. Entirely in his own hand.

28.—Eight original letters signed by John Hampden, Arthur Goodwin of Winchendon, Richard Winwood, Richard Ingoldesby, Thomas Tyrrell, Thomas Saunders, Francis Denton, and Richard Grenville, dated in 1641 and 1642, relating to military affairs during the Rebellion. Also a note in the handwriting of Arthur Goodwin, addressed, "To the keepers of the grounds in Creslowe, or either of them," desiring them to "deliver by my Lord Generall's comand 40 of those horses that are nott yett disposed off." Dated Aylesbury, 26th June.

29.—Three original letters from John Hampden, two of them addressed to Sir Wm. Andrewes, of Lathbury, in 1630 and 1633. The third is as follows:—"To my noble friends Colonel Bulstrode, Captaine Grenfield, Captaine Tyrrell, Captaine West, or any of them. Gentlemen,—The army is now at Northampton, moving every day nearer to you; if you disband not wee may be a mutual succour to each other, but if you disperse you make yourselves and your country a prey. You shall hear daily from, your servant, Jo. Hampden. Northampton, Oct. 31 (1642)."

30.—The original return concerning the levy of Ship Money, made to Sir Peter Temple, High Sheriff of Bucks, in 1635, from the Parish of Great Kimble, a village at the foot of the Chiltern Hills, around which the principal property of John Hampden lay, and in the immediate neighbourhood of his residence. This MS. contains the names of those who, with him, had tendered their refusal to the constables and assessors, together with an account of the sums charged upon each person. At the head of the list stands the name of John Hampden, and amongst the names of the other protestors the constables and assessors have returned their own.

31.—Original warrant from the Lords of the Council respecting the arrears of Ship Money in 1636.

32.—An original letter from Oliver Cromwell to Richard Mayor, Esq., at Hursley. Dated April 28, 1649. It relates to the marriage of his son Richard with Mr. Mayor's daughter, and his wish to be at Hursley at the sealing of the deeds. "I was not without hope" he writes, "to have been with you this night, but truly my aged mother is in such a condition of illness that I could not leave her wth satisfaction."

33.—A warrant under the sign-manual of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, dated January 1, 1654, directing the payment of salaries due to certain officers of the Parliament and others, with the original autographs of the receivers. The most remarkable are those of Thurloe, Secretary of State, and John Milton, Latin Secretary to Cromwell.

34.—An original letter from Oliver Cromwell to Major Butler, on the subject of military arrangements. Dated May 31, 1649.

35.—The Original Secret Article of the Treaty made in 1654 between Louis XIV. and the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, for the expulsion from France of King Charles II., the Duke of York, and eighteen Royalists therein named, within fourteen days after the ratification of the Treaty. It contains also a stipulation on the part of Cromwell that certain Frenchmen should be sent out of England. It is signed on the part of the French King by De Bordeaux, and on the part of the Commonwealth by Nath. Fiennes, P. Lisle, and Walter Strickland, the English Commissioners. The MS. is on three small sheets of vellum, and was given to Mr. Astle by Dr. Littleton, Bishop of Carlisle.

36.—An original warrant of Richard Cromwell for the payment of 6,000*l.* to Walter Frost, Esq. for the Public Contingencies, dated Dec. 30 1658. On vellum.

37.—The original appointment by Parliament of Edmund Ludlow, Esq. to be Commander-in-Chief of the army and forces in Ireland, dated July 9. 1659, and signed by William Lenthall, the Speaker. On vellum.

38.—A certificate of the choice of several persons to be members of the General Council of the Army and Navy in England, Scotland, and Ireland, dated Dec. 10, 1659.

39.—An Original Commission from Charles Fleetwood, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the Commonwealth, dated Wallingford House, November 7, 1659, with the seal attached.

40.—The original appointment by Parl^t of Colonel Edmund Ludlow to be Lieut.-General of the Horse, and Commander-in-Chief of the army in Ireland, dated at Westminster, July 12, 1659, and signed in the name of the Parl^t by William Lenthall, Speaker.

41.—An Original Commission from the Council of State appointing John Ferraers, Esq., a captain of militia. It is dated Whitehall, April 20, 1660, and is signed by the President Arthur Annesley, Anthony Ashley Cooper, and others. On vellum.

42.—An original warrant of Charles I. for the loan of twenty pounds, dated Oxford, February 1643. Counter-signed Ed. Lyttleton.

43.—An original letter of Charles II. to Horatio, Lord Townshend, respecting the insolent carriage of the Popish Recusants in several parts of the kingdom. Dated 24th November 1666.

44.—Original letter of the Duke of York (afterwards James II.) to Lord Townsend, respecting the impressment of seamen. Dated from St. James's the 9th of June 1673.

45.—The original signature of Anna Maria Brudenell, Countess of Shrewsbury.

46.—Miscellaneous original letters from the Privy Council in Scotland to King Charles II. Others from the Duchess of Portland; Duke of Montrose, 1661; Duke of Albemarle, 1666; Sir Leoline Jenkins; Sir Edw. Nicholas; W. Lockhart, &c.

47.—Miscellaneous original letters, chiefly addressed to the Earl of Rothes, Lord High Commissioner in Scotland, by the Dukes of Hamilton and Argyll, Duchess of Buccleuch, Countess of Lauderdale, Lords Home, Holles, Essex, Coningsby, Arlington and Danby, Lady Rochester, the Archbishops of Glasgow and St. Andrews, &c., from 1668 to 1680.

48.—An original letter addressed by Grahame of Claverhouse, Viscount of Dundee, to Major-General the Earl of Linlithgow, written immediately after the fight of Drumclog, and describing his retreat to Glasgow. June 1, 1679. He writes in a postscript, "My Lord, I am so wearied and so sleapy, that I have wryten this very confusedly."

49.—An original letter of Charles II. desiring the loan of a hundred pounds, and dated "Antwerpe, this 1st of August 1658." At the foot of the letter is written the acknowledgment of the person deputed to receive the money on the part of the King, to John Dormer, of Lee Grange, in the County of Bucks, Esq. Dated June 20, 1659. The impression of the King's seal is perfect. The letter is framed and glazed.

50.—An original letter of Charles II. dated Brussels, 12 April 1660. It does not appear to whom it is addressed, but it concludes thus:—"I must not forbear to tell you that it is not possible you can be without such a manifestation of my kindnesse to you as I shall make it evident to all men, that I am very heartily youre affectionate frinde." Wholly in the King's hand, and the seal perfect.

51.—Original letter of Charles II. to the Duke of Savoy, dated Oxford, the 30th November 1665. The seal is perfect.

52.—Original letter of Charles II., dated 24th September 1670.

53.—Original letter of James, Duke of York (James II.) relative to the impressment of seamen. Dated January 6, 1664.

54.—Original letter of the Princess Mary to her aunt the Duchess of Savoy, in French. Dated from Whitehall, 17 Dec. 1660. With two seals perfect.

55.—Original letter of Charles II. to Sir George Downing. Dated Whitehall, January 16, 1671, written shortly before the declaration of war against Holland by England and France, and calculated to lull the Dutch into security. The following extract is interesting:—"That you may not err in the future I have

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

ny last mind upon the hinge and in my owne hand, that is your part to obey punctuputting yourself to the trouble
I do not do so." The letter is 1.

Charles II. to Sir Roger Cave,
2. to Lord Viscount Cullen.

Lord Townsend, Lord Lieut.
essing of seamen, signed by Duke of Ormond, the Lords lisle, Sandwich &c., and dated

Charles II., entirely in his own the Lord Wharton to go to umshire, until further orders.
April 1677.

om Henry Thynne of Longleate etter from the King was en-l, April 21, 1677.

of Charles I. for the loan of ford, Feb. 14, 1643. Countergram of Charles II. King of s God on earth, an Angelick relief of the Church (that can end of God." It is dedicated ary to the Admiralty, by "P.

." In a note on the flyleaf is some other compositions in a er was preferred to the dignity e." The volume is bound in black on each side of the cover with
to.

of the Duke of York (James II.)
hand, thanking some unknown

Dated Breda, April 19, 1660.

us collection of fac-similes and James I., Charles I., and Charles ance, &c. &c.; and also several n by King George III. to Foreign writing of Mr. Phelps, who was Lord Sandwich, 1763-65.

letters, chiefly originals, addressed s of the Navy, &c., from George ke of Albemarle 1653; President Montague (afterwards Earl of Sand-rles Ogle, 1771; Admiral Keppel,
Smith; Sir George Rodney, Sir
l Keith, &c. &c. &c.

r from the "Old Pretender," signed ne, 5th April 1743; to Mr. Walters, ive Colonel O'Brien 300l. on his ter from the Princess Louise de of Albany, widow of Prince Charles g Pretender," addressed to Mr. Astle y a genealogy of the House of Stol-s Bruce, Earl of Ailesbury. and a ouse of Stuart, from John Sobieski, the handwriting of Mr. Astle.

ter from F. Spanheim to the Bishop ventry, dated Lyons, 1695, and other rs, chiefly originals.

tter from the Duke of Perth, probably ord High Commissioner of Scotland,

, 19 September 1677. "I should he writes in the course of this long occasioned those incumbrances upon cep me from attending your Grace, as e effect of the unspotted loyalty of my father, I do rejoice in my poverty, orbid it should) the King's business arding the little remnant I possess, ould with the cheerfulness that bely employed that way, and it may be f passion and zeal as those who have nor to be noticed by his Majesty, and nty too."

ginal letters to Sir Richard Temple, ay 26, 1674, and the Hague August 17, a Treaty of Trade and Commerce with nal letter from Abraham Cowley to John "Barns, March 29, 1663." "There is leasant then to see kindness in a person have great esteem and respect (noe not r garden in May, or even the having makes mee the more obliged to return umble thanks for the testimonies I have lately received of yours both by y^r letter and y^r presents."

71.—Original letter from Matthew Prior to the Rev.
Mr. Talbot, Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.
Dated Whitehall, 19 Dec. 1700.

72.—Original letter from William Prynne to the Rev.
Peter Du Moulin, at Canterbury, dated Lincoln's Inn, March 19, 1664. "I have received yours this evening concerning my Narrative, p. 45, of the Queen's con-fessor's brandishing his sword at the late King's murder
What I have printed I shall aver upon oath, that I received this relation more than once or twice."

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

ORIGINAL LETTERS AND AUTOGRAPHS CHIEFLY FOREIGN.

1. Conrad de Valenrode, Grand Master of the Order of Teutonic Knights of St. Mary at Jerusalem to Richard II., complaining of injuries done by the English to some Prussian merchants. March 27, 1393.

2.—Conrad de Jungingen, Master General of the Teutonic Order, to Henry IV., respecting some damages done by the Knights of the Order in an engagement at sea, and desiring to send an envoy to accommodate all differences. June 16, 1403.

3.—Andrea Contarini, Doge of Venice, to Edward III., recommending some ships that were going to France to his protection. 5 Feb. 13 Indiction.

4.—The Senate of Hamburgh to Henry IV., complaining that two ships laden with bear were taken by the English.

5.—The City of Bruges to the Privy Council of Henry IV., stating that Paul Cangiard, who had gone to England to recover some of his goods, was detained at Portsmouth, and that a fisherman of Ostend who was coming upon our coast to catch herrings, was made prisoner, and praying that they might be released.

6.—The City of Bruges to Henry IV., desiring restitation of a ship, &c. April 4, 1404.

7.—From Francis I. of France to M. de Vaux his Ambassador in England.

8.—Francis I. to the Bishop of Bayonne, his Ambassador in England.

9.—Cardinal Mazarine to M. du Plessis Besançon.
January 3, 1658.

10.—Letter of Marechal Duc de Belleisle. Nov. 14, 1749.

11.—Signature of Colbert, 1662.

12.—Louis XIV. to the Duke of Elbeuf. January 19, 1644.

13.—Louis XIV. to the Governor of the Bastile, an order signed by the King and Le Tellier to permit the Countess de Bussy to sleep with her husband. January 1666.

14.—Louis XIV. to the Governor of the Bastile, an order signed by the King and Colbert to admit commissioners to examine the Chevalier de Rohan. November 26, 1674.

15.—Lettre de Cachet, signed by Louis XIII., December 1701.

16.—Letter from the Marquis of Seignelay to the Governor of the Bastile. November 21, 1674.

17.—Madame de Maintenon to the Marechal de Villeroy. Oct. 19, 1709

18.—Signatures of Louis XIV., Louis XVI., the Comte de Breteuil, Duc de Praslin, D'Argenson, de Vergennes, and Guy Patin.

19.—Letter from the Duke of Orleans, 1746.

20.—Letter from the Duchesse de Polignac, Oct. 23, 1786.

21.—Voltaire to Sir Evrard Falkenor, Secretary to the Duke of Cumberland. "I long to visit England again, and my dearest Sir Evrard Falkenor(i). Since I run upon you for favors, be so kind as to send me the best printed memoirs upon the late insurrection in Scotland. and the glorious exploits of your Duke, with the Life of Lord Lovat; you can easily order all this to be directed to Rotterdam, at Mr. Paillaret, Merchant, over against the Exchange."

22.—Letter from Voltaire upon the publication of his Siècle de Louis XIV.

23.—Two letters from Leopold and Ferdinand, Dukes of Bavaria, to Lord Albemarle.

24.—General Kröcker to Lord Albemarle. May 7, 1748.

25.—A passport signed by Louis XVI. March 1783.

26.—A Russian Ukase. August 26, 1744.

27.—Frederick the Great to George II. upon the marriage of his niece with Prince Frederick of Wurtemberg. November 1753.

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

28.—The Prince Bishop of Liège to Lord Sandwich. June 2, 1765.

29.—Order from the Committee of Public Safety, for the payment of ten thousand livres to St. Just and Le Bas, signed by Billaud-Varenne, Barrère and Robespierre. 13 Floreal, An. 2.

30.—Mirabeau to M. Bosse, sculptor, on the subject of his bust, and relating to his domestic afflictions.

31.—Lafayette to the Minister of Finance at Paris. 9 Pluviose an. 9.

32.—Napoleon to the Minister at War, countersigned by Berthier. "An. 11 de la Republique."

33.—M. d'Hancreville to Mr. Towneley, sending several papers taken at the demolition of the Bastille, and at the house of the Lient. of Police. One of them is a very curious narrative of a Parisian procuratrix who was employed by the police to report the proceedings at her house and the names of her visitors. Feb. 1790.

34.—Note from Burckhardt, the traveller.

35.—Three notes from the Bishop of St. Pol de Leon. May 1800.

ORIGINAL LETTERS AND DOCUMENTS FROM Q. ANNE TO GEORGE III.

1.—A letter from Queen Anne to the Marquess of Tweeddale, in her own hand, and dated Windsor, July the 24th, 1704. The Queen expresses "the disappointment we have mett with in the settlement of the Protestant Succession, which I had soe earnestly recommended to the Parliament of Scotland" . . . I shall be more particular when I have heard from you what has passed last Wednesday in the Parliament relating to y^r Cess in case they delay it, or clogg it with any unreasonable demands, I think, as you seem to do, y^t it will be best to adjourn them till they shall be in a better temper."

2.—A long letter from the Duke of Cumberland to Sir John Ligonier, in his own hand, dated Inverness, May 1746, and written soon after the Battle of Culloden, to which he thus alludes:—"Yesterday I received your kind congratulations on our victory, would to God the enemy had been worthy enough for our troops. Sure never were soldiers in such a temper. Silence and obedience the whole time, and all our manœuvres were performed without the least confusion."

3.—From the same to Lord Albemarle, original, and dated Hague, April 5, n.s. 1748. It appears to relate to the siege of Breda. "Prince Wolfenbüttle will have acquainted you with my orders, that in case there should be the least likelihood of the town's being besieged, you should immediately move out all the British troops into the field to camp, but not leave one single man of His Majesty's troops for the defence of the town."

4.—From Frederick, Prince of Wales, to Lord Albemarle, original, dated Kensington, $\frac{1}{2}$ September 1736. "Of few people I should like to receive an obligation, but I should like to receive it of one whom I love as well as Lord Albemarle."

5.—The original marriage contract between His Serene Highness Frederick, Prince of Hesse Cassel, and the Princess Mary, daughter of King George II. Dated May 8, 1740. The contract is on parchment, and the signatures attached consist of the autographs of all the most celebrated persons of rank at that period.

6.—Original letter from the Duke of Schomberg to some person unknown, requesting protection and employment for his son in England. Dated Lisbon, 2nd of June.

7.—Original letters from Sir Robert Walpole, 1734; from Lord Godolphin, 1714; from Lord Bindon to Peter Le Neve, about directions of warrants to the Kings-at-Arms; others signed by General Wade, 1701; Sir Cloudesley Shovell, &c. 1745.

8.—Sign-manual of George I., original, countersigned by Lord Stanhope, September 6, 1720.

9.—Sign-manual of George II., original, countersigned by the Duke of Newcastle. March 25, 1752.

10.—An order of George I., original, with his sign-manual, addressed to Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, dated Göhrd, the 14th October 1723, to cause the Great Seal to be set to the Treaty of Charlottenberg, &c. Countersigned by Lord Townshend.

11.—An original note of Frederic, Prince of Wales, concerning the Marquess of Winchester being made Groom of the Stole.

12.—An original letter of George II., in French, and addressed to some person unknown. Dated St. James's, 27 March 1753.

13.—A dedication to George II., in German, and partly written in letters of gold. It is subscribed by "Andreas Beyer, Kupferstecher, Regensburg," 26 December 1760. Folio.

14.—A letter from the Princess Amelia, aunt of George III., original, addressed to Lady Sophia Egerton, and dated Gunnersbury, August 25.

15.—Four original notes of George III., to Lord Sandwich.

16.—An original note of George III. to Lord Sandwich, dated 1st March 1765, and containing also the autographs of Lord Sandwich and Mr. Stuart Mackenzie.

17.—An original note of George III. to the Duke of Leeds, dated Windsor, April 28th 1789.

18.—Original letter of the late Duke of Kent to the Earl of Banbury, promising his attendance at the House of Lords upon the Banbury Peerage Case. Dated Kensington Palace, 10th June 1810.

19.—Original letter of the late Princess Amelia to Mrs. Bingley, relating to the health of Miss Goldsmith.

20.—One of the original stamps to have been used in America in accordance with the Stamp Act of 1765.

21.—A parcel of miscellaneous papers, folio and quarto, containing letters from Admiral Lestock, 1746, relative to the attack on L'Orient, &c.; Idée de la Personne, de la Manière de Vivre, et de la Cour du Roi de Prusse, 1752; report concerning the forest of Whittlewood, 1792; letter from a missionary at Pekin, &c.; a paper relating to the province of Surat, in the East Indies; Mr. Hearne's narrative of a journey made inland from Prince of Wales's Fort, from Dec. 1770 to June 1772; of the King's power of pardoning impeachments, by Heneage, Earl of Nottingham; regulation of pilots, &c.; Sir William Hamilton on the Kingdom of Naples, 1774; a paper relating to the elopement of Mrs. Faulkener, 1784; a paper relating to the dissolution of the Savoy, 1702: total expulsion of the French from maritime India; Mr. Porter on the silver coinage, 1804, &c., &c.

22.—Original letter of Sir James Thornhill, addressed to George Doddington, Esq., of Eastbury, with a sketch of a design for painting the ceiling of an octagon room. Dated Great Piazza, 3rd September 1719.

23.—A long and interesting original letter on a variety of historical and literary subjects, addressed by John Evelyn, author of Sylva, to Dr. Nicholson, afterwards Bishop of Carlisle, dated Dover Street, 10th November 1699. "You are speaking Sir of Records, but who are they among this crowd (and even of the Coifs) who either study or vouchsafe to defile their fingers with any dust save what is yellow? or know anything of Records, save what upon occasion they lap out of Sir Robt. Cook's basin and some few others? The thirst of gain takes up their whole man; like our English painters, who greedy of getting present money for their work seldom arrive to any farther excellency in the art than face painting; but have no skill in symmetry, perspective, the principles of design, or dare undertake an history. Upon all these considerations I cannot but presage the great advantage your excellent book and such a work must produce, when our young gentlemen shall ripen their studies by those sound methods you propose; at least there will not likely appear such swarms and legions of obstreperous no-lawyers, as yearly emerge out of our London Seminaries, 'Omnium doctorum indoctissimum genus' (for the most part) as Erasmus long since styled them."

24.—Original draught of a dedication by Dryden to be prefixed to some operas by Purcell, at whose request it was written. "Musick and Poetry have ever been acknowledged sisters, which walking hand-in-hand support each other. As Poetry is the harmony of words, so Musick is that of notes; and as Poetry is a rise above prose and oratory, so is musick the exaltation of Poetry. Both of them may excell apart, but sure they are most excellent when they are joined, because nothing is then wanting to either of their perfections, for thus they appear like wit and beauty in the same person." On the back is an advertisement, in the handwriting of Jacob Tonson, the bookseller.

25.—Original letter from Dean Swift to Patty Blount, dated Dublin, Feb. 29. 1727-8. "I am told you have a mind to receive a letter from me, which is a very undecent declaration in a young lady, and almost a confession that you have a mind to write to me; for as to the fancy of looking on me as a man sans consequence, it is what I will never understand . . . Adieu dear Patty, and believe me to be one of your truest friends,

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

d that since I can never live happiness would be to have ~~remained~~ during my life to live ~~in~~ nery, and you, for reputation ~~and I will give you eight dinners~~ dozen of pint bottles of good gings, a thing you could never every year a suit of fourteen- not be never out at the right but sixpence a job, and you much as you please, and the trick's, as old again as I, for gain, dear Patty."

er from Patty Blount to Mr. sscript by Pope. Dated 10th er from Pope to Mr. Knight, "I am stuck at Twitnam, as ts, scarce removeable at this tty Blount, but not stuck with all other gardens hereabouts. ted in the soil that would best ee carnations faded and dirty in d blush and shine in the country. now going to some such soft l, or Richmond, or Islington, ng epigram, es to the shades go down, Delia, 'stay in town;auty wand'ring here reside ces where their honor dy'd."

l Bacon's Essays, with the follow- riting:—"Essays of Sir Francis m; to Mrs. Newsham, from her he year 1725."* volume is a sonnet, also in Pope's l "A Wish to Mrs. M.B. on her ith all that Heav'n can send!

youth, long pleasure, and a friend;
s the Woman-world admire,
nd vanities that tire.
et affluence or content,
ience of a life well spent,
ght, inspirit ev'ry grace,
and smile upon thy face!
on day, and year on year,
trouble, or a fear.
ath must that dear frame destroy,
extacy of joy!
l in some soft dream remove,
t gasp a sigh of love.
letter, long and interesting, addressed ight, dated from Stowe, August 23rd e from which I write to you will be w incapable I am of forgetting you d; for if anything under Paradise ond all earthly cogitations, Stowe is much more beautiful this year et before, and much enlarged, and et I shall not stay in it by a fort-
I did, with pleasure, with you. You ight she has been spoken of, and her ere; and that Lord Cobham sends his memorandum to perform her promise ce."
letter from Pope to Mrs. E. Cave, at
She had requested his opinion of some nts of poems in Pope's handwriting, Place Book, presumed to have been the early period of his life.

nal letter of Henry St. John, afterwards ke.

ginal receipt, signed by Pope, for two the first payment to the subscription ion of Homer's Iliad.

ginal letter of Dr. Johnson to the Rev.
master of Abingdon School, dated Jan-l letter from Benjamin Franklin to his ed Passy, November 11, 1784. Alluding ion of his grandson, he writes: "I had bringing him up under his cousin, and public business, thinking he might be of fter to his country, but being now convinced that service is no inheritance, as the proverb says, I have determined to give him a trade, that he may have something to depend on, and not be obliged to ask favours or offices of anybody. And I flatter myself he will make his way in the world with God's blessing."

36.—An original letter from James Bruce, dated Kin- naird, 15 August 1793, to Lady Cunliffe, at Acton, near Chester, with advice respecting a tour in Scotland, to which he adds, "If I am anything, I am a traveller, and you surely may depend upon me."

37.—Original letters from the Duchess of Portland, 1783; Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire; Lady Mount- rath, 1761; Lord Gainsborough; Lord Guilford; Mrs. Garrick to Mr. Adam from Hampton; Sir Robert Murray Keith, dated Copenhagen, Jan. 24, 1772.

38.—Miscellaneous letters and autographs, some with portraits, inlaid. Amongst the writers are Dr. Samuel Parr; Lackington and Millar, the booksellers; Mr. Cole, 1743; Jonas Hanway, Dr. Sims, Dr. Erskine, Count Rumford, Baretti, Anthony Pasquin, Lord Orford, &c. &c.

39.—Original letter of Robertson, the historian, ad- dressed to Adam, the architect, dated Edinburgh, March 1.

40.—Original letter from Horace Walpole to Edwards, the bookseller, and some memoranda in his handwriting respecting a badge of the Order of the Bath worn by his ancestor in the reign of Charles II.; and also about a cabinet to contain the drawings of Lady Di Beauclerc, with a specimen of her drawing, and several letters from Edwards on the same subjects.

ENGLISH HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS, &c., &c.

1.—A quarto of 470 pages in writing of the reign of Charles I., and containing letters and tracts upon various matters of history, chiefly referring to the reign of James I.

2.—A quarto of 117 pages in a modern hand contain- ing transcripts from original documents extant in the public and private collections referred to by the writer.

3.—"Sir William Cornwallis's Breyfe Discourse in Prayse of King Richard III., Kynge of England, &c., &c." A quarto, transcribed from the original, formerly in the library of John Anstis, Garter King-at-Arms. Prefixed is an original letter from Mrs. Cornwallis, wife of the Archbishop of Canterbury, to Mr. Astle, giving a short account of the author.

4.—A quarto of 48 pages in a modern hand, containing letters of Mary Queen of Scots, &c.

5.—A quarto, containing transcripts from a variety of original historical documents, partly in a hand of the reign of James I. and partly in a modern hand.

6.—A folio of 252 written pages, belonging to the Essex collection, and containing the charges and re- criminations of Lord Bristol and the Duke of Bucking- ham on the subject of the Spanish match, and the Prince's (Charles I.) journey and proceedings in Spain, with the pleadings on both sides.

7.—A folio, also part of the Essex collection, of 202 written pages, in a hand of the reign of Charles I., and relating chiefly to the affairs of the Palatinate and the Spanish match.

8.—A folio, of 112 pages, transcribed from original documents, and containing the instructions sent by Richelieu to D'Estrades on his embassies to London, Holland, &c., from 1637 to 1672.

9.—A folio, of 206 pages, in a hand of the reign of Charles II., containing discourses on courts and courtiers, and on fisheries. Of the Essex Collection.

10.—Lord Falkland's Military Miscellany Book, 1626- 27. A folio, of 623 written pages, exclusive of an index, containing a history of the military transactions in Ireland during the above-mentioned years when Falk- land was Lord Deputy.

11.—A folio volume of loose papers in the handwrit- ing of Mr. Astle and others, some relating to the Edmondes' collection of letters and to Lord Maccles- field's collections. Also an Essay on the Peace of the Pyrenees in 1659, &c. &c.

12.—Four quarto volumes, in writing generally of the reign of Charles II. The first volume, part of the Essex collection, is entitled "A Relation of the Nego- tiations between England and Spain in 1598, 1599, and 1600, &c." The second contains a copious list of treaties between the different States of Europe from 1495, but chiefly in the seventeenth century. The third, a Breviate of Leagues between England and foreign Princes in 1611, &c. The fourth is entitled, "Treaty with Portugal, 1654," with an English translation.

an was sister of Mr. Crags, Secretary of State to afterwards married Mr. Knight, of Gosfield Hall, in and husband was Mr. Nugent, afterwards Viscount Nugent.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

13.—A folio of miscellaneous papers, amongst which are:—Part of the original Book of the Commissioners for the Sequestration of Delinquents' Estates in the County of Essex, in 1645 and 1646; an original inventory of the furniture in Howard House, anno 1588, containing particulars of the tapestry, pictures, hangings, robes, masking garments, armour, &c., with a schedule of the Earl of Arundel's debts, and of his personal estate, signed by William Dix, his steward; the account of Thomas Cole, Collector of the Tenth and Fifteenths in the County of Suffolk, 1606; original account of Dean Forest in Gloucestershire, written in the 10th of Charles I., &c. &c.

14.—A folio of miscellaneous papers in various hands from the reign of Henry VIII., containing: Original papers relating to the Exchequer in 1650; examination of Thomas Acton, in 1652, relative to his being with the King at the battle of Worcester; inventory of the goods of S. Halsenet, 28th Henry VIII., and other documents of which there is a general index at the commencement of the volume.

15.—A folio of State papers chiefly relating to the reign of Charles II. The MS. also contains an Essay on Love, in a series of love letters.

16.—Sir Thomas Edmondson's State Papers and Correspondence, tempore Elizabeth and James I. Twelve vols., folio. This collection of original documents has been successively in the possession of Secretary Thurloe, Lord Chancellor Somers, and the Hon. Philip Yorke, and consists of nearly fifteen hundred letters from the principal English statesmen of the reigns of Elizabeth and James I., as well as those of foreign countries, written by their own hands, together with Sir T. Edmondson's draughts of his own letters in reply during the long period he represented this country at the French Court and in the Netherlands. Amongst the writers are nearly all the persons of note living at the time, including the different sovereigns. In the first volume there is an original portrait of Sir T. Edmondson, painted in oil, and believed to be the only portrait of him extant.

17.—A folio containing original letters and papers, partly on parchment from the reign of Elizabeth to that of George III. Amongst other documents are:—A warrant with the sign-manuel of Queen Elizabeth, 1574, for delivering to Christopher Hatton, Esq., Gentleman of the Privy Chamber, "six yards of tawney medley, at 13s. 4d. "per yard, with black furr for the same," and also five yards of the same to each of the grooms and pages of the chamber; a letter from Sir Francis Walsingham with an order to victual the Revenge, the ship commanded by Sir Richard Grenville in 1591; a letter from Christian IV. of Denmark, with his sign-manual, 1628; also letters from Hugh, Bishop of Oxford, 1696; Potter, Archbishop of Canterbury, 1707; Sir Samuel Garth; Jacob Tonson, the bookseller; the Duchess of Rutland; Thomas Hearne, dated Oxford, May 1731, with thanks for some fragments of MSS. out of Le Neve's collection; Carte, the historian, 1736; the Duke of Richmond, 1742; Captain Thomas Coram, founder of the Foundling Hospital, 1747; the Countess of Oxford, 1748; Lord Orrery, 1751; Orator Henley; Spranger Barry, 1751; John Roberts, private secretary to Mr. Pelham; Warburton, afterwards Bishop of Gloucester; Theophilus Cibber, on the subject of the comedy of the Careless Husband, 1753; the Duke of Portland, 1755; Mr., afterwards Sir Joseph Banks, &c. &c.

18.—Eight folio volumes of original letters, from the reign of James I. to that of George II. The following are the names of some of the principal writers.—Sir Roger Aston to George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, 1623; the Earl of Arundel and Surrey, 1635; Mr. Asteley to Sir Edward Dering, 1639; Lord Arlington, 1665; Lord Anglesea to Sir Edward Dering, 1666; several letters on the forfeited lands in Ireland, &c.; Mr. Anstis to Lord Clarendon, 1718-19.—Proposal to place the Royal and Cottonian libraries in St. Paul's; Mark Akenside, 1738; Lord Buckhurst from Sackville House, 1602; John Bale on the affairs of Poland, 1632; Lord Bridgewater to the Marquess of Buckingham; George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, and Katharine, Duchess of Buckingham, 1626; Robert Boyle, 1668; Nathaniel Brady, 1709; Bromley, the Speaker, 1710; James Brydges, afterwards Duke of Chandos, 1711; Boyer, author of the Dictionary, 1714; Samuel Boyse to Cave, editor of the Gentleman's magazine; Dr. Bentley about receiving George I. at Cambridge; Dr. Birch; Isaac Hawkins Brown; Mr. Secretary Calvert, 1624, to the Duke of Buckingham, presenting a picture by Reubens; Sir Edward Coke, 1624; Sir John Culpepper, 1640; Archbishop of Cashel, 1666; Lord Conway on Irish affairs, 1666; Sir Winston Churchill, 1667; Lord Carlingford, 1667; Sir Hugh Cholmeley, 1580-82; John Chamberlaine, 1712; Charles Churchill; Sir Henry Chauncy 1712; Elizabeth Carter, 1739; Edward Cave, St. John's Gate, 1740; Sir William Dugdale, 1677; Sir Dudley Digges; Sir Symonds D'Ewes; Sir Edward Dering; Lord Dunsannon, 1670; Lord Dunsany, 1667; Archbishop of Dublin to Lord Clarendon, 1667; Henry Dodwell, 1684; on Church matters; Sir Heneage Finch, the Solicitor General, 1656-73, several entertaining letters of news addressed to Sir Edward Dering; Sir Richard Fanshawe, 1655; Flamsteed, the astronomer, 1702; Dr. Friend, 1725; George Fox, the founder of the Quakers; George Faulkner, the Dublin printer, 1739; Sir Edward Hales, 1633; Rich, Earl of Holland; John Hampden, 1693; Theo. Howard, afterwards Earl of Suffolk; Sir Leoline Jenkins, 1683; Gregory King, Lancaster Herald; Williams, Bishop of Lincoln, and Lord Keeper, 1623; Bishop of London, 1623; Sir Edward Nicholas to Sir John Hippisley, Lieut. of Dover Castle, 1627;—this is endorsed by George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham, and the cover is inscribed, "for His Majesty's Special Affairs; hast, hast, hast, post hast, hast, hast, hast with all possible speede"; David Loggan, the engraver, 1680; Sir Martin Lister, 1685; Elias Ashmole; Edward Llwyd; John Locke, 1704; Peter Le Neve, 1698; Sylvanus Morgan, 1668; Lord Massacreene, 1670, on Irish forfeitures; Sir George Mackenzie to the Archbishop of Canterbury, 1681, concerning legitimated children, being older, preferred to lawfully begotten children in Scotland; Thomas Madox, 1702; Henry Howard, Earl of Northampton, 1608; Sir Isaac Newton, 16 Mar. 1714; Robert Nelson, 1708; Lord Orrery, 1664; Duke of Ormond, 1703; Lord Ossory, 1668; Sir Henry Oxenden, 1680; George, Duke of Buckingham, 1626; Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, 1638; Samuel Pepys, 1694; William Penn, 1704; Samuel Pegge, 1757; Privy Council, 1624; Lord Roscommon, 1664; John Ray, the naturalist, 1689; Sir Paul Rycart, 1700; Dr. Radcliffe, 1708; Sir Hugh Smithson, 1710; Duke of Rutland, 1725; Thomas Rymer, author of the Fœdera; Theophilus, Earl of Suffolk, 1634; Hamon L'Estrange, 1640; Sir Edward Smythe, 1664; Sir Richard Southwell, 1680; General Slangenburg to Secretary Fagel, on the pretended refusal of the States General to engage the enemy when urged by the Duke of Marlborough (a copy); Sir Hans Sloane, 1694; Sir Philip Sydenham, 1704; J. Spence, New College, 1737; Lord Thanet, 1681; Sir William Temple, More Park, 1693; Thos. Taylor, surveyor of forfeited lands in Ireland, from Dublin, 1676; Ralph Thoresby, of Leeds, 1697; Tyrrel, author of the History of England, 1715; Tate, the poet laureate, 1715; Vaillant, on medals, 1684; Mr. Secretary Vernon, 1725; Earl of Westmoreland, 1625; Lord Winchelsea, 1660-66; Sir Christopher Wren, 1688; Sir Joseph Williamson, 1689; Humphrey Wanley, 1707; Sir William Wyndham, 1711; Sir Robert Walpole, 1721; D. Wilkins, 1738, editor of Spelman's Councils; Chief Justice Willes, 1759; &c. &c. &c.

19.—Three folio volumes, containing Sir William Coventry's state papers from the Restoration to 1699, including copies of warrants, pardons, petitions, recommendations, &c. &c.; letters from Charles II. to foreign princes; and grants of offices, honours, and licenses, amongst which almost every office in the gift of the Crown is mentioned, with the names of the persons on whom they were conferred at the Revolution. The writing is chiefly in one hand, and contemporary with the subjects.

20.—Three folio volumes containing original letters, chiefly on literary and antiquarian subjects, addressed to Dr. Charles Lyttelton, afterwards Bishop of Carlisle, from 1703 to 1764. The first volume contains numerous letters from Smart Lethieullier, on monastic and other antiquities of England, and from William Borlase, author of the History and Antiquities of Cornwall. The second contains letters from Richard Burn; Mr. Percy of Penshurst; Thomas Dawes, from Aleppo; Sir David Dalrymple; Mr. Thomas Pitt; Dan. Dumaresq, from St. Petersburg; Dr. Ward, upon King Arthur's Sepulchre at Glastonbury; Dr. Ducarel; Ph. Morant; George Bellard, author of the History of Learned Ladies; the Bishop of St. Asaph, 1735; Milles, Dean of Exeter, 1751; Dr. Birch, 1743; Mr. Seward; Dr. Stukeley; Richard Pococke, 1751; Mr. Thrale, from Southwark, 1749; George Lyttelton, 1751; Hutchins, author of the History of Dorsetshire; W. Price, 1745-50; F. Drake, author of the History of York; Thomas, author of the History of Worcester; Daines Barrington:

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

s Pennant of Downing, &c. &c. In the third there are more letters from Hutchins and others from Elizabeth Elstob; Brown William Clark, 1753; Edward Clarke, from 1761; Charles Mason, Cambridge, 1753; Pegge, 1764-8; John Kettell, Windsor Herald, with drawings of armorial bearings; P. Collynson, F. Godolphin, 1762; Lord Dacre, 1762; Dr. James Bentham, author of the History of Ely; Wise, &c. &c.

PAPERS AND OTHER ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS CHIEFLY RELATING TO ENGLISH HISTORY.

our folio and three quarto volumes relating to the Royal houses of Savoy and Sardinia. Tableau general de la dépense de l'armée, d'après la proposition par le Ministre le 16 Août, 1790. There are some loose sheets entitled "Notes from the Jarnac, 1806, relating to the Government of French Colonies in the West Indies." Folio.

Two quarto volumes including an account of the finances from 1716 to 1766. Annexed are some letters and affidavits concerning the Chevalier and his transactions with the French ambassador, &c. in 1764.

A collection of various documents, some of them in the handwriting of Dr. Ducarel, Mr. Morant, and Mr. Jones on the subject of English Secretaries of State, particularly the appointment of a second by William Pitt. The MS. also contains papers entitled "Sir Henry Spelman's Icenia" &c.; Letters relating to the war in the Netherlands from 1582 to 1592; Recommendations in 1762, &c. &c. &c. Folio. Also containing numerous letters relating to the Duke's private correspondence and practises from April to the 28th of August 1722, being Lord Albemarle's copies from the intercepted originals.

Some account of the affairs of France since the death of the Duc de Choiseul to the year 1776. These consist of characters and accounts from Paris, of the Duc de Choiseul, Madame du Barri, the Duc d'Orléans, &c., and of the intrigues of ministers to support the marriage of the Count d'Artois; and character of Louis XV., &c. &c. 2 vols.

A miscellaneous compilation, chiefly relating to the rebellions of Scotland, but containing many documents from the reign of Mary down to 1788.

Proceedings against the rebels after the rebellion of 1745. A folio of 196 written pages, containing an account of the legal proceedings against the Duke of York and Carlisle, with the names of the lords, counsel, &c. Added to this volume are some papers bought by Mr. Grenville from the Townley collection.

A declaration from Holyrood House by James Oglethorpe in Oct. 1745; Speech of Lord Balmerino at the trial; verses on the Rebellion, &c. &c.

A quarto of a Voyage en Ecosse. A quarto of describing the perils and hairbreadth escapes of the "Bie trouwe" brig, which sailed from London, June 11, 1746, in quest of the Pretender. The narrative is written by one of the officers.

A folio of 235 pages containing a detailed account of the Ordnance in all the Forts, Castles, and of Great Britain, and at sea, in the year 1725; of Gibraltar, Port Mahon, Placentia, and in

A folio of forty-one pages, containing copies of letters, chiefly relating to intrigues at the Court of Denmark from 1767 to 1773; also of letters from Copenhagen, similar description, written by some one connected with the court, and containing the character of the King, and Queen, of Struensee Brandt,

A collection of letters and papers, chiefly original, of Mr. Secretary Craggs, between the years 1718-1719. Amongst the originals are letters from Lord Bolingbroke, Lord Polwarth, Sir Charles Wager, Walpole, General Erle, Lord and Lady Spencer Compton, Mr. Adam Cardonnel, Mr. Marlborough's Secretary, Mr. Worsley, and Stanyan, &c. &c.

A miscellaneous collection of original letters addressed to Mr. Secretary Craggs, in the years 1718-1719. The MS. contains letters from Lord Albemarle, his Embassy to Paris, from the Abbé de St. Pierre, Lords Hinchinbrook, Jersey, Berkeley, and Miss Mary Lepell, &c., &c. On the subject of precedence with respect to English ambassadors, Lord Stair writes in one of his letters:— You may believe it was very much contrary to my inclinations that this incident happened, and that if I could have foreseen it I would have avoided it, but all Frenchmen are made so, if they find you disposed to take any advantage of them, nothing will satisfy them but setting their foot upon your throat. From the facility I had shewn in the affair of the Duke de Chartres, they thought they might do anything with me they pleased, and so in the visit to M. le Duc, they made him walk away without seeing my coach go, and two days afterwards they would have had me walked into the Court to receive the Prince Conti at the coming out of his coach, without having said one word of the matter to me beforehand. The Abbé Dubois will certainly make a terrible noise about this matter, and tell you the Regent is undone if the King does not order me to please the Princes of the blood in this matter." The MS. also contains the expenses of Lord Stair's Embassy in 1719; and despatches from the Abbé Dubois relating chiefly to the intrigues of the Jacobites in France and Spain in the same year.

15.—Twenty-five original letters, partly in cypher, from the Duke of Marlborough to Mr. Craggs, in the years 1711-14, dated chiefly from Frankfort. To some of the letters there are postscripts in the handwriting of the Duchess.

16.—Seventy-five original letters from Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, to Mr. Craggs, 1711 to 1719. The letters are holograph, some of them very long, written on several sheets of paper, and, as may be presumed from the quotations which follow, characteristic and interesting. In one, alluding to the accusation of taking away the locks from the rooms she had occupied at St James's, the Duchess writes:—"I won't forget it when the history is put together, and I must own I have a great deal of pleasure in thinking every day what sad wretches I shall make all those people appear to the whole world, a little sooner or later, so much that I do protest I would not part with it to have Blenheim finished, and everything added to it that is in the power of this infamous foolish Court to give. I wish you would let me know what you think is the cause of this sudden turn, I can't think it is out of shame, for I believe my Lord Treasurer values himself more for being a knave, than any body ever did for being an honest man. I made a very just picture of him in a letter upon this late subject to the Duke of Marlborough, hoping he might read it, but I fear he has not time for such curiosities, and now I am in a humour to flatter myself that the reason he has got this order for money for the building is, that he thinks Mrs. Morley will not live, or that he begins to fear Lord Marlborough, but let it be what it will, the season to carry on the building is lost, and to be sure he only intends a few weekly payments shall be made, which won't amount to much, before Lord Marlborough comes, and so to keep what is behind as a bait that Lord Marlborough may not join against him in any difficulties that may happily arise in the winter, and for this reason and some others I heartily wish Blenheim were burnt."

Again:—"If you have not been with the Duke of Shrewsbury, this will save you the trouble of it, for I have removed most of my things out of St. James', and all my lodgings, I believe, will be cleared by to-morrow night: the message the Queen sent me, that I might take a lodging for ten shillings a week to put my Lord Marlborough's goods in, sufficiently shews what a good education and understanding the wolf has, who was certainly the person who gave that advice, and her Majesty is very happy in her Chamberlain who had not worth enough to tell her how unfit that message was to send, but notwithstanding all I said to you I have complied with it, by which you will see (according to the notions of some of the late printed papers) I am not a fool, for they say they never change their mind, but I am convinced after such a message I should have nothing in the Queen's house, and I think I am now at liberty to send a message, which I will do, concerning my own."

17.—Three folio volumes of different sizes, containing "A Treatise of the erected service, called the Office of Compositions for Alienations"; papers on the subject of the coinage; an estimate of the King's revenue in 1681; a copy of Cromwell's order for the sequestration of Sir Th. Russell's estate in 1649; various accounts of the revenue from 1688 to 1702; papers relating to

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

"Customs and Coals"; petition of the Commissioners of the Customs to the King in 1662, &c. &c.

18.—Inrolment of Letters Patent and other instruments of State during the protectorate of Oliver Cromwell, of his son Richard, and of the Government, of the persons styling themselves Keepers of the Liberties of England, from 24th of June 1654 to 23rd January 1659. A large vellum folio of 262 written pages, containing the regulations made in different departments of the State, Ecclesiastical, Civil, Naval, and Military, during the above period. It appears from these that the expenses of the State were enormous, especially for secret services and contingencies, and that corruption deep and systematical had pervaded every department. The expense for black cloth alone at Cromwell's funeral amounted to the enormous sum of 6,929*l*. At folio 6 is Cromwell's warrant for the payment of 3,473*l*. 5*s*. "for the Little Park at Windsor, and Meadows there, called the King's Meadows, and the Bushie Close, &c.", dated December 6, 1655."

19.—A folio containing various orders concerning the revenue from the reign of Henry VIII., with statements of the revenues of different reigns since, and of the Commonwealth in 1654; of the Duchy of Cornwall in 1633-34; the "Telling of Noses," or the number of freeholders in England, by Sir William Petty in 1687; account of bullion exported; and "The manner of the Coronation of King Edward VI.," copied from the original.

20.—A folio of miscellaneous contents, relating chiefly to the state of the revenue at various periods of English history, with projects for the regulation of trade and commerce; account of gold and silver coined from 1558 to 1769; papers relating to the trade of the Cinque Ports in 1660; Morison's account of Tyrone's forces in Ireland in 1598, &c. &c.

21.—"Ordinary Receipts and Payments, by Bryan Tuke, Kt., Treasurer of the King's Chamber, and of the King's Lands, from the fyrste daye of May, the 34th yere of King Henry VIII." This is the original MS. Folio.

22.—Original letters relating chiefly to the contributions raised in Essex for the Long Parliament from 1642 to 1660.

23.—A miscellaneous collection of extracts from newspapers, such as the Perfect Diurnal, Mercurius Britannicus, &c., relating chiefly to the Civil Wars, from September 1643 to March 1657. In the handwriting of Mr. Stace. Quarto.

24.—The life of George Monk, Duke of Albemarle, by Dr. Skinner. A presentation copy in MS. to James, first Duke of Chandos. Skinner was Monk's physician when he lived at New Hall, in Essex. Folio.

25.—A folio of 147 written pages, containing: Abrégé de l'Etat présent de l'Empire Ottomane; Privilegio e capitulazioni della Nazione Inglese confermate dal Gran Sultano Mechmed, l'anno del Hegira 1086, che é quello de G.C. 1672; The Life of Cardinal Alberoni, in Italian.

26. State papers of the reign of Charles II.: chiefly instructions to ambassadors who were sent to different Continental courts after the Restoration. Folio.

27.—Rules and Orders for the Household of Charles II. A vellum folio, authenticated by the Royal sign-manual. The King's arms are stamped on each side of the cover.

28.—A folio containing several articles relating to Lord Shaftesbury's proceedings in 1681; to Titus Oates; to the King's (Charles II.) pretended marriage with Mrs. Barlow, the Duke of Monmouth's mother; and to the correspondence of the Lairds with the Pretender in 1725. An original letter from Finch, Earl of Nottingham, written in 1689, states that the whole design of bringing King William over was contrived at Mrs. Potters Indian manufactory, that this was the cause of Queen Anne's spleen to her, and that Lady Sophia Bulkeley was imprisoned in the Bastille for corresponding with Godolphin. The MS. also contains a letter from Arthur Hopton to Lord Dorchester on the first discovery of Mexico, with several transcripts from originals relating to the mayors and militia of London from 1659 to 1672, &c.

29.—A quarto of 649 closely written pages containing curious collections of the time of Charles II., James II., and William III., from the fugitive controversies, religious and political, and the lampoons on the Court of James II., &c.

30.—The original Diary of Henry, Earl of Clarendon, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. A folio of 168 pages entirely in Lord Clarendon's handwriting.

31.—Rules for the Navy and Ordnance. Six vols. folio, and one octavo. The first of these volumes contains the regulations established and confirmed by the Duke of York (afterwards James II.) for the duty of the different officers of His Majesty's Navy, with instructions for the discharge thereof. The regulations of 1683 for the government of the Ordnance were made by the Duke of York and improved by him in 1685, and have since been more or less in use. The remaining volumes relate generally to the regulations of the Navy and Ordnance.

32.—The correspondence of Sir Samuel Luke, while he commanded the garrison at Newport Pagnell in 1644. The letters relate also to other parts of England, describing the marches and countermarches, the successes and failures of both parties. Several are from Cromwell, Fleetwood, Bastwick, Fairfax, Massie, Lenthall, Harrison, Essex, Manchester, Wharton, Algernon Sydney, &c. A folio of 324 written leaves containing transcripts from the originals in a contemporary hand.

33.—The official correspondence of James, Lord Chandos, when ambassador at Constantinople in 1680. Two folio volumes containing copies of his correspondence with the ministers at home, with the Grand Duke of Tuscany, and the different English Consuls of the Mediterranean ports.

34.—Two folio volumes containing the following amongst other original documents:—A warrant for viewing the quarries in the forest of Shotover, and Stowood, at the request of the Dean of Christchurch, signed by the Earl of Holland, Chief Justice in Eyre, 1637; Sir Roger Twysden's letters to Sir Edward Dering, 1639; Sir Jacob Asteley to the Earl of Strafford, 1640; Sundry drafts in the handwriting of Sir Edward Dering; Letters from John Pym to Admiral Pennington, 1641; from the Speaker Lenthall; Miles Corbett; Sir Symonds D'Ewes; Earl of Essex, 1644; Jo. Harrison, 1646; several letters from the Trustees for the National Revenue, dated from Derby House; others from President Bradshaw; Algernon Sidney; Thomas Grey, 1653; Henry Cromwell, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1656; the Spanish Ambassador Cardenas to Cromwell; Charles Fleetwood; General Monk upon the death of Cromwell, 1658, &c. &c.

35.—Original letters addressed to John Anstis Esq., Garter King-at-Arms, between the years 1715 and 1746, by Dr. Tanner, Ed. Lhwyd, Thomas Hearne, Geo. Hickes, Humphrey Wanley, Francis Wise, John Thorpe, Thomas Baker, Richard Fiddes, Edmund Halley, W. Derham, Dan Waterland, Lord Stafford, Tho. Carte, Geo. Holmes, Ralph Thoresby, Brown Willis, Lord Harcourt, White Kennett, D. Rawlinson, &c. &c. Folio.

36.—Original letters addressed to the Earl of Macclesfield, by many of the most distinguished persons in the reigns of Queen Anne and the First and Second Georges, chiefly upon literary, political, and legal subjects. Amongst the writers are the following:—George Hickes, author of the "Thesaurus" &c.; The Duke of Devonshire, 1709; Lord James Cavendish, 1709; Lords Peterborough and Bindon, 1709; the Attorney General Mountague; Mr. Justice Fortescue; Lords Harcourt and Dartmouth, 1713; Lord Marischal, 1714; Lord Halifax; Earl of Oxford, 1714; Chamberlaine, author of the "Present State of England"; the Bishops of Bristol and Norwich, 1714; Dr. Wilkins, editor of the "Concilia," &c.; Bernard Lintott; Ralph Thoresby; Sir Charles Stanhope; Lord Chancellor Cowper; Mr. Des Maizeaux; Dr. Charlett, Master of University College; Lord Orford, 1715; The Duke of Somerset, 1716; Sir Wm. Wyndham, from the Tower, 1715; Lord Lansdowne to Sir William Wyndham, 1715 (a note in the handwriting of Lord Hardwicke states this to be a remarkable letter, and clearly treasonable in its meaning); Sir Richard Steele, 1715; Bishop Gibson about Mr. Whiston, 1721; Lord Ailesbury; Mr. Moore, author of the "Crisis," attributed to Sir Richard Steele; Lord Lexington, 1716; Hoadley, Bishop of Bangor, 1716; Postmaster Craggs 1716; Archbishop of Dublin, 1717; Earl of Sutherland, 1718; Dr. Boulter, Bishop of Bristol; Lord Stanhope, 1719; Dr. Chandler, Bishop of Lichfield; Lords Romney and Willoughby de Broke; Bishop of Gloucester 1720; Zachary Pearce, 1729; Atterbury, Bishop of Rochester, 1722; Lord Mar, 1711; Duke of Ormond; Lord Abingdon; Duchess of Marlborough, 1727, and many others. The volume concludes with twenty-seven letters addressed to Lord Macclesfield, by his son, George Parker, during a tour in Germany and Italy in the years 1719 to 1721. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

zerland from 1260 to 1634. Vol. V., entitled "Anglo Gallica," contains treaties between France, England, and Scotland from 1359 to 1654, including Bassompierre's negotiations in England, with Du Moulin's, and De la Barre's, and Sir Isaac Wake's in France, down to 1634; also several letters between the Queen Mother and Charles I., Urban VIII., and Louis XIII., &c. &c. Vol. VI., entitled "Germanica," contains Negotiations and Treaties with the various Electors and States of Germany from 1630 to 1639, particularly with respect to Gustavus Adolphus's war against the Emperor Ferdinand and the Catholic League.

53.—A vellum folio of 98 written pages containing the sworn engagement of the Doge Priuli in 1558 to govern according to the Laws and Usages which are written in this MS. Transcribed in 1558 by "Presbyter Johannes de Vitalibus."

54.—Memoirs of various Italian States, principally from 1620 to 1639. Folio.

55.—Leicester's Commonwealth; a copy of the work ascribed to Parsons, the Jesuit, in a contemporary hand. 95 pages, folio.

56.—Vox Populi, or News from Spain, 1620. 26 pages quarto.

57.—Characters of Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, and of George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham. A folio of 40 pages, in writing of the reign of Charles II.

58.—The Earl of Essex's Apology. A folio of 29 pages, in writing of the reign of James I.

59.—"Warr with Spayne in the Lowe Countreys, 25th March 1624." A folio of 33 pages in contemporary handwriting.

60.—Passages and occurrences relating to the Crown of Bohemia and the Palatinate. A folio of 80 pages, in writing of the reign of James I.

61.—De Libera Electione Regni Bohæmici, et de jure Imperatoris Ferdinandi ad idem Regnum. A folio of 27 pages in a contemporary handwriting.

62.—The military collections of the three brothers, General Michael Richards, General Jacob Richards, and General John Richards, from 1685 to 1709. Thirty-four folio volumes. Volume I. contains Jacob Richards' "Journal from London to Buda in 1685." II. "Diary of the Siege of Buda, 1686." III. "A Journal from Vienna to Venice." IV. "A Journal from Venice to Lombardy, 1686." V. "A Journal from Venice to the Morea in 1687." VI. "Traité de l'Artillerie," &c. VII. "Fortifications in Flanders, &c." VIII., IX., and X. consist of a work in a French hand, entitled, "De l'Artillerie," &c., with numerous drawings. XI. "Eight works of Euclid," &c., in the handwriting of J. Richards. XII. "A Journal of the Operations in Flanders in 1693-4," with drawings and maps of the campaign. XIII. "A tour from Dublin to the Morea, through Italy, with a military description of the Morea from 1696 to 1699." XIV. contains the original agreement of General Jacob Richards with the Doge and State of Venice, in 1697-8-9 to serve that State, with the consent of King William, in quality of General of Artillery; also accounts of the resources of the fleets and armies of Venice, and topographical descriptions of the strongest ports in the Morea, Dalmatia, and Albania, &c. &c. XV. is entitled, "Letters, anno 1697 to 1700," in General Richards' hand. XVI. "A Journal of a Voyage from Napoli di Romania to Constantinople in 1699." XVII. "A Journal from London to Newfoundland in 1697-99 and 1700," &c. XVIII. is a continuation of the preceding, relating to the fortifications of Newfoundland. XIX. is a third part of the preceding work. XX. contains "General John Richards' letters in 1703 and 4," giving accounts of the war in Spain and Portugal at that period. XXI. "A Diary of the Campaign in Portugal in 1704" &c. &c. XXII. "General John Richards' letters from Portugal on the operations of the army there in 1704," with details of the war of the Succession, after the King of Portugal and the Duke of Savoy had joined the Grand Alliance against Louis XIV. XXIV. relates to "the state of the ordnance in 1705 and 6." XXV. "Miscellaneous papers in the handwriting of General Richards," containing information on the conduct of the war, and the proceedings of the ministers at home, as well as of the Generals in Spain. XXVI. is entitled, "General M. Richard's letters in 1706 from Lisbon, Alicant, Valentia, Tortosa, &c." XXVII. is "General Michael Richards' letters relative to the operations of the army in Catalonia, and at Barcelona in 1706 and 1707," giving minute details of the principal events of that war. XXVIII. is "General John Richards' letters from Alicant, 1707, containing ample details of the military operations in Catalonia, during the period to which they belong." XXIX. is a continuation of the preceding volume. The last letter dated 26 Feb. 1709, mentions the mine of 1200 barrels of powder by which he expected daily to be blown up, and by which he and his force were actually destroyed on the 3rd of March following. XXX. contains General Michael Richards' letters from Barcelona in 1711 on the state of affairs there. XXXI. contains correspondence with the Board of Works, on the fortifications of Hull, Berwick, Carlisle, Gibraltar, Port Mahon, &c. &c., in 1712 and 1714. XXXII., XXXIII., and XXXIV. relate to affairs of the Navy, to the construction of a harbour at Dunkirk, and to transactions between England and France relating to Hudson's Bay in 1698 and 1699.

63.—Papers relating to the Customs from 1672 to 1694; a parcel of papers in a portfolio, collected by Sir Richard Temple whilst he was First Commissioner of Customs; to which are added some papers respecting the islands of Jersey and Guernsey and a quantity of other miscellaneous letters and papers among which a few are original.

64.—"A compleat state of all the branches of the Revenue under the management of his Majesty's Commissioners of Customs, annually from Christmas 1710," and ending with the year 1742. Large folio.

65.—Cole's plan for prosecuting the Seven Years War. Apparently the presentation copy dedicated to George II. Folio.

66.—A variety of documents, dated from 1732 to 1765 respecting the commerce of Great Britain with Russia. A portfolio.

67.—Army and Navy Accounts 1690, 1691. A large folio which belonged to the Essex Collection.

68.—A declaration of the accounts of James Cragg, Esq., Cofferer of the Household to George Prince of Wales, in 1717. A large folio of thirty pages. The Prince's signature is at the head of the first page.

69.—The establishment of the Prince of Wales in 1719. A large folio entitled "Establishment of ordinary Wages, Patent Fees, Allowances, Pensions, and other payments yearly allowed by us unto our officers and servants of our Chambre, Stables, and Household, as also unto the Officers and Servants of our dearest Consort the Princess, &c., &c." The Prince's signature is at the beginning and end.

70.—Letters from Lord Digby to Sir Charles Hanbury Williams in 1755, relating to the political events and intrigues of the day. Quarto.

71.—A quarto of 102 written pages containing transcripts from letters written by Sir Charles Hanbury Williams from St. Petersburg to Lord Holderness and others, full of interesting information and anecdotes of the Court of St. Petersburg.

72.—A quarto containing the characters of Queen Caroline, George I. and II., Sir Robert Walpole, the Lords Bath, Hardwicke, Chatham, Holland, Townsend, Granville, the Duke of Newcastle, Mr. Pelham, and Lord Temple. A single sheet in this volume contains the characters of George I., Queen Caroline, Sir Robert Walpole, and Lord Bath, in the handwriting of Horace Walpole.

73.—A transcript from Lord Macclesfield's Treatise on the Succession to the Crown made by Mr. Astle. Quarto.

74.—A quarto of 44 written pages containing a minute of a cabinet paper by Lord Chancellor Hardwicke, in December 1744, on the position of public affairs; and some other documents connected with the separation between the King of Denmark and Queen Matilda in 1772, the examination of Struensee, &c.

75.—Mr. Hurley's plan for conducting the business of the public, as proposed to the Queen in conference with Her Majesty, 30th October 1710; with some other miscellaneous documents of the same time. Quarto.

76.—Papers relating to a scheme for inducing the English Catholics in general to become by degrees truly and heartily well affected to His Majesty's Government. A quarto of 12 pages, being the original proposal of Mr. Secretary Craggs to the Catholic nobility and gentry of 1719, to grant them the privileges of free-born subjects, if they would but take a "simple oath of allegiance."

77.—"Relation ou Journalier du Siège de Turin," 1706. A folio of 131 written pages, said to have been written by an officer who commanded the King of Sardinia's troops. The autograph of Lord Cobham is on the parchment cover. To the narrative of the siege is annexed "T. Cornwallis's Proposals to the Prince of Denmark, Lord High Admiral of England," to raise 30,000 able seamen for the service of 1706, &c. &c. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

78.—Orders and instructions for the garrison of Ghent in 1712. This MS. belonged to Lord Cobham, who commanded a division of the army at the siege of Lisle, in 1708-9, and was sent express by the Duke of Marlborough to the Queen with an account of the surrender of that important place.

79. A folio, containing the following papers: "Journal de la Campagne de 1702," in the handwriting of General Richards; a paper relating to the war in Flanders and Germany from 1693 to 1706, in the same hand; establishment of the English forces in 1702, also in the same hand; arguments against praying for King William and Queen Mary, as usurpers, &c.; a Journal of the Operations in Flanders in 1692, &c., in General Richards's hand.

80.—The political despatches and correspondence of Mr. Stanhope, during his residence at the Hague, with the Secretaries of State and Ambassadors at the various Courts of Europe. Three folio volumes of letters, in one hand, including the period from 1700 to 1704. They are dated from the Hague, and were addressed by Mr. Stanhope to King William's Secretaries, Vernon, Hedges, Harley, and the ministers and envoys of the various courts. Many of them relate to the peace concluded at Travendhal, between Denmark, Sweden, and Holland, to the exclusion of Russia and Poland, in 1700; and several to the Treaty of the Partition of Spain, secretly signed by England, Holland, and France, and the Grand Alliance signed by the Emperor, the King of England, and the States General, to prevent the union of the two great monarchies of France and Spain. Amongst the letters of 1702 are some relating to the death of King William, the succession of Queen Anne, the war in Germany, and the various interests and movements of the states concerned on both sides. The letter to the Duke of Marlborough from the Hague, July 7, 1702, gives an interesting account of William and Mary's jewels, and the opening of King William's strong box; and another to Lord Jersey, relates to the King's last will and effects. Several others relate to the mercantile intercourse and treaties between England and the Northern Powers, and subsidies for the Confederate States of Germany, as well as the military operations of the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene. The whole correspondence may be considered as a history of all the principal occurrences, rumours, and political intrigues of the four years to which it belongs. The last letter is addressed to Secretary Harley, and is dated from the Hague, January 9, 1704-5.

81.—The political correspondence of Richard Phelps, Esq., Under Secretary of State, during the latter years of the reign of George II. and the commencement of that of George III. Two quarto and four folio volumes. Vol. I. contains original letters, chiefly from Lord Sandwich, Mr. George Pitt, afterwards Lord Rivers, Count Guerchy the French Ambassador, Lyttelton Bishop of Carlisle, Sir Richard Lyttelton, Lord Charlemont, the Dukes of Beaufort, Richmond, and Queensberry, Lords Halifax, Litchfield, Oxford, Hillsborough, Lyttelton, &c. &c., 1759-1766. Vol. II., original letters from Mr. Stuart Mackenzie, 1764-5, and others from the ministers at foreign courts; Sir Horace Mann from Florence, Sir James Grey from Naples, &c., Sir William Gordon from Aix-la-Chapelle and Ratisbon, Sir B. Langlois from Vienna, Lord Northampton from Chambery, Milan, and Venice, Mr. W. Bagot from different parts of Italy, &c. &c. &c. Vol. III., lettered "Vienna and Russia," consists chiefly of drafts of letters, in the handwriting of Mr. Phelps and Lord Sandwich, to the English ministers at those courts in 1763, '64, and '65: also some originals from Lord Stormont, Sir George Macartney, &c. Vol. IV. contains accounts of the political affairs of Sweden, 1763-65, and consists chiefly of Mr. Phelps's drafts of the letters and instructions to the ministers abroad, and of their answers relative to the continental connections of England, particularly with respect to the Northern Powers. Vol. V. consists of Mr. Phelps's drafts, chiefly of his correspondence with the ministers at the Northern Courts, on a great variety of subjects, among which may be mentioned the marriage of the Princess Matilda to the Prince of Denmark, the commerce of England in the Baltic, the influence of France in the Northern Courts, &c. Some relate to secret service money, and allowances privately made by the Court of England to the Northern Powers, for commercial advantages to be derived from them. Some are to Mr. Mitchell at Berlin, relative to the affairs of Prussia in 1764. Vol. VI. is a collection of loose papers relating chiefly to the affairs of Spain from 1725 to 1757. Several letters marked "secret" and "most secret," are from Mr. Stanhope and Mr. Keene to the Duke of Newcastle and Lord Townshend. In his Bibliotheca MS. Stowensis Dr. O'Connor says of this collection that in order to appreciate its value it must be remembered that after the Peace of Aix-la-Chapelle, in 1748, repeated attempts were made by France to improve its family compact with Spain into an offensive alliance against England, in order to dispossess her of her settlements in the East Indies and in North America. This project was proposed by the French Ambassador in 1753, and the Spanish minister D'Ensenada adopted it. But the secret having been discovered to Sir Benjamin Keene by Farinelli, an Italian singer who entirely governed the Queen of Spain, the whole project was defeated by Mr. Pitt. A system of aggression by France ended in a declaration of war on the part of England, in 1756. Mr. Pitt was then appointed Prime Minister, and he succeeded in securing the neutrality of Spain and defeating the power of France in every quarter of the globe.

82.—A folio of 223 written pages, consisting principally of transcripts of Lord Townshend's letters to Sir Robert Walpole, and some from Lord Bolingbroke, the Duke of Newcastle, King George I., the Duke of Bedford, Sir Robert Walpole, &c. from 1723 to 1748, relating to a great variety of interesting and important subjects.

83.—Ten quarto volumes of Hanoverian State Papers. This collection was formed by Robethon, Private Secretary to King William III. and afterwards to George I. whilst Elector of Hanover. On the death of the Princess Sophia in 1714, the Elector deposited his mother's papers in Robethon's custody, and they were subsequently purchased at the sale of the effects of Colonel Robethon, the secretary's eldest son, by Mr. Duane, after whose death they descended to his relation, Mr. Bray, of Wimbledon, from whose collection they passed to Mr. Astle's, and thence to Stowe. Vol. I., entitled "Princes," contains letters from the French King, King William, and others; also the correspondence between the Elector of Hanover, the Princess Sophia, and the several Princes and Public Ministers on the Continent, and of all the chief persons who composed the Court of Queen Anne. Among the original letters will be found many from the Duke of Marlborough, from the Lords Sunderland, Wharton, Newcastle, Oxford, Portland, Scarborough, Halifax, Rivers, the Duke of Buckingham, Shrewsbury, Leeds, &c. &c. &c., and the dates are from 1702 to 1711. Vol. II. is entitled "Strafford." The letters it contains are originals, with the exception of those from the Princess Sophia, which are drafts in the handwriting of Robethon. In one of Lord Strafford's letters he describes a visit to Magliabechi at Florence. The other writers in this volume are the Lords Halifax, Carlisle, Oxford, Ormond, Anglesey, Stamford, Polwarth, Rochester, Sir Thomas Hanmer, Dr. Chamberlayne, the Duke of Buckingham, &c. &c. and the dates are from the year 1706 to 1714. Vol. III. entitled "Stair," contains the correspondence of Lord Stair with the Princess Sophia, Robethon, the Abbé Dubois, Bernstorff, &c., in which the particulars of many curious state intrigues between the years 1714 and 1719 are described. The letters are chiefly original. Vols. IV., V. and VI. are entitled "Miscell. d'Etat," and contain a great variety of letters from persons of high rank at home and abroad from 1692 to 1718. The original letters in these volumes are from the Pensionary Heinsius, Addison, Craggs, Stanhope, Halifax, Albemarle, Pulteney, Dormer, Bothmar, Portland, Anglesey, Oxford, Strafford, Ormond, Prince Eugene, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, Mr. Cardonnel, Matthew Prior, Lords Stair, Sunderland, Bolingbroke, &c. &c. Vol. VII. is entitled "Schutz Fils," and contains the younger Schutz's correspondence with Robethon, Bernstorff, Bothmar, Townshend, and others in 1713 and 1714. They relate chiefly to the design of bringing the Electoral Prince into England before the Queen's death, under the title of Duke of Cambridge, to counteract the intrigue of Tories and Jacobites. Vols. VIII. and IX. are marked "Bothmar," and contains his correspondence with Robethon and others, from 1712 to 1717. The principal writers are the Duke of Marlborough, Ridpath, Schrader, Lord Lovat, Ker of Kersland, Lord Rothes, Count Zinzendorf, Horatio Lord Walpole, Lord Cadogan, Duke of Roxburgh, and others. Vol. X., entitled "Rebelles," contains original letters and translations of letters to and from the various Jacobites in France, England, and Scotland, during the years 1717, 1718, and 1719. Some of these are written in fictitious names and are stated to have been apparently opened at the post office. In No. 183 of this volume there is an explanation of the Jacobite cypher.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

84.—Hanoverian State Papers. 2 vols. Folio. To the first vol. the following note in Mr. Astle's handwriting, is prefixed. "These volumes are a valuable appendage to the ten volumes of Robethon's correspondence, and although several of them [the letters] are transcribed from that collection, many others have been added from the State Papers in the Earl of Hardwicke's Library and others, exclusive of the original letters of several of the principal persons who flourished in England in the reign of Queen Anne. The original letters and papers in the second volume, relative to the Earl of Clarendon's negotiations at the Court of Hanover in 1714, are very interesting and curious. They were purchased by me at the sale of the Earl of Clarendon's papers by Baker and Leigh in 1785. Thomas Astle." The original letters in these volumes are from Addison, Bolingbroke, Duke of Marlborough, Lords Orrery, Oxford, Strafford, Carnarvon, Duke of Somerset, Duke of Wharton, Duke of Hamilton, &c. In the second volume is the original Letter Patent under the sign-manual of Queen Anne, appointing Lord Clarendon Envoy Extraordinary to Hanover in 1714 and a letter from Secretary Bromley to Lord Clarendon, by the Queen's order, desiring him to encourage a confidential correspondence between the two courts, and to prevent the Duke of Cambridge from coming to sit in the House of Peers.

ENGLISH HISTORICAL REPERTORIES, CROWN JEWELS, QUEEN ELIZABETH'S WARDROBE AND JEWELS, WARDROBE BOOK OF EDWARD II., &c.

- 1.—England's Epinomis, by Selden. Folio.
- 2.—Notes and illustrations for a history of England, in the handwriting of Morant, author of the "History of Essex." 2 parts. Folio.
- 3.—Chronologia Sacra et Profana. A folio of 60 written pages, in writing of the reign of Charles I. The author was John Reynolds, Fellow of Eton College.
- 4.—State of Europe in 1594. A folio of 1,101 pages, in one hand of the reign of James I., described on first page as "A large and excellent Discourse of the State of Christiandome, written by an unknown author about the year of our Lord 1594, and the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, conteyning many Secret Passages and Hidden Mysteries of the tymes, both past and present; with much variety of good matter, both historical and political."
- 5.—"Hearding's Church Annals." An imperial folio of 192 pages, in writing of the reign of Charles I., described on the first leaf as "Annals of Church Affairs happening under the reign of King Henry II., of England, and of the Contemporary Outlandish Princes: together with other famous occurrents of that time, delivered in the words of the ancient authors themselves who writt the passages; wherein (among other things) will appeare what courses were continued against the Ghospellers or Protestants of those days, who were then the visible professors of that religion which is now called Protestant; and also what was the generall and most received Doctrine of the Church of Rome at that time. Collected by T. Hearingd, Batchelour in Divinity."
- 6.—"De Sæculis xiv. et xv. de Romanis Pontificibus de Regibus Angliæ ab Edwardi II. ad Henricum VIII." A folio of 426 written pages, the writing of the reign of Charles I. On the inside cover, in Mr. Anstis' handwriting, are the words: Olim e MSS. Lumley, hodie e MSS. Johannis Anstis Gart, No. 77."
- 7.—"Homo Verax." A monthly calendar, written in 1420, and for that year. A curious specimen of the form and style of the ancient Calendars in use before the invention of printing. Octavo, of twelve written pages, parchment.
- 8.—Annales Oxonienses. A quarto of 34 written pages, beginning with 1066 and coming down to 1310.
- 9.—Epiome of the Civil Wars of England. A folio of 125 written pages, the writing and author (a Royalist) of the reign of Charles II.
- 10.—De Pace Franciæ et Angliæ. A folio of 156 written leaves, containing historical information from the reign of Edward I. to that of Richard II., in Latin and French, and with the Royal arms of England stamped on each side of the cover. Written about the reign of Elizabeth.
- 11.—"Depositio Regis Ricardi II. ab Henrico Perjuro illo Lancastriæ Duce." A quarto of 4 vellum pages, apparently coeval with Richard II.
- 12.—A folio of 130 pages, containing curious and valuable original documents relating to the Crown Jewels at various periods of English history from the time of Edward the Confessor to Queen Anne.

13.—A quarto of 164 pages, containing interesting particulars on the subject of the Crown Jewels, &c., from the reign of Henry VIII. to that of Queen Anne.

14.—"Cronica de Regibus Angliæ." A small vellum quarto of 142 written pages. The title of the work is in red ink in the handwriting of the transcriber: "Hic incipit Chronica bona et compendiosa de Regibus Angliæ, et de aliquibus actibus famosus, temporibus eorum peractis, a tempore Noe usque ad tempus Henrici Quarti post Conquestum Angliæ et de Sanctis interim in Angliæ, eorum temporibus existentibus." The writing is of the 15th century.

15.—"The original inventories of the Church Goods, Plate, Jewels, &c. in the Hundreds of Utlesford, Froshwell, and in the half Hundred of Clavering, in the County of Essex, taken by Commissioners appointed by King Edward VI., in the 5th year of his reign." A folio, of 42 written leaves, all in one hand. Each leaf is subscribed by the Commissioners. The articles are chiefly gold and silver chalices, crosses, pateras, crucifixes, monstrances, embroidered vestments, bells, candlesticks, &c. The value of each article is set down according to the estimation of the Commissioners.

16.—An original inventory of Books, Copes, Vestments, Altar Cloths, Carpets, Curtains, Hangings, Mitres Croziers, Silver Plate, and gilded Chalices, Basons, &c. &c., formerly belonging to St. Peter's Church in the city of Norwich and there used before the Reformation. A folio of 88 written pages in writing of the reign of Henry VIII.

17.—Original inventory of Queen Elizabeth's wardrobe. An imperial folio of 103 written leaves, entitled "The Booke of all fine Robes, Apparell, Silkes, Jewels, and other Stuffle in charge of Sir Thomas Gorg, Knight, Gentleman of Her Majestie's Garderobe of Robes." From an original attestation at the end of the volume it appears that all the jewels, &c. therein mentioned were, by Sir Thomas Gorges, Kt. "delivered into the charge of Mrs. Mary Ratcliffe, 28th May 1603, two months and nine days after King James's accession, in the presence of Edward Carye, Thomas Knyvett, Francis Goston." This book formerly belonged to Sir Simcon Stewart, and was sold by auction at his seat in Hampshire in May 1779, to Sir John Cullum, Bart.; afterwards to Mr. Craven Orde, who placed it, in 1790, in the Library of Mr. Astle, from which is passed with the Stowe collection. Sir Symonds D'Ewes thus alludes in his diary to the treasures of Queen Elizabeth's wardrobe:—"A.D. 1620, Jan. 21, "King James consumed that mighty mass of treasure left by Queen Elizabeth. without bettering any man except a few beggarly Scots, and gave away the inestimable wardrobe soe charilye preserved by all his ancestors, to one onely Scot, namely, the Earle of Dunbarr, who breaking those venerable robes of ancient Kings, and wickedly transporting them into the Lowe Countryes, sold them for above 100,000l."

18.—Original inventory of Queen Elizabeth's Jewels, Plate, &c. A folio of 154 leaves, dated 14th March, 16 Eliz., and containing an authenticated account, with very minute details, of the jewels and plate which were committed to the care and custody of John Asteley, Esq. The MS. is signed on each page with the autographs of Lord Treasurer Burleigh, Sir Ralph Sadler, and Sir Walter Mildmay.

19.—Original inventory of Queen Elizabeth's Jewels and Plate. An imperial folio of 163 written leaves, each page signed with the autograph of Sir Edward Carye. The MS. is thus described in the preface:—"This booke, made the 14th daye of Marche in the 16th yeare of the reign of our Sovereign Lady, Elizabeth, &c. &c., doth particularly contain all such parcelles of the Quenis Maj^{ties} Jewells, Plate, and other Stuffle, as remaine the saide daye and yere in the custodie and charge of John Asteley Esq^r, Master and Treasurer of her Highnes Jewels and Plate to her Maj^{ties} use, &c. &c."

20.—The original account of Roger de Waltham, Keeper of the Great Wardrobe, between the 1st of May 15th of Edward II., A.D. 1322, and the 19th of October anno. 17th of the said King. A vellum folio of 300 pages, bearing on the 6th leaf the following memorandum in Roger de Waltham's hand:—"Hunc librum liberavit ad gratiam hic Rogerus de Waltham, nuper custos Garderobe Regis Edwardi, filii regis Ed. per manus suas, proprias xxv. die Maii, anno tertio regis Edwardi tertii a Conquestu." It contains accounts of money received out of the Exchequer for fines for false weights imposed by the Clerk of the Market; for plate sold or exchanged; for the sale of vestments and ward-

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

robe stores; for provisions sold by the sheriffs and other officers. The accounts of money paid include the expenses of the King's household; the alms of the King; wages to servants, workmen, &c.; summer and winter shoes for the King's servants; presents made by the King; expenses for falconers and huntsmen; wages of slingers, lancemen, and archers; expenses of messengers employed by the King; for plate, jewels, gold and silver cloth, &c.

OLD ENGLISH CHRONICLES, ETC., ENGLISH HISTORICAL REPERTORIES.

1.—Calendarium Generale Rotulorum in Turre Londinensi. A folio containing rolls, patents, and charters of the Kings of England from Edward I. Some papers relating to the same subject from Mr. Astle's collections have been added, and a few of them are in the handwriting of William Lambard, who was keeper of the Records in 1601.

2.—Manuscripta Varia Vaticana. A volume of miscellaneous collections from manuscripts in the Vatican. Quarto.

3.—A chronological catalogue of writings that have appeared on the affairs of England from 1637 to 1735. A quarto of 91 pages, in the handwriting of Morant, author of the History of Essex.

4.—A calendar to the Patent and Close Rolls, and to other records, with a variety of miscellaneous collections. A folio of 222 written pages, in handwriting of the reigns of James I. and Charles II.

5.—An index to eight MSS. in the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford.

6.—Wanley's Catalogue of English Historians, printed and not printed.

7.—A catalogue of manuscripts, chiefly in writing of the reign of George III. The volume consists of catalogues of several collections of MSS., for example, those of Madox, West, Sir Julius Cæsar, Sir Matthew Hale, Prynne, &c. There is also some curious information upon literary subjects.

8.—The original catalogue of the Essex collection of manuscripts, signed by Jeffry, the bookseller, and Mr. Douce, the antiquary. The collection was purchased from the Essex family by the Marquess of Buckingham in 1808.

9.—A Kalendar of all the public and private Acts in the Parliament Office at Westminster since the 12th of Henry VII. A folio of 70 written leaves, in writing of the reign of George II.

10.—A general account of the State Papers, preserved in the State Paper Office. The latest documents mentioned are of the year 1692.

11.—A folio of 118 pages written in the reign of George III., containing much interesting instruction relating to the contents of the State Paper Office.

12.—A catalogue of authors from 1598 to 1694, in one hand, of the reign of George II.

13.—Gulielmi de Novoburgo Chronicon. On vellum, A folio of 174 written leaves, which formerly belonged to Sir R. Twysden, as appears from his name in his own hand on the inside cover. There is another MS. in the Cotton Library, but this is the more ancient, and is coeval with its author who died 1208. It seems also probable, if not actually certain, that it is the original presented by the author to the monastery about the year 1189. Fourteen leaves have been supplied by a modern transcript.

14.—An alphabetical list of authors and remarkable persons, and the time when they flourished. Mr. Astle states that he bought this MS. at the sale of Dr. Farmer's library in 1798. The handwriting is supposed to be that of Mr. Thomas Coxeter, of Trinity College, Oxford, 1694.

15.—Gualteri Hemingfordensis, Canonici Gisleburnensis, Historia Regum Anglorum a Gulielmo I. usque ad annum 6 Edwardi 2^{di}, viz., ab ann. 1066 ad ann. 1312. On vellum. A folio of 180 leaves, formerly the property of Sir Henry Spelman, whose autograph it bears.

16.—Gervasius Tilburiensis de Necessariis Scaccarii Observationibus. A folio of 86 pages. After the dedication to Henry II. comes Bale's account of Gervas, and then a short address or dedication to Sir Thomas Bromley by William Lambard, in whose hand the whole of this MS. was written A.D. 1572.

17.—Dialogus de Scaccario, inter Magistrum et Discipulum, Authore Gervasio Tilburiense, et creditur. A folio of 100 pages. Sir R. Twysden states in a marginal note that he had his copy transcribed, and that he collated it in 1636, with an ancient MS. of the best note, on parchment, which was the property of Sir Henry Spelman. At folio 91 there is another work entitled "Alexandri Archidiaconi Salop. de Scaccario;" and Sir R. Twysden states, at folio 100, that he collated it with the original in the Exchequer, in September 1644.

18.—Chronicon Ramsayense. On vellum. A folio of 126 pages in writing of the fifteenth century. This work has been published by Gale under the title "Liber de Benefactoribus Ecclesiæ Ramesiensis, ex codice MS. qui servatur in Regio Scaccario Westmonasterii, a parte Rememoratoris, anno 1599." Gale describes his MS. as imperfect. Lord Ashburnham's is more complete. It consists of 109 chapters, with a continuation to the reign of Henry II. The volume contains also Dialogus de Scaccario inter Magistrum et Discipulum, authore Gervasio Tilburiense.

19.—Bedæ Historia Ecclesiastica Gentis Anglorum. On vellum. A quarto of 296 pages, in writing of the end of the 12th or beginning of the 13th century. At the end of the Historia is the Epilogus de transitu Bedæ, in the same hand. This is followed by a short Life of St. John of Beverley, entitled "De S. Johanne Episcopo." The next article is the Life of S. Edward the Confessor, by Ailred, Abbot of Rieval, and at the end is the commencement of another work, "Incipit Prologus Magistri Hugonis ad Walterum Pontificem de Virginitate S. Marie."

20.—Two folio volumes, lettered "Index Virorum—Augmentation Office." Both are in the handwriting of Dr. Ducarel, and are entitled "A Draught of an Index Virorum to several of the Chartæ Antiquæ in the Augmentation Office" by Dr. Ducarel, 1764 and 1765.

21.—Sir Francis Walsingham's Table Book, or Index of State Papers. An octavo of 112 written leaves, containing "An Index of all the written books in the chests, or abroad" relating to treaties with France and Flanders, Scotland, and Ireland, during the reign of Elizabeth. Also a repertory of Walsingham's papers at home and abroad, relating to all his transactions with the above and other countries. The writing is probably that of his secretary, Thomas Lake, afterwards knighted by James I., and appointed one of his Secretaries of State.

22.—"A Briefe Declaration of the Number of all Promotions Ecclesiasticall of whatsoever name or title, at the Taxation of First Fruits and Tenthes; with the yearlie value of eache Bishopricke, Deanery, and Arch-deaconrie, and the Tenthe of the Clergie in every Diocese." A folio of 19 written pages, in one hand, of the reign of Charles I. down to the last page, where it is stated in a modern hand that there were "3,845 livings or appropriate parsonages taken from the church, which is more by 1,126 than half of them that remain, and within 897 as many as them all. For the churches not appropriate are but 5,439 through all England and Wales; so that the parishes of the churches appropriate contain near about one-half of the kingdom, which is more, if Hierome in his Epistle to Dardanus, (as I take it) deceive me not, than twice so much as all the land of Judæa, though we reckon the kingdom of Isreal into it, but many times more than the kingdom of Judæa, which contained but the two tribes that stuck to God."

23.—"Catalogus Chartarum Miscellanearum Tredecim Voluminibus." A folio of 60 written pages, in a modern hand. The contents of 13 volumes of manuscripts are indexed in this volume, without any account of when those manuscripts were written, or where they are preserved, or to what collection they belonged. They relate chiefly to the ecclesiastical history of England from the Conquest down to the reign of James II.

24.—An original schedule of the goods and chattels at Manchester House, as ascertained by indenture of sale, bearing date 5th April, 24 Charles II. A long roll of parchment. The list begins with the pictures, about 150 in number, then follows a great variety of furniture, and a schedule of debts due to the Hon. George Montague at the time of his death.

25.—An English Chronicle in Old English. On vellum. A quarto of 189 written leaves, divided into 229 chapters. The writing, spelling, and ornaments are of the reign of Henry VI.

25a.—A copy of the foregoing MS. A folio of 195 written leaves, with eight leaves of church music at the end. The whole in one hand of the reign of Henry VI.

26.—Another copy in a different hand but of the same reign. A quarto of 134 written leaves. On vellum.

27.—Another copy, but differing in the arrangement and division of chapters. A quarto of 82 written leaves.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

The autograph of "Thomas Bromley, 1576" is several times repeated on an antiphonarium, on which the church musical notes at the beginning and end are older than the chronicle, and are probably of the thirteenth century.

28.—A folio of 184 written pages, in one hand of the thirteenth century, containing: Historia Jerosolimitana; Historia Danica; Daretis Historia Trojana; Apolonii Historia; Alexandri Magni Historia; Historia Britannica. The last is Geoffrey of Monmouth's work, beginning with the prologue "Cum mecum multa et de multis."

29.—"Ancienne Chronique." On vellum. A folio of 830 pages, in French, and in handwriting of the 14th century, containing a collection of historical romances relating to the Greek and Trojan wars.

30.—Archives des Comptes de Flandres de l'an 706, a l'an 1270. 2 vols. folio; the first of 683 pages, and the second of 634. They were purchased by Mr. Astle in 1793, at the sale of M. de Calonne, the French Minister. The work is entitled "Inventaire Chronologique et détaillé des toutes les chartes qui se trouve dans les archives des Comptes de Flandres, déposées dans l'ancienne Chambre des Comptes du Roi à Lille." The work was compiled by M. Godefroy, Keeper of the Records at Lille, chiefly at the expense of Louis XVI.

31.—"Gesta Britannica præsertim Anglorum, adjectis aliquot observationibus, maxime in iis quæ ad ecclesiam spectant, a temporibus retroactis ad An. D. 1648." A folio of 719 pages in Latin. The history is divided into ten books all in one hand. At the end of the index, some leaves of which are torn away, the author writes, "Ffinis Deo Gratias, April 28, 1664, anno ætatis 70."

32.—"Gesta Stephani Regis, incerto Auctore, apud Histor. Norm., fol. 927." A folio of 484 written pages, all in one hand of the reign of Charles I., ending in 1154.

33.—Johannis Regis Vita. A folio of 658 pages. It begins A.D. 1191 and comes down to A.D. 1216, the year of King John's death.

34.—Polychronicon Ranulphi Hygdeni. On vellum. A folio of 240 written leaves, the writing of the year 1397. The work terminates with the reign of Edward III. A.D. 1377. An account of John Wickliff occupies the last page, and in the preceding one there is an account of Alice Perers. At the head of the first page is the autograph of Ethelbert Burdett in writing of the reign of Henry VII.

35.—Higdeni Polychronicon. On vellum. A contemporary translation into English. A folio of 442 pages.

36.—Historia Angliæ maxime in iis que ad Ecclesiam spectant. A folio of 357 pages, formerly the property Antis.

37.—Scutum Bedæ et Antiqua alia Miscellanea. On vellum. A folio of 172 written leaves, in writing of the 13th or 14th century. It formerly belonged to Sir Henry Spelman and Thomas Martin whose autographs it bears.

MISCELLANEOUS MANUSCRIPTS.

1.—A list of the Royal Navy in July, 1790, with the principal dimensions of the ships and minute details of ship building estimates, valuation of materials, workmanship, &c. &c. Quarto.

2.—Signal book for ships of war, under the authority of the Lords of the Admiralty, in 1719. Signed by three Commissioners. Quarto.

3.—Establishment of Commissioners and officers of His Majesty's Revenue in the Ports of Ireland in 1788. Quarto.

4.—Abstract of the total number of ships which have been registered in the British dominions in pursuance of the British Act of the 26th, and the Irish Act of the 27th of His Majesty's reign. September 30, 1790. Quarto.

5.—The method of building, rigging, apparelling, and furnishing His Majesty's ships of war, &c. &c. An octavo of 116 pages, which appears to have been a presentation to Lord Godolphin, to whom it is dedicated by the author, "Edward Battine, Portsmouth, 12 April 1688." At the end is a tabular account of the ships of war completely built, rigged, and stored for six months in 1732.

6.—Returns of His Majesty's forces in 1762 and 1764. List of the Royal Navy in 1756 and 1762, &c. &c. Six duodecimo vols.

7.—Dialectica Universa: Tradita a Reverendo Domine Vigore de Briois, Religioso Monasterii S^{ti} Vedasti Ordinis S^{ti} Benedicti, Artium Doctore ac Dialecticæ Professore. Recepta vero a Richardo Moore, Anglo, 1732. Quarto.

8.—Abrégé du Traité du Docteur George Rye contre les Non-Jurans Non-Conformistes. A quarto of 145 written pages in a hand of the reign of George II.

9.—"Ane accompt of what passed betwixt the Lords of Justitiarie and Mr. John Dick when his Sentence was re-intimat to him the next day after he was apprehended, which was upon the 4th daye of March, 1684." A Quarto of 16 pages.

10.—Common place books, partly in the handwriting of Mr. Vernon, of Trin. Coll. Cambridge, in 1714; partly of Mr. Astle, Mr. Morant, and others. A French translation of Sir Wm. Temple's letters. 3 vols. Quarto.

11.—Three quarto volumes containing: "Formula Litterarum, collected out of the most quaint authors, in diverse languages;" a Vindication of the Revolution, or a Dialogue between a Jacobite Tory, and a Williamite Tory, &c.; Account of writings belonging to the Charlton Estate, in Somersetshire; Letters from Constantinople, Leghorn, &c. &c., 1639 to 1647, &c.

12.—Four quarto volumes containing: an article concerning the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, and the affairs of the Catholics and Jacobites with respect to James II.; a Narrative of Transactions between Mr. and Mrs. Lowfield, &c. 1761; and Observations and Overtures for a Sea Fight upon our own Coasts, addressed to George Villiers, Marquess of Buckingham, in 1618.

13.—"The coppie of a lre written by a M^r. of Arts in Cambridge to his Friend in London concerning some Conference passed of late betweene twoe Wo^{men} and grave men about y^e prt state and some of y^e proceedings of the Earle of Leicester, and his friends in England." Written throughout in one hand, and dated at the end, anno 1594.

14.—"Nouveau dialogue des Morts, entre M. de Fenelon, et M. de Bossuet, dédié à la Princesse de Galles, par le Sieur de Nesle, Ingenieur de Lunebourg, 1724." Octavo.

15.—"The Vanitie and Folly of Misplact Love, a Briefe Reflection on Women." Octavo. A collection of poems, all on the same subject and written in one hand, about the year 1698.

16.—A collection of small Political Caricatures of the reign of George II., with manuscript explanations, pasted in a small quarto volume.

17.—Six quarto volumes containing: "Matthiæ de Lobel, M. D., Stirpium Illustrationes"; Political Maxims from divers authors; Letters respecting a marriage, 1725; Letter to a young gentleman by a Tutor of Oxford; Apology of the Church of England, by Bp. Jewell; Law Common Place Book, &c.

18.—Six quarto volumes containing: A Common Place Book in the handwriting of Mr. Astle, with curious particulars of the death of Marshall Keith in 1758, &c. &c.; Account of a Review at Hanover by George II., with drawings by Richard Manning; Anatomiz Compendium; Forms of Legal Documents; Diary of the proceedings of General Oglethorpe in Georgia, about the year 1741; Laws and Privileges of the island of Jersey, &c.

19.—Six duodecimo volumes, containing: Remembrances for Order and Decency to be kept in the Upper House of Parliament &c.; Bishop Bedle, his Grounds for the Lawfulness of Usury, proved from Scripture and reason; Abstracts of Exports and Imports, 1697-98; A catalogue of Manors now vested in the crown, and how they became so; Abstract of British West Indian Trade and Navigation from 1773 to 1805, by Sir Wm. Young; The Devil's commission to the Bishop of London.

20.—Eight duodecimo volumes containing: Notes upon Mr. John Hunter's Arrangement of the Animal Kingdom; Remembrances for Order and Decency to be kept in the Upper House of Parliament; Common Place Books on various subjects; Tractatus de praxi Romana; Curia &c.; A List of Statutes expired, repealed and altered before 1632, 7th of Charles I.

21.—An account of the prices of grain in the market of Oxford, and the assize of bread as fixed by the Vice-Chancellors, with their original signatures, from the 26th of September, 1663, to the 3rd of March 1668. Duodecimo.

22.—"The Goulden Arte, or the Jewell House of Gemes, wherein is shewed the generations of Goulde and Silver in there Mines, and the reducing them to perfecte Mettles, with their value in quoyne and estimatione for other uses: the generatione and fishinge for pearle, the knowledge of all pretious stonnes, &c. by William Hethe, Clarke of His Majestie's Store for the Navy at Portsmouth." A folio of 206 written

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

pages of James the First's reign, and apparently the original, written in 1603.

23.—The Forgeries of William Henry Ireland, with his original Confessions. These are sixteen tracts printed in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I., containing the manuscript notes which Ireland endeavoured to impose upon the literary world as the handwriting of Shakspeare, Lord Southampton, &c. &c. In the title page to the volume of the "Confessions," they are said to "contain the several autographs, &c. produced by me, William Henry Ireland, during my fabrication of the manuscript which I wrote and attributed to William Shakspeare."

24.—"A Treatise of Angels and Devils in the Arragonian Dialect," by John Boulæse. The MS. thus entitled on the back of the volume is written in Latin, and appears to have been the author's own copy, as it is signed by him on the last page. It is in writing of the sixteenth century. Folio.

25.—Tratado de Medicina. This MS. Treatise on Medicine has been copied from a printed edition by the Guarani Indians of the ancient Paraguay Missions. It is a curious specimen of accuracy in fac-simile transcribing. A quarto of 123 written pages.

26.—A curious specimen of French penmanship, consisting of thirty-three leaves, containing portraits of the time of Louis XIV., executed with so much freedom of hand that they appear to be the result of one uninterrupted flourish of the writer's pen. To each portrait is annexed a song with music, and at the end is a piece of music in the handwriting of J. Jacques Rousseau, composed by him at Paris in 1776. Quarto, vellum.

27.—Two folio volumes, the first entitled "The Life of Knight Elis," and the second "The Life of Prince Partalope and Marmoria, a Love Story," both copied from MSS. in the Library of the University of Copenhagen. They are in the Icelandic language, and, together with a fragment at the end of the second volume, also written in that language about the beginning of the fourteenth century, and entitled "Anecdotes of several Archbishops of Canterbury," were presented to Mr. Astle by Mr. Thorkelin in 1787.

28.—Petrarca, Sonetti e Trionfi. Quarto, vellum. This MS. is coeval with the poet, and might have been his own last copy, for he died in 1374, and the writing appears to be of about that time. On the reverse of the last leaf his memorandum on the death of Laura, written in the same hand as the text, differs in one date from the same memorandum inserted in his transcript of Virgil, in the Ambrosian Library. The date here given is, "Mense Maio die xxviii. mane;" whereas that copied by Tiraboschi from the Virgil runs, "Mense Maio, die xix., mane." The first thirteen pages of the present MS. contain an alphabetical index to the sonnets. The sonnets end at page 294, where they are followed by the "Triumfi Petrarca," in sixty-seven additional pages.

29.—Gower's Confession Amantis. A folio of 348 written pages on vellum, bound in old oak covers. The first and last leaves are missing. The writing is nearly coeval with the author.

30.—"Emblemes et Devises d'Amour." A small quarto, vellum, consisting of twelve miniature paintings, emblematical of the author's love and attachment to the lady for whom the MS. was composed in the sixteenth century. To the paintings is prefixed a preface of eight pages entirely in gold, on a dark red ground, and the reverses of the paintings are illustrated by explanations. At the end of the book is a portrait of the author, Pierre Sala, on the reverse of which are the following lines:—"Cet de vray le portret de Pierre Sala, Mestre Hotelle chez le Roy, avec des enigmes qu'il avoit fet a sa metresse qui estoit grand honete a Madame de Reassis, la quelle est sortie de la mayson de Guillaen, en Quercy." The MS. is bound in olive velvet, and enclosed in an ornamental case of stamped leather. It formerly belonged to Marshal Junot.

31.—Johannis de Janua Catholicon. A MS. of the thirteenth century, probably coeval with the author, and purchased at the Pinelli sale. Some of the pages have ornamented margins and initial letters. On the first page is a miniature portrait of the author kneeling before the Virgin and Infant Saviour. Folio, vellum.

32.—The Household Book of Roger, Lord North, from January 1, 1575, to December 20, 1589. Two vols., folio. The accounts are all in the handwriting of Lord North, and are frequently attested by his signature. In 1579 he was honoured with a visit from Queen Elizabeth, and the expenses of that entertainment are given, with a variety of curious details illustrative of the domestic history and manners of the period.

33.—Roman de la Rose. A vellum folio of 308 written pages, perfect and of the fifteenth century.

34.—Processus Justificationis Johanne d'Arc. This is the original account of the trial, signed on each page by the notaries, and attested by them at the end of the volume. It is dated July 7, 1456. Large folio, vellum.

35.—Miscellaneous papers in a portfolio.

36.—A parcel of miscellaneous autographs and papers, Treasury Warrants, &c. &c.

37.—Official correspondence relating to the English Colonies, being principally transcribed from the letters of the several Governors and others, addressed to the Government at home in the year 1765.

38.—Recueil Historique, tiré de plusieurs Auteurs, avec les noms de la plus part. A quarto, containing a great variety of entertaining subjects, written towards the end of the reign of Louis XIV.

39.—Idæa Orationum desumptæ ex Disquisitionum Politicarum Materiis. A quarto of 420 written pages, all in one hand of the reign of Charles II. The first article is the form of a proposal of marriage by which the ambassador of one king proposes for the daughter of another on behalf of his master. All the formularies are in Latin, and are valuable monuments of the style of diplomacy in the old courts of Europe.

40.—A folio containing transcripts from original letters and documents of considerable historical interest and variety, from collections in the libraries at Cambridge with references to the several depositories.

41.—A Common Place Book, containing extracts chiefly from Cæsar, Horace, Ovid and Juvenal, in writing of the beginning of the last century. Folio.

42.—Proceedings in Parliament, 1675.

43.—Parliamentary Judicature.

44.—Litigation, an original comedy in five acts.

45.—Historical View of the Orange Association in Ireland.

46.—Geographical description of Cuma.

47.—Cabinet considerations.

48.—Present state of the Universities.

49.—Queen Elizabeth's Charter to Winchester.

50.—Account of places in Lord Steward's gift.

51.—A Common Place Book.

52.—Report concerning the forfeited Estates in Scotland.

53.—Lord Stafford's last speech on the scaffold.

54.—A folio containing: An Index to Baker's MS. Collections at Cambridge; a paper touching the death of Peter Hawkins, wounded in Bramfield Park, by Archbishop Abbot, 1621; Modus Tenendi Parliamentum, &c.; Statuta Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Eliensis, 1666, and a variety of other extracts.

55.—State of the Revenue of Excise, &c. from 1662 to 1729. Folio.

56.—The accounts of James Craggs, Esq^r, Cofferer to King George I. from 1714 to 1717. The autograph of the King appears on the first page as "George P." (the date being shortly before the death of Queen Anne) and at the end are the attestations of the auditors, &c. Large folio.

57.—The gross and net produce of all the branches of the revenue under the management of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs in England, together with the adjustment of the net produce with the payments into the Exchequer annually from Christmas 1710 to Christmas 1746. A large atlas folio.

58.—A folio containing a collection of medical receipts in writing of the reign of Queen Anne.

59.—"An Alphabetical Book or Index, whereby several remarkable passages in Rapin's History of England to the Revolution may be easily turned to, continued to the end of King William's reign from another History." It is dedicated to the Duke of Cumberland, 1st March 1733, by Charles Gibbon, and is all in his handwriting. Small quarto.

60.—Tractatus ad quatuor libros Artis; De Cælo seu de Mundo. A quarto containing the Course of Astronomy taught by the Jesuits, and copied by Thomas Barker, "in Collegio Regali Claromontano, anno 1666."

61.—Medical and Culinary receipts, chiefly in the handwriting of Sir Peter Temple, about the year 1656. Two vols. folio, and one duodecimo.

62.—A quarto of 52 written pages of the reign of Henry VII., containing, amongst other miscellanies. "The Counynge of Kerving," or the Science of Carving; instructions for preserving wines &c.; rules for preserving health; "Treatyse of good Governance;" The Boke of Keping Horses, &c. &c. Some leaves are missing at the end.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

63.—“Commentaire, ou Diurnal de l'Expedition de Thunes, faite par le tres Auguste et tres Victorieux Empereur Charles Cinquieme.” A quarto of 200 pages written during the expedition in 1535 by an eye-witness.

64.—“A Memorye, or calling to accounte of those preceptts and Dutyes which belonge to the Captains, &c. &c., of the Trayned Bandes, &c.” by Gervase Markham. A duodecimo apparently in the author's own hand.

65.—A quarto of 73 leaves in one hand of the reign of Henry VIII. It appears to consist chiefly of works on Alchymy. On the first page is the autograph of the celebrated Dr. Dee.

PARLIAMENTARY RECORDS.

1.—A folio manuscript of 562 written pages, in one hand of the reign of Charles II., containing translations of the Statutes from the first of Richard II. to the ninth of Henry V. into English, with the orders and the forms and usages of Parliament.

2.—The Historical and Antiquarian Collections of John Anstis, Garter King-at-Arms, in 16 volumes, quarto and folio, of upwards of eight thousand pages, with few exceptions in the handwriting of Mr. Anstis, and containing extracts from the best authorities, in print and MS., respecting almost every subject of English history, jurisprudence, chronology, heraldry, ecclesiastical and military affairs, illustrated by innumerable references to rolls of Parliament, ancient registers, charters, books of reference in the Exchequer, and other authentic sources in the public and private repositories of the kingdom.

3.—Custodes Justiciarii Angliæ. A folio MS., part of Lord Macclesfield's Collection, and described thus in Mr. Astle's hand: “Records and papers relating to the guardianship of the kingdom, as well in the absence of our kings as in extraordinary emergencies, from the reign of King John to that of George I. inclusive; also several records and papers concerning the custody of the Great and Privy Seal, the proceedings of Lords Justices,” &c. Mr. Astle was on two occasions, in 1788, summoned to produce this volume before Committees of the Houses of Parliament.

4.—A folio of 307 pages, entitled “Precedents concerning impeachments in Parliament, compiled by William Petyt, of the Inner Temple, Esq., pursuant to an order of the House of Peers, made Oct. 8, 1690, to which are added many interesting papers relative to the history and doctrine of impeachments.” Some of the papers are in the handwriting of Lord Chancellor Macclesfield.

5.—A folio of 166 pages in writing of the reign of George I., containing copies of records of the reversals of several attainders, and of other records relating to impeachments, a brief account of such persons as have been impeached, and for what crimes, with a table of reference to the whole. The impeachments are from the reign of Edward I. to the year 1696.

6.—A folio of 138 written pages, the writing of the reign of Charles II., in which the arguments and statements of various cases of attainder and impeachment are supported by precedents and references to the journals of Parliament.

7.—Modus Tenendi Parliamentum. A folio of thirty-four pages, in a hand of the reign of James I. On the second leaf is the following memorandum by Sir Roger Twysden: “The autientest copy I have seen of this Treatise is in the Library of Sir Robert Cotton, where are two of them, the one in parchmin writ about Edward III. tyme, the other likewise in parchmin, in an hand much later, viz. about Richard III. tyme, both of them very fayr books.”

8.—A folio of 168 pages, in writing of the reign of James I., containing matters chiefly relating to Parliaments and Laws, with a variety of forms of grants, summonses, warrants, commissions, &c., from originals in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I. Also an article entitled “cases where there is help in Chancery, from a booke of the late Lord Chancellor Ellesmere”; Sir Robert Cotton's “letter to Sir Edward Mountague to prove that the House of Commons have equal power with the Peers in point of jurisdiction, &c.”; and his speech at the Council Table on the alteration of the coin in 1626.

9.—A folio of 332 pages written in the reign of Henry VIII., containing exemplifications of Pardons, Commissions, Grants, &c., taken from originals of the times of Henry VII. and Henry VIII.

10.—The Origin of Parliaments. A folio of 252 pages, in a modern hand, written in Latin. The author's scope will be best collected from his title page: “Quod legum et consuetudinum Anglæ hæc erat Lex funda- mentalis—Quod populus fuit pars essentialis Communis eorum Concilii sive Parliamenti.”

11.—A quarto of 402 pages, described on the title page as “The copy of a MS. under the hand of Sir Christopher Yelverton, one of the judges of Queen Elizabeth, copied by the leave of Talbot Yelverton, Earl of Sussex, and descendant from the heir male to that Judge. The original hereof remains with the Earle of Sussex.” It contains law miscellanies.

12.—Thomæ Astlei Excerpta ex Collectaneis Thomæ Madox, Arm: in Museo Britannico. A quarto, containing forms of legal proceedings, &c. from the reign of King John.

13.—An abstract of the grants of all offices and places, commissions, licenses, promotions, protections, leases, special grants, privileges, and franchises, made by King James, and King Charles I., as they are recorded in the Exchequer. A quarto of 505 pages, stated to have been written in 1657 and 1658.

14.—The Lives and Successions of the Treasurers of England; by Francis Thynne, Esq. A quarto of 416 pages in the author's handwriting, as is the dedication to Lord Burleigh, dated 16 March 1593. The lives are from that of Odo, who was Treasurer to Athelstan down to Hugh Lord Segrave, 1385, when the work abruptly ends.

15.—“Whitelocke's Historie of the Parliament of England, and of some resemblances to the Jewish and other Councells.” An octavo MS. of 268 pages. The author was James, father of Bulstrode Whitelocke.

16.—Parliamentary Collections, containing extracts from the Journals and Records of Parl^t, in the handwriting of Dr. Robert Brady, Keeper of the Records about 1670. A duodecimo of 65 pages.

17.—An alphabetical Repertory, or Table of Parliaments, giving an account of the proceedings in Parliament during the reigns of Edward III, Richard II, Henry IV, V, and VI and Edward IV. A duodecimo of 74 pages in writing of the reign of Charles II.

18.—Parliamentary Collections by Mr. Morant, author of the History of Essex, copied from ancient Records and Journals with his own hand. Duodecimo.

19.—Mr. Justice Fortescue Aland's Collections, consisting of extracts made by him upon Historical, Biographical and Forensic subjects. 2 vols. Quarto.

20.—An Epitome of Craig's Jus Feudale. A duodecimo MS. of 340 pages, in English and written in the reign of James I.

21.—An Essay upon some particulars of the Ancient and Modern Government, Conventions, and Parliaments of England, with abstracts of the most observable Laws, and the frequency of later Parliaments &c. from the time of the Saxon Kings to the death of Henry III. A.D. 1272. 4 vols. folio.

22.—Rolls of Parliament of the reigns of Philip and Mary and the first of Elizabeth. A folio in writing of the reign of Charles II.

23.—A folio of 88 pages, in writing of the reign of Elizabeth, and entitled “Auncient Presidentes, gathered out of Recorde, touchinge the Kinge's Royall Authoritie and Prerogative; the Pollicies of his Government bothe in Peace and Warre, with other matters concerning as well the Church as Commonwealth. The Particularitie whereof will appeare in there several titles and mergentes.”

24.—Extracts out of the Records, wherein it may be collected by what means the Kings of England have and may rayse moneys, by Sir Robert Cotton. A folio in a contemporary hand.

25.—Impositiones Antiquæ Parl. Magna Charta, &c. A folio in writing contemporary with the author, Sir John Davis.

26.—Another contemporary copy of the preceding work. Folio.

27.—Parliamentary Proceedings. A folio entitled “A Discourse of the late Earl of Anglesey upon the Two Conferences had between the two Houses touching Impositions on Merchandize, &c. April 1671.” In contemporary handwriting.

28.—A quarto in writing of the reign of James I. containing “A Declaration of the True Ground of Prohibitions to the High Courts, and Authority and Reasons approving the same, &c. &c., Composed, &c. by command of His most Excellent Majesty, and the dispatch thereof, often urged in his Majesty's name by the late Archbishop of Canterbury (Bancroft).” Also, “Grounds of Prohibitions to the High Commission, and Answeres unto them,” by Sir Henry Hobart, the Attorney-General.

29.—An Answer to a Book entitled “The Case stated of the Jurisdiction of the House of Lords on the point of Impositions.” A folio of 17 pages, in the

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

handwriting of Sir Richard Temple, maintaining the right of the House of Commons against Lord Anglesey. (Vide supra 27.)

30.—A True Representation of Forepast Parliaments, to the View of Present Tymes, and of Posteritye; by Sir J. Doddridge. A folio in writing of the reign of Charles I. It also contains Doddridge's "Discourse on the Antiquity of Parliaments."

31.—Collectanea; By Mr. Anstis, Garter King-at-Arms. A quarto chiefly in his handwriting.

32.—A folio of 574 pages in one hand, of the reign of James I. entitled "A Journall of the Parliament houlden the 24th day of October, and soe continued until the Dissolution thereof, being the 9th daie of February in the 38th yeare of the raigne of our Sovereigne Ladie Queen Elizabeth, and in the yeare of our Lord 1597, concerning the Passages in the House of Commons, which is the first Parliament I was of, being nowe Burges for Bishop's Castle, in Shropshire." The MS. contains also a Journal of the Parliament which met in October, in the 43 year of Elizabeth. The compiler was Heyward Townsend.

33.—Proceedings in Parliament from the first to the forty-third year of the Reign of Elizabeth. A folio of 899 written pages, in writing of the reign of James I.

34.—Parliamentary Proceedings, 1558 to 1601. A folio of 581 written pages, in the handwriting of Sir Roger Twysden, as appears from the following note:—"This booke I collected and writ out of Sir Simonds D'Ewx, his Memorials, whilst I remayned a prisoner in Lambeth House, 1645. Roger Twysden."

35.—Parliamentary Notes 1601, collected by Heyward Townsend, of Lincoln's Inn. Secretary Cecil's speeches and those of the principal speakers in the Parliament held at Westminster, beginning the 27th October 1601, and ending the 19th December in the same year, are given at full length. Folio.

36.—Star Chamber Cases, commencing with those of the 7th of Elizabeth. Then follow others relating to the Plantation of Ulster by London undertakers, and abstracts are given of all the speeches on this subject made in the first part of the reign of Charles I. Folio.

37.—History of the Court of Star Chamber, written under the direction of Lord Chancellor Egerton. Folio.

38.—Affairs of Parliament. A folio of the reign of Charles II., the contents miscellaneous.

39.—Two folio vols., the first entitled "The Case of Shippe Money, Michaelis, 13 Caroli, in the Exchequer Chamber, argued be S^t John, of Lincoln's Inn, Utterbarrister, in the behalf of M^r. Hampden." The second volume contains Baron Weston's and Sir John Brampton's arguments. The writing of both is contemporary.

40.—A folio of 758 pages in writing of the reign of James I. and Charles I., containing a curious and interesting collection of historical documents. Amongst them is a book dedicated to Queen Elizabeth urging the severest possible measures against the old Irish, and new planting the whole kingdom.

41.—A collection of speeches in both Houses of Parliament in the 16th and 17th centuries, the writing of the time of Charles I. Folio.

42.—A miscellaneous collection of documents relating to Parliamentary affairs, chiefly of the 17th and 18th centuries. Folio.

43.—A collection of Acts of Parliament relating to ecclesiastical matters from the 25th of Henry VIII. to the 33rd of George II. formed by Dr. Ducarel, 1773, with an index. Folio.

44.—Proceedings of the Parliaments of England and Scotland in 1640 and 1641 relating to the affairs of Scotland. A folio purchased at the sale of the MSS. of Philip Stanhope, Esq., 9th April 1770.

45.—Collections relating to the Prerogative of the Royal Household in the reign of Charles I. Folio.

46.—"A Plaine and Sumarie Treatise of the whole Grounds and Maxims of the Lawes of this Kingdome, fitting and commodious for all young students, &c. &c." This work was, according to a note on the third page, "gathered in the latter years of Queene Elizabeth, and in King James' raigne, at the Barr and out of divers Learned Writers of the Lawe." Folio.

47.—The names of the Justices of the Peace for England and Wales, March 1, 1651. "This MS," says a note in Mr. Astle's handwriting, "is curious because it shows who were supposed to be attached to the then Government in each county. Lenthall the Speaker, Cromwell, Bradshaw, Whitelocke, the Commissioners of the Great Seal, the Judges, and most of the great officers of State were in the Commission for each county." Oblong folio.

48.—"The Names of the Shippes beelongoing to the Esttatte of England, in the year 1659, with there Rates, Men, &c." A folio partly in print, partly in contemporary writing.

49.—Dominium Maris Britannici. Two folio vols, the first in Latin and dedicated to Charles I. The second is entitled, "The Sovereignty of the Seas of England, proved by Record, History, and the Municipall Lawes of the Kingdome, &c. &c., by Sir John Burgh, Bart., Keeper of the Records in the Tower of London."

50.—Observations, Rules, and Orders, collected out of divers Journals of the House of Commons, entered in the several reigns of King Edward VI., Queen Mary. Queen Elizabeth, and King James. This MS. belonged to Sir Richard Temple. Folio.

51.—Parliamentary Proceedings on the Abdication of James II. Another of Sir R. Temple's MSS. Folio.

52.—Appeals to the House of Lords from 1701 to 1728. A folio of 219 pages in writing of the reign of George II.

53.—Proceedings of the Lords from their first meeting at Guildhall 11th December 1688 to the 28th December. A folio of 158 pages, in a contemporary hand.

54.—Proceedings of the Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the state of the gaols, and touching a charge against Sir R. Eyre, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, for personally visiting Thomas Bainbridge, late Warden of the Fleet, whilst he was prisoner in Newgate under a commitment of the House of Commons, in 1730, for the alleged murder of one of his prisoners, and for divers crimes committed in his office.

55.—Remembrance of some Methods, Orders, and Proceedings heretofore used and observed in the House of Peers, extracted from the journals of that house by H. S. E. P. and J. W., deputies to J. B., Cl. of Parliament. A folio, in writing of the reign of Charles II. The latest date given is 1677.

56.—Extracts from the Patent Rolls, beginning with the third year of the reign of King John, and ending with the last year of King Edward IV. 15 vols. Folio.

57.—Council Book of King Henry VIII. A folio of 428 pages in writing of the reign of Charles II. A note in Mr. Astle's hand states that "in the Council Office is a Council Book, beginning 10th of August 1540, and ending July 1543, and this book has more in it than that in the Council Office."

58.—Council Book of King Edward VI. A modern transcript from the original, beginning 31st January 1547, and ending 4th of October 1549. Folio.

59.—Minutes and documents of Privy Council chiefly of the reign of Elizabeth. A folio of 326 pages in writing of the reign of James I.

60.—Minutes of Privy Council, from 1660 to 1670. A folio of 277 pages, the whole in the handwriting of Sir Edw. Walker, Garter, and Clerk of the Privy Council.

61.—Council Books. Four vols, folio, in writing of the reign of Charles II. The dates commence with the year 1581 and end with 1680, but the documents are chiefly of the reign of Elizabeth.

62.—"Some Notes taken in the Cessions of Parliament held at Westminster, beginninge the 17th of March, 1627, and endinge the 26th of June 1628." A folio, in contemporary handwriting. Under the title is the autograph of "William Borlase, Knight."

63.—Docquet Book from May 1661 to August 1669. Two folio volumes, in contemporary writing, and containing the creations, warrants, and acts of Council during the period above mentioned, and a list of all the docquet books remaining in the Signet Office in 1676. They were of the Astle collection.

64.—Proceedings and speeches in the House of Commons upon the impeachment of the Lord Chancellor Clarendon in 1667. A folio, in contemporary handwriting.

65.—A copy of the preceding, with the articles of impeachment at the end. Folio.

66.—Excerpta ex Rotulis Patent et Claus. 9 vols. folio, for the most part written in one hand of the reign of Charles II., containing the most valuable fragments of Parliamentary records from the most authentic MS. sources. The volumes formerly belonged to Mr. Anstis.

67.—Placita in Curia Regis Ricardi I. A folio of 201 pages, transcribed, as appears from Mr. Astle's statement, from the originals in "Domo Capitulari Ecclesie S. Petri Westmonasteriensis."

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

68.—A folio entitled "Extract. ejusdam Rotuli Patentes de tempore Regis Edwardi 2^d remanentes in Thesaurio Receptoris Scaccarii, 1660."

69.—A folio in writing of the reign of Charles II., entitled, "Placita apud Westmonasterium in crastino S. Trinitatis anno regis Johannis."

70.—"Placita adjudicata a tempore regis Johannis ad Regem Henr. V." A folio, in writing of the reign of James I.

71.—Placita Parliamentaria tempore regis Edwardi I. A folio in writing of the reign of James I., with some marginal emendations in the handwriting of Sir William Dugdale.

72.—A folio in writing of the reign of George II., containing extracts from the Close Rolls from the reign of Henry III. to that of Edward II.

73.—A folio in the handwriting of Peter Le Neve, transcribed from a Pipe Roll in the Tally Court of the Exchequer, of the reign of Henry III. It also contains Excerpta of the reign of John, and from the Great Pipe Roll of King Stephen.

74.—Five folio volumes, containing numerous and valuable extracts from ancient Records, some in print, some manuscript, with charters and deeds of various dates from the Conquest, collected by Agard, Deputy Chamberlain of the Exchequer in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I.

75.—Eight folio volumes, containing, amongst other miscellaneous documents, some of the Rolls of Parliament from Richard II. to Henry VI. The handwriting is principally of the reign of James I., though many pages, as well as marginal emendations, are in the hand of Sir Roger Twysden, to whom this collection formerly belonged. Of the extract entitled, "The Coronation of the Kings of Scotland," Sir Roger states that he copied it from the "very booke K. Charles himself had in his hand when he was crowned at Edinburgh, 1633, which was a booke in 8vo., gilded all over, and curiously writ in a round Roman hand, &c. &c." The MS. also contains a collection out of the Leiger Book of Dover, of all the evidences of that monastery, gathered anno 1372, consisting of original charters relating to the tolls, duties, and customs of the port of Dover, &c.

76.—Bracton on the Laws of England. A vellum folio of 416 written pages. The writing is of the fourteenth century, and approaching closely to the time of the author.

77.—A folio of 318 pages, in writing of the reign of George II., and consisting of various extracts from the Records, and orders respecting the preservation of them, issued at different times, from the reign of Edward III. to 1688, together with much miscellaneous and very interesting information on many other subjects.

78.—A vellum quarto of 212 written leaves, containing Statutes enacted at different times from the reign of Henry III. to that of Edward III. The writing is of the fourteenth century, and the MS. is considered to be one of the oldest copies of the Statutes now extant, containing some which have not been printed.

79.—A folio of 460 written pages, of the reign of Charles II., containing the "Acts of the Privy Council in the reign of Henry VI., transcribed from the originals in the Cottonian Library." Mr. Astle has added a note that "these transcripts are valuable, as many of the originals are not now legible," and that they comprisesome very important documents, especially during the administration of the Council of Regency in the King's minority.

80.—Miscellaneous Records in the Tally Courts. 2 vols. folio, in writing of the reign of Elizabeth or James.

81.—Statuta ab anno 1 Edw. III. ad ann. xx. Hen. VI. A vellum quarto of 97 leaves, in oak binding, written in the reign of Henry VI. The initial letter of the text contains a miniature of Edward III.

82.—Statuta ab anno 1 Edwardi III. ad ann. 14 Henrici VI. A vellum quarto of 656 written pages, in oak binding, the writing of the reign of Henry VI. The Statutes are in French. Many of the initial letters and some of the margins are illuminated in gold and colours.

83.—Statutes from 1 Henry IV. to 12 Henry Six. On vellum. A quarto of 119 written leaves of the reign of Henry VI. The initial letters are illuminated, and contain miniatures of the Kings. Some of the margins also are ornamented, and at the end are seven pages of musical notes in a more recent hand, which are dated anno 1558.

84.—Registrum Brevium tempore Henrici VI. on vellum. A quarto of 254 written pages of the reign of Henry VI., apparently containing the whole collection of the Brevia of that reign, amounting to nearly 500 documents inserted in chronological order.

85.—Precedents of writs, chiefly relating to the county or diocese of Lincoln. On vellum. A folio of 418 written pages, the writing of the 14th century. It contains various writs of the reigns of different kings from Edward I., specifying the forms of law to be observed chiefly in Lincolnshire, according to the Common Law of England. The most ancient statutes of the kingdom are occasionally quoted.

86.—The miscellaneous collections of Sir Christopher Yelverton, Speaker of the House of Commons in the reign of Elizabeth. 2 vols. folio. The writing is wholly of that reign, and amongst the numerous contents of the MS. are subjects relating to the several counties, divisions, hundreds, Justices of the Peace, and Coroners of England Wales; the names of the Vice-Admirals of England; and the number of churches; valuation of livings with the tenths they pay; Officers of Her Majesty's Court of Record, at Westminster; general musters of 1522 and 1577; musters of the City of London, 1569; certificates of inns, alehouses, and taverns, in 1577; general muster of 1588; a note of bishops and their precedency, also of the nobility of England; a summary of all subsidies, aids and taxes of all kinds levied in England since the Conquest, &c. &c. &c.

87.—A miscellaneous collection of State Trials transcribed for the Earl of Essex in the reign of Charles II. Amongst the contents are: The arraignment and conviction of the Duke of Buckingham, 13th Henry VIII.; arraignment of the Earl of Surrey, temp. Henry VIII.; arraignments of Philip Earl of Arundel, the Duke of Norfolk, Sir Walter Raleigh, &c.; the trial of Lords Cobham and Grey, with the manner of sitting of Lord Ellesmere, Nov. 1603; proceedings against the murderer of Sir Thomas Overbury, 1615; Lord Audley's trial, 1631; Lord Morley's trial for killing Mr. Henry Hastings, 1668, &c. &c. &c. Folio.

88.—The Earl of Essex's and Lord Southampton's arraignment, 19th February 1601. A folio of 144 written pages which also contains Lord Keeper Egerton's speech against justices, absentees, libels, seditious practices, &c., and especially respecting the war in Ireland, showing that the failure of that war was entirely owing to Essex.

89.—Interrogatories administered to the Earl of Bristol after his arrival from the Spanish Embassy, in 1624, with the proceedings on both sides between him and the Duke of Buckingham on that occasion down to 1628. Folio.

90.—Proceedings touching the Divorce of the Lady Frances Howard. A folio of 134 written pages in a hand contemporary with the events which are more fully detailed in this MS. than in any of the published accounts.

91.—Reports of proceedings in Parliament in 1627 and 1628. A quarto of 656 written pages in which the speeches of all the principal statesmen of that period are given at full length in a contemporary hand.

92.—A folio containing the whole history of the rise and fall of the Earl of Somerset, of Overbury's death, and the principal events of that time in a contemporary hand. Also "the arraignment of Sir Nicholas Throgmorton, Knight, in Gyelde-Hall, at London, the 17th daie of Aprill A.D. 1554," in a hand of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, in the form of a dialogue between all the persons who spoke as witnesses on that occasion, and Sir Nicholas himself. The whole concludes with Sir Nicholas' letter when he fled into France after his trial. The speeches and depositions are given at full length.

93.—Proceedings on the divorce of the Lady Frances Howard. Another copy of the above (90) written about the same time, and containing also some other subjects. Folio.

94.—Miscellaneous Collections on State affairs and Trade. A folio of 528 pages, formerly belonging to the Essex collection, in writing of the reign of Charles II.

95.—Remembrances for the order and decency to be kept in the Upper House of Parliament by the Lords when His Majesty is not there. A quarto of 111 written pages, in writing of recent date.

96.—Miscellaneous legal collections. A quarto of 300 written pages of the reign of Charles II., containing, amongst other matters:—Dr. Donne's compendium of the whole course of proceeding in the nullity of the marriage of the Earl of Essex and the Lady Frances Howard, 1613; the estate and degree of a serjeant-at-law, written by Mr. Anstis; a discourse by the Earl of Devonshire in defence of his marriage with the Lady Rich, 1606; an historical and legal discourse, written by Recorder Fleetwood, 1575, &c.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

96.—A quarto of 58 pages, in writing of the reign of Charles II., containing extracts from a law book of the 23rd of Henry VII., chiefly on the laws relating to tenures of lands, and the legal names by which lauds and their tenures are mentioned in the Statutes. At the end is a list of the titles assumed by our kings before and after the Conquest.

97.—A duodecimo of 340 pages in different hands of the reign of Charles II., containing extracts from the Parliament journals, charters, law books, &c., in print and MS., beginning from the reign of Henry III.

98.—A collection of cases in the Court of Chancery, by Sir Anthony Keck, from the reign of Charles I. to that of William III. 2 vols. Folio.

99.—“Liber Presencie diversorum Instrumentorum tam spiritutualium quam temporalium.” A folio of 92 pages in writing of the reigns of Henry VIII. and Elizabeth. The first chapter is entitled, “An advowson of a parsonage or vicarage, graunted by the Kynge.” Some legal forms of various instruments are followed by an original rental dated “die vi. Septemb. anno Regis Edwardi VI., quarto,” and by another of the 1st of Elizabeth.

100.—Mr. George Grenville’s speech in the House of Commons on the expulsion of Wilkes, 3rd February 1769, occupying 30 pages. Also a speech, occupying 55 pages, on the subject of the Bill for Triennial Parliaments in 1716.

101.—A folio containing miscellaneous collections from Sir Richard Temple’s Parliamentary papers, most of them written between the Restoration and the death of King William.

102.—The trial of Lord Melville in 1805. A folio of 357 pages.

103.—Isaac Cotton on the Star Chamber. An 8vo of 130 pages in contemporary handwriting. The dedication to Sir Humphrey May, Knight, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, Clerk of the Star Chamber, and to Thomas May, is dated 20th September 1622.

MISCELLANEOUS MANUSCRIPTS CHIEFLY RELATING TO LEGAL SUBJECTS.

1.—A folio of miscellanies of 190 pages, including Lord Clarendon’s letters to the Duke and Duchess of York during his banishment in France, being a preservation for his daughter the Duchess, against Popery. 1671. This MS. is of Sir Richard Temple’s collection, and the writing is contemporary.

2.—Miscellaneous documents relating to the office of Lord High Chancellor. A folio of 321 written pages formerly in the possession of Lord Chancellor Macclesfield.

3.—Law Reports and cases tried in Michaelmas term 40 and 41 Elizabeth. Thirty-six folio pages in one hand of that reign.

4.—Court Rolls of the Manor of Codicote, co. Herts. On vellum. A large folio believed to be the oldest MS. extant on the subject of “Halimots,” and the forms of proceedings in those Courts. The title is “Extract. Rotulor de Halimot. tent. apud Manerium de Codicote tempore regis Henrici, filii regis Johannis, Halimot de Codicote, die Veneris proxime post festum Sci Lucae, anno 21 (1236).” The MS. ends with the fourth year of Henry V. in whose reign it was compiled and written.

5.—A folio of 164 written pages of the reign of George II., containing: Copies of informations, warrants, and indictments, for high treason against Jacobites; against the Duke of Buckingham in the reign of Charles II., for exactions, and buying his place of Master of the Horse; against the Earl of Bristol and others, in the reign of James II. Placita, Ecclesiastical grants, &c., of Queen Anne’s reign are followed by informations against Elliot, Holles, and other members for sedition, anno 5, Car. I; and other indictments down to 1734.

6.—The Exchequer, its officers and offices, customs, &c. A folio in a modern hand, of miscellaneous contents.

7.—A collection of miscellaneous documents relating to the Court of Chancery, the office of Lord Chancellor, &c. By William Lambard. A folio of 516 written pages, sufficient of itself, says Dr. O’Conor, to show the extent of Lambard’s legal knowledge, and the intenseness of his indefatigable application.

8.—A folio in a hand of the reign of George I., containing the legal forms of all sorts of contracts, bonds, conveyances, &c. Also a rental of Queen-square, London, from 1713 to 1716, with the names of the tenants, being the original, signed by Lord Carnarvon, afterwards first Duke of Chandos.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

9.—A collection of documents upon a variety of legal and other subjects, chiefly in writing of the time of Queen Anne.

10.—A folio of 156 written pages. In a note on the third leaf it is described as follows:—“The original MS. from which this was copied is in the library of Talbot Yelverton, Earl of Sussex, by whose permission this copy was taken. This was approved of by that Rev. Judge, Sir Christopher Yelverton, and by him allowed to be worthy of the Presse, as attested on a leaf in the front of the original.”

11.—“Entries of Warrants for grants of crown lands, &c. in 1660 and 1661, by the Earl of Southampton, Lord High Treasurer of England.” A folio of 255 written pages, all in one hand, of the reign of Charles II. The entries begin with “Grants of Lands of Traitors in Surrey and Sussex,” Feb. 23, 1660, and end at page 255, with an order of 22nd August 1661, to Sir J. Digby, relative to the King’s woods in the County of Nottingham. This volume was formerly in the collection of Mr. Anstis.

12.—A folio of miscellaneous contents on 212 written pages. Amongst the variety of its subjects are, heraldry and family history; statutes of colleges; quit rents; tenure and customs of Portland Island; abstract of forfeitures in Ireland in 1688; Acts of Henry VIII. relating to Windsor Castle and Manor, &c. &c. The volume bears the autograph of Lord Somers, to whose collection it formerly belonged.

13.—A miscellaneous volume of historical and legal papers, collected partly by Le Neve, and partly by Astle. Folio.

14.—Another miscellaneous volume formerly belonging to Anstis. A folio of 290 pages in handwriting of the reign of James I. and Charles I.

15.—A folio of 108 written pages of the reign of George II., containing forms of mortgages, conveyances of mortgages, re-conveyances in trust, &c. The latest date is 1719.

16.—Rules and forms to be observed in the Court of King’s Bench and Common Pleas. 2 vols. folio.

17.—A folio of 702 pages, written in the reign of Charles I., containing many interesting law cases. They begin with that of “Richard Earle of Clanrickard, and the Ladie Ffrances, his wife, against Robert Sydney.”

18.—Miscellanea, in a portfolio. Mr. Astle describes them as “Miscellany MSS. bought at Mr. Martin’s sale, belonged to Mr. Le Neve.” They are chiefly legal and historical, on the antiquity of Parliaments, on the barony of Bergavenny; arraignment of traitors in the reign of Elizabeth; the Bishop of Winchester’s Mass in the Tower Chapel before the Duke of Northumberland and other traitors; pedigree and armorial bearings of Sir Alexander Ratcliffe; remembrances with respect to proclamations in the reign of Elizabeth; descriptions of the apparels of various persons in the same reign in contemporary writing.

ECCLIASTICAL MANUSCRIPTS, PAPAL BULLS AND INDUL- GENCES, KING ALFRED’S PSALTER, &c.

1.—A folio of 198 written pages, consisting chiefly of collections of the laws and regulations relating to ecclesiastical benefices, the origin of advowsons, &c., in handwriting of the reign of James I. At the top of the first page is the autograph of Peter Le Neve, “Liber “Petri le Neve Rouge Croix. 1699.””

2.—A folio containing a collection of papers chiefly relating to ecclesiastical affairs from the fifteenth to the eighteenth century. Amongst them are nine original letters from Archbishop Secker to Mr. Grenville, in 1763, upon the subject of French Protestant emigrants, &c.; a note relative to the interest of the adventurers in Ireland, 1662; depositions relating to the tythes of St. Alkmund, in Derby, 1715: the original declaration of the professors of the academy of Helmstadt, disavowing the imputation of their coalescing with the Church of Rome, dated Sept. 1708, and signed by Fabricius and others; the names of a committee appointed in 1777 to consider of the establishment of episcopacy in America.

3.—A folio of 268 pages in writing of the reign of George I., containing a compilation from a great number of documents in print and manuscript, beginning with the arrival of St. Augustine, in 601, relating to Saxon Councils, Convocations, &c., from the date mentioned to the year 1711.

4.—A fac-simile transcript of several parts of the original “Textus Roffensis,” not published by Hearne, which were collated with the original, by William and Elizabeth Elstob, in 1712. The title in red ink is, “Excerpta a Textu Roffensi, Jacobo Smitho, Scriptoro. Con-

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

tulerunt vero et examinaverunt W. E. E. Londini x. kal. Jun. MDCCXII." The original 'Textus Roffensis' is a chartulary or collection of ecclesiastical instruments preserved in Rochester Cathedral.

5.—Canones Penitentiales Theodori. A folio of 112 written pages, half in Latin, half in Saxon; the Latin on one page, and the Saxon in Saxon characters on the other. It is divided into eighty-four chapters, neatly transcribed from a MS. of the eleventh century in Corpus Christi Coll., Cambridge.

6.—S. Anselmi Epistolæ. A folio of 449 written pages, which formerly belonged to Sir Roger Twysden, as appears by a note in his handwriting, dated November, 1670.

7.—Statuta Collegii S. Trinitatis Cantabrigiæ. A quarto of 163 written pages. The Statutes are 46 in number, and relate to all the affairs of the college, the duties of masters and scholars, their costume, their elections, &c. The first chapter states that they were drawn up by Mathew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury, at the request of Queen Elizabeth. and refers to previous Statutes by Henry VIII. and Edward VI. It appears by a letter prefixed to this volume from Mr. Holmes, the Deputy Keeper of Records, to Lord Chancellor Macclesfield, that these statutes were never enrolled in Chancery. At the end of this MS. are some loose papers entitled "orders concerning the Lent," from Queen Elizabeth's Council, dated Hampton Court, Jan. 14, 1572, commanding that no flesh meat be bought or sold during Lent.

8.—"Ceremoniale Canonicon, S. Crucis Domus Parisiensis." On vellum, chiefly in one hand, of the sixteenth century.

9.—An oblong quarto of 326 written pages, commencing, "Here Begynneth a tretis that suffisith to cche Cristen man and womman to lyven hereafter." The language is old English, and the writing of the fourteenth century. The work has been attributed to Wickliffe.

10.—A Collection of Ecclesiastical Canons. On vellum. A folio of 446 written pages in writing of the thirteenth century. From an ancient memorandum on the fourth leaf, it appears that this MS. formerly belonged to St. Augustine's Library, at Canterbury. Another memorandum, in Sir Roger Twysden's hand, states that he bought it in the shop of Laurence Sadler, bookseller, 15th October 1629. Dr. O'Connor considers it to be one of the oldest copies extant of the collection of Decretals and Canons of the Roman Church made by Gratian in 1140.

11.—Bishop Bateman's Statutes for Caius College, Cambridge. A quarto of 144 pages, in writing of the reign of James I. The Statutes are dated 30th March 1558. The augmentations annexed to them are dated 1st Jan. 1572.

12.—Statuta Aulæ Divæ Catherinæ. An octavo of 38 pages, in a modern hand, and apparently transcribed from the original Statutes of St. Catherine Hall, Cambridge, as altered by the Royal visitors in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

13.—Missale Romanum. On vellum. A folio of 523 pages, written in the Gothic characters usual in large missals of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.

14.—A collection of original Papal Bulls and Indulgences from the thirteenth to the sixteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

15.—The Psalter of King Alfred the Great. On vellum. It was formerly in the possession of Sir Henry Spelman, who agrees with Hearne and Wanley in considering it to be the oldest Psalter in England. Mr. Astle, in his "History of Writing," calls it "The Psalter of Alfred the Great, now in my library." He gives a fac-simile of the writing, and adds that "it was written between the years 872 and 878." The Latin text, which is the ancient Italian version, is interlined with a literal version in the Anglo-Saxon language and characters. A folio of 364 pages.

16.—Ancient deeds, on vellum, including "Carta de Helham," or a grant by Henry I. to Alice, Countess of Auge, of sundry parcels of land; an original confirmation by Geoffrey, Bishop of Chichester, from 1180 to 1198, of an agreement between the church of St. Mary at Hastings and the abbey of "Pons Roberti," respecting tithes; Johannis Episcopi Cienstriensis Exemplificatio Bullæ Innocentii Papæ 4ⁱ, datæ Perungii, 1258: an original grant by Prince Edward, afterwards Edward I., confirming a grant, &c.; another grant by Prince Edward; an original grant by Radulphus, the son of Robert, to his brother Wido, of certain lands.

17.—Interpretatio Zachariæ Chrysopolitani de Evangeliiis. A large folio on vellum, consisting of 386 pages, in handwriting of the 14th century. The colophon preserves the name of the transcriber: "Explicit explicatio, vel declaratio, libri quarti Zachariæ Chrysopolitani in unum ex quatuor, scriptum per manum Fratris. Rogeri Albon, Carmelitani."

18.—A copy of Mr. Halhed's Letter upon the Antiquity of the Hindu Religion.

19.—Collections relating to the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, from 1688 to 1766. Some of the original letters and documents in this folio are in the handwriting of Madox, Anstis, R. Bentley, D. Burton, Joseph Warton, &c. &c.

20.—"A devotional Treatise on Implicit Faith in the Doctrine of the Trinity," dedicated by the author to his father-in-law, Allen Cotton, Alderman, Lord Mayor of London. A quarto of 316 pages in the author's handwriting. His initials, "Tho. E.," with the date of the completion of the work, 1625, are at the end.

21.—"The Light in Darkness, or the True Religion, long sought, at last found out, amongst all the religions of the world here mentioned, by Martin Brethon, a true proselyte to the Church of England, Aug. 26, 1685." A memorandum, in Mr. Astle's hand, states his opinion that the writer was a member of the Church of Rome.

22.—Miscellaneous collections relating to the Church of Scotland, containing accounts of the proceedings at the general assemblies and various synods of the Church of Scotland, held at Edinburgh, Glasgow, Perth, Montrose, and other places, during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, from 1560 to 1643. A folio of 229 pages in one hand of the reign of George II.

23.—A discourse concerning Puritans. A quarto of 66 written pages, in a hand of the reign of Charles I.

24.—"The Lives of Women Saints of our Countrie of England; also some other lives of Holie Women, written by some of the Auncient Ffathers."

25.—"A peaceable surviewe and examination of the Doctrine of the Huguenotts, proving against the rigorous Catholicikes of our time, and particularlie against the Answers made to the Catholicke Apologie, that wee which are members of the Catholicke, Apostolicke, and Romish Church, ought not to condemne the Huguenotts for heretiques, untill further prooffe be made." A quarto of 98 written pages in writing of the reign of James I. A note in Mr. Astle's hand states that this tract was written soon after the murder of Henry IV. by Ravallac.

26.—Collectanea quedam Anglo-Saxonica e Cod. MSS. A quarto of 94 written leaves, consisting of collections and translations from a variety of Anglo-Saxon manuscripts in the handwriting of William and Elizabeth Elstob.

27.—Rules of the Jesuits; an octavo bound in parchment.

28.—Petri Comestoris Historia Sacra. A folio of 388 pages in writing of the thirteenth century. On vellum. An illuminated miniature at the commencement of one of the books represents the author presenting his book to an archbishop with this inscription in the writing of the rest of the work: "Reverendo Patri, et Domino suo Willelmo, Dei gratia Senonensiarum Archiepiscopo, Petrus servus Christi, Presbiter Trecentis vitam bonam et exitum beatum."

29.—Legendes des Saints, par Jean de Vignay; French translation, in a hand of the sixteenth century, of the "Golden Legend." 2 vols. Folio.

30.—Guibertus (Guibert de Nogent) de Morte. A quarto in writing contemporary with the author who lived in the twelfth century.

31.—Historia Animalium. A quarto of 32 pages. On vellum. A note on the first page attributes the MS. to the time of William the Conqueror.

32.—Baldwinus, Frater Monasterii Fordensis, de Sacramentis, aut de Corpore et Sanguine Domini. On vellum. A quarto of 204 written pages. On the inside cover, in the handwriting of Thomas Bryan Richards, is the following memorandum: "Bartholomews, sixth Bishop of Exeter, to whom the book is dedicated, was made Bishop of Exeter in 1159, and died in 1172, so that it must have been written during that period. This book belonged to the Abbey of Waltham Cross. I find that it was written by Baldwin, a Devonshire man, who became Abbot of Ford, and at last Archbishop of Canterbury. He died at Acre in Palestine, in 1190. He went from his abbacy to be Bishop of Worcester in 1180, and was translated to Canterbury in 1184." "He succeeded Robert de Pennington as Abbot in 1163, so that the book must have been written before that period." T. B. R.

33. Gregory's Chantry, Aldgate Church, London. On vellum. A quarto of 94 pages containing an account

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

egory's foundation of a chantry in the of Aldrichgate, London. It contains founder, dated Aug. 18, 1461; a deed las Latchett, one of the Barons of the William Saunders, B.D., and general monastery of Syon, near Brentford, he said will, for the regulation of the monies to be performed in this chantry, December 1498, 14 Henry VII. The and English, in writing of the sixteenth bbatise de Hida, juxta Winton. A folio of es, in writing of the reign of Elizabeth. s part Latin and part English, and the transcripts of many valuable documents the history of Hyde Abbey.

gister of Hyde Abbey, Winchester. On greatest part of this MS. was, in the Astle, written in the reign of Canute, being afterwards added, containing meions hands down to the latter part of the ry. On the first page are portraits of Queen in their robes of state with their over them in red ink, "Ailgyth Regina. On the reverse of the fourth leaf are William the Conqueror's building a palace in the fourth year of his reign; and of Winchester by Robert, Earl of Gloucester, reverse of folio 47 commences with a pre-of Alfred, in Saxon, which is followed by both written in 1031. Next follows a the eleventh century, with an account : places of the Anglo-Saxon Kings and e names of those kings from Ina to Canute this part of the work was written. Page ble for a fragment of the Exultat as ly Saturday in the monastery, with the which were in use before the invention of o which led to the present system of y consist of lines and points placed over d indicating by their forms and positions ow tones in which those syllables are to be the end of the volume are various forms of ritten in the reign of Canute, such as the k and honey, the Paschal lamb, new bread, .: a list of relics preserved at Hyde; a ats; list of abbots, &c. On one of the the following entry in Mr. Astle's hand : 1710, this MS. was in the possession of "Esq.", it was afterwards the property of orth, from whom it came to his execu- r. Lort, who presented it to me in the A."

TICAL MSS., RITUALS, MISSALS, &c.

Secundum usum Sarum. On vellum. A 120 written leaves, which Mr. Astle refers 50. To the first line of each psalm is nation, according to the Gregorian chant four lines ruled with red ink.

Piæ. On vellum. Octavo, of 135 written the fifteenth century. Some of the pages amented margins and initial letters with minations.

vo of 342 written pages. It is divided ers, beginning from the first of St. John, the form of a concordance, in which the passages of the four Gospels are reduced ive, observing the order of time. The MS. of the reign of Henry VIII.

fice of the Virgin." On vellum. Quarto, leaves, and of the fifteenth century. The ntain a calendar, and the name of the s given on the third page, "Nomen chardus Wantonus, Plenus Amoris." of the pages are splendidly illuminated.

ce of the Virgin. An octavo of 65 written . Every page is beautifully ornamented ours with numerous illuminated minia- alendar is in French, and not older than ry. The MS. belonged to the Duchess of i B. Virginis. On vellum. A duodecimo n leaves, thirty of which are finely illu- miniatures, and the margins ornamented of flowers in gold and colours. The MS. is ntury.

i B. Virginis. On vellum. A duodecimo n pages, of which 30 have illuminated d many of the margins are profusely and amented. The prayers at the end are in French, and the last miniature is marked in French with the name of the Irish saint, Fiacre, who was the patron saint of Meaux. On the cover is stamped the name of "Nicolas le Camus."

8.—Præces Piæ. On vellum. A quarto of 312 written pages, many of which are ornamented with miniature drawings and illuminated margins of the fifteenth century.

9.—Præces Piæ. On vellum. A quarto of 314 written pages, some of them illuminated in gold and colours, and with miniature drawings representing the principal festivals of the Virgin, the miracles of our Saviour, &c. Of the sixteenth century.

10.—"Heures de la Doleur, et compassion de la Glorieuse Viergene Marie, &c." A vellum quarto of 82 written leaves, in Latin, with the exception of some of the titles in red ink which are in French. Several of the pages are richly ornamented. Of the fourteenth century.

11.—Office de la Vierge. A vellum duodecimo of 364 written pages and of the fifteenth century. The minia- ture drawings are exquisitely finished, as are some of the margins, which are ornamented with flowers and insects, on a gold ground.

12.—Officium B. M. Virginis secundum consuetudinem Romanæ Curie. A vellum duodecimo of 542 written pages, several of which are beautifully illuminated with ornaments of the fifteenth century, and there are minia- ture drawings representing the different festivals of the Blessed Virgin, the Annunciation, Purification, &c. &c.

13.—Officium B. M. Virginis. A vellum duodecimo of 334 written pages and of the fifteenth century. Many of the initial letters are ornamented.

14.—Officium B. M. Virginis. A vellum duodecimo of 544 written pages, all ornamented with a variety of curious drawings in gold and colours. The calendar is in old French, and the writing is of the fourteenth century. On the margins are various caricatures of pretended devotees and others, and among the orna- ments are sundry implements of war, husbandry, music, and several relating to natural history and monastic costume. The Office for the Dead follows that of the Virgin.

15.—Præces Piæ. A vellum octavo of 232 written pages. All the initial letters are illuminated, and twelve of the pages are beautifully ornamented with miniature drawings in the style of the fifteenth century. Some of the titles are in the German language, and at the end are nineteen pages of prayers in German, and commemorations of saints, in the same language and handwriting.

16.—Præces Piæ. A vellum quarto of 306 written pages, several ornamented with drawings and marginal illuminations. Of the fifteenth century.

17.—Præces Piæ. A vellum octavo of sixteen leaves; some are missing at the beginning and end. It contains prayers and poems in French and Latin in honour of the Blessed Virgin. The initial letters are ornamented, and there are eighteen drawings, representing subjects from the Old and New Testaments. Mr. Astle in his "History of Writing" refers this MS. to the beginning of the fourteenth century.

18.—A vellum octavo of 95 written leaves, presented to Queen Elizabeth. It contains prayers in English, French, Spanish, Greek, Latin, Hebrew, Italian, and German, all very legibly written in 1578. They are preceded by a Latin poem, entitled as follows:—"De illustrissima Regina Anglie certamen Deorum, Fœminam eam an Virum nasci vellent, an neutrum an utrum- que."

19.—Missale Romanum. A vellum folio, of 336 pages written in various hands of the Roman character. The initial letters are elaborately ornamented with emble- matical devices, and the illuminated letters throughout the volume are extremely numerous. This beautiful missal is said to have been executed in 1557, for John III., King of Portugal, and Catherine his Queen, and it was once the property of the celebrated Abbé Garnier, chaplain for nearly thirty years to the French factory at Lisbon. It is bound in red morocco with silver clasps.

MANUSCRIPTS RELATING TO ECCLESIASTICAL SUBJECTS.

1.—The famous book entitled "De Tribus Impostori- bus," translated from the original Latin into French, and now faithfully Englished, with a Preface, Annotations, and Additions by the French translator. A quarto of 134 pages in a modern hand.

2.—Sixteen Revelations of Divine Love shewed to a devout servant of our Lord, called Mother Juliana, an

HARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

anchorite of Norwich, who lived in the days of King Edward III. A quarto of 184 written pages in a modern hand.

3.—Original Memoirs of Apparitions and Spirits in Wales. A quarto of 51 pages, written in 1738 by Mr. L*, who professes to have seen some of the events he relates.

4.—Extracts from William Sewel's History of the Quakers by John Kendall. A quarto of 51 written pages, all in Mr. Kendall's hand, except some additional notes by Morant.

5.—Enchiridion Magistri Alani de Conquestione Naturæ. A vellum quarto of 72 pages, coeval with the author, who died about the year 1294.

6.—Epistolæ Anselmi. A vellum octavo of 36 leaves, written in the thirteenth century, and nearly coeval with St. Anselm. It contains also, "S. Hieronymi Epistolæ ad S. Agustinum," with St. Augustin's reply.

7. Homiliæ Saxonicae. A vellum quarto of 95 pages, written about the time of King Stephen or of Henry II., as stated by Mr. Astle on the first leaf, where he adds that the characters are "partly Saxon and partly modern Gothic." The original title and first leaves are missing. A note states that this MS. once belonged to Fleetwood, the Recorder of London, whose autograph appears at the end of the book.

8.—Ancient drawings of subjects from the Old and New Testament, probably of the fifteenth century. A vellum quarto, bound in oak. At the bottom of the first drawing are the words "Orate pro anima Georgii Plomton Sacerdotis."

9.—"Sacro-Sancti Spiritus Mansio Cænobitica, virtutum et vitiorum arboribus circumsepta." This is John Allcock's Allegorical Treatise, which is mentioned by Bale and Pits. The language is old English, interspersed with Latin quotations, the writing contemporary with the author, and probably his own. The initial letters are ornamented, and there are many extremely curious drawings, in gold and colours, representing saints and angels, and shewing the ecclesiastical costume and the rites and customs of the period. A vellum quarto of 59 written pages.

10.—S. Gregorii de Cura Pastoralis Liber. A vellum quarto of 124 written pages, probably of the 12th century. The title is thus given in red ink: "Incipit Liber Pastoralis Cure Beati Gregorii (Episcopi) urbis Rome ad Johannem Revennatem." The word "Episcopi" has been erased.

11.—Vita S. Thomæ, Cantuariensis. A vellum quarto of 73 leaves, bound in oak. The first three leaves contain Canonical Regulations extracted from Fathers and Councils in the fourteenth century. The writer of the life of St. Thomas states in his prologue that four writers on the same subject preceded him, namely, "John of Salisbury, Master Herbert of Loseham, William of Canterbury, and Alanus Albus, of Tewkesbury;" and that his work is compiled from all four, whose compilations he abridges without altering their own expressions.

12.—Historia Biblica, sub auspiciis Haconis Regis Norvegiæ idiomate antiquo Norvegico expressa. A transcript from the original MS. which is preserved in the Library of the University of Copenhagen.

13.—Quatuor Evangelia. A venerable copy of the Gospels presented to the Marquess of Buckingham by the Duc de Grammont, on the part of His Majesty Louis XVIII. The MS. is considered to be of the tenth century. It is a vellum folio of 444 written pages. The cover is of very thick oak, inlaid with three ivory tablets, representing in alto-relievo, the Virgin and Child in the centre tablet, and two of the Apostles or Evangelists with angels over each on both sides. On the first page is a drawing of St. Matthew. The twelve subsequent pages are adorned with arches, representing the arcades of churches, supported each by four slender columns and pedestals, alternately green and purple. The arches are not pointed like the Gothic of the 12th century, but round like the Saxon of the ninth. The initial letters are ornamented in gold and colours.

14.—Biblia Sacra Latina. A vellum folio of 950 written pages, containing the Latin Vulgate Version of the Old and New Testament, written in the thirteenth or fourteenth century, and corresponding nearly with the Clementine edition. The illuminated initial letters are very numerous. Dr. O'Connor has given the following reasons for regarding this MS. as extremely valuable:—First, because it contains all the parts of the Old and New Testament, and MSS. containing the whole are extremely rare; secondly, because it is transcribed with the greatest diligence from another MS., probably of greater antiquity; thirdly, because it is more correct than the first printed editions down to the Clementine; fourthly, because in case a new edition of the Clementine should be given with a view to further corrections, this MS. ought to be collated, and its various readings given to the public, the Vulgate version being acknowledged by the most learned Protestant divines to be of great authority throughout the whole Christian Church.

15.—Historia Biblica. A vellum folio of 540 written pages, probably of the 12th century. The first folio is missing, and it terminates with an imperfect list of the prophets, so that another leaf is wanting at the end. In this MS. all the Historical Books of the Old Testament are abridged in the way of a chronological concordance; the names of places and Hebraisms of the Old and New Testament are explained in an easy unaffected style; and the principal events of profane history are occasionally introduced, and synchronised with the sacred under the title of "Incidentia," which is prefixed to them in red ink.

16.—Liber Capellæ S. Stephani infra palatium Westmonasterii. A vellum folio of 484 written pages, containing a copy of the Golden Legend, which was written by Jacobus de Voragine, Bishop of Genoa, who was contemporary with Dante, and died in the year 1298. The following note is at the bottom of the first page, in a hand of the reign of Edward III.: "Liber capellæ S. Stephani infra palatium Westmon: De dono Dni Roberti de Clinham, quondam dicte Capelle Canonici, qui VIII. die Martii anno Dni mcccclxv. cursum vite presentis consummavit ibidem." This date vouches for the antiquity of the MS. given by Robert de Clinham, within 67 years after the death of the author. At the end is written, in the autograph of Sir R. Twysden, "Ego Rogerus Twysden emi hunc librum a Stephano Potts, Librario Publico circa annum Domini 1626, tunc comorante in vico vocato Aldersgate Street."

17.—Officia Sanctorum. A vellum folio of the fourteenth century, consisting of 790 written pages, many of them splendidly ornamented and illuminated in gold and colours. The title and first page are missing. A leaf is also missing at page 327. The first part relates to the offices for Sundays. At page 309 begins a chronicle from Edward the Confessor to Edward II.; at page 314 a calendar; and at page 329 the Book of Psalms, according to the ancient Italic version. The illuminated miniatures are very numerous. They represent saints and martyrs, and some of the principal events of the New Testament. Many of them deserve particular notice as extremely curious illustrations of the costume and manners of the time, and on account of their preserving some peculiarities in the English Service which perhaps are not elsewhere to be found. At page 48 a miniature describing the martyrdom of St. Stephen, gives the dress of a deacon of the English Church. At page 50, a miniature describing the Massacre of the Innocents, gives an Anglo-Norman soldier in complete armour of the reign of Edward II. At page 53, the costume of Anglo-Norman officers is described in three figures representing the murder of St. Thomas of Canterbury. A miniature at page 216 describes the anointing and coronation of a king; and at the bottom of the same page is a fine figure of King David, struck with remorse, and extending both hands to Heaven for forgiveness; his harp lies at his feet, his crown hangs negligently on his arm, expressive of his feeling himself unworthy to wear it. At page 231 is a miniature of Edward II. At page 379 the King is represented crowned and playing with a small hammer in each hand, with which he strikes three bells that hang before him in church during the chanting of the Psalms. At page 389 three singers are represented before a book-stand, on which is placed the Antiphonarium, ruled with musical notes, according to the scale of Guido d'Arezzo. At page 449 baptism by immersion is represented as practised in the Church of England in the reign of Edward II. The other miniatures are too numerous to be described. The pages from 715 to 790 contain the rubrics as observed in the English Church in the reign of Edward II., with directions for the celebration of the offices on every festival. At the end is a curious recipe, of the time of Edward III., for making black ink, and another in the handwriting of Sir Roger Twysden.

18.—Passionale. A portion of the Holy Gospels used for the Coronation Oath of English Sovereigns before the Reformation. A vellum quarto of 174 written pages, the cover of oak cased with leather, on one side of which is a crucifix of gilt bronze. A memoran-

HARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-HAM.EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

dum in the writing of John Ives, dated "Yarmouth, Norfolk, St. Luke's Day, 1772," gives the following account of it:—"This very ancient, curious, and valuable manuscript appears to be the original book on which our Kings and Queens took their Coronation Oaths before the Reformation. In Powell's Repertory of Records, 4to., 1631, page 123, he mentions, 'In the Exchequer, item, a little Booke with a Crucifixe.' Thomas Madox, Esq., late Historiographer, to whom Mr. Martin lent this book, told him that he believed it was the book formerly belonging to the Exchequer, mentioned by Powell, and which was used to take the Coronation Oath upon by all our Kings and Queens till Henry VIII." It contains a portion of each of the Gospels, and the Passion of our Saviour. The writing appears to be of the 12th or 13th century.

ANGLO-SAXON AND OTHER CHARTERS, CARTULARIES. &c. &c.

1.—Kent Charters. A folio of 511 written pages, partly in the handwriting of Sir Edward Dering, and partly by Oliver Marshall, his amanuensis, completed in 1630, and containing transcripts from the most ancient registers of Kent. The number of documents is upwards of one thousand.

2.—Cartæ Sigillatæ. A folio of 118 written pages, in the handwriting of Oliver Marshall. The deeds transcribed are sixty-five in number, with some drawings of the seals which were attached to them. The first deed is of the reign of Henry II. the last of the 22nd of Henry VIII. Annexed is a genealogical history of the Bromleigh family, in the handwriting of Mr. Erdeswic, author of the "Antiquities of Staffordshire;" it is dated 1594.

3.—A folio of upwards of 500 written pages, containing copies of deeds relating to Canterbury and its privileges, and several relating to Romney Marsh, all in one hand of the reign of Henry VIII. There are also grants relating to the Cinque Ports; some under-sheriffs' accounts in the time of Henry VIII, for Bucks and Bedford; deeds relating to forests, particularly to Sherwood Forest, &c. &c.

4.—Fifty-seven deeds under seal, on parchment, relating to lands in Norfolk and Suffolk from the reign of Henry III. to that of Elizabeth; chiefly deeds of sale or leases. Some of them are family documents relating to the gentry of Norfolk. Folio.

5.—A folio, on parchment, containing 60 original deeds relating to the same period and counties as the preceding volume, of which it seems to be a second part. Both were of Mr. Astle's collection.

6.—A folio, on parchment, containing one hundred original documents beginning with a decree of Roger, Archbishop of York, who was consecrated in 1154. All relate to different churches in that diocese, and to the hospitals of St. Peter and St. Leonard, in York, and are mostly of the 13th and 14th centuries.

7.—Registrum Collegii Mettingham, Com. Suffolciii. A folio bound in oak, and consisting of 526 pages. The writing is of the reign of Henry VIII, and the MS. gives the limits and boundaries of the possessions of the college, their denominations, rentals, and the grants by which they were obtained, being deeds chiefly of the reigns of Edward III., Richard II., Henry IV., Edward IV., and some Bulls of Popes, granting privileges and immunities. The first is a grant of 1157; the last is of the first year of Henry VIII.

8.—The original charters and deeds of Flixton Nunnery, in Suffolk, all on parchment, and 84 in number. The oldest is of the year 1259, and the latest of the 29th of Henry VIII.

9.—"Cartæ originales Abbatia de Burton, et diversarum Ecclesiarum in Com. Staffordiæ, Derbiæ, Leicestriæ, et Warwiciæ." The volume thus entitled contains 97 original documents on parchment, mostly under seal, from the reign of Henry I. to that of Henry VIII.

10.—Cartæ prioratus de Repyngdon in Com. Derbiæ, &c. This is a similar volume to the two preceding. It contains 41 original deeds, on parchment, under seal, of different dates from A.D. 1150 to 1348.

11.—Cartularium Abbatia de West Derham in Com. Norfolk. On vellum. A folio of 102 written pages in one handwriting of the year 1622. The deeds are 227, and they are stated to be contained in "an ancient booke some tyme partayning to the dissolved monasterie of West Derham, touching the possessions of the said monasterie. The old booke and this being examined by Robert Derham, Esq., and William Graydon, Esq., and Thomas Baker, Gentleman, and Symon Pittes, yeoman, whose names are subscribed to everie written leaf of this booke." A collection of genuine documents from the reign of Henry III.

12.—Chartulary of Raveningham College, co. Norfolk. On vellum. A folio of 48 pages, in writing of the reign of Henry VIII., and containing transcripts of 53 charters of the reign of Edward II. and Edward III. They are entitled, "Munimenta tangentia Ecclesiam de Raveningham."

13.—Original Anglo-Saxon Charters from the seventh to the eleventh century. On parchment. A large folio volume, the cover of which is a curious specimen of ancient needlework, in coloured silks and gold thread, representing the crucifixion and figures of saints and martyrs. The charters in this unrivalled collection are as follows:—

a.—Charter of Withred, King of Kent, A.D. 697, by which he grants certain lands to the Nuns of Liming, in Kent. The charter consists of nine lines, followed by six lines containing the names of the King and Queen and of the attesting witnesses. The first subscriber is the King, who says that, being illiterate he only makes the sign of the cross, and that he has asked proper witnesses to subscribe it.

b.—Another charter of Withred's, granted by him in the Synod of Baccancelo, A.D. 694, and read and confirmed in the Synod of Cloveshoe, A.D. 716.

c.—"Charta Offæ Regis Anglorum Jamberto Archiepiscopo, et Ecclesiæ Christi Cantuariæ, A.D. 774. The first signature is Offa's, the next Jaenberht's.

d.—"Charta Eardulfi Regis, Anno 770;" Eardulf, King of Kent's, grant to the monastery of Reculver.

e.—"Charta Offæ Regis, anno 785;" Offa's grant to his minister, Ealdberht, and to that minister's sister, of certain lands specified therein.

f.—"Donatio Offæ Eldberto Ministro suo, ac sorori suæ Seledhrythe Abbatisæ in Synodali Conventu, in loco qui nominatur Celcyth, anno 786."

g.—"Charta Coenulfi Regis Merciorum, ann. 799, Indict. VII."

h.—"Charta Cuthredi Regis Cant., A.D. 804;" Cuthred's grant to Ethelnothus, his Prefect, of certain lands in Kent, which are described and granted with the consent of Coenulph, King of Mercia. At the end of this document, and on the same parchment, is a charter in Anglo-Saxon, by which Ethelnoth and his wife Gaenborg bequeath the lands granted to them in the presence of Wulfred, the Archbishop, and others.

i.—"Charta Coenulfi Regis Mercior: anno 811." The grant is in Latin, but the lands and their limits and boundaries are described in the Saxon language.

j.—"Concessio Coenulfi Regis Mercior: Uulfredo Archiepiscopo, anno 814."

k.—"Charta Coenulfi Regis Mercior: et Cathredi Regis Cant. Uulfhardo Presbytero, anno 805." The condition of this grant is the payment "centum Siclorum auri purissimi ac totidem argenti."

l.—"Charta Coenulfi, &c, anno 815, Indictione 7, anno regni 18;" A grant to Archbishop Wulfred of certain lands, Wulfred paying "viginti et tres Mancusas in uno annulo."

m.—"Charta Beornwulfi Regis in Synodo apud Cloueshoum, anno 824;" a re-grant of lands, with the consent of the nobles and clergy assembled, to Archbishop Wulfred, which had been unjustly taken from him.

n.—"A charter or Deed of Exchange of Lands, A.D. 824, in civitate Dorovernia;" a deed of exchange between Archbishop Wulfred and the monks of Canterbury.

o.—"Charta Beornulfi, anno 825, apud Cloueshoum;" a re-grant to Archbishop Wulfred of lands unjustly taken from him by King Cenulph. The whole dispute between Wulfred and Cenulph is related, and after a hearing of the pretensions of Cenulph's heirs, the King, nobles, and clergy decide.

p.—"Ceolnothus, Archbp. of Canterbury's charter of 831;" Ceolnoth's grant of lands in Kent to the monks of Christ Church.

q.—"Charta Æthelwulfi Regis, A.D. 843;" Æthelwulf's grant to his minister Æthelnoth of lands in Kent, which are described in Anglo-Saxon.

r.—"Charta Excambii, anno 845;" a deed of exchange of lands between Wulfhead, a presbyter abbot, and Werenbeht, the King's prefect and minister.

s.—"Charta Elfredi Regis, anno 873;" a joint grant to Christ Church Canterbury, by King Alfred and Archbishop Ethered.

t.—"Testamentum Elfredi Ducis;" written wholly in the Saxon language. It has been printed with a literal translation at the end of Lye's Dictionary.

u.—"Charta Æthelwulfi Regis Occid. Sax. et Cantuar. A.D. 874." Dr O'Connor considers this to be a forgery not older than the twelfth century.

v.—"Charta Eadwardi Regis, anno 903."

w.—"Charta Plegmundi, A.D. 920;" by which Plegmund, Archbishop of Canterbury, granted to Byrithred

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

eighty acres near the river Rumenesea for the sum of 385 denarii.

z.—"Charta Eadmundi Anglorum Regis, anno 943;" A grant by Edmund to his minister, Ælfstan.

y.—"Charta Eadmundi Regis Anglorum, anno 944;" another grant to the same minister.

z.—"Charta Eadredi Regis Anglorum, A.D. 948;" A grant by Eadred to the religious woman Ælfwynne, in compliance with his mother's request.

aa.—"Testamentum Æthelwyrði, A.D. 958;" written in Saxon. It has been published with a Latin translation at the end of Lye's Dictionary.

bb.—"Charta Eadgifu Regine, A.D. 960."

cc.—"Charta Eadgari Ministro suo Ingeramo, A.D. 963."

dd.—"Instrumentum venditionis et emptionis, A.D. 968;" A deed of sale of lands between Ælfold, Eadwold, and others for a sum of 1,450 denarii.

ee.—"Charta Eadgari Regis Anglorum, A.D. 978;" Eadgar's charter, confirming to Westminster Abbey lands which were purchased first by King Edward and again bought by St. Dunstan.

ff.—"Charta Æthelredi Regis, A.D. 986;" Æthelred's grant to Westminster Abbey of five cottages in Hampstead.

gg.—"Charta Æthelredi Regis, A.D. 1003;" a grant by Æthelred to his faithful subject Athelred and his wife during their lives of lands near Canterbury.

hh.—"Testamentum Athelstani, Principis filii Regis Æthelredi."

ii.—"Testamentum Ælfhelmi," entirely in Saxon.

jj.—"Charta Cnuti Regis Anglorum, A.D. 1018," by which Canute grants, at the request of his Queen, Ælgylf, to Archbishop Ælstan, a small wood in the forest called Andredeswealde, commonly called Haeslerse. The limits and boundaries are described in Saxon characters.

kk.—"Donatio qua Cnutus, Anglorum ceterarumque Insularum adjacentium Basileus, Auream suam coronam ponit super Altare Christi in Dorobernia, A.D. 1023." In addition to the gift of his crown the grant extends to the duties of the port of Sandwich as far up as its river is navigable, &c.

ll.—"Donatio Cnuti Regis Terræ Folkestanæ Ecclesiæ Christi Cantuariæ quando Eadsinus, Presbyter suus, Monachus ibi effectus est, A.D. 1032."

mm.—"Charta Cnuti Regis, A.D. 1035;" a grant to Bishop Eadsin of land in Kent.

nn.—"Charta Eadsi Archiepiscopi, A.D. 1040," by which the Archbishop grants to St. Augustin's in Canterbury, certain lands which are described in Saxon.

oo.—"Charta Henrici I., Regis Anglor. Ecclesiæ Christi, Cant.;" a confirmation of all the grants of land made to that church by Edward the Confessor and by William I.

pp.—"Charta Henrici II.;" a confirmation to Christ Church, Canterbury, of lands granted to it.

qq.—"Charta Æthelrodi Anglo-Saxonum et totius Albionis, Regis, A.D. 997;" by which the King grants to Bishop Alfwold, two cassats of land at Sandford.

rr.—"Charta Eadgari Regis—de Institutione Abbatum Eliensis, A.D. 970;" A grant of lands and privileges to the ancient monastery of Ely.

The remaining charters to the end of the volume are copies from original documents transcribed by John Lewis, December 1766.

ENGLISH AND SCOTCH CHARTERS, &c.

1.—Excerpta ex Registris Curie Prerog. Cant. Three octavo volumes, the first of which extends from 1385 to 1533, the second from 1533 to 1591, and the third from 1591 to 1660. They contain extracts from wills in the Prerogative Court at Doctors' Commons, the whole in the handwriting of Edward Rowe Mores, F.S.A.

2.—An octavo of 468 pages in the handwriting of E. R. Mores, F.S.A., containing an Epitome of the Registers of the See of Canterbury, preserved in the library at Lambeth Palace, beginning with the first register called Peckham, which commences A.D. 1279, and ending with that of Archbishop Tensionn, in 1710.

3.—Part of the Register of St. Bene't's. A folio of 82 written pages. It is stated in a marginal note to have been transcribed from an original MS. in the Cotton Collection, and compared therewith, "13th February 1595. Signed," "P. Le Neve, Rougecroix." The charters collated by Le Neve in this MS. are 114.

4.—Sigilla in Officio Ducatus Lancastriæ. A quarto of 85 written pages in the handwriting of Mr. Anstis, containing a detailed catalogue of ancient seals, deeds, and charters, preserved in the office of the Duchy of Lancaster.

5.—Diplomata Scotiæ ex Archetypis in Bibliotheca Th. Astlæi, Arm. asservatis. A quarto containing transcripts of charters of the kings and nobles of Scotland, illustrated by historical notes and fac-simile drawings of the seals appended to each. They are dated from the 12th to the 15th century.

6.—A quarto of 279 written pages in the same hand as the preceding, of which it forms the second part, and containing various charters and instruments relating to the history of Scotland from the reign of Richard I. of England.

7.—Chartæ ab anno 1285 ad ann. 1431. On parchment. A quarto containing 55 original Italian charters of the 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries, in Latin. Many of them relate to the city of Brescia, being leases of tenements, deeds of possession, contracts of marriage, &c.

8.—An octavo of 108 written pages, containing transcripts of 45 deeds, with drawings of their seals, from the reign of Edward III. to that of Henry VIII., the originals of which were in the possession of the transcriber, James West, 1731.

9.—Registrum Abbatissæ de Pipewell. On vellum. The MS. is entitled, in a modern hand, "Registrum Cartarum Abbatissæ de Pipewell, in agro Northamptonensi, Ordinis Cisterciensis, A.D. 1143 fundatæ." It contains fair copies of the original charters from the foundation of the abbey to the end of Henry the Third's reign, soon after which it was compiled. There are upwards of 470 charters.

10.—A quarto of 162 written pages, containing a collection of charters, evidences, &c., relating to the College of Higham Ferrers. They appear to have been transcribed from the originals in the reign of Henry VII.

11.—Liber Irrotulatus Prioratus Dunelmensis. A vellum quarto of 346 written pages, in different hands, but all of the 14th century. It belonged to the Priory of Durham before the suppression of monasteries, and it contains extensive information relating to the records of Durham. At folio 34 there is a transcript of the "Baldon Buke sive descriptio terrarum et episcopatus Dunelm, A.D. 1183 facta."

12.—"Registrum Cartarum Prioratus de Brenkeburne," in agro Northumbriæ. On vellum. A quarto of 94 leaves, being the register of Brinkburne Priory, in Northumberland, founded in the reign of Henry I. by William de Bertram, Baron of Mitford. The MS. contains upwards of two hundred documents, and there is much of the border history in them from the Conquest to the middle of the 14th century, soon after which the MS. was transcribed.

13.—Registrum Cartarum Prioratus S. Neoti, in Comitatu Huntingdon, factum A.D. 1286. A quarto of 106 written pages. Vellum. The title, in red ink, at the head of the first page is, "Registrum Cartarum Sacristar. S. Neoti ad festum Annunciationis S. Marie, anno Incarnationis Dñi. m.c.c. octog. Sexto, tempore fratris Willelmi Le Caron." The covers of wood are sheathed in red velvet, and on each side there is an enamelled ornament set in gold, with the motto, "fide, sed cui vide," alluding to the anonymous compiler and to the fidelity of his transcript.

14.—A folio of 19 pages containing charters which are stated to be faithfully transcribed "Ex libro per-amplio et perantiquo Ecclesiæ Christi Cantuariæ, in ejusdem Ecclesiæ Thesauraria reservato, &c." They were transcribed in 1630 by Mr. Marshall, Sir Edward Dering's amanuensis.

15.—Registrum Abbatissæ de Croxton. A quarto of 161 pages, being a transcript of the ancient register book of Croxton Abbey, in Leicestershire, made in 1755, from the original, then in the possession of the Duke of Rutland. On the last leaf is an account of the grant of Croxton Abbey, &c. to Thomas, Earl of Rutland, 30th Henry VIII.

16.—Cartæ Antiquæ, a folio of 637 written pages of the time of Charles II., containing copies of Anglo-Norman charters from the Conquest to the reign of Henry IV., but without any account of the originals from which they were transcribed. They are in general grants made by kings to the church, but the names and titles of a great many of the ancient nobility, and their donations to parish churches and monasteries in various counties are also recorded.

17.—A folio of 302 pages, of the same age as the preceding and relating to the same period but by a different hand. The number of deeds preserved in this MS. is 202.

18.—A folio of 104 pages lettered on the back "Old Deeds" It was bought at the sale of the Rev. Mr. Harbin, a Nonjuror, in 1745, and contains a list of old deeds which were in his possession, of different dates from the Conquest to 1638. Also a list of his MSS.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

lio of 156 written pages containing copies of Saxon charters relating to the county of as formerly in the collection of Sir Edward appears to be partly in his handwriting.

io of 40 pages containing transcripts of 98 rious reigns from that of Edward II., part t in English, but all in one hand. The last rental of the 11th of Henry VIII. in the m and spelling of that time. The date of t is given on the last page;—11th of May VIII.

trum Prioratus de Stone, in Comitatu Staf- mscript from the original, as appears by a n at page 145;—"Transcripti ex Codice /espas; E. xxiv. A.D. 1734, David Casley, us." Folio.

ularium de Wyssete, co. Norfolk. On vel- ' the oldest evidence books extant, relating s of our ancient nobility. It is entitled um de Manerio, terris et tenementis in Wys- com. Norfolk olim pertinentibus Johanni or Vaux." The various deeds from the ary III. amount to 206, the greater part e transcribed under the direction of the Vallibus, or De Vaux, to whose extensive efer, before the year 1288. Quarto.

arochial Register of St. Mary Overy, in A folio bound in oak, with brass bosses on he register consists of 682 pages, in one ign of Henry VIII., and before the suppress- onasteries. Some of the leaves are miss- liest document is before the year 1305.

strum Magistri Johannis Blanchard, Wygornia, de Cartis, Literis et aliis acernentibus Manerium suum de Boreford Juxta Wyltown, in com. Wiltes." A binding and on vellum. There are 172 handwriting of Blanchard, who died in eeds are from the reign of Edward I. to rd II. The rentals show the value of ney, and MS. also contains much informa- prices of the necessities of life, as well as enures, wills, law proceedings, &c. of the ns.

rum Cartarum Prioratus de Brandenstoke A folio of 386 written pages on vellum, in he reign of Henry VIII, and containing charters relating to the lands and pos- e Priory in several counties, from the end ntury until the period of the Surrender. quoted by Dugdale in his account of Bra- o be found in this volume with a great ers and unpublished documents of various riter's initials are inserted in his own d of the index, thus; "Orate pro anima l. qui hunc librum scripsit."

rium Prioratus de Horton, in com. Hants. written pages on vellum, two leaves miss- uining and several in different parts of The earliest deed is of the reign of latest of the year 1476 which is also e MS. It contains enumerations of the ments of Horton Priory, with the tenures, istoms annexed to them.

SH AND FOREIGN ANTIQUITIES, &c.

smus Graphicus ab Hen.: Spelmanno usum filiorum suorum, anno Dom coeval with the author, and apparently in Quarto.

to volumes of 337 and 400 written pages, original drawings, collected by Mr. ntiquities of England, Wales, Ireland, and o of 414 pages, written by Francis Tate, e Society of Antiquaries, and containing a variety of interesting antiquarian sub- s praised by Hearne as "a great lawyer itiquary, and of exquisite skill in the He died in 1616.

ones Antiquæ. A vellum folio of 544 pages m the original by an Italian artist of the tury. It begins with a fac-simile, in nine ient Roman calendar with the twelve signs he attributes and Pagan festivals of each innumerable ancient inscriptions follow, various marbles found in Italy, Dalmatia, Minor, Egypt, Spain, and Gaul. This through the hands of Lord Somers, Mr. st, Dr. Askew, and Mr. Astle, as appears of Mr. Astle's in 1785.

5.—Inscriptiones Antiquæ. A collection of tracts in print and manuscript on inscriptions and subjects relating to antiquities. It contains some original letters and essays by Mr. Ames and others. Quarto.

6.—Antiquarian Extracts and Etruscan Antiquities 2 vols. Quarto.

7.—A copy of Hearne's Ectypa; printed at Oxford, 1737. It is placed amongst the MSS. on account of its manuscript notes, some of which are in Hearne's handwriting, and some by Mr. Astle, Dr. Farmer, and others. A variety of engravings are included, with MS. references to the books in which they are described, chiefly Hearne's editions. They consist of seals, coins, inscriptions, ancient charters, &c. &c. Folio.

8.—Ectypa Varia. A folio containing a great number of engraved fac-similes, with many MS. additions and drawings. Several of the specimens have been engraved in Astle's "History of Writing" but there are many from Greek and Latin MSS., which have never been engraved, and several of the unpublished fac-similes are of the 8th, 9th, and 10th centuries. There are besides some caligraphic curiosities by Buckinger and Cox, born without hands or feet.

9.—Aspilogia; by John Anstis, Garter King-at-Arms, with original drawings of seals, copies of ancient deeds, &c. Two vols. Folio. The first volume consists of 267 pages on which are 247 fac-simile drawings of original seals. It commences with a disputation by Mr. Anstis on the value of seals in general as relating to heraldry, history, theology, &c. The second volume consists of 233 pages and 646 drawings of seals. A considerable portion of both volumes is in the handwriting of Mr. Anstis.

10.—Two folio volumes containing a variety of Roman, Saxon, Norman, and English antiquities, with many drawings and prints of seals, coins, &c. Amongst others there are drawings of the shrine of St. Ethelbert, and of the Malmesbury Reliquary; a drawing of the Turkish standard taken by John Sobieski at Vienna in 1683. Some of the articles are accompanied by notes and illustrations in the handwriting of Astle, Wanley, &c.

11.—Original drawings from illuminated manuscripts and fac-similes of ancient writings. Folio. Paper and vellum.

12.—A quarto containing a variety of extracts from registers, charters, obituaries, inscriptions, &c., chiefly in the handwriting of Mr. Rowe Mores. It appears to have been his Common-Place Book compiled about the year 1748. The contents are mostly monastic and biographical.

13.—A folio containing grants and charters wholly relating to the history and antiquities of the borough of Ipswich, from the reign of Edward I. to that of Queen Elizabeth. Some of the original documents are on parchment and have the seals appendant.

14.—Three folio volumes, parchment and paper, the first of which contains 27 wills, the second 34, and the third 42. Most of them are originals, or authenticated copies of the 16th and 17th centuries. One is the will of John de Vere, Earl of Oxford, 21st Dec. 1552, with a schedule of the disposal of his personal estate.

15.—Explanatio Testamenti Regis Alfredi ex Libro Abbatæ de Hyda juxta Winton. This MS. is transcribed in a modern hand. It also contains the wills of other Saxon Kings, &c.

16.—The Last Will and Testament of Alfred the Great, from the Hyde Abbey Register. This MS. contains, first, the will, with a literal version into modern English; secondly, a free translation; thirdly, a translation into Latin, with notes upon the whole in the handwriting of Mr. Manning, the author of the Saxon Dictionary, 1776.

MISCELLANEOUS MSS.; OLD ENGLISH POETRY, &c.

1.—A collection of poems, letters, &c. extracted from various authors, in one hand of the reign of James I. A quarto of 416 pages with an index.

2.—The Wicker Chair, a burlesque poem. 49 pages.

3.—Poetical Common Place Book with loose papers of the same nature.

4.—A Common Place Book, partly in the hand of Morant, the historian of Essex.

5.—Inventory of the Earl of Essex's goods at Easton Manditt.

6.—Regulations for the movement of troops.

7.—Receipt book for confectionary, &c.

8.—Letter to Charles II., 1678, by Philoletes.

9.—Conneccion de la Historia de Mallorca.

10.—Donne's poems. A small folio of 229 pages, in one hand of the reign of James I.

E

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

11.—Eight quarto volumes consisting chiefly of extracts from various authors, in a hand mostly of the reign of George II.

12.—Poems by Sir John Beaumont, in one hand, of the reign of James I.

13.—Copy of a letter from the Earl of Essex to the Earl of Southampton; "of the Foundation of a State and the essential parts that form a prince, by the Earl of Essex." In writing of the reign of Elizabeth. At the end of this tract are some verses addressed to Sir Henry Lee, Queen Elizabeth's champion, in the handwriting of and signed by Oliver St. John.

14.—The Duke of Lennox, his speech before his Majesty concerning the Warre wth Scotland.

15.—Marcus Minutius Felix, his Octavius; "Translated by myselfe at Pyrton at the intervalls of my hunting and hawking times, anno 1632. I dare not say well, but as I could. Ignoscat Lector. Henry Knapp."

16.—David and Absalom, a tragedy in five acts, by Bale, Bishop of Ossory, who died 1563, apparently in his own handwriting. A quarto of 62 written pages.

17.—An octavo of miscellanies in prose and verse, in writing of the reign of Elizabeth. At page 32 is the arraignment of Thomas, Duke of Norfolk, in contemporary handwriting.

18.—A folio of 92 written pages containing an unpublished comedy intended to be represented for the amusement of Queen Elizabeth and her courtiers. The handwriting is contemporary. At the end are the following lines addressed to the Queen:—

May you have all the joys of innocence,
Injoyinge too all the delights of sense,
May you live long and knowe till ye are told,
T'endear your beauty, and wonder you are old,
And when heaven's heate shall draw you to the skye,
May you transfigured, not disfigured dye.

19.—An historical poem in old English verse written towards the end of the fifteenth century, presented to Mr. Astle by Mr. Brand in 1788. An octavo of 32 written pages. The first lines are:—

Sum tyme there was a man of State,
That was clepyd methodius,
A holy Bishop, a great Prelate,
A man nobyll and spacyous."

20.—A vellum quarto, bound in oak, of 294 written pages, exclusive of an index. A note in the handwriting of Mr. Astle states that it was presented to him by Mr. Brand in 1796, and that he thinks it was composed in the reign of Richard II. The MS. is all in one hand and contains the lives of saints narrated in old English verse, the latest saint being St. Francis, who died in 1226. The MS. also contains several treatises on religious and other subjects.

21.—A poem on the Trinity, by William of Nassyngton, a proctor in the Ecclesiastical Court at York. A quarto of 640 pages, partly on vellum and partly on paper, and written about the year 1480. At the end is Gower's "Exhortatio contra vitium Adulterii."

22.—The Pilgrim, a poem by John Lydgate, one of the successors of Chaucer, and a monk of the Benedictine Abbey of Bury St. Edmund's. A quarto of 752 pages in writing chiefly of the reign of Henry VII.

23.—A collection of miscellaneous poems in the Welsh language and of the sixteenth century.

ENGLISH TOPOGRAPHY.

1.—A quarto of 518 pages, containing a minutely detailed Terrier of the Lands of East Carleton, in the County of Norfolk, with the denominations, measurements, and rentals, written in the reign of Elizabeth, 1571.

2.—An octavo of 425 pages, in writing of the reign of James I. and entitled, "Liber generalis taxationum, tam temporalium quam spiritualium in com. Norfolk. pro auxilio levando anno tertio Henrici IV. ad maritandam Blanchiam filiam suam primogenitam, in ordine alphabetico." Every landed property in the County of Norfolk is mentioned in this volume, and the rates which were annexed to each.

3.—"Norwich Domesday." A folio of 31 pages, in writing of the time of James I., and in the hand of the compiler, who thus describes the MS. on the title page: "Liber taxationum, ex antiquissimo libro qui communiter, vereque vocatur Doome Booke, Ecclesie Cathedrali S. Sancte Trinitatis Norwicensis pertinente transcripta nec non alia quoad Lynne Regis com. Norf. ex aliis libris eandem Ecclesiam Cathedralium concernentibus, fideliter, et memoria ergo collecta per Thomam Searle, Notarium Publicum." This is one of the few Taxation books of the "Ecclesie Matrice" which are extant.

4.—A folio, for the most part in writing of the reign of Elizabeth, entitled, in Mr. Astle's hand:—"The Statutes of Norwich Cathedral, by Queen Elizabeth."

5.—A vellum folio of 228 pages in writing of the fifteenth century, containing an original rental of the Priory of Norwich. At folio 27 is a deed of Ingulphus when he was Prior of the Monastery.

6.—An octavo of 138 pages, written about the year 1640, containing collections relating to the bishopric and diocese of Norwich, with other miscellanies, apparently written by Richard Peade, Notary Public, and Proctor of the Consistory Court of Norwich.

7.—A folio of 78 written pages containing an inventory of lands held in Babingley, Woolterton, and Sandringham in com. Norfolk, as rated and rented in the reign of James I., in the years 1610 and 1611.

8.—An itinerary of 137 pages, said to be in the handwriting of Dr. Stukeley, with 24 drawings of various antiquities in Cambridge, Norfolk, and Suffolk.

9.—A folio containing the monuments in the Parish Churches and Chapels in Cambridge, with all the arms in and about the colleges, with a short historical account of each college, collected by Francis Bloomfield, student in Caius College, 1724, and in his handwriting.

10.—Six quarto volumes in the handwriting of Mr. Morant, containing the original collections for his "History of Colchester," first printed in 1748. The volumes contain many documents that have not been published.

11.—A folio of 102 written pages, the first 38 in the handwriting of Mr. Morant, the remainder is of the reign of Elizabeth, containing deeds of the 6th and 7th of Henry IV. The whole may be considered as a cartulary of St. John's Abbey, Colchester, containing copies of its deeds and evidences from the reign of Henry I., which have been collated with the originals by Mr. Morant.

12.—A small folio, part of Mr. Morant's collections, consisting chiefly of transcripts, with some original papers, all relating to the history of Colchester in the 17th century.

13.—Three volumes, oblong folio, containing the rate of taxation in Colchester in the reigns of Edward IV., Henry VII., Henry VIII., Edward VI., and Elizabeth, in the handwriting of the collectors pro tempore. The third volume contains an account of armour bought and belonging to the four Wards of Colchester in the reign of Henry VII.

14.—A folio of 252 written pages, entitled in Mr. Morant's hand:—"Ordinance of the Lords and Commons for the speedy raising and levying of money for the maintenance of the army raised by the Parliament, and other great affairs of the Commonwealth, &c., 1642-3." The MS. gives the rates and returns for Colchester, being the originals from the date of the ordinance to the Restoration.

15.—A folio containing some original documents and transcripts relating to the taxation of Colchester from the reign of Henry VIII. to that of Charles II., &c.

16.—An octavo of 67 pages containing a fair transcript from the original charter granted to Colchester by William and Mary 1693.

17.—A folio of 96 pages, entitled by Mr. Morant, "A very curious and valuable account of the lands in each of the Parishes in Colchester, taken in the year 1595 and 1599, in order to fix the proportion which this town was to pay towards the composition of provisions for the Queen's household."

18.—A folio of 120 written pages containing transcripts from the Postmortem Inquisitions from the reign of Richard III. to that of James I.

19.—A folio of 72 pages, in writing of the reign of Charles II. The contents relate chiefly to the forests of Essex, their limits, privileges, &c.

20.—A folio of 70 written pages chiefly in writing of the reigns of Elizabeth and James I., relating to the privileges, limits, and customs of forests in general, and to those of the county of Essex in particular.

21.—A copy in the handwriting of Mr. Morant of Pope Nicholas' Valuation of Livings in the county of Essex in 1293. It was by this valuation that all the first fruits, or taxes of benefices, both to the King and to the Pope, were determined until the new survey of the 26th Henry VIII. Folio.

22.—A folio of 24 written pages in a modern hand containing several law cases examined and determined at the assizes at Chelmsford in the reign of Henry III. with the names and lauds of the persons concerned.

23.—A quarto of 23 written pages, entitled "An explanation of the Survey of the Mannour of Aldborough,

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

in the West Riding of Yorkshire, by W. D. Anno D. 1714."

24.—A quarto of 89 written pages, of the date of 1774, containing the new Charter, Statutes, Powers, Privileges, forms of Elections, &c. of the borough of Saltash.

25.—A quarto of 18 pages, in a modern hand, entitled, "An estimate of the revenues of the Duchy of Lancaster, collated from the records of the Honours belonging to the said Duchy, and yearly paid to the Receiver-General." It contains a list of the Chancellors, chronologically arranged, from the reign of Edward III. to that of James I., and extracts from the rolls of Parl' respecting the duchy from the 2nd of Henry V. to the 1st of Henry VII.

26.—A quarto of 48 written pages, containing the Statutes of Wigstone Hospital, in the borough of Leicester, ordained by the Parliament at Westminster, Sept. 17, 1656.

27.—Two quarto volumes, containing transcripts of the private deeds and charters of the Hospital of St. Nicholas, Herboldown, transcribed by Henry Hall, Rector of St. Michael, Herboldown, in 1763. The deeds are from the reign of Henry I. to that of James I., illustrated by references to contemporary authorities.

28.—"Statutes for the Government of the Metropolitan Church of Canterbury, made by Archbishop Laud, and confirmed by King Charles I. by his Letters Patent under the Great Seal, bearing date at Westminster, Jan. 3, 1636."

29.—Perambulationes Forestarum factæ temporibus Henrici III. et Edw. I. Regum Angliæ. A quarto, partly in writing of the reign of Elizabeth.

30.—A folio of 36 written pages, transcribed in 1662, from "An ancient book of the Perambulations of Rutlandshire in the reign of Edward III."

31.—De Forestis Collectanea. A quarto of 578 written pages in writing of the reign of Elizabeth, in Latin, French, and English, relating to the laws, customs, and usages of forests and foresters.

32.—Liber Niger de Nedewood. A quarto of 145 written pages, in different handwritings, from the reign of Elizabeth inclusive, containing transcripts of more than a hundred charters of the free tenants of Nedewood Forest, exhibited before Roger de Brabbard, steward of the Honor of Tutbury, and inspected by him on the Vigil of St. Clement, in the 6th of Edward I., A.D. 1288.

33.—A quarto of 185 written pages, in different hands, but chiefly of the same period as the preceding MS. relating to Tutbury Honor and Nedewood Chase.

34.—A folio of 38 pages containing an account of the extent, divisions, boundaries, and privileges of Teasdale Forest, and of other contiguous Crown lands in the county of Durham, in writing of the reign of James I., with a map annexed.

35.—The original account of Roger Asheton, Receiver-General and Keeper of the Royal Manor of Richmond, in the reigns of James I. and Charles I., including the expenses for the years 1619, 1620, 1621, 1622, and the 1st of Charles I. Folio.

36.—St. Catharine's Church. Two folio volumes, containing several drawings and descriptions by Dr. Andrew Ducarel, whose autograph is dated July 1763. The work has been published. It was compiled by Ducarel for the use of Queen Charlotte. This church was the only ecclesiastical preferment in the gift of the Queen-Consort of England.

37.—A folio of 118 pages, chiefly written in the reign of Charles II.; containing a description of the offices and salaries of the Tower, as established in the reign of James I.; and an account of the deeds and lands of the Manor and Prebend of Neasdon, in the Parish of Willesdon, Middlesex, from the 2nd of Henry VIII. to 1707.

38.—A folio of 138 leaves, in writing of the reign of Henry VIII., containing the denominations, limits, rents, &c. of the various manors and extensive possessions of the Earls of Oxford from the reign of Henry III. to that of Edward IV.

39.—A survey and description of Northborne Manor, Kent, made in the reign of James I. A folio, in Latin and in one hand of the year 1681.

40.—A folio of 198 written pages containing miscellaneous collections relating to the History and Antiquities of the City of Chester, partly compiled by William Aldersey, a citizen thereof, A.D. 1594.

41.—A folio commencing at page 320, and ending with page 432, consisting of miscellaneous collections relating to the history of Chester, written by different hands at different periods since the reign of James I. The letters of Sir R. Crew are originals, with the seals annexed, and were written in 1626, 1629, and 1630.

42.—A folio of 193 pages, containing a variety of documents relating to the corporations of cities, towns, and trades in England. Many of them have notes in the handwriting of Lord Chancellor Macclesfield.

43.—A folio of 283 pages, containing a variety of curious Topographical and Antiquarian Collections, many of them from the papers of Dr. Ducarel and Lord Chancellor Macclesfield.

44.—Chartulary of the corporations of Derby and Coventry. A folio of 272 written pages, containing transcripts of old Deeds and Charters from the reign of King John to that of Charles II. There are subsequent documents on the same subject, many of which are in the handwriting of Lord Chancellor Macclesfield.

45.—A vellum folio of 67 written pages, containing an original Rental of Markham Abbey, Norfolk. It begins with the words, "Istud est Registrum Rentale factum per Stephanum filium Walteri, anno regis Edwardi, tertii a conquestu xxxix," and ends with a torn leaf, containing Wills, in a more recent hand, the last of which is in 1416.

46.—A folio of 117 pages, in writing of the reign of George I., containing accounts of the Manors and Manorial courts of Hadham Parva and other Manors in Herts, Middlesex, and Essex, from 1701 to 1709.

47.—A folio of 763 written pages in the same hand as the preceding MS., containing the Conditional Manorial Surrenders in Manors of Herts, Essex, and Middlesex, circa 1693.

48.—A folio of 491 pages, in a hand of the reign of George I., containing transcripts of Deeds, Surveys, Terriers, Rentals, &c., of the possessions of many Priors and Churches, from the 13th to the 18th century.

49.—A modern transcript of the account of Derbyshire in Domesday Book, and the Rev. Dr. Vernon's collections, concerning the history and antiquities of Derbyshire, in his own hand. 2 vols. folio.

50.—A copy of the statutes and ordinances of the College of Vicars in Exeter, made April 5, 1591, with the additional statutes and confirmations of different years from 1613 to 1730, when this transcript appears to have been made. Folio.

51.—A copy of Domesday Book as far as relates to the County of Kent, with explanations of the ancient and modern names of places in the county. Folio.

52.—A large paper copy of the printed edition of Langley's History of Desborough Hundred, Bucks. with manuscript additions by the author, and several original letters to Mr. Langley from some of the principal persons in the county as well as from the Dukes of Portland and Dorset, the Marquess of Buckingham, the Bishops of Winchester (North and Tomline), Mr. Canning, and others. Quarto.

53.—A Survey of Boundaries for the County of Norfolk, from the reign of King John to that of Henry VII., in a hand of the reign of James I. Folio.

54.—A transcript from the "Testa de Nevil" or "Liber Feodorum," as far as relates to the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, partly in the handwriting of Peter Le Neve, 1719. Folio.

55.—The accounts of Sir Richard Southwell, on the return of all his possessions in Norfolk for one year. The writing is in one hand, of the 3rd of Elizabeth. Folio.

56.—The accounts of John Hill, Clerk, Receiver of the rents of the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury. The first volume contains them for the year ending Michaelmas, 1588, the second for the year ending Michaelmas 1594. Both are the originals.

57.—An account of all the Beacons of Kent, with the orders and regulations concerning them from 1587 to 1592. A folio of 38 pages, the writing of the reign of Charles II.

58.—A transcript from Domesday Book, as far as relates to Staffordshire, in the handwriting of Mr. Vernon, 1754. Folio.

59.—Erdeswicke's History of Staffordshire, with manuscript additions by Mr. Vernon. Quarto.

60.—"The Parochial Antiquities of Staffordshire, from ancient records, MSS., and authors, in print, by the Rev. Mr. Locksdale." A quarto of 89 pages, which belonged to Mr. Astle in 1762.

61.—A quarto in a modern hand containing copies of the charters granted to Portsmouth by Richard II. in 1385, and by Charles I. in 1628; also inscriptions from tombstones, &c., in many parishes of Hampshire.

62.—Deeds and documents connected with the history of the city of Winchester, and the proceedings of its corporation, in handwriting of different periods from

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

the reign of Edward I. to that of Elizabeth. A vellum folio, in the ancient oak binding.

63.—History of the Cathedral Church of St. Peter, York, written in 1775 by Mr. Edward Abbot, with some additional papers in the same hand. Folio.

64.—A folio of 48 written pages containing a muster roll of the trained bands in Buckinghamshire, in the handwriting of Michael Mitchell, 1624. with details relative to the maintenance of the force by the several towns in the county, &c. &c.

65.—The original returns of the trained bands of Buckingham at the time of the Restoration. Folio.

66.—The original returns of the posse comitatus of Bucks, to John Penn, Esqr., High Sheriff in 1792. 2 vols. Folio.

67.—A quarto containing eleven drawings, representing the costume of the regiment of Royal Bucks Militia in 1793, by Sir William Young, with the names of the officers of the regiment at that time, and the dates of their commissions.

68.—A catalogue, in French, of the royal pictures at Kensington, Hampton Court, Windsor, and St. James's, by a French artist of the reign of George III. Octavo.

69.—Two small volumes, containing a few pages in print and MS. of references to documents for the topography of Berkshire and Cambridgeshire. Duodecimo.

70.—An account of the antiquities at the seat of the Earl of Pembroke in Wiltshire. Small quarto.

71.—Beneficiorum in Anglia taxatio. A transcript from the taxation of Pope Nicholas V. which has been printed.

72. Miscellanea Topographica. A duodecimo of 77 written pages, containing extracts from different authors on the antiquities of various counties of England, Ireland, and Scotland. The collector of these quotations observes that the vine was cultivated to a considerable extent in England in the twelfth century, that the wine made at Gloucestershire was considered the best, and that there was anciently a vineyard in Smithfield, another near Hatton Garden, whence the present Vino street, and a third in St. Giles'-in-the-Fields.

HERALDRY AND GENEALOGY.

1.—Arms, crests, and supporters of English nobility, in the reign of James I., Charles I., and Charles II. 3 vols. folio.

2.—English pedigrees. A folio volume in handwriting of the reign of Charles II. The latest date appears to be 1657.

3.—English Pedigrees. A folio of 288 written pages, containing besides pedigrees, copies of ancient deeds from the reign of Edward I., on which the pedigrees are founded. The deeds are stated to be in the possession of William Wende, Esq., who married the daughter of the Hon. Col. Stawell, the widow of Sir Robt. Austin, of Hall Place, Kent. Transcribed in the reign of George II.

4.—Arms and pedigrees of English families. A folio written in the reign of Elizabeth.

5.—Ancient pedigrees of English nobility with grants of arms, &c. A folio, chiefly in writing of the reign of Charles II., but containing, in a more recent hand, a description of "the Funeral of George Lord Viscount Hewytt, of Goran, in the Kingdom of Ireland, on Monday, 1st December, 1689."

6.—Arms of the ancient nobility, with crests, supporters, &c. A folio containing about 4,000 coats of arms, with descriptions in writing of the reign of Charles II.

7.—Arms and Pedigrees of Anglo-Irish families. Folio. The pedigrees are in writing of the reign of Charles I., with a catalogue prefixed of the chief Governors, Lieutenants, Lords Justices and Deputies of Ireland, ending in 1584.

8.—Arms of English Nobility in the reign of James I. and Charles I. Two folio volumes, the first partly in the handwriting of John Gibbon, Bluemantle Pursuivant-at-Arms in the reign of Charles II. The second volume is of the reign of Elizabeth or James I.

9.—Arms and Pedigrees. A large folio, containing a collection of patents and grants of arms from the time of Glover and Camden, to Sir John Vanbrugh, Clarenceux in 1715, the writing chiefly in hands of the last century.

10.—Collectanea, by John Anstis, Garth King-at-Arms. A duodecimo volume of 430 pages in the handwriting of Mr. Anstis.

11.—Excerpta, by Mr. Anstis. Folio. A collection of extracts from MSS. in the Herald's Office.

12.—Anstis on the name, origin, duties, and privileges of the Earl Marshall. Folio. Wholly in Mr. Anstis' handwriting.

13.—Genealogia J. Anstis, a seipso Conscripta. A folio of 303 pages, all in the handwriting of Mr. Anstis, containing quotations from charters, rolls, authors and documents of every reign since the Conquest.

14.—Collectanea by Francis Thynne. A folio of 619 pages, in Thynne's handwriting, containing collections upon the subjects principally of history, genealogy and heraldry, and bearing date Feb. 14, 1562. Some notes are added in the handwriting of Anstis.

15.—"A book containing His Majesty's orders for the Government of the Bed Chamber and the private lodgings under the charge of the Groom of the Stole, as they were made by His Majesty's Royal predecessors, which said orders are now revived and confirmed, &c." A.D. 1689. Folio.

16.—Flower's Ordinary of Arms. Quarto. A copy of the original, the accuracy of which appears from the inscription, "Pridie Id Feb. A.D. 1578 par moy William Fflower, alias Norroy Roy d'armes; R. Glover, Somersett." Quarto.

17.—The Roll of Karlaverok. A translation into English from the original MS. in the British Museum. Quarto.

18.—King Edward the Fourth's Pedigree. A quarto, on vellum of 52 written pages in contemporary handwriting and in English.

19.—History of the Cigni Family. A quarto, on vellum, of 33 written pages, apparently the original MS. written in Italy in the year 1532.

20.—Memoirs of the House of Saville, by Robert Samber of New Inn, Gent. A.D. 1717. Quarto.

21.—Pedigree of the Family of Willoughby D'Eresby. A vellum folio of 62 written pages in modern handwriting, deriving the pedigree from the reign of King John to the 7th of Henry IV.

22.—Marriage of the Lady Anne de Clifford. A folio, containing the "Processe in the Arches for proving the marriage of Richard Earl of Dorset with the Lady Anne de Clifford in 1609," certified to be conformable with the original preserved in the Prerogative Court. Also "A Surveye of the Crown Jewells remaining in the Tower, taken by virtue of a commission dated 20th March 1607." The original return signed by the King's own hand.

23.—The Barony of Westmoreland. A folio, apparently of the reign of Charles I., tracing the pedigree and succession from the first Baron in the reign of King John to Anne de Clifford in 1628, and ending with a narrative of the division which arose in the family on the death of the 17th Baron concerning the title to its hereditary honours.

24.—Armorial bearings of English Nobility. A quarto, on vellum, of the reign of Elizabeth. On the first page is a table of contents in the handwriting of Lord Burleigh, for whom the MS. was probably compiled.

25.—A Discourse concerning the Prerogative of the Crown. A tract of 22 written pages apparently in the handwriting of William Camden. Quarto.

26.—"A Boke of the Armes, and of the Cotes and Names of Englyshe Knyghtes." A small quarto bearing on its first page the autograph of Sir Richard St. George.

27.—The Statutes of the Order of the Golden Fleece. A folio on vellum, of 91 written pages, describing, in French, the ceremonials used at the installation of the English Kings, and containing treatises, in old French, on Heraldry, the Statutes of the Garter, &c. The writing is of the 16th century.

28.—An Essay on the Honours of Commerce. A quarto of 179 pages, in a modern hand, containing quotations from ancient and modern writers, showing that none of the learned professions is a more honourable, surer, or shorter way to riches than commerce.

29.—The First Knights of the Garter, with original drawings of contemporary date. A folio containing 27 drawings of the First Knights of the Garter in their robes, and described on the title page as "Draughts, or the Effigies of the First Knights or Founders of the Order of the Garter, depicted, as appears by a title in a later hand, in order to be set up in the Church of Stanford at the costs of Sir William Bruges, the first Garter King-of-Arms, &c. &c." Bruges died before the 20th of March 1449, when his will was proved. The names of the Knights elected after that date are added in a later hand. This MS. formerly belonged to Ashmole and Anstis, and was purchased at the sale of Mr. Townley's library.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

pedigrees, on rolls of paper and of Stanning of Devonshire,
re, Beckwith, Rudston, Risley atfield of Laughton, Pinckney, wasor, Redman, and Lovett.
of Scotland, &c. &c.

the Major family of Hampshire, Somerset Herald. On a vellum ned.

of sundry Noble Houses, whereof l sole heir to Sir Philip Sidney, llum roll, with arms emblazoned, and others, per Cooke, Clarenhe Kings of England to Edward as written. On a vellum roll.

the Ballard Family, certified by a vellum roll, with arms em-the Whittingtons and Tamhorns. arms emblazoned.

the Plomptons, of Plompton in 1714.

he Crossland family, of Crossland
y, 1707.

the Derhams, of Crimpsam, co.
a roll, twelve feet in length, with

The latest date is 1663.

he Johnsons, of Sion Hall, Middle-l eleven feet long, with the arms est date is 1736.

f the family of Keech, of Long ershire, and Great Tew, in Oxford-emblazoned. The latest date is 1715.
the Pulter family, with their arms um roll, in writing of the time of the family of Dunch, of Witnam, ks, to the year 1683, by Sylvanus

m roll with arms emblazoned.

ers of England, 1776. Quarto.
ish nobility, with an account of Edward the Third's time. Octavo.
n of Elizabeth.

grees, grants of arms, &c. from the with reference to original records 16th century, written chiefly in the quarto.

ch Nobility, &c. A quarto partly gn of James I.

S. described on the title-page as s for Arms from 35th of Henry VI.
th." The grants are by "Gu-enry the Sixth's reign; by J. Richtenry the Seventh's; by C. Carlisle, reign; and by Dethick, Camden, igns of Elizabeth and James I. The t century.

aldry. Quarto. The dates annexed to n 1600 to 1642. Some of them are rests of English families. A folio, eral grants of Arms in the reign of es I., by Camden, St. George, and and crests are very numerous and every county in England.

grees, and seals of English families,
s by Camden, Glover, Cook, and other n of James I. The handwriting is Charles II. Folio.

otch and English families. Partly in a of James I. Folio.

glish and Scotch Kings and nobles.
g of James the First's reign. The ns an Essay, in eight pages, on "The s, and supporters of Scotch nobility.

n hand, ending with a "Catalogue of ity with their precedence according to ions, as presented to King Charles II.
Dugdale, principal King-of-Arms.

pedigrees of English nobility, by Syl-43. The author's autograph is on the nglish Families. A folio of the reign nd Scotch arms. A folio of George the ontaining the arms of Bishops, Abbots, eges, Inns of Court, Hospitals, Cities,

56.—Arms of English and Irish families. A collection of grants of arms from Edward III. to Charles I., the writing partly of the reign of Henry VIII. Folio.

57.—Arms of English, Scotch, and Irish families, a folio of the last century containing 884 pages and several thousand shields of arms.

58.—Arms and pedigrees of English families from the Conquest to James I., in whose reign these two volumes were compiled. Folio.

59.—Arms of Lord Mayors and Sheriffs of London, the sketches of arms are of the reign of Charles I.

60.—Arms of the City Companies and Lord Mayors and Sheriffs of London. Partly written in the reign of Charles I. 2 vols. Quarto.

61.—Arms and pedigrees, 1572, chiefly of the county of Stafford. Folio.

62.—A folio containing numerous Armorial Bearings.
At the end is a copy of "the Book of Precedence of all Estates, and placing to their degrees."

63.—A folio MS. containing a "Dialogue on Armoury," in writing of the reign of Charles II.; also arms and pedigrees of Northumbrian families, written in 1658, and Miscellaneous English Arms, ending 1764.

64.—A folio containing a great variety of curious particulars relating to Royal processions, ceremonies, &c.;
also nine pages of contemporary handwriting addressed to Lord Burleigh, minutely describing the execution of Mary, Queen of Scots. The handwriting of this volume is chiefly of the reigns of Elizabeth and James I.

65.—A folio containing the arms and quarterings of upwards of a thousand families, chiefly of the 16th and 17th centuries. The latest date is 1693.

66.—A folio of the reign of Charles II., containing upwards of two thousand English, Irish, and Scotch coats of arms, but chiefly English.

67.—A large folio written and emblazoned in the reign of Elizabeth, whose arms and initials are displayed on the first page. The volume contains a biographical account of each of the sovereigns from William the Conqueror, from whom the genealogies are traced with all the collateral alliances.

68.—A large parcel containing arms and pedigrees of the French nobility of the reigns of Louis XIV. and
XV. with numerous shields of arms emblazoned.

69.—A parchment roll, sixty-one feet in length and one foot ten inches broad, containing the pedigree of the Kings of France from the reign of Hugh Capet to the death of Charles VI. This MS. was compiled about the year 1451, and was taken out of the Garde Meuble, at Paris, when it was plundered during the French Revolution.

70.—Panvini, Pontificum Romanor. Epitome. Venice, 1557; with fifty pages of MS. additions, drawings of armorial bearings, &c., carrying the Papal successions down to Clement VIII. in 1592. Folio.

71.—A folio of the 17th century, in which the writer derives the etymology, origin, and history of all English titles of honour from the most approved records and authorities.

72.—A folio of 360 written pages of the reign of Charles II. The contents are thus described in the title page: "Sir Robert Cotton, Mr. Camden, Mr. Selden, Mr. Tate, and sundry other learned Antiquaries upon the great offices of Lord High Steward, Lord High Constable, and Earl Marshall of England, with other offices appendant to them."

73.—A large folio of the reign of Elizabeth, containing arms and pedigrees of noble English families from the Conquest to Elizabeth.

74.—A folio containing a Genealogical History of the Kings of England from Egbert, A.D. 801, to Elizabeth, in whose reign the MS. was written. It belonged to Sir Isaac Heard, Garter King-at-Arms, whose autograph is on the first page, dated 1781.

75.—A folio of the time of Elizabeth, containing the arms of the Ancient Nobility and Knights Bannerets of England in the reign of Edward I. This volume also belonged to Sir Isaac Heard in 1803.

76.—A folio of the reign of Charles II., containing miscellaneous collections relating to the offices of Lord High Constable, Lord High Steward, and Earl Marshall.

77.—A quarto in 4 volumes. The first is entitled,
"Coronation Claims," written in one hand of the reign of James I. The second and third are the Collectanea of Mr. Anstis, the Garter King-at-Arms, partly in his own hand, partly in that of Mr. Astle. The fourth, which is entirely in the handwriting of Mr. Anstis, is entitled "Histoire Genealogique de la Maison de Granville avec ses Genealogies, &c."

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

78.—A quarto on vellum, containing an account of the form and ceremonials of English Coronations in the reign of Henry VII. in whose reign it was written, Also "The Copy of a Carrete compassynge the circunyte of the world, and the compase of every land comprehendid in the same;" and another article in old English, written before the discovery of America, and giving a short description of the world.

79.—A folio containing proceedings of the Court of Claims on the services and fees claimed at the Coronation of Charles II., in whose reign the MS. was written.

80.—A folio containing Coronation Claims from Richard II. to James I. A miscellaneous collection, made in the reign of Charles II. From the Essex Collection.

81.—A folio entitled, in Mr. Astle's handwriting, "Preparations for the Coronation of King Charles II., with accounts of several preceding coronations. 2ndly: An account of those noblemen who were Knights of the Garter during the Civil Wars, &c., by Sir Ed. Walker."

82.—A folio, in a modern hand, containing an account of the procession and ceremonials at the Coronation of James II.

83.—A quarto on vellum, containing ninety-six written pages, ten of which have illuminated drawings representing the ceremonies of the Coronation of Claude, Queen of Francis I. of France, and the Court costume of the time. The descriptions and the prayers used on the occasion are in French, and in contemporary handwriting.

84.—Pompes Funèbres D'Anne de Bretagne. A quarto on vellum, containing illuminated drawings of the procession and ceremonies at the obsequies of Anne of Brittany, with descriptions of the chief mourners and other personages who attended. Also her pedigree, and the principal events of her life. Compiled by De Bretagne, the Queen's principal herald.

85.—A folio, containing a modern transcript of the order and proceedings at the funeral of Queen Elizabeth. The MS. also contains some articles relating to translations of the Bible.

86.—The Art of Blazon. A folio, which also contains a catalogue of English Baronets from the time of James I., with descriptions of their arms.

87.—A folio containing modern transcripts of Royal Wills and some other matters relating to heraldry. The will of Henry VIII. is in a contemporary hand.

88.—A quarto containing extracts from wills, &c., which form a valuable body of evidence in support of English Pedigrees of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries; also copies of several ancient Charters granted to religious houses by Yorkshire families; grants to Knights Templars; a calendar of Knights' fees and advowsons to churches which belonged to the Earls of Cornwall, &c. &c.

89.—A folio in the handwriting of Sir Nicholas Dethick, Windsor Herald, in 1585. The title of the first article is, "Funerals sarvid to my knowledge sithens anno 1583." The descriptions give the date and place of the deceased's death, the arms of his family, the names of the presiding heralds, and the order of precedence of all ranks.

90.—A folio containing an account of the interment of celebrated persons in the vaults of Westminster Abbey, from 1705 to 1745, and also the funeral of Princess Louisa in 1768.

91.—Abstracts of funeral certificates from 1597 to 1660, and some grants of arms by heralds of the same period. Folio.

92.—A folio containing the ceremonials of the christenings of Prince Edward, son of Henry VIII., and Prince Arthur, son of Henry VII.; Orders for the office of Constable of England, made and conceived by Thomas of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, and dedicated to King Richard II.; the Order of a funeral of a great estate; the proceeding to the Parliament, and the interment of Queen Elizabeth, wife of Henry VII., with curious drawings of the several proceedings.

93.—A folio containing abstracts from funeral certificates from 1614 to 1651. The funeral bearings are described in shields and writing of the reign of Charles II.

94.—History and Statutes of the Order of the Garter. A transcript partly in a modern hand. Folio.

95.—Arms and Crests of Knights of the Garter, &c. A folio in writing of the reign of Charles II.

96.—Miscellanies relating to the Order of the Garter. A folio partly in the handwriting of Sir Edward Walker, describing the ceremonials used at Garter Installations from the reign of Henry VIII.

97.—Drawings of the Armorial Bearings of the Dukes of Buckingham, Somerset, Devonshire, and other noble and illustrious families of England and Ireland. Three hundred shields executed in colours by P. Absalom.

98.—A large folio containing the quarterings of a great many families copied from painted glass windows, tombs, and monuments of various kinds in every county of England. The writing is from the reign of James I. to that of Charles II.

99.—A folio said to be entirely in the handwriting of Camden containing the pedigrees and arms of more than four hundred English families.

100.—Extracts from the Indentures of War, from Edward III. to Henry VIII., made by Sir William Le Neve, and digested by Sir Edward Walker in 1664.

101.—Camden's visitation of England, a transcript of the reign of Charles II. with additions from 1615 to 1650. Folio.

102.—A folio of the reign of James I., containing from original authorities the intermarriages and descents of many English families.

103.—Les principes du Blason. Octavo, in French, the drawings by T. Dingley, 1643.

104.—English and Scotch Crests. Octavo.

105.—Heraldic Miscellanies. The latest date annexed to the shields is 1646. At the end are descriptions of the arms of the principal aboriginal families of Ireland called the Milesians. Octavo.

106.—A duodecimo in a modern hand. Amongst its contents is "A short historical account of such marks and ensignes of honour as are commonly called Armes &c., thereunto are added certain briefe observations touching the Antiquitie of Heraldry, &c."

107.—A small quarto containing sketches of Arms executed for English families by the herald's officers down to 1678.

108.—Arms of Essex families, described in alphabetical order with the names of their places of residence. Duodecimo.

109.—Arms of Suffolk, Norfolk, and Essex families. The latest date is 1726. Duodecimo.

110.—Catalogue of Nobility, 1616, in the handwriting of the author, who is said to be "Henry Knapp, father of Mary Knapp, wife of Sir Richard Temple". Quarto.

110a.—An octavo, in the handwriting of Philipot, containing armorial bearings chiefly of the nobility and gentry of Kent, about the year 1616.

111.—Armorial bearings of numerous English and Welsh families, about 1770. Quarto.

112.—Heraldic Work Book, containing an account of the expenses incurred for heraldic pageantry at Cromwell's funeral and the prices for heraldic work from 1656 to 1670, and curious as evidence of the desire for the distinction of rank during the Commonwealth. Quarto.

113.—A quarto in four volumes containing numerous drawings of armorial bearings since the Revolution.

114.—Arms and Pedigrees of Bedfordshire, Northamptonshire and Rutlandshire families. The latest date to the pedigrees is 1654, and the writing is chiefly of that period. Folio.

115.—Visitations of Bedfordshire and Berkshire, with arms and pedigrees of Sussex and Hertfordshire families, and other miscellaneous contents. The writing chiefly of the reigns of Charles I. and Charles II. Folio.

116.—Visitation of Buckinghamshire. A copy of Philipot's and Ryley's visitation in 1634, with several other Coats of Arms, collected by Samuel Walker, in 1669. Folio.

117.—Arms and Pedigrees of Buckinghamshire families, not later than the reign of Charles I., with a list of the Justices of Bedfordshire and Bucks, from the reign of Henry II. Folio.

118.—A folio, containing a description of the armorial bearings and copies of inscriptions in the churches of St. Michael, St. Brigett, St. Mary, St. Olive, and St. John, at Chester.

119.—Visitation, with Arms and Pedigrees of Cornwall, Devonshire, Dorsetshire, Somersetshire, Wiltshire, and Hampshire families. A copy made in the reign of Charles II. of the visitation of Thomas Benbolt, Clarencieux, in the time of Henry VIII. Folio.

120.—Arms of Devonshire families from the reign of Edward I. to Henry VII. The armorial bearings are numerous, and are described in handwriting of the reign of Elizabeth. Quarto.

121.—Arms and Pedigrees of Dorsetshire families. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

England and Ireland.

English families.
ex, Sussex, and Kent sts of several Lord are as late as 1641.

Arms and Pedigrees
he original visitation
Henry Lilly, Rouge

lies down to 1634, ice the Conquest, in
I. This MS. belonged whose autograph it

entioned in Morant's ritten upon Chinese es in handwriting of ntury. Folio.

Hampshire families,
Folio.

Arms and Pedigrees
visitation of the C. n in 1634, by Sir
s Richmond Herald
St. George, Knight,
ily transcribed by the
Folio.

ent, with arms and some of the descents e down to 1684. Folio.
untingdonshire fami-
s Careless, Lancaster pedigrees is 1656. 2

Arms and Pedigrees
es down to 1683. At of "Naunton's Frag-f Stafford character-ic Lord Coventry, late

Kentish families, pedine of them are by Sir
Folio.

Kentish families, in Charles I. to Queen

f Kentish families, in
I. The pedigrees are with Arms and Pedi-the visitation taken by nd Augustine Vincent,

Arms and Pedigrees
es traced to 1649, and
Sir Richard and Sir
Segar. Folio.

Northamptonshire famigrees is 1619, though
nd. Folio.

Northamptonshire, Sufand Sussex families.
dred pages containing llanies written chiefly century, and describests granted by Cooke, ipot, and other eminent

f Oxfordshire families.
Folio.

e; with Arms and Pedi-
Apparently a transcript
Folio.

d, and Cheshire families, of Charles I. Small

m 1511 to 1650. The s II. Small quarto.

ilies. Folio.
hire, with Arms and ilies; by Sir Richard

reign of Charles II.
Shropshire made and merset, and Augustine of Armes, Marshalls
nden Esq., Clarencieux er with the visitation made by Richard Lee, Portoullis, Marshall and Deputie to Robert Cooke, Clarencieux King-of-Arms

A.D. 1584, with other collections by me, John Withie."

148.—Arms and Pedigrees of Somersetshire families, in writing of the reigns of James I. and Charles II.
Quarto.

149.—Arms and Pedigrees of Sussex families in writing of the reign of Charles I. The latest date is 1619. Folio.

150.—Arms and Pedigrees of English families in writing of the reign of Charles I. Folio.

151.—Staffordshire Pedigrees, in the handwriting of Richard St. George, Norroy King-at-Arms, 1614.
Quarto.

152.—Warwickshire Pedigrees, of the reign of James I. Quarto.

153.—Barber's Art of Heraldry. with forty-one plates of arms, "Blazoned by the late Thomas Barber."
Quarto.

154.—Arms and Pedigrees of Welsh families, &c.
The latest date of the descents is 1629. The volume also contains "A transcript of part of the White Book of Hergest, a folio MS. on vellum, containing a large collection of Welsh Poetry, Heraldry, and History compiled in the reigns of Henry VI. and Edward IV., by Lewis Glyn Cothi. The original MS. was in the Wynustay Collection, but destroyed by fire when in the hands of a bookbinder in 1800." This is followed by "A true copping of an antient memorable treatise touchinge the pedigree of the Herberts, by commission from King Edward IV., A.D. 1460." Folio.

155.—Arms of Dutch families, commencing in 1433 and continued to 1754, when the MS., which is in Dutch, and was compiled in Holland, was written. Folio.

156.—Extracts, partly in the handwriting of Mr.
Astle, from original visitations of forty English counties in the reign of James I. and Charles I. Quarto.

157.—A folio containing Arms of Wales, Salop, Herts, Bedfordshire, Kent, &c.; copies of letters by Sir Henry Wotton in 1589-99, dated from Heidelberg, and relating to the affairs of Germany; Visitations of Hertfordshire in 1579 and 1634, by Sir Henry St. George, &c.; and sixteen portraits elaborately drawn in pen and ink, of George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham; James Marquess of Hamilton; Spottiswoode, Primate of Scotland; Usher, Primate of Ireland; Williams, Bishop of Lincoln; Hall,
Bishop of Norwich; Sir Walter Raleigh, Gustavus Adolphus, and others, by Robert Walker, in 1656 and 1657.

158.—Armorial bearings from various churches, with a list of the places from which they were collected. A quarto of the reign of George II.

159.—A quarto, thus described by Mr. Anstis: "An Alphabet of Armes, in the handwriting of Sir Christopher Barker, Garter, with his grants at the end of each letter."

160.—Grants of Arms by Sir Gilbert Dethick, who was Garter in the reign of Henry VIII., Ed. VI., Mary, and Elizabeth, with some subsequent grants by his son,
Sir Wm. Dethick, and by Sir Wm. Segar, &c. Folio.

MANUSCRIPTS IN THE IRISH LANGUAGE.

1.—Loose leaves of Irish MSS. with fac-similes for Mr.
Astle's work on the Origin and History of Writing, with memoranda relating to Irish Literature. by the Rev. Dr. O'Connor, in a large portfolio.

2.—A quarto of 27 written pages, containing a panegyric on Saint Dominic. The writing is of the reign of George I. and the language is modern Irish.

3.—A quarto containing: "The Successions and Chro-nology of the Pagan Kings of Ireland, &c."; a copy of the ancient Irish Grammar of Ciunfaelad mac Oilola,
A.D. 628; an Irish book of sermons of the reign of George I.

4. A duodecimo of 122 written pages, in Irish language and characters, containing the fabulous History of King Arthur Pendragon, and a poem on the History of Ireland, both by John O'Sullivan, 1699.

5.—Beatha Naomh Pattraic, or Life of St. Patrick. A quarto, imperfect, in writing of the last century. St.
Patrick's pedigree, as preserved in this MS., is quoted by Usher, and from an ancient Irish poem in the Annals of the Four Masters.

6.—Eochair sciath an Aifrionn; or the Key to the shield of the Mass. This work is divided into eighteen chapters, and ends at folio 38, where it is followed by the "Life of our Saviour," in 47 folios, imperfect.
Both are in a modern hand.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

7.—Eochair sciath an Aifrionn. A folio of 67 written pages. A more recent copy of the first part of the preceding MS.

8.—Eochair sciath an Aithfrionn. A quarto of 160 written pages. The work is Keating's, and the MS. is coeval with the author.

9.—A quarto of 305 written pages, containing lives of Irish Saints in the Irish language and characters, transcribed in 1627 from an ancient MS. which belonged to the monastery of Carrickfergus.

10.—A quarto of 220 written pages containing Irish poems, chiefly transcribed in the 17th and 18th centuries from various original MSS.

11.—A quarto, imperfect at the beginning and end—the first page is numbered 618, the last 778—containing Irish poems of the seventeenth century, on the genealogies of ancient families and the downfall of ancient Ireland, the Catholic religion, &c.

12.—A quarto of 88 written pages, imperfect at the beginning, containing Irish poems, &c. On the second leaf there is the following note in the handwriting of Mr. O'Connor, of Belanagare: "Dominick O'Duigenan wrote this book for me, Cathal O'Connor, the son of Donnchad, son of Cathal junior O'Connor, A.D. 1725, at Kill mac a Thranni, i.e., at Cnocmore." At the end is Mr. O'Connor's Catalogue and Chronology of the Pagan Kings of Ireland from A.D. 130 to A.D. 508, in his own hand, with his notes.

13.—A quarto of 166 written pages of Irish verse, consisting principally of the controversy between the poets of Munster and Connaught, in the reign of James I., in which the contending parties extol the acts of their respective kings as more glorious than those of their opponents, in peace and war. The controversy is chiefly by O'Clery for Connaught, and O'Brudín for Munster, and some of the poems on the history of the O'Donnells are in the handwriting of O'Clery.

14.—A quarto, imperfect at the beginning and end, containing various poems in the Irish language and character. The writing is from the reign of James I. to that of George I.

15.—Two quarto volumes of 373 written pages, containing extracts from the Original Annals of the Four Masters, in the Irish language and characters. The first 233 pages are in the handwriting of Mr. O'Gorman, Mr. O'Connor's amanuensis, the remainder in his own.

16.—O'Brian's Irish Dictionary, quarto, with considerable MS. additions, amounting to a thousand words, by the Rev. Dr. O'Connor.

17.—Two quarto volumes containing the correspondence of Charles O'Connor, of Belanagare, chiefly upon the literature and antiquities of Ireland, and the penal laws affecting the Roman Catholics of that kingdom. The letters are very numerous, and amongst the principal writers are several of the O'Connor family, Dr. Curry, Mr. Contarine, Mr. Brooke (author of Gustavus Vasa); Lords Taaffe, Trimbleston, and Lyttelton; Dr. Warner, Dr. Leland, Dr. Carpenter, Mr. O'Halloran, Mr. George Faulkner, &c. &c.*

18.—The Ptolemaic System of Astronomy. A vellum folio of 33 written pages in the Irish language and characters of the fourteenth century.

19.—Din-Seanchus, or, a metrical history of the sacred hills and artificial forts of Ireland. A vellum folio of eight leaves in writing of the 13th century. It is a fragment of a larger work, but Dr. O'Connor has observed that it supplies some valuable readings. The origins of the names of several remarkable places in Ireland are explained by reference to ancient histories which no longer exist.

20.—Din-Seanchus, or, a metrical history of the sacred hills and artificial forts of Ireland. A transcript in the handwriting of Michael O'Clery, temp. Charles I., containing a typographical account of remarkable hills, castles, duns, rivers, royal seats, gold and silver mines, and Druidical remains of Ireland. In the title affixed to this copy the work is ascribed to "Amergin, the son of Amalgad, who was Poet in the reign of Diarmad mac Cerveol," A.D. 544. Quarto.

21.—The Book of the O'Duigenans. A folio of 258 pages, transcribed from the original MS. of an historical compilation of the fourteenth century, by David O'Duigenan, temp. Charles II. It contains also some poems and romances of a later date, and fabulous narratives of the exploits of the heroes and warriors of Ireland, valuable as specimens of the romantic style of the Irish Soealuidnes, or story tellers of the 15th and 16th centuries.

22.—MacGeoghagna's "Histoire de l'Irlande." The printed matter is preceded and followed by extracts from the Annals of Four Masters, written in the Irish language and character by Mr. O'Connor, of Belanagare, and relating chiefly to the Desmond and Tyrone wars.

23.—Ancient Irish poems. A quarto of 324 written pages with numerous marginal notes and collations chiefly in the handwriting of O'Flaherty, author of the Ogygia, and in that of Mr. O'Connor. The text is stated by the transcriber to have been copied by him from an ancient MS. on vellum preserved (1626) in the monastery of Donegal, entitled "Leabhar hua Congabhla." The original MS. is quoted as ancient and very valuable by Keating and the Four Masters; since whose time it has disappeared, leaving the present collection as its only representative.

24.—The Lord Deputy Perrot's composition with the old native Irish of Connaught. A folio of 224 pages on vellum. "The grand object" says Dr. O'Connor "of Perrot's administration was to induce the Irish chiefs to compound with Queen Elizabeth, surrendering their properties and receiving them again, and holding them of the Queen in capite by English tenure. Perrot was successful in Connaught, where he made the first experiment, and on this occasion Connaught was divided into counties, and the old leading families of this province surrendered the exorbitant power which they had hitherto exercised over their wretched vassals. This counterpart of Perrot's original composition was preserved by the O'Connor family from the time of Elizabeth. It has suffered, as almost every Irish document has, from the confusions and calamities of the civil wars, having been carried from one place to another as that family were compelled to remove to different places of refuge by the iniquity of the times. The four first leaves are missing; the subsequent leaves down to thirty-eight are considerably damaged. The properties of O'Connor Don, O'Connor Roe, and McDermot are said in this composition to consist of the 'Baronies of Ballintober, Roscommon, and Boilo,' with the exception of lands which are specified in each as belonging to the Queen and to the Church. All the estates of individuals, holding under Sir Hugh O'Connor of Ballintober in 1585, in whose behalf he signed this composition, with the names of their respective houses and lands are specified, as are all those of the other divisions of Connaught. The composition made by O'Kelly, of Hi Mani, follows that of the O'Connors and MacDermots, and the name of the Lord Deputy signed by himself, confirms the indentures."

25.—A metrical list of the Provincial Kings of Ireland, and historical poems by the ancient Irish Bards. A quarto of 212 written pages in the Irish language and characters, said to contain valuable and interesting articles which have eluded the most diligent inquiries elsewhere. The following are mentioned among the original documents from which they have been transcribed: An ancient MS. on vellum, entitled "Leabhar na cceart," the Book of Rights; the Book of Ballimote, an ancient MS. on parchment which MacDonnach, of the Castle of Ballimote, sold for 140 milch cows to Aodh O'Donnel in 1522, a volume frequently quoted by Usher; an ancient MS. in the church of Kilronan, called the "Book of Kilronan"; O'Duigan's Metrical Dictionary of ancient Irish words. The transcript was made by Cormac og O'Corrain in the beginning of the last century.

26.—Miscellanea Hibernica: De Vita Cumeani; De Regibus Pictorum; De Ordinibus Hibernorum numero xxi.; et De Regum Hiberniae et Albaniae Synchronismus; &c. A vellum octavo of 96 pages; whose contents have been extracted from many ancient Irish MSS.

27.—A folio, partly on vellum, containing: A dictionary of obsolete Irish words, used in the schools of Ireland in the 15th and 16th centuries; a fragment of the rules of Irish grammar and prosody, written in the 14th century; a copy on paper of Gildas Moduda's historical poem "Eire og Inis na naomh," &c.

28.—O'Duigan's poems on the divisions and territories of the chief clans of Ireland, with other poems on the same subject composed in the 14th century. A quarto of 28 written pages. The first poem is thus inscribed in Irish, "Great John O'Duigan, the Historical Professor of the District of Hi Mani (ir Connacht) composed this poem in metre." This MS. was transcribed in 1661 by Seán O'Dubluige.

29.—Carmina Hibernica, de Religione et de Vita Christi. On vellum. A quarto of 64 pages, the first seven of which are missing. The poetical work is

* An account of the MSS. of O'Connor, preserved in Ireland, is given in the present Report of the Commission. See Appendix, Part I., p. 441.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

the Birth, Life, and article is the "Dream folio of 119 pages. fourteenth century. dictionary of ancient nations of their meanly of the Irish poets, as from poets of the l from others whose contains a fragment 7th centuries.

rnice. On vellum. nning with the year . O'Connor speaks of at there is no history or of any one of its onicle.

e, Lingua Hibernica. leaves, the first and from the most ancient with a copious com- sh, and illustrated by of the 7th and 8th of the 12th century.

Masters, comprising m the earliest period original autograph of Four Masters. The O'Gara, Member of o in 1634.

Book of the O'Kellys. MS. contains much ation relative to the es; historical poems; s, &c. It is of the land. A folio nearly st 35 leaves missing. ollections of Maguire. ie volume are chiefly arcs of Brefni, trans-

. On vellum. An names of the various plained in Irish. At te:—"I, Neal O'Quin, of St. Patrick being D. 1535."

of Ancient Irish Com- Two quarto volumes James Maguire, from a rbis, of Lecan, in 1650, e contents from ancient Columba, S. Comgal of , and from the "Book contains more than 500 hbaltas, et vita Hiber- carminibus nonnullis es, the first two of which he Irish language and eign of Charles I., and Gabhaltas, or Book of he more ancient copy of shburnham's collection. iting of Mr. O'Connor, language and charac- ged to Aod, the head ne, in 1684, and that mother Mary O'Ruarc. that connection. The an.

Var, between Connacht ves, closely written on he beginning and end. enan, temp. James II., of a work supposed to ign of Diarmait Mac D. 544.

omtha S. Clara ar na a la toil an uachtarain, Mother, S. Clare, trans- , with the goodwill of decimo of 323 pages in ters written by Michael onor to be a standard age. ages, partly of vellum, aidhe," or a Chronicle in Prose and Verse, of which the first and some of the last leaves are missing. The first poem is on the colonization of Ireland. There is also a copy of Gildas Coeman's Metrical List of the Kings of Ireland, written in 1072. Some other poems follow in the handwriting of Mr. O'Connor of Belanagare.

42.—Reimh Rioghraidhe. A fragment on vellum quoted by Keating as amongst the most ancient and valuable MSS. that remained in his time (Charles I.). The ancient historical poems preserved in it relate to the successions and genealogies of the Irish kings, and to some leading events of their reigns.

43.—A folio of 293 pages containing a copy of the "Book of Conquests," transcribed from the Book of the MacDonnaghs, of the Castle of Ballimote; the "Reim Riograidhe," or times of the kings of Ireland; metrical lists of the succession of Irish kings; the expeditions of Brian Boroiimhe; a poem on the successions of the O'Kellys, princes of Hi Maui, by O'Duin, &c., &c.

44. Din-Seanchus, or, a Metrical History of the Hills and Forts of Ireland. A folio of 180 pages, vellum, in the ancient Irish language and characters, written in the 13th century, and considered to be the oldest copy of the Book of Glendaloch extant.

45.—Leabhar Gabhaltas, the Book of Conquests. A folio of 101 written pages transcribed in 1647, from a MS. on vellum. The following memorandum is in Mr. O'Connor's handwriting. "The Book of Conquests, which was presented to me by Doctor Francis O'Sullivan, in Dublin, A.D. 1764, in the month of Baal's fire (May)."

46.—A folio entitled by Dr. O'Connor "Leabhar Gabhaltas—fragment, Sæc. xiv., et Vita Antiqua Hibernica S. Cumeani Alti, incerto Auctore Sæculi viii." On vellum. The characters in this MS. correspond with those of the Irish Testament in the Harleian Collection, No. 2082.

47.—An ancient Irish MS. on vellum, containing fragments of Irish poems and romances, and of Greek, Roman, and Irish history, for the most part fabulous. It was purchased at the sale of Count Macarthy's library in Paris.

48.—Leabhar Gabhaltas: the Book of Conquests. On vellum, quarto. It has been ascertained, says Dr. O'Connor, by the most careful and extensive researches, that no more ancient copy of the Leabhar Gabhaltas than is contained in this venerable manuscript can be traced in any of the celebrated collections of Europe. The writing is of the twelfth century, in the ancient Irish language and characters. In its present state the leaves are forty-two in number, written on both sides. The writing corresponds with that of the Irish copy of the Four Gospels in the Harleian Library, No. 1282, which was written by Maelbrigda, A.D. 1138. The poems which it contains are of the seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth centuries. Of this work the Four Masters, Colgan, O'Flaherty, Bishop Nicholson, and all Irish antiquaries speak in terms of great respect. It is quoted in the Din-Seanchus, a manuscript of the thirteenth century in this collection; and it is not improbable that it is the work on Irish history which Giraldus quotes in his Topographia Hiberniæ, since the account which he gives of the first colonization of Ireland is but an abridgment of the traditions which are mentioned in the first pages of the Leabhar Gabhaltas. It is certain that every document, every authority quoted in this manuscript is antecedent to the age not only of Giraldus but also of Tigernach, who died in 1088, and who quotes several of the ancient poems which are here preserved, and besides, that most of these poems were composed before the Danes had made any permanent settlement in Ireland.

49.—Leabhar Gabhaltas, or the Book of Conquests. On vellum. A fragment of 18 pages in the Irish language and characters of the thirteenth century. Folio.

50.—Brehon Laws, in the ancient Irish language and characters. On vellum. A fragment. The writing appears to be of the fourteenth century, and it is probably a copy of the Brehon laws, which are quoted by the Four Masters, and by them ascribed to King Cormac Ulfada, who reigned until A.D. 280. The first page of this MS. states that it is Cennfaelad's compilation of the Laws of King Cormac, collected by him at a place called Doire Luran, in the reign of Donald, the first king of Ireland, who

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

reigned at Temora in 629. The laws of the ancient Irish can now only be known from this Brehon manuscript, and from that which was formerly in the library of the Duke of Chandos, at Canons, if it be still extant. The following note, in the handwriting of the Right Hon. Thomas Grenville, is on a fly-leaf: "When Count Macartie's library was sold at Paris, I observed that the last article in it was only announced as 'an Irish manuscript': conceiving it likely to be curious as belonging to a literary Irish gentlemen, I ordered it to be purchased, and gave 5*l.* or 6*l.* for it. This MS., when examined by Dr. O'Connor, proved to be a collection of the Brehon laws, of which, as far as I am informed, there is no other perfect copy known. I gave this MS. to the library at Stowe. Thomas Grenville. 8 August 1835."

51.—An ancient missal and ritual in the Irish language and characters of the tenth and eleventh centuries, in an ornamented cover. On vellum. Small quarto. The first pages of this manuscript contain the Gospel of St. John, in Latin, but in Irish characters, with an ornamented initial letter, and a figure of St. John, having the eagle, his usual emblem, hovering with expanded wings over his head. This Irish copy of St. John's Gospel is not divided into chapters or verses, and no break appears in the text from beginning to end. The next article is an ancient Irish missal, written in larger Irish characters than the preceding Gospel of St. John. All the improvements which have been made in the Roman missal since the days of Berno, A.D. 1012, and which were universally adopted in Ireland at the Synod of Kells, in 1152, are wanting in this; and therefore this must be considered as the missal which was in use in Ireland before that time, probably from the days of Columban. It is, in fact, one of the most valuable monuments that has escaped the ravages of the tenth century. The Irish missal is followed by another work called "Ordo Baptismi," giving the rites and ceremonies of baptism, according to the ancient practice of the Irish Church. The cover of this manuscript forms a square case of oak, seven inches and a half in length, six in breadth, and two in thickness; on the upper and lower sides of the case are thin plates of silver, variously ornamented, and with engraved inscriptions in the Irish language and characters of the eleventh century. The translation of one of the inscriptions is "Pray for Donchad, the son of Brian, King of Ireland," which is considered by Dr. O'Connor as a proof that it was written before the year 1064, when Donchad was expelled as an usurper, being King of Ireland only de facto until that year, and never called King of Ireland after, but, on the contrary, noticed in the Irish annals as an usurper who is not numbered among the rightful hereditary monarchs of this kingdom. The upper side of the cover is richly decorated with crystals and coloured stones, confined with silver twist, and divided into four compartments, forming a cross, and containing engravings in niello. On the first of these compartments is the crucifixion; on the second is engraved the image of St. John the Evangelist, holding a square book on his breast in his left hand, and a scroll in his right, the former representing his gospel, and the latter his Volumen, or Roll of the Apocalypse. In the third compartment is the Virgin, wearing the Irish crown, rising in a triangular shape, and terminating in a trefoil, or seamroc, like the crown of Cathal on the walls of Knockmoy. The Virgin holds the infant on her right arm, whilst he gives the benediction in the Latin form, that is, by elevating the thumb, index, and middle finger to represent the Trinity. In the fourth compartment is a representation of an ancient Irish bishop in pontificalibus; in his left hand he holds his crozier, and with his right, on the middle finger of which may be distinguished his ring, he gives the benediction. His mitre is plain and conical; but the crozier is ornamented, and so is his casula, or outside garb, along the fringes and breast of which is a profusion of small circles, representing jewels, which were used in the ninth and tenth centuries. The marginal ends and sides of the cover have also very curious ornaments, and brass figures of men and animals in high relief. From the general form of the case it would appear that the manuscript within could not have been intended for common use, but only to be produced on great occasions, like St. Kilian's Irish manuscript of the Gospels at Würzburg, which is exhibited annually on the day of his martyrdom, and laid on the altar for the reverence of a grateful people, in memory of that first founder of the Christian religion in Franconia. It is not precisely known how or where this manuscript was discovered, or to what monastery or library it belonged. It was brought from Germany by John Grace, Esq., of Nenagh, in Ireland, who died without leaving any memorandum or information upon the subject. Dr. O'Connor is inclined to believe that it was taken to the Irish monastery of Ratisben by some of those Irish who carried donations thither in 1130 from Tordelbach O'Brian, King of Munster, as stated in the "Chronicon Ratisbonense."

52.—Two large folio volumes, containing transcripts by the Rev. Dr. O'Connor, of the Annals of Tigernach, from the Bodleian copy (Rawlinson, 488); also of the Bodleian original Annals of Innisfallen (Rawlinson, 503); and of the original Annals of Boyle, in the Cotton Library (Titus A. xxv.) and sundry other papers relating to Irish literature.

53.—A folio containing a catalogue of all the MSS. in the Cottonian Library that relate to Ireland, compiled by Dr. O'Connor.

54.—The annals of Tigernach, transcribed from various MSS. in the Bodleian and other collections by Dr. O'Connor. Folio.

55.—Irish Poems, &c. with memoranda relating to ancient Irish families, &c. A quarto, attributed by Mr. Astle to the fifteenth century, but by Dr. O'Connor to the middle of the seventeenth.

56.—Irish Poems, &c. loose sheets, folio, quarto and octavo. The first 35 pages are in the handwriting of a scribe, O'Gormon, who was employed by the Chevalier O'Gormon, to copy the Annals of the Four Masters, at Belanagare, and availed himself of that opportunity to transcribe Mr. O'Connor's original MS. of Carolan's songs in 1771. The remaining papers are in the handwriting of Mr. O'Connor and others.

56.—Annals of Ulster. A folio of 170 written pages being a transcript by Dr. O'Connor from the original MS. in the Bodleian Library (Rawlinson, 489).

57.—Annales Ultoniens. A folio containing copious extract from the Bodleian original from 1156 to 1303 inclusive. It has also marginal collations with the copies in the British Museum.

58.—Annals of Ulster. A folio copy of the Bodleian MS. from A.D. 431 to 765, with notes and illustrations.

59.—Extracts from the Annals of the Four Masters. An octavo of 117 written pages in the Irish language and characters, transcribed by Mr. O'Connor of Belanagare. The extracts begin from the year 429 and end with 682.

60.—An Irish translation of the historical parts of the Old and New Testament. The first fifteen pages are missing; the remaining pages are numbered up to 389. It is all in the Irish language and characters, transcribed about the year 1726.

61.—Miscellanea Hibernica. A quarto cover containing loose papers in the Irish language and characters, relating to Irish grammar, chronology, ancient poems, &c. written about the year 1694.

62.—Hippocratis et Galeni Aphorismata cum Commentario Hibernico. A quarto, of 101 written pages all in the Irish language and characters. The writing is of the reign of James I.

63.—A folio of miscellanies in the Irish language and characters written at Greenfield, in the County of Clare, in 1727, by Brian, the son of a Doctor of Medicine.

64.—A quarto, of which the first 94 pages are missing. It contains Synchronisms of Irish Kings by the author, of the "Ogygia," and in his own handwriting. There are also sixty-six pages of ancient Irish genealogies in another hand, but having O'Flaherty's autograph on some of the margins.

65.—Twenty-six octavo volumes, containing a collection of Irish historical poems and romances, in the Irish language and characters transcribed in a modern hand, and accompanied by a catalogue of their principal contents.

66.—Three small quarto and two octavo volumes containing a collection of Irish poems and romances in the Irish language and character, transcribed from the originals in a modern hand.

67.—An octavo volume, being a Common Place Book, chiefly in Irish, and in the handwriting of Charles O'Connor of Belanagare.

68.—Two quarto volumes, containing a collection of Irish historical poems, in Irish characters and in a modern hand.

69.—A transcript in the Irish language from an ancient MS. in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, made by Mr. O'Reilly, the author of the Irish Dictionary, who ascribes the date of the MS. to the fourteenth century. The language is the Fenian dialect of the Irish.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.MANUSCRIPTS RELATING TO THE HISTORY AND ANTIQUITIES OF IRELAND.EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

1.—The Establishment of Ireland, Anno Domini 1672; probably compiled for the use of Lord Essex. It contains minute details of the expenses of every department, civil, military, and ecclesiastical, with other miscellaneous information. Duodecimo.

2.—The Siege of Londonderry, a tragedy, by John Michelburne. Quarto.

3.—Some account of the life of Colonel Hume Caldwell, with copies of some original papers relative to his family, and of letters written by the most distinguished officers in the Imperial service. Caldwell was killed as he was conducting a sally from the fortress of Schweidnitz at the early age of 27, in 1762. Octavo.

4.—Sir James Ware's annals of Ireland from the year 1167 to 1180. Some leaves of this copy, which is in handwriting of the last century, are missing at the end. Quarto.

5.—A folio containing: observations made in 1766 by Colonel Roy, during a tour in Ireland; despatches from Lord Townshend relative to barracks and stations of the troops, 1770; considerations with regard to the invasion and defence of Ireland, 1778; observations on the roads and passes, bridges, fords, and ferries, with some maps of Cork, Kinsale, Galway, &c., 1780–82.

6.—A critical inquiry into the lives and writings of celebrated Irishmen of the middle ages, written in the last century, partly in Latin with several loose sheets in the Irish language. Folio.

7.—A contemporary copy of Lord Clarendon's "History of the Rebellion and Civil Wars of Ireland (1640 to 1652)." Folio.

8.—Another copy in a hand of the reign of Charles II., and, like the preceding MS., once the property of Arthur Capel, Earl of Essex. Folio.

9.—A miscellaneous volume of letters and papers relating to the history of Ireland during the years 1612–15. A folio in handwriting of the reign of Charles II.

10.—Insulæ Sanctorum Hiberniæ sive Scotiæ Illustris seu potius Historiæ Ecclesiasticæ Hiberniæ Libri Primi. Opus Joannis Wadingi Sacerdotis Wexfordensis. A quarto in the handwriting of the author, J. Wading.

11.—Borlase's History of the Irish Rebellion, with unpublished MS. notes in the writing of the author. The following memorandum is pasted on the fly leaf: "The MS. copy of this book was sent by the author to Sir Roger L'Estrange, in the year 1679 (who was then supposed to be licenser of the press), and in this printed copy may plainly be observed the very many and large eradications and interpolations of the then corrector of the press, with the original letter of the said Roger L'Estrange to the author, setting forth his pretended opinion of the said book, and Vind. of the Royal Family (at that time) from that horrid imputation. The aforesaid eradications and matters of fact, which were craftily omitted in all the printed copies, are in this only very carefully and honestly supplied by the author, Dr. Borlase, under his own hand, and inserted in their proper places, to which are added some original MS. papers and letters, relating to the barbarous massacres committed by the Papists on the Irish Protestants, and also several other remarkable transactions in writing which are not to be found anywhere else. N.B.—This is the only perfect book in the world, no person having been permitted to copy or transcribe anything whatsoever from the same." Folio.

12.—Two folio volumes, the first of 364 leaves and the second of 276, containing some of the most important documents relating to Ireland from 1640 to 1652. In one of them is a catalogue of the names, estates, and places of residence of the Irish gentry who adhered to Rinneceim after he excommunicated those opposed to him. The volumes are in one handwriting of the reign of Charles II.

13.—The original state letters and correspondence of Arthur Capel, Earl of Essex, during his lieutenancy in Ireland from 1672 to 1678. 22 vols.*

14.—Copies of letters from the Right Hon. William Knox to the Right Hon. William Heron. A quarto of 54 pages, transcribed from the originals which were written in 1778. They relate to the trade, fisheries, shipping, excise, and revenue of Ireland and the measures then in contemplation for its improvement.

15.—Sir William Petty's Political Arithmetic; a copy made for Lord Essex during Sir William's residence in Ireland. Quarto.

16.—A General Remaine of all His Majesty's Ordnance, Ammunition, and other Stores of Warr, in the several Castles, Forts, Cittadels, and Garrisons of Ireland, &c., from the 16th of May 1674 to 22nd July following. This is the original, signed by the surveyors, Jonas Moore and William Robinson, whose original letters to Lord Essex on this and other subjects are in the collection of his State Papers (No. 13). Folio.

17.—Indenture between the King and Sir James Shaen, William Hill, of Hillsborough, in the County of Downe, &c., &c. A transcript, dated 1676, of the original agreement with the farmers of the revenue of Ireland, copied by order of Lord Essex. Imp. folio.

18.—A quarto containing, A parcel of sundry tracts, &c., relating to the history of Ireland, some in the Irish language; a judgment of the Brehons in the case of Donald Mac Rurie and the Mac Lochlins, A.D. 1550, on a slip of parchment; account of Irish families; a vocabulary, English and Irish; catalogue of Irish books and MSS. at Mr. Ross's house, Fleet Lane, Dublin; a General Irish Herbal, by John Keogh, 1735; poems in Latin and Irish, some translated into English, by James O'Gara, 1750; a genealogical account of the family of Macdonnell, 1618, in Irish, on parchment; a list of the First Fruits Arrears in Ireland, 1787; state of the army in Ireland, 1782.

19.—Original award of the Commissioners appointed by Sir Henry Sydney, Lord Deputy of Ireland, to settle finally the cause pending between the Lord Mountgarrett and the Baron of Upper Ossory, dated 20th May 1559. This is one of the latest original documents known in which the Irish Brehon decisions are referred to as a foundation for the award of English Commissioners. The names of three of the Brehons and of the Commissioners are in their own hands at the end.

20.—Original grants or indentures between Sir Henry Sydney, Sir William Fitzwilliams, and others in the reign of Elizabeth. One of them is for the sale of the late religious house called Thomas Court, near Dublin, with its woods, ponds, gardens, &c.

21.—Original grant of the freedom of Drogheda to Sir Henry Sydney.

22.—Original journal of proceedings during the siege of Londonderry in 1689, by General Richards, in his own handwriting.

23.—Copy of the return made in 1701 by the Commissioners appointed to inquire into Lord Ranelagh's accounts, &c.

24.—A short account of forfeited lands in Ireland, and how they were disposed of.

25.—"A short Surveigh of Ireland, and Examinations concerning the late Rebellion (in 1641). At the end is a collection of Irish arms, and on the first page is the following memorandum:—"Edwardus Gibbon frater unicus, hoc Manuscriptum portavit secum de Hibernia (quod quidem pro maxima parte propria transcripsit manu) et mihi Johanni Gibbon dedit eodem anno, viz. 1663." Folio.

26.—Survey of the County of Westmeath; a copy, made about the year 1741, of Taylor's Original Survey of the Forfeited Estates of Ireland. Folio.

27.—Journal of the Siege of Limerick in the handwriting of Captain Richards, who entered the facts he mentions as they occurred in his presence. It begins on Tuesday, August 25, 1691, and ends Friday, 25th of September following. The title on the first page is, "Journal after my negotiations with O'Donnel." Quarto.

28.—A Journal from London to the Relief of Londonderry in 1689. It begins from London the 18th of April, and gives a minute and interesting account of the proceedings on board the Greyhound and Dartmouth frigates, with all the events of the siege down to the 10th of August 1689. There is a rough sketch of the Fort of Culmore, and a minute account of the breaking of the boom, with other interesting particulars. A folio in the author's own hand.

29.—The Annals of the affairs of Ireland, from the first entrance of the English, under King Henry II., till the end of the reign of Henry III., namely from the year of our Lord 1169 to the year 1272, compiled by Sir James Ware. Of this title the words "Compiled by Sir James Ware" are in his own handwriting.

30.—A translation of Camden's History of Ireland, 1609, by Mr. Knollis, presented to Peter Manwood, Esq. A folio in one hand of the reign of James I.

31.—"A Fragment of the History of Ireland, written by Maurice Regan, who was a servant and interpreter unto Dermot Mac Morroghe, King of Leinster, and afterwards compiled in French verse by a familiar acquaintance of the said M. Regan, and translated out of the said copie into English." After the title come the words, in a modern handwriting, "By George

* This is the remarkable series of papers to which I have alluded in the introductory part of this report.

THE LIBRI MANUSCRIPTS.

manuscript on fifteen oblong slips two covers of wood, painted with a red ground.

umenta Persarum, with elaborately of the principal officers of the Persian places, representations of sports, and of Persian Princes and Princesses. Arabic.

of thirteen Tartar Rolls or Talisch were found in the Temple of mountains which separate India from of Bengal, when that place sur-Jones in 1771.

as of ornamental paper used for between the Eastern princes, their n drawings, in gold and colours, of ceremony, &c.

n water colours, on a roll of paper eight inches wide, representing the n prince on a journey, with his s and elephants, palanquin bearers, on a roll of very fine paper about d twelve feet in length, written in cters.

book, containing many medicinal manuscript, on a roll of fine paper, de and nine feet in length, written , and divided into two columns con- n the first ten of which are repre- o deities. It contains in the left titled "Markandeya Purana," and Bhagavad Gita," a work of the 10th een translated into English by Dr.

ook, containing representations of iculture, domestic and culinary sented to Mr. Astle by Edward Lye a manuscript on vellum, containing imposed by a clerk of the Church of ris, in honour of Mr. Matthew, a and to induce him to rebuild the ersion is annexed. Quarto. n manuscript of twenty-four oblong of bamboo.

manuscript on fifty-nine slips of manuscript on 103 slips of bamboo o covers, both ornamented with omen, painted in colours.

vellum from James II. to the nouncing the recall of Lord Chan- Ordinary at the Porte, and the William Soame to succeed him. 5, and dated Windsor, Sept. 30.

MS. given to the Earl of Mount- presented by him to the Marquess 7. The leaves are of bamboo.

which formerly belonged to the ins in the kingdom of Pegu, and is system of morality. It is accom- om Mr. Molleson, by whom it was 316 leaves of the finest paper in Arabic. It formerly belonged whose autograph and arms are on a blank leaf in the handwriting bed "Al Koranus Arabice Exemdeen, or Legends of Saints. A presented to Mr. Astle by Sir o procured it at Aleppo from a at Ispahan. Duodecimo. ologicus. Syriace. Octavo.

an, on a roll of paper illuminated A translation is appended.

rge drawings by Indian artists, f the mausoleum called the Taje- ic Emperor Shah Jehan in the drawings are contained in a volume ompanied by a quarto volume in otions within the mausoleum are h an English version annexed to 1.—Sanctus Hilarinus Episcopus de Trinitate. On vellum. Folio. A MS. of the fifth century, written in uncial letters.

2.—Epistolæ ad Neputianum et ad alios. On vellum. Quarto. A MS. of the fifth century, in uncial letters.

3.—Tractatus Psalmorum. A MS. of the fifth or sixth century, in uncial letters, and written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

4.—Sermones Sancti Augustini. A MS. of the seventh century, in semi-uncial letters. On vellum. Folio.

5.—Liber Psalmorum. A MS. of the fifth century, in uncial letters, red and black. On vellum. Folio.

6.—Corpus Prophetarum. A MS. of the fifth or sixth century, written in double columns and in uncial letters. On vellum. Folio.

7.—Leviticus et Numeri. A MS. of the fifth century, written in treble columns and uncial letters. On vellum. Folio.

8.—Expositio in Vetus Testamentum. A MS. of the eighth century, partly in uncial letters and partly in Merovingian characters. On vellum. Folio.

9.—Sancti Augustini Sermones. A MS. of the seventh century, in uncial letters, with large initial letters coloured. On vellum. Folio.

10.—Urvasii (immo Oribasii) Medici Opera. A MS. of the seventh century, written in double columns and semi-uncial letters. On vellum. Folio.

11.—Omeliæ Variæ. A MS. of the seventh century. in uncial letters, with many capital letters coloured. On vellum. Folio.

12.—Expositio in Leviticum. A MS. of the sixth century, in uncial letters. On vellum. Folio.

13.—Pentateuchus. A MS. of the fifth century, written in double columns, in uncial letters. On vellum. Folio. This manuscript contains a great number of large miniatures representing divers scriptural subjects, and evidently executed by Roman artists. They are in much better preservation and more numerous than are those in the fragments of the Vatican Virgil, recal the paintings of Pompeii, and are as important for the history of costume as for that of the arts. Most of the paintings are eleven inches (French) high by nine wide. They are evidently contemporaneous with the writing of the MS., as is shown by, amongst other things, the numerous inscriptions, also in uncial letters, placed in the paintings. The artists and archæologists who have examined this manuscript esteem it as a memorial unique of its kind. Formerly it belonged to the Convent of Grotta Ferrata, a very ancient abbey situated in the mountains of Rome, and inhabited by Greek monks of the order of St. Basil.

14.—Corpus Evangeliorum. A MS. of the sixth or seventh century, written in Visigothic or Anglo-Saxon letters. On vellum. Folio.

15.—Fragmenta Varia. This MS., on vellum, contains 26 leaves of different sizes and different handwritings, Anglo-Saxon, Merovingian, Lombardic, &c., of the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth centuries. Six of the leaves, written in Merovingian characters, are palimpsests, and one can still see under the characters the old writing in uncial letters.

16.—Fragmenta Varia. A folio MS. on vellum, composed of fifty leaves written by different persons in uncial letters of the fifth, seventh, and eighth centuries, and derived from various works. There is the letter of St. Jerome which serves as a preface to the Bible; some chapters of the Gospel of St. Luke and of that of St. Mark; many chapters of ecclesiastical laws, &c., &c.

17.—Domini Ildefonsi Liber de Virginitate Sanctæ Mariæ. A MS. of the seventh or eighth century, written in double columns, in Visigothic characters. On vellum. Quarto. In this valuable manuscript there are various miniatures, very rough, but in which there is already apparent the influence of the Arabs. It is doubtful whether there is any other MS. with such ancient Spanish miniatures.

18.—Donati Grammatici Ars Prima et Secunda, cum Glossis Antiquis. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

19.—Glosulæ in Priscianum. A MS. of the eleventh century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

20.—Sallustii Opera. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio.

21.—M. T. Ciceronis Cato Major de Senectute. Item Sumnium Scipionis. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

22.—Virgilii Opera. A MS. of the ninth century written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

23.—Virgilii Liber Æneidos. A MS. of the tenth century, in which some passages are accompanied by ancient musical notes, which are called "noeumes." On vellum. Quarto.

24.—Statii Liber Thebaidos. A MS. of the tenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio. The poem is accompanied by a gloss, also of the ninth century.

25.—Liber Prisciani ex duodecim primis versibus Æneidos. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

26.—Solinus de Mirabilibus Mundi. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio.

27.—Collectanea Varia. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Quarto. With a Latin glossary at the end.

28.—Lucanus de Bello Civili. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

29.—Justinus—Trogii Pompeii Historiarum Philippicarum Epitome. A splendid MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

30.—Boetius de Arithmetica. Arati Astronomia. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

31.—Boetii Varia Opera. Ciceronis Topica. Item Somnium Scipionis. A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Folio.

32.—Horatii Poetica et Sermone. A MS. of the ninth and tenth centuries. On vellum. Folio.

33.—C. J. Cæsaris Commentarii. A MS. of the ninth or tenth century. On vellum. Folio.

34.—Boethius de Musica. Varia de Computo, cum Tabulis Geographicis, &c. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

35.—Vitæ Sanctorum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

36.—Sacramentarium cum Calendario. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio. Many leaves of this magnificent volume are written in letters of gold upon a purple ground.

37.—Donati et Prisciani Grammaticæ. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

38.—Homiliæ et Vitæ Sanctorum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

39.—Institutio Clericorum. A MS. of the ninth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

40.—Vita S. Sulpicii. A MS. of the ninth century, beautifully written, with large initials in gold and colours. On vellum. Folio.

41.—Beda: Sententiæ Patrum. Concilium Meldense. Capitularia Regum Francorum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

42.—S. Augustini de Doctrina Christiana. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

43.—Rabanus Maurus de Institutione Clericorum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

44.—Varia de Computo et Astronomia; with tables and figures. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto. On some blank pages there have been copied some bulls of Popes, &c., &c.

45.—Varia de Computo. A MS. of the ninth century; with many tables and some figures. On vellum. Small folio.

46.—Vita Sanctorum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Small folio.

47.—Kalendarium et Nativitates Sanctorum. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio. On the margin are noted divers events which took place in the ninth century, with the date.

48.—Vitæ Sanctorum ac Scintillæ Scripturarum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

49.—Isidorus de Præmiis Scripturarum, de Gestis Sanctorum, de Natura Rerum, de Differentiis Verborum, &c. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

50.—Incerti, Sententiæ Patrum. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Quarto.

51.—Beda in Parabolas Salamonis. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

52.—Ambrosii Exameron. Hieronymus in Marcum. Hugonis a Sancto Victore Opera Varia. A MS. of the eleventh or twelfth century. On vellum. Quarto.

53.—Pontificum Decreta Varia. A MS. of the eleventh century, written in double columns, in red and black characters. On vellum. Folio.

54.—Liber Psalmorum cum Glossis. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

55.—Vitæ Sanctorum. A MS. of the eighth century, written in Merovingian characters. On vellum. Folio.

56.—Sententiæ Patrum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

57.—Sermones Varii. Cassiodori Institutionum Divinarum, Liber I. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

58.—Vitæ Sanctorum. A MS. of the eleventh century, written in double columns, and formerly belonging to Pierre Pithou. On vellum. Folio.

59.—Luitprandi Chronicon. A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Folio.

60.—S. Ambrosii Expositio in decem Epistolas Pauli. A MS. of the eighth century. On vellum. Folio.

61.—Missale Romanum. A MS. of the tenth century, written in double columns and full of musical notes "en noeumes." On vellum. Folio.

62.—Antiphonale. A MS. of the ninth century wholly composed of music, the notes "en noeumes." On vellum. Quarto.

63.—Dictionarium Latinum. A MS. of the eleventh century, written in double columns, with large initial letters in colours. 2 vols. On vellum. Large folio.

64.—Psalticon Græcè. A MS. of the tenth century, entirely in music, and formerly belonging to the Abbey of Grotta Ferrata. On vellum. Folio.

65.—Cantici et Hymni, cum notis musicis Græcè. A MS. of the eleventh or twelfth century, on cotton paper. Quarto.

66.—Canones Concilii Aquisgranensis. A MS. of the tenth or eleventh century. On vellum. Folio.

67.—Ammonitiones Cæsarii. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.

68.—Varia Excerpta. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Octavo. At the end there is a fragment of the history of King Arthur.

69.—Varia de Baptismo, de Luna, &c. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

70.—Prosperi Epigrammata. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

71.—Sequentia delibro Actuum Apostolorum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

72.—Regula S. Augustini. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

73.—Incipiunt Versus Libri Primi Sancti Orientis. Visio Wettini, &c. A MS. of the ninth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

74.—De quibusdam Stellis et Animalibus. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

75.—Epistolæ Maximi grammatici et Augustini. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Small folio.

76.—Ovidius de Fastis. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Oblong quarto.

77.—Priscianus de Grammatica. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Folio.

78.—Varia de Musica, cum Notis Musicis; et Compositio Monocordi. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto. At the end are some more recent additions.

79.—Consuetudines per Anni Circulum. A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

80.—Excerpta de Diversis Conciliis. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Octavo.

81.—Sermones S. Augustini. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

82.—Collectanea Antiqua Ecclesiastica. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

83.—S. Augustini de Conflictu Virtutum. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

84.—Visio S. Pauli. Computus. Corpus Juris Romani. A MS. on vellum. The first and second parts, in double columns, of the tenth century. The third, in single columns, of the ninth. Folio.

85.—Varia Opuscula. Glossæ Juridicæ, &c. A MS. partly of the ninth century and partly of the tenth. On vellum. Folio.

86.—Orosii et Pauli Diaconi Corpus Historiarum. A MS. of the twelfth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

87.—Beda de Natura Rerum. A MS. of the ninth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

88.—Varia de Ponderibus, &c. A MS. of the ninth century, partly written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

89.—Corpus Evangeliorum. A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Folio.

90.—Beda de Ratione Temporum, de Natura Rerum, &c. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

91.—Corpus Historiæ Ecclesiasticæ. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio. The rubrics of this fine MS. are in letters of gold.

92.—Testimonia Beati Gregorii. A MS. of the eighth century. On vellum. Folio.

93.—Biblia Latina. A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Very large folio.

94.—Psalmi Davidici et Alia. A MS. of the ninth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Quarto.

95.—Pars Commentarii in Bibliam. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

96.—Varia. 1. Orationes ad Missam. 2. Vita Sanctorum. 3. Capitulationes de Marseilla of the year 1257, and of the year 1262. 4. Ci après exent li Terre Prestre Jehan. A folio MS. on vellum, belonging to different epochs and by different hands, from the ninth to the fifteenth centuries.

97.—Kalendaria Varia, &c. A MS. on vellum, partly in folio and partly in quarto, belonging to the eleventh and fourteenth centuries.

98.—C. Plinii Secundi Epistolæ. A MS. of the ninth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

99.—Leonis Imperatoris ac Justiniani Caesaris Scripta Varia, Græcè. A MS. of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, partly written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

100.—Varia. 1. Kalendarium. 2. Ascetica quædam. 3. Peregrinatio sive Navigatio Sancti Brendani Abbatis. A MS., partly belonging to the tenth century, partly to the eleventh, and partly to the twelfth. On vellum. Quarto.

100*.—Varia Theologica. Astronomica quædam. Kalendarium. MSS. of the ninth, tenth, and eleventh centuries. On vellum. Octavo.

101.—Traité de Droit. A MS. of the fourteenth century, en Provençal. On vellum. Quarto.

102.—Livre de Prières. A MS. of the fourteenth century, en Provençal. On vellum. Duodecimo. Some of the leaves are palimpsests, with the original writing visible.

103.—Vie de St. Trophème, et autres pièces. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in Provençal verse. On paper. Quarto.

104.—Comensa lo Prologue de la Notomia et la Surgia de Anric de Mondeville. A MS. of the fourteenth century, en Provençal, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

105.—Recueil. A MS. of the fourteenth century, en Provençal. 2 vols. On paper. Quarto. These valuable volumes contain a large number of pieces in prose and verse, all in the Provençal language. They appear to be autographs. In verse, there are Le Roman du Chapon, La Vie de Sainte Marguerite, Le Passion de Jésus-Christ, &c., &c.; and in prose, a Treatise on Botany, &c., with a great number of various notes, some of which bear the date of 1347, 1353, 1354, and 1355. Probably this collection was written by some Provençal troubadour and physician of the fourteenth century. Several notes begin thus: "Remembransacie que yeu " Peyre de Serras (or de Ferras), etc."

106.—Vie de Saint Honorat. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in Provençal verse. On vellum. Quarto.

107.—Vie des Saints. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in the Provençal language. On vellum. Quarto.

108.—Roman des Oiseaux, par Dandas de Pradas. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in Provençal. On cotton paper. Quarto. At the end of the volume there is a short treatise on falconry in French, of the fifteenth century.

109.—Contemplations de Saint Bonaventuro. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in the Provençal tongue. On vellum and paper. Folio.

110.—Le Nouveau Testament, avec la Vie Apocryphe e Jês us-Christ. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in Provençal. On paper. Folio. This collection appears to belong to the history of the Albigenses.

111.—Chansons. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in Provençal, written in double columns. On paper. Folio. Amongst the pieces contained in this volume there is a romance entitled "Storia del amat Frondino, e de Bri-sona, on se contiene quatre letres d'amors ab alguns " cansons en Frances."

112.—Vies des Saintes. A MS. of the end of the eleventh or commencement of the twelfth century, in French verse. On vellum. Quarto. This valuable unpublished MS. is one of the most ancient known monuments of the French language, as the idiom, the orthography, and the writing prove. The verses are for the most part written without being separated, as if they were prose, which is another note of antiquity. After the Life of St. Catherine, there is written: "To Ki sa vie ai translatee par mounsi ele- mence numée de Berkinge sui nunain Par samur " pris ai cest œuvre en mein a tuz cels Ki cest livre " orrunt E Ki de bon coer lentenderunt Pur amur deu " pri e requier quil voillent deu pur mei preier quil " manme mette en pareis e guart le cors tant cum ert " vis Ki regne o vit e regnere E est e ert e parmeindra." At the end is a French translation in a more modern handwriting, of a Bull of Pope Alexander relative to the Knights of the Temple.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

113.—Recueils de Contes. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in French verse and written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

114.—L'Image du Monde, Roman. A MS. of the thirteenth century, with miniatures, written in French verse and in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

115.—Le Jeu Saint Nicholas, à xii. Personnages. Item, une Farce à iv. Personnages. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Oblong folio. The volume is injured at the end. At the beginning there are some pieces in Provençal.

116.—Le Jeu de Argent, Moralité à vii. Personnages. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Oblong folio.

117.—L'Art d'Aimer. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in French verse, and written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

118.—Le Roman de Sidrac. A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

119.—Livre de Matheolus. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in verse, and written in double columns. On vellum and paper. Folio.

120.—Le Roman de la Rose. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum and paper. Folio.

121.—Le Roman de Galaad. A MS. of the fourteenth century (dated 1319), with many miniatures, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

122.—Recueil de Romans de Chevalerie. Le Roman des Sept Sages. Le Roman de Marques fils de Chaton. Le Roman de Laurins fils de Marques. A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns, with some miniatures. On vellum. Folio.

123.—Recueil de Romans de Chevalerie. Contes de li Ariere Bans (in prose). Livre de Caton (in verse). Roman de Florenca et Blanchefflor (in Provençal verse). Roman d'Apollonius de Tyr (in prose). Roman de Sador (in prose). Roman de Guron (Giron le Courtois) (in prose). Le Roman de Gauvain (in prose). A MS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns, with many miniatures. On vellum. Folio.

124.—Les Douze Dames, Rhétorique, et Autres Poésies d'Alain Chartier. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

125.—Recueil de Romans de Chevalerie. A MS. of the beginning of the fourteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio. This volume belonged to d'Aguesseau, and bears his arms upon the book plates. It contains: 1. Le Trésor de Brunetto Latini. 2. La Conquête de l'Espagne et La Vie Romanesque de Roland. 3. Le Roman des Sept Sages. 4. L'Enseignement de Sapience. 5. Le livre du Gouvernement des Rois, par Frère Gilles de Rome. 6. Lettre d'Ypocras à César. All the contents are in French. The MS. also contains 60 miniatures, each about three inches square, and nearly all upon a gold ground, delicately executed and well preserved. At the beginning of the Roman des Sept Sages there is a large miniature. This volume has been consulted by the Academy della Crusca.

126.—Recueil de Chroniques. Chronique de France depuis Pharamond jusqu'à Philippe Auguste. Chronique de Normandie depuis l'an 885 jusqu'à l'an 1114. Histoire de Turpin. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

127.—Explicatio S. Scripturæ, à Genesi usque ad librum Tobiae. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto. There is, at the end, Liber de Imagine Mundi.

128.—Missale. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

129.—Rituale Romanum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

130.—Hieronymi in Evangelium Divi Marci Expositio. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with arabesque ornaments. On vellum. Quarto.

131.—Hieronymi Epistolæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

132.—Epistolæ S. Hieronymi, Vita Malchi, et libellus S. Augustini de Vita et Moribus Clericorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

133.—Liber Magni Basilii de Litteris per L. Aretinum ad Dom. Collutium e Græco traductus. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with fine miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.

134.—Magni Basilii ad Filios suos instruendos Liber, per L. Aretinum e Græco in Latinum traductus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

135.—S. Zenonis Sermones, et Vita. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

EAST OF
ASHBURN-HAM.EAST OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 136.—Liber Beatissimi Bernardi de Virtutibus ad Sororem suam. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 137.—Liber S. Bernardi Abbatis de Virtutibus ad Sororem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 138.—Opuscula Varia B. Bernardi, S. Thomæ de Aquino, S. Augustini, et S. Ambrosii. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 139.—Tractatus S. Bernardi Abbatis de Edificanda Domo Spirituali atque Interiori, &c. Liber S. Ambrosii de Conflictu Vitiorum et Virtutum, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Small quarto.
- 140.—Homeliæ Sanctorum Patrum, in Dominicis per annum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 141.—Liber Scintillarum Venerab. Bede. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 142.—Liber qui dicitur Ymago Vitæ Domini Bonaventure Cardinalis, et alii tractatus. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1471). On paper. Octavo, &c.
- 143.—Petri Barroch Episcopi Bellunensis liber de Ratione Bene Moriendi, ad Marcum Barbum Patriarcham Aquilegiensem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 144.—Summa Magistri Raimundi. Summa Confessionum Fr. Antonini. Imperfect. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 145.—Confessionale Mag. Antonini, imperfect. S. Barnardini de Senis tractatus Usuræ, et tractatus Restitutionum ejusdem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.
- 146.—Antonini Confessionale et tractatus Restitutionibus ejusdem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto, &c.
- 147.—Sermones in Evangelia, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 148.—S. Zenonis Sermones. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 149.—Fr. Bartholomei de Pisis Sermones in Festis et de Sanctis. Quadragesimale Dubiorum a Septuagesima ad Feriam Tertiam post Pascha. Sermo de Tentatione et de Casibus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 150.—Predicationes Venerab. Fratris Bernardini ante Quadragesimam. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Quarto.
- 151.—Quadragesimale, seu Sermonarium duplicatum per Adventum et Quadragesimam, editum a Fr. Michaele de Mediolano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Quarto.
- 152.—Collationes Dominicales et FERIALES Totius Anni, editæ a Fr. Bertrando a Turre. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 153.—Justiniani Digestorum seu Pandectarum liber, cum glossis marginalibus. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 154.—Complementum Aureo Magistri Rolandini. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1380). On vellum. Folio.
- 155.—Canones Ecclesiasticorum Græcorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 156.—Tractatus Excommunicationum per Fratrem Franciscum de Platea. Tractatus de Ursuris Alexandri de Alexandria. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 157.—Regula Fratrum Minorum: Queste sono Indulgenzie concesse a quelli li quali visitano le Chiese de tutti li Frati de l'ordine de Scto. Francesco. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 158.—Regula. B. Augustini. Privilegium quod dicitur Maremagnum Sixti Papæ Quart. ordini Fr. Predicatorum Concessum. Et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 159.—Constitutiones et Decreta Soc. Jesu. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 160.—Formulæ in Regulari Observantia servanda, edita per Fr. David. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 161.—De Illicita Examinatione et Retentione Bullarum Apostolicarum Tractatus Apologeticus Patris Antonini Diani Panormitani. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 162.—Privilegia Concessa Monasterio S. Zenonis Veronæ, ab anno 885 ad annum 1556. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 163.—Synodus Veronæ habita ab anno 1584 ad 1604. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 164.—Ordo servandus in Admittendis Novitiis ad Monasterium. Ordo Professionis fiendæ per Monacham in Manu Sacerdotis. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.
- 165.—Constitutiones seu Memoriale Pauperum Heremitarum Sancti Hieronymi, Congregationis Beati Patris Fratris quondam Petri de Pisis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 166.—Constitutiones Capituli Veronensis et suarum Ecclesiarum. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Small folio, &c.
- 167.—Cicero de Amicitia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.
- 168.—Ciceronis Tusculanæ Questiones. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 169.—Logica Magistri Pauli Ord. Fratrum Heremitarum. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1474). On paper. Quarto.
- 170.—Dialectica Incerti Auctoris. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 171.—Logicæ Compendium Burlei, et Varii Tractatus Caietani de Thienis, et Mag. Rodulphi Strodi. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1443). On paper. Large folio.
- 172.—Liber qui dicitur Turba Philosophorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 173.—Anonymi Philosophia. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.
- 174.—Cajetanus de Thienis in Libro de Anima Aristotelis, et super Octo Libris Physicorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1474). On paper. Quarto.
- 175.—Cajetanus de Thienis in Lib. de Anima. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1460). On paper. Large folio.
- 176.—Compendium Moralis Philosophiæ, compilatum per Fr. Bartholomeum Pisanum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 177.—Plutarchi Liber de Liberis Educandis, Guarino Veronensi Interprete. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 178.—Guarinus Veronensis ex Plutarchio de Liberis Educandis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 179.—Excerpta et Varia Collectio Sententiarum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 180.—Leonardus de Nogarolis de Rerum Quiditatibus, de Immortalitate Animæ, et Oratio ad Vincentinos pro Omnibono. An autograph MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 181.—De Nobilitate Liber. Seneca de Remediis Fortuitorum. Tractatus Beati Ambrosii de Honestis Moribus. Ceremoniæ Servandæ in Coronatione Domini Papæ qui jam est Episcopus Consecratus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 182.—Innocentii Papæ Tertii Liber de Contemptu Mundi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 183.—Leonardi Aretini Isagogicon Moralis Disciplinæ ad Galeottum Ricallanum. Hieronymus ad Colantiam Ne etiam Religionis causa Uxor Virum dimittat. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 184.—Aristotelis Libri de Generatione et Corruptione, Græcè, cum Commentariis Græcis Nicolai Cursulæ Zacynthii. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 185.—Questiones in Librum Methaurosum Aristotelis, Collectæ a Magistro Blaxio de Pelacanis de Parma. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1399). On paper. Folio.
- 186.—Jac. Zabarellæ in Octavum Librum Physicorum Aristotelis Commentaria. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 187.—Ocellus Lucanus de Universi Natura, Græcè et Latine, Ludovico Nogarola Interprete. Accedit ejusdem Nogarolæ Epistola Adamo Fumano, super Viris Illustribus Genere Italis qui Græcè scripserunt. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 188.—Senecæ Capitula de Naturis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio, &c.
- 189.—Liber de Virtutibus Erbarum Compilatus per Magistrum Rufinum de Dictis Summorum Philosophorum, Dioscoridis, Macri, Alexandri, Salerni et Ysaac, et quamplurimum Aliorum Doctorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century with Arabesque ornaments. On vellum. Folio.
- 190.—Liber Aureus de Quinta essentia Raymoudi Ordinis Sancti Francisci. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 191.—Liber de Consideratione Quintæ Essentiæ Omnium Rerum Transmutabilium. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1471). On vellum and paper. Quarto.
- 192.—Commentum Burlei super Artem Veterum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Large folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-HAM.EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

193.—Testamentum Hadrianum de Aureo Philosophorum Lapide. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

194.—Incerti Authoris Chrisopeia, Chimica, et alia plura. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

195.—Pauli Veneti Liber Physicorum, et Liber de Anima. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1476). On paper. Quarto.

196.—Pauli Veneti in Physicam Naturalem Compendium. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

197.—De Alchemia Expositio Librorum Gebri et Raimundi Lulii. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

198.—Johannes Michael Albertus Carrariensis ad Præstantissimum Principem Bonifacium Marchionem Montis Ferrati de Constitutione Mundi. An autograph MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

199.—Tractatus de Cælo et Mundo Anonymi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

200.—Dessins représentant des Serpents, Quadrupèdes, Oiseaux, Poissons, Cétacées, Monstres, &c. par Abraam Joel de Conegliano. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. 3 vols. on paper. Folio.

201.—Albumasar Libri Convictionum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

202.—Ad Tabulam Quadripartiti Ptolemæi Explanationes et Commentationes: Accedit Capitulum de Dominio Anni. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

203.—Tractatus varii Astronomici et Astrologici. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

204.—Tractatus varii Astronomici et Philosophici. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with designs drawn with a pen. On vellum. Quarto.

205.—Tractatus Varii Astronomici, Andalonis de Nigro, Th. de Parma, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

206.—Tractatus Varii Astronomici, et Alia. A MS. of the fifteenth and the sixteenth centuries. On paper. Folio. Amongst its contents is an unpublished treatise upon music by P. Beldomandus, of Padua.

207.—Tractatus Varii Astronomici. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with figures drawn with a pen. On paper. Quarto.

208.—Libellus Sphæræ Jo. de Sacrobosco. Liber Messahallah de Eclipsi Lunæ. Theorica Planetarum, edita a M. Campano de Civitate Novariæ. Prosdocii de Beldomandis Tractatus ad Calculandum. Hippocrates de Luna et Signis, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

209.—De Anni Revolutione Tractatus. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Small folio.

210.—Tractatus Varii Philosophici et Astronomici. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns, with many capital letters with Arabesque embellishments in gold and colours. On vellum. Folio. It contains: 1. Questio contra astrologia indicia Nicolai Oresme. 2. Quodlibet ejusdem. 3. Tractatus contra astrologos Henrici de Hassia. 4. Tractatus contra astrologos Nic. Oresme. 5. De reductione effectuum in suas causas Henrici de Hassia. 6. De configuratione qualitatum N. Oresme. 7. Tractatus de magnete. 8. Tractatus de monetarum mutatione N. Oresme. 9. De ductu aquarum plurimarum dans ingenia subtilia. 10. De habitudine causarum H. de Hassia. 11. De commensurabilitate motuum celestium. 12. Algorismus proportionum N. Oresme, 1406.

211.—Tractatus Varii Astronomici, Astrologici et Mathematici. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

212.—Anonymi Tractatus Astronomicus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

213.—Tractatus Sphæræ Johannis de Sacrobosco Anglici. Liber Theoricæ Planetarum compilatus a Johanne Ispalensi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

214.—Tractatus Astrologicus. Lectiones Mag. Jacobi Galeasæ in Propositiones Falsas Mag. Barth. de Valentia de Dierum Equationibus. Judicium Anni 1470. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1467). On paper. Quarto.

215.—Lectiones Zarabellæ in Quartum Librum Meteor. Aristotelis. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

216.—Canones Tabularum Johannis de Blanchinis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

217.—Almansoris Nonus Liber. Tractatus de Urinis Mag. Alberti de Monte Pessulano. Summa Mag. Girardi Physici. Compendium Salerni. Avicenna de Fractu-

ris. Tadeus de Lepra, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1412). On paper. Folio.

218.—Jo. Mesue Antidotarium, et de Consolatione Medicinarum Simplicium. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

219.—Gentilis de Fulgineo Expositio super Canones Avicennæ. Jacobus de Forlivio de Generatione Embionis. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1462). On paper. Large folio.

220.—Tractatus Raynaldi de Villanova de Omnibus Ægritudinibus a Capite usque ad Pedes. Regimen Amphoristicum Arnaldi de Villanova. conferens memorie. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1487). On paper. Quarto.

221.—Tacuinus Sanitatis cum Additionibus Jo. de Sancto Amando. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1464). On paper. Large folio.

222.—Gilbertina, sive Magister Gilibertus Anglicus de Medicina. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Large folio.

223.—Tractatus de Medicinis Anonymi. Thesaurus Pauperum. Tractatus de Sirnpiis Digerentibus Humores. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1375). On paper. Folio.

224.—Vocabularium Medicum Magistri Petri Veronensis de Sacco. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1442). On paper. Large folio.

225.—Benvenutus Grafeus de Morbis Oculorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

226.—De Dispositionibus Oculorum. Tractatus Anonymi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Large folio.

227.—Morgagni Opera Postuma. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century in six volumes. On paper. Folio.

228.—Morgagni de Sedibus et Causis Morborum Opus. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

229.—Morgagni Adversaria Anatomica. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

230.—Morgagni Epistolæ Anatomicæ. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

231.—Tractatus de Chirurgia Anonymi. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Large folio.

232.—Pharmacopeia Alphabeticæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

233.—Jordanus Ruffus de Creatione et Natione Equi, de Captione et Domatione ipsius, de Custodia et Doctrina, de Cognitione Pulchritudinis Corporis et Membrorum Fractione, de Infirmitatibus et Medicinis. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

234.—Summa D. Jordani Ruffi super Arte Mascalciæ Equorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

235.—Statuta Sacri Collegii Medicorum Veronæ. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1580). On paper. Folio.

236.—Euclidis Elementa Græcè. A MS. of the thirteenth century, with commentaries. On cotton paper. Quarto.

237.—Nicomachi Geraseni Arithmeticæ Introductionis Libri, Bartholomeo Zamberto Veneto Interprete. A MS., probably autograph, of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

238.—Anonymi Mathematica et Astronomia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

239.—Rerum Mechanicarum Brevissima Tractatio R. P. Casatæ Soc. Jesu, anno 1654. Brevis Tractatus de Horologiis. Horographia seu Horologium, Epitome. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small folio.

240.—Obscura M. Vitruvii Pollionis verba Italicè redita. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small quarto.

241.—Mag. Petri de Assilbo Regulæ Grammaticales. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1434). On paper and vellum. Quarto.

242.—Grammatica Latina Incerti Auctoris. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

243.—Grammatica Latina Incerti Auctoris. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

244.—Grammatica Latina Incerti Auctoris. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

245.—Grammatica Latina Anonymi. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1474). On paper. Quarto.

246.—Pompeius Festus de Verborum Significatione. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

247.—S. Isidori Archiepiscopi Yspalensis Synonyma. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

248.—Dictionarium Virgilii. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 249.—Summa super Rhetoricas Aristotelis compilata per Fratrem Guidonem Arimensem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 250.—Ciceronis Rhetoricorum Libri ad Herennium, et Paradoxa. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 251.—Trapezuntii Rhetoricorum Libri V. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 252.—Cicero de Claris Oratoribus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 253.—Ciceronis Orationes. A fine, but incomplete, MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 254.—Ciceronis Philppicorum Libri XIV. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 255.—Quinti Asconii Pediani Explicationes in aliquas Orationes Ciceronis. Antonii Lusci in Ciceronis Orationibus Artis Inquisitio. Poggius Florentinus in Laurentium Vallam. Laurentius Valla in Poggium Florentinum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 256.—Antonii Lusci Vicentini Illustrissimi Ducis Mediolani Secretarii ad Optimum Virum Astolphum de Marinonibus in Ciceronis Orationibus Artis Inquisitio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 257.—Publii Virgilii Maronis Moretus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 258.—Magistri Guidonis Modus Concionandi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 259.—Prisciani Partitiones Versuum in XII. Libris Æneidos Virgilii. Ejusdem Libellus de Metris Comicis. De Ponderibus et Mensuris Opus tractatum e Græco in Latinum per Fratrem Ambrosium. Omnibonus Leonicensis de Ratione Metrorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.
- 260.—Catulli Epigrammaton Libellus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 261.—Ovidius de Arte Amandi. Tibulli Carmina. Commentaria in Tibullum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 262.—Juvenalis Satyræ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 263.—Commentaria in Juvenalem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 264.—Lucani Pharsalia, cum Commentariis Anonymi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 265.—Macer de Virtutibus Herbarum. An autograph MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 266.—Nicolai Archii Comititis Carmina. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 267.—Cosmographia Pomponii Melæ. Jo. Boccacius de Tancredo et Sigismonda. Defensio Epicuri contra Stoicos. Et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto, &c.
- 268.—Commentum in Poetica Horatii. Argumenta Tragediarum Senecæ. Priscianus de Duodecim Carminibus. Maffei Vegii Epistola ad Eustachium. Centimetrum Servii. Omniboni Leonicensi Ars Metrica. Leonardus Aretinus in Hypocritas. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 269.—Miscellanea. Bellum S. Imperii Veneti contra Herculem Ducem Ferrariæ, 1482. Concordia Moisis et Platonis a Marsilio Ficino. Epistolæ Ludovici Cendræ. Historia Divæ Thuscana. Petrarchæ et Ciceronis Epistolæ. Et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 270.—Miscellanea Latina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 271.—Miscellanea Latina. Sermo Matrimonialis. Oratio Lavagnolæ. Oratio in funere Jo. Pontani. Oratio in funere Mag. Equitum Capitanei Gathamelata. Epithalamium Manfredi de Justis. Epithalamium Guarini Veronensis. Et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 272.—Miscellanea Latina. A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing the unpublished writings of Guarinus and other authors. On paper. Quarto.
- 273.—Miscellanea Poetica et Oratoria. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 274.—Libanii Epistolæ, Græcæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 275.—Phalaridis, Marci Bruti, et Diogenis Epistolæ, e Græco in Latinum tractatæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1471). On paper. Quarto.
- 276.—Francisci Petrarchæ Epistola Consolatoria ad Joannem de Columna Cardinalem super Fratrum Mortibus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 277.—Petri Bembi Epistolæ (99) Ineditæ, ab Antiquo MS. desumptæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small folio.

278.—Guarini Veronensis et Aliorum Epistolæ et Orationes. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

279.—Ludovici Nogarolæ Epistolæ, et alia. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century (1528). On paper. Folio.

280.—Inscriptiones Litterarum quæ Nomine Senatus Mediolani Scribuntur. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

281.—Catalogus Sanctorum, editus a Patre Natale de Vaneciis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

282.—Epistola Beati Eusebii ad Beatum Damasum de Morte Beatiss. Hieronymi. Et alii Tractatus Ecclesiastici. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

283.—Legenda Seraphici Patris Francisci; et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

284.—Miscellanea de Sancto Zenone Veronæ Episcopo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

285.—Historia de Vita et Transitu Beatæ Theuteriæ. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1554). On paper. Quarto.

286.—Carolus Libardus de Vitis et Rebus Gestis Episcoporum Veronæ. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

287.—Vita et Epistolæ Ægidii Viterbiensis Cardinalis, ab Henrico Noris. A MS., the autograph of Cardinal Noris, of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

288.—T. Lavii Historiarum Libri. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.

289.—Sallustii Bellum Catilinarium et Jugurthinum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Large quarto.

290.—Cronica Martiniana. Provinciale. Ordinarium Secundum Usam Curie Romanæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

291.—Blondi Flavii Forliviensis Roma Instaurata. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

292.—Georgii Bevilacqua de Lacisio Historia de Bello Gallico. An important but incomplete MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

293.—De Vita et Moribus Philosophorum, ubi tractantur multa quæ in Antiquis Libris de Ipsorum Gestis sparsim scripta reperi, in unum colligere laboravi, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

294.—Vitæ Q. Sertorii, Pyrrhi, et Pauli Emilii, a Leonardo Aretino. Vitæ M. Bruti et C. Marii, a Jacobo Angelo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

295.—Bartholomæi Vitalis de Caio Plinio Secundo Libri Tres. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

296-8.—Charters of the Thirteenth Century. Three volumes, containing altogether 151 original charters, on vellum, relating to the history of Lombardy from the year 1201 to the year 1299.

299.—Bibilia. Esposizione del Vecchio e Nuovo Testamento in Lingua Italiana. Et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

300.—Leggenda di Moyses, di Job, di Tobia, e di Sancto Alberto. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

301.—Tractatus de Defectibus Missæ. A MS., in Italian, of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

302.—Novene per le Principali Solennità di Nostro Signore et della Beata Vergine. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.

303.—Epistola di S. Hieronimo mandata a Santa Paula, Grandissima Matrona Romana. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

304.—Libro di S. Barnardo de la Virtude a una sua Sorella; novamente vulgarizzato. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

305.—Opuscoli Varii di S. Bernardo e S. Bonaventura, in Verso e in Prosa, Italiani e Latini. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Quarto.

306.—Fioretti di S. Benedetto. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.

307.—Trattato dell' Arra dell' Anima. S. Bonaventura, Opuscoli volgarizzati. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

308.—Soliloquio de l'arra de l' Anima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

309.—Trattato del Sacramento del Corpo di Cristo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

310.—Dichiaratione d' alcune coze pertinenti alla Morte, Sepoltura, Descender al Limbo, Resuscitare, etc., del N. S. Jesu Christo, per modo di Dialogo. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

311.—Specchio de' Religiosi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

312.—Incomincia lo Scorso de' Poveri, facto in volgare per Frate Geronimo da Siena. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

313.—Libro dicto Quadriga Spirituale. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1458). On paper and vellum. Octavo.

314.—Libro dicto Quadriga Spirituale. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Quarto.

315.—Libro dicto Quadriga Spirituale. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Quarto.

316.—Libro che ha nome Spina Rosa. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1432). On paper. Quarto.

317.—Libro de la Perseverantia intitulato Corona deli Servi di Dio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

318.—Trattati Due della Confessione. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Small octavo.

319.—Trattato sopra la Confessione, sopra i Peccati Mortali, i Sentimenti del Corpo, i Sacramenti, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

320.—Trattato de' Peccati. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

321.—Trattatello dicto Compendio di Salute, composto per Frate Nicolò da Osimo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio, &c.

322.—Trattatello dicto Compendio di Salute. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

323.—Sermoni Volgari di S. Bernardino da Siena. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.

324.—Delle cose Manuscritte del Padre Maestro Spirito Anguisciola de' Pili, Generale dell' Ordine Eremitano di S. Agostino: Parte Prima. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

325.—Confutatione contro l'Oration Mentale di Quietè del Padre Danielo Bartoli Gesuita. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

326.—La Regula et la Vita de' Frati Minori. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

327.—Regola di S. Augustino. Costituzione di la Suore dell' Ordine deli Predicatori. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

328.—Regole intorno al Vestire Ordinario e Solenne di SS. Cardinali nella Corte di Roma, e intorno alle Visite et altre Cerimonie loro, raccolte da D. Michele Lunigo. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

329.—Capituli et Ordini della Ven. Compagnia di Sta Maria in S. Bernardino di Verona. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small Quarto, &c.

330.—Costituzioni del Venerando Seminario di Verona, 1770. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

331.—Costituzioni Vescovili per le Ven. Pieri Veronesi. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1607). On paper. Quarto.

332.—Constitutione de Martino V. riducte sotto compendio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small octavo.

333.—Libro de la Doctrina del Cuor. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

334.—Trattato de la Institutione de li Sancti Costumi et de la Vita Perfecta compilato per D. Desiderio Paduano. A MS., with miniatures, of the sixteenth century (1504). On paper. Quarto.

335.—Orologio de la Sapientia per vulgare. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

336.—Libro il quale a nome Uriolo de la Sapientia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio, &c.

337.—Trattato delle Virtu delle Erbe. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

338.—Trattato dell' Harmonia, Constitutione, o Fabrica Generale del Vero Sale Secreto de' Filosofi et dello Spirito Universale del Mondo. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

339.—Figure et Osservazioni intorno li Bigatti o Vermini che fanno la Seta, e intorno la Formazione de Pollo nell' Ovo, recavate dalle Osservazioni fatte da Marcello Malpighi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

340.—Teatro dell' Infinito, in cui si discorre della Provvidenza di Dio nel Governo del Cielo, della Terra, e dell' Abisso, di Zefriele Tomaso Bovio nobile Veronese. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

341.—Tavola di Montebaldo fiorito di nomi de' Semplici, la quale si contiene in VI. Tomi di Pianta Naturali, etc., Opera fatta da me F. Fortunato da Revigo Cappucino di Verona, 1690. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

342.—Teoriche dei Pianeti di Gio. Andrea di Moschi cognominato Masino. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

343.—Trattato di Arithmetica, d'Astrologia, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

344.—Tavole Astronomiche di Giulio Cesare Lucchini Bolognese. An autograph unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

345.—Trattato Quinto dello Composizione et dell' Uso delle Tavole de' Moti Celesti di Giulio Cesare Lucchini Bolognese. An autograph MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

346.—Tavole Astronomiche all' Uso Italiano e Babilonico, all' Altezza del Polo 45, Computate da F. Mario d'Acqua Negra Sacerdote Cappuccino. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

347.—Armonia Astronomica et Geometrica di Teofilo Bruni, Veronese. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

348.—Libro di Medicina, Recette e Secreti, parte in Latino, e parte in Volgare. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1449). On paper. Quarto.

349.—Libro di Medicina, Recette e Secreti. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

350.—Chirurgia di M. Orlando Parmigiano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

351.—Notizie dell' Antico Collegio de Medici di Verona, raccolte dal Dottor Leon Leoni Viceprotomedico. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

352.—Trattato d'Aritmetica di Francesco Carlo di Macigni Fiorentino.—A MS. of the fifteenth century (1457). On paper. Quarto.

353.—Trattato di Aritmetica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

354.—Trattati di Aritmetica, Geometria, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

355.—Trattati di Aritmetica, Geometria, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1555). On paper. Small quarto.

356.—Trattato di Aritmetica, Geometria, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

357.—Pratica Moderna di Aritmetica Mercantile. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

358.—Trattato di Aritmetica. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Small Folio.

359.—Trattato di Abaco e di tutto ciò che appartiene alla Mercanzia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

360.—Compendio della Scienza Meccanica di Germiniano Montenari. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

361.—Trattato di Architettura Militare e Civile, d'Idrostatica, Geometria, e Prospettiva, Libri di Mulini e Macchine, Trattato di Fortificazione e Macchine Militari. An unpublished work of Lionardo da Vinci, full of admirable designs, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

362.—Aforismi dell' Arte Bellica di Raimondo Montecucoli. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

363.—Del Calcolo Balistico, o sia del Metodo di Calcolare con la medesima facilità i Tiri delle Bombe Orizzontali e gli Obliqui, di Gaetano Marzagaglia. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

364.—Dell' Architettura d'Acque di Giuseppe Luciani, Architetto ed Ingegnere Cremonese, divisa in due parti. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

365.—Secreti Meravigliosi di Natura. Prestigi e Giochi Naturali. Segreti dello Scrivere, etc. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

366.—La Cabala delli Profeti. A very curious MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

367.—Diversi Raccordi per Servizio del Orefice, et diversi Conti et Allegazioni. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

368.—La Passione di Cristo, Poema in ottava rima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

369.—Passione di Cristo, Poema in ottava rima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

370.—Cecco d'Ascoli, L'Acerba, Poema. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

371.—Libro di S. Giusto Paladino. A Romance of Chivalry. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

372.—Frezzi, Il Quatiregio, Poema in terza rima. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1469). On paper. Folio.

373.—I Sospiri d'Italia, Poemetto. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 374.—Rime di M. Cristoforo Bartoli. In eight volumes. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 375.—Sonetti d'Incerto Autore. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 376.—Parafraasi del Salterio, del P. F. Girolamo Gaetano da Vianza, Sacerdote Cappuccino. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 377.—Ersilia, Commedia Pastorale in versi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 378.—Poesie Diverse. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 379.—Sonetti di me Antonio Bruni, in occasione di prender le Acque di Caldiero nell' anno 1676. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 380.—Poesie Italiane, Iscrizioni Latine, ed altre composizioni di Francesco Pona. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 381.—I sette Salmi Penitenziali, con altri Cantici e Salmi, tradotti in versi Italiani. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in four volumes. On paper. Quarto.
- 382.—La Vendemmia dell' Uva in Valle Policella, Poemetto dell' Marchese Maurizio Gherardini Veronese. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 383.—Il Capitolo dei Frati, Poema Bernesco del P. Sebastiano della Chiesa. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 384.—Discorso della Prudenza Politica, del P. Pietro Maffei. Discorso di Gio. Francesco Commendone sopra la Corte di Roma. Delli Fondamenti, dello Stato, e delle Parti Essenziali che formano il Principe, di Don Scipio de Castro. Istruzioni ed Avvertimenti all' Ill. Sig. Annibale Capuano destinato per Nuntio a Venetia. Istruzioni all' Ill. Sig. Pietro Caetano nell' andata alla Guerra di Flandra. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 385.—Libro di Esordj, e Lettere, di Autore Anonimo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 386.—Il Secondo Volume delle Lettere di Gio. Maria Lopena, scritte da lui in diversi tempi a Persone Ecclesiastiche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 387.—Lettere Curioso. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 388.—Lettere di Raccomandazione, di Raggualio colle loro Risposte. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 389.—Lettere Autografe di Diversi, scritte a G. B. Morgagni. A MS. of the eighteenth century. In four volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 390.—Lettere di Diversi, scritte al Conte G. B. Galizoli, a Bergamo. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 391.—Lettere di Diversi, scritte a Sebastiano Muletto Gastaldo de' Corrieri della Repubblica Veneta. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 392.—Lettera di Pietro Giannone, nella quale si difende dalla taccia di aver falsamente scritto circa al Dominio Veneto. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 393.—Pomponio Mela, Geografia tradotta in Italiano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 394.—Miracoli della Madonna. Vita di S. Giovanni Apostolo; di S. Silvestro Papa; di S. Marziale Vescovo di Limozia. Visione di uno nominato Tngdalo de Hibernia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 395.—Leggendario de' Santi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 396.—Leggenda delle Vergini e Martiri. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 397.—Vita de Sancto Bovo Confessore. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 398.—Vita della Beata Teuteria Vergine, tradotta dal Latino in Volgare. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 399.—Discorso sopra il Conclave per la Morte di Clemente X. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 400.—Compendioso Raggualio o sia Discorso Politico sopra il Futuro Conclave dopo il Pontificato di Clemente X. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 401.—Relazione della Corte di Roma, del Procuratore Coraro coll' Ambasciatore per la Repubblica di Venezia, l'anno 1661. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 402.—Commissioni Venete per Viaggi di Constanti-nopoli e Romania, negli anni 1486 et 1488. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 403.—Discorso sopra le Medaglie degli Antichi. An unpublished work by Piero Ligorio. A MS. of the seventeenth century with drawings. On paper. Folio.
- 404.—Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 405.—Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 406.—Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 407.—Dante, Divina Commedia, Commentarii sopra la. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 408.—Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. 16mo.
- 409.—Castiglione il Cortigiano. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. Original, and with a great number of autograph corrections.
- 410.—Virgilio, l'Eneide, tradotta da Annibal Caro. An unpublished autograph MS. of the sixteenth century, in two volumes, and with many corrections. On paper. Quarto.
- 411.—Sannazari de Partu Virginis. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century which belonged to Bernardino Rota. On paper. Folio.
- 412.—Tasso (Torquato), Il Rogo di Corinna. An original MS. of the sixteenth century, with Tasso's signature and autograph corrections. On paper. Folio.
- 413.—Annibal Caro, Lettere, Studj, e Scritti varii. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 414.—Redi (Francesco), Il Quarto Volume delle Lettere. The fourth volume unpublished, but prepared for the press, and which should have followed the three volumes of letters published, in quarto, at Florence in the last century. It contains upwards of five hundred autographs and unpublished letters.
- 415.—Apocalysse con Miniature. A MS. of the thirteenth century, with large and beautiful miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- 416.—Cavalca, Medicina del Cuore. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 417.—Cavalca, Pungilingua. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 418.—Passavanti, Speechio della Vera Penitenza. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 419.—Giambullari, Bernardino, Novella del Grasso Legnaiuolo, versi e canzoni, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 420.—Falaride, Epistole tradotte. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 421.—Trattati varj. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 422.—Don Callisto, Diadema de' Monachi. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 423.—Jacopone, Laudi Spirituali, &c. Cavalca, altre Laudi Spirituali, etc. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 424.—Albizzo, Francesco, Laudi Spirituali. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 425.—Vita di S. Giovan. Battista. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 426.—S. Bernardo, Speechio di Mondizia. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 427.—S. Bernardo, Trattato dell' Umilità, e Sermoni, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 428.—Leggende dei Santi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 429.—Compendio di Storia Fiorentina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 430.—Meditazione della Vita di Gesù Cristo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 431.—Vita di S. Gio. Battista. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 432.—Bruni, Leonardo Aretino, Vita del Dante e del Petrarca. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 433.—Transito di S. Girolamo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 434.—S. Gregorio, Dialoghi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 435.—Cavalca, Atti degli Apostoli. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 436.—Poesie varie Antiche, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 437.—Poesie Diverse. Ottave sopra l'Innamoramento di Affrico e Mensola. Libro della Sfera, o Geografia, di Goro Dati, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 438.—Alamanni Luigi, i Sette Salmi: e Casa, i Sonetti. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 439.—Berni, Poesie, il Primo Libro. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-HAM.EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 440.—Leggendo Diverse. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum and paper. Folio.
- 441.—Raccolta di Poesie degli Accademici della Crusca. An original MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 442.—Storia d'Enca, in ottave, di Anonimo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 443.—Bruni, Leonardo Aretino, Vita di Dante. Cronica di Dino Compagni. Terzo Libro della Cronica di Bonasegni (Dom.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 444.—Malespini, Storia Fiorentina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 445.—Varchi, Prose varie. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto. A contemporaneous copy, with autograph corrections.
- 446.—Sonetti e Rime Antiche. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 447.—Corsini, Il Torrachione Desolato. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 448.—Sonetti e Rime Antiche. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 449.—Squarcialupi, Protesti due, dedicati a Pietro Soderini. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 450.—Leggenda di S. Margherita. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Octavo.
- 451.—Leggende. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Octavo.
- 452.—Eligie in Morte di Lorenzo de' Medici. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 453.—Alamanni (Luigi) e Martelli (Lodovico Guglielmo), Stanze. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 454.—Corsini, I. Pannici Caldi. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Duodecimo.
- 455.—Rime Antiche. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 456.—Ricettario. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 457.—Della Diffusione del Sommo Bene per Gradi Naturali e Soprannaturali. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 458.—Meditazioni della Vita di Gesù Cristo, a Leggende di Santi. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 459.—S. Agostino, Sermoni. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 460.—Capitoli della Compagnia di S. Brigida. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 461.—Senofonte, Vita di Ciro tradotta dal Poggio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 462.—Vita di S. Giovanni Batista. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper.
- 463.—Cicerone (Tullio), Dell' Amicizia. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 464.—Epistole del Beato Giovanni delle Celle. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 465.—Ammaestramenti degli Antichi. Volgarizzamento di Bartolommeo di S. Concordio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 466.—Varia. Governo degli Antichi. Fiore di Virtù. Vita di S. Silvestro, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 467.—La Regola di S. Agostino. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 468.—Ovidio, Epistole Volgarizzate. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 469.—Vite de' SS. Padri nel Deserto, i Quattro Libri. Testo Verrazzano, citato del Manni. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 470.—Vite de' Santi Padri, A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 471.—Vite di Santi, il terzo e il quattro libro. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1381), in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 472.—Vite di Santi, la prima e seconda parte. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 473.—Vite de' Santi Padri. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 474.—Vita di S. Girolamo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 475.—Vita di S. Girolamo, e Dialogo di Santo Ghirigoro Papa (S. Gregorio). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 476.—Plutarco, Quattordici libri delle Vite, Volgarizzamento antico ed inedito. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 477.—S. Girolamo, Epistole, Volgarizzamento Antico. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1466), with small miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 478.—Rime di Poeti Antichi, cioè di Petrarca, Dante, Gregorio d'Arezzo, Fazio degli Uberti, e di altri molti. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 479.—Rime di Poeti Antichi, cioè di Nolfo d'Oltrarno, Guido Guinicelli, Bonagiunta Urbiciani, etc. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 480.—Laudi Spirituali. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 481.—Dino Compagni, Cronica. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 482.—Porcari, Orazioni, ed Opuscoli di altri. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 483.—Palmieri (Matteo), Vita de Niccola Acciaiuoli, Gran Siniscalco. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.
- 484.—Medici (Lorenzo de'), Poliziano; Pulci—Canzoni. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 485.—Livio (Tito), Le Istorie. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 486.—Livio (Tito), La Prima Deca. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 487.—Livio (Tito), La Terza Deca. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 488.—Ovidio Maggiore volgarizzato, Metamorfosi. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 489.—Seneca. Le Pistole volgarizzate. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 490.—Seneca, Le Pistole volgarizzate. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1439). On paper. Folio.
- 491.—Boccaccio. Il Filocolo. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 492.—S. Gregorio, Dialoghi. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 493.—Aristotele, Etica tradotta. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 494.—Alberti (Leon Battista), Dialoghi Morali. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 495.—Fibonacci (Leonardo) Pisano, Trattato di Pratica d'Aritmetica, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1493). On paper. Large folio.
- 496.—Ricettario. A manuscript of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 497.—Priorista. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 498.—Priorista. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 499.—Picconi (Piero di Gio.), Priorista, con Notizie Storiche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 500.—Priorista (Verrazzano), di carte 232. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1453). On paper. Folio.
- 501.—Priorista (Albizzi). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 502.—Priorista a tratte, con Notizie Storiche. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 503.—Priorista ad Alfabeto, di carte 137. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 504.—Priorista del Segaloni. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 505.—Priorista a Quartieri. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 506.—Indice del Priorista. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 507.—Relazioni di Conclavi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 508.—Varietà Storico-Letteraria. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 509.—Varietà Storico-Letteraria. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 510.—Malespini, Cronica. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Large folio. This is the oldest of Malespini's MSS. known.
- 511.—Villani (Giovanni), Cronica. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Large folio.
- 512.—Villani, Cronica. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1393). On paper. Folio.
- 513.—Villani, Cronica. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 514.—Villani, Cronica. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 515.—Villani, Cronica. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 516.—Segni, Storia Fiorentina. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 517.—Leonardo Bruni, Aretino; Storia Fiorentina tradotta da Donato Acciaiuoli. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 518.—Libro d'Aritmetica e Geometria. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 519.—Evangelario. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1481). On paper. Folio.
- 520.—Fiori di Virtù. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1459), with drawings. On paper. Folio.
- 521.—S. Agostino, Soliloquio e Sermoni, Transito di S. Girolamo. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1475). On paper. Folio.
- 522.—S. Agostino, Sermoni volgarizzati, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1428). On paper. Folio.
- 523.—S. Agostino, Sermoni volgarizzati, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 524.—Palladio, Dell' Agricoltura, volgarizzamento antico. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1464). On paper. Folio.
- 525.—Marco Polo, Il Milione. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 526.—Valerio Massimo volgarizzato. An unpublished MS. of the fourteenth century (1388). On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 527.—Lapini, Diario. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 528.—Agnolo Pandolfini, Governo della Famiglia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 529.—A. Pandolfini, Governo della Famiglia. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1476). On paper. Quarto.
- 530.—Storia Nerbonese. An unpublished MS. of the fifteenth century (1487). On paper. Quarto. The Provençal romance of Guillaume au Court Nez, translated into old Italian.
- 531.—Demetrio Falereo, Della Elocuzione, tradotto da Giacomino Tebalducci; et varia. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1573). On paper. Folio.
- 532.—Fra Giordano, Prediche Quadragesimale, recitate nell' anno 1305. An unpublished MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 533.—Fra Giordano, Prediche Quadragesimale, di carte numerate 258. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 534.—Marco Polo, Il Milione. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio. This edition differs altogether from that published by Baldelli.
- 535.—Verrazzano (Lodovico), Specchietto del Gonfaloniere di Giustizia. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1487). On paper. Folio.
- 536.—Boezio, De Consolatione, Volgarizzato da Piero Rosso. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1457). On paper. Folio.
- 537.—Storia della Duca Elia d'Orlino, dei tempi di Carlo Magno. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1433). On paper. Folio. A romance of chivalry, ancient and unknown.
- 538.—Gatteschi da Firenzuola, Trattato d'Agricoltura. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1552). On paper. Folio.
- 539.—Trattato di Consolatione, ed altro. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1483). On paper. Folio.
- 540.—Brunetto Latini, Tesoro, ed altro. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 541.—Flavio Biondo, Storia Volgarizzata. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 542.—Poesie Antiche Varie. Cominciano con La Te-seide, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 543.—Leonardo Aretino, Della Guerra Punica. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 544.—Meditazioni della Vita di Gesù Cristo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 545.—Fra Simone da Cascia, Sposizione de Vangeli. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 546.—Miracoli di Maria Vergine. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 547.—Aristotile, delle Meteore. An unpublished MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 548.—S. Girolamo, Epistola ad Eustochio. Severo, Vita di S. Martino e Dialogo, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 549.—Lucano, La Farsalia Volgarizzata, in prosa. An unpublished MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 550.—S. Bernardo, Sermoni Volgarizzati. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 551.—Libro di Ricette, &c. &c. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 552.—Cronica degli Imperatori e Pontefici. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 553.—Leonardo Aretino, della Guerra Punica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 554.—Fasti e Capitoli dell' Accademia degli Inesperti. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 555.—Goro Dati, Libro della Sfera e Geografia. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with figures. On paper. Folio.
- 556, 557.—Two other copies of the preceding work, the second fragmentary.
- 558.—Diario dell' Accademia degli Alterati. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 559.—Prose dell' Accademia degli Alterati. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 560.—Poesie dell' Accademia degli Alterati. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 561.—Poesie, Censure e Difese dell' Accademia degli Alterati. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 562.—Frammenti di Lezioni dell' Accademia degli Alterati. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. This and the preceding four MSS. of the Accademia degli Alterati of Florence, are all autographs. They contain very many articles by the most distinguished men of the sixteenth century.
- 563.—Matteo del Teglia, Ragguaglio delle Nobili Famiglie di Venezia. A MS. of the seventeenth century, with arms in miniature. On paper. Folio.
- 564.—Poesie Toscane di Varj Autori. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 565.—Frezzi, Il Quadriregio. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1461). On paper. Folio.
- 566.—Vita e Miracoli di S. Francesco. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 567.—Prose e Poesie Varie. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 568.—Boccaccio, Laberinto d'Amore. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 569.—Rime Antiche.—A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 570.—Dicerie di Mss^e Matteo per gli Ambasciatori. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 571.—Libro di Medicina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 572.—S. Bernardo, Sermoni Volgarizzati. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 573.—Franco Sacchetti, Novelle. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1711), copied by A. M. Biscioni. On paper. Folio.
- 574.—Franco Sacchetti, Opere diverse. An autograph MS. of the fourteenth century (1377-1395); partly unpublished. On paper. Large folio.
- 575.—Allegretto, Poema delle cose del Cielo e della Transmutazione dei Metalli. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 576.—Libro d'Aritmetica. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1435). On paper. Quarto.
- 577.—Bardi (Giovanni), L'Idropico, Commedia. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 578.—Strozzi (Lorenzo), Commedia in versi. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 579.—Strozzi (L.), Commedia, in versi. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 580.—Sonetti e Capitoli in terza rima. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 581.—Strozzi, Sonetti e Canzoni. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 582.—Poesie Toscane in vario metro e stile. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 583.—Poesie diverse; del Berni, del Casa, etc. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 584.—Poesie di Anton Francesco Grazzini, detto Il Lasca. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 585.—Fiamma, Quattro Canzoni. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 586.—Pazzi (Alfonso), Sonetti. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 587.—Giraldi, Sonetti. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 588.—Cesareo (Agostino), I sette Salmi Penitenziali. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 589.—Ottave, etc. di Lorenzo Antinori. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 590.—Canzoni, la prima della quali comincia: "Or che sul Betiondoso." A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 591.—Carli, Poesie in vita e in morte di Giovan Paolo Lucardesi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 592.—Frammenti di varj Quesiti Medici. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 593.—Insegne delli arti di Firenze, e Armi delle Terri e Castelli del Dominio Fiorentino. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- lamo, Epistole, etc. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper and vellum. Octavo.
- Medicina del Cuore, ossia trattato della S. of the fifteenth century. On vellum.
- ale giornaliero d'Anonimo. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1722). On paper. Quarto.
- Precetti Grammaticali, etc. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. With autographs.
- Laude, cioè i sette Salmi Penitenziali, azione attribuita a Dante, etc. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- Nato, Rappresentanza Sacra. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- ate, Le Odi, tradotte dal Padre Pagnini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- (Prete Cosimo), Torquati Tassi Poemina. A MS. of the eighteenth century.
- Odi, Satire, Epistole, Arte Poetica; di Cosimo Scarperia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- Salmi, e i Cantici; versione Elegiaca. A MS. of the eighteenth century.
- e Messale, Inni e Sequenze; versione Latina. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Folio.
- Libri del Vecchio Testamento, versione di Scarperia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- Lorenzo di Filippo, Poesie Composte. An autograph MS. of the beginning of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- erse. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Folio.
- Mercantile. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Folio.
- enedetto), La Snocera, Commedia copiosa della Magliabechiana. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1749). On paper. Quarto.
- ademiche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- aolo), Varie Scritture. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- la Consolazione; Traduzione di Meo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper.
- in Poesia ed in Prosa; con una Orazione di M. Salvini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Folio.
- (Sebastiano), Poesie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- stire. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Folio.
- e. A MS. of the eighteenth century.
- se e Prose di Gio. Papini e d'altri. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in twenty-two volumes, of which one is unpublished. On paper. Quarto.
- larco), I Sette Salmi Penitenziali in versi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper.
- lonarchia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Quarto.
- Barca di Trajano. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- renzo), Il Mancini beffato da un altro. A MS. of the eighteenth century.
- ti (Giuseppe), Orazione in Morte di Lorenzo. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Folio.
- ti, Orazione in Morte di Carlo VI. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- artolommeo), Sommario della sua vita. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper.
- oganz. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Folio.
- ntine e Sistema del Governo prenestino (Francesco di Lorena). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- y. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- la Città di Firenze dall'anno 1075. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper.
- ti), Pratica di Cambi et altre Ragioni. A MS. of the seventeenth century. Folio.
- 629.—Discorso sopra le Ragioni dei Creditori del Monte di Pietà. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 630.—Buccelai (Priore Orazio), Dialoghi. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in three volumes, unpublished. On paper. Folio.
- 631.—Discorsi Politici di Fra Paolo Sarpi, dell' Abate . . . , del Cardinal Commendone. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 632.—Cocchi, Istituzioni Anatomiche. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 633.—Cresci (Migliore), Istoria d'Italia. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 634.—Lasca (Anton Francesco Grazzini), Novelle. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. A copy made by A. M. Biscioni.
- 635.—Origine dell' Accademia o Adunanza nominata Arsura. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1682). On paper. Folio.
- 636.—Parabosco, Novelle. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 637.—Busini (Giovanni Batista), Lettere scritte a Varchi [delle cose eseguite in Firenze dall'anno 1527 all'anno 1532]. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 638.—Bellini (Lorenzo), Opere diverse. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, in five volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 639.—Zibaldone appartenuto a Monsignor Gio. Botari, in gran parte scritto di sua mano; e più una Traduzione di Frontino fatta da Francesco da S. Gallo, e scritta di pugno di questo Sommo Architetto. A MS. of the fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 640.—Varietà Storico Fiorentina. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 641.—Catone, Versi volgarizzati.—Boezio della Consolazione, volgarizzamento; ed altro. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 642.—Grazzini, detto Il Lasca, Novelle. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 643.—Medicinale e Ricettario. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 644.—Dei (Benedetto), Memorie Storiche patrie. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 645.—Tedaldi, Agricoltura e Cose Storiche diverse. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 646.—La Rivoluzione di Napoli del 1647. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 647.—Bertini (Romolo), Poesie. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 648.—Nardi (Jacopo), Discorsi et Aggiunte alla sua Storia. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 649.—Libro di Varie Cose importanti per Lingua. Della Natura degli Animali. Volgarizzamento delle Favole d'Esopo. Orazioni Spirituali diverse. Contrasti dell' Anima col Corpo, in ottava rima. Frammento del Libro di Sidrac. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1460). On paper. Folio.
- 650.—Luciano, Della Vera Storia; Traduzione Italiana di A. M. Salvini; Autografo. Ed Orazioni di diversi, recitate all' Accademia degli Apatisti, etc. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 651.—Del Governo della Repubblica di Venezia. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 652.—Della Mascalcia dei Cavalli. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 653.—Diverse Scritture appartenenti alla Città di Firenze. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 654.—Floro Fiorentino, ovvero Elementi della Storia Fiorentina, divisa in decho. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 655.—Ricci (Angiolo Maria), Ragionamenti Omerici, scritti in Italiano et recitati nell' Accademia della Crusca. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 656.—Istituzioni Geometriche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 657.—Misure per le Fortificazioni che si adoprano per le Fortezze di quattro fino in dieci Baluardi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 658.—Albero della Famiglia dei Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1733). On paper. Quarto.
- 659.—Leggende della Natività di Maria Vergine e della Vita e Passione di Cristo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 660.—Albero della Famiglia dei Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1733). On paper. Large folio.
- 661.—S. Gregorio, Omelia Quaranta. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 662.—Stratto delle Gabelle per Fiorenza. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 663.—Davanzati (Bernardo), Toscana Coltivazione delle Viti e degli Alberi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 664.—Tocci (Pier Francesco), Canzone a Luigi XIV. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 665.—Polibio, Trattato degli Ordini della Romana Milizia, estratto della Storia; Traduzione di Filippo Strozzi. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 666.—Fioretti di S. Francesco ed Omelia di Origene. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 667.—Cavalca, Specchio di Croce. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 668.—Palmieri (Matteo), Storia dei Tempi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 669.—Varie Cose del Buon Secolo della Lingua, cioè: Vita di S. Girolamo. Ordine della Vita Cristiana di Fra Simone da Cascia. Specchio dell' Anima. Scala di S. Agostino. Lamento di S. Bernardo. Esposizione del Pater Noster. Dottrine di Frate Egidio, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 670.—Miscellanea Volgare, cioè: Rubriche di S. Antonio in Volgare, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 671.—Il Capitolo Fratesco (del Miniti). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 672.—S. Girolamo, Regola ad Eustochio. S. Bernardo, Lo Specchio della Mondizia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 673.—Elementi di Euclide letti in Pisa da Francesco. Ottonaio. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1558). On paper. Quarto.
- 674.—Varia, cioè: Discorsi come dall indice in principio del volume. Lezioni ed Orazioni Accademiche, &c. Miscellanea in prosa e poesia. Poesia scelta, &c. Relazione e Sermoni Politici, &c. Storia Biografia, &c. Abozzi e Prose o Poesie o Volgarizzamenti in buona lingua. A MS. of the fourteenth, fifteenth, and sixteenth centuries, in eight volumes. On paper. Folio and Quarto.
- 675.—Serdonati, Proverbi tratti da Luigi Fiacchi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 676.—Antonino S., Il Confessionale. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 677.—Ermete o Ermete, Sopra l'Arte della Filosofia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. 24mo.
- 678.—Poesie in diversa rima, originali e di terza composizione. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 679.—Boccaccio, Vita di Dante; e Dante, La Vita Nuova. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 680.—Cose di Astrologia Giudiciario. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 681.—Trattarello del Ben Morire, composto dal Cardinal di Fermo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 682.—Statuti per le Fonti di Siena. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 683.—Cinque fasci di fogli manoscritti di diverse materie. MSS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 684.—Adimari (Lodovico), Le Cinque Satire. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 685.—Istorie piacevoli degli Amori d'un Giovane della Casa Sardi di Lucca. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 686.—Varie Notizie della Famiglia di Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 687.—Il Manlio, Opera Drammatica. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 688.—Segni (Alessandro), Raccolta delle Imprese usate in diverse occasioni dai personaggi della famiglia de' Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 689.—Storia Fiorentina. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 690.—Varietà Storiche e Letterarie, MS. e Stampata, MSS. and printed prices of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 691.—Dichiarazione dello Stromento Geometrico e Militare di Galileo Galilei. A MS. of the seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 692.—Trattato della Sfera, di Galileo Galilei. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 693.—La Donna sempre è infedele. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 694.—Storia di Bianca Capello. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 695.—Lettere di diversi Principi e Signori, indirizzate al Cardinale Amulio. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 696.—Materie Storiche diverse. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 697.—Confutazione dell' opera di Fra Paolo Sarpi, intitolata: Dell' Inquisizione di Venezia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 698.—Genealogia della Casa de' Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 699.—Memorie diversi attenente alla Casa de' Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 700.—Cresci (Migliore), Storia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 701.—Istoria della Signora Donna Maria degli Albizzi, Fondatrice del Monasterio di S. Chiara di Firenze. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 702.—Sonetti Sacri, Morali, Eroici, &c. raccolti da Gio. Ant. Pinelli. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 703.—Sonetti Sacri e Morali. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 704.—Miscellanea di cose Storiche. A MS. of different epochs, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 705.—Virgilio, L'Eneide; Traduzione di A. M. Salvini, diligentemente trascritta da Francesco Grazzini.—Lorenzini (Benedetto), Vita di A. M. Salvini, copiata dall' autografo esistente nella Biblioteca di Venezia. An unpublished MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 706.—Virgilio, Opere; tradotte da A. M. Salvini, trascritte da Domenico Andrea Bigazzi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 707.—Virgilio, versione in varia rima Toscana, dello Ecloghe; Traduzione di Cosimo della Scarperia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 708.—Azzolini (Monsignor Lorenzo), Poesie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 709.—Sonetti diversi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 710.—Gigli (Girolamo), Varietà in prosa e in poesia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 711.—Nomi e Casati del Priorista. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 712.—Indice delle Medaglie e delle Monete esistenti nella Galleria di S.A.R. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 713.—Istorie e cose varie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 714.—Varietà Storica. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 715.—Varietà Storiche. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 716.—Scritture d'Economia Politica Toscana. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 717.—Montecuccoli (Raimondo), Opere. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 718.—Scritture Varie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 719.—Raccolta de Poesie Toscane. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in five volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 720.—Il Capitolo Dei Frati, Poema piacevole. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 721.—La vera Dama Cristiana nella Msa. Lucrezia Torrigiani Riccardi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 722.—Istoriotta di Casa Medici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 723.—Lamberti (Marco), Poesie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 724.—Alcune Cose tratte dall' Istoria di Francesco Guicciardini. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 725.—Copia Lettere di un' Ambasciatore Toscano a Madrid dal 1621 al 1642. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 726.—Varietà Storica. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 727.—Monaldi, Storia delle Famiglie Fiorentine. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 728.—Abbozzo di Calendario Fiorentino Istorico. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 729.—Stampiglia (Silvio), Poesie. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in four volumes. On paper. Quarto.
- 730.—Vangeli volgarizzati ed esposti da Fra Simone da Cascia, Agostiniano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 731.—Ricettario ed Erbario. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with coloured drawings. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- stramenti per far diversi Equilibri, ze di mano. A MS. of the sixteenth per. Folio.
- (Monsignore), Satira contro la Libi- of the eighteenth century. On paper.
- Uomini illustri Fiorentini, cioè di Ant. Fr. Sachetti, di Luigi Alamanni, di i. A MS. of the eighteenth century. to.
- eide del Padre Siceo, con il comento. enteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- o Falereo, Della Elocuzione. A MS. of entury. On paper. Quarto.
- o tra Zenevera di Bentivoglio e Sis- ca la Comparazione delle Gemme dell' ore. A MS. of the fifteenth century, On vellum. Quarto.
- diversi, per la maggior parte Orazioni s. of the sixteenth century. On paper.
- amento dell' Ufizio della Madonna, i e diverse altre coserelle. A MS. of tury. On paper. Quarto.
- Principi del Monachismo, intitolata: ne delle Monache." A MS. of the fif- 62). On paper. Quarto.
- s. Giovanni Battista, scritta da Matteo A MS. of the fifteenth century. On
- lla Sapienza, Libro di coze Ascetiche. nth century. On paper. Quarto.
- e dell' Istoria de Bello Punico com- Leonardo Arcetino. A MS. of the fif- n paper. Quarto.
- role e Sonetti pastorali con aggiunte. centh century. On paper. Quarto.
- . Battista), Della Correzione Fraterna. centh century. On paper. Quarto.
- (Antonio), La Tina, Equivoci rusti- anta. A MS. of the eighteenth cen- Quarto.
- (Gio. Battista), La Forza del Sos- ntola delle Corna; Commedia. A nth century. On paper. Quarto.
- Il libro del Segreto dei Segreti, del ncipi e dei Rè; Traduzione Italiana. nth century. On paper. Quarto.
- rse. A MS. of the seventeenth cen- Quarto.
- di diversi. A MS. of the eighteenth Quarto.
- Vita, di Agnolo, di Filippo Pan- S. of the fifteenth century. On
- onio), Istitutioni Chirurgiche. A h century. On paper. Quarto.
- I. Sermoni. A MS. of the fifteenth Quarto.
- Francesco), Canzoni e Poesie diversi. aph, of the sixteenth century. On
- trattato di Medicina. A MS. of the On paper. Quarto.
- ie Poesie di Autori diversi non MS. of the eighteenth century.
- l' Arcibestuale Padre Francesco, Compagnia dei Brutti fondata dal of the seventeenth century. On
- la Coltivazione Toscana. A MS. ry. On paper. Quarto.
- gli Intronati e Poesie. A MS. of On paper. Quarto.
- Toscane. A MS. of the eighteenth Quarto.
- medea di Gio. Bernardo, Fioren- : sixteenth century. On paper.
- ccesco), Sonetti, col Commento di A MS. of the eighteenth century.
- e diverse. A MS. of the sixteenth Quarto. Some of the poems are
- e varie. A MS. of the sixteenth ies. On paper. Folio.
- ommeo), Poesie Satiriche. A MS. ry. On paper. Quarto.
- udi Spirituali. A MS. of the paper. Quarto.
- 767.—Biscioni (Antonio Maria), Annotazioni alle Satire del Menzini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 768.—Ragionamento Accademico sopra i Trionfi del Petrarca. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 769.—Trattato dell' Origine della Guerra fra gli Inglesi e Franchesi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 770.—Relazione dei Viaggi di Marco Polo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 771.—Rime diverse. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 772.—Raccolta di Componimenti Poetici. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Quarto.
- 773.—Descrizione del Viaggio d'un Ambasciatore Toscano sotto Cosimo III. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 774.—Diario del Viaggio di S. A. Ser Violante Beatrice di Baviera, da Firenze a Roma, per il Giubbileo del 1725. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 775.—Pandolfini (Roberto), Orazioni. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 776.—Mascardi (Agostino), Scrittura intorno all, Elezione in Pontefice del Card. Ludovisio. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 777.—Relazioni Storiche diverse. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 778.—Storia d'Italia in quattro libri, della Creazione di Paolo III. a quella di Giulio III. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 779.—Cose Storiche. Rivoluzione di Masaniello. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 780.—Fascio contenente diverse cose Storiche e Letterarie. MSS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 781.—Fascio contenente diverso cose Storiche e Letterarie. MSS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 782.—Fascio contenente diverse cose Storiche. MSS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 783.—Fascio contenente diverse cose Letterario. MSS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 784.—Fascio contenente Poesie. MSS. of the seven- teenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 785.—Fascio di materie Letterarie e Storiche. MSS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 786.—Fascio di Materie Letterarie. MSS. of the seven- teenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 787.—Fascio di Materie Letterarie e Idrauliche. MSS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 788.—Manoscritti diversi riuniti, contenenti cose Storiche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 789.—Fascio di Sonetti. MSS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 790.—Fascio di materie Letterarie. MSS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 791.—Fascio di materie Letterarie. MSS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 792.—Fascetto Sciolto di Poesie. MSS. of the seven- teenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 793.—Relazione sulla Valuta del Fiorino. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 794.—Memorie Storiche in forma di Diario, dal 1498 al 1512. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 795.—Maniera di fare le Tratte della Signoria nuova della Repubblica Fiorentina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 796.—Ricordi e Memorie di varia Istoria Fiorentina. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 797.—Storia della Strage degli Ugonotti. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 798.—Relazione della Battaglia dei Fiorentini a Monte Aperti. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 799.—Priorista Fiorentino, con Notizie Storiche. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 800.—Priorista Fiorentino; e Forti, Foro Fiorentino. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 801.—Villani (Giovanni), Cronica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 802.—Memorie Istoriche sopra la Città di Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 803.—Vita di Filippo Strozzi e di Piero Strozzi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 804.—Materie Storiche. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

- 805.—Burlamacchi, Vita di Fra Girolamo Savonarola. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 806.—Tornabuoni (Monsignore Alfonso), Registro di Lettere del tempo della sua Ambasceria alla Corte di Filippo V. e Lettere del tempo del Ambasceria in Francia. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 807.—Busini (Giovanni Battista), Lettere. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 808.—Raccolta di Leggi del Comune di Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 809.—Statuto delle Gabelle. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 810.—Memorie Storiche, e sulla Famiglia de' Medici e sulla Stato di Firenze. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 811.—Cambi, Storie dall' anno 1509. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 812.—Notizie Storiche varie, sopra la Corte di Roma. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 813.—Relazioni di diversi Conclavi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 814.—Commendone, Cardinale. Discorso sopra la Corte di Roma. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 815.—Articoli della Pace del 1725. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 816.—Memorie Storiche sopra alcuni Cittadini Fiorentini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 817.—Cambi Importuni, Istorie di Firenze dal 1480 al 1538. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 818.—Del Nero e Stefano Cambi, Istorie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 819.—Ghivizzani (Alessandro), Opere. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in five volumes. On paper. Quarto.
- 820.—Cerretani (Bartolommeo), Storia di Firenze. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 821.—Cronica di Marchionne. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1509). On paper. Folio.
- 822.—Lucrezio, Della Natura delle Cose; Traduzione di Alessandro Marchetti. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Quarto.
- 823.—Discorso della Guarantia et altro. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 824.—Copia della Esamina e Processo di Fra Girolamo Savonarola. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 825.—Miscellanea di diverse Cose Storiche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 826.—Miscellanea d'Ordinanze Militari Toscane. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 827.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice Vecchietti detto l'Elegantissimo. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 828.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice Pucciano detto l'Antichissimo. A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio. The oldest known MS. of Dante. It is dated 1335.
- 829.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice Ricassiano detto il Correttissimo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio. In many parts imperfect.
- 830.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice dei Guidi detto il Magnifico. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio. With very fine miniatures.
- 831.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice Ricassiano secondo, detto il Nobile. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 832.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice Ricassiano terzo, detto l'Ottimo. A MS. partly of the fourteenth century and partly of the fifteenth. On vellum. Folio.
- 833.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice A. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On paper. Folio.
- 834.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice B. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1387). On paper. Small folio.
- 835.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice C. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 836.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice D. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 837.—Dante. La Divina Commedia. Codice E. detto il Verrazzano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 838.—Dante. Frammento del Inferno. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 839.—De Rambaldi (Beuvenuti) Imolensis, Commentarius in Dantis comediam. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 840.—Dante. Commento d'Anonimo sopra il Paradiso. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 841.—Dante. Commento di Pietro figlio di Dante. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 842.—Dante. Il Convito. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 843.—Dante. La Vita Nuova. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 844.—Dante. Chiose alla Cantica dell' Inferno. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 845.—Petrarca, Le Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- 846.—Petrarca, Le Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1462). On vellum. Quarto. Injured at the beginning.
- 847.—Petrarca, Le Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 848.—Petrarca, Le Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.
- 849.—Petrarca, I. Trionfi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 850.—Petrarca, Degli Uomini Illustri, Volgarizzati. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1429), written in double columns. On paper. Folio.
- 851.—Petrarchæ et Boccacci Eclogæ et Bucolicæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 852.—Petrarca, Il Pianto di Maria Vergine, attribuita al Petrarca. Poesia in terza rima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 853.—Petrarca, Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century, injured in many parts. On paper. Folio.
- 854.—Petrarca, I. Trionfi. There is added at the end, Dati dello Zodiaco. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 855.—Petrarca, I Trionfi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 856.—Statuta Florentina. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in four volumes. On paper. Large folio.
- 857.—Geometrie et Fortification (in Latin). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Large folio.
- 858.—Pontificale Romanum. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with very fine miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
859. Bellini (Laurentii), Collezione di Piante Botaniche. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 860.—Averani (Benedicti), Orationes habitæ Pisis, libri 22. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 861.—Mazzei Physica. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 862.—Institutiones Juris Civilis, cum Notis. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 863.—Institutiones Logicæ. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 864.—Scritture Poetiche in Lingua Spagnola. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 865.—L'Aumonier Hospitalier. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 866.—Liber Geometriæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 867.—Virgilii Opera, cum raris Notis. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1318), with miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 868.—Virgilii Bucolica et Georgica. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 869.—Leonardi Bruni Historia Populi Florentini. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 870.—Miscellanea.—De Natione Sancti Stephani, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 871.—Ciceronis De Oratore. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1440). On paper. Folio.
- 872.—Giannetti Physica. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 873.—Gaidonis Columnæ Historia Trojana. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 874.—Benedicti Florecti Commentarium in primam Ovidii Epistolam adversus Penelopen, &c. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 875.—Leonis Sancti, Sermones. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 876.—Donati Grammatica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 877.—Zamboni (Jos.), Fragmenta Collecta Parnassi Botanici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 878.—Opusculæ en vers et en prose. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 879.—Virgilii Eclogæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1492). On paper. Folio.
- 880.—Ciceronis De Oratore. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

- ini Liber Orthographia. A MS. of the y. On paper. Folio.
- ini Favorini Epistolæ. A MS. of the tury. On paper. Folio.
- a Dottorale di Francesco Pandolfini. xteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- lfabetica di Famiglie che hanno goduto ato e del Priorato. A MS. of the seven- On paper. Quarto.
- (Thomæ) Vita Beati Gometrii. A ceenth century, with miniatures. On .
- Leonardi) Aretini, De Temporibus suis, nes. A MS. of the fifteenth century iatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- Georgica. A MS. of the fifteenth cen- 1. Quarto.
- s Tusculanæ Quæstiones. A MS. of tury (1462). On vellum. Quarto.
- ntinens Nummos Antiquos Romanos, rsorum Regum et Civitatum, qui re- ao M. Ducis Etruriæ. A MS. of the ury. On paper. Quarto.
- io contenente materie appartenenti al A MS. of the sixteenth century. On
- aria. A MS. of the fifteenth century. o.
- le Consolatione Philosophiæ. A MS. century. On vellum. Quarto.
- li Lullii Metaphysica. A MS. of the On paper. Quarto.
- Ficini Commentaria in Convivium e. A MS. of the fifteenth century. to.
- ectiæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. .
- nes quas habuit Santa Brigida. A enth century (1402). On paper.
- andi, seu Aurelii Victoris Liber Illus- t aliorum Opuscula. A MS. of the On paper. Quarto.
- on Adagiorum, Lat. Ital. A MS. tury. On paper. Quarto.
- di tutto l'Anno. A MS. of the six- on vellum. Quarto.
- tellum Catilinarium. A MS. of the . On vellum. Quarto.
- a. A MS. of the sixteenth century.
- Septem Vitæ Latinè redditæ a Lapo MS. of the fifteenth century. On
- De Fato. A MS. of the fifteenth . Quarto.
- icola et Georgica. A MS. of the On paper. Quarto.
- entis Romanæ Urbis et aliorum loco- sixteenth century. On vellum.
- us drawn with the pen.
- oscopij. A MS. of the seventeenth Quarto.
- Lullii de Fallacia. A MS. of the On paper. Quarto.
- Bien Morir; libro Spagnolo. A century. On paper. Quarto.
- rgicon. A MS. of the fifteenth . Quarto.
- aticorum, cum Commentariis. A h century. On vellum. Quarto.
- lum Catilinarium et Jugurthinum. th century. On paper. Quarto.
- ellum Catilinarium et Jugurthi- e fourteenth century. On vellum.
- a varia. A MS. of the fifteenth cen- uarto.
- olicon et Georgicon. A MS. of the On vellum. Quarto.
- (donis) Algebra. A MS. of the On paper. Quarto.
- lai Episcopi, e Greco in Latinum the fifteenth century, with small iniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- ii De Studiosorum Sanitate tuenda. i century. On paper. Quarto.
- ia; Statii Achilleidos; Ciceronis ate, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth Quarto.
- 919.—Grandi (Guidonis), De Calculo Differentiali et Integrali. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 920.—Ciceronis De Amicitia. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 921.—De Vita et Obitu Beati Hieronymi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 922.—Benivieni (Antonii), De Peste. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 923.—Augustini Paganelli Epistole et Orationes. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 924.—Benedicti Accolti Aretini, De sui priorisque ævi hominum Præstantia, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 925.—Francisci Catanii Diacetti, De Amore. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 926.—Augustini Dati, Scribæ Senensis, Elegantiolæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 927.—Miscellanæ quinque.—Cornelii Propositiones damnatæ; Oricellarii Pallæ Oratio ad Carolum V., &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 928.—Raccolta d'Orgazioni Quotidiane e Festive in Ebraico, secondo il sistema degli Israeliti Tedeschi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum Quarto.
- 929.—Ferdinandi Regis, Epistolæ et Orationes per Antonium Panormitanum. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1438). On vellum. Quarto.
- 930.—Grandi (Guidonis), Institutiones Geometricæ in tres partes divisæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Octavo.
- 931.—Biblia Sacra Latina. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in doubles columns. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 932.—Varia:—Tractatus Grammaticæ; De Oratore, et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 933.—Sancti Malachiæ Prophetiæ de futuris Pontificibus. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 934.—Lactantii Firmiani adversus Gentiles. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Octavo.
- 935.—De Cessulis, De Ludo Scaccorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 936.—Officium Beatæ Virginis secundum Consuetudinem Romanæ Curiæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. With miniatures. On vellum. Large duodecimo.
- 937.—Officium Beatæ Virginis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 938.—Officium Beatæ Virginis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 939.—Officium Beatæ Virginis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 940.—Officium Beatæ Mariæ Virginis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in three volumes. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 941.—Cursus Physicæ et Logicæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in five volumes. On paper. Octavo.
- 942.—Villani (Philippi), Vitæ Hominum Illustrum. An autograph MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 943.—Terentii Comædiæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 944.—Albero della Vita, in Ebraico. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 945.—Due Uffiziole. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. 16mo.
- 946.—Ægidii (Columnæ) Romani, De Regimine Principum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 947.—Ægidii (Columnæ) Romani, de Regimine Principum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 948.—Alberti, F., De Officio Sacerdotis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 949.—Antonini Confessionale. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 950.—Applausi delle Muse Euganee, nelle felicissime et augustissime Nozze di Cosimo de' Medici et Margherita d'Orleans; dedicato al Principe Carlo de' Medici, Cardinale Decano. A MS. of the seventeenth century, full of beautiful miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 951.—Aratoris Subdiaconi, Sacra Poesis de insignibus Apostolorum Actibus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

- 952.—Aristotelis Logica, Latinè. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 953.—Aristotelis Ethica, in Latinum traducta per Leonardum (Brunum) Aretinum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 954.—Aristotelis Rhetorica, Latinè, interprete Francisco Philelpho. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 955.—Aristotile, Etica del Sommo Filosofo. An old Italian translation, unpublished. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 956.—Aritmetica Calabrese. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in Sicilian patois. On paper. Octavo.
- 957.—Baconis (Ruggerii), Tractata varia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 958.—Bardi (Angelo), Storia di Siena. An unpublished MS. of the eighteenth century (1719), in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 959.—Beli (Laurentii), Enchiridion Privilegiorum Pauperum, seu magis, Enchiridion Violatæ Paupertatis. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with a miniature, and in old binding, with the arms of Pius V.
- 960.—Bernado (S.) Abbate di Chiaravalle. Sermoni intorno alla Solennità del Signore, et altre feste dell' anno. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 961.—Bernardo (S.) Abbate. Expositione sopra il Salmo, "Qui habitat in adiutorio Altissimi," fatta vulgare dal Pre. D. Romolo, monaco di Settimo e Priore delle venerande e devote religiose di S. Donato in Polverosa. A MS. of the sixteenth century with miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 962.—Blondi (Flavii) Forliviensis. Historiarum ab Inclinatione Romanorum Imperii, decas prima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 963.—Boccacio (Giovanni), La Teseide. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1466). On paper. Folio.
- 964.—Boetio (Severino), De Consolatione Philosophiæ, tradotta di Latino in Volgare da Don Anselmo Tanzo, Milanese, Canonico regolare di Sanoto Augustino, de la Congregatione Laterana. A palimpsest MS., of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 965.—Bracciolini (Jacopo di Mes. Poggio), Commento sopra il Triompho della Fama di Mes. Francesco Petrarca, a Lorenzo di Piero de' Medici. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with very beautiful miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 966.—Bruni (Leonardo) Aretino, Il Libro de primo Bello Punico, composto da lui in Latino, e poi traslato in volgare per uno suo amico. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. It belonged to Fr. Grazzini, called Il Lasca.
- 967.—Calendario Romano. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1455). On vellum. Folio.
- 968.—Campani (Joannis Antonii), Vita Braccii Perusini, et Oratio funebris pro Baptista Sfortia, Urbini Comitissa. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1483), with very beautiful miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 969.—Capitoli e Regolamenti della Confraternità della Beata Virgine della Pietà, e di S. Girolamo dell' Olmo, in Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 970.—Capitoli e Regolamenti della Compagnia di S. Lorenzo di Firenze. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1511), with miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- 971.—Capitoli della Compagnia del Sanctissimo Martirio Sancto Sebastiano. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, with very beautiful miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- 972.—Casi fanesti e tragici seguiti nella città di Firenze in diversi tempi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 973.—Catulli (Valerii) Veronensis Poetæ clarissimi lib. ad Cornelium Gallum. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with autograph annotations by Braccio Ricasoli. On paper. Folio.
- 974.—Chronica Montis Cassinensis. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Large folio.
- 975.—Cicerone, Rhetorica Nuova. (An old Italian translation.) A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 976.—Ciceronis, ad Marcum filium, De Officiis, libri III. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 977.—Clandiani (Claudii), De Raptu Proserpinæ. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 978.—Collectio Variorum Opusculorum. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 979.—Comestoris (Petri), Historia Scholastica. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Large folio.
- 980.—Commentarium super Psalmos. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with small miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 981.—Corona B^e M^e Virginis. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 982.—Crispi Sallustii de Conjurazione Catilinæ liber, et de Bello Jugurtino. A MS. of the fifteenth century, which formerly belonged to Cardinal Imperiali. On vellum. Folio.
- 983.—Cyrilli, Archiepiscopi Alexandrini, Liber qui appellatur Thesaurus adversus Hereticos, a Georgio Trapezuntio in Latinum traductus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 984.—Decreta varia Pontificum. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio.
- 985.—Eusebii Pamphili De Evangelica Preparatione lib. a Georgio Trapezuntio in Latinum traductus. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Large folio.
- 986.—Eusebio (B.), Della morte di S. Girolamo (ed altre Opere). A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.
- 987.—Filicaia (Vicenzo), Poesie varie. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. With many various readings and autograph corrections.
- 988.—Giovanni (S.) Chrysostomo, Della Campunzione del Cuore. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 989.—Giustino, abbreviatore di Trogo Pompeo, famosissimo Greco e grand Ystoriographo, tradotto di Greco in Latino, e poi è stato ridotto alla Lingua volgare. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 990.—Gregorii Nazianzeni Opera Omnia, Latinè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 991.—Gregorii Papæ Dialogi.—Bedæ Historia ecclesiastica gentis Anglorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 992.—Gregorii (S.), Libro delle Homelie. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 993.—Gualdi, Abbate (Gregorio Leti), Vita di Donna Olimpia Maldachini. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 994.—Guido Pisano, dell' Ordine del Carmino di Monte. Antiche Storie. A MS. of the 14th century. On vellum. Folio.
- 995.—Guilielmi (Magistri) Philosophicæ Summa. A MS. of the twelfth century, with many drawings. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 996.—Hieronymi (S.), Epistolæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Large folio.
- 997.—Historiæ Romanæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 998.—Laonici Chalcocondylæ, Historiarum Fragmenta, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 999.—Liber Choralis. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1423), with fine miniatures by Florentine artists. On vellum. Large folio.
- 1000.—Libri II. Domini Potestatis Civitat. Floren. de Modo Procedendi in Civilibus Causis, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1001.—Logica Variorum Scriptorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1002.—Lucretio (Tito) Caro. Della Natura delle Cose, Libri VI. tradotti dal Latino al Toscano idioma da Alessandro Marchetti, Filosofo e Matematico Ordinario, nella celebre Università di Pisa. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1003.—Magalotti (Lorenzo), Lettere Familiari in materia di Religione. A MS. of the eighteenth century, with autograph corrections by A. M. Salvini. On paper. Folio.
- 1004.—Magistri Sententiarum Libri IV. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with small miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 1005.—Memorie (varie) Istoriche di Firenze (de 1419 à 1537). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1006.—Missale Romanum. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with music and with miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 1007.—Nicolosi (Giovanni Battista), Il Globo Terrestre explicato. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1008.—Nonni Marcelli De Proprietate Sermonum, et Festi Pompeii De Verborum Significatione. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1466) in two volumes. On vellum. Folio.
- 1009.—Oppiani De Venatione, Libri IV. e Greco in versus Latinos translato. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

- e Descendenza della Casa de' Medici. zteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- ij Butili Tauri Emiliani Agricultura. a Burgondione de Greco in Latinum MS. of the fourteenth century (1324). Folio.
- ilia e Deiphebo (Romanzo). A MS. of stury. On paper. Quarto.
- Emilii, M. Antonii, et aliorum illustrium æ, ex variis auctoribus excerptæ. A th century. On paper. Quarto.
- e (Francisci), Africe Lib. X. A MS. of ntury (1398). On paper. Folio.
- a (Francesco), Triumpho d'Amore. A th century, with an unpublished com- lum. Quarto.
- ii (Francisci), Francisci Sforciæ Paren- MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper.
- ecundi, Panegyricus ad Trajanum Im- S. of the fifteenth century. On vellum.
- ii, Vitæ Scip. Africani et Pauli Æmilii, um per Leonardum Aretinum versæ. fteenth century. On vellum. Small
- i, Vitæ XXIX. Illustrium Virorum, us in Latinum versæ. A MS. of the On paper. Folio.
- olgari di diversi autori. A MS. of tury. On paper. Quarto.
- (Clandii), Cosmographia. A MS. of ry. On paper. Quarto.
- Tractatus in Epistolas S. Pauli. A i century. On vellum. Quarto.
- S. Benedetto. A MS. of the fifteenth h miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- sancti Benedicti. A MS. of the six- n vellum. Quarto.
- i Sphæra et alia. A MS. of the four- n vellum. Quarto.
- Bellum Catilinarium. A MS. of the On vellum. Quarto.
- rechato in volgare. A MS. of the On vellum. Quarto.
- atharinæ Senensis, Opuscula varia, A MS. of the sixteenth century. On
- Lorenzo), Il primo libro della Pros- aph MS. of the sixteenth century Folio.
- ii), De Mirabilibus Mundi. A MS. ury. On vellum. Folio.
- Gestorum Mundi. A MS. of the On paper. Folio.
- baidos Liber. A MS. of the four- paper. Folio.
- randuca di Toscana, al tempo di an Duca quarto. Discorso dello di Venezia. A MS. of the seven- paper. Quarto.
- in Foro Penitentiali, valde utilis S. of the fifteenth century. On
- irolamo), Notizie dell' Accademia tà di Firenze, dalla sua fondazione A MS. of the eighteenth century.
- fael), La Morte del Duca e del come poi fu ucciso Henrico terzo. ancia; il tutto raccolto in ottava e parti. A MS. of the sixteenth Quarto.
- Astrologia, loqual si chiama Lo materiale. A MS. of the fifteenth Folio.
- Aritmetica. A MS. of the four- nturies. On paper. Quarto.
- edetto), Componenti Pastoral. h century, with autograph correc- arto.
- edetto), Delle vie delle Dottrine, apparare l'Arti e le Scienze. An IS. of the sixteenth century. On
- itu Orbis. A MS. of the fifteenth Duodecimo.
- entise on Optics). A MS. of the vellum. Folio.
- i, e devotissimi Exempi de Sancto A MS. of the fifteenth century.
- 1044.—Vita di Filippo Strozzi; Memorie di Casa Medici; Amori di Luigi XIV. con Mademoiselle La Vallière; Successi della Morte de' Caraffi a Roma; Congiura contra Gino Capponi, &c. A MS. of the seven- teenth and eighteenth centuries, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1045.—Ysidori Yspaliensis Episcopi, Ethimologiarum liber. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1046.—Vita della Vergine Maria (in verse). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1047.—Cicero de Amicitia. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1466). On paper. Octavo.
- 1048.—Fracantiani et Pomponatii, Opuscula Philoso- phica. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1049.—Ciceronis, Opera Rhetorica. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1050.—Ciceronis, Opera Rhetorica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1051.—De Musica Tractatus varii, nempe: D. Augus- tini, Censorini, Guidonis Monachi, Johannis Papæ, Boetii, Macrobi, Fulgentii, Isidori, Euchiridis, Oddonis Ab- batis, Ludovici Sancti. A MS. of the fourteenth cen- tury, with drawings, and which formerly belonged to the Bibliothèque de l'Escurial. On vellum. Folio.
- 1052.—Epistole di Falaride. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1468). On vellum. Quarto.
- 1053.—Philelpho (Mario), Dell' Officio della Gloriosa Vergine. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1054.—Guiberti Abbatis, Chronica. A MS. of the twelfth century, containing the history of the Cru- saders and the "Gesta Dei per Francos." On vellum. Small folio.
- 1055.—Libro d'Abbaco. A MS. of the fourteenth cen- tury. On paper. Folio.
- 1056.—Lettere e Canzoni di Franceschina Sapiana. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1057.—Traduction Italienne des Décades de Tite Live. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1058.—Petrarca, Rime. A MS. of the fourteenth cen- tury, ornamented with two large miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 1059.—Liber de Naturis Rerum, et alia. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1307), being an unpublished Scien- tific Encyclopedia. On vellum. Folio.
- 1060.—Galli Carmina; Patricis Carmina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1061.—Kalendarie delli Antichi Romani e altri (in Latin). A MS. of the sixteenth century, with many designs drawn with the pen. On paper. Folio.
- 1062.—Severi Minervi Spoletini, Opera. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1063.—Sogno del Fagioli. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1064.—Lettres écrites au P. de Montfaucon sur les Therapentes. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1711). On paper. Quarto.
- 1065.—Poggii Orationes. A MS. of the fifteenth cen- tury. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1066.—Zenobii Comœdia, per Petrum Domitium. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vel- lum. Quarto.
- 1067.—Petri Domitii, Naviger Comœdia. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1068.—Tractatus de Rebus Naturalibus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1069.—Senecæ Tragœdiæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1070.—Traduction Latine du Dante, par Rontho. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 1071.—Castalii Carmina. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1072.—Laude di Fra Jacopone da Todi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1073.—Rime del Secolo XVI. A MS. of the sixteenth century, containing an autograph collection of divers authors. On paper. Quarto.
- 1074.—Opusculæ inédites en Italien. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1075.—Officium Mortuorum, Leonis decimi Papæ. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1520). On vellum. Octavo. The MS. was written for Leo X., and bears his arms. The miniatures with which it is adorned are by Giulio Clovio, who has signed the volume with his name.
- 1076.—Aldebrant de Florence, Traité de Médecine (in old French). A curious work, written in French by a - Tuscan in the thirteenth century (1256). This MS. is of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

- 1077.—Poggi Fiorentini, Panegyricus ad Emmanuelem, Portugallie Regem. A MS. of the fifteenth century On vellum. Quarto.
- 1078.—Libellus Galeatii Pontici Facini. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1079.—Cicero, De Senectute. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1080.—Cicero, De Petitione Consulatus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1081.—Cicero, De Amicitia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1082.—Cicero, De Senectute. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1083.—Portulan (Latin). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1084.—Traduction Italienne du Traité de l'Amitié de Cicéron, et autres pièces en Italien. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1085.—Recueil de Chansons Françaises, avec la Musique. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Oblong quarto.
- 1086.—Cicero, De Officiis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1087.—Astrolabium. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1088.—Statuts (en patois Vénitien) de la Confrérie des Bateliers de Venice. A MS. of the sixteenth century, ornamented with miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 1089.—Pastorale Armenum. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with very curious miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1090.—Trattato de Retorica, estratto da Cicerone e d'altri autori. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1091.—S. Agostino, Città di Dio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1092.—Palmieri, Vita Civile. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1093.—Tavole di Astronomia di Ben Tabun. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in Arabic and Hebrew. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1094.—Manuscripta Cardinalis Alexandrini. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1564). On paper. Quarto. It is all in the handwriting of Pope Pius V. before his election to the Pontificate, and has at the end: "Fr Michael Ghisilerius, Card. Alexandrin."
- 1095.—Dante, La Divina Commedia, (with a short commentary in Latin). A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1096.—Lettere Ducali de 1570. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with a fine miniature. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1097.—Opuscula varia:—Quædam de Grammatica; Liber Helperici Compotistæ; Kalendaria, &c. A MS. partly of the eleventh and partly of the twelfth century. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 1098.—Raccolta di Satire contro la Corte di Roma. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.
- 1099.—Petrarcha de Contemptu Mundi. Vita Solitaria. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1100.—Catalogo delle Famiglie, le quali hanno governato la Città di Firenze, dall'anno 1100 all'anno 1530. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1101.—Chirurgie de Lanfranc. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper and vellum. Folio.
- 1102.—Biblia Sacra (in Italian). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio. This is the only MS. which exists of this ancient translation of the Bible cited by La Crusca. It formerly belonged to Redi, was lost, and was only some years ago recovered in a house which had been his property, near Arezzo.
- 1103.—Recueil imprimé et manuscrit relatif à l'histoire de Florence et à d'autres villes d'Italie. Of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1104.—Traité Théologiques en Latin,—S. Ambrosii de Bono Mortis; Scala Claustralium S. Bernardi, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1105.—Priorista e Storia Fiorentina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1106.—Dati, La Sfera. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1107.—Redi (Francesco), Lettere Autografe al Lanzonei. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1108.—Colloquia, ou Singularités remarquables prises des Conversations de M. Patin et M. Naudé. A MS. of the seventeenth century, which differs much from the printed work. On paper. Folio.
- 1109.—Pietro Jacopo Januario, Partenopeo. Delle sei Etate della Vita Humana. A MS. of the fifteenth century, signed by the author, and in many parts corrected with his own hand. On paper. Folio.
- 1110.—Bernardi Trevisani, Patricii Veneti, Opera Varia. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, containing, amongst other things, a treatise entitled "la Provisone del danaro." On paper. Folio.
- 1111.—Novella di Salimbeni. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto. It belonged to Roberlet, secretary of Charles VIII., who has written his name, adding the words: "à lui donné à Naples, 1493."
- 1112.—Lettere originali da autori illustri indirizzate a Marco Forcellini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1113.—Gassendi Commentaria de rebus Astronomicis. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1114.—Vita et Transito di S. Girolamo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1115.—Recueil en Arabe de Tables Astronomiques et de différents Traités en prose et en vers. A MS. of the fifteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto. Some leaves on cotton paper appear very old.
- 1116.—Epistolæ Hildeberti. A MS. of the eleventh and twelfth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1117.—Joh. Martini de Ferrariis de Parma, De Vitandis Venenis, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1456), with small miniatures and the arms of the King of France on the first leaf. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1118.—Rime di Petrarca. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1466). On paper. Quarto.
- 1119.—Recueil de Traités de Musique. MSS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1120.—Discorso sopra la Familia Altovita di Firenze (by Scipio Ammirato). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1121.—Commission donnée par le Doge Erizzo à S. F. Lipmoano. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1122.—Ephémérides Astronomiques (in Italian). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Quarto. Bound with the arms of the Medicis. It came out of the Academy del Cimento.
- 1123.—Commission donnée par le Doge Erizzo à T. Nani, Procureur de l'Eglise de S. Marc. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1124.—Traité de Chasse et autres traités. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On oriental paper. Octavo.
- 1125.—Alphabet de Plusieurs et Diverses Lettres Antiques. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1576). On vellum. Quarto.
- 1126.—Poesies Diverses, avec une Comédie par les Intronati di Siennæ. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1534). On paper. Quarto. It probably belonged to the Academy of the Intronati.
- 1127.—Opuscula varia Abbatis Ysaac de Syria. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 1128.—Libro di Abbaco, di Geometria e d'Algebra. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1129.—Traduction en Vers Latins, des trois premiers Chants de la Pucelle par Voltaire. Apparently an original MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1130.—Opus Naturæ Rerum. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with some figures drawn with a pen. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1131.—Recueil de divers Traités sur la Langue Italienne. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1132.—Nic. Peroti ad Pyrrhum nepotem, De Generibus Metrorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1133.—Liber Aben Ezre de Mundo, translatus de Hebreo. A MS. of the thirteenth century (1281). On vellum. Quarto. The volume also contains a short treatise on Astronomy in Latin in a paper MS. of the fifteenth century.
- 1134.—Sacra Carmina. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1135.—Additiones et Correctiones Veterum Statutorum Universitatis Studii Pisarum. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1517). On vellum. Quarto.
- 1136.—Novella di Guiscardo e Sigismonda (in ottava rima). A MS. of the fifteenth century, which also contains contemporary poems in various Italian dialects. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1137.—Lamento del Conte Jacopo; di Constantinopoli; di Pisa, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

- adrini Galli, vulgò de Villa Dei, Doc- of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
- yages que je fais en l'année 1667, avec Tellier, en Italie. A MS. of the seven- On paper. Octavo.
- ncarini, La Pazzia di Solingo, Pas- of the seventeenth century (1613). On
- in alla Seneura, a poem in the Mila- MS. of the seventeenth century. On
- i Comœdiæ. A MS. of the fifteenth per. Quarto.
- la tenersi nel dar l'Abito monacale. A teenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- Carmina; Lycophronis Alexandra steenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- ged to Balthasar Miliavacca, a Milanese enth century.
- en Latin, contenant entre autres ités de Maître Gaulhier de Burleo, IS. of the fifteenth century (1458). On
- i Biagio Bonaccorsi. A MS. of the with the first leaf ornamented. On
- aliennes inédites. A MS. of the six- On paper. Quarto.
- um. A MS. of the fifteenth century, paper. Quarto.
- e des affaires d'Allemagne. A MS. ntury. On vellum. Quarto.
- i del Conte d'Arco con la Principessa noglie di Leopoldo primo. A MS. of nd eighteenth centuries. On paper.
- San Francesco di Pavia. A MS. of y. On paper. Quarto.
- Piedra de Parangon politica. A nth century. On paper. Quarto.
- più e diverse materie della Signora Marchese di Pescara. A MS. of the (1540). On vellum. Quarto.
- l'un incerto autore. A MS. of the On vellum. Octavo.
- arti de Pictura, liber. A MS. of the 541). On vellum. Octavo.
- ie. A MS. of the eighteenth cen- e poems of Bellinzone, de Laurent ied by Dan. Farsetti.
- Cena di A. F. Grazzini, detto il he eighteenth century. On paper. Farsetti.
- di Petrarca. A MS. of the four- a centuries, with an unpublished llum. Quarto.
- San Francesco. A MS. of the 469). On paper. Quarto. There e same volume.
- ana di Villegiatura. A MS. of the 1796). On paper. Quarto.
- ni e Capitoli della Compagnia della iorentina in Roma. A MS. of the n paper. Quarto.
- es Religionis Montis Oliveti, Or- A MS. of the fifteenth century.
- bbaco, di Maestro Paolo dell Ab- e fourteenth century. On paper.
- tenent des Poésies, un Traité de A MS. of the seventeenth cen- per. Quarto.
- Sapientia. A MS. of the fifteenth Quarto.
- chimie en Latin, en prose et en urteenth century, full of coloured Quarto.
- atin) de documens et de diplômes Durazzo en Illyrie. A MS. of On vellum. Quarto. The oldest s volume belongs to the year 1194.
- bbaco. A MS. of the fourteenth Quarto.
- Compagnia della Nonziata di e seventeenth century. On vellum.
- libellus. Tractatus de S. Joanne Episcopi Toletani libri tres Prog- i. A MS. of the fourteenth cen- arto.
- 1171.—Description d'un très grande nombre de Reliques. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1604). On paper. Quarto.
- 1172.—Tractatus de Planetis. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1173.—Lettere inedite di S. B. Bodoni et de Tomitano. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1174.—Recueil d'Inscriptions et d'Anciens Opusculs en Grec et en Latin. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, with designs drawn with the pen. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1175.—La Sphæra, Poema Italiano del Dati. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1176.—Priscianus de Constructione Orationis. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1177.—Officium Disciplinorum aut Battutorum Ecclesiæ S. Deffidentis. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1354). On vellum. Quarto. It contains a great number of pieces in the old dialect of Lombardy.
- 1178.—Capitula Sanctissimæ Devotionis et Disciplinæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. It contains a great number of poems in the old dialect of Bergamo or of Brescia.
- 1179.—Officium Passionis Domini J. C. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. It contains many pieces in the old dialect of Brescia.
- 1180.—Recueil de différens Traités sur la Minéralogie et sur d'autres sujets scientifiques. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1181.—Statuts et Ordonnances relatifs à l'Eglise d'Oderzo. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1182.—Boccacio, Epistola a Piero de' Rossi. Lettere di Santi et Beati Fiorentini. A MS. of the fifteenth century, very important for the unpublished passages which it contains. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1183.—L. V. Giordani, Traité des Dialectes de Parme. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1184.—Tractatus de Morbis curandis. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1185.—V. Strozzi, Elegia ad B. P. Pium II. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. Presented to Pius II., whose arms are on the first leaf.
- 1186.—Vita di Donna Giovanna d'Austria. A MS. (presented to her) of the seventeenth century (1603). On paper. Quarto.
- 1187.—Recueil (en Français et en Latin) d'Astronomie et de Médecine. A MS., in different hands of the fourteenth century (1304). On vellum. Octavo.
- 1188.—Bart. Las Casas. (Traduction Italienne de ses écrits en faveur des Américains). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1189.—Legenda di Santa Margherita. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1190.—De Angulorum et Laterum Dimensione. An unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century, wholly in the handwriting of Torricelli. On paper. Quarto.
- 1191.—Excerptiones collectæ de diversis Opusculis B. Bernardi Abbatis Clarevallensis. A MS. of the twelfth century, from the library of De Pithou, who has written his name on the first page. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1192.—Statuta Nova Civitatis Avenionis. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1337). On cotton paper. Quarto.
- 1193.—Ciceronis Rhetoricorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1194.—Capitular Procuratorum Sancti Marci super Commissariis de ultra canale. An original MS., with miniatures, of the sixteenth century (1564). On vellum. Folio. Many of the rules are written in the Venetian dialect.
- 1195.—Beda in Epistolas Canonicas. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1196.—Cassiodori Historia Ecclesiastica. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1197.—Cartulaire de l'Eglise de S. Marc près de Sienne. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Folio. The first charter is of the year 994; the last of the year 1134.
- 1198.—Corpus Poetarum Græcorum, Græcæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. In addition to the life of Homer and all the poet's works (with an ancient commentary in Greek), this valuable MS. contains the Hymns of Callimachus, the Hymns of Orpheus, &c. It came from the ancient Benedictine convent of S. Pierre de Pérouse.
- 1199.—Trattato d'Algebra detto Ali Abraa. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1200.—Ovidio, Traduzione dell' Arto d'Amare in prosa. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

1201.—Francisci Vietæ Opera nonnulla. A MS., to a great extent autograph, of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1202.—Storia (in versi Italiani) di Pistoja. An unpublished autograph MS. by P. Ricciardi, of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1203.—Poesies Françaises présentées à Mad. de Pompadour, par M. Demayran, Prieur de Sezane. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1760). On paper. Octavo.

1204.—Ricerche sopra Archimede, composte da Ant. Nardi. A MS., to a great extent autograph, of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1205.—Registro d' Lettere, scritte a diversi dal Conte Lorenzo Magalotti mentre era Ambasciatore a Vienna nel 1675. A MS. of the seventeenth century, with some marginal notes and the title in the handwriting of the author.

1206.—Del Passaggio che fa il Cibo per il Corpo dell' animale Vivente. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. This unpublished and unknown treatise by Lorenzo Magalotti is wholly autograph.

1207.—Concordi della Religione et del Principato. Another autograph work of Lorenzo Magalotti. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1208.—Delle Apparenze Celesti, di Nic. Ant. Stelliola, Lynceo Napolitano. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1209.—Opera varia Joannis Ecchii, Belgæ Daventriensis. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century, containing: 1. A treatise on Astronomy in Latin; 2. An Italian play entitled "Donna Pudica;" 3. A sacred drama, in Latin, entitled "Hecastus." On paper. Folio. At the head of the last piece is this title, also autograph:—"Hecastus comoedia sacra lusa a Tho. " Ecchio, Belgæ Daventriensi, anno Domini 1595, et " ætatis sue 14."

1210.—Magna Mechanica Doctoris Jo. Heckii, conscripta, anno 1605. An autograph unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1211.—Ulyssis Aldrovandi, Opera Varia inedita. A MS. of the sixteenth century in five volumes. On paper. Folio. It contains a series of engravings which have never been published, with autograph manuscript descriptions.

1212.—Zaccolini, Traité d'Optique. An unpublished MS. in four volumes, of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1213.—Boccaccio, Il Philocopo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1214.—Inventaire rédigé au mois d'Aout 1361, de l'Argenterie et de tous les vases précieux qui appartenaient à la République de Florence. An original MS. On paper. Folio.

1215.—Compté détaillé de la dépense de la cuisine faite en 1411, pour les Chefs de la République de Florence. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1216.—Livro de depenso dos Priours ou Chefs de la République de Florence, pendant l'année 1344. An original MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1217.—Hon. Fabri, Societ. Jes., Synopsis recens Inventorum in Re Litteraria et quibusdam aliis. An unpublished and, in part, autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1218.—Compte détaillé de toute la dépense et des Opérations Commerciales de la famille de Medicis. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1451). On paper. Folio.

1219.—Correspondenza d'Uomini illustri con Ottav. Falconieri. A volume of the seventeenth century, containing a great number of autograph letters from Viviani, Filicaia, Magalotti, Cassini, &c., &c. On paper. Folio.

1220.—Livre de Mémoires divers rédigé en 1332, et années suivantes, par Foresto, Citoyen de Florence. An original MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1221.—Description de tous les Biens, meubles et immeubles, appartenants à l'Abbaye de Florence, et a celle d'Arezzo. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1374). On paper. Folio.

1222.—Recueil de Chartes originales et inédites relatives à l'histoire de la Toscane. Two volumes, containing charters of the tenth century, and of the centuries following, up to the fifteenth. On vellum. Folio. The oldest charter in this collection is of the year 990.

1223.—Cecco d'Ascoli, L'Acerba. A MS. of the fourteenth century, also containing other poems attributed to the same author. On vellum. Quarto.

1224.—Recueil de Chartes relatives à différens Couvens de l'ordre de S. Benoit. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1225.—Cecco d'Ascoli, L'Acerba. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1226.—Dictionarium Latino-Hebraicum. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. This volume contains an autograph unpublished work of the celebrated Jerome Benivieni, of Florence, with his signature.

1227.—Epistolarium Regiæ Bibliothecæ, olim Percusati. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two parts. On paper. Folio.

1228.—Catalogus Fossilium quæ extant in Musæo Alexandrino Mediolanensi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1229.—Recueil composé de 16 vol. tant in 4to que in folio, contenant les procès verbaux originaux des séances de l'ancienne Académie des Sciences de Paris, avec les analyses, les expériences faites par ordre de l'Académie des Sciences; plus un cahier de lettres et de notes relatives aux mêmes sujets. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in the handwriting of Bourdelin and many other members of the Academy. It is a mine of wealth for those who would thoroughly study the history of science in France during the seventeenth century.

1230.—In questo Quinterno sarà descritto tutto l'essare (sic) de lo Spedale di S. Maria de la Scala di Sinea e di li suoi membri. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Large folio.

1231.—Relatione fatta all' Imperatore Filippo II., da incerto Autore mandato nella Persia da Papa Sisto V. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1232.—Sebastiani d'Olmeda, Chronica de Magistris, Generalibus et viris illustribus Ordinis Prædicatorum. A MS., to a great extent unpublished, of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1233.—Aristotelis Ethica, Leonardo Aretino interprete. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1465). On paper. Folio.

1234.—Varia:—Versiculi Latini; Rimo Antiche Italiane; Tractatus Geometriæ; Tractatus de Sphæra. A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.

1235.—Varia:—Ascetica quædam; Geographica et Historica quædam. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Quarto.

1236.—Varia:—Kalendarium; De Computo; Versus de Computo, &c. A MS. of the thirteenth century, with figures drawn with the pen. On vellum. Quarto.

1237.—Petri Gassendi Syntagma Philosophicum. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1238.—Petri Gassendi, in Dialecticam Aristotelis. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1239.—Petri Gassendi, De Deo Authore et Rectore Mundi. An autograph unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1240.—Terentii Comædiæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

1241.—Traité pour convertir à l'Eglise ceux qui en sont séparés. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum and paper. Octavo.

1242.—Livre en Arménien (Extracts from the Bible, &c.) A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. 16mo.

1243.—Mémoires relatives à la famille des Elzeviers (the celebrated printers). A MS. of the seventeenth century, wholly in the handwriting of John and Abraham Elzevir. On paper. Quarto.

1244.—Johannis Grammatici Poema de Astronomia, Græce. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1245.—Le Pend Nameh (The Book of Songs), par Saadi. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in gold and colours, executed in Persia, with very beautiful oriental binding. On oriental paper. Quarto.

1246.—Libre de la Ordene de la Caballeria del beato Raymondo Lulio (in the Limousin dialect, with a translation into Spanish, an introduction, and notes). An unpublished MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1247.—Libre ordonat per le molt reverent S. Bispe de la Ciutat de Jaen * * * à la honor de Jesu Crist, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in the Limousin dialect, and apparently unpublished. On paper. Folio.

1248.—Trattato d'Astrologia, detto l'Archandreo, composto da Gherardo da Cremona. A MS. with figures, of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1249.—Trattato de' Falconi, o della scientia della Caccia, di Moamgu falconario, tradotto dall' Arabico in Latino da Cesare Theodoro, e dal Latino in Italiano da

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

G. Mario Cinico. A magnificent MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Folio. It is the copy presented to Ferdinand of Aragon, King of Naples, with his arms upon the first leaf.

1250.—Libro de Vangeli, coll' esposizione in Italiano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1251.—Compilatio de Libris Naturalibus Aristotelis et aliorum Philosophorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1252.—Poesie pastorali del Conte Matteo Maria Bojardo. A MS. of the eighteenth century (about 1750). On paper. Folio. The copy prepared for the press, of these unpublished and unknown poems, with some letters of Quadrio, Baruffaldi, &c.

1253.—Saggio d'una Biblioteca Georgica. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1254.—Vita di Gesù Cristo. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1255.—Recueil de Poésies. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1256.—Recueil de pièces en prose et en vers (in Portuguese). A MS. of the eighteenth century (about 1720). On paper. Quarto.

1257.—Boccaccio, Fiametta. Novella d'Hippolyto e Leonora. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1258.—Boccaccio, Fiametta. Canzoni di Dante. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio. Dante's poems are written like prose.

1259.—Poesie di Franco Sacchetti. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1260.—Cy commence Avicenne, en Romance. A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum. Folio.

1261.—Istoria di Teramo, del Mutii. An unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1262.—Fioretto di Fioretti. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1438). On paper. Folio.

1263.—Petrarca, Rime. La bella mano di Justo de' Conti. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, with miniatures. On vellum. Folio. This MS. belonged to the old Dukes of Milan, and bears at the top of the title the name, "Galeazzo Maria."

1264.—Rappresentazioni (Recueil de Mystères en Italien.) An unpublished MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1265.—Decennio dell' entrata e uscita della Magona osia degl' Avanzi, 1750-1759. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1266.—Traité de Rhétorique. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1267.—Gasparini, Storia di Comacchio. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1268.—Le Devin du Village de J. J. Rousseau (Paroles et Musique). An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century (1762). On paper. Folio.

1269.—Storia delle Famiglie Fiorentine. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1730), in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1270.—Vita Sanctorum. A MS. partly of the tenth, partly of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1271.—Tractatus Astronomiae Magistri G. Bonatti, di Forlivo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1272.—Storia di Ravenna e delle sue Famiglie. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Quarto.

1273.—Phola, Diario del Concilio di Trento. An unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1274.—Chassignol, Questions Pharmaceutiques. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1275.—Geografia dello Stato Fiorentino.

1276.—Statuti della Mercantia di Firenze. An unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1277.—Recueil de différentes pièces relatives au Clergé Français. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1278.—Recueil de Peintures Indiannes exécutées aux Indes. Of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1279.—Fons Memorabilium. An unpublished MS. of the fourteenth century, containing treatises upon natural history, geography, &c. On paper. Folio.

1280.—Relatione della Festa fatta nella Casa del Conte Fustemberg, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1700). On paper. Folio. With curious designs.

1281.—Recueil de tables relatives au Calendrier et à la correction Grégorienne, en Latin, en Grec, en Arabe, en Chaldéen, en Ethiopien, en Sclavon, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1282.—Rodericus, Historia Hispaniarum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1283.—A Greek manuscript containing:—1. D'Origène sur le Première Livre des Rois. 2. Théorie de S. Eustache sur la Pythonisse. 3. Lettre de Grégoire de Nysse. 4. L'Henotique. Of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Quarto.

1284.—Ciceronis, Liber de Officiis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Quarto.

1285.—Reformatio matricule Consortii Notariorum civitatis Cortone, edita de anno 1531. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1286.—Cecchi, Comedie. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1287.—Frezzi, Quadriregio.—A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1288.—Regole da Osservarsi dall' educande esistenti dentro il Monastero della S. Vergine annunziata, detto delle Murate. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1289.—Statuta Aptensis Ecclesiae et Civitatis (d'Apt in Provence). A MS. of the fourteenth century (1355). On vellum. Quarto.

1290.—Elémens de Géométrie. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1291.—Origine della Compagnia di S. Giovanni Battista di Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1292.—Ciceronis Orationes Philippicae. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1293.—Burchiello, Sonetti. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1294.—Bern. Davanzati, Toscana Coltivazione delle Viti e delli Arbori. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1295.—Vita di Dante. A MS., palimpsest, of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

1296.—L'Ordine e la Forma de' Costumi et Usanze, i quali la Congregazione de' Poveri dicti Inghesvati, (Jesuati) &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1297.—Rime del secolo decimo sesto e del secolo decimo settimo. MSS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio. The volume is original and autograph. It contains poems by many illustrious writers; a great number in various dialects, and "le Canzoniere de Veniero."

1298.—Opusculs en Italien et en Latin des xvi. et xvii. siècles. MSS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1299.—Trattato della Pittura di Lionardo da Vinci con figure. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1300.—Regole di Prospettiva di Lionardo da Vinci con figure. An unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1301.—Recueil de différentes pièces historiques et autres sur le Frioul (Friuli.) MSS., in three volumes, from the fourteenth to the eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1302.—Priorista della città di Firenze. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1303.—Vita di Girolamo Savonarola. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1304.—Tractatus de Irrationalibus. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century, by Viète, the French Geometrician. On paper. Folio.

1305.—Statuti della Compagnia di Pistoja. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1306.—Tractatus de Virtutibus, Magistri Alberti Magni. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1307.—Recueil de divers Traités de Mathématique, tirés de divers Auteurs, par Jean Bayard de Valenciennes. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1308.—Trattato di Abbaco e di Maestro Paolo Dagomari. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1309.—Trattato delle Malattie dei Cavalli. A MS., in two volumes, of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio. With interesting figures.

1310.—Tractatus Philosophiae. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1311.—Monaldi, Storia di Firenze. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1312.—Recueil de Pièces et de Traités sur l'Hydraulique et sur la Mécanique. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1313.—Statuta Communitatis Sancti Columbani (de Sabaudia). An original MS. of the fourteenth century (1374). On vellum. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 1314.—Jacobi di Voragine, Chronica Civitatis Januæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1315.—Giornale della Città e Regno di Napoli, di Pietro Girone. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1316.—Tucci, Storia di Lucca. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1317.—Penuela, Grammatica della Lingua Chinese. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1318.—Castaldo, Storia di Napoli. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1319.—Tristani Carracioli, Opera Omnia. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. This volume contains, amongst other things, the biographies of illustrious men of the Kingdom of Naples.
- 1320.—De Algebra finitorum. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1321.—Lettere de Symmacho, tradotte in Italiano. A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing many corrections which appear to be in the handwriting of Alessandro Tassoni. On paper. Folio.
- 1322.—Algorithmus Geometricus, Autore Abrahamo Ries. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1584). On paper. Folio.
- 1323.—Tractatus de Rerum Natura. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1324.—Recueil relatif aux Indes Orientales. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1325.—Alfragano, Trattato della Sfera, tradotto dal Francesco in Italiano, da Zuccherò Bencivenni di Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1450), with a great number of figures. On paper. Folio.
- 1326.—Leonardi Aretini Historia Florentina. A MS. of the fifteenth century which bears on its boards the name of Donato Acciaiuoli (the historian), who has written many annotations upon the margins. On paper. Folio.
- 1327.—Recueil de Poésies Italiennes. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1328.—Relazione delle magistrature Fiorentine. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1329.—Regolamento della Compagnia del S. Sacramento. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1330.—Ammirato (Scipion) Storia della Famiglia Cavalcanti. An unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century, with autograph corrections. On paper. Folio.
- 1331.—Statuti della Comunità de Tornella. An original MS. of the fifteenth century (1407), with autograph signatures. On paper. Folio.
- 1332.—Averani, Storia delle Pandette Fiorentine. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1333.—Cittadini, Storia degli uomini illustri di Casa Medici. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1334.—Carlo Gozzi, Giudicio d'Apollo. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1335.—Conclavi e Istruzioni diverse. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1336.—P. F. Pandolfini, Racolta di Lettere Politiche. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with autograph corrections. On paper. Folio.
- 1337.—Recueil sur les Conclaves. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1338.—Recueil d'Actes et de Statuts de l'Université d'Orléans. A MS., with many large miniatures, of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1339.—Theorica Planetarum, composita ab Andalò de Nigro, Januense. A MS. of the fifteenth century, also containing other treatises on astronomy. On vellum. Folio.
- 1340.—Conclave del 1623. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1341.—Lettere di Benedetto XIV. al Card. Quirini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1342.—Relazione di Venezia. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1343.—Lettere inedite di G. B. Guarini (author of "Pastor Fido"). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. There are 108 letters.
- 1344.—J. B. Strozzi, Oratione al Doge di Venetia. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1345.—Bibliotheca Manuscripta Floriacensis. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1720). On paper. Folio.
- 1346.—Boccaccio, L'Ameto. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1400). On paper. Folio.
- 1347.—Ceremoniale dei Cardinali. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1348.—Petri de Mantua, Collectio Medicinalis. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1410). On paper and vellum. Folio.

- 1349.—Recueil (en Latin et en Italien) relatif à l'histoire de Malte. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, in nine volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1350.—Casi funesti et tragica seguiti nella città di Firenze. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1351.—Moto e Misura delle Acque Correnti. A MS. of the seventeenth century (from the Accademia del Cimento). On paper. Folio.
- 1352.—Riflessione generali sopra il Progetto d'Accomodamento, e l'Indulto di Benedetto XIII. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1353.—Dei Corpi Costituendi il Mondo. A MS. of the seventeenth century (from the Accademia del Cimento). On paper. Folio.
- 1354.—Lunularum Jovialium, seu Planetarum Medicæorum tabulæ. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century (from the Accademia del Cimento). On paper. Folio.
- 1355.—Bellini (Lorenzo), Lettera sopra la Luce. A MS. of the eighteenth century (from the Accademia del Cimento). On paper. Folio.
- 1356.—Lettioni del Dottore P. Gianetti. A MS. of the seventeenth century (from the Accademia del Cimento). On paper. Folio.
- 1357.—Synopsis Philosophiæ Mechanicæ, Latine et Italicè. An unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century from the Accademia del Cimento. On paper. Folio. As this collection is in the handwriting of the transcriber whom Borelli (G. A.) habitually employed, it is probable that the MS. or part of it belonged to him.
- 1358.—Relation de la Conduite présente de la Cour de France. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1359.—Du Calcul des Echelles d'Opérations, par Français. An autograph unpublished MS. of the nineteenth century (1806). On paper. Folio.
- 1360.—Matt. Palmerii, Florentini, Liber de Temporibus. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1361.—Minuta di Leggi di Toscana. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1362.—Esperienze Mekaniche et Fisiche di G. B. Felici. A MS. of the seventeenth century, partly autograph. On paper. Folio.
- 1363.—Investitura di Carlo V. a Cosimo de' Medici, &c. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1364.—Inventaire des Machines et des Instrumens de Physique de l'Université de Pise. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1365.—Haller, De Vento Rupensi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1366.—Variantes de la Bible. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1367.—Recueil de papiers et documens relatifs au Portugal (in print and manuscript). Of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1368.—Tractatus de Fermentatione secundum Epicuri et Democriti Doctrinam. A MS. of the seventeenth century (from the Accademia del Cimento). On paper. Folio.
- 1369.—Priorista Fiorentino. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1370.—Recueil de Médecine. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1371.—Cesari (Antonio), Lezioni Storico-Morali. An autograph MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1372.—Cesari, Jesu Christo. An autograph MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1373.—Cesari, Bellezze di Dante. An autograph MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1374.—Nicolai de Cusa, Opera Mathematica, Philosophica, Theologica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. Some parts are unpublished.
- 1375.—Relation des Affaires de Venise en 1761. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1376.—Discours Français, Toscans, et Latins du Seigneur Gabriel Syméon, Florentin, de la Connaissance des Esprits et Desseins des Hommes, avec des devises, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. In the author's handwriting with beautiful designs drawn with the pen.
- 1377.—Priorista Fiorentino. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1378.—Rime e Laude Antiche. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1379.—Trattato d'Abbaco e di Geometria. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 1380.—Traité de Mécanique, avec figures. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1718). On paper. Quarto.
- 1381.—Ovidius, De Fastis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1382.—Trattato d'Abbaco e di Geometria. Varia de Medicina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1383.—Petrarcha, Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1384.—Traité Contre l'Astrologie Judiciaire, dédié à Catherine de Médicis. A MS. of the sixteenth century which belonged to Catherine de Medicis. On paper. Quarto.
- 1385.—Compendio delle Chroniche di Firenze. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1386.—De Compositione Lapidis Magni. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1387.—Fables Latines de P. Porée. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1764). On paper. Quarto.
- 1388.—Traité de Cosmétique, dédié à Chiara da Correggio. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1389.—Traité de plusieurs questions de Mathématiques. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1390.—Lippi, Malmantile racquistato. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1391.—Liber de Regimine Principum Aristotelis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1392.—Bacchini, Manuductio ad Historiam Ecclesiasticam. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1393.—Varia Opuscula de Liturgia. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1394.—Problèmes de Géométrie descriptive par M. de Trony. An original MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1395.—Glosa Nova. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1396.—P. Donat. Advocarius, Vitæ Sanctorum Veronensium. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo. At the beginning of this MS. there is an autograph letter of the author's.
- 1397.—Carmina Illustrium Poetarum. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1398.—Analecta Manuscripta. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1399.—Summa de Casibus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1400.—Collectio Fabularum, Græcæ et Latinæ. A MS. of the eighteenth century, containing thirty-six unpublished fables of Æsop taken from the Library of the Vatican. On paper. Octavo.
- 1401.—Il Duello d' Arme e d' Amore, Commedia pastorale. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in different Italian dialects. On paper. Octavo.
- 1402.—Laude Italiane. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with many initial letters in gold and colour. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 1403.—Testimonia Veteris Testamenti. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Small octavo.
- 1404.—Isidori Etymologia. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1405.—Tractatus de Lapidibus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1406.—Prières en Arabe et en Turc, extraites du Coran. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On oriental paper. Duodecimo.
- 1407.—Poesie. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1408.—Biblia Latina. A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in very small characters. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1409.—Rime Antiche. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1410.—Joh. Nesii Oratio de Charitate, habita in Collegio Magorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1489). On vellum. Octavo.
- 1411.—Triumpho del Petrarca. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.
- 1412.—Pucci (Antonio), Expositione del Officio. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1413.—Excerpta e veteri Glossario (Sæculi X.) manuscripto Bibliothecæ Bernensis. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1414.—Sentenze e Versetti de' Salmi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small duodecimo.
- 1415.—Tres Psalmi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small duodecimo.
- 1416.—Ant. Guidi, Oratio Romæ habita 1565. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 1417.—Horisius Germanus, Tractatus de Spera. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Duodecimo.
- 1418.—Preces Piæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. 24^{mo}.
- 1419.—Recueil de Traités de Médecine. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 1420.—Recueil des Costumes Persans. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1421.—J. A. Cabellæ, Genuensis, Dialogi ad Historiam Jannæ pertinentes. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1507). On vellum. Quarto. It is the copy presented to Louis XII.
- 1422.—Rime Antiche. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small octavo.
- 1423.—Quadrige Spirituale, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small octavo.
- 1424.—Trattato di Confessione. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small octavo.
- 1425.—Généalogie de la famille de Beze. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small octavo.
- 1426.—Spina, Rivoluzioni del Mondo. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small octavo.
- 1427.—Trattato dei Vitii e della Virtù. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1428.—Commentaria in Aristotelem. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1672) in three volumes. On paper. Octavo.
- 1429.—L'Arte Maggiore. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1430.—Otonaio, Canti Carnascialeschi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1431.—Bottari, Annotazioni alla Poetica del Menzini. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1432.—Manuscript en caractère d'Alchimistes et Cabalistiques. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. 16^{mo}.
- 1433.—Trattato di Morale. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. 16^{mo}.
- 1434.—Curationes Morborum Particularium. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.
- 1435.—Trattato delle Malattie degli Occhi. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.
- 1436.—Mercurius Italicus. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Duodecimo.
- 1437.—Raccolta di Prologhi e di Commedie diverse. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in four volumes. On paper. Small octavo. Many of the contents are in different Italian dialects.
- 1438.—Incipiunt Privilegia, Carte et Lettere super terris et possessionibus Abbatis S. Petrimontis, factæ et ordinate anno Domini 1292, Domino Jacobo ejusdem Ecclesie existente Abbate. A MS. of the thirteenth century. It is the original cartulary of the abbey, and is one of the oldest known, having been compiled in 1292. It contains a vast number of evidences, and various records of the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries relating to the general history of France, and particularly to that of Lorraine. It contains moreover short unpublished chronicles. In the first part of the MS. there are many charters in French of the beginning of the thirteenth century (of 1231 and the following years). These charters are amongst the most ancient documents written in French with an ascertained date. The second part of the MS. is composed of forty-one leaves, and is wholly compiled in old French.
- 1439.—Vocabularium Græcum et Latinum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto. This MS. is wholly in the handwriting of Marsilio Ficino, whose signature it bears.
- 1440.—Callimachi Hymni, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1441.—Plutarchi, Libellus de Animæ Generatione, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1442.—Zenobii Paroemiæ, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1443.—Orpheu Argonautica, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1444.—Vie d' Alexandre le Grand, Roman en Grec Moderne. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1445.—Aristoteles. Explicit Doctrina Aristotelis de Physignomia et de Secretis Secretorum Aristotelis quæ transmissit ad Alexandrum. Incipit liber de Regimine Principum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1446.—Scriptum Gajetani in Libros de Anima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1447.—Lectura Magistri Antonii Trombetæ super omnibus Metaphysicæ libris, questiones Antonii Andreæ

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

quod fieri pot. declarantis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1448.—Liber de Consideratione Quinte Essencie. Tractatus Raymundi de Aquis et Oleis. Glosula libri Geberi. Liber Dinamidiarum Galieni a Nicolas translatus. Secreta fratris Alberti de Colonia. Liber Secretorum Galieni. Liber Galieni de Plantis translatus Marsilie per Dominum Gaumerium Indicem de Placentia. Tractatus secundum Petrum de Jovenatis de modo exhibendi Farmaca canonicè per viam Astrologie; et alii tractatus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1449.—Dictionarium Medicum, ordine alphabetico distributum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

1450.—Libro di Rimedio e Secreti di Medicina. A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing many letters of F. Lana, a jesuit and a celebrated physician of that century. On paper. Quarto.

1451.—Liber Rosarii Philosophorum, editus a Magistro Arnaldo de Villanova. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

1452.—Musique. Chansons Italiennes mises en musique par divers auteurs, Aless. Melani, Bern. Pasquini, Ser. de Luca, Giac. Ant. Perti, Gius. Fal. Tosi. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.

1453.—Livro de Musique. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1454.—Orationes Variæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

1455.—Rime nell' infelice morte di Cabalà, cane famosissimo. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1456.—Poésies, en dialecte Sicilien. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1457.—Bernardini Cacciantis, Epistola Latino Juvenali, de Vera Nobilitate. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1458.—Proemium Marsilii Vicini Florentini in Speusippi et Alcinoi et Pythagore Opuscula ab eo e Græca lingua in Latinam traducta, ad Jo. Cavalcantem. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1459.—Incipit Liber Elenchorum Aristotelis. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1460.—Dialectica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1461.—Quæstiones Philosophicæ in Libros Physicorum Aristotelis a patre Laurentio Incuria, e Societate Jesu, examinatæ et dictatæ, ab Angelio Paganellio ejus audite conscriptæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1462.—Ricettario. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1463.—In questo libro si descriveranno alcuni Medicamenti per liberare li bestie e buoi da qualsivoglia infirmità, come si è visto, per experientie fatte, il quale si è di Maestro Bartolomeo di Maestro Jacopo di Lucanti. Jacomacci, manescalco in Pescia. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1464.—Opera di Mascalcia, fatta con grandissimo studio dal Cavaliere Calabrese. loquale seppe le medicine di tutte le infermità dei Cavalli. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.

1465.—Questo se domanda libro de Abacho loquale sie memoriale ali scolari liquali ano imparato la dita arte et per la lor sbiscuratione se fano questo a laude di dio per sua utilità. Et questo fu fatto per mane de M. Alexandro figliolo che fo de M. Francº cittadino da bressa a nome de Francº de rota. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1512). On paper. Quarto.

1466.—Maniere di misurare la Distanza, l' Altezza e la Profondità delle cose col mezzo di varii istrumenti geometrici. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1675), with many designs. On paper. Small quarto.

1467.—Tractatus de Perspectiva, seu de Luce. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

1468.—Traité d'Architecture. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1469.—Ερωτηματα του Χρυσοδομου, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1470.—Anacreonte Poeta Greco, tradotto in Verso Toscano da Bartolommeo Corsini. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1470*.—I Componimenti Pastoralis di M. Benedetto Varchi, mandati al clar. S. Giulio de' Nobili, Senatore Fiorentino. An original MS. of the sixteenth century, with some parts autograph. On paper. Quarto.

1471.—Rime Spirituali di Agostino Cesareo. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century (1573). On paper. Octavo.

1472.—Giardinetto di Ottave diverse, con alcuni Sonetti (di Gio. Paolo Baldini, Romano. Firenze, 1629). An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small quarto.

1473.—Storia della Passione di Nostro Signore (in ottava rima). Storia di Florio e Branciflore (in ottava rima). Storia del Savio Romano. Sentenze e Proverbi in versi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

1474.—La Disperazione di Giuda (Canto in ottava rima). A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1475.—Li Davidici sette Salmi Penitenziali, poema sacro in ottava rima (di G. B. P.). An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.

1476.—Il Romito, Rappresentatione Spirituale di Tiburzio Mealdi de Rossi, Dott. del Sanese e Canon. Pisano, recitata nella Chiesa di S. Leonardo e congregazione di S. Chiodi di N. S. in Pisa, alla presenza della Sereniss. Madama la Gran Duchessa e dell' Ecc^{mo} S. Don Cosimo Medici, Gran Principe di Toscana, l'anno 1600. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1600). On paper. Quarto.

1477.—Lettere di Mgr. Paolo Coccapani Vescovo di Reggio (di Modena) scritte tanto nel proprio nome che in quello del March. Ercole, suo fratello, ed altri di lui congiunti ed amici, dirette a Prelati, Principi, ed Italiani illustri, dal 1634-50. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1478.—Diplôme de Docteur en Droit, accordé par l'Université de Pise à François Cocchini, de Pescia, l'an 1617. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1479.—Diplôme de Docteur en Droit, accordé par l'Université de Pise à Jules Santarelli de Pescia, l'an 1609. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1480.—Diplôme de Docteur en Droit, accordé par l'Université de Pise à Ant. Egide Lenzini, en 1674. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1481.—Priorista della Repubblica Fiorentina, 1282-1531. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Large folio.

1482.—Sommario della Vita e delle Attioni di Cosimo de' Medici, Gran Duca di Toscana. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1483.—Comincia il libro della Vita et Studii et Costumi di Dante, et di M. Francesco Petrarca, Poeti clarissimi, composto novissimamente da M. Leonardo (Bruni, Aretino), Cancelliere Fiorentino. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto, &c.

1484.—Relatione d'Alessandria, con la Navigazione del Turco dal Mar Rosso nell' India. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1536). On paper. Quarto.

1485.—Expositione del Pater Noster, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1486.—Traité d'Algorisme, par Toussaints de Varennes. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1583). On paper. Quarto.

1487.—Consulta di Fra Paolo Sarpi al Senato Veneto. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1488.—Vita di Luigi Gonzaga, da Ant. Cesari. An autograph MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1489.—Delle Lodi del Principe Lorenzo di Toscano, da Carlo Dati. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1490.—Gilberti Porretani, Peripatetici, Liber Principiorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1491.—Tables des Cordes des Angles. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1492.—Negri, Vita d'Apostolo Zeno; si aggiunge il Diario Zeniano scritto da Marco Forcellini. A MS. of the nineteenth century (1810), with figures. On paper. Folio.

1493.—Nomina Consulum, Potestatum, &c. Civitatis Avenionis ab anno 1184 ad annum 1747. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1494.—Medulla Juris Civilis, descripta a Passaro Januensi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1495.—Ragionamento di Atenagora, tradotto dal Greco dal Conte Gasp. Gozzi. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, with a letter, also autograph, and a portrait of the author. On paper. Folio.

1496.—Cesari, Vite diverse. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1497.—Bronzino, Rime diverse. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1498.—Amaltheo (J. B.), Rime raccolte. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

1499.—Excerpta ex diario Paridis de Grassis, M. C. sub Julio II. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1500.—Lettere d' Uomini illustri (Forcellini, Viviani, Apost. Zeno, Calogera, &c.). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1501.—Carteggio dell' Abbate G. M. Crescimbeni. This autograph and unpublished correspondence contains about two hundred letters of the most celebrated writers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, as for example: Amenta, Borghini (Maria Selvaggia), Casotti, Filicaia, Gigli, Grandi, Guidi, Marchetti, Muratori, Salvini, &c. &c.

1502.—Lettere Autografe d'Apostolo Zeno, e Notizie della sua Vita scritte dal Forcellini, &c. A MS. of the eighteenth century, partly written by Zeno and partly by Forcellini. It is wholly autograph, and contains letters of Forcellini and Muratori, and a detailed catalogue of the MSS. which Zeno possessed, compiled by Forcellini. On paper. Folio.

1503.—Gullielmo di Piacenza, Trattato di Chirurgia. A MS. of the thirteenth century (1300), cited by the Academia de la Crusca. On paper. Folio.

1504.—Notice Chronologique (en Italien) de toutes les personnes condamnées à mort à Florence, depuis 1328 jusqu'à 1759. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1505.—Investitura Alexandri de Medicis (et autres pièces). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1506.—Notæ et sigla quæ apud Romanos in Nummis et Lapidibus obtinebant, explicatæ, Jo. Dom. Coletius collegit, 1781. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1507.—Lettere d'Apostolo Zeno, scritte a Annibale Olivieri. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. These letters, which in a great measure are unpublished, were copied by Olivieri and annotated by Forcellini.

1508.—Discorso sopra le Monete, fatto in tempo di Papa Urbano ottavo. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1509.—Prælectiones in Genesim Jacobi Grinœi. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1510.—Relationi di Conclavi (1464-1592). A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1511.—Raccolta di Lettere scritte da Roma nell'anno 1628. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1512.—Recueil (en Français et en Italien) sur le Jansonisme, sur la Sculpture, sur les Amours de Louis XIV., &c. &c. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1513.—Discorso Filosofico d' Alf. Borelli sul Monte Etna. A MS. from the Academia del Cimento, of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1514.—Observationes in Declaratorium et Constitutiones Casinenses, Factæ a Bened. Bacchinio, anno 1717. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1515.—Latitudes et Longitudes des Villes du Monde. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. Autograph of Cassini de Thury.

1516.—Libro di diverse Operationi attenente alla Geometria, di B. Ricassoli fatto l'anno 1600. An autograph MS., from the Academia del Cimento, of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1517.—Conradi Weigandi Franconis Quadripartitum de dignissima Arbore Quercu. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

1518.—Mémoires sur Mad. de Maintenon, par Mad. d'Aumale. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1720). On paper. Quarto. In the same volume there is the "Vie de Marie de Hantefort, Duchesse de Schomberg, &c.," year VIII.—1799 (printed at Dampierre at the private press of the Duchess de Luynes).

1519.—Leonardo Aretino, Traduzione della Storia de Bello Punico; s'aggiunge le Vite di Dante e del Petrarca. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1520.—Kyrannides, Regis Persarum, Secreta. Historia Naturalis. Epistola quam Evax Rex Arabum misit. C. Casari (metricè) de Lapidibus. Libellus Sigillorum. Liber Lapidum Preciosorum, secundum Salomonem Regem. Collectio Exorcismorum, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. This volume bears the signature of Mizaldus, a celebrated physician and mathematician of the sixteenth century, who has enriched it with many marginal notes.

1521.—Saggio di Storia sulla Poesia Italiana. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1522.—Lettres autographes de Réaumur et de Pagot d'Onsenbray, au Père Mazzolini de l'Oratoire. A MS. of the eighteenth century, containing 66 unpublished letters of Réaumur and 11 of Pagot. On paper. Quarto.

1523.—Recueil de Chartres authentiques relatives à l'Origine de la Maison d'Autriche (de l'an 920, à l'an 1529), en Latin et en Français. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. It is the dedication copy to Queen Anne of Austria, whose arms are on the binding.

1524.—Boccaccio, Il Filostrato, poema. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1525.—Due Libri d'Herone Alessandrino, delle Machine da se Operante; tradotti da Bernardino Baldi da Urbino. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.

1526.—Raccolta di Sonetti Amorosi. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with coloured designs. On paper. Quarto.

1527.—Espejo purissimo, La Vida, Passion, y Muerte de J. Christo, manifestada a la Madre Mariana de Jesus, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1528.—Antonio Milledonne, Storia del Concilio di Trento. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. This work is by an eye-witness, and is believed to be unpublished.

1529.—Regimen Sanitatis Magistri Arnoldi de Villanova. De modo faciendi Correctionem. Disputatio Animæ et Corporis. Regimen Humani Corporis. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1530.—Astrologia Cartesiana, id est, Demonstratio Astrologiæ Ptolemaicæ ex philosophia R. Descartes, autore P. Megerlino. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1531.—Relatione della Corte di Roma. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1532.—Elementa Astronomica ab Henrico Swartz conscripta, Argentorati anno 1580. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1533.—Liber Meschallæ Secretorum Astrorum, ab Johanne Yspalensi, de Arabico in Latinum. A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.

1534.—Vita e Miracoli di Girolamo Savonarola. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1535.—Plutarcho della Virtù delle Donne, tradotto da Lucantonio Ridolfi. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with autograph corrections. On paper. Quarto.

1536.—Architettura Militare. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1682). On paper. Quarto. This collection, full of figures, contains at the end an unpublished and unknown treatise by Torricelli, entitled, Norma Bombardica.

1537.—Mottetti in Musica. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Oblong octavo.

1538.—Physiologia Generalis. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. There is written at the end: "per me J. Harveium."

1539.—Segneri, Trattato dell' Opinione probabile. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1540.—Collectanea Astronomica et Astrologica. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1541.—Tedaldi, trattato d'Agricoltura. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with an autograph note by D. M. Manni respecting the author. On paper. Quarto.

1542.—La Passione di Gesù Cristo, Rappresentazione Sacra. An unpublished MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1543.—Ovidio, L'Arte d'Amore, tradotta in versi Italiani. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1544.—Salmi da cantarsi nella Cancelleria dell' Impero, nel Marzo 1733. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in seven volumes. On paper. Quarto.

1545.—Tractatus de Dictandis Epistolis (Mag. Porcicii Provincialis); Grammatica ejusdem. Computatio Juris Civilis. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. 16^{mo}.

1546.—Compilatio de libris naturalibus (Aristotelis). A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum. Duodecimo.

1547.—Vocabolario Italiano e Arabesco, con alcuni Dialoghi in Turchesco e in Greco Moderno. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Duodecimo.

1548.—Compendium Artis Rhetoricæ Mag^{ri} Johannis de Pedemontium. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 1549.—Sermo Basilii et Gregorii de Vita Johannis Baptiste. Vaticanum de Die Judicii, et Antichristo. Epistola Marini Falieri Senatoris ad B. Tiepolum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto. The last piece is written by Marino Faliero.
- 1550.—Recueil très curieux, en Latin, contenant un traité de Cosmographie, et d'Histoire Naturelle, avec figures coloriées, le tout expliqué à l'aide de Fables Latines, en prose. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 1551.—Jannozii Manetti, Vita et gesta Nicolai V. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.
- 1552.—Recueil de Mathématiques. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century (1772). On paper. Quarto. Some of the pieces are in Cassini's handwriting.
- 1553.—Epistolæ Magistri Petri Blesensis, Bathonensis Archidiaconi. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Small folio.
- 1554.—Decreta Pontificum. Imperii Romani Provincia. Catalogus Romanorum Pontificum. Catalogus Imperatorum. Kalendarium (cum versiculis de mensibus). Canones Conciliorum, etc. A MS. of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth centuries. On vellum. Small folio.
- 1555.—Liber Esopi, quem transtulit Romulus de Græco in Latinum ad Tyberium filium suum, de civitate Attica. Collectanea ex Seneca. A MS. of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. On vellum. 16^{mo}.
- 1556.—Recueil sur l'Histoire Naturelle et la Médecine. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. The last piece in the collection is the poem of Egidius entitled, "De differentiis urinarum."
- 1557.—Ethica Aristotelis. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in some parts palimpsest, and enriched with a marginal commentary. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1558.—Summa Dialecticæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.
- 1559.—Calendrier et traité d'Astronomie. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with many figures and tables. On vellum. Small folio.
- 1560.—Justiniani Imperatoris Institutiones Juris Civilis. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1561.—Petri Lazoni, Brixiani, in Ticinensi Gymnasio Lectoris, De Prudentia et Fide, libri duo (metricæ). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1562.—Vannetti (Clemente), Epigrammi. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1563.—Trattato d'Abbaco e di Geometria. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1564.—L'Alcoran. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1565.—Jo. Gaspari Bacchini, Officia Medici. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1566.—Ristretto di Geometria. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1567.—Lettre de Thrasibule à Leucippe, par Fréret. A MS. of the eighteenth century, copied by Mercier de St. Leger. On paper. Quarto.
- 1568.—Traité des Trois Imposteurs, ou traduction du fameux livre De Tribus Impostoribus, avec une dissertation de La Monnoye, et autres pièces. A MS. of the eighteenth century, copied by Mercier de St. Leger. On paper. Quarto.
- 1569.—Giulio Dati, Storia dei Cacciatori di Firenze, Piatelli o Piacevoli. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1593). On paper. Quarto.
- 1570.—Traité de Mécanique. A MS. of the seventeenth century, from the library of the Marquis de Courtanvaux. On paper. Quarto.
- 1571.—Tables Astronomiques accompagnées d'une introduction, et d'autres pièces, par El Menoufi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1572.—Ragionamento dello Stato d'Italia e suoi Arcani. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1573.—Statuta Canonorum Ordinis Divi Augustini. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1574.—Recueil d'anciens Procès du xiv. et du xv. siècles. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 1575.—Recueil de pièces historiques relatives à la famille de Barthélemy Colleoni, célèbre Capitaine Venitien. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1576.—Lettere Ducali di Luigi Mocenico a Francesco Barbadico. A MS. of the sixteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1577.—Procès Original de l'Inquisition de Novare. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century (1703). On paper. Small folio.
- 1578.—Voyage en Italie par le Comte de Caylus. A MS. of the eighteenth century, with apparently original corrections. On paper. Quarto.
- 1579.—Claudiani, Raptus Proserpinæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1580.—Recueil de Poésies grivoises. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1581.—Il Corbaccino, in ottava rima, di Lod. Bartholi. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1582.—Recueil en vers et en prose, contenant la Vie de S. Jean Baptiste, la Passion de Jesus Christ, &c., &c., le tout écrit en ancien Slavon. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1583.—Theodori Gazæ, Conjugationes Verborum Græcorum, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. 16^{mo}.
- 1584.—In hoc libro continetur Vocabularium Persianum Comaicum. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1585.—Lettres à M * * * sur la nouvelle Philosophie des Descartes, et autres pièces, parmi les quelles un mémoire très curieux de M. Morel, pour obtenir du Parlement un arrêt qui condamne tout autre Philosophie que celle d'Aristote. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1586.—Chronique Commencant à l'année 576 de J. C., et se terminant à l'année 1175. A MS. of the eleventh and twelfth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1587.—Lettere Ducali. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1562). On vellum. Quarto.
- 1588.—Galuppi, Il Marchese Villano (with the music). A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Oblong quarto.
- 1589.—Sessiones SS. Concilii Tridentini. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1606), in two volumes. On paper. Small folio.
- 1590.—Dantis Alighieri, Tractatus de Monarchia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1591.—Quatro Commedie originali ed inedite d'Henrico Altano. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1592.—Lettere autografe di Giuseppe Torelli, Veronese. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 1593.—Frugoni, Poemetti e Componimenti Dramatici. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1594.—Liber intitulatus Horologium Sapientia, auctore beato Henrico de Suso, Ordin. Prædic. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1595.—Etat de la Magistrature en France, en 1760. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1596.—Somma di Maestro Antonino, Arcivescovo di Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1597.—Petrarca, Triomphi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.
- 1598.—Paolo Sarpi, Opere varie. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1746). On paper. Small folio.
- 1599.—Themistii Paraphrasis in Aristotelem de Anima. Timeus Locrensis de Natura. Cleomedis de Motu Sphæra libri duo. Maximi Planudis Arithmetica ad supputationes Indorum. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, which formerly belonged to Balthazar Milia-vacca. On paper. Folio.
- 1600.—Santa Caterina da Siena, Opere Varie. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1601.—Guidonis de Lombardia, Summa Dictaminia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1602.—Traité de Philosophie Naturelle par Assam ben Nonreddin Al Mabidi. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1603.—Gaspar Coutarenus, De Republica Venetorum. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1604.—Ci commence le Spere en François. A MS. of the fourteenth century containing an old treatise on cosmography. On vellum. Folio.
- 1605.—La Monima di Mileto. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1606.—Questiones in Aristotelis Philosophiam Naturalem. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1607.—Creso, tragedia del Cardinale G. Delfino, Patriarcha d'Aquileja. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1608.—Catalogue des livres imprimés et des manuscrits qui ont appartenu à M^r Giusto Fontanini. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- 1609.—Recueil de Poésies Latines et Espagnoles écrites à Tongdo, aux Iles Philippines, en 1710. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On silk paper. Quarto.
- 1610.—Codex Malabaricus, en caractères Tamouls, sur feuille de Palmier.
- 1611.—Vocabulaire Français et Arabe, par Savary. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1612.—Petrarca Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1613.—Jacobi de Vitriaco, Historia Ierosolimitana. Legenda beatae Mariae Magdalene. Alani de Insula de Planctu Naturæ adversus Sodomitas. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1614.—Poema in honore del Duca Ercole D'Este. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1615.—Recueil de pièces historiques relatives au royaume de Naples. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 1616.—Recueil de notes historiques, relatives surtout à la Réforme. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1617.—Pièces historiques relatives au Cardinale D'Este. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1618.—Relatione de la Cour de Rome, rédigée par l'Ambassadeur Venitien Erizzo. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1702). On paper. Folio.
- 1619.—Vita di Girolamo Savonarola. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1620.—Recueil de relations concernant la Porte Ottomane, rédigées par des Ambassadeurs Venitiens. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1621.—Recueil de Conclaves. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1622.—Recueil d'Observations, de Dessins et de Calculs relatifs à la Carte de France, par Cassini de Thury. A MS. of the eighteenth century, to a great extent autograph. On paper. Folio.
- 1623.—Marcus Mancinus, De Physica. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century (1692). On paper. Folio.
- 1624.—Recueil Philosophique et Théologique. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1625.—Pigonati, Relatione del Vesuvio. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 1626.—Ordini fatti da Carlo quinto in Vormartia (et autres pièces historiques en Italien et en Espagnol. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1627.—Lettere Autografe del Vannetti al Padre Cesari. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1628.—Recueil de pièces relatives à l'Inquisition. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1629.—Relatione della Vita di Sisto V. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1630.—Recueil de différentes pièces relatives à l'histoire du royaume de Naples sous la Domination Espagnole. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small folio.
- 1631.—Sectani Satyræ. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in the handwriting of the author, Monsignor Sergardi. On paper. Folio.
- 1632.—Dotti, Poesie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1633.—Lettere scritte da Roma, nel 1626. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. The letters, which relate to matters of contemporary political and literary interest, are for the most part anonymous; but one of them is signed by Antonio Fedeli.
- 1634.—Monaldi, Storia delle Famiglie Fiorentine, con aggiunta del Sommai. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1635.—Cortona Convertita. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1636.—Ristretto delle Casate e Famiglie Fiorentine. Nomi delle Commende de' Cavalieri di S. Stefano. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Octavo.
- 1637.—Summula Fratris Clari, Ordinis Minorum, de Casibus Conscientiæ. And other treatises in Latin on the same subject. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1638.—Recueil de Poésies diverses. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Quarto.
- 1639.—Synesius, De Insomniis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1640.—Æschinis Rhetoris, Orationes variæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1641.—Somnium Scipionis, per Maximum Planudem

- ex Latina in Græcam linguam conversum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1642.—Theodorus Gaza, De Mensibus, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1643.—Second Ecrit de M. Bochart à M. de la Barre, Jésuite, touchant l'Union des Protestants avec les Luthériens. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1644.—Constantini Imperatoris, De Re Bellica, Græcè. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1645.—Aristotelis Topica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1646.—Recueil Astronomique. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto. Some parts of this collection are printed.
- 1647.—Bartholomæi Faii, Poemata Varia. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1648.—Zucconi, Poesie varie. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1649.—Successi Tragici ed Avvenimenti varj nella Città e Regno di Napoli, di Silvio Ascanio Corona. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1650.—Christophori Grienbergeri e Societate Jesu, Elementa Trigonometrica, cum tabulis. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century (1629). On paper. Quarto.
- 1651.—Summa Magistri Raymundi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1652.—Porta, Considerazioni delle cause per le quale non si orina. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1653.—Lettere Ducali per il Capitano di Candia. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1654.—Du Puy, Traité de ce qui a été cru et pratiqué dans tous les temps au sujet de la Jurisdiction Criminelle sur les Ecclésiastiques. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1655.—Leonis Allatii, In Antiquitatum Etruscarum Fragmenta ab Inghiramo edita, Animadversiones. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1656.—La Scuffiara, Commedia. A MS. of the seventeenth century, almost wholly in the Neapolitan dialect. On paper. Quarto.
- 1657.—Recueil contenant diverses pièces de Léonard Arétin, de Poggio, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto. At the end is written: "Raphael de Penchenat scripsit anno 1491."
- 1658.—Recueil de pièces:—Moralia Aristotelis; Cicero de Officiis, &c.; Sallustii, Bellum Catilinarium; Horatii, Ovidii, et Virgilii quædam; Synonyma Ciceronis; Grammatica Latina. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1659.—Vita Philippi Mariæ (Visconti), tertii Ligurum Ducis (par P. Candido Decembrio). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1660.—Statuti della Compagnia di San Michele di Firenze. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1453). On vellum. Quarto.
- 1660*.—Recueil de Poésies Française fort grivoises. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1716). On paper. Quarto.
- 1661.—Ratione dell' Isola e Città di Tine, di Pompeo Ferrari. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1616). On paper. Quarto.
- 1662.—Arithmetica, Geometria, &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1663.—Chiesa, Capitolo Fratesco. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1664.—Magistri Pauli de Venetiis, Rerum Naturalium Compendium. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1665.—Libro de Villanelle. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1666.—Bandini, Discorso sopra l'Apocalisse. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1667.—Ovidio, L'Arte D'Amore, in terza rima. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1668.—Vite di S. Padri. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Folio.
- 1669.—Recueil de Traités de Mathématiques. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 1670.—Traité de Maréchaussée. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1671.—Petrarca, Rimedio della Fortuna, tradotto da Frat. Giovanni da S. Miniato. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1672.—Livre des Familles Nobles Venitiennes. A MS. of the seventeenth century, with coloured armes. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

1673.—Statutum Cortonense. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1674.—Recueil en Latin d'Ouvrages vrais ou apocryphes d'Aristote. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1675.—Rotta (Vincenzo), Novelle e Rime. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1676.—Lettres autographes de Peiresc. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1677.—Frate Guido Pisano, Storia antica d'Italia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1678.—Recueil Historique et Philosophique. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1679.—Preisler, Regole per Disegnare. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1680.—Statuta Florentina, cum glossis Thomæ de Salvētis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper and vellum. Folio.

1681.—Burchardi Diarium, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1682.—Fagioli, Rime. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1683.—Divers Traités de Mathématiques et de Fortification. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1684.—Galilei, Compassi Geometrico e Militare. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1685.—Histoire de Maréchal de Fleuranges. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1686.—Lettere del Card. Mazarino, 1648-1651. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1687.—Recueil de divers documens relatifs à l'Histoire de Florence. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, in five volumes. On paper. Folio.

1688.—Insecta quæ reperiuntur in Museo Ludovicæ Ulricæ, Regina Suevorum, Gothorum, &c. a Linneo descripta. Holmiæ, 1764. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1689.—Laz. Schönerus et Adr. Zeelstius, Opera varia Mathematica. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1690.—Relationi Istruzioni varie. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1691.—Regola di Santo Benedetto. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1692.—Caravita, Compendio del trattato sù le Costituzioni e Privilegi della Sac. Relig. Gerosolim*. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1693.—Romanzo di Sidrac, trattato morale. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1694.—Uberti (Fatio), Il Ditta Mondo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1695.—Fatio del Uberti, Il Ditta Mondo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1696.—Giuliano Giraldi, Componimenti varj. A MS. of the seventeenth century, partly autograph. On paper. Folio.

1697.—Tabulæ Astronomicæ Alphonsi Regis Castellæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century which belonged to Nicolas Copernicus, whose signature it bears. On vellum. Folio.

1698.—Antonio Seraphico, Trattato morale per le Donne. An autograph MS. of the fifteenth century (1493). On paper. Folio.

1699.—Viaggio di Giovanni di Mandevilla, tradotto in Italiano. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1700.—Recueil de pièces imprimées et manuscrites, relatives à l'Histoire de l'Académie des Sciences. A volume of the eighteenth century, partly written by Bézoumer, and partly by Lalande. On paper. Folio.

1701.—Cerretani, Storia di Firenze. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1702.—Recueil en Latin:—1. Leonardi Aretini de Laudibus Florentiæ. 2. Leonardi Aretini Græcorum Commentariorum. 2*. Francisci Leonicensi ad Musam et ad Paulum Pontif. Carmina. 3. Ejusdem De Gestis Italicis Modernorum. 4. Pogii Florentini de Nobilitate. 5. Aristotelis de Virtute libellus, modo traductus. 6. Francisci Barbari ad ins. vir. Laurentium de Medicis, de Re Uxoraria. 7. Gregorii Tyrheni Carmen in Virginem (die primo Aprilis 1460). 8. In laudem pietissimæ ac Gloriosissimæ Virginis Mariæ Urbis Senarum Custodis, Carmen. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1703.—Recueil en Latin:—1. F. Dominici Johannis Florentini Ord. Prædicatorum, ad Petrum Medicem, libri tres Poematis nuncupati Theotocon, 1471. 2. Carmina Christophori (Landini) in Carolum Aretinum. 3. Lepidinus ab autore queritur cur q' semel nunquam desistit.

4. Carmina Caroli Aretini in Leonardum Aretinum. 5. Eulogium Christophori Landini in morte Johannis F. Cosmi de Medicis. 6. De Scabie. 7. Ad Ugolinum Verinum Florentinum, Carmen. 8. Georgii Macri Insulani, ad Proceres Italiæ, de impendentibus Periculis, Carmen. 9. In Funere Cosmi Eulogium Verini. 10. Fr. Franchedini Persuasio ad Amorem. 11. Carmen ad Amasiam. 12. Naldus Naldi ad Cosmum Medicum. 13. V. Bartholomæi Scalæ Ecloga. 14. Donati Acciajoli Oratio. 15. Epistolæ Landini ex Aliorum. 16. Fr. Aretini Oratio. 17. D. Bernardi Abb. Epistola. A MS. of the fifteenth century, partly autograph. On paper. Quarto.

1704.—Ciceronis de Senectute Ciceronis de Amicitia. P. P. Vergerii de Ingeniis, Moribus, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1705.—Ægidii Menagii Etymologicon Linguae Græcæ. An unpublished autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1706.—Ægidii Menagii Dialecti Linguae Græcæ. An unpublished autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1707.—Genealogia delle case Regnanti d'Europa. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Large folio.

1708.—Lettres du Président Rose, écrites au nom de Louis XIV. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes, formerly belonging to Count d'Hoyer. On paper. Folio.

1709.—J. Kepleri, Tabulæ variæ Astronomicæ. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1710.—Albero della Famiglia Medici, fatto nel 1733. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Large folio.

1711.—Giov. Vittorio Soderini, Lettera in ragguaglio della Morte di Francesco de' Medici e di Bianca Capello. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1712.—Recueil de pièces historiques relatives à la Valtelline. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1712*.—Rucellai (Orazio), Dialoghi Filosofici. An unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1713.—Memoriale Diplomatico, d' un Ambasciatore Fiorentino. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1714.—La Bella Mano di Giusto de' Conti da Valmonte. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1715.—Cronaca di Pistoja del 1399, e del 1400. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1724). On paper. Folio.

1716.—Cronaca e Indice di Diplomi della Badia di Firenze. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1717.—Regestum Clementis Papæ IV. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1718.—Regestum Epistolarum diversorum Principum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1719.—Boccaccio, Il Filocopo. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1720.—Carteggio d'Uomini Illustri del secolo xviii. e del secolo xix. (Tomitano). A MS. of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, in sixty-five volumes. On paper. Folio. This collection contains upwards of ten thousand autograph letters and other documents of celebrated writers, relating to the modern history of Italy, and to its literature, accompanied by biographical notices and portraits.

1721.—Phalaridis Epistolæ. Bruti Epistolæ. Hippocratis Epistolæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1722.—Epistolæ Canonicæ cum Glossa. A MS. of the eleventh century, with small miniatures. On vellum. Small folio.

1723.—Description des Œuvres de M. Lebrun (Peintre). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1724.—Cecco d'Ascoli, L'Acerba. Sonetti del Petrarca e d'Antonio da Ferrara. Poema sopra Barnabè Visconte (in ottava rima). Incipit Sompniale Danieli Prophetiæ. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1725.—Leonardi Aretini, De Bello Punico. Leonardi Aretini, De Bello Italico adversus Gothos. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

1726.—Ciceronis Rhetorica Nova. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

1727.—De Rerum Natura tractatus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1728.—Relazione della Vita e Morte di Sisto V. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1729.—Vita et Legenda Beatæ Katerinæ da Senis. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with miniatures. On vellum. Folio.

1730.—Viaggio a Gerusalemme colla mente. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1731.—Raccolta di Scritti relativi al Foro Napoletano. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1732.—Ansonii Opera. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On vellum. Folio.

1733.—Centiloquium Albumazar. Judicia Ptolomei. Liber Messahalæ, translatus a Johanne Ispalensi ex Arabico in Latinum. Centum Verba Ptolomei. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1734.—Sabbionato, Battaglini, Melchiori, &c., Opere varie. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1735.—Trattato delle Virtù Morali. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1736.—Traité de Navigation. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1737.—Rime di Don Virginio Cesarini. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1738.—Buongiovanni, Metodo per Disinfettare l'Aria. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1739.—Constitutions de l'Ordre de la Vierge Marie. A MS. of the thirteenth century (1272). On vellum. Folio.

1740.—F. Pauli Sarpi Epistolæ Latinæ ineditæ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1741.—L. Aretino della Guerra Punica, Vita di Dante e del Petrarca. Orationi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small folio.

1742.—Recueil de Statuts et de Diplômes relatifs à l'Ordre de Calatrava. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1743.—Valvasone, Storia di Civaldi di Friuli. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1744.—Frugoni, Barbieri, ed altri, Rime. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1745.—Casa, Trattato dell Coltivazione dei Mori. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1746.—Raccolta di Storie di Ravenna. A MS. of the eighteenth century. Quarto.

1747.—Italiæ Vindictæ libri duo. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1748.—Provinciale Summi Pontificis, Patriarcharum, Episcoporum, &c. cum aliis opusculis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1749.—Orsini (Bald.), Descrizione delle Ville di Plinio il giovane. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1797). On paper. Folio.

1750.—Milizia, Lettere. Cesari, Cantici. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1751.—Difesa di Marco Orazio. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1752.—Recueil relatif à la Peinture. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1753.—Raccolta di Rime Antiche, &c. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in the handwriting of the Abbé d'Ongaro. On paper. Quarto.

1754.—Sermones varii. Tractatus de Usuris. Versus de Decretalibus. Somma degli Spirituali Sentimenti. Historia Passionis J. C., &c. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1755.—Lorgna, lettere autografe. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1756.—Excerpta Historiæ et Chronologiæ. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1757.—Lettere Sopra il Concilio di Trento. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1758.—Istruzioni e Lettere di M^{re} Giov. della Casa, a nome del Cardinal Caraffa. An unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1759.—F. Modesti Ariminensis, Venetiados. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1760.—Raccolta di Satire. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1761.—Kalendarium Carmelitanum. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1762.—Traité des Monnaies Chinoises. Traité de Philosophie Chinoise. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1720), in two volumes. On Chinese paper. Folio.

1763.—Vannetti da Rovereto, Nouvelle. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1764.—Recueil de Chansons, en Français. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in eight volumes. On paper. Quarto.

1765.—Recueil de Chansons, avec la Musique. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

1766.—Recueil de Lettres de l'Archiduc Albert et du Comte de Mansfeld, sur les affaires politiques des Pays Bas. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century (1597–1599). On paper. Folio.

1767.—Recueil de Lettres d'Alexandre Farnèse Gouverneur des Pays Bas. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century (1578–1585). On paper. Folio.

1768.—Inventario dei beni mobili ed immobili dei Figli di Bandino di Bartolo del Tura di Lena, fatto l'anno 1483, per parte di Donna Onesta Piccolomini. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1483). On vellum. Quarto.

1769.—Carmina Poetarum illustrium. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1770.—Dialoghi Filosofici d'Orazio Rucellai. An unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1771.—Volgarizzamento della Possessione di Campagna del Vaniero, fatto dal Bergantini. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1772.—Lettere originali d'uomini illustri. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1773.—Lettere originali dell' Abate Natale dalle Laste. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1774.—Novelle di B. Tomitano. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1775.—Duodo, Raccolta di Scritti sul Clero Veneziano, etc. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1776.—Raccolta di Cartelli e di Disfide per Duelli. A MS. of the fourteenth and eighteenth centuries. Many of the contents are autograph, and the oldest is of the year 1382. On paper. Folio.

1777.—Domenico Ongaro, Storie degli Scrittori del Friuli. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1778.—Raccolta di Lettere originali indirizzate all' Abate Schioppalalba. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1779.—Raccolta di Lettere originali al Sabbionato. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.

1780.—Raccolta di Lettere originali all' Ongaro. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.

1781.—Manoscritti Originali, e Carteggio della celebre Pittrice Rosalba Carriera. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century, in five volumes. On paper. Folio.

1782.—Lettere ed altri Scritti originali del Melchiori, del Costanzo, e d'altri celebri Letterati del secolo xvi. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1783.—Monumenta ad rem Litterariam, Foro-Juliensem, a D. Ongaro collecta. A MS. of the sixteenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1784.—Lettere Autografe d' Enrico Altano ed altri uomini illustri del secolo xvii. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1785.—Lettere e Poesie originali d' illustri Italiani. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1786.—Lettere ed opuscoli inediti ed autografi di G. P. Mestrucci, scrittore Venzonese. An autograph MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1787.—Poesie Toscane di Niccolò Madrisio. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1788.—Lettere inedite d' Apostolo Zeno. A MS. of the eighteenth century, containing 1,341 letters. On paper. Folio.

1789.—Storia delle Campagne della Città di Ferrara. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1760). On paper. Folio.

1790.—Raccolta di Documenti relativi ai Confini del Friuli, fra la Casa d' Austria e la Repubblica di Venezia. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1791.—Raccolta di Documenti relativi ai Cerimoniali, &c. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1792.—Collectio Epistolarum originalium, Regis, Reginae, Principum, &c. &c. Lusitanæ ad Beatum Gometium Ulyssiponensem, Abbatem Abbatissæ S. Mariæ de Florentia, cum Responsionibus ejusdem Gometii. A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing about 500 letters. On paper. Folio.

1793.—Lettere originali d' Uomini illustri, diritte a Girolamo Baruffaldi, Ferrarese. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, in six volumes. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF ASTHURBN-
HAM.

1794.—J. et Bened. Averani, Opera omnia. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.

1795.—Raccolta di Documenti Storici. Vite d'uomini illustri d'Italia. Cronache Napolitane del secolo xv. Diario di Federigo Buono, Conte d'Orvieto (del secolo xiv. in dialetto Romanesco). Discorsi di Tommaso Campanella, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century, the contents partly unpublished. On paper. Folio.

1796.—Passeri, Vite dei Pittori, Scultori ed Architetti. A MS. of the eighteenth century (the autograph of Marietti), which contains much that has not been printed. In two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1797.—La Sphère de Sacrobosco, et la Théorie des Planètes par Purbach, traduites en Hébreu avec un commentaire. A MS. of the sixteenth century (1546). On paper. Folio.

1798.—Miscellanea antiqua Variorum (historica, juridica, &c.). A MS. of the fifteenth century (1429). On paper. Folio.

1799.—Lettere inedite d'Alessandro Tassoni. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1800.—Varia de Musica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.

1801.—Varia di Musica. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.

1802.—Portulan (ou grande Carte Géographique en Catalan, qui porte cette souscription en Latin: Maria de Vila d'Este me fecit in civitate Majorcarum, in anno Domini 1423). A MS. of the fifteenth century, upon a roll of vellum.

1803.—Une Bulle, en Latin sur papyrus, du Pape Jean . . . This bull is incomplete. It bears no date, but appears to belong to the beginning of the eighth century.

1804.—Recueil de figures de Mollusques et de Zoophytes, avec la description par Réaumur. An autograph and unpublished MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1805.—Isagoge ad locos, ad superficiem (atque alia opera) D. Petri de Fermat. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1806.—Libro quinto d'Euclide del Dottore Oliva. Tractatus de Motu accelerato ejusdem. An autograph and unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1807.—La Sferza, invettiva ai quattro Ministri dell' Iniquità, del Cavalier Marino. An autograph and unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century (1617). On paper. Folio.

1808.—Magalotti (Lorenzo), Studj di lingua Italiana. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1809.—Magalotti (Lorenzo), Lettere inedite. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1810.—Magalotti (Lorenzo), Origini Italiane cavate dall' Arabo et Studj di Lingue Orientali. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1811.—Raccolta di Scritti e di Lettere inedite di Vincenzo Viviani, celebre Geometra, di G. D. Cassini, &c. An autograph and unpublished MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1812.—Varchi (Benedetto), Grammatica della lingua Provenzale. An autograph and unpublished MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1813.—Avieni Fabulæ. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Octavo.

1814.—Recueil.—Beati Hieronymi, Vitæ Pontificum. Libellus de Pœnitentia Laicorum. Regulæ de Ministris Ecclesiæ. Excerpta Capitular. Regum Francorum. Provinciarum Descriptio. Liber Pœnitentialis Allitgarii Episcopi. Bedæ Presbyteri de Canonibus. Epistolæ Paulini, Gregorii, &c. Canones Varii. Liber de Ordine Penitentiæ, &c. A MS. of the tenth and eleventh centuries. On vellum. Folio.

1815.—Filicaja (Lorenzo), De Mogarino. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, containing Latin poems. On paper. Quarto.

1816.—Lor. Filicaja e Lor. Magalotti, Lettere e Poesie Latine e Italiane. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

1817.—Rime e Traduzione varie (in versi) de L. Magalotti. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1818.—Lettere del Cardinal Leopoldo de' Medici, del Magalotti, del Benedetti, &c., relative all' Accademia del Cimento. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1819.—Lettres Autographes de Leibnitz, avec les Réponses du Père Lelong, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1820.—Inventaire détaillé (en Provençal) de toutes les Chartes et des Diplômes qui existaient autrefois dans les Archives de Montpellier, avec quelques Diplômes également en Provençal, &c. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1821.—Inventaire détaillé d'une ancienne collection de Chartes relatives à l'histoire de France. A MS. of the sixteenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1822.—Torricelli (Evangelista), Note per gli Occhiali e Telescopj. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1823.—Mémoire généalogique de Malherbe, relatif à une branch de sa famille qui se trouvait en Angleterre, avec un Sonnet de sa main, &c. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1824.—Recueil de Diplômes et de Chartes, du ix. siècle. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1825.—Libro de Beni e d'Entrata e Uscito della Badia di Firenze, negli anni 1391 e 1392. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1826.—Recueil des Délibérations des Congrégations de l'Ordre de Saint Benoît en Italie. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1827.—Sermons de Saint Bernard en langue Française vulgaire de son temps. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1828.—Index generalis Rerum Naturalium omnium collectarum a Benardo Paludano, Medico Enchusano. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century (1624). On paper. Folio.

1829.—Redi (Francesco), Sonetti, Lettere e Scritti varii. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1830.—Correspondance de divers membres de la famille Acciajoli, entre eux, et avec les personnages les plus éminens de l'Italie au xiv. et au xv. siècle. An autograph and unpublished MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries in fifteen volumes. On paper and vellum. Folio and quarto.

1831.—Correspondance Autographe de Pierre de Cocchi, Notaire de République de Florence, avec divers personnages de son temps. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. One of these letters, dated January 26, 1516, is written and signed by "Raffaello Urbinate."

1832.—Recueil de Miniatures représentant les Armes et les Tournois de divers Princes d'Allemagne au moyen âge. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1833.—Dionisii Faucherii, Monachi Lerinensis et Civis Arelatensis, Annales Provinciae (Annales de la Provence). An unpublished MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

1834.—Chronica Visigothorum, a tempore Wambani Regis usque ad Genserici Regis tempora collecta. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1835.—Maffei (Marchese Scipione), Manoscritti autografi ed in gran parte inediti, sulle Antichità, sulle Medaglie, etc. A MS. of the eighteenth century in seven volumes. On paper. Folio, quarto, and octavo.

1836.—Recueil de Chartes et de Diplômes relatifs à l'histoire de France au xi. siècle. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1837.—Chartes et Généalogies relatives à l'histoire de France. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, partly in the handwriting of Peiresc. On paper. Folio.

1838.—Mémoires autographes de Peiresc, avec la note détaillée de toutes les lettres écrites par lui. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

1839.—Correspondance autographe de Giovanni Baldovini, et de Diotajuti de Florence, au xv. siècle. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

1840.—Maculæ Solares Galilæi Galilæi, Florentini. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in a great measure in the handwriting of Galileo, who has signed it in many places, and has corrected it throughout. On paper. Folio.

1841.—Correspondance autographe de Benedetto Dei, Ambassadeur Florentin, avec les hommes les plus célèbres de son temps. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.

1842.—Correspondance autographe de Forese Sacchetti (Capitano di Arezzo), Citoyen de Florence, avec les hommes les plus distingués de son temps. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.

EARL OF ASTHURBN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

- inédite du Père célèbres de son tury, in three
- inédite de Gas-
s de son temps.
volumes. On
- inédite du Duc andot, etc., etc.
volumes. On
- inédite de Torri-
he seventeenth
- inédite d'Heve-
Wallis, Olden-
A MS. of the paper. Folio.
- inédits de Ro-
An autograph volumes. On
- es de Frénicle,
le. A MS. of
lio.
- ée avec Torri-Pape, avec les enth and ninening copies of inals of which Florence. On
- procès original
de Napoléon,
de Napoléon
s. of the nine-
- édits de Jean
A MS. of the two volumes.
- Lagrange. An
y. On paper.
- lathématiques.
ntury, in two
- Lagrange. A
Quarto.
- Mémoires de he eighteenth
- re avec Varig-
MS. of the
- Epistola. An
y. On paper.
- le Mathématis-
th and nine-
- t de Fermat.
article at the paper. Folio.
- lli, de Stenon,
enth century.
- es de Baluze,
ius, Burman,
e seventeenth
olio.
- de Malherbe,
enteenth cen-
- a République
ed MS. of the
io.
- édits et auto-
çais du xvi.
ury in three
- édits d'Huet,
enth century.
unpublished,
re than 3,000
the highest of Bossuet, an, Madame de la Chaise;
ge, 80 from
- Chapelain, and many others from Grævius, Burman, Saumaise, Gronovius, Gruter, Vossius &c. &c. &c. On paper. Quarto and folio.
- 1867.—Correspondance et Manuscrits inédits de Th. Godefroy, savant jurisconsulte et historien Français. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1868.—Correspondance inédite et autographe de Magliabecchi. A MS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.
- 1869.—Correspondance et Lettres inédites de Souverains Italiens. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1870.—Correspondance de Papes et de Cardinaux. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, in three volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1871.—Correspondance de divers Princes et Rois avec le Cardinal Spinola, Secrétaire d'État du Gouvernement Pontifical. A MS. of the eighteenth century (1710-1720), in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1872.—Recueil de Lettres Autographes de personnages illustres de toutes les nations et de tous les temps. A MS. of the fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, in 50 volumes. On paper. Folio and quarto. This is a very extraordinary collection.
- 1873.—Napoléon, Manuscrits autographes et inédits. On paper. Folio. These manuscripts, very numerous, contain what Napoleon wrote up to the time of the siege of Toulon (1794), and consist of romances and novels, a history of Corsica, extracts from a great number of authors, Napoleon's correspondence with Paoli, &c., his commission of captain signed by Louis XVI., his first passport, &c. &c.
- 1874.—Livre de Prières en Latin, exécuté à Florence en 1484, pour Laurent de Médicis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 1875.—Deux volumes remplis d'écriture et de Dessins de Léonard de Vinci. An autograph MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1876.—Trattato d'Aritmetica. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.
- 1877.—Lettres autographes du Père Morin, L. Holstenius, Abraham Ecchellensis, J. Buxtorf. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1878.—Histoire des Conciles. A MS. of the eighteenth century, in two volumes. On paper. Folio.
- 1879.—Chronique de Sens. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1880.—Charte d'Othon II., en date de 999. A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Folio.
- 1881.—Tractatus Hugonis de S. Victore et aliorum. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.
- 1882.—Carte coloriée de la Palestine; of the twelfth century. On vellum.
- 1883.—Lettere Autografe d'Uomini illustri dei secoli XVI. e XVII. On paper. Quarto.
- 1884.—Correspondance originale de Chamillart (1702-1704). A MS. of the eighteenth century, partly autograph. On paper. Folio.
- 1885.—Dessins Chinois de la Manufacture de Thé. On paper. Large folio.
- 1886.—Cicero, De Amicitia, de Senectute, Paradoxa et Somnium Scipionis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1887.—Strozzi (Filippo), Lettere a Francesco Vettori, 1536. A modern copy. On paper. Folio.
- 1888.—Baldesi, Pratiche di Perspétiva. A MS. of the seventeenth century (1695). On paper. Folio.
- 1889.—Hugo de S. Victore, De Disciplina Claustrali. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
- 1890.—Opusculi diversi. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.
- 1891.—Petrarca, Rime. A MS. of the fifteenth century, defective at the beginning. On paper. Quarto.
- 1892.—Giovannelli, Lettere originali. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1893.—Libro di tutte le Spese fatte dal Governo di Firenze nel 1477. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1894.—Varia de Edificio Abbatie Florentinae. A MS. of the fourteenth century (1309). On cotton paper. Folio.
- 1895.—Gabelle ed Imposizioni di Firenze (nel 1402 al 1411). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.
- 1896.—Libro del Chiodo del 1396 et del 1397. A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing the register and the summary prosecution of all persons who were arrested at night in Florence during those two years.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

On paper. Folio.

1897.—Istud est Inventorium Librorum quos donavit Conventui ac Librariæ S. Spiritus de Florentia, D. Giulio de Becchis, Episcopus Fisiolanus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. After the inventory there is a catalogue of all the MSS. of this ancient convent, compiled in 1450. Six hundred old MSS. are described in the volume. It was in this library that the MSS. of Boccaccio were deposited.

1898.—Comedia de Lope de Vega. An autograph MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.

1899.—Valerius Maximus. A MS. of the eighth century. On vellum. Folio.

1900.—Trois Duos (marqués du nom de J.J. Rousseau, apparemment copies de sa main). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper.

1901.—Cinquante et une Bulles et autres documents dans une boîte, quelques unes des bulles avec leurs (sceaux de plomb). On vellum.

1902.—Un Vidimus de Notaire (d'un Doctorat accordé par le Pape Jules II. 1508 ; dans la même boîte que les précédents). On vellum.

1903.—Bernardi Meditationes ; ejusdem de Sacramentis. Boetii, Joh. Damasceni et Ambrosii Opera. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1904.—Stabat Mater, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

1905.—Sermones varii. A MS. of the thirteenth century, defective at the beginning and end. On vellum. Small quarto.

1906.—Vitæ Sanctorum. Chronicon Clarevallense. Cæsarius, Abbreviati Relationum, etc. A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.

1907.—Documenti relativi a Siena (en Latin et in Italien). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. Some of the documents bear the dates 1405-1407.

1908.—Documenti relativi alla Chiesa di S. Giustino di Padova. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1909.—Documenti relativi alla Chiesa di S. Giustino di Padova. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

1910.—Commentaria in Libros IV. Sententiarum, per Fratrem A. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1911.—Instrumenta Varia ; Privilegium Creandorum Tabellionum.

1912.—Orationale Secundum Consuetudinem Ordinis Monachorum S. Benedicti, S. Zenonis, Veronæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1913.—Prisciani de VIII. Partibus Orationis, cum Glossa. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Large octavo.

1914.—Dialecticæ quædam. (Incip. Cum sit, &c.) A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1915.—Collectanea Medica. (Incip. Post mundi fabricam, &c.) A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum and paper. Quarto.

1916.—Compendium Biblium. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.

1917.—Chrysostomus adversus Vituperatores, Latine ex Versione Ambrosii Traversarii, Camaldulensis. A MS. from the Boutourlin Collection, of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

1918.—L. Bruni, Aretini, De Laudibus Florentiæ. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. On vellum. Quarto.

1919.—Innocentii Papæ III., De Miseria Conditionis Humanæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century, defective at the end. On vellum. Quarto.

1920.—Patres. Florilegium ex SS. Patribus, ad magnum perfectum Monachorum, Opus tripartitum: 1. De Virtutibus. 2. De Oculo morali. 3. De Historiis selectioribus et orationibus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

1921.—Liber Precum cum Calendario. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo.

1922.—Orationes et Antiphonarium. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

1923.—Passionale. Die Passie ons Heere J. C. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small quarto.

THE BARROIS MANUSCRIPTS.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

1.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns, and bound in modern blue morocco, with a very ancient carving in ivory, representing the death of the Emperor Septimius Severus, inserted in the cover. On vellum. Folio. It contains,—Le Roman de Perceval le Galois, By Chrestien de Troyes, Gautier de Denet and Manessier; La vie de Sainte Marie Egyptienne. The present copy, though complete as a book, does not contain the whole of the Romance, which when perfect includes the death of Perceval.

2.—Les Ordonnances de Charles le Hardi, Duc de Bourgogne, pour ses compagnies militaires, 1473. A Notarial copy duly attested. On vellum. Folio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. It belonged to Messire Marc Anthoine de Choysey, Seigneur de Bargon, Anot, et de la Seigneurie de Pauthenay, who has made use of the blank leaves as a register of the births, deaths, and other occurrences in his family from the middle to the end of the seventeenth century. It was in the library of M. le P. Bouhier in the year 1721, and appears to have been subsequently in the possession of W. Beckford, Esqre. (Vathek).

3.—Le Miroir Historial de France. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio. At the beginning of the volume there is the following note:—"Cet ouvrage dont ce titre est Miroir Historial de France n'est connu que comme manuscrit, et est attribué a Jean Desnouelles, vulgairement de Guise, mort en 1396. Voy. la Bibliothèque historique de France du Père Le Long., tom. ii. art. 15670, pag. 43."

4.—Le Livre du tres chevallereux Conte d'Artois et de sa femme, fille de Conte de Bouilloigne. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. It contains numerous illustrations, and the arms of Baden-Hochberg are on the first leaf and in other parts of the volume. The work was edited by M. Barrois, Paris, 1837, from the present MS., with copperplate engravings in outline from the illuminations.

5.—Evangelistarium, sive Lectiones per anni circulum ; tabula præmissa. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto. Written in letters of gold, but much defaced by damp. The tables are in silver letters upon purple vellum, but the metal is oxydized. Something is wanting at the end. In blue morocco binding, with clasp. In the cover is inserted an ancient ivory floreated carving, ornamented with emeralds and carbuncles.

6.—Lectionarium per anni circulum, præmisso prologo S. Hieronymi ad Constantinum Constantinopolitanum episcopum. A MS. of the eighth or ninth century. On vellum. Quarto, with fine illuminations. In Venetian green morocco binding, with an ancient ivory diptych, representing our Saviour, inserted in the cover.

7.—Evangelia quatuor, cum prologis S. Hieronymi et canonibus Eusebianis. A MS. of the ninth or tenth century. On vellum. Quarto. On the first page is written in a modern hand, "Liber Monasterii Sancti Andreae de Castro Cameracesio" (Chateau-Cambresis, in Hainault).

8.—Carta executoria di Hidalguia a pedimyento de Gaspar Guerra de Cañamal, vezino de la Ciudad de Sevilla. (Dat. Granada, 30 Aug. 1610.) A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Folio. In richly ornamented blue morocco binding, with the leaden bull of Philip IV. inserted.

9.—Antiphonale ad usum Basilicæ S. Germani a Pratis, pro festis primi ordinis. Scribebat Parisiis Dominus Carolus Mercier, monachus et presbyter hujus monasterii, anno 1729. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On vellum. Folio. At the end is, Officium S. Benedicti in utroque festo, printed on paper with an illuminated MS. frontispiece on vellum.

10.—Le livre du Roy Richart d'Angleterre. A MS. of the 14th century, late, or the fifteenth, early. On vellum. Small folio. In fine old yellow morocco binding, with arms and monograms of Charles IX. In the cover of the binding are inserted two letters,—one from Queen Elizabeth to Charles expressing her pleasure at the King's nomination of the Earl of Leicester to be a Knight of the order of St. Michael, dated Westminster, 29 Dec. 1564, with her sign manual; the other from Charles IX. to the Duc de Longueville, as Governor of Picardy, informing him of the massacre of St. Bartholomew, as a sedition between the Guises and the Admiral de Coligny, dated Paris, 24 Aug. 1572, and countersigned under the sign manual of the King, by De Neuville as Secretary of State. "Le livre du roy Richart," was edited by Mr. B. Williams for the English Historical Society, in 1846.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

ury. On vellum.
a de la Rose, par eung; Le lai du ieux de L'Abbaie
estiaire, by Guill-Dame et des trois of the fifteenth on the practice of oiled at the com-

ward I. A MS.
Small folio.
illon. (In verse.)
vellum. Quarto.
remorables choses vaige, adressée à n de Louis XII.,
r en sa duché et De Thouloze. A vellum. Folio.
s, apparently by nçois de Rochec-blazoned in several the library of the
in that of George del estorie le Roy avant luy et apres rent. A MS. of small folio.

i Liber Etymolo-
n Episcopum. A um. Folio.

oulant et d'Aspre-
ury. On vellum.
s, in which is in-representing two mets on the heads
by their squires,
ing the ceremony.
city by escalade.

tury. On vellum.
commence le livre anslate de Latin ançois par Jehan
ophon: Ci fenist le La division frere ainte; Colophon:
morocco binding,
V. on both sides.
minations.
li Muisis, Abbé de
of the fourteenth
n double columns,
ginal and unique ey of St. Martin

des Princes. An other copy in the e fourteenth cenlluminations. On des Rois et des del ordre Saint e Henri di Ganchi

Philippe de France
MS. of the fourith ten miniatures.

Dante Allighieri
pene de vitii dell virtu, et gloria de tury. On vellum.
lford's collection.
Piccolo, fol. 95b:
Ilustro poeta Mess' sopra Dante;" and
nte Picchelo Cioe & fatte p. Mess'

With a commen-chiose di Dante

le Chevalier lequel des merveilles que enth century. On
fol. 95b: "Ce livre
s sages et discret e en medicine, et noble et excellent ieu, roy de France.

" Escript par Raoulet dorliens lan de grace mil. ccc. lxxj
" le xvij jour de Septembre."

25.—Le Roman de Gerin le Loherens. (By Jehan de Flagy.) A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum.
Quarto. In green morocco binding. This romance was edited by P. Paris. Paris, 1833.

26.—A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
Quarto, in green morocco binding. It contains, 1.
Statuta Antiqua sive vetera, e.g., Magna Carta, Carta de Foresta, Provisiones de Mertona, Statuta Westmonasterii prima, Assisa panis et cervisie, &c. &c. 2.
Collectio Præceptorum, Brevium, &c., Regis Edward I.

27.—A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum.
Folio. It contains:—1, "Ci commence le Traittie
" des droits que le Roy Charles VII. du nom a a la
" couronne et a la totalite du Royaume de France et de " la complainte que les Anglois font touchant la
" rouverte des treves." 2, "Ci commence la vraie
" cronique Descocce abregie," which was edited by Major
Robert Anstruther, for the Roxburghe Club in 1847.

28.—Haymonis (Episcopi Halberstadiensis) Expositio in Epistolas Pauli Apostoli. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio, written for Jean Budé, whose arms are on the first leaf. It afterwards belonged to Nicholas Thoynard, of Orleans.

29.—Nomina et virtutes Balneorum Puteoli et Bayarum, sicut in libro decimo Oribasii vetustissimi medici continentur. A MS. of the fourteenth century.
On vellum. Folio, with thirty-seven curious illuminations, early Italian art. It formerly belonged to the Duca di Cassano-Serra.

30.—A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
Folio. Written in double columns and containing:—1,
Jacobi de Voragine Jannensis Legenda Sanctorum; 2, De Sancto Godehardo episcopo Hildesheimensi et confessore. At the end there is the following note in a different hand:—Notandum quod anni domini renovantur in Kalendis januarii sive in nativitate domini.
Anno igitur domini m°. ccc°. xij in Kalendis januarii obiit Dominus jacobus decanus godar sacerdos, Capellanus ecclesie sancti bartolomei in leodio Qui dedit nobis hunc librum . . . Liber iste est ecclesie sancti jacobi in leodio (St. Jacques at Liège). The library of St. Jacques was sold in 1788.

31.—Histoire Universelle, compilée d'Orose, de Salluste, de Lucain, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in two volumes. On vellum. Folio. The arms of Créquy are emblazoned on the first leaf, and in many other places.

32.—Cy commence le traictie intitule le dyalogue des creatures, translate du Latin en Francois par Colart Mansion a Bruges, a la contemplacion de treshault et tres puissant S^r Mons^r le Conte de en lan mccccxxxij. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio. On the first page is written: "Ce
" livre apartint a mou fiz francisque de Bethencourt " son Pere le lui a done le 28 desembre 1628." It was afterwards in the collection of Count Boutourlin. The author of the original Latin is described, in the Cat.
MSS. Bib. Reg. tom. iv. No. 8507, as Magister
Nicole qui dicebatur, Pergaminus.

33.—A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum.
Large folio. It contains, 1. "Cy commence le livre
" intitule Boece de Consolation, translate de Latin en
" Francoys pour le Roy de France appelle Philippe le " quart de ce nom, par Maister Jehan de Meun Reve" rend Docteur en la Sainte page de Theologie. 2. La
" voye purgative; La voye illuminative; La voye unitive.
" 3. Cy commencent les contemplacions Saint Augustin.
" 4. Cy commence lystoire du miroir du corps et de lame
" (Par Guillaume M^e en Theologie qui aime bien Dieu).
" 5. Cy commence le dialogue du Pere et du filz. 6. Cy " sensuit lexemplaire des petis enfans. 7. Le livre du " Corps de la Pollicie, en iii. parties." There is an illumination with the arms of Rohan-Visconti at the beginning of each treatise. This MS. subsequently belonged to Charles I.; Cardinal de Bourbon; Guyon de Sardière, and Count Mac Carthy.

34.—Cy commence le livre de proprietes des choses translate de Latin (of Bartholomeus de Glanvilla) en Francois (by Jehan Corbichon) lan mccccxxxij. par le commandement du Roy Charles le quint de son nom regnant en France noblement et puissamment en ce temps. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
Large folio, with many illuminations, and formerly belonging to the family of Chastellus, with numerous entries of births and baptisms.

35.—Le Roman du Saint Graal et de Merlin. (By Robert de Borron.) A MS. of the fifteenth century.
On vellum. Large folio, 2 vols. Written in three columns on each page, with numerous illuminations.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM,

The Roxburghe arms are on the sides of the old red morocco binding. The MS. was formerly in the La Vallière collection, afterwards in those of Roxburghe and Heber.

36.—Le Roman de Lancelot du Lac (in continuation of the preceding, by Gautier Map). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum, and in three folio volumes. At the end of vol. 2 is this note:—Ce livre est a Messire Jehan de brosse Seigneur de Sainte (Sévère) et de (Boussac) et Marechal de France. The name is partly obliterated.

37.—Les fables Ovide le grant reduites a moralite. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio, written in double columns, with one illumination representing the translator presenting his book. This version of the Metamorphoses is generally attributed to Philippe de Vitry, who was Bishop of Meaux from 1351 to 1361 upon the authority of an inscription in the copy belonging to the Bibliothèque de Saint Victor at Paris as follows: "Liber in Gallice et rithmice editus a Magistro Philippo de Vitriaco, quondam Meldensi episcopo, ad requestam domine Johanne, quondam regine Francie, continens moralitates contentorum in 15 libris Ovidii Metamorphoseos," &c. A copy in the Geneva library, however, begins:—"Cy commencent les rubriques dovide le grant dit metamorphoseos translate de latin en francois par Chrestien le gouays de sainte More vers Troye," &c.

38.—Chronique Generale dite de la Boucchardiere, par Jehan de Courcy, Chevalier Normand, Seigneur de Bourc Achard. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Large folio, 2 vols. A magnificent copy, with large illuminations and borders, formerly in the La Vallière Collection, afterwards in Count MacCarthy's.

39.—Petri Lombardi Libri iv. Sententiarum (with marginal notes). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

40.—Le livre de maistre Jehan Bocace de Cartald dez fortunez dez noblez hommez et femmez translate de Latin en François par Laurens du premier fait, de la nacion de Champagne, tres bon translateur et pouete. This title is at the end preceded by the words "cy fine." A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

41.—Cy commence le translacion en François du Traicté de la premiere guerre punique que compila en Latin ung noble clerc ditalie nomme maistre Leonard (Bruni) de Arecio environ lan mil cccc (xlv). With a prologue by the translator, Jean le Besgue, "qui pour cause de sa petitesse nommer ne se doit," addressed to Charles VII. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

42.—Le livre de la Chasse des Bestes, par Gaston sur-nomme Phebus Comte de Foix, Seigneur de Bearn, en 1387. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio. With 24 illuminations. The arms of the family of Berlaymont, with the Golden Fleece, are at the foot of the first page.

43.—Capitularia Ecclesiastica cum præfatione. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Folio. It contains: 1. Karoli II. Synodus Pistensis anni 862. 2. Karoli II. Capitula Missis data anno 865. 3. Karoli Magni Capitulare Aquisgranense anni 813. 4. Hludovici Constitutio anni 828, de Conventibus Archiepiscoporum habendis. 5. Hludovici et Hlotharii Capitularia Wormatiensis anni 829. This MS. formerly belonged to the monastery of St' Hubert aux Ardennes, afterwards to the Jesuit College of Louvain.

44.—Le livre de le Romaunz de la Lumiere as Layes (i.e. Enseignement pour les laics. By Pieres Cler). A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

45.—Cyrurgia Albucasis cum Cauteriis et aliis Instrumentis. (Ex arabico in Latinum translata per Gerardum Cremonensem, seu potius Carmonensem.) A MS. of the fourteenth century, with drawings of instruments. On vellum. Folio.

46.—Speculum Humane Salvationis. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio. With 192 outline drawings. From Hanrott's collection.

47.—AMS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns, and containing: 1. Flavii Josephi de Bello Judaico Libri vii. (Interprete Ruffino Aquileiensi Presbytero). 2. Ejusdem de Antiquitate Judaica Libri xx. (Eodem interprete). 3. Sermo magnumque miraculum de imagine Crucifixi Domini. On vellum. Folio.

48.—Chronica sive Historia Monasterii Sancti Bertini Sythiensis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Folio. At the end of the index of contents prefixed to the work is the following note:—"Hunc librum scripsit pater bertinus damman religiosus monasterii sancti

"bertini sumptibus domini mathei depoy. ejusdem monasterii granitarii, 26mo decembris m^occcc^o ij^o."

49.—Hystoria Iherosolimitana abbreviata a Magistro Jacobo (de Vitriaco, Cardinale) Acconensi Episcopo. A MS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

50.—Accumulationes Receptarum sub brevi compendio a Magistro Johanne Pisis compilatarum. A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly belonging to the Abbé Fauvel, afterwards to Charles Louis François Andry, professor of medicine at Paris, to whom it was given by De Bure, the bibliographical bookseller. On vellum. Folio.

51.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns with illuminated initials, containing, 1. Liber Beati Jeronimj de viris illustribus. 2. Item ejusdem de duodecim lectoribus. 3. Isidori de viris illustribus liber: at the end is a life of Isidore. 4. Epistola beati Eusebii missa beato Damasio. . . . de obitu S. Jeronimj. 5. Epistola Sancti Augustini ad Cirillum de laude et apparitione beati Jeronimj. 6. Epistola Cirilli episcopi ad Augustinum de eadem materia. 7. Vita Beati Jeronimj. 8. Dantis Aligherii libri tres de Monarchia. On vellum. Folio.

52.—Augustini Hipponensis Episcopi Sermones de verbis Domini nostri. A MS. of the eighth or ninth century. On vellum. Square folio.

53.—Clementis Recognitiones (Opus supposititium) Latine ex versione Ruffini Aquileiensis Presbyteri. Libri x. The greater part of lib. x. is wanting. A MS. of the eleventh century, formerly belonging to the Monastery of La Celle, near Troyes; afterwards in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, the Duc de Berry, and in the Rosny Collection. On vellum. Folio.

54.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, with an illumination on the first leaf, in old red morocco binding, with the arms and ordres du roy, and the monogram of Philippe de Bethune on both sides. It contains, 1.—Cy commence la livre de Guidon, translate de Latin en François par Messire Guy (de Chauliac) qui fu medecin Pape Urbain lan mil ccc. lvi., qui gist à Marceille. 2. Livre danatomie. On vellum. Small folio.

55.—Elysabeth ancillæ Christi de Sconaugia liber de temptationibus inimici quas primo sustinuit et de revelationibus divinis quas postmodum vidit. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

56.—Commentariorum (S. Hieronymi) in Hieremiam prophetam Libri vi. ad Eusebium fratrem. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Folio.

57.—S. Augustini Sermones et quædam alia. A MS. of the sixth or seventh century, written in Merovingian characters, with the rubrics in capital letters, red and green. On thick vellum. Small folio.

58.—Liber insularum Archipelagi editus per Dom Presb. Christophorum de Bondelmontibus de Florentia, quem misit de civitate Rodi Romam Dom. Jordano Cardinali de Ursinis Anno Domini 1422. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

59.—Storia della Crociata. A history of the first Crusade, in which Otto Visconti, with others his companions, bore a part. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. The first three leaves are richly adorned with the Visconti bearings in various forms, and the first leaf has a shield of Sforza and Visconti quarterly. Francesco Sforza married, in 1441, Bianca Maria, a daughter of Filippo Maria Visconti, Duke of Milan, and subsequently became Duke of Milan, partly in virtue of this alliance.

60.—Sancti Hieronymi Explanationum in Esaiam Prophetam libri septem posteriores (i.e. xii—xviii). A MS. of the eighth or ninth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Quarto.

61.—Statuts et Ordonnances de Charles le Hardi, Duc de Bourgogne, pour ses compagnies de gens de Guerre. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

62.—La Danse aux Aveugles. (By Pierre Michault.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

63.—Lectiones quædam et Collectæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. The words "Westminster Abbeye" occur in two places, as if the MS. had formerly belonged to it.

64.—Roman des Deduis de la Chasse. (In verse. By Gaces de la Buignes). "Gaces de la Buignes, premier chappellain de tres excellent prince le noy Jehan de france que Diex absoille, commenca ce Romans des Deduis a heldefort en engleterre lan mil trois cens cinquante neuf, du commandement du dit seigneur a fin que messire phelippe son quart filz et duc de bour-

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

le apreist des dee, et quil en fust
depuis le dit Gace fourteenth century.

to Victore) super
of the fourteenth ing, with a yellow
ped with the arms,
II. and Diana of

century containing,
qui en romans est araphrase sur les 7
ad B. Mariam Vir-
rum. On vellum.

ose and verse. By enth century. On

ata a fratre Johanne riburgo, Teutonico)
Statuta summæ coudita, et Confessionale teenth century. On est ditte le Legende obus de Voragine) en

A MS. of the fifteenth vols. On the first leaf d'Auxy, Knight of the

On the same leaf is m Guichiensium.

ati Dionysii Remensis, quo libro historie,
ri et Novo Testamento century, with marginal vellum. Folio. For-are two other copies 158.

ntury, containing, 1.-- s evangiles de tout lan is, translatees de Latin ad sponsam benedicenwith large illumination drawings. On the first of Bourbon dimidiated
e coat, in a lozenge, of ried secondly, in 1513, endôme.

by Christine de Pisan).
On vellum. Quarto.

trésor de poésie par t les ballades dont elle vacité de tendresse qui eur vraiment adorable."
olitiques de Christine de

a. A MS. of the tenth ti II. Synodus Pistensis
la Missis data anno 865.
Aquisgranense anni 813.
ni 828, de conventibus
5. Hludovici et Hlotharii
829. On vellum. Quarto.

vie humaine, par Guil-
of the fourteenth century.
Written in double co-engravings, and lettered :
No. 438 post.

nth century, containing :
richly illuminated in gold lore Beate Marie Virginis illuminated initials. On oph le quel homme appelle tes sciences. A MS. of the um. Small folio.

grande partie dorient, compar terre et par mer jusques ing the travels of Lodovico slated from the Italian by
3. of the sixteenth century.

enth century, containing :
Bede Presbiteri de Templo usculum ad Nothelmum de idem ad eundem de octo
Liber Explanatiois Alle-
Brevis Explanatio de Tem-plo Salomonis extracta de Venerabilis Bede Presbiteri omeliis super duo evangelia, id est Non est arbor bona faciens, et Facta sunt enchenia. On vellum. Folio.

Formerly in the Library of St. Martin's, at Tournay.

79.—Liber Testimoniorum (Divinæ Scripturæ) quem Paterius de diversis opusculis Sancti Gregorii Pape urbis Rome summo studio excerpti curavit. The expositions of Genesis, Exodus, and the whole of the New Testament are wanting. A MS. of the eleventh century.
On vellum. Folio.

80.—P. Ovidii Nasonis Metamorphos on Libri vii. priors. Book vii. is imperfect. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with six illuminated initials. On vellum.
Folio.

81.—Polybii Historiarum Libri v. e Græco in Latinum conversi per Nicolaum Perottum, cum ejusdem prohemio, ad Nicolaum Quintum Pontificem Maximum. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with an ornamental initial to each book and border to the first page. On vellum. Folio.

82.—Cy commence le livre nomme mondevie, fait de Jahan Doupin. In two parts. At the end of the second is written : Ci finist le livre nomme mondevie fait par Jahan dupin a la requeste et supplicacion de estienne comte de montbeliart lequel Jahan dupin commencza cest livre en lan mil cc iiij^{xx} iiij. luy estant en laage de xxij ans et fut fini lan milccc xl. . . . And at the end of the envoi : Iste liber partinet Petro de Breil domino temporalis loci du Breil, quem scripsit Petrus Sagittarii cum maxima temporis mora, anno domini 1414. The name of the owner is written over an erasure. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum.
Folio.

83.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing :
1. Vita S. Marcialis Episcopi. 2. Vita S. Sylvestri Papæ. 3. Vita S. Amandi Episcopi. 4. Vita S. Am-brosii Episcopi. 5. Vita S. Walerici Abbatis. 6.
Translatio B. Benedicti Abbatis et S. Scholasticæ
Sororis ejus. 7. Vita S. Hieronymi Presbyteri. 8. Vita
S. Cassiani Episcopi. 9. Liber Heraclidis de virtutibus
Sanctorum Patrum. 10. Quædam miracula B. Honorati
Episcopi. 11. Vita B. Richarii Episcopi. 12. Liber
Petri Cluniacensis Abbatis de Miraculis. 13. Vita B.
Hugonis Gratianopolis Episcopi, edita a Guigone Priore Carthusiæ. 14. Cronica de origine Ordinis Carthusien-sis. 15. Vita S. Anthelmi, primum Prioris Carthusiæ ac deinde Belicensis Episcopi. On vellum. Folio.

84.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing :
1. Anyii Manlij Boecij Severini de Consolatione
Philosophie Libri v. (Cum commentario anonymo). 2.
Boece de Consolacion translate du Latin en Francoys par Jehan de Meun. (With gloss.) On vellum. Folio.

85.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing :
1. Memoires des hauls et loables faiz darmes que fist en campelos Missire Jacques de la laing au temps de son jeune aige. 2. Le debat de hanibal de alixandre et de scipion (translate en cler francois). 3. A treatise on the mode of creating an Emperor, King, Count, and other dignitaries. with the manner of their going to battle, &c. On vellum. Large quarto.

86.—Francisci Petrarchæ de Remediis utriusque For-tunæ Libri duo. A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly belonging to the Celestins of Amiens, with two illustrations. On vellum. Folio.

87.—A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, written in double columns and in three different hands, containing, 1.—Petri Lombardi Sententiarum Libri (imperfect). 2.—De Nativitate, dignitate et supplicio Pilate presidis Judæe; item de vita Judæe Iscariotæ; de secundo adventu Christi; de Officiis Ecclesiasticis; et quædam alia (imperfect at end). 3.—Quædam explicationes Sanctæ Scripturæ; Sermo de beata Magdalena; et alia. On vellum. Small folio. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the president Le Peletier and the Duc de Berry, and in the Rosny Collection.

88.—S. Ambrosii Mediolanensis Episcopi in Psalmos Davidicos Commentarii. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

89.—C. Julius Solinus de Mirabilibus Mundi. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

90.—"Compte des biens rentes et revenues de la "livre du commun des Chappellains de l'Eglise Sainte
"Anne en Donay et des biens des chapelles qui ont este
"lan de ce compte en la main du dit commun, fait et "rendu par my Jullien Gervais presbytre chapellain en
"icelle eglise . . . pour ung an entier commenchant
"au jour saint Jehan baptiste mil quatre cens quatre
"vingtz et seize et finissant ce nuyt du dit saint Jehan
"mil iiij^{cc} iiij^{xx} dix sept." A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

91.—Le Medecin de lame. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM

92.—El non nostre seigneur jhesu crist ici comencent les institutes a l'empereur Justinian (in four books). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

93.—C. Julii Cæsaris Commentariorum de Bello Gallico et de Bello Civili Pompeiano Libri x. Nec non A. Hirtii (sive quorumcunque sint) de Bellis Gallico, Alexandrino, Africano, et Hispaniensi Libri iv. Julius Celsus Constantinus emendavit. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with illuminated initials. On vellum. Folio. At the beginning of the volume is the following MS. note: Iste liber commentariorum fuit bone memorie Domini francisci Maphei Canonici Veronensis Scriptoris apostolici et prothonotarii Qui eum dono dedit canonicis regularibus commorantibus in hoc Monasterio sancti leonardi, &c.

94.—Liber Passionarii (Tractatus cum notis marginalibus de Re Medica). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

95.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing, 1.—Dyalogorum Beati Gregorii Papæ et Venerabilis Petri libri iv. 2.—Vitæ Patrum. On vellum. Small folio.

96.—Philippi Gualteri de Castellione Alexandreis, sive gesta Alexandri Magni, Libris x. comprehensa, with marginal and interlineal notes. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

97.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing, 1. Incipit libellus cujusdam ignoti auctoris (Fausti Rejensis Galliarum Episcopi) de Anima, contra quem Claudianus tribus sequentibus libris disputat. 2. Mamerti Claudiani de Statu Anime libri iii. The following note occurs at the end: Optimus hic codex est, collatus ad editiones Basiliensem et Parisiensem duplicem, in Bibliotheca SS. Patrum in qua multa et omissa et corrupta sunt. Hic igitur codex jure optimo cum benedictione servandus quem contulit accurate cum editis And. Schottus Soc. Jesu an. m. de ix. Tornaci Nerviorum. Formerly in the library of St. Martin's at Tournay. On vellum. Folio.

98.—Abrégé de Traité de Paix, 1412-1559. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

99.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Enseignemens de Table. 2. Quatrains Moraux. 3. Le Codicille de Jehan de Meun. 4. Autres Quatrains Moraux. 5. Enseignemens. On vellum. Large quarto. Written in double columns and with small illuminated initials. The name of Gassot or Hassot occurs at the end as that of a former possessor.

100.—Li livre de Sydrac le Philosophe le quel est apele le livre de la fontaine de toutes sciences. A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly belonging to Claud. Rob. Fardel.

101.—A collection of astronomical and astrological treatises and tables, in Latin, containing a MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

102.—Faunij (Flavii) Vegetij Renati Viri Illustris Liber de re militari Incipit sub-divisus in libros quatuor. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio. The first page is illuminated.

103.—Philippi de Harveng, Abbatis Bonæ Spei Ordinis Præmonstratensis in Hamonia Cameracensis diocesis, de Institutione clericorum tractatus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

104.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns, with miniatures, and containing, 1. Razi Abubeker de Egritudinibus, ex Arabico in Latinum versus. 2. Liber de Cerebro. On vellum. Large folio.

105.—Cy commence le Rommans de la Rose, ou lart damours est tout encloze. (By Gillaume de Lorris and Jehan de Meun.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Large quarto. Written in double columns with illuminations.

106.—Computus accepti datique in administratione bonorum Seminarii Decani et Capituli Ecclesiæ Collegiatæ S. Petri oppidi Insulensis . . . quem reddit. F. Dapuril dicti Seminarii receptor pro xij^o. anno suæ administrationis finito in festo S. Joannis Baptistæ 1672. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On vellum. Folio.

107.—La Fleur des Histoires. (By Jehan Mansel.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Large folio. A large illumination occupies the greater part of the first page, in the border of which the arms of Montmorency are emblazoned.

108.—Le Songe du Vergier, en deux parties. (Translated from the Latin, Somnium Viridarii.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Large folio. Written in double columns, with illuminated initials and two large illuminations, in the first of which is a coat of arms, az. 9 bezants enfilés en croix between 7 stars or, and in the second the arms of Montmorency-Laval.

At the end of the volume is the autograph of Françoise d'Alençon, grandmother of Henry IV.; her arms, dimidiating those of her second husband Charles de Bourbon, Duc de Vendôme, are in the MS., No. 71 of this collection. She died in 1550. The present MS. was given by T. M. S^r de L. G., on the 28th Nov. 1601, to Claude Crestien son of Florent Crestien who was tutor to Henry IV. It was afterwards in the Hohendorf collection, and in 1827 was sold at Henry Drury's sale to Hibbert, at whose sale in 1829 it was bought by Bohn. It was subsequently sold at P. A. Hanrott's sale in 1834.

109.—Ci commence le livre des problemes Aristote: cest adire des fortes questions translatees de Latin en François. Par Maistre Evrart de Conty jadis phisicien du Roy Charles le Quint. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Large folio, formerly Count Mac Carthy's. The first page is ornamented and has an illumination, with the arms of Cotteneau, and another coat, or, 4 bends nebule, vert.

110.—La Bible Hystorians ou Les Hystoires Escollastres. Translated from the Latin of Petrus Comestor by Guiart des Moulins. The old Testament only. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Large folio, with 71 illuminations.

111.—Cest le livre des fays des Romains compille ensemble de la Justine et de Suetoyne et du Lucain. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Large folio.

112.—La Vie du Vaillant Bertram du Guesclin, Connestable de France, le Vaillant Paladin (in verse). By Cuvelier. A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly in the La Vallière collection. On vellum. Folio, with illuminations, and the arms of the Lalain family.

113.—Anicii Manlii Boecij de Consolatione, Libri V. cum expositione domini (Roberti Grosseteste Episcopi) Linconiensis.—Boece de Consolation translate de Latin en François avec la glose de Travet (Nicolaus Triveth) par Maistre Jehan de Meun. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio, with six large illuminations and illuminated borders and initials. The arms of De Refuge occur in the illuminations. The volume was afterwards in the Bibliotheca Tristano, and subsequently in the Cabinet de livres du Comte Pontchartrain.

114.—Compte Gautier Poulain Conseillier de tres-excellent . . . prince . . . Phelippe, Duc de Bourgoigne . . . Comte de Flandres . . . De toutes les receptes et despenses faites par ledit Gautier receveur pour et ou nom de mondit seigneur des rentes et revenues de sesdits conte et pais de Flandre ville et seignourie de malines, depuis le jour de noel 25^{me} iour de Decembre 1440 exclu, jusques au derrenier jour de Decembre 1441 inclu, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century, on vellum. Large quarto.

115.—Josephi illustris Hebreorum hystoriographi de Antiquitate Judaica ab initio mundi usque ad tempora Machabeorum, Libri I.—XII. (Raffino Aquileiensi Presbytero interprete). A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Large folio. On the first page is written in a contemporary hand: Liber sanctæ Marie vallis lucentis (Vauluisant in Champagne).

116.—A MS. of the ninth century, containing, 1. Incipit Liber Ysidori Junioris Spalensis Episcopi Explanatio de legibus diversis quem inter libros ethimologiarum positum repperi. 2. Item ex ejusdem libris post alia Incipit de regnis milicie quæ vocalibus (sic). 3. De adfinitatis gradibus. 4. De Agnatis et cognatis. 5. Incipiunt notas (sic) juris (a Magnone collectæ). On vellum. Folio. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry, and in the Rosny collection.

117.—Magni Aurelii Cassiodori Senatoris Variarum libri. An assemblage of State papers drawn up by Cassiodorus, in accordance with the instructions of the sovereigns whom he served. Imperfect at the commencement. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

118.—Justiniani Imperatoris Codex, cum commentario perpetuo. Imperfect at the end. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio. Formerly in the Rosny collection.

119.—Comptes des baillies de Bethune, Burry, Choquez, 1372-1374. Jehan Clavel et Symon Blapel receveurs. Jehan de Vaulz et Mons. de Quatrevaux baillifs. A MS. of the fourteenth century. 2 vols. Folio.

120.—Original Charters, Royal Grants, Rolls of Expenses, Letters Patent, Warrants, Muster Rolls, and other State documents illustrative of the history of England, France, and Normandy, 1269-1771. MSS. of the thirteenth century.

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM

On vellum and estoris). A MS.
double columns.

ois personnages,
princes et nobles
Pierre de Bresze, eorge Chastelain et lan premier du fteenth century.
illuminations, of outline.

issimi Augustini aliorum scriptis nii episcopi ejus-
A MS. of the arto. Containing ing.

hrist, en vers, par
sixteenth century.
volume was exe-are on the first nted on both sides,
in the midst of the e second leaf is a ering his work to the King on horse-
e of a Salamander;
hor, with an address
form his name.
f the fifteenth cenaves have been ab-

urbis senatoris Hysphanium Scolasticum
e correct title would Græcis Scriptoribus
b Epiphania Scholas-Epitomen redactæ per libri, xii. A MS. of ling in cap. xxix. of ne Sainte Marie, par

IS. of the fourteenth en in double columns, gris. This work is nan.

Vertu party en trois Martin Le Franc). A vellum. Folio. With ning of each book.

e Ecclesie, Kalendario rteenth century. On ions and borders of ventus Ratisbonensis

entury containing: 1.—
es laguillon de crainte sainte amour. 3. Ci ntient xliij. chappitre.
tations saint Bernart.
s vices et des vertuz Le Roy. (Par Frère
eurs.) Colophon: Ci ertuz autrement appelle ist un frere de lordre des du bon roy phelipes de priez pour luy et pour cccxxv. A copy of this has the name of "St. thor. On vellum. Folio.

century, containing: 1.
Isuardum (Jussu Caroli
io, prefatione excerpta ex cola Usuardi ad Carolem as Paschales. 3. Incipit n mundi. On vellum.

e de Bourgogne de toutes
ites par Gaultier Poulain 1441, jusques au 1^{er} Janv.
th century. On vellum.

century, containing; 1. S.
Hipponensis de Trinitate
; imperfect, wanting the 2, Ejusdem Confessionum ng part of Books, iii., iv., braries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier and the Duc de Berry, and in the Rosny collection. On vellum. Folio.

134.—Three MSS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries: 1. Comptes et despenses de . . . Philippe, Duc de Bourgoigne, etc. de mcccc. cinquante a miiii^e lvi, Par Gaultier Poulain. This is a modern title;
the first original heading is: Achats de chevaulx escriptures de livres panitures et autres choses touchant escuierie. 2. Compte Mons^r. Oede de Helle. Che sont li paiemens monsigneur Oede de Helle lesquels len troeve que il a fait pour madame puis son darrenier compte que il fiet a madame de la saint michiel lan
m. ccc et viij. 3. Compte Guillem de Salins. Ce sont li contes lesquels maistre Guillems de Salins rent de la terre que madame dartois a en Bourgoigne, &c. 1313.
The last two MSS. are unbound. On vellum. Large
quarto.

135.—Incipit liber Aurelii Augustini de Civitate Dei,
A MS. of the twelfth century, formerly "sancte marie de tribus fontibus." On vellum. Folio, 2 vols. Vol. 1 is damaged at the beginning.

136. Statuta Communis Fighini. (In four books.) A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Square
folio.

137.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing:
1, Tractatus (Gulielmi Peraldi) de septem vitiis capitalibus. 2, Incipit (ejusdem) summa de virtutibus.
3, Hugo (de Folieto, Cardinal) de xii. Abusionibus claustris. On vellum. Folio.

138.—Les anciennes ystoires du premier Roy et des autres apres et des royalmes de toutes les parties du monde. Ends with the death of Cæsar, being the first half of the work. A MS. of the fourteenth century, with some illuminations at the beginning. On vellum.
Large folio.

139.—A MS. of the eighteenth century, containing:
1. Graduale cum notis musicis. Stencilled. 2. Intonations des Graduels et Alleluia, avec leurs versets.
Manuscript. On vellum. Folio.

140.—Compte de la recepte et despense faicte par
Guillaume le bis secretaire et maistre de la chambre aux deniers de monseigneur le conte de montpensier fitz de monseigneur le duc de berry, 1 Sept. 1496.—31 Aoust. 1497. At the end are two leaves containing part of a wardrobe account. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

141.—Comptes de la recepte ordinaire du demaine que prent et a de revenue chacun an . . . Monss le Conte de Saint Pol . . . chastelain de lille es lieux et villes de la dito chastellenie et la depence dicelle recepte pour ung an entier comenchant au jour Saint Remj 1 Oct.
1437 et finissant le darrenier jour doctobre 1438 incluz . . .
par Thomas Malet receveur de mon dit seigneur, &c.
A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

142.—Primus Liber registri facultatis theologie
Schole Parisiensis in materia fidei et morum incipiens ab anno Domini millesimo ducentesimo octuagesimo quarto. A MS. of the fifteenth century, apparently the original. On vellum. Large quarto.

143.—Ci commence lespitre Othea la deesse que elle envoya a Hector de Troie. (In verse and prose, By Christine de Pisan.) A MS. of the fifteenth century.
On vellum. Folio. Cet ouvrage, l'un des premiers de Christine de Pisan, parait avoir été destiné par elle a l'instruction de la jeunesse de Louis, duc d'Orleans, né en 1371, et fils de Charles V. Thomassy,
pa. 103.

144.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1, Gregorii Papæ IX. Decretalium libri v. cum glossis perpetuis. 2, Incipiunt nove questiones Alexandri iiij^{ti} Pape. 3, Questiones Nicholaj tercii. 4, Incipit commentum arboris consanguinitatis per compendium versificatum a magistro Jo. de deo sacerdote hispano.
Imperfect, only one page. Then follows a table of rubrics. On vellum. Small folio.

145.—Jacobi de Voragine Januensis, de ordine Fratrum Prædicatorum, Legenda Sanctorum. The last leaf is mutilated. A MS. of the fourteenth century.
On vellum. Folio.

146.—Karoli Magni, Hludowici et Hlotharii Imperatorum Capitularia ab Ansegiso Abbate Fontanellensi collecta in libris v. Also Capitula (Missorum) Karoli regis filii Hludowici (constituta in synodo apud Suessionis civitatem in Monasterio Sancti Medardi, anno 853). A MS. of the tenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

147.—Missale cum notis musicis. Imperfect. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

148.—Le Livre des merveilles et diversites de ce monde selon Solin, Gervaise et Plinius, translate de Latin en François. A MS. of the fifteenth century.
On vellum. Quarto. With 57 fine miniatures.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

149.—Petri de Riga, Aurora. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio. See ante, No. 70.

150.—Anticlaudianus ou Antidioticien. (Translated with variations from the Latin of Alain de Lille.) Colophon: Che livre chy est appellez Antidyoclicien ce que fist un moine de Cysoin natif du comte d'Artois de lorde des freres prescheurs et lacala a Olivier Baride a cause de se feme hoir des biens qui furent a Messire Jehan de la cuelle jadis notaire de la court darras en lan mil quatre cens et 7. Et lenlumina Colars Tavel notaire de le cour darras tesmoin son signe manuel. Colars Tavel. A MS. of the fifteenth century formerly belonging to Adrien Siffot. On vellum. Small folio.

151.—Liber Prisciani Cæsariensis ad Julianum patricium de arte Grammatica. A MS. of the twelfth century, slightly imperfect at the end. On vellum. Folio.

152.—Jacobi de Voragine Liber de Legendis Sanctorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

153.—Liber Apocalypsis Johannis Apostoli. (Cum glossis ordinaria et interlineari). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

154.—Consuetudinum Ordinis Cartusiensis partes tres. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio, 2 vols.

155.—Sancti Augustini Hipponensis de Doctrina Christiana Libri iv. Imperfect. A MS. of the thirteenth century, formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier and the Duc de Berry, and in the Rosny collection.

156.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns and containing: 1. Liber Gestorum Barlaam et Josaphat servorum Dei editus Græco sermone a Johanne Damasceno. 2. Translatio S. Jacobi Apostoli et Miracula per eum facta. Imperfect at the end. 3. Johannis Turpini Archiepiscopi Remensis liber supposititius de gestis Caroli Magni et Rolandi. Imperfect at beginning. Colophon: Explicit historia Runcievallis In honore virginis matris. 4. Prayers to the Virgin, &c. in Latin. On vellum. Large quarto.

157.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Le Livre intitule Les Ditz des Philozophes. (Translated from the Latin, Dicta Philosophorum, By Guillaume de Tignonville.) 2. Sensuyvent aucuns ditz de philozophie de Aristote et autres philozophes. 3. Sensuyvent plusieurs notables enseignemens que fist Senecue en son livre de meurs. On vellum. Quarto, with illuminated initials. A table of contents is prefixed.

158.—Petri de Riga, Aurora. A MS. of the fourteenth century, imperfect. On vellum. Quarto. See ante No. 70.

159.—Petri de Tarentasia (qui postea Papa fuit sub nomine Innocentii V) Liber secundus et tertius super libros II et III Sententiarum Petri Lombardi. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio; one leaf wanting after fol. 24.

160.—Anicii Manlii Boethii Severini de Consolatione Philosophiæ Libri v. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

161.—Martyrologium Ecclesiæ S. Petri Anderlaci. A MS. of the fifteenth and following centuries. On vellum. Small folio.

162.—Epistolæ Catholicæ SS. Jacobi, Petri, Johannis et Judæ, cum glossa ordinaria et interlineari. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

163.—Liber Medicinæ Practicæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

164.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Marci Tullii Ciceronis de Officiis Libri tres. 2. Significatio brevitatis quarundam litterarum antiquarum. On vellum. Folio. With a head of Cicero and illuminated initials.

165.—Le Miroir de lame le quel ung Chartreux fist a la requeste dun sien cordial amy. Colophon: Cy fine le miroir de lame pecheresse le quel ung Chartreux fist ala requeste dun sien cordial ami et fu escript a bruxelles lan mil quatre cens cinquante et ung. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

166.—Doctrinale clericulorum: Tractatus de re Grammatica, versibus heroicis cum glossa. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

167.—Psalterium Latinè. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto. Every leaf is ornamented with a rich Italian border, and the initials are very finely illuminated. The paintings in this volume are in the style of Giotto, and were probably executed by him at Avignon while he was there with the Pope.

168.—De quibusdam tam volucris quam animalibus que ad exemplum morum divina scriptura commemorat, liber (Hugonis de Folieto, canonici regularis S. Petri Corbeiensis in Picardia et Prioris S. Laurentii Ambianensis diocesis ac denique Cardinalis S. R. E.) ad Rainerium Conversum cognomine Corde Benignum. A MS. of the thirteenth century, with many very curious illuminations. On vellum. Quarto.

169.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing: 1. Sermones S. Augustini Hipponensis. 2. Incipit Omelie Sanctorum Patrum Augustini, Jeronimi, Ambrosii, de veteri Testamento. On vellum. Folio. Formerly "Sancte Marie Pontiniacensis."

170.—A MS. of the fifteenth century early, containing: 1. Le Rommant dou Lis (a poem in praise of the Virgin). 2. Ci commence lapocalypse. On vellum. Octavo. Two leaves of vellum are inserted in the volume containing MS. notes relating to the first work, subscribed R. Massey, a former possessor of the book, Paris, 1672.

171.—MSS. of the thirteenth century: 1. El Livre de clergie, qui est apelez Lymage del Monde en Romans (composed by Gautier de Metz in 1245) contient par tout lv. chapitres et xxviii. figures sans quoi li livres ne porrait estre ligierement fais qui est devisez par iii. parties. Imperfect. Written in double columns. 2. A chronological table: Ci sont li anaconte des le commencement dou monde tres que la fin a icest tans dore. Fol. 62 contains, A chronological enumeration of the revolutions at Jerusalem, in French, the commencement wanting. Also, "li conpos dou "Kalendrier," and "Clavis compoti." 3. Cy commencent les Questions (a didactic poem by Prestre Huon); written in double columns. 4. Ici commence li livre de preuve (A genethliack calendar, in verse, from the Latin of "Rigaus"). Written in double columns. 5. La Genesi de Nostre Dame. (By Prêtre Herman. Sometimes called La Bible d'Herman.) 6. The history of Joseph, the Patriarch, with part of the life of Moses. 7. The legend of St Fanouel, with the lives of Saint Anne and her daughter, the Virgin Mary, and the Infancy of Our Saviour. The whole volume is on vellum. Small quarto. At the foot of several pages are lines with musical notes, in a somewhat later hand. The volume is said to have belonged to the ancient abbey of Cluny.

172.—Annals of France during the reigns of Philip IV., surnamed Le Bel, Louis X. called Hutin, and Philip V. surnamed Le Long; 1286-1321. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

173.—Epistolæ Catholicæ SS. Jacobi, Petri, Johannis et Judæ, vii. et Apocalypsis, cum glossis ordinaria et interlineari. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. At the end is written: Ce manuscrit vient des Ducs de Bourgogne et appartient a moy Jaques Charpentier ce 13 fevrier 1530.

174.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Albertani Causidici Brixiensis ordinis Sanctæ Agathæ Liber de doctrina Dicendi et Tacendi. 2. Ejusdem de Consolatione et Consiliis Liber. Imperfect at the end. 3. Ejusdem de Amore et Dilectione Dei et Proximi, aliarumque rerum, libri III. Imperfect at the beginning. On vellum. Folio.

175.—Cy commence le volume intitule Le Recueil des Hystoires de Troyes compose par venerable homme Raoul Le Fevre prestre chappelain de mon tres redoute seigneur monseigneur le Duc Phelipe de Bourgoigne en lan de grace mil cccc lxiij. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto, with many very curious illuminations. Near the end of the volume occurs: Ce present livre est a moy qui suis nomme Charles Germain. This work was printed by Caxton abroad, about 1467, and is generally supposed to be the first book that he printed, and the first that was printed in French. He printed his English translation, most probably abroad, in 1471, and that was the first book printed in English.

176.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Petri de Allyaco Cardinalis Cameracensis Meditationes devotæ super Septem Psalmos Poenitentiales, cum prefatione. 2. Oratio pro finali concordantia. 3. Oratio devota valde et utilis ab eodem Domino Cardinali edita. 4. Oratio valde devota per Magistrum Nicholaum de Clamengiis composita. 5. Protestatid devota Domino Petro Dailly Cardinali Cameracensi edita. On vellum. Quarto. With small illuminated initials. At the beginning is written: Aux Celestine d'Amiens; and at the end: Celestinorum Sancti Antonii de Ambianis.

177.—Blazons des Armes de plusieurs familles nobles en France, enrichis d'or et de couleurs. A MS. of the

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

PEARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

Small quarto. Exe-
Henry III., as some founded by him.

erici, ad Willermum epto prudentie libri century, with illumi-
o.

ve, en romant, par
teenth century. On eco binding, with the
MS. having been in

century, containing:
rsus in laudem ejus-

Salvatoris. A MS. of vellum. Quarto, with
. D. Petit's.

century, containing:
ris et studiis ad illusatensis liber. 2. Ejus-plinæ ad Galeottum
arto.

f. 42, are of the fourves contain fragments
Aphorismus Siderum
2. S. Hieronymi vita. le Coena Domini trac-
quarto.

us potissimum scriptis ejusdem necnon epist Cyrilli. Sequuntur bibliorum; prologus in tæ; præfatio in vitam
tas Sanctorum Patrum,
A MS. of the fifteenth

pidimie minucion ou
e Jehan de Bourgoigne fesseur en medicin et
3. of the fourteenth cen-
In red morocco bind-
Charles V.

a century, containing:
de beata vita liber.
Ejusdem de perhibendis
Auguriis. 5. S. Hieron Heremitarum. 6. Laus ominam Baptistam de asatio Sancti Geronimi. vitæ. (Auctore S. Hiero-et Articles de lordre de sis du parc lez tour, le mbre lan de grace mil

MS. of the fifteenth cen-

th century, containing a Astronomical tracts and nativitatibus Albohali itæ judiciorum. Colo-vitatum anno ab incarna-
&c. 2. Epistola cujusdam
1. 3. Epistola de ratione le motu octavæ spheræ. 6.
Introductio in Astrono-ixarum que ponuntur in per instrumentum armil-
Tabula stellarum fixarum
33. 10. Tractatus (Ro-
Lincolniensis de spera.
icandam diversam aeris tellis. 12. Tractatus de Incipit liber de aggrega-t principis celestium mohagannus) compilavit. On ra en francoys que trans-

. A MS. of the fifteenth
o.

rum et dictorum memora-um of the fifteenth century.

ter distinctæ. A MS. of vellum. Small folio. On the arms of Charles V.,
ograph and that of his son,

satyræ, cum notis. A MS.
ormerly in the libraries of

P. Pithou, Antoine Loisel, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry. On vellum. Small folio.

193.—MSS. of the fourteenth century, in three different hands. 1. Raymundi de Pennafort Summa.
2. Summula Johannis Andree super quarto decretalium.
3. De observancia Jeuniorum cum aliis notabilibus.
4. Nicolai de Anessiac de ordine fratrum predicatorum tabula materiæ omnium in decretalibus contentarum, item index alphabeticus earundem. Ends with the article Electio. On vellum. Large quarto. Formerly "Collegii Soc. Jesu Bruxellis."

194.—L'Eneide de Virgile, traduit en vers François, par Octavien de Saint Gelais, Evêque d'Angoulême. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns, the spaces for illuminations left blank. On vellum.
Folio. Formerly La Vallière, No. 2459.

195.—Ci commencent les epistres et les evngiles de tout lan les queles sont translatees de Latin en François selonc l'ordenance du messel a l'usage de Paris. A MS. of the fifteenth century early, with illuminations, illuminated initials and ornaments to all the borders. On vellum. Quarto.

196.—Livre des Ordonnances de lordre de la Thoyson
Dor. Sensuit l'ordonnance des iiij officiers de lordre. A
MS. of the fifteenth century, with illuminated initials.
On vellum. Quarto.

197.—Carta et Statuta Fraternitatis Ecclesiæ Sancti Servacij Trajectensis, Leodiensis dioceseos. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with illuminations. On vellum.
Small folio.

198.—Incipit libellus devotus et utilis, compositus a domino johanne gersem cancellario parisiensi De imitatione Christi et contemptu omnium vanitatum mundi. A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly Count Boutourlin's. On vellum. Small folio.

199.—Incipiunt omelie a beato Gregorio constitute.
Imperfect at the end. A MS. of the thirteenth century.
On vellum. Folio.

200.—M. Tullii Ciceronis de Officiis, libri tres. A MS. of the fifteenth century (1440). On vellum. Small
folio.

201.—Incipit Liber Legis Salicæ. A MS. of the tenth century which differs frequently from the text printed by Canciani, LL. Barbb. vol. ii. On vellum.
Small quarto. At the top of the first page is written:
Liber Sancti Remigij Remensis, vol. vij^{xx} et ij. In red morocco binding, with the arms and cipher of Louis
XIV. in gold.

202.—Ci commence le Romant de la Rose, ou lart d'amours est toute enclose. (By Guillaume de Lorris and Jehan Meun). A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns, with 17 illuminations, and small illuminated initials. On the first leaf is written: Che livre chi appartient a bernard hairon appoticaire demourant en la rue a poirtes devant la grosse teste, car se deventure il est perdu on luy rapporte et il donra le vin.
Tesmoing, Hairon.

203.—Cy commences les vij. pseumes en francoys Allegorisees, (with a litany at the end). Executed for King Charles of Navarre, before 1380. On the first page is represented a kneeling figure, said to be intended for the King, as David. On fol. 59a, occurs the following passage: le roy charles de navarre par le quel commandement et voulante cest presant oeuvre est faite. Charles V. and Philippe, Duke of Burgundy are mentioned in the prayers. A MS. of the fourteenth century with small illuminated initials and some ornamented borders. On vellum. Quarto.

204.—Thome Sancti Vedasti de Doctrina Christiana, libri IV. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
Quarto. The autographs of Jean, Duc de Berry, and Henry II. occur on the last page. That of Henry II. is also on fol. 78a. In modern red morocco binding, gilt; on one side are the arms of Jean, Duc de Berry; and on the other those of Henry II.

205.—La Complainte de la Dame pasmee contre Fortune. A MS. of the sixteenth century, formerly belonging to the family of Amboise; afterwards to Léonor de Rohan, Princesse de Guemené. On vellum. Quarto, with eight large illuminations.

206. Liber de optimo fato nobilissimi domini Henrici eboraci ducis (et wallia principis) ac optimorum ipsius parentum; ad . . . Henricum anglie et francie regem septimum . . . per Wilielmum parronum placentinum artium et medicine doctorem editus. (Cum præfatione ad ipsum Henricum principem). An astrological prediction. A MS. of the sixteenth century richly illuminated. On vellum. Small quarto.

207. De doctrina, custodia et medecina equorum.
A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

208. Les petites Chroniques de l'Abbaye de Saint Denis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with the bookplate of the Marquis de Rothelin. On vellum. Quarto.

209. Vita venerabilis Juliane de Corelion (seu potius de Monte Cornelio) sanctissime virginis Christi. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Colophon: Anno domini m^occclxxv^o scriptus est hic liber per manum sororis katherine mast monialis professe in valle ducis, orate pro ea propter deum ex caritate; to which is added, in a later hand: pro monasterio villariensi. On vellum. Quarto. This life is printed in the Acta Sanctorum, April 5.

210. A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. Liber nuncupatus Secretum Secretorum Aristotelis ad Alexandrum. (Opus supposititium per Philippum Clericum translatus). At the end are notes in Latin, on the influence of the signs of the zodiac, in a later hand. 2. Constitutiones habite et inite inter Dominum Clementem (sic) summum pontificem papam iiij et Dominum nostrum Karolum regem Sicilie, 1255. 3. Epistola quam misit Imperator (Fredericus I. P.) ad Papam (Alexandrum III. P.) qui excommunicavit eum. On vellum. Quarto. At the end is written in a hand of the fifteenth century: Iste liber pertinet ad me Dominum Karolum Lebaud, Si quis invenit eum mihi reportet.

211.—Caroli Magni Imperatoris vita ab Eginardo cancellario ejus conscripta. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

212.—A MS. of the twelfth century containing: Beati Hieronymi presbyteri Catalogus virorum illustrium. 2. Incipit liber Gennadii Massiliensis presbyteri de Catalogo Virorum illustrium. Imperfect, ending with the notice of Theodorus presbyter in Coelesyria, which is the 91st. of the work as printed, the whole number being 100. On vellum. Small folio. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry.

213.—Dialogue entre le Maistre et L'Enfant. (From the Latin attributed to St. Anselm.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio. At the end is written: Ollivier foyllect Je suis pour luy servir si je puis.

214.—A MS. of the tenth century containing: 1. Lex Salica. 2. Lex Ripuariorum, imperfect at the end. 3. Caroli Magni Capitula quæ in Lege Salica mittenda sunt. Anni 803. The commencement is wanting. 4. Ejusdem Capitula minora Legi Salicæ addenda. Ejusdem anni. 5. Recapitulatio Legis Salicæ. 6. Sacramentale. 7. Caroli Magni Capitulare Anni 779. 8. Capitula Hludowici Imperatoris, anni, 817. 9. Capitula Ejusdem Imperatoris quæ legibus addenda sunt. Ejusdem Anni. Imperfect. On vellum. Folio. Fifteen leaves wanting, which leaves are in the British Museum, Egerton, 269, having been purchased of Mr. T. Rodd, the bookseller, in 1834. This MS. was formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Des Mares, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry. Some of the deficient matter is supplied in Pithou's writing.

215.—Les vraies croniques des hystoires de touz les rois de france qui ont regne des le temps aus sarrazines jusques anjourd'hui; en trois livres. Ends with the coronation of Philippe le Bel, in 1285. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

216.—Chronicon Generale ad annum 1264. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

217.—Li Ordineres Maesure Tancrey Chanoigne de Bouloigne; en quatre livres. Translated from the Latin; Praxis Juridica de ordine et processu judiciario, of Tancredus a Corneto, Canon of Bologna. A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier and the Duc de Bery. The first leaf is mutilated. On vellum. Small folio.

218.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1. Hic Incipit Astrolabium. (Liber Messehallæ, cum figuris; sequitur Theorica Motuum Planetarum.) 2. Liber Omar de revolutionibus nativitatum. 3. Liber Hali filii Ahamet Ebram in electionibus horarum. 4. Incipit Epistola Messehale in rebus eclipsis solis et lune et conjunctionis planetarum, &c. On vellum. Small folio.

219.—Cena Malectrati. An abstract of the principal events of the Bible, arranged under heads with textual references. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with ornamented initials and a border on the first page. On vellum. Quarto.

220.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. In nomine Domini Nostri Jesu Christi, Incomentaria lo trattato de lo accentuare le dictione o vero parole dello officio divino. Colophon: Finisse lo tratato de lo accentuare o vero proferire bene le parole delo divino officio.

Scripto ale dilecte in christo figliole del monasterio del corpo de christo dentro a Bologna per lo nostro venerabile et dignissimo padre F. Thomaxo di Bianchis de Bologna. 2. Placeme dopo lo tratato scripto dello accentuare secondo rasone le parole del divino officio scrivere anche alcune rubriche molto utile et necessarie per quelle ano accelebrare esso officio divino. Extrate dale rubriche generale et particolare del breviario. Colophon: Finisse lo trattato o vero la Ricolta delle Rubriche extrate dal breviario. . . . Scripta alle perfectæ Religiose del Monasterio de corpo de christo dentro Bologna per lo loro moth pretre Frate Thomaxo, 1485, &c. On vellum. Small quarto.

221.—Croniques de France et de Flandres encomencees en lan mil iij cens et quatre vings. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with an illumination on the first leaf. The last leaf is apparently wanting. On vellum. Small quarto.

222.—Ci commence Lucidere (from the Latin attributed to St. Anselm) et interogne li disciple li maistre comme il sensuit ci apres. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

223.—Galfredi Monemutensis Chronicon sive Historia Britonum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. The first seven chapters are wanting.

224.—Johannis Bocatij de certaldo de montibus, silvis pontibus, lacubus, fluminibus, stagnis sen paludibus et mari, liber incipit. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

225.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Platonis Phædon latine ex versione Leonardi Bruni Aretini cum ejusdem præfatione ad Innocentium Papam VIII. 2. Xenophontis Tyrannus, ex versione ejusdem Aretini cum præfatione ad Nicolaum Nicolum. On vellum. Small folio.

226.—C. Julij Hygini Astronomica. A MS. of the ninth century. On vellum. Quarto. At the top of the second page is written: liber sancti Remigij Remensis, vol. vij^{us} & vij.

227.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1. Satuta Antiqua—Magna Carta, Carta de Faesta, &c. &c.). 2. Registrum Cancellarium. On vellum. Octavo.

228.—Prieres. Les sept Pseaumes de la penitence de David. Les Quinze misteres du saint rosaire. Antiennes et oraisons des Apotres. A MS. of the seventeenth century, superbly decorated with numerous miniatures and illuminations. All the leaves have perforated borders in various patterns. The volume was executed for Louis XIII. The monogram of the king, and those of his father, mother, and wife are introduced in the decorations. On paper. Octavo.

229.—Le Triumphe de tres haute et puissante Dame Verolle, Roïne du Puy d'Amours; nouvellement compose par l'Inventeur de menus plaisirs honnestes. Avec le pourpoint fermant à boutons. (Attributed to Jean le Maire de Belges.) A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

230.—Epistolæ supposititiæ Eusebii, Augustini et Cyrilli Hierosolymitani de rebus gestis et miraculis Hieronymi. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with two illuminations. On vellum. Octavo. On the first page are the arms of Des Roches.

231. Horæ Beatæ Mariæ Virginis, cum Calendario præmisso. A MS. of the sixteenth century, richly illuminated throughout; thirteen large, and numerous small miniatures, and an ornamental border to every page. On vellum. Quarto.

232.—Cy sensient la demonstrence pour enseigner ceulz qui ne sceuent le fait des monnoyes selon ce que len est accoustume es monnoyes. A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly in the Bibliotheca Lamoniana. On vellum. Quarto.

233.—Le Livre Royal (in verse). Begins: Listoire du riche home et du ladre prise en levangile monseigneur saint Luc. A MS. of the fifteenth century early, to the first page of which is attached an illumination from another MS. On vellum. Octavo. Formerly belonging to the Abbey of Clairvaux.

234.—La Regle dou Temple (as settled at the Council of Troyes, in 1128. Translated from the Latin, attributed to St. Bernard, Abbot of Clairvaux). A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

235.—Beati Hieronymi Presbyteri de viris illustribus liber incipit feliciter. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Very small quarto.

236.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing 1. Karolellus. (Sive Vita Caroli Magni versibus confecta ex historia Johanni Turpino, Archiepiscopo Remensi, adscripta). 2. Liber qui vocatur Urbanis (de-

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

m libro versus. On a sex; præmissis ari secundum Paulum
h century, with six ed capitals. On vel-l'aventurier sur les ensemble leurs comenvers les plorables verse. A MS. of the small quarto.

ius, Cest le livre que
ar pitie ai de ta vie & of the fourteenth cen-

century, containing:
fessio ac devote ave
esum et exponendo.
Marie. 3. Carmen
a On vellum. Small

century, containing:
mensis Episcopi Medi-Soliloquiorum anime terium abbreviatum per stinus matri suæ comtiones post Psalterium.
with small illuminated
rders.

A part of the romance
"La branch si comme
lu miel," and "C'est si
" A MS. of the four-
octavo.

meditation de la croix pteur Jhesu Crist que speculer en filant sa composee par maistre ille. (In verse.) A MS.
cribed in imitation of a avo.

h century, containing:
a Papam liber de vitis Nomina Episcoporum
hecia Sibille Tiburtine idscriptum). 4. Incipit gestorum, i.e., personis, ilæ Chronologicæ. On is de diversis modis ver-Versificatori. A MS. of

m. Small quarto.

h century containing, 1.
ou la Somme le roy, qui (etc. par Frère Laurent olophon: Ce livre compila
e des precheurs A la re-ilippe Et fut escriis cis ostre signor mil cciiij^{xx} et ez pour celui qui lescrit.
Caxton, and printed by e Royal Book, or a book saintimes dons dou saint
See ante, No. 130.

du Duc Philippe de Bour-
7. A MS. of the fifteenth arto. With an illumiornamented letters.

h century containing: 1.
Ordinem Romanum. 2.
imentis Sacerdotalibus. 4.
De Officiis. De Ordine
itam emendandam, mores-Antiste Ecclesiæ digestum.
urbis Romæ a Heronimo lominico, cum responsione cione. 7. Hettonis Basile-Libri Walafri Strabonis, ita quædam. 9. Excerpta is. 10. Excerpta de regula
On vellum. Quarto.

entis, et si mulieres peccant caudatas; et de vestibus atis in Ornatu. A MS. of vellum. Small quarto.

teenth century, containing:
Incipiunt gesta salvatoris nit theodosius magnus imetorio ponci pilate in codiciangelium pseudepigraphum

Nicomedi.) 2. In hoc codice continetur libellus Bede presbyteri de locis sacris jerusalem. On vellum.
Quarto.

251.—Chronicon breve a creatione mundi ad annum
1199. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum.
Small quarto.

252.—Ci commence Le livre qui est lorloge de sapience le quel fist frere Jean de Souhaude (sic. instead of Souhaube or Souabe) de la nation dalemaigne de lordre des freres preescheurs. Colophon: Cy fine la table du livre de lorloge de sapience. Deo gratias. J. hellevin.
A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

253.—Ci commence la vie madame Sainte Genevieve en françois proprement selonc le Latin. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

254.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1.
Incipit summa penitencie. 2. Tetrasticum prudenciæ columbe de veteri et novo testamento. 3. Incipit liber faceti (sive Moralis, poema leoninum de officiis cujusque erga Deum, alios homines et seipsum, per quendam Johannem Magistrum.) On vellum. Very small quarto.

255.—Aliqua documenta ad componendum aurum potabile pro conservatione corporis humani et ad ipsius sanitatem provocandam. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small duodecimo.

256.—Liber Karolidos de miseriis gnerre Anglicorum (tempore Caroli VII. Regis Francorum). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto. On the first page is written, Ex bibliotheca et collegio Navarre, 1624.

257.—Comedia de sponsaliciis paulini et polle senum composita a judice Richardo de venusia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small octavo.

258.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing:
1. Tractatus usurarum francisci de platea. 2. Incipit meditatio beati bonaventure de quatuor exercitiis mentalibus. 3. Incipiunt x. precepta decalogi secundum D. franciscum Mayronem ordinis minorum. 4.
Incipit tractatus usurarum editus per venerabilem patrem F. johannem de prato ordinis minorum. 5.
Incipit tractatus D. Bartoli de saxo ferrato de duobus fratribus insimul habitantibus. 6. Incipiunt additiones facte ad idem per D. baldum de perusio de hiis que expendit filius contra patrimonium patris. On vellum.
Very small quarto.

259. Le constumier de Rouen. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Duodecimo. The table at the beginning is imperfect.

260.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing:
1. Magistri Droconis de Alto Villari, Canonici Remensis, Poemata. On the first leaf is an illumination representing the crucifixion; the second has on the recto part of Psalm cxix. beginning: Letabor ego super eloquia tua, and the first poem begins on the verso, with the rubric: Beati qui esuriunt et sitiunt iusticiam. Then follow poems, De inferno et de die judicio, Contra avaros, De prelatis, De miseria paupertatis, &c. At the bottom of each page are memorative verses on various subjects, in a somewhat later hand. 2. Discussio litis super hereditate lazari et marie magdalene sororis ejus, videlicet quis eorum debeat habere eorum hereditatem. 3. Summa penitentie versificata compendiose.
4. De proprietate Feminarum (et alia). 5. Sermo de virtutibus et vitiis. On vellum. Small quarto.

261.—Lotharii diaconi, postea Innocentii Papæ III., de miseria humanæ conditionis liber. At the end is written; Ex bibliotheca conventus fratrum minorum de observantia Sti. Francisci ruthenæ, anathema furanti.
A MS. of the fifteenth century, with the book plate of Donin de la Motte. On vellum. Small quarto.

262.—Cy commence l'introduttore de medecine let cy-rurgie, pour G. de V. . . . A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

263.—A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries containing. 1. Tractatus de Vanitate rerum mundanarum. 2. Poesie Française. At the end is the autograph of Marguerite de Rohan. On vellum. Octavo.

264.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1.
C. Crispi Sallustii de conjuratione Catilinæ et de bello Jugurthino libri duo. 2. Francisci Philelphi sathirica adhortatio de exilibus gennensibus et florentinis ad illustrum Philipum Mariam Ducem Mediolani. 3. Rime Italiane. On vellum. Quarto, with ornamented initials on the first page. On the last leaf is written:
Jacobi de furnareis Sum et amicorum ejus.

265.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1.
Li livres de phisique en Roumans, par Maistre Alebran de florence. Begins: Au commencement de cest livre li dirons pour quoi il fu fait, et la ou il fu pris. Il fu fait a la requeste la contesse de prouvence qui fu mere la

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

roynede france, la royne d'engleterre, la royne dalemaigne et la contesse daniou. Et le fist maistre aletran de florence lan de lincarnacion ihesu crist mil. cc. & lvi quant elle dut venir veoir ses filles, si comme elle fist. The Countess of Provence mentioned here was Beatrix de Savoye, Consort of Raymond Berenger, the last Count of that name; her four daughters were, Margaret, Consort of Louis IX. (St. Louis) King of France; Eleanor, Consort of Henry III. King of England; Sanchette, Consort of his brother Richard, Earl of Cornwall, who was elected King of the Romans; and Beatrix, consort of Charles d'Anjou, brother of St. Louis, and afterwards King of Sicily. 2. Ci commence li livres de toutes maladies que yporas li sage senvoia a cesar lempereour (Avec la cure de garder toute manieres de vin, la cure des chevaux, et le lapidaire). On vellum. Octavo. At the end is written: Ce present livre faisant mençon de medecine et de la vertuz des pierres precieuses Est a honorable home Jehan parrault citoyen de chalon . . . fait le xxiii. jour de mars lan courant mil iiii^e soixante et quatre. On vellum. Octavo.

266.—Boece de Consolacion. (Traduction anonyme entièrement en vers). Colophon: Ci finist Boece de consolacion escript a venes es mois doctobre novembre lan Mil CCCC dix neuff, &c. Pochat. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

267.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1. Tabula privilegiorum ordinis fratrum predicatorum quam compilavit frater franciscus pipinus boneniensis ejusdem ordinis. 2. Tabula Decretalium per fratrem Nicolaum de Anesyaco de ordine fratrum predicatorum compilata. 3. Berengarii (Stedelli sive Fredoli) Episcopi Biterrensis et Cardinalis casus excommunicationis, interdicti, suspencionis et vacuitatis (?) septem librorum decretalium. On vellum. Small Quarto. Written in various hands. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry. The autograph of P. Pithou occurs in two places.

268.—A MS. of the thirteenth century containing: 1. Macer de virtutibus herbarum. 2. Sydrach de la vertu des pierres precieuses et des herbes. Ceu qui sensuit a este pris et extrait dun livre que lon apelle Sydrach et demande le roys a Sydrach de quantes manieres et de quel vertuz sont les pierres precieuses et ou se trouvent et combien sont. Sydrach Respont. On vellum. Small Quarto.

269.—Legenda Sanctorum quam compilavit frater Jacobus Januensis de ordine fratrum predicatorum. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

270.—Libellus spirituais de conflictu viciorum et virtutum. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On vellum. Small quarto. At the end is written: J. Carnificis duacensis 1477. This is not the tract attributed to St. Augustine and printed with his works under the same title. See post, No. 284, 3.

271.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. Incipit Liber soliloquiorum beati augustini episcopi De ineffabili dulcedine Dei. 2. Hic incipit speculum peccatoris. This work is sometimes attributed to St. Bernard, sometimes to Hampole. It is printed amongst the supposititious works of St. Augustine. On vellum. Small quarto. There is an illuminated initial and border at the beginning of each work. On the first page is written: Monasterij S. Petri . . . juxta Gandavum; and at the end of the volume: Hunc librum scribi fecit reverendus pater in Christo dominus philippus conaldi primus hujus nominis abbas monasterii sancti petri juxta gandavum.

272.—Guitmundus contra manicheos et berengarios hereticos de veritate sacramentorum corporis et sanguinis Christi. Begins: Ad rem his temporibus necessariam quidem sed meliori quam ego sum injungendam dilectissime frater Rogeri me vocas. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

273.—Incipit ordo Judiciarius a magistro (Tancredo a Corneto, Canonico Bononiensi) compositus. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

274.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Exercitatio dicendi, clarissimi oratoris Laurentij Valla Romani. 2. Ars bene dicendi ex Ciceronis voluminibus extracta. 3. Oratio Guariniana, in genere demonstrativo ad laudanda opera Ciceronis. 4. Argumentum sequentis orationis Demosthenis. No oration follows; the argument is that of the second Olynthiac. 5. Leonardus (Bruni) Aretinus Illustri domine baptiste de malatestis, de literis et studiis. 6. Per Leonardum aretinum fabula bochatij de tancredo principe salernitano de vulgari sermone in latinum versa. At the end of this is written. Ego Presbiter Johannes de vizardis de pergamo perfecti opus istud in mense novembris die sexto 1470. 7. Incipiunt scansiones oratoris clarissimi omniboni (leoniceni) vicentini. At the end: Hoc opusculum per me presbiterum Joannem de vizardis . . . scriptum fuit in mense Augusti, &c. On vellum. Small duodecimo.

275.—Psalterium in usum Romanæ Ecclesiæ cum canticis, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small octavo. At the bottom of the second page is written: Liber Domus Beatæ Mariæ de Macourt ordinis Carthusiensis prope Valencenas in Hannonia.

276.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1. Tractatus domini alberti magni de veris virtutibus. 2. Tractatus cecilij firmiani lactantij de opificio dei vel formatione hominis. 3. Tractatus de disputatione indeorum contra Anastasium abbatem; auctore Pascale de Roma Henricus deadoli fideliter transtulit. (Anno domini, 1258.) 4. Versus lactantij (ut creditur, sive cujusdam veteris poetæ) de fenice. 5. Tractatus sancti thome de aquino contra sarracenos. 6. Tractatus magistri oliveri longi prioris sancti bavonis in gandavo, ad venerabilis eucharistie sacramenti honorem simpliciumque sacerdotum instructionem ex originalibus doctorum scriptis collectas et in duabus partibus divisus. On vellum. Small quarto.

277.—De Humanæ vitæ conditione dialogus inter Antonium Panormitam, Guarinum Veronensem et Lamolam. (Ad Alphonsum regem Neapolitanum auctore Bartholomæo Facio Januensi.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo.

278.—La Reigle du tiers ordre institute de Monseigneur Saint Francois approuvee et confirmee par Nicholas Pape. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Very small quarto.

279.—Magni Basilii Cesaree Cappadocie Archiepiscopi in Sanctum Martyrum Gordium Encomium (cum prologo ad Nicolaum Papam V). A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry. On vellum. Small quarto.

280.—Jeux de Société: Demandes; Explications des Mots; Tables de Hazard; Réponses. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small octavo.

281.—Il Laberinto d'Amore, Di Giovanni Boccaccio. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Small quarto.

282.—Cy commence ung petit abregie sur aulcuns pas des chroniques de france adressant a vous tres haute et trespuissant princesse madame la duchesse de bourbon Anne de france, (par Regnaud havart vostre treshumble chapellain. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Octavo. The duchess was daughter of Louis XI. and wife of Pierre, Seigneur de Beaujeu, afterwards Duc de Bourbon. Part of her autograph is still visible on the first page.

283.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1. Historia daretis frigii de bello troiano. 2. Excerpta varia et fabula. Fabula de Alexandro Magno ad regionem solis; De signis destructionis Iherusalem; De Simone Mago; De vicis gentium; De bonis moribus eorum; De Dionysio tyranno et anu; Fabula de Palumbo et annulo suo, (the original of Moore's tale of the Ring); De Aristomene Messenio; De uxore Asdrubalis; De Dumilio; De Marcia Catonis filia; Quod non sit ducenda uxor sapienti, &c. 3. Epistolæ supposititiæ Alexandri Magni. Incipit epistola Alexandri ad branmagnos; Rescriptio branmagni ad eundem; Responso Alexandri ad eundem. Rescriptio Dindimi; Rescriptio Alexandri ad eundem; Incipit epistola Alexandri ad Aristotilem de mirabilibus indie. 4. Versus Leonini. On vellum. Small quarto.

284.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, containing: 1. Incipit liber moralium de regimine dominorum qui alio modo dicitur secretum secretorum philosophorum, editus ab aristotele ad honorem alexandri regis et discipuli sui. (Per Philippum Clericum translatus). 2. Tractatus de lapidibus. 3. De conflictu viciorum et virtutum (tractatus S. Augustini). 4. De vera cordis compunctione et qualiter honori possit. 5. De triplici bono coniugij. 6. De cognitione corporis humani. 7. Hugo de Folieto de luxuria prelatorum. 8. Hystoria Hirosolymitana. 9. In nomine christi incipit liber (historicus) methodii episcopi ecclesie pat[arensis] et martyris christi quem de hebreo et greco sermone in latinum transferre curavit. 10. Descriptio sanctorum locorum circa Iherusalem. 11. Descriptio nobilissime urbis Antiochie. 12. Hec sunt urbes et maiores ville quas Karolus (Magnus) acquisivit in hispania et in galecia. 13. Sancti Bernardi Clarevallensis meditationes. At the end is written: Explicit liber fratris Daniel de

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

scripsit proprio mense Septembri, stredi de harveng
i Foyllalij, Fratres ecclesie. 14. Ex-et Bernardi. On

ntury containing:
1. The first rubric ditione possiden-s herbarum secun-virtutibus, et de entury, written in 2. entury, partly in ermones magistri

e officis Predica-he end are three nces. On vellum.

de virginite. A
lum. Small folio.
ibri de excellenti-um Carolum juni-
fifteenth century,
ellor d'Aguesseau;
of M. Perrin de
3. On the first
; and prefixed to notices calligra-L'Abbé Rive."

ntury containing:
Musica Antiqua.
on inepta (Versus
io.

of the fourteenth
cto. Prefixed is rious illumination ical instruments.
l insignem virum tinum de re uxoria
fifteenth century.
nated initial on the

ntury, containing:
constantinopolitani am fidei articulis
o scire, factusque
scribitur via salutis

Georgius hermo-duxit. Græce et epistle: Georgius a Christo patri et ntistiti parisiensi nostiche, Græce et no interprete. 3.
ine, eodem inter-
with several illu-foot of the first monst, Bishop of is inscribed.

scilicet: Catonis,
henis, M. Antonii,
e. Græco in La-
o. A M.S. of the arto, with orna-

ntury, containing:
ystoriales Veteris
omnem materiam
Reverendo fratre emitarum Sancti riste Tabule ex-bris 10 Kal. mil-
2. Tabula super nbaridi), per alfae Perusio, ordinis
XII. On vellum.
af wanting at the ntury, written in ipit suma intro-

o ecclesie a bonamonici professore ionibus ab eodem
Small folio. On lern hand: Pro-

ntury, containing:
itaque qualitate

Theodorici Regis Gothorum. 2. Incipiti liber beati augustini de vera religione. 3. Tractatus Sancti Augustini Episcopi. 4. Liber Sancti Augustini Episcopi de diversis heresibus ad Quodvultdeum Diaconum. (Cum epistolis præviis Quodvultdei ad Augustinum et Augustini ad Quodvultdeum). 5. Commonitorium beati Augustini Episcopi de heresi manicheorum sub execratione anathematis. 6. Ad Aurelium Carthaginensem et Augustinum Yponensem episcopos Scripta salutaria plena caritale. 7. Tractatus Sancti Augustini ad penitentes. 8. Excerpta varia. On vellum. Small folio.

298.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1.
Legenda Sanctorum; imperfect at the beginning. This is not the work of Jacobus de Voragine. 2. Fabulae Antiquae. 3. Incipit liber dialogorum sancti gregorii pape urbis romane. With a table prefixed. 4. Incipit Bestiarius. On vellum. Folio.

299.—Les Coustumes de Bretagne. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

300.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns, and formerly "Sancte Marie de Cam-berone," containing: 1. Hugonis (de Folieto) prioris sancti laurentij de Claustro anime libri quatuor. 2.
Incipit libellus magistri hugonis ad fratrem Rainerium corde benignum qui columba deargentata inscribitur (cum figuris). 3. Editio gaufridi monemutensis de dictis Merlini Ambrosii. On vellum. Quarto.

301.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing: 1.
Le Testament mestre Jehan de Meun. 2. Le Songe d'Enfer, ou Voyage d'Enfer; par Raoul de Houdanc.
This poem is printed in Jubinal, Mystères inédits, tom.
ii. pa. 384, but the conclusion there given differs from that of the present copy. On vellum. Quarto.

302.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly belonging to Filippo Butigelli, and to H. Drury, containing: 1. Incipit historia alexandri pueri magni regis macedonie (quæ sub Æsopi vel Callisthenis fertur nomine, interprete Julio Valerio). 2. Epistola Presbiteri Johannis ad Emanuelem Imperatorem. On vellum. Small folio.

303.—Magistri galteri dicti de castilioni de gestis Alexandri magni regis macedonum libri X., with marginal notes to the first three books. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

304.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, containing: 1.
Tractatus de sacramento altaris; de sacramento penitentie; quid sit penitentia; de consecratione ecclesie et sacramentis ejus. Imperfect at the end. 2. Summa Sententiarum domini Hugonis (de Sancto Victore).
Ends:—no posset peccare sicut ipse adam si persisteret in obedientia. The remainder is wanting. On vellum.
Small folio. At the foot of the first page is written:
liber sancti salvatoris monasterij Etyammensis.

305.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, written in double columns, containing: 1. Ci se commence La vie sainte Marguerite la virge, commant ele fu martyrie, et commant ele souffri mort pour nostre seigneur
Jhesucrist et se combati au tyran et vainqui lou monde.
(Translated from Theotinus). 2. Meditations et prieres.
3. Prieres en vers. 4. Ci commence la chante pleure.
5. Ci commence la sinification de la messe. 6. Meditations sur le psaume Miserere mei deus secundum magnam misericordiam tuam. 7. Meditations sur la passion de nostre Seigneur. 8. Ci commence li romans de moralitez. 9. Ce sont les paroles que saint bernard disoit en orisons a la douce dame de paradis en remembrance de la douce soffrance & de la passion nostre seigneur jhu crit. On vellum. Quarto.

306.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns, containing: 1. Sequitur tractatus de potestate Regia et Papali (Magistri Johannis Parisiensis Ordinis Prædicatorum). Colophon: Explicit tractatus de potestate regia et papali deo gratias. To which is added in a somewhat later hand: Compositus a fratre golranj. Liber iste est ad usum fratris gulielmj Jacquelinj, Quem fecit scribi per dominum Anthoni-um vachier presbiterum. 2. Tractatus de jure laicorum. 3. De spiritali potestate. 4. Incipit tractatus sen libellus de clerico et milite. On vellum. Quarto.

307.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, containing:
1. Venerabilis Hildeberti primo Cenomanensis Episcopi, deinde Turonensis Archiepiscopi, Epistolæ quædam.
Imperfect at the beginning. 2. Ejusdem liber de querimonia et conflictu carnis et spiritus seu animæ. In prose and verse. On vellum. Small quarto. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry.

308.—Incipiunt sermones fratris Petri Remensis ordinis prædicatorum, de festis. A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns, and formerly

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

belonging to the Monastery of S. Maria de Parco at Louvain. On vellum. Quarto.

309.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in the years 1471 and 1472, and containing: 1. Incipit brevis tractatus et compendiosa introductio cognoscendi gradus consanguinitatis et affinitatis per fratrem Nicolaum de Padua. 2. Compendium valde perutile quod composuit Fr. Franciscus de Platea ordinis Minorum quod continet quibus modis debitum (conjugale) reddi debeat. 3. Incipit tractatus nobilis de ornatu mulierum editus a . . . magistro antonino ordinis predicatorum archiepiscopo florentino. 4. Quædam disputatio de ornamentis mulierum . . . determinata tempore Eugenii pape IV. 5. Clementis pape epistolæ de vadentibus in Alexandriam. 6. Tractatus circa materiam contractuum. 7. Conclusiones contra exigentes gabellas a clericis. 8. Incipit brevis tractatus compositus per venerabilem fratrem Ludovicum de Pitano ordinis minorum super septem vicia. 9. Qualiter potest vendi ad credentia, tractatus. 10. De livellis quoad an talis contractus est licitus. 11. Consilium in materia livellorum domini Alexandri del Nevo. 12. Tractatus de restitutionibus Magistri Antonini de florentia ordinis predicatorum. 13. Declarationes ejusdem. 14. Tractatus de significatione manus et digitorum. 15. Tractatus magistri Nicolai de Anglia ordinis predicatorum super casus de impretio venetorum. 16. Alique questiones preposite in capitulo generali parisiis celebrato anno domini 1269, coram magistro ordinis Predicatorum. 17. De gentibus quas vicit Alexander in partibus orientis; de mirabilibus, &c. 18. De insula Sardinie & aliis insulis. 19. Vita Sanctorum. 20. Comenza la legenda de s. barlam e de s. josphato. 21. Epitaphium domini Mastini de la Scalla. Epitaphium domini Johannis de vice comitibus archiepiscopi et domini Mediolani. 22. Vita Sancti Zenonis Veronensis. 23. Descriptio urbis Romæ. 24. De Juliano episcopo cenomanensi. On vellum. Small quarto.

310.—A MS. of the seventeenth century (N. Jarry, Paris scribebat 1653), containing: 1. Elevations a Dien pendant la messe; with a miniature frontispiece of St. Paul. 2. Vespres des Morts; with a miniature frontispiece of Ste. Thays. 3. Salutations a La Vierge Marie; with a miniature frontispiece of St. Paul. 4. L'Evangile de St. Jean, Latine; with a miniature frontispiece of St. John. 5. L'Office du Saint Esprit; with a miniature frontispiece of St. Jerome. 6. Oraison de S. Appolline; with a miniature frontispiece of Ste. Apolline. On vellum. Small 24mo.

311.—Les sept Pseumes de la Penitence; with a miniature frontispiece of David. A MS. of the seventeenth century; N. Jarry, Paris scribebat 1653. On vellum. Small 24mo.

312.—Examples of simple Latin verbs and their compounds, with the French equivalents. "Par M. le President de Perigni pour Monseigneur Le Dauphin" (son of Louis XIV.) qui s'est servi de ce livre, 1667. A MS. of the seventeenth century; Ecrit par Estienne Damoiselet, 1667. On vellum. Small octavo. 2 vols. Each page has a gold line border. In the original crimson morocco binding; lettered on the sides, Ad usum Delphini. In a crimson morocco case, in which are two MS. letters, one of the Dauphin, subscribed "Louis," dated "Ce 14 Aoust 1673 à St. Germain," and endorsed "A Mons^r de Bellamare;" the other a holograph of Bossuet, dated "A Versailles. 20 Nov^r 1672," addressed apparently to the Dauphin, and subscribed "J. Benigne, A. E. de Condom."

313.—Q. Horatii Flacci Opera, cum animadversionibus et notis Danielis Heinsii. Lugduni Batavorum, 1612. This is the printed edition with MS. notes, certified by M. Paulin, Paris, to be in the handwriting of Boileau. On paper, octavo, and in a green morocco case in which there is an autograph letter of Boileau, addressed to one of his brothers, containing eight lines of his 12th "Epitre, à Renaudot" which vary from those printed in his works.

314.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly belonging to P. Pithou, containing: 1. P. Ovidii Nasonis de remedio Amoris liber cum commentario. 2. Matthæi Vindocinensis Tobias, sive metaphrasis libri Tobias versibus elegiacis scripta, cum commentario. On vellum. Quarto.

315.—Breviarium monasticum secundum consuetudinem monachorum congregationis de observantia Sancte Justine seu unitatis ordinis Sancti Benedicti. A MS. of the fifteenth century, imperfect at the beginning. On vellum. Small quarto. Formerly belonging to the Congregation of St. Justine at Padolirone, afterwards to Cardinal Richelieu, and to Cardinal Levis, Archbishop of Arles. The arms of both cardinals are emblazoned in the book.

316.—In Canticum Canticorum eruditissimus Commentarius Reverendi Patris F. Thomæ, Cisterciensis Monachi. A MS. of the fourteenth century, written in double columns, and formerly "Liber sancte marie de trois fontaines." On vellum. Small folio. This commentary was printed at Paris by Jodocus Badius, in 1521. In 1653 a Minorite had the work printed at Rome, with the name of Joannes Duns Scotus, as the author; but upon complaint by the representative of the Cistercian Order, the Roman authorities decided that the authorship belonged to Thomas Cisterciensis, and forbade the work to be issued without his name.

317.—Chroniques des Roys de France autrefois faites en latin par frere Guillaume de Nangis, moine de leglise de S. Denis, et puis translatees en francoys par ie meme. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

318.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, formerly belonging to P. Pithou, containing: 1. Auli Persii Flacci Satyræ cum commentario. 2. Dionysii Catonis Ethica, seu Disticha de Moribus, cum Commentario. On vellum. Quarto.

319.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing: 1. Liber Faceticie (Johannis Magistri). See ante No. 254, 3. 2. Versus de Officiis Sacerdotum. 3. De Officio Sacerdotis (in prose). 4. Versus morales et memorativi de variis rebus. 5. Galfridi de Vino Salvo Anglici, Poetria (cum notis). Colophon: Explicit poetria composita a magistro galfrido de vino salvo de coloribus retoricis. On vellum. Quarto.

320.—Statuta Confraternitatis Penitentium Nigrorum Avenionensium. Italice et Gallice. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, formerly in the library of the Marquis de Fortia d'Urban, with an illumination of the Crucifixion, damaged. At the end is the autograph confirmation of these statutes in 1594 by François Marie de Taurusius, Archbishop of Avignon, afterwards Archbishop of Sienna, and Cardinal. On vellum. Small folio.

321.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. S. Johannis Climaci, sive Scholastici, Scala Paradisi; e Greco in Latinum, translata per Ambrosium Traversarium Camaldulensem. Cum vita auctoris a Daniele Monaco sub compendio scripta. 2. Ejusdem liber ad pastorem, in quo agitur qualis esse debeat rationalium ovium pastor, eodem interprete. 3. S. Ephrem Syri Sermones, Latine versi ab eodem Ambrosio Traversario. Cum Epistola ad Cosum de Medicis de nobilitate libri hujus. On vellum. Quarto. An ornamented border to the first page, and many ornamented initials throughout. At the end is written: Antonius Marii filius Florentinus civis atque notarius transcripsit, Florentiæ viii. idus Octobris, MCCCCX.

322.—A MS. of the fourteenth century containing: 1. Incipit Ysagoge Johannis ad Tegni (sive artem parvam) Galieni cum commentario. 2. Incipit liber Anaphorismorum Ypocratis, cum commentario. 3. Incipit liber Prognosticorum Ypocratis. 4. Incipit liber de Urinarum differentia a voce Th[er]eophili. 5. Carmina de urinarum judiciis (Ægidii, monachi corbeiensis). 6. Incipit Conscrip[ti]o Philareti de pulsibus. 7. Isaac Ben Salomon Israeli, Liber dietarum universalium ex Arabico versus per Constantinum Africanum montis Cassinensis monachum. 8. Ejusdem Dietarum particularium, libri II, eodem interprete. 9. Ejusdem Viaticum, eodem interprete. 10. De Egritudinibus tractatus. 11. Isaac Ben Salomon Israeli, Liber de Urinis, Constantino Africano interprete. On vellum. Quarto. At the end is a collection of medical recipes.

323.—Sonnets sur la passion de Nostre Seigneur. A MS. of the seventeenth century, with a tinted drawing of the subject of each sonnet.

324.—Psalterium cum Canticis et Litaniis, calendario præmisso. The Psalter is imperfect at the beginning, and two leaves of the Calendar are wanting. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns, with many ornamental initials and capitals in camaieu gris; formerly "Bibliotheca B. M. Boni Portus." On vellum. Folio.

325.—A MS. of the twelfth century containing: 1. Satyræ, Epigrammata et poemata varia. 2. Prophetia Sibyllæ Tyburtina. On vellum. Small folio. From Montell's collection.

326.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, with three illuminations and many borders, containing: 1. Traite des fruits de la tribulation. 2. Cy apres sensuit examen de conscience pour congnoistre quest pechie mortel et veniel et les circonstances diculx. 3. Cy

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

les deceptions
At the end an account of La paternostre from an old MS.
Jesuits' College
g, Seigneur du action.
eophile, pour sa
the sixteenth

minorum secun-
A MS. of the uarto. Written nations in the on of the Mass but apparently t, and Flanders.
prefixed, which nged to another

y containing: 1.
i Peraldi). See s Sanctæ Script. On vellum.

y containing: 1.
commento. 2.
de Causis pro-
3. Ejusdem de de sompno et te de vita liber.
nimæ. 8. Ejus-
uo. 9. Ejusdem
ustodia dietæ et ; cum epistola ween the end of are four leaves
ma, de memoria, is. 11. Ejusdem
m quosdam. 12.
vita animalium.
rum. 14. Liber
et vigilia. 15.
tiam Rasis. 16.
Quarto.

trum Minorum,
A MS. of the g a leaf or more
t. Quarto.
f the fourteenth with small orna-nning and endmmes gardes de t toute fois que uvais a sur nous
t cest la v^e raison
ent. . . . Ends:
miex faire leur
l est dit se propre
doir. On vellum.

tus et des Vices.
vellum. Quarto.
y, containing: 1.
Sermo de Amore
e Dei. 3. Narra-
o. Fuit quidam
ara vobis narrat.
um vir nobilis in s fuit. 5. Visio isdem Paulus per a vellum. Small holastica. A MS.

double columns.

De tutelis. Scire
s dari non possunt
3. of the thirteenth

ury containing: 1.
tre saulves; La ranslatez de Latin emens de la loy;
ifiance des quatre
sainte Marguerite acree. 5. Prieres.
inte a La Vierge.
it faire Jaquet de Quarto. At the end of the volume is written: De Nicolas Moreau

S^r d'Auteuil. A lamy son cœur.

338.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1.
Alphabetum Narrationum (per quemdam Arnulphum compilatum). In the prologue of the MS. the author mentions that he has compiled a work entitled "Alphabetum Auctoritatum." 2. Compendium Mirabilium.
The last leaf is mutilated. On vellum. Quarto. The MS. belonged formerly to Notre Dame de Thenaille; afterwards to Frater Reginaldus Mension.

339.—S. Augustini Hipponensis Confessionum libri
XIII. Imperfect, wanting cap. i.-vij. and part of cap. viij. of lib. I. A MS. of the fourteenth century written in double columns. On vellum. Folio.

340.—Cy comence le livre des histories d'orient lo quel compila frere haycon seigneur du cort, cosin germain au roi dermenie, par le commandement del apostoille mon segneur Clement pape quint on lan noster segneur mil treis centz et vii. ans meins daugust en la cite de Poitiers de Realme de Fraunce. Imperfect. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
Small folio.

341.—P. Ovidii Nasonis Metamorphoseon libri, cum commentario. Imperfect, wanting the whole of Book I., excepting the last ten lines. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. At the end is written: Istum librum emit magister Jo. guillart a dyonisio librario anno domini millesimo cccc^o die dominica ij mensis marcij; below which occurs the name Jo.
de bosco. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry.

342.—Incipit liber Macrobbi de exponendo Somnio Scipionis. A MS., with diagrams, of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. Formerly in the libraries of P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry.

343.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing:
1. M. Manlii (vel Manilii) Poetae ad Octavianum Augustum Astronomicon libri iv. 2. Q. Serenii in morbis a capite ad pedes, per versus, editio incipit On vellum. Quarto. At the end is written: Scriptus præpropere ac festine a me peregrino alio ferrarie, Mccccxi. On the first leaf is written: Liber D. Grimani Cardinalis S. Marci; and below, M. Patriarchæ Aquileiensis. The first name is that of Dominique Grimani, Cardinal of St. Marc and Patriarch of Aquileia; the second is probably that of one of his nephews, Martin or Marc Grimani, who succeeded him in the patri-archate. The volume has been in the libraries of
P. Pithou, the President Le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry.

344.—Livre qui se dist le somme abregiet de theologie fait et compose par tres excellent docteur en theologie de lordre des freres prescheurs albert le grant archevesque de ratispone comme on dist communement.
A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns, "Ex bibliotheca minimorum guichiensium."
On vellum. Large folio.

345.—Incipit primum volumen Epistolarum sancti Hieronimi (continens epistolas LXXX., cum tractatu de musica ad Dardanum). A MS. of the twelfth century, with drawings of musical instruments, and written in double columns with ornamented initials. On the first page occurs: Liber Monasterij Beate Marie Eboracensis.
On vellum. Folio.

346.—La ystoyre et le livre fais et gestes du illustrissime puissant et magnanime Guerin Meschin, prince de Tarente, duc de duras et dalbanie (Traduit de L'italien et amplifié) par Frere Jehan de Rochemeure religieux de saint anthoine en vincy, et de sa main escript. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On paper. Large folio, 2 vols.
The translation in the present MS. is entirely different from that which has been printed. It is increased to perhaps double the extent of the original romance, of which Signor Giuseppe Berta, in his edition "con note," Milano, 1841, says: "Il 'Guerino,' lo dico
"senza tema di errare, è una di quelle poche opere
"litterarie che non hanno che la forza del loro merito
"intrinseco per farsi strada attraverso i secoli o cres-
"cere sempre più nella stima dell' universale. Il
" 'Guerino' divenne quindi opere popolare assai, e
"direi che in Italia non fu libro così popolare fino all'
"apparizione dei 'Promessi Sposi' di Manzoni."

347.—Chroniques et Histoire de Liege depuis la prise de Troye jusque en l'an quinze cens septante par Jean D'Oultre Meuse et autres. A MS. of the sixteenth century, written in double columns. On paper. Large folio. The following note occurs on a fly-leaf: MS. inédit de Jean de Preis dit Oultremense, nottaire et audienchier et par la grace de Diez et delle majestei

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

imperialle noble conte Palatine, né en 1338, mort ver 1399.

348.—Le Songe du vieil Pelerin adresse au blanc faulcon pelerin au becq et piez dorez. (Par Philippe de Mazieres, Chancelier de Chypre). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Large folio.

349.—Cours d'Amour par voie de demande et reponse; Les "Je vous vens;" propos joyeux, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

350.—Les haultz fais et emprises tresvaillans que en son tems feist et acheva Messire Jacques de Lalaing ainsne filz du Seigneur de Lalaing. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. A coloured portrait of Jacques de Lalaing is on the first page, and at the foot of the same page is written: "Cl. Chrestien filz de Florent," a former possessor.

351.—Le livre des faictz et bonnes meurs du saige Roy Charles V. roy d'iceluy nom, fait et compilé par Christine de Pizan damoiselle; accompli le desrniér jour de Novembre l'an de grace 1404. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. "Ex BB. D'Aguesseau."

351*.—Les Chroniques de Jehan Molinet, avec continuation jusqu'à 1506 par son fils Augustin. A MS. of the sixteenth century, formerly "Bibliothecæ ecclesiæ Cathedralis Tornacensis." On paper. Folio.

352.—Le Roman de la Violette (ou de Gerard de Nevers, par Gibert de Montreuil). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. This romance was edited by M. Francisque Michel, in 1834, from two MSS. in the Bibliothèque Royale. The present MS. appears to differ considerably from the printed text.

353.—D. Junii Juvenalis Satyræ. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with illuminated initials. On vellum and paper. Folio. At the end of the volume is written, "D. Cristofori."

354.—Le Roman de Theuses de Coulogne. Imperfect, wanting the first and last leaves. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. A prose version of this romance has been printed with the following title:—Histoire du Chevalier Theuses de Coulogne, par sa prouesse Empereur de Rome, aussi de son fils Gadifer, Empereur de Grece, et des trois enfans du dit Gadifer. Traduite du vieil rime Picarde en prose François. Paris, 1534.

355.—Oeuvres de Alain Chartier: 1. La belle dame sans mercy. 2. La belle dame a mercy. 3. Accusation contre la belle dame sans mercy. 4. La loyalle dame en amours nommee par Sentence. 5. La complainte maistre alain chartier et la responce baillie aux dames. 6. Coppie des lettres envoyees par les dames a maistre alain. 7. Coppie de la requeste baillie aux dames. 8. Responce sur ladite requeste. 9. La condempnacion et jugement de la belle dame sans mercy. 10. Les erreurs de la belle dame sans mercy. 11. Le lay de paix fait par maistre alain chartier. 12. Le medicament de la belle contre lamour; this piece is in a later hand. 13. Le lay de plaisance. 14. Le debat des deux fortunes damours. 15. Vers.—Soit mon cœur en dure angoisse; this also is in a later hand. 16. La sepulture damours. 17. La desserte du desloyal. 18. Devise de trois dames; in a later hand. 19. Le debat du cœur et de loeil. 20. Lettre dun amant (Rogier) a sa maitresse; this and the following piece are in a later hand. 21. La responce a Rogier par sa dame (Radegonde). 22. Lospital damours. 23. Les quatres dames, autrement nomme le joienlx de espoir. 24. Le joyeux debat de la belle bergiere et dou biau bergier; in a later hand. 25. Le Curial fait par Maistre Alain Chartier lequel il envoya a ung sien compaignon qui avoit volente de venir a court. 26. Le quadrilogue fait par Maistre Alain Chartier. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

356.—Memoire sur les droits possessoires de Marie de Bourgogne et de son mari Maximilien d'Autriche, contre les pretensions du Roy de France. (Par Jehan Doffay, ou D'Auffay.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. See post, No. 607.

357.—Anthoine de la Salle. Lystoire des amours de une dame des belles cousines de France et du tresvaillant Chevallier le sire de Saintre. Des tres loyalles amours et tres piteuses fins de Messire Flouridan chevallier et de la tres belle et bonne damoiselle Eluyde. Une addition traicte des Cronicques de Flandres. With corrections in the author's handwriting. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

358.—Le livre dez fais darmes et de chevalerie. (Par Christine de Pisan. En quatres livres.) A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly belonging to, and containing the autograph of, Charles de Croy, Comte de Chimay, Chevalier de la Toison d'Or, and sponsor to Charles V., Emperor of Germany. He died in 1521. On paper. Folio.

This work was translated into English by Caxton, and printed by him in 1449. See post, No. 378.

359.—A collection of treaties between England and France. A.D. 1200-1439. Partly in Latin, and partly in French. Some of these are not in Rymor's Fœdera, and from others printed there the text in this MS. differs. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

360.—Pieces relative to the Reformation in Germany, 1541. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. Inside the cover is inserted a small painting of St. Nicholas, of Greek art, or probably of Russian art, in imitation of the Greek.

361.—Pieces relative to the captivity of Francis I., King of France. In French. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Small folio. With four ornamented initials. On the verso of the first leaf are the arms of Francis I.; on the recto of the second those of Louis de Brézé, husband of Diane de Poitiers.

362.—Sensieut Listoire de la destruction de troye la grant (en laquelle est contenue l'arbre de la lignee de france) translatee de latin en francois et mise par parsonnaiges; compose par maistre Jaques millet, estudiant en loix en la ville dorliens. Commencee lan mil iiij^e cinquante le deux^{me} jour de septembre. Colophon: Cy fine le second volume de troie par la main Cristofle de mynden lan mil quatre cens et soixante quatorze au xv^e jour de fevrier. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

363.—Listoire de Olivier de Castille et de Artus d'Algarbe son tres loyal compaignon, traduite de latin en francois par Philippe Camus, a la requeste & commandement de Jehan de Croy, Seigneur de Chimay. Colophon: Cy fine listore de olivier de castille et de son loyal compaignon artus d'Algarbe, et de helaine fille au roy d'angleterre, et de henry filz de olivier, qui grans fais darmes firent en leurs tamps comme cy devant aves ouyt. Dieu pardoint aus trespases. Amen. Escript lan mil iiij^e iiij^{ts} et trois. A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly in the Cathedral library at Tournay. On paper. Folio. No Latin original of this work is known.

364.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Ensuit le temps perdu de maistre pierre chastellain. 2. Ensuit le temps reconvert de maistre pierre chastellain. On paper. Folio.

365.—Cy commence le livre que translata Grose noble orateur selon la sainte escripture, commençant a la creacion du monde; et fut ceste translacion faite lan iiij^e et iiij^{ts} du tems saint Augustin et saint Jherome desquelz il fut moult amez car il estoit bon clerc ne despaigne. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. On the first leaf is written: A Mademoiselle Anne de Gravelle, dame du boys, de malleherbes v^e xxj. Achete a Rouen. On the sides of the old green morocco binding, gilt, are the arms of D'Urfy.

366.—La Fiammetta di Giovanni Boccaccio. Colophon: Finito il libbro chiamato Eligia di madonna Fiammetta scripto per me lorenzo di ser Benvenuto de benvenuti da san gemignano e compiuto ad 23 dicembre nel m cccc^o xlvij. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Large quarto. With illuminated initials.

367.—Cy commence le quart et derrenier volume des croniques de maistre Jehan froissart par lui compilees en continuant sa matiere de tamps en tamps (1389-1400). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

368.—Lapidaire et Peinture sur Verre, en quatre livres, par Jehan dit D'Oultre-Meuse, anno 1390. Colophon: Desen boc is gescreven en wulhent bij mij Jan van Dixmude den xliij^e hoymaent anno xv^e en twintich. Toujours loyal J. Dixmude. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. In green morocco binding, with five circular pieces of painted glass inserted in the covers.

369.—Le livre et traitiez de la vie euvres passion et mort de nostre seigneur Jhesucrist. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. At the end of the table is written: Donne au nonniau convent des povres soers de sainte Clare de par Monseigneur andreu de rineck lan mille cccclxxxj. prijes pour ly.

370.—Advenues de plusieurs choses dignes de memoire en Flandre. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Large quarto.

371.—Tractatus varii de Astronomia, cum libello Telephori de schismate et tribulationibus. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

372.—Collectanea ad genealogiam, privilegia et possessiones Ducum Lotharingæ et Brabantie spectantia, ad annum 1445. In Latin, Dutch, and Flemish; but chiefly Latin. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Folio.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

... containing:
te de latin en
Colophon: Cy
te de latin en
ent . . . prince le premierfait, st cinq. 2. Le in en francois tres excellent
Duc de berry.

-1380. A MS.
lio. The name
curs at the end.
A MS. of the Quarto. For-

la belle Sidoine. anthus. Johan-
fteenth century.
nslation of this
e in 1511.
eolus in francois de Therouane).
per. Folio. The 1: Lamentationes containing: 1. Le atio qui parle de u Roy Modus et rle des gens des e les batailles des coloured drawings.

in Libraire, Art.
Modus et Ratio de ranslaté de Latin vers 1506). Traité tété, &c. On paper.

de chevalerie, par ontaining only the en and ink drawing century. On paper.

entury, containing:
ou dialogue entre
as secres des femmes, et est defendu de
t pere le pape sur
etale Ad meam doc-
pa. 250, where the ariniaco. On paper.

andeville, chevalier.
chevalier, passay la
ij. et fu partout ou fteenth century. On et maniere comment s et lordre comment duit. With drawings

fteenth century. On d French families. A paper. Folio.

erum et Orationum.
On paper. Folio.
la glorieuse et engois-su Crist en recitant les teurs. A MS. of the
Folio.
et en vers, par Pierre
fteenth century. On

Imperatorum, Regum, orum presulum. Petrus tes, Duces et Pontifices manorum. Julius—Fre-ria Regum Latinorum
nglie. Brutus—Hen-been added in a later Liedericus—Philippus
ricus—Philippus. The added in a later hand
—Karolus VIII. 9. Duces
III. Joannes IV. and a later hand. 10. Duces
p. Carolus has been added e fteenth century, with s, and written in double

387.—Les Constumes de la Salle de Lille. Chy sensieient les lois des pers dou castel le lille et les enquestes quierquies diaus et les jugemens et les consaux fais diaus et des communs hommes de le dite court 1286-1406. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper.
Folio.

388.—Inventaires de l'Eglise Metropolitane de Tours
1539. 1. Inventore des Joyaulx, precieulx reliquiaries enchassez en argent et argent dore et autrement de la tres saincte et metropolotaine eglis de Tours, 1539.
Par Loys Bauge, Jehan Tremblrier laisne et Gabriel le Royer. 2. Inventore des comptes des bourses de leglise de Tours . . . Par Jehan Tremblrier laisne, 1539. 3.
Inventore des registres capitulaires trouvez au chapitre de leglise de Tours, faict par Jehan Tremblrier . . .
1539. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum.
Quarto.

389.—Platonis de Republica sive de Justitia libri X.
Latine, ex versione et cum prologo Uberti de cimbris de Viglievano. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Folio.

390.—Boece de Consolation mis en Roumain par Frere Renaut de Louens. Colophon: Chils roumans fu coppyes ou chastel de boussut par le main de hanni buisseret, clerc, lan mil cccc. et trentesiept. Pries pour lui se vous vollez. The large initial letters of the prologue give the translator's name: Frere Renaut de Louens. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper.
Folio.

391.—Le Livre de Noble Cœur. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with many illuminations. On paper. Quarto, ff. 94.

392.—Ce est la maison de bourgongne pour troix ans composee par Robert Macquerian, simple escollier en rhetorique, natif de Valenchiennes (Beginning 1526, 7).
A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.
This is the author's autograph, with his signature at the end.

393.—Les Statuts de l'ordre de Saint Michel. "Donne en nostre chastel damboise le i. jour daoust 1469."
With additions "Donne au plessis du parc les tours le xxij jour de Decembre 1476." A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto. This is the copy presented to Charles de Bourbon, first Duc de Vendome, whose arms occur in several places.

394.—Le noble triumphe des Dames (translated from the Spanish of Juan Rodriquez by Ferdinand de Lucenne?). With a dedication to the Duke of Burgundy by Vasque Made de Villa Lobes, and a prologue by the translator. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Quarto.

395.—La malheureuse expédition Française sous la conduite de Jean, Comte de Nevers, fils aîné du Duc de Bourgogne, à l'aide de Sigismond Roi de Hongrie, contre Bajazet Sultan des Turcs, en 1396. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

396.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1.
Cy commence Le debat de la damoiselle et de la bourgoyse. 2. Cy commence apres la confession de la belle fille. 3. Les Quatre Dames (par Alain Chartrier). On paper. Quarto.

397.—La grante desloyaulte et grans trahisons ad-venues ou Royaume dangleterre et par especial encontre le roy Richard dangleterre filz au vaillant prince do galles, mis en prose par Jehan lebeau jadis chanoine de saint lambert du liege. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Small folio.

398.—La droite hystoire du Saint Graal abregiee pour cause de la myeux retenir en memoire et pour eschouer prolixite de parolles qui engendrent souvent ennuyez lisans. The following description occurs in the preface to the table of contents: . . . ce present livre .
est appelle le saint graal ou quel on pourra veoir . . .
et entendre la vraye ystoire du digne et saint graal cest a scavoir comment il fu trouve premierement et qui le trouva et quelle chose cest. Et apres les grans et merveilleux miracles que nostre seigneur Jhesucrist monstra en cest monde par la vertu et dignitedudit saint graal qui est une moult belle hystoire. Et y est demonstre la premiere constitucion des troys tables rondes qui furent.
establies en ce monde . . . et apres y sera parle de la grant noblesse et puissant prouesse du vaillant roy Arthus et des vaillans chevalliers de la table ronde qui furent les plus renommes de tous aultres et aussy des nobles fais darmes et grans prouesses de messire lancelot du lac qui fut . . . le plus vaillant chevallier du monde . . . jusques ad ce que de luy issit le bon chevallier Galaad son filz lequel fut grandement melleur chevallier que lancelet son pere car celluy Galaad fut chaste et vierge toute sa vie, &c. Colophon: Explicit lystoyre du St. graal escripte a Bruges lan mcccclxxix de la main de loys Daymeries. On the last page is written: Je suis aperten'a ysembert Rolin a present bailliy Daymeries. And in a later hand: et a present appertiens a Mons. de Veusels chanoine de Tournay par don de ^{M^{lle}} Jehenne de bouillement vefve de Mons^r. Anthoine de Roysin . . . dame du Chasteler. A^o. 1568. A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly in the Cathedral Library at Tournay. On paper. Folio.

399.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. Ci sensient le testament maistre Jehan de meunn. 2. Ensient le tractiet du roussignol oyelet amoureux (translated from the Latin of John Hoveden). On paper. Folio. Formerly belonging to, and bearing the autograph of, Jehan le Feron de Charleville.

400.—N. a Prato Emblematum liber, ad Antonium a Burgo Franciæ Cancellarium. A MS. of the fifteenth century, formerly in M. D. Petit's collection. On paper. Quarto.

401.—Francisci Barbaro Veneti ad Laurentium de Medicis Florentinum Civem de Re Uxtoria liber. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

402.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. Epicedium sive lamentatio Karoli septimi victoriosissimi regis Francorum (Gallice). 2. La pacience de grizelidiz, laquelle ystoire translaite de lombart en latin ung tres vaillant poeete appelle francois petraih (Petrarch) dont Dieu ait lame. On paper. Quarto.

403.—La premiere creation et institution de lordre de la thoyson dor en la ville de Bruges le x^e jour de janvier 1429 (avec la succession des chevalliers jusqu' a la xxij^e feste et chapitre de lordre en 1556). With the arms of the knights in colours. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

404.—Tractatus de Sphæra. With diagrams. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Small folio.

405.—Pieces relating to French History in 1418 and 1419. 1. Cest ce qui fut advise sur le fait touchant le cas advenu en la personne de feu Monseigneur le Duc dorleans dont Dieu ait lame. 2. Lettres faites sur la paix concordee a saint mor des fosses ou mois de Septembre lan mil cccc et dix huit. 3. Copie des lettres du traictie de la paix faite entre monseigneur le daulphin et feu monseigneur de Bourgoigne, xj juillet mil cccc xj. 4. La confirmation du traictie de la paix entre feu monseigneur de bourgogne et monseigneur le daulphin faite a pontean pres de mehun et abolition generale le xj jour de juillet lan mil cccc et xix. 5. Sensuit la teneur des lettres envoiees de par le Daulphin en plusieurs lieux de ce royaume faisant mention de la mort dudit feu monsg^r de Bourgoigne. 6. Charles, par la grace de dieu roy de France, a nos chiers et biens amis les . . . habitans de Paris. (A letter relative to the proceedings of Charles "soi disant regent de nostre royaume.") 7. Abstinence de guerre entre monsg^r le duc de Bourgoigne et le Roy Charles de France. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

406.—Cy commence Bocce de confort en francois (traduction de Jehan de Meun). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

407.—Pieces relating to the History of France, Flanders and the Empire, 1418—1540. 1. La mort du Duc Jehan de Bourgoigne. 2. Lettres de defiance envoyees par les trois freres dorleans apres la mort de leur pere Lois duc dorleans a Jehan duc de Bourgoigne. 3. Advis baillie au Roy des romains en sa jeunesse sur le fait de la gaerre par feu le S^r de la Marche. 4. Traicte de paix entre le roy des romains et ceux du pays de Flandres. 5. Accord de la reduction des monnoies par les ambassadeurs et deputs de Flandres. 6. Comment Monsg^r Larchiduc Philippe fist serment de fidelite au roy de France lan 1419. 7. Instructions et memoires a nostre lieutenant general en Italie le duc de Bourbonnois et avecq lui le conte d'entremont nostre vice roy de Naples pour parvenir a une bonne paix entre nous et le roy de France presentement detenu en nostre pouvoir. Donne en nostre ville de Madrich le 28 jour de mars 1525. Ainsy signe Charles. 8. Copie dune lettre escript par lempereur a Madame la regente mere du roy Francois de France. 9. Copie dune lettre escript par le roy de France a lempereur. 10. Accord et reduction de la ville de Tournay a Mons^r de Nassou au nom de lempereur, 1 dec. 1521. 11. Paix faite par lempereur et le Roy de France par leur propres personnes a aigemorte en provençe, lan 1538. 12. Traicte de paix fait entre lempereur Charles et le Duc de Gheldres, Oct. 1528, en la ville de malines. 13. La Prinse du roy Francois envoyee au roy de Hongrie par messire george de Franchbourg, capitaine general des Lantsknets estant en Italie pour lempereur, contenant entierement la declaration de la bataille devant payve advenue le jour de saint mathias, 22 de Fevrier 1524. 14. Lettres de lempereur escriptes a la royne regente de la defaictie de Barberouse et prinse de Thunes. 15. Descente de lempereur et son armee devant la goulette ou la grande ville de carthaige. 16. Arrest de parlement donne contre Monsieur (Jaques de Beaulne, Baron) de St. Blanchet, 12 aoust 1527. 17. Plusieurs advenues du temps passe. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Small folio.

408.—Sommaire Chronique d'Arthois, par Franchois Bauduin (Jusqu'en 1541). Begins: La Gaule par tous les cosmographes est divisee en trois parties. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto. From Monteil's collection.

409.—Ly Trespas du Seigneur de Bierlemont. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

410.—A MS. of the thirteenth century, containing: 1. De Sancto Eustachio. Begins: Eustachius antes placidus vocabatur, hic erat magister militum tyrani imperatoris. 2. De Sancto iudoco. Begins: Bis seni patres romanos visere sanctos simul egressi quondam . . . 3. Vita beate margarete. Begins: Post resurrectionem domini nostri ihesu cristi et post gloriosam eius in celis ascensionem ad deum. On vellum. Small folio.

411.—Traitez des langues estrangeres, de leurs alphabets et des chiffres, composez par le Sieur (Francois) Colletet. Paris, 1660. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

412.—A MS. of the fifteenth century containing: 1. La vie Saint Witasse. 2. Ce sont le vij. pseaulmes (de penitence) en Roumant. 3. Comment on doit faire confession . . . valable pour lame et pour le corps. 4. Orisonz a Jhesus Crist en cas de tribulacions ou adversites perilleuses pour lui ou pour autrui. 5. Cathon en Francois par Jean Le Fevre. 6. Livre de Cathon (autre traduction). On paper. Quarto. On the first page is written, Aux Celestins D'Amiens; and on the last leaf, Cest livre chy est a Jaques de bonneval, qui le trouvera bon vin ara, qui le reterra malfait fera, &c.

413.—A MS. of the end of the eighteenth or beginning of the nineteenth century, containing: 1. Lettres du Marquis de * * * a Monsieur de * * * recueillies par M^r de Rossel, ancien capitaine de vaisseau des armees navales. 3 tom. With drawings in Indian ink, of which a few in vol. 1 are by Barbier; the rest are by Rossel, and are very rude. An engraved portrait of Rossel is prefixed to vol. 1. 2. Tableau moral des differentes scenes de la vie de l'homme mis en principes et en actions par des allegories et des traits d'histoire correspondans a chaque article, par M. De Rossel. The designs to this volume are wanting. Another copy of the engraved portrait is prefixed. On paper. 4 vols. Octavo.

414.—Les campagnes de Louis XV. le victorieux et le bienaime, representees par des figures allegoriques avec une explication historique. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo. The name of the author has been erased.

415.—Antonini Archiepiscopi Florentini de restitutionibus liber. Apparently part of a collection. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

416.—A collection of treatises on Hermetic Philosophy, translated from the Latin, French, and German into Italian. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. 3 vols. Quarto.

417.—Fragmens de la vie du Comte de Grammont (par le Comte Antoine Hamilton). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. 2 vols. Quarto.

418. Recueil de Roisin et de plusieurs autres auteurs touchant l'antiquité, la jurisdiction, exemptions, privileges, de la ville de Lille. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

419.—Gotifredus sive Hierosolyma vindicata Torquati Tassi carmen heroicum Italicum divinum, Latinis Musis jam pridem debitum aliquando tandem redditum, opera Leopoldi Curtij, Veneti Patritij (1728.) A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

420.—Despatches from the Venetian fleet sent into the Morca after the revolt in 1690. Italian. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

421.—Poemetti del Cavalier Giovambatista da Lisca. 1. Il Canto fu Maestro del Snono, 1813. 2. La Gloria, Carne, 1814. 3. La Solitudine, poemetto, 1814. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Small folio. At the end are inserted three sonnets printed at Verona.

422.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Flaminii Nobilii de vera et falsa nobilitate liber. cum epistola ad Pium IV. Pont. Max. 2. Ejusdem de honore liber. On paper. Quarto.

ury, containing:
dall' eccellentisfu de S. Paulo, la di Cerigo per governo di quell'
(5). Trattato coll' li della pace tra
attato di pace tra ncluso et confer-
4. Ristretto de' ratore et il Re di
n paper. Quarto.
ies recuillis par
A MS. of the arto. See vol. I.

amingante, par M^r
the seventeenth

ury, containing: 1.
o editus a magistro
Pauli de Venetiis, stini. 3. Radulphi
rum, Coll. Mert.
ormulæ. 4. Fal-rdinis fratrum pre-the first sentence of
. On paper. Quarto.
est conventus vero-
n vers et en prose.
On paper. 4 vols.

t autres memoires
tellerie du chateau ille par Sire Simon e ville, surintendant naison, 1551. With
IS. of the seventeenth et familiere de M. de onseiller du nouveau

IS. of the eighteenth century containing: 1.

jusdem de Senectute.
Quarto.

ogici Argumenti. 1. tiones. (Not St. Anni Sancti Bernardi de beati Bernardini de cherimus. 4. Sermo
num. 5. Sermo Sancti
uomodo vivere debant.
a quodam Cartusensi.
beati Ysidori yspalensis
O inattestabilis decor ulcherima de Passione crucifixi. 10. Omelia
a stabat ad monumen-
m fratre qui a mortuis
12. Sermo venerabilis
i a mortuis resurrexit.
alde pulchra: Invoco te eati Hieronymi doctoris
o in conjugio constituta arum illecebras cognita are. 15. Sermo: [E]xulta
. 16. De villico iniquo:
od sit vilicus iniquitatis
. 17. Bonifacius papa et constricto dicenti devote es orationes indulgentias
18. Liber sancti Angus-
(Julianum) carissimum:
. 19. Liber soliloquiopi anime ad deum. 20.
ad beatum Hieronimum
do. Epistola responsiva tatus laudis vite solitarie
De falatia vite presentis, augustini episcopi de con-per versu quinto psalmi adjutorio altissimi.—Scuto
25. Tractatus Sancti Jo-penitentie. 26. Miracula papor. Quarto.
ique et detaille de toutes ans les archives des comtes l'ancienne chambre des ecueilli par M. Godefroy, garde des archives des comtes de Flandres en 1784.

The documents date from A.D. 706 to 1294. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. 4 vols. Folio. Only two other copies of this work exist, one of which is among the archives of Lille; the other belongs to the family of Godefroy, the compiler.

433.—La Somme rural colligie et somme par Jehan
Bontillier homme rural, Consellier du roy a paris.
(En deux livres, contenant sentences, jugemens, con-saulx, et arrestz, exemples, coustumes, usages, droits, et autres choses. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On paper, Large folio.
In modern red morocco binding, gilt, with fleur-de-lis on the sides and the arms of France on the front edges of the leaves. At the end of Book 2 is a copy of the author's testament, dated 16 Sept. 1402.

434.—Pindus Carmelitanus, abundans variis chrono-graphicis, acrosticis, anagrammaticisque versibus, &c.
&c. Collectus et compositus per Rev. Fratrem Ber-tholdum a S. Hieronymo, Carmeli reformati aiumnum.
A.D. 1719. Brugis. A collection of anagrams, chronograms, &c, chiefly in Latin; many of them cut from printed works, with a dedication "Aman-tissimo suo De Witte advocato, fratre amplissimi domini Abbatis Quercetani." A MS. &c. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Large folio.

435.—Comptes de recette et depense de la cour des Comtes d'Artois, annees 1297, 1298, 1306, 1316, 1317, 1333, 1334, and 1335. MSS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. On vellum. Folio. From Monteil's collection; interleaved and partly transcribed.

436.—Conference de Lille pour l'Execution de la paix d'Aix la Chapelle. 1668-1672. A certified copy. A
MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

437.—Nouvelle Orthographe Franseze, qui n'a jamais ete imprimee. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. At the end: Propositions faictes au public par Alexandre Jean, Ecrivain et Arithmeticien, de la vraie et naturelle orthographe, &c.

438.—Elogio di Luigi XVI, pronunciato nella Romana Accademia Tiberina da Gaspere Salvi, membro della medesima. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio. In red morocco binding, gilt, with the royal arms of France on the sides.

439.—Les comptes del execution du testament de feu maistre Jehan de Champigny, Chanoine de Troyes, 1399. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum.
Folio.

440. Dittier ou Collection d'anciens poemes, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Le miroure du pecheur translate par Castel, croniquer de franche.
(Son of Christine de Pisan). 2. Le livret du lax damours, ou petite et amoureuse contemplacion pour lame devote sur la passion de nostre seigneur ihesu crist. 3. Ci ensuit ung autre petit traitie presque samblable a l'autre lequel fut compile a la requeste dune personne devote.
4. Biau dittier pour les nobles. 5. Belle meditation pour penser a la mort. 6. Le manuel saint angustin:
7. Le jardin esperituel pour religieux et religieuses fort devote. 8. Le miroir des dames et des damoiselles et lexemple de toute le sexe feminin. 9. Balades pour avoir paix a dieu et au monde et pour contempner toutes richesses et pour amender sa vie. 10. Devot dittie de la noble vertu de patience. 11. Les xii. povres.
12. Tresbiau dittie de la fin de lomme. 13. Le miroir du monde sive speculum bone vite. 14. De la noble conquete de paradis en vaillamment batallier contre les vices. 15. La revelacion de la gloire de paradis ditte par saint pol lapostre au bourriau que le decola. 16. La revelacion de theophile de ce quil trouva en enfer quant it fut resuscite. 17. Autre approbation des paines denfer que raconte le laddre.
18. Un beau dittier a ce propos et pour despriser le monde. 19. Les vii. psaulmes en franchois. 20. Le debat de lomme mondain et de son compaignon qui se veult rendre religieux. 21. Lenseignement et instruction de saint pierre lappotre a simon le corier son hoste de Joppe. 22. La danse machabree. 23. La danse des femmes composee a paris. 24. La bataille des vices et vertues. 25. Devot instruction comment on doit porter la croix de Jhu crist en religion dobservance et ossi tous bons crestiens. 26. Le miroir du monde. 27. Le debat de lomme et de la femme.

Lomme dit.

Adam jadis le premier pere
Par femme encourut mort amere.

* * * *

La femme respond.

Jhesus de femme vierge et mere
Fut fait homme cest chose clere.

At the foot of fol. 256 recto, is the colophon : Explicit le debat de l'omme et de la femme. But the poem is continued on the verso :—

La femme replicque.

Les hommes se monstrent infames
En voulant diffamer les femmes, &c.

28. Rondiau de nostre dame a ce propos :
Veuillent ou non les mauldis envieux,
Pucelle suis et demourray pucelle.

29. Sensuit ung traictie par forme de quolibetz pour respondre a tous propos, compose par ung poete en son vivant de grant renom. On paper. Small octavo. A table of contents is prefixed.

441.—Menus depenses des tables de la maison royale, 1697-1699, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small octavo.

442.—Preceptes generaux concernant l'art militaire tirés des ouvrages du Chev^r Follard, du Marechal Puysegur et d'un abregé des Commentaires de Cæsar. A MS. of the 18th century. with numerous coloured plans. On paper. Octavo.

443.—Il Capitolo de Frati (di Cremona, poema bernesco composto da Sebastiano Chiesa, della Compagnia de Gesa) con la chiave in fine. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

444.—Aureoli Theophrasti Paracelsi Opera quædam. A MS. of the sixteenth century, probably an autograph of Paracelsus. On paper. Octavo. On the first leaf is written, Ex bib. Imp. Caroli quinti Invict. R. Imp.

445.—Johannis Tornorpæi commentarii de variis rebus. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

346.—Sensuit ung petit deduyt et recreation devoste par maniere de contemplation sur les euvres de nostre creature, commensant a la creacion du monde, thiray tant du viel testament que de nouveau. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

447.—Histoire de l'origine et de la destruction de Bavay dans la province de haynault. A MS. of the sixteenth century, the first leaf mutilated and the last wanting. On paper. Small octavo.

448.—Incipit ordinarius liber ex usibus diffinicionibus atque statutis ordinis nostri videlicet Cisterciensis. 1438. Colophon: Explicit ordinarium Cisterciense scriptum per fratrem Anthonium Roegiers professum in capella thosan. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

449.—Explication de quelques pierres antiques gravees et de relief, avec leurs dessins, du cabinet de son altesse serenissime Monseigneur le Comte de Clermont. (Par de Gaumond). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto. The engravings and some of the drawings are by Charles Nicolas Cochin. In green morocco binding, with the arms of Bourbon-Condé, aux ordres du roy, on the sides.

450. Les Epitres d'Horace, avec l'epitre aux Pisons ou l'art poetique, en prose Française. Fait par Louis Joseph de Bourbon, Prince de Conde. Autograph. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. In red morocco binding, gilt, with the arms of Bourbon-Condé, aux ordres du roy, on the sides.

451.—Traite sur les loix et gouvernement d'Angleterre. Par un avocat du pais. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

452.—L'Alcorano di Macometto nel qual si contiene la dottrina, la vita i costumi e le legge sue; tradotto nuovamente dall'Arabo in lingua Italiana (da Andrea Arrivabene) 1547. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

453.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Memoire sur les droits possessoires de Marie de Bourgogne, &c. (Par Jehan Doffay). See ante No. 356, and No. 607 post. 2. Epitaphe de feu Mons^r le Duc Phillippe. 3. Croniques et genealogies des Roys de Bourgoigne depuis lan xiiii apres la resurreccion nostre seigneur. On paper. Quarto.

454.—Ce livre est dit l'arbre des batailles, par honnore bonnet (ou bonnor) prieur de sallou, docteur en decret. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

455.—ΕΙΣ ΦΙΛΟΣΟΦΙΑΝ ΠΡΟΔΙΟΙΚΗΣΙΣ. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

456.—La vraie histoire et cronicque de Liege (par Jean d'Outremeuse, avec supplement jusqu'en 1419) A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

457.—MSS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, containing: 1. A collection of papers, manuscript and printed, in Spanish, Latin, and French, chiefly relating to the affairs of Spain from 1543 to 1685. 2 vols. 2. A collection of papers, treaties, proclamations, &c., chiefly in French, relating to the affairs of the Netherlands from 1348 to 1650. On paper (some pieces in the last volume are on vellum). 3 vols. Folio.

458.—Memoire sur l'etat politique des Pais Bas et sur la constitution tant externe qu'interne des provinces. (Par M. le President Patrice-Mac de Neny.) A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. Several editions of this work have been printed.

459.—Histoire et gouvernement de Lille. 2 vols. Vol. I. Inventaire de tout ce qui a rapport à l'histoire, institution et gouvernement de la ville et chatellenie de Lille. Vol. 2. Tresor general des chartes, traittez, privileges, fondations, ordonnances, sentences et reglemens pour l'administration et police de la ville et chatellenie de Lille. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

460.—Memoire sur l'etat politique des pays bas, &c. (Par le President de Neny). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. This is another copy of No. 458, ante, without the "Avis préliminaire."

461.—Breve et chiara idea del regno di Napoli et delle cose che al medesimo s'appartengono. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. A former professor has written at the commencement: Statistique exacte et détaillée remise en 1707 à Monsieur le Feld-Maréchal Comte de Daun, Vice-roi de Naples; je l'ai eu de son petit fils.

462.—Chronicon conventus Franciscani in urbe Duacena fundati ex incendiorum cinere excitatum studio et labore fratris Emmanuelis Le Preux, conventus ejusdem guardiani. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. On the first leaf is written: Remaneat in cellâ V.P. Guardiani, 1742.

463.—Plutarcho, Vite di quattordici uomini illustri greci e romani colle loro comparazioni volgarizzate. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

464.—Listoire des trois Maries, par frere Jehan de venette. Prologue begins: In nomine domini, amen. Chi commenche li prologues du livre de la sainte et haulte histore des glorieuses maries filles madame sainte anne et de ses trois maris. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On paper. Large folio. In crimson velvet binding, with bosses, and an encaused figure of the Virgin Mary in silver gilt on each cover.

465.—Chroniques de France par Guillaume de Nangis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On paper, with several vellum leaves. Large folio. The tenth leaf, on which the work begins, has a large illumination with the arms of France, and an ornamented border.

466.—Recueil des Gouverneurs, presidens, conseillers de l'epée, et autres conseillers, fiscaux et procureurs generaux qui ont parus au conseil d'Artois depuis l'institution de ce conseil jusqu'an l'an 1646. Suivie d'un recueil (de) ce qu'est passe a Arras du tems des revolutions du pais bas. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

467.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing, 1. La Vie de Messire Jacques Anguste de Thou, Chevalier, Conseiller du Roy en ses conseils d'Etat et prive, et President en sa Cour de Parlement de Paris. Traduite du Latin dudit Sieur President de Thou. 2. Apologie pour l'histoire de Mons^r le President de Thou. 1620. On paper. Folio. "Ex BB. D'Aguesseau."

468.—Original letters and papers relating to Mary, Queen of Scots. 1. Instruction au S^r de Termes allant en escosse. Du xxij jour d'avril 1546. 2. In conventu trium ordinum Scotorum habito in monasterio prope hadintonam, 7 July 1548. (A diploma giving their consent, upon certain conditions, to the marriage of Mary with the Dauphin, certified by Jacobus Makgill.) 3. Letter of Henry II., King of France, with his autograph signature, addressed "A mon cousin de Sire de Montmorancy Chevalier de mon ordre et conestable de France," relative to the return of his "armee de mer" from Scotland in a bad condition. "Escript a la Bresle" 2 Oct. 1548. 4. Articles du contract de mariage de monseigneur le Daulphin et de la Roynie descosse. 5. Minute du contract de mariage de monseigneur le Daulphin et de la Roynie descosse. 6. Les conditions du traicte de paix fait au Chateau de Cambresis entre le Roy Henry et la Roynie d'Angleterre. 7. Minute d'une lettre escripte a la roynie d'Escosse (by Paul de Foix, Archbishop of Toulouse, Ambassador from France to England, dated) Londres, xx Fevrier, 1561. 8. Letter from the Cardinal Charles de Lorraine, with his autograph signature, addressed to "Mons^r de Lymoges m^r" "des requestes de l'hostel du roy et son ambassadeur "despaigue." "De St. germain en laye xix octobre "1562." 9. Naissances des enfans du roy Henry de

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

ambassador Paul addressed "A la ed " Londres, 17 m the same to the 165." 12. Brief terre et d'Escosse nth century. On ol. II. A MS. of le columns. On are the arms of graph of Marie de

Mes et pretentions gois. Des alliances es Anglois et les et autres, contre us par les Anglois le Normandie et de aine, de Touraine, e, etc. Par Jehan a to M. de Villeroy, King of France, and A MS. of the six-entury, containing: m beati Anastatij esse . . . 3. Sym- leum omnipotentem sunt in civitate ro Sancto Sebastiano artyre Christi archi- hapter De privilegiis rcium est in ingres.

entury, containing: of Tournay ?), 18 Jan. rez Crissembiens (of 11 is a note of the Villers, 19 April 1396, m of a meeting near er avec mes segneurs

3. Chy sensieuwent s, esquieres, clerks et es, les ques assamble- la paix de France en y sensient la maniere it marche Darras le xj les chevaliers messire part et mons' Jehan est li voiaiges que you cre en Jherusalem lan de plusieurs signeurs, 6. Chest ly voiaiges que aint sepulcre de Jheru- ns apres notre premier o.

(du temps de Liederic squ'aux obseques du n M.iiij^e et iij). A MS. per. Folio. In the old amped with the Lion of "Au S^r de lahouardris." and sixteenth centuries, ung traictie compile et ice Maistre Jehan Jarson hancellor de notre Dame rs et mauvaises doctrines ou Roumant de la Rose.

Colophon: Explicit Deo ble. The same colophon id 8. 2. Cy apres sensui- nseignemens du tressaint i Crist, et comme lon peut en leglise par paresse ou es Philosophes (translated e de Tignonville). 4. Cy chea la deese envoya a ut in laaige de quinze ans. glose). 5. Cy commence sur le passion de nostre Christine de Pisan. 6. La eur translatee de Latin en isan ?) a la requeste de tres princesse Ysabel de Baviere mment les lamentacions

8. Cy comance le livre denfer et aussi des joyes de emonstre a ung chevalier nte de Dieu, lequel livre a François et extrait dun livre appelle le miroir des hystoires (de Vincent de Beau- vais). 9. Le roman de Guy de Tour (ou relation de l'apparition de Guy de Tour de la cite dalestre a sa venve en l'an 1324). 10. Petite Chronique de Bourgogne. This piece is of later date than the remainder of the volume. Colophon: Explicit par moy Robert le jeune le xxvij jour daoust lan mil v^e et quatre. Robert J^r. On paper. Folio. On the last page is written: Ce livre est a Phelippe de bois bourgeois et marchand de chalon; and, Ce livre est a Jehan et a Jehainn Robert filz de feu honorable home Olivier Robert, marchans et bour- gois de chalon.

475-6.—Le Phoenix des Armoiries ou l'unique methode pour acquerir une parfaite cognoissance de l'art heral- dique. Dedie a la Reyne du ciel par son tres humble serviteur Edme Sousselier, 1662, 1663, 2 tom. A MS. of the seventeenth century, with numerous coats embla- zoned in colours, and with the autograph signature of the author at the end of the dedication. On paper. Quarto.

477.—Le Tresor des Histoires et de l'Excellence de chevalerie. A general history from the beginning of the world to the time of Caligula. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

478.—Euvres poetiques d'Olivier de la Marche. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with numerous coloured illustrations, and a coloured border to the first page of each work. The arms of Lalaing occur in two places. On paper. Folio. The titles of the works are written inside the cover by Marie de Luxembourg.

479.—Commentarius in quatuor libros Sententiarum Magistir Petri Lombardi. On a fly leaf at the begin- ning of the volume is written in the same hand: Epis- tola exhortatoria sancti Thome (Aquinas) ad quemdam in qua proponit ydoneum modum salubriter acquirendi scientiam sive humanam sive divinam. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. On folio I. is written: Augustiniani Bruxellenses, anno 1610. In the original binding of boards and stamped leather with bosses and clasps and the chain by which the volume was fastened in the library.

480.—Oeuvres de Jean Molinet, tome premier, conte- nant le Romant de noble et vertueux prinche Jehan Duc de Bourgongne Conte de Flandres Darthois et de Bourgongne Palatin, Danvers, &c., filz aïné de Phillippes le hardy . . . Ouquel romant sont con- tenues les faitz dicelluy Jehan duc de Bourgongne durant sa vie sa piteuse mort et en ensievant la veng- anche dicelle faite par son filz et finalement la paix qui sen fist en arras. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On the first page is an engraved coat of arms, and prefixed are two leaves containing the modern title page, and a short sketch of the life of the author in the handwriting of M. Barrois. On paper. Folio.

481.—Oeuvres de Jean Molinet, tome second, conte- nant: 1. Un extrait des Croniques d'Enguerrant de Monstrelet. 2. Chy sensuit ung petit abregie commen- chant au temps du noble et preux Phillippes le hardy, duc de bourgogne . . . filz du roy Jehan de Franche, &c. 3. Traites de paix entre france et bourgogne, &c. 4. Epitaphes (par Jean Molinet): (a.) Du duc Phillippes de Bourgongne. (b.) Du duc Charles de bourgongne. (c.) Du bon Phillippes de crevecœur (en dialogue). (d.) De lempereur Maximilien Daustrie. 5. Sensuit ung extrait daulcuns anciens registres trouves en la tresorie de Poligny et ailleurs daulcuns roys prinches et aultrez saintes personnes issus de la . . . maison de Bour- gongne. 6. Chy commence ung petit cronique abregie compose per scientifiques maistres et rethoriques Mess^r George chastelain chevalier et maistre Jehan mollinet commenchant au tempz que la pucelle rengna en franche qui fut en lan mille iiij^e xxix. et finissant lan mil iiij^e quatre vingtz et seize ou environ, faisant mention des merveilles advenues en leur tempz. The name of Chastellain in the title of this piece has been added after the manuscript was written; but a space was left for it, and another name besides Molinet's was clearly intended. 7. Cy apres sensuit ung [c]ronique abregie compose par Maistre nicaise ladam dist le songeur roy darmes de lempereur nostre sire intitule grenade commenchant lan mil iiij^e, iiij^e^{xx}, et xij et finis- sant lan mil v^e et xxvii. The title, which is in a some- what later hand, is followed by twenty leaves in print, gothic letter. There are many MS. notes and additions to the printed text, and the work is continued in MS. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

482.—Incipit liber qui Romuleon intitulatur eo quod de gestis Romanorum tractat (ab urbe condita usque ad Constantinum Imperatorem) editus ad instantiam strenuissimi ac spectatissimi militis domini Gometij (de Albornotio) Ispani (per Robertum de Porta). A MS. of the fifteenth century, with the stamp of the Bibliotheca Billiana. On paper. Folio.

483.—S. Berdardi Clarevallensis Abbatis vita. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum and paper. Folio.

484.—Pieces relatives a l'histoire de France pendant les regnes de Henri IV. et Louis XIII. Part of a collection beginning at fol. 85, and imperfect at the end. Amongst the longer pieces are: Histoire de la vie du Maréchal de Biron; Généalogie de la maison de Médicis; Discours au régiment de M. de Marcossay allant en Bohême, 1621; Consultation de trois fameux advocats sur les affaires publiques—Choppin, Chouart, Robert; La France mourante dialogue, Le Chancelier de l'Hospital, Le Capitaine Bayard, &c.; La rencontre du duc de Bouillon avec Henry le Grand en l'autre monde; La fluste de Robin en laquelle les chanson de chaque mestiers s'égayent, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

485. Le livre des vices et des vertus, autrement la somme le roy (par Frère Laurent de l'ordre des prescheurs). Imperfect. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns, with six illuminations. On vellum. Large folio. From Monteil's Collection, interleaved and partly copied by him.

486.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Der junge Hertzog zu brunentzwich gedict von Augustyn Ouermytz. Romance of a young Duke of Brunswick who became King of Spain. Written in double columns, with twelve large pen-drawn illustrations tinted, and ornamented initials. 2. Das Buch von lohier und mallair die zweyn getruwen gesselen, von latin in welschen durch frauwe Margarethe graiffynne zu wydemont, und von welschen zu dutsche durch frauwe Elysabet von lothringen graiffynne wytwe zu nassauwe und sarbrucken gemaicht. 3. Des Konings boich von frankrich. On paper. Folio.

487.—Hic heben sich an die vier Angell du Tugent als Aristotiles der haidnisch maister spricht und her nach schreybet; als Weishait Grosmütichait Gerechtheit und Mässichait. Colophon; Et sic est finis per manus Johnnis Mör de Constancia anno 1453. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with many illustrations rudely drawn and coloured. On paper. Folio.

488.—A MS. of the sixteenth century, containing: 1. Cy commence le Romant de lumain voyaige de vie humaine qui est expose sus le romans de la rose. (Par Guillaume de Guilleville.) Colophon: Cy fine le romans de vie humaine le dix sept^{me} jour d'avril lan mil v^e et dix. 2. Le pellerrinage de Lame (par le meme.) On paper. Folio.

489.—A MS. of the fifteenth century in different hands containing: 1. Guidonis de Columnis Messanensis Historia Trojana. 2. Collectanea varia.—(a) Ad historiam Trojanam addendum; (b) Fabula de leone, asino et lepore; (c) Epistola Frederici Imperatoris II. ad Bononienses qua hortatur ut Henricum filium suum regem Sardinie e carcere dimittant; (d) Epistola ad S. R. Ecclesie Cardinales hortatoria ut pontificem elegant ad sanctam sedem jam diu viduam manentem; (e) Breve apostolicum Gregorii IX. papa in Fridericum II. Imperatorem; (f) Epistola circularis Laurentij Celsi ducis Venetorum qua nunciatur victoria contra rebelles Cretensis insulae, anno 1364, duce Luchino de Vermo Veronensi et Domenico Michiele Veneto; (g) Tenor litterarum responsivarum super eadem re; (h) De cura rei familiaris; (i) Versus memorativi de festis mensium. 3. Exempla epistolarum. On paper. Folio.

490.—Le Rime di Francesco Petrarca; with notes. An alphabetical table and a life of the author are prefixed. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

491.—Le Livre de Jehan Boccacce de Certald des cas des nobles hommes et femmes translate en françois selonc le droit latin par . . . laurent de premierfait A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. See ante No 40, and post. 501.

492.—A collection of treaties between England and France. 1200-1430, French and Latin. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

493.—Le vraye histoire de Troye, chiefly taken from the work of Guido de Columnis. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

494.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Les Croniques de France.—Childeric—Childebert. 2. Lystoire du roy Richart dengleterre composee par Creton. A small part is in prose. 3. Epistre faite par ledit Creton (Adressee au Roy Richard II), condoling with the King on his misfortunes and the malice of his enemies, and advising him to come to France, where he will be sure of support, &c. 4. Balades par ledit

Creton. On paper. Folio. The paper has the watermark of a shield, with the arms of Burgundy. The present MS. and another in the Bibliothèque du Roi appear to be the only known copies which contain the author's name and the epistle and ballads.

495.—A Chronicle of Flanders during the time of Philip the Fair and Charles the Bold, Dukes of Burgundy, 1420-1477. In Flemish. There is a leaf or more wanting at the commencement. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio, with seven large pen-drawn illuminations, tinted, containing whole-length portraits of Philip and his wife Isabel of Portugal, and of Charles and his third wife Margaret of York, and with many coats of arms, &c. in colours.

496.—Marcii Valerii Marcialis Epigrammaton libri xiv. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

497.—Moralite a plusieurs personages. The personages are: Maleur, Eur, Fortune, Povrete, Franc arbitre, Destinee. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in three different hands. On paper. Folio.

498.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Le Songe Veritable. A dialogue; the interlocutors are Povrete, Souffrance, Renommee, Faulx gouvernement, Experience, Fortune, Raison, Dampnacion. Some allusions to contemporary personages appear to fix the date of the composition about the year 1400. 2. Cy commence ladresse de povrete et de richesse (Par Jaques Bruant). On paper. Folio.

499.—La Cronique Metrique de Jean d'Oultremeuse. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

500.—Summa de Casibus Conscientie, per modum alphabeti (a quodam fratre Ordinis Prædicatorum compilata). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

501.—Jehan Bocace de Certalde, des fortunes des noble hommes et femmes, translate par Laurent de Premierfait et abrege par Jehan Lamelin. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. At the top of the first leaf is written; Frater Joannes de muer monachus sancti Andree me habet 1556.

502.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Epitome de tout ce qui est passe en France ou en Gaulle depuis le deluge (jusqu'en 1380) par Dupleix. 2. Advenues a Dijon, 1628-1646. 3. Abrege des Annales de Bourgogne sur Paradin. 4. A Collection of minor pieces, principally relating to the history of France and chiefly in French. On paper. Folio.

503.—Epistolæ Beati Jeronimi Presbyteri. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Large folio. At the end: Iste liber est loci Sancti Francisci de Monte Oliv [etano, &c.] The latter part of the inscription is erased.

504.—Recueil de plusieurs et differentes pieces, au nombre de vingt huit, relatives a l'histoire de France, 1641-1645. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. "Ex BB. d'Agnesseau."

505.—Antiquitez curieuses ou l'origine des Bordels des Gauls; Chronique scandaleuse de Paris et arrest du Parlement du 24 Janvier 1387, touchant les femmes de mauvaise vie. (Par D. F. Secousse). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. "Ce manuscrit est de la main de Secousse, mais le fond de ces deux ouvrages est tiré des manuscrits de Sauval." See MS. account in the volume.

506.—A collection of fifty-six pieces in French and Dutch relating to the affairs of the Netherlands, from 1473 to 1727. MSS. of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries. On paper. Folio.

507.—Compoti fabricæ ecclesiæ Sancti Petri Insulensis, facti per Gerardum Libert presbyterum, Eustatium, Dellencourt diaconum et Nicolaum Floret presbyterum, ejusdem ecclesiæ canonicos, pro annis 1469-1478. MSS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

508.—Recueil des Antiquitez de Flandres, composee par Maistre Phylippe Wielant, vivant S^r de Eversbecke, conseiller au grand conseil et president en Flandres. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. See post., Nos. 549 and 550.

509.—Tables Chronologiques du commencement du monde jusqu'en 1759. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

510.—Les Avantures de Telemaque: poeme imite de Fenelon, divise en vingt et quatre chants et dedie a Messieurs de l'Academie des Belles Lettres de Marseille, par le Chevalier de Bapendier, 1764. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

511.—MSS. of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries containing: 1. De la joyeuse entree des Comtes de Flandre dans la ville de Bruges, leur serment et autres particularites touchant le Pays du Franc; avec des details vrais sur les troubles et la reconciliation de la dite ville et pays du Franc avec leur legitime souverain erales de la dances. On ntaining: 1. u sur leurs derations sur entilhomme.

MS. intitule
Quarto.

oporum cata-
658. A MS.

nt la pratique ice Le Febvre
e seventeenth

, 1323, 1328.
hree original om Monteil's ibed.

de Flandres century. On 1487 jusqu'a

Imperfect,
the sixteenth numbers have æ, majoris et um Conventus century. On containing: 1.

ancienne et
rs. 2. Abregé es de France chie françoise s appanages et per. Folio.

y, containing:
venue à Paris en
es pendant la ous la minorité odes Satyriques
ns, regent sous Folio. In the me.

ondeaux et Ser-ern lists are in tury, written in writing as Nos.

s Pais-Bas, &c.
the eighteenth ee Nos. 458 and

nance de Douay century. On opy in No. 511.

Voiage de Con-
Autograph. A paper. Folio.
te," of the route
ume.

i sus difiniciones.
a rude drawings.

Liberata Domini ab adm. R. D. monensi, servato
m quæ in viginti
22, 1723. A MS.
Folio.
(428). A MS. of t the beginning.

ean Ramery, dict
Antoine François
gne, tresorier des
A MS. of the
o. Formerly be-
; afterwards to C.

tury, containing:
res des Requetes,
nces, a eux envoié
x de Riswick. 2.
Jerome Bignon
de Haynault par

M. Voisin, Conseiller d'Etat en 1698. 4. Memoir sur la generalite de Soissons dresse par M. Janson, intendant, en 1698. On paper. Folio.

532.—Veprecularia, ou. la solemnité des fêtes des nobles Roys de l'Epinette de Lille, tenue depuis l'an 1283 jusqu'à l'an 1487. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. "La cause pourquo" la ditte fête fut appellé la fête de l'Epinette, c'est que
" dans la solemnité on y presentoit une Epinette avec " un Blason au Roy de la ditte fête instituée par Saint " Louis, Roy de France, pour entretenir la Noblesse
" dans l'exercice des armes," pa. 24.

533.—Eclaircissemens sur l'histoire de la ci-devant Principauté de Liege (jusqu' en 1229. Par Hilarion de Villenfagne). Autograph. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

534.—Traicte de la Guerre, par le Marechal (Timoleon d'Espinay) de Saint Luc. A MS. of the eighteenth century, with diagrams. On paper. Folio. On the first page is written: Collegii Paris. Societ. Jesu.

535.—Extraits des Annales de St. Omer de Jean Hendricq, de 1422 à 1623; par le P. François Hendricq, recolet. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper.
Folio.

536.—Recueil de xxiii. pieces relatives à l'histoire de la France et des Pais Bas pendant la premiere moitié de xvii siècle. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. "Ex BB. D'Aguesseau."

537.—MSS. of the fifteenth century, containing:
1. Ce cont aucuns pions qui semblent estre a remonst-re de par le roy aux gens et ambaxeurs Mons^r de bour-gongne, &c. 2. Cest le compte de pierre et humbert viars freres, du vail a eulx fait par Mons^r le Duc de bourgongne des iiii monnoyes, &c. 1422, 1423. 3. Letters of homage to the Duke of Burgundy for lands in the duchy, 1472, &c. On paper. Folio.

538.—Essai historique et critique sur les anciens Comtes de Looz, avec un narré succinct des demelés qu' occasionna dans le 14^e siècle la reunion de ce Comté à la ci-devant Principauté de Liege, et dans lequel on examine la nature des pretensions que forma dans le 18^e la famille de Corsevarem sur cette province. Par Hilarion de Villenfagne, d'Ingehout, ancien Bourgmestre de la Ville de Liege. Autograph; imperfect at the end. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio.

539.—Explication de diverses planches inventées et gravées pour des Epithalames on Noces, par Bernard Picart. Twelve engravings, with MS. explanations, of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. On paper.
Folio. At the end are three other engravings, viz., two of "Le triomphe de la peinture," each in reverse of the other; and one of "Les grands chemins de l'Empire Roman."

540.—Recueils de pieces relatives à la pierre Atlantico-Phénicienne et à la langue Phénicienne. Comprising autograph letters from F. K. Klaproth, the Marquis de Fortia d'Urban, M. Geo. Grongnet, M. Bory de St. Vincent, le Comte de Balbe, le Comte Camille de Tournon, M.
Sarchi, M. d'Aiguillé, &c., with fac-similes and a printed work, "De inscriptione Phœnicio-Græca, in Cyrenaica
" nuper reperta, ad Carpocratianorum hæresin per-
" tinente, Commentatio philologico-historica, auctore
" Guil Gesenio. Halae, 1825," 4to. A table of contents is prefixed to the collection. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio and quarto. From the library of the Marquis de Fortia d'Urban. See post,
No. 542.

541.—Remarques sur l'Histoire et la Biographie anciennes et sommaires d'icelles. Par M. le Comte de Roucy, François de Roye de la Rochefoucauld. "Ces
" remarques ont este faictes par Monsieur le Comte de " Roucy, François de Roye de la Rochefoucauld, en
" l'an mil six cens quatorze et quinze et escrites de sa
" main." A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper.
Folio.

542.—Recueil de pieces sur l'Inscription Athlantico-Phénicienne trouvée a Medine, ancienne capitale de l'Isle de Malte, l'an 1826. This is the autograph correspondence of M. Geo. Grongnet and others with the Marquis de Fortia d'Urban, respecting the inscription; with a drawing of the stone by M. Grongnet, alphabets, &c. A list of the contents is prefixed, and a fair copy of
M. Grongnet's letter of the 30th of August 1827 is in the volume. MSS. of the nineteenth century. On paper.
Folio and quarto. From the library of the Marquis de Fortia d'Urban. See ante, No. 540.

543.—Traite de l'Honneur, ou Abrege methodique de la science du Blazon, par F. B. 1700. "L'auteur de ce
" livre est J. Bourtyl d'Autry."—MS. note, on fly-leaf.
A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

N

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

544.—Fragmenta varia, a manuscripta et impressa. A collection of various fragments of manuscripts and of early printed books, on vellum and paper, of the twelfth to the sixteenth centuries; apparently detached from the covers of books and pasted in a folio volume of 170 leaves. With the book-plate of the Earl of Shelburne.

545.—Les loix, franchises et libertez de la ville de Lille, des bourgeois, des bourgeois et des enfans de bourgeois et des manans; avecq plusieurs constitutions et coutumes dicelle ville et castelerie et des bourgeois forains. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

546.—Dictionarium syllabatum (omnigenis dictionibus locupletissimum) cum Italica universarum vocum ac nominum propriorum interpretatione; Anthonio Gaza, autore. Verone, 10 Kal. Nov. 1644. Colophon: Laus Deo finis, 20 Jan. 1646. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

547.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Historia del Concilio di Trento, scritta per mano del Sig.^{re} Antonio Milledonne, segretario del Consiglio di X. Apparently unpublished. 2. Relazione del Conclave nella sede vacante di Papa Paolo Quarto, nel quale fu creato Papa Pio Quarto, alli 24 Decembre 1560. Imperfect. On paper. Folio.

548.—Abrégé de l'origine et histoire des François. The first fifteen leaves are wanting, and the work is imperfect at the end. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

549.—Diverses matieres et antiquitez de flandres depuis qu'elle at recheu la sainte foy a scavoir en l'an vj^e et quatre, jusques à l'an 1506. (Par Philippe Wielant, Seigneur de Eversbeke.) Escript hors d'un livre ayant la date du dict an 1506. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio. See ante, No. 508, and No 550 here following.

550.—Recueil des antiquites de Flanders, compose par Maistre Philippe Wielant, Seigneur de Eversbeke, Conseiller de Charles de Bourgogne, de Marie et de Maximilien. Imperfect, wanting the first 9 chapters and part of the 10th, and ending in Chap. Cxlvij. of the preceding copy. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

551.—Extracts from the registers of the proceedings of the great Council de' Pregadi, etc., at Venice, from 1298 to 1586. Latin and Italian. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

552.—Notions Elementaires de Linguistique, ou histoire abrégée de la parole et de l'écriture. Par Charles Nodier. Authograph. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio, inlaid, written on one side only. Printed in the collected edition of the author's works, Paris, 1832-34. 12 vols. 8vo.

553.—Extrait d'un memoire touchant le gouvernement des Provinces Unies des Pays Bas; fait par Monsieur de Bonrepas à son retour de l'ambassade de Hollande en 1699. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio.

554.—Memoires du Duc de Rohan sur les troubles advenus en France depuis la mort de Henry le Grand, jusques à la paix faite avec les reformez au mois de Juin 1629. On one of the fly leaves is a short biographical notice of "Henri de Rohan, Duc et Pair de France, Prince de Leon;" and at the end of the work are quoted the lines of Voltaire:

Avec tous le talens le ciel l'avait fait naître,
Il agit en heros, en sage il ecrivit;
Il fut même grand homme en combattant son maitre,

Et plus grand lorsqu'il le servit.

A MS. of the seventeenth century, with the book-plate of Claude Bernard Rousseau, Auditeur des Comptes.

555.—Reflexions politiques sur les principaux etats de l'Europe tirées de Samuel Pufendorf. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. 18mo.

556.—Le Pyrronien; discours de la nature et de la preference des puissances de l'ame. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo. From the collection of the Abbé Septier.

557.—8.—Melanges Arabes. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. 2 vols., octavo. See Nos. 620 and 622 post.

559.—Devotion des Esluz, tousiours ancienne et tousiours nouvelle; Jesus Crist captif d'amour au S. Sacrement de l'autel en l'estat de victime et de sacrifice jusques à la consommation du siècle, Precedée d'un epistre aux bienfaiteurs de l'ordre de Saint François. De nostre convent de Luxembourg le jour de tous les saints de l'an 1673. A MS. of the seventeenth century, with wood engravings. On paper. Small octavo.

560.—Mathesis Henrici Baiol, 1606, Mogunti. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.

561.—La Fortuna smascherata, poema in undici canti, ottava rima. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small octavo.

562.—Recueil de differentes petites pieces de vers. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

563.—Relazione della vita e morte di Sisto V. Sommo Pontefice. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

564.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, in various hands, containing: 1. De ortu infelici et vita Albani, regis Hungariæ. Son of an emperor by his daughter and married to his own mother. 2. Epistolæ quadam: Friderici Romanorum Imperatoris; Karoli Regis Siciliæ Johannis de Capua; Regis Franciæ Imperatori Frederico. 3. Histoire daucuns des Ducs de Normandie. From the time of Charles the Simple, King of France, to 1066. 4. Ce sont les noms des roys de France anciennement nommes Gaule. Priam—Louis X. 5. Les noms des Ducs de Normandie. Rollo—John, King of England. 6. Le dit de Noblesse. 7. Le sermon de la choppinerie. 8. Lay. 9. Les faiz avenuz ou royaume de France depuis lan de grace mil cccc et cinq (jusqu'en 1429). On vellum and paper. Quarto.

565.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, in various hands, containing: 1. Qualiter unusquisque se et domum suam regere debet secundum doctrinam beati Bernhadi. 2. Modus vivendi. Imperfect at the end. 3. Versus, per tetrasticha, in Salve Regina misericordie, &c. 4. De Arte predicandi, arrendandi, et collationandi. 5. Sermo de morum disciplina, virtutum dignitate et hominum beatissima vita. 6. Hymnus Pange lingua de corpore Christi, ex Latino in idioma vulgare (Germanicum) sub congruis rythmis per Sebastianum Brant traductus. On paper. Quarto.

566.—Des Erreurs touchant La Trinité, par Michel Servet, en vij. livres, traduits en François (d'après la version Flamande des memes livres faite par Regnier Tell, autrement nommé Vitellius, imprimée en 1620). A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

567.—Le Rime di Francesco Petrarca. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

568.—Cy senssuyt ung traictie a l'instruction de gens de religion. Colophon: Explicit ung tractie pour gens de religion appartenant au monastere de saint croix soubz offement de lordre des celestins. Jhesus, Maria, Margareta. Amen. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

569.—Le livre des vices et des vertus, autrement la Somme Le Roi ou le Miroir du monde. (Par Frere Laurent de l'ordre des Prescheurs.) A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. On a fly leaf at the end is written: "Ce livre fut a feu Ma dame Agnes de Bourgoigne en son vivant Duchesse de 'bourbonn et d'auvergne;' and there is also at the end this modern MS. note: "Laurent Dubois frere de "l'ordre des prescheurs, confesseur du roi Philippe le "hardi composa d'abord cet ouvrage en 1269 à la "requeste du roi St. Louis, mais Louis IX. étant decédé "à Tunis, il le dédia en 1269 à Philippe le hardy sous "le titre de la Somme le roy." See ante, Nos. 130, 246, and 485.

570.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Q. Horatii Flacci Carmina. The "Epistola ad P. sones de Arte Poetica" is not included. 2. P. Ovidii Nasonis Epistolæ Duæ,—Penelope Ulyssi; Phyllis Demophoonti. On paper. Quarto. The name of Borgia Ranaldino occurs twice on the margins, in a later hand.

571.—Memoire historique des premiers peuples qui ont habités les pais de Foix; la genealogie de ses Comtes, avec quelques traits de leurs histoires, le detail des troubles arrivés dans le pais depuis 1490 jusqu'en 1640; les domaines aliénés depuis sa reunion à la couronne de France. Par le S^r Moussu. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

572.—Taxa expeditionum in Curia Romana Apostolica. Imperfect at the end. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

573-574.—There are no MSS. bearing these numbers in the collection.

575.—ΕΙΣ ΑΠΑΞΑΝ ΤΗΝ ΑΟΓΙΚΗΝ ΠΡΑΓΜΑΤΕΙΑΝ ΕΞΗΓΗΣΙΣ. With notes. Imperfect at the beginning. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

576.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Les vrayes centuries et propheties de Michel Nostradamus. 2. La Vie de Maistre Michel Nostradamus, medecin ordinaire du Roy Henry II., Roy de France. 3. Tables et explication des noms propres . . . dans les centuries, &c. Unfinished, only part of letter A. On paper. Octavo.

577.—Differend entre l'Archeveque de Bourdeaux (Henri d'Escoubleau) et le Duc d'Epemon. A copy of

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

n. XIX., 1633, seventeenth century library of the s grivoises. A Quarto, aison du Roy, tury. On paper.

rose and verse. per. Quarto.

varia variorum i Invectiva in issimum virum n, Papam V.). tate Principum wort Secretario fort) Cardinalis

4. Phalaridis non deponendo Æschinis Sen- sthenis Senten- ipio Oratio ad m traducta per lfonsum Regem mei Fatij Dya- 0. Ad Nicolaum Florentini de Hyppocratis ad pistola Arthax- entie remedium pistola ad Per- Arthaxerxis ad anis ad Hyppo- Responsio. 17. Ejusdem ad Phi- pistola ad Dion- amagetum. 21. 22. Argumentum Phalaridem Epis- 25. Pithagore De Ypparcho et archum Epistola. per Rinucium ad Cratherum. ola. 31. Hyppo- jusdem ad The- Quid principem tractum. 34. x amara sit capi- la de paupertate. Achicous (cum Dialogus ejusdem per Rinucium in super obedientia alogus qui inscri- enuo factus. 40. losophorum illus- Rinucium factus. a Basilee in sacro xxxv., cum illuc a orator. 42. Eju- re, Albae habita eum esset orator. bliotheca Rubrae

4. Phalaridis non deponendo Æschinis Sen- sthenis Senten- ipio Oratio ad m traducta per lfonsum Regem mei Fatij Dya- 0. Ad Nicolaum Florentini de Hyppocratis ad pistola Arthax- entie remedium pistola ad Per- Arthaxerxis ad anis ad Hyppo- Responsio. 17. Ejusdem ad Phi- pistola ad Dion- amagetum. 21. 22. Argumentum Phalaridem Epis- 25. Pithagore De Ypparcho et archum Epistola. per Rinucium ad Cratherum. ola. 31. Hyppo- jusdem ad The- Quid principem tractum. 34. x amara sit capi- la de paupertate. Achicous (cum Dialogus ejusdem per Rinucium in super obedientia alogus qui inscri- enuo factus. 40. losophorum illus- Rinucium factus. a Basilee in sacro xxxv., cum illuc a orator. 42. Eju- re, Albae habita eum esset orator. bliotheca Rubrae rum Minorum Re- g: 1. Insignia, bant in conventu ulensium ante de- 87. 2. Nomina et operiuntur sepulti im ab erectione et molitionem templi torum, quæ extant of the seventeenth l two folio leaves the ancient church. l in colours. This ag to the convent.

De Ypparcho et archum Epistola. per Rinucium ad Cratherum. ola. 31. Hyppo- jusdem ad The- Quid principem tractum. 34. x amara sit capi- la de paupertate. Achicous (cum Dialogus ejusdem per Rinucium in super obedientia alogus qui inscri- enuo factus. 40. losophorum illus- Rinucium factus. a Basilee in sacro xxxv., cum illuc a orator. 42. Eju- re, Albae habita eum esset orator. bliotheca Rubrae De Ypparcho et archum Epistola. per Rinucium ad Cratherum. ola. 31. Hyppo- jusdem ad The- Quid principem tractum. 34. x amara sit capi- la de paupertate. Achicous (cum Dialogus ejusdem per Rinucium in super obedientia alogus qui inscri- enuo factus. 40. losophorum illus- Rinucium factus. a Basilee in sacro xxxv., cum illuc a orator. 42. Eju- re, Albae habita eum esset orator. bliotheca Rubrae Flandres, 1180- riques de france z ou environ que lant et pseudome nt vaillance on le t en flandrez ung lz nomme baudoin dune fille de roy. On paper. Folio.

584.—Statuts et ordonances des Soeurs Grises Hospi- talières. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.

585.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Cy commence le passe temps de (Pierre) michault appelé taillevient (en son vivant varlet de chambre de Monseigneur de Bourgoigne). 2. Le debat des deux fortunez, autrement dit le gras et le maigre. (Par Alain Chartier.) 3. Le debat du cuer et de lueil. (Par le meme.) 4. Cy sensuit historie de Narcisus et de Echo. On paper. Quarto.

586.—MSS. of the tenth and thirteenth centuries, con- taining: 1. Notas Juris (a Magnone Collectæ). Sæculi X. 2. Aliud exemplar. Sæculi XIII. 3. Aliud exemplar. Sæculi X. On vellum. Quarto. Formerly in the libra- ries of P. Pithou, the President le Peletier, and the Duc de Berry. See ante, No. 116.

587.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Theodori Marcilii Commentarius de Gallia. 2. Julii Cæsaris Bulengerii Commentarius de Gallorum origino et moribus. 3. Ejusdem Methodus legendæ historiæ. 4. Ejusdem Commentarius de funeribus. On paper. Octavo.

588.—Detail de la petite feste donnée à Madame la Marechale de Mirefoix par Madame la Comtesse de Rochefort, le 1^{er} 8bre 1776. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

589.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Cronica brevis a creatione mundi ad tempora Christi 2. Versus memorativi Evangeliorum dominicalium. 3. Nomini pontificum romanorum; ending originally with Eugenius 4^{us}. A later hand has added Nicholas Calistus, Pius, Paulus, Sixtus. 4. Nomina pontificum tungrensium, trajectensium, leodiensium. 5. Nomina imperatorum romanorum; nomina regum alamanie qui non pervenerunt ad dyadema imperij. 6. Nomina regum francie; ending with Philippus comes avalensis, M^o ccc xxviii. 7. Biblia pauperum (Alexandri de Villa Dei.) 8. Rubrice quinque librorum Decretalium. 9. Gesta pontificum tungrensium, trajectensium et leo- diensium, sive Chronicon leodiense; ending in the year 1403. On paper. Quarto. On the first leaf is written: Liber fratrum Guilhelmitarum prope et extra leodium. And then, in a later hand: Presente- ment a Adrian le pollain par la donation que l'en at fait frere guilheame prieur desdits freres guilhemins en recompense dung autre coronicque que lo dit Adrian luy avoit prethe, lequel disoit avoir eust perdu dequoy ledit Adrian at este fort mary a cause quil lavoit escript de sa propre main hors de ceulx du Conte de Rochefort.

590. Le Roman de Melusine, par Jean d'Arras. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

591.—In nomine Domini Nostri Jhesu Christi Incipit liber de cupiditate compilatus per venerabilem fratrem Johannem de Capistrano ordinis Fratrum Minorum. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

592.—Scotus pauperum, in quo doctorum et Scoti opiniones in quatuor libris Sententiarum (Petri Lom- bardi), contente, dilucidantur; Tholose editus per . . . Guillelmum Gorris Aragonensem ad pauperum utilita- tem (cum epistola ad Alfonsum de Aragonia archie- piscopum Cesaragustanensem, 10 Maij 1486). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

593.—Het Leven der Heiligen. Lives of the Saints, in Dutch. A MS. of the fifteenth century, written in double columns. On paper. Quarto. Formerly belong- ing to the convent of St. Katharine at Hoorn.

594.—Blanditio di Fiorenza, ingannatore de Urbano et de Lucretia. Begins: Uno giorno ritrovando me piu che lusato de grandissime e innumerabile pene assalito. Ends: In ultima vechieza li anni loro con amore dillecto pacie et tranquillitate. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

595.—Curiosités historiques de Paris, Sept. 1771. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

596.—Abbrégé de l'histoire des roys de France depuis Pharamond, jusques à Louys XIV., 1651. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

597-8-9.—Memorial de l'Histoire de France, tiré de plusieurs auteurs. 3 tom. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

600.—Recueil de pieces historiques; travaille en Boheme a Prague. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

601.—Memoir sur l'intendance de Flandre. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto. See ante, No. 516.

602.—Journal de la deuxieme campagne de Louis XV. en 1745, par Jean Jacques Evrard. The full title prefixed is as follows: Journal de la deuxième campagne de Louis XV. roy de France et de Navarre en l'année 1745, contenant le récit des sièges de plusieurs villes du Pays Bas, de la glorieuse et mémorable bataille de Fentenoy et du succès des armes de sa majesté en Italie pendant la dite année 1745, avec plusieurs particularités de ce qui s'est passé à Lille où ces mémoires ont été écrits par Jean Jaque Evrard. A MS. of the eighteenth century, with some rudeily coloured woodcuts inserted. On paper. Quarto.

603.—La Vie de Madame Anne Dubois, première Abbessse du Monastere de Notre Dame de misericorde de ordre Saint Sauveur dict de Sainte Birgitte, en la Ville de Lille, écrite par elle même. Copiée par la Sœur Catherine Diserin, 1657. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

604.—Histoire de France, contenant sommairement l'origine des peuples qu'ils l'ont habitez depuis le deluge universel jusqu'à Pharamond premier roy de France; et qui sont ceux qui ont regnez sous les noms de Celtes, Gaulois, Sicambriens, Frans et Francois, et une relation exacte et cronologique de tout ce qui sy est passé de considerable pendant les trois races royales de Mérovingiens, Carlovingiens, et Capétiens, avec l'ystoire générale de Louis quatorze, &c. Par M. G. de Blois, Bourgeois de Valenciennes. Autograph. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

605.—Annotata Logices D. D. Joannis Lacman, magis principalis et D. Levini Kiel, minus principalis in Academia Lovaniensi. Scripsit Nicolaus Dubois anno 1668. 2 p^{tes}. Each part has an engraved title-page, and a few miscellaneous engravings are inserted in the volume. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

606.—Annotata Physices magis principalis D. Joannis Lacman et minus principalis D. Levini Kiel. Scripsit N. Dubois, anno 1669. 2 pts. With engraved title-pages and engravings inserted, as in the preceding volume. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

607.—Memoire et instruction sur le droit universel possessorie de ma dame la Ducessse Daustrice de Bourgogne, Contesse de Flandres etc., en tous les duces contes pays et seignouries dont possedoit au jour de son trepas feu Monsgr le Duc Charles son pere. Par Jehan Doffay. A MS. of the sixteenth century, formerly belonging "au Baron de Rassenguren." On paper. Quarto. See ante, Nos. 356 and 453.

608.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Le Doctrinal de la maniere a bien vivre et a bien confesser, contenant les articles de la foi les x commandemens les vij sacremens, &c. 2. Chy comenche une orison en franchois qui est nommée Virgo intemerata le nonnel de nostre dame. 3. Vers sur la Segnourie. 4. Le codicale maistre Jehan de meun (ou l'epitaphe des trespases). On paper. Quarto.

609.—Memoire sur le departement du Haynaut, par M. Voisin, en 1698. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio. See ante, No. 531, art. 3.

610.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Cy commencent les croniques dung tres excellent et glorieux confesseur et amy de dieu monseigneur saint francoys (et de ses devotz compaignons). 2. Cy comance la vie saintet francois confesseur. 3. La vie saintet pierre le martir. 4. Ci comence la vie saintete clare. On paper. Folio.

611.—Recueil de pieces et de faits que le pere Griffet n'a pas cru devoir ni pouvoir inserer dans l'histoire de Louis XIII. et dans les fastes de Louis XIV. dont il est auteur. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

612.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Liber Modorum metrica factus a magistro Johanne Joasc, cum glosa reportata per magistrum Anthonium Vist. Colophon: Explicit liber iste. Et fuit finitus anno domini millesimo cccc^{to} quinquagesimo per manus Gregorii de Columbia in presencia Anthonii de Combe. 2. Sequitur quedam confessio satis brevis et multa comprehendens. On paper. Quarto.

613.—Balades, Chansons et Rondels, ou Poesies de Charles, Duc d'Orleans, pere de Louis XII. et de plusieurs poetes contemporains: containing, Balades 152; Complaintes, ou lettres en complaintes 7; Discours 1; Chansons 131; Rondels 400; Caroles 4. The contemporary poets, as enumerated at the commencement of the volume, are: Albret (écrit le cadet Delebret); Benoist Amien, ou Damien; Blosserville; Boucicault; Philippe de Boulainvillier; Guillaume Cadier; Jean Caillau; Simonet Caillau; Pierre Chevalier; Le Comte de Clermont et Bourbon, jadis Clermont; Anthoine de Cuise; Faret; Fraigne; Fredet; Garencieres; George, vraisemblablement Chastelain; Estienne le Goust; Jehan, Monseigneur de Lorraine; Anthoine de Lussay; Olivier de la Marche; Madame d'Orléans; Gilles des Ourmes; Gujot Pot; Messire Philippe Pot; Robertet; Le Grant Sénéchal; Tignonville; Le Seigneur de Toray; Jacques, bâtard de la Trimouille; Berthaut de Villebresme; Villon, Hugues de Voys. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Large Quarto.

614.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Les Gouverneurs de Lille, beginning with Adam, Sire de Cardonnoy, 1296-1299, and ending with Eustache de Croy, Comte de Dreux, &c., 1640-1653. 2. Les Chastellains de Lille, 1039-1660. 3. De la branche de Fresne, puisnee de la Maison de Lille. On paper. Small quarto.

615.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing: 1. Hier begint een devoete oeffeninge vanden liiden leven ende liiden ons lieven heren jhesu christi ende sinne lieven moder ende van hoeren groeten rouwen den sii hadden. 2. Hier begynnen sommige punten gescreven wter passien ons leven heren jhesu christi alsoe onse lieve here selven geapenbaert heeft eenre lants vrouwen geheiten brigida &c. 3. Dit is van der verrysenisse onse lieven heren, &c. 4. Hier begynt dat boeck der sueten lerynge ende der devoeter colacion die die persoene des soens ende des heiligen geest gedaen hebben den genen die gemint waren vanden vader. Several other pieces are contained in the volume; but they are imperfect, some leaves having been abstracted. On paper, with some leaves of vellum. Small octavo.

616.—Commentaria in Decretalium libris duo priores. Begins: Bone memorie &c. Presbyter Cardinalis postulandus . . . A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

617.—A MS. of the seventeenth century, containing: 1. Recueil de xxvi. pieces relatives à l'histoire de France. In prose and verse with a table of contents. 2. Recueil de plusieurs pieces, en vers, sur le Cardinal de Richelieu et autres. On paper. Folio.

618.—Hier begint een spiegel der volcomenheyt daer der mynre broder staet in begonnen is. Begins: Dit werk is vergadert wt sommige ouden legenden die sancte franciscus gesellen in alre hande steden inscreven ende bescreven deden. At the beginning is written: Dit boeck hoert toe nymegen op sinte peters berch den susteren van der darder regel francisci. And at the end: Dit boeck hoert den susteren op den alden berch toe. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

619.—Traite contenant les livres intitules de misericorde de Notre Dame, divinement escrit par la venerable et bien meritee Abbessse (Anne Dubois) du Convent de Notre Dame de misericorde de l'orde de Madame Sainte Birgitte, avec les explications d'iceux adioustees, &c. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

620.—Melange Arabe. Traduction (par — Perron, M.D. ?) Traductions diverses, tirées, ainsi que le texte Oriental (see No. 622 post), pour le pluspart du Journal Asiatique, 1827. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Quarto. See ante Nos. 557, 558.

621.—Discours de morale et de la religion, dédiés à la Princess d'Espinoys, par—Quieffize, 1672. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. The title page is wanting.

622.—Melange Arabe. Texte. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

623.—A MS. &c. of the eighteenth century, containing: 1. La vie de Saint Omer, Evêque de Terouane. Begins: Le glorieux confesseur de Jesus Christ, St. Omer, que je peus nommer a bon droit apotre des morains comme je fairai voir par le cour de l'histoire naquit environ l'an 590. . . 2. Recueil des magistrats de la ville de St. Omer, des officiers du bureau, et de l'argentiere (depuis 1296 jusqu'en 1763).

The following printed pieces are bound up in the volume: (a.) Mémoire sur révision pour Jean Baptiste Danel, Bourgeois de St. Omer et Marie Aldegonde Delarre, sa femme, agissant pour Anne Thérèse Danel, leur fille, &c. Saint Omer, 1772. 4to. pp. 54. (b.) Chanson sur l'air: Ah vous dirai-je maman, S. Omer. 4to. one leaf. (c.) Dialogue entre Calas de Toulouse et Monbailly de Saint-Omer, dans les champs élysées. S. Omer. 4to. pp. 8. (d.) Arrest de la Cour du Conseil supérieur d'Arras, qui décharge Anne Thérèse Joseph Danel et la mémoire de François Monbailly, son mari, de l'accusation de Parricide intentée à leur charge. Saint Omer (1772). 4to. pp. 8. (e.) Bref de N. S. P. le Pape Clément XIV. portant suppression de l'ordre régulier dit la Société de Jésus. 21 Juillet 1773. (No place or date of publication). 4to. pp. 18. (f.) Idem, Latine, Parisii, 1773. 4to. pp. 33.

ution des eaux
ed, philosophe au passage que 1715 et 1716;
ses amis. By ards forms the
the eighteenth t Amsterdam in English translaen prose. (Par

A MS. of the Jacques Benigne
h. Begins: De e je ne connois que ce qu'en a
S. of the seven-par un moine de Flandre et du is en 1759. 3.

a réponse, 1759.
evards. Printed,
es, sculptures, et loyale. Printed,
s, épître de M.
Sur les Jésuites Dialogue entre et Voltaire. In ébuth à l'auteur
es martyrs de la
l'oraison de St.
e, &c. 11. Mon.
r au village de verse. A MS. of ctavo.

endarium naturale
i rerum secretissi-hilosophiæ cogni-chedel ab Aicha.
A MS. of the
to.

rage de Jernsalem semble le chemin voyage; item les Faucquenberghes,
f the seventeenth

ues sur le proces
e, avocat à la cour ineteenth century.
presentation copy
he crown and the author complains by M. de Rouge-

la Flandre Galli-of the eighteenth

r Nicolas Antoine of the eighteenth

sage des Maitres
d. A MS. of the rto.

s dans un voyage rofesseur Jeremie
of the eighteenth
th several papers able notes upon essor, and other en printed entire.
by the author to erfreund," in the o M. Schloezer's opious analysis of
réd. Winckler in
J. J. Oberlin" in 1807, tom. ii. pp.

ntury, containing:
m. Initium libri
codex veritatis in rum prudenciores usdam vegetalibus aliis medicinis).
istri Johannis de ecretissimus secre-
ione aggregationis orum, &c. 5. Rosa novella magistri Arnoldi de Villa nova, 1435. 6. Quæ-tiones ejusdem. Ad questiones quas mihi fecistis vobis respondebo per ordinem. On paper. Octavo.

636.—Journal d'un voyage de Constantinople, avec toutes les revolutions arrivées dans cet empire les années 1687, 1688, la première sous Mehemet 4^e et la 2^e sous
Soliment. Begins: Je partis de Paris le mercredi 29^e May 1683 Je menbarques dans le vesseau ordinaire pou aller à Auxerre. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Octavo.

637.—Formation des Etats de l'histoire moderne, precedée de l'histoire des Juifs, par M^r Corbeau de St.
Albin, ancien L^t. Col. d'Artillerie. Paris, 1811. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Octavo. From Dampmartin's collection.

638.—Melanges sérieux et comiques recueillis par Antoine Etienne Mille. Tom. I. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto. See No. 424, ante.

639.—Le Chevalier Repenty; Le Confident Repenty.
Par le Père Antoyne de S. Michel, predicateur recole de la province de S. Bernardin en France. "En dialogue entre un Docteur et Prieur rural ou se traite de tresimportante matiere pour le fait de la confidence qui pourra servir à desavengler plusieurs qui pechent par ignorance sur la fait de la simonie." A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

640.—Il Santo Vangelo del Nostro Signore Gesu Christo secondo tutti e quattro li Santi Evangelisti. An anonymous translation, apparently unpublished. At the end is: Indice de' Vangeli che si dicono nella Santa Messa Proprio del tempo. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

641.—Guglielmo Duca d'Aquitania Romito; poema drammatico in cinque atti. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

642.—Copie d'un imprime in parvo-duodecimo, aiant pour titre: Le Cardinal de Mazarin joue par un Flamand; ou relation de ce qui se passa a Ostende, le 14 de May de l'année 1658. A Cologne chez Pierre Marteau, 1671. The "Epistre à Mons^r B . . . &c." on the verso of the title page, is subscribed "D." A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

643.—Le Catechumene Cartesien; ou Entretiens d'un jeune Abbé Cartesien avec divers docteurs sur les mystères de la Trinité et de l'Incarnation. A MS. of the eighteenth century, from the library of the Abbé Sep-tier. On paper. Quarto. On the first leaf is written:
Entretiens sociniens, pièce unique, je l'ai eu de l'auteur à sa mort, et il n'y en a pas eu de copie.

644.—Typhon, ou la Gigantomachie, poeme burlesque en cinq chants (tire du Sieur Noel le Comte). A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

645.—In libros IV. Institutionem Imperatoris Justiniani explicationes verborum et rerum, tradebat
Julius Cæsar Becellius, excipiebam ego Nerius Tosi. A
MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Folio.

646.—Le Hermes Trismegiste de François Patricius.
A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

647.—Loci communes theologici, per dominicas et festas totius anni. A MS. of the sixteenth century.
On paper. Small Octavo. Three leaves at the beginning and one at the end are vellum.

648.—A MS. of the fifteenth century, containing:
1. Chronicon generale ab initio mundi ad nativitatem Domini. Abridged from the Chronicle of Brando Johannis (by Ægidius de Roya?). 2. Catalogus cronica et principium Comitum Flandria: et Forestariorum ejus, que terra olim dicebatur terra de buc vel nemus regionis, &c. On paper. Octavo. "Ex libris Gerardi Vander Strepen, 1563."

649. Description de l'Abbaye de la Trappe. (Par Felibien des Avaux). A MS. of the seventeenth century.
On paper. Octavo. Copied from the printed edition, Paris, 1671. Other editions were printed in 1682 and 1689.

650.—Essai de Mythologie, à Berlin, 1783. A MS.
of the eighteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

651.—Phædri Fabularum Æsopiarum versio Belgica cum constructione Latina, autore, A. D. L., Medioburgi, 1763. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper.
Octavo.

652.—La fulminante contro lo Pape Sixte V. sur la mort du roy Henri III., 1589. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

653.—Memoranda, Anecdotes, and Notes, written by Voltaire while he was in England, about the year 1727.
Autograph. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto. There is also a separate letter addressed "A. M. D'Argental," dated "a ferney, 5 auguste 1776," Begins: Mon cher ange vous avez veillé

EARL OF ASHGROVE-
HAM.

sur le printemps de ma vie et vous veillez sur la fin

Subscribed, "le vieux malade V."

654.—ΞΕΝΟΦΩΝΤΟΣ ΣΟΚΡΑΤΟΥΣ ΑΠΟΜΝΗΜΟΝΕΥΜΑΤΑ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Small octavo. With the name "Ange Vergece" on the sides.

655.—ΕΡΩΤΗΜΑΤΑ ΚΑΤΑ ΜΑΝΟΥΗΛ ΤΟΥ ΧΡΥΣΟΛΟΓΟΥ. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Octavo. On the first page is written: Augustini Nettuccij est et amicorum.

656.—ΝΙΚΗΦΟΡΟΥ ΤΟΥ ΒΑΕΜΜΥΔΟΥ ΕΠΙΤΟΜΗ ΛΟΓΙΚΗΣ. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. With a coloured portrait of the author.

657.—A MS. of the eighteenth century, containing: 1. Lietopicets. Annals of the celebrated Solovetskoi Monastery, in the island of the same name in the White Sea, from its foundation in 1429 to the visit of Peter the Great in 1694. Russian. Apparently unpublished. 2. Mikhail Lomonosov. Kratkoi Rossiskoi Lietopicets; Pokazanie Rossiskoi Drevnosti; Rodoslovie Rossiskikh Gosudarei. Short annals of the Russian Empire, with a treatise on the antiquity of the Russian nation, and the genealogy of the Sovereigns of Russia, by Michael Lomonosov; preceded by a dedicatory address to the Emperor Paul Petrovich, in verse. Russian. These works were printed in 1760. On paper. Quarto.

658.—Hafiz Shirazi, Works. Persian. A MS. of the sixteenth century, written in the Tâlik character, in the 970th year of the Hegira: A.D. 1562. On glazed paper. Octavo.

659.—The Koran. Arabic. A MS. of the nineteenth century, written by Ishmail Dhahini in the 1232nd year of the Hegira: A.D. 1816. On glazed paper. Octavo.

660.—A MS. of the fourteenth century, containing: 1. La complainte nostre dame dou crucefiement ihesu crist. (Par Hugues de Cambray). 2. Lucidaires. (From the Latin attributed to St. Anselm?) See ante Nos. 213 and 222. 3. Ci apres commence Ypocras. See ante, No. 239. 4. Oratio Sancta. 5. Alia Oratio. On vellum. Small quarto.

661. Three large sheets of papyrus, containing figures and writing, inlaid on cardboard with guards; bound in brown morocco, with Egyptian ornaments and lettered: Calendrier Copte sur papyrus, déroulé par M. Champollion.

662. Fragments of papyrus, containing hieroglyphic inscriptions and figures, inlaid on eleven sheets of cardboard with guards, and bound in light brown.

663. Fragments of papyrus, containing Coptic writing on both sides, inlaid on three sheets of transparent horn with cardboard guards, and bound in crimson morocco with an obelisk on one side.

664.—Fragments of papyrus, containing inscriptions in various characters, inlaid on ten sheets of cardboard with guards, and bound in dark purple morocco with hieroglyphics on one side.

665.—Nine fragments of papyrus containing figures and inscriptions, laid down on as many sheets of cardboard, and bound in crimson morocco with Egyptian figures on one side.

666.—Eight fragments of papyrus, containing hieroglyphic inscriptions, laid down on as many sheets of green cardboard with guards, and bound in maroon morocco with Egyptian figures on the sides.

667.—Portefeuille des dessins originaux de Lavater. Comprising many drawings and engravings of heads, portraits, studies, &c. with autograph notes of the physiognomical characteristics by Lavater. Of the eighteenth century. On paper. In a leathern portfolio, with lock, the whole enclosed in a morocco case. "La plupart des portraits et des dessins de tout genre qu'on a de Lavater et qui font partie du cabinet et du portefeuille curieux qu'il laisse pour héritage à sa famille, renferment en outre plusieurs articles inédits de physiognomie, puisque la plupart sont chargés de notes, de remarques et d'interprétations. Ce portefeuille est presque la seule richesse que Lavater ait laissée à ses enfants, et si son riche cabinet physiognomonique, dit Mr. Meister, ne trouve pas un acheteur disposé à le payer ce qu'il avait toujours cru pouvoir l'estimer, son intéressante famille risque de n'avoir pour fortune que l'éclat de sa renommée et la bénédiction de ses vertus." See L'Art de connaître les hommes. Paris, 1805. Tom. I. Notice, pa. xcj.

668.—Seventeen Chinese paintings in distemper, illustrative of the culture, manufacture, and sale of tea. Of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. In blue morocco binding, gilt, and richly ornamented with Chinese designs on the sides. There are two small paintings on rice paper, loose in the volume.

669.—Twelve Chinese paintings in distemper, illustrative of the culture and manufacture of tea. Of the eighteenth century. On paper. Oblong folio.

670.—Four coloured drawings of Chinese junks, and one of a Chinese official. Of the eighteenth century. On paper. Long folio.

671.—A collection of coloured drawings of Hindoo deities, costumes, and occupations. With occasional descriptive notes in French. Of the nineteenth century. On paper. Folio.

672.—Six illuminations in colours on a gold ground, from a manuscript of the thirteenth century. 1. The Wheel of Fortune, surrounded by 24 medallion representations of the various stages of life, &c. 2. Our Saviour and David, with six medallions of the Evangelists and others. 3. Six medallions and six smaller ones representing Scripture incidents. 4. The Stem of Jesse. 5 and 6. The Last Judgment. On vellum. Laid down on crimson paper with guards. Folio.

673.—Stefano della Bella, Deux Gouaches. Two highly-finished paintings in body colours, representing the sending forth of Jesuit missionaries, and illustrating, respectively, the texts: Euntes in mundum universum prædicare Evangelium omni creaturæ. (Marc. xvj. 15); and: Baptizantes eos in nomine Patris et Filii et Spiritus Sancti. (Mat. xxviii. 19). Of the eighteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

674.—Two fragments of a Latin deed, one in five, the other in six lines, apparently in the Lombardic running-hand. A MS. of the eighth or ninth century, on papyrus. Laid down on paper and bound in olive morocco, folio, with Egyptian figures inside the covers. From the Saibante Collection.

675.—Anthologie des Album, composée de dessins originaux avec leur millésime. Chiefly from an album belonging to Fridericus Castilionaus. 1595-1602. A MS. of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. On paper. Quarto.

676.—L'Hippiade, ou Godefroy et les Chevaliers; de César de Nostre Dame, gentilhomme Provençal. Au Serenissime Charles, Duc de Lorraine. 1622. Autograph, unpublished. At the foot of the ornamented title page is written: César Nostradamus Patricius autor et inventor, anno ætatis lxvi. He was son of the famous mystagogue Michel Nostradamus. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto. It formerly belonged to Charles de Salincourt, afterwards to Claude François Reboucher, Conseiller au Parlement 1732; and subsequently to Charles Nodier, by whom there is a manuscript account of the author at the end of the volume, and who has devoted a chapter to the work in his "Melanges tirés d'une petite Bibliothèque." Paris, 1829, from which the following extracts are taken:—"Au mérite d'être unique, ce livre joint celui d'une magnifique conservation et d'une condition tout-à-fait curieuse. L'écriture de César de Nostradamus est aussi lisible que la plus belle impression Il est incroyable, enfin, qu'un livre si peu connu e qui ait passé pendant deux siècles de propriétaire en propriétaire, sans éveiller un seule fois l'attention d'un seul d'entre eux, soit parvenu jusqu'à nous dans un si brillant état de fraîcheur et d'intégrité L'Hippiade, toute mauvaise qu'elle est, comme poème, n'est pas sans mérite sous le rapport des recherches, et je m'étonne qu'elle n'ait pas trouvé un éditeur dans le dix-septième siècle, où l'on s'occupoit avec zèle des illustrations de notre histoire. A combien de belles recherches et d'importantes découvertes n'auroit elle pas donné lieu sur l'état personnel des croisés, sur leurs familles, leurs alliances, leurs blazons, leurs couleurs, richesses dédaignées par le Tasse et inappréciables aux yeux de nos érudits! La 'Jérusalem' est un diamant pour l'homme sensible et pour le poète; l'Hippiade auroit été une mine inépuisable pour ces éplucheurs de généalogies, qui vieillissoient dans la poussière des chartes et des chroniques." M. Barrois purchased the manuscript of Crozet for 1,000 francs, the receipt for which is in the volume.

677.—Recueil d'airs avec accompagnement de Guitare. (Par Jean Jacques Rousseau.) Autograph. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Oblong folio. The second leaf has been abstracted. The lettering "J. J. Rousseau scrip" has been put on more recently.

678-9.—D. Huot, Mon Passetemps, dédié à moi même. Two volumes consisting of extracts from various authors, in prose and verse, beautifully written in imitation of printing. With numerous well executed drawings in imitation of engravings, and some paintings in water colours. The whole, including a portrait of himself,

th century. On
bre de cinquante
3. Consisting of day "au jeu de la du glic," "aux jeu des eschais," agents for various ng to Louis and cuments are laid of the contents
he seals attached.
nd fifteenth cen-

re Vergniaux. A ches in pen-and-
of architecture,
tle is written in eighteenth or ben paper. Folio.
ant le proces de ontpensier, 1609.
enri de la Tour,
le France; Fran-
De la Hare; De
th century. On appelle de Dijon,

20 May 1717 et al papers, copies ne chapel. MSS.
teenth centuries.

ernant la Sainte vidimus of docuprivileges of the a copy of a con-earliest document
ments themselves
rteenth, fifteenth,
Folio, 10 sheets.
is of some of the

ry, containing: 1.
ndri Magni Regis illuminated initial rum atque urbium
o.
le Liege, jusqu'à
th century. On

Romains traduit
Chaudon, Docteur
Auvergne. A MS.
m. Quarto. The reserved and have The volume was les auteurs, tant illes et monnoyes statues, vaisseaux res ustensilles de lifices publics tant

e eighteenth cente. A MS. of the all octavo. With

No. 337, art. 3.
ch. In five parts.
vellum. Quarto.
ry, containing: 1.
2. Les Sentences
lio.

lorieux confesseur q). A MS. of the Folio. Loose in ois vander Burch,
tobre 1643, recom-
k on the ground of
e already printed,
acles not properly

ndas recepveur des rnes et renenghes
roy de france . . .
ing 1531. A MS.
m. Folio.
Wale, conseiller de par lui commis à
. . . en lan 1440

par les bonnes gens de Flandres, &c. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Square folio.

695.—Compte des aydes de flandres ou quartier de gand pour les termes de St. Jehan et noel mil iiii^e lxxij rendu par Jaques de Durmez. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

696.—Recepte et depense de douay et orchies pour ung an fini au xj jour de Juillet 1498. Jehan de Haussy, receveur. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum.
Folio.

697.—Ce sont les noms des citez, villes, chasteaulx et forteresses qui pour cause des appellacions sont venues a lobeissance du roy (Charles V.) et de mons^r le duc danion. Et les noms de ceulz a qui elles sont et les pays ou elles sont assises. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On cotton paper. Folio.

698.—Chronica Abbatiae Sancti Martini de Campis.
Two transcripts made in 1789 by Jean Baptiste Anne Genevieve Gaignarre, Baron de Joursanvault, from a manuscript of the 12th or 13th century in his possession.
On paper. Folio.

699.—Yue Shih Leang. (Monthly rations). Chinese.
A list of soldiers and workmen receiving monthly rations from the Chinese government. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On Chinese paper. Large quarto.
Written on a printed form. The last year mentioned is the 19th of the Emperor Taou Kwang, A.D. 1839. In native cloth cover.

700.—Keang Ke. (The record of the river.) Chinese.
The Journal (Jih Lew) of E. Shun's fishing establishment, beginning at the 3rd month of the 20th year of the Emperor Taou Kwang, A.D. 1840. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On Chinese paper. Long quarto.
In cloth of silver.

701.—Mei-ying-tso, Tze-Wel. Book II. The second book of Mei-ying-tso's Chinese Dictionary, supposed to be the first Chinese Lexicon that was arranged according to the 214 Radicals. This copy wants the first two leaves; it contains the characters belonging to nine radicals; i.e., from the 30th—Kow, the Mouth—to the 33rd—Neu, woman. Printed in China about the middle of the eighteenth century. On Chinese paper.
Quarto. In cloth of silver cover. The work was first published, according to Klaproth, in 1615.

702.—Sin Wei Chaou Shoo. The New Testament, translated into Chinese, from the Greek, by Dr. Robert Morrison. 8 vols. Printed in China from wooden blocks, in the year 1813. On Chinese paper. Octavo.
In blue cloth wrapper.

ADDITIONAL MANUSCRIPTS.

These MSS. were collected at different times by Bertram, 4th Earl of Ashburnham.

1. Biblia Sacra, cum prologis beati Hieronymi et interpretationibus Hebraicorum nominum in fine. A
MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in blue morocco, from the library of "San Lorenzo el real del Escorial,
No. 1920." On vellum. Folio.

2. Biblia Sacra, psalterio omissio, cum prologis beati Hieronymi et interpretationibus Hebraicorum nominum in fine. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in blue morocco. On vellum. Folio. From the Colophon the MS. appears to have been finished by Bartholomeus de Pergon in May 1320; and in a note on a fly-leaf in the beginning it is said to have been given by Cardinal Niccolò Cappocci to the principal monastery of the Order of Mount Olivet.

3. Biblia Sacra cum prologis beati Hieronymi et interpretationibus Hebraicorum nominum in fine. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in blue pierced velvet binding. On vellum. Folio.

4. Biblia Sacra, cum prologis beati Hieronymi et interpretationibus Hebraicorum nominum in fine. A
MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in crimson morocco. On vellum. Folio. Colophon: "Expliciunt interpretationes magistri theobaldi." "Explicit biblia domini Johannis de Lauarc' Quam Scripsit Mich' Michael Cornubiensis Clericus."

5. Biblia Sacra quatuor, scilicet libri Regum, duo Paralipomenon, duo Esdre; cum prefationibus et capitulis beati Hieronymi. A MS. of the eleventh century, in white leather binding. On vellum. Folio. Inside the original oak covers are four leaves from a service book of the tenth century.

6. Biblia Sacra Libri, scilicet, Thobias, Judith et Hester, cum prologis beati Hieronymi, necnon glossis marginalibus interlinearibusque. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in old half-binding. On vellum.
Folio.

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

7. La Bible Historial, ou les histoires escolastres. Traduction de Guyart des Moulins du latin de Pierre Comestor. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in crimson velvet. On vellum. Folio. This volume was probably written for John, King of France, or for his son, John, Duke of Berry, whose autograph signature occurs on the verso of the last leaf:—"Ceste Bible est au Duc de Berry.—Jehan." On the verso of a fly-leaf at the beginning are the following notes by the Duke's secretary, Flamel:—"Cest une Bible historial la quele est a Jehan, Filz de roy de France, Duc de Berry et Dauvergne, Conte De Poitou, Destampes De Bouloingne et Dauvergne.—Flamel." "La quelle Bible mon dit Seigneur le Duc donna ou mois de Juing Lan Mil Quatre cens & dix A noble & puissant Seigneur Messire Jehan harpedenne, Seigneur de Belleville et de Montagu, etc. Chambellan du Roy messire & de monseigneur le Duc de Berry, etc. Conseiller, &c.—Flamel." Other memoranda trace the volume through various hands till it came into the possession of Philip Dauvergne, Captain in the royal navy of Great Britain, to whom it was given by Godfrey, the last reigning Duke of Bouillon, who adopted him as his heir. It was afterwards in the collection of Sir Gore Ouseley, Ambassador Extraordinary at the Court of Persia. In July 1853 it was sold by Sotheby, under an order of the Court of Chancery, when it was bought by Sotheran & Co., of whom it was purchased by the late Earl of Ashburnham. Amongst the more distinguished of its former possessors the most remarkable are, Jean Harpedene, Seigneur de Belleville et de Montagu, who married Marguerite de Valois, legitimated daughter of Odette de Champdivers by King Charles VI.; the Maréchal de Vielleville, well known for his bravery and conduct in the wars of Francis I. and Henry II., and as having been sent out to dissuade Queen Elizabeth from assisting the Huguenots; Nicolas de Neuville, Seigneur de Villeroy, Secretary of State under four successive sovereigns of France, viz., Charles IX., Henry III., Henry IV., and Louis XIII.; and Henri Louis Hubert de Montmor, a member of the Académie Française, who died in 1679.

8. Novum Testamentum cum calendario, tabula lectionum, indice locorum communium, etc. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in the old leather binding. On vellum. Octavo. At the end of Hebrews, which is arranged last, there is the following Colophon :

Finito libro arnoldus pede saltat in uno
Benedicamus domino deo gracias.
Ad honorem dei & beatissime ecclesie
Johannes serrabula fecit curiose
Istud opus fieri late studiose.

On the last page of the table of lessons is written:—"Anno dominice millesimo ducentesimo Quarto idus aprilis Incepit fieri hic liber et quarto anno trasiacto Johannes positus fuit huic facto."

9. Evangelia Quatuor cum epistola beati Hieronymi ad Damasum, canonibus Eusebianis et argumentis Evangeliorum; sequuntur capitula lectionum Evangelii per anni circulum ad missas. A MS. of the eighth century, in golden jewelled binding. On vellum. Folio.

The binding of this MS. consists of stout boards, lined on the inside with ancient embroidered silk, and covered on the outside with beaten gold. On the upper cover are represented in relief Our Saviour on the cross, with the superscription "Hic est rex iudeorum," and angels in the four compartments formed by the cross. Surrounding and intersecting the whole surface are raised borders and lines of fretwork in gold, with elevated bosses, all thickly studded with precious stones 327 in number, and consisting of sapphires, emeralds, pearls, garnets, amethysts, etc., from the size of a pigeon's egg to that of a peppercorn. The sapphires, which are the largest of the stones, have been pierced, and seem as if they had at one time formed the beads of a necklace. The edge of this cover has also a border of a gold filagree work set with a hundred precious stones or silver substitutes for them. The surface of the lower cover is formed into a cross patee, with a border of mosaic enamels in the style called Byzantine. At the four corners are figures of the Evangelists chased in gold; but these are of more recent date. This cover also is set with precious stones, 35 in number besides one that is wanting, and it has a plain gold edging inscribed with sentences from the Gospel of St. John, in capital letters. This MS. was one of the treasures of the celebrated Abbey and Chapter of Noble Canonesses at Lindau on the Lake of Constance, and is said to have been given to them by their reputed founder Louis le Débonnaire, son of the Emperor Charlemagne. The Abbeesses had the rank of Princesses of the Empire, and tradition says that this volume was carried before them in processions of state, with the sword of justice. A letter in French, by the Baron Joseph de Lassberg, dated 29 July 1846, accompanies the volume, and explains how it came into his possession.

10. Evangelia Quatuor cum præfationibus argumentis et capitulis beati Hieronymi, epistola et canonibus Eusebii præmissis; capitula lectionum Evangeliorum anni circuli et capitula necessaria subjunguntur. A MS. of the eighth century, bound in maroon morocco semé of mullets in gold. On vellum. Folio. From the library of "San Lorenzo el real del Escorial."

11. Evangelia Quatuor cum præfationibus et capitulis beati Hieronymi, epistola et canonibus Eusebii. A MS. of the eighth century, in the old leather binding. On vellum. Quarto.

12. Evangelia Quatuor cum prologis et capitulis beati Hieronymi et canonibus Eusebii; prævia capitula lectionum per anni circulum. A MS. of the ninth century, in the old blue linen binding. On vellum. Octavo. The covers are very stout oak boards; on the outside of the lower one is a hollow in the wood containing three small parcels of relics tied up in linen cloth with parchment labels. One purports to be a fragment of the wood of the cross, another a relic of St. Thomas. They were concealed under the linen covering until they were some years ago discovered by cutting it open.

13. Evangelia Quatuor cum prologis et capitulis beati Hieronymi et epistola Eusebii. A MS. of the twelfth century, in old red morocco binding. On vellum. Quarto. On the first page is written in red letters:—ILLe LIber petrI WVLLffram reparatUs ab are CUM pasChæ Vago LVX Venerata soLo.

14. Evangelium S. Matthæi cum expositione Balani Mauri, Abbatis Fuldensis et Archiepiscopi Moguntini. A MS. of the ninth century in old crimson velvet binding with enamelled side. On vellum. Folio. The beginning and end of the original MS. are wanting.

15. Apocalypsis S. Johannis cum commentario anonymo, ut videtur auctore hispanico, exscriptis Hieronymi, Augustini, Ambrosii, Fulgentii, Gregorii, Irenæi, Isidori, aliorumque compilato: sequuntur tractatuli duo de adfinitatibus et gradibus, de agnatis et cognatis, cum tabulis, necnon explanatio Danielis prophetæ auctore esto Hieronymo. A MS. of the ninth century, bound in purple velvet. On vellum. Folio. It is said to have been obtained by M. Roberto Frasinelli, of Madrid, from the Abbey of Valcavado in Spain, in exchange for a silver watch worth thirty francs. See M. Libri's letter in the volume. See also his "Réponse au rapport de M. Bouchy," page 69, where he refers to this volume as "un des plus anciens et des plus beaux manuscrits à miniatures qui existent en Europe." MSS. of this commentary are exceedingly rare; the present in point of antiquity and copiousness of embellishment is probably unequalled. The copy in the British Museum, which was purchased of Joseph Buonparte, is of the twelfth century.

16. Evangeliarium, sive lectiones Evangeliorum per anni circulum. A MS. of the twelfth century, in red leather binding. On vellum. Folio. The original silk guards remain attached to many of the illuminations.

17. Liber Evangeliorum totius anni secundum consuetudinem romane curie. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in old stamped leather binding. On vellum. Folio. Illuminated by Mosca, whose device or rebus, a fly, occurs on the first page, on which, and on the verso of the fourth leaf, are emblazoned the arms of Æneas Silvius Piccolomini (afterwards Pope Pius II.) while cardinal (1456-58).

18. The New Testament in the English version, usually ascribed to John Wycliffe and others, with the prologues. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in maroon morocco, richly gilt. On vellum. Quarto. This is the MS. numbered 157 in the list prefixed to the edition of the "Holy Bible in the earliest English versions," by the Rev. J. Forshall and Sir F. Madden. It contains that which they describe as the later version of the Testament. Colophon: "Here endeth the Apocalipsis. Anno domini m^{ccc} xliij^o." On the first page of the volume is written: "25 Jan. 1692. This book was shown to Mr. Wm. Fox at his examination on the behalf of John Cullum at the suit of Thomas Shaftoe in the Court of Exchequer before me, John Powell."

19. The New Testament, in the English version, ascribed to John Wycliffe and others. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in green morocco. On vellum. Folio. This is the MS. numbered 156 in the list referred to in the preceding item (No. 18), and contains what is described as the earlier version, with short glosses in-

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

gues. At the top
Reynolds ex dono
Socij;" also the ge: "Good . . .
. . . brethren.
metyme wyffe to hoose soule God
Booke unto mastre
ed in Syon." . . .
athe delyverd this omas Danvers, on ere of the reigne
he yeere of o' lord
ne. Deo gracias."
Mr. Lea Wilson by

English version, with the prologues.
and in pale Russia is the MS. num-to (No. 18) and conater version. There
ing of the volume.
itten: "Thys is M. e"—"M. edgcombs
nd; on the verso of
e fifteenth century,
ible: "A lytel boke
. . . a holy man
l be Doctor Thomas ve . . . my modir
g given by the Rev.
eir description of the aking, ink in a later
ond leaf, "M. edge-of pluckeye, 1598, kleye this 30 yeares I gster's English Hexa-
he English version,
rs, with the prologues.
bound in pale Russia
This is the MS. num-ed list, and is of that the English version,

others, with the prolo-
gure, in old calf bind-e sides. On vellum.
he above list, and con-
the later version.

the English version,
others, with the prolo-
gure, bound in blue
It is numbered 167 in ich is described as the

the English version,
others, with the prolo-
gure, in old calf
This MS. is not in-
to. It is of that which

, in the English version,
th prologue. A MS. of old leather binding. On ed 161 in the list referred excepting from chap. vii.
he earlier, with the short ritten in a modern hand, yer."

glish, translated, with a
A MS. of the fourteenth
g. On vellum. Quarto. already referred to. On boardard Dering Miles et gold.

ings, the Second book of stes, The Song of Solomon, clesiasticus, in the English ycliffe and others. A MS.
und in Russia leather. On ered 44 in the list referred , without prologues.

omon, part of the books of and selections from Eccleversion ascribed to John
of the fourteenth century, gilt. On vellum. Duo-to Messrs. Forshall and Madden when they drew up the list already alluded to.

The first leaf of Ecclesiasticus is wanting.

27b. John Wycliffe. Eighteen divers Treatises. A MS. of the 14th century, bound in brown morocco. On vellum. Octavo. The name of Thomas Wylks occurs on a fly-leaf at the beginning, that of Wylyam vycary on one at the end; also "Iste liber constat Johanni Ade."

27c. John Wycliffe. Theological Treatises in English and Latin. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in brown morocco. On vellum. Quarto. Several of the treatises, fourteen in number, appear to be unknown; others to be only extant in the Imperial Library at Vienna.

27d. John Wycliffe. A series of treatises, eighteen in number, known as "The Pore Caitif." A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in brown morocco. On vellum. Quarto. On the margins occur the names of Richard Dumbalid, George Lowson, Thomas Dod or Dode, George Sapcote, George Ratlyfe, Myles Gererd or Gerard, Nycolas Hason, and Fazakyryley. The MS. was formerly in the library of Thomas Martin of Palgrave.

28. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, necnon symbolis fidei, litania et orationibus diversis; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in calf binding richly ornamented in gold. On vellum. Quarto. At the beginning are three leaves containing prayers in Latin by a former possessor, apparently the abbot or superior of a convent. The name of "Claude de Valgrand" occurs on two of the fly-leaves.

29. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, necnon symbolo fidei, litania, etc. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in the old leathern binding. On vellum. Quarto.

30. A MS. of the thirteenth and fifteenth centuries, in the old leather binding, containing:—1. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, necnon symbolis fidei, litania et orationibus diversis; calendario præmisso. 2. Litania et orationes. 3. Orationes quindecim ad Christum cum orationibus diversis. 4. Orationes aliæ. 5. Orationes ad Beatam Virginem Mariam, etc. On vellum. Quarto. The binding is on wood boards, and the sides have the arms of Henry VIII. stamped in gold. It is probable that the later parts of the volume were written for him.

31. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, symbolis fidei, litania et orationibus; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in red morocco binding. On vellum. Folio. On the recto of fol. 2 is written in the autograph of Thomas, Lord Fairfax, "The Ladie Middleton's gift to me, Fairfax." A book-plate of the Fairfax arms is inside the cover.

32. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, litania et symbolis fidei et orationibus; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old red morocco binding in the Harleian style. On vellum. Folio. At the lower part of the first page are two compartments containing respectively a knight and a lady, both in a kneeling posture. The arms of the knight are those of St. Omer of Norfolk.

33. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, symbolo Athanasii, litania, lectionibus, orationibus et invocationibus; præcedunt orationes quædam et calendarium. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in calf binding. On vellum. Folio. Towards the end the arms of the following persons are emblazoned in some of the initials: Earl of Gloucester, Lord Fitzallan of Bedal, Earl Winton, St. George, Lord Mortimer of Wigmore, Lord Mowbray of Axholme, Earl of Warwick, Lord Percy of Northumberland, Earl of Oxford, Baron Stafford, Bohun. On the first leaf is written, "Istud Psalterium pertinet domui de Carehow;" that is the Benedictine Nunnery formerly in the suburbs of Norwich, variously denominated "Carrow," "Carow," "Kairo," or "Carhou."

34. Psalterium cum canticis sacris, litania et collectis; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in purple morocco. On vellum. Folio. The following petition occurs near the end of the litany:—"Ut me indignam famulam tuam N. & famulum tuum Heinricum & omnes michi consanguinitate uel familiaritate seu oracione coniunctos ab insidiis inimicorum visibilium, & invisibilium defendere & ab infirmitate atque ab omni perturbacione defendere et ad vitam eternam perducere digneris, te Rogamus." The legend connected with this volume is that it once belonged to Saint Cunegonde, the chaste Empress, and that the Heinrichus of the prayer was the Emperor Henry II., surnamed the Holy. As Cunegonde died in 1040, she could never have seen or possessed this MS., but the style of the paintings and embellishments renders it by no means improbable that they were copied from a work of much earlier date, it may be from

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

one which had belonged to her. It is said, and may easily be believed, that this splendid volume was formerly bound in plates of gold; that it was sent by some one who had it from a convent at Bamberg to the Mint at Munich to have the gold melted, and that having been stripped of its precious covering it remained unclaimed by the owner and was sold after a length of time by order of the Master of the Mint. It is now bound in purple morocco.

35. Psalterium cum canticis e veteri testamento, Latine et Anglo-Normannice; præcedit calendarium, collectæ quædam accessere. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in old red morocco binding. On vellum. Quarto. This MS. originally belonged to the family of Lea, la Lee, de la Lee, or del Legh, and was given by one of them to the abbey of Whalley in the county of Lancaster, as appears by the following entry at the xvj. kal. of August in the calendar:—"Obitus Tristrem' lee 'anno domini millesimo cccc^{mo} lxxix et ille dedit 'istud psalterium abbati & conventui de Ecclesia 'Whalley." A Gilbert de Legh was one of the earlier monks.

36. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in crimson morocco, containing:—1. Le Psaultier avec les cantiques sacres; 2. Les Proverbes de Salomon; 3. Ecclesiastes. On the verso of the first leaf are painted a spear and a pennon with flowers and the letter Z upon it. On vellum. Folio.

37. Psalterium cum calendario, canticis sacris et symbolo Athanasii Belgice; prævia tabula. A MS. of the fifteenth century in the old stamped leathern binding. On the first of five leaves containing on one side of each a very rich miniature painting in colours and gold, are represented the widow Antonine van Massemen and her late husband, Martin Vilain van Reessegheem, each kneeling before a stool on which is an open book. Their armorial bearings are emblazoned in four escutcheons over their heads and also on their surcoats. On vellum. Quarto.

38. Missale ordinis Fratrum Minorum secundum consuetudinem Romane curie; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in calf binding. The first page of the missal is ornamented with a rich border, a large illuminated initial, and a miniature painting. The arms and cognizances of John, King of Navarre and Arragon, are emblazoned on the lower part. On vellum. Folio.

39. Breviarium Romanum cum calendario. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in an embossed leather case. Colophon:—"Millesimo cccc. xlvij. die tercia decima 'mensis marcij, fuit completum hoc breuiarium quem '(sic) scripsit presbyter lucas de Jadra tunc archi-'presbyter malladi uicentine dyocessis et cetera per le 'quagle." The case has the following sentences:—"Semper in domino confidam," "Pax ubique dei," in raised letters. It has a leathern strap attached for the purpose of carrying it over the shoulder or suspending it to the girdle. On vellum. Quarto.

40. Breviarium patrum ordinis beate Marie de Monte Carmeli, cum calendario. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in the old leather binding. On vellum. Quarto.

41. Ordo Breviarii secundum consuetudinem Romane curie. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in crimson velvet. It formerly belonged to the Cardinal d'Armagnac, and has his arms emblazoned on the first page. He was Bishop of Rhodes, successively Archbishop of Toulouse and Avignon, and died in 1585. On vellum. Quarto.

42. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in crimson velvet binding, containing:—1. Breviarium cum calendario, præcedit forma absolutionis in extremis. 2. Horæ Beatæ Mariæ Virginis. Prefixed to the Breviary is a frontispiece of later date, containing the arms of George Egmond, Bishop of Utrecht and Abbot of St. Amand, surrounded by those of his family connexions. Various MS. extracts concerning him are inserted. On vellum. Folio.

43. Missale. A MS. of the eighth century, in crimson velvet binding. The first leaf of the canon of the mass is wanting. The initials of the canon are in gold, and part of that service is marked with "noeumes" for chanting. The whole is executed in a style of art resembling Anglo-Saxon. At the ides of September are three prayers relating to a certain Philibertus, Abbas atque Sacerdos, deceased. On vellum. Folio.

44. Missale prioratus de Giseburne in agro Eboracensi, necnon Antiphonarium, Psalterium et Cantica Sacra; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, bound in purple morocco. On the leaf preceding the calendar are some particulars in a later hand of the holy life of the blessed John of Bridlington, confessor. The following memoranda are entered in the calendar in the month of May:—xvij. kal. "Incendium ecclesie nostre Anno domini m^occ^o "lxxx ix."; xiiij. kal. "Incendium lxx. domorum "fumalium in Gyseburne anno m^o cccc^o xij." At the end of the calendar are two leaves containing the conventions of the Priory with other religious houses, as Bridlington, Burg, Kirkham, Hersteldesham, Brinksburne, Wyteby, &c., &c., &c. Several leaves are wanting in different parts of the volume, others have had the margins cut away. Walter Hemingford, the chronicler, was a canon of Giseburne Priory. He died in 1347. On vellum. Folio.

45. Missale secundum usum Anglicanum, cum calendario. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in pale Russia leather. At the foot of the page containing the prayer for departed souls is written, "Orate pro animabus Johannis Nuborgh, Johannis Fitzjames, Alicie uxoris sue et magistri Ricardi Fitzjames olim Londiniensis episcopi;" and on the last page, "Missale Reverendi patris Ricardi Fitzjames nuper Londiniensis episcopi anno 1506 usque ad annum 1521 quo obiit et successit ei Cuthbertus Tonsall in episcopatu." The latter memorandum is apparently in the handwriting of Cuthbert Tonsall. On vellum. Quarto.

46. Missale ad usum ecclesie Divionensis, cum notis musicis; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in calf binding. The calendar has the signs of the zodiac in medallions on a gold ground, with representations of the occupations and sports befitting each month. On vellum. Folio.

47. Pontificale sive Ordinis Pontificalis liber in usum ecclesie Mimatensis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in old Russia binding. The following sentence occurs at the top of the second column on the recto of the last leaf but two: "Explicunt benedictiones solennes a venerabili patre domino guillielmo episcopo mimateense." And at the angles of the border on the first page are painted the arms of Guillaume Boisratier, Bishop of Mende (Mimatensis) in the year 1408, and Archbishop of Bourges in the same or the following year. He was chancellor to John, Duke of Berry, and a leading man of his time. At the top of the first page is written: "Coll. Paris. Socie^{te} Jesu;" and, at the foot: "Paraphé au desir de l'arret du cinq Juillet mil sept cens soixante trois. Hesnil." On vellum. Folio.

48. Officia Liturgica, septem Psalmi penitentiales, et alia; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old crimson velvet binding. On page 33 is the autograph of Elizabeth of York, Queen of Henry VII. "Elizabeth y^e queene." The volume afterwards belonged to Mary Queen of Scots, according to the following certificates attached to one of the fly-leaves:—"This book was given me by my mother, who told me that it belonged to Mary, Queen of Scots, and was given by her, the night before she was beheaded, to one of her attendants who was of my mother's family.—Dorothy Osborne." "Written at Cheriton, and at my request, by Mrs. Osborne in 1787. Edmund Ferrers, Rector of Cheriton, Hants." "The lady to whom it was given was Dorothy, daughter of Sir Christopher Willoughby, by Elizabeth his wife, sister and heir of Gilbert Lord Talbois of Kime in Lincolnshire, in 1536. See Jacobs' Peerage, vol. 2d, pa. 402. The present Lord Middleton is descended from a younger branch of this family.—E. Ferrers." On vellum. Quarto.

49. Horæ Beatæ Mariæ Virginis, cum septem Psalmis Penitentialibus, litanis, precibus piis, orationibus, et officio mortuorum; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in orange morocco case. On the verso of the second leaf are represented a knight and a lady in the attitude of prayer before the Virgin and Child. The armorial bearings have been obliterated from the surcoat of the knight and from the compartments below the figures, but enough remains to show that the persons represented are John Talbot, first Earl of Shrewsbury and his second countess, Margaret, daughter of Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, for whom doubtless the volume was written. On the same page are two garters with their mottoes and a daisy (marguerite) within each. The same flower occurs in the borders. Then there is a cypher of the name Margaret surmounted by a coronet and surrounded with a golden chain and a wreath of daisies. The portraits are well preserved. That of the Earl is like others that are known of him. The volume afterwards belonged to "P. Richardetus Abbas, Bibliothecæ Epternacensis (Eternach) 1610." On vellum. Octavo.

50. Preces Piæ. Meditationes beati Augustini de spiritu sancto, orationes, sermones, et alia. A MS.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

rk Russia leather.
Liber iste pertinet
e Londonias iuxta us Rolbst attulit
r licenciam Reve-byth prioris tunc
....." At fol.
Salutationis matris donias iuxta Smyf-
William "Tinbigh"
1499 to 1529. The
Priory in Somer-

Beatae Mariae Vir-rium abbreviatum,
of the fifteenth cenrepresenting a curious period. On vellum.

nglish, with a calennth or the beginning vellum cover. Seve-parts of the volume.
coughé" and "Ester

e, cum Septem Psal-calendario præmisso.
in old red morocco
e calendar is written:
remont." On vellum.

ine de Sancto Spiritu: a quædam. A MS. of rocco binding, written has the name of "La
the College of Louis le

Psalmi Pœnitentiales, alendario præmisso. A in old yellow morocco
n of early French art.
ned in various parts of ginis secundum usum

Officia, Septem Psalmi
es quinze ioyes de nostre stre seigneur." Calen-fteenth century, in dark
Quarto.

etc. A MS. of the fifleather binding. It for-Bourgeoys, procureur en his son Raymond, mar-
The first leaves contain a d the testament of the her part of the volume.

dario gallice. A MS. of fawn coloured morocco.
he most part in French,
ges. On vellum. Quarto.
m Psalmi Pœnitentiales,
io. A MS. of the fifteenth leather binding. On one
On the inside of the upper a van Egmond, and on b van der Does Symonsz."

sem Psalmi Pœnitentiales, io præmisso. A MS. of the ret binding. On the second painted vase bearing the ing representing the raising Vigilie mortuorum" bears xi." On the next page is

The beauty of the illumite Mr. Samuel Woodburn to lyck. On vellum. Quarto. em Psalmi Pœnitentiales, et
o. A MS. of the fifteenth cen-ding. On vellum. Quarto.
ptem Psalmi Pœnitentiales, alendario. A MS. of the imson velvet binding, with a s of the ornamentation are devices, however, are notice-such as the deaf adder, the ing beacon, and the fruitful
F. S., L. M., N. A., C. J. F., ers occur in various parts of
lum. Quarto.

63. Officia Liturgica, Septem Psalmi Pœnitentiales, et alia, cum calendario. A MS. of the fifteenth century in contemporary binding, inlaid covers with silver rings, chased corners and clasps, and inside linings with impressions from an antique medallion, the whole enclosed in a morocco case. This MS., one of the most perfect specimens of Italian art in existence, formerly belonged to the Baroncelli family, for one of whom it was in all probability executed, as their arms are emblazoned in the illuminations. It was brought to England by the late Edward Dennistoun, whose detailed description of the paintings, etc. is in the case, as well as an account of the manner in which it came into his possession, and of the various attempts that were made by the heirs of Cardinal Albani to induce him to relinquish it. On vellum. Quarto.

64. Officia Liturgica, Septem Psalmi Pœnitentiales et Psalmi graduales, cum calendario. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in purple velvet binding, embroidered in gold with the crest and coronet of the Marquis of Blandford on the sides, morocco and silk linings, and gilt and goffered edges. On vellum. Quarto.

65. Officia Liturgica, cum Septem Psalmis Pœnitentialibus. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in purple velvet binding, with morocco case. Several coats of arms occur in different parts of the volume. On vellum.
Quarto.

66. Horæ Beatissimæ Virginis Mariæ secundum usum Romanæ Ecclesiæ necnon Officia, Septem Psalmi pœnitentiales, etc., calendario præmisso. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in red morocco binding. On vellum.
Octavo.

67. Officia Liturgica, Septem Psalmi Pœnitentiales, et alia; calendario præmisso. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in crimson velvet binding, with silk linings, silver gilt corners and clasp. On each side is the cypher of the Empress Maria Theresa, surmounted by the imperial crown in silver gilt. On vellum. Quarto.

68. Officia Liturgica, Septem Psalmi Pœnitentiales, et alia. A MS. of the fifteenth century in crimson velvet binding. Preceding and following the services are private prayers in different hands. On vellum. Quarto.

69. Liber Choralis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in red Russia leather, and written in the large church character, with rubrics and initials. On vellum.
Folio.

70. Liber Choralis. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in red Russia leather, and written in the large church character, with musical notes throughout, and magnificently illuminated.

71. La Passion de Nostre Seigneur Jhesu Crist translatée de Latin; sensuit la vengeance de la mort de nostre vray Sauveur. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in red morocco. Begins: "A la louange de dieu et de la vierge souveraine et de tous sains et saintes de paradis, et a la requeste de excellente et redoubtee dame et puissant princesse Dame ysabel de Bauieres par le grace de dieu royne de france, jay translate ceste passion de latin en françois sans y adiouster, moralitez histoires, exemples, ou figures."
Lan mil trois cens quatre vings et dixhuit. Prenant mon commencement depuis la suscitation du ladre."
..... Fol. 61: "Sensuit la vengeance de la mort et passion de nostre uraysauveur et redempteur ihesu crist laquelle quarante ans apres ce que ihesu crist morut en la croix fut faite et demenee par les Empereurs rommains titus et vespasianus sur les Juifs par la maniere qui sensuit." On vellum. Folio.

72. Vita Jesu Christi iconibus depicta. A MS. of the fourteenth century bound in crimson morocco, with thirty-eight miniature paintings by an Italian artist, executed in colours and gold on a blue ground within borders of red and blue, and in perfect preservation.
On vellum. Folio.

73. Historia von Leiden und Sterben unsers Herren
Jesu Christe unsern Erlöser, P. P. Rubens Ex. 1598.
A MS. of the sixteenth century in dark morocco binding.
It contains seventeen highly finished paintings in Indian ink, including the title page. Each design is followed by an extract from the gospels descriptive of the subject represented, and by a prayer and meditations, all in German and very neatly written; the initials slightly heightened with gold. The paintings are all inscribed with the letters P. P. R. F. On one of the fly-leaves is written:—"This booke was given by Peter Paul Rubens to his teacher and friend Octavio Van Veen.—Charles Henry Van Prague." "It was purchased in the year 1727 from the library of J. C.
Vanderneer of Amsterdam. On vellum. Quarto.

74. Emblemata Varia. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in red morocco binding, containing one hundred

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

tinted pen drawings, probably by Gabriel Simeone, with mottoes in Latin. On vellum. Quarto.

75. S. Aurelii Augustini de Musica libri sex; Categoriæ Aristotelis ab Augustino in Latinum versæ; ejusdem Augustini opuscula quædam. A MS. of the thirteenth century, bound in blue morocco. On the last leaf is written:—"Liber sancte marie de camberone" (in Hainault). On vellum. Folio.

76. Pauli Orosii et S. Augustini Dialogus. A MS. of the twelfth century, in calf binding. On vellum. Folio.

77. Firmiani Lactantii Divinarum Institutionum adversus gentes, Libri VII. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in the old stamped leather binding. On vellum. Folio.

78. Beati Johannis Crisostomi Omelie Lxxxij. super Euangelio Johannis Evangeliste. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in the old boards with calf back. On the verso of the first leaf is written:—"Liber domus Jhesu de bethleem de scheene ordinis carthusiensis quem scripsit dominus Johannes Whetham monachus professus domus londoniensis ejusdem ordinis pro venerabili patre d. Radulpho Tracy tunc priore dicte domus de scheene, ad instantias Reuerendi patris & domini J. yngylby tunc episcopi Landauensis, qui etiam quondam fuit prior de scheene & predecessor immediatus predicti patris Radulphi Tracy anno domini 1496. Ad laudem dei. Amen." Colophon: "Orate specialiter pro anima d. J. Whetham qui hunc librum scripsit anno domini m^oliij. lxxxvj. ipsum inchoans in medio quadragesime, cuius finem fecit circa festum Sancti Mathei Apostoli eodem anno," &c. John Ingleby was made Bishop of Llandaff in the year above mentioned; this volume was doubtless his parting gift to the succeeding Prior of Shene. On vellum. Folio.

79. Beati Johannis Crisostomi de Compunctione cordis libri duo: ejusdem de eo quod Nemo leditur nisi a seipso; ejusdem de Reparatione lapsi. A MS. of the twelfth century, half bound in pale Russia leather. On vellum. Folio.

80. S. Bernardi Abbatis Claravallensis ad dominum Papam Eugenium de Consideratione libri quinque. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in calf binding. At the top of the first page is written:—"Assit principio sancta maria mco, ne scribam vanum duc pia virgo manum." On vellum. Folio.

81. Tractatus et Sermones Chrysostomi, Ambrosii, Ailredi, Augustini, Anselmi, Bernardi et aliorum. A MS. of the thirteenth century, bound in pale Russia leather, and containing thirty-four tractates, with a table of contents prefixed in a somewhat later hand. On vellum. Quarto.

82. Generale Concilium Lateranense Anno Domini mclxxx., mense martio, Romæ in Basilica Constantini, presidente Alexandro III. summo pontifice, celebratum. A MS. of the twelfth century, in calf binding. "On the last leaf occurs the name of Edmund de Toulingson," and the words "Antonyroughton is the right owner of this book, and I found it at Whityam Hall." On vellum. Quarto.

83. S. Thascii Cæcilii Cypriani, Episcopi Carthaginensis Opuscula varia, etc. A MS. of the eleventh century, in vellum binding, containing 71 articles. On the first page is written, in a hand of the fourteenth century "Istum librum quem dedit Rex francie (Charles V.) pro libraria communi istius conuentus Trecensis (Troyes) ordinis predicatorum quicunque alienauerit sententiam excommunicationis ipso facto (incurrat) sicut apparet per literas papales quarum copia est in fine hujus libri scripta." This copy of the papal brief is wanting with the last leaf or leaves of the volume. At the top of the first page is also written;—"Collegii Paris. Soc. Jesu," and on the inner margin, "Paraphe au^e desir de l'arret du 5 Juillet 1763. Hesnil." The MS. is one of those given by Charles V., King of France in 1371, to the Convent of the Jacobins or Friars Preachers at Troyes, and which were sold as useless by an ignorant prior in the sixteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

84. Joannis Duns Scoti doctoris subtilis, ordinis Minorum, Questiones super libro primo Sententiarum Petri Lombardi, cum prologo. A MS. of the fifteenth century in purple velvet binding. On vellum. Folio.

85. Petri Lombardi, Episcopi Parisiensis, Sententiarum libri quatuor. A MS. of the twelfth century, in old white leather binding. On vellum. Folio.

86. Petri Lombardi, Episcopi Parisiensis, Collectanea in Epistolas Pauli ad Romanos et ad Corinthios I. ex SS. patribus Ambrosio, Hieronymo, Augustino, aliisque. A MS. of the twelfth century, in vellum binding. The volume ends with a portion of the "Capitula in epistola ii. ad corinthios," and is part of the author's general commentary on the Epistles of St. Paul, with the text. On vellum. Folio.

87. Gratiani Decretum, sive discordantium concordia canonum, cum glossis Johannis Semecæ Teutonici atque additionibus Bartholomæi Brixiensis. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old Russia leather binding. On vellum. Folio.

88. Beati Thome de Aquino Ordinis Predicatorum Questiones de potentia dei; ejusdem Questiones de malo. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in old Russia leather binding. Colophon:—"Questiones de malo beati Thome de Aquino ordinis predicatorum. Expliciunt feliciter. Anno a Jhesu Cristi (sic) millesimo quadragentesimo at octuagesimo, die xxx^o Decembris." At the foot of the first page are the arms of Ferdinand II., of Aragon. At the top of the same page:—"Collegij Paris. Societatis Jesu," and on the inner margin:—"Paraphe au desir de l'arret du 5 Juillet 1763." On vellum. Folio.

89. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in the old boards with calf back, containing:—1. Francisci Petrarchæ de Secreto Conflictu curarum suarum libri tres. 2. Alani de Insulis de Planctu Naturæ liber. 3. Jehan de Mehun Epitaphe des Trespasses en François et en Latin. 4. Radulphi de Preslis Morale compendium de Republica, On vellum. Folio.

90. Sanctorum et Martyrum vitæ at Passiones. A MS. of the tenth century, in purple velvet binding. On vellum. Folio.

91. Legenda Sanctorum, or lyves of Seyntis, in Englysshe. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old calf binding. "Here begynneth the boke of the lyfe of Seyntis called in Latyn Legenda Sanctorum. Of the whiche begynneth first the lyfe of Seynt Andrewe the Apostle." At the top of the leaf containing the table occur the autographs of "Thomas North Eques," "William Browne," "Wm. Herbert 1776." The arms of Elias Ashmole are stamped in gold on the sides. On vellum. Folio.

92. Legenda Sanctorum per Jacobum de Voragine compilata, cum prologo et tabula. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in pig skin, binding. On vellum. Folio.

93. La vie des Sains appelee legende doree en francois (Traduction de Jean de Vignay). A MS. of the fourteenth century, in calf binding. On vellum. Folio.

94. Beati Gregorii Romani Pontificis vita per Joannem ecclesiæ romanæ diaconum libris quatuor scripta ad Joannem Papam VII. (vel VIII.) cum præfatione. A MS. of the ninth century, bound in dark morocco, which formerly belonged to the priory at St. Pierre-le-Moustie in the diocese of Nevers. On vellum. Folio.

95. Lives of Saints in English verse. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in calf binding. On vellum. Folio.

96. The Life of Saint Katerne, the Holī Virgyne. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in calf binding. This life is taken from the Golden Legend, and is the same version as that printed in 1483 by Caxton, by whom, however, it was somewhat modernized. On vellum. Quarto.

97. Roberti Grossthead, S. Bernardi, S. Bonaventuræ et aliorum Opuscula varia. A MS. of the thirteenth century, bound in pale Russia leather. On the verso of the first leaf is written: "Liber monasterii beate marie de Byland. (in Yorkshire) ex procuracione fratris Thome Welton scholaris ejusdem monasterii et Bachalarij in divinis. Quem librum J. Orwell presbiter monasterii beate marie virginis Eboraci habet ex mutuo. On vellum. Quarto.

98. Domini Innocentii papæ III Epistolarum et Decretalium libri decimus, undecimus et duodecimus, sive Pontificatus annorum x. xi. xii., Christi 1207-1209, Regesta, cum tabula. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in old calf binding. On the first page of the Regesta is the name "Baldwynus nolun," and on fol. lxxx. "Will's scofer constanc' dioc' scribit xjm. librum." On vellum. Folio.

99. A MS. of the thirteenth century, bound in blue morocco, containing:—1. Ricardi de S. Victore Explanaciones visionum Ezechielis prophetæ. 2. Alcuini De salute animæ liber. 3. Smaragdi, abbatis, Liber Vocatus Diadema monachorum. 4. Missæ Græcorum SS. Basilii et Chrysostomi, in Latinum versæ. 5. Baldrici Abbatis, Historia captionis Hierosolymæ; et alia quædam. At the end of the volume is written, "Iste Liber est de valeluenti," that is the Abbey of Vauluisant in Champagne. On vellum. Folio.

100. Ubertini Pusculi Brixiensis, Constantinopoleos libri quatuor. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in old green morocco binding. Tiraboschi mentions this poem, but speaks of it as unfinished. In this MS. it is complete. On vellum. Quarto.

101. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old vellum binding, containing:—1, Martini Poloni Chronica

EARL OF ASHBURNHAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

page is written,
illet 1763. Hes-ous, ou morir datury, half bound,

olio.

egorique en cinq
y, in calf binding.
d. The arms of onsistorianus, are his book plate is environ, 70 pieces.

crimson morocco.
"Ce libure est a uemene," with a vellum. Folio. of the fourteenth

S. of the sixteenth
avo. It contains:
nquante rondeaux,
rondeaux de lamant
he MS. bears the
" and "Ysabeau
Rob. Jardel, Bran.

1. Tresor. A MS. of
Folio.

estiarum, Liber. A
lum. Folio.

vix, Livre de Chasse.

On paper. Folio.
e du liure de chasse
eaur.

Ferrariensis, vocabu-
he fifteenth century,
t the beginning, and
of-arms emblazoned, and of other Venetian emblazoned on the
1, as appears from the
On vellum. Folio.

A MS. of the four-ve been inherited by ndant of that family, ni da Montanto. On

A MS. of the four-
lio. The MS. ends in

A MS. of the fifteenth
ae autograph "Bened.
of the Paradiso.

A MS. of the fifteenth
the end of the Colo-Reposta che fece Dante sto Da uno maestro di ia, che egli era heretico, uero christiano."

A MS. of the fifteenth

1, et quedam alia. A
On vellum. Folio.

primo Edwardi III. ad
A.D. 1326-1468, cum ca-
Magna Carta ad annum dit Modus tenendi Parf the fifteenth century.

etalibus. Constitutiones ous Cardinalium Legatoquedam. A MS. of the Quarto. On the verso

the Bull of Pope Gregory
eter's pence in England,
ted by each diocese to an ndred pounds and half a ract from the laws of St.
nd at the end the number oldings, counties, &c. in ion of Hadith or traditions ngs of Mahomet. A MS. vellum. Folio. The first which being translated is as uine Traditions authenticuthful witness to another;

Muslim Ibn al-Hajjaj, the
this is according to the text

"taught by Abul-Abbás Ahmad Ibn al-Hasan, who had
"it from Abu Ahmad Muhammad Ibn Isa Ibn 'Amra-"waih al-Julúdi, who had it from the author." On a fly-leaf at the end of the work is a note which is translated thus:—"Praise be to God. This is a blessed "book: it was read in the Kaabah; it has run between "Safa and Marwa (the sacred hills of Mecca); it was "read in the holy mosque of Mecca; it was read at "Arafat and Mina; it was read on the tomb of our "lord and master Mohammed; it was read in the "mosque of our lord Abraham (at Hebron); and in the "holy mosque of Jerusalem. It was carried in the "baggage of him who wishes for mercy and forgive"ness from his lord, the pilgrim, Ahmad, son of the "pilgrim Hassán al Kaisi, a native of Ribát al-Fath;
"may God the most high protect it. In the year 764
"(A.D. 1363). May God have mercy on its writer, reader, "transcriber, and on all Mussulmans." A note on the fly-leaf at the beginning records the donation of this book to the college of Napoli, in the Morea, for the benefit of the professors and students. It was amongst the plunder taken by the Greeks at the fall of Napoli di Romania in 1822, and was bought there by the late Lord Ashburnham.

190. The Coran in Arabic. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

191. Yüsuf wa Zulaikhā, Joseph and Zuleika, the Persian poem by Maulānā Nūr ud-din Abd ur-rahmān Jami.
A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

192. Kuliyāti Sa'di, a complete collection of the compositions in prose and verse of Sheikh Muslih ud-Din Sa'di of Shiraz. A MS. of the fifteenth century.
On paper. Quarto.

193. Al-Khulāsah Fi-nnahw, The Quintessence of Grammar, by the Sheikh Shams un-din Mohammed Ibn Malik, with notes. A MS. of the seventeenth century.
On paper. Quarto.

194. A Service Book of the Armenian Church, containing directions for the celebration of Mass, and the other offices on Sundays and feast days throughout the year. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum.
32^{mo}.

195. A General Treatise of Architecture, divided into six books, drawn with pen and common ink, and finished in the year 1751, by J. Aheron. On paper.
Folio.

196. Cronica de Regibus Angliæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Begins, "Hic incipiunt Cronice bone "et compendiose de regibus anglie a noe usque in "hunc diem" (about 1486.) Vellum. A roll 20 ft. 6 in. long and 14 in. wide. On wood rollers. It contains 31 medallion miniatures of the Sovereigns at full length, commencing with Brutus and then from Alfred to Richard III., but omitting Edward V., with short historical notices to each.

197. A Mortuary Roll, from the Abbess and Convent of the Benedictine Abbey of Forest near Brussels, dated 16 August 1458. On vellum. To the foot of the original letter are appended a number of sheets of parchment forming a continuation 38 feet long and containing nearly 400 certificates of superiors and other officers of abbeys, monasteries, churches, and religious houses where the roll, desiring prayers for the souls of the deceased abbess Elizabeth and of seven sisters of the convent, also deceased, was presented. The first is dated on the 6th of September 1458, and the last on the 8th of July 1459. The abbess whose death is commemorated was Elizabeth Sconincx, the seventeenth in order, who was succeeded by Margaret de Scoers, who issued the present letter.

198. An allegorical representation of the processes and ingredients for producing the Philosopher's Stone.
A paper roll of the sixteenth century, mounted on cloth with wood rollers. On the right hand margin is written,
"This large rolle was drawne in colours for me at
"Lubecke in Germanye 1588," and on the outside,
"Ex Museo Nob. Com. de Yarmouth." "Johannes Ives
"de Yarmouth, Norfolk."

199. A Map of Europe. "Giorgio Isideri dicto Cala-
"podna fecit nel anno 1570." A sheet of vellum 26½ in. high by 35½ in. wide. Besides Europe it contains the northern part of Africa, Anatolia, and part of Syria.

200. Venice, a collection of miniature paintings, eighteen in number, abstracted from Ducali. A MS.
of the sixteenth century, containing portraits of Antonio
Barbaro, Vincenzo Capello, Pietro de Chataispetro, Andrea Contareno, and Pondolfo Guoro, whose names appear; other portraits are denoted by the arms as members of the families of Bragadino, De Rossi, Corraro, Malapieri, Foscarini, Pandolfini, Varotari, and Con

P

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

"courses, kennynges, floodes, ebbes, hauens, roades, sounds, and daungers aboute the whole Ile of Britanny and the Ile of Irelande, with the borders also of lytle Britanny, Normandy, Picardy, Flaunders, Zelande, Hollande, & Friselande . . . with cartes and other necessary thinges. . . . Item a prognostigation for mariners. . . . This Rutter is diuided into iiij. bookes." A MS. of the sixteenth century, in old calf binding. On vellum. Quarto.

115. Wardrobe Book. A MS. of the thirteenth century, half bound, morocco back. Liber receptarum exituum et expensarum Garderobe, anno xxvij. regis Edwardi I., A.D. 1299, 1300; una cum expensis hospitij Regis et prestitis ejusdem anni. These Wardrobe accounts were published by the Society of Antiquaries with observations by John Topham, Esq., in 1787; but the MS. in their library, from which the text was taken, being imperfect at the commencement, the account of receipts was only given in part. The first ten leaves of the present MS. contain what is wanting in the printed edition. At the end are 19 leaves containing an account of "prestitis" to sundry persons amounting to 3,466*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* These have not been printed. On vellum. Folio.

116. Wardrobe Book. A MS. of the fourteenth century, half bound, morocco back. "Jornale Garderobe de receptis et exitibus eiusdem incipiens vij^o die Aprilis, anno xxxj." (Regis Edwardi I., A.D., 1303) It ends on the 26th day of April 1305. On vellum. Folio.

117. Wardrobe Book. A MS. of the fourteenth century, half bound, morocco back. "Liber de exitibus Garderobe annis xxxii-xxxv. regni Regis Edwardi I., A.D. 1303, 4-1306, 7. On vellum. Folio.

118. Wardrobe Book of Queen Eleanor, first consort of Edward I. A MS. of the thirteenth century, half bound, morocco back. "Liber domini Johannis de Berewyk de expensis in Garderoba Regine (Eleanore) anno Regis Edwardi (I.) xvij. (1289-90)." Receptus "(et expensus) Denarium in Garderoba illustris Regine Anglie consortis, Domini Regis tempore Johannis de Berewyk, thesaurarii ejusdem; a festo sancti michaelis anno R. R. E. xvij. finiente, usque ad idem festum anno xvij. finiente." Continued to the 30th of Novr. anno R. xix. A.D. 1291. On vellum. Folio.

119. The Rev. John Sym's Day Book. An autograph MS. of the seventeenth century, in old leathern binding. "A day booke of some special passages & mercyes both personall and nationall, particular and generall, since these troubles in the kingdome began. Anno "Dni. 1640." The writer appears to have been a Devonshire clergyman attached to the Parliamentary side. On paper. Octavo.

120. Collectio tractatus varios, de Astrologia, de Astrologia, de Medicina, etc., complectens. A MS. of the thirteenth century, bound in pale Russia leather, and containing: 1. Calendarium, with additional notes and memoranda at the foot of each page. 2. De fleobotomia. 3. Tabulæ ad annos bissextiles, epactas, indicationes, etc., sciendos. 4. Descriptio Astrolabii (Liber Messehallæ). 5. De magisterio astrorum. 6. Description de l'ymage par quelle home puet saver quel signe del firmament governe ses membres. 7. Tabulæ locorum planetarum, cum prologo. 8. Liber iiij^o tractatum batholomei alkaludhi in scientia judiciorum astrorum. 9. Scientia projectionis Radiorum (stellarum). 10. Tractatus de Chiromantia cum figuris. 11. Tractatus astrologicus, de considerationibus in rebus, de interrogationibus, de timore, etc., etc. 12. Tractatus 4^{us} libri albumazar. 13. Tractatus de curatione vulnerum apostematum, ulcerum crancorum, fistularum, etc. 14. Antidotarium. 15. A treatise on the composition of the human body, and on the diseases to which it is subject. 16. De distemperatione colorum, etc. 17. Various recipes, charms, etc., in Latin and French. 18. Forms of salutation, of addressing, or of speaking, of persons of rank and others, in Latin. On vellum. Quarto.

121. A collection of astronomical, astrological and medical tracts, memoranda, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in the old leather binding. On vellum and paper. Quarto.

122. A collection of medical tracts, in verse and prose, recipes, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, bound in dark morocco. On vellum and paper. Quarto.

123. Tractatus Astrolabii, description and use of the Astrolabe. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in purple morocco. On the first page is written: "Codex iste attinet magistro Willielmo Mason in utroque Jure Do(ctori)," and on the last page, "This booke was "given me by my louing and good seruant Mr. Robert Abbdy, one of the most learned men of the age in the knowledge of tongues.—Kenelme Digby." On vellum. Quarto.

124. Geoffrey Chaucer, the Canterbury Tales. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in the old leather binding. It wants the end of the Man of Law's tale and the beginning of the Squire's; also part of the tale of Melib and the conclusion of the Persones tale. A leaf from a different MS. is inserted containing part of the Pardoner's Preamble. The volume is said to have belonged to the Congreve family. On vellum. Folio.

125. Geoffrey Chaucer, the Canterbury Tales. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old calf binding. The first and third leaves are wanting, as are two or three others in the course of the volume and several at the end. The text breaks off in the Persones tale, "and some tyme the riches of a man is cause of." On vellum. Folio.

126. Geoffrey Chaucer, the Canterbury Tales. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in the old leather binding. Imperfect at the beginning and end, and also in other parts. On vellum. Folio.

127. Geoffrey Chaucer, the Canterbury Tales. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in dark morocco. The volume formerly belonged to "Max' Dalysen" or "Dallison." On vellum. Folio.

128. Geoffrey Chaucer, collections for the edition of his works begun by John Urry and finished by Timothy Thomas. Four vols. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Three vols. folio, and one quarto.

129. The Vision of Piers Plowman. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in crimson morocco. On vellum. Folio.

130. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, in old stamped leather binding, containing:—1. The Pride of Conscience, by Richard Rolle. 2. The Vision of Piers Ploughman. 3. The Siege of Jerusalem. 4. The Good Wife Taught her Daughter. The MS. is written in different hands. On the inside of the upper cover of the binding is a note supposed to be in the handwriting of John Bale, as follows:—"Robertus Lang-lande natus in comitatu Salopie in villa Mortymers Clybery in the Claylande & within vij. myles of Malverne Hylles, scripsit, piers ploughman, li. i. "In somer season whan set was sunne." Bale is the original authority for ascribing this work to Langland. On vellum. Folio.

131. Troy Book, or the History of the Siege and Destruction of Troy, in English verse, by John Lydgate, after the Latin of Guido Colonna. A MS. of the fifteenth century, half bound. The beginning and end are wanting. The name of "Thomas Kynton" occurs on one of the margins. On paper. Folio.

132. The Book of the Governance of Kings and Princes, or Aristotle's precepts to Alexander the Great, translated into English verse by John Lydgate and another. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in crimson velvet. Foll. 1, 2, and 4, as well as several leaves in the course of the work, and some at the end, are wanting. On vellum. Quarto.

133. The Poems of Thomas Hoccleve, etc. A MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, in calf bound case. The volume formerly belonged to "Thomas Fyler," and the margins contain obituary memoranda of several persons of the same family. On vellum. Folio.

134. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in green velvet, containing: 1. The Tragedie of Duke Pompey, or the war between Cæsar and Pompey, in prose and verse (by John Lydgate). 2. The Book of the Governance of Kings and Princes, translated into English verse by John Lydgate and another; imperfect; 3. Poems (by Thomas Hoccleve?). 4. Gyles' Regiment of Princes, translated into English verse by Thomas Hoccleve, with a dialogue between the translator and a mendicant by way of prologue; imperfect. On vellum. Quarto.

135. The Prick of Conscience by Richard Rolle. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in green morocco; imperfect. On vellum. Quarto.

136. The Prick of Conscience, by Richard Rolle. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in blue morocco. The first page is defaced and almost illegible, and two leaves are wanting—one near the end of the first book; the other at the end of the seventh part. On vellum. Quarto.

137. The York Miracle Plays, anciently exhibited annually by the trades of the City at the festival of Corpus Christi. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in

EARL OF
ASHBURN
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

sheepskin binding. The names of "Thomas Cutler" and "Richard Nandicke" occur in several places on blank leaves at beginning and end. On a fly-leaf at the beginning is written "H. Fairfax's book, 1695;" and, on the verso of the same leaf, "Donum Hon^m Hen. Fairfax Arm. Rad^o Thoresby." The volume was afterwards in the Strawberry Hill Collection. The number of plays or pageants is forty-nine; the subjects of the first eleven taken from the Old Testament, the others from the New Testament. The plays were to be exhibited every year on the vigil of the feast of Corpus Christi, and the procession was to be made on the day of the feast. On vellum. Folio.

138. A Collection of Songs, Catches, Canons, Roundelays, &c., with music. A MS. of the seventeenth century in old leather binding. "Aine buik of roundells, whairin thair is conteneid songs and roundells that may be sung with thrie, four, five, or mo voices haifing prettie and plesantt letters, sum in latin and sum in Inglish, quhilks ar an hundredth in number." Collected and noted by dauid meluill, 1612." The name of "Robert Ogilvie" is stamped on each side of the binding. On paper. Octavo.

139. A collection of the Music of 164 songs for three, four, or more voices, some with the words, but most of them without, by David Melvill. A MS. of the seventeenth century, in old calf binding. The first leaf is wanting. The volume belonged in 1705 to William Forbes. On paper. Folio.

140. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in calf binding, containing: 1. Speculum vite Christi, the boke that is cleped the myrrour of the blessedde lif of Jhesu criste. (Translated from the Latin of S. Bonaventure by N., that is, Nicholas Love, Prior of the Carthusian monastery of Mount Grace de Ingleby, in Yorkshire, with additions by the translator including), 2. A short tretes of the hiest and most worthie sacrament of cristes blessedde body and the merueilles ther of. After the table there is a memorandum, in Latin, to the purport that, about the year 1410, the original copy of this book in English was submitted by its compiler, N., to Thomas Arundel, Archbishop of Canterbury, for examination, and that after some days it was returned by the archbishop to the author with particular approbation and authority to circulate the work publicly for the edification of faithful Catholics and the confutation of heretics or lollards. 3, a pistyll on the luf of God; at the foot of page 235 is written in an ancient but more recent hand, "hic liber secundum quosdam ascribitur Roberto Roole, heremite de hanpoll, de deuotissimo." 4. Of the five sorrows of our lady. 5. Poems (by Thomas Hoccleve?). 6. A treatise of contemplatif lyfe, addressed to a nun or recluse, (by Richard Rolle, hermit of Hampole?). 7. Rules for the administration of the Sacraments, in Latin verse. 8. Of the fourteen points of faith. On vellum. Folio.

141. The Mirror of the Life of Christ, translated from the Latin of S. Bonaventure, with additions. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in modern binding imitating the old style. At the top of fol. 2, verso, is written: "Iste liber est de domo assumptionis beate marie in monte gracie." On vellum. Folio.

142. Dives et Pauper; a compendious Treatise or Dialogue of the Rich and the Poor, fructuously treating of the Ten Commandments, by Henry Parker, a Carmelite of Doncaster. A MS. of the fifteenth century, imperfect at the beginning and end, in rough calf binding. On vellum. Folio.

143. Manipulus Diversarum Materialium, Visio Tundali militis, et alia quedam. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in the old leather binding. On the inside of the upper cover is written in a contemporary hand: "Liber monasterii sancte agnetis regularium in eyck;" and below, "Ce livre manuscript faisait partie de la bibliothèque de mon bisayeul et est compris sous le No. 3,544 de son catalogue; il traite de diverses matières. 1833 C. B^m de Crâmer." On the last leaf is written: "Pertinet Conventui sororum regularissarum" (sic) In oppido Maeseycken ad Sanctam Agnetam." On paper. Quarto.

144. Benedicti XIII. Antipape Testamentum, cum Epistolis et scriptis variorum super Magno Schismate in Ecclesia Romana inter Urbanum Papam VI. et Clementem VII. Antipapam, eorumque successores. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in vellum binding. The Testament is dated the last day of October 1412; but the other papers are earlier, beginning about the time of the election to the Pontificate of Cardinal Pedro de Luna who took the name of Benedict XIII. The collection comprises eighty-eight distinct pieces besides the Testament, some of them of considerable length. They consist of letters and tracts by Johannes de Linharo, Henricus de Dacia, Conradus Gelrenhusen, Gerardus Groot; many by the University of Paris addressed to Charles VI., King of France, to the several Popes, to the College of Cardinals and others; several letters from John, King of Aragon; one from the University of Oxford, addressed to King Richard II. in 1395; one from the University of Cologne; a long letter from the University of Toulouse, addressed to the King of France; the same repeated with a copious gloss "contra textum" et reprobans conclusiones ipsius; a letter from the Patriarch of Alexandria to the Archbishop of Canterbury; letters and bulls of Boniface IX., (Pietro Tommacegli), Innocent VII. (Cosimo de Migliorati), and many of Benedict XIII. himself; other letters from Louis, Duke of Orleans, John, Duke of Berry, and Charles VI. King of France; from the Cardinals at Rome, the Florentine College, the Chancery at Paris, etc., etc. Near the end are some verses in praise of the Duke of Orleans, beginning: "Mercurius summa celi delabor ab arce," which are followed by "Epistola scripta sub nomine Luciferi Principis tenebrarum." The compiler of this collection evidently belonged to the party of the Antipopes, the Roman Pontiffs being generally mentioned by their family names, or as "Intrusi." Some few of these papers are printed in D'Achery's Spicilegium 1723, tom. i; but most of them, including the Testament, the letters from the Universities of Oxford and Toulouse, and that from the Patriarch of Alexandria, appear to be unpublished. The volume was formerly in the library of Charles de Pradel, Bishop of Montpellier, 1676 to 1696, several leaves at the beginning are injured by damp. On vellum. Folio.

145. Flavius Josephus. Les anciennetez des Juifs, Livres i.-xiii. translates en Francois. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in fine old green morocco binding. The commencement of the text is wanting. The volume bears the book-plates of Nicolas Joseph Foucault and John F. Towneley of Towneley. On vellum. Folio.

146. Vincent de Beauvais. Le Miroir Hystorial, translate de Latin en Francois par Jean de Vignay. Volume II. Livres xiii.-xxiii. A MS. of the fourteenth century, bound in maroon morocco. Imperfect at the beginning. At the beginning of book xvij. is a large miniature painting containing a representation of nine kings, and at the foot of the same page are the arms of John, Duke of Berry. This leaf is now placed first in the volume. On the recto of the last leaf is the Duke's autograph: "Ce Liure est au Duc de Berry—Jehan;" and on the verso of the same leaf: "Cy fenist le second volume du livre du miroir Hystorial. Et contient ce volume vnze liures comme dit est a l'encommencement dicellui lequel est a Jehan, Filz de Roy de France, Duc de Berry et Dauvergne, Conte de Poitou, destampes de Bouloingne et dauvergne.—Flamel." This MS. is therefore of its original extent, excepting the imperfection at the beginning. It was doubtless written for the Duke or for his father, King John, as the margins of the columns are decorated with semi fleur-de-lis, and the volume in its general aspect bears a very decided resemblance to "La Bible Historial" (see No. 7 ante). On vellum. Folio.

147. Vicent de Beauvais. La tierce partie du Miroir Hystorial translate en Francois de Jehan du Vignay. Livres xvii.-xxiii. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old calf binding. The first five chapters of book xvij. are wanting. It begins in Chap. vj. "entre eulz, & apela chascun sa partie de son non." There is an introduction and a general table to the whole third part which are not in the preceding MS. (No. 146). Colophon: "Cest le tiers volume du miroir hystorial qui fu acompli lendemain de la saint loys lan de grace mil. cccij." The first page has an illuminated initial and border, with a miniature painting in two compartments, representing Saint Louis directing the author to compile the work, and Jeanne de Bourgogne, Queen of Philip de Valois, commanding Jean de Vignay to translate it. On vellum. Folio.

148. Jean Froissart. Les Chroniques de France et d'Angleterre. 3 vols. A MS. of the fifteenth century in old calf binding. "Cy commencent les croniques de France et d'angleterre comencees par discrete persone Mons' Jeh. le Bel chanoine de saint lambert du liege, et continuees jus que a la bataille de Poitiers, et apres sa mort furent compilees et parfaites par venerable homme Mons' Jehan froissart. Esquelles croniques sont contenues plusieurs nobles aneues et beaux fais darmes qui auindrent en france en angleterre en espagne en Escoce & en guiene comme on pais de Bretagne et ailleurs." The volume ends with

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

the preparations for the reception of Queen Isabelle at Paris in 1389. On vellum. Folio.

149. Les grandes Chroniques dites de S^t. Denys, depuis l'an 1180 jusqu' a 1380. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

150. Chroniques du Roy Charles VI. par Jean Juvenal des Ursins, Archeveque de Rheims. Chroniques du Roy Charles VII. par Jean Chartier, chantre de l'Eglise de S. Denis et Historiographe de France. A MS. of the fifteenth century in crimson velvet binding, and in two parts. After the Colophon to part 2, there is written in different coloured ink: "parachevees ou moys doctobre mil quatre cens quatrevingts dixhuit et escriptes par moy youn adenet serviteur de Messire Francois de Rochechouart Seigneur de Champdenier de Janssay de la Mothe de Baussay et de Saint amant en puysois, Conseiller et Chambellain ordinaire du roy Loys xij. du nom, et de son regne premier." The first page of each part has a miniature representing the coronation of the sovereign, and round the border are the arms of the Francois de Rochechouart above-mentioned, both separately and paly with those of his wife Blanche d'Aumont, accompanied by monograms of their initials F. and B. On vellum. Folio.

151. Enguerrand de Monstrelet. Extrait des histoires et croniques faites par lui, commenchant lan 1400 ou environ, et finissans lan 1422 (with a continuation in the same hand to 1428). A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

152. Le Recueil sommaire de la Chronique Francoyse, jusqu' au couronnement de Hugues Capet: en vers heroiques, par Guillaume du Bois, dit Cretin. 5 vols. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in old calf binding. Each volume, except the fourth, has a book plate with the arms of the Abbé d'Orleans de Rothelin. Vol. 4 has on the first page:—"Ce libure est a Leonor de Rohan princesse de guemene," with a monogram of her christian name. All the volumes have the stamp, on a fly-leaf, of the "Bibliothèque du roi (Louis Philippe, Neuilly)." On vellum. Folio.

153. Madame Anne De La Tour, Princesse d'Escosse, sa Genealogie, ses possessions, etc. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in calf binding, which has the arms of Paul Alexandre Petau stamped in gold on the sides, with his motto "Non est mortale quod opto," and a monogram of his surname. Inserted is an engraving by Birrell, of Queen Margaret of Scotland, sister of Henry VIII., and her third husband John Duke of Albany, Regent of Scotland. On vellum. Quarto.

154. Livre de Godefroi de Bouillon, de la Conquete de Jerusalem; Chronique des Empereurs Romains; Lettre de Prester Jehan a l'Empereur de Rome. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old calf binding. On vellum. Folio.

155. Saint Jean-Baptiste, Legende de sa vie, de sa mort, de son invention et de sa dedication. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in blue velvet binding. One or two leaves appear to be wanting besides those at the beginning and end. On vellum. Quarto.

156. Leonardus Bruni Aretinus. Livre de la premiere Guerre Punique, Traduction Francaise par Jean le Besgue. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in dark morocco. On vellum. Folio.

157. Boethius. Le livre appelle Boece de Consolation lequel translata Maistre Jehan de Mehun, en cinq livres avec glose. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in blue velvet binding. One of the minatures represents the translator offering his work to Phillip IV. of France. On vellum. Folio.

158. Boccaccio. Le Livre de Jehan Bocace des cas des nobles homme et femmes, translate de latin en françois par laurent de premier fait clerc du dyocese de troies, etc. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in green velvet binding. On vellum. Folio.

159. Christine de Pisan. Epistre d'Othea a Hector. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in crimson velvet binding. The first page has a border in colours, and a miniature showing the authoress, in a black dress, presenting her book to Louis, Duke of Orleans, son of Charles V. of France. On vellum. Quarto.

160. Philippe de Maizieres. Le liure appelle le songe du vieil pelerin adrecant au blanc faulcon aient bec et piez dorez. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in green morocco. It wants the prologue and the first chapter of liv. 1, as well as the first eleven chapters of liv. 3; but in place of the first deficiency are inserted three leaves in a similar handwriting containing the prologue, and the table of contents belonging to an historical work by "Maistre Henry Rommain, licencié in utroque jure." On vellum. Folio.

161. L'arbre des Batailles, compile par Honore Bon-nor prier de Sallon. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in crimson velvet binding. On vellum. Folio.

162. Les Cerimonies et Ordonnances qui se appartiennent a gaige de bataille fait par querelle, selon les constitucions faittes par le bon Roy Phelippe (IV. en 1306.) With seventeen additional chapters or sections concerning the election of Emperors, the advancement from one degree of nobility to another, the making of knights, appointing of captains, and other matters of ceremonial. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in the old leather binding. On vellum. Quarto.

163. Noms, Armes et Blasons des Chevaliers de la Table Ronde. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in old red morocco binding, with the Roxburghe arms in gold on the sides. Inside is the book plate of Girardot de Prefond. On vellum. Folio.

164. Le Roman de Gauvain. A MS. of the thirteenth century, in old calf binding. On the sides are the arms of Louis Alexandre, Comte de Toulouse, Admiral of France, and also those of Nicolaus Joseph Foucault, Comes Consistorianus, whose book plate is within the cover. On the first leaf is the stamp of the "Bibliothèque du roi, Palais royal." The volume was purchased at the sale of Louis Philippe's books.

165. Le Roman de Parthenopex de Blois (par Denis Piramus?). A MS. of the thirteenth century, in calf binding. On vellum. Octavo.

166. Regret de Guillaume Comte de Hainaut, par Jehan de la Motte. Le Roman du Chatelain de Concy. A MS. of the fourteenth century in old red morocco binding, on the sides of which are stamped in gold the arms of Louis Alexandre, Comte de Toulouse, Admiral of France. The volume was purchased at the sale of Louis Philippe's books. On vellum. Folio.

167. Le Roman de Tristan et la belle reyne Ysant, en prose. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in calf binding. On the first page is the stamp of the "Bibliothèque du Roi, Palais royal," and on the second the autograph of "Guillem de Sala," the transcriber. Purchased at the sale of Louis Philippe's books. On paper. Folio.

168. Histoire de Thebes. Histoire de la destruction de Troye, traduite du Latin de Guido Colonna. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Colophon to the first part: "Chy fine le tres exelente et noble ystore de thebes Escriptes par la main de Jaquotin de Lespluc." Colophon to the second part, on the last leaf but one: "Chy fine le liure de la destruction de troies, que com- posa maistre guy colompnes, lan de grasse mil. ii^e iiiij^e et sept. Escript par la main Jaquotin de lespluc." And on the last leaf: "Chy fine le tres exelent et noble ystore de troies, escriptes par le main Jaquotin de lespluc, en lan de grace mil quatre cens lix. pries pour luy." On the last leaf is also written, "Ce liure appartient a monseigneur le souuerain Bailly de Flandres, par achat quil en a fait de maistre Vatos Libraire demourant a Lille." The arms of Vilain de Gand are stamped on the sides. On paper. Folio.

169. Le Roman de Melusine, par Jean d'Arras. A MS. of the fourteenth century, wanting about 700 lines at the end, bound in crimson morocco. See the Barrois MSS. No. 590. On vellum. Folio.

170. Les Malheureuses Amours de Leriano et de Laureole, Roman. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in calf binding. Begins with the translator's dedication, at the commencement of the lines of which there are certain letters written in red ink, which form the name of Jaquete De Lansac, doubtless that of the lady addressed; while other letters written in like manner in the midst of the first four lines give the name Francois Dacy, which may be assumed to be that of the translator. Following the dedication is a preface by the same hand, in which it is stated that, having, during the expedition of Francis I. into Lombardy (in 1515) for the conquest of his ultramontane states, received this work from his good friend the Ferrarese, who had translated it into the Italian from the Spanish, and seeing that it treated of pleasant matters even for young ladies, the present translator had undertaken to put the said Italian into French. This is undoubtedly the original presentation copy. The book plate of the Marquis de Dangean is within the cover. On vellum. Folio.

171. A MS. of the fourteenth century, in old Russia binding, containing:—1. Le Roman de la Rose, par Guillaume de Lorris et Jean de Meun. 2. Le Testament de Jean de Meun. 3. Livre appelle les ans; predictions of the weather and the events of the year according to the day on which it begins. 4. (On the fly-leaves at the beginning of the volume and written in a different hand) Le Pelerinage Mestre Jehan de Mung. From the Col-

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-HAM.EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.

lege of Jesuits at Paris. On the first page is written, "Paraphé au desir de l'arrest du 5 Juillet 1763. Hes"nil." On vellum. Folio.

172. Dit du Cuer trop petit Amerous, ou morir da-mours. A MS. of the fourteenth century, half bound, purple morocco back. On vellum. Folio.

173. La Vie Humaine, poeme allegorique en cinq livres. A MS. of the fifteenth century, in calf binding. Imperfect at the beginning and end. The arms of Nicolaus Joseph Foucault, Comes Consistorianus, are stamped in gold on the covers, and his book plate is inside. On vellum. Folio.

174. Contes et Fabliaux Recueil d'environ, 70 pieces. A MS. of the fifteenth century, bound in crimson morocco. At the top of the first page is written, "Ce libure est a "leonor de Rohan, princesse de Guemene," with a monogram of her christian name. On vellum. Folio.

175. Contes et Fabliaux. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

176. Recueil de Rondeaux. A MS. of the sixteenth century, in 2 vols. On paper. Octavo. It contains:
1. Le Chapelet des Princes en cinquante rondeaux, par Jean Bouchet; 2. Les cent cinq rondeaux de lamant a l'anye; 3. Autres rondeaux. The MS. bears the autographs of "Francys Mathien" and "Ysabeau Grolhier," and the book plate of "Cl. Rob. Jardel, Bran. Sues."

177. Brunetto Latini, Le Livre du Tresor. A MS. of the thirteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

178. Bestiarium, sive de Natura Bestiarum, Liber. A MS. of the twelfth century. On vellum. Folio.

179. Gaston Phoebus, Comte de Foix, Livre de Chasse. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. Begins: "Cy commence le prologue du liure de chasse que fit le Conte febus Seigneur de beaurn."

180. Ugutonia Pisani, episcopi Ferrariensis, vocabularium, prævia tabula. A MS. of the fifteenth century, with ornamental letters in colours at the beginning, and a page containing numerous coats-of-arms emblazoned, being those of the Doges of Venice and of other Venetian families. The Foscari arms are emblazoned on the first page, and the MS. was written, as appears from the Colophon, for Francesco Foscari. On vellum. Folio.

181. Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fourteenth century, which is said to have been inherited by Victoria Malespina, the last descendant of that family, and wife of Count Guilio Barbolani da Montanto. On vellum. Folio.

182. Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio. The MS. ends in chapter 32 of the Paradiso.

183. Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio. The autograph "Bened. varchij" occurs at the conclusion of the Paradiso.

184. Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio. At the end of the Colophon, comes Dante's Credo, or "Reposta che fece Dante aldighiere quando gli fu apposto Da uno maestro di theologia, nella parte de lombardia, che egli era heretico, nella quale egli dimostra essere uero christiano."

185. Dante, Divina Commedia. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Folio.

186. Statuta Antiqua; Britton, et quædam aliæ. A MS. of the fourteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

187. Statuta Angliæ, ab anno primo Edwardi III. ad annum octavum Edwardi IV. A.D. 1326-1468, cum calendario omnium Statutorum a Magna Carta ad annum vicesimum Henrici VI. Præcedit Modus tenendi Parliamentum. 2 vols. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Folio.

188. Casus Summarii in Decretalibus. Constitutiones Provinciales cum Constitutionibus Cardinalium Legatorum Othonis et Ottoboni. Alia quædam. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On vellum. Quarto. On the verso of folio 368, there is a copy of the Bull of Pope Gregory VI. for the collection of St. Peter's pence in England, giving the sums to be contributed by each diocese to an aggregate amount of two hundred pounds and half a mark. Below this is an extract from the laws of St. Edward on the same subject, and at the end the number of churches, towns, military holdings, counties, &c. in England.

189. Sahih Muslim, a collection of Hadith or traditions recording the sayings and doings of Mahomet. A MS. of the eleventh century. On vellum. Folio. The first two pages contain the title, which being translated is as follows:—

"Musnad al-Sahih, or Genuine Traditions authenticated, handed down by a truthful witness to another; compiled by Abul-Husain Muslim Ibn al-Hajjaj, the Great Traditionist . . . This is according to the text

"taught by Abul-Abbás Ahmad Ibn al-Hasan, who had it from Abu Ahmad Muhammad Ibn Isa Ibn 'Amra-waih al-Julûdi, who had it from the author." On a fly-leaf at the end of the work is a note which is translated thus:—"Praise be to God. This is a blessed book: it was read in the Kaabah; it has run between Safa and Marwa (the sacred hills of Mecca); it was read in the holy mosque of Mecca; it was read at Arafat and Mina; it was read on the tomb of our lord and master Mohammed; it was read in the mosque of our lord Abraham (at Hebron); and in the holy mosque of Jerusalem. It was carried in the baggage of him who wishes for mercy and forgiveness from his lord, the pilgrim, Ahmad, son of the pilgrim Hassan al Kaisi, a native of Ribat al-Fath; may God the most high protect it. In the year 764 (A.D. 1363). May God have mercy on its writer, reader, transcriber, and on all Mussulmans." A note on the fly-leaf at the beginning records the donation of this book to the college of Napoli, in the Morea, for the benefit of the professors and students. It was amongst the plunder taken by the Greeks at the fall of Napoli di Romania in 1822, and was bought there by the late Lord Ashburnham.

190. The Coran in Arabic. A MS. of the nineteenth century. On paper. Octavo.

191. Yûsuf wa Zulaikha, Joseph and Zuleika, the Persian poem by Maulānā Nûr ud-din Abd ur-rahmān Jami. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On paper. Folio.

192. Kulliyāt Sa'di, a complete collection of the compositions in prose and verse of Sheikh Muslih ud-Din Sa'di of Shiraz. A MS. of the fifteenth century. On paper. Quarto.

193. Al-Khulāsah Fi-nnawh, The Quintessence of Grammar, by the Sheikh Shams ud-din Mohammed Ibn Malik, with notes. A MS. of the seventeenth century. On paper. Quarto.

194. A Service Book of the Armenian Church, containing directions for the celebration of Mass, and the other offices on Sundays and feast days throughout the year. A MS. of the sixteenth century. On vellum. 32^{mo}.

195. A General Treatise of Architecture, divided into six books, drawn with pen and common ink, and finished in the year 1751, by J. Aheron. On paper. Folio.

196. Cronice de Regibus Angliæ. A MS. of the fifteenth century. Begins, "Hic incipiunt Cronice bone et compendiose de regibus anglie a noe usque in hunc diem" (about 1486.) Vellum. A roll 20 ft. 6 in. long and 14 in. wide. On wood rollers. It contains 31 medallion miniatures of the Sovereigns at full length, commencing with Brutus and then from Alfred to Richard III., but omitting Edward V., with short historical notices to each.

197. A Mortuary Roll, from the Abbess and Convent of the Benedictine Abbey of Forest near Brussels, dated 16 August 1458. On vellum. To the foot of the original letter are appended a number of sheets of parchment forming a continuation 38 feet long and containing nearly 400 certificates of superiors and other officers of abbeys, monasteries, churches, and religious houses where the roll, desiring prayers for the souls of the deceased abbess Elizabeth and of seven sisters of the convent, also deceased, was presented. The first is dated on the 6th of September 1458, and the last on the 8th of July 1459. The abbess whose death is commemorated was Elizabeth Sconinx, the seventeenth in order, who was succeeded by Margaret de Scoers, who issued the present letter.

198. An allegorical representation of the processes and ingredients for producing the Philosopher's Stone. A paper roll of the sixteenth century, mounted on cloth with wood rollers. On the right hand margin is written, "This large rolle was drawne in colours for me at Lubecke in Germanye 1588," and on the outside, "Ex Museo Nob. Com. de Yarmouth." "Johannes Ives de Yarmouth, Norfolk."

199. A Map of Europe. "Giorgio Isideri dicto Calapodna fecit nel anno 1570." A sheet of vellum 26½ in. high by 35½ in. wide. Besides Europe it contains the northern part of Africa, Anatolia, and part of Syria.

200. Venice, a collection of miniature paintings, eighteen in number, abstracted from Ducali. A MS. of the sixteenth century, containing portraits of Antonio Barbaro, Vincenzo Capello, Pietro de Chataiapetro, Andrea Contareno, and Pondolfo Guoro, whose names appear; other portraits are denoted by the arms as members of the families of Bragadino, De Rossi, Corraro, Malapieri, Foscari, Pandolfini, Varotari, and Con

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.
—

tadini. Four of these miniatures have been severally attributed to Paolo Veronese, Paris Bordone, Girolamo dai libri, and Pordenone. On vellum. Small quarto.

201. Chronicon Scotorum Clunense, or Annals of Ireland, from the Abbey of Cluainmacnois, in the Irish language. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

202. Caitreim Thoirdealbaice, The Triumph of Turlogh, or the Wars of Thomond, in the Irish language, by John, son of Rory Mac Craith. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On paper. Folio. The following account of this work is given by Edward O'Reilly in the Transactions of the Ibero-Celtic Society for 1820, page cxxix. "A.D. 1450. At this time flourished John, son of Rory, Mc Craith, the chief historian of the Dalcassian or North Munster tribes. He wrote, in the year 1459, the Caitreim Toirdealbaig, or catalogue of the battles of Turlogh, containing an account of the wars of Thomond for upwards of two hundred years, from the landing of Henry II. in Ireland, to the death of Lord Robert de Clare, A.D. 1318."

203. Tain Bo Cuailgne, the War between Connaught and Ulster on account of the Stolen Cows, in the Irish language, by Fergus Mac Roigh. A MS. of the eighteenth century. On vellum. Quarto.

EARL OF
ASHBURN-
HAM.
—

INDEX TO EIGHTH REPORT, APPENDIX, PART III.

A.

Abbdy, Robert, MS. given by; 106 b.
 Abbot, Archbishop; 19 b.
 Abingdon: school; 9 a.
 Lord, letter of; 12 b.
 Absalom, P., drawings by; 34 b.
 Acciajoli family, the; 70 b.
 Acre in Palestine; 24 b.
 Acton:
 near Chester; 9 b.
 Thomas; 10 a.
 Adam, Mr., letters to; 9 b.
 Ade, John, MS. belonging to; 101 b.
 Advowsons, MS. relating to; 23 b.
 Aethelred, King, grant by; 28 a.
 Aethelwulf, King, charter of; 27 b.
 Agard, of the Exchequer, collections by; 22 a.
 Agra, the Taj-Mahal mausoleum; 41 a.
 Aguesseau, Chancellor d', his library; 83 a.
 Aheron, J., Treatise on Architecture; 109 b.
 Aiguillé, M. d', letters of; 93 b.
 Ailesbury:
 Earl of, Thos. Bruce; 7 a.
 Lord, letter of; 12 b.
 Ailgyth, Queen of Canute, portrait of; 25 a.
 Ailred, Abbot of Rieval; 17 b.
 Aix-la-Chapelle; 15 a.
 peace of; 89 b.
 Akenside, Mark, letter of; 10 a.
 Aland, Justice Fortescue, collections by; 20 b.
 Albani, Cardinal; 103 b.
 Albany:
 Countess of, letter of; 7 a.
 Duke of, John, Regent of Scotland; 108 a.
 Albemarle:
 Duke of, Monk, letter of (1666); 6 b.
 — life of; 12 a.
 Lord, letter to (1786); 8 a.
 — letters to (1748); 7 b, 8 a.
 Alberoni, Cardinal, life of; 12 a.
 Albon, Roger, Carmelite; 24 b.
 Alchemy, works on; 20 a.
 Aldborough manor, co. York, survey of; 30 b.
 Aldersey, William, his collections for Chester; 31 a.
 Aleppo; 10 b, 41 a.
 Alfred the Great:
 psalter of; 24 a.
 charter of; 27 b.
 will of; 25 a, 29 b.
 Algebra, Arabic treatises on; 40 b.
 Alienations, compositions for; 11 b.
 Allcock, John, treatise by; 26 a.
 Almondbury, Crossland Hall near; 33 a.
 Alt, M., Commander of the Chesterfield; 40 b.
 Ambassadors, treaties, &c., papers relating to; 13 b.
 Amboyna, massacre of; 13 b.
 Amelia, Princess, letters of; 8 b.
 America, Stamp Act of 1765; 8 b.
 Ames, Mr., letters, &c. of; 29 a.
 Amsterdam; 103 b.
 Anapolis; 11 a.
 Andredeswealde, forest of; 28 a.
 Andrewes, Sir Wm., of Lathbury, letters to; 6 a.
 Andry, C. L. F., MS. belonging to; 74 b.
 Anglesa, Lord, letter of (1666); 10 a.
 Anglesey, Earl of, the late (1671); 20 b, 21 a.
 Anjou, René d', MS. by; 75 a.
 Annals of the Four Masters, 36 a.
 Anne, Queen:
 letter of; 8 a.
 "Mrs. Morley"; 11 b.
 Duchess of Marlborough and; ib.
 and Mrs. Potter; 12 a.
 Annesley, Arthur, President of Council; 6 b.
 Anstis, Mr., letter of; 10 a.
 John, Garter, letter to; 12 b.
 — his library; 9 b.
 — MSS. of; 16 a, 18 a, 105 b, and passim.
 — collections by; 20 a, 24 b, 32 a.
 — Excerpts by; 32 a.
 — his Asplologia; 29 b.
 Antiquities, English and Foreign, MSS. relating to; 29 a.
 Antwerp, letter dated at; 6 b.

Apremont, J., note in MS. by; 108 a.
 Aquino, Thoma de, MS. of; 104 b.
 Aylesbury, document dated at; 6 a.
 Ayscongha, A. and Ester, MS. belonging to; 103 a.
 Arabic treatises, poetry, &c.; 40 b.
 Aragon, King of, John; 107 b.
 Arc, Joan of, her trial; 19 a.
 Architecture, Aheron's treatise on; 109 b.
 Arguillar, Duc d'; 11 a.
 Argyll, Duke of, letter of; 6 b.
 Arithmetic, Arabic treatises on; 40 b.
 Arlington, Lord, letters of; 6 b, 10 a.
 Armagnac, Cardinal d', MS. belonging to; 102 a.
 Armenian:
 MS., account of; 41 a.
 Church, MS. Service Book of; 109 b.
 Arras, Jean d', MSS. by; 95 b, 108 b.
 Arthur, Prince, son of Henry VII, his christening; 34 a.
 Artois:
 Count d'; 11 a.
 Comtes, Comptes de la cour des; 89 b.
 Arundel:
 Sir Thomas, letter to; 5 a.
 Earl of, his debts, &c.; 10 a.
 — letter of (1635); 10 a.
 — arraignment of; 22 b.
 Thomas, Archbishop of Canterbury; 107 a.
 Asheton, Roger, receiver of Richmond, account of; 31 a.
 Ashmole, Elias:
 letter of; 10 b.
 MS. belonging to; 104 b.
 Askew, Dr., MS. belonging to; 29 a.
 Asteley:
 Sir Jacob (1640), letter of; 12 b.
 John, in charge of Queen Elizabeth's jewels; 16 b.
 Mr., letter of; 10 a.
 Astle, Mr., letters to; 7 a, 9 b.
 MSS. in his possession; 6 a, 17 a.
 collections by; 11 a, 15 b.
 commonplace books of; 18 b.
 Aston, Sir Roger, letter of; 10 a.
 Astrolabe, the, MS. relating to; 106 a.
 Astronomy:
 Jesuit treatise on; 19 b.
 Ptolemaic System of; 36 a.
 Arabic treatises on; 40 b.
 Atterbury, Bishop of Rochester (1722), letter of; 12 b.
 Audley, Lord, trial of (1631); 22 b.
 Auge, Countess of, Alice; 24 a.
 Augmentation Office, Chartae Antiquae in; 17 b.
 Annale, Mad. d', memoirs by; 65 a.
 Austin, Sir Robert, of Hall Place; 32 a.
 Autry, J. Bourtyl d', treatise by; 93 b.
 Auxy, Jean d', MS. belonging to; 75 a.
 Avaux, Felibien des, MS. by; 97 b.
 Axholme; 101 b.

B.

Babingley, Norfolk; 30 b.
 Baccanceled, Synod of; 27 b.
 Bacon:
 Sir Francis, essays of; 9 a.
 — note by; 13 b.
 Lord, opinion by; 13 b.
 Sir Nathaniel, letters of; 13 b.
 Badius, Jodocus; 84 b.
 Bagdad, history of; 40 b.
 Bagnols, M. de, memoirs by; 97 a.
 Bagot, W., envoy to Italy, letters of; 15 a.
 Bala, description of; 40 a.
 Bainbridge, Thomas, warden of the Fleet; 21 b.
 Baiol, Matthew Henry, MS. by; 94 a.
 Bajazet, Sultan, expedition against (1396); 87 b.
 Baker, Thomas; 27 a.
 letter of; 12 b.
 his MSS. at Cambridge; 19 b.
 Balbe, Comte de, letters of; 93 b.
 Baldovini, Giovanni, correspondence of; 70 b.
 Bale, John:
 letter of; 10 a.
 note by; 106 b.

- Ballard family; 33 a.
 Ballinote, Book of; 36 b.
 Ballintober, barony of; 36 b.
 Balmerino, Lord, his execution; 11 a.
 Bamberg, convent at; 102 a.
 Bampton Straits; 40 b.
 Banbury, Earl of, letter to (1810); 8 b.
 Bangor, Bishop of (1716), Hoadley, letter of; 12 b.
 Banks, Sir Joseph, letter of; 10 a.
 Bantam, surrender of; 41 a.
 Baptendier, Chevalier de, MS., by; 92 b.
 Barbaro, Antonio, portrait of; 109 b.
 Barber, Thomas, his heraldry; 35 b.
 Barcelona, military operations in (1706); 14 a.
 Barentin, M., MS. by; 89 a.
 Baretti, letter of; 9 b.
 Barker :
 Sir Christopher, Garter; 35 b.
 Thomas, MS. copied by; 19 b.
 Barlow, Mrs., Monmouth's mother; 12 a.
 Barnes, letter dated at; 7 a.
 Baroncelli family, MS. belonging to; 103 b.
 Barrère, order by; 8 a.
 Barri, Madame du; 11 a.
 Barrington, Daines, letter of; 10 b.
 Barrois MSS., collection of; 72 b.
 Barry, Spranger, letter of; 10 a.
 Barthema, Lodovico, MS. of his travels; 75 a.
 Bassompierre, ambassador; 14 a.
 Bateman, Bishop, statutes by; 24 a.
 Bath, Lord, character of; 14 b.
 Battine, Edward, treatise by; 18 a.
 Bauduin, Franchois, MS. by; 88 b.
 Bauge, Loys, inventory by; 87 b.
 Bavaria, Dukes of, Leopold and Ferdinand; 7 b.
 Bayonne, Bishop of, ambassador; 7 b.
 Beaclerc, Lady Di, her drawings; 9 b.
 Beaufort, Duke of, letters of (c. 1760); 13 a.
 Beaumont :
 Sir John, poems by; 30 a.
 Louis de, Bishop of Paris; 83 a.
 Beauvais, Vincent de, MS. works of; 107 b.
 Beckford, W., MS. belonging to; 72 b.
 Beckwith family; 33 a.
 Bedal; 101 b.
 Bede's History, MS. of; 17 b.
 Bedford, Duke of, letters of; 15 b.
 Bedfordshire, families of; 34 b.
 Bedle, Bishop, on Usury; 18 b.
 Belanagare; 36 a.
 Beldomandus, P., of Padua, treatise by; 45 a.
 Bellamare, M. de, letter to; 84 a.
 Bellard, George, letter of; 10 b.
 Bellisle, Duc de, letter of (1749); 7 b.
 Benard, Jehan, work by; 91 a.
 Benedict III., bulls, &c. of; 107 b.
 Benholt, Thomas, Clarencieux; 34 b.
 Benivieni, Jerome, of Florence; 60 b.
 Bentham, James, letter of; 11 a.
 Bentley :
 Dr., letter of, 10 a.
 R., collections by; 24 b.
 Beornwulf, King; 27 b.
 Bereford St. Martin, near Wilton; 29 a.
 Berewyk, John de, Wardrobe Book kept by; 106 a.
 Bergavenny, barony of; 23 b.
 Berkeley, Lord, letter of; 11 a.
 Berkshire :
 collections for; 32 a.
 visitation of; 34 b.
 Berlin, Mr. Mitchell at; 15 a.
 Berry, Duc de :
 John; 100 a, 107 b.
 MSS. in library of; 70 b et seq.
 Berta, Giuseppe; 85 b.
 Berthier, countersignature; 8 a.
 Bertram, William de, Baron of Mitford; 28 b.
 Berwick, fortifications of; 14 b.
 Besançon, M. du Plessis, letter to; 7 b.
 Besgue, Jean le, translation by; 74 a.
 Beverley, St. John of, life of; 17 b.
 Beyer, Andreas, of Regensburg; 8 b.
 Bible, the, early MS. copies of; 26 a, 99 b.
 Bignon, Jerome, memoir by; 93 a.
 Billaud-Varenne, order by; 8 a.
 Bindon, Lord, letters of; 8 a, 12 b.
 Bingley, Mrs., letter to; 8 b.
 Birch, Dr., letters of; 10 a, 10 b.
 Biron, Maréchal de, his life; 92 a.
 Birrell, engraving by; 108 a.
 Bishop's Castle, Shropshire; 21 a.
 Blacman, John, MS. given by; 105 a.
 Blanchard, John, Archdeacon, his manor of Bereford St. Martin; 29 a.
 Blandford, Marquis of, MS. belonging to; 103 b.
 Blazon, the art of; 34 a.
 Blenheim Palace; 11 b.
 Blois, M. G. de, History by; 96 a.
 Bloomfield, Francis, of Caius College, collections by; 30 b.
 Blount, Patty, letter to; 8 b.
 letter of; 9 a.
 Boccaccio, MS. copy of; 108 a.
 Boethius, MS. of; 108 a.
 Bohemia, Queen of, Elizabeth, letter of; 5 b.
 — — — letter to; ib.
 the Crown of; 14 a.
 Bohun; 101 b.
 Boile, barony of; 36 b.
 Boisratier, Guillaume, bishop of Mende; 102 b.
 Boleyn, Anne, Henry VIII.'s present to; 5 a.
 Bolingbroke, Lord; 9 a.
 letters of; 15 b.
 Boniface IX., Bulls, &c. of; 107 b.
 Bonnor, Honore, of Sallon, MS. work of; 108 a.
 Bonrepans, M. de, ambassador; 94 a.
 Bordone, Paris; 110 a.
 Borlase :
 his History of the Irish Rebellion; 39 a.
 William, letter of; 10 b.
 Sir William; 21 b.
 Boroimbe, Brian; 37 b.
 Bosse, M., sculptor, letter to; 8 a.
 Bossuet, J. B. :
 letters of; 71 a, 84 a.
 treatise by; 97 a.
 Fenelon and; 18 b.
 Bouchet, Jean, MS. work by; 109 a.
 Bouchy, M., report of; 100 b.
 Boucq, Pierre le, MS. by; 99 a.
 Bouhier, M. le P., library of; 72 b.
 Bouillon :
 Duke of, Godfrey; 100 a.
 Godefroi de, MS. relating to; 108 a.
 Boulaese, John, on Angels and Devils; 19 a.
 Boulainvilliers, Comte de, dissertation by; 93 a.
 Boulanger, Nicolas Antoine, MS. by; 97 a.
 Boulter, Dr., Bishop of Bristol, letter of; 12 b.
 Bourgeois, Raymond, MS. belonging to; 108 a.
 Bourtourlin, Count, his MSS.; 73 b, 75 a.
 Boutillier, Jehan, MS. by; 89 b.
 Boyer, Abel, letter of; 10 a.
 Boyle :
 annals of; 38 b.
 Robert, letter of; 10 a.
 Boyse, Samuel, letter of; 10 a.
 Brabant, description of (1675); 40 a.
 Brabbard, Roger de, steward of Tutbury; 31 a.
 Bracton, on the laws of England, MS. of; 22 a.
 Bradenstoke Priory, register of; 29 a.
 Bradshaw, President, letters of; 7 a, 12 b.
 Brady :
 Nathaniel, letter of; 10 a.
 Dr. Robert, keeper of the Records; 20 b.
 Bramfield Park; 19 b.
 Brampton, Sir John, his arguments on ship money; 21 a.
 Brand, Mr., MS. poems presented by; 30 a.
 Brandon, Sir Charles; 13 a.
 Bray, Mr., of Wimbledon, MSS. belonging to; 15 b.
 Breda :
 document dated at; 7 a.
 siege of; 8 a.
 Brehon Laws, the; 37 b, 39 b.
 Brentford, Syon monastery near; 25 a.
 Brescia, charters, &c. relating to; 28 b.
 Bretagne, Anne de, her obsequies; 34 a.
 Breteuil, Comte de, signature; 7 b.
 Brethon, Martin, writing by; 24 b.
 Brézé, Louis de; 86 b.
 Bridgeman, George, of the Privy Chamber; 5 a.
 Bridgewater, Lord, letter of; 10 a.
 Bridlington, John of; 102 b.
 Brigham, Nicholas, teller of the Exchequer; 5 a.
 Bright, Rev. Henry, master of Abingdon school; 9 a.
 Brinkburne Priory, register of; 28 b.
 Brinkburne; 102 b.
 Briois, Vigor de, translation by; 18 a.
 Bristol, Earl of :
 his Spanish embassy; 22 b.
 Duke of Buckingham, and; 9 b.
 (temp. Jac. II.); 23 a.
 Bristol, Bishop of (1714), letter of; 12 b.
 Brixiensis, Bartholomeus; 104 b.
 Bromleigh family, the; 27 a.
 Bromley :
 the Speaker (1710), letter of; 10 a.
 Sir Thomas, dedication to; 17 a.
 Thomas, MS. belonging to; 18 a.
 Brooke, Henry, author, letters of; 36 a.
 Brown, Isaac Hawkins, letter of; 10 a.
 Browne, William, name in MS.; 104 b.
 Bruant, Jaques, MS. by; 92 b.
 Bruce :
 James, letter of; 9 b.
 Thomas, Earl of Ailesbury; 7 a.

Brudenell, Anna Maria, Countess of Shrewsbury; 6 b.
 Bruges :
 city of, letters of; 7 b.
 the entry of the Counts of Flanders into; 92 b.
 Bruges, Sir William, first Garter king-of-arms; 32 b.
 Brussels :
 letter dated at; 6 b.
 Forest near, abbey at; 109 b.
 Brute, chronicle of, MS. copies; 105 b.
 Brydges : family; 33 a.
 James, letter of; 10 a.
 Buccleugh, Duchess of, letter of; 6 b.
 Buckhurst, Lord, letters of; 10 a, 13 b.
 Buckingham, Duke of :
 arraignment of (13 Hen VIII.); 22 b.
 Geo. Villiers, Lord Bristol and; 9 b.
 — letter of (1626); 10 b.
 — letter to (1623); 10 a.
 — character of; 14 a.
 — portrait of; 35 b. and Duchess of (1626), letter of; 10 a.
 Buckingham, Marquis of :
 letters of; 31 b.
 his purchase of the Essex MSS.; 17 a.
 MS. presented to; 26 a.
 Buckinghamshire : trained bands of, &c.; 32 a.
 visitation of; 34 b.
 Buda, siege of; 14 a.
 Budé, Jean; 73 b.
 Buignes, Gaces de la, MS. by; 74 b.
 Bulkeley, Lady Sophia, in the Bastille; 12 a.
 Bulls, Papal, collection of; 24 a.
 Bulstrode, Colonel, letter to; 6 a.
 Buonparte, Joseph; 100 b.
 Burch, François vander, Archbishop of Cambray, letter of; 99 a.
 Burckhardt, the traveller; 8 a.
 Burdett, Ethelbert; 18 a.
 Burg; 102 b.
 Burgh, Sir John, keeper of the Records, MS. by; 21 b.
 Burghley, Lord :
 letter of; 5 b.
 dedication to; 30 b.
 Burgundy, Duke of, Charles the Bold, ordinances of; 72 b.
 Burmese MSS., account of; 41 a.
 Burn, Richard, letter of; 10 b.
 Burton :
 D., collections by; 24 b.
 abbey, charters, &c. of; 27 a.
 Bury St. Edmunds :
 letter dated at; 5 a.
 abbey of; 30 a.
 Bushie Close; 12 a.
 Bussy, Countess de; 7 b.
 Butigelli, Filippo, MS. belonging to; 83 b.
 Butler, Major, letter to; 6 a.
 Byland monastery, co. York; 104 b.
 Byrtrede, grant to; 27 b.

C.

Cadogan, Lord, letter of; 11 a.
 Cæsar, Sir Julius, letters of; 13 b.
 Cairo, history of; 40 b.
 Calais, Henry VIII. at; 13 a.
 Caldwell, Colonel Hume, his life; 39 a.
 Calonne, M. de; 18 a.
 Calvert, Mr. Secretary, letter of; 10 a.
 Cambray, Hugues de, MS. by; 98 a.
 Cambridge :
 letter dated at; 11 a.
 Baker MSS. at; 19 b.
 churches, chapels, &c., of Bloomfield's collections relating to; 30 b.
 University, collections relating to; 24 b.
 Caius College; 30 b.
 — statutes of; 24 a.
 Catherine Hall, statutes of; 24 a.
 Corpus Christi College, MS. in; 24 a.
 Trinity College; 7 a, 18 b.
 — statutes of; 24 a.
 Cambridgeshire, collections for; 32 a.
 Camden, William :
 Clarendon; 33 a, 33 b, 35a.
 MS. by; 32 b.
 his history of Ireland; 39 b.
 Camus, Philippe, MS. by; 86 b.
 Cangiard, Paul; 7 b.
 Canning, Mr., letters of; 31 b.
 Canons, Chandos library at; 38 a.

Canons, Ecclesiastical, collection of; 24 a.
 Canterbury; 7 b.
 deeds relating to; 27 a.
 St. Augustine's, grant to; 28 a.
 — library; 24 a.
 Christ Church, grant to; 28 a. registers of, extracts from; 28 a.
 Canterbury, Archbishops of :
 (1184), Baldwin; 24 b.
 (1410), Arundel; 107 a.
 Chichley; 13 a.
 Warham; 13 a.
 (1549), letter to; 5 a.
 M. Parker, statutes by; 24 a.
 Laud, statutes by; 31 a.
 Cornwallis; 9 b.
 (1707), Potter, letter of; 10 a.
 anecdotes of; 19 a.
 Canterbury, Dean and Chapter of, rents of; 31 b.
 Canute, King :
 portrait of; 25 a.
 grants by; 28 a.
 Capel, Arthur, dedication to; 40 a.
 Capello, Vincenzo, portrait of; 109 b.
 Cappocci, Cardinal Niccolò; 99 b.
 Cardenas, Spanish ambassador, letter of; 12 b.
 Cardon, Antoine F., MS. by; 93 a.
 Cardonnel, Adam, letter of; 11 a.
 Careless, Nicholas, Lancaster herald; 35 a.
 Carew, George, Earl of Totness, writing by; 40 a.
 Caricatures, temp. George II.; 18 b.
 Carleton, Sir Dudley, MS. vols. belonging to; 13 b.
 Carleton, East, Norfolk, Terrier of lands in; 30 a.
 Carlingford, Lord (1667), letter of; 10 b.
 Carlisle, trial of rebels at (1745); 11 a.
 fortifications of; 14 b.
 Carlisle, Bishop of :
 Dr. Nicholson; 8 b.
 Dr. Littleton; 6 a, 10 b.
 — letters of; 13 a.
 Carlisle, Norroy; 33 a.
 Carnarvon :
 Lady, letter to (1642); 6 a.
 Lord, afterwards Duke of Chandos; 23 a.
 Caroline, Queen, character of; 14 b.
 Carpenter, Dr. letters of; 36 a.
 Carrickfergus, monastery of; 86 a.
 Carrow, Carehow, nunnery, near Norwich; 101 b.
 Carryle; 101 a.
 Carte, Thos., the historian, letters of; 10 a, 12 b.
 Carter, Elizabeth (1739), letter of; 10 b.
 Cartularies, collection of; 27 a.
 Carving, science of; 19 b.
 Carye, Edward, witness; 16 b.
 Cashel, Archbishop of (1666), letter of; 10 a.
 Casley, David, transcript by; 29 a.
 Castilionæus, Fridericus; 98 b.
 Catalogues of MSS. &c.; 17 a, 17 b.
 Catalonia, military operations in (1706); 14 a.
 Catherine, the ship, of Hull; 5 a.
 Catholics, papers relating to; 14 b.
 Cave :
 Mrs. E., letter to; 9 a.
 Edward (1740), letter of; 10 b.
 Sir Roger, letter to; 7 a.
 Cavendish, Lord James (1709) letter of; 12 b.
 Cecil, Sir William, letters of; 13 a.
 Chadertun, William, MS. belonging to; 105 b.
 Chamberlaine :
 letter of; 12 b.
 John (1712), letter of; 10 b.
 Chambery; 15 a.
 Chamillart, correspondence of; 71 b.
 Champdivers, Odette de; 100 a.
 Champigny, Jehan de, canon of Troyes; 89 b.
 Chancellor, Lord, office of; 23 a.
 Chandler, Dr., Bishop of Lichfield, letter of; 12 b.
 Chandos :
 Duke of, James, presentation to; 12 a.
 — Lord Carnarvon afterwards; 23 a.
 — his library at Canons; 38 a.
 Lord, James, Ambassador at Constantinople (1680); 12 b.
 — Ambassador at the Porte, recall of; 41 a.
 Chaplain, letters of; 71 b.
 Charlecote; 13 b.
 Charlemagne, Emperor; 100 a.
 Charlemont, Lord, letters of (c. 1760); 13 a.
 Charles I. :
 letter of; 5 b.
 warrants of, 5 b, 6 b, 7 a.
 his journey, &c. in Spain; 9 b.
 letters, &c. referring to his reign; 9 b.
 his coronation at Edinburgh (1633); 22 a. letter of King of Persia to; 40 b.
 MS. belonging to; 73 b.

- Charles II.:
 treaty for his expulsion from France; 6 a.
 his coronation; 33 b, 34 a.
 letters of; 6 b, 7 a.
 letters to; 6 b, 7 a, 29 b.
 reign of, Coventry state papers relating to; 10 b.
 collections relating to; 12 a.
 his pretended marriage; 12 a. instructions to his ambassadors; 12 a.
 rules for his household; ib.
- Charles V.:
 instructions to his son by; 13 a, 13 b.
 diary of his "Expedition de Thunes"; 20 a.
- Charles V. of France, MS. given by; 104 a.
- Charles VI. King of France; 107 b.
- Charles IX., letter of; 72 b.
- Charles Edward, Prince, at Holyrood; 11 a. expedition in quest of; ib.
 his widow; 7 a.
- Charlott, Dr., letter of; 12 b.
- Charlotte, Queen, her church at St. Catherine's; 31 a.
- Charlottenberg, treaty of; 8 a.
- Charlton estate, Somersset; 18 b.
- Charters, Anglo-Saxon, &c. collection of; 27 a.
- Chartier:
 Alain, MS. of his works; 86 a.
 Jean, MS. chronicle by; 108 a.
- Chartley, letter dated at; 5 b.
- Chartres, Duc de, and Lord Stair; 11 b.
- Chataiapiro, Pietro de, portrait of; 109 b.
- Chatham, Lord, character of; 14 b.
- Chaucer's Canterbury tales, MS. copies of; 106 b.
- Chaudon, Arnould, translation by; 99 a.
- Chauncy, Sir Henry (1712), letter of; 10 b.
- Chelmsford, assizes at, cases at; 30 b.
- Cheriton, Hants; 102 b.
- Cheshire, families of; 35 a.
- Chester, churches of, inscriptions in; 34 b.
- Chester, history, &c. of, collections for; 31 a.
- Chesterfield, the ship; 40 b.
- Chichester, Bishop of (1180), Geoffrey; 24 a.
 (1258) John; ib.
- Chicheley, Archbishop; 13 a.
- Chiltern Hills, the; 6 a.
- Chimay, Comte de, Charles de Croy, autograph of; 86 a.
- Chinese:
 MSS., description of; 41 a, 99 b. paintings &c; 98 a, 98 b.
- Chobham, letter dated at; 5 a.
- Choiseul, Duc de, his disgrace; 11 a.
- Cholmeley, Sir Hugh (1580-82), letters of; 10 b.
- Choysey, Marc Anthoine de, MS. belonging to; 72 b.
- Christian IV., of Denmark, letter of; 10 a.
- Chronicles, old English, collection of; 17 a.
- Churchill:
 Charles, letter of; 10 b.
 Sir Winston (1667), letter of; 10 b.
- Cibber, Theophilus, letter of; 10 a.
- Cigni family, the; 32 b.
- Cingalese MS., account of; 41 a.
- Cinque Ports, the; 12 a.
 Barons of, letter to; 5 a.
- Clanricarde, Earl of, Richard; 23 b.
- Clare, Lord Robert de (1318); 110 b.
- Clarendon, Lord:
 Sir E. Hyde afterwards, letter of; 5 b.
 letters of (1671); 23 a.
 Lord Chancellor, his impeachment; 21 b. his history; 39 a.
 Henry, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, diary of; 12 a.
 letter to (1718); 10 a.
- Clark, William, (1753), letter of; 11 a.
- Clarke, Edward, (1761), letter of; 11 a.
- Clavel, Walter, MS. belonging to; 25 a.
- Clavering, Essex, church, goods of; 16 b.
- Clermont, Comte de; 90 a.
- Clifford, Lady Anne de, her marriage; 32 b.
- Clifton family; 33 a.
- Clinham, Robert de; 26 b.
- Cloveshoe, Synod of; 27 b.
- Cluinmacnois, Abbey of, MS. from; 110 a.
- Cnocmore; 36 a.
- Cobham, Lord:
 (1731); 9 a.
 trial of; 22 b.
 MSS. belonging to; 14 b, 15 a.
- Cocchi, Pierre de, letters of; 70 b.
- Cochin, Charles Nicholas; 90 a.
- Codicote manor, Herts; 23 a.
- Coeman, Gildas, writing by; 37 b.
- Coenulph, King of Mercia; 27 b.
- Coke, Sir Edward, letters of; 10 a, 13 b.
- Colbert, signature; 7 b.
- Colchester:
 history of, by Morant; 30 b.
 St. John's Abbey; ib. various collections for; ib.
- Cole:
 Mr., letter of; 9 b.
 Thomas, collector in Suffolk; 10 a.
- Coligny, Admiral de; 72 b.
- Colletet, Francois, MS. by; 88 b.
- Collinson, P., letter of; 11 a.
- Cologne, University of; 107 b.
- Colonies, English, correspondence relating to; 19 b.
- Colonna, Guido; 106 b.
- Comestor, Pierre; 100 a.
- Commerce, the Honours of; 32 b.
- Compton, Sir Spencer, letter of; 11 a.
- Congreve family, the, MS. belonging to; 106 b.
- Coningsby, Lord, letter of; 6 b.
- Connaught:
 the poets of; 36 a.
 division of, by Ferrot; 36 b.
 annals of; 37 a.
 and Ulster, war between, MS. relating to; 110 b.
- Conquests, the Book of; 37 a, 37 b.
- Constantinople; 14 a, 18 b.
 Lord Chandos at; 12 b.
 to Ispahan, voyage from; 93 a. journal of voyage from Paris to; 97 b.
- Contareno, Andrea, portrait of; 109 b.
- Contarine, Mr. letters of; 36 a.
- Contarini, Andrea, Doge of Venice, letter of; 7 b.
- Conti, Prince; 11 b.
- Conway, Lord (1666), letter of; 10 b.
- Cook, Sir Robert; 8 b.
- Cooke, Robert, Clarencieux; 33 a, 35 b.
- Cooper, Anthony Ashley, of the Council of State; 6 b.
- Copenhagen:
 letter dated at; 9 b.
 court at, letters relating to; 11 a.
 University, MSS. in; 19 a, 26 a.
- Coram, Capt. Thomas, letter of; 10 a.
- Corbett, Miles, letter of; 12 b.
- Cork, map of; 39 a.
- Cormac Ulfada, King; 37 b.
- Cornish, Mrs.; 9 a.
- Cornwall:
 Duchy of; 12 a.
 families of; 34 b.
 Papists in; 5 a.
- Cornwallis:
 Mrs. wife of Archbishop of Canterbury; 9 b.
 T., his proposals; 14 b.
 Sir William, his discourse on Richard III; 9 b.
- Coronations:
 MS. Gospels used at; 26 b.
 English, form, &c. of; 33 b, 34 a.
- Corsica, history of, by Napoleon; 71 b.
- Cothi, Lewis Glyn; 35 b.
- Cotton:
 Allen, Lord Mayor of London; 24 b.
 Isaac, on the Star Chamber; 23 a.
 Sir Robt.; 20 a, 33 b.
 — letter of; 20 a.
- Coulogne, Theseus de, MS. of; 86 a.
- Council Books, transcripts, &c. of; 21 b.
- Courcy, Jehan de, MS. chronicle by; 74 a.
- Contubshah, monument at; 40 b.
- Coventry:
 corporation, deeds, &c. of; 13 b.
 Sir William, his state papers; 10 b.
- Cowley, Abraham, letter of; 7 a.
- Cowper, Lord chancellor, letter of; 12 b.
- Coxeter, Thos., of Trinity College, Oxford; 17 a.
- Cragg, James, cofferer of the household; 14 b.
- Craggs:
 Mr. Secretary, letters to; 11 a, 11 b.
 — his proposal to the Catholics; 14 b.
 James, accounts by; 19 b.
 Postmaster (1716), letter of; 12 b.
- Craig's Jus Feudale; 20 b.
- Crämer, C. B. de, MS. belonging to; 107 a.
- Creslowe; 6 a.
- Crew, Sir R., letters of; 31 a.
- Crimpsam, Norfolk; 33 a.
- Cromwell:
 Henry (1656), letter of; 12 b.
 Oliver, letters of; 6 a.
 — sign manual of; ib.
 — letters to; 12 b.
 — his death; ib.
 — his protectorate, letters patent, &c. by, and regulations made during; 12 a.
 — cost of his funeral; ib.
 — his funeral, expenses of; 34 b.

Cromwell—cont.
 Richard, warrant by; 6 b.
 Thomas, letters of; 18 a.
 Crossland family, of Crossland Hall; 33 a.
 Croxton Abbey, co. Leicester, register of; 28 b.
 Croy, Charles de, Comte de Chimay, autograph of; 86 a.
 Cullen, Viscount, payment to (1676); 7 a.
 Culloden, battle of; 8 a.
 Cullum :
 Sir John, MS. belonging to; 16 b.
 John; 100 b.
 Culmore, fort of; 39 b.
 Culpepper, Sir John (1640), letter of; 10 a.
 Cuma, description of; 19 b.
 Cumberland, Duke of :
 his secretary; 7 b.
 letters of (1746); 8 a.
 — (1748); ib.
 dedication to; 19 b.
 Cunegonde, Saint; 101 b.
 Cunliffe, Lady, letter to; 9 b.
 Curry, Dr. letters of; 36 a.
 Customs, the :
 papers relating to; 12 a, 14 b. treatise on; 19 b.
 Cuthred, King of Kent; 27 b.
 Cutler, Thomas, MS. belonging to; 107 a.
 Cutte, Sir John, under treasurer; 13 a.
 Cysoing, l'Abbaye de; 97 a.

D.

Dacia, Henry de; 107 b.
 Dacier, Madame, letters of; 71 a.
 Dacre, Lord (1762), letter of; 11 a.
 Dacy, Francois, translator of MS.; 108 b.
 Dalamcotta, temple of; 41 a.
 Dallison or Dalyson, Max, MS. belonging to; 106 b.
 Dalymple, Sir David, letter of; 10 b.
 Dambdoing, Jaques, Seigneur du Breuil; 85 a.
 Danby, Lord, letter of; 6 b.
 Dangeau, Marquis de, MS. belonging to; 108 b.
 Dante, his Divina Commedia, MS. copies of; 73 a, 109 a.
 Danvers, Sir William and Anne; 101 a.
 — their son Thomas; ib.
 D'Argenson, signature; 7 b.
 D'Argental, M., letter of Voltaire to; 97 b.
 Dartmouth, Lord (1713), letter of; 12 b.
 Dartmouth, frigate, the; 39 b.
 D'Auffay or Doffay, Jehan, MS. by; 86 a.
 Daun, Comte de, Viceroy of Naples; 90 b.
 Dauvergne, Philip; 100 a.
 Davis, Sir John, treatise by; 20 b.
 Dawes, Thos., letter of; 10 b.
 De Bordeaux, treaty signed by; 6 a.
 De Bretagne, French herald; 84 a.
 De Guerchy, ambassador; 11 a.
 De la Barre, ambassador; 14 a.
 Le la Tour, Anne, Princess d'Escomre; 108 a.
 De Rossel, M., MS. by; 88 b.
 Dead, Dialogue of the; 18 b.
 Dean Forest, co. Gloucester; 10 a.
 Debonnaire, Louis le; 100 a.
 Dee, Dr., the astrologer; 20 a.
 Dei, Benedetto, correspondence of; 70 b.
 Denbigh, Earl of, Master of the Great wardrobe (1625); 5 b.
 Denmark :
 description of (1675); 40 a.
 King of, Christopher, letter to (1447); 5 a.
 King and Queen of; 11 a.
 Dennistoun, Edward; 108 b.
 D'Ensenada, Spanish Minister; 15 b.
 Denton, Francis, letter of; 6 a.
 Derby :
 corporation, deeds, &c. of; 31 b.
 St. Alkmund, tithes of; 28 b.
 Derbyshire, church goods in; 13 a.
 Dr. Vernon's collections for; 81 b.
 Dereham, West, Norfolk, abbey of, deeds relating to; 27 a.
 Derham :
 family, of Crimpsham; 33 a.
 Robert; 27 a.
 W., letter of; 12 b.
 Dering, Sir Edward :
 letters to; 10 a.
 letters of, &c.; 10 b, 12 b.
 transcripts by; 27 a. collection of his MSS.; 29 a, 101 a, 105 a.
 Desborough hundred, Bucks, history of; 31 b.
 Desmond, his rebellion; 13 b, 36 b.
 D'Este, Cardinal, MS. relating to; 67 a.
 D'Estrades, instructions to; 9 b.

Dethick :
 Sir Gilbert, Garter; 35 b.
 Sir Nicholas, Windsor herald; 33 a, 34 a.
 Sir William, Garter; 35 b.
 Devonshire :
 Church goods in; 13 a.
 families of; 34 b.
 Earl of, his marriage with Lady Rich; 22 b.
 Duke of (1709), letter of; 12 b.
 Duchess of, Georgiana, letters of; 9 b.
 D'Ewes, Sir Symonds :
 letters of; 10 b, 12 b.
 extract from his diary; 16 b.
 his memorials; 21 a.
 Dick, John, his sentence; 18 b.
 Digby :
 Lord, letters of (1755); 14 b.
 Sir J.; 23 b.
 Kenelm, MS. given to; 106 b.
 Digges, Sir Dudley, letter of; 10 b.
 Dijon, la Sainte Chapelle de; 99 a.
 Dingley, T., drawings by; 34 b.
 Diserin, Catherine, MS. copied by; 96 a.
 Dix, William, steward to Lord Arundel; 10 a.
 Dod or Dode, Thomas; 101 b.
 Doddington, George, of Eastbury, letter to; 8 b.
 Doddridge, Sir J., Discourses by; 21 a.
 Dodwell, Henry (1684), letter of; 10 b.
 Doffay or D'Auffay, Jehan, MSS. by; 86 a, 90 a, 96 a.
 Dominic, Saint, panegyric on; 35 b.
 Doncaster, a Carmelite of; 107 a.
 Donegal, monastery of; 36 b.
 Donne, Dr. :
 on the Essex divorce; 22 b.
 his poems, MS. of; 29 b.
 Dorchester, Lord, letter to; 12 a.
 Dormer, John, of Lee Grange; 6 b.
 Dorset :
 families of; 34 b.
 Earl of, Richard, his marriage (1609); 32 b.
 Marquis of, letters of; 13 a.
 Duke of, letters of; 31 b.
 Douce, F., the antiquary; 17 a.
 D'Oultre-Meuse, Jean, MS. by; 86 b, 90 a.
 Doupin, Jahan, MS. by; 75 b.
 Dover :
 Leiger book of; 22 a.
 Castle, constable of; 5 a.
 Down Survey, the, distribution of lands according to; 40 a.
 Downing, Sir George, letter to; 6 b.
 Drake, F., letter of; 10 b.
 Drogheda, freedom of; 39 b.
 Drumclog, the fight at; 6 b.
 Drummond, letter dated at; 7 a.
 Drury, Henry, MS. belonging to; 76 b.
 Dryden, John, dedication by; 8 b.
 Du Moulin :
 ambassador; 14 a.
 Rev. Peter, letter to; 7 b.
 Duane, Mr., MSS. bought by; 15 b.
 Dublin :
 letter dated at; 8 b.
 Fleet Lane; 39 b.
 Thomas Court near; 39 b.
 Trinity College library; 38 b.
 Archbishop of (1667), letter of; 10 b.
 — (1717) letter of; 12 b.
 Dubois :
 Abbé; 11 b.
 — despatches of; ib.
 Madame Anne, abbess, life of; 96 a.
 Nicholas; ib.
 Laurent, confessor, work by; 94 b.
 Ducarel, Dr. :
 letters of; 10 b, 11 a.
 collections by; 11 a, 21 a.
 index by; 17 b.
 drawings, &c., by; 31 a.
 Dugdale, Sir William (1677), letter of; 10 b.
 MS. by; 33 a.
 Dumaresq, Dan., letter of; 10 b.
 Dumbalid, Richard; 101 b.
 Dunbar, Earl of, Queen Elizabeth's wardrobe given to; 16 b.
 Dunch family, of Witnam; 38 a.
 Dundee, Viscount of, Grahame, letter of (1679); 6 b.
 Dungannon, Lord (1670), letter of; 10 b.
 Dunkirk; 11 a.
 harbour at; 14 b.
 Duns Scotus, John, MS. of; 104 a.
 Dunsany, Lord (1667), letter of; 10 b.
 Durham Priory, MS. belonging to; 28 b.
 Durmes, Jaques de, account by; 99 b.
 Dyer, Mr., MS. given by; 101 a.

E.

- Eadred, King, grant by; 28 a.
 Eardulf, King of Kent; 27 b.
 Eastbury; 8 b.
 Easton Mauditt; 29 b.
 Edgcomb, M., MS. belonging to; 101 a.
 Edinburgh; 24 b.
 letter dated at; 9 b.
 Charles I.'s coronation at; 22 a.
 Holyrood House, Charles Edward at; 11 a.
 Edmondes, Sir Thomas, his State papers; 10 a.
 Edward the Confessor, life of; 17 b.
 Edward I., Prince Edward afterwards, grant by; 24 a.
 Edward III., letter to; 7 b.
 Edward IV., his pedigree; 32 b.
 Edward VI.:
 letter of; 5 a.
 coronation of; 12 a.
 Edward, Prince, son of Hen. VIII., his christening; 34 a.
 Edwards, the bookseller, letters of and to; 9 b.
 Egerton:
 Lord Chancellor; 21 a.
 Lord Keeper, letters of; 13 b.
 — speech by; 22 b.
 Lady Sophia, letter to; 8 b.
 Egmond: t:
 George, Bishop of Utrecht; 102 a.
 Johanna Van; 103 a.
 Elbeuf, Duke of, letter to; 7 b.
 Eleanor, Queen of Edw. I., wardrobe book of; 106 a.
 Elis, Knight, life of; 19 a.
 Elizabeth, Queen of England:
 letters of; 5 b.
 letter of, to Charles IX.; 72 b. letter, &c., to; 13 a.
 warrant of; 10 a.
 her visit to Lord North (1579); 19 a.
 names of subscribers of loan to (1588); 13 b.
 inventory of her wardrobe; 16 b.
 — her jewels, &c.; ib.
 Elizabeth, Queen of Bohemia, letter of; 5 b.
 Elizabeth of York, Queen of Hen. VII., autograph of; 102 b.
 Ellesmere, Lord (1603); 22 b.
 Elstob, William and Elizabeth, MS. collated by, &c.; 23 b,
 24 b.
 Ely, monastery of; 28 a.
 Elzevier, family, the; 60 b.
 Eon, Chevalier d'; 11 a.
 Epernon, Duc d' (1633); 94 b.
 Erdeswic, Mr.; 27 a.
 Erdeswicke's History of Staffordshire; 31 b.
 Erle, General, letter of; 11 a.
 Erskine, Dr., letter of; 9 b.
 Escoubleau, Henri d', Archbishop of Bordeaux; 94 b.
 Essex:
 delinquent's estates in; 10 a.
 contributions raised in; 12 a.
 families, arms of; 34 b, 35 a. history of, various collections for; 30 b.
 New Hall; 12 a.
 Essex, Karl of:
 letters of (temp. Eliz.); 13 b, 30 a.
 letters to; 13 b.
 arraignment of (1601); 22 b.
 his divorce (1613); 22 b.
 his goods; 29 b. character of; 14 a.
 his apology; ib.
 letter of (1644); 12 b.
 letter of (temp. Car. II.); 6 b.
 Arthur Capel, MS. belonging to; 39 a.
 — state letters and correspondence of (1672-78); ib.
 transcript of State trials for; 22 b.
 his collection of MSS., catalogue of; 17 a.
 Ethered, Archbishop; 27 b.
 Eton College; 16 a, 105 a.
 Eugene, Prince; 15 a.
 Euler the mathematician; 71 a.
 Evangelists, the, MSS. relating to; 100 a, 100 b.
 Evelyn, John:
 letter of; 8 b.
 letter to; 7 a.
 Evrard, Jean Jacques, journal by; 95 b.
 Exeter:
 College of Vicars in, statutes of; 31 b.
 Bishop of (1159), Bartholomew; 24 b.
 Eyck, Jan van; 103 a.
 Eyre, Sir R., chief justice; 21 b.

F.

- Fabricius, document signed by; 23 b.
 Fagel, Secretary, letter to; 10 b.
 Fairfax:
 Lord, Thomas, MS. given to; 101 b.
 — MS. belonging to; 107 a.
 Sir Thomas, letter to; 6 a.
 Falconieri, Ottav., his correspondence; 60 a.
 Falkenor, Sir Evrard, letter to; 7 b.
 Falkland, Lord, Lord Deputy in Ireland, his Military Miscellany Book (1626); 9 b.
 Fanshawe, Sir Richard (1655), letter of; 10 b.
 Fardel, Claud. Rob., MS. belonging to; 76 a.
 Farinelli, the Queen of Spain and; 15 b.
 Farmer, Dr.:
 his library; 17 a.
 notes by; 29 b.
 Farnese, Alexander, letters of; 69 b.
 Faucquenbergh, J., account of voyage by; 97 a.
 Faulkener, Mrs., elopement of; 8 b.
 Faulkner, George, letter of; 10 b, 36 a.
 Faversham; 13 a.
 Fazakryley; 101 b.
 Fenelon, and Bossuet; 18 b.
 Ferrers:
 Edmund, rector of Cheriton; 102 b.
 Humphrey, letter to; 13 b.
 John, commission to; 6 b.
 Fiddes, Richard, letter of; 12 b.
 Fiennes, Nath., treaty signed by; 6 a.
 Finch, Sir Heneage (1656-73), letter of; 10 b.
 Firis, Duaid Mac, of Lecan; 37 a.
 Firman, a Turkish; 41 a.
 First Fruits and Tenths, MS. relating to; 17 b.
 Fisheries, encouragement of; 13 b.
 Fitzallan, Lord, of Bedal; 101 b.
 Fitzjames:
 Richard, Bishop of London; 102 b.
 Alice and John; 102 b.
 Fitzwilliams, Sir William; 39 b.
 Flamel, secretary to the Duke of Berry; 100 a.
 Flamsteed, John, letter of; 10 b.
 Flanders:
 MS. Chronicle of (1420-1477); 92 b. antiquities of; 92 b, 94 a.
 other MSS. concerning; 92 b, 93 a, 95 a. campaigns in; 14 a.
 — (1692 &c.); 15 a.
 description of (1675); 40 a.
 Archives des Comptes de; 18 a.
 Fleece, the Golden, order of; 32 b.
 Fleetwood:
 Charles, Commander of Commonwealth forces; 6 b.
 — letter of; 12 b.
 Recorder, discourse by; 22 b.
 — MS. belonging to; 26 a.
 Flixton nunnery, Suffolk, charters, &c. of; 27 a.
 Florence; 15 a.
 Flower, William, Norroy; 32 b.
 Flushing, letter dated at; 13 b.
 Foix, Paul de, ambassador; 90 b.
 Folkestone, gift by Canute to; 28 a.
 Follard, military writer; 90 a.
 Forbes, William, MS. belonging to; 107 a.
 Ford, abbot of, Baldwin; 24 b.
 Forest near Brussels, abbey at; 109 b.
 Forests, &c., collections relating to; 31 a.
 Forshall, Rev. J.; 100 b, 101 a.
 Fortescue:
 John, of the Great Wardrobe; 5 b.
 Mr. Justice, letter of; 12 b.
 Foscar, Francesco, MS. belonging to; 109 a.
 Foucault, Nicolas Joseph, MS. belonging to; 107 b, 108 b, 109 a.
 Fox:
 George, letter of; 10 b.
 William, his examination; 100 b.
 France:
 history of, MSS. relating to, 72 b—108 b passim.
 early poets of, enumeration of; 96 a. statistical account of, temp. Louis XIV.; 40 a. affairs of, in 18th century, account of; 11 a.
 Court of, letters relating to (1767-73); 11 a.
 Isle of, description of (1675); 40 a.
 King of, John; 100 a.
 Francis I., letters of; 7 b.
 Franklin, Benjamin, letter of; 9 a.
 Frasinelli, M. Roberto, of Madrid; 100 b.
 Frederick the Great:
 letter of; 7 b.
 paper describing him and his Court; 8 b.
 Frederick, Prince of Wales, letter of (1736); 8 a.
 Freeholders in England; 12 a.

Freemasons, MS. manual of; 97 a.
 Frescobaldi, Leonard, Florentine merchant; 13 a.
 Friend, Dr. (1725), letter of; 10 b.
 Froissart, Jean, MS. copy of his chronicles; 107 b.
 Froshwell hundred, Essex, church goods of; 16 b.
 Frost, Walter, payment to; 6 b.
 Funerals, MSS. relating to; 34 a.
 Fyler, Thomas, MS. belonging to; 106 b.

G.

Gabio, excavations at; 40 a.
 Gaignarre, J. B. A., Baron de Joursanvault, transcripts by; 99 b.
 Gainsborough, Lord, letters of; 9 b.
 Galileo, his correspondence, &c.; 70 b, 71 a.
 Galway, map of; 39 a.
 Garnier, Abbé, chaplain at Lisbon; 25 b.
 Garrick, Mrs., letter of; 9 b.
 Garter, the : order of, MSS. relating to; 34 a.
 first knights of; 32 b. knights of, during Civil Wars; 34 a.
 Garth, Sir Samuel, letter of; 10 a.
 Gassendi, correspondence of; 71 a.
 Gauvain, Le Roman de, MS.; 108 b.
 Gasa, Anthonio, MS. dictionary by; 94 a.
 Gelrenhusen, Conrad; 107 b.
 Gemmelaro, Dr. C., of Catania; 40 a.
 Genealogy and Heraldry, collections relating to; 32 a.
 Genoa, Bishop of, Voragine; 26 b.
 Geoffrey of Monmouth, history by; 18 a.
 Geography, by Raby; 40 a.
 George I.:
 letters of; 15 b.
 orders signed by; 8 a.
 character of; 14 b.
 George II.:
 letter, &c. of; 8 a.
 letter to; 7 b.
 marriage of his daughter, Mary; 8 a.
 character of; 14 b.
 George III.:
 letters, &c. of; 8 b.
 drafts of letters by; 7 a.
 George, Prince of Wales (1717); 14 b.
 his establishment; 14 b.
 Georgia; 18 b.
 Gerard or Gererd, Miles; 101 b.
 Germain, Charles, MS. belonging to; 78 b.
 Germany:
 States of, papers relating to; 14 a.
 the Reformation in, MS. relating to; 86 b.
 Gerson, Jehan, treatise by; 91 a.
 Ghent, garrison of; 15 a.
 Gibbon :
 Charles, continuation of Rapin's history by; 19 b.
 Edward and John; 39 b.
 John, pursuivant, MS. by; 32 a.
 Gibraltar; 11 a, 14 b.
 Gibson, Bishop (1721), letter of; 12 b.
 Giovanelli, letters of; 71 b.
 Girolamo dai libri; 110 a.
 Gisburne Priory; 102 b.
 Glasgow; 24 b.
 Claverhouse's retreat to; 6 b.
 Archbishop of, letter of; 6 b.
 Glastonbury; 10 b.
 Glendaloch, Book of; 37 b.
 Gloucester :
 Bishop of, Warburton; 10 a.
 — (1720) letter of; 12 b.
 Duke of, Humphrey; 13 a.
 — Thomas of Woodstock; 34 a.
 Earl of; 101 b.
 — Robert (1140); 25 a.
 Gloucestershire, the wine of; 32 a.
 Glover, R., Somerset Herald; 32 b.
 Godefroy, M.:
 keeper of Lille Records; 18 a. inventory compiled by; 89 a.
 Th., correspondence of; 71 b.
 Godolphin:
 Lord; 12 a.
 — letters of (1714); 8 a.
 — MS. dedicated to; 18 a.
 F. (1762), letter of; 11 a.
 Goston, Francis, witness; 16 b.
 Göhrd, document dated at; 8 a.
 Goldsmith, Miss; 8 b.

I 120 a.

Goodwin, Goodwyn :
 Colonel; 6 a.
 Arthur, of Winchendon, letter of; 6 a.
 — note by; ib.
 Edmond, MS. belonging to; 105 b.
 Gordon, Sir William, letters of; 15 a.
 Gorges, Sir Thomas, in charge of Q. Elizabeth's wardrobe, &c. 16 b.
 Gosfield Hall, Essex; 9 a.
 Gosling, Charles, letter to; 5 b.
 Gower's Confessio Amantis, MS. of; 19 a.
 Grace, John, of Nenagh; 38 b.
 Grahame, of Claverhouse, letter of; 6 b.
 Grammont :
 Duc de; 26 a.
 memoirs, MS. of; 88 b.
 Granville, Lord, character of; 14 b.
 Gratian, his collection of Canons; 24 a.
 Graville, Madlle. Anne de, MS. belonging to; 86 b.
 Greenfield, co. Clare; 38 b.
 Greenwich; 13 a.
 letters dated at; 5 b.
 Gregory, William, his chantry in Aldgate Church; 24 b.
 Grenfield, Captain, letter to; 6 a.
 Grenville :
 Mr., and the Towneley collection; 11 a.
 — letters to; 23 b.
 George, speech of; 23 a.
 Richard, letter of; 6 a.
 — endorsement by; 6 a.
 Sir Richard, his ship Revenge; 10 a.
 Thomas, note in MS. by; 38 a.
 Greville, Sir Fulke; 13 b.
 Grey :
 Lord, trial of; 22 b.
 Sir James, at Naples, letters of; 15 a.
 Lady Jane, her sister; 5 a.
 Thomas (1653), letter of; 12 b.
 Greyhound frigate, the; 39 b.
 Griffet, le pere, his additions to history of Louis XIII., &c. 96 a.
 Groet, Gerard; 107 b.
 Grolier, Ysabeau, MS. belonging to; 109 a.
 Grongnet, Geo., letters of; 93 b.
 Grotto Ferrara, convent of; 41 b.
 Guarini Indians, the; 19 a.
 Guerchy, Count, ambassador, letters of; 13 a.
 Guernsey; 14 b.
 Guilford :
 Lord, letters of; 9 b.
 — his collection of MSS.; 73 a.
 Guillaen en Quercy; 19 a.
 Guilleville, Guillaume de, MS. by; 75 a.
 Guldord, Sir Edward; 13 a.
 Gunnersbury, letter dated at; 8 b.
 Guoro, Pondolfo, portrait of; 109 b.
 Gustavus Adolphus; 14 a. portrait of; 35 b.
 Guyan, herald; 33 a.
 Guybon, William; 27 a.

H.

Hadham Parva, manor; 31 b.
 Hague, the :
 letters dated at; 7 a, 8 a.
 Mr. Stanhope at; 15 a.
 Hainault, memoir concerning; 96 a.
 Hainaut, Comte de, Guillaume, Regret de, MS.; 108 b.
 Hales, Sir Edward (1633), letter of; 10 b.
 Halhed, Mr., on the Hindu religion; 24 b.
 Halifax, Lord :
 letter of (1714); 12 b.
 letters of (c. 1760); 15 a.
 Halimots, MS. on; 28 a.
 Hall :
 Bishop, portrait of; 35 b.
 Henry, rector of St. Michael, Herboldown; 31 a.
 Hall Place, Kent; 32 a.
 Halley, Edmund, letter of; 12 b.
 Hamburg, Senate of, letter of; 7 b.
 Hamilton :
 Duke of, letter of; 6 b.
 Marquis of, James, portrait of; 35 b.
 Antoine, Grammont memoirs by; 88 b.
 Gavin, ancient marbles discovered by; 40 a.
 Sir William, paper by; 8 b.
 Hampden :
 John, letters of; 6 a.
 — his protest against ship money; 6 a, 21 a.
 — letter of (1698); 10 b.
 Hampole, hermit of; 107 a.
 Hampshire, collections for; 31 b.

Q

- Hampstead; 9 a.
cottages in; 28 a.
- Hampton:
letter dated at; 9 b.
Court, documents dated at; 5 b, 24 a.
— pictures at; 32 a.
- Hancreville, M. d', letter of; 8 a.
- Hanover, review at; 18 b.
- Hanoverian State Papers, the, description of; 15 b.
- Hanrott, P. A., sale of his MSS.; 76 b.
- Hants, families of; 34 b, 35 a.
- Hanway, Jonas, letter of; 9 b.
- Harbin, Rev. Mr., MSS. belonging to; 28 b.
- Harcourt:
Lord (1713), letters of; 12 b.
park; 13 b.
- Hardwicke, Lord:
note by; 12 b.
character of; 14 b.
paper by; ib.
- Harley, Lord Treasurer, the Duchess of Marlborough's note on; 11 b.
- Harpedene, Jean, Seigneur de Belleville; 100 a.
- Harrison, Jo. (1646), letter of; 12 b.
- Harveng, Philip de; 76 a.
- Haryngton, Sir John; 13 b.
- Hason, Nycolas; 101 b.
- Hastings:
St. Mary's church; 24 a.
Henry, killed by Lord Morley; 22 b.
- Hatfield family, of Laughton; 33 a.
- Hatton, Christopher, of the Privy Chamber; 10 a.
- Haussey, Jehan de, account by; 99 b.
- Hawkins, Peter; 19 b.
- Heard, Sir Isaac, MSS. belonging to; 33 b.
- Hearding T., his church annals; 16 a.
- Hearne:
Thomas, letters of; 10 a, 12 b.
— his Ectypa, MS. notes to; 29 b.
Mr., narrative by; 8 b.
- Heidelberg, letters dated at; 35 b.
- Helham, Carta de; 24 a.
- Hellevin, J., MS. belonging to; 87 a.
- Helmstadt, academy of; 23 b.
- Hemingford:
Walter of, history by; 17 a.
— canon of Gisburne; 102 b.
- Hendricq, Francois et Jean, annals by; 93 b.
- Henley, orator, letter of; 10 a.
- Henrietta Maria, Queen, her solicitor; 5 b.
- Henry I., grant by; 24 a.
- Henry II. in Ireland, landing of; 110 b.
- Henry VI.:
letter of; 5 a.
warrants, &c. by; 13 a.
- Henry VII.:
letter of; 5 a.
warrants, &c. by; 13 a.
- Henry VIII.:
Duke of York, afterwards, warden of the Cinque Ports; 5 a.
letters of; 5 a, 13 a.
warrants, &c. by; 13 a.
MS. presented to Anne Boleyn by; 5 a.
his marriage with Catharine of Arragon; 13 a.
- Henry II. of France, letter of; 90 b.
- Henry III. of France, his death; 97 b.
- Henry IV. of France:
letters of; 5 a.
letters to; 7 b.
MS. relating to his reign; 92 a.
- Heraldry and genealogy, collections relating to; 32 a.
- Herbaldown, St. Nicholas hospital, deeds, &c. of; 31 a.
- Herbert:
family, pedigree of; 35 b.
William, name in MS.; 104 b.
- Herefordshire:
church goods in; 13 a.
families of; 35 a.
- Hergest, White Book of; 35 b.
- Heron, Right Hon. William, letters to; 39 a.
- Hersteldesham; 102 b.
- Herts:
collections for; 31 b.
families of; 34 b.
visitations; 35 b.
- Herville, D'Yrande d', reflections by; 97 a.
- Hesse Cassel, Prince of, Frederick, his marriage; 8 a.
- Hethe, William, of Portsmouth, treatise by; 18 b.
- Hewytt, Viscount, George, of Goran, his funeral; 32 a.
- Hi Mani, in Connaught, district of; 36 b.
- Hibbert, George, library of; 73 a.
- Hickes, George, letters of; 12 b.
- Higden, Ralph, his Polychronicon; 18 a, 105 a.
- Higham Ferrers, college of, charters, &c. of; 28 b.
- Hill:
John, receiver for Canterbury, accounts of; 31 b.
William, of Hillsborough; 39 b.
- Hillsborough:
co. Down; 39 b.
Lord, letters of (c. 1760); 15 a.
- Hinchingbrook, Lord, letter of; 11 a.
- Hindoo MS., account of; 41 a.
- Hindu Religion, the; 24 b.
- Hoadley, Bishop of Bangor (1716), letter of; 12 b.
- Hobart, Sir Henry, attorney general; 20 b.
- Hoecheve, Thomas, MS. poems of; 106 b.
- Holderness, Lord, letters to; 14 b.
- Holland:
State of, letter to; 5 a.
the war against (1672); 6 b.
description of (1675); 4 a. tour in; 40 a.
families of; 35 b.
- Holland, Earl of:
letter of; 5 b.
Rich., letter of; 10 b.
chief justice (1637); 12 b.
(1637), letter of; 12 b.
character of; 14 b.
- Holles, Lord, letter of; 6 b.
- Holmes:
Mr., Deputy Keeper of Records; 24 a.
Geo., letter of; 12 b.
- Home, Lord, letter of; 6 b.
- Hoorn, convent of St. Katherine at; 95 b.
- Hopton, Arthur, letter of; 12 a.
- Horton priory, Hants., cartulary of; 29 a.
- Houdane, Raoul de, MS. by; 83 b.
- Hoveden:
John, translation from; 88 a.
Roger, MS. of; 105 b.
- Howard:
Lady Francis, divorce of; 22 b.
Lord Henry, translation by; 13 a.
Theo., letter of (1683); 10 b.
House, inventory of; 10 a.
- Hoyer, Count d'; 68 b.
- Hudson's Bay; 14 b.
- Huet, Evêque d' Avranches, correspondence, &c. of; 71 a.
- Huguenots, the, treatise on; 24 b.
- Hull, Kingston-upon-Hull; 5 a.
fortifications of; 14 b.
- Hungary, King of, Sigismund; 87 b.
- Hunter, John, the surgeon; 18 b.
- Huntingdon:
Henry of, MSS. of; 105 a, 105 b.
county, families of; 35 a.
- Huot, Dr., MS. of extracts made by; 98 b.
- Hurley, Mr., his plan; 14 b.
- Hursley; 6 a.
- Hutchins, historian of Dorset, letter of; 10 b.
- Hyde near Winchester, abbey of, register of, &c.; 25 a, 29 b.
- Hyde, Sir Edward, afterwards Lord Clarendon, letter of; 5 b.

I.

- Indian artists, drawings by; 41 a.
- Indies, West:
French colonies in; 11 a.
Civil and military officers in; 40 b.
- Ingleby:
John, Bishop of Llandaff; 104 a.
Mount Grace de, priory of; 107 a.
- Ingoldesby, Richard, letter of; 6 a.
- Innisfallen, annals of; 38 b.
- Innocent VII., bulls &c. of; 107 b.
- Insulis, Alanus de; 104 b.
- Inverness, letter dated at; 8 a.
- Ipswich, charters, &c. relating to; 29 b.
- Ireland:
annals of, MS. of 18th century; 110 a.
collections relating to; 32 a.
families of, arms of; 34 b.
forfeited estates of; 39 b, 40 a.
MSS. of, ancient, description of; 35 b.
history and antiquities of, MSS. relating to; 39 a. hills and forts of; 36 a, 37 b. adventurers in (1662); 23 b.
ports of (1788); 18 a.
Orange Association in; 19 a.
Lord Essex in; 22 b.
Deputy of, Lord Falkland (1626-7); 9 b. forfeited lands in; 10 a.
Lord Lieutenant of, Clarendon, his diary; 12 a.
Kings of, MSS. relating to; 36 a.
- Ireland, W. H., his forgeries; 19 a.
- Islington; 9 a.
- Isfahan, voyage to, from Constantinople; 93 a.
- Italy, MSS. relating to history, poetry, &c. of; 47 a, et seq.
- Ives, John:
memorandum by; 26 b.
of Yarmouth; 109 b.

J.

- Jacobites :
 in France and Spain, intrigues of (1719); 11 b.
 MS. relating to; 23 a.
- James I.:
 warrant by; 5 b.
 letters of; ib.
 letters to; 13 b.
 his waste of Q. Elizabeth's wardrobe; 16 b.
- James II.:
 letter of, to the Grand Vizier; 41 a.
 reign of, Coventry State Papers relating to; 10 b.
 — collection relating to; 12 a.
- James I. of Scotland, letter to; 5 a.
- James VI. of Scotland, letter of, to Queen Elizabeth; 13 b.
- Janson, M., memoir by; 93 b.
- Janua, Johannis de, MS. by; 19 a.
- Jardel, Cl. Rob., MS. belonging to; 109 a.
- Jarnac, Comte de, (1806); 11 a.
- Jarry, N., MSS. transcribed by; 84 a.
- Jeffry, the bookseller; 17 a.
- Jekyll, Mr., MS. belonging to; 29 a.
- Jenkins, Sir Leoline, letters of; 6 b, 10 b.
- Jersey; 14 b, 18 b.
 — Lord, letter of; 11 a.
 — letter to (1702); 15 a.
- Jerusalem, account of voyage to (1612); 97 a.
- Jewell, Bishop, his Apology; 18 b.
- Jewels, Crown :
 documents relating to; 16 a, 16 b.
 in the Tower; 32 b.
- Johnson :
 Cornelius, ordnance made by; 13 a.
 Dr. S., letter of; 9 a. family, of Sion Hall; 33 a.
- Jones, Capt., at Bantam; 41 a.
- Josephus, Flavius, MS. copy of; 107 b.
- Jungingen, Conrad de, of the Teutonic Order, letter of; 7 b.
- Junot, Marshal, MS. belonging to; 19 a.
- Juvenal des Ursines, Jean, Archbishop of Rheims, MS. chronicle by; 108 a.

K.

- Karlaverok, Roll of; 32 b.
- Keating, his history of Ireland; 37 a.
- Kech family, of Long Marston; 33 a.
- Keck, Sir Anthony, collection by; 23 a.
- Keene, Mr., letters of; 15 b.
 Sir Benjamin; ib.
- Keith :
 Lord, letters of; 7 a.
 Marshall, his death; 18 b.
 Sir Robert Murray, letter of; 9 b.
- Kells, the Synod of; 38 a.
- Kemp, Archbishop; 13 a.
- Kendall, John, extracts by; 26 a.
- Kennett, White, letter of; 19 b.
- Kensington :
 letter dated at; 8 a.
 Palace, letter dated at; 8 b.
 — pictures at; 32 a.
- Kent :
 charters and registers of; 27 a, 29 a.
 collections for; 31 b.
 beacons of; ib.
 families of; 35 a.
 kings of, charters of; 27 b.
 Duke of, letter of (1810); 8 b.
- Keogh, John, Irish Herbal by; 39 b.
- Keppel, Admiral, letters of; 7 a.
- Kettell, John, letter of; 11 a.
- Kilronan, book of; 36 b.
- Kimble, Great, levy of ship money at; 6 a.
- Kime, co. Lincoln; 102 b.
- King, Gregory, letter of; 10 b.
- Kinnaird, letter dated at; 9 b.
- Kinsale, map of; 39 a.
- Kirkham; 102 b.
- Klaproth, F. K., letters of; 93 b.
- Knapp, Henry :
 translation by; 30 a.
 MS. by; 34 b.
- Knight, Mr., of Gosfield, letters to; 9 a.
- Knollis, Mr., translation by; 39 b.
- Knox, Right Hon. William, letters of; 39 a.
- Knyvett, Thomas, witness; 16 b.
- Koran, the, copies of; 41 a.
- Kröcker, General, letter of; 7 b.
- Kynton, Thomas, MS. belonging to; 106 b.

L.

- Lackington, the bookseller; 9 b.
- Lafayette, letter of; 8 a.
- Lake, Thomas, secretary to Walsingham; 17 b.
- Lalaing, Jacques de, MS. of; 86 a.
- Lambard, William :
 Keeper of the Records; 17 a.
 dedication by; 17 a. collection by; 23 a.
- Lambeth :
 House, prisoner in; 21 a.
 Palace, library at; 28 a.
- Lamelin, Jehan, MS. by; 92 b.
- Lancaster, Duchy of :
 charters, &c., of; 28 a.
 revenues, &c., of; 31 a.
- Landas, Anthoine de, account by; 99 a.
- Lang, R., MS. belonging to; 99 a.
- Langland, Robert, of Mortymers Clybery, author of Piers Ploughman; 106 b.
- Langley, his history of Desborough hundred; 31 b.
- Langlois, Sir B., letters of; 15 a.
- Lansac, Jaquete De, MS. dedicated to; 108 b.
- Lansdowne, Lord (1715), letter of; 12 b.
- Lassberg, Baron Joseph de; 100 b.
- Latchett, Nicholas, Baron of the Exchequer; 25 a.
- Lathbury; 6 a.
- Lauarc', Johannis de; 99 b.
- Laud, Archbishop, statutes by; 31 a.
- Lauderdale, Countess of, letter of; 6 b.
- Lavater, original designs by; 98 a.
- Lawless, Stephen, abbot; 105 a.
- Le Bas, payment to; 8 a.
- Le Caron, William, monk; 28 b.
- Le Franc, Martin, MS. by; 77 a.
- Le Neve :
 Peter, letter to; 8 a.
 — letter of; 10 b.
 — collections by; 31 b, 40 a.
 Sir William, extracts by; 34 b.
- Le Peletier, President, MSS. in library of; 70 b, et seq.
- Le Preux, Emmanuel, monk; 90 b.
- Le Tellier, order by; 7 b.
- Ledington, Lord, letter to; 5 b.
- Lee :
 Sir Henry, verses to; 30 a.
 Richard, Portcullis; 35 b.
 Grange, co. Bucks; 6 b.
- Leeds, Duke of, note to (1789); 8 b.
- Legh, Gilbert de, of Whalley Abbey; 102 a.
- Leghorn; 18 b.
- Leibnitz, letters of; 70 b.
- Leicester :
 Wigston Hospital, statutes of; 31 a.
 county, families of; 35 a.
 — his Commonwealth; 14 a.
 Earl of (1564); 18 b, 72 b.
 —, letters of; 13 a, 13 b.
- Leland, Dr., letters of; 36 a.
- Lennox, Duke of, speech of; 30 a.
- Lenthall, Wm., speaker, documents signed by; 6 b.
 letters of; 12 b.
- Leon, St. Pol de, Bishop of; 8 a.
- Leonard, Samson, Bluemantle; 35 a.
- Lepell, Miss Mary, letter of; 11 a.
- Lesley, John, Bishop of Ross, treatises by; 13 b.
- Lespluc, Jaquotin de, MS. by; 108 b.
- Lestock, Admiral, letters of; 8 b.
- L'Estrange :
 Hamon (1640), letter of; 10 b.
 Sir Roger, and Dr. Borlase; 39 a.
- Lethieullier, Smart, letters of; 10 b.
- Levis, Cardinal, MS. belonging to; 84 b.
- Lewis, John, transcripts by; 28 a.
- Lexington, Lord (1716), letter of; 12 b.
- Ley, Sir James, of Westbury, MS. belonging to; 105 b.
- Lhwyd, Ed., letter of; 12 b.
- Libri collection of MSS.; 41 b, et seq.
- Lichfield, Bishop of (1719), Chandler, letter of; 12 b.
- Lichfield and Coventry, Bishop of (1695), letter to; 7 a.
- Liège :
 MS. Histories or Chronicles of; 90 a, 93 a, 93 b, 99 a.
 St. Jacques library at; 73 b.
 Prince Bishop of, letter of; 8 a.
- Ligonier, Sir John, letter to; 8 a.
- Lille, Lisle :
 history, &c. of, MSS. relating to; 90 b, 96 b.
 Henry VIII. at; 13 a.
 siege of; 15 a.
 records at; 18 a. la Salle de; 87 b. conference at; 89 b.

Lilly, Henry, Rouge Rose; 35 a.
 Limerick, siege of, Richard's journal of; 39 b.
 Liming, Kent, nuns of; 27 b.
 Lincoln, Bishop of:
 and Lord Keeper (1623) letter of; 10 b.
 Williams, portrait of; 35 b.
 Lincolnshire, forms of writs for; 22 b.
 Lindau Abbey, on Lake of Constance; 100 a.
 Linharlo, John de; 107 b.
 Linlithgow, Earl of, letter to (1679); 6 b.
 Lintott, Bernard, letter of; 12 b.
 Lisbon, letter dated at; 8 a.
 Lisbon, French factory at; 25 b.
 Lisle, P., treaty signed by; 6 a.
 Lister, Sir Martin (1685), letter of; 10 b.
 Litchfield, Lord, letters of (c. 1760); 15 a.
 Littleton, Dr., Bishop of Carlisle; 6 a.
 Llywd, Edward, letter of; 10 b.
 Lobel, Dr. Matthew de; 18 b.
 Locke, John (1704), letter of; 10 b.
 Lockhart, W., letter of; 6 b.
 Looksdale, Rev. Mr., his MS. on Staffordshire; 31 b.
 Loggan, David (1680), letter of; 10 b.
 Lombard, Peter, Bishop of Paris, MSS. of; 104 a.
 Lombardy, history of, charters relating to; 46 b.
 London and Westminster:
 Companies of, their arms; 33 b.
 lord mayors, &c., their arms; 33 b, 35 a. visitation of; 35 a.
 Aldersgate Street; 26 b.
 Aldgate Church; 24 b.
 Charterhouse; 103 a.
 — Square; 5 a.
 Covent Garden, Great Piazza; 8 b.
 Dover Street, letter dated at; 8 b.
 Foundling Hospital; 10 a.
 Hatton Garden, vineyard near; 32 a.
 Lincoln's Inn, letter dated at; 7 b.
 New Inn; 32 b.
 Newgate, Ordinary of; 7 a.
 Queen Square, rental of; 23 a.
 St. Giles' in the Fields, vineyard in; 32 a.
 St. James's, documents dated at; 5 a, 6 b, 8 a.
 —, Duchess of Marlborough's rooms in; 11 b.
 —, Palace, pictures at; 32 a.
 St. John's Gate; 9 a.
 —, letter dated at; 10 b.
 St. Paul's, proposal for libraries in; 10 a.
 Smithfield, Smyfield; 103 a.
 —, vineyard in; 32 a.
 Tower, offices and salaries of; 31 a.
 Wallingford House, document dated at; 6 b.
 Whitehall, documents dated at; 6 b, 7 a, 7 b.
 London, Bishop of:
 Fitzjames (1506); 102 b.
 Tonstall (1521); ib.
 (1623) letter of; 10 b.
 Londonderry: relief of, journal of; 39 b.
 siege of, journal of; 39 b.
 the Siege of, a tragedy; 39 a.
 Long Marston, co. Gloucester; 33 a.
 Longleat; 7 a.
 Longueville, Duc de, Governor of Picardy; 72 b.
 Looz, les Comtes de, essay on; 93 b.
 L'Orient, attack on; 8 b.
 Lorrain, P., dedication by; 7 a.
 Lorraine:
 state of, letter to; 5 a.
 Cardinal Charles de, letter of; 90 b.
 Lorris, Guillaume de, MS. works by; 76 a, 79 b, 108 b.
 Lort, Rev. Dr., MS. belonging to; 25 a.
 Loseham; 26 a.
 Louens, Renaut de, translator; 87 b.
 Louis XIII. of France, MSS. relating to his reign; 92 a, 96 a.
 Louis XIV.:
 letters, &c., of; 7 b.
 his secret treaty with Cromwell (1654); 6 a.
 Louis XV.: paper relating to; 11 a.
 his campaigns, MS. relating to; 88 b. journal of his second campaign; 95 b.
 Louis XVI.:
 reflections on his trial; 97 a.
 Italian eulogy of; 89 b.
 Louis XVIII., MS. presented by; 26 a.
 Louisa, Princess, her funeral; 34 a.
 Louvain, St. Maria de Parco monastery; 84 a.
 Lovat, Lord, his life; 7 b.
 Love, essay on; 10 a.
 Love, Nicholas, prior of Mount Grace de Ingleby; 107 a.
 Lovett family; 33 a.
 Lowfield, Mr. and Mrs.; 18 b.
 Lowson, George; 101 b.
 Lubeck; 109 b.
 Lucenne, Ferdinand de, translation by; 87 b.
 Lucy, Thomas, of Charlecote; 13 b.

Ludlow, Edmund, commander in Ireland; 6 b.
 Luke, Sir Samuel, letters of; 12 b.
 Luna, Cardinal Pedro de; 107 a.
 Lunebourg; 18 b.
 Luxembourg, Marie de, MS. belonging to; 91 a.
 Luynes, Duchess de, private press of; 65 a.
 Lydgate, John, MSS. of verse by; 80 a, 106 b.
 Lye, Edward, MS. presented by; 41 a.
 Lymoges, M. de, ambassador; 90 b.
 letters of; 91 a.
 Lyons, letter dated at; 7 a.
 Lyttelton:
 Lord, letters of (c. 1760); 15 a, 36 a.
 Charles, Bishop of Carlisle, letters of; 13 a.
 — — — letters to; 10 b.
 Ed., countersignatures; 6 b, 7 a.
 George, letter of; 10 b.
 Sir Richard, letters of; 13 a.

M.

Macarthy, Count, his library; 37 b, 38 a.
 Macartney, Sir George, letters of; 15 a.
 Macclesfield:
 Lord Chancellor, order to; 8 a.
 Earl of, letters to; 12 b.
 — MSS. belonging to; 20 a.
 — notes by; 31 b.
 MacCraith, John son of Rory, Irish historian; 110 a, 110 b.
 MacDonnach, of Ballimote; 36 b.
 MacDonnaghs, the, Book of; 37 b.
 Macdonnell family, the; 39 b.
 MacGeoghagan, his "Histoire de l'Irlande"; 36 b.
 Mackenzie:
 his journal to America; 40 a.
 Sir George (1681), letter of; 10 b.
 Stuart; 8 b.
 — letters of; 15 a.
 MacLochlin, the; 39 b.
 MacMorroghe, Dermot, King of Leinster; 39 b.
 Macquerian, Robert, MS. by; 87 b.
 MacRoigh, Fergus, Irish MS. by; 110 b.
 MacRurie, Donald, case of; 39 b.
 Madden, Sir F.; 100 b, 101 a.
 Madox, Thomas:
 letter of; 10 b.
 collections by; 20 b, 24 b, 27 a.
 Madrid; 100 b.
 Magliabecchi, correspondence of; 71
 Maguire, James, writings by; 37 a.
 Maillet, M. de, treatise by; 97 a.
 Maintenon, Madame de:
 letter of; 7 b.
 memoirs of; 65 a.
 Maitland, Secretary, letter of; 5 b.
 Maizeaux, Mr. Des, letter of; 12 b.
 Maizieres, Philippe de, MS. work by; 108 a.
 Major family, of Hants; 33 a.
 Makgill, Jacobus; 90 b.
 Malespina, Victoria, MS. belonging to; 109 a.
 Mallet, Thomas, solicitor to Queen Henrietta Maria; 5 b.
 Malta:
 historical account of, &c.; 40 a.
 Medine ancient capital of; 98-b.
 Malvern Hills; 106 b.
 Manchester House, goods and chattels at; 17 b.
 Mandeville, Jehan de, MS. by; 87 a.
 Mann, Sir Horace, at Florence, letters of; 15 a.
 Manning:
 author of the Saxon dictionary, notes by; 29 b.
 Richard, drawings by; 18 b.
 Mansel, Jehan, MS. by; 76 a.
 Mansfelt, Comte de, letters of; 69 b.
 Manwood, Peter, MS. presented to; 39 b.
 Manzoni, his "Promessi Sposi"; 85 b.
 Mar, Lord (1711), letter of; 12 b.
 Marche, Olivier de la, poetry by; 91 b.
 Marcossay, M. de; 92 a.
 Margaret, Queen of Scotland; 108 a.
 Maria Theresa, Empress, MS. belonging to; 103 b.
 Marischal, Lord (1714), letter of; 12 b.
 Markham:
 Abbey, Norfolk, rental of; 31 b.
 Gervase, on Trained Bands; 20 a.
 Marlborough:
 Earl of (1626); 105 b.
 Duke of, letter to (1702); 15 a.
 — and Duchess of, letters of (1711-14); 11 b.
 Duchess of (1711-19), letters of; 11 b.
 — (1727) letter of; 12 b.
 Marshall, Oliver, transcripts by; 27 a.

- Martin:
Thomas, MSS. belonging to; 18 a, 23 b, 27 a.
— of Palgrave, MS. belonging to; 101 b.
- Mary:
Queen of England, orders by; 5 a.
Queen of Scots, letters of; 9 b.
— letters, &c., concerning; 5 b, 13 b, 90 b.
— MS. belonging to; 102 b.
— her execution; 38 b.
Princess, letter of (1660); 6 b.
- Mason:
Charles, letter of; 11 a.
William, MS. belonging to; 106 a.
- Massarene, Lord (1670), letter of; 10 b.
- Masmen, Antonine van; 102 a.
- Mathematics, MSS. relating to; 71 a.
- Mathieu, Francoys, MS. belonging to; 109 a.
- Matilda:
Princess, her marriage; 15 a.
Queen of Denmark; 14 b.
- Matthew, Mr., of Tauris; 41 a.
- May:
Sir Humphrey, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster; 23 a.
Thomas; 23 a.
- Mayor, Richard, of Hursley, his daughter's marriage to Richard Cromwell; 6 a.
- Mazarin, Cardinal, letters of; 7 b, 68 a.
- Mazieres, Philippe de, MS. by; 86 a.
- McDermot property, in Connaught; 86 b.
- Medals, &c. ancient and modern, MS. relating to; 99 a.
- Medici:
family, the; 60 a.
Catherine de, letters to; 91 a.
- Medicine, MS. treatise on; 19 a.
- Mehun or Meun, Jehan de, MSS of; 76 a, 79 b, 88 a, 108 a, 108 b.
- Melville:
Lord, trial of; 23 a.
David, MS. music by; 107 a.
- Ménage, letters of; 71 a.
- Mercia, Kings of, charters of; 27 b.
- Mersenne Père, correspondence of; 71 a.
- Mettingham College, Suffolk, MS. relating to; 27 a.
- Meun. See Mehun.
- Mexico, discovery of; 12 a.
- Michault, Pierre, MS. by; 74 b, 87 a.
- Michel, Francisque, MS. edited by; 86 a.
- Michelburne, John, tragedy by; 39 a.
- Middlesex, collections for; 31 b.
- Middleton:
Lord (1787); 102 b.
Lady, MS. given by; 101 b.
- Milan; 15 a.
Duke of, Sforza; 74 b.
- Mildmay, Sir Walter, signature; 16 b.
- Miles, Tho., MS. given to; 101 a.
- Millar, the bookseller; 9 b.
- Mille:
Etienne, MS. by; 89 a.
Antoine Etienne, MS. collections by; 97 b.
- Milledonne, Antonio, history by; 94 a.
- Milles:
Jeremiah, MS. belonging to; 105 b.
Dean of Exeter (1751), letter of; 10 b.
- Milton, John, signature; 6 a.
- Mint, the, order by Queen Mary relating to; 5 a.
- Mirabeau, letter of; 8 a.
- Mirefoix, Marechale de; 95 b.
- Missal, ancient, in Irish, description of; 38 a.
- Missals, rituals, &c., collections of; 25 a.
- Missals, psalters, &c., MS.; 101 b, et seq.
- Mitchell, Mr., at Berlin, letters to; 15 a.
- Mitford, Baron of, Bertram; 28 b.
- Moduda, Gildas, Irish poem by; 36 b.
- Molinet, Jehan:
MS. chronicle by; 86 a.
his works; 91 b.
- Molleson, Mr., letter of, 41 a.
- Monk, George, afterwards Duke of Albemarle, letters of; 7 a, 12 b.
- Monmouth, Duke of, his mother; 12 a.
- Monstrelet, Enguerrand, MS. of; 108 a.
- Montague:
Sir Edw., letters of; 7 a.
— letter to; 30 a.
Hon. George, schedule of his goods; 17 b.
- Montanto, Count Guilio Barbolane da; 109 a.
- Montespan, Madame de, letters of; 71 a.
- Montmor, Henri Louis Hubert de; 100 a.
- Montpensier, Duchesse de, M. de Bourbon (1609); 99 a.
- Montreuil, Gilbert de, MS. by; 86 a.
- Montrose; 24 b.
Duke of, letter of (1661); 6 b.
- Moore:
Mr., letter of; 12 b.
Jonas, surveyor; 39 b.
Richard; 18 b.
- Morant, Ph., letter of; 10 b.
collections by; 11 a, 20 b.
his History of Colchester and other collections; 30 b.
his History of Essex; 35 a. notes for a History of England by; 16 a, 17 a.
- More (Moor) Park, letter dated at; 10 b.
- Morea, the; 14 a.
Venetian fleet in; 88 b.
- Mores, Edward Rowe:
transcripts by; 28 a.
his Commonplace Book; 29 b.
- Morgan, Sylvanus (1668) letter of; 10 b. pedigrees by; 33 a.
- Morison, —, account of Tyrone's forces by; 12 a.
- Morley, Lord, trial of (1668); 22 b.
- Morocco, Emperor of; 40 b.
- Morrison, Robert, his translation into Chinese of the New Testament; 99 b.
- Mortimer, Lord, of Wigmore; 101 b.
- Mortymers Clybery, co. Salop; 106 b.
- Motte, Jehan de la, MS. work by; 108 b.
- Moulins, Guyart des, translation by; 100 a.
- Mountague, Attorney-General, letter of; 12 b.
- Mountgarrett, Lord (1599); 39 b.
- Mountnorris, Earl of, at Ceylon; 41 a.
- Mountrath, Lady, letters of; 9 b.
- Mowbray, Lord, of Axholme; 101 b.
- Munich, mint at; 102 a.
- Munster:
state of, in 1579; 13 b.
the poets of; 36 a.
North, or Dalcassian, tribes; 110 b.

N.

- Nandicke, Richard, MS. belonging to; 107 a.
- Nangis, Guillaume de, MS. chronicles by; 84 b, 90 b.
- Naples; 8 b, 15 a.
MS. relating to; 90 b.
- Napoleon:
letter of; 8 a.
MS. writings of; 71 b.
- Napoli di Romania, college of; 109 b.
- Nassington, William of, poem by; 30 a.
- Nau, secretary to Mary, Queen of Scots, letter of; 5 b.
- Naunton, Sir Robert, his Fragmenta Regalia; 13 a.
- Navarre and Arragon, king of, John; 102 a.
- Navy, the:
papers relating to; 18 a.
and Ordnance, temp. Car. II., rules for; 12 a.
- Neasdon manor, in Willesden; 31 a.
- Nedewood, Liber Niger de; 31 a.
- Negroni, Cardinal; 41 a.
- Nelson, Robert (1708), letter of; 10 b.
- Nenagh; 38 b.
- Neny, le President Patrice Mac de; 90 a, 98 a.
- Nesle, le Sieur de, dialogue by; 18 b.
- Netherlands, the:
wars in (1582-1592); 11 a.
affairs of; 69 a, 69 b. affairs of (1473-1727), MSS. relating to; 92 b, 93 a, 94 a.
- Neufville, Nicolas de, Seigneur de Villeroy; 100 a.
- Neve, Peter Le, MSS. of; 22 a, 23 b.
- Nevers, Comte de, Jean, his expedition (1396); 87 b.
- Nevill, George, Abp. of York; 105 a.
- Newcastle, Duke of:
countersignature (1752); 8 a.
letters of; 15 b.
character of; 14 b.
- Newfoundland, fortifications of; 14 a.
- Newmarket, letter dated at; 7 a.
- Newport Pagnell, Sir Samuel Luke at; 12 b.
- Newsham, Mrs., Pope's present to; 9 a.
- Newton, Sir Isaac, letter of; 10 b.
- Nicholas, Sir Edward, letters of; 6 b, 10 b.
- Nicholas V., Pope, taxation of; 32 a.
- Nicholson, Dr., afterwards Bishop of Carlisle, letter to; 8 b.
- Noailles, Duc de (18th century), correspondence of; 71 a.
- Nodder, Charles:
MS. of work by; 94 a.
MS. belonging to; 98 b.
- Nogent, Guibert de, MS. by; 24 b.
- Non-jurors, treatise against; 18 b.
- Norfolk:
deeds relating to; 27 a.
collections for; 31 b.
families, arms of; 34 b.
Domesday of; 105 b.
Duke of, his brother; 13 b.
— arraignment of; 22 b, 30 a.
Island; 40 b.

North :

Lord, Roger, his Household Book (1575-89); 19 a.
Thomas, name in MS.; 104 b.
Rev. W., MS. belonging to; 25 a.

Northampton :

the army at (1642); 6 a.
county, families of; 34 b, 35 a.
Earl of, letter to; 5 b.
— (1608), Henry Howard, letter of; 10 b.
— letters of (1764); 15 a.

Northborne manor, Kent, survey of; 31 a.

Northumberland, Earl of, letter of; 6 a.

Norwich :

Domesday; 30 a.
Cathedral, statutes of; 30 b.
St. Peter's Church, inventory of goods belonging to; 16 b.
priory of; 30 b.
Mother Juliana of; 25 b.
Carehow nunnery near; 101 b.
Bishop of, Hall, portrait of; 35 b.
— (1714) letter of; 12 b.
bishopric and diocese, collections for; 30 b.

Nostradamus :

Cæsar, son of Michel, MS. by; 98 b.
Michel, MS. relating to; 94 b.

Nottingham :

letter dated at; 5 b.
county, king's woods in; 23 b.
Earl of, letters of; 13 b.
— Heneage, paper by; 8 b.
— Finch, letter of (1689); 12 a.

Novoburgo, Gul. de, Chronicon; 17 a.

Nuborgh, John; 102 b.

Nugent, Earl, and Viscount Clare; 9 a, note.

O.

Oates, Titus; 12 a.

Oberlin, Jeremie Jacques, journal by; 97 a.

O'Brian :

his Irish dictionary; 36 a.
Tordelbach, king of Munster; 38 b.
Col., payment to; 7 a.

O'Bruodin, Munster poet; 36 a.

O'Cleri, Connaught poet; 36 a.

O'Clery, Michael, transcript by; 36 a, 37 a.

O'Conor :

Dr., his Bibliotheca MS. Stowensis; 15 b.
— on Irish Literature; 35 b.
Mr., of Belanagare; 36 a.
Charles, of Belanagare, his correspondence; 36 a.
Don, property of, in Connaught; 36 b.
Sir Hugh, of Ballintober; 36 b.
Roe, property of, in Connaught; 36 b.

O'Corrain, Cormac og, transcript by; 36 b.

Odo, Treasurer to Athelstan; 20 b.

O'Donnel, Aodh; 36 b.

O'Donnells, the, history of; 36 a.

O'Dubluige, Seaan, transcript by; 36 b.

O'Duigenan :

David, transcript by; 36 a.
Dominick, writing by; 36 a.

O'Duigenans, the, Book of; 36 a.

O'Duvegan, John, poems by; 36 b.

Offa, King; 27 b.

O'Flaherty, author of the Oxygia; 36 b.

O'Gara :

Ferghal, M.P. for Sligo; 37 a.
James, writings by; 39 b.

Ogilvie, Robert, MS. belonging to; 107 a.

Ogle, Sir Charles, letters of; 7 a.

Oglethorpe, General, in Georgia; 18 b.

O'Gorman, Mr.; 36 a.

O'Gormon, Chevalier; 38 b.

O'Halloran, Mr., letters of; 36 a.

Oilela, Cinnfaelad mac, Irish Grammar of; 35 b.

O'Kelly, of Hi Mani; 36 b.

O'Kellys, Book of the, 37 a.

Olivet, Mount, order of; 99 b.

O'Neil, Bryan, his history of Ireland; 40 a.

O'Quin, Neal, writing by; 37 a.

Orange association in Ireland; 19 a.

Orde, Craven, MS. belonging to; 16 b.

O'Reilly, Edward, account of Irish MS. by; 110 a.

Orford, Lord, letters of; 9 b, 12 b.

Oriental MSS., description of; 40 b.

Orkney, Lord and Lady, letters of; 11 a.

Orleans, Duke of :

letter of (1746); 7 b.
his regency; 93 a.
Louis; 107 b.

Ormonde, Duke of, letters of; 10 b, 12 b.

Orrery, Lord :

letter of (1664); 10 b.

letter of (1751); 10 a.

O'Ruarcas, the, of Brefni; 37 a.

Orwell, J., of Byland monastery; 104 b.

Osborne, Dorothy, of Cheriton, certificate by; 102 b.

Ossory :

Lord (1668), letter of; 10 b.

Bishop of, Bale, tragedy by; 30 a.

Upper, Baron of (1599); 39 b.

O'Sullivan :

Dr. Francis; 37 b.

John, writings by; 35 b.

Otter, Jean, journal of voyage by; 93 a.

Ottoman Empire, the, MS. relating to; 12 a.

Ouseley, Sir Gore, ambassador in Persia; 100 a.

Overbury, Sir Thomas, his murderer; 22 b.

Owen, George, York Herald; 35 a.

Oxenden, Sir Henry (1680), letter of; 10 b.

Oxford :

documents dated at; 6 b, 7 a, 10 a.

grain market; 18 b.

annals of; 16 a.

University, collections relating to; 24 b.

— letter of, to Ric. II.; 107 b.

Ashmolean Museum; 17 a.

Christchurch, Dean of; 12 b.

Merton College; 101 a.

Trinity Coll.; 17 a.

University College; 12 b.

Earl of, John de Vere (1552) his will; 29 b.

— letter of (1714); 12 b.

— letters of (c. 1760); 15 a.

— arms of; 101 b.

Earls of, manors, &c. of; 31 a.

Countess of, letter of (1748); 10 a.

Bishop of (1696), Hugh, letters of; 10 a.

Oxfordshire, families of; 35 a.

P.

Padolirone, St. Justine's at; 84 a.

Paestum, ruins of; 40 a.

Paget, Lord, letters of; 13 a.

Paillaret, Mr., of Rotterdam; 7 b.

Palgrave; 101 b.

Pantellaria, island of; 40 a.

Papyrus, sheets and fragments of; 98 a.

Paraguay Missions, the; 19 a.

Paris :

London to, relation of journey from; 40 a.

Bastille, the, demolition of, papers found at; 8 a.

— Lady Sophia Bulkeley in; 12 a.

— governor of, letters to; 7 b.

Bibliothèque de Saint Victor at; 74 a.

the Garde Meuble; 33 b.

College of Jesuits at; 109 a.

University of; 107 b.

Parker :

George, letters of; 12 b.

Henry, Carmelite of Doncaster; 107 a.

Matthew, Abp. of Canterbury; 24 a.

Parliamentary records; 20 a, et seq.

Parr :

Dr. Samuel, letter of; 9 b.

Sir William, payments to; 13 a.

Parsons, the Jesuit; 14 a.

Pasquin, Anthony, letter of; 9 b.

Passy, letter dated at; 9 a.

Patin, Guy, signature; 7 b.

Paulet, Sir Amyas, letter to; 13 b.

Peade, Richard, notary, of Norwich; 30 b.

Pearce, Zachary (1729), letter of; 12 b.

Pedigrees, collections relating to; 32 a.

Pegge, Samuel (1757), letters of; 10 b, 11 a.

Pegu, Temple of the Talapoins in; 41 a.

Peiresc, memoirs of; 70 b.

Pekin; 8 b.

Pelham :

Mr., character of; 14 b.

Sir William, lord justice of Ireland, letters of; 13 b.

Pellew, Sir Edward, letters of; 7 a.

Pembroke, Earl of :

letter of (1638); 10 b.

his seat; 32 a.

Pendragon, King Arthur; 35 b.

Penn :

John, sheriff of Bucks; 32 a.

William, letter of, (1704); 10 b.

Pennant, Thomas, letter of; 11 a.
 Pennington :
 Admiral, letters to; 12 b.
 Robert de, abbot of Ford; 24 b.
 Penshurst; 10 b.
 Pepps, Samuel :
 letters of; 10 b.
 dedication to; 7 a.
 Perceforest, le Roman de; 91 a.
 Percy :
 Lord; 101 b.
 Mr., of Penshurst, letter of; 10 b.
 Perers, Alice; 18 a.
 Pergon, Bartholomeus de, MS. by; 99 b.
 Perrot, Lord Deputy, and the old native Irish; 36 b.
 Persia, King of, his letter to Charles I.; 40 b.
 Persians, manners, &c. of, Arabic descriptions of; 41 a.
 Perth; 24 b.
 Duke of, letter of (1677); 7 a.
 Petau, Paul Alexander, MS. belonging to; 108 a.
 Peterborough, Lord (1709), letter of; 12 b.
 Petit, M.D., his collection of MSS.; 85 a, 88 a.
 Petrarch's Sonnets, MS. of; 19 a.
 Petrarch, MSS. of his poems; 92 a, 94 b.
 Petty, Sir William :
 return by; 12 a.
 his Political Arithmetic; 39 a. survey by; 40 a.
 Petyt, William, on impeachments; 20 a.
 Phelps :
 Mr., secretary to Lord Sandwich; 7 a.
 Richard, under secretary of state, correspondence of (1759-65); 15 a.
 Philip II., of Spain : order by; 5 b.
 instructions from Charles V. to; 13 a, 13 b.
 Phillipot :
 Somerset Herald; 33 a.
 MSS. by; 34 b, 35 a.
 Picard, John, of Pluckley; 101 a.
 Picardy, description of (1675); 40 a.
 Picart, Bernard, MS. by; 93 b.
 Piccolomini, Aeneas Silvius, afterwards Pius II.; 100 b.
 Pinckney family; 33 a.
 Pipewell, Abbey of, register of; 28 b.
 Piramus, Denis, supposed author of a MS.; 108 b.
 Pisan, Christine de, MSS. by; 75 a, 108 a.
 Pithou, P., MSS. in library of; 70 b, et seq.
 Pitt :
 George, Lord Rivers, letters of; 13 a.
 Thomas, letter of; 10 b.
 Pittes, Symon; 27 a.
 Pius II., Pope; 100 b.
 Placentia; 11 a.
 Play, money lost at, documents relating to; 99 a.
 Plegmund, Archbishop, grant by; 27 b.
 Plompton family, of Plompton; 33 a.
 Plomton, George; 26 a.
 Plowman, Piers, MS. copies of; 106 b.
 Pluckley; 101 a.
 Pococke, Richard (1751), letter of; 10 b.
 Poetry, old English, MS. collection of; 29 b.
 Poets, early French, enumeration of; 96 a.
 Poland, King of :
 his offer for the Princess Palatine (1634); 5 b.
 John Sobieski; 7 a.
 Polignac, Duchess of, letter of; 7 b.
 Polonus, Martinus, MS. of; 104 b.
 Polwarth, Lord, letter of; 11 a.
 Pope, Alex. :
 letters of; 9 a.
 reference by Swift to; 9 a. postscript by; ib.
 Pordenone; 110 a.
 Port Mahon; 11 a, 14 b.
 Porter, Mr., on coinage; 8 b.
 Portland :
 Duke of, letters of; 31 b.
 — letter of (1755); 10 a.
 Duchess of, letter of; 6 b.
 — letters of (1788); 9 b.
 island; 23 b.
 Portsmouth; 18 a, 18 b.
 charters granted to; 31 b.
 Portugal :
 treaty with, 1654; 9 b.
 campaign in (1704); 14 a.
 King of, John III., missal executed for; 25 b.
 Potter :
 Archbishop, letters of; 10 a.
 Mrs., her Indian manufactory; 12 a.
 Potts, Stephen; 26 b.
 Powell, John; 100 b.
 Pradas, Dandas de, MS. of; 43 a.
 Pradel, Charles de, Bishop of Montpellier; 107 b.
 Pragne, Charles Henry Van; 103 b.
 Praslin, Duc de, signature; 7 b.

Prayer, Common, Book of, letter of Edward VI. concerning; 5 a.
 Prefond, Girardot de, MS. belonging to; 108 b.
 Prealis, Radulphus de; 104 b.
 Pretender, the Old :
 order signed by; 7 a.
 his intercepted correspondence; 11 a.
 Price, W. (1745-50), letters of; 10 b.
 Prior, Matthew, letter of; 7 a.
 Priuli, Doge; 14 a.
 Protestants, French, emigrants; 23 b.
 Prussia, affairs of (1764); 15 a.
 Prynne, William, letter of; 7 b.
 Psalter of Alfred the Great; 24 a.
 Psalters, missals, &c. MS.; 101 b, et seq.
 Pufendorf, Samuel, reflections by; 94 a.
 Pulter family; 33 a.
 Purcell, operas by; 8 b.
 Puritans, discourse concerning; 24 b.
 Puysegur, Marechal; 90 a.
 Puzzuoli, description of; 40 a.
 Pym, John (1641), letters of; 12 b.
 Pyrton; 30 a.

Q.

Quakers, history of, by Sewell; 26 a.
 Queensberry, Duke of, letters of (c. 1760); 15 a.

R.

Raby, Richard, his Geography; 40 a.
 Radcliffe, Dr. (1708), letter of; 10 b.
 Raleigh, Sir Walter :
 arraignment of; 22 b.
 portrait of; 35 b.
 Ramery, Jean, of Boulogne; 93 a.
 Ramsay, Chronicle of; 17 b.
 Ranaldino, Borgia; 94 b.
 Randolph, Colonel Edward, pension to; 5 b.
 Ranelagh, Lord, his accounts (1701); 39 b.
 Rantzau, character of; 11 a.
 Rapin :
 letters of; 71 a.
 his History, continuation of; 19 b.
 Rassenghren, Baron de, MS. belonging to; 96 a.
 Ratcliffe :
 Sir Alexander, pedigree of; 23 b.
 Mrs. Mary, Q. Elizabeth's wardrobe delivered to; 16 b.
 Ratisbon; 15 a.
 Irish monastery of; 38 b.
 Ratlyfe, George; 101 b.
 Ravensingham College, Norfolk, cartulary of; 27 b. son, D., letter of; 12 b.
 Ray, John (1689), letter of; 10 b.
 Reagh, Comte de Mac Carthy, library of; 73 a.
 Reboucher, Claude François, MS. belonging to; 98 b.
 Reculver, monastery of; 27 b.
 Redman family; 33 a.
 Reeseghem, Martin Vilain van; 102 a.
 Regan, Maurice, writing by; 39 b.
 Regensburg; 8 b.
 Repyngdon Priory, co. Derby, deeds, &c., relating to; 27 a.
 Rassis, Madame de; 19 a.
 Revenge, the ship, Sir R. Grenville's; 10 a.
 Revenue, the, papers &c., concerning; 12 a.
 Revolution, French; 33 b.
 Reynolds :
 Ed., MS. given to; 101 a.
 John, fellow of Eton; 16 a.
 Rich, Lady, her marriage with Lord Devonshire; 22 b.
 Richard II. :
 letters to; 7 b, 107 b.
 his deposition; 16 a.
 French history of, and epistle to; 92 a.
 Richard III., Cornwallis's discourse on; 9 b.
 Richards :
 General, journal by; 39 b.
 Generals Michael, Jacob, and John, military collections of; 14 a.
 Thos. Bryan, mem. by; 24 b.
 Richelieu, Cardinal :
 instructions by; 9 b.
 MS. belonging to; 84 a.

Richmond; 9 a.
 royal manor of; 31 a.
 Duke of, letter of (1742); 10 a.
 — letters of (c. 1760); 15 a.
 Richmond, J., herald; 33 a.
 Rieval, abbot of; 17 b.
 Risley family, of Bucks; 33 a.
 Rituals, missals, &c., collection of; 25 a.
 Rivers, Lord, George Pitt, letters of (1759, &c.); 13 a.
 Roberts, John, secretary to Pelham; 10 a.
 Robertson, Dr., the historian, letter of; 9 b.
 Robespierre, order by; 8 a.
 Robethon, secretary to William III. and the Elector of Hanover,
 State Papers collected by; 15 b.
 Robinson, William, surveyor; 39 b.
 Rochechouart, Francois de; 73 a.
 MS. belonging to; 108 a.
 Rochefort, Comtesse de; 95 b.
 Rochemeure, Jehan de, work by; 85 b.
 Rochester:
 Cathedral; 24 a.
 Lady, letter of; 6 b.
 Bishop of (1722) Atterbury, letter of; 12 b.
 Rodney, Sir George, letters of; 7 a.
 Roffensis, Textus, transcript of; 23 b.
 Rohan:
 Leonor de, MSS. belonging to; 79 b, 108 a, 109 a.
 Marguerite de; 81 b.
 Duc de, memoirs of (1629); 94 a.
 Chevalier de; 7 b.
 Rolbst, William; 103 a.
 Rolle, Richard:
 MS. copies of his Prick of Conscience; 106 b. hermit of Hampole; 107 a.
 Rolls, patent and close, calendars of; 17 a.
 Rome:
 document dated at; 7 a.
 English ambassadors at; 13 a.
 ancient marbles discovered near; 40 a.
 Rommain, Henry, work by; 108 a.
 Romney:
 Lord, letter of; 12 b.
 Marsh, deeds relating to; 27 a.
 Roole, Robert, hermit of Hampole; 107 a.
 Roscommon:
 barony of; 36 b.
 Lord (1664) letter of; 10 b.
 Rose, le Président, letters of; 68 b.
 Ross:
 Mr., his house in Dublin; 39 b.
 Bishop of, Lesley, treatises by; 13 b.
 Rothes, Earl of, Lord High Commissioner in Scotland, letters to; 6 b.
 Rotterdam, the Exchange; 7 b.
 Roney, Comte de, MS. by; 93 b.
 Rougeville, M. de; 97 a.
 Rousseau:
 Claude Bernard, MS. belonging to; 94 a.
 Rousseau, J. Jacques; 19 a.
 — collection of airs by; 98 b.
 Roy, Colonel, his tour in Ireland; 39 a.
 Roysin, Mons. Anthoine de; 88 a.
 Rubens, Peter Paul, MS. given by; 103 b.
 Rudston family; 33 a.
 Rumenesca, the river; 28 a.
 Rumford, Count, letter of; 9 b.
 Russell, Sir Thos., his estate; 11 b.
 Russia, history, &c. of, MSS. relating to; 98 a.
 Rutland:
 Earl of, Thomas, grant to (30 Hen. VIII.); 28 b.
 Duke of (1725), letter of; 10 b.
 — MS. belonging to (1755); 28 b.
 Duchess of, letter of; 10 a.
 Rutlandshire:
 ancient perambulations of; 31 a.
 families of; 34 b.
 Rycant, Sir Paul (1700), letter of; 10 b.
 Rye, Dr. George, and the non-jurors; 18 b.
 Rymer, Thomas, letter of; 10 b.
 Rymer's Foedera; 86 b.
 Ryve, Doctor; 101 a.

S.

Sackville house, letter dated at; 10 a.
 Sadler:
 Laurence, bookseller; 24 a.
 Sir Ralph, signature; 16 b.
 St. Albin, Corbeau de, MS. by; 97 b.
 St. Andrews, Archbishop of, letter of; 6 b.
 St. Asaph, Bishop of (1735), letter of; 10 b.
 St. Bartholomew, massacre of; 72 b.
 St. Columba, ancient lives of; 37 a.

St. Denis:
 Abbey of, MS. chronicle of; 80 a.
 les grandes Chroniques dites de; 108 a.
 St. George; 101 b.
 Sir Henry, Richmond Herald; 35 a.
 Sir Richard, Norroy; 13 b, 32 b, 35 a.
 St. Germain en Laye, letter dated at; 90 b.
 St. Graal, MS. history of; 87 b.
 St. John:
 Henry, letter of; 9 a.
 Oliver, verses by; 30 a.
 St. Just, payment to; 8 a.
 Saint Luc, Maréchal de, military treatise by; 93 b.
 St. Michel, order of; 87 b.
 St. Neots priory, register of; 28 b.
 St. Omer:
 annals of; 93 b.
 memoirs, &c. printed at; 96 b.
 of Norfolk; 101 b.
 St. Patrick, life of; 35 b.
 St. Petersburg; 10 b.
 letters dated at; 14 b.
 St. Peter's Pence, collection of; 109 a.
 St. Pierre-le-Moustie priory; 104 b.
 St. Salvador cathedral; 40 a.
 St. Vincent, M. Bory de, letters of; 93 b.
 Sala:
 Guillem de, transcriber of MS.; 108 b.
 Pierre, paintings, &c. by; 19 a.
 Salincourt, Charles de, MS. belonging to; 98 b.
 Salisbury, Earl of, letters of; 13 b.
 Salle, Anthoine de la, MS. of; 86 a.
 Saltash borough, charter, statutes, &c. of; 31 a.
 Samber, Robert, of New Inn; 32 b.
 Sanderson, —, treatise by; 13 b.
 Sandford, land at; 28 a.
 Sandringham, Norfolk; 30 b.
 Sandwich, port of; 28 a.
 Sandwich, Lord:
 letters of (1759, &c.); 13 a. letter to (1765); 8 a, 8 b.
 his secretary, Phelps (1763); 7 a.
 Sanson, M. Perrin de, MS. belonging to; 83 a.
 Sapcote, George; 101 b.
 Sarchi, M., letters of; 93 b.
 Sardinia, royal house of; 11 a.
 Saunders:
 Thomas, letter of; 6 a.
 William, B. D., executor; 25 a.
 Sauvaige, Alexandre; 73 a.
 Savile, house of; 32 b.
 Savonarola, Girolamo, MS. lives of; 61 b, 67 a.
 Savoy:
 the, dissolution of; 8 b.
 royal house of; 11 a.
 Duke of, letter to (1665); 6 b.
 Duchess of, letter to; ib.
 — (1714), MS. belonging to; 25 a.
 Schomberg:
 Duke of, letter of; 8 a.
 Duchess of, M. de Hautefort; 65 a.
 Schweidnitz fortress; 39 a.
 Scoers, Margaret de, abbess of Forest; 109 b.
 Seconinx, Elizabeth, abbess of Forest; 109 b.
 Scotland:
 tour in; 9 b.
 the last two rebellious of; 11 a. forfeited estates in; 19 b.
 Church of, collections relating to; 24 b.
 charters, &c., relating to; 28 b.
 Scudery, Madlle. de, letters of; 71 a.
 Searle, Thomas, notary; 30 a.
 Secker, Archbishop, letters of; 23 b.
 Secousse, D. F., MS. by; 92 b.
 Secret service money; 15 a.
 Segar, Sir William, Garter; 5 b, 35 a, 35 b.
 Segrave, Lord, Hugh, treasurer; 20 b.
 Seignelay, Marquis of, letter of; 7 b.
 Selden:
 MS. of his England's Epinomis; 16 a.
 Mr.; 33 b.
 Semeca, Johannis; 104 b.
 Septier, Abbé, MSS. belonging to; 94 a, 95 a.
 Servet, Michel, MS. by; 94 b.
 Seward, Mr., letter of; 10 b.
 Sewell, William, his History of the Quakers; 26 a.
 Sforza, Duke of Milan; 74 b.
 Shaen, Sir James; 39 b.
 Shaftesbury, Lord (1681); 12 a.
 Shaftoe, Thomas, suit of; 100 b.
 Shakespere:
 his Justice Shallow; 13 b.
 Ireland's forgeries of; 19 a.
 Shelburne, Earl of, MS. belonging to; 94 a.
 Shene:
 documents dated at; 5 a, 7 a.
 prior of; 104 a.

- Sherland, the old buck of; 5 b.
 Sherwood forest, deeds relating to; 27 a.
 Ship money :
 papers concerning; 6 a.
 arguments on; 21 a.
 Shotover forest, quarries in; 12 b.
 Shovel, Sir Cloudesley, letters of; 8 a. † Shrewsbury :
 Earl of, first, John Talbot, MS. belonging to; 102 b.
 — (1574), letter of Q. Eliz. to; 5 b.
 — letters of; 13 b.
 Countess of, A. M. Brudenell; 6 b.
 Duke of; 11 b.
 Shropshire :
 families of; 35 a.
 visitation of; ib.
 Sicily, historical account of, &c.; 40 a.
 Sidney. See Sydney.
 Simeone, Gabriel, drawings by; 104 a.
 Simonson, William, of Merton College; 101 a.
 Sims, Dr., letter of; 9 b.
 Sion Hall, Middlesex; 33 a.
 Skinner, Dr., his Life of Albemarle; 12 a.
 Slangenburgh, General, letter of; 10 b.
 Sligo, member for; 37 a.
 Sloane, Sir Hans (1694), letter of; 10 b.
 Smith, Smythe :
 Sir Edward (1664), letter of; 10 b.
 James, excerpts by; 23 b.
 John, transcript by; 35 a.
 Sir Sydney, letters of; 7 a.
 Smithson, Sir Hugh (1710), letter of; 10 b.
 Soame, Sir William, ambassador at the Porte; 41 a.
 Sobieski, John, king of Poland; 7 a, 29 b.
 Solovetskoi monastery in the White Sea, annals of; 98 a.
 Somers, Lord :
 MSS. belonging to; 23 b, 29 a.
 Lord Chancellor; 10 a.
 Somerset :
 families of; 34 b, 35 b.
 Duke of, the Protector, gift of MS. by; 5 a.
 — letter of (1716); 12 b.
 Earl of, history of; 22 b.
 Sophia, Princess, her papers; 15 b.
 Sousselier, Edme, treatise by; 91 b.
 Southampton, Lord :
 arraignment of (1601); 22 b.
 Treasurer; 23 b.
 letter to; 30 a.
 Southwark, St. Mary Overy, register of; 29 a.
 Southwell, Sir Richard :
 letter of (1680); 10 b.
 his possessions in Norfolk; 31 b.
 Spain :
 England and, negotiations between; 9 b. campaign in (1706, &c.); 14 a.
 affairs of (1543-1685); 90 a.
 — (1725-1757); 15 a.
 Queen of, and Farinelli; 15 b.
 Spanheim, F., letter of; 7 a.
 Spelman, Sir Henry :
 his Icenia; 11 a.
 MSS. belonging to; 17 a, 17 b, 18 a, 24 a, 29 a.
 Spence, J. (1737), letter of; 10 b.
 Spinola, Cardinal, correspondence of; 71 b.
 Spottiswoode, Primate, portrait of; 85 b.
 Stace, Mr., collections by; 12 a.
 Stafford :
 Lord, letter of; 12 b.
 — his last speech; 19 b.
 Baron; 101 b.
 Staffordshire :
 collections for; 31 b.
 families of; 35 a, 35 b.
 Stair, Lord :
 letter of; 11 a.
 his embassy to France; 11 a.
 Stanford church; 32 b.
 Stanhope :
 Lord, letter of (1719); 12 b.
 —, countersignature (1720); 8 a.
 Mr., despatches, &c. of (1700-1704); 15 a.
 Sir Charles, letter of; 12 b.
 Philip, sale of his MSS.; 21 a.
 Stanning family, of Devonshire; 33 a.
 Stanyan, Abraham, letter of; 11 a.
 Star Chamber, the : suit in; 13 b.
 cases in; 21 a.
 history of; ib.
 MS. on; 23 a.
 State Papers, account of; 17 a.
 Stavelot monastery, in Liège; 105 a.
 Stawell, Col., his daughter; 32 a.
 Steele, Sir Richard (1715), letter of; 12 b.
 Stewart, Sir Simeon, MS. belonging to; 16 b.
 Stolberg, Princess Louise de, letter of; 7 a.
 Stone priory, co. Stafford, register of; 29 a.
 Stormont, Lord, letters of (1764); 15 a.
 Stowe :
 letter dated at; 9 a.
 Pope's description of; ib.
 Stowood, quarries in; 12 b.
 Strawberry Hill; 5 a. collection; 107 a.
 Strickland, Walter, treaty signed by; 6 a.
 Struensee; 14 b.
 Brandt, character of; 11 a.
 Stuart, Lady Arabella, letter of; 5 b.
 Stakeley, Dr. :
 letter of; 10 b.
 itinerary, &c., by; 30 b.
 Suffolk :
 deeds relating to; 27 a.
 collections for; 31 b.
 families, arms of; 34 b, 35 a.
 Earl of, Theophilus (1634), letter of; 10 b.
 Duke of, Brandon; 13 a.
 — (1551) Henry Grey, his daughter Catherine; 5 a.
 Surat, province of; 8 b.
 Surrey, Lord : order by; 13 a.
 arraignment of; 22 b.
 Sussex :
 families of; 34 b, 35 a.
 Earl of, Talbot Yelverton; 20 b, 23 b.
 Sutherland, Earl of (1718), letter of; 12 b.
 Sutton, Mr., his charity; 13 b.
 Sweden :
 affairs of (1763-65); 15 a.
 description of (1675); 40 a.
 Swift, Dean, letter of; 8 b.
 Switzerland, history of; 13 b.
 Sydenham, Sir Philip (1704), letter of; 10 b.
 Sydney :
 Algernon, letter of; 12 b.
 Sir Henry, Lord Deputy; 39 b.
 Sir Philip, letter of; 13 b.
 — his daughter Elizabeth; 33 a.
 Robert, suit against; 23 b.
 Syms, Rev. John, his Day Book; 106 a.
 Syon monastery; 25 a.

T.

- Taafé, Lord, letters of; 36 a.
 Table, the Round, knights of, MS. relating to; 108 b.
 Talapoins, the, Temple of, in Pegu; 41 a.
 Talbois, Lord, Gilbert, of Kime; 102 b.
 Talbot, Rev. Mr., of Trin. Coll. Cambridge; 7 a.
 Tally Courts, the; 22 a.
 Tamhorn family; 33 a.
 Tankham family, of Yorkshire; 33 a.
 Tanner, Dr., letter of; 12 b.
 Tate :
 Mr.; 33 b.
 Francis, antiquary; 29 a.
 Nahum (1715), letter of; 10 b.
 Tauris, St. Thaddeus church in; 41 a.
 Taurusius, F. M. de, Archbishop of Avignon; 84 b.
 Taylor, Thomas :
 his collections on the forfeited lands in Ireland; 39 b, 40 a.
 letter of (1676); 10 b.
 Teasdale Forest, extent, &c. of; 31 a.
 Temple :
 Lord, character of; 14 b.
 Sir Peter, high sheriff of Bucks; 6 a.
 —, receipts by; 19 b.
 Sir Richard, letters to; 7 a.
 —, of the Customs; 14 b.
 —, treatise by; 21 a.
 —, MSS. belonging to; 21 b, 23 a.
 —, his wife; 34 b.
 Sir William, letters of; 10 b, 18 b.
 Tenison, Archbishop; 28 a.
 Testament, New :
 in Chinese; 99 b.
 early MSS. of, collection of; 100 a, 100 b, 101 a.
 Tew, Great, co. Oxford; 33 a.
 Tewkesbury; 26 a.
 Thanet, Lord (1681), letter of; 10 b.
 Thomas, historian of Worcester, letter of; 10 b.
 Timothy, edition of Chaucer by; 106 b.
 Thomond, wars of, Irish MS. relating to; 110 a.
 Thoresby, Ralph :
 letter of; 10 b, 12 b.
 MS. given to; 107 a.
 Thorkelin, Mr.; 19 a.
 Thornhill, Sir James, letter of; 8 b.

Thorpe, John, letter of; 12 b.
 Thou, President J. A. de, life of; 90 b.
 Thoynard, Nicholas, of Orleans; 73 b.
 Thrale, Mr. (1749), letter of; 10 b.
 Throgmorton, Sir Nicholas:
 letter to; 5 b.
 arraignment of; 22 b.
 Thunes, l'Expedition de; 20 a.
 Thurloe, secretary to the Commonwealth; 6 a, 10 a.
 Thynne:
 Francis, on the Treasurers of England; 20 b.
 —, Collectanea by; 82 b.
 Henry, of Longleat, letter of; 7 a.
 Tias, Robert, of the Great Wardrobe; 5 b.
 Tigernach, annals of; 38 b.
 Tignonville, Guillaume de, translation by; 91 a.
 Tilbury, Gervase of, MSS. by; 17 a, 17 b.
 Timor; 40 b.
 Tinbigh, Tynbyth, William, of the Charterhouse; 103 a.
 Tobago, Island of, description of; 40 b.
 Tongres, MS. chronicle of; 99.
 Tonlison, Edmund, MS. belonging to; 104 a.
 Tonson, Jacob; 8 b.
 letter of; 10 a.
 Tonstall, Cuthbert, bishop of London; 102 b.
 Topham, John, MS. edited by; 106 a.
 Topography, English, MSS. relating to; 30 a.
 Torna, the poems of; 36 a.
 Totness, Earl of, Geo. Carew, writing by; 40 a.
 Toulon, siege of; 71 b.
 Toulouse:
 Comte de, MSS. belonging to; 108 b.
 University of; 107 b.
 Tournay:
 cathedral library; 86 b, 88 a.
 St. Martin's abbey; 73 a, 75 b, 76 a.
 Tournon, Comte Camille de, letters of; 93 b.
 Tours, l'Eglise Metropolitaine de; 87 b.
 Towneley:
 Mr., letter to; 8 a.
 John F., of Towneley, MS. belonging to; 107 b.
 Mr., his library; 32 b. collection of MSS.; 11 a.
 Townsend, Townshend, Lord:
 Horatio, letters to (1666); 6 b.
 lord lieut. of Norfolk, order to (1672); 7 a.
 character of; 14 b.
 countersignature (1728); 8 a.
 letters of and to; 15 b.
 despatches from (1770); 39 a.
 Townsend, Heyward, MS. journal and notes compiled by; 21 a.
 Tracy, Ralph, prior of Shene; 104 a.
 Trappe, l'Abbaye de la; 97 b.
 Travendhal, peace of; 15 a.
 Treaties:
 ambassadors, &c., papers relating to; 13 b.
 temp. William III.; 15 a.
 Tremblier, Jehan, inventories by; 87 b.
 Trent, Council of, MS. history of; 94 a.
 Treswell, Robert, Somerset herald; 35 a.
 Trials, State, collection of; 22 b.
 Trimbleston, Lord, letters of; 36 a.
 Troughton, Antony, MS. belonging to; 104 a.
 Troy, Siege of, MS. copy of Lydgate's poem; 106 b.
 Troyes:
 La Celle monastery near; 74 b.
 Convent of Jacobins at; 104 a.
 Tuke, Sir Bryan, treasurer to Hen. VIII., book of his Receipts, &c.; 12 a.
 Turin, siege of; 14 b.
 Tuscany, Duke of (1680); 12 b.
 Tutbury, honor of; 31 a.
 Tweeddale, Marquis of, letter to (1704); 8 a.
 Twickenham, Twitnam; 9 a.
 Twysden, Sir Roger:
 letters of (1639); 12 b.
 MSS. belonging to; 17 a, 24 a.
 notes by; 20 a, 26 b.
 Twysden, Roger, a prisoner; 21 a.
 Tyrone:
 his forces; 12 a.
 wars of; 36 b.
 Tyrrell:
 Capt., letter to; 6 a.
 J., letter of; 10 b.
 Thomas, letter of; 6 a.

U.

Ulster:
 plantation of; 21 a.
 annals of; 38 b.
 and Connaught, war between, MS. relating to; 110 b.
 Urban, Marquis de Fortia d', letters of; 93 b.
 MSS. from his library; 84 b, 93 b.
 Urry, John, edition of Chaucer by; 106 b.
 Ursins, Jean Juvenal des, Archbishop of Rheims; 108 a.
 Usher, Primate, portrait of; 85 b.
 Usury, Bishop Bedle on; 18 b.
 Utlesford hundred, Essex, church goods of; 16 b.

V.

Vaillant (1684), letter of; 10 b.
 Valcavado abbey, in Spain; 100 b.
 Valenrode, Conrad de, of the Order of St. Mary at Jerusalem, letter of; 7 b.
 Valentia, Lord, on Malta and Sicily; 40 a.
 Valgrand, Claude de; 101 b.
 Valois:
 Philip de, his Queen; 107 b.
 Marguerite de; 100 a.
 Van Bavière, MS. belonging to; 93 a.
 Vanbrugh, Sir John; 32 a.
 Vanderneer, J. C., of Amsterdam; 103 b.
 Van Veen, Octavio, MS. given to; 103 b.
 Vatican MSS., collections from; 17 a.
 Vauluisant Abbey, in Champagne; 104 b.
 Vaux:
 M. de, ambassador; 7 b.
 or Vallibus, John de, possessions of; 29 a.
 Vavasor family; 83 a.
 Vendome, Duc de, Charles first; 87 b.
 Venice; 14 a, 15 a.
 Gen. Jacob Richards' services to; ib.
 paintings of, in a MS.; 109 b.
 Doge of, And. Contarini, letter of; 7 b.
 ambassador at; 13 a.
 Vergennes, de, signature; 7 b.
 Vergniaux, Maitre, designs by; 99 a.
 Vernon:
 Dr., his collections for Derbyshire; 31 b.
 Mr., of Trinity Coll., Cambridge; 18 b.
 Mr. Secretary (1725), letter of; 10 b.
 Veronese, Paolo; 110 a.
 Veusels, Mons. de, canon of Tournay; 88 a.
 Vielleville, Maréchal de; 100 a.
 Vienna; 14 a, 15 a.
 Imperial library at; 101 b.
 Vignay, Jean de:
 MS. by; 24 b.
 translations by; 104 b, 107 b.
 Villenfagne, Hilarion de, MSS. by; 93 b.
 Villeroi, Marechal de, letter to; 7 b.
 Villeroy, M. de, work dedicated to; 91 a.
 Vincent, Augustine, Rouge Croix; 35 a.
 Vine, the, its cultivation in England; 32 a.
 Vitry, Ph. de, Bishop of Meaux; 74 a.
 Voisin, M., memoir by; 93 b, 96 a.
 Volcano risen from the sea, account of; 40 a.
 Voltaire:
 letters of; 7 b.
 his notes, &c., when in England; 97 b.
 Voragine, Jacobus de:
 Bishop of Genoa; 26 b.
 MS. of; 104 b.
 Vycary, William, MS. belonging to; 101 b.

W.

Wade, General, letters of; 8 a.
 Wading, John, priest, writing by; 39 a.
 Wager, Sir Charles, letter of; 11 a.
 Wake, Sir Isaac, ambassador; 14 a.
 Wale, Guillaume le, account by; 99 a.
 Wales:
 Princess of (1724), dedication to; 18 v.
 families of; 35 b.
 — arms of; 34 b.

- Walker:
 Sir Edw., Garter, minutes by; 21 b.
 — MS. by; 34 a.
 Robert, pen and ink portraits by; 35 b.
 Samuel, collections by; 34 b.
- Walpole:
 Horace, his Tracts on Antiquities; 5 a.
 — letter of; 9 b.
 — characters by; 14 b.
 Sir Robert, letters of; 8 a, 10 b, 11 a, 15 b.
 — character of; 14 b.
- Walsingham, Sir Francis, letters of; 10 a, 13 a, 13 b.
 his index of State Papers; 17 b.
- Walters, Mr., order to; 7 a.
- Waltham:
 Cross, abbey of; 24 b.
 Roger de, of the Great Wardrobe, Edw. II., account of; 16 b.
 — Canon, MS. by; 105 a.
- Wanley, Humphrey, letters of; 10 b, 12 b.
 catalogue by; 17 a.
- Wanton, Richard, scribe; 25 a.
- Warburton, Bishop, letter of; 10 a.
- Ward, Dr., letter of; 10 b.
- Wardrobe books, temp. Edw. I.; 106 a.
- Ware, Sir James, his annals of Ireland; 39 a, 39 b.
- Warham, Archbishop; 13 a.
- Warner, Dr., letters of; 36 a.
- Wars, Civil:
 newspaper extracts relating to; 12 a. epitome of; 16 a.
- Warton, Joseph, collections by; 24 b.
- Warwick, Earl of; 101 b.
 R. Beauchamp; 102 b.
 R. Nevil; 13 a.
- Warwickshire pedigrees; 35 b.
- Wase, Thomas, MS. belonging to; 105 a.
- Waterland, Dan, letter of; 12 b.
- Welton, Thomas, of Byland monastery; 104 b.
- Wende, William, deeds belonging to; 32 a.
- West:
 Capt., letter to; 6 a.
 Mr., MS., belonging to; 29 a.
 James, transcripts by; 28 b.
- Westbury, co. Wilts; 105 b.
- Westmeath, survey of; 39 b.
- Westminster:
 letters dated at; 5 a, 5 b, 6 b.
 Abbey, grant to; 28 a.
 — interments in; 34 a.
- Westmoreland:
 barony of; 32 b.
 Earl of (1625), letter of; 10 b.
- Weston, Baron, his arguments on ship money; 21 a.
- Whalley Abbey, MS. given to; 102 a.
- Wharton, Lord, his house in Bucks (1677); 72 a.
- Whetham, John, monk; 104 a.
- Whitby, Wyteby, Abbey; 102 b.
- Whitelocke, James, father of Bulstrode, MS. history by 20 b.
- Whittington family; 33 a.
- Whittlewood, forest of; 8 b.
- Whityam hall; 104 a.
- Wiclif, John; 18 a.
 work attributed to; 24 a.
- Wielant, Philippe, president in Flanders, MSS. by; 92 b, 94 a.
- Wigmore; 101 b.
- Wilkes, John, his expulsion; 23 a.
- Wilkins, Dr. D., letters of; 10 b, 12 b.
 Hindoo MS. translated by; 41 a.
- Willes:
 Chief Justice (1759), letter of; 10 b.
- Willesden, Neasdon manor in; 31 a.
- William III.:
 reign of, Coventry state papers relating to; 10 b.
 — collections relating to; 12 a.
 his coming over; 12 a.
 death of; 15 a.
 his jewels and strong box; ib.
- Williams:
 Sir Chas. Hanbury, letters of and to; 14 b.
 Bishop, portrait of; 35 b.
- Williamson, Sir Joseph (1689), letter of; 10 b.
- Willis, Brown, letters of; 11 a, 12 b.
- Willoughby:
 de Broke, Lord, letter of; 12 b.
 D' Eresby, family of; 32 b.
 Sir Christopher; 102 b.
- Wills, extracts from; 28 a, 34 a.
- Wilson, Mr. Lea; 101 a.
- Wilts, families of; 34 b.
- Wimbledon; 15 b.
- Winchelsea, Lord (1660-66), letters of; 10 b.
- Winchendon; 6 a.
- Winchester:
 charter to; 19 b.
 William's palace at; 25 a. burning of; ib.
 deeds, &c., relating to; 31 b.
 Marquis of, Groom of the Stole 8 a.
 Bishop of, North, letters of; 31 b.
 — Tomline, letters of; ib.
- Windsor:
 letters dated at; 8 a, 8 b, 41 a.
 Castle; 23 b, 105 a.
 — pictures at; 32 a.
 Little Park at; 12 a.
- Wingfield, Sir Henry, letters of; 13 a.
 Sir Richard; 13 a.
- Winton, Earl; 101 b.
- Winwood, Richard, letter of; 6 a.
- Wise, Francis, letters of; 11 a, 12 b.
- Witham Abbey, Somerset; 105 a.
- Withie, John, collections by; 35 b.
- Withred, King of Kent, charters of; 27 b.
- Witnam, Berks; 33 a.
- Wolfenbüttel, Prince (1748); 8 a.
- Wolsey, Cardinal, letters, &c. of; 13 a.
- Women, Holy, lives of; 24 b.
- Woodburn, Mr. Samuel; 103 a.
- Woodlas, J., payment to; 13 a.
- Woodstock, Thomas of, Duke of Gloucester; 34 a.
- Woolterton, Norfolk; 30 b.
- Worcester, battle of; 10 a.
- Worsley:
 Mr., letter of; 11 a.
 Sir Richard, at Aleppo; 41 a.
- Wotton, Sir Henry, letters of; 35 b.
- Wren, Sir Christopher (1688), letter of; 10 b.
- Wulfred, Archbishop; 27 b.
- Wurtemberg, Prince Frederick of; 7 b.
- Wyat, Sir Thomas, life of; 5 a.
 his descendant in Charterhouse Square; ib.
- Wycliffe, John, MSS. of his English version; 100 b, 101 b.
 MS. treatises by; 101 b.
- Wylks, Thomas, MS. belonging to; 101 b.
- Wyndham, Sir William, letters of and to; 10 b, 12 b.
- Wynnstay collection, the; 35 b.
- Wyssete, Norfolk, cartulary of; 29 a.
- Wytham priory, Somerset; 103 a.

Y.

- Yarmouth, Norfolk; 109 b. memorandum dated at; 27 a.
- Yelverton:
 Sir Christopher, MS. by; 20 b.
 — speaker, collections by; 22 b.
 — judge; 23 b.
 Talbot, Earl of Sussex; 20 b, 23 b.
- Yonger, John, MS. belonging to; 105 a.
- York:
 trial of rebels (1745) at; 11 a.
 St. Peter's and St. Leonard's hospitals; 27 a.
 St. Peter's, Abbot's history of; 32 a.
 Miracle plays, MS. copy of; 106 b.
- Yorkshire, church goods in; 13 a.
 families of; 35 a.
- York, Archbishop of:
 (1154) Roger; 27 a.
 Geo. Nevill (1466); 105 a.
 Kemp; 13 a.
- York, Duke of:
 afterwards Henry VIII.; 5 a.
 — letters of; 13 a.
 James, treaty for his expulsion from France (1654); 6 a.
 — letters of (1665); 6 b, 7 a.
 — letter to (1673); 6 b.
 — regulations, &c. by; 12 b.
 — and Duchess of, letters to (1671); 23 a.
- Yorke, Hon. Philip; 10 a.
- Young, Sir William:
 abstract by; 18 b.
 drawings by; 32 a.
 essay by; 40 a.
 tour through Magna Graecia, &c. by; ib.
 his description of Tobago; 40 b.

Z.

- Zabarella, Jac., MSS. by; 44 b, 45 a.
- Zinzendorf, Count, letter of; 11 a.
- Zouch, Lord, Warden of the Cinque Ports (1621); 5 b.

LONDON:
Printed by GEORGE E. EYRE and WILLIAM SPOTTISWOODE,
Printers to the Queen's most Excellent Majesty.
For Her Majesty's Stationery Office.

DA25
.M2
H58
ser.1
v.1-3

745604

